Computer space Monday 'snag' city-county contract

A possible snag was noted Monday morning for at least one stipulation contained in a proposed contract between the City of Snyder and Scurry County.

The intergovernmental contract would bind the county to collect the city's taxes for this coming tax year — a collection which begins in October.

County Tax Assessor-Collector Eloise Morgan told the commissioners court Monday morning, however, that a lack of computer disc space may prevent this collection this year.

The county now uses an IBM 34 computer located at Cogdell Memorial Hospital for its tax office operation. Morgan said she had contacted the programmer for the county computer, and the initial indication was there may not be sufficient room to add such items as the tax statements and receipts associated with the collection of city taxes.

For the past several years, this collection has been completed by the Scurry County Appraisal District.

The tax district currently shares computer space on the city's computer system — the larger IBM 36 model.

Commissioners asked Morgan to contact appraisal district Chief Appraiser Ray Peveler to determine exactly how much computer space is needed.

The possibility of the county "hooking into" the city's computer system was discussed also.

Noting the fast-approaching tax collection deadline, the court indicated it would try to work out the collection question Monday.

The Snyder city council approved the provisions in the intergovernmental contract Aug. 6.

It basically outlines a legal agreement related to all the services now shared by the city and county.

The basic changes involve the county's assumption of the city's tax collection services. In addition, the county has agreed to accept all city prisoners in the Scurry County Jail — eliminating the need for the city's 24-hour holding facility located at the police department building.

As part of the agreement, the city has also agreed to allow county sheriff's office personnel access to its computer system and law enforcement programs.

The document as proposed has the county paying a yearly fee of $100,000 for such services as fire protection, its share of the ambulance operation, use of the city landfill and out-of-city trash dumpster pickups.

The county would then offer in return the collection of taxes and the use of the jail facility — in addition to other broader "services" such as the county coliseum, library and maintenance of local parks.

In-service begins for school staffers

Snyder teachers reported back Monday for a week's worth of in-service activity prior to the beginning of classes for local students next Monday.

New Superintendent Bob Hawes greeted the Snyder ISD staff and guests at an 8:15 a.m. gathering at Worsham Auditorium at Snyder High School.

During the morning session, school personnel were scheduled to hear a report from Dr. Tom Lawrence, executive director of the Region 14 Education Service Center in Abilene, regarding the special summer session of the 68th Texas Legislature.

He was to specifically address House Bill 72, the new state law which sets guidelines regarding both teacher pay and school curriculum.

Dr. Don Newbury, president of Western Texas College, was scheduled to be the keynote speaker at the morning session, which was to break up for a welcome reception at the SHS student center from 10 until 10:25 a.m.

A noon luncheon was planned for school staffers from 11:30 a.m. until 12:50 p.m. at K-Bob's. During the afternoon Monday, teachers were to return to their respective campuses for individual in-service work.

Tuesday's in-service will see most returning elementary, junior high and high school teachers at their respective campuses for classroom preparation from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.

New teachers for kindergarten through sixth grade will receive special orientation instruction, however, during the afternoon.

In addition, CAI proctors, bilingual teachers and aides and the curriculum development summer writing team will have special meetings Tuesday.

The CAI proctors will discuss implementing the campus computer assisted instruction program with Roy Rosson, CAI coordinator.

This meeting will be all day in the junior high school CAI lab.

From 1 until 2:30 p.m., new kindergarten teachers will gather at West Elementary. Bobbie Box will offer an orientation session to the district's kindergarten program.

From 1 until 2:30 p.m. also, other new teachers in grades 1-6 will meet in the West Elementary Library for an orientation session. Scott Foresman and Margaret Presswood will lead it.

The curriculum development team will meet at West from 2:45 until 3:45 p.m. Tuesday for an "essential elements training session."

In-service activities will continue here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

NEW TEACHERS WELCOMED — New teachers to the Snyder system visited with their colleagues for the coming year at an informal reception Monday morning. It was part of in-service activities for all SISD staffers which are now scheduled through Friday. Staffers shown include (from right) Susan Whitaker, new kindergarten teacher at Northeast Elementary; Jan Williams, new sixth grade teacher for Northeast; and Janie Carroll and Beverly Robertson, both sixth grade teachers at Northeast. 2 plead guilty

Guilty pleas were offered here Monday morning by a father and son indicted for felony delivery of a controled substance last March.

A jury had been called to 132nd District Court to hear the case against 63-year-old Anderson (Son) Davis, Jr. of 1204 34th St. The jury was dismissed Monday morning after the guilty plea.

Davis' son, 38-year-old Samuel Lee Davis, also charged with the same offense, entered a guilty plea to the charge as well.

The pair were arrested by police in February.

Formal sentencing of both defendants has been set for August 24.

The jury panel called to the court this morning was released at 9:30 a.m. and then asked to return at 11 a.m. for a second criminal trial.

College trustees to hire six

Western Texas College trustees will meet at 5:45 p.m. Monday to discuss a lengthy agenda, including the hiring of six new instructors.

New teachers expected to be hired tonight include Billy Arpe, construction technology; Tom Chrane, electronics/petroleum technology; Brent Hardegree, instrumental music; Lucy Herrera, journalism; Jim Judah, agriculture/golf landscape technology; Kent Williams, PE/-assistant men's basketball coach and intraumurals coach.

The resignation of Eunice Irwin, Scurry County Museum director, will also be officially accepted.

Four items are listed under new business on the agenda.

Trustees will set a date to hold a public hearing on the proposed tax rate. A tax base for the coming year is $2.5 billion, some $111 million down from last year. According to state law, if the minimum tax rate exceeds .0824 then a public hearing must be held. Last year's rate was .0800.

Other items under new business include:

-Consideration of approval of college calendar for 1985-86.

-Consideration of bids on range-ball pickup equipment.

-Consideration of securing meters for areas of high electrical use on campus.

Trustees will also ratify the bid for the food service contract.

Information and discussion items include:

-Discussion of energy grant.

-Discussion of WTC grading system.

-Discussion on outlook for 1984-85.

Several meeting dates to be approved include special meetings on Aug. 21 and Aug. 26 and the regular meeting date of Sept. 10.

In Brief

New taxes?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In another attempt to clarify his stand on a tax increase, President Reagan says he should "never say never" to a tax hike.

Reagan's statement, issued Sunday in Santa Barbara, tries to reconcile divergent views within his administration, but could leave him vulnerable to continuing charges by Walter Mondale. The Democratic presidential nominee maintains Reagan has a "secret plan" to raise taxes in a new term.

Reagan again ruled out an increase in personal income taxes "of working Americans." But he said he agreed with Vice President George Bush that he should keep his options open on raising taxes as "a last resort" to reduce the massive federal budget deficit.

Countdown

DALLAS (AP) — Construction workers soon will put the finishing touches on the Dallas Convention Center and a fence that will separate protesters from delegates to the Republican National Convention.

Hundreds of tents will be set up for the protesters at a levee near dowtown and the Dallas Police Department has at least 80 contingency plans to respond to emergencies.

After two years of preparations and thousands of hours of work, city officials are ready for the convention, scheduled for Aug. 20-23.

Local

Stereo found

Police arrested a 21-year-old Snyder man Sunday night in connection with a recent residential burglary here.

Charged with the Aug. 9 burglary of the Richard Dupree residence at 3781 Sunset Dr. is Jeffery Eugene Jefferies of 808 31st St. A stereo reported stolen from the residence was recovered with the late night arrest.

Bond for Jefferies was set at $1,500.

Plan coffee

A get-acquainted coffee for Bob Hawes, new superintendent at the Snyder Independent School District, is planned from 10 until 11 a.m. Friday at the school administration's board meeting room.

Weather

Snyder Temperatures: High Saturday, 78 degrees; low, 67 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Sunday, 67 degrees; .06 of an inch precipitation; high Sunday, 84 degrees; low, 66 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Monday, 67 degrees; .07 of an inch precipitation; total precipitation for 1984 to date, 5.80 inches.

Area Forecast: Tonight, partly cloudy with isolated showers and thunderstorms. Rain probability less than 20 percent. And low upper 60s. Wind variable less than 10 mph. Tuesday, mostly sunny with high near 90. Wind southeast 5 to 10 mph.

He, his books and his lectures, have since expanded public awareness of the interrelationship of mental stress and physical distress.

We can indeed worry ourselves sick. We can indeed heal ourselves with hope.

Building on past research, husband and wife doctors in Phoenix, Arizona, Donna Lou and Harold Udelman, have demonstrated that rheumatoid arthritis, in some patients, is better or worse depending upon how hopeful or depressed the patient may be.

The T-cell is a critical component of the human body's immune system. The Doctors Udelman have controlled T-cell production by controlling a patient's fears.

The following was fiction when it was first written by O. Henry:

A young woman, dying of pneumonia, retreated to her bed, looked out the window, announced that she would die when the last leaf fell from the ivy vine on yonder tree.

One by one the leaves began to fall and the woman became resigned to her impending death.

But the last leaf clung to the vine, refused to drop. The woman recovers.

To discover the last leaf had been painted on the tree by a friend...

San Francisco began in 1835 as Yerba Buena, a modest settlement near a 1776 Spanish mission and fort. Phenomenal growth spawned by the gold rush continued into the late 1800s, and the city emerged as a financial and commercial giant of the Far West.

Did Reagan joke about bombing Soviet Union?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — White House officials maintained a stony silence toward widespread reports that President Reagan had joked into a microphone Saturday that the United States would bomb the Soviet Union "in five minutes."

Gannett News Service, CBS radio and other news outlets all reported that Reagan made the joke while testing a microphone in preparation for his regular weekly radio address, which on Saturday dealt with criticism of the House Democratic leadership.

Reagan was quoted in the CBS report as saying in a clearly joking tone: "My fellow Americans. I am pleased to announce I just signed legislation that will outlaw Russia forever. We begin bombing in five minutes."

It was known that CBS and the Cable News Network recorded Reagan's comment at the time it was made, although neither played the president's words on the air Sunday, when the incident was first reported.

Larry Speakes, the White House spokesman, had told an Associated Press reporter who learned of the joke on Saturday that anything the president said before his radio address was "off the record." Speakes declined to disclose or confirm what was said.

Speakes declined again to comment Sunday night but another press spokesman, Anson Franklin, echoed Speakes' earlier comment, saying, "Any comment the president would make in advance of his radio address would be off the record and we do not discuss it."

However, it was unlikely the matter would be quickly forgotten since the low state of relations between Moscow and Washington has become an issue in the presidential election campaign.

It wasn't the first time that Reagan has made joking comments into the microphone while testing it for his Saturday broadcasts.

Prior to a radio address on Oct. 9, 1982, Reagan joked that the leaders of Poland were "a bunch of no-good lousy bums."

That slip resulted in an agreement between the White House and the major broadcast networks to treat all comments that Reagan makes during microphone tests as off the record and therefore unusable in news accounts.

The print media were not a party to that agreement reported Sunday by the Gannett News Service.

Dear Abby

Waitresses Say Tips Aren't Just Treats, But Survival

By Abigail Van Buren

1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I'm a waitress who just returned home after putting in 10 hours at a restaurant. I started to relax with the newspaper when I read the letter in your column from a man signed, "Loves to Travel in Oak Park, Ill." He says he and "the wife" eat out a lot, and instead of leaving a tip, he leaves an inspirational religious tract! He says he and his wife have taken some lovely trips with the money saved on tips!

Abby, I've been a waitress for 13 years. My salary right now is $1.65 an hour. I am divorced and have three children to support, and I couldn't make it on my salary alone. I need my tips to live. I love to travel, too, but I haven't had a vacation in 13 years.

STEAMED IN RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a waitress and single parent in Seattle, raising four children on the money I earn from tips. In this state, restaurants are not required to pay minimum wages —and an employer can get away with paying as low as half the minimum wage. Many of the better restaurants here start their waitpersons at $2.30 an hour, and if the establishment serves cocktails, I have to split my tips with the bartender, the captain and the busboy. After the federal government takes 8 percent for assumed tips, there's not a heck of a lot left to take home.

If we could keep 100 percent of our tips, we would be overjoyed. But if we got religious tracts instead of money, we wouldn't even break even.

SUE IN SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: That Oak Park, Ill., chiseler who leaves "inspirational spiritual messages" instead of tips —but saves his tip money for a vacation—blew my mind!

I work 10 hours a day, no health insurance, no profit sharing, no paid vacations. My average paycheck for 40 hours is around $30 after taxes. I'd like to see somebody live on that for a week.

Believe me, no Christian feelings come from being "stiffed" when you depend on tips for a living.

I have a message for "Loves to Travel": If you can't afford to tip, stay home. We aren't working our butts off for inspiration!

MAD IN MICHIGAN

DEAR ABBY: I am doing a slow burn. I'm a waitress in Philadelphia, and my salary is $1.85 an hour before taxes. My tips put the food on my table and the shoes on my children's feet.

If anybody left a religious tract for me instead of a tip, first I would tell him my name. Then I'd inform him that if he ever came back, he had better not sit in the station I serve because he would sit there until the second coming of Christ before I'd wait on him.

The guts of that cheapskate—using the word of the Lord as an excuse to get out of paying for service!

HATES HYPOCRITES

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Loves to Travel": Will you please tell my husband where he can turn your religious tracts in for cash? Our kids aren't goats—they don't eat paper.

My husband is a cab driver, and he takes home a third of what the meter reads—plus his tips. So if he doesn't get a tip, he is working for nothing.

Do me a favor, next time you need a cab: Take a bus!

CABBIE'S WIFE IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR ABBY: I've been a waiter in Las Vegas most of my adult life, and you are the only person who has ever come out and said that a tip is not a nice little "something extra" for the waiter or waitress, it's their bread and butter. Our salaries are peanuts. Don't blame the employers. If they did away with tipping and charged the customer what they had to in order to stay in business, the prices would be at least double—and probably more.

Thanks for educating the public, Abby.

NEVADA WAITER

DEAR ABBY: Please tell your readers (and especially that Bible-thumping miser who "Loves to Travel") that a tip is not a nice little "extra." It is survival. Also, 15 percent of the dinner check is the standard tip. A 20 percent tip for excellent service is appreciated more than you can imagine. Also, the tip is not the waiter's to keep. He has to share it with the busboy, bartender and captain.

Tell "Loves to Travel" to keep traveling, but please don't stop in Denver.

LOVES TO EAT

Elizabeth Taylor visits grave site

CELIGNY, Switzerland (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor paid an emotional visit today to the grave of Richard Burton, the Welsh-born actor who married her twice and once said he would always love her.

Miss Taylor spent about 10 minutes in front of the tree-shaded grave site where Burton was buried last Thursday. He died Aug. 5 of a brain hemorrhage.

The actress appeared at the village cemetery as gray, hazy day was dawning over this small Lake Geneva village. At her side, arm-in-arm, was a young woman who pleaded with waiting reporters for "decency, decency, let her be alone in peace."

Four men accompanying them used large umbrellas to shield Miss Taylor from a few photographers waiting at the gravesite, according to witnesses.

When the party walked back to a chauffeured Mercedes that had brought her, the escorts scooped up dirt and rock and threw it at the press, several witnesses said. One British reporter said he was hit.

One German photographer showed a broken umbrella with which he said he was hit on the back by one of the men accompanying Miss Taylor.

Miss Taylor arrived in Celigny on Sunday to visit Burton's grave, but first she went to the wrong cemetery and then fled before a posse of photographers.

At the request of Burton's family, Miss Taylor stayed away from the funeral service in Celigny and from a memorial service Saturday in Pontrhydyfen, south Wales, where Burton was born. Burton's brother, Graham Jenkins, said Saturday Miss Taylor agreed with the family that attention from the news media would detract from the memorial.

West missed his chance

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Don't give up just because your opening lead against a slam doesn't win the trick. If you play carefully, you still may be able to defeat the contract.

North-South bid to a touchy six no-trump, hampered by K-Q doubleton of clubs facing A-x doubleton. Although West should have tried a neutral lead of either minor, he elected a low spade. Declarer won the jack, crossed to dummy with a diamond and led a low heart to the king. West gobbled up the ace and tried the eight of clubs, won in dummy. Now South played out his two remaining high spades, the second high club (noting that East had originally been dealt eight cards in that suit), and ran the remaining diamonds.

In the two-card ending, declarer held the Q-10 of hearts, while dummy held the spade eight and heart deuce. West had been forced to unguard the jack of hearts to preserve the spade queen. When the heart was played from dummy, declarer knew that East had started with eight clubs, one diamond, and two spades. There was no particular brilliance involved in going up with the queen and dropping the jack.

Nicely done, South. But wake up, West! Sure, you lost a trick on opening lead. But if you had kept your thinking cap on, when declarer played a heart to the king, you would have let him hold that trick. Now let's see him make the contract.

HONORED WITH SHOWER—Kim Butler, bride-elect of Jeff Minor, was honored with a bridal shower in the garden room of First Baptist Church on Aug. 9. Rebekah's hold meeting

On Monday, Aug. 6, Snyder Rebekah Lodge met with the Rotan Rebekah Lodge for a District 23 meeting.

Pearle Waller, district deputy of Snyder, and Lillie Herrin, lodge deputy of Rotan, presented a program concerning the state president's aims and objectives for the year. The two lodges formulated plans for President Cecil Kemp's visit to Snyder on Aug. 22.

A salad supper concluded the meeting. Snyder Rebekahs in attendance included Johnnie Molinare, Ethel Herrington, Ellen Garnertt, Margaret Blalock, Virginia Humphrey, Pearle Waller, Clemey Andress and Bessie Shipp.

Look for warning signals

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

In looking for antiques or other old furniture that can be refinished, design consultants Katie and Gene Hamilton advise which warning signals are significant.

Farther along in the interview which began in a recent article, the Hamiltons say that, while minor water stains can be removed along with the old finish, a piece that has been severly water-damaged may be bowed, twisted or cracked. Cracking also can indicate the wood has been stored in an extremely dry environment for a long time.

"The reason for this," says Katie, "is that when wood dries out, it shrinks, with different pieces having different internal stresses and shrinking at different rates. Large pieces, such as the top of a dresser or a table, will be subject to more extreme internal stresses than smaller pieces, and when they shrink will most likely be the first to crack. They are, therefore, good indicators of what conditions a piece has been exposed to."

Beware of severe cracks, say the Hamiltons. Glue or nails probably won't hold the crack together for long, and you're likely to end up with a piece that's unable to be permanently mended.

"If you're going to buy a chair, don't forget to sit on it first to make sure it's sturdy," says Gene. "Also, if it has round rungs on it, keep in mind that if any of them have to be replaced they will probably have to be custom-made."

You may be lucky when looking for an old chair and come across not just one but a whole set for sale. Each piece in the set may be missing some parts, but together they can be used to make one or two complete chairs, all made of original parts. Since what's left of the set will also provide you with a store of replacement parts for the one or two complete chairs, it may really be worth it to buy the whole set if you can get a good buy.

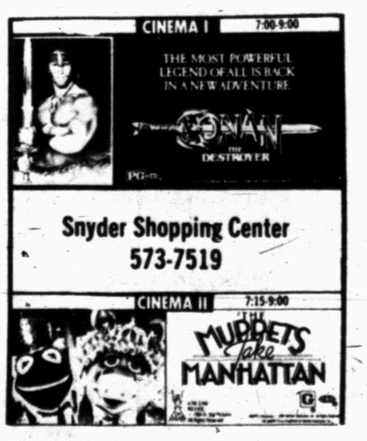

In general, according to the Hamiltons, pieces with missing parts are also sources of good wood that you may use to make other things.

"An old headboard, for example," says Katie, "is a great source of hardwood, and old oak bookcases, dismantled, may provide you with good building oak for a fraction of the lumberyard price."

"If the piece is old and is missing hardware or handles," adds Gene, "be careful. There may be no hardware like it available now and you may need a whole new set of hardware to replace one piece, or you may find nothing at all suitable.

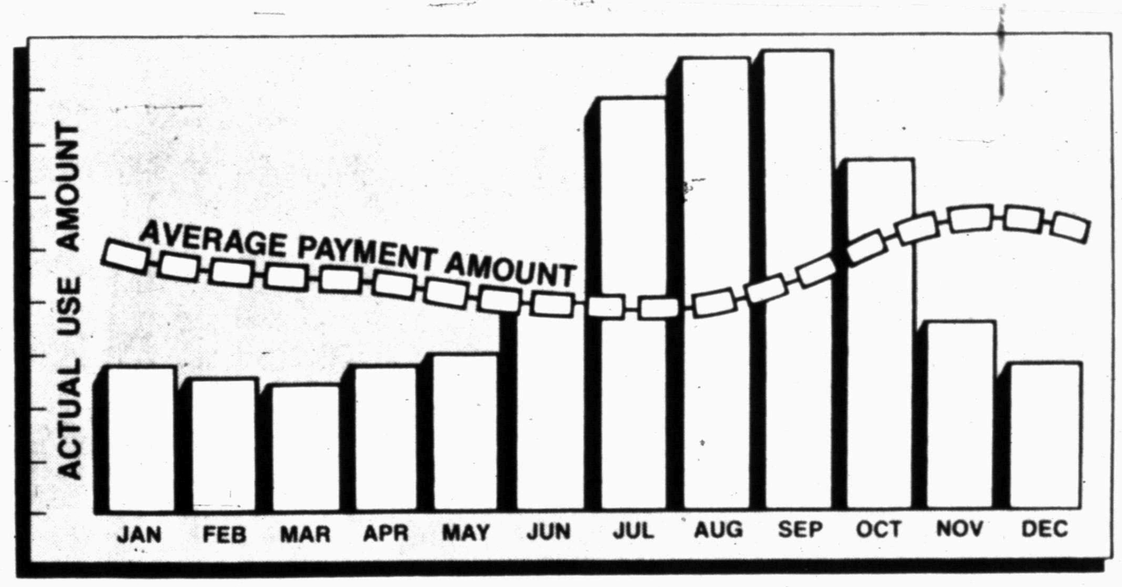

Whether shopping for one piece or a set, the Hamiltons also advise you to think about how you will carry the piece or pieces home once you buy them. "You never know when you'll find what you're looking for," they say, "so come prepared with old blankets, quilts — anything you can use to pad and protect the furniture while transporting it. Also bring some rope, in case you have to tie the piece to the car."

"Avoid having furniture dipped," Gene says, "unless it is an intricately carved piece that contains a lot of tricky curves and crevices. Dipping strips the wood of its oils, eats away at the glue, and may cause an old piece of furniture to fall apart. Tackle those curves and grooves with a piece of string dipped in antique refinisher. Just work it back and forth gently finish on an old piece only to find the bare wood underneath isn't nice enough for a light-colored stain or polyurethane. You can always give it a dark finish or repaint it.

Average Payment can help smooth out high summer electric bills.

In the summer, intense Texas heat can make your air conditioner work longer and drive your electric bill up in a hurry.

Our Average Payment Plan can help by "averaging out" your payments. You still pay for all the electricity you use, and your payments will still vary from month to month. However, in high-use months you pay for less electricity than you use, and in low-use months you pay for more.

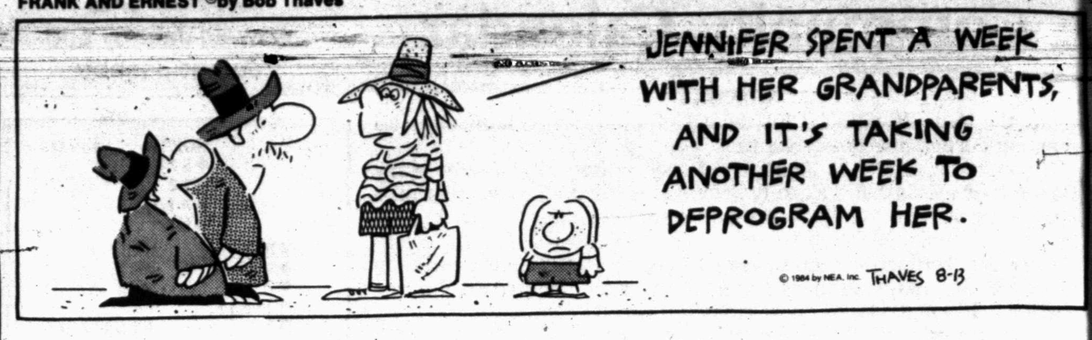

Average Payment can help smooth out high summer electric bills. It's available to both residential customers and churches. If you'd like to know more, give us a call.

LAFF-A-DAY

"No, I haven't changed my mind about leaving you. I just came back for the furniture."

DENNIS THE MENACE

"MR. WILSON LOOKS NEW HERE. DID YOU JUST GET HIM?"

123 are out for football

Curious football fans who drove by the training field at Snyder High School saw a positive scene this morning - over 120 athletes out for the first two-a-day workouts.

An unofficial count of 123 freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors were studying under the guidance of Coach Dennis Tomlin and his staff. Sixty-one of those were working as the current varsity unit. Tomlin has said he plans to carry approximately 50 on the varsity this year. At the start of the 1983 season Snyder High School's Tigers numbered 31 on the varsity squad.

This morning's workout was not a grueling one, though it stretched in excess of two hours. Coaches were more concerned with getting the athletes familiar with offense and defense than conditioning.

According to trainer Rick Howard, there are none among those who reported that have injuries. Gene Sands and Kyle Freeman, who were both injured last season, are back after knee surgery. Eddie Titus and Lonnie Rawls re-injured knees this summer however, and are not expected to participate in football this season.

"We won't really know how good of condition we're in until we work more on conditioning drills and all, but a lot of kids worked pretty hard during the summer and that will help," said the trainer.

The twice daily workouts will continue with the team scrimmaging Vernon on Friday, Aug. 24 in Stamford.

Volleyball preview scheduled Tuesday

Snyder High School volleyball girls and their sport will be introduced to the public Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the high school gymnasium.

Varsity and junior varsity players, managers and coaches will be introduced to the public and the girls will perform skills by doing different drills. Coach Bane will also give a brief decsription of the game and go over rules changes.

The program is expected to last 30 to 45 minutes. There will be no admission charge.

With much fanfare...

Olympic Games conclude

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Summer Olympics ended as they began - as a celebration by Americans, a celebration of America and the world.

Sixteen days after welcoming the world to its shores, the United States bade farewell on Sunday night to 139 of its neighbors on this globe, distributing a fair share of gold to the departing guests but keeping most of it right at home.

The Soviet Union and its closest friends might well have carted off a healthy chunk of bullion. But they chose to stay away, just as the United States and some of its allies boycotted the 1980 Moscow Games.

Without the challenge of the Soviets, the East Germans, the Cubans and other boycotting nations, the United States won 174 medals, including 83 gold that surpassed the Olympic record of 80 set four years ago by the Soviets.

The East Germans were the runners-up in the medal count four years ago. Perhaps fittingly, the West Germans were second this time with 59.

And the Romanians, often applauded by the crowd in appreciation of their refusal to join the Soviet boycott, were rewarded with a second-best 20 gold medals. China, an Olympic absentee since 1952, swept back into the world's athletic community by winning 32 medals, 15 of them gold.

With the last of the blood, sweat and tears shed by the athletes of the XXIII Olympiad, it was time to party.

It was a party for the world's most physically fit men and women. So Los Angeles in general and Hollywood in particular - which spawned Jane Fonda and Richard Simmons - celebrated the athletes' prowess with a spectacle which rivaled the pageantry that opened the Summer Games on July 28.

After thousands of athletes mingled with each other and cavorted around the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum track, the Olympic flag was turned over to Mayor Bo-Hyun Yum of Seoul, South Korea, host of the 1988 Summer Games. The 1984 Games were declared closed.

And then Hollywood producer David Wolper's show really swung into high gear - a Close Encounter with a spaceship, a laser-light star war, a fireworks salute to all Olympic cities and a rock concert, a futuristic celebration of the past.

Olympics of the future will be measured, as always, against Olympians of the past. The next generation has its work cut out for it.

Track star Carl Lewis, welterweight boxer Mark Breland and gymnast Mary Lou Retton are candidates to become among the most gilded American athletes of the future as contracts and endorsement offers pour in. But for the moment, Li Ning is clearly the most gilded athlete of the present.

The gymnast from China won six medals, the most of any athlete here. Three were gold, two silver and one bronze. The gold champions, with four apiece, were Lewis, the track star whose name will almost certainly be inexorably linked with that of Jesse Owens, and Ecaterina Szabo, the heir to Nadia Comaneci's crown as Romania's super gymnast.

There was Li and his Chinese teammates, middle-distance runner Maricica Puica and Szabo and their Romanian teammates, two-time decathlon gold medalist Daley Thompson of Britain, all-around men's gymnastics champion Koji Gushiken of Japan, West German swimmer Michael Gross and marathoner Carlos Lopes of Portugal - and the enduring courage of Swiss marathoner Gabriela Andersen-Schiess.

There was Lewis fulfilling his dream of four golds.

And sprinter Valerie Brisco-Hooks winning three.

And Greg Louganis displaying unmatched perfection in both springboard and platform diving.

And the grace and artistry of Mary Lou Retton and Peter Vidmar and Julianne McNamara and Mitch Gaylord and all the gymnasts who will almost certainly have parents across the nation catapulting their kids into neighborhood gyms.

And Tracy Ruiz, transferring the precise beauty of gymnastics to the swimming pool.

And Tracy Caulkins and Rowdy Gaines and Mary T. Meagher and Rick Carey and Nancy Hogshead and the rest of the aquakids who tied the record for the most Olympic swimming golds.

And Breland and Meldrick Taylor and Paul Gonzales and the rest of the boxers who beat the rest of the world to the punch a record nine times.

And Joan Benoit, flinging open the door of prejudice and ushering the women's marathon into the Games.

And the cyclists, who will have kids on training wheels and newspaper routes dreaming of glory.

And the men's and women's basketball teams, who won with the greatest of ease, as expected.

And the men's and women's volleyball teams who turned a Southern California habit into a brief - and perhaps lasting - obsession.

But not all the U.S. athletes were heroic in victory. Some achieved a special niche in America's hearts in defeat.

Like Mary Decker, denied a shot at gold by the briefest of encounters with Zola Budd's heel, and Evander Holyfield, denied a chance for a chance at a championship by a punch launched an instant too soon.

Cowboys defeat San Diego but Hogeboom is injured

SAN DIEGO (AP) - An arm injury to Gary Hogeboom may have diminished somewhat the controversy over who should be starting at quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys, but the issue certainly isn't dead.

"I'm not speculating anything. A lot of things can happen," Coach Tom Landry said Saturday night after Hogeboom had to be lifted in favor of Danny White, who sparked the Cowboys to a 24-13 exhibition victory over San Diego.

Hogeboom's opportunity to shine came to an abrupt halt less than 10 minutes into the game, when he hyper-extended his right elbow while diving on top of a San Diego defender who had pounced on a blocked field goal attempt.

The rest of the game belonged to White and third-string quarterback Steve Pelluer, and White led an 88-yard third quarter scoring drive that clinched the victory for the Cowboys, 2-0 in pre-season games.

"You never know what's going to happen in a football season," said Landry, who has maintained that White is his No. 1 signal-caller, but nonetheless started Hogeboom on Saturday.

It was a heartbreaking development for Hogeboom, whose talent has led to a fierce battle for the starting job that has at times overshadowed the rest of the Dallas program.

"I'm pretty discouraged. I've been working hard in training camp to earn this time to play," he said. "I went to the sideline (after the injury) to see if I could throw, but there was no power in the arm."

At that point, Dallas quarterback coach Jim Shofner signaled for White to enter the game.

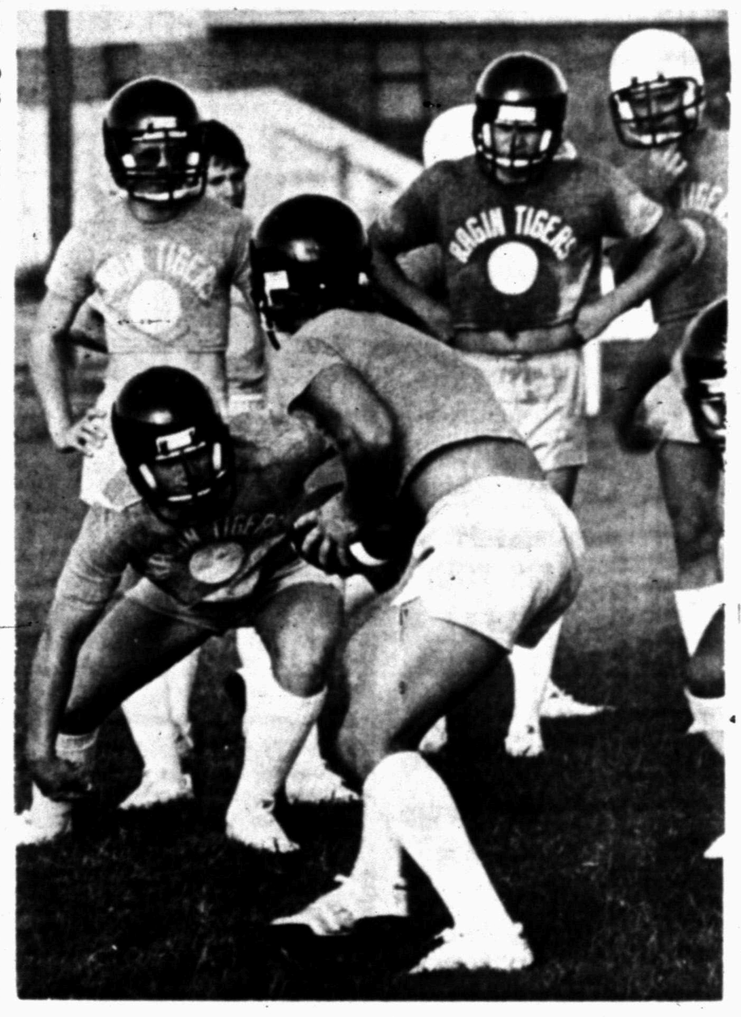

"I didn't know he (Hogeboom) was injured at first, and then Coach Shofner said I was in the game. It all happened so fast," said White, who completed 13 of 20 passes for 164 yards. "It's a shame something like that has to happen."

The Chargers, 1-1, had taken a 13-10 halftime lead on a touchdown pass from reserve Ed Luther to Jewerl Thomas and two field goals by Rolf Benirschke. But White brought Cowboys to life on their third possession of the second half.

He completed three of four passes for 69 yards in the 88-yard drive, including a 38-yarder to Tony Hill that gave the Cowboys a first down on San Diego's 6-yard line. A face mask penalty moved the ball to the 3 and two plays later reserve Chuck McSwain went up the middle for the go-ahead touchdown with seven seconds left in third quarter.

The Cowboys got an insurance touchdown in the fourth quarter when Pelluer, a highly respected rookie from Washington, connected with Mitch Krenk on a 23-yard scoring play.

Pelluer played three series late in the game and completed five of eight passes for 41 yards. Dan Fouts, San Diego's No.1 quarterback, played in only three series and was nine of 17 for 134 yards. Luther was 11 of 27 for 136 yards.

LEGAL NOTICES 010

NOTICE OF SALE
THE STATE OF TEXAS, COUNTY OF SCURRY, KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS
THAT Whereas, on the 21st day of June 1983, Jim E. Taylor, Arlington, Texas, executed and delivered to Key Bros. Implement Co., Inc., Snyder, Texas, Seller, a certain Variable Rate Loan Contract and Security Agreement which was subsequently remitted to John Deere Company, Lender, and thereon mortgaged the following described propery, to wit:
1 - JD4430 Tractor, s/n 51791. 1 - Wylie Mounted Spray Tank. 1 - Case 3 Bottom, 2 Way Moldboard Plow. 1 - Set M & W 18.4x38 Dual Wheels.
The maker of the Variable Rate Loan Contract and Security Agreement has defaulted in compliance with the terms of said Agreement. John Deere Company, the owner and holder of said Variable Rate Loan Contract and Security Agreement on account thereof, is offering said property for sale in accordance with the terms of said Variable Rate Loan Contract and Security Agreement. John Deere Company reserves the right to bid.
Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that on the 22nd day of August 1984 at 3:00 p.m. of said date, John Deere Company will offer for sale at Key Bros. Implement Co., Inc., Snyder, Texas, to the highest bidder the above described property.
CONDITIONS AND TERMS OF SALE: All items will be sold "as-is" and in their present condition. NO GUARANTEE OR WARRANTY OF ANY NATURE, EITHER EXPRESSED OR IMPLIED, is made. Any statement of description is for identification only and not a warranty or representation. All goods are subject to redemption prior to sale. The terms of the sale are cash. The high bidder must submit certified funds (Bank money order or cashier's check) for the full purchase price at the time of sale. All bids must be submitted in person; all sales are for cash and are final. Individual buyers may be required to pay any applicable sales tax on the sales (purchase) price. John Deere company reserves the right to bid.
To determine the highest bidder, the seller will take bids on each individual item of equipment, sell same conditionally as single units, and shall then sell all this property as a single unit and shall then aggregate the unit prices to determine whether final sale shall be accepted on the individual bids or the simple unit bid.

Gerry reverses position on tax disclosure

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Geraldine Ferraro prides herself on straight talk, but she has reversed herself on release of her husband's income tax returns, saying she won't make them public as part of her promised full financial disclosure.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee said Sunday that she tried unsuccessfully to convince her husband John Zaccaro to file his tax return with the family's financial disclosure form next Monday.

Her husband, she said, is afraid release would hurt his real estate business.

"His reaction was, 'I won't tell you how to run the country and don't you tell me how to run my business,'" she said Sunday in Washington before taking off on a five-day tour through California, Oregon and Washington state, her first solo campaign swing as vice presidential nominee.

Then, she quipped: "So you people married to Italian men, you know what it's like."

As the Democratic vice presidential candidate, Ms. Ferraro is required by law to file a financial disclosure form with the Federal Election Commission within 30 days of her nomination. She has said that disclosure will be made Aug. 20, next Monday.

Although it is not required, Ms. Ferraro said last month that she also would release her tax returns as well as her husband's for the last several years.

"I plan to include my husband's financial holdings in that disclosure because my husband and I believe that it is in the public interest to do so and because the office of vice president is one of high public trust," she said at the time.

Her first solo stop Sunday was in Sacramento where she spoke to hundreds of senior citizens crowded into a small, palm tree-lined park, fanning themselves against the mid-90-degree heat.

She talked of the necessity to curb costs of doctors, hospitals and medicine, and said that one of her 78-year-old mother's main concerns is the cost of her medical care.

She drew the loudest cheers when she said in a response to a questions of how she could expect conservative senior citizens to vote for liberal Democrats: "A lot of people seated here have children or grandchildren and are concerned that nothing is being done about moving towards arms control with the Soviet Union."

John Sasso, Ferraro's newly appointed campaign manager, described the candidate as a straight talker and said her candor would help her with voters.

"She's very candid," he said in a conversation aboard the campaign plane. "She talks straight. That's the way it's going to be ... That's what people want from public officials — candor and straight talk."

Irish police attack rally

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Police searched Roman Catholic west Belfast today for banned IRA sympathizer Martin Galvin after the New York attorney escaped during a police assault on the headquarters of the IRA's political front.

One civilian was killed and 20 wounded, including women and children, when officers of the Royal Ulster Constabulary stormed the Sinn Fein headquarters during a rally Sunday, swinging truncheons and firing plastic bullets.

The assault by the predominantly Protestant police force touched off a wave of gasoline bomb attacks on police patrols by Catholic youngsters.

A police spokesman, Inspector Bernie Hamilton, said police were attacked in Catholic areas of Belfast as rioters hijacked cars and set them afire to form blazing barricades.

He said police fired more plastic bullets to disperse the crowds, but no serious casualties were reported. During the hunt for Galvin, police seized caches of milk-bottle gasoline bombs, Hamilton said.

Jobs Corps center successful

MORGANFIELD, Ky. (AP) — When the federal government opened a trial Job Corps center here almost 20 years ago, it was plagued by what was politely referred to in the mid-1960s as "unrest."

Townspeople were afraid of the place, and the staff wasn't quite sure if it was running a vocational school or a juvenile detention center.

A lot of people thought it was a doomed experiment. Among them was Union County's chief executive, Bob Hite. "I didn't think it would last long at all," Hite recalled. "It was a bad scene."

"I don't believe anyone at the time knew what the major intent of the program was," said Gerald Oettle, then the center's recreation director and now its administrator.

Yet, since its start as a two-year experiment, the Jobs Corps has become one of the government's most respected social welfare programs and one of the few to escape reduced funding under the Reagan administration.

The Earle C. Clements Center at Morganfield, one of the first to be established, is now the largest center in the nation, with 2,600 trainees from eight states and a staff of 755.

"It's had steady support throughout its history," said Steve McManus, a spokesman for the U.S. Labor Department. "The program works."

Job Corps provides vocational and social instruction to underprivileged trainees, both male and female, between 16 and 21 years of age. About 40,000 of them at any given time are housed and fed at the 107 Job Corps centers around the country.

Trainees are taught a skill, schooled in math and English, are given spending money and shown how to budget it. They are lectured on motivation, and are placed in jobs when they graduate after about a year. All this costs about $9,000 per student, money the government says is well spent.

"This program has been evaluated and studied to death," said Peter Rell, its national director. "In every comparison that's been done, it's been found that our kids hold more jobs, are less dependent on welfare and pay more taxes. It breaks that cycle of poverty."

"If the government wasn't able to put a pencil to us and demonstrate that the average person who completes this program will absolutely pay enough in extra taxes to pay for his time here, they'd have closed us up, and rightfully so," Oettle said.

WHAT'S IN A TREE?

PLAQUEMINE, La. (AP) — What do printing inks, fruit flavorings, paint removers and medicines for high blood pressure have in common?

They're all products that directly or indirectly are made from trees, according to Georgia-Pacific Corp., a maker of wood and paper products.

Cotton

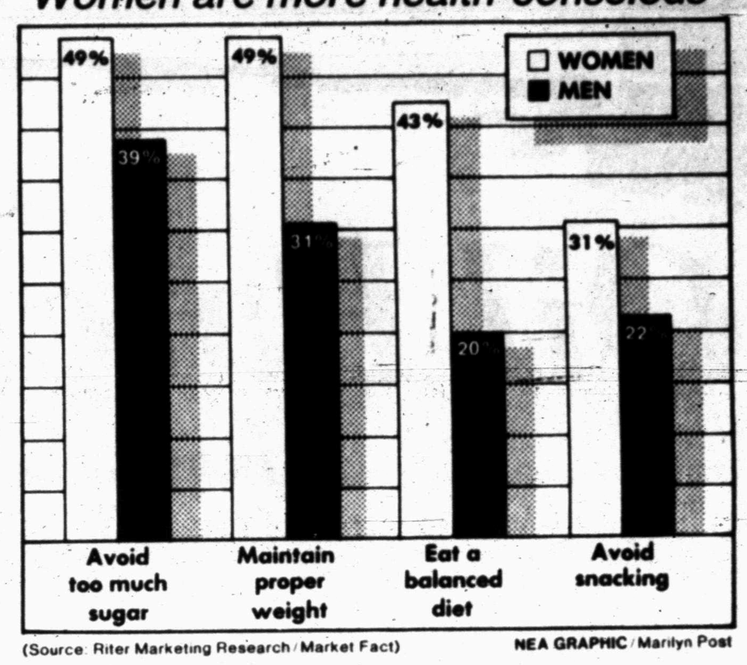

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No 2 were lower at midday dealings today.

The average price for strict low middling 1 & 1-16 inch spot cotton advanced 18 points to 63.39 cents a pound Friday for the eight markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Women are more likely than men to be health conscious at mealtime. In a survey of more than 3,000 consumers, women earned higher marks for such things as eating a balanced diet and avoiding snacks.

Platform may reject tax increase proposal

DALLAS (AP) — Republican platform drafters say the party's 1984 document may include a categorical rejection of tax increases instead of President Reagan's "never say never" position.

"While we're very interested in the statement of the president, that will not be the absolute determining factor in the final document," said Rep. Trent Lott, chairman of the party's platform committee.

The committee was dividing into seven subcommittees today for hearings on the platform. It will spend the rest of the week hammering out a finished product for submission to the Republican National Convention next week.

Former Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis, who is Reagan's representative to the 106-member panel, said he will try to persuade the committee to endorse the president's new tax policy statement.

Reagan on Sunday said that, while he wouldn't raise personal income taxes of "working Americans," he planned to keep his options open on raising other taxes.

"A president of the United States should never say never, but a tax increase has always been for me a last resort," Reagan said.

Lewis told reporters: "I'm going to try to get them to put that in. My job is to get the platform to conform as closely as possible to the president's position. And the president's statement on taxes makes his position clear."

The internal party battle among Republicans on the tax plank has become the liveliest family feud so far of what is shaping up as an otherwise harmonious convention.

Local shoplifting arrest among weekend incidents

City officers arrested a 14-year-old juvenile shoplifting suspect Sunday evening.

Police were called to Furr's Supermarket at 9:29 p.m. Sunday where they arrested the young suspect who was later released to the custody of his father.

A 32-year-old Snyder man was jailed on misdemeanor charges of DWI, resisting arrest and criminal mischief Saturday evening.

According to reports, the suspect was stopped and arrested for DWI in the 2100 Block of Ave. O around 5 p.m.

The suspect reportedly resisted officers and the criminal mischief charge resulted from damage done to a city-owned patrol car during the course of the arrest.

In other action, city officers filed misdemeanor assault charges against a local man following a domestic disturbance late Saturday night and jailed a total of seven suspects on various misdemeanor charges over the weekend.

Four men were jailed for public intoxication and three for DWI with one of the PI suspects also charged with one count of disorderly conduct.

Glass broken

From $800 to $1,000 in damage was estimated following a vandalism incident investigated during the weekend at Owens Department Store on College Ave.

The report was made at 1 p.m. Saturday. Ed Owens, owner of the store, told officers that a front window of the building had apparently been shot with a BB or pellet gun.

Estrogen may not cause weight gain

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About 13 years ago, when I was 31, I had a complete hysterectomy. My gynecologist started me on estrogen therapy, but through the years, I stopped taking the estrogen, especially when the threat of cancer from taking hormones became known. Since I don't smoke and don't have a uterus, I know my fears were unfounded.

Both my family doctor and my gynecologist insisted that I needed estrogen to prevent the possibility of osteoporosis, so I have been taking estrogen steadily for two years now.

But I have begun to gain weight without any apparant cause. I do not eat any more than usual. Could the estrogen cause my body to retain water and cause the weight gain? If so, what could I do to prevent this weight gain and bloating? Is there something I could do that would help me lose 15 or 20 pounds?

DEAR READER — An adequate intake of estrogen will help prevent osteoporosis (dissolving bones). That, plus an adequate intake of calcium, are two of the most important things you can do.

Yes, estrogen causes you to retain sodium, and that causes you to retain water. The water can be eliminated with a diuretic. But don't be sure all your weight gain is fluid. Middle-age spread is not that rare.

Most women develop this problem as they approach and pass through the menopause, when the hormone levels decrease. That should suggest the gain in weight at that age is not from too much estrogen.

You may value the estrogen you're taking more after reading The Health Letter SR-12, Oral Contraceptives and Postmenopausal Estrogens, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Studies suggest that women lose muscle mass about the time of menopause. A good defense is strength training to maintain your muscle size and strength. Muscles use more calories at rest than fat tissue does. If you have less muscle, you will use fewer calories all day and all night. If you eat the same amount, that gives you a positive calorie balance and creeping middle-age obesity begins.

DEAR DR. LAMB — How many calories are used in walking an hour, and how does that compare to an hour of riding an exercise bike?

DEAR READER — Considering the wide variety of exercise bikes and the different settings that can be used to vary the amount of work done, there is no way anyone can answer your question.

However, riding an outdoor bicycle over level ground at average speeds uses about half as many calories per mile as walking a mile at average speeds. Of course, you will probably cover a lot more distance on a bicycle, so the number of calories per hour will depend on the distance in cycling and in walking.

If you have an exercise bike that you can adjust, adjust it so that the speed you use riding it keeps your heart rate about 20 beats above your resting rate and less than 100 beats a minute, then gradually increase your time on it. When you can do an hour at this level, you undoubtedly will use as many calories as you would walking an hour. That would be around 200 calories. However, people with medical problems should not overdo it with an exercise bike — as with any form of exercise.

HIGHER OCTANE

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A technique to upgrade gasoline so that it has a higher octane rating is being licensed by Phillips Petroleum to 72 refineries around the world.

The process has resulted in a demand for technical information, and Phillips recently sponsored a five-day seminar about it here.

Authorities have few leads in aerial bank heists

DALLAS (AP) — Five men who robbed two small town banks and fled in stolen helicopters had many problems along the way, but so far have managed to elude authorities and authorities don't know whether they'll strike again.

In both robberies, no shots were fired and no one was hurt as the SWAT-style bandits quickly completed their task before flying off.

The five range in age from late 20s to early 50s.

At least two of them smoke cigarettes; the leader has a beer belly, wears western garb and totes automatic weapons. The getaway driver is an experienced pilot.

"Are they Vietnam vets? Are they survivalists? Are they soldiers of fortune? We don't know," Cliff Anderson, a Houston FBI agent, told the Dallas Times Herald.

The first robbery was on Feb. 15 in Leesville, La. The second heist took place July 20 at Valley View in North Texas.

The bandits got away with about $163,000 in Louisiana, but much less in Valley View — due to a time lock on a safe. Authorities said the robbers could have pocketed more by fencing the $850,000 choppers, stolen both times from the same Galveston airport and later found abandoned in different states.

Their notoriety partly centers on the fact that the robberies are believed to be the only ones ever staged in the country with a helicopter as the getaway vehicle.

FBI agent Jim Blanton of Sherman said that although the robberies appear to be the models of precision, there were problems.

In the first robbery, the group didn't plan ahead for refueling. Twice they had to settle for regular aviation fuel.

During the second heist, they stashed barrels of jet fuel along the getaway route, but a farmer found the cache and hauled it away.

"They are learning from experience," said Blanton.

After both robberies, the gang eluded capture by flying at tree-top level to avoid radar. Their trail cold, they abandoned the helicopters in Oklahoma and Colorado before disappearing without a trace.

"This was a carefully planned operation, not a random act," said Cooke County Chief Deputy John Aston.

On the nights before the robberies — Feb. 14 and July 19 — someone sneaked onto the airfield of Scholes Field in Galveston, stole a helicopter and flew off unnoticed.

On Feb. 15, payday for 14,000 personnel at nearby Fort Polk, the Merchants and Farmers Bank in Leesville opened at 9 a.m. By 10:15 a.m., as police in Galveston began investigating the aircraft theft, the gang landed on the bank's front lawn and quickly went to work.
