Red Notes Demand West Give Up Ghost In Berlin

IF NECESSARY

Isolated West Berlin Asks Military Might Be Applied

By JOSEPH B. FLEMING
United Press International

BERLIN (UPI)—Isolated West Berlin demanded today the Western Allies use military force if necessary to save it from absorption by the Communists.

Leaders and citizens alike rejected the Soviet proposal to establish a "neutralized free city" in West Berlin and called it a cunning Soviet power attempt to swallow another part of the free world.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt warned the Western powers:

"Do not put your head in the sand. The naked existence of 2,200,000 people who live in West Berlin is at stake. The Soviet goal is absolutely clear — all of Berlin is to be incorporated into the Soviet Zone."

Brandt said the United States, Britain and France must back up the city with their military might and announced he would fly shortly to Washington to discuss the situation.

Give Solemn Pledge

He said the Allies have given their solemn pledge to defend the city and "we cannot release our Allied friends from this responsibility."

Brandt's warning was echoed by Ernst Lemmer, top representative of the West German government in Berlin. He said West Berlin would never agree to become a no-man's-land in the middle of Germany and Europe.

Most Berliners immediately conjured up a vision of the free city of Danzig which was annexed by Adolf Hitler the moment he saw fit.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, speaking in Bonn, assured anxious Berliners that Western Allied security guarantees will save the city "no matter what the developments of the future will be."

Most Serious Threat

He said the Western powers will do everything to keep the city free and its routes to the West open.

The Soviet demand Thursday that the Western Allies quit the city posed the most serious threat since the war to cut off West Berlin from West Germany. The Russians proposed that West Berlin become an undefended city independent of West Germany and stripped of all Western backing.

The city is surrounded by Communist territory. It is encircled by 22 Soviet divisions and 120,000 East German soldiers.

Russia Wants West Berlin Demilitarized In Six Months

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI)—The language of the Soviet note on Berlin struck Western observers today as laying down a tough line from which Russia is not prepared to budge.

Russia delivered notes to the Western Big Three and to West Germany Thursday demanding the West quit Berlin within six months and that West Berlin be made into a demilitarized "free city."

Premier Nikita Khrushchev's press conference statement that "we are not deciding the question on the basis of an ultimatum" softened some of the Western apprehension.

But observers also noted his remark that "those who are in favor of continuing the cold war and turning it into a hot war" will oppose the proposal.

The notes to the West declared:

—Russia will maintain the current status of West Berlin for six months, maintaining its functions along supply routes to the American, British and French occupation forces in that city.

—If during that period the West does not agree to make West Berlin a free, demilitarized city with some kind of United Nations participation, Russia will hand over its occupation functions to East German Communist authorities.

Thereupon, the note continued, East Germany would "deal with questions pertaining to her territory—that is, to exercise her sovereignty over her land, water and air space."

—If the Western powers persist in refusing to deal with the East Germans and try to run military convoys to West Berlin by force the results could be dire.

Threaten Retaliation

The note said any act of aggression against any member of the Warsaw Treaty "will be considered by all of its members as acts of aggression against them all, and will immediately invoke an appropriate retaliation."

On the basis of the Soviet statements, any showdown would shape up for May 27, 1959—six months from Thursday. The West-

WHAT, NO CAMEL?

A camel saddle may be the dream of every "hard-riding Arab", but for a Pampa couple, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Rance, it has very little use. The saddle (seen above) arrived last week by mail, neatly Christmas-wrapped from their son, Capt. J. J. Rance, stationed near Paris, France with the Air Force. It was opened early when the Rances mistakenly thought the package held cigarettes—a certain brand well known to most smokers. So far the Rance family hasn't thought of a use for the handsome mahogany saddle. Mrs. Rance thinks it may make a fine hassock. Rance, with apparent different ideas, was saying something about, "If we only had a camel . . ."

Attorneys Try To Break Up Federal Ban

United Press International

Attorneys for American Airlines pilots go to court in New York today in an effort to break a federal ban on their strike plans. At the same time Eastern Airlines attorneys expected a decision by a Miami federal judge whether to issue an injunction against a striking engineers union.

Lifting of the federal injunction against American Airlines pilots would considerably broaden the national airline tieup this Thanksgiving weekend. Trans World Airlines also is idled by a strike. Even if the federal court in Miami issues an injunction against striking Eastern Airlines engineers, a concurrent strike by machinists still would ground EAL planes.

Stewardesses also were on strike against Lake Central Airlines, a Midwest feeder route. The stewardesses' strike, the nation's first, failed to curtail runs as pilots crossed picket lines and male supervisory personnel replaced the girls.

The Air Lines Pilots Association had scheduled a strike against American earlier this week but obeyed an injunction issued in New York by Federal Judge Frederick Van Pelt Bryan. The order was returnable in court today.

American's pilots have been working without a contract since August, 1957, and attempts to reach a new agreement have met with no success, despite the presence of federal mediators. The union represents almost 1,500 pilots at American.

AIR STRIKERS TO GET $35 WEEK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The International Association of Machinists has announced it will begin today paying benefits of $35 a week to members on strike against airlines.

Members of the union have walked out at Trans World and Eastern airlines. Negotiations with other lines are still in progress.

PRINCE AKIHITO

MICHIKO SHODA
. . . finds her prince

JAPAN TRADITION BROKEN BY LOVE!

By LEROY HANSEN
United Press International

TOKYO (UPI) — Crown Prince Akihito and the miller's daughter he wooed and won met alone today for the first time.

The engagement was announced Thursday of Akihito and the pretty commoner, 24-year-old Michiko Shoda, shattering 2,618 years of tradition but bringing joy to Japan.

Five thousand teen-agers, mostly high school girls who had just left their classrooms, jammed the streets outside Akihito's Togu Palace to see the nation's newest heroine.

When she stepped out of a chauffeur-driven car at the palace gates wearing a low cut afternoon dress, several bobby soxers sighed, "Suteki, ne," or "Stunning, isn't she."

Courts in Public

Their demonstration reflected Japanese joy at the engagement.

The love-smitten crown prince did his courting on the tennis courts in public, in groups of friends, by letter and on the telephone. Today they were alone at last—for 30 minutes.

The occasion came when Michiko and her parents paid a 30-minute protocol visit on Akihito at his palace. Dr. Shinzo Koizumi, the prince's sympathetic tutor, shooed the elder Shodas out of the room.

The engagement announcement had the whole nation floating on a rosy cloud.

It created a prospect of Miss Shoda, the daughter of a wealthy flour-mill executive, becoming the first commoner to share Japan's throne since the world's oldest reigning dynasty took it over in 660 B.C.

Expect Fall Wedding

Speculation immediately turned to a wedding date. The best guess is that it will be no later than next fall.

Although the engagement is for practical purposes a fact, it doesn't become official until the parents of the prospective bride and groom exchange gifts of fish and rice wine — probably when the Shodas visit the Imperial Palace later today.

It is even possible, although unlikely in view of the stiffness of Japanese court etiquette, that the sweethearts may be alone together at least long enough for a few whispered endearments during the family visit.

"Yes" Over Telephone

If they are, it will be the first time the 24-year-old prince — he

Absentee Voting Closes Tuesday

Absentee balloting for a Dec. 6 school bond election will close Tuesday at 5 p.m., DeLea Vicars, Pampa School Board member has announced.

Qualified voters are currently casting absentee balots in the school business office, downstairs in City Hall.

There are only two more days to vote absentee, Monday and Tuesday as the office will be closed Saturday.

Vicars will be election judge at the polls Dec. 6. At this time property owners in the Pampa Independent School District will vote on a $1,250,000 bond issue to cover expansion in the school system.

The School Board called the election Monday in response to petitions from five local groups.

A scholastic census for the years 1954-1958 shows that enrollment has increased by 1,254. Enrollment now stands at 6,048. In six years, it is anticipated, an additional 1,412 students will be enrolled.

3 Inches Of Snow Blankets Panhandle

United Press International

The worst siege of snow, sleet and rain of the season broke in Texas today, but clearing weather was expected to drive overnight temperatures in the northwestern section of the state down to zero degrees.

A bright sun broke out after up to three inches of snow in the Panhandle. The clouds also broke away in North Central Texas, as the storm moved south and southeastward.

It snowed as far south as Sherman and icy bridges and roads were reported as far south as the Red River Valley, which is in the Sherman area.

Most of the state was expected to be covered with freezing weather by morning. Temperatures in the mid-20s were predicted for the Dallas - Fort Worth area and temperatures in the freezing zone much farther south than that.

Front Moved Quickly

The snow, sleet and rain actually cleared away faster than weather forecasters had expected.

"The system came through much faster than we had supposed," M. C. Harrison, chief meteorologist of the Dallas weather bureau, said.

"A vigorous low pressure system developed over the Rockies and moved south and southeastward, accompanied by an eastward moving trough of low pressure at high levels.

"The net effect was to bring lower temperatures. The worst is precipitation, followed by much lower temperatures. The worst is about over. The story now is the extreme cold."

Six Degrees at Dalhart

Police warned travellers to stay off the highways and preliminary reports indicated that the warnings were heeded. There were fewer accidents than expected, though two of five Thanksgiving traffic deaths were blamed on the weather.

The temperature got down to 6 degrees overnight at Dalhart, at the top of the Panhandle. There was a trace of snow on the ground.

There was light snow on the ground at Amarillo and streets were slick, but a bright sun was shining and expected to melt off the ice before dark.

The lowest it got in Amarillo was 14 degrees. Forecasters said it should get up to 33 degrees

SNOW JOKE, IT'S SLIPPERY!

The Top O' Texas area was blanketed with from one to three inches of snow for the second time this month.

The soft white stuff began falling about 8:45 p.m. Thursday in Pampa and kept floating down until 2 a.m. Friday morning. The overnight change found many cautious Pampa motorists making their way back to work from the Thanksgiving holiday over snow-packed streets that tended to make driving hazardous.

All roads in the area are open but some icy conditions still sihwarted traffic by mid-morning. Area highways are expected to be clear by mid-afternoon, thanks to a bright sun.

Saturday's outlook calls for generally fair and cold weather, with Pampa's high expected to be 38 degrees. Low tonight will be ten degrees.

No forecast for more snow has been made for the Top O' Texas area.

Much Of Nation Is Snowed Under

By United Press International

A vast snowstorm swept the nation's midsection from Texas into the Ohio Valley Friday and weathermen issued heavy snow warnings for much of the area.

A special bulletin issued by the Chicago Weather Bureau warned of snow accumulations of four or more inches from central Missouri through southern Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia and into Pennsylvania.

South of the snow area, weathermen warned of freezing rain, sleet and glaze from southeast Oklahoma through northern Arkansas, southern Missouri, Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia.

Freezing rains and snow during the night made driving hazardous from Oklahoma and Kansas through the central Mississippi and lower Ohio valleys.

More than 200 traffic accidents were reported on slippery Kansas City, Mo., streets. At least 30 persons were hospitalized during the early hours of the storm.

The Texas Highway Department reported roads over two-thirds of the state were blazed with a solid sheet of ice up to one inch thick. The icy roads extended southwest to Dallas, Tex.

Roads were reported almost impassable northward from the Fort Smith, Okla., area, and authorities discouraged traffic west of the Clinton, Okla.

A mound of Arctic air draining southward from the Yukon plunged readings to 15 below zero at International Falls, Minn., and brought sub-freezing temperatures as far south as Virginia.

Fires Kill Tots

A rash of fires erupted in the cold air belt, killing at least 50 children and two adults. The victims included five children killed in their beds in a fire Thursday at an Oklahoma City convalescent nursery, and a mother, father and four of their children killed in a blaze that destroyed their home at North Little Rock, Ark.

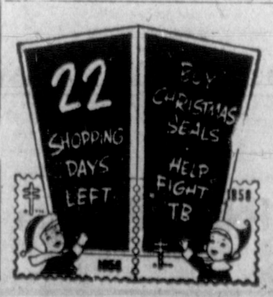

Among other fire victims were a 3-year-old Milford, Conn., girl whose four brothers and sisters perished in a fire seven years ago, and a 70-year-old man who died in a Vermont blaze.

The Coast Guard rescued a fisherman adrift in a Lake Superior gale Thursday and sought another man missing in the wild waters. Hilmer Aakvik, 55, Hovland, Minn., said his small boat ran out of gas Wednesday when he went out to tend his nets.

Aakvik said he kept alive in near zero temperatures during the night by bailing water from his boat and keeping active. Missing was Carl Hammer, 25, a fisherman who disappeared in a similar small boat.

At least four children drowned while testing thin ice formed by the coldest weather of the season. In Chicago, Jerry Melnyk, 12, and Roman Klowatyj, 12, drowned in a park lagoon Thursday, and two 8-year-old Stoughton, Wis., girls, Tarry Ann Anderson and Jackie Berndt, drowned the night before in a municipal swimming pool.

In California, a dense fog which rolled across the San Francisco area resulted in a 34-car chain-action collision at a newly opened bridge across Carquinez Strait. Thirty-two persons were injured in the series of collisions.

State Lacks Funds For Better Schools

FORT WORTH (UPI) — The state lacks funds to go all the way with the Hale - Aikin committee proposals to improve schools, Gov. Price Daniel told Texas teachers Thursday night.

Daniel said he favored most of the proposals but warned delegates to the Texas State Teachers Association convention that funds might not be available for a further boost in teachers' salaries.

One of the recommendations of the Hale-Aikin committee, a legislative group, calls for a nine and a half to 10 months school term. Daniel said he was not sure a need for this existed.

The association's legislative committee has recommended a $4,000 starting salary instead of the $3,800 proposed by the Hale-Aikin group. Present starting pay for a teacher with a bachelor degree is $3,204.

The House of Delegates of the association will vote Saturday on proposals for submission to the legislature, which convenes in January.

Daniel said he will urge that money be provided for improvement of schools as quickly as possible.

"No one will hardly expect any state to be able to finance all of these improvements in any one year or any one biennium," Daniel said, "but we should write the standards into law and then work each year to meet these goals at the earliest possible time."

"No citizen of this state can be satisfied with less than the best

140 Dead On Highways

United Press International

A forecast of bad weather for nearly two-thirds of the nation today has hung a black cloud over hopes for safely celebrating the last two days of the Thanksgiving weekend.

The holiday neared its midpoint with a relatively low traffic death toll, but warnings of heavy snows throughout the Southwest and freezing rain across the upper half of the nation threatened a deadly finish to the weekend.

A United Press International count at 10:30 a.m. e.s.t. showed at least 140 persons killed in traffic accidents since the four-day holiday began at 6 p.m. Thanksgiving eve. In addition, 17 persons died in fires, one in an airplane crash in Texas, and 26 in miscellaneous accidents for an overall toll of 183.

California reported the heaviest traffic toll with 12 dead, followed by Ohio and Pennsylvania with 10 each, and Alabama and New York with 9 each.

Stay-At-Home Holiday

The weatherman's gloomy predictions were expected to keep even more people at their own firesides for the remainder of the four-day holiday—already one of the homiest in recent years.

Strikes against two major airlines—Eastern and Trans World—have reduced the nation's air traffic by one-third, and a court in New York City will decide today whether to lift an injunction which has halted a strike at American Airlines.

The holiday death toll was expected to rise at a steeper rate today with hazardous driving conditions predicted for the Midwest and Southwest, where snow, sleet and rain glazed highways.

Freezing temperatures were forecast for the New England states.

Fires Prove Fatal

Among the most tragic accidents on Thanksgiving Day were a fire in North Little Rock, Ark., which took the lives of four children and their parents; a fire which killed five children at a nursing home near Oklahoma City; and a two-car collision near Crossville, Tenn., which resulted in four deaths. A fire at Milford, Conn., killed the daughter of a family which lost four children in a similar fire several years ago.

In other deaths, two girls drowned at a Stoughton, Wis., swimming pool after breaking through the ice while skating and two 12-year-old boys fell through thin ice and drowned in a Chicago park lagoon.

In San Jose, Calif., Mrs. Clara Mull, 83, choked to death while eating Thanksgiving turkey.

Pileup Injures Six

California highway patrolmen said a 34-car pileup near San Francisco at the approach to the southern end of Carquinez Strait Bridge was the worst within memory. Six persons were seriously injured.

The Chicago weather Bureau predicted heavy snows up to four inches in Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and parts of Arkansas and Missouri. Lighter snows were to fall throughout the Midwest.

The temperature dipped to 20 degrees below zero in the high mountains of Colorado and Wyoming, with sub-zero temperatures forecast throughout the rest of those states.

VAS IS DAS, DER ELVIS A PFC!

GRAFENWOEHR, Germany (UPI)—Elvis Presley's Thanksgiving turkey had an extra trimming. The hip-swinging soldier-singer has been promoted to private first class.

"I'm proud to have a stripe," he told United Press International.

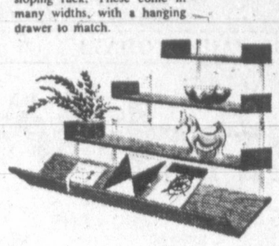

The Army said "we hope nobody complains that Elvis was promoted before other soldiers in his unit, but he really tried hard to be a good soldier and he deserves it."

RUTH MILLETT

"Men are either young or they are old — according to men. None of them likes to admit to middle age."

As you might suppose, that comment came from a woman who is frankly middle-aged and doesn't mind it.

There's a lot of truth in what she says. Look around and just notice how men cling to the enthusiasms and attitudes of youth.

They'll go through any kind of discomfort and tax their physical strength on hunting and fishing trips, long after their wives have admitted that their own idea of a vacation is to take it easy.

Men are still cheering for their alma maters long after their wives have relegated their college days to the dim past.

Long after women have started looking for comfort and ease of driving in a car, men are interested in small sports cars.

And until they are really old they want to know what a new car will do when they get out on the highway and step on the gas.

The things a woman misses in her own youth she probably concentrates on seeing that her daughter has. But what a man couldn't afford in his youth he gets when he can, even though it comes at a late time of life.

A man never feels or acts middle-aged when there is a young and pretty girl in sight.

A middle-aged woman rarely turns her head to get a second look at a handsome young man, but a man has to be old to the point of senility before he quits taking a second glance at a pretty girl.

Yep, men are young until they're old and middle age is one period in life they never acknowledge — not even to themselves.

That is just on of the many fascinating things about them — bless their youthful hearts.

You teen - agers must stretch your money to cover gifts for family, friends and relatives at Christmastime. Still, you like to give gifts that are in good taste.

Any teen - age friend on your list would love one of the new lipstick charm bracelets, ready in time for Christmas giving. The bracelet is fake pearl and suspended from it are miniature lipsticks in clear lucite cases. The lipstricks are real ones in a variety of luscious colors.

This is clearly a matter of being able to shop well for pennies. The bracelet is budget-priced so that you can afford to buy it for several names on your shopping list.

Drab Housewife Unfair To Self

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The woman who places the furnishings of her home far in advance of her own appearance is making a mistake. For one day her family will be unable to distinguish her from the draperies.

It's true that homemaking and everything that goes into it is important. Good food, a pleasant background and comfort make living something a little special. But the woman who would invariably prefer a new slipcover to a new dress or a new electrical appliance to a good permanent had better check up on herself.

An appraising, critical glance in a full-length mirror may give her some shocking answers. It may show her that she has become drab in a lovely setting that she created. And if she has, chances are her family will regard her as a combination maid and cook.

This doesn't mean that from then on she need spend all of her time and money in beauty parlors. But it does mean that she had better divert a part of her time and money to herself.

Some women are devoted to a certain lipstick shade. By experimentation, they have found that it's the shade that does the most for them. So they wear it year after year, comfortable in the knowledge that it is flattering.

And they fail to find out that trying out a new shade, even if they don't stay with it, can be a real lift to the spirits. It's something like buying a new hat or trying out a new hairdo. It will bring comments for good or bad which show that people notice what you wear.

It will also make you feel that you are being just a bit daring. And this is all to the good.

Many women have written letters to this column indicating that they are puzzled about how to care for their skin while they're dieting.

The answer to this problem of crepy or sagging skin lies in a good moisture cream used nightly with an upward and outward motion. Apply the cream with your fingertips, and remember that in using a lightly massaging motion, you are getting far more from your cream. Simply slapping it on is better than nothing at all but not as helpful as it could be. Make sure that the care is every single night without fail.

Your day should also include neck exercises and a good, brisk walk with head held high. In a short time, the crepiness will begin to vanish if you're faithful in your care.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I know I'm a darned fool but I am so much in love I can't see straight. Bruce knows I'd do anything in the world for him, but he just uses me to get filled in on other girls. He gets interested in a new girl about every two weeks, and asks me to "fill him in" on who she is, where she works and how she likes him. Bruce knows I have been in love with him ever since we were kids, but so far he treats me like a pal. I keep hoping that one day he will return my love. Please, Abby, how can I get Bruce to treat me like a sweetheart instead of a pal?

ONLY A PAL

DEAR ONLY: If anything gets "filled in" it should be the holes in your head. A smart girl does not "fill in" a man with whom she is in love on details concerning the competition. Drop this helpful routine or you'll remain on the bench forever.

DEAR ABBY: The woman who signed herself "INSULTED" because every doctor, dentist and eye doctor tries to take advantage of her is typical of the neurotic, frustrated female who runs from doctor to doctor seeking attention other than medical. My husband is a doctor and he wouldn't touch a female patient unless his office nurse was standing beside him as a witness to his ethical behavior. He's worked too hard to risk his professional reputation one one of these "Everybody-is-mad - about-me" type of woman. Thanks for letting me get this off my chest, Abby.

DOCTOR'S WIFE

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for setting "INSULTED" straight. Every doctor has had to treat women patients more than professional. What wishful thinking! Those women ought to take a man along — to protect the doctor!

DOCTOR'S NURSE

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when you find out your husband has been going with another woman and when he thought he was in trouble comes to you and asks for your help? Crazy as it sounds, I stood by him and saw him through the whole mess. Am I out of my mind for forgiving him and helping him? We have four children and I want to know if you think they are good enough reason for swallowing my pride?

FORGIVING

DEAR FORGIVING: I do not know of four better reasons.

DEAR ABBY: My brother met a girl four years ago. After courtship, he married her and now they have a son a year old. Before my brother met this girl she had a son out of wedlock. I never asked any questions because I felt it was their personal affair. My brother adopted this child and treats him with the same love as his own. My problem is: What to say to relatives and friends? Should the older boy be introduced as my brother's son, or just his wife's son? When I'm asked, "How many children has your brother?" should I say ONE or TWO?

SIS

DEAR SIS: Your brother has TWO sons. One adopted and one born to his wife and himself. Any other comments are unnecessary.

Steamed Prune-Cranberry Pudding Tops Off Christmas

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

For an old-fashioned, calories be-darned, let's make merry, Christmas dessert, this rich steamed prune-cranberry pudding with hard sauce is a very jolly answer. You can just hear Santa saying "Ho, ho, ho" when he sees it.

PRUNE-CRANBERRY CHRISTMAS PUDDING
(Makes 12-15 servings)

One-quarter cup butter or margarine, ½ cup sugar, 3 eggs, separated; ¼ pound suet, ground; ½ cup molasses, 2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon allspice, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups chopped plumped prunes, 1 cup seedless raisins, 1 cup canned whole cranberry sauce, hard sauce, whole prunes and marshmallows for garnish (optional).

Cream together butter or margarine and sugar. Add egg yolks; beat well. Add suet and molasses. Sift together flour, cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg, baking powder, baking soda and salt; add to creamed mixture. Mix well. Chop prunes; add with raisins and cranberry sauce. Beat egg whites stiff; fold in. Pour into greased 2-quart pudding mold. Cover. Steam 4 to 5 hours. Unmold pudding on serving plate. If desired, garnish mold with prunes stuffed with marshmallows. Serve hot with hard sauce.

Note: Stuffed prunes make a pleasant sweetmeat for the Christmas candy tray, too. They are also good stuffed with nuts.

HARD SAUCE

Beat together ⅓ cup butter or margarine and 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar until creamy. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla; blend well. Brandy, rum or sherry can be used, if desired.

CHRISTMAS FIG PUDDING
(Makes 6 servings)

Nine - ounce can kadota figs, 1 cup water, about; 1 cup honey, ½ teaspoon ginger, 3½ - ounce can flaked coconut, ½ cup butter, ¾ cup quick-cooked rice cereal.

Mince figs and to fig juice add enough water to make 1½ cups. Simmer figs in juice and water until very soft, about 10 minutes Add honey, ginger and coconut and bring to boil. Meanwhile melt butter in frying pan, add rice cereal and ginger and cook over medium heat stirring constantly until rice is a golden brown color, about 10 minutes. Add fig mixture to browned rice and cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from heat. Serve hot in dessert dishes with hard sauce, ice cream, whipped cream or topping made from nonfat dry milk crystals.

THIS IS THE ONE FOR WAGONS! 1959 CHEVY

Chevrolet's five stunning new station wagons for '59 are shaped to the new American taste with fresh, fine Slimline design. And they're beautifully practical — with roomier, quieter Bodies by Fisher, an even smoother ride, new ease of handling!

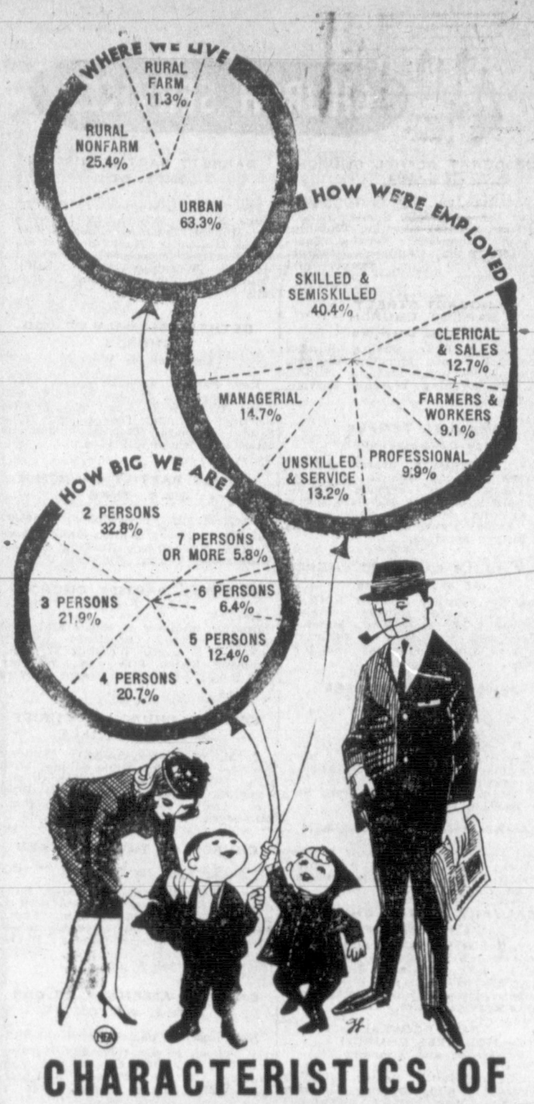

Wagons were never more beautiful or dutiful. From low-set headlights to wing-shaped tailgate, these '59 Chevrolets are as sweet looking as anything on wheels. They're just about the handiest things on wheels, too—from their overhead-curving windshield to their longer, wider load platform. Besides additional cargo space (a full 10-foot span with the tailgate down), you also get added seating room (4 inches more in front, over 3 inches in back). And you'll find such other practical advantages as new easy-ratio steering, Safety Plate Glass all around, tougher Tyrex cord tires, bigger, safer brakes, smoother-than-ever Full Coil suspension and a roll-down rear window (electrically operated as standard equipment on the 9-passenger Kingswood). Your dealer's waiting now with all the details on why this year—more than ever—Chevy's the one for wagons.

County To Let Bids On Office Building

Bids on the proposed $55,000 county office building are expected to be let in mid - December, it was reported today by the office of Wayland Merriman, county engineer. A definite date has not been set. Advertising for bids will begin in about one week.

The new county building, according to County Judge Bruce Parker, will be used primarily by county agricultural workers, but he added, the county's policy is "the more people that use it, the better."

The one - story multi - purpose building will be air conditioned and will house kitchen facilities and an auditorium. It will be constructed near the county barns and the Recreation building, east of Pampa on the Miami highway.

The three buildings will be an "ideal setup" for the county's agricultural, 4H and FFA Club needs, Judge Parker said.

Parker added, there has "long been a need for such a building." The Soil Conservation office and the county agent's office have both expanded greatly and there is an imperative need for more space.

"It was either a case of building a courthouse annex, or constructing a new building," the judge said. The building will be financed by re - allocation of a surplus of county tax money.

SNOW

during the day and then become colder rapidly with the approach of night.

Snow at Childress

Shamrock also had two inches of snow and highways 83 and 66, which cross at Shamrock, were slick and dangerous. The highway department was sanding them, but no roads in the Shamrock area were impassable. The sun was shining.

Childress had three inches of snow, but the storm also broke there before dawn and the sun was out. The low was 20 degrees. At last report, it was still below freezing and snow and ice were still on the streets.

The snow contained .20 of an inch of moisture at Childress. The area around Childress is dry and farmers welcomed the moisture and said they needed more.

It also cleared up at Wichita Falls and in the Red River Valley area around it. There were slick spots on the streets and roads. Bridges were especially bad. The overnight low at Wichita Falls was 28 and it dropped to 27 after the sun came out.

Cold to Linger

Forecasts indicated freezing temperatures tonight deep into South Texas. The rain was not over yet for East Texas; forecasts predicted occasional rain this afternoon and tonight for extreme East Texas.

Rains of more than an inch fell from Waco northeastward into the Texarkana area Thursday.

It looked as if the cold might hang on, with more rain the beginning of next week.

The five-day forecast predicted temperatures 5-10 degrees below normal for the eastern half of the state, with moderate to locally heavy precipitation Monday or Tuesday.

The normal minimum for the eastern half of the state is 35-56 degrees and the normal maximum is 56-74.

Chill Winds Reported

For the western half of Texas, the first day forecast also was for temperatures 5-10 degrees below normal. Normal minimums for the western half of Texas are 24-46 degrees and the normal maximum is 51-66.

In one accident a mile east of Manor in Travis county, 14 miles from Austin, Louis Charles Routt, 26, a Manor Negro, died in a six car pileup on a rain - slick highway. Six others were injured in the Thanksgiving Day accident.

At Houston, Roy Ward, an employe of the Shamrock Oil Sales Co. of Houston, was killed when his truck skidded on wet pavement, jackknifed, and plunged through the McKay Bridge into Lake Houston. His body was recovered from the lake.

Snow fell in Amarillo last night and at Texhoma, on the top of the Panhandle, there were two-and-a half inches on the ground and still falling early today.

Chill 15-20 mile an hour winds blew down from the North.

At Bonham, near the state line in northeast Texas, freezing rain clung to trees and fences but no ice formed on the highways.

Freezing rain, sleet or snow was forecast for extreme North Texas and some snow was forecast for the Panhandle, Upper Pecos Valley and South Plains today.

Temperatures were expected to reach 10-20 degrees, lowering to zero locally in the Panhandle, tonight.

Occasional rain today and tonight was forecast for South Central Texas.

Program To Form

Ideas will fly at a membership luncheon Monday, Warren Hasse, Pampa Chamber of Commerce president, predicted today. A hundred C-C members are expected to put in a Palm Room appearance for the luncheon and discussions that follow.

Eight men to a table, they will elect a chairman and secretary, then devote the rest of their time to suggestions for a year's work. "Everyone will have an opportunity to suggest a project for inclusion in the new program," Hasse said.

A balanced program, according to Hasse, would include long term projects and projects of short duration. Suggestions made at luncheon meeting will be turned over to the C-C board.

Heavy Guard Stationed At Tennessee Jail

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (UPI) —Authorities have placed a heavy round-the-clock watch at the Murfreesboro jail to guard against the possibility of escaped killer Spence Edwards breaking in and freeing a brother held for murder.

Edwards, 35, escaped from a Georgia road gang Tuesday and kidnaped four persons in his flight through four states. All were released unharmed. The FBI today joined in the search for Edwards.

His brother, Harry, 30, was held here on a charge of killing his father-in-law.

Spence Edwards broke into the jail in 1947 and released an older brother, Alfred. They fled to Georgia where Spence killed Garland Fields, a state Bureau of Investigation agent.

Spence was sentenced to life in prison after his recapture. Alfred was sent to a mental institution.

Hubert Turner, held captive by the fugitive during a two - day ride through parts of Georgia, Kentucky and Tennessee, quoted Edwards as saying: "I'll kill anybody who gets in my way."

Thursday, three Murfreesboro teen-agers told officers that Edwards kidnaped them at gunpoint and forced them to drive him to Birmingham, Ala., in a stolen patrol car. The youths, Dwight Throneberry, 17, Enos Carter, 18, and Simon Warner Jr., 16, said Edwards left them after the car developed engine trouble.

The fugitive treated them well and gave them $10 before he left the car and began hitchhiking, the boys said. They returned here and related their experience to FBI agents.

Edwards walked away from the road gang at Dalton, Ga., and short time later took the 47-year-old Turner as a hostage and commandered his car. Turner was wounded slightly when Edwards' shotgun went off by accident.

Their courtship was conducted at tennis matches, or among groups of friends. After rejecting his proposal several times, Miss Shoda finally whispered "yes" over the telephone.

The engaged couple have captured the fancy of the Japanese people because she is one of them, rather than royalty. And he had the courage to fight for and finally win her. Foreign Minister Aiichiro Fujiyama said today it was "a triumph of youth and love."

COMEBACK FOR THE OO-MING-MACK—The oo-ming-mack is no longer in danger of extermination. Better known as the musk ox (oo-ming-mack is the Eskimo word), the animal is on the increase in experimental herds in Alaska and Canada. A few years back, the much-hunted animal was believed to have found its last home in Greenland. Efforts to establish herds in northern Europe and Iceland have failed. One drawback remains. Neither the wool nor the meat have any commercial value.

Last Two JRC Drives Conclude

Pampa's two junior high schools have completed Junior Red Cross enrollment campaigns, Sam Begert, Red Cross JRC chairman, reported today. Pampa Junior High and Roobert E. Lee were the last schools to wind up campaigns.

Junior High School campaigns, delayed by conflicting activities, make an all-school total of $795.33, 5,150 students.

Lee Junior High has an enrollment of 497 out of 750 and a $47 take; Pampa Junior High has 269 out of 459 and $24.10.

Money collected will go into the Junior Red Cross fund from which a contribution will be made to the Red Cross children's fund and pay for the shipping of gift boxes overseas.

Each elementary school room will receive a copy of Junior Red Cross News. A Junior Red Cross Journal is allowed for every 30 students of an elementary school.

Holy Souls and Woodrow Wilson Schools have each turned in ten gift boxes. St. Matthew's Episcopal School plans to make a model of Pampa for school children in Europe.

Following a spectacular enrollment campaign, Pampa High School's 980 member Junior Red Cross will turn its energy to a Toy Dance Dec. 13 in American Legion-Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall. Students will be admitted for a toy.

RUSSIA

ern Big Three could then:

—Agree to pull their troops out of West Berlin and leave it a free, demilitarized city. The initial consensus among Western observers here was that this was unlikely.

—Run convoys into West Berlin across East German territory by force. Russia said such "violations" would be met by counterforce.

—Modify the Western refusal to deal with the East Germans and try to come to some arrangement with them over Berlin. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has said the United States might agree to deal with East Germans as "agents" of the Soviet Union.

But the Russian note appeared to exclude any arrangements other than those within a framework of making West Berlin a free city, cleared of all troops.

"In case this proposal is not acceptable to the United States government, there would no longer exist any subject for talks between the former occupying powers on the Berlin question," the note said.

This would seem to create a deadlock soluble only by one side or the other side backing down.

"Good schools cost money, but there is no sounder investment in the future of our state and nation. Jacoby ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

When Generous George jumped to three hearts he knew he was overbidding a little but George likes to overbid and give his opponents a chance to set him.

There was no problem about North's raise to game or about West's opening lead of the king of clubs.

George was generous enough to let West hold that trick. He won the next lead of the suit, came to his own hand by ruffing a third club and led a low trump.

West played the nine and George smiled sweetly at him and remarked: "What a nice little card. Anyone else would play the queen from dummy, but I am going to let that nine hold. Of course, your partner may not be as generous as I am."

Suiting the action to the word, George played the five from dummy and East had to play his singleton king.

The rest of the play was unimportant. George lost a trick to the ace of trumps, but that was all. His generous play had been a beauty.

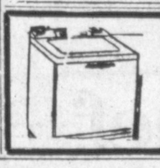

He could not lose the hand if trumps were going to break 2 - 2. He would have lost if West had played the nine from ace-king-nine, but George was willing to pay off to a West player who could match his own generosity.

People's Chapel Has New, Intensive Education Program

PERRYTON (Spl) — The People's Chapel Bible department has moved into its new building and now has an intensive educational program. The program was launched in the juvenile departments with four and a half hours of specialized training offered weekly.

There is a Saturday morning Youth Round-Up, like Vacation Bible School. It features songs, Bible study and recreation from 10 until 11:30 each Saturday morning. Free bus service is available all over Perryton.

Sunday mornings there is regular Sunday School followed by special children's worship hour. On Sunday evening there are children's church and young people's services each beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Lt. and Mrs. Willaim Schneider, with many years of experience in youth work with the Salvation Army are a part of the corps of competent teachers in the Chapel Bible School.

The Rev. Calvin Cook, pastor, serves as dean of the school, Lt Schneider, director; Mrs. Calvin Cook, children's church and music; Mrs. Claudine Wooster, young people's sponsor; Mrs. Schneider, youth training; and Donald Flowers, president of the People's Chapel Youth.

Christian Scientists Give Thanks

Gratitude for God's infinite goodness and power was the theme of the special service held at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 901 N. Frost, on Thanksgiving Day.

A period devoted to voluntary statements of gratitude is included in the Thanksgiving Day service in all Christian Science churches. The spontaneous testimonies included reports of the healing of sickness and sin as well as the solution of other serious problems through prayer based on spiritual understanding of God.

"Thanksgiving" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon read from the desk. Especially prepared for the day, it consisted of selections from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

"Festival Hymn" by Bartlett was the organ prelude. The service was opened by the congregation, singing Hymn No. 283 in the Christian Science Hymnal, "Praise We the Lord."

Scriptural passages in the lesson-sermon included the following from Malachi (3:10): "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

From Science and Health the following was read (3:22): "Are we really grateful for the good already received? Then we shall avail ourselves of the blessings we have, and thus be fitted to receive more. Gratitude is much more than a verbal expression of thanks. Action expresses more gratitude than speech."

The Golden Text was from Psalms (68:19): "Blessed be the Lord, who daily loadeth us with benefits, even the God of our salvation." The postlude was "America the Beautiful" by Ward.

Christian Scientists Belabor Hypnotism

The imperative need for spiritual alertness as our denense from evil will be stressed in Christian Science services Sunday.

Bible readings in the lesson-sermon entitled "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" will include the following from James (1:2,3,12):

"My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations; Knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience. . . . Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him."

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy declares: "Christians must take up arms against error at home and abroad. They must grapple with sin in themselves and in others, and continue this warfare until they have finished their course. If they keep the faith, they will have the crown of rejoicing." (29:1).

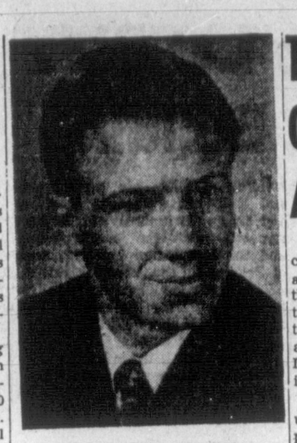

GOVERNMENT NOT BIG CHEESE NOW!

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Technically, the government is out of the cheese business.

Actually it still has about seven million pounds on hand for distribution to school children, the needy, and charity and welfare organizations.

It was with a great deal of glee that the Agriculture Department recently announced that cheese stocks of the Commodity Credit Corp. had dropped to zero—except for the relatively low supplies earmarked for the school lunch and domestic donation programs.

"I'm glad that's over," one official said, "we used to be up to our ears in cheese."

St. Matthew's Will Observe Advent Start

A special service of Holy Communion will be observed by the Men and Boys of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church on Sunday. A breakfast following a 7:30 a.m. service will be served by the women of the church.

Each year, the Sunday nearest the 30th of November is observed by all men and boys of the Episcopal Church throughout the nation as a special time for a corporate Holy Communion service. The observance begins the church's year with the season of Advent.

Christians for many centuries have divided the year into nine parts to study the Christian doctrines. Advent is the first season followed by Christmas, Lent is the fifth season followed by Easter, the sixth division of the year. During each of the parts of the Christian year a different theme is studied.

The Advent Wreath will be lighted at the 9:15 a.m. Church School service. The wreath consists of greenery plus four candles. On each of the four Sundays in Advent another candle is lighted until all four are burning. The wreath helps to emphasize a Christian preparation for the birth of Jesus.

The rector, the Rev. William E. West, will read a pastoral letter from the bishops of the Episcopal Church in place of the sermon at the 11 a.m. worship service.

The Youth Group meets at 7 p.m. and a program on the Holy Communion will be presented by West.

The special music for the 10:55 a.m. service will be a solo "Comfort Ye, My People" and "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted" by Handel sung by Dr. N. J. Ellis.

"The Good and Bad in Human Nature" will be the subject Adcock will use for the Sunday night service at 7:30. The special music will be the anthem, "O Come, O Come Emmanuel" by Plainsong sung by the MYF Singers.

The following activities are scheduled for the coming week: Monday: 6:30 a.m. Prayer Group; 7 p.m. Troop 80; 7:30 p.m. W. S. G. Meeting; 7:30 p.m. Prayer Group-Youth Bldg. TCU Students Get 'Diary Of Anne Frank'

FORT WORTH (Spl) — Francis Lederer as Otto Frank heads a Broadway cast which will bring the widely hearided state production of "The Diary of Anne Frank" to Texas Christian University for a performance at 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 5, in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

It is the fourth production in the university's current Select Series program, and replaces the musical "The Boy Friend" originally scheduled for February.

Featured in the play are Lilia Skala, Gilbert Green, Nan McFarland, Otto Hulett, Loney Lewis, and Pauline Hahn as Anne. It is directed by Kip Good, based on the original direction of Garson Kanin.

While the action of the play takes place in Nazi - overrun Amsterdam, "The Diary of Anne Frank" is not a war play, nor is a soldier or Gestapo agent ever seen on the stage. Rather it is the heart-warming account of a group of sorely beset people who find much to laugh about and to enjoy while hiding out for two years in an Amsterdam garret until they are discovered by the Nazis and sent to concentration camps.

Dramatized by Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett from the teenage Ann Frank's diary which was published posthumously and became a best - seller, the play was produced by Kermit Bloomgarden.

It had a 90-week run on Broadway and won the Pulitzer Prize for the season's best play and the New York Drama Critics' Award among others.

Admission to the Select Series programs at TCU is by season ticket. However, individual tickets will be sold on a space - available basis at the door that evening for $2.50 each.

Fund Drive A Success At First Baptist

First Baptist Church, Pampa, has gone over its $160,200 goal for the 1959 budget, A. C. Troop, Finance Committee chairman, reported. The total raised in a drive Sunday was $161,290.

Pledge cards are still coming in and with all absentees contacted, a substantial increase is expected by Sunday. Leaders in the campaign, conducted in the Sunday School classes and Training Union departments, were Fred Thompson, treasurer; Herman Whatley, chairman of deacons; and Troop.

Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor, will be in the pulpit for both services Sunday. His subjects will be "An Irrefutable Testimony," Sunday morning, and "Life's Chief Ambitions," in the evening. His morning sermon is taken from John 10:41; his evening sermon, from II Corinthians 5:9.

The Church Choir, under the direction of Joe Whitten, will present a new arrangement of "We're Marching to Zion" at the morning service. Jim Johnson wil sing a solo in the evening.

The Women's Missionary Union of the Church will meet each morning during the week for an annual Week of Prayer for Foreign Missions. The meetings will be held from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

In the mid-week service, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, there will be a GA presentation under the direction of Mrs. W. B. Franklin. The service will conclude with a program given by the Business Women's Circle.

During the week, an offering for Foreign Missions will be taken from the members of the Church. A goal of $4,000 is set for this special offering.

FORGIVENESS

The most precious thing in a Christian's experience is the personal relationship he has with God. Only one thing can mar the beauty and joy of that relationship—sin. The more one realizes the greatness of God, the more he is conscious of his personal sinfulness. The more he learns of the nature of God the more apt he is to be overwhelmed by the conviction that he does not belong in that Holy Presence. Every look into his own heart, every examination of his own thoughts and motives force upon him an even deeper sense of guilt. With the growth of insight into spiritual truth the realization also becomes more clear that every sin is first of all a sin against God Himself.

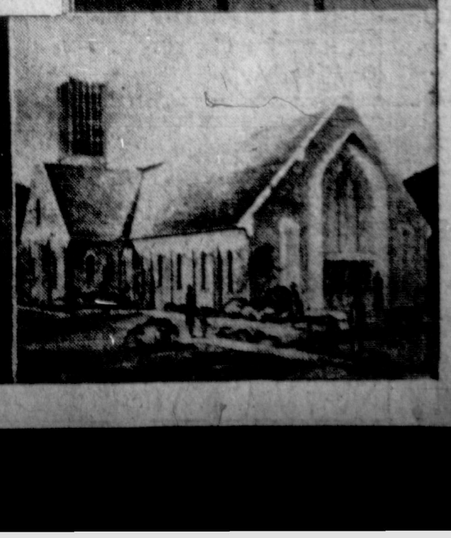

But thank God, that this personal relationship need not be marred by our sin. We can be released from this yoke and again enjoy perfect communion with our Creator. Forgiveness is a divine attribute. If we will but confess our sins and show our sincerity by forgiving others, God will forgive us.

Like the father of the prodigal son, God will receive us with open arms and forgiving spirit and our transgressions will not only be wiped out, they will also be forgotten, and the Father-son relationship restored.

BAILEY RAMBLES—Wiley Bailey, Miami halfback, goes to the right side of the line for a short gain Thursday against Weinert. Quarterback Toby Cunningham leads his interference. Bailey and Cunningham both played well on offense, as did several other Miami boys, but the Warriors were unable to stop the powerful Weinert team. Weinert won the game, and the regional six-man football title, 58-20. (Daily News Sports Photo by Wally Truesdell)

Last week, Pampa tangled with a mean Bulldog and came out badly chewed. This week it was Miami's turn.

The Weinert Bulldogs routed Miami's Warriors, 58-20 Thanksgiving afternoon, for the region 1 six-man championship.

About 600 very cold fans watched the game, most of them from cars parked around the playing field, at Harvester Park.

The Bulldogs scored almost at will in the first half and moved fairly well in the second half. Weinert built up a 36-0 lead before Miami could get its offense moving on any sustained drive. The halftime score was 36-8.

Weinert used a powerful, balanced attack to crush the Warriors, who had lost only one previous game, and who had walloped some very good teams during the season.

The Bulldogs ran for four touchdowns, and passed for four. They made 244 yards rushing, and completed 9 of 17 passes for 144 yards.

Harris Slowed

Their defense was, in one way, more impressive than—their offense. They didn't exactly stop Sam Harris, but they slowed him down considerably.

Harris, the speedy halfback who had scored 32 touchdowns in 10 games, tallied just once, on a pass from Toby Cunningham. He was "held" to 93 yards rushing — a good total for almost anyone else. Miami's total rushing yardage was 93, since other Warrior backs lost as much yardage as they gained.

Cunningham Sparkles

Quarterback Toby Cunningham provided the offensive spark for the Warriors, as he completed 18 of 34 passes for 187 yards and all three Miami touchdowns.

With five seconds remaining in the first half, Cunningham tossed a short one to halfback Paul Thompson, who scampered some 15 yards to the goal line. The pass-and-run covered 19 yards. Jimmy Bowers drop-kicked the two extra points. (Kicks count two in six-man football.

Late in the third quarter, Cunningham passed for two touchdowns in two minutes. With 2 minutes, 45 seconds remaining in the quarter, he tossed a 2-yarder to end Jimmy Seitz in the end zone. The kicking try for point was no good.

Then with 40 seconds remaining in the third period, Cunningham pitched a short one to Harris on the Weinert 25. Harris threaded his way through the Weinert team to a touchdown, on a beautiful run. The play covered 28 yards. Kicking try for conversion was no good.

Thompson and halfback Wiley Bailey, substituting for injured Billy Lard, were favorite passing targets for Cunningham. Both played a fine game on offense.

Weinert Scoring

Weinert scoring went like this:

In the first quarter, W. J. Swanner passed 10 yards to halfback Jerry Walker; then Swanner passed 24 yards to end Davie Boykin, and Bob Raynes kicked the extra points.

In the second quarter, Raynes ran 10 yards, then kicked the points; Walker galloped 37 yards; Swanner dashed 51 yards, and Raynes place-kicked the conversion.

In the third quarter, Swanner passed 50 yards to end Jerry King; Swanner passed 10 yards to halfback Raynes, and Raynes kicked the conversion.

Halfback Bill Rainey ran 6 yards for the final touchdown, in the fourth quarter, and Raynes booted the extra points.

Cagers Open In Mangum

The Harvesters open their 1958-59 basketball season tonight in Mangum, Oklahoma.

Pampa is defending state champion, with a season record last year of 28-2. The Harvesters will be wary of the opener, because they lost their opener last year.

Saturday, the basketball team travels to Quanah for a game; then Monday they return home for a three-game home stand. Mangum will be here Monday, and San Angelo will play here Friday and Saturday.

BUCKS STOMP STEERS, 28-16

IT ALL ADDS UP — The White Deer Bucks rolled for 306 yards rushing in trampling Farwell, 28-16, Thursday afternoon in Canyon to burn a path into the Class A quarter-finals, and here sub Don Adams is brought down after a four-yard second period pick-up, with Farwell's Jerry Lovelace and James Burleson bagging the tackle as Scott Barnes starts to throw a block at left on Jim Hardage. Three Scoring Passes In Third Period Turns Tide

By RICK PEZDIRTZ
Daily News Managing Editor

CANYON — White Deer's Bucks finally heard the alarm.

Their rumbling snores threatened the West Texas State College stadium foundation in the first half here this crisp and chilly Thanksgiving Day.

But they awoke with a monstrous shudder in the third quarter and the resulting vibrations simply scattered Farwell Steers all over the landscape. The toll of pillage was 28-16.

This sliver of sanity — a 20 point third period — vaulted Coach Otis Holladay's Bucks into the Class A quarter-final round next week, against the victor of tonight's Ozona - Plains regional game.

"We may flip a coin for a home-and-home arrangement, us going for either Pampa or Amarillo and Ozona - Plains winner going maybe for Lubbock, or we may just try and agree on Plainview, for next week's game," an elated Holliday commented after walking from the field of battle here Thursday.

Farwell scored first and last in the opening and closing quarters, but White Deer had too much punch in between, tallying a second stanza score and three third quarter touchdowns to raise their season stock to 11-0-1.

The Top O' Texans used the same formula to whip Farwell as they applied a month ago in staggering a stubborn McLean eleven for the District 2-A title, 22-6. That is, simply to sucker the defense with a first half running game and then turn to the skydanes immediately after the intermission.

That's the way the Bucks overcame a 6-0 halftime deficit at McLean and that's the way they rubbed out an 8-8 halftime score here Thursday, striking through the air for all three of their third period scores.

Jeff Bearden, an unsung team hero all season, made hay in the third as he hauled in two long touchdown heaves within the span of four minutes to break the Steers' backs.

Bearden took a long aerial whip from quarterback Jackie Burns for a 47 yard scoring play only 2:29 seconds deep in the second half to break open the 8-8 tie game, and then repeated the feat moments later, this time on a 32-yarder from Herschel Powell.

Powell missed the conversion on a run after Bearden's first tally but Burns found Allen Harmon in the open for a two-point pass after Bearden's second to give the Bucks a seemingly safe 22-8 edge.

Burns really cooled it for Farwell three minutes later when he dropped another pass on target, into the waiting arms of Don Adams who covered 35 yards to give the Bucks 28-8 breathing room. Powell missed on a pass for the conversion after the final Buck assault.

From that point, with 2:21 left in the third, until the finish, Farwell tried desperately to get back into the fight, but to no avail.

The Steers did manage to make the final score more presentable by trudging into the end zone once in the fourth, as quarterback Johnny Lovelace fired a 24 yard pass and two plays later sneaked in from the one.

Jerry Lovelace, the Steers' bread-and-butter runner, bulled through for the two-point conversion with 8:52 left in the game.

Harmon and Powell lead the usual bruising Buck ground attack with Harmon notching 122 yards and Powell getting 106, the same way they finished in last week's 46-6 whirlwind past Gruver.

White Deer drove 60 yards in a dozen plays from their own 20 to the Farwell 20 after taking the opening kickoff before Powell was slammed for a one yard loss on a fourth and three situation, after sparking the trek with a 34 yard run.

The Steers started off like world-beaters, going from their own 21 to paydirt in only eight plays with Jerry Lovelace a hot-shot freshman halfback slanting off tackle for the last three yards and cousin Johnny Lovelace, a 200-pound quarterback sneaking over the two-pointer.

Farwell's Larry Jesko recovered a Powell fumble seconds later on the White Deer 24 and the Steers zipped down to the Buck six where Tommy Lester saved the day with a timely fumble recovery for the Blue and White.

The ball changed hands on a punt and another Farwell fumble which carried into the second quarter. The Bucks then went 68 yards in seven plays to knot the score at 8-8, with Harmon sprinting 39 yards to score standing up and Burns spinning out around right end to do likewise for the two-point conversion, with only 55 seconds gone in the second.

White Deer reached the Steers' eight where a pass interception by Benjy Dial halted their bid and the Steers were squatting on the Buck ten when time ran out in the first half. ..

Then came Bearden's sticky-fingered scoring grabs and the Bucks were off to the races, or the quarterfinals if you want to gets technical.

Scott Barnes continued to spearhead the White Deer defense. He chalked up several teeth-rattling tackles and on a Farwell punt that shot straight up the funnel on the line of scrimmage, the 165-pound hustler grabbed the ball and romped 11 yards before he was tackled from behind. Other solid defensive efforts came from Robert Anderwalk, Wayne Hughes, Jimmy McKernan, Bryan Coday, Ronnie Cade, Charles Jackson and Bob McCreary.

Five Juniors Take Spots On All-Southwest Squad

DALLAS (UPI) — The accent definitely was on youth in the 1958 United Press International all-Southwest Conference football team announced today with five juniors, including the entire backfield, being awarded berths on the mythical team.

And, two of the six seniors who made it were the only ones eligible to repeat after being tabbed for first-team honors a year ago by the conference scouts and UPI sports writers who cast the ballots.

This duo — guard Tom Koenig of Southern Methodist and all-American end Buddy Dial of Rice — had been starting stars since their sophomore seasons.

Picked for the potent backfield were SMU's dazzling Don Meredith at quarterback, flashy-running Marvin Lasater of Texas Christian and Jim Mooty of Arkansas at the halves, and fast and powerful Jack Spikes of TCU at full.

The other junior making the first team was tackle Donald Floyd of TCU. His running mate at center, Dale Walker, barely nosed out SMU's sophomore sensation, Max Christian, for the pivot job.

The other seniors crowding onto the club included end John Tracey of Texas A&M, tackle J. D. Smith of Rice and guard Charles Horton of Baylor.

More Seniors

Only Texas failed to place a man on the first-team, which had four from Cotton Bowl-bound TCU, two each from Rice and SMU and one each from Texas A&M, Baylor and Arkansas.

Two juniors — guard Sherrill Headrick of TCU and halfback George Blance of Texas — and two sophomores — Christian and halfback Glynn Gregory of SMU — carried the youth trend over into the second team. Headrick barely lost a first-team berth to Horton.

There were no unanimous choices, but Koenig and Floyd each polled 70 of a possible 75 points and Spikes got 69, Tracey 67, Lasater 65, Dial 64 and Meredith 63.

Tracey, Smith, Meredith, Lasater and Spikes were mentioned on all 15 possible ballots.

The close voting expected between Meredith, Texas A&M's Charlie Milstead and Baylor's Buddy Humphrey at quarterback and between Spikes and Hickman at fullback failed to develop.

Meredith and Spikes won hands down although Milstead has been the nation's No. 1 man in total offense and Humphrey and Hickman have been leading the conference in passing and rushing, respectively.

Win Easily

Meredith's selection was even more of an honor because he missed two games completely and all but three plays of another because of injuries. He is pushing Milstead for total offense honors despite having played nearly three less games.

Mooty was the slender speedster whose return to the Arkansas squad after a two-week voluntary abandonment of football turned the Razorbacks from a meek loser into a potent force in its final games.

Lasater and Spikes were the bread-and-butter boys of TCU's solid ground game and Spikes has chewed up just about as much yardage as the pace-setting Hickman.

TURKEY DAY GAMES

Texas Tops A&M; Pittsburgh Upset

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press International

Rutgers bowed gracefully out of the post-season football bowl picture today and Pittsburgh was rudely bounced out as the hour for filling the last remaining bowl berths drew rapidly nearer.

Pittsburgh, a Gator Bowl hopeful, became the main casualty of the Thanksgiving Day holiday when it blew a 14-0 halftime lead and lost to old rival Penn State, 25-21. The defeat scratched the Panthers from the list of teams being considered by the Gator Bowl committee at a special meeting today.

Texas, impressive 27-0 victor over Texas A&M in the holiday's nationally-televised game, was on that list—along with Mississippi, Florida, Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, South Carolina, and Alabama.

Rutgers, with a perfect record against college foes this year, withdrew from bowl consideration by notifying the Blue Grass Bowl (at Louisville, Ky., Dec. 13) it does not wish to play a post-season game.

Cotton, Sugar Bowls Open

In addition to the Gator and Blue Grass berths, other choice spots still open include the visiting team vs. Texas Christian in the Cotton Bowl and the rival for Louisiana State in the Sugar Bowl.

The Air Force Academy could very well be the Cotton Bowl team, if it can complete an unbeaten season by making good as seven-point favorite over Colorado on Saturday.

SMU, a one-point underdog against Texas Christian Saturday, is a leading candidate for the Sugar Bowl spot along with Mississippi and Clemson.

Georgia Tech, included on the Gator Bowl list, is only even money against Georgia in their "old rivalry" game on Saturday. Other feature games of the last big Saturday of the season find Auburn picked by 7 over Alabama, Houston 7 over Texas Tech, Vanderbilt 7 over Tennessee, Notre Dame 10 over Southern California, Arizona State 14 over Marquette, Florida 14 over Miami (Fla.), Oklahoma 19 over Oklahoma State and, Rice 4 over Baylor.

School Politics

Are our government schools engaged in politics?

The answer should be self-evident. Of course they are. This fact continues to shock many Americans who hold to the myth that our government schools are hallowed institutions far removed from the hurly burly of elections, taxation, force and violence.

To assist in establishing the fact of government politics in schools we are listing below a series of questions asked of a group of high school teachers a few years ago. These questions were given by a "progressive" educator, and he marked the questions with the desired answer after the returns were in. How the results were employed is a matter of conjecture. The answer after each question is the one the professor recommended. The figure following the prescribed answer is the precentage of teachers taking the test who agreed with the professor's "progressive" position.

1. Capitalism is immoral because it exploits the worker by failing to give him the full value of his productive labor. TRUE. 40.

2. A classroom teacher should make every effort to prevent his pupils from discovering his position on controversial issues. FALSE. 62.

20. No government has a right to experiment with different social problems. FALSE. 83.

This is only a sampling. The answers recommended in each case are the answers of Karl Marx and the communist-socialist conspirators.

We can only ask: Why was such a test given to high school teachers at all? Why is the recommended answer in each case, right out of the communist manifesto? If politics has no place in the school, how can this test be explained?

Reds After Santa

In case no one has noticed it, the Christmas season is fast approaching. Traditionally, the season is celebrated by extending gifts to family members and friends. This pleasant custom has been observed for years by many business firms as well, who take time off from the pressures of profit-making to bestow seasonal remembrances on customers and employes in the form of turkeys, desk sets, Zippo lighters, and sometimes even cash bonuses.

Alas, this Yuletide corporate generosity soon may be only one of the sadsweet memories of the Spirit of Christmas Past. Disturbing reports from tax analysts and other inside dopesters who make a living peddling the latest Word from Washington have it that Uncle Sam, like Old Scrooge, considers the Christmas spirit nothing but humbug.

Treasury agents, it appears, are attacking corporate giving where it hurts: in its status as a tax deductible item. In these days of the 52 per cent corporation income tax, few items that can't be deducted for tax purposes are going to be spent for any purpose — even for so worthy a cause as acting as Santa Claus' helper.

According to one business newsletter, firms that give Christmas presents to employes are especially vulnerable. Say an Internal Revenue Agent disallows the deduction of turkeys as gifts. The boss then is likely to argue: well, if they're not gifts they're certainly additional compensation. At this point the agent agrees and slaps a penalty on the boss for failing to deduct a withholding tax on the birds. A fowl way, certainly, to trap the Spirit of Christmas Present.

Gifts to customers are frowned on, too. Such presents, it is held, aren't really an expression of good will at the Holy season; they're "kickbacks," and kickbacks are forbidden under the Federal Trade Commission Act. There's a hopeful loophole here, however: if the giver notifies the recipient's employer, all may be forgiven. Apparently a lot of purchasing agents are going to have to open those fancy decanters and share the contents with the boss this year.

Not so lucky are elevator operators, porters and building employes, who have been accustomed to expect a tidy sum in Christmas emoluments from the building tenants. Under Uncle Sam's anti-St. Nicholas policy, such gifts aren't tax deductible unless it can be proved the recipient has rendered specific and extra services.

A lot of folks, it appears, aren't even going to get their two front teeth for Christmas this year. As for the generous boss who tries to circumvent the rules, he's likely to get a kick in his.

The Cracker Barrel

Has it ever occurred to you that Khrushchev may be serious — deadly serious — when he says he wants to ban nuclear arms? If the world turns back to conventional weapons, the Commies can overrun the world by sheer and brutal weight of expendable manpower. But, as long as he has to strive for superiority in scientific fields, he's forced to permit more and more of his subjects the dangerous luxury of reasoning. Those who learn to think in scientific fields will inevitably apply logic to other matters and will be intellectually reluctant to serve as cannon fodder. Reason in Russia could eventually mean the end of the police state. And I believe Khrushchev knows it.

"Have Republican Party Leaders Abandoned The Republic?"

The "Economic Council Letter" has an interesting article in it under the above heading. In this Oct. 15 bulletin the National Economic Council wrote, contending that the Republicans, at that late date, could not do very much to change the trend. They predicted a downfall and said the Republicans "have permitted their Party to fall largely for the same Marxist philosophy that has long dominated the Democratic Party."

Then in the Nov. 15 letter, they continued their explanation in this manner:

"The Republican Party was named after the Republic — that Republic which still is mentioned in the Salute to the Flag. But in recent years, and particularly the past two, the Party has been lured into almost complete abandonment of the principles of the Republic— namely the separation of powers, the rights of the individual and the sovereignty of the States, subject only to the powers ceded to the Federal Government as set forth in the Constituion. Because there was really no issue between the two Parties, a majority of the roughly 100 million American voters remained away from the polls. Many who went to the polls failed to vote for either candidate for important positions such as Governor or United States Senator.

"American history, including the history of the last fifty years, is replete with illustrations that nothing endears a public man more to the people than courage — just plain ordinary guts, in standing by principle.

"The telegram that Governor Calvin Coolidge sent to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in the Boston police strike of 1920: 'No one has a right to strike against the public safety anywhere any time' made Coolidge President of the United States. He never would have been thought of for nomination on the ticket with Warren G. Harding in 1920, had it not been for that telegram. Because Senator Robert A. Taft had sponsored the Taft-Hartley Act, he had to fight hard for re-election in 1950. Both the CIO and the AFL opposed him with everything they had. Yet he won by one of the largest majorities any candidate in Ohio ever received.

"Congressman James E. Van Zandt of Pennsylvania, at the election following the enactment of the Taft-Hartley Act for which he had voted, was told by many advisers that he had no chance for re-election. But he campaigned vigorously, saying in substance, 'Sure, I voted for the Taft-Hartley Act, and here's why — one, two, three, four,' etc., and he got one of the largest majorities he ever received. And there are many other illustrations.

"Of course, this year some courageous hard-hitting men campaigning for Senator or Representative or Governor made gallant fights — and lost. That is partly because of the huge amounts of money poured into the campaigns by the labor bosses; partly because of mistakes made by those candidates in the recent past. For instance, Senator Knowland was beaten in part because in the Senate he seemed to consider himself, not as the Minority Leader of the Senate (the Congress being one of the three coordinate branches of the Federal Government) but rather as the personal representative of the President in the Senate. He compromised, too, on matters like civil rights.

"We ask again, was not the Republican Party defeated because it had so largely deserted the Republic?

"There were bright spots on both the Republican and Democratic sides — spots where intelligence and courage, coupled with hard work and patriotism paid off. One of the chief of these was in Arizona, where Senator Goldwater, in spite of every effort the union bosses could make won by a substantial majority. Senator Goldwater, incidentally, is likely to become a great rallying point in the Senate for genuine conservative Americans.

"Another was Congressman Wint Smith of the Sixth District of Kansas, who made his campaign on the Right-To-Work issue and won substantially. Incidentally, the Right-To-Work proposal, backed intelligently and with hard work by most of the business people and other good citizens of Kansas swept the State by 100,000.

"Striking success by an independent Democrat was achieved a physician, Dr. Dale Alford, in Arkansas, who, by a write-in campaign started one week before Election Day, beat the supposedly unbeatable and very good Congressman, Brooks Hays of Little Rock. Alford's platform was a protest against a compromise on Hays' part on the issue of civil rights — on integration. Alford secured more than 30,000 write-in votes — emphatically backing up the verdict of the voters of Arkansas some weeks before (to the discomfiture of much of the northern press), when they renominated Governor Faubus by a vote twice as great as the combined vote of two other candidates."

Gift Wrapped for Christmas

Robert Allen Reports:

Ike Talking Sternly About Congress Spending

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower is talking just as sternly about Congress as he is to agency heads about holding down government spending.

To congressional and other callers, the President is emphatically declaring he is ready and willing to "become the vetoingest President in history" to prevent more money being voted than will be proposed in the budget he submits in January.

In these discussions the President indicates he is firmly convinced vehhDe cmlyctar ieo netwai vinced the new heavily Democratic Congress will definitely try to exceed his spending limits.

So strongly does the President feel about this that at times he rises from his desk and strides back and forth while delcaring his determination to fight. On occasion, to stress a point, he pounds his left palm with his right fist.

One of these significant talks was with Senator Barry Goldwater, Ariz., among the few Republicans who was re-elected.

Goldwater urged meeting the Democrats squarely on the spending issue.

"I am going to exactly that," asserted the President. "If it's neccessary, I'm prepared to be the vetoingest President in history to stop radical spending. The threat of spending ourselves into disaster is second only to the Communist danger to world peace.

"I was sincere in my campaign statements that the 85th Congress was a radical spending Congress. I meant every word of that. And from the looks of things, the 86th Congress will be even worse. But I will meet every one of their excessive spending proposals head-on. I will veto them."

"You can count on me to do everything possible to make vetoes stick," answered Goldwater. "And you will have Democratic support on that, too."

"On foreign and dfeense policies I intend to be, as much as possible, a non-partisan President," stated the President. "But on domestic issues, particularly spending, I am going to be a straight-out partisan President, and maki no bones about it."

In his six years in office the President has vetoed around 115 bills, approximately two-thirds of them so-called "private" measures for individuals and concerns. Last summer he vetoed a major appropriation bill, and forced Congress to sharply reduce it.

NO TROUBLE — Commerce Secretary Lewis Strauss will be confirmed in that cabinet job by the new Congress. Senators Clinton Anderson (D., N.M.) and Albert Gore (D., Tenn.), of the Joint Atomic Committee, who clashed repeatedly with Strauss when he was head of the Atomic Energy Commission, are saying privately they have no intention to oppose his appointment as Commerce Secretary. Other Democratic leaders also are evincing no plans to block Strauss . . . Mrs. Eisenhower will make a return visit to the Arizona health and beauty ranch this winter, if teniative arrangements work out. The First Lady is telling friends she enjoyed her two-week stay last February very much, and is eagerly looking forward to going there again . . . Republican lame-duck Senator George Malone is not returning to Nevada. After ten years in Congress, he has decided to remain in Washington. Explains Malone, "We like it here, and I've had some interesting business offers. So we are staying on."

The Doctor Says:

Dr. Edwin P. Jordan

"In view of all the remarkable advances which have taken place in the treatment of disease, it may seem surprising that more progress has not been made in the control of the common cold. Indeed, people complain more about this failure than they do about any other disease which has remained unconquered.

"There are many reasons why ordinary colds are still with us.

"Most colds are caused by viruses which, while they are living organisms somewhat similar to bacteria or ordinary germs, are not affected by chemical and other preparations, such as the sulfa drugs or penicillin which are so helpful in many germ diseases.

"About all that the sulfas or penicillin can do for the common cold is to attack the germs which often follow an ordinary cold and which produce such complications as sinus trouble. Even here the results are not always satisfactory.

"Another reason why colds are not controlled better is because several different strains or kinds of viruses may be responsible for identical symptoms. If this is true, infection with one strain of cold virus may not leave any immunity or resistance to another.

"Consequently, when a number of viruses are floating around in the air a person could get one cold right after another.

"Because colds as a rule are not serious, people are much more careless with colds than other diseases. Few people go to bed at once as soon as the first signs of a cold appear. It is probably during this stage that colds are more infectious to others and the possibilities of spreading are therefore greatly increased.

"Also, people with colds do not always stay in bed until they have passed the infectious stage or until they have become entirely well. Not only may this infect others but it keeps the victim run-down for a long time.

"Crowding provides ideal conditions for the spread of the common cold. The infectious agent is coughed and sneezed into the air and floats around for a long time where it is breathed in by whoever is present. Crowded rooms, theaters, movies, all greatly increase the chances of spread of colds from one person to another."

The foregoing paragraphs constituted most of a column which I wrote in 1946. Unfortunately, it is still essentially accurate. To date we have neither good means of preventing the common cold, or of treating it with great success.

True, something has been learned beyond doubt in the past 12 years, but it still looks as though it will be some time before this pesky illness can be eliminated.

Looking Sideways

NEW YORK — CUFF NOTES: For a long time Vincent Lopez has been a top man in orchestra music, but his avocation is numerology and from time to time, and more often than not, he has forecast world events accurately . . One recent night this reporter was asked to a private explosion and the personality of the evening was Vincent, complete with a little game he wanted to play with the guests. . Each guest was to put down his or her birthdate, plus initials only, and then ask a question . .One unidentified person (Vince didn't call out his initials) asked: "When will World War III start and who will win it?" . . His answer: "World War III has been on for some time in a mild form, it will in the end be between the white and yellow races (not Russia, as such) and the yellow races will win. But, since to conquer is to destroy, it goes without saying that the yellow races will also destroy themselves in the process." . . No hedging, no shadow-boxing — straight out: that's his opinion. . It was my pleasant social task to escort an actress of beauty and considerable eminence to this affair . .For several weeks she and the producer of a soon-to-be-done play have been discussing her for the star role. . Final decision was to have been made on Nov. 15, last Saturday . . The actress had thought: "Well, they won't tell me Saturday, of course, and then comes Sunday, and maybe Monday they'll be busy so I ought to know by Tuesday." . . She wrote as a question to Vince: "Will I get the job I want very much and when?" . . His answer, also without giving out her initials at the party: "You will not know right away. You will know on Nov. 23 — and you will get it." . . Again no pussyfooting —straight out answer . . Walking her slowly the three blocks to her New York apartment we spoke of it and she said: "I never put much stock in numerology as a forecasting device or any other kind of device. But if, next Sunday, I do get that job as Lopez said, I'll believe in it the rest of my life." . . "What if you hear Friday or Saturday?" . ."Then I won't," she said. "He set his own trap. He said I would hear on Nov. 23. An exact date.'

At the same party, a young girl of beauty, wife of a friend of mine, sang . . She is Gloria Allen and her husband is Michael Brown, once of Newark, once a young man who made virtually a total young manhood of going to college . . He went for years and years, taking one degree after another until he had degrees the way a thermometer has them. . . His last: Ph. D. . So he is now Dr. Brown. . He has a fine professional business going in advising corporations and executives, he and his bride have a brand-new baby, and what does Dr. Michael Brown do on a Sunday night while Gloria sings?. . He stays home and tends the baby and planes down an enormous antique door he found in a dump heap, even though it is solid mahogany and is beautifully panelled. . He dragged it home, went out and got some Victorian brass legs and in a day or so, for almost no money, will have a gigantic coffee table you could not buy in the table market . . "People have said that our living room is a showpiece of interior decoration," said Brown. "The fact is I don't think we spent $125, total, on it. We made do. Like finding that magnificent door thrown out onto the dumps. People must be crazy or arrogant to throw something like that away. If I went to a furniture maker and said I wanted a coffee table of solid mahogany, two inches thick, eight feet long and four feet wide he'd charge me an arm and a leg. But the whole room has come together with ingenuity like the table .". . .Memo to the young and imaginative: comb the dumps, the reject shops, the bargain shops and use your brains. . For very little money you will have a living room your neighbors could not duplicate at 10 times the price. . . Think how many thousands of brass beds our grandmothers threw out and which, today, restored and polished, are $250 each in the Madison Avenue bazaars.

A lady telephoned the other day with the nicest voice and said: "You wrote a piece about my husband the other day" and I said, "Who is he?" She told me and I said, "No, I didn't, but I know who did." . . "Well, I thought it was you. Anyway, what is he doing buying diamond rings in Chicago for a chorus girl while I and our four children are two months behind in rent and are living on cereal and potatoes?" . .I said I could not answer that, but I knew a good way to stop him from doing it. . Attach his salary in Chicago, through a good lawyer, and bring Lover Boy up sharp . .She said: "I wouldn't want to humiliate him." . . Well, lady, then the best thing to do is go to Chicago and start competing . .That wouldn't humiliate him.

Energy Abounds, And Elevator Business Slow!

By HENRY McLEMORE

Energy is contagious.

That is one of the reasons why stopping at a resort hotel, like the Broadmoor here in Colorado Springs, has its dangerous side.

A good 90 per cent of the guests are energetic, some to the point where they scorn the elevators and walk up one, and even two flights to their rooms.

Many are up with the local birds, not in search of worms, but of more hours in which to burn staggering sums of kilowats of energy, vim and zip.

Mary was quickly swept up by the hustle and bustle of the glowing-cheeked crowd, and once a wife is swept up by anything, a wise husband will prepare to be swept up himself. It is inevitable.

She decided that we should get our exercise, not by running to the breakfast room each morning in order to get in before it closed, but by hiking.

"There are glorious trails for hiking here," she said enthusiastically. "They run up the mountains, and around the mountains, and they'll be so good for us. I talked with the nicest woman this morning, and she said she and her husband followed a mountain trail for thirteen miles yesterday, and had the grandest time. Carried their own lunch and had it on a ledge."

I didn't answer, but went on down to the drugstore and bought a can of foot powder, for I knew we were going to take a hike and that it wouldn't do any good to tell her that I walked 132,000 miles in the Army between 1942 and 1945, and was dead set against walking as a means of locomotion.

We set out the next morning when the sun still was rubbing the sleep from its eyes, each carrying a bundle. Mary had the lunch and I had Megan, who wears about 14 pounds of clothes and has a wobbly neck. Mary had insisted on bringing Megan.

"The little outing will do her worlds of good," she said.

I don't know whether you have ever carried a baby with a bobbly neck up a mountain trail, but I am here to tell you that it makes hiking an even more difficult task than it is already, and if Sir Edmund Hillary had had one along when he started up Everest, he never would have gotten to the timberline.

We climbed and stumbled and tripped and perspired for what seemed an eternity, and then I found a ledge.

"What a perfect spot for lunch," I gasped, sinking down on a rock that seemed as soft as a sofa pillow and laying Megan down on a fluffy, feathery patch of gravel and little boulders.

The ledge commanded a magnificent view. Without squinting my eyes I could see right into our room, and watch the maids making the beds. By turning my head a bit, I could watch the cooks busy in the main kitchen, preparing luncheon dishes. I knew that even if the worst came to the worst, I still could make it back to the hotel, even if I had to go on my hands and knees.

After we had eaten our sandwiches, Mary jumped to her feet and cried, "Up and upward!"

I cancelled that with a cry of, "Down and downward!"

Before she could stop us, Megan and I started limping toward the hotel. That is, I really limped, and Megan, in my arms, sort of limped in sympathy with her father.

We got down just in time. Five minutes later and the dining room would have been closed for lunch!

IT WASN'T A REVOLUTION
(N. Y. Daily News)

With whoops and hollers not quite loud enough to drown out the groans of prisoners in Russian jails and slave labor camps, the Kremlin Communists are celebrating the 41st anniversary of the 1917 Bolshevik "revolution."

We'd like to advise those who have forgotten or never have known that this was not a revolution as Americans understand the term — meaning a righteous upheaval of masses of oppressed people against a clique of tyrants.

Actually, it was a 100 per cent unlawful seizure of power, by a small bunch of bloodthirsty Reds under the leadership of Vladimir (or Nikolai) Lenin and Leon Trotzky, from the duly constituted and popularly supported democratic government headed by Alexander Kerensky.

Having seized power by terrorist methods, the Communists have used terrorism to rule Russia from that time to this — as shown by their current persecution of Nobel Prize novelist Boris Pasternak, for having dared to criticize Communism in his book "Doctor Zhivago."

Well, those who live by the sword usually die by it.

EATING OUR WAY OUT
(Swift Current (Sask., Can.)

One of the greatest points of confusion in the public's mind today is whether or not we are, in the foreseeable future, going to be able to "eat our way out" of our current agricultural surplus.

There are repeated statements made that our current over-abundance is only of a temporary nature and that the "explosion" which is taking place on our population will shortly overtake and even surpass our ability to feed and clothe ourselves. Because of these statements there is understandable conflict and confusion in the minds of the public and with farmers themselves.

This is indeed unfortunate because this matter of farm adjustment is perhaps our number one social problem of the day and about it we should think clearly and straight.

In thinking about it, we had best base our assumptions on the fact that our agricultural production evolution is still gathering momentum. One of the most thoughtful studies concluded on this subject states that "the annual surplus of production is likely to become more severe, continuous and apparently permanent, if no more effective measures are taken than at present."

In every major commodity group, yields will increase more than production needs by 1965. With no production controls and present prices, a 30 percent increase in food production by 1965 is well within the bounds of possibility.

Other studies, equally reliable, go on to point out the probability that the supply of farm products will out-distance demand up to 1967 at the very least.

The facts in the case are, of course, that farmers could, despite the remarkable record they have made, vastly increase their production over present levels. We are farming nowhere nearly as well or as intensively as we could if circumstances justified the need for additional production.
