EL PASO, June 17.—A severe arraignment of the Texas court system and denunciation of the proposed judicial amendment to the constitution are contained in a report of the committee on court reform laid before the Texas Press association in forty eighth annual convention here Friday.

The report calls the civil appeals courts "an intolerable system" which excludes masses of people from justice and urges that the 11 civil appeals courts be abolished and that the supreme court be enlarged.

Worked All Year
 The committee was appointed at the convention last year in San Antonio and has been at work a year not only on the report, but on various efforts to obtain court reform. E. G. Steyer, of Dallas, chairman of the committee, presented the report with a strong address for its adoption.

THREE STEPS OUTLINED AT LOCARNO SEEKING TO HALT SOVIET RUSSIA'S TROUBLE

(By Associated Press)

GENEVA, June 17.—Three steps to preserve the peace of Europe in the present troubled situation have been decided upon by the representatives of the Locarno treaty powers attending the League of Nations council session here, a spokesman for the German delegation declared today. Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium and Italy, he said, had decided:

- 1.—To make individual friendly representations to the soviet and Polish governments to do nothing to endanger the peace of their two countries.
 - 2.—That the powers should make individual representations to the soviet and Polish governments to do nothing to endanger the peace of their two countries.
 - 3.—To advise both Jugo Slavia and Albania to adopt a conciliatory attitude and settle amicably the incident of the arrest of a Jugo-Slavian legionary dragon which was followed by rupture of diplomatic relations.
- The German spokesman denied that Foreign Minister Stresemann had been sounded by the British foreign secretary concerning the possibility of troops passing through German territory in case Russia attacked Poland. Germany, he added, was more anxious about Franco-German relations than about the Russo-Polish situation, believing the latter not dangerous.
- Germans Disappointed
 The Germans, he continued, were going back to Berlin deeply disappointed because they had only been able to get vague promises that the French troops in the Rhineland would be reduced in number. The Berlin government, he said, wanted more than promises. It appeared that the population of the Rhineland would become incensed at the continued presence of a foreign army—hence the belief that Franco-German relations were more delicate than Russo-Polish.

Colonel Lindbergh expected to reach St. Louis at 4:30 p. m. (St. Louis time). When he flew here more than a month ago he covered the 900 miles from St. Louis in seven hours and 15 minutes establishing a new record for the route. Army Contemplates Trip; Two Dayton Aviators Said Preparing WASHINGTON, June 17.—A Pacific coast-to-Hawaii flight is being considered by the army and a flight now in progress by Lieutenants Lester MacLellan and A. F. Hegenberger of Wilbur Wright field at Dayton was said today to be in preparation for the trans-Pacific effort.

MacLellan and Hegenberger, who left Dayton yesterday are flying westward in a three-motored Pobjewski biplane, which has been under preparation for some time.

To Test Instruments
 It is understood the flight now in progress is for the purpose of testing certain new instruments developed to aid navigation. If they prove to be successful and the plane demonstrates its fitness, it is believed it will hop off for Hawaii soon.

Details of the flight have not as yet been worked out, and the whole plan is said to be subject to the approval of Major General Patrick, chief of the army air corps, and Secretary Davis.

WIVES ARRIVE TO JOIN FLIERS

BREMERHAVER, Germany, June 17

(By Associated Press)
MOSCOW, June 17.—Investigator of the soviet federal executive committee, joining the other newspapers in expressions of displeasure over the sentence passed on the Russian envoy at Warsaw, says the sentence will provoke just indignation among the public officials of the union of soviet social republics.

A hasty trial of the student, Boris Kovceda, for the murder of M. Voldoff, was necessary, it declares, to enable the Polish government to conceal all the ramifications of the crime.

Poland is Rapped
 Remembering that Poland virtually rejected the first two demands of the soviet, namely, Russian participation in the trial and a severe sentence, the newspaper says: "Soviet Russia awaits Poland's attitude toward the third demand, namely, liquidation of the white guard terrorist organizations in Poland, before drawing final conclusions as to how far the Polish government's avowed desire for good neighborly relations with Russia conforms to the fact."

Other newspapers described the sentence as a travesty on justice and as proof of England's guiding hand in the conduct of Poland's political affairs.

(The sentence imposed on Kovceda was life imprisonment, and the court recommended that it be commuted to fifteen years.)

Hope Of Finding Fliers Dying Hard

QUEREZ, June 17.—Hope of finding Nungesser and Gail, missing French aviators, is dying hard here. Despite the explanation that the "flares" reported seen in the German and Berlin outskirts of the St. John district were merely the light's of the power house at Chute Auxaislets, reports of unusual lights still are being received.

No explanation had been found today accounting for the statement of Georges Rousseau, trapper, that he heard an airplane on the night of May 3 on the St. Marguerite river, near the Saguenay.

A Pleasant, Dainty Bath Is a Simple Thing

A corner of a redecorated bathroom. Observe the beautifying effect of color and the built-in dressing table.

By NEA Service

THERE is a common tendency to fix up the shower parts of the house first, and let the bathroom go until a more convenient season. And sometimes that "convenient season" is a long time coming. The bathroom grows dingier and shabbier. We don't notice it because we are so familiar with it. Then, one day, comes an unexpected guest upon whom we are particularly anxious to make a good impression. And when we have to usher our guest into that unattractive bathroom, we are mortified indeed!

Surprisingly Simple Straightway we resolve that, before another guest comes, the bathroom shall be done over. When we really get started, we are surprised to find what a simple matter it is to have a pleasant, dainty bathroom. Chiefly, it means having the walls and woodwork repainted in light, attractive colorings. Unless the floor is tiled, it will probably need re-painting or varnishing. With a new, washable rug or two in harmonious shades, and crisp, fresh curtains at the window, a transformation has been accomplished.

While the bathroom is being redecorated it is an excellent time to install new conveniences. If the room is sufficiently large, a built-in dressing-table would be a delightful addition. This, together with a chair or small bench, should be painted to match the woodwork. A handy built-in for a smaller bathroom is a chest which also serves as a seat. In this can be kept extra towels, washcloths, soap, etc. The exterior would be painted to match the woodwork, and the interior a contrasting color, adding another decorative note when the chest stands open.

Charming Color Scheme

Light green walls and white woodwork make a charming bathroom color scheme. A good waterproof paint should be used. With a green-painted window-trim, white dimity curtains would be effective, or glazed chintz in a small floral pattern of dainty colorings. Water-lilies or sea-gulls might be stenciled on the green walls.

Pink and Lavender

Pale pink walls and lavender woodwork offer another delightful motif for bathroom decoration, with harmonizing rugs and cream voile curtains adding the finishing touches of distinction. For a windowless bathroom, yellow and white make a cheerful color scheme, the yellow-painted walls giving an effect of sunshine. The walls and bathroom furniture might have a decoration of birds or flowers, done in stencils or flowers done in stencils or decalcomania transfers.

CUBS AND PIRATES CONTINUE TO WIN AS CRUCIAL SERIES NEARS

LEADERS OPEN SERIES SUNDAY FOR TOP PLACE

HORNBY IS HERO OF GIANT WIN WITH FOUR SWATS

(By The Associated Press)

With a season's record of 12 straight victories to their credit the Chicago Cubs today remained a full game behind the race making Pittsburgh Pirates. The two clubs start a crucial series Sunday.

Baseball sages who have been shaking their heads at the reputed lack of hitting strength in the Cub lineup yesterday found little to justify their observations. The Cubs made six hits, but one was a triple by Stephenson and another was a home run by Hartnett. The fading Philadelphia club was a 7-2 victim of the effective pitching of its former team mate, Hal Carlson who went to the Cubs in a trade.

Meadows beats Boston

Pittsburgh had to beat the Boston Braves to stay in the van and the bespectacled Lee Meadows showed the way in a 6-0 walk over. The Braves pounded Kent Greenfield, the former Giant, and he retired for a pinch hitter after six innings on the mound.

Rogers Hornby helped to bring the Giants out of their losing streak at St. Louis by clubbing out four hits in as many times at bat, one of them a home run. New York hit Bob McGraw, the ex-Robin, to all corners of the lot. Bill Terry picked on him for a home run.

In Play-Off For Open Golf Title

HARRY COOPER

With a score of 301 for 72 holes Harry Cooper, professional golfer of the El Sereno club, Los Angeles, tied the mark hung up by Tommy Armour, pro at the Rockville, Md. club. The two will play off the title today at Oakmont, Penn., for the honor of succeeding Bobby Jones, Atlanta amateur, who won the crown last year as champion of the American open tourney.

Reds Trounce Robins

Jess Petty was no puzzle for the lovely Cincinnati Reds, who defeated Brooklyn 10-1. League held the Robins to seven scattered hits and was not scored on until the eighth.

Tommy Armour and Cooper Play Off National Open Tie Today

(By The Associated Press)

OAKMONT, Pa., June 17—Bobby Jones today for the first time in his golfing life will watch two other golfers play off a tie for the open championship of the United States. Tommy Armour of Washington and Harry Cooper of Los Angeles, tied at the end of 72 holes with a score of 301, have removed the champion from the picture. There have been two other play offs since Jones began to take an active part in open golf championships seven years ago but he was a player instead of a spectator in both.

Course Is Jonah

Although the champion would not be named until Cooper and Armour have fought out an extra 18 holes this afternoon, one victory has already been awarded. The Oakmont course, a nightmare to many of the participants, won hands down from all concerned. No two players were able in any one round to beat the 72 par at all and if any one had been able to clutch the traps into submission sufficiently to complete four 18's he would have won.

Tommy Armour, a Golfing Scot, won the right to contest further with Harry Cooper, British born but American trained golfer, by an exhibition of the daring that has made him famous as a player always willing to take a chance. The congressional club pro came to the 18th green after a round in which the finish has given would have broken, needing a birdie three to finish with the leading 301 Cooper had contributed some time before. A drive, almost down the middle and far enough to be useful, left him something less than 200 yards from the green and only two shots to get close. The Robins were to be considered in subsequent championship developments. Armour, noted as a truly great handler of irons, needed no debate himself as to his program. He tore into the ball and sent it right on the pin, determined to get close enough to get down. The shot carried straight and true and came to a stop 12 feet from the cup. There was one stroke left and it was enough. The putt went into the cup and a recount was necessary to decide the champion.

Cooper Has Good Day for his

Cooper had all day for his good 74 in the morning round but him with a 54-hole total of 234, a stroke ahead of Armour, at luncheon. The afternoon brought no path of roses for the Californian, for his card was cluttered up with a trio of sixes and just before the finish he gave away a stroke to par at the 17th. He finally limped home with 77 and Armour knew what he had to do.

Bobby Jones had plenty of company.

The champion was tied for 11th place, the lowest position he has ever occupied in an open competition, but Bobby Cruickshank, heavily favored to win before the play began, had the same score of 309 and Johnny Farrell, another favorite, was only one stroke better.

Melhorn Good on Out

Bill Melhorn, smashing records for the event, with a sensational out, finally got 305 when he took 41 hard blows to get home. Gene Sarazen was third with 302 after a bad eighty in the morning and Emmett French, playing as a tar heel although neither born nor bred in North Carolina, came with a rush to finish with 304. Walter Hagen, with a great chance to win cracked wide open with an 81, to wind up his challenge. Two visiting Britishers were well up. Archie Compston with 308 and Arthur Havers scoring 310.

The 18 hole play off, starting at ten o'clock this afternoon was expected to be full of fireworks.

Hold Many Honors YOUTH IS THROUGH NOW Captain Of 12 Teams

By NEA Service

AKRON, O., June 17.—Gerald D. Armstrong won't be anybody's captain any more.

He's had enough, having been captain of eight teams while in high school and four teams while in college.

Armstrong, who graduates from Wittenberg College this month, earned twenty-three letters while getting his education, seven each in football, baseball and basketball and two in track.

He was captain of his prep school basketball team four times and his prep school basketball team twice. In college, he captained the grid team and baseball team once each and the cage team twice.

He's had his fill and from now on he is going to let his captains do the work while he is coaching for a high school team here.

Bankers Lose 9-6 To Auto-Barbers In Stormy Game

The Bankers lost a mixed up affair to the Auto-Barbers yesterday afternoon at the Merrill park with a score of 9 to 6. The Bankers rallied in the last inning when Stalaker, ace hurler for the city shavers, walked three in a row to fill the bases; but due to safe baseball the Bankers stuffed off their chances for victory by taking needless chances.

Although Stalaker was wild he gathered in his share of the strike outs counting eight for the five innings he worked. Moody Smith was forced from the mound and replaced by Stalaker, who had a 1-0 record in the mechanic-shaver combination rapped out four successive hits to score three runs.

Hubbers To Meet Lamesa; Sanders Is Team Manager

With 'Woman' Sanders at the head of base ball in Lubbock the Hubbers will invade the haunts of the Lamesa hoboes Sunday afternoon and battle the Dawson County lads in a return engagement with the hard nine of Lamesa. The Loboes defeated the Hubbers in their last show here with an extra three inning exhibition and 'Woman' and his gang of recruits are out for business.

Guy Jackson, stellar outfielder of the Hubber machine who has been a resident of this city for some several years, has gone to Amarillo and expects to join the Western League with the Denver nine. The Hubbers will be managed by Sylvan Sanders, veteran player of Lubbock who for several years has been a member of the Hubber combination.

Conveyance Wanted

Should any fans of Lubbock attend the game at Lamesa Sunday manager Sanders is anxious that in case they have extra room in their cars they meet at the Avalanche-Journal offices before going and take several of the players. Sunday's game will find the Hubbers donned in their new regalia.

DEMPESEY MUST SIGN FOR BOUT WITH TUNNEY

RICKARD GIVES THIS ULTIMATUM BEFORE SHARKEY FIGHT

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, June 17.—Tex Rickard late yesterday wired Dempsey on the eve of his departure for the east, that he must sign articles to meet Gene Tunney next September before he is given the offered July 21 fight with Jack Sharkey. Rickard specified also that Dempsey should accept fifteen per cent of the gate for the Tunney fight.

Won't Accept Offer

Dempsey, who left for New York city this morning, emphatically indicated that he would not accept the fifteen per cent gate contract for a fight with the present world's heavyweight champion. He suggested he might fight Sharkey under some other promoter "at just as much money for me."

"Rickard was sure dreaming about pulling a fast one," the former champion said, "when he asked me to fight Tunney for 15 per cent of the gate. With everything practically set for my fight with Sharkey next month he has stepped in with a ridiculous demand that may result in any one of three other promoters staging the fight."

Has Three Proposals

"Sharkey has not signed to fight for Rickard and I have three bonafide promotio offers that would mean just as much money for me, and more for Sharkey. While I don't like to fight Tex, he will have to change his financial plans for my fight with Tunney. When the time comes that I am not worth more than 15 per cent as a drawing card to fight anyone—that is the exact time I am going to hang up my gloves for good and all."

Dempsey's wife, Estelle Taylor, movie actress, is accompanying Dempsey on the trip east. Jerry Lavadis and several other friends, also leave with him.

Dempsey said Rickard would be the first man he would see when he arrives in New York, and that if the promoter wants him to fight Sharkey, then Tunney. "We can get things settled in a hurry. If he doesn't want to stage the Sharkey fight, I will probably meet Jack in a Philadelphia ring next month."

HOUSTON, June 17 (AP)—Appointment of Claude Rothgeb, line coach at Texas A. and M. college as track coach at Rice institute here to succeed Coach Ernie Hjertberg, was announced Friday by Graydon Johnson, manager of athletics at the institute.

Hjertberg, widely known as a trainer of Olympic stars, it was revealed, had returned his 1928 contract unsigned, because it was understood, it stipulated an increase in salary. He is now in New York.

NEW YORK, June 17. (AP)—Prices continued to head upward at the opening of today's stock market, with some rather large blocks changing hands on initial transactions. The preferred opened a point higher, New York Ontario and Western moved up to a new record high and the first sale of General Motors was a block of 6,000 shares at 20 1/2, up 1/2, and duplicating the record high level for all time.

Early buying centered largely in the motor and sugar fields. St. Louis Southwestern, which yesterday recorded a sensational gain of about 19 points, added another five points in the first half hour today, presumably on buying influenced by the expectations of an early resumption of dividends. Wabash, Kansas City Southern and Hudson and Manhattan also were in good demand. General Motors crossed 20 to a new top and was followed into new high ground by Yellow Truck which was again heavily bought. There were a few soft spots. Rush

WOOL TRADING

BOSTON, June 17. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say: There has been a fairly good movement in wool in the local market during the past week and prices are showing a distinct tendency to rise; in fact, some descriptions have been marked up a half cent a pound and the fractional advance has been paid. The fact that the mills are buying more freely and that there are wider inquiries for top and extra is indicative of a better situation in the goods market. The woolen mills are finding a fair vol-

Texas Telephone Concern Adds To Its Organization

(Special To The Daily Journal)

AMARILLO, June 17.—The Panhandle Telephone and Telegraph company, of Amarillo, chiefly controlled by Dr. J. E. Nunn and J. Lindsay Nunn, pioneer northwest Texas telephone men and newspaper publishers, and George Hill, also of this city, is now operating a total of 21 exchanges in northwest Texas and Oklahoma. The company just recently purchased 16 exchanges in Oklahoma from the Northwestern Telephone company, of Shattuck, Okla., including exchanges at Shattuck, Wynoka, Gage, Purgan, Beaver, Buffalo and other points in Oklahoma together with exchanges on the Spearman branch of the Santa Fe, including Polletta, Hooker and Darouette, Texas, being sixteen exchanges and approximately six hundred miles of toll lines. Possession is to be given July 30.

The Northwestern Telephone Co. is owned by John Raynor and John Garvey, of Woodward, Wm. Quinn of Beaver, C. B. Covert of Amarillo and A. C. Oliver of Shattuck, who were represented by their directors in the meeting, the Panhandle company being represented here by Lindsay Nunn, George Hill and H. C. Pupkin, all of Amarillo. The purchase price is understood to be approximately $200,000, that being the capital of the selling company.

The Panhandle Telephone and Telegraph company was organized in Amarillo last February when George Hill, formerly district manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, resigned to become affiliated with J. E. and J. L. Nunn, in the operation of the telephone business. Since the organization of the company they have acquired exchanges at White Deer, Roxana and Groom in addition to the exchange at Panhandle, which has been owned by Dr. J. E. Nunn for the past twenty years. The exchange at Wheeler, Texas, has been purchased and will be taken over in the next two weeks, making a total of twenty-one exchanges. The headquarters of the company will be maintained in Amarillo, with the personnel of the company remaining the same.

Youth Ends His Life With Fashioned Toy

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 17 (AP)—A toy cannon, an ingenious contrivance of springs, levers and odds and bits of metal which Emil Endler, 20, machinist, had fashioned, was the agent he selected to end his life.

He loaded the lethal weapon with a pistol cartridge, and pressed the trigger as he sat on a park bench last night, the bullet passing through his heart.

Police found a note near his body addressed to a Milwaukee girl and declaring that without her, life "was not worth living."

RAIL CAMP IS OPENED HERE

60 Men and Much Equipment Is Concentrated Southeast of City

The Fort Worth and Denver South Plains railroad engineers are three miles southeast of Lubbock constructing a cut and fill where the new railroad will cross the Yellow House canyon and eventually give Lubbock a direct steel route to Fort Worth.

After construction of improved camp dwellings, actual work of the line into the city will start. R. F. Kline, representative of the firm announced last night. Sixty men with a giant steam shovel, a number of trucks, wagons and other construction materials are at work on the project.

Sprague in Charge

H. M. Sprague, who has headquarters at Beatrice, Neb., is in charge of the camp here and will direct the construction work on the cut. The main office of the firm has been maintained at Plainview with C. E. Campbell and A. A. Nisley in charge.

With the grade work being virtually completed at other points along the right-of-way, six camps will move into Lubbock county soon to complete the work in this section. The road will come into the city by circling south of the cemetery, intersecting with the Panhandle and Santa Fe where the Station Street crossing was miles southeast of town, and continuing northward to 18th street.

Berlin from New York. The reunion was affectionate.

"Why didn't you even have those knickers cleaned?" asked Mrs. Chamberlin, of her husband referring to the golf knickers in which he made the flight from New York.

"How could I?" he replied good naturedly. "I have been too busy even to think of it. By the way, did you bring my clothes along?"

Mrs. Chamberlin assured him that she had adding: "But I forgot the shoes and cap."

A reporter asked Mrs. Levine whether she had forgiven her husband for his unannounced participation in the flight, to which she replied: "You bet! I think he is just wonderful."

When Mrs. Chamberlin was asked what she thought of her husband now that he had become a hero, she replied gaily: "It would be foolish to say."

Later Chamberlin and Levine, accompanied by their wives, left by air for Hamburg, from which they will go to Magdeburg and then Berlin.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, mysteriously summoned to the queer little jungle bordered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, encounters an old friend, VILAK, who tells him it was he who had sent for him.

Vilak's cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl, owns a coffee plantation and other lands near Porto Verde and has received mysterious warnings to get out of the country. Vilak is alarmed, because several deaths already have occurred and the supernatural natives think some supernatural force is at work.

The day Nunnally arrives another man is killed, TONY BARBETTA, one of Elise Marberry's foremen. He had been hit with a club in the hands of LIMEY POTTS, another foreman. Before he died a strange paralysis took hold of him, and Vilak called Nunnally that he is certain Limey Potts, though he may have struck the victim, was not the murderer.

That evening Vilak induces Nunnally to come with him on a visit to the house of GAYLORD PRENTISS, a retiring and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise. Vilak believes Prentiss is somehow involved in the mysterious deaths.

Before going to Prentiss' place, Vilak and Nunnally call on Elise Marberry. Against Vilak's wishes she insists on going along. When Vilak knocks at Prentiss' door, saying he is Elise's lawyer, Prentiss orders them away.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY
CHAPTER XI

Vilak shrugged his shoulders and returned to his companions. "Did you learn anything?" Elise asked eagerly.

"Perhaps a little. Perhaps too much," he answered.

The moon disappeared behind a cloud. The night became shrouded in misty darkness. They were slowly picking their way toward the gate when they heard a click as of a door being opened in Prentiss' house. A moment later something bounded through the brush toward them.

"It's the dog out on us," Vilak murmured. "Run to the gate."

The girl took the old man's hand and darted off to the fence. Vilak halted and tranquilly taking a vial and a large handkerchief from his coat, saturated the cloth with the pungent liquid.

The dog came nearer, then burst through the bushes, a huge black monster with fiery blazing eyes. It leaped upon Vilak. He crumpled under the impact of its massive body. It sprang at his throat but he caught it in his strong fingers and while its black blood struggled to reach his flesh, thrust the handkerchief against its moist nose.

In a moment its struggles began to lessen. It gave a convulsive gasp and lay stretched on the ground, breathing heavily. The others came up to look. Vilak brushed the mud off his clothes. "He won't bother anyone else for at least half an hour. I gave him a good dose of chloroform."

The old man looked at the long fangs, white in the rays of Vilak's flash light. "Are you sure you haven't killed him?"

"I don't kill unless I have to. Not even a dog."

They crawled through the gate in the fashion they had entered. Vilak took a wax impression of the lock. They crossed the bridge and climbed the steep slope to the lake above. Elise crossed to pull out her boot which had sunk deep into its muddy shore.

"I don't see why I should want his property even if it is mine," she said thoughtfully, as she gazed out over the misty expanse of water.

"Why he lives in that wretched spot is utterly beyond me. There's far too much of this water above it. It's bad enough on my fazenda, being threatened every rainy season by the dam at Aviloz, but in his house I'd be constantly afraid that one of these lakes would overflow and start trouble. The ground where his house is situated is so extremely low. The lakes probably aren't large enough to do much damage; nevertheless it wouldn't be pleasant if they broke through. I've been in one flood and don't care to be in any more. I repeat that why he lives there is absolutely beyond me."

She was about to speak again when a warning pressure of her cousin's hand checked her.

"I thought I heard a noise," he said softly to her and to the chemist behind. "It's quite possible we are being followed. Come toward me and halt. Keep absolutely motionless."

They obeyed quickly, and close to Vilak waited, the girl listening to catch the faintest trembling of the brush. Nunnally, glad of the opportunity to rest from his unusual exertions, leaned lightly against the tree under which he stood. Suddenly he gave a sharp ejaculation of pain.

For the first time the old man saw his friend lose his coolness. He wheeled violently and spoke in a fever of anxiety of which Nunnally had not believed him capable. "You hurt, Nanny? Quick! What's the matter?"

"E—nothing. Er—really nothing."

Nunnally's voice was humble and apologetic. "I'm sorry I cried out. Er—sorry. I forgot about the ergo-glove and took it off and stuck my hand on a—er—thorn."

"Never mind about that. Let me see it!" He seized the old man's withered hand and disregarding any followers who might be stalking through the trees, snapped on his flashlight and under its brilliant rays examined the tiny wound.

He drew a breath of relief, then extinguished the light. "It's all right. I thought it might be something else. But if you value your life, keep on that glove. Let's start walking again."

They proceeded in single file a few hundred feet. Vilak again halted. "I'm fairly certain now we're being followed," he whispered. "You and Elise walk ahead and talk to each other as loudly as you like. The louder the better. Keep talking. Have your pistol ready, Nanny, but don't shoot unless I tell you."

The old man and the girl moved obediently down the path. Vilak crept into the brush and waited, listening intently. But he heard nothing. After a few moments he stepped out and rejoined the others. "I was certain something was there," he remarked. "It's quite possible my ears tricked me out here in the jungle where there are so many noises. Don't often do it, though."

They reached the tree near the fern thicket where Elise, like the others, had tied her horse. She looked back at the black hole through which they had just come. "Well, we got through there without any trouble, after all," she said. "Your ears are playing tricks with you, aren't they, Vilak? You've been smoking too many of those 'Chinese' cigarettes. It's a wonder to me that your nerves haven't completely gone to pieces. I'd hear a great many things that didn't exist if I smoked even two of them."

Vilak smiled, and took out his fantastically carved, cigar case. "Perhaps that's a hint that you'd like one now?" She made an indignant gesture of refusal. "You, Nanny?"

The old man rather timidly took out his own modest, mild flavored package. "Er, thank you very much. But I think—er—think I'd rather have my own. I will take a—er—match though."

"You mean to say you've lost those two boxes I gave you this afternoon?"

The old man looked at him humbly. "Not lost exactly. Er—Not lost. They just slipped down into that lining of my coat again."

"You're hopeless. You're positively hopeless, Nanny." Vilak shook his head. "If Elise is still the good creature she was when she was a child she'll sew up your pockets tomorrow. Here's another box of matches. Don't lose this one."

They lit cigarettes, mounted, and rode toward the town. As they reached the spot where the bridge crossed the river they saw the light of the torches at the railroad camp, and upon Elise's expressing a wish to see it rode nearby.

"You're looking at the embankment they could look down and see the laborers still at work pitching their camp, their black shadowy forms (flitting about spectrally in the ruddy light of the torches and the fire.)

They were close enough to the embankment to be clearly seen by those below; the handsome, white-haired chief with whom Vilak had spoken several hours earlier walked over to gaze up the embankment and ascertain the identity of his visitors. Recognizing Vilak and the chemist he smiled and waved his hand cheerily. "You ride late tonight, señors," he called out in his clear, robust voice. "Will you not come down and chat a little?"

"No, thanks a lot!" Vilak called in response. "We're on our way to bed."

"Ah, indeed are you most lucky," the engineer answered. "Myself I shall be up all the night before the camp is done. Ah, the life of the engineer is not easy. But at least you will smoke with me a cigarette. It would be most kind. It would pass for me a few moments' pleasure. Too often am I lonely." He waved a comprehensive hand toward his vicious-faced workmen.

"With my villanos, heh, there is not much to talk."

"Sorry. We've really got to go," Vilak responded. "Some other night, perhaps." They chatted a moment from the heights, then the three called out a good night and touched spurs to their horses.

"Bos notte, señorita, señors," the engineer called out after them. "Have a care of the roads. They are not too safe."

"Charming fellow," said Elise as they turned into the highway leading to her home.

"Delightful," Vilak responded.

They rode a dark quarter of a mile without seeing either beast or traveler except a belated ox-cart driving to town, which the cursing Brazilian driver told them had broken down fifteen kilometers up the road and the pointer of evil only knew when he would get into the city. Then they heard a sound of men's voices in argument and nearing the spot saw the two Italians who had been there earlier in the evening. Pasquale Branza of the patched check and enormous Adam's apple and the one-armed Detto Cleonora of the broken teeth.

The Latin stopped arguing immediately on seeing the travelers and swiftly snatching off their hats and bowing unctuously, murmured a salutation. The old man caught a glimmer of steel at their belts.

All Is Not Jake

Rodney Dutcher's recently completed survey of conditions obtaining in American insular and territorial possessions reveals most emphatically that matters are far from what is vernacularly known as hun-ky-dory.

In Hawaii, where takeovers seem to be the chief interest in life, there is less political-mindedness than elsewhere and how the government is administered there is a matter of little import so long as its Pacific may be brought across the Suez under the tariff wall.

In all the other dependencies, there is a long complaint the main tenor of which seems to be a cry of exploration. American industries, it is claimed, are taking everything out of the territories and putting nothing back into the local treasuries.

Herbert Hoover looked upon almost as an infallible demi-god by virtue of his many outstanding achievements in the Department of Commerce, comes in for a terrible lambsasting from the Alaska department of the government in Washington of the ground that the Hoover administration of fisheries has annihilated the small fisher for the benefit of the big canning plants.

General Wood has been in hot water ever since he assumed government of the Philippines, and now he is bitterly assailed for his proposed sale of public utilities to private corporations.

Porto Rico, wanting to elect its own governor, fears to oppose the present appointive incumbent because he favors higher taxes for American-owned industries benefiting from the ridiculously low assessment now in force.

The Virgin Islands want civil instead of naval government. So do Guam and Samoa. The Philippines want independence. Alaska wants statehood. Porto Rico wants self-government. A varied assortment of ambitions here, and American administration has been able to satisfy but one of the lot.

In spite of the fact that the government now fairly teems with bureaus, there is ground for supporting Carmel Thompson's proposal for a bureau of insular affairs to govern all U. S. dependencies. Why the Department of the Interior, the War Department, the Navy Department and the Department of Commerce should all have their monkey wrenches in the works of various territories is not clear.

There is a moral to this tale of complaining islands. The administration has assumed the role of policy for this hemisphere, and if it cuts a sorry figure in keeping contented its possessions, how can it hope to assume the guide of an all-satisfying caretaker for still more smaller peoples?

Valuable Weapons

Despite the oft-repeated assertion that the next war will be fought in the air, it will probably be won on the ground, for airplanes cannot build ground at night or in bad weather. For this all important part of any military campaign, tacticians must still depend on the good reliable doughboy who can dig himself into occupied land and stay dig.

In the search for new implements of war, the British developed one man tanks seem to be most sensible. Carrying a machine gun, they make of each soldier a one-man arsenal of exterminatory trade. Their flexibility and invulnerability makes their future in warfare seem almost unlimited.

We Do Move

THERE are still on earth and kicking a few old souls who remember the curfew and the day when any young lady who permitted a gentleman friend to keep her company after 10:30 p. m. would have things said about her and get a reputation.

Recently, however, an Evanston, Ill., co-educational institution of higher learning has announced that its young ladies may stay out till 1
a. m. on date nights, which come twice a week, are we approaching Thomas A. Edison's ideal of a race which sleeps but four hours a night, or are we approaching perdition?
Whatever it is, we are certainly moving, and that not slowly.

THE PLAINSMAN

Says:

Look here! There are more automobiles in the United States than there are telephones and those people who are riding in them are not staying home—they're going places and seeing things. The Plainsman believes that Lubbock has more and better attractions for these motorists than has any other town in West Texas and he's for making it possible to show the world!

Now to consider the cost of the project.
J. F. Hankins, who knows more about roads in ten minutes than the average layman knows in a lifetime, said in a public address recently that Lubbock county with its 7,000 motor vehicles, would actually save money by having a hard surface highway through it even if the tourist trade was not worth a cent! In a forty year period, figuring the wear and tear on machinery tires and the excess use of gasoline Lubbock county citizens would pay themselves for this highway in a 40 year period, was his deduction.

The fact that Texas Tech's original appropriation for the next two years, totaling $1,600,500, will lose only $46,000 when the gubernatorial tax falls on state's institutions of higher learning, is nothing less than cheering. As Henry Kimbro, a regent of the college, said "Texas Tech is 'over the hill'—its future is assured." The Plainsman believes that the people of Lubbock, West Texas and Texas are beginning to take Texas Tech as too much of a matter of course. The college is here, and it is enjoying a rapid growth and most of us are inclined to think of it as a brick in the pavement—just a fixture and that's that. It is the wrong thing. Most of the people right here in Lubbock do not realize the value, the quality and the future of Texas Tech. We're not doing enough looking and enough thinking in connection with this big institution which is within our gates.

Mark these words—with the continued financial support of the state Texas Tech will have 2,500 students by 1930. It will have 4,000 students by 1935 and by 1950, if the onward march of seekers for education continues, no less than 7,000 students, specializing in the various branches of the sciences, the arts, the law, the letters and the professions. You don't doubt that these estimates look to the future. See the figures of the Universities of Illinois for the past decade. Look up the attendance records of Georgia Tech. of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, or coming closer home see what the Universities of Texas and Oklahoma have done even in the last five years along the line of increasing their student bodies, their facilities and their faculties! Education, like aviation, can not and is not to be denied. LUBBOCK PEOPLE DO NOT REALIZE WHAT TEXAS TECH MEANS. Time alone can prove its value.

Well everybody is about to fly everywhere.

WASHINGTON LETTER

NICARAGUA'S ENVOY CHANGES HIS NAME—HE GETS THE COLD SHOULDER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The Hon. Senator Don Alexander Napoleon Casar Chamorro, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the United States from the Diaz government in Nicaragua, has been welcomed in some sections of the strenuous diplomatic social life here with a cold shoulder.

The Hon. Senator Dr. Don Alexander Napoleon Casar Chamorro, envoy extra-ordinary to the United States from the Diaz government in Nicaragua, is invited to the big parties at the Cuban embassy and the Pan-American legation. He is invited to all the functions thrown by the secretary of state and the Pan-American Union.

But when Chamorro's own racial brethren, the other Latin-American diplomats, have their balls and receptions, Chamorro generally has to stay at home.

All this, mind you, is not because Chamorro is personally offensive.
The trouble simply is that most of the people south of the Rio Grande haven't yet recognized the Diaz government of Managua.

THE fact might be inserted here that Alexander Napoleon Casar Chamorro—who, bearing the names of four great conquerors, certainly should be able to sweep all before him—has undertaken to be known in this country as Casar, or Casar, rather than Chamorro. The State Department has co-operated wholeheartedly with him in this capricious endeavor.

The Chamorro name is in rather bad repute. When Chamorro's were swapping the Nicaragua presidency within the family, there were 15 Chamorros in high government positions. It was Gen. Emiliano Chamorro who fell so keenly the disgrace of losing the presidency and exiled to the clan as to stage the famous 1925 coup d'etat which returned him to power. The State Department virtuously refused to recognize Emiliano as president.

Since the department accepted Diaz, every effort has been made to show that he had nothing to do with the coup d'etat. This explains why it was more diplomatic not to have a Chamorro as minister to the United States, which is the second most coveted job in Nicaragua.

The Chamorro still remains the gentleman's last name. Imagine Daves or Borah trying to persuade the world that his name was Gibbet or Swinowsky! It is true that Latin -Americans retain both paternal and maternal surnames, but the giveaway comes when correspondents of South and Central America insist on referring to the minister as Chamorro so that the folks down there will know whom they mean.

The State Department names five republics south of the Rio Grande every year, or so having recognized Diaz. This is the only country available and it does not include Cuba and Panama, which could hardly have refused recognition in view of their close hook-up with this country.

The five who have fallen into line are Salvador, Honduras, Colombia, Chile and Peru.

A BOY'S GOOD NAME

A boy has no better asset than a good name. Those whose forebears have lived as reflect credit and honor on the family name are fortunate.
To bequeath a good name to a boy is a girl's no merit, not to do it is a positive demerit. Every boy and girl should start out in life with a good family name. It is a right of which many are deprived.

A boy with health, ambition and a good name has more than an even break in the race of life.

There is genuine pathos in the story told. The Herald last week of a Plainview business man who told of boys attempting to burglarize his place of business. "I have seen these boys almost daily.
I had learned to like them and you cannot imagine how it hurt me to find out that they had transgressed the law," he said. "Subsequently my store was actually entered and goods taken. I hated to lose the goods, but my regret over losing thirty or forty dollars worth of goods is nothing to compare with the pain that was caused me by losing confidence in those two boys.
They didn't actually get into the store of course, but in the eyes of the law their attempt is as serious as if they had actually effected entrance."—Plainview Herald.

THE COLORADO-GULF HIGH-WAY

With the awarding of contracts for concrete work in Hall and Har-deman county portions of the Colorado-to-Gulf highway and for the gap in Wilbarger county, the dream of a paved highway from Amarillo to Fort Worth is steadily approaching realization. Childress county will vote soon on a bond issue for that county's section of the highway; if the bonds carry, there will be within a year, probably, a hard-surfaced road from the west line of Hall county, all the way to Fort Worth, a stretch of approximately 230 miles.

Amarillo can look forward pretty confidently to the day when it will be linked to the rest of Texas by an unbroken slab of pavement.
The thousands of Colorado-bound tourists who now pass through this city will become tens of thousands.—Amarillo News.

Steel Plant Set Off By Pass Of Hand Over Sphere

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—By a slight "pass of the hand," Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, yesterday set in motion the gigantic electricified homestead steel plant near Pittsburgh.

Seated in his office at 71 Broadway, Judge Gary passed his hand over a glass sphere, the ensuing action being a revelation of the ability of engineers to control large power machinery and overcome space with infinitesimal electrical currents.

The demonstration was made jointly by the Steel corporation and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, as a feature of the convention of the Iron and Steel electrical engineers now in progress in Pittsburgh. Delegates to the convention witnessed the demonstration.

Energy Increased
The feat involved building a minute quantity of energy released from Judge Gary's hand into great enough strength to control the operation of the steel plant. This was accomplished, according to the engineers, by various electrical devices, with the aid of radio waves and land wires over the 300 miles separating New York and Pittsburgh.

Many different kinds of electrical apparatus were tied together. Correlated were a Knowles Grid glass relay tube, a recent Westinghouse development, and one of the most sensitive devices in the world; a short wave radio transmitter; delicate relays, selectors, and various control panels. All these made it possible for a very weak current to control a current many times more powerful in the motor-generator set driving the steel mill motors.

Christian missionaries in China of promises in return for their pacifist attitude.

It is now clear that those lead-to make war upon Christianity as well as on the white race.

After being driven out of their homes and robbed of everything these missionaries have been glad to sell themselves of the protection of the white soldiers against whom coming to China they had ex-patriated so vehemently.

PAID UP FOR LIFE AT "65"

At age 30, the rate for 20-payment life insurance is $26.10 per thousand, per year. "Too high," say many men. So they buy ordinary life at $17.76 per thousand, and bind themselves to pay annual premiums until death or the age of 65.

"Why can't you give us insurance with 20-pay life features, that will pay out at about 65?" This question has been asked of Southland Agents a thousand times.

Our answer is: "We can." For only 95c per year per thousand more than for ordinary life, or a rate of $18.71 at age 30, you can buy insurance with 20-payment life advantages, pay for it entirely during your productive years, and be all through at 65.

No insurance idea in years, has met such a favorable acceptance. Ask your local Southland Agent to explain it to you, and quote the rate for your own age.

PAID UP FOR LIFE AT "65"
At age 30, the rate for 20-payment life insurance is $26.10 per thousand, per year. "Too high," say many men. So they buy ordinary life at $17.76 per thousand, and bind themselves to pay annual premiums until death or the age of 65.

Neil H. Wright

Dear Sir: I am interested in your new policy which becomes paid

THE BATTLE'S ON!

No More Fooling!

CLARENCE SAUNDERS

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT SETS OFF THE FIREWORKS!

OPENING SATURDAY!!

Saturday is our Big Opening Day. It's the day when the Big Battle starts. It's Napoleon's Waterloo for High Prices. The end of easy, coasting days are over. We mean business. The Opening day don't expect the band—the wailing saxophone or “booming” drum. The sweetest music you'll hear on Broadway Saturday will be the Clink and Clank of dollars rolling into the Cash Register at Clarence Saunders. Every time the bell rings somebody's made a Saving. Every time you pick up a Clarence Saunders' basket you've found the key to a very different situation—a saving process in buying groceries. The stock is just as complete now as the markets of this section will allow. You'll find everything different. You'll find buying easy, selection easy, paying easy! The big parade down Broadway begins at Clarence Saunder's store when the doors open and its trail will lead to every thrifty home in Lubbock.
