VOL. 2, NO. 363. TEN PAGES WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, SATURDAY, AUGUST 13, 1921. FIVE CENTS EVERYWHERE

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. F.

Dallas is the home of the Hon. Charles A. Culberson. He has had a long and continuous office holding career. He began as prosecuting attorney of Marion conty. He moved from Jefferson to Dallas and became attorney general. This was in 1890. He served four years. Then he was elected governor and served four years. He aspired to a seat in the senate. He won. He has been a senator ever since. Now he is a candidate for re-election. His Dallas friends made the modest admission and volunteer the information that Senator Culberson's "health is better now than in many years." There is going to be a fierce campaign next year with the senatorship as the prize. Five years ago a number of democrats very close to Mr. Culberson advised him to retire to private life giving as a reason that his health had been shattered. He laughed at th suggstion, he ran second in the general primary and in the run off he defeated Oscar B. Colquitt. Will history repeat itself?

Foreign governments now owe the United States government on money loaned to them during the war 11 billion dollars principal and interest. Our government has a war debt of twice that amount and Secretary Mellon is forced to borrow money to meet obligations of this government. Senator LaFollette insist that foreign governments should be compelled to pay the interest on their loans and to make some provision or arrangements for the payment of the principal. There are hundreds of millions of dollars of long overdue interest. American taxpayers are being ground into the earth. America poured forth its billions and sent millions of men over sea to save the democracies of Europe from effacement by the sword of the kaiser. Now why shouldn't the administration demand the payment without delay of the interest on this huge sum of money? "Home first" will be a mighty fine slogan.

Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty will recommend to the president that a pardon be granted to Eugene B. Debs idol of the American socialists and convicted of violation of the espionage laws. Debs is a brilliant writer, an eloquent orator, sincere in his convictions and if he is to be pardoned then all the political convicts should be granted their freedom. Debs has a powerful personal following. There are more than a million socialists in America and now that the war is over there are millions of Americans who would be glad to see Debs given his freedom. But they draw the line on the Industrial Workers of the World of the Haywood type who were defiant traitors to their country in the darkest hour in the history of the world. Debs is an humitarian, he would go to the stake for his ideals, he has been an inmate of a prison cell for a long time, he is aged and broken in health and if shown executive clemency it would not be a miscarriage of justice.

According to London advices King George is sorely in need of ready cash. According to Berlin advices former Emperor William of Germany but now of Holland is sorely in need of ready cash. There are hundreds of millions of men the world over worth more to socty and civilization than either king or kaiser who find themselves in the same predicament. King George might surrender a castle or two and the former kaiser dismiss his retinue of nobles and militarists and parasites. To quote from the vocabulary of the Hon. Pat Morris Neff they should "cut to the bone."

Dr. Guy O. Shirey of Fort Worth has tendered his resignation as commander of the American Legion of Texas. He was largely instrumental in securing the appropriation of $1,500,000 for the sanatorium at Kerrville and before the lawmakers acted he assisted in raising a fund of thousands of dollars for the establishment of this home for former service men afflicted with tuberculosis. Doctor Shirey is a young Texan who was in Turkey when the world war began. He escaped from Turkey to France and returned to America. He was one of the first Americans to recross the Atlantic, having been commissioned a first lieutenant by James E. Ferguson, then the governor of the state. Shirey distinguished himself in many battles in France and Flanders and was personally congratulated by a distinguished American general for his bravery under fire and his meritorious services to his country and to the cause of liberty. Now that the legislature has authorized the leasing to the federal government the Kerrville sanitorium, Shirey has retired but former service men should remember him with gratitude for the work that he has done to provide a place for victims of the white scourge who contracted the dreaded disease while in the service of their country.

Governor Neff signed the judiciary appropriation bill without having made any change in it. This bill carries a total of $2,953,785 for the two years. Justice comes high and law enforcement is a costly job. Jones is a law abiding citizen, he must be given protection, so he pays the freight.

Governor G. Z. Miller of the Federal Reserve bank of Kansas City is quoted as having said that the bankers cattle loan pool is a very gratifying success. He has been told that live stock men are beginning to avail themselves of this credit scheme and the industry is reapn gadvantages in consequence. This pool has been in operation about a month. It has fifty million dollars on hand, it makes thirty months loans on live stock paper, through local banks in live stock producing sections and the Kansas City banker advises that everything is "lovely." He should journey to the southwest and interview the cattlemen who need loans to tide them over. Then he will sing another song and tell another story to the representatives of the press.

APPROPRIATION BILL PASSED BY STATE SENATE

Pope Amendment Accepted in Adopting Free Conference Report; Other Amendments Lose.

House Yet to Act on Report of Conference Committee; Educational Bill Goes to Conference.

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 12.—The senate late today adopted the free conference report on the eleemosynary institutions appropriation bill. The Pope amendment to the bill, over which the senate committee refused to confer with the first have committee, was left on the bill. This amendment provides that all funds shall be expended only as appropriated in the bill.

However, the Fly amendment to the bill providing that all moneys received by these institutions for work or other resources shall be turned into the state treasury and paid out by appropriation was eliminated from the bill. Also a contingent fund of approximately $600,000 for the next two years was placed in the bill which shall be used for emergencies by the heads of the eleemosynary institutions with consent of the board of control. The house has not acted on the free conference report.

The free conference committees to work out an agreement on the educational appropriation bill was appointed in both branches today. The senate committee is composed of Senators Dudley, Wood, Darwin, Woods and Baugh; the house committee of Representatives Satterwhite, Curtis, Williams of McLennan, Westbrook and Stephens.

Consideration of the departmental appropriation bill was resumed in the house after most of the morning had been devoted to passing local bilies. An amendment by Beasley of Hopkins cutting salaries in the secretary of state's office was defeated. However, $2500 for the next two years was sliced off in reducing expenses of running the department.

The appropriation of $280,000 for each of the next two years for reorganization of the national guard was cut to $160,000 each year in the budget for the adjutant general's department.

The house also reduced the ranger force from seventy-five members to fifty members when an amendment by Brady of Galveston was adopted. Quaid of El Paso offered one reducing it to twenty-five members but it was defeated. The Brady amendment also reduced the appropriation for maintenance of the ranger force $38,086 for each of the next two years. Another amendment by Brady reducing the budgets for transportation, ammunition and other necessities for the force was adopted by vote of 59 to 56. The total cut of the last amendment was $4,050 for each of the next two years.

When the Quaid amendment came up for consideration Representative Jones of ValVerde urged its adoption charging that the rangers stationed in his section of the state were "jelly beans" and not real law enforcing officers. He further charged that there was one man on the force who had been indicted for selling liquor.

Representative Lackey of DeWitt in defending the rangers cited reports from the adjutant general's office that this man had remained on the force only 38 days. Representatives Brady and Duffy, ex-rangers also defended the rangers and opposed the reductions. Thompson, of Red River praised the work of the rangers in stopping the dynamiting of dipping vats in his county.

In submitting his amendment Representative Brady said that he did it solely because of consistency of policy and that he held no animosity or grudge against the ranger force.

The optometry bill regulating the practice of optometry was reported favorably by the house committee on public health. It was passed finally by the senate today.

The senate also adopted the free conference report on the senatorial redistricting bill. The house conferees agreed to accept the senate amendments to the bill.

Opinions of the necessity of a second called session were less prevalent among the legislators today after the free conference committees found little trouble in coming to a compromise.

OFFICERS BATTLE WITH HOBO HORDE AS TRAIN PULLS INTO EL PASO; CAPTURE FIFTY MEN

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 12.—Police, deputy sheriffs and provost guards battled with a crowd of 75 illegal train riders about five miles from here this morning after the men had refused to get off the train which was pulling into the city.

The conductor dropped off the train at Lanark, New Mexico, and wired the chief dispatcher that the men had refused to get off.

All available officers in El Paso went in automobiles to meet the train. Just before it pulled into the city limits, the illegal train riders saw the officers approaching and fled into the hills, some of them firing as the officers approached.

Seeking covers, the officers took up the fire. Fifty men were captured. The men were from the west coast, they told the police.

COLMA PRIEST IS CHAINED BY TORTURER WHO CALMLY WAITS GENERATION OF POISON GAS

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Aug. 12.—William Hightower, stoutly resisted today all efforts of the police to connect him with the murder of Rev. Patrick Heslin, Colma priest, and after two days questioning still maintained he had no knowledge of the crime. He was arrested after he had led a group of policemen and newspapermen to the priest's grave on the seashore Wednesday night.

Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson, Assistant District Attorney Isidore Golden of San Francisco and District Attorney Farnklin Swart of San Mateo county said tonight that they were "nearer a solution of the crime than ever before."

The original anonymous letter received at St. Mary's Cathedral here, demanding six thousand five hundred dollars ransom for Father Patrick E. Heslin, and turned over to the police August 5, read as follows:

"August 3rd.

"Act with caution for I have Father Heslin of Colma in bootleg cellar. A lighted candle will be left when I leave, and at bottom of candle are all chemicals necessary to generate enough poison gas to kill a dozen men and as he is fastened down with chains, you will see that he is a very bad way, and if I am arrested or bothered in any way I will leave him just where he is and in two hours from the time I leave him he will be dead for the candle will not burn more than an hour and a half after I leave him, for I cut it at that length.

"If the door is opened to this cellar by anyone except myself it will ignite a bunch of matches and upset a can of gasoline on top of him and the entire police force and your damn Knights would not be able to get the chains off of him before he would burn to death, so the best bet is for you to get the sixty-five hundred dollars in fives, tens, twenties, fifties and hundreds, but none higher than hundred and be sure there is no marks on them for if any thing arouses my suspicion I will leave him to die right where he is. I had charge of a machine gun in the Argonne and poured thousands of bullets into struggling men, and killing men is no novelty to me. Beside it would be your own bunch that will kill him if you do not do just as you are told.

"Get the sixty-five hundred in unmarked bills, wrap in package and seal it for the two men who will handle it before it gets to me. Think that it is dope, so don't leave it unsealed or it might not reach me after you had sent it.

"Have car ready with spotlight and you will get instructions what road to take and you will turn the spotlight upward and drive slowly until you see white strip across road, then stop and get the money, leave car follow the string that is attached to white strip until you come to the end of the string. Then put down package and go back to town and remember brother does not get out until I have the money and am in the clear, and he is complaining about the pain when he is not gagged so he cannot make complaint. Better have a doctor ready with you and be at the house where he lived and wait the messenger with the instructions what road to take. Remember just one man in the car and he had better be careful for if he looks suspicious he will be tagged with a hand grenade as have six of them ready for any treachery and the waiting man will not be seen at all and he will not see the man to whom he passes the package and second man gives it to me but remember if the cops are notified or any move made that will be dangerous to me I will not send you the instructions how to find him and release him, besides if this becomes public it will be seen how easy it is to trap your bunch of imposters and others will go and do likewise. 'Nuf said,' it's up to you.

"You will get the message about 9 o'clock, perhaps tonight.

"Had to hit him four times and he is unconscious from pressure on the brain so better hurry and no fooling.

"Tonight at 9 o'clock."

The August 3rd at the top of the letter was written with pen and ink, as was the "of Colma" in the first sentence. The praise "had to hit him four times" and "he is unconscious from pressure on the brain so better hurry and no fooling, tonight at 9 o'clock," was also written with ink. The remainder of the letter was typewritten, single spaced with three spaces between the first, second paragraphs and none between the fourth and fifth.

The envelope in which it was received at the Cathedral was mailed special delivery, received at San Francisco at 10 a. m., August 3, and went through the postoffice substation at the ferry building. The letter was addressed to "St. Mary's Cathedral, city."

ANTI-CHILDREN WAR STARTED BY LANDLORDS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—Heralded as a unique crusader, Mrs. Ferr Isabel Croly, an attractive young war widow, has started what she hopes will ultimately become a nation-wide campaign to force landlords to drop a hostile anti-children attitude.

Claiming to have been denied admittance to practically every apartment house in Los Angeles because of her beautiful daughters—Dorothy, aged 7 and Irene, aged 9—Mrs Croly has entered upon what she terms a "war widows' fight."

"I gave my husband for the good of the world. Now the landlords refuse admittance to me because of my two children, whose father died fighting to secure peace and comfort for these very landlords," declared Mrs. Croly.

NAME HUGHES DELEGATE ON DISARMAMENT

President Kills Belief That He May Emulate Wilson in Attending Proposed Conference.

Harding Expects to Sit in Role of Poincaire, Who Remained Silent During Treaty Meeting.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Any expectation that President Harding will himself act as a delegate to the disarmament conference was overthrown today by a white house announcement that he had definitely designated Secretary Hughes of the state department to head the American delegation.

It was said that other members were yet to be chosen, although the president is known to have narrowed considerably the list of those he considers available and may reach the point of other definite selections in the very near future. He is understood to have decided that at least one of the places shall go to a United States senator and the choice of a woman as a member of the delegation still is within the range of possibility.

The exact role to be played by the president never has been officially defined but the general expectation is that after delivering the opening address of the conference on November 11, he will remain in the background of the negotiations, leaving direct contact with the foreign commissioners to his accredited representatives, but at the same time keeping in close touch with them and with all the proceedings of the conference.

By this course Mr. Harding will be in a position similar to that of President Poincaire of France when he opened the Versailles conference and then retired from actual participation in the proceedings. President Harding's close advisers are said to feel that by keeping away from details of the disarmament discussions he can reserve his efforts for the more important features and be so placed as to act as mediator for all the delegates in any disagreement that might threaten the success of the conference.

Not only has the president placed Mr. Hughes at the head of the American delegates, but he has turned over to the state department the task of celaring away all the details remaining to be disposed of before the conference meets. It is understood that the chief executive intends to supervise only the more important moves and has encouraged the department to work out lesser problems on its own responsibility.

STRONG HOPE FOR BETTER PRICES HELD

Recent Reductions in Export Grain Expected To Be Followed By Cut in Rates From Chicago.

Decreased Charges Contemplated to Mean Growers Will Get Better Price for Products.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Strong hope for better prices in the agricultural markets is justified by reductions in the railroad rates on grain for export, already in effect and proposed, according to a statement issued at the White House tonight.

Recent reductions in the export rate on grain between Chicago and New York, the statement said, will be followed by sweeping revisions of grain rates generally, including those from Mississippi river points and on the lines to the gulf, in order that the entire agricultural interest may share fully in the benefits.

"In general," the statement continued, "advances in freight costs are passed onto the consumer by adding them to the selling price. But in grans, whose domestic price is dominated by the foreign price of the exported surplus, the producer suffers when rates go up and benefits when they go down. Therefore, though the exports represent a minor share of the total grain production, the lowering of export rates affects the entire crop. These reductions of rates, together with the arrangements for financial assistance to export trade and the assurance that Europe is going to need extraordinary quantities of American foodstuffs, constitute altogether a justification for strong hope that the tendency in the agricultural markets will for some time be decidedly toward better prices."

Reductions of transportation rates on grain for export was described as "one of the most important measures the administration has initiated for the relief of agriculture and general industrial conditions." The reductions, it was explained, were insisted upon by Secretary Hoover as a concession to the agricultural interests, when on behalf of President Harding, he negotiated with the carriers the basis for settlement of their claims against the government, growing out of federal control.

"This was made on the basis of the readjustment," the statement continued, "the railroads relinquishing their so-called 'labor inefficiency' claims and undertake to inaugurate reductions in the export grain rates, while the administration undertook to assist them by securing early settlement of their claims against the government."

Moreover, the statement declared, it was discovered under the old conditions that the Canadian railways and ports were getting the lion's share of the grain movement to Europe, including quantities of American grain.

"To meet this condition," it said, "and insure that the American producer would not only get his full share of the sales, in foreign markets, but would also get the highest possible price, a movement for reducing export rates was inaugurated by the administration."

SUMMON DEPUTY TO TESTIFY IN MURDER HEARING

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 12—J. B. Fox, a deputy sheriff of Los Angeles county, was summoned to return today from Arizona where he was investigating a case. He was met by automobile, taken at once to the county jail and began a long talk with Mrs. Madelynne Obenchain, who with Arthur C. Burch, was indicted yesterday charged with murder here a week ago tonight of J. B. Kennedy.

Other deputies working on the Kennedy case said that Fox had been called because Mrs. Obenchain had said she would talk freely if she could talk to him. Earlier in the day she told interviewers that she could tell a story that would restore her freedom but said, "it would not be fair to a person in whose innocence I believe."

She declined to say whether she referred to Burch.

Other developments today were few. The stock of a double barreled shotgun found in the ocean near Santa Monica canyon and turned over to the sheriff and experts will be called to inspect it.

SETTLEMENT OF UPPER SILESIA IS POSTPONED

Inter-Allied Council Asks League of Nations To Assist In Handing Down Decision.

Germany and Poland Cautioned To Remain Quiet Pending Final Settlement of Issue.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The disposition of the rich regions of Upper Silesia, which has disturbed the peace of mind of Europe since the signing of the treaty of Versailles, is postponed for several months by the action of the inter-allied supreme council today in requesting the council of the League of Nations to study the subject and advise upon the fixing of a line separating Germany and Poland.

The text of the resolution asking the council of the league to aid in settling the question was drawn so as to avoid the appearance of arbitration, which is not provided for in the treaty of Versailles. The resolution follows:

"The supreme council before rendering its decision upon the Upper Silesia frontier between Germany and Poland conformable with article 88 of the treaty of Bersailles, decides pursuant to article 11, paragraph 2 of the convenant of the League of Nations to submit to the cuncil of the League of Nations to the difficulties attending the fixing of the frontier and to invite the recommendation of the council as to the line that the principal allied and associated powers should lay down.

"The council of the League of Nations is requested to regard the matter as one of great urgency, in view of the situation in Upper Silesia."

The resolution was so drawn that the council of the league may not decide the question at issue, but David Lloyd George and Arisitide Briand, respectively, the British and French premiers, pledged themselves in the supreme council meeting today to accept the advice of the League of Nations. It was remarked informally in the supreme council that the council of the league could hardly make any recommendation in less than three or four months.

In another resolution Germany and Poland were admonished by the supreme council to remain quiet pending a settlement of the issue.

SPANISH CAVALRY COVERED RETREAT OF FLEEING ARMY

By Associated Press.

MADRID, Aug. 12.—Gallant action by calvary under Colonel Primo-Rivera in protecting the retreat of a column of 400 men is described in La Libertad.

The column was pressed by the enemy. The calvary was ordered to charge and scattered the assailants, killing many of them and enabling the column to retreat. The rebels, however, again attacked and the calvary again charged. The battle field was covered with the dead and dying of both sides, but the enemy was driven back. The Spanish troops then entered a narrow pass, where other rebels awaited them on the heights.

They expected the order to retreat, but instead came the order to charge a third time. Shouting "viva Espana" the cavalry again attacked, sacrificing themselves to save the column. None of the men hesitated and when the third charge was finished, few of them remained.

Colonel Primo-Rivera, by word and deed encouraged him men, and even ordered a fourth charge. The brave survivors spurred their horses against their enemy but the animals were so fatigued that they reached the rebel ranks at a walk. Here both men and horses were exterminated.

MAKE EFFORT TO PREVENT HALT IN WORK

A special called meeting of the county commissioner's court to provide means to prevent the shutting down of county road improvement work will be held this morning at the commissioner's room.

The main purposes of the meeting is to expedite the handling of the bonds from the $1,500,000 road issue the county being in immediate need of money from the bonds to prevent the closing down of the road work.

Five hundred more of the bonds were received Friday from the engravers at Galveston and the final five hundred will be received the first of the week. Both Judge J. P. Jones of the county court, and W. T. Harris, county clerk, the only county officials who sign the bonds are out of the city, although it is expected that the former will return here Monday.

It is expected that an official will be appointed to take the remaining 1,000 bonds to Mr. Harris who is at Colorado Springs on a vacation where he will sign them. County officials stated Friday that they feared a serious delay should they attempt to send the bonds through the mails to Mr. Harris.

According to plans Friday the bonds will be handled by a county official until they are placed in the hands of the purchasers at St. Louis. After being properly signed by county officials they will be taken to Austin for signature by the attorney general and from there to St. Louis. Construction work on the county roads will have to be closed down unless the entire 1,500 bonds can be delivered to the purchasers within a week. Special arrangements to carry on the work for that period of time were completed Friday.

DIVIDEND OF OIL COMPANY IS ANNOUNCED

Announcement of the payment of a 5 percent dividend on $1,000,000 capital stock was made Friday from the local offices of the Sioux Oil and Refining company. The sending out of the dividend checks from the local office was completed Friday.

According to information from local officials the affairs of the company are now in better shape than at any time since its organization a little less than two years ago.

The company primarily owned by stockholders living in Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska was organized in October 1919. The first property purchased by the company was in block 818 of the famous George tract of the northwest field Burkburnett district. The first test drilled was dry but subsequently five wells were drilled all of which are still producing.

Since developing that lease the company has purchased other oil properties in this and other states. One lease in the Breckenridge field has seven flowing wells at the present time. No other properties have production.

At a meeting of the stockholders last month the authorized capitalization was raised from $1,200,000 to $3,000,000. The company expects to greatly increase its activities in this and other sections in the near future.

REPORTER IS NEW "BOSS" OF PERSIA

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Nicholas Rothstein, one time London newspaperman, is the new "boss" of Persia, according to information received here.

Sent to Teheran on a special mission by the soviet government, Rothstein gradually worked his way into the good graces of the fat boy Shah and his ministers, made a distinct hit with the Persian people and now possesses such political power that he is planning to set up a bolshevik ministry.

Rothstein was a British subject. Before the war he was noted for his radical writings, and he frequently said things that greatly displeased the British government. But he was so keen and wide awake that when the war broke out he was placed in one of the intelligence branches of the war office, where he gained an insight into governmental activities.

When Lenine and Trotzky seized the reins of power the former newspaper man became an avowed bolshevist. After the Litvinoff mission was expelled from England he played the part of unofficial soviet ambassador and was the connecting link between the Moscow government and English Communists.

His propagandist activities led the British government to revoke his naturalization papers, and he was about to be deported when the Krassin mission reached London. Rothstein quickly attached himself to the mission and thus obtained immunity. He returned to Russia, with Krassin, aboard a British destroyer, but it was alleged that he attempted to convert British sailors to the bolshevik cause, and the government refused to permit him to return.

Lenine placed Rothstein in the foreign office at Moscow. According to word received here, he asked to be sent to Teheran, arguing that his special knowledge of British affairs in Persia peculiarly fitted him for the task of wiping out British influence at the Shah's capital and converting the country to bolshevism.

Arriving at Teheran, he speedily won favor with the Shah and his court by showering them with costly presents and all kinds of attentions. He made a great hit with the people by inviting them to make themselves at home in the beautiful gardens of the Russian embassy.

Within a few weeks Rothstein had organized a propaganda service and was dictating policies of Persian newspapers.

DEPUTIES GET NEGRO CONVICT AFTER CHASE

Special to the Record News.

ELECTRA, Aug. 12.—Knocked down by a charge of No. 6 shot from a shotgun after he had led Deputies from Frederick, Okla., on a twenty-mile chase across Red river and offered fight from a corn field eight miles north of here, E. A. Foster, 35, escaped negro convict, was captured early this afternoon by C. E. Selt and C. N. Wills, deputies under the Frederick sheriff.

The negro escaped early Friday morning from a gang of convicts being worked on a county road, about twelve miles north of the state line. Several shots were reported to have been exchanged between officers and the negro during the pursuit.

According to information gained here the negro attempted to secrete himself in the corn field and ambush the pursuing officers. Several shots were exchanged before the negro was struck by bullets, fired by Deputy Sheriff Wills. One shot landed in the left eye of the negro and his left arm and side was thickly peppered with bullet wounds. His condition is not considered serious.

The officers expect to remove the negro to Wichita Falls some time tonight. He is said to be wanted in Oklahoma on a federal charge.

PASTOR'S WAIF GIVEN MOTHER BY DEVINE'S WEDDING

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Society was agog today following the report that the baby waif found on his doorstep and adopted by the Rev. Dr. Percey Stickney Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension, was going to have a mother.

Mrs. Phillip M. Lydic, beautiful and brilliant, twice divorced young society woman, has announced her engagement to the famous pastor who is 61 years old.

Two marriages that were of nation-wide interest were those in New York of Miss Rita Hernandez d'Alba d'Acosta to William E. Dodge Stokes and of Mrs. Rita Stokes to Phimp Mesier Lydig. There was a lapse of something like seven years between the marriages and the bride was the same in each.

Miss d'Acosta and Mr. Stokes were married at the bride's New York home by Archbishop Corrigan, January 3, 1895. A year later a son was born. Three years later there was a separation and May 2, 1900, Judge Bishcof granted a decree of divorce.

Mrs. Stokes was married to Philip Mesier Lydig, member of an old New York family, February 5, 1902, in the chantry of the Grace church. The second marriage came as a complete surprise to all except a few intimate friends.

Sine her second marriage, Mrs. Lydig, because of her beauty and youthful vivacity, has had an imoprtant place in Newport society. She has been termed an "international beauty," because her portraits have graced the exhibitions of great painters on both sides of the Atlantic. She was proclaimed by the artist, Paul Helleau, the nearest perfectly beautiful woman in the world. He said she had thirty-nine of the forty cardinal points of beauty.

As rector of the Church of the Ascension the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant has enjoyed for years a reputation as one of America's foremost clergymen.

SPARING ROD HAS SPOILED OUR CHILDREN

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Sparing the rod has spoiled the American boy. That is the solemn conclusion of a good many persons who have had unfortunate experiences with our young hopefuls.

An Englishman once wrote a book on "The American Boy." He published it in 1870, and it is curious to observe that the harsh things he said about the little tyrant in the American home are being repeated almost to the letter by critics of the boy of the present day. He is noisy, irreverent, wilful, undisciplined. The English writer attributed these dire things to the same cause—absence of a birch behind the door.

"There is just one kind of misciplline that does work," said Judge Alfred J. Talley of the court of general sessions in discussing a speech he delivered recently wherein he analyzed the causes of youthful crime, "and that is corporal punishment. Lax parents make boy criminals and it is a general truth that modern American children are not brought up with the proper respect for parents, law and order or constituted authority. The parents are to blame.

Stands By Speech.

"What I said in my speech was strictly impromptu, although the idea previously had occurred to me to give my views on this subject. I stand by all that I said, however. If the stern discipline our forefathers enforced were restored to the American home, it would kill a great deal of crime at the source.

"Whatever a boy does, provided he escapes the police, may be censured at home, but he is not punished for it. 'Moral suasion' has taken the place of a whipping. What does he care about moral suasion? He would care a good deal about a sound thrashing.

"It is one thing to encourage a good understanding between the boy and his father and quite another thing for the father to give up all authority over his son at an early age. It's just the difference between liberty and license. My experience in the criminal courts of New York has made this difference very plain to me, and I feel strongly on this as being a great American failing.

Must Begin Early.

"If a boy isn't taught to obey at home before he is 6 years old he will never learn obedience to law and order in after life, and without this ingrained knowledge he is weak before temptation.

Every day I see the results of this wrong way of bringing up children. Youths under 21 are brought before me on criminal charges who feel toward the law like hardened criminals. They began by doing what they liked at home and defying their parents. At 14 they tell their parents they are not going to school any more and they don't go. They become loungers on street corners, mingling with older boys who are already on the way to becoming criminals. And the fathers say they cannot do anything to prevent this association.

"In a couple of years these youths have fallen foul of law and order; perhaps they appear as prisoners in the children's court, where in the lighter cases they are remanded to the father's care. But it is too late; he cannot do anything with his wayward boy because he abrogated his authority several years earlier.

Applicable to Girls, Too.

"I speak of the boy, but with some diffences the same essential things could be said of the girl. She, too, needs discipline and does not get it at home or at school.

The weakly, indulgent mother buys her the kind of clothes she demands in order to look like "other girls" and the weakly, indulgent mother can't keep her from bad company even if she tries. It is because the girl, no less than the boy, started early to give orders to her mother.

Parenthood, its responsibilities as well as its pleasures, is very badly understood in this country, say other critics besides Judge Talley. A social worker of long experience in the East Side of New York said that she fully agreed with all he said.

"It is a pretty hard lesson sometimes for these young East Siders to learn, especially if they wait to learn it behind prison bars. I agree with Judge Talley. The more I see of children the more I accept the rod as the proper pointer toward the right."

CRITICISE SHIP BOARD FOR HUGE EXPENSE TOTAL

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Criticism in the house today by both republicans and democrats of the salaries paid by the shipping board culminated in the adoption of an amendment to the bill carrying $48,500,000 for expenses of the board until January 1, next, that not more than three officials shall receive more than $12,500 a year. The amendment was offered by Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee after the house had voted down an amendment by representative Hardy, democrat, Texas, to make the $12,500 limit apply to all but two officials.

A final vote on the bill is the first order of business tomorrow.

CHICKENS MINGLE WITH PIGEONS ON STRANGE SPREE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—Many are the trials and tribulations of prohibition as enforced in Southern California.

But the residents of a fashionable Los Angeles district that was recently "raided" by federal authorities believe they have a new brand of prohibition grievance.

When the officers charged upon the foes of Amendment 18, occupants of a beautiful home, they obtained several hundred gallons of moonshine whiskey with a kick like a government mule, several hundred gallons of ambrosal compound known as mash, a huge still, and odds and ends of other thing sthat give the boot to bootlegger.

Either in an effort to get rid of the contrabrand or through accident, some of the mash was poured from the windows of the house of guilt, ran into the yard and penetrated even unto the sacred precinct of the neighborhood chicken runs.

When the early risers among the barnyard denizens awoke next morning and went foraging they made a discovery and gave the high sign to the rest of the flock. After which the following events happened.

A scouting pigeon saw the chickens from afar and after wigwagging home to his family proceeded to fall off the water wagon.

An erstwhile modest and retiring spinster-hen insulted the family cat and pursued him until Tom took refuge in a tree and refused to come down for hours.

A respectable pullet staggered about in public places and flapped her wings and attempted to crow.

The upper ten of a choice and snobbish breed of Leghorns refused to seek the privacy of their perches at night, but slept on their backs with the hoi polloi, their feet extended to the heavens.

A mocking bird which for many nights had been serenading neighborhood spooners suddenly forgot his dulcet strains for a squawk that some said sounded like a basso-tenor of an adolescent.

Pigeons for miles around swooped down and quarreled with the chickens as they partook the mash, then went off to a cool corner and slept it off, regardless of small boys and dogs.

Flies in that of the city swarmed down in that one particular spot, retiring therefrom in an aerial shimmy or clustering in bunches on bedroom and kitchen screens and sleeping so thoroughly one authority believes he heard them snore.

Now the neighbors believe thef have a legitimate cause for complaint and went to know if there is not some less drastic measure of disposing of, to misquote old Omar, "the corn that can lith log e absolute, amendment 18

ARRESTED IN CONNECTION BURGLARY TAILOR SHOP

Alleged by officers to be under indictment by the Wichita County grand jury in connection with the burglarizing of the Eighth Street Tailor shop last spring, Bob Morrison was taken into custody Friday afternoon by City Detectives Boone and Hembree.

"Laughless" Army Returns

"The man who will never laugh again" has returned to Wichita Falls. He is none other than "Andy" Anderson of the warehouse department of the Gulf Production company at Burkburnett, who with E. N. Foster, purchasing agent in this division, have returned from a several months' stay on a special mission at Tampico.

The reason why Anderson's friends laughingly refer to him as the "man who will never laugh again" of course has it's story—and it came darned near being a tragic one, as he himself will probably affirm.

"Andy" had a particularly hearty laugh before he went to Mexico—in fact had it until immediately after his arrival. Something struck his risibilities as he and his companion were crossing Tampico bay on a motor launch belonging to the company, and he proceeded to laugh long and heartily. The native steersman conceived the notion that the "Gringo's" laugh was at his expense. Conceiving this notion, he immediately proceeded to act—whipped out a machete and struck "Andy" a glancing lick across the face, and was enthusiastically directing his efforts at cutting his head off at about the neck when the American in charge of the craft interfered. The Gulf man got out with only slight damage, but, according to his friends, then and there decided to moderate his mirth—at least until he was out of Mexico.

Counterfeit While In Prison

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12.—A counterfeiting plot hatched at the Ohio state reformatory at Manfield by prisoners who carried out their work of manufacturing and circulating bogus bank notes for months within the prison walls, was revealed by United States secret service agents here today. Two prisoners, King Williams, 18, and John K. Metz, 17, who are to be paroled soon, will be arrested upon their release and turned over to the federal authorities to be tried on charges of counterfeiting, federal officials said.

SMALLER ARMIES WOULD BE RELIEF TO JAP COFFERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Of the nations which will gather around the table on Nopember 11 to Discuss disarmament Japan, as a nation, has the most to gain financially, it is indicated in unofficial figures gathered here and made public today.

Despite this evidence Japan has been the leading objector to the procedure, although on the face of the figures referred to the Japanese have everything to gain and nothing to lose by an economy program; for, in spite of the comparatively enormous increase in that country's prosperity during the war, Japan is staggering today under an armament program which still is short of what the Japanese "junkers" would like to have it. There are strong reasons, however, for not only showing prudence in attempting to compete with other nations in an armament race, but in Japan endeavoring to secure from the other nations an agreement to discontinue the present schedule.

One reason is that it costs the Japanese subject just eight times as much to maintain his navy as it does the American citizen to carry his ships along, according to the unofficial figures gathered here.

According to these figures, based on population, earning power and expenditure, the percentage of "relativity" of the naval burden ever carrying capacity is, in the United States, 1; Great Britain, 1.9, or nearly double America's unit, and Japan, 7.7 per cent, or nearly eight times what it cost the individual American.

The population of the United States is 105,000,000; Great Britain, 45,000,000, and Japan, 56,000,000. In this connection, the statistics reveal, the cost of the British navy is borne entirely by the British Isles and not by contributory colonies. The average annual earnings per capita of these countries are: United States, $2,000; Great Britain, $1,600, and Japan $400.

MEMORIAL TO GREAT WOMEN IS PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The oft-repeated question as to who were America's greatest women will shortly receive a final answer, when the Women's National Foundation incorporates in its club house here a feminine hall of remembrance. While the concrete objective of this foundation, which was inaugurated some weeks ago, by a group of social leaders in Washington, is to provide an all-partisan meeting place for the women of America and an all-inclusive clearing house of information on their activities, it also aims to act as a source of inspiration and a record of achievement for their sex. The hall of remembrance is designed to fill these last named needs.

As now proposed this hall is the conception of Mrs. George Barnett, wife of Major-General George Barnett, United States marine corps, and chairman of the executive comtee of the Women's National Foundation, who submitted it to Mrs. C. C. Calhoun, foundation president, by whom it was approved and placed before the board of governors.

Mrs. Barnett suggested that in the hall, which would be the main auditorium of the foundation, here be erected forty-eight pollars representing the forty-eight states. On these pillars would be inscribed the names of the women who from pioneer days to the present time have helped to make state history and, incidentally, make America. These names would be selected by a commission in each state consisting of prominent women educators and historians. The governors would be invited to nominate the commission, whose findings would be finally passed on by a special national committee of four or five distinguished citiens. The only restriction in the seection of names will be the exclusion of all women now living.

To Build Temple of Triumph.

As Mrs. Barnett's plan received instantaneous approval from the governors of the foundation, as well as from Mrs. Calhoun, it is expected that the state commissions will be appointed soon and the work of historical research begun. There is anticipated little dificulty in choosing the heroines of pioneer days. Virginia, for example, will include the name of Pocahontas. The saviour of Jamestown Colony, and Mary Ball, mother of George Washington. North Carolina will probably be equally unanimous concerning her Virginia Dare. South Caroina's Debba Motte stands out undisputed. There is Betsy Ross of Philadelphia; Molly Pitcher, in New Hampshire, while Kentucky has the hollowed name of Nancy Hanks. When one comes nearer the present days, however, the perspective is bound to be less on the value of individual achievements, and it is here that suggestions will need careful examination and solid substantiation from the proponents.

In order that this hall of remembrance, with its columns of famous names, may announce to the passerby, as well as to those present within it, its significance for the sex, Mrs. Salhoun has proposed that it be embodied in a classic temple of triumph surmounted by the triumphant figure of a woman.

ASKS BIDS FOR SCHOOL BUILDING

A call for bids for the erection of a four-room brick school building in the Bowie addition, near the stock pens, was ordered at a meeting of the city school board, held Friday afternoon at the Wichita State Bank and Trust company. The building is to be a single story structure, so constructed that additions can readily be built to it, according to board members. It is desired to have the building ready for occupancy as early as possible, board members said.

The board also ordered the purchase of two fire escapes of the chute type, in conformation with the state law, for the Washington school for negroes which is under course of construction.

Mrs. M. M. Addickes and W. W. Brown, business manager of city schools, were appointed a committee to supervise the purchase of equipment for the domestic science department of the Washington school.

Board members, in commenting on the decision to order a building in the Bowie addition, said that because of the large expenditures already invested in buildings during the past year it had been hoped that students there could wait at least another year, but that the crowded conditions demanded the erection of a new structure.

PREMIUM PAID FOR FIRST BALE

A premium of $25 was given by the Chamber of Commerce Friday to R. H. Godfrey of Charlie for establishing what local ginners declare is a new record for an early picked bale of cotton. The cotton, which was brought to Wichita Falls Thursday, beats the best previous record for early cotton by at least ten days, local ginners say.

The cotton was unloaded at the W. C. Reeves gin and probably will be ginned about the middle of next week, according to Mr. Reeves. The first bale appeared to be of exceptionally good staple, acording to Mr. Reeves and is expected to bring the top market price.

SURVEY OF BONUS SITUATION.

State legislation converting more than $375,000,000 to the aid of World War veterans has been passed or is waiting popular referendum, the Bank of America announced at the conclusion of a nationwide survey of the bonus situation.

Veterans in 14 states already are receiving cash bonuses totaling $184,000,000, and in eight more states legislation providing for cash bonuses of $191,000,000 now is pending.

Only Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi have failed to pass legislation authorizing aid to veterans in exemptions or benefits of some kind, the report declares.

The bonus range from $10 a month for service in a number of states to $25 a month in North Dakota. Several states set maximum rates ranging from $100 in New Jersey to $500 in Oregon. North Dakota claims the honor of having been the first state to pay the bonus and Illinois heads the list for amount with $55,000,000, provided the law passes a popular referendum.

Many states which have given cash bonuses also are providing aid of a practical nature. In 15 states aid is offered for vocational education, and in California a bill has been adopted providing for vocational education of veterans' dependents.

Arizona, California, Oregon and South Dakota provide aid in buying homes, and in Oregon the bonus is made optional with the privilege of borrowing up to $3,000 on real estate from the state. Nine western states offer assistance in settling on farms and in eight more western states special boards have been established to look after the interests of former service men.

In Connecticut, Iowa, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, North Dakota, South Carolina, Texas, and Wyoming veterans are exempted from taxation. Sixteen states provide for civil service preference in the cases of former service men.

MILITARISM AND HIGH TAXES.

Mark Sullivan, Bull Mooser and all around reporter, is of the opinion that the Harding disarmament plan is but carrying out the policy of Wilson. It is impossible to get away from the fundamentals. There must be a concert of the nations to bring about general or partial disarmament. Woodrow Wilson would have worked for disarmament through a league of nations; Warren G. Harding would bring about disarmament through a conference of nations. McAdoo tersely said not long ago, "It is disarmament or bankruptcy." Woodrow Wilson is said to be in sympathy with the Harding proposition, notwithstanding his plan was defeated by a republican senate. All Americans are hopeful that President Harding will be successful and that the movement launched by him will prevent wars in the future. Without disarmament there can be no sweeping reduction in federal tax burdens for the reason that 90 cents of every dollar appropriated goes for purposes militaristic or to pay the cost of the wars of the past.

NOW THE SHOE IS ON THE OTHER FOOT.

Representative John M. Garner of Texas is the minority leader in the halls of congress. Although a politician Garner is a straight hitter. He bluntly told the livestock men from Texas that the war finance commission as created was without authority to give the relief they asked for the livestock industry. Eugene Meyer is managing director of the war finance commission. This is what Garner said: "Men who have been doing business with small banks and making arrangements for rediscount of their papers might as well continue along that line, as I do not think there will be the desired relief through governmental sources." This reminds The Record News that there is a republican administration in power and a republican congress grinding. Millions of men damned Wilson while he was president and damned the work of a democratic congress. Now millions who are dissatisfied have the American privilege of damning Harding and a republican congress. The shoe is on the other foot. A government cannot pay a man's debts; it cannot recoup an individual for his losses.

There is to be a cotton crop of eight million bales in the United States, the smallest since 1895 and since that year the world's spindles and normal consumption of cotton have more than doubled. Now why shouldn't the American farmer be paid a fair price for his cotton this year? American mills should consume more than eight million bales and the foreign demand should take the carry over.

WHO GETS THE VELVET?

Judge Sam Houston Cowan of Fort Worth is the legal advisor of the American National Live Stock Association and its associated organizations. He spends most of his time in Washington clamoring for better freight rates and better tariff protection for his clients.

Although a Tennesseean by birth he was a rock rooted democrat until some of the policies of the Wilson administration drove him into the republican camp. Now he advertises himself as "a democrat who votes the republican ticket."

Of course, the republican congress placed hides on the free list or rather kept hides on the free list and Cowan resents this. This is what he said to a correspondent, speaking of the republican congress:

"They put hides on the free list in order to hit the packer, and the packer is the importer of the large part of the hides coming into the country."

Judge Cowan declared that the livestock producer in many instances cannot obtain his costs at the market, and in many more instances could not make cost and his freight charges in reaching the market.

He also volunteered the information that it had never been so in the west that the ranchman could not have anything left after paying his expenses.

It is a queer mixup, isn't it? All the packers say they are losing money; all the consumers are furious over the high cost of meats; all the meat producers say they are facing bankruptcy, and now the question is "Where does the velvet go?"

Who gets it?

WHY HI WEEPS.

Senator Hiram Johnson of California, a republican, demands that the American troops shall be brought home from Germany. Senator Hiram Johnson of California has been shackled but not gagged.

He is opposed to many of the Harding policies; he was opposed to many of the Wilson policies; he favors at all times the Johnson policies. This places him at all times in a helpless and hopeless minority.

Of course, the republicans promised to bring the boys home from Germany; of course, there are a hundred government ships idle and tied to the docks; of course, peace with Germany has been declared by resolution; but the administration is only five months old and it has been too busy to bring the boys home.

They are having a good time on the banks of the Rhine; beer costs only 10 cents per gallon and the Germans must pay the wages and the cost of maintenance of the boys while they are kept on the banks of the Rhine.

There are 250,000 jobless Americans. There are thousands of former service men idle. Senator Borah demands the discharge of fifty thousand soldiers. Then why not let Germany pay and feed the boys "over there?" Why growl about a broken campaign pledge or promise?

BLANTON ON THE JOB.

Texas rural letter carriers are holding a state convention at Fort Worth. Congressman Thomas L. Blanton wired the mail service men that they could count on his active support for all reasonable changes bettering conditions. He messaged as follows: "I consider your membership most deserving of all government employes."

There are times when Democratic Simplicity has his hat on straight and tells the unvarnished truth. Rural letter carriers are poorly paid and they are certainly as deserving as the men engaged in other branches of the service.

Postmaster General Will A. Hays was given hearty commendation by the convention. This is more than the rural letter carriers of Texas ever gave Albert Sidney Burleson who graciously admits that he was the greatest and most efficient postmaster general that the country had ever known since the Washington government began to function nearly 150 years ago.

Burleson never needed medals from others. He had the ability to make his own and the sublime courage to wear them after he had made them.

HARDING ON THE RACK.

John Skelton Williams, former comptroller of currency, charged the Federal Reserve Board with responsibility for "undue repression" of agricultural credits when he appeared before the congressional committee investigating the agricultural condition of the country. In attacking the policies of the board, Mr. Williams declared "if there had been a revision of policies in October last, the subsequent economic history of this country would have been different." The Federal Reserve Board, Mr. Williams said, had permitted the loaning of money to the amount of millions of dollars for speculative purposes in Eastern markets, while the farmers of the South and Southwest were in many instances unable to obtain money or were forced to pay exorbitant rates for it. "The amount of agricultural paper taken up is pitifully small as compared with the value of the agricultural property," he said. "It is the solemn duty of the Federal Reserve Board to see to it that more money is made available for the agricultural and live stock interests."

HARD ON THE LAME DUCKS

Attorney General Daugherty seeks the passage of a law that would prevent former employes of the government prosecuting claims against the government until they have been out of office three years. Would the attorney general rob the lame ducks of an opportunity of earning their bread and butter? There are now claims pending against the government of more than a billion dollars and former employes are pushing these claims. Daugherty is bound to get himself disliked. A large percentage of the former employes are lawyers. Why should they be barred or why should they wait three years before they are privileged to represent client or claimant against the government?

Mexico shipped 17 millions of oil during the month of June. Then an embargo was placed on oil shipments by the American owners of Mexican wells. This should make business good for American coal kings but what is going to happen to President Obregon and his government?

COTTON GROWERS GIVEN WARNING.

While the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas will rediscount for its member banks acceptable paper, the proceeds of which are "used in meeting the indispensable needs of customers in cultivating and harvesting the crop," reserve banks generally have no money to lend for the purpose of holding cotton off the market for an indefinite time or for a predetermined price, according to a circular issued by Governor R. L. Van Zandt, dated August 2. Loans on cotton will be made up to 80 per cent of the market price, but the margin must be maintained and the loans are not to be for more than 90 days from the date of discount. The matter of financing the harvesting and marketing of the cotton crop was discussed at a conference held between the Federal Reserve Board of the cotton producing area of the United States, at Washington on July 19. The circular of the Reserve Bank of Dallas states that its policy is in conformity with the Federal Reserve Board's statement issued at the conclusion of this conference.

A FAIR TRIAL FOR SMALL.

Governor Len Small of Illinois demands immediate trial and a change of venue to another county. Now he is making a noise like a man. Springfield, the capital city of Illinois, is republican in political hue but anti-Small and anti-"Big Bill" Thompson. A man accused of crime is entitled to a fair trial by a jury of his peers. It would be grossly unjust to force Small to trial in Sangamon County; it would be grossly unfair to the state to give him a change of venue to Cook County. Chicago is the home of "Big Bill" Thompson and his machine has not been thoroughly pulverized.

Rippling Rhymes

PRETENDING.

Oh, let's pretend we're joyous, and chortle and seem gay, though many things annoy us and bore us day by day; for men with sullen faces are lemons, everywhere; they fill out dwelling places with grief and gloom and care. How often in the morning we rise from restful naps, with balmy smiles adorning our chaste and chipper maps. The old world seems a daisy, we chirp a cheerful note, and all our woes seem hazy and dreamlike and remote. We're glad we are existing, we gambol and we sing, while wotting still and wisting that life's a gladsome thing. And then the grouch approaches, fresh risen from the hay; no thought of glee he broaches, no topic blithe and gay. He doesn't sing or scamper, or raise a joyful sound, and he's a dismal damper on everyone around. He suffers from the willies, he hums no cheer-up tunes; he overlooks the lilies to talk of musty prunes. His fantods are contagious, our gladness dies away; we think the world outrageous, and strike for higher pay. And thus one grouchy duffer can make our joy take wing, and make us sigh and suffer, where we should smile and sing.—Copyright by George Matthew Adams.

NATURE IN AUGUST

The butterflies are in the air,
The bees are in the clover,
The flies are swarming everywhere,
The fleas they swarm on Rover.
The skeeter on each pondlet's brink
Uplifts a song malevolent—
The cockroach in the kitchen sink
Is prevalent.

The grasshopper uplifts a song
From every bush and thicket,
The locust hollers all day long,
And all night long the cricket.
(Cricket, wife says, not only sings,
But eats—well, I should hesitate
To write the list of household things
She says it ate!)

Dog-days are here. But as I squirm
And scratch, I wonder whether
Bug-days were not a better term
For August's crawly weather.
Though dogs delight to bark and bite,
O Bugs, more deeply shock you us—
We'd loathe you, even were you quite Innocous!

Sunday morning, shortly after the man awoke, which was near the noon hour, Doc sent to a nearby restaurant for eats for two. In the meantime Doc missed his money. He started looking around for it, but failed to find it in its customary place. He accused the man and telephoned for Chief Getz. While awaiting the chief's arrival he decided to put on some third degree stuff to get the man to divulge where he had hidden the money. He grabbed him by the shirt, and in the scuffle tore it off him. With his big knife he threatened to disembowel the now badly frightened and pleading guest. Just at this juncture Doc felt some unusual pressure on his right shin. He glanced down and then remembered he had put his wad of money in his drawers and it had slipped way down below his knee.

PAINTING ON IVORY CAUSE OF MURDER

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—A miniature The only feature of it that the writer of George Washington, painted on a bit of ivory—the cause of a man's murder and a lonely woman's insanity—is for sale.

The painting, which was exhibit "A" in the murder trial of Mrs. Vera Trepagnier, later sentenced to the Joliet penitentiary for from one year to life for the murder of Paul F. Volland, wealthy art publisher, here in 1919, is to be sold by court order. It must bring 5,000, the order stipulated but it will easily do that, according to art critics.

When Mrs. Trepagnier, a sweet-faced old lady, who had about her an air of dignity befitting even an impoverished gentlewoman of the Southland, took the stand during the trial she made the following statement:

"I had an heirloom, all that was left of the family fortunes. It was a miniature of General George Washington. I asked Mr. Volland to sell it for me. He kept it. I went into his office time after time to get it back. When the last of my money gave out I went again. I had a revolver with me. Just to scare him, you know. I—I don't understand how it was discharged.

"My only regret is about the picture," was her sole remark when the sentence was read to her. Later she was taken to the asylum at Dunning, Ill. The loss of her heirloom had affected her mind. To everyone who would lisiten she talked about the George Washington miniature.

And now exhibit "A"—the Washington miniature which has wrought so much sadness—is going to be sold. Art connoisseurs and art institutes are seeking to buy it.

"It's a beautiful thing," said Michael W. Looby, a Chicago attorney, who has been commissioned to dispose of Vera Trepagnier's "estate," which is the bit of art. "It was painted by John Trumbull, who died in 1843. He was a soldier as well as a great portrait painter. This was his painting on a bit of ivory of his idol—General Washington. Trumbull sent the miniature as a wedding gift to a Virginia bride. When the family moved westward the miniature was carried along. It changed hands again and again and finally vanishing. Mrs. Trepagnier's folks must have unearthed it somewhere."

It will easily bring $5,000, but the money will not do Vera Trepagnier much good.

WALSH WOULD VISIT ENGLAND.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—Frank P. Walsh, American adviser to Eamonn De Valera, the Irish republican leader, who arrived here from New York a few days ago, will make application next Tuesday for vise by the British of his American passport. He is confident he will be granted permission to visit the British Isles, as he says his voyage is a personal one, devoid of all political aims. Although he has appointments to meet Mr. De Valera and Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein movement, Walsh has deferred his application for the vise, as he desires to remain in Paris for a short time.

At the British consulate, the information was vouchsafed today that Walsh's application would be treated with regular routine matters, and that no specific instructions regarding it had been received.

INVENTOR'S LEG ENCASED IN MEMORIAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—On the west side of the metal shop in the Washington navy yard there is a battered bronze tablet which commemorates an even for which ah the city turned out more than fifty years ago.

Its inscription is simple and direct: "Within this wall is deposited the leg of Colonel Ulric Dahlgren, U. S. V., wounded July 6, 1863, while skirmishing in the streets of Hagerstown with the Rebels, after the battle of Gettysburg."

The casual visitor to the navy yard is not likely to see this tablet unless his attention is called to it by one of the old-timers. Its existence is known to few, and yet it serves as a lasting monument to a family whose name stands foremost in the development of naval ordnance.

It was on the occasion of the placing of the tablet and of the interment of the leg of this Northern soldier that all the citizens of the city gathered at the navy yard in the summer of 1863 to pay tribute to the name of Dahlgren.

The metal shop was under construction at that time as a foundry for the costing of the famous Dahlgren guns. Admiral John A. Dahlghen, then of much lower rank, was superintendent of the gun factory.

His son, Colonel Ulric Dahlgren, had been wounded in the manner related by the inscription on the tablet. After the leg was amputated Admiral Dahlgren ordered it brought to Washington, where it was inclosed in a metal box and deposited in the cornerstone of the new building.

To Become Ordnance Expert.

To some in this day it may seem that Admiral Dahlgren chose a strange and extraordinary method to honor his wounded son, but to the government officials and lesser citizenry of the capital who stood with bowed heads in the shadow of the half-finished metal shop on a hot afternoon in the summer of 1863 there was nothing unusual or at least remarkable in the event. If there were some in the throng who were inclined to scoff at the admiral's manner of preserving the memory of his son, they were silenced by the solemnity and the dignity of the notable ceremony which marked the laying of the cornerstone and the burial of the colonel's leg.

As a result of the manufacture of ordnance material for the fleet in the early fifties under the direction of Admiral Dahlgren, the Washington navy yard gained a reputation as the most important tand branch of the nation's naval system.

In 1849 Admiral Dahlgren, superintended of the firing test of an elongated shot and shell invented by John Prentiss, which could take the rifle motion from the smooth-bore cannon and keep its front end in the proper position. This mas a considerable advance in the manufacture of big shells and naval cannon, and in a short time the Admiral had gained such extensive knowledge of all the branches of ordnance that he became a noted authority on these subjects. He later invented the famous Dahlgren gun.

Who's Who

ELLIS LORING DRESEL.

For several yeeks past Ellis Loring Dresel, American commissioner at Berlin, has been carrying on informal negotiations with the Wirth government with a view to arranging the preliminaries for peace between Germany and the United States under the Porter-Knox resolution.

E. L. DRESEL

While the state department is not yet ready to make any statement concerning the progress of this work, all indications are that it has been entirely satisfactory up to date.

Mr. Dresel is a Boston lawyer, about fifty years old. He was in Germany at the outbreak of the war and offered his assistance to Ambassador Gerard in looking after stranded Americans. He proved so efficient in the work that the ambassador retained his services until the United States entered the war. After the stranded Americans were straightened out he devoted his attention principally to the care of British prisoners of war.

Mr. Dresel went to Switzerland with Ambassador Gerard when the latter left Berlin and remained in Bern, where he had general supervision over Red Cross work for American prisoners in Germany. Later he was appointed war trade board representative in Switzerland.

He was attached to the American peace mission at Paris as chief of the political intelligence section, and because of his intimate knowledge of Germany he was sent into that country several times to make investigations.

When the Wilson administration determined to send a commissioner to Berlin Mr. Dresel was chosen for the mission, and he has been in the German capital ever since. Apparently, he stands quite as high with Secretary of State Hughes and other state department officials as he did with their predecessors.

As American commissioner he occupies a quasi-diplomatic status. He is a man of great tact and approach. Necessarily, all of his relations with German officials are informal, owing to the fact that diplomatic relations have not been resumed. Nevertheless he is the official spokesman of the United States in Germany, and all communications between the state department and the Berlin foreign office pass through his hands. In the present situation. Mr. Dresel's wide personal knowledge and acquaintance with German officials and citizens of standing are a very valuable asset to him and to the United States.

REQUESTED RECIPES

Tomato Preserves.

To take the place of fruit, try this:

Cut 25 green or half ripened tomatoes into slices and place in a crock and sprinkle each layer very lightly with salt. Now, between each layer add 2 large or 4 small white onions, thinly sliced. Use 8 onions. Let this stand over night and in the morning turn the mixture into a jelly bag to drain. Now place in the porcelain lined preserving kettle and add:

4 red peppers, minced fine.
2 lemons. Cut each lemon in half lengthwise and then slice very thin.
3 pounds of brown sugar.
1-2 ounce of dry mustard.
1-2 ounce of mustard seed.
1 tablespoon of celery seed.

Add:

4 cups of vinegar.
1 cup of water.

And then the following spices tied in a piece of cheesecloth:

1 tablespoon of ginger.
1 and 1-2 tablespoons of cinnamon.
1-2 tablespoon of cloves.
1-2 tablespoon of allspice.
1 teaspoon of nutmeg.
1 clove or garlic.

Cook very slowly until tomatoes look transparent and stir frequently to prevent scorching. This mixture should be quite thick. Fill into sterilized jars and seal securely while scalding hot. Store in a cool, dry place.

Note—Use asbestos mat under preserving kettle to prevent scorching.

Carrot, Apple, Green Tomato Pickle.

Wash and scrape a half dozen medium sized carrots, cut in small lengthwise strips as for julienne soup. Boil five minutes in salted water, then drain and cool. Cut a half dozen green tomatoes in slices and fine strips as well as 3 sour apples, 3 large, white onions and 1 large red pepper. Put all the vegetables in an earthen jar, sprinkle with salt and let stand over night. Then drain free from the juice that will have exuded, and put the ingredients into a kettle with 1 cup of sugar, 2 tablespoons of celery seed and a few whole cloves tied in a muslin bag; add vinegar to cover and cook five minutes. Add 1 tablespoon of English mustard stirred to a paste with a little vinegar and mix. Pack in glass cans. Seal and set in a cold place.

Sweet Pickled Seckel Pear

To make sweet pickled seckel pears, wipe the fruit and cut off the blossom end, but do not peel. Stick two cloves in each pear; for 7 pounds of fruit allow 4 pounds of sugar, 1 pint of strong vinegar, 1-4 pound of stick cinnamon, 2 tablespoons of whole mace and cloves to season. Heat the sugar and vinegar slowly to the boiling point, then add the fruit and cook 5 minutes or until tender, but not broken. Take up the pears and pack in stone pots or glass jars (if they are not perfect, it does not matter), boil the syrup down thick with the spice and pour over the fruit; seal.

Tomato Chile Sauce.

One peck of ripe tomatoes, 6 onions, 4 coffee cups of vinegar, 2 coffee cups of sugar, 1 teaspoon of red pepper, ground; 2 teaspoons of black pepper 1-2 cup of salt, 2 spoons of cloves, ground, and 2 of spice. Peel tomatoes and cut in small pices. Cook until soft and thick. Seal while hot.

Tomato Preserves.

Select small, half ripe or green tomatoes. The small yellow ones are fine for this purpose and should be used in season. Remove the stems carefully, but do not injure the fruit. Weigh the tomatoes and take 3-14 pound of sugar to each pound of tomatoes. Allow a lemon for each 2 pounds of tomatoes. Cut the lemons in very thin slices and let cook in water till the skin is very tender. Strain off the water; use this water and as much more boiling water as is needed to make a cup of liquid to each pound of sugar. Let cook to a thin syrup; add the tomatoes and slices of lemon, and cook till the tomatoes are heated through. Skim the tomatoes and lemon; put in jars; let the syrup boil till well reduced, then pour over the tomatoes.

LAST CALL OF THE GARDEN HAT FOR MIDSUMMER

The very last minute for buying large drooping brimmed garden or picture hats for midsummer wear is fast approaching. Here are three pretty summer models which show what styles may still be worn and considered fashionable. At the left is a white satin with a puff crown and a broad brim. It is trimmed with a wreath of red currants.

Clusters of huge buttercups and other field flowers cover the crown of the large navy taffeta hat in the center. It is just the hat to wear with those navy taffetas of dotted Swiss, to say nothing of the white skirt and navy sweater.

Black taffeta faced with white straw and trimmed with a coquettish lace veil makes the stunning picture hat at the right.

CANNING RECIPES

Making Figs From Tomatoes—Dried tomatoes make a good substitute for figs, raisins, or dates, in cooking. To make them, peel large ripe tomatoes, cut them in halves, and add two cups of sugar to one gallon of tomatoes. Bring this mixture to the boiling point and let it boil down to the consistency of table syrup; pour this over the drained pulp and spread on a platter; dry in the oven or sunshine. Sugar should be sifted over these figs and they should be packed in small tin boxes.

Home Made Fruit Vinegar—For vinegar you can use the leftovers from jelly making—juice from the jelly bag, peelings, cores, etc., of various fruits. Gather a quantity of these together and boil slowly for one hour. Strain and to each cupful of syrup add one quart of water and one tablespoon of molasses. Pour into a crock or stone jar. Tie a piece of white muslin over the top and place in the sun for four to six weeks before using. This vinegar is pure and wholesome and has no acid in it, though tart in taste.

Blueberry Pickle—Wash and pick over the berries carefully, using only firm, sound fruit. Place them in a stone crock, pouring in molasses until the berries are nearly covered. Tie a muslin cloth over the mouth of the crock. The molasses will sour and after the fermenting process is over settle down as vinegar. These pickled berries are firm and crisp, with a piquant and delicious flavor.

Plum Paste—Cook tart, juicy plums in their own juice until soft. Remove stones and skins by pressing through a sieve. Weigh the fluid and cook slowly for an hour. Add half as much sugar as fruit; after the sugar dissolves, allow fruit to boil for a minute, then pour into earthen dishes to the depth of one-quarter of an inch. Dry slowly in a cool oven. Pack into jars for use in puddings or cakes, or as sauce.

RECIPES FOR A DAY

Salmon Loaf—One small can of salmon. Remove the bones, pick to pieces with a silver fork, add two eggs, one-half cup milk, enough cracker crumbs to form into loaf, put in pan, dot with butter; bake three-quarters hour. To serve: Remove loaf to a platter, garnish with parsley and lemon slices. You can also bake potatoes at the same time, thus saving fuel these warm days.

Grotto Dressing—One-half cup mayonnaise, one-quarter cup chili sauce, one-quarter cup tomato catchup, one-quarter cup onions, two tablespoons green peppers, one-quarter cup dill pickle, one-quarter cup celery, two tablespoons pimento. Vegetables should be chopped fine before measuring; add all together and chill.

Poached Eggs—Eggs in this style look very attractive. Place a small piece of butter in each dish of egg potcher, let melt and put in egg until well done; toast bread and butter. Then take doughnut cutter and place in center of toast, cut hole, in which place egg; round pieces of bread are placed at either side of plate.

POETIC POSTMASTER PLANS PRESERVING POST, PENNING POSTAL PILOT, PITHY POEM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Forty thousand fourth-class postmasters in the United States are getting a smile out of a bit of verse written by Postmaster C. J. Gose of Kinderhook, Pike county, Illinois, and sent to Postmaster General Will Hays. The poem reads:

I do wish that Mister Hays
Could see my sweet and charming ways,
And how polite and nice I am
When some guy comes to mail a ham.
How sweetly to those nuts I smile
When they keep asking all the while—
They're looking for a bale of tripe,
A kiddy-kar or meerschaum pipe;
And round the office they will stick
Till I get peeved and darn near sick.
But yet I have to smile and say:
"You're package did not come today."
And then they draw an ugly sigh
As if to say: "I think you lie;"
I spread them one elastic grin
And say: "It will soon be comin' in."
If Mister Hays would come and see
The way some folks are treating me
I know full well that he would sob
And he would let me keep my job.
He'd say: "Dear Doc, if you'll stay here
I'll boost your pay two beans a year."

LOOKING TOWARD COLLEGE

This time of the year many young people have their eyes turned in one direction—collegeward. Will your boy or girl go to college? "Will," not can, for it is almost entirely a case of determination. He, or she, can who will.

The Cost.

College expenses are much the same for those who earn their own way and for those whose parents pay their bills. This is a compliment to both classes. The average is from $400 to $700 a year, although a few go lower and one can easily go higher. Except in the case of the schools which appeal to the wealthy, the cost of one college is about the same as another. For this reason it is wise to choose the college you wish to attend and tackle it.

Working One's Way.

An increasingly large per cent of students are helping pay their college expenses. At Yale half of the students are earning part of their expenses, while at Washington State university fifty-one per cent are earning all of their expenses and only seventeen per cent are doing nothing to earn their way. Today it is a matter of pride.

"To prove one's strength of soul, and will
To meet and overcome the ill,
And in the end to gain the thrill
Of manful mastery!"

Those who have earned their way at college are able to face life with confidence. There are three considerations in working one's way through college: Will it break the health, consume too much time from study, or make impossible play, athletics and college activities? To earn all of one's expenses might do any of the three, but to earn a part need prove no detriment.

The girl who works has little time or funds for sorority life, but snobbishness is less prevalent in college than elsewhere and one's true ability determining his standing in college. The hero is the one who can do a desirable thing exceptionally well.

College girls earn their expenses by helping at housework, doing clerical or office work, clerking in stores, caring for children, washing windows, doing fine laundering such as silk shirts and blouses, mending and sewing, waiting on table, tutoring and any number of unique ways which ingenuity may devise. Among the latter are selling to the students home canned jams and fruit, running a tearoom to serve five o'clock chocolate and cakes, dispensing home made candy, making place cards and artistic novelties for parties. The acknowledged best way is typewriting. Stenography and mimeographing help. Some report for newspapers. The larger the city in which the college is located the greater the opportunities to earn one's way. To be capable in one line is better than to pick up any chance employment. Many colleges offer scholarships or have a loan fund. Victoria, Australia, is establishing a state loan fund for college students.

It is difficult to earn much the first term at college. It takes time to "catch on to the ropes," but once acquainted with the school and its possibilities, a boy or girl of determination and industry is pretty certain to be able to work his way through. In starting, apply to the college employment bureau or to the Y. M. or Y. W. C. A.

Choosing the College.

Because it is Brother Tom's school, or nearest home, or has a fine campus, or a chance visitor told you about it, is not sufficient reason to choose any school. If one looks only for the college atmosphere and cultural advantages, any school can provide this amply, but if one looks to a particular career—and that is the trend of the times—he should find a college which will give the best training for this and most adequately fill his needs. In the United States there are about a thousand colleges of one kind or another and one cannot hope to know them all. Some of the great magazines offer advice in choosing the college. This is a valuable service.

As between woman's colleges and co-educational schools there is a wide difference of opinion. Both have their advantages. In the former one has less diversion from male associates, while the latter are regular "match-makers." But where could one better meet the man she is to marry? Personally, for reason, I am a believer in "coo-education."

Keeping Down the Gas Bill.

When you light the oven to do your baking or roasting, fill your teakettle and set it on top of the oven. Then you will have hot water without using an extra burner.

"LITTLE MARY" BECOMES MARK FOR PLAINTIFFS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—Life for Mary Pickford is getting to be one case of litigation after another. With a case pending—the third trial of Mrs. Cora Wilkenning's suit for $100,000 for alleged personal services—"America's sweetheart" is now called upon to defend her purse against two other claims.

Mildred Considine, scenario writer, sues for $11,500 as compensation for "humiliation and loss of prestige" because her name was left off the film "Through the Back Door," for which she alleged she wrote the continuity, part of the conditions being that the usual credit should be accorded on the screen. Douglas Fairbanks and Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, husband and mother of the star, are made co-defendants.

This suit closely follows one brought by David Kirkland, director, for $35,000. He says he was employed to direct Mary in "The Cricket," but that it went by the boards and he was discharged.

Summer.

Though summer long delayeth
Her blue and golden boon,
Yet now at length she stayeth
Her wings above the noon;
She sets the waters dreaming
To murmurous leafy tones,
The weeded water gleaming
Above the stepping stones.
—John Drinkwater.

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Be the Best Medicine for Girls and Women

Hamilton, Ohio.—"I had such awful pains in my back I could hardly stand on my feet and was never without a headache. If I walked up town I thought I would drop and many a time I felt so bad I had to go to bed and I was not able to do much of my housework. I would have hemorrhages every two weeks and dragging-down pains. I had been feeling badly for three years and had two of the best doctors in the city, but I kept getting worse and only weighed 125 pounds. I saw your advertisement and I took eight boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets, four bottles Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and your Liver Pills and noticed an improvement right away. Now I weigh 188 pounds and feel fine. Everybody tells me how well I look and asks me what I took and I always say, 'Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the best medicine in the world for any sickness to which girls and women are subject.' I will always have a good word for your medicine."—Mrs. JOSEPH WILLIMAN, 722 South 9th Street, Hamilton, Ohio.

With the Women of Today

Miss Mabelle H. Pearse, civil engineer and architect, is said to be the only woman engineer in Minneapolis. Although Miss Pearse attended the University of Minnesota and specialized in all kinds of drawing she never studied engineering. She started out to earn her own living as a cartoonist and illustrator and gained all of her knowledge of engineering through practical experience in a steel fabricating plant.

After she gave up illustrating she entered the drafting room of the steel plant, where she was the only woman among a hundred men. After nine years' experience with a large concern, Miss Pearse started in business for herself. For three or four years she did nothing but build bridges for every part of the country. Then she started making maps along with her other work. She made made a specialty of timber maps for lumber firms and she admits she had no special training for this sort of work, but just as the kind of nature which can never say "no" to a request. If one asked her to do anything, whether she had ever done it before or not the answer would surely be "yes." In fact, she has a twinkle in her eye which seems to say that she enjoys doing the things she has never done more than anything else. And talk about being versatile, she letters with both hands. Just let a mere man beat that.

During 1920 she did 126 bridges and planned one concrete dam. She has but recently started to do houses and she has done everything form a $1,200 lake cottage to a $100,000 bridge. She much prefers the bridges.

Miss Pearse has so much work that she has to have an assistant, and her assistant is a man. She is a believer in clubs and belongs to both the Woman's Rotary club of Minneapolis and the Business Women's club of which she is vice president. She says she has no slogan for success, but she advises every woman to find out what she can do best or what she likes to do best, and then to do it. Then if she does it with all her might she cannot help but succeed.

ANOTHER WOMAN NAMED

President Harding has nominated a woman for collector of customs. She is Jennie P. Musser, and is nominated for district No. 48, with headquarters at Salt Lake City.

GIRL ATTORNEY CLAIMS CAREER OF WOMEN SHOULDN'T AFFECT MARRIAGE: "IF IT DOES, THEN GIVE UP CAREER"

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 14.—When Miss Johanna Stolberg, 18, recently admitted here that she probably held a record in being the youngest law student ever to graduate from a law school—anyhow the youngest woman ever to receive a diploma entitling her to practice law, she started something.

Johanna Stolberg

Merrie Dorothy Feldman

Johanna had a classmate, also rather youthful and also of the "more deadly" species. She made herself known a few days later. She is Marie Dorothy Feldman, also of Atlanta, also a graduate of the Atlanta law School and who modestly lays claim to 17 summers, none of which you would suspect from her features.

Johanna wasn't much on talking about things legal. Not so Merrie Dorothy. Johanna works in an office where motion picture films are distributed and again Merrie Dorothy claims the honors. She went into a law office, from where she expects soon to be admitted to the bar.. Both are going to take advance law work—probably at Columbia University in New York.

"If a woman's career interferes with her marriage," said Miss Feldman in answer to questioning, "by all means give up the career. I believe ambition for a career is admirable in a woman. Some can carry on a business career and take care of home life, too. Others cannot. For those who cannot there is only one thing to do—devote life to the home.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

THE BREACH WIDENS.

From that evening a coldness sprang up between husband and wife, that only increased with the days. Cherry attended to her business and threw herself heart and soul into the making of her hats. Work, alone, could bring forgetfulness from home worries. Ned did the same.

Towards the middle of November Arline Bates decided to go home and visit her father for a few weeks. The old gentleman had been ill and had written his daughter, pleading with her to come to him, if only for a short visit.

Arline had asked Ned for a holiday and departed two days later for Chicago. She left Ned despondent and up to his eyes in work, which he assured her over and over again he would not be able to get through without her able assistance. In spite of this, Arline left.

Cherry watched the girl go, with mixed feelings in her heart. She tried to fathom whether or not Ned felt badly about the thing, but it was difficult to pierce that exterior of his. Ned moped a bit, to be sure, but he often did that. He spent less time at the office than before, but that could also be explained by his secretary's absence and his inability to accomplish as much without her.

Once Cherry suggested to him that he get another girl until Arline returned. At this, however, he shook his head, telling her that another girl would only ball thing up in the office. He would wait for Arline to return. Cherry again misunderstood his motives in this case. She had grown strangely alert to alarms by now.

At home she managed to keep the peace, which was one good thing, and no matter how much her mother-in-law tried her nerves she learned to keep a curb on her tongue as well as a serenity in her outer bearings. Her spare hours she devoted to teaching Jack the violin, and that young man developed a soul for music that was positively astonishing to all beholders.

From five to six each afternoon found Jack and Cherry under the grape arbor, far removed from the house, pouring out their music to the autumn skies, despite the nip in the air.

Mrs. Randall accepted this new development with a Christian resignment. If her son wished to "fiddle, fiddle," he might, as far as she was concerned. "There was no stopping him," as she confided to a neighbor. "He was his poor father all over again.

Towards the end of the month Ned came home one day and announced that his office was going to send him to Chicago for a month. He would have to start the next day.

Cherry felt sad at the news, but as it was business there was nothing that could be done about it. When Ned asked her is she would like to go she proudly stifled the throb of joy that came t ober, remembering that he was only asking her in a dutiful way. It could be nothing else. She would stay where she was and keep on with her work.

Ned, also too proud to show his true disappointment, merely shrugged at her decision and went on packing his bag. Cherry had long ago ceased to want to be with him very much, this he knew, and felt sleepy.

ROYALTY VISITS GREENLAND.

GOTHAAB, Greenland, Aug. 12.—For the first time in its history Greenland has entertained royalty. King Christian and Queen Alexandrine of Denmark arrived here recently on the steamer Island from Iceland and received a warm welcome from the Eskimo population.

After the ship rounded Cape Farewell at a considerable distance to avoid the ice, the weather changed from foggy to clear, and the rocky coast of Greenland, glittering with ice, was sighted against fantastically colored clouds. For some time the island and her escort, the warship Fylla, had to thread theiw way through a stretch of drifting ice, and several icebergs were seen near the vessels.

Just outside the skerries, off Godthabb, a single Eskimo kayak appeared and its sole occupant was taken on board the Island and presented with a rifle by the king.

Inside the bay, circled with snow-clad mountains, a whole squadron of kayaks rowed out to greet the royal party, who admired the skill with which the Eskimos handled their craft. The native women wore the characteristic many colored Greenland costume, with short breeches and long skin boots.

After the royal party landed a reception was held followed by religious service, and the rest of the day was given to festivities. The king was presented with a kayak and the queen with a blanket of eider skins.

SLIGHTLY CORSETED FIGURES FASHIONABLE

Most women at the present time wear a very innocent sort of corset, which becomes more of a belt and less of a corset, according to the suppleness of the figure for which it is designed. With some women this is little more than a girdle to hold the stocking supporters; others like a bone back and front and even one over each hip. Almost no one goes further than this, and the corset is cut so that it gives support without restriction. Instead of tightening her bands a woman who thinks that her figure is too generously proportioned now seeks some means of healthful reduction and the change is one in which we should all rejoice. Very tight clothes never did anything to disguise avoirdupois—they just misplaced it. But the absolutely uncorseted laisser-aller effect is no longer the proper one. One should have the appearance of being comfortably supported.

The very tailleur, with its fitted back and its godets over the hips, demands a certain trimness which the natural rigure seldom preserves after the very early twenties. The tailleur has every prospect of continuing its popularity for the beginning of the winter, although the coat seems to be lengthening considerably while keeping its godet effect at the sides in many instances. The arliest models are almost all trimmed with fur and we are told that the haute couture is feverishly hunting for an inexpensive pelt—something like the sylnx of last season or the uncurled mongolie of the one before—which will not add too much to the cost of a cloth suit. So far it has not been found, although some are mentioning gazelle with favor. The August openings will reveal to us these discoveries, in which the useful rabbit will, very possibly, have a good deal to say. Dark colors so far are indicated for tailored clothes, browns, blues and a dark myrtle green, something like that of laurel leaves. The Oxford grays were almost done to death in the early spring.—From Vogue.

Squinting Brings Wrinkles.

Squinting the eyes is a bad habit which is rather attractive when young, but which will induce al sorts of wrinkles around the eyes when one is older.

Some species of the octopus never become more than an inch in diameter.

LET EVERY TRAVELER CARRY HIS PACK

An enormous amount of confusion and worry would be eliminated in your family if every member thereof, from the babe in arms to the mother and father, had his or her own individual trunk or bag. So often when a family decamps for a summer vacation the pieces of luggage are pooled and everyone's possesions are brought into the scene of packing, to be hopelessly mixed up. It is the theory of some housewife that the best method is to put all the shoes in one trunk, and all the light clothes in another, and so on, until everyone has something in every trunk. Then there is scurrying back and forth, for no one has enough clothes to dress without getting something from half a dozen trunks or boxes.

Possessing individual bags or boxes also helps children to develop a sense of responsibility and neatness. If each child had a small wicker satchel or suitcase that he might carry himself and were told that he must take enough in it to supply his needs overnight, he would doubtless take interest in working out his problem. Each little bag or suitcase should bear the initials of its owner.

In packing any bit of baggage there is always a decided advantage in making a complete inventory of every article contained in the bag or trunk. This may seem irksome, but if you have a little notebook and pencil at hand it is not at all difficult.

To Hurry the Baked Potato.

Stand potatoes in hot water a few minutes before baking to hasten the process.

MRS. SWITZER STATES SHE IS OVER TROUBLE

"I don't believe anybody who knows me ever expected to see me well and strong again, but here I am in the best of health, thanks to Tanlac," said Mrs. Mary Switzer, 2305 Terry street, Houston, Texas.

"About four years ago I was taken down with a serious illness and had never really recovered up to the time I took Tanlac. I was awfully nervous and sometimes would even get hysterical. My digestion was poor, my blood was thin and I kept getting weaker and thinner. I had an awful pain across the small of my back that hurt me night and day. I lost weight until I got to where I only weighed about 90 pounds. I was about as blue and despondent as a person could be and didn't know where to turn for relief, as everything I had tried had failed.

"Tanlac suited my case exactly and today I am in perfect health. I not only have gained back all the weight I lost but I seem to have more strength than I have ever had in my life before. The pain in my back is gone, I eat heartily and never have a sign of indigestion. Only the grandest medicine in the world could do what Tanlac has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Wichita Falls by Miller Drug Store; in Electra by Tarlton Drug Store; in Burkburnett by West End Drug Store, and by all leading druggists.—Adv.

MARINES PLAY MARBLES, SPUDS PLAY BALL; THE LATTER PICK UP A CINCH VICTORY, 7 TO 3

By C. F. CARTER

Now, it's like this, friends: We hate to blow our own horn, you understand that, don't you? Yes, we sure hate to blow our own horn; hate to get ourself in the class of those "I-Told-You-So" boys—but, say, did we or did we not announce in advance that the Spudders yesterday would "hit 'em where they ain't?" You're darn right we did—and if you want to know when California will feel its next earthquake, telephone 4382 and ask for the sporting editor! !

Hit 'em where they ain't—shucks, yes! The Spudders planted 12 blows yesterday where no fielder waited, and they had a soft, gentle, easy, tender time winning, 7 to 3. Jack Hollingsworth, somewhat irritated by the salvo of hits with which the Marines greeted him last Wednesday, went looking for revenge, and found it. He allowed the devil-dogs six lonely hits, struck out 6, walked only 3, and had things his own way throughout the pastime.

Holly might have given the Marines more bingles; it would have made little difference—for the Spudders were wearing their batting clothes, and didn't care two whoops and a couple of hoorans who pitched for Dallas. They slammed old Sniper Conley so hard he retired for the day after hurling less than four frames; they made life miserable for "Lefty" Swartz, and they eased up on George Harper because they didn't need no more runs nohow.

McDonald's Wicked Bat

Tex McDonald led the batting onslaught, making 6:00 o'clock "the end of a perfect day." Tex started his batting streak in the opening frame with a triple to center; put one over the center field fence for the circuit on his second trip to the plate; smashed a two-bagger to left on his third appearance; was hit by a pitched ball in the sixth inning, and crashed a wicked two-bagger to left center the last time he toed the rubber—pretty rotten, eh?

As for the Marines—well, "Mac" McCoy, traveling scribe with the club, stuck a piece in his durn Dallas paper in which he said that "The Spudders showed no resemblance to a great baseball machine, and they looked like bush leaguers." Yesterday, however, while a couple of Marine outfielders gave Danny Clark a triple when they did an Alphonse and Gaston act in right center, neither of 'em trying to grab an easy out—but Dallas, we take it, is a championship ball club, and the Spudders are "bush leaguers."

Sport scribes all over the circuit are saying the Spudders are "lucky." Say, if they are lucky, some of these imitation ball teams remind us in that connection of the man who had only one dollar, wanted to go to the ball game and simply had to spend the dollar to have an aching tooth pulled. Passing the ball park on his way to the dentist's, a foul ball flew over the fence, hit him in the mush and knocked his tooth out. He grabbed the ball, presented it at the gate, was admitted free, saw the game and went home without the toothache and with his dollar still in his pocket—sure, if you ask us, that's the kind of luck some of the ball clubs are playing in, ball clubs whose sport scribes say the Spudders are 'lucky.' Hot dawg!

We're Sore, We Are.

Do you think we're going to tell you in detail about that game yesterday? Not on your tintype, buddy! There wasn't anything to it but the Spudders; Dallas never had a look-see to cop that contest. Holly simply poured it on 'em, and the boys behind him hit the old apple to every corner of the lot. You'd better rustle six-bits and hike to the park this afternoon; don't depend upon us to give you any story play by play, because we're all het up over this panning the out-of-town scribes have been handing the future Dixie Champions—and we've got to get a few words off'n our chest right here and now.

Down in Fort Worth Billy Bee, of the Star-Telegram, and Billy Smith, manager of the Shreveport Gasers, have been raving about the "luck" of the Spuds. Billy Smith tells Billy Bee that 'the breaks were against Shreveport on their recent visit to our metropolis—can you beat that? A team has four chances to grab the gravy, and is licked in four straight games, out hit, out fielded, out pitched and out played in every department—and then the manager in the next town he visits says the "breaks went against" his club! !

Say, listen, we didn't hire out to this more or less well known morning newspaper as a mudslinger, and we don't intend to slip downward into that class. We have a pretty high regard for our chosen profession (Darn it, anyway!), and even though we can't earn a living at it, we intend to be a booster the rest of our life. There are a lot of mean things we could say, but we feel it's unnecessary to say 'em. The only thing necessary to say is that the Spudders have a great ball club, so has Dallas and so has Fort Worth—and the Spudders are going to beat 'em both on sheer merit, not by tossing the taurus. Do you get us, fans? All right!; thanks. Read the score and be happy.

THE BAT IS MIGHTIER THAN THE CASTING ROD

Babe Ruth and Harold J. Lentz snapped during the novel trials at the Polo grounds.

That Babe Ruth swings a more wicked rod than a champion fisherman was proved the other day when Harold J. Lentz, world's champion surf caster, failed to equal the distance of one of Babe's homers in casting a four-ounce lead. Lentz tried the feat at the Polo grounds before a recent Yankee game. Experts have estimated that Ruth's longest home run clouts have traveled 500 feet when they sailed into the center field bleachers. Lentz, in five trials, cast his bait 440 feet. Casting without a string later he threw the lead behind the bleachers.

YANKS AGAIN DEFEATED BY ATHLETICS

PHILAELPHIA, Aug. 12.—Timely batting by Witt and Dugan gave Philadelphia an eight to six victory over New York and evened up the series. Ruth got his 44th home run in the eighth. Score:

Tommy Cochran In Defeat Shows Trans-Mississipi Golfers an "Iron Heart and a Deadly Putter"

DENVER, Col., Aug. 12.—A new trans-Mississippi golf association champion will come out of the west tomorrow. He will be either George Von Elm, the 20-year-old Salt Lake City star, or L. D. Bromfield, of Denver, Colorado, state champion. Von Elm and Bromfield won the right to compete for the title by annexing their semi-final matches today. Von Elm defeated J. C. Ward of Kansas City, Missouri, association medalist, 6 up and 5 to go, and Bromfield eliminated the fast Texas player, T. B. Cochran of Wichita Falls, Texas, 2 up.

While the Salt Lake youngster played the best game of the day, playing so well that in the 13 holes of the afternoon round Ward was one down to him, despite a score by Ward of one under par, the thrills were furnished by Cochran, who showed an iron heart and a deadly putter.

On the 15th, 16th and 17th holes of the afternoon round Cochran had to sink long putts to keep in the race with Bromfield, who was playing a steady game.

On the fifteenth, Cochran sunk a twenty-foot putt, but got only a halved hole. On the 16th after playing out of a bunker to a disadvantage on the green, Cochran holed a fifteen-footer. On the 17th, when he was two down and two to go, and had to win the hole, he sank a ten-footer after Bromfield had gone to the rim of the cup. But at one up and one to go he could not square the match. His first shot was into the bunker. He recovered nicely but shot his third into another bunker and was on the green in four, while Bromfield was on in two. Bromfield holed a four and Cochran lost.

TENDLER'S MANAGER ASKS LEONARD'S FORFEIT, $5,000

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—Phil Glassman, manager of Lew Tendler, contender for the lightweight championship of the world, today announced he had claimed the $5,000 for Benny Leonard's filure to appear here to day and weigh in for the bout with Tendler at the Philadelphia National League ball park tonight. The fight was indefinitely postponed last Monday when Leonard dislocated a thumb while training.

"I shall refuud the money," Glassman announced, "when Leonard signs to box Tendler in Philadelphia for the original promoters on or before October 12, 1921."

Diogones was a native of Sinope in Pontus, whence he was banished for coining false money.

Geese and swans live mostly on vegetable food, while ducks subsist largely in insects and fishes.

LONDON EDITOR NAMES HIS HOME "MINNESOTA."

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Wickham Steed, editor of the London Times, who is in this country with Viscount Northcliffe, British peer and publisher, expressed while in this city a derise to visit different parts of the nation, especially Minnesota.

"But why Minnesota?" he was asked.

"Because," he replied blandly, "I come from there; that is my native state."

Before his astonished audience could protest, he added: "That is, once during the course of the war I found it very advisable in talking to a certain Hungarian in Switzerland to represent that I came from America, and in my improvisation I happened to think of Minnesota and adopted it as my own; so I should like to see it now."

NATION LACKS OPTIMISM NOW HARDING SAYS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—"Optimism, constructive and conservative," is a potent factor now lacking in the effort to revive business and manufacturing throughout the United States, in the opinion of Governor W. P. G. Harding, of the Federal Reserve Board.

Business men and manufacturers are justified in feeling confident about the future, Harding said. Credit for legitimate commercial enterprise is ample, he declared, and the other mechanical commercial tools necessary to bring prosperity are awaiting ready to the hand of the manufacturer and seller.

There yet remains obstacles in the way of stabilization, the governor believes, but in the main these can be ironed out since the worst of the business depression has passed.

Should Get Together.

"I stand today as a conservative and constructive optimist," said Governor Harding. "The pessimist is with us and he has his uses, but the main fault I have to find with the pessimist is that he operates at the wrong time.

"The present is no time for the pessimist; the time for him to have gotten in his work was in the fall of 1919.

"I think that we have passed through the most trying and dangerous part of the readjustment period. We should get together and aid the orderly processes of production and distribution and get out of the idea tha things will go lower and lower indefinitely, then we will get stability into the situation.

"The public has great buying power and buying power begets buying power. When one important industry resumes, others automatically revive.

"The Federal Reserve Banks, which are the ultimate financial bulwark of all member banks, and through them of the public, are now in better position than in years to extend to all legitimate business the accommodation needed; and in addition to having the ability, have the disposition to do so.

"There has been, however, disproportion and lack of uniformity in the readjustment process which has taken place. There are some things, certain basic raw materials, for instance, prices for which are very low, below the pre-war levels and below cost of production.

"But there are other elements which figure in production and distribution which are still high, which have not been readjusted, so that somewhere in the process of distribution between the primary producer and the ultimate consumer there is a holdback.

"The ultimate consumer is not getting prices in proportion to what the primary producer is paid. One problem of the business and industrial world today is to iron out all these inconsistencies and let the proper relationship between one class of goods and between goods and services be restored.

Take Moderate Profits.

"It seems to me that this is one of the most important of our present domestic economic problems.

"There is no royal road to business revival. Working back to normal is testing our patience and energy, but the process will be expedited as we observe the sound principles which have stood the tests of the ages.

"Let us give and take, live and let live; give good value or service for what we receive and be content with moderate profits.

"Let us be sane and reasonable. Let us cast aside the speculative and get-rich-quick ideas which were so prevalent two years ago and get down to hard work and solid business.

"Then in due course we shall return to more orderly and normal conditions, and can develop not a false and hectic prosperity such as was experienced, but a sounder and more enduring era of good times than we have ever had before."

HERE'S RULE TO INSURE 90 ACTIVE YEARS

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Do you wish to live past 90, and keep your hair, health, eyesight and appetite?

Here a set of rules by a man who has done it, but they will make no hit with reformers, prohibitionists, food faddists or goiers.

John R. Voorhe, chairman of the board of election commissioners of the city of New York, who has just celebrated his ninety-second birthday anniversary, stopped work in his big office in the Municipal building long enough to lay down the following maxims for longevity:

Some good cigars.

Drink good whisky—if you can get it—preferably a dilly milk punch made with rye or buorbon.

Eat good food, including roast pork in winter, apple pie in the fall and other wholesome delicies in season.

Sleep seven or eight hours a night in a good comfortable bed in your old-fashioned bedroom. Leave the window up.

Work eight hours a day at any useful and congenial employment.

Walk two or three miles a day when you feel like it, but leave gymnasiums to the gymnasts and golf to the "bugs."

Mr. Voorhis ought to know, for he has been doing all these things for more than three-quarters of a century. Knowing his age one would be surprised to see him.

Everything about his physical appearance is "average." He is medium height and medium weight. His complexion is healthy but neither pale nor ruddy. He looks like an active business man who has just turned 65. His good thatch of hair is rather gray than white. His mustache, thick and short cropped, is the same. A few wrinkles, but not many. Clear blue eyes. No glasses.

From manners and clothes nobody could pickh im for an old-timer. His mind and muscles are spry.

AUTOMOBILE CARAVAN HITS TRAIL FOR THE WEST

First automobile in the caravan, with its trailer, about to leave New York.

Twenty-eight families, composing "Scott's modern caravan," have just left New York on a 8,000-mile trail to Idaho, where each family has acquired not less than forty acres of irrigated government land on a tract twelve miles south of Buhl. Each family has its own automobile, each with a trailer equipped with a collapsible bungalow which can be set up in ten minutes.

RING DOWN CURTAIN ON LOU'S DRAMA

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The curtain fell upon the second act of that little drama of home life, "Matrimony," in which Geraldine Farrar, world famous American prima donna, and ou Tellegen, he of the longest lashes in captivity, have been costarred in a five-year run.

It fell upon the spectacle of the gorgeous matinee idol locked out of his wife's Seventy-fourth street home and his lawyer departing with "the papers" to serve them on the diva in an action for separation. Farrar's closing line was:

"Tell Lou if he'll leave his address, I'll send around his clothes."

The next cat will show a scene in the New York courts, to which the action probably will be transferred from Westchester county.

Act I Was a Wedding.

The first act in the Farrar-Tellegen comedy-farce-tragedy opened in 1916, when the couple were united in wedlock. The diva had many times expressed herself as holding the belief that real artists should not marry.

"I locked the doors of matrimony long ago and threw away the key" was one of her best lines.

The line recurred to Lou in the second act, when the love comedy had become farce and he shivered on the doorstep, trying to gain admittance to "Gerry's" residence.

The word "obey" was left out of the ceremony which made them one.

And After Five Years.

Five years are supposed to have elapsed in the intermission between the first and second acts.

The second act opens late in July, 1921, with Lou on vacation at Long Beach.

Enter a mysterious stranger who proves to be one of Mrs. Tellegen's lawyers, with a letter which says "certain differences" have arisen and "under no circumstances are you (Lou) to enter Mrs. Tellegen's house or approach her in any manner."

All Lou's Dutch-French-Greek-Spanish blood boils over at the suggestion and he makes a dash for the Seventy-fourth street residence where Geraldine is living.

It Was a Lock-Out.

The blinds are down, but he believes he catches sight of someone peeping out from behind them. Insured of an audience, he tries key after key in a vain effort to get in, but some stagehand has changed the lock.

Then he leans on the bell for three long minutes.

Nothing doing. And then, most cruel blow of all, he gets a note from Geraldine's lawyers.

"If you will advise Mrs. Tellegen as to your address or the address you prefer to use, she will forward to you your wearing apparelt and personal effects."

With a harsh laugh the great actor staggers off into the wings.

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Tellegen could be interviewed between the acts. They both hat publicity.

Lou Tellegen was barricaded behind a wall of bell boys, bouncers and house detectives at the Hotel Ritz Carlton.

"Mr. Tellegen says 'please go way and let me sleep,'" was the gist of the messege from the besieged actor's bedchamber.

And fas for the beautiful Geraldine, she also was in a state of siege at her residence on Seventy-fourth street. Nobody could get in, not even Husband Tellegen.

The Plot Has Mystery.

Many of the details of the crash of the Farrar-Tellegen romance still are enveloped in mystery. It appeared, however, that both parties were contemplating separation actions.

The ultimatum about his wardrobe reached Tellegen, it was reported, while he was on a fishing trip at Long Beach, N. Y. He hurried back to town, but the blinds of the Seventy-fourth street house were drawn, the door was bolted and barred and there was no response to his ringings and poundings.

Following this, according to Tellegen's attorney, papers were served on Geraldine Farrar in notification of a speration suit, charging desertion.

Farrar's secretary, however, says she is out of town and no papers have been served.

Miss Farrar's lawyers furthermore declare she is preparing to institute action against Tellegen on "good and sufficient grounds," the details of which will be revealed later.

ARMY CITADEL REMINISCENT OF RED CROSS WORKROOM DAYS

With a half dozen sewing machines running busily, while the pile of white hospital garments grew rapidly, the Salvation Army Citadel on Friday was strongly reminiscent of Red Cross workrooms duning war days, as the women of the auxiliary to the American Legion and their friends sewed on pajamas and night shirts for the wounded soldiers in the government hospital at Houston. The day's work resulted in twenty-three garments being finished, Friday which will be forwarded to Houston this morning. The remainder of the two bolts of cloth which was bought by the auxiliary for the garments will be made up on Monday, when the auxiliary will meet again at the Ciadel and sew.

The pressing need for pajamas and nigh shirts in the Houston hospital was brought to the local unit's attention by Ma Burdick who is now in Houston, and wrote to the local organization concerning the hospital work. The splendid response on Friday from women, who though not eligible to membership in the auxiliary are interested in the work, and from the legion members encouraged the officers to believe that on Monday an even greater result could be obtained.

Volunteers not members of the auxiliary who worked on Friday included: Mesdames W. P. Danforth, H. F. Weldon, M. S. Borden, Luther Thompson, Homer Jopling, M. Gaffney and Wilhite.

The auxiliary members were: Mesdames A. H. Carrigan, J. B. Hatchitt, R. C. Thaxton, T. R. Brunson, H. J. Weyler, D. O. Long, E. J. Bartels, John H. Thompson, O. F. Ailes, W. J. Nolen, L. I. Luey, G. O. Howery, Funderberg and Miss Anna Chenault.

A picnic luncheon was spread at the noon hour, this giving the day a pleasant social flavor. The same program will be followed on Monday, and the auxiliary extends to every woman and girl in the city who is interested in the work for the wounded soldiers, an urgent invitation to help in this work, whether they are members of the unit, or eligible for membership. The work will begin at 8:30 Monday morning.

ENGLISH START DRY CRUSADE

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Simultaneous with the announcement that drunkenness is again on the increase in England comes the news that the Wesleyan churches are about to launch a five years' crusade to make the country dry.

Official figures show that there were 95,763 convictions for drunkenness in England and Wales last year, an increase of 65 per cent over the preceding year. If this rate of increase continues the number of convictions will soon be back at the high mark registered in 1913—188,877. There was a great falling off during the war, due to restrictions on the sale of liquor and to the fact that a large part of the male population was fighting in foreign countries or in training camps.

The Wesleyan churches announce that their drive is to be purely educational and without any sensational features.

"With red hot enthusiasm," announces the Rev. J. Alfred Sharpe, president of the Wesleyan conference, "we can make the very forces of the devil tremble, even in these days."

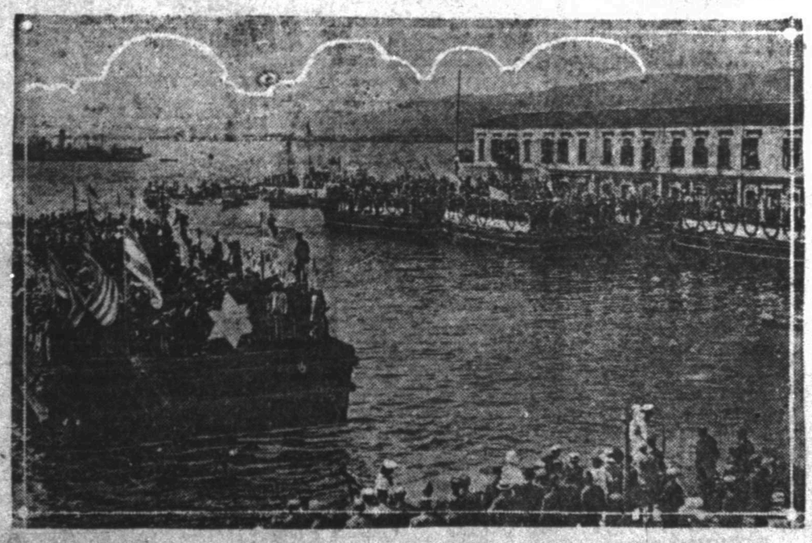

The decision to open the campaign was not reached by unanimous vote. The Rev. Sayer Ellis said that, loving liberty, he could not suppotr prohibition.

"We have no right," he cried, "to deny thousands of decent people the right to drink what they want."

HARDINGS TO FILE SUIT ON BAKER ESTATE

Personal suit is to be filed within the near future for Mrs. Harding of this city, wife of A. E. Harding, who is president of the Harding Oil company here, for a share of the $800,000,000 Baker estate, according to an announcement Friday. Mrs. Harding will contend for $2,600,000 as her share of this estate, which has been accruing a number of years while the many heirs and claimaints have been sought for, and pending settlement of litigation in connection therewith.

B. Irwin Lipow of the local office will file the suit for Mrs. Harding at Pittsburgh, while on a trip through Pennsylvania, New York and other eastern states in the interest of his company, acording to the announcement here, from her Pittsburgh attorney that the estate will be settled soon.

KNOWLEDGE OF MEDICINE, JURY NEED

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 12.—What professional man makes the best jurist?

"A lawyer" might be expected to be the usual response.

But that isn't the way George Rossman answers that question. Here's his reply:

"A doctor."

No, Rossman isn't a doctor; he's municipal judge of Portland, and before he went on the bench he was a lawyer.

But his experience as a jurist has convinced him that a knowledge of medicine is more important in dispensing justice than is an acquaintance with Blackstone.

Four-fifths of the law breakers who appear in police court are deficient, mentally or physically, according to Rossman, and should be treated by physicians instead of being thrown in jail.

"The people who fall into the hands of the law," he said, "are not normal people. They cannot live as their fellows. They steal. They use dope. They are quarrelsome. They drink, fight with their neighbors or allow their vile passions to rule them.

"These people are subjects for physicians rahr than judges. Penalizing these unfortunites by locking them in jail does little good. It has a deterrent effect on the rest of society. But it accomplishes no reform in the prisoner.

"Take the woman dope fiend who came into my court. An examination showed she was suffering with a cancer and took the dope to deaden the pain. A term in jail would not cure her cancer. Medical science might do something for her, but statutes and ordinances would not.

"I do not believe in the present slip-shod method of admisitering justice. A judge should not be required to spend all of his time listening to rules of evidence, to precedents and recent decisions.

"If I had my way I'd never send a man to jail until I had made a thorough examination of his case. I'd insist on a mental and physicial examination of the prisoner. I would like to be a physician myself in order that I could discover the reason why the prisoner could not live like his fellow man.

"I believe the time is coming when the physician, and not the judge and jury, will deal with the law-breaker."

"WAGES OF SIN" LESSON BROUGHT HOME TO GOTHAM

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—A lesson on "the wages of sin" was written in a West Forty-ninth street hotel early Sunday when Sarah Cowen, daughter of the late John K. Cowen, who was president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, died from the effects of alcohol and drug poisoning.

Twelve years ago Sarah Cowen was a beautiful debutante and an heiress to a large fortune. When death came she had lost her beauty, although she was only 33 years old, her features were marked by the years of dissipation that had followed the blasting of her romance and her friends and relatives no longer acknowledged her.

Chance Meeting, Then Elopement.

Nurtured in a home of refinement and wealth, Sarah Cowen grew up in happy surroundings. When she made her debut into society in Baltimore, where the Cowen family lived for many years, she was praised as one of the most beautiful and charming of that particular season. Then came romance riding in a limousine. Her car smashed into one driven by Charles Monson, Jr., son of a New Haven capitalist. She invited Monson to ride with her, while she towed his car to a garage.

The chance meeting resulted in an elopement soon afterward, and they were married at the Little Church Around the Corner here. A few years of wedded happiness followed, but Mrs. Monson began picking her closest friends from among the "fast" set and her husband left. They were divorced and then the woman dropped from the social life of Baltimore.

Tried Vainly to Aid in War.

When the war came Miss Cowen—she had resumed her maiden name—made a last effort to be of service to society in general and took a position as probationary nurse at Post Gradute hospital. But it was a failure. She couldn't leave drugs and liquor alone. Records of the institution show that she was discharged in 1919 because of alcoholism and was arrested soon afterward and sent to Blackwell's Island as a drug addict.

From that point until her death her life's record is a blank, as far as her friends and family are concerned. Where she lived, how she lived, to what depths she descended can only be surmised. Little is konwn except that she was a familiar figure in the neighborhood of the hotel where she died being regarded as a heavy drinker and drug user.

Chauffeur May Bare Life.

Detectives are searching for Robert Potter, a chauffeur, in the hope that he may reveal something of the last few years of her life. Miss Cowen went to the hotel with Potter Saturday night and they registered as man and wife. Early Sunday morning Potter left the hotel suddenly, telling the clerk that the woman was not his wife and that she was very ill. Physicians were called and found her in a coma. They sent her to Flower hospital, but she died soon afterward.

Sarah Campbellina Cowen spent two and one-half million dollars in a ten-year frolic that ended when she took an overdose of drugs.

How the daughter of the late John K. Cowen, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, an ex-member of congress, dissipated the fortune, was learned by police authorities, checking events in her life.

It was disclosed that the once millionairess had been reduced to borrowing from a servant. For ten years she had lived at the Hotel De France.

NEAR RIOT FOLLOWS FINDING OF LIQUOR

DENVER, Aug. 12.—A near riot occurred at the Denver Union depot when it was discovered that eighty cases of bonded whiskey were standing on the station platform.

Each case was plainly labeled as to content and consigners, a Jackson county, Kentucky, distillery.

Excitement became so intense among the rapidly gathering throng, when news of the arrival of the "wet goods" was spread, that it was necessary to maintain a special guard of officers around the liquors during the entire night.

Prohibition enforcement officials explained the following day that the liquor was obtained by government permit and was for medicinal purposes, to be dispjensed at a local home for the aged.

GIRL GYPSIES HOLD STAGE AT Y. W. CAFETERIA

Tanned to the color of saddle leather and glowing with health and spirits, four young women giving their homes as the Bronx, New York City, and their present occupation as amateur gypsies, assumed the center of the stage when they appeared for lunch Friday at the Y. W. C. A. cafeteria.

The young women announced that they arrived in Wichita Falls Thursday evening enroute for New York on the return lap of a walking trip to San Francisco and back. They declared that they left New York a little over a year ago with scarcely any funds and have earned their expenses by doing stenographic, clerical or any other kind of work, including labor in California fruit fields.

They left Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock, enroute for Fort Worth. They were registered at the Marion hotel Thursday night as follows: H. Davis, B. Cohen, B. Itazovin and A. Ginsberg.

PROPHECIES BIG HOME BUILDING RENNAISSANCE

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 12.—"Only the inability to build homes fast enough to supply the demand keeps a big majority of American families from owning their own homes," declared James A. Devine, secretary of the Ohio Building Association league, when told that hotel men in the United States had predicted the passing of the American home.

F. G. Bothwell, national secretary of the hotel men's organization, at a convention just concluded, stated that "the renaissance of cliff dwellers is coming." He declared the old-fashioned American home is passing along with the horse and in due time will be exhibited along with the stuffed dodo bird and the egg of the auk. People are moving into hotels, according to Bothwell.

Not so, according to Secretary Devine, of the building and loan organization. "Ohio is soon to witness the greatest home-building boom in its history," he declared. "Every effort of the eight hundred building and loan institutions in Ohio during the next year is to be turned to home building." Devine declared that the home shortage in Ohio has reached serious proportions.

"The public will realize within the next year just what inestimable value to any community is a well-organized building programme. Devine said the American home would never pass out of existence. "Instead the nation is becoming one of home owners," he declared.

TWO AUTOMOBILES ARE NIGHT'S TOLL

Two automobiles constituted the toll of thieves, operating in Wichita Falls Thursday night, according to reports filed with the city police.

A Mitchell car belonging to W. L. Wilkinson and a Ford roadster, belonging to J. M. Hobbs of the Texas Chief Oil Company, both were stolen during Thursday night, according to officers.

CITY IS WITHOUT MAYOR'S SERVICES

The city is conducting its affairs minus a mayor for the first time in its history.

When Mayor W. D. Cline lef the city two weeks ago, W. W. Bonner, mayor pro tem automatically assummed the honor and duties according to provisions of the city charter. Acting Mayor Bonner left the city Friday for ten days and it was discovered that the city charter had no more automatic provisions as to filling a vacancy in the chair of the city's chief office.

The office will remain vacant until Monday night when the remainder of the council will meet and select one of their number to serve as chief executive pending the return of the absentees.

STOCKS FALL TO NEW LOW LEVEL AGAIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Selling of stocks was resumed today and for a time the decline made further headway. The movement was checked however, and in the late dealings the market stiffened, with the closing steady.

Pressure was directed against the industrials, and the standard rails were comparatively steady.

A tentative drive at the coppers and motors in the afternoon gave temporary results, but the last hour brought a moderate recovery. Rails, oils, equipments and shipping shares were in demand on the late rise, in which there was considerable short covering.

American writing paper preferred, dipped to 20 1-2, the lowest since 1918. Central leather, common and preferred, Utah copper, continental can and United States alcohol reached new low points.

Heaviness again predominated in the bond market ,although several of the weak features of yesterday made recoveries. Foreign exchange rates were irregular with a narrow range. Loans carried over until next week at 6 per cent.

DUNS REVIEW

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Duns tomorrow will say:

Business sentiment improved but actual business is still backward. Readjustment in a number of important basic departments have made further progress, and this is materially assisted by increasing resistance to a further lowering of values, notably in the cotton, woolen and silk goods divisions, in which prices are low apparently on a stable basis.

Advices from New England show a further resumption of activity in shoe manufacturing with some plants operating at full capacity, and production in others increasing. In other industrial centers a tendency to extend operations is noted and, though the improvement is slight, as is natural at the height of the vacation period, the feeling as regards prospects for fall and winer is decidedly more confident. Buying of iron and steel remains restricted, but some inquiries are received and the expectation is that the railroads must soon become liberal purchasers.

DEMAND FOR COWS URGENT AT FT. WORTH

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug 12.—Demand for steers and cows was somewhat more urgent today as a result of a reduction in receipts but the calf trade was sticky and indifferent. Cows went at $3 to $4, heifers brought $4 to $4.75 and calves ranged from $1 to $5.

Sheep receipts were limited to 150 head. The market was steady. Some wethers went at $4.50 and fair yearlings sold at the same value. Quotations:

NO WOMEN ON JURIES

With the names of women left out as provided by state law the jury wheel to be used for the coming year was filled Friday at the office of the district clerk's office. Contrary to a prevalent opinion women in this state are not eligible for jury service, state law expressly limiting the service to male residents with certain limitations as to property qualifications.

The number of names placed in the wheel is practically the same as last year. The total number is approximately 10,000. No juries will be drawn from the wheel until the first of September.

NO WICHITAN IS LISTED ON DRAFT EVADER CIRCULAR

The sheriff's department Friday received a long list of "Draft Deserters" in the state of Texas from the war department at Washington.

In the list received Friday only one local resident was listed and that person registered in another county.

A reward of $50 is offered for the apprehension of any of the men listed as deserters. It is expected that another list will be sent later.

FIRE AT CLARENDON.

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, Texas, Aug. 12.—Last night about 8:30, the hay sheds located on the property of the Clarendon Grain company, caught fire and entirely destroyed the buildings and 75 tons of hay. Some horses and mules were in the stables but were safely taken out.

CONDITION OF CROP ADVANCES COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 12.—Unfavorable crop accounts kept the cotton market at small advances during the greater part of today's session, but around the opening and again on the close there were small net declines, so that the close was at net losses for the day of 2 to 7 points. Some little liquidation came from the long side, especially in the late trading.

Opening trades were lower because of the favorable impression made by foreign political news over night, but after the declines of six to 12 points had been scored the market commenced to react on a private bureau report of 57.0 per cent as the condition of the growing crop indicating a yield of but only 7,400,000 bales. On this report, combined with further complaints of shedding and premature opening of bolls in Texas and very high temperatures in that state, the market worked up to levels of 13 to 1 points higher than the final quotation of yesterday.

October rose to 12.94 as compared to 12.66, the lowest level in the early trading.

For a while the market held its steadiness but those who bought on the initial decline commenced to let go and recessions came about, although bullish comment arose concerning mill takings for the week, which were 210,000 bales against 167,000 this week last year.

LIVERPOOL SPOTS.

By Associated Press.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 12.—Spot cotton quiet; prices steady. Good middling, 9.31; fully middling, 8.91; middling, 8.46; low middling, 7.56; good ordinary, 6.41; ordinary, 5.66. Sales 7000 bales, including 4300 American. Receipts, 1000 bales, including 600 American.

BEAR REPORTS FROM CANADA LOWER WHEAT

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Bearish crop estimates from France and Canada tended somewhat to depress the wheat market today. Prices closed unsettled 1-2 to 2c net lower with September 1.23 1-2 to 1.23 3-4 and December 1.25 1-2 to 1.25 3-4. Corn lost 1-2 @5-8c to 1c, and oats 3-4 to 7-8 @1c. In provisions the outcome varied from 40 cents decline to a rise of 2 1-2c. Downturns in the price of wheat took place chiefly during the last hour of trading.

The Canadian crop was officially estimated at 288,000,000 bushels as against 263,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

Liberal country offerings weakened corn, December, touching the lowest level yet this season. Oats, like corn, lacked support.

Provisions averaged lower as a result of scattered selling which more than counterbalanced the effect of higher quotations on hogs.

BULLS CAUSE SHARP RALLY AFTER DECLINE

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Bullish crop advices caused rallies after an early decline in the cotton market today but they were not fully maintained with the market closing steady net four points higher to 25 points lower. The relative firmness of near months at the close was attributed to switching from them to later deliveries by holders of the local stock. December contracts sold off to 13.55 on the early break, rallied to 13.78 and closed at 13.68, compared with 13.65 at the close of yesterday.

The market opened steady at an advance of 3 points to a decline of nine points, and turned easy right after the call under a renewal of scattering liquidation, Liverpool and Wall street selling.

Reports that higher basis asked for spot cotton in the south had checked export demand for the Far East and continued complaints of a dull trade in Manchester attributed to the decline which caried October off to 13.11 and January to 13.60 or about 10 to 12 points net lower. There was some trade buying around these figures, however and the market rallied sharply on private reports that the crop indication had dropped from 8,203,000 bales on July 25 to about 7,400,000. Scattering complaints of crop deterioration were also received which gave the market a pretty firm tone during the middle of the day, with October selling up to 13.35 and January 13.88 or 11 to 12 points net higher. This advance seemed to bring in a little more hedge selling and the market later was quiet with last prices showing reactions of 15 to 20 points from the best. The midday advance was encouraged by reports of continued activity in the domestic goods trade, and notwithstanding the complaints of poor trade from Manchester, movements of cotton from Liverpool for the week were 40,000 bales against 35,000 for the week previous.

New Orleans reported increased hedge selling there on the early afternoon advance, accompanied by reports that new crop receipts were becoming heavier in South Texas. It was reported in ocean freight circles that inquiries were in the market for cotton room amounting to about 20,000 bales for shipment from New York and New England points to Bremen. Port receipts today 18,465. U. S. port stocks, 1,316,411. Exports, 23,476, making 133,583 so far this season, against 67,343 last year.

THEFTS OF CHICKENS REPORTED

The vicinity immediately surrounding this city is having an epidemic of chicken thieves.

Several complaints have been made at the sheriff's office during the last few days and a record was established Friday morning when seven farmers living along the Big Wichita river above the city complained that their chicken coops had been raided the night previous with disastrous results.

One farmer reported the loss of 100 chickens, all of marketable size. In some cases farmers have lost practically their entire flocks.

Investigation by the sheriff's department has led to the belief that the thieving is being carried on by an organized band who apparently have some special method of marketing the chickens after they are stolen. According to information obtainable Friday the thieves Thursday night used two trucks in carrying off their plunder from the several farms visited.

A few complaints regarding chicken stealing have also been made by residents within the city limits.

ANOTHER DIAMOND REPORTED STOLEN HAS BEEN FOUND

Hidden under a fold of the lining of a jewel case where it had been put by the owner for safe keeping, a valuable diamond cluster bar pin, recently reported by Mrs. H. L. Goldstuker, 1303 Giddings street, to have been stolen, was found Friday morning, according to the report of police.

This is the second jewelry disappearance in the past two weeks to be cleared up by the owners finding them, where they had been placed for safe keeping, officers declare.

At dinner the king of England's personal attendant waits on no one else.

MEDICOS ARE PUZZLED BY GIRL'S RECOVERY

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 12.—Given up to die, a victim of the horrible and deadly tetanus, or lockjaw, Nina Helen, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Arnold, of this city, has completely recovered, and her recovery is exciting comment in medical and faith healing circles.

Friends of Dr. R. G. Robbins, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, claims to have many remarkable cures by faith to his credit, assert the child recovered through his prayers at her bedside.

Her physician, while not willing to endorse the broad claims, admits he is surprised at her recovery. He had once given up her case as hopeless, but continued in attendance, and his prescribed treatment was carefully followed.

For several days the child suffered convulsions at intervals of about fifteen minutes. She could not lie down, but had to sit propped up in a hair to avoid stiffening out of her body.

After twelve days of paroxysms the child relaxed and her jaws unlocked. Boils, due to the infection of her blood, followed, but she has now completely recovered.

The physician frankly says that he is unable to explain her recovery.

"Whether it was the treatment of prayer, I am unable to say," he declared. "I am greatly astonished."

A committee of the medical association is making an investigation of the case with a view to a report to the general body.

BURBANK IS HOST TO SOUTHERN TEACHERS

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Aug. 13.—Charmed with the rare southern type of beauty possessed by forty fair school mistresses from South Carolina and Virginia, Luther Burbank briefly ceased his work among his plants and flowers recently to greet the visitors from afar. The educators have been attending the summer school at the University of California, and before coming to California had promised themselves a visit to Santa Rosa to see Burbank.

The wizard of agriculture conducted a party of persons through his gardens and explained many things of interest concerning plant life to them, and what the "school' ma'ams" did not ask was probably what they had forgotten. As a souvenir of their visit, Burbank presented each visitor with one of his flower creations, and the recipients carried it off with glee and a promise that by the pressing process the flower should be preserved for years. Some of the fair visitors pressed the flower to their lips as a compliment to the distinguished assistant to nature.

AMERICAN FLYER TO PHOTOGRAPH MEXICO

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12—According to information received here "Bob" Connell, son of Captain G. T. Connell, federal labor conciliator, has obtained a contract from President Obregon of Mexico to photograph important points in Mexico from the sky.

An American pilot will likely be used on the flights, it is reported, but a Mexican army observer is expected to be in the machine at all times.

The contract will include the photographing of railroad lines, harbors, highways and unexplored timber and railroad lines. One of the features Connell expects to photograph will be the crater of Mount Popocatepetl, long believed to be an extinct volcano, but which the young photographer says is "enjoying a smoke."

WAR CLOUDS NOT HOVERING ABOVE JAPAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—G. Katsuda, a member of the Japanese house of peers, writing in the New York Times, explains Japan's views on eastern affairs. He says:

A great deal of good paper has been wasted in the past ten years upon talk of possible war between America and Japan. We are satiated with this sort of talk. Yet to us Japanese it seems strange that any intelligent person could imagine that Japan, with her scanty resources and inadequate industrial equipment would be stupid enough to commit national suicide by waging a hopeless war against America. The vast distance between our two countries makes such a war on our part a physical impossibility. Should there ever be a war, America would have to fight it in Japanese waters.

In America there seems a deep-seated misunderstanding about Japan's present policy toward China and Siberia. On the other hand, there is undoubtedly an almost universal apprehension on the part of the Japanese public about the American attitude toward us. We Japanese consequently are diverting a good part of our national energy in the direction of defense, while we are suffering severely from the lack of good roads, better sewer systems, better schools and a thousand other improvements necessary for our well being.

It is my sincere desire to have this unfortunate situation cleared up. The best thing I can do, within my limited power, will be to reveal to the American public the real Japanese attitude, as I see it, toward the Asiatic continent. Let me present, then, the Japanese case.

Presents the Business Viewpoint.

Through a member of the house of peers of the Japanese parliament, I will present the views of the practical Japanese man. I can assure the American republic that the time has come in Japan when the opinion of the business community will decide, to a large extent, the nature of Japanese foreign policies.

Often it is imagined that the Japanese intention is to control China and organize her great resources and vast man power for industrial and military uses, and thus to become the mistress of the whole Pacific. Then, it is imagined, the United States would have enough to do to defend her own shores. To my knowledge there is no body of men in Tokio of any consequence, military or otherwise, who are organized for any such stupid enterprise as the conquest of the Asiatic continent. Nor is there a single organization in Japan working for the independence of the various peoples of the East now under the political control of the western powers.

Looks Merely to Defense.

A large portion of Asia is ruled and exploited by these powers. Japan, watching their irresistible onward march, has naturally entertained deeprooted fear and suspicion of the western nations. Even the United States, despite her sincere expression of anti-imperialistic feelings, has to us the appearance of encroachment in the Far East. Japanese people on the whole do not know the explanation, which seems so satisfactory to Americans, regarding the reasons for their numerous holdings and fortifications in the Pacific.

So in the past Japan has considered it essential to fortify her position in the far East in order that she may escape the unfortunate fate of her neighbors in Asia. All the recent wars in which she has been engaged were defensive in their nature. We have fought back the forces that threatened our modest existence in our own part of the world. We have had to be militant to defend our own position, and our recent military operations on the Asiatic continent can be said to be the natural sequence of this necessity.

It must be admitted in the past some of the Japanese methods on the continent have aroused distrust in the minds of native population. Japan's policy toward China has been unsettled and sometimes crude and harsh during the last few years, though possibly less so than that of England in Persia, or France in some of her black colonies.

Interest Mainly Economic.

Our real field of interest is the economic one. We wish to have free access to the resources of China, Manchuria and Eastern Siberia and also uninterrupted and free channels of trade constantly in operation between these countries and ours. The terrific density of our population compels us to choose one at least of two alternatives that must be incorporated immediately into our national policy, territorial expansion or industrial development.

To expand territorially, unless by purchase, is against public opinion of the world today. On the other hand, if we are to develop ourselves industrially only, we must be supplied with raw materials without interferences, actual or potential, on the part of other nations in securing them. Solid economical relations with the Asiatic mainland along with its political stability are absolutely vital to our national life. The Japanese people are educated to this view and could easily be roused to oppose any force that interfered with their claims on this particular point.

It must be plainly stated that as long as the Chinese government remains in a state of pitiful impotence, half-heartedly supported by a very loosely knitted aggregation of jealous and mutually antagonistic generals, such as are now in control of most of the provinces, there will certainly be tendency on our part to desire a partial control of a few positions on the continent to insure an unrestricted flow of commerce.

If the Chinese government continues to be corrupt and incapable of performing its proper functions and 99 per cent of the Chinese people must suffer from the greed of the ruling class there are bound to be certain influences, domestic as well as foreign, for the replacement of such a government. The Chinese people have great potential power. They are well organized commercially in spite of some serious handicaps. But all China suffers from the effect of a weak and inefficient central government.

Calls China a Big Problem.

Some American far eastern affairs experts and missionaries seem to think that Japan is a great evil and that checking her expansion is the panacea for the regeneration of China. These men seem to be clamoring for an immediate millennium in the far East. The task of popitical and social organization in China is a vast and complicated one. There is no single remedy. Hysterical hostility toward Japan will not accomplish anything except to create further international irritation between Japan and China.

I wish to be allowed to impress upon the mind of the American public that Japan is learning, though gradually, and unless Americans wish to assume the entire responsibility for the whole Chinese reorganization, they should encourage her to feel a joint responsibility for the political stability of the far East. Through some concrete means the utter demoralization of China now threatening must be prevented until young China is ready to assume its own responsibilities and bring about orderly progress.

A greater sense of national security on the part of Japan and a consciousness of being counted on as co-workers in plans for international betterment, would do much to bring about a wholehearted co-operation between America and Japan.
