The Perryton Chamber of Commerce has been working on an improved telephone system for Perryton for the past year and through the cooperation of the Southwestern Associated Telephone Company and the City Council, tentative plans for a central energy system have been consummated. Jack Simms, district manager of the Southwestern Associated Telephone Company and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce met with the City Council at their regular meeting Tuesday, February 6, to go over plans.

JUST HERE AND THERE

Another gap on No. 117 will be closed soon according to the Booker News which says that work has been received by the Commissioners' Court of Lipscomb county that 2.6 miles from the Ochiltree-Lipscomb line east to the present hard surface will be paved at once. Estimated cost of project is $22,000.00.

The following is from the "El Toro" column in S. D. Lee's Buffalo, Oklahoma Journal and is headed "Oklahoma's Funniest Tragedy of the Month."

"A friend of ours has a chicken farm at the edge of Oklahoma City, and the other night he thought he heard a noise out in the hen house. Getting ready for bed, yet still having on his long underwear, he slips on his house shoes, picks up his shotgun and flashlight and goes out to investigate. He throws open the hen house door, finds a squawking, pointing gun and flashlight, peering into the hen abode. Well, you know the rest. Construction of long handled underwear, they kinda gapped, and about that time, his old bound dog came over to see what was going on, touched our friend with his cold nose on the rear, and our friend killed 15 chickens and the gun discharged."

Max Boyer is running high in the Dalhart Texas poll on coming political races. Max received 85 per cent of the farmer-rancher vote over C. C. Small incumbent from this district in the State Senate. Laborers gave Boyer 80 per cent of their votes.

President Roosevelt is receiving 90 per cent of all votes in the Dalhart poll. Gov. O'Daniel received 65 per cent of the farmer-rancher vote but only 20 per cent of the laborers said they would support him for a second term.

Provided Roosevelt does not run for a third term, 38 per cent favored Garner with Wheeler of Montana next. Then came Dewey, McNutt and Farley.

Snowfall Adds life-Giving Moisture to Anticipated Crops

Approximately four inches of snow Friday, February 2, gave another boost to crop prospects in Ochiltree County by bringing the total moisture received in this locality to 1.70 inches since the first of the year. The snow began falling about 3:00 p. m. and continued throughout the day adding .40 of an inch to January's 1.30, according to the records of Jack Allen, keeper of the government gauge.

While the moisture received this year falls short of the 1.94 inches received in January, 1939, the deficit is more than equalized by the nature of the moisture, which has stayed on the ground since the latter part of December. The December record when added to the total for this period brings a favorable comparison with last year.

The intermittent snows during the past few weeks are reported to have been general throughout the plains area.

Moisture for the year has been received as follows:

January 6	1.00
January 13	.20
January 17	.05
January 20	.05
February 2	.40
Total	1.70

John Deere Is Host to Movie

As has been the custom for many years L. D. Stinson, local John Deere dealer, is sponsoring a big John Deere Day Program at the Perryton Implement Company on Thursday, February 15, for farmers and their families in this and neighboring communities. Activities will start at 10:30 a. m. with a free luncheon in the showrooms of the Implement house at noon. Starting at 1:00 o'clock at the Ellis Theatre motion pictures will be presented with compliments of the firm. The affairs have been successful in the past with more than 1,200 persons in attendance at the 1939 Program.

According to Mr. Stinson, an all-Hollywood talking picture entitled "Joel Gentry in Hollywood" will be the feature attraction of the day. This appealing new picture was produced especially for farmers by the John Deere organization, and from all reports, it's a picture that will long be remembered for its rich sentiment . . . amusing situations and charming romance.

In the cast of Hollywood players are John King, Rosina Lawrence, Marilyn Knowlden, Gene Morgan, Sarah Padden, Robert Homans, Charles Judels, Johnny Arthur, and many others.

In addition to "Joel Gentry in Hollywood," four other all-talking pictures will be shown. They include: "Making Tractor History," "Horses and Mules for Sale," "A Short Cut Through Harvest," and "What's New In Farm Equipment."

Mr. Stinson cordially invites every farmer, farmer's wife and farm boy in this area to come to this big farmer day program. He promises a good time to everyone who comes.

FSA Places Greater Responsibilities On Farm Management Supervisors

AMARILLO, Texas.—To expedite measures to secure more conservation in the homes and on the farms of present and prospective Farm Security Administration borrowers, L. H. Hutter, regional director has placed greater responsibilities on the county farm and home management supervisors for carrying effective measures into the rural rehabilitation, resettlement and tenant purchase programs of this agency.

In outlining these measures, Mr. Hutter again emphasized the primary responsibility of the FSA program which is to aid in improving the welfare of human beings, including their social, economic, and community institutions and organizations.

County farm and home supervisors are instructed to continue appearing before county planning committees and presenting data showing the character and extent of the problem of low-income farm families. These supervisors will emphasize data showing the extent and purposes of existing FSA loans; size of units and tenure arrangements; type of farm and home economy set up in farm plans; the land and water conservation adjustments being made; the provisions for working capital; the degree of self-sufficiency attained; debt adjustment accomplished and needed; and all the phases of individual and group action which have been undertaken for accomplishing rehabilitation.

Mr. Hutter said county supervisors also will present data indicating the planning and progress of borrowers in achieving a healthful standard of living, including sanitary improvements, dietary sufficiency, and removal of injury and health hazards. Provisions for adequate medical attention will be of paramount importance. County planning committees, Mr. Hutter said, will be assisted in analyzing the farm and home problems in the county and developing a constructive land use and conservation program which will sustain a self-supporting farm and home economy and rural social structure for families in the area.

Of special significance is the instruction that loan reviewers will have before them copies of each county plan to which they will refer as a guide in approving or rejecting the farm and home plans of individual FSA borrowers.

Tax Collections Show Increase In All Branches; 1543 Persons Are Eligible To Vote in '40

National Election Year Accounts For Increase in Poll Tax Payment Over Previous Year's Collection

There will be approximately 1543 eligible voters in Ochiltree County during elections held in 1940, according to Fred Huston of the Tax Collector's office. This is an increase over the 1939 roster of 1155, but was to be expected due to 1940 being a national election year. State taxes collected were 79 per cent of the assessment and county collections totaled 78 per cent. Number of eligible voters includes 61 exemptions. All other branches of tax collections show substantial increases over 1939 totals.

To Organize a Local Chapter

Realizing the effectiveness and necessity in any community for an organization to combat the dreadful results of infantile paralysis, Perryton, through the initiative of several citizens, will have a local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Everyone in Ochiltree county, interested in such a chapter, and especially those instigating the movement, are asked to attend an organization meeting, in conjunction with the Coordinating Council, to be held at the courthouse next Monday evening. The meeting will convene at 7:30 o'clock.

It is to be hoped that no one in this community will become a victim of this dreaded disease, but in case they do or a number of them should, an established local chapter would be successful in getting both scientific and financial aid much sooner than through the efforts of an unorganized group of individuals.

Quick action is necessary at the first sign of infantile paralysis. There may be but one case, or there might be an epidemic. In cases of the spread of the disease, scientific experts are rushed to that particular location to study the cause, search for germs, gather additional data, and assist in every way possible to defeat its progress.

Very little is known as yet concerning this disease, except its terrible results, and for this reason science, the medical profession, and the National Foundation are doing everything possible to learn the cause and perfect a cure or preventative.

Te recent petition requesting the sanction of the National Foundation in the formation of a local chapter was signed by Dr. G. L. Kengle, Mrs. R. T. Correll, C. E. Woods, D. D. Shanks, Mrs. Ida Garrett, Van W. Stewart, R. T. Shindler, H. C. Sanford, W. B. Reid, Wm. Boston and A. P. Spicer.

R. C. Johnson Jr. suffered an acute attack of appendicitis on Thursday, February 1, and underwent an operation in the West Texas Hospital that day. On Saturday he developed pneumonia and for several days his condition was critical. At present he is doing satisfactorily. R. C. is a student in Texas Tech, Lubbock, where the Johnson family moved on leaving Perryton about a year ago.

For Commissioner

A. K. Wilson, farmer-stockman southwest of town announces his candidacy for Commissioner from precinct No. 2. He has been a prominent figure in farming circles for two decades and has resided in Ochiltree County for 24 years. He has never held a county office before and is well qualified to fill the important position which he seeks.

A. K. Wilson is earnestly soliciting and will appreciate the support of the voters in the July primary.

The collections taken in at J. S. Talley's office by various departments were as follows: State assessed, $33,928.76; collected $26,848.36; delinquent collections, $1,810.31; County assessed, $44,472.69; collected, $34,589.77; delinquent collections, $3,081.06; Common school assessed, $9,503.83; collected, $7,866.98; delinquent collections, $492.07.

In the state poll tax division $1,671.00 was collected from an assessment of $1,861.50. In the county from an assessment of $310.25, collections were $278.50.

Supplemental poll taxes collected were: state, $643.50; county, $107.25. Mrs. Luther Wade, collector for the Perryton Independent School District reports that an assessment of $49,084.21 brought in collections of $37,995.10. This is a substantial increase over last year's collections.

M. M. Cudd, city clerk, has made collections on city taxes of $16,915.90 on assessment of $23,445.91. This almost doubles 1939 collections.

Windbreak Is Farm Feature

Considerable interest is being shown in tree plantings for windbreaks on Ochiltree County farms as a result of demonstration plantings which were made several years ago. Most of these were put out in cooperation with the Woodward Experiment Station and the Texas A. & M. Extension Service.

W. M. Deck of the Blodgett Community; C. O. Roach of Missouri Avenue; L. R. Conner of Farmworth and W. E. Tandy of Notia all have windbreaks that have made good growth with trees living and healthy even through the unfavorable years from 1932 to 1936.

Under the 1940 Farm Program a provision has been made for an allowance of $7.50 per acre with an maximum of $30.00 per farm for putting out windbreaks in addition to the regular soil building allowance.

Among those who have indicated their intention of putting out new windbreaks are H. B. Urban and Earl Waide of McMillen; W. E. Tandy, and Errol Platters of Notia; Earl McCarragh, J. S. Slaught and H. C. Brilhart of Titchell. Those intending to put out windbreaks should get in touch with Mrs. Hazel Martin, home demonstration agent, or E. W. Thomas, county agent, and secure information in regard to recommendations for varieties and spacing of trees.

Cost of AAA Administration In County Low

According to available information at the County Agent's office the cost of administration of the AAA program in Ochiltree County in 1939 was the lowest in District One, which includes most of the straight wheat counties. The cost to Ochiltree County was probably the lowest in the state.

The total deducted from the conservation payments of approximately $400,000 was 1.1 per cent. Farther down the state where farms are smaller the deduction factor ran as high as ten per cent and more in some cases.

Deduction is made on conservation payments only and did not include parity payments.

PTA County Council Held at Later Date

Mrs. F. B. Sumpter, president of the County Council of Ochiltree Parent Teacher Associations, announces a postponement of the meeting which was scheduled to meet in Waka February 2. A definite meeting date will be announced later.

The Great American Home

Long-Awaited Musical Hit Here at Last

Co-starred for the first time in what promises to be the musical sensation of the season, Fred Astaire and Eleanor Powell join forces in "Broadway Melody of 1940," coming to the Ellis Theatre Sunday and Monday, February 11-12.

Containing every conceivable type of dance number, from tap to ballet, "Broadway Melody of 1940" tells the story of a dance star and her search for a partner. The plot becomes complicated when, through an odd complication, George Murphy gets the try-out call intended for Fred Astaire. Murphy wins the role and Astaire, content to remain in the background, finds his hands full attempting to keep Murphy's feet on the ground and his head down to normal size. The final outcome is one that keeps audiences guessing.

Set to special music written by Cole Porter, the dance numbers are presented against spectacular sets.

With the two stars is George Murphy, among Hollywood's leading dance stars. Together the three execute nine dance numbers in trios, duets and solos. The cast is given further color by the comedy of Frank Morgan and the appearance in leading roles of Ian Hunter, Florence Rice, Lynne Carver, Ann Morris, Trixie Firsche and Douglas McPhail. The stellar cast was directed by Norman Taurog, director of "The Big Broadcast of 1936" and "College Rhythm" among other musical hits. Jack Cummings produced.

Stanwyck, MacMurray In Local Film Fare

A saucy story of a district attorney who falls in love with a girl he's trying to send to prison, directed with the Mitchell Leisen magic from an original story by Preston Sturges, is presented in "Remember the Night," Paramount's latest contribution to gaiety showing at the Ellis Theatre, Thursday and Friday, February 8-9.

The role of district attorney is played by Fred MacMurray, recently in the comedy success "Honey-moon in Bali," while the lovely felon portraying the girl who steals his heart is Barbara Stanwyck, whose most recent screen success is "Golden Boy." Beulah Bondi, Elizabeth Patterson and Sterling Holloway round out the big supporting cast.

One of the features of "Remember the Night" is a swing rendition of the perennially popular "Back Home in Indiana," rendered by Martha Mears of radio fame and The King's Men. This music is used to set the mood of the picture, most of the action of which is centered on an Indiana farm. "Fuzzy" Knight also appears as the leader of a farm-boy orchestra, which among other things, supplies a real old-fashioned "heel and toe" polka. "Remember the Night" is described as a light comedy romance of the type made famous by Leisen.

Right on Time!

Floods inundated California's Imperial Valley during the filming of Republic's latest Gene Autry musical western "Rovin' Tumbleweeds," showing at the Ellis Theatre, Saturday, February 10. This was just what the location scouts were looking for, as the theme of the picture centers around ranch lands ruined by floods. The company left at once for the ravaged region, to give an authentic flavor to the evacuation of the flood refugees.

Breeding turkeys lose weight steadily during the laying season. They can stand this loss if they are fed liberally through the winter so they will be in prime condition when the laying season starts.

Pigeon Steals Scene In Local Film Fare

Probably for the first time in the oddity-filled history of films, a separate production unit was devoted one day to filming scenes starring a pigeon.

The scenes were for the Warner Bros. spy picture, "British Intelligence," which is showing at the Ellis Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, February 13-14. While the regular company directed by Terry Morse worked at the old Vitagraph Studio in Hollywood, the pigeon company did its stuff on the rear of the Burbank lot.

Eight scenes were taken. The humans in them were represented only by their hands. A grubby and grimy pair of hands, supposedly those of a peasant, put a message capsule on the bird's leg and released it. A military-gloved hand of a German intelligence officer picked up the bird later.

The pigeon's final scene had to be a success, for it couldn't be re-filmed. Tossed up into the air, it departed for home, as homing pigeons do.

The Boy Scout Movement

The Boy Scout Movement was founded in America thirty years ago this week. Most of us have watched it grow and gain in influence, with great satisfaction. It is something vital to "The American Way" and through three decades, its service has gained the confidence of all people.

It would be different to point to any single quality of the Movement and say with positiveness, "Here is what makes Scouting great." But in our judgement one of its outstanding contributions to the nation, particularly in these times of world travail, is its simply-worded Twelfth Scout Law. It epitomizes all that we as a people stand for; all that our forefathers pioneered for when they were fashioning a safe homeland out of a wilderness. Read its stirring words. They are worth memorizing and, more than that, they should be lived by all of us who have the high privilege of being Americans.

Here is the Twelfth Scout Law: A Scout is reverent. He is reverent toward God. He is faithful in his religious duties, and respects the convictions of others in matters of custom and religion.

All Americans worthy of the name, all who believe in the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights and the Constitution of the United States have an abiding faith in such a principle because it is their very guarantee that so long as it is a living thing they will always be free and independent.

Millions of Trees Successfully Planted in Dust Bowl Region

Trees by the millions are growing in the Southern Great Plains today, protecting farm lands and homes from the force of wind and providing recreational spots where only a few years ago dust storms and black blizzards were rolling across a vast expanse of almost treeless plains.

An additional 1,300,000 trees and shrubs will be planted in the Dust Bowl region this year, according to George W. Hood, regional forester of the Soil Conservation Service. Moisture from heavy snows has made conditions favorable in many areas, and planting programs already are under way, the forester said.

Approximately 7,500 acres of farm land have been planted to trees and shrubs by farmers working in co-operation with the Soil Conservation Service since the program was started in the spring of 1935. Hood pointed out. Most of these plantings have been on areas so severely eroded that they no longer are suited for cultivation. Plantings have been made in hundreds of acres of gullies. Windbreaks have been planted about farm homes and along field borders to protect the soil against wind erosion. Many plantings have been made for the production of fence posts and fuel for use on the farm.

Of the 7,500 acres planted during the last five years, tree growth is considered successful on 3,500 acres, according to Hood. Another 2,000 acres show sufficient promise to justify replacing the trees that have died.

"Selection of adapted species, careful preparation of the tree site, supplying of additional water through diversions, frequent cultivation to keep down weed growth, and protection from damage by livestock and rabbits are essential for successful growth of trees in the semi-arid plains," he explained.

"There is a wide variation in soil conditions, rainfall and temperature in the Southern Great Plains region which extends from the cotton fields in the southern part of the Texas Panhandle to the Colorado-Wyoming line on the north, and from the Missouri-Kansas line west to the continental divide," it was pointed out.

"These varying conditions have a definite effect upon the adaptability of certain kinds of trees and shrubs. Among the trees, the honey locust, green ash, Russian mulberry, Hackberry and Chinese elm are proving more successful in the plains. Western walnut and the Russian olive have been used to a limited extent with a fair degree of success. Adaptability of these species to various parts of the plains varies considerably, so advice of local nurserymen should be obtained before plantings are made," Hood stated.

Among the shrubs, the desert willow is proving satisfactory in the area south of the Canadian river in the Texas Panhandle. North of the river this shrub usually is damaged by winter killing. The sumac is native to most parts of the plains and is making a good showing in many plantings. The Chickasaw plum does well in the Texas Panhandle, while the American plum is more satisfactory farther north. The Siberian pea tree has given good results in the northern part of Colorado, it was stated.

Cultivation during the first few years after the trees are planted is absolutely necessary, it was pointed out. Otherwise, weeds and grass use all the moisture in the soil and the trees die. Failure to cultivate plantings has resulted in severe losses and is the chief cause of many trees dying.

Valedictorian Is Active in College

High school valedictorians at the University of Texas show little disposition to become college "grinds," a survey made at the institution recently shows.

R. Q. "Dick" Littleton of Perryton, a freshman in the College of Arts and Sciences, plans to transfer to the School of Business Administration. He finds time for sports, played football on an intramural team this fall, and also likes baseball and basket ball. He belongs to the Freshman Fellowship Club of the University Young Men and Women's Christian Association, takes part in the student program at the University Presbyterian Church, and is a member of the Panhandle Club.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Garrison of Perryton, he was graduated as valedictorian of Perryton High School in June, 1939.

Required to maintain a high scholastic standing to hold the scholarships awarded them by University Regents, the ninety-six freshman valedictorians at the University must study, of course, but they cannot qualify as "bookworms," for part-time employment, extra-curricular activities, and fun are included in their schedule.

M. T. Taylor set some sort of record for deer hunting last season in Carteret County, N. C. His hounds jumped four deer and Taylor fired as they were passing his stand. Two bucks were dropped with one bullet.

JAY, Okla.—Hungry birds can get a good meal during the cold weather at the home of Mrs. H. C. Mays of Delaware county, a member of the Carnes Home Demonstration Club.

At this month's meeting of the club she displayed a large wreath made of cedar branches to be hung on the clothes line or in trees by a heavy cord or wire. All around the wreath were tied small ears of corn, grain, black walnuts broken in halves, suet, pieces of bread, pop corn, hegari and left overs from the table, reports Miss Marie Callaway, the county home demonstration agent.

Streamlined Valentine

You hear a lot of talk about the "good old days," but when stacked up against the streamlined customs of 1940, a lot of the traditions of yesteryear lose their appeal. Take Valentine's Day for instance.

It was once the custom for a young maid to eat a hard-boiled egg, shell and all, just before going to bed on Valentine's eve. This madcap nightcap was supposed to bring on dreams of her true lover, though usually the nocturnal vision turned out to be a nightmare that only a bicarbonate could have prevented.

There was also the tradition that the first unmarried person of the opposite sex seen abroad on Valentine morning would be your destined spouse. Think of how confusing this would be for commuters or subway riders.

At Valentine parties, girls dropped their names on a ballot in a hat. Each male would extract a slip and find on it the name of his future wife. There are enough unhappy marriages today without running the danger of mixups occurring in this manner. Besides, there's always the possibility of some wallflower stuffing the ballot box.

Back in the 17th century, Samuel Pepys complained of having to pay 5 pounds ($25) for a valentine for his wife. Husbands agree now that there's nothing like those five-and-dime items trimmed with paper lace.

Today we have the sophisticates who disregard lace to send engraved card greetings on the Christmas card order; the cautious lover who avoids entangling alliances by addressing his "to the girl friend"; the smart kid who sends comics to everybody, then feels hurt if he gets one himself; the Casanova type who sends personalized Valentines with his picture and name stamped thereon to a dozen or so of the girls; the married folk, for whom this is one of the few remembered anniversaries that helps keep romance alive; and, of course, the true sweethearts, whose June weddings often have their beginnings in Valentine engagements.

These Valentine customs for the most part may be a bit crude from the romantic point of view, but they carry with them the life and gaiety of this streamlined age as the old tradition is carried on despite renovations.

Budget Cuts Force Reductions In Lake Program

AMARILLO, Texas, Feb. 8.—Liquidation of all land utilization projects in the Southern Great Plains region of the Soil Conservation Service is being started immediately in view of the pending drastic reduction of funds included for this work in the Department of Agriculture budget for the next fiscal year, it was announced today by H. H. Fennell, regional director of the Service.

This is the first step in the closing of all projects for land purchase and development and placing them on a custodial basis as will be necessitated by the reduction in national land utilization funds from $4,131,000 to $486,000 for the next fiscal year.

Adjustments in personnel, clearing up of all details pertaining to land already purchased or optioned, and plans for completion of work now under way by July 1, when the new fiscal year begins, are being started immediately, Fennell stated. Included in the projects affected by the change in the program are submarginal land purchase areas in Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas, and water development or lake projects in Texas and New Mexico.

Submarginal land purchase areas, acreages, and office locations are as follows:
Kansas, 140,372 acres in Morton County with offices at Elkhart.
Colorado, 203,327 acres in Weld County with offices at Briggsdale; 166,000 acres in Otero County with offices at La Junta; 228,374 acres in Baca County with offices at Springfield.

New Mexico, 67,629 acres in Harding County with offices at Mills, and the Tri-State area of 133,876 acres located in Cimarron County, Oklahoma; Dallam County, Texas, and Union County, New Mexico.

Water development or lake projects are located in the Texas Panhandle on Tierra Blanca creek near Embarger, on Boggy creek near Canadian, on McClellan creek near Leelan, on Rita Blanca creek near Ashart, on Tule creek near Tullis, and on Wolf creek near Perryton.

The New Mexico water development project is located on Running Water draw near Clovis.

The purpose of the submarginal land purchase areas, Fennell explained, has been to buy severely eroded land upon which individuals could not hope to make a living, reestablish vegetation, and then make grazing permits available to resident operators as part of their economic units.

Water development projects serve recreational purposes and aid wildlife propagation and flood control, he said.

Increase of the Texas ad valorem tax rate by 57 per cent to the constitutional maximum, by the State Automatic Tax Board, added $3,500,000 annually to the Texas oil industry's tax bill.

Young College Men are Paid While Learning How to Become Army Fliers

PORT SAM HOUSTON, Tex.—It is believed that a large number of young college men are still in the dark as to how they may become Flying Cadets in the United States Army. Others, although they are aware that they possess the required qualifications, are under the impression that it takes many months to be appointed even after they have passed their tests. Therefore, many qualified young men, either from lack of information or skepticism, miss this opportunity to learn to fly in what is perhaps the world's best flying school, and at no expense to themselves.

When a young man submits his application for appointment as a Flying Cadet, it is given immediate attention. If he qualifies, this same young man is more than apt to find himself at one of the nine government-contract civilian flying schools much sooner than he thought possible.

Under a recently adopted plan a new training schedule was inaugurated that will give elementary aviation training to 20,000 college men in a little less than two years. From this number there will be added to the Regular Army approximately 3,200 pilots to augment present personnel for manning the 6,000 airplanes that will make up the Army's air force in 1941.

This course of training for military pilots is conceded to be the most thorough and effective in the world. Many other nations cannot allow their trainees so much time in the air due to limited gasoline supplies. The results speak for themselves. Many of these young men who first report for training have never ridden in a plane before, to say nothing of flying one. Yet it is remarkable that after only nine months, with 215 hours in the air, they are at the controls of a 400-mile-an-hour pursuit ship, or looking down from the heights of a giant "Flying Fortress" roaring through the sky, handling the controls with complete aplomb.

Prior to the present expansion program the Air Corps Training Center turned out about 700 pilots a year; the new program is more than doubling that number. Three classes totalling approximately 725 have already been graduated from the nine civilian schools scattered over the country where they received the preliminary training. Instruction at these schools is given by civilian pilots who are well acquainted with the Army methods, their work being supervised by Army officers of the Air Corps. All primary training was formerly given at Randolph Field, but is now conducted at the Primary Civilian Flying Schools.

The Course at the Primary Civilian Flying Schools is of three months duration. The instruction is given on a training airplane, and consists of dual instruction in fundamental flying maneuvers, accuracy work and aerobics. However, at Randolph Field, where the student enters on the Basic Stage, instruction is given on a larger, more powerful and speedier airplane. In this airplane the student reviews all of the work done on the Primary Stage and also takes up formation flying, strange field landings, instrument flying under the hood, and day and night navigation flights. His instruction now also embraces the various fighting gadgets, such as bomb racks, chemical tanks and machine guns.

Finally, the third phase of training for the Future Air Corps officer arrives. He is transferred this time, to Kelly Field, famed for having turned out almost every pilot now in the Air Corps and many distinguished civilian fliers. Additional polishing on the cadet's flying technique is done here and just nine months from the day he reported for duty at a civilian school, he is awarded his wings and handed his commission as a second lieutenant of the Air Corps Reserve. Shortly afterwards orders are issued assigning him to a tactical unit of the Regular Army where he flies alongside of the veteran pilots of the Air Corps, a regularly rated pilot in his own right.

To be eligible for this training, applicants must be unmarried male citizens, between the ages of twenty and twenty-six years, inclusive, who have satisfactorily completed two or more years of college work or are able to pass a written educational examination in lieu thereof. College graduates are given a special priority for appointment. The physical standard is, of necessity, extremely rigid, especially as to vision, hearing and the nervous system. The minimum height is sixty-four inches, the maximum, seventy-four inches.

The cadet's meals, uniforms and quarters are furnished during the course of training. In addition, he receives a salary of $75.00 a month. At the completion of the course, when he has wings, he may go on extended active duty with the Regular Army from one to seven years receiving the same pay as any other officer of the Army of the same grade. Those who do elect to return to civil life at the end of a three-year period are given a bonus of $500.00 which in itself is a start toward a successful civil career.

Sixty-four successful candidates for the fourth class who reside in the Eighth Corps Area have been selected for appointment as Flying Cadets, and will enter the various primary schools on February 14. The schools they will attend are: Ryan School of Aeronautics, San Diego, California; Cal-Aero Training Corporation, Glendale, California; and Spartan School of Aeronautics, Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Eligible young men who desire the opportunity to receive this training may submit their applications to the nearest Army Air Corps office.

Hi-Y Club Presents Messages of Merit

Well it looks sort of as though the Hi-Y Club sort of happened along just in time to do the student body a truly good deed, for last Thursday morning during little Chapel the president of the club, Bob Schuster, presented this beautiful bronze frame in which character posters shall be hung. There were enough character posters presented with the frame to make a different one every week. The posters and frame shall be hung in some prominent place in the study hall where it shall catch the eye of everyone in the study hall. The posters will be resupplied annually.

Well, well, well have you heard of all the excitement that has been created over the voting of the admittance of new members in the club? It seems as though a fellow must have a one-hundred per cent favorable vote by old club members before he can be admitted to the club. The fellows voted last week and there were a lot of boys that have big hopes that we hope don't get let down. Just in case you didn't know, the Hi-Y club is a division of the YMCA, and is one of the greatest and largest American Youth Movements.

A tournament can not be presented without the help of the people of the town for don't forget these teams must have some place to sleep. To you Mr. Kelley, I truly want to say that everyone is behind you in making the tournament the success you always have. I just received a hot tip that there is going to be a fire game played on our courts Tuesday between the Rangers and the Booker Kiowas, it is assured to be a tight and fighting game.

Meet the Teachers

Miss Eugenia Mitchell hails from Denton, Texas. She spent part of her college career in Texas College for Women, Denton and the rest in Colorado University. She has her B. A. degree. She thinks Perryton Hi has improved considerably since she came here, especially the library. It had five hundred volumes when she came and now it has five thousand volumes. She likes P. H. S. or she evidently would not have stayed here so long. Her favorite food is fish and more fish. She teaches Texas, World, and American history. Her favorite movie is "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington." She has as her hobby, hand-work and music.

Miss Mitchell always takes part in school and social activities. She was at one time Girl Scout Captain for Troop I. She is a member of the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. Miss Mitchell is a regular Dr. Quiz when it comes to history. Her vocabulary is very large and often stumps most every one in class. Miss Mitchell is always busy and very enthusiastic about everything.

We The Seniors

Lloyd Yates was born in Panhandle, Texas, February 19, 1922. His black hair and green eyes go very well with his 3 feet and 10 inches. He likes the pecan pie his mother bakes. (I don't blame him.) His hobby is collecting ties and evidently his favorite color is green. I believe that is enough of Lloyd's personal life.

Lloyd has gone to P. H. S. all of his school life. He thinks school has been a lot of fun but he will be glad when he gets out; he also says he is not going to college. Lloyd must like to work because he says that is what he is going to do when he finishes school. Lloyd thinks P. H. S. can be improved. He thinks the school needs a new gym and new tennis courts most of all.

Lloyd says he used to play keeps when he was a little boy. Maybe that is why he is so "honery" now. Well, luck to you Lloyd.

L. Louise Pugh is a blue eyed blond weighing 110 pounds. She was born at Gray, Oklahoma, September 5, 1924. She likes steak or fried chicken. It really doesn't make any difference to her. L. Louise's hobby is collecting material for her scrap book and riding horses. She says that she wants to go to college but is undecided about what she wants to be. She named three things she would like to do; be an air hostess, a stenographer or a nurse.

L. Louise came to school here two years ago. Since then she has made many friends and entered in many things. This year she was Football Queen; (one of the highest honors given here.) She is an active member in band and glee club. She has played forward on the basketball team ever since she came here. L. Louise says she likes to watch football but had rather play basketball (I don't see why.)

L. Louise likes P. H. S. all right but said it could be improved by having better buses. "Gone With the Wind" is her favorite book. She said she thought "In Old Chicago" was the best picture show she has seen this year. Her favorite actor is Robert Taylor (my goodness how these girls do go for him!) and her favorite actress is Alice Faye. I asked her favorite popular piece, she said "Oh Spog Oh!" I think she must have been day dreaming don't you all. Oh excuse me I mean "Oh Johnny Oh!" (My fault after all.) Well L. Louise, power to you in

After basketball practice day, the Viverachas met in Kelley's room and elected officers. They elected "Pat" Martin, president; Carolyn Chase, vice president; Dorothy Woods, and Sudie Records, reporter after the Viverachas met the gym.

It's the Early Bird that gets the Fun

The model illustrated is the Buick Super model 51 four-door touring sedan $1129 delivered at Flint, Mich. White sidewall tires additional.

ONE of these days the itch is going to hit you to get out and get in on the fun a Buick can be in the springtime.

You're going to feel an irrepressible yen to touch off that husky, sweet-singing Dynaflex power plant and swing out in gentle coil-spring comfort to take in the fresh spring landscape.

Maybe, like others we know of, you've even got the model picked out, and are just "waiting a few weeks" to do something definite about it.

But may we emphasize, in purely friendly interest, that a lot of other people probably have the same idea.

And that when they start buying in droves—as they do every year about the idea of March—even Buick's big factory has trouble keeping up with them.

SEE YOUR NEAREST BUICK DEALER

Of course, we're doing all we can to be ready for everyone.

But you can get only so many cars in a warehouse.

And a full warehouse can empty awfully fast.

And what with everybody wanting Buicks this season, we can't say how long we can promise the delivery we can give now.

So why not play the early bird this year? Why not get the jump on your neighbor and be driving your Buick while he's still talking about getting his?

You've nothing to lose, a lot of fun to gain—and you'll find the address of your Buick dealer in the phone book.

Not a sin but an EIGHT for $895 and up delivered at Flint, Mich. *Transportation and local taxes, maintenance equipment and accessories — extra. Price subject to change without notice.

Charles Elzey, Elton Symons, and Wilbur Hart promise some truly intensifying articles that are of no specific origin. They write what we call "features" and I would also like to remark that with this bunch of wide-awake boys we have a gold bound guarantee that there will be plenty of things featured. I have always heard that there was a certain little sophomore boy that really had a way with these teachers. Editor Pat evidently thought so too for she appointed Billy Herndon, who states that he will mingle in their midst long enough to adhere to their idiosyncrasies long enough to write an article known as "Meet The Teachers." Jane Rogers, who every now and then wears a new pair of stockings or a cute handkerchief, and is always making some different remark about Ruth's clothes, was chosen to make some more and different remarks about everyone's clothes. Jane will write "Campus Clothes," an article that is always blowing someone up for a big let down when they find that everybody else in school is wearing the same thing.

Some famous man sometime or another said, "There is work to everything worth while." Editor Pat upon seeing this remark thought that surely there are lots of typing students that want something worth while out of life so she politely maneuvered those speed demons, the little things that tick and type, called typewriters, Jimmy Woodworth, Mickey Taylor and David Burger to do the dirty work.

Assistant Editor George Hohmann comes next to last on the list but this doesn't mean that he is anywhere near the least, for he is to write the opinions of all of us on subjects that have bothered our little minds for a long time (One Minute Interview to you). George will also keep up with the Birthdays, and all together he will be a plenty busy boy.

If you have not become bored farther up in the column and quit you probably by now know that Editor Pat is none other than Patricia Martin who will furnish us with a good paper, a weekly Editorial and an entirely new column called "Advice to Love Lorn." I wish to take the opportunity at this time to tell ex-editor Clinton Hearn that as far as a Journalist and a swell guy is concerned, he is tops.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Emphasis of Reality in Religion

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 11
Text: Matthew 21:28-43

In religion, we are so much disposed to put emphasis upon words rather than deeds that few things are more difficult than to establish the fact that it is what we are and what we do, rather than what we say or profess, that constitutes our real faith and our real religion.

Jesus was accustomed to emphasize truth by stories that centered about extreme situations. When He attached to a Samaritan the good, neighborly action of caring for a victim of thieves on the road from Jerusalem to Jericho, He did not mean to imply that a Samaritan was better than a scribe or a Pharisee; but He did want to emphasize the truth that a Samaritan, despised, unorthodox and outcast, according to the Jewish estimate of the time, might in reality be a much better man than a poor and insincere person of orthodox profession.

It was precisely this fact that smugly religious people were in danger of forgetting. We are all so wont to judge men by their labels and outward professions.

So, here, Jesus takes the case of two sons who the father has asked to go and work in his vineyard. The one son, so far as words are concerned, is very willing and compliant. He answers very readily that he is going, but he did not go. The other son, in some mood or disposition of rebelliousness, declares that he will not go, but afterwards he repents and he actually does go.

Perhaps he does not even take the trouble to tell his father that he has repented. Nevertheless, he goes and he does the work. Jesus asks the very sensible question: Which of these did the will of his father? The implication of the teaching is very plain. He asks us, in effect, which of these two attitudes are we ourselves taking in relation to our Heavenly Father, who has asked us to go to work in the vineyard of the world and to live according to His will?

If men of religion everywhere could put the emphasis upon reality and less emphasis upon appearance, just as Jesus did, how much better this world would be! The parable of the husband and the unfaithful servants emphasizes very plainly the fact of man's disregard of a loving Father and the rebelliousness of men, even against God's own Son.

It is a sad story of life and lawlessness, but it is no more sad than what is spiritually happening in the world today, where men for the most part continue to reject the love of God and the claims of Christ.

THE parable of the stone which the builders rejected is also finding its manifestation constantly in life. Where men and women whom God has called fail in their duty, others arise, sometimes less privileged and less labeled with the sanctions of religion, to perform the tasks of real justice and mercy and truth. The ideal is to make both our words and our deeds alike in their manifestation of truth and goodness. The complete life will not be lacking in either. Nevertheless, it is the life and the deed that matter, and words and professions are very hollow unless they are reflected in character and action.

CHURCHES

Christian Science

"Spirit" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 11.
The Golden Text is: "God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you" (Romans 8:9).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "As mortals begin to understand Spirit, they give up the belief that there is any true existence apart from God" (page 283).

Obituary

Frank Keith was born to John M. and Mary Christie Keith on a farm near Chicago, Ill., January 14, 1871 and passed from this life February 5, 1940, Amarillo, at the age of 69 years and 21 days.

He came with his parents to Elk Falls, Kansas in 1885 and the father operated a drug store for about a year before moving to No Man's Land in the Boyd, Okla., community to enter the cattle business. At the age of 15, Frank went to work for the 8 Half Circle Ranch, then one of the largest cow outfits in the southwest. Later he owned his own ranch on the Beaver River. The snowstorms in 1903 forced him out of the cattle business and he moved to Topeka, Kans., to enter the drug business with his brother, Dr. H. H. Keith.

He returned with his family to Beaver County in 1916 and again in 1924 he gave up farming and ranching business to move to Perryton and operate the Perryton Cleaners. Selling out in 1932 to move to Canjilon, N. M., the present home.

Mr. Keith was joined in marriage to Miss Alice Putnam November 22, 1893, in Beaver, Okla. To this union were born two children, Jessie, now Mrs. Van W. Stewart, and Kramer, who preceded his father in death.

Surviving relatives beside the wife and daughter are one grandchild, Carmen Keith, Shreveport, La., and two sisters, Mrs. Louise Whicker Blankenship, St. Augustine, Fla., and Mrs. Alice Hingate McCarthy, Los Angeles, Calif.

Rev. Leon Berry was a dinner guest Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Woods.

Ordinance Regulating Traffic in the City of Perryton During FIRES

Any person driving automobile, truck, or any other vehicle on the streets or alleys of the City of Perryton when the fire alarm is given shall immediately drive to the curb, (or center of street where center parking is permitted), and stop until after the fire truck and fireman have passed; and any person driving a vehicle shall not follow after the fire truck closer than one block, or three hundred feet. When firemen in their own cars sound their siren persons ahead must pull over and let them pass.

It is unlawful for any person to drive a vehicle over a fire hose at any time, as it damages hose and is liable to cause a blowout that may result in loss of property there or at some future time and may endanger the lives of the firemen.

Any person going to a fire shall not drive car or truck closer than 200 feet of the fire, as it interferes with the firemen in making hose connections.

Violations of any of these regulations are subject to a fine of not to exceed $50.00. These regulations will be strictly enforced.

There are a great many people that go to fires through curiosity or otherwise, who are in the way of the firemen and retard work. Caution is to be used when within 100 feet of the building, not to step on the hose thereby interfering with the firemen in moving the hose about.

All of the regular firemen are special officers during fires and have authority to enforce all regulations under the direction of the Fire Chief and Fire Marshall.

Hoping we will have your full cooperation in fire control, we are sincerely yours,

FIRE DEPARTMENT

Another significant order is for district FSA supervisors to make an immediate survey and report as to the extent to which it will be necessary, in order to effect the human, land and water conservation practices approved in the county plan, to employ the joint purchase and use of equipment; and to obtain special technical services in supervision and construction of necessary conservation structures, including dams, ponds, check dams, terraces, contours, diversion dams, sod outlets, reforestation, new seedlings, stream clearance, sanitary facilities, etc.

County supervisors will continue assisting all owner-operator borrowers whose farms are mortgaged, on terms not in line with the earning capacity of the farm, to obtain an adjustment or reamortization of the debt in order to assure security of tenure.

Promoting tenure arrangements between landlords and tenants, one of the most far-reaching phases of the FSA rehabilitation program, is slated for special attention, Mr. Hauter said.

The written lease forms are designed to benefit both landlords and tenants. Whenever possible, these leases will provide for the compensation of tenants for improvements placed on the land, including those related to human, land, and water conservation. They will also provide for compensation to the landlord for damages committed by the tenant, including those which have the effect of destroying or weakening the conservation practices and structures on the farm.

Mr. Hauter stressed the fact that these leases also will provide for definite permission for the tenant's participation in the AAA and SCS programs, together with a statement of the crop base available to the borrower on which he will share equitably with the landlord in the benefit payments.

The FSA will strive to obtain long term leases for borrowers who need long term financing.

Mr. Hauter said, in cases of extreme need, this agency will continue making grants to low-income farm families. However, county supervisors will develop work plans incorporating conservation practices which can be performed on the grant client's farm and about his home by the available family labor. These practices will be limited to those which can be accomplished without special equipment or hired labor.

Soil Conservation plans will be required for all farm tenant purchase loans made by FSA under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act. Mr. Hauter said the purpose of reemphasizing these phases of the FSA program was in line with the department's theme of coordinating the numerous action programs in agriculture, to fit them to local conditions and to formulate more effective programs in cooperation with the farmers.

"Although our program," Mr. Hauter said, "is charged primarily with aiding and improving human welfare in rural America, we recognize the importance of conserving our soil and water resources, because it is ultimately upon the land that we must depend for food, clothing and shelter."

Ochiltree and Lipscomb counties are under the supervision of Rural Supervisor Bernard C. Drinkard with offices at Booker. Mr. Drinkard, formerly of Snyder, Texas, took over the duties of this office last July when A. L. Turner became ill. Mr. Turner is now at Edinburg, Texas, endeavoring to regain his health.

Migrants On The March Find New Havens in the Northwest

Farm families on the highway. . . They even take the kitchen sink.

MEN of America and their families who left their dusty farms for the dusty road are finding new hope of temporary haven in the Pacific northwest where camps are now being built to care for transient farm labor.

Newest of these is the 250-family settlement near Twin Falls, Ida. Just completed, it provides minimum housing, sanitary and social facilities for the spring's influx of homeless farmers, their wives and their children.

Here the migrants will find beds to sleep on, instead of cots or auto cushions; clean water to drink and wash with; solid roofs instead of leaky tents; real stoves, not open bonfires.

DRIVEN from their homes in the middle west by the dread specter of water shortage and choking clouds of pulverized dirt, the dust bowl dwellers became migrants through necessity, not by choice. Loading their clothes, their bedding, their treasured belongings and all manner of living necessities—sometimes even the kitchen sink—onto their automobiles and trucks, they followed the setting sun into the west.

California bore the brunt of early migrations, for in that state were fruits and crops a-plenty to be picked. Always there had been work for transient farm workers there, until the influx became too great. Then came stories of the plight of the migrants in California, as pictures were taken and books written. Growers were accustomed to supplying tent space or temporary homes for the workers, but there weren't enough to go around when the Okies and other dust bowlers came rolling in.

The migration spread into the northwest, where "fruit tramps" found pickings good in cherry and apple valleys, and wheat hands were able to get harvest work.

PERPLEXED western states, burdened with this additional weight on relief rolls, were assisted when the federal government through FSA stepped in to aid local agencies. In California, the first of the migrant camps were established for the destitute families.

Opposition in the northwest to construction of farm family labor camps melted when hostile groups recognized the value and the inevitability of the settlements. First camps were built at Yamhill, Ore., and Yakima, Wash., fruit and hop centers. Dust bowlers in Idaho will move into camp facilities including 224 wooden shelters with food closet and cooking stove base, and 24 farm labor homes with two bedrooms, combination living room and kitchen, simple plumbing, electric lights and a small garden plot. Families will be eligible if they are working in crops, but no single persons will be accepted.

Chains of camps up and down the coast will make it possible for migrant farm families to follow the crop harvest through the March-October cycle from south to north and back again with the comforts of home and health once more their lot.

AN APPRECIATED VALENTINE

Loin lamb chops just "go" on the menu of the luncheon or dinner party for St. Valentine's Day. And when they are broiled to a turn and arranged as shown in the accompanying photograph, they are sure to make a hit with the guests at your party.

The garnishes suggested here are simple but effective. Peach halves are topped with hearts cut from canned cranberry jelly. The hot baking powder biscuits are cut in heart shape to further emphasize the Valentine motif.

And broiling lamb chops is simple, too, if you do it the modern way. Here are the easy steps: Turn heat high; place chops on broiler rack and slide broiler pan into position so that there is about three inches between the top surface of the chops and the heat; when the chops are nicely browned, season with salt and pepper and turn; continue broiling until second side browns, about fifteen minutes in all. Arrange on platter and serve at once.

If there is a regular late comer among your invited guests, wait until you see her turn the corner before the chops are put in to broil. Better to keep your guests waiting for broiled lamb chops than to keep the chops waiting for late guests.
