Governor Said To Have Placed 'Power Politics' Above Law In Decision

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — State Sen. Ronald Bridges, D-Corpus Christi, said Wednesday a Texas Conservation Foundation report Gov. Preston Smith cited in turning down the purchase of a state park site was "rigged."

Harry Tennison, one of the foundation members, agreed.

And the Texas League of Conservation Voters suggested Smith placed "power politics" above the law in his decision not to apply for federal matching funds to purchase the park site on Mustang Island.

League officials said Wednesday the "final decision as to whether or not Mustang Island should be purchased has already been made by a majority vote of the Parks and Wildlife Commission and this decision must be implemented.'

Blocked Deal

Two of the three parks board members voted last month to buy 3,965 acres on the island for $4.2 million. But commission chairman Pierce Johnson — the only board member appointed by Smith—has blocked the purchase by refusing to sign an application for federal matching funds.

Smith asked the Texas Conservation Foundation — a 12-man group set up to solicit donations and land gifts for parks — to mediate the dispute between the park board members. The foundation held a' hearing on the matter Monday and voted 8-3 Tuesday against the Mustang Island purchase.

Smith then spoke out against the proposal.

Bridges said the governor was trying to pass the buck by using the foundation's report as his authority.

"It was very obvious to me," Bridges said, "That many of the foundation members had been persuaded beforehand how to vote. I know Pierce Johnson lobbied the group and I suspect the governor lobbied them.

Lobbied Group

"I totally reject this vote as a legal thing." He said he thought the foundation meeting "was rigged.'

"This is a very precarious precedent we're setting, in which the governor lets one board review the action of another,' 'he said. "This foundation is not even funded by the legislature and is a foundation with no legal right to hear this.'

Mustang Island is at the northern tip of Padre Island, just across the bay from Corpus Christi.

Smith upheld Johnson's right to block application for federal funds to buy the island by quoting the foundation's report, which said Mustang Island was not a high priority park site and the $4.2 million could better be spent elsewhere.

League spokesmen Wednesday questioned the objectivity of the foundation members, as well as the propriety of having that group consider the matter at all.

Hearings Rigged

The league said members of the foundation were contacted prior to their special hearing Monday "by those forces that are absolutely against the island purchase."

Reds Rap U.S. Raids To Rescue Captives

PARIS (UPI) — The Viet Cong and North Vietnam today rejected American proposals to exchange 36,000 Communist prisoners for 5,000 American and allied captives and warned they will intensify the war if their peace package is not accepted.

Returning to the negotiating table after a one-session boycott because of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, both the Hanoi and Viet Cong officials said the prisoner of war issue was a "maneuver" of the Nixon administration in its effort to "prolong and extend the war" in Indochina.

Madame Nguyen The Binh, the Viet Cong delegation chief, said, "If the U.S. government runs headlong into its war of aggression, the Vietnamese people, side by side with the two Lao and Cambodian brotherly peoples, are determined to step up their just struggle until final victory."

The Communists, who forced a suspension of last week's session to protest U.S. air raids on North Vietnam, attacked the overflights again today as "adventurist military acts" which, they asserted, would be "duly punished."

Claiming that U.S. military activity in Vietnam was being stepped up, Madame Binh said: "Meanwhile, the U.S. government has resorted to the 'American POWs issue' in order to deceive and exacerbate public opinion, thereby trying to cover up its crimes and adventurist acts of war."

"This," she said, "is simply the trick of a thief crying: stop thief."

North Vietnam delegation chief Xuan Thuy also rejected U.S. demands to negotiate a prompt exchange of POWs. He said it was aimed at "misleading public opinion."

The Communist diplomat's remarks were in answer to a new plea made Tuesday at a news conference by chief U.S. negotiator David K. E. Bruce to take up the prisoners of war issue immediately.

Thuy said the Dec. 1 warning by U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird that the United States might carry out new commando raids to save captive American pilots was a threat to carry out "pirate acts."

"We wish to state that the American pilots captured while committing crimes in North Vietnam come under th escle jurisdiction of the North Vietnamese government and that the latter has applied to them a humane policy and that it will take measures likely to assure their security," Thuy said.

House Unit Kills Senate-passed Consumers Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Advocates of new consumer protection laws admitted today they had struck out in the 91st Congress. But they promised to try again in the 92nd.

The last prospect for final action on a major consumer bill collapsed Wednesday when the House Rules Committee on a 7 to 7 vote refused to clear for House action a Senate-passed bill creating a consumer protection agency.

As passed by the Senate on a 74 to 4 vote, the bill would have set up an independent agency to represent consumer interests as well as a council of consumer advisers to report to the President. The rejected House version was somewhat different, but opponents said the effect was the same—to add new layers to existing overlapping bureaucracies concerned with consumer affairs.

Consumer Group 'Angered'

Earlier, a committe-approved bill to let aggrieved consumers initiate class action suits against manufacturers was sidetracked in the Senate, while a comparable bill in the House was turned down in committee.

A third major consumer bill, setting up minimum standards for warranties, also was consigned to a House committee pigeonhole.

The Consumer Federation of America—a coaltion of 180 consumer or consumer-oriented groups said it was "angered and distressed," not only at Wednesday's Rules action but also at the fact that so little consumer legislation of any kind had emerged from the 91st Congress.

Legislation Passed

Among measures enacted so far have been bills to tighten restrictions on use of flammable fabrics in clothes, bedding, and furniture; to broaden federal meat inspection provisions; to give the government authority to take unsafe toys off the market; and to outlaw broadcast cigarette advertising starting Jan. 2.

150 Students At Pampa High Walk Out In Protest

About 150 Pampa High School students walked out of morning classes today to protest the school board's dress code policy, but at the request of school administrators all but 30 returned to classes as of 10:45 a.m.

"The first student walkout on dress code policy in PHS history lasted about 20 minutes and involved about 150 of the 1,500 enrolled. I didn't see any of the Student Council Executive Committee involved in this action," Cameron Marsh, PHS principal said.

"This started Wednesday with students posting signs on the walls urging those who wanted to protest the dress code to walk out at 10 a.m. They didn't have any protest signs this morning and didn't create any disturbances, just started walking out of the building between 10 and 10:20 a.m. After they stayed out about 20 minutes most, all but about 30, came back in and went to third period class," Marsh said.

He stated he did not know yet what action will be taken, and will make a decision Friday after confering with Supt. Dr. James F. Malone and assistant Principal Marvin Bowman.

Police received a call from an unidentified person at 7:35 a.m. today who said a "bomb is set to go off at high school at 9:35 a.m. today," but as of noon today, the high school was still standing.

"Over the past 10 years, we've have had five or six calls like that, and in most cases chose to ignore them as prank calls. One time we evacuated the buildings and had the police search, but it was a prank call, just like this one," Marsh said.

Hippie Leader Sought

PALACITAS, N.M. (UPI) — Ulysses S. Grant, a hippie commune leader who claims he is the reincarnation of the 18th U.S. president and who recently ran for governor as a write-in candidate, was sought Wednesday on murder charges.

Grant was charged with killing two commune residents, Robert Copeland, 27, and Joseph Ornas, 47, whose bodies were found Tuesday near Grant's home. Grant, his wife, Helen, and their child were missing.

$100,000 NEEDED

Support Sought For WTSU Ranch Project

By TEX DeWEESE

Another in a Panhandle-wide series of fund-raising meetings for West Texas State University's proposed agricultural research and development center was attended by more than 50 area farmers and ranchers in Jim's Steak House here Wednesday night.

At the session, presided over by F. Jake Hess of McLean, president of the American Hereford Breeders Association, the Nance Ranch project where the WTSU research center would be located, was explained by Dr. Charles Smallwood, dean of WTSU's agriculture department, and James A. Potts of Taylor-Evans, Inc., Amarillo.

A campaign to raise $100,000 "seed money" for the project was launched last month at a meeting of some 100 cattlemen and agri-businessmen in Amarillo.

Meetings now are being conducted in various Panhandle cities to raise money to start the research and development center on the Nance Ranch, a 2,393 acre tract five and half miles east of the WTSU campus in Canyon.

The famed Nance Hereford Ranch was donated to WTSU with the university to have full control after Jan. 1, 1971. The donation solved the agriculture school's land problems.

U.S. Transport Plane With 32 Lost In Viet

SAIGON (UPI) —The U.S. command said today a U.S. transport plane with 32 American servicemen and 12 Vietnamese aboard was missing and presumed down over central South Vietnam. It was the second such plane missing in the same area in a week.

Military spokesmen said the twin-engine C123 Provider transport had been missing since Sunday.

"An extensive search and rescue effort has not located the aircraft," the command said. Foggy and rainy weather has hampered the search for both missing planes.

RISKY GIANT STEP

Genetic Scientists Predict Man May Learn To Manipulate Genes

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Genetics scientists meeting today said the study of inheritable diseases is at the same place nuclear physics was in the late 1930s just before the atomic bomb—on the verge of monumental but risky breakthroughs.

"We are not there by a long shot, but it is now just a technical problem, and sometime in the future the manipulation of genes will become a technical possibility," said Dr. Arthur G. Steinberg of Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland.

The breeding of specially selected people, such as seven-foot basketball players, for instance, would be a possibility, though not a desirable one, he added.

"We are about the same place where nuclear physics was in 1938-39," he said when asked to evaluate the extent of diseases.

Steinberg is scientific chairman of a first-of-its-kind conference involving more than 100 genetic scientists and such national and civic leaders as the wife of Arkansas Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller; Maine Gov. Kenneth Curtis; and Raymon H. Mulford, board chairman of Owens-Illinois Corp.

Conference topics include the effect of environmental stresses on the genes that carry life to succeeding generations. These external forces include radiation, drugs, food additives, and air and water pollution.

President Says No U.S. Troop Cuts In Europe

BRUSSELS (UPI)—President Nixon, in his most sweeping commitment yet to America's European allies, pledged today there will be no U.S. troop cuts in Europe without reciprocal cuts by the Communists.

On the contrary, he said, the United States will improve its forces in Europe.

His statement was contained in a message read by Secretary of State William P. Rogers to North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) foreign ministers.

U.S. officials said this was the most open-ended commitment of this sort the President has made.

ALL PLANS APPROVED

Work Is Started On City's Water Plant

Work of clearing off the building site for Pampa's $1,302,550 water treatment plant was started today by the Mitchell Construction Co. of Dallas.

A. E. Mitchell, head of the contracting firm, and A. V. Smith, construction superintendent, both were in Pampa.

They conferred this morning with City Manager Mack Wofford and advised him that heavy equipment would be moved onto the job within the next week or ten days.

Mitchell said plans had been approved and he had been given the go-ahead from Forrest and Cotton of Dallas, the city's consultant engineers on the project.

Under terms of the contract, allotted time for completion of the job is 300 consecutive calendar days, beginning ten days following the work order dated Dec. 10.

The city has received project approval from the Department of Housing and Urban Development and also for the $133,907 water pipe line which will be put in place by the Foran Construction Co. of Borger.

IN UNOFFICIAL INQUIRY

Veterans Say GIs Use Torture, Murder To Make Vietcong Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A group of Vietnam war veterans have told an unofficial inquiry that American soldiers torture and murder Viet Cong prisoners to gain intelligence information.

They said prisoners were thrown from helicopters, tortured with electrical shocks to genitals and breasts, six-inch pegs were driven into their ears, and women were threatened with their children's deaths.

The veterans commented at the National Veterans Inquiry into U.S. War Crimes Policy, sponsored by antiwar groups.

Dr. Gordon Livingston, a former Army surgeon in Vietnam and now a resident in psychiatry at Johns Hopkins University, said American soldiers go through a "whole process of dehumanization" that starts with referring to Vietnamese as "gooks" and "slants."

Killing Becomes Insignificant

"The acceptance of the inferiority of the Vietnamese is so broad, so pervasive that there is practically nobody not involved," he said. "In that context, it is not surprising that individual soldiers will kill innocent Vietnamese."

Livingston said that when a helicopter pilot temporarily was grounded for flying so low he killed two Vietnamese women on bicycles, he said, "It's ridiculous. Why should I be grounded for killing a couple of gooks?"

Kenneth B. Osborne of Washington, a former intelligence specialist, said he was along on two helicopter flights when American officers ordered Viet Cong prisoners thrown out to force other prisoners to talk.

Osborne also said American soldiers put six-inch pegs in prisoners ears and kept tapping them inward in an effort to make them talk.

Effects of Violence Linger

Former Sgts. Edward Murphy of Philadelphia and Stephen S. Noetzel of the New York area said American servicemen hooked the wires of battery-operated field telephones to the genitals of men and the breasts of women and gave them electrical shocks to prod them into talking.

Murphy said "terrorism" also was used. He said a group of women were separated from their children and told to "tell us about the Viet Cong or we will kill your kids."

Dr. Robert J. Lifton of Yale University, who won a National Book Publishing Industry award for his study of Hiroshima atom bomb survivors said there are indications returned Vietnam veterans have difficulites with their families and perhaps may continue to be attracted to violence.

HK Attorney Files $400 Million Suit Against Lt. Calley

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—Paul Narkin, a Hong Kong attorney who said he was representing 59 survivors of the alleged May Lai massacre, filed a $400 million suit Wednesday against 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr. and the U.S. government.

Narkin said he would seek a 10-day delay today in the court-martial of Calley so he can bring some of the survivors from Vietnam in hopes they could identify Calley. His suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Columbus, Ga.

Charlie Thut To Be Honored At Dec. 21 Luncheon

Charlie Thut, Gray County clerk, who has served the county in that capacity for 46 consecutive years, will be honored at a joint luncheon of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and the Gray County Bar Association Monday, Dec. 21, in Coronado Inn.

Thut has been on the job continuously since the courthouse was moved from Lefors to Pampa in 1924.

He will be honored for his pioneer public service during the 46 years when Gray County voters went to the polls and re-elected him time after time.

Officials had hoped to make the luncheon a surprise event but said because of the holiday season they wanted to make sure he would be present for the occasion.

The luncheon will be open to everyone in Gray County and especially to Thut's friends in McLean and Lefors and other county communities.

David Holt and Don Lane, of the bar association, and Kay Fancher, chamber president, who are in charge of arrangements for the luncheon, said today reservations should be made early at the Chamber of Commerce office in the Hughes Bldg. Seating capacity of the Coronado Starlight Room is limited to 250 persons.

The program will involve highlights of the veteran public official's long career as county clerk.

The recognition luncheon for Thut will take the place of the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

UAW Refuses To Extend Contract With Ford Co.

DETROIT (UPI) —The United Auto Workers say the union will not extend its contract with Ford Motor Co. past the midnight Monday strike deadline, heightening the threat of another nationwide strike unless a new three-year contract agreement is reached.

Emerging from Wednesday's bargaining session, Ken Bannon, director of the union's Ford Department, said the strike deadline is "very real."

The union and Ford agreed on Nov. 23, when negotiations were resumed following the conclusion of the union's 67-day strike against General Motors, to reinstate the old, three-year contract which expired Sept. 15. This gave the union the benefit of having Ford collect union dues while assuring the company there would be no wildcat strikes during the talks.

Both sides are basically agreed on a wage and fringe benefit package similar to the one obtained at GM, but they are stalled on when the wage hikes will become effective.

Bannon said he wants the back pay—an average of $250 per employe—distributed to the union's 150,000 members at Ford before Christmas. The company has proposed to pay about half the first-year wage increase—a 26-cents-an-hour in cost-of-living increase retroactive to Sept. 15—and defer paying the negotiated increase of 25 cents an hour until after the national contract and all local settlemets have been ratified. This payment of the 25-cent raise, which also is retroactive to September, might be put off until February, the union feels.

Three Major Oil Companies Fined

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The government has fined three more oil companies $566,000 for operating offshore wells without storm chokes. And Shell Oil Co. faces a month-long fight to douse a flaming well lacking one of them.

U.S. District Judge Fred J. Cassibry fined Humble Oil and Refining Co., Continental Oil Co. and Union Oil of California the total $566,000 during their arraignment Wednesday for federal offshore drilling regulation violations.

Humble, accused of 150 violations, was fined $300,000; Continental was fined $242,000 on 121 violations, and Union $24,000 on 12 counts. Judge Cassibry imposed the maximum fine of $2,000 against the three firms on each charge for failure to install storm chokes.

Shell, whose $12.5 million "Baker" platform 65 miles south of New Orleans blew out and caught fire Tuesday.

Interior Plans For Auditorium Are Shaping Up

Further details of interior construction for Pampa's civic auditorium were discussed yesterday at a meeting of city officials and M. K. Brown Memorial Auditorium Committee representatives with Herbert Brasher, Lubbock, architect.

Up for discussion were such things as type of fuel to be used for heating and air-conditioning, total electric or gas for heating and electricity for cooling. Cost of both plans will be studied with utility company officials.

Based on a recommendation from accoustical engineers, the auditorium floor will not be carpeted. Carpeting, however, will be used in the foyer and hallways.

City Manager Mack Wofford said Jan. 15 has been set as the tentative date to receive construction bids.

Following awarding of contracts, Brasher said construction should start around the end of January or early in February.

Band Boosters To Hold Chili, Stew Supper

Pampa Band Boosters will sponsor a chili and stew supper from 6 to 9 p.m. Friday at Pampa High School cafeteria to help finance the PHS Band's Dec. 15 trip to perform and attend the Mid-West National Band and Orchestra Clinic in Chicago, Ill.

Harris Brinson, band director, said the group has raised about $12,000 of the $15,000 goal needed to finance the trip. The Pampa band was one of five bands chosen from North America to perform at the national clinic which will be attended by 8,000 band directors from all over the world.

The Band Boosters' last chili suppar planned before the trip will be sponsored before the Top of Texas Basketball Tournament which will be played Friday night in the PHS Fieldhouse.

Congressman In Panhandle For Long Weekend

Congressman Bob Price arrived in the Panhandle today for a long weekend of meetings.

He began the weekend at a 10 a.m. news conference for area news media in his Amarillo office. This noon, Congressman Price lunched with radio and television executives. Later he was to go to Plainview to address a meeting of the Plainview Kiwanis Club.

On Friday, Price will meet with constituents in his Amarillo office during the day and will visit with the Amarillo Veteran's Administration Hospital in the afternoon. He will conclude the day with an address to the State Convention of the Texas Farmers Union at the Holiday Inn West.

Saturday, the Congressman will meet with constituents of the eastern half of the 18th District in his Pampa office in the Post Office Bldg.

Youth Pleads Charge Of Driving Under Influence Of Alcohol

Randy Stephens Jones, 21, of Amarillo, pleaded nolo contendere to a charge of driving while intoxicated today and was fined $75 and costs, and sentenced to 30 days in jail and six months probation by County Judge S.R. Lenning Jr.

Kiwanis District Governor In City On Official Visit

Dr. Ernest Sturch Jr., governor of the Texas-Oklahoma District of Kiwanis International, will pay an official visit to Kiwanis clubs of Division VI at a banquet hosted by the Pampa Kiwanis Club at 7:30 p.m. today in the Pampa Country Club.

Governor Sturch will be welcomed to Pampa by D.W. Bond, president of the Downtown Kiwanis Club, and John Simon, Top O' Texas Club president, along with representatives of clubs from Wheeler, Shamrock, Wellington, Canyon, Hereford, Vega and Amarillo.

Dr. Sturch, who will be accompanied by his wife, is dean of instruction at Southeastern State College, Durant, Okla. He served as professor and head of the Department of Physical Sciences there until 1969 when he was appointed dean.

Music for tonight's affair will be furnished by the Sue Higdon Combo and David Campbell, minister of music and youth at the First Baptist Church.

Police Check Out Minor Incidents

Police today were investigating several minor incidents that cropped up in last night's reports.

Paul Crossman, manager of the Crossman Car Wash, 523 W. Foster, reported theft of a vacuum hose, and told police the place was being used at night for beer parties. He asked that a close watch be kept.

A domestic squabble involved a Pampa woman who said her husband threatened her life because he could not raise $1,200 in cash for an emergency. Police went to the scene, halted the argument and the husband agreed to pack his clothes and leave.

Sanitation department workers complained of a car that has been blocking an alley used by the city's trash collection train. A wrecker was summoned and the car was hauled away and placed in storage.

Judge Sets Two Bonds

Justice of the Peace Ed Anderson set a $1,000 bond Wednesday on Josephine Pequeno Brown, 28, of Duncan, Okla., on a charge of carrying a prohibited weapon, and set a $500 bond on Sammy Cox Jr to discharge his obligations on a fine in Denton.

Support For WTSU Sought

audience that of the $100,000 needed to get the Nance Ranch project into operation, $35,000 will be used to add 150 head of commercial cows to its present herd of 70 registered Angus and Herefords, $45,000 for research facilities and $20,000 for improvements and first year operating expenses.

State appropriated funds will be available for the school and its research project, Potts said, after it is in full operation.

Dr. Smallwood, dean of the WTSU agriculture department, said West Texas is now one of only four universities in the state with a full agriculture department.

"Our staff is dedicated to the development of the young people and the agriculture industry in this region," Smallwood said. "We are located where the action is, right in the heart of the greatest cattle-raising area in the world."

The agriculture school dean said West Texas now has 510 students in its agriculture school and expects an enrollment of 700 within the next two years.

He said with development of the research center WTSU expects to attract many more students, professors and researchers.

Hess pointed out the advantages of the center to local cattlemen and local businessmen in Texas Panhandle towns and cities.

He also explained how pledges can be made to the $100,000 fund. He said donations or commitments would be sought from cattlemen in the categories of one head or $200, two head of cattle or $400, five head or $1,000 and ten head or $2,000.

Plaques with names of the donors, he said will be placed at the main gates, corner posts, line posts and inside the ranch main buildings.

It was stated area cattlemen of the area will benefit by having research and feedlot technology in beef production "right at home."

Agricultural students will benefit, Dr. Smallwood said, with wider opportunities for learning and better job placement.

Foster Whaley, Gray County farm agent, was appointed to answer inquiries and disseminate information about pledges and the Nance Ranch project in the local area.

"There is no opportunity for all of us in agribusiness, cattle raising and industry to help solve the problems of our own area," Hess told the audience. "It is a project that will do it if we all help."

Whaley read a letter from Charles White, marketing manager for Cabot Corp., pledging Cabot's support of the project.

THBA Directors Meet At Luncheon

Directors of the Top o' Texas Hereford Breeders Association met yesterday at a noon luncheon at the Coronado Inn, where plans were set in motion for the annual Top O' Texas Hereford Breeders Show and Sale here March 8, 9, and 10.

Robert Newton, president of the association, announced Bill Breeding as superintendent of the show and sale, and Ralph Thomas in charge of the sale catalog.

The annual Junior Heifer Show will again be held in connection with the breeders' show and sale, with four classes to be shown. Prizes of $25, $15, and $10 have been scheduled. A registered Hereford calf will be furnished by president Bob Newton to the winner of the Junior Heifer Show.

The association's annual banquet will be held Tuesday evening, March 9, in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn. Jake Hess, of McLean, who is president of the American Hereford Association, has been invited to address the banquet.

Other business transacted at the meeting included scheduling of advertising, appointing work committees, and setting a work day for Tuesday, March 2, at which time the buildings and grounds will be put in shape for the annual show and sale.

New Federal Rules On Trucking To Be Effective January 1

New Federal regulations regarding interstate trucking will go in effect Jan. 1, according to Joel Mann, Amarillo, who addressed the Pampa Rotary Club in Coronado Inn yesterday.

Mann is the accounts manager for a truck rental firm in the neighboring city.

"If you are a private carrier, or an owner-operator, and you move it by truck-your're covered," he said.

The trucking firm executive went on to describe briefly the type of records and length an employer must keep them in meeting the new regulations.

He advised anyone in the group affected to contact the Department of Transportation in Lubbock if assistance is needed in understanding the new federal standards.

During a question and answer period, Mann said he did not know the exact answer to whether or not oil rigs would be covered, but said the Lubbock office could give an interpretation.

Last week, the Rotarians were entertained by the Robert E. Lee Junior High School choir.

O.O. BEHRENDS

Funeral services for Ommo O. Behrends, 65, formerly of Pampa, are pending with a Decatur, Ark., funeral home.

Mr. Behrends died Wednesday in Decatur, after a brief illness.

He was born April 24, 1905, and had lived in Pampa from 1911 to 1964. He operated a farm northwest of Pampa, and moved from here to Decatur in 1964. He was a veteran of World War II and was a member of the Baptist Church.

Survivors are his widow Ruth of the home, Route one in Decatur; two sons, Donnie and Jimmie both of Decatur; two grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Wilma Hoar of Tulsa, Okla.

MELGAR C. MAUK

Funeral services for Melgar C. Mauk, 94, of Pampa, will be held at 10:30 a.m. Friday in Carmichael-Whatley Colonial Chapel with the Rev. M.B. Smith, pastor of Alanreed Baptist Church, officiating. Graveside rites will be held a 10 a.m. Saturday at Mount Hope Cemetery at Independence, Kans., directed by Carmichael-Whatley Funeral Directors.

Mr. Mauk died Wednesday at his home, 1157 Prairie Drive.

Spiced Cranberries Decorate Christmas Tree Pudding Cake

Cranberries are Christmas-tree red. So let's use them in this unusual pudding cake to delight and surprise the family.

CRANBERRY CHRISTMAS TREE PUDDING CAKE

1 pkg. devil's food cake mix
1 pkg. yellow cake mix
1 c. fresh cranberries, ground
one-third c. sugar
½ c. chopped walnuts
1 tbs. rum extract
2 pkgs. instant vanilla pudding
1 pkg. (1 qt.) frozen whipped toppings thawed
Spiced cranberries

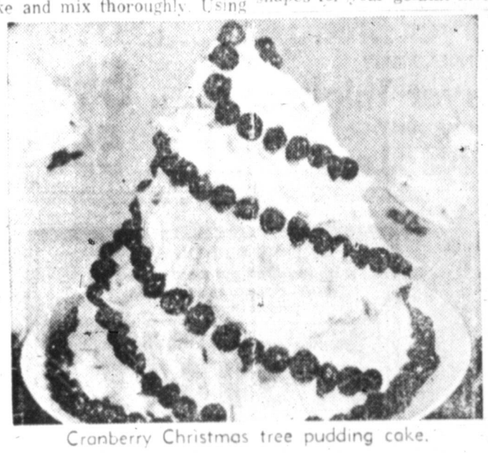

Prepare cake mixes separately as directed on package. Bake batter in 2 greased 9x13x2-inch baking pans. Unmold and cool. Crumble cakes into a large bowl. Add cranberries, sugar, candied fruits, walnuts. Toss to blend. Add rum extract to vanilla pudding which is prepared according to package directions. Pour pudding over cake and mix thoroughly. Using a 12-inch round platter, spoon enough cake mixture onto platter to form a 10-inch base. Spoon on remaining cake mixture to make a cone-shaped tree. Place in refrigerator until thoroughly chilled and firm. Before serving, spread sides of cone with whipped topping. Decorate base and sides of tree with spiced cranberries. To serve, cut crosswise slices beginning at the top of tree. Eighteen to 20 servings.

SPICED CRANBERRIES

(Makes about 3 cups)
two-thirds c. cider vinegar
one-third c. water
3 cups granulated sugar
2 sticks cinnamon
12 whole cloves
1 lb. (4 cups) fresh cranberries

Combine vinegar, water, sugar and spices in a saucepan. Bring mixture to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for 5 minutes. Add cranberries and cook over high heat for 2 or 3 minutes, stirring gently. Do not overcook or cranberries will lose their shape. Pour mixture into sterilized jars. Seal and store for at least 1 week before serving.

Freeze cranberry juice cocktail for that block of ice in your holiday punch bowl. Use plastic containers in various shapes for your gelatin molds.

Package Friendship In Homemade Gifts

At Christmastime, when we're seeking a meaningful gift for "special ones," what could express our thoughts better than a homemade gift? Fresh cranberry treats are always a welcome and timely gift at this season of the year. Breads, cookies, candies, jams, jellies . . . there is no end to the cranberry goodies you can share with your relatives and friends.

BRANDIED CRANBERRY-ORANGES

(Makes about 5 pints)
6 naval oranges
1 pound (4 cups) Ocean Spray fresh cranberries
3 cups granulated sugar
1 cup orange juice
Brandy

Cut oranges into ⅛-inch slices, discarding the end pieces. Prick cranberries with a needle. Put one-third of the oranges, one-third of the cranberries, in layers in a large bowl. Sprinkle with one-third of the sugar. Continue layering, ending with the sugar. Cover and let stand at room temperatrue for several hours. Pour mixture into a large pan. Add orange juice. Bring mixture to a boil. Spoon fruit into sterilized jars. Add one-fourth cup brandy to each jar. Fill jar with hot syrup. Seal and cool. Store in refrigerator until ready to serve.

CRANBERRY HOLIDAY CAKELETS

(Makes 18 small cakes)
¾ cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups Ocean Spray fresh cranberries
1 package (8 ounces) pitted dates, chopped
3' cups pecans or walnuts
2 eggs
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon lemon extract

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Combine cranberries, dates, and pecans with flour mixture in a large bowl. Toss together until each piece of fruit is evenly coated with flour mixture.

Beat eggs, sugar and extract together until light and fluffy; pour over flour-fruit mixture. Mix thoroughly to coat fruit and nuts with egg mixture. Preheat oven to 300 degrees. Line 2½-inch muffin pans with fluted paper liners. Pack fruit mixture into paper-lined muffin pans tightly, filling about twothird full. Bake in slow oven (300 degree) for 45 to 50 minutes, or until cakes test done. Cool in parts for 15 minutes then remove from pans and cool thoroughly.

Cakes may be wrapped and stored in refrigerator from 2 to 3 weeks or in freezer up to 6 months.

CRANBERRY BRAID

(Makes 2 braids)
2 packages active dry yeast
One-third cup lukewarm water
1 cup scalded milk
1 cup sugar
One-third cup shortening
1½ teaspoons salt
2 eggs
1 teaspoon ground cardamom
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
5½ to 6 cups all-purpose flour
1½ cups Ocean Spray fresh cranberries, coarsely chopped
½ cup chopped candied lemon peel
Confectioners' sugar glaze

Sprinkle yeast over lukewarm water; let stand 5 minutes. Then, stir to blend well. Combine milk, sugar, shortening, and salt in a large bowl; cool until lukewarm. Beat in eggs, spices, and yeast. Add half of flour and beat until well blended. Add cranberries and lemon peel; mix well. Then add remaining flour and stir until a dough is formed that can be handled. Turn out on well-floured surface and knead until smooth. Place in greased bowl and grease top of dough. Cover and let rise in warm place doubled in bulk.

Punch dough down and divide into 6 equal parts. On a floured surface, shape each piece into a roll 16 inches long. Braid 3 of the rolls together and place on greased baking sheet. Braid remaining 3 rolls of dough together and place on baking sheet beside first braid. Cover with damp cloth and let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) for 25 to 30 minutes, or until braids are browned.

While braids are still warm, top with a glaze made by combining 2 cups confectioners' sugar and 2 to 3 tablespoons hot milk. Garnish with sugared cranberries if desired.

Youth Leaders' Views

America's "best" young people have been and are being alienated and radicalized by the war in Vietnam, the draft, harsh drug laws, the inability of the nation to solve its domestic problems or race, urban blight, pollution and so on and on.

Or so it has frequently been claimed.

If 22,000 16-to 18-year-olds are representative of America's "best" high school youths, however, the recruiters for radicalism are going to have slim pickings among the crop of leaders coming up.

The 22,000 constitute about one-third of the 62,500 students listed in the current "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

The book, published annually by Merit Publishing Co. of Northfield, Ill., lists outstanding leaders and achievers who have been recommended by their high school principals and counselors or who have scored high in national scholarship or award contests. More than 96 per cent of those listed go on to college.

This particular 22,000 took part in a recently completed nationwide study conducted by Merit of the attitudes and opinions of student leadership on 18,000 of the 23,000 public, private and parochial schools in the country.

Students themselves compiled the questionnaire, so it is not some adult's idea of what young people should be concerned about. The questions dealt with Vietnam, drug use, national politics, minority group relations, sex, population, ecology and the whole range of current national problems.

While one in 10 of the students reported using marijuana and 22 per cent favored its use among high school students, 76 per cent said they would not use marijuana even if it were legalized and 96.6 per cent disapproved of the harder drugs such as LSD and heroin.

On the question of the Vietnam war, the one issue which is said to have radicalized many college students, 85 per cent of the high school students felt that respect for this country has suffered because of the war. Yet 72 per cent approved of President Nixon's policy of gradual troop withdrawals.

As for sex, which is supposed to be the older generation's "hang up," a large percentage failed to respond to any of the questions about sexual behavior. If youngsters are sexually liberated, says Merit, they aren't talking about it.

They were talking to friends, though. More than half indicated they discuss their problems with a close friend rather than a parent or brother or sister.

In sum, far from being pot-smoking, sexually-liberated radicals ripe for the college campus barricades, the students revealed themselves as thoughtful, deeply concerned about the social and political crises of the day, but against violence and much more moderate than many would have us believe.

It should be emphasized that the study by no means reflects today's average high schooler because it reported only the opinions of student leaders and high achievers.

But it is the leaders who set standards and behavior patterns for the others to follow.

New Left's Latest Put-on

The New Left, which has "America" reeling unuder a barrage of four-letter words, has come up with a new weapon in its arsenl of ideologically oriented obscenity—comics.

The word is spelled "comix" in the leftish lexicon. Comix first emerged as strips and cartoons in underground newspapers, and later in some college papers. Comix artists are now pubilshing their own comic books.

What are comix?

They represent, claims Jacob Brackman in Playboy magazine, nothing less than "a conceptional breakthrough . . . that can make a difference in how a generation learns to conceive of America. A reference point, an attitudinal acid test, comix are precisely the kind of medium over which young people come together, discover one another."

And what are young people coming together over, and what are they discovering?

"Comix," writes Brackman, "are overrun with sadistic cops, Wallace - loving-long-hair-hating hard-hats, blood-hungry military officers, duplicitous narcs (narcotic agents), threating marhines — and gore!

"Gore, banished from comics since the great Kefauver purge of 1955, gushing forth as if through a ruptured dam. And limitlessly graphic sex. And the two—sex and gore—inevitably conjoined. Genitalia suddenly prey to angry maimings and castrations. . . Comix are never so naturalistic as when depicting mutilation and dismemberment."

It's all a put-on, of course, and all in a noble, humanitarian cause—to make young Americans aware of just how fascistic, militaristic, materialistic and sadistic is the society their parents are bequeathing them.

Who draws the comix?

"The new cartoonists," says Brackman, "scorn Amerika, fear her. Tremble before the no-knock bust. Or before some vaguer, grander, freedom-thwarting, spirit-crushing conspiracy."

To put it in psychological terms, they sound like paranoid psychotics. In plain English, nuts.

Back On The Track

Derailed temporarily (as were most hobbies) by the advent of mass television watching in the early 1950s, model railroading is back on the track in a big way.

There are now about 150,000 model railroaders in the United States, and hard as it may be to believe, they spend an average of $276 a year on the hobby, says Model Railroader magazine. This makes for a current annual market of more than $41 million and keeps the wheels humming for some 110 domestic suppliers of model railroading equipment.

The old cartoon showing a little kid complaining to mother that dad won't let him play with the train set he got for Christmas is not so far-fetched.

The average of the model railroader is about 33.2 years, the magazine learned in a survey. His average income is nearly $13,000 and he spends about 10 hours a week actively engaged in the hobby.

Yet there is no generation gap here. Usually more than one person in a home is interested in model railroading, and usually it is father and son.

The first model trains appeared around the turn of the century. Early ones were made by hand, and since house-hold electricity was not in wide use in those days, each car was powered by a tiny battery-operated motor. Tracks were thin strips of metal inserted into wooden rails. The first accessory was a manually operated switch.

Santa Claus has good news for sentimentalists. The Lionel name, the most famous name in model railroading, has been revived by a new company after an absence of a number of years when the original company went out of business.

Full-scale railroads may have fallen on evil days, but in the world of the miniature, all the signals are green and it's "Highball it!" all the way.

H. L. Hunt Writes

CRITIQUE ON WAR

As the strength-sapping, frustrating war in Indo-China begins to "wind down," the nation can pause and ponder on the analysis and indictments contained in an exhaustive report made by a top level military review board which was set up in 1969 by Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packer.

The three-volume report of the Joint Logistics Review Board blasts the civilian leadership of the White House when its occupant was Lyndon B. Johnson. Among other things, the board found that the administration had wasted millions of taxcollars and contributed to inflation by refusing to mobilize industry, a failure that put the military in competition with the civilian economy for goods and services.

Another failure the board found was the administration's failure to call up reservists who are trained in inventory control. A gradual escalation, said the board, made orderly procurement planning impossible and caused an increase in costs. The board also said there had been a shortage in bombs in 1965 and 1966, although the then Secretary of Defense Robert S. MrNamara had branded such reports at the time as "baloney."

Additional assessments of our failures in the conduct of the Vietnam war will undoubtedly come in the future. They should, provided they are done with the thoroughness and expertise of the Joint Logistics Review Board. The people of this nation have a right to know why we failed. Parents and wives have a right to know why their sons and husbands died. The reasons for our presence in Indo-China are still topics of hot debate and continue to divide a troubled nation. But the administrative failures in the prosecution of the war are equally as serious. The judgment of history may be more damaging than the findings of the Joint logistics Board.

With Some Reservation

By INJUN WOODY

If you have not already been participating in programmes designed to relieve you of tax money, the Postal Service has come up with another one . . .

How would you like to be a participating citizen in an antismut campaign? All you have to do is send in your name, after the millions of forms have been printed for such, to the P.O.

This list of names is supposed to represent people who do not want to get any "Sexually Oriented" mail — after 30 days, that is. Then the postoffice sells the lists!

Of course, there was another law in 1968 called the Pandering Advertisements Law. It was supposed to allow citizens to shut off mailings from a smut peddler.

The new law is different because it will require the mailer's envelope to state that it contains "Sexually Oriented" ads. Now you can't even get them in a 'plain' wrapper . . .

As I recall, the whole trouble with both set-ups is that the Supreme Coa't has not decided yet what 'smut' is. Ten commissions and three years later the issue of pornographic material is still the most obscure uncovered subject to ever sully the courts . . .

The next step will be for the post office to compile a list of those who do want to receive the sex mailings. After all, the gov't shouldn't show partiality That's what the law says . . .

THE GOAL:

Peace By Rule Of Law?

By ROBERT WISCHMEYER
NEA Staff Writer

Fifteen thousand Rotarians will be getting together in Sydney, Australia, next May for their international convention. One session will bring before them world leaders speaking on how laymen can build law into a force for world order with justice.

Two months later in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, some 4,000 lawyers and high court justices from more than 100 countries will participate in the Fifth World Conference on World Peace Through Law.

And so the search for the rule of law, rather than the rule of arms, on this earth goes on.

Can it ever succeed, considering history and the faults of nations, which are merely magnified reflections of the faults of men?

It can—it must, believes the former president of the American Bar Association, Charles S. Rhyne, who spoke on this subject at the Nov. 25 World Law Day observance in Paris. Rhyne, whose list of legal accomplishments both at home and abroad is long, noted:

"The way of the law is the only proven path to peace. Let all the world's peoples resolve to follow that path and follow it together. If the peoples want peace enough to work hard for it they can indeed have peace. The minds, the support, the faith, the enthusiasm, the confidence of mankind must be marshaled back of the law as the road to peace. It is a long, hard road but there is no other way. . . the peoples of the world can do the necessary to translate world order with justice into reality in our day."

As president of the World Peace Through Law Center in Geneva, Rhyne has put muscle behind his words. Created in 1963, the center is the world's largest international law organization, with members in 128 nations.

It founded the World Association of Judges; approved a set of general principles of law adhered to by civilized nations; drew up and circulated throughout the world model treaties on various subjects open to dispute; published a directory of judges and lawyers in more than 135 nations', sets up work programs in international law, and coordinated and gathered information on world law.

But Rhyne knows that neither the center nor lawyers alone can accomplish the mission. Far from it. He urges multinational corporations and international labor unions to work toward world law. He notes that most laymen belong to some organization—civic, educational, scientific, commercial, religious, professional—and he urges members to prompt their groups to study world law and promote it. He addresses a special word to the young:

"The youth of the world, who are called upon to do the fighting, are not convinced that civilized man must engage in massive suffering of the innocent, to decide disputes. They look for a rational way to advance a cause or defend a right."

Pointing out that in the 20th century alone, the number of casualties directly or indirectly due to war totals over 100 million, and that the major nations of the world are spending $200 billion yearly on arms and armed forces (a 50 per cent increase in the last six years), Rhyne nevertheless looks into the decade ahead with hope:

"A generation which has done so many heretofore 'impossible' things like splitting the atom and developing cures for 'incurable' diseases like polio should not feel inadequate to create peace. Rather than base life in the 1970s on eternal preparation for war, we must base it upon eternal preparation—massive preparation—for peace."

Clearing House

Got something you would like to "get off your chest?" That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested there should be more letters to the Editor, that people should speak forest, write to the Editor and their mind. So, in the public interest, "get it off your chest."

Editor:

On Nov. 29 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. I watched the best show I ever watched on television. My many thanks to the sponsors, the actors and the many people involved. Yes, we should all be proud to be free Americans no matter our race, creed or color.

The Symptoms That Point to Cancer of the Rectum

Dear Doctor — What are the symptoms of cancer of the rectum?

Dear Reader — This is a very important question. Cancer of the bowel ranks second or third (depending on criteria) as the cause of death from cancer. And 60 per cent of these are in the rectum. About half of these can be felt by the physician's finger with a simple rectal examination for your doctor doesn't do a simple rectal eramination for your periodic physical examination, ask him to. It is too important to omit. In many instances it is a more important examination than looking in the mouth. Of course, both should be done. An X ray of the bowel does not show the portion of the rectum where most cancers are located. You need to feel, look through a scope or both.

About 80 per cent of patients with cancer of the rectum report a change in their bowel habit in recent months. Sometimes this is constipation but usually diarrhea. Even though a bowel movement has just been completed, there is still a sense of urgency and the patient may pass mucus or gas and sometimes blood. This problem is common in the morning; then in the afternoon there may be a normal movement, sometimes with pain.

Bleeding of varying amounts from the rectum may be noted on the paper, or in the stool. Anyone with bleeding from the rectum MUST have an examination.

Weight loss, weakness and signs of severe illness usually occur only after the cancer is more advanced. the two most important early signs are change in bowel habit, as I have discussed and bleeding from the rectum.

Most cancers of the rectum can be diagnosed early enough to obtain a complete cure. Successful treatment is dependent upon early detection.

Cancer of the rectum can and does occur in young people before the age of 30. You simply can't afford to ignore unexplained rectal bleeding or persistent change in bowel habit at any age.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Can a mole become malignant? I have one just below my shoulder blade. It is about one-fourth inch round and dark brown. It was smooth; now it has become raised and rough and looks like threads through it. It itches and burns all the time.

Dear Reader— Yes, a mole CAN become malignant. A malignant mole can spread rapidly, too. Any mole or other skin growth that begins to enlarge, change color or ulcerate should be seen at once by a doctor. Moles are constnatly irritated, like those on the face where a man shaves, or those near the belt, should be removed as a precaution.

Clark on FBI's Hoover: A Different Tune in '67

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark wasn't always as rancorously critical of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover as he is now.

Several years ago, while head of the Justice Department, Clark publicly lauded to the skies both the long-time chief of the FBI and the world famous agency he built up.

In direct contrast to Clark's current acrimonious carping — to publicize his newly published book, while coyly disclaiming 1972 presidential ambitions — he was then unstinting in his resounding acclaim of Hoover and the FBI. Clark literally outdid himself in heaping lavish praise on both.

This little-known dramatic event occurred in Washington on September 28, 1967. Clark was speaker at a large luncheon of the national convention of the Society of Former Special Agents of the FBI. Present were several thousand members and their wives, congressional leaders and other prominent guests, among them Hoover.

Clark opened his remarks by announcing that President Johnson, then on a trip to survey hurricane and flood damage in the Rio Grande Valley, had expressly asked him to convey his high regard and admiration for his long-time friend and colleage, Director Hoover. Following is how Clark delivered this exceptional presidential encomium:

"I had intended to tell Mr. Hoover earlier, but hadn't the appropriate opportunity, that the President asked me to convey today, as he has himself on so many occasions, his great admiration for his friend of many, many years, his neighbor for many, many years, and his colleague in the goverment of the United States, Director John Edgar Hoover. The President wants you to know that he is with you and with Mr. Hoover in spirit at this time."

With this high accolade as an introduction, Clark then went on to affusively bestow his own.

The then-attorney general extolled the FBI as without peer in personnel, quality and dedicated service, and Hoover as its illustrious personification and leader.

PAEAN OF PRAISE — Following is a verbatim account of views expressed by Clark three years ago — when he wasn't promoting a book and running for President:

"You are alumni of an illustrious institution; an institution unsurpassed in governments in the excellence of its performance; one that reminds us at a time when it is so important that we be reminded that we have faith that big government, which is essential to a mighty nation of 200 million people, can perform through institutions with effectiveness, efficiency and with fairness.

"Of all the institutions of government, there is none in our time in this hour of great concern about crime that we are so fortunate to have such excellence. Of all the agencies that could have reached this level of excellence, the American people can be grateful that it was the FBI because of the dependence of our people upon its performance for both their personal security and their liberty.

"Of all the attributes of excellence demonstrated by the FBI, perhaps none is more impressive than the balance that is always shown. Here there is no quest for empire. Instead, there is the constant awareness that its mission is described and delineated by constitution, delegating powers to the federal government and reserving powers to the states. The FBI lends its strength to law enforcement throughout the United States, working daily to build excellence in state and local law enforcement which is so critical to the survival of this great nation.

"About the man you honor today, there is nothing I can think to say more appropriate than that, as Ralph Waldo Emerson noted in the simple days before the Civil War, 'Every institution is but the length and shadow of a single man.' It seems incredible to me that this could still be true in our day of such complexity and vast numbers.

"But it is true, because, to a degree that I do not know to exist in any other institution public or private, the Great Bureau of Investigation is the length and shadow of John Edgar Hoover."

Thunderous applause and a standing ovation greeted Clark's glowing acclaim of Hoover and the FBI.

But the former attorney general is talking very differently now — without explaining the extraordinary variance. Which may account for Director Hoover's derisive rejoinder to Clark's current refrain, "You never know which way Ramsey Clark is going to flop. He's a jellyfish and soft."

WASHINGTON

Why POW 'Rescue' Failed

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—This reporter, having been connected with a number of rescue missions in enemy territory during World War II, finds it quite difficult to understand why the try at rescuing Americans in North Vietnam was made with such inadequate inteligence information.

Once attempted, any major resuce attempt makes future rescue missions incredibly more difficult. It needlessly exposes the prisoners to greter hardship and possible punishment by the North Vietnamese. It needlessly endangers the lives of some very brave search-and-rescue men.

The rule is, except when a specific date for the attempt is of paramount importance, don't run a rescue mission unless your intelligence is detailed and up-to-date. Any other course is liely to do more harm than good for would-be rescuer and prisoner alike.

A resuce operation is a very difficult and dangerous task at best, even with precise intelligence. It frequently involves a necessity for the most precise timing associated with an infinite ability to compromise when things don't go according to schedule, or when something unexpected happens, as usualy does.

Yet when intelligence is accurate and up-to-date and circumstances otherwise favorable, our experience is that rescues can sometimes be carried out with well-trained professionals with a resonable hope of success.

The problem seems to be that in Vietnam the United States has tended to depend far too heavily on airborne photo and electronic intelligence.

It is true that with interpretation by skilled men, this method can turn up surprising amounts of highly accurate information. But it is also quite true that there are very great limitations on what intelligence can be derived from such sources.

We tend to forget that in dealing with prisoners or anything which can be hidden and moved, air intelligence must be supplemented by some sort of intelligence on the ground.

The United States has been remiss in not developing an adequate net of human agents living in the north.

This reporter during World War II active service learned that there simply was no substitute for having human beings on the ground case the situation in minute detail before complicated operations were attempted. Aerial observation was intensely valuable. But it was not enough.

An agent net is not the sort of thing that you can whtimp up for a quickie rescue. It must be slowly developed in advance for a wide variety of intelligence operations. It is, in fact, something that should have been in development intensively for the past six years.

But it is still not too late.

President Outraged Over Episode About Would-Be Russian Defector

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon considers outageous the episode last week in which Russian seamen were permitted to go aboard a U.S. Coast Guard vessel and forcibly return a would-be defector, the White House said today.

Nixon previously had been described as upset, irritated and concerned about the fact that the first he heard of the incident was through news reports last weekend. As more details of the matter unfolded he was pictured today as outraged.

Some hours before the President was expected to be handed a special report on just what happened off the Massachusetts coast Nov. 23, his press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said Nixon already had "made it very clear" that he would not tolerate a repetition of the incident.

On the basis of reports already in hand on how the Russians from a fishing vessel were permitted to come aboard the cutter Vigilant, search out, beat and take back a Lithusian pleading for asylum, Ziegler said Nixon "felt this whole matter is outrageous."

Ziegler said Nixon was outraged both over the fact that the man's pleas for asylum were rejected, and by the lapse of several days before he became aware of the incident off Martha's Vineyard.

"The procedures followed were inadequate, the action taken inadequate and the judgments used were bad" Ziegler said.

Nixon demanded Monday that the Transportation Department —which has jurisdiction over the Coast Guard —and the State Department prepare a special report by today for him on just what happened. Congress also scheduled an inquiry.

There were conflicts in the public versions by the Coast Guard and the State Department over how the asylum plea was handled. The State Department issued a statement Tuesday designed to make clear that the United States has not reversed its policy of granting asylum to political refugees.

In the case of the seaman from a Russian trawler who leaped aboard the Vigilant, Ziegler said the handling of the case was "completely contrary to every principle this country stands for and contrary to international procedures.'

He said Nixon "has made it very clear that new policies will be established concerning such incidents so that this will not happen again.'

Dr. Kissinger Given Secret Bodyguard

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dr. ry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's national security affairs adviser, has been given a Secret Service bodyguard as a result of the FBI report that a leftwing group planned to kidnap prominent government officials to protest the Veitnam War.

It was learned Tuesday that Kissinger, who heads the National Security Council and has access to virtually all classified government intelligence, has had protection for more than a month.

White House officials would not say what prompted the unusual protective measures or whether other high-level administration officials are receiving similar protection.

But other sources confirmed Kissinger was one of several government officials who FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said last week were possible targets in a kidnap plan allegedly devised by the East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives, a group of Roman Catholic priests, nuns and students.

Spokesmen for the group have denied Hoover's charges.

Boy Scouts To Join In 'Drive Safely' Effort

The Adobe Walls Council of the Boy Scouts of America will be taking part in Governor Preston Smith's "Drive Friendly" campaign for the upcoming 1970 Christmas New Year's holiday period, according to Scout Executive Bill McElroy.

Governor Smith's nationally recognized program urges each Scout unit to carry out some activity that will emphasize the need to "Drive Friendly" throughout the holiday season.

The scouts plan to pass out small leaflets in parking lots, to travelers, in grocery store shopping bags and to the general public.

Activities which may involve any danger such as manning roadside stands, etc., is strongly discouraged, according to Ray Noble, advisor.

Ben Konis To Give Painting Demonstrations At Art Fair

BEN KONIS

The Pampa Fine Arts Association will present its annual Art Fair and Bazaar on the weekend of December 5th and 6th at 123 West Kingsmill in downtown Pampa. Over 25 local and regional artists will be represented at the art fair.

Ben Konis, well known nationally for his work, will give a painting demonstration on Saturday at 1 :30 p.m. in the City Hall Palm Room. Konis has exhibited in numerous group shows, as well as one-man shows, and he is a member of the Texas and New Mexico Fine Arts Associations, Equity Artists, and the Salmagundi Club. He has been a top prize winner in several exhibitions in the New York area, and is now showing many prize winning works depicting the Southwest. Mr. Konis conducts classes at his studio and also conducts a Summer Workshop in Taos, New Mexico. Tickets will be sold at the art fair for a drawing that will determne who wins a painting done by Mr. Konis.

Other demonstrations include pottery, purse making, spunge painting, hand weaving and stichery, tie dyeing, metal sculpture, charchoal, and pastels.

Also included in this year's fair will be the very popular Gourmet Booth where all types of foods can be purchased. Those wanting to contribute to the Gourmet Booth should have their food at the booth no latter than 9:00 a.m. on Saturday. The Fine Arts Fair has become an annual event in Pampa and the fair draws more exhibitors from the Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma areas each year. Mrs. Vernon Hall, a member of the Pampa Fine Arts Board of Directors, is the Chairman of the 1970 art fair.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 and have a sister who is 30. It is the custom in our family that the younger sister does not marry until the older sister has married.

I met a wonderful young man and he's asked me to marry him. As you have probably guessed by now, I want to announce my engagement and start making plans for my wedding.

My sister doesn't have anyone special in sight right now which doesn't seem to bother her. She is intelligent and holds down a well-paid position but she is rather plain.

What should I do? I don't want to upset my old world parents.

WANTS TO WED

DEAR WANTS: I don't want to upset your "old world parents 'either, but if you are parents" either, but if you are asking me what I would do, I'd marry the man and ask him if he knows someone who would like to meet an intelligent, but rather plain 30-year-old woman.

DEAR ABBY: I cannot forget the letter from that horrible daughter signed "Uncertain" who wanted to hasten her mother's death. It was bad enough that the poor old woman was dying of an incurable disease, without having a miserable daughter who wanted to put her out of her misery.

For eight months I nursed my mother who was full of cancer. She has been dead for nearly a year now and I still cry every day, wishing she were still here so I could have the pleasure of taking care of her. Oh, God, how I miss her!

How I envy "Uncertain" that she still has her mother to care for. And how I despise that selfish daughter for wanting to see her mother dead.

SHEDDING TEARS

DEAR SHEDDING: It seems more "selfish" to wish an incurably ill loved one prolonged suffering in order to provide you with the pleasure(?) of nursing her. I could better understand a prayer that the Good Lord either restore her good health or take her mercifully.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor with whom I have been very friendly for several years however, I recently inherited a few thousand dollars and this has been causing me problems.

This neighbor gave me a list of things she wants me to give her for Christmas, and on the list she has a $299 sofa bed and a $150 China closet and a $40 handbag, which she's already got picked out! I sure can't go that high. I intended to give her a nice big box of homemade cookies and candies like I always did.

How can I keep this neighbor's friendship and my money, too?

NEIGHBOR LADY

DEAR LADY: You may not be able to. It's time your neighbor learned that there "ain't" no Santa Claus. So gently break the news to her, and if you lose her friendship, you haven't lost much.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WANTS TO KNOW, BUT HATES TO LOOK STUPID": Ask anyway. There is no such thing as a "stupid" question if it's sincere. Better to ask and risk appearing "stupid" than to continue on your ignorant way and make a stupid mistake.

Evangelistic Singer To Present Concert Program In Pampa Church

Miss Joe Ann Shelton, director of program music for the Southern Baptists' Radio and Television Commission and featured soloist on the international Baptist Hour radio broadcasts, will be in Pampa Sunday, to present a concert at the First Baptist Church, Kingsmill at West Streets.

She will present special music during the morning worship hour at 11 a.m. and will have the entire evening worship hour at 7 p.m. for her concert. Both concerts are open to the public.

Miss Shelton has sung in concert tours and evangelistic crusades in Africa, British Guiana, Mexico and the Far East, was guest singer for the month long Billy Graham crusade in London and has made several records.

She will be accompanied on piano and organ by Miss Loeen Bushman, an associate in the Muxic Department of the Southern Baptists" Radio and Television Commission. Miss Bushman has been recognized as one of the most outstanding organists in the Southern Baptist Convention and frequently accompanies Miss Shelton and others on their recordings.

Area Study Club Meets In Wheeler

WHEELER (Spl)—The '54 Study Club met with Mrs. George Weems recently as the club president, Mrs. Joe Rogers, conducted the business meeting. The club voted to give a donation to the Christmas Lights.

Mrs. C. C. Crowder gave the devotion "Extra Blessings of Thanksgiving" and the story of a "Family Thanksgiving."

Refreshments were served to the following Mmes. Carroll Adams, Fred Wood, Joe Rogers, Cecil Denson, Floyd Davidson, Harvey Davis, C. C. Crower, and the hostesses, Mrs. George Weems.

MD Volunteers Receive $1,569 In Annual Drive

The Greater Plains Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Association of America reported Volunteers in the Muscular Dystrophy March collected $1,569 in the 1970 drive.

Volunteers assisting in the drive were Kappa Alpha Chapter members of Epsilon Sigma Alpha who prepared the march kits, Pampa firemen who assisted in tabulating results.

Culture Club Slates Christmas Program

The Twentieth Century Culture Club met in the home of Mrs. J. L. Chase with Mrs. Myron Marx as co-hostess. Mrs. Dan Cameron, president, conducted the business meeting as minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. J. R. Donaldson.

Projects for Christmas and for the coming year were discussed as members were asked to bring decorations to send to Girls Town and Christmas cards for the convalescent home. These contributions may be brought to the Dec. 8, Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Donaldson with Mrs. E. W. Hogan as co-hostess.

Speakers for the day were introduced by Mrs. W. D. Irwin, who made her introduction in the form of an original poem.

Mrs. E. E. Shelhamer spoke on the town of Nacodoches and discussed Indian Legends including the Legends of Nacodoches. She described the piney woods country where the town is located and touched briefly on the discoverer, La Salle's sojorn there.

Mrs. E. W. Hogan discussed San Antonio, the Alamo City and explained its legends, including the tragic story of the Alamo.

The speaker described the historical buildings and Missions and compared the old and new in San Antonio, including La Villita, the old village of San Antonio that has been restored.

The Twentieth Century Club is among those clubs asked to form an honor Guard for the Pampa historical dedication, Dec. 6. Those attending the luncheon are asked to call the Chamber of Commerce or Tracy Cary.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to the 15 members present.

IN TESTIMONY

Two Witnesses Say They Saw Lt. Calley Open Fire At South Vietnamese Civilians

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—A witness testified yesterday he saw 1st Lt. William L. Calley push about 15 civilians into a hole at My Lai, and said that Calley and another soldier then opened fire.

The witness, Robert Earl Maples, 22, of Freehold, N.J., said on cross-examination he did not know whether Calley or the other soldier, PFC. Paul D. Meadlo, 23, of Terre Haute, Ind., hit anyone.

Calley is standing court-martial for the alleged premeditated murder of 102 South Vietnamese civilians on March 16, 1968, the day his platoon made a sweep through the village of My Lai.

Maples told defense attorney George W. Latimer that he saw people go into the hole and "they didn't come out."

Testifying for the prosecution Tuesday, Maples, a machinegunner during the infantry sweep of My Lai, left the impression that Calley had asked him to turn his M60 weapon on the civilians. He said he refused.

Wednesday, under Latimer's specific questioning, he said that Calley had asked him to use the machinegun but "he didnt tell me to shoot in the hole."

Maples said the word "hole," he said, because "it looked like a bomb crater." Other witnesses have said the civilians were put in a section of a big irrigation ditch.

Maples testified Tuesday that Meadlo was crying as he fired. He insisted to Latimer Wednesday that he had seen Meadlo crying even though he might have been as far as 75 yards away.

He said he did not know how many shots were fired. "I just saw them firing into the hole."

"Did you see Lt. Calley or Meadlo push people into the hole?" Latimer asked.

"Lt. Calley," Maples replied.

Latimer brought out that before an Army investigation board Maples had been asked if he saw Calley pushing people into the hole and had replied: "No, I wasn't paying it no mind."

Maples said yes, he had said that, but that he now remembered Calley did push them.

The next prosecution witness, 26th of the general court-martial, testified he had seen 30 to 35 "old women and kids and some old men" being herded outside the village that day, and "heard some shots."

Lenny B. Lagunoy, 36, of Waipahu, Hawaii, a laboratory technician, said he had been an assistant to a machinegunner named Olsen at My Lai.

He said he did not see where the people went. Sometime after the firing, he said, he saw a helicopter land, the pilot get out, and saw Calley speak with the pilot.

Former WO Hugh C. Thompson has testified that he landed his helicopter that day at the ditch and told "an individual" he wanted to help the people who were in it.

He said the individual replied, "the only way he could help them, was out of their misery."

Maples, the fourth former member of Calley's platoon called to the stand Tuesday, was led through his grim tale by the chief prosecutor, Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel III. Taken as a narrative, here is how it went.

Another witness testified he heard automatic weapons fire later saw 30 to 40 South Vietnamese civilians lying dead in an irrigation ditch where 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr. set up a command post.

The witness, Charles W. Hall, 23, of Columbus, Ohio, described the victims as "very old people, very young children, and mothers." He said when he saw them they were covered with blood.

Calley, 27, is standing court-martial for the alleged slaughter of 102 South Vietnamese civilians in the village of My Lai on March 16, 1968, the day his platoon carred out a search and destroy mission in the hamlet.

Hall's testimony followed that of another Calley platoon member, Robert Earl Maples, 22, of Freehold, N.J., who said he had seen Calley push the civilians into the ditch. Maples said Calley and PFC. Paul D. Meadlo, 23, of Terre Haute, Ind., then opened fire.

Maples was unable to say whether either Calley or Meadlo hit anyone with their weapons fire.

Hall was the sixth former member of Calley's platoon to testify, but the first of the six to tell of seeing bodies.

Hall said that during the My Lai sweep he was an assistant to a machinegunner and that he witnessed the "gathering up" by the platoon of 30 to 40 civilian prisoners who were herded to the ditch.

He said he and the gunner crossed the ditch and they set up their weapon about 55 yards beyond it. The last time he saw the civilians, he said, they were six to 10 feet from the ditch.

An M16 rifle takes from 18 to 20 rounds per magazine.

Maples, under cross-examination, told defense attorney George W. Latimer that he saw people go into the hole, or ditch, and "they didn't come out."

Foreign News Commentary

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW (UPI) —If the alleged memoirs of former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev being published abroad have generated a global sensation, other memoirs exist which someday will prove infinitely more interesting.

Among them are the reminiscences of Josef V. Stalin himself and those of his right-hand man, the 80 year-old Vyacheslav M. Molotov, one-time premier, foreign minister and one of the few surviving old Bolsheviks whose career spanned more than half a century.

No official information can be obtained about Stalins memoirs. But in the past few years there have been intimations that the man who for 30 years was the absolute ruler of his country put down at least part of his extraordinary experience on paper.

Dead men tell no tales—but when and if Stalin's memoirs are made public an interesting new light will be shed on Khrushchev's indictment of his onetime patron and associate.

Molotov in Retirement

Molotov alone who is still alive and who actually battled against Khruschev's ruthless de-Stalization campaign can assume the role of Stalin's advocate and defend his late comrade.

In complete retirement since 1961, Molotov, who early in his political life was described by Vladimir I. Lenin as the "best filing clerk in Russia," has an elephantine memory and has been walking the corridors of supreme Soviet power since the 1917 revolution.

He was reported reliably to have completed his memoirs about two years ago.

The late John Foster Dulles once described Molotov as the ablest foreign minister of this age.

Tales He Could Tell

The tales he could tell would dwarf everything Khrushchev said into relative insignificance. But the taciturn Molotov has not taken anyone into his confidence and his memoirs are unlikely to see daylight until after his death, if then.

Curiously enough, there probably would have been no memoirs at all if there had been no Khrushchev. Memoirs in Stalin's lifetime were inconceivable.

The attempts at liberalization and democratization of the early Khrushchev era encouraged the writing of reminiscenses.

In his devastating indictment of Stalin at the 20th and 22nd Communist party congresses of 1956 and 1961, Khrushchev requested and encouraged old Bolsheviks and military leaders who had been victimized by Stalin to share their experiences with the people.

Raids Did More Harm Than Good

DALLAS (UPI)— The recent American commando raid on a North Vietnamese prisoner of war camp did the prisoners more harm than good, says Francis Gary Powers, who was held prisoner for nearly two years after the Russians shot down his U-2 high-altitude spy plane in 1960.

"The raid on the prison camp was a great idea if it had worked," Powers said Tuesday in an interview in Dallas, where he is promoting a book about his U2 mission, capture and imprisonment. "I feel they should never have done anything like this if there was no 90 per cent chance of its succeeding."

Powers was shot down over the Soviet Union May 1, 1960, and held prisoner until Feb. 10, 1962.

He said the unsuccessful raid will put Communist guards on their alert and make it almost impossible for American prisoners to escape. He said word of the raid will get around to all the prison camps "because the Communist Vietnamese will brag about this."

8 Pampans Dinner Guests Of Natural Gas At Amarillo

AMARILLO— Eight Pampa residents were honored Wednesday night at Pioneer Natural Gas Company's annual service award dinner at the Amarillo Club.

Pampans honored at the affair were:

Earl R. Hobbs, 25 years; Lyndon W. Watson, Trueitt E. Wren, Francis L. Dougherty and Troves B. Gilbert, 10 years; Dale H. Everson, Ellis G Knight, and Wendel L. Winkleblack, 5 years.

Over 85 employes nd their wives attended the dinner, one in a series of three such affairs being held by the company in different cities in its service area. This year 163 employes, representing 2,215 years of service, are being honored.

Awards were presented by Burton P. Smith, president of Pioneer. Smith also delivered an informal talk.

In connection with the awards, Smith said:

"The year 1970 has been an exciting, active year for Pioneer. This is not because any single person or department has made it so — but because all of us have worked together to improve our company, our communities and ourselves."

Price Applauds War Prisoners Rescue Attempt

Congressman Bob Price of Pampa applauded the recent commando attempt to release Americans being held in North Vietnam, "even though it resulted in the cancellation of my second scheduled meeting with the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris Peace Talks."

Speaking to the Plainview Kiwanis Club today, Price told of his Sept. 11 meeting with the North Vietnamese and of his attempts of three days to reschedule a proposed November 23 meeting with Nguyen Minh Vy, Deputy Chief of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Peace Talks.

"I talked with Vy's secretary several times but was told each time that he was busy and that I should try to contact him later," Price said.

"At my September 11 meeting with Vy, I gave him a list of Texans and other Americans who are prisoners or have been listed as missing in action. I was quite hopeful of getting a report on these men at the second meeting we had agreed upon," he added.

"Vy's secretary was very polite during my telephone conversation with her last week and I believe that Vy would have seen me if his superiors would have allowed him to," Price said.

"I remain hopeful that I will be able to obtain some information with regard to American POW's in Vietnam at a later date. In the meantime, I was pleased to join with several of my colleagues in the House in sponsoring a resolution commending the officers and men involved in the commando raid," he added.

"The courage they displayed in this hazardous and humanitarian undertaking has, I am sure, lifted the hopes and spirits of our brave men imprisoned and fighting, as well as Americans everywhere," Price stated.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Evaluation of Walter J. Hickel's record as secretary of the interior, particularly in matters of conservation and ecology, probably can best be left to posterity.

(If there is a posterity, that will be proff that he did a good job environmental-wise.)

There need be no hesitation, however, about appraising the termination of Hickel's Cabinet career. The manner in which he faced his sacking, vowing to fall "with an arrow in my heart and not a bullet in my back," stamped him as a truly heroic sackee.

Being a natural born Texan, I associated it with the fall of the Alamo. And I am confident the cry "Remember Wally!" will serve as an inspiration to generations of beleaguered bureaucrats as yet unborn.

Fact is Remarkable

The fact that Hickel managed to inject a flip of drama into his ejection becomes all the more remarkable when we consider that our prosaic form of government makes no provision for the ceremonius dumping of Cabinet members.

There is scant opportunity for a department head to exhibit valor and resoluteness upon the occasion of his banishment. No mocking little smile and coolly lighting a cigarette as he is being blindfolded. No proud lifting of the chin as the buttons are sheared from his tunic.

Ordinarily, about the best he can hope for is to be permitted to quietly resign.

Although some students of government defend this procedure on grounds it is the most humane way to oust a public servant, I consider it degrading.

Opportunity for Dignity

A Cabinet officer, in my book, is entitled to have his severance become a public spectacle, which will offer him an opportunity to carry it off with dignity and aplomb.

After thinking it over, I have concluded that the axing of a Cabinet officer should take place at sunrise either on the south lawn of the White House or the grounds of the Washington Monument.

Standing behind a large chair, which the deposed secretary occupied at Cabinet meetings, is the President. As a corps of drummers begins an appropriate tattoo, the Cabinet officer steps two paces forward and turns to seat himself.

Whereupon the President pulls the chair out from under him.

For high drama that is simply loaded with symbolism, that type of ceremony would be hard to beat. And the opportunities for dignity and aplomb would be virtually unlmited.

JEANE DIXON—

Your Horoscope

FRIDAY DEC. 4, 1970

Your birthday Friday: A period of challenge opens, growing out of changes in responsibilities. Psychological growth surges in response to pressures and nuisance-factors; you attract others who depend on your skills as well as a few who compete with you. Your emotional life veers toward many complex moods, high and low moments passing swiftly. Friday's natives take interest in practical arts, physical feats, athletic skills.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): New ventures can be given a push Friday with good results. Settle weekend plans by definite reservations. On home question, say where you stand and have done with it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Conventional approaches work best with people of power. You may meet some irresponsible person—deal with the problem simply and early. Home life is better if you strike a definite decision.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Consideration for others wins you an unspoken advantage in future dealings. Clear off routine chores, leaving major projects for next week.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your money has wings Friday, both for outstanding accounts and on speculative ventures. Review your health program, resolve to change some habits. Meditate in the evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your associates are full of surprises. Tend your own affairs without getting involved with others. Money goes for purely temporary benefits. Meditation in the evening brings enlightenment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The world is sharp-eyed, and at the moment there's no hiding place. Put in a complete day to fulfill your duties. Not much opportunity appears for breaks or an early rest.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Skip the inside tip, the secret path to easy money—it's illusory. Outside interests, travel produce better results. A passing moment of mischief enters your romantic life.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Frustration and resistance abound Friday. Decide what you can deal with and what you cannot; then proceed, firmly. Clear out possessions no longer needed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Major decisions should be put off a few days. Travel runs into curious delays and expenses. Temptations are offered with little indication of good results. Go it alone.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Wishful thinking clouds your intuition. Know what you want and what you're getting. Guard against overdoing food and drink. Evening hours improve with rest and reflection.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Play it straight, pay what you owe, meet all behavior with understanding and consideration. Your good example is helpful to mate, others.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Hold back expression of concern for yourself and loved ones. The sudden urge to retract from your position in a career matter may be valid but wait for reflection. Get professional advice on health.

Cowboys' Two Chances To Stop The Redskins

DALLAS (UPI)—Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry says there are only two ways, as far as he can figure out, to beat the Washington Redskins Sonny Jurgensen.

The Redskins come to the Cotton Bowl Sunday for a rematch after a 45-21 Cowboys' victory two weeks ago in the nation's capitol. And Dallas is faced with a "must" situation if it is to stay alive in the wild scramble for a National Conference playoff spot.

"I don't know how to beat Jurgensen except to outscore him or; keep him from throwing," Landry said. "Washington is an excellent offensive team and anytime Jurgy is back there throwing you are liable to get beat.

"In our earlier game, they were doing an excellent job and we happened to get that punt return (a 100-yard scoring junket by rookie Mark Washington) that kept us well out front and kept the pressure on them.

"In Larry Brown," Landry noted, "the Redskins have the best running back in the league, and until they lost Otis Taylor they also had the best receiver in the league. Still, we'll have to go some to beat them again."

The Cowboys currently are 7-4 and must finish 10-4 if they are going to entertain any hopes of making the playoffs for the fifth straight year.

"I think we have an excellent chance of winning the next three," Landry said, "but even that might not be good enough now."

Dallas had figured it had a chance to get the "wild card" fourth berth as the best second place finisher in the National Conference, but now it looks like the best bet would be to win the Eastern Division again although they are 1-1-2 games back of St. Louis (8-2-1) and tied with the New York Giants.

Landry admitted that the Cowboys would need some help, then pointed out:

"There's only two clubs—aside from Minnesota and St. Louis—who don't need some help. They are Los Angeles and San Francisco (both with 7-3-1 records). They can win their remaining games and be sure of a playoff spot."

Landry declined to pinpoint his idea of the top three teams in the National Conference, but admitted that the Vikings had to be No. 1 and that St. Louis "also has been very consistent and Los Angeles and San Francisco are about even."

Landry said that he would continue to call the plays for Craig Morton this Sunday, just as he has the past two winning games.

"Morton is very relaxed without that added pressure and he's thrown well under these circumstances," Landry said. "We've been successful using that system and I won't want to change."

Royal May Get Divine Guidance

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—With the "big shootout" with Arkansas just 48 hours away, Texas coach Darrell Royal would appreciate all the help he can get in twisting an unconditional surrender out of the Razorbacks.

But in football-mad Austin, a church near the University of Texas has invoked some devine guidance Royal hadn't bargained for. A billboard in front of the church reads:

"God loves a cheerful giver. Hogs, give up."

Hustling Harvesters To Host Top O'Texas Meet

The Hustling Pampa Harvesters and the Pampa Sophomore team will be hosting eight other schools for the next three days in the Top O' Texas Basketball tournament. The tournament, an annual affair, will be held in the Harvester fieldhouse.

The Shockers, Pampa's Sophomore team, will open the tourney against Elk City at 2:00 p.m. Immediately after the Canyon varsity will take on the Hereford Whitefaces at 3:45 p.m. Hereford is facing its first year as a 4-AAAA class school and might be watched in future competition.

Dumas, defeated by the hustling Harvesters Tuesday 84-64, will square off against Wichita Falls at 5:30 p.m. This game will be of special interest as both teams consist of excellent players.

Pampa enters the court for the second time as the bustling Harvesters will meet Woodward at 7:15. The Harvesters will be starting Richard Bunton a 6'3" Junior Post, Marsh Gamblin, (5'11", Jr., Guard), Mike Edgar, 6'5', Jr., forward), Mike Jordan, (6'0," Sr., Guard) and Donnie Cain (6'4," Junior, forward.)

Perryton will play Burkburnett in a 9:00 p.m. game following the Harvester game Thursday night.

Friday's games start at noon and run through 9:00 p.m. Saturday five games are scheduled with the finals and consolation brackets being played off.

The Harvesters could have used more support in Tuesday nights game and will expect more in the next three days. If you can't go to a game today or tomorrow there is always Saturday.

Awards To Be Presented To BB's Players

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Major league baseball passes out some new awards tonight in an "Academy Awards" type of ceremoney held, fittingly, right around the corner from Hollywood.

Just like the motion picture awards, there is a list of nominees for each award —in several cases the players who were voted tops in their categories in either the American League or the National League.

For "player of the year," for instance, the nominees are the two leagues Most Valuable Player award winners selected by the Baseball Writers Association of America —catcher Johnny Bench of the Cincinnati Reds and first baseman Boog Powell of the world champion Baltimore Orioles.

For "pitcher of the year" it's the two winners of the BBWAA's Cy Young awards — Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals and Jim Perry of the Minnesota Twins.

For "manager of the year" it's Danny Murtaugh of the PittsburghPirates and Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees.

Candidates for the "player who best typifies the game off and on the field" are Felipe Alou of the Oakland A's, Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins, Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants, Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles and Pete Rose of the Cincinnati Reds.

Baseball Physicians Are First To Investigate Danger Of "Pep" Pills

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Baseball today became the first major professional sport to organize its team physicians to study whether pep pills and the so-called "ethical" drugs are being widely used by players—and what should be done if they are.

"The concern is with the so-called ethical drugs rather than with narcotics," commented Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn after the announcement that the sport's new physicians association will look into "the use and abuse of drugs."

Kuhn insisted that the doctors' reports made at the baseball meetings here were "undramatic rather than dramatic" concerning the current usage of drugs by athletes, but he added that "the concern is whether these ethical drugs are being overused."

One team doctor, Dr. Joseph Finegold of the Pittsburgh Pirates, said pep pills are being used by many athletes and that he expects some players soon will begin having heart attacks while they are playing because pep pills speed up heart action at a time when sport is putting a strain on the heart.

Another team physician said use of such pills by baseball players now is "rather widespread." He said the general feeling was that it is impossible to control their use by veteran players and that the effort in this direction should be in the area of educating rookies and young players on the dangers of pills.

The formation of the physicians association came as the minor leagues concluded three days of sessions and the major leagues began their three-day meeting.

The trading pace slowed and the 12th and 13th deals of the meetings were minor ones—the Atlanta Braves trading catcher Bob Tillman to the Milwaukee Brewers for three players, including outfielder Hank Allen, younger brother of the Dodgers' Richie Allen, all three of them ticketed for the minors.

UCLA Should Win The National Basketball Title This Season

NEW YORK (UPI)—UCLA should win the national basketball title this season.

The United Press International Board of Coaches made that clear today when it overwhelmingly voted for Uclans the nation's No. 1 favorite for national honors.

UCLA, which won the NCAA title for the fourth straight year last season, received 23 of the 26 first place ballots cast by members of the 35-man UPI Coaches Board. The Bruins finished with 257 points to easily outdistance second-place South Carolina, which was awarded the remaining three first-place ballots.

Jacksonville was third in the tabulation, followed by Kentucky, the defending regular-season national titlist, and Marquette. Notre Dame was sixth, with Pennsylvania, Western Kentucky, Utah State and Southern California completing the top 10.

Kansas, Indiana and Villanova took the next three spots with Florida State 14th and Long Beach State 15th. Drake and Utah tied for 16th and Kansas State, Duke and Illinois completed the top 20.

Sidney Wicks, Henry Bibby and Curtis Rowe return to form the nucleus of a powerful UCLA team while South Carolina returns four starters, including John Roche, the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year. They are joined by Kevin Joyce, one of the country's most-highly regarded sophomores.

Seven-footers Artis Gilmore and Pembrook Burrows lead a Jacksonville team that was runner-up to UCLA in the NCAA finals while Austin Carr, the nation's No. 2 scorer behind record-setting Pete Maravich of Louisiana State last season, is back for Notre Dame.

Pennsylvania's entire starting five, led by Corky Calhoun, returns intact while seven-footer Jim McDaniel is back to head the Western Kentucky attack.

Five coaches from each of the seven geographical areas of the nation comprise the UPI ratings board. Each week they select the top 10 major college teams in the nation with points awarded on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-321 basis on votes from first through 10th.

Muhammad May Be The Best ...If He Scores A Knockout

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cassius Clay was worried if he could get into shape quickly enough for his comeback bout against Jerry Quarry on Oct. 20. But his first bout since 1967, he stopped Quarry in three rounds.

Now he's worried about getting into shape too quickly for the second bout of his comeback against Oscar Bonavena on Monday night in Madison Square Garden.

"I feel good," Clay, 28, said. "Now I'm gonna take it easy."

Clay called off his sparring today and limited himself to light bag work and running. However, Bonavena continued his grind at Grossinger, N.Y., by sparring several rounds.

Clay's manager, Angelo Dundee, said he will decide tonight whether to have the deposed heavyweight champion resume sparring Friday.

"I'm continually amazed by this man," he said. "He's unreal. I've never seen an athlete who could get in shape like he does. It shows up when he's working in the gym and the way he's working himself up mentally with all that talk."

Clay continued his talk Wednesday, predicting that "I will whup him in nine rounds."

However, he found one dissenter in the crowd, former lightweight champion Ike Williams. Clay asked Williams if he could knock out Bonavena nine rounds.

"No," Williams said bluntly, "I don't think you can knock him out at all. I saw Joe Frazier try to do that in two fights, and he couldn't. But if you can do it in nine I'd say you're the greatest."

LAUREL, Md. (UPI) — Lawrence J. ABbundi, racing secretary at Maryland's three leading Thoroughbred tracks as well as Delaware Park, says racing's major need is to cultivate new fans.

"I'll admit I don't have the answers but Sunday racing could well prove a solution in some areas," he says.

Promises, Promises Are LSU's Chances For Bowl Invitations

By GREG GALLO
UPI Sports Writer

Promises, promises, promises that's all Louisiana State ever receives when it comes to bowl invitations.

LSU, left out of the bowl picture last year when Notre Dame accepted a bid to the Cotton Bowl at the last moment, has been guaranteed a trip to Miami and the Orange Bowl on New Year's Day if it can defeat arch-rival Mississippi Saturday in Baton Rouge, La.

Two weeks ago, after LSU lost its second game of the season, a bitter 3-0 setback to Notre Dame, the Orange Bowl Selection Committee said the Tigers would be a suitable opponent for Big Eight champion Nebraska. But under one condition — LSU had to win its final two games against Tulane and Ole Miss.

Last Saturday LSU knocked off Tulane, 26-14, and now only Mississippi and old nemesis Archie Manning stand in the way of the Bayou Bengals from making their first bowl appearance since 1968. Manning was expected to miss the remainder of the season after breaking his arm against Houston a month ago. But the talented quarterback who led the Rebs to victory the past two years over LSU, flew to Memphis Wednesday to have the cast removed from his arm and will play with a special foam-covered brace.

In the 1969 meeting at Jackson, Miss., Manning directed a fourth quarter drive that brought Ole Miss from behind to defeat the Bengals, 26-23, and Mississippi clinched the Southeast Conference title. Two years ago as a sophomore, Manning sparked the Rebels to a 27-24 victory over LSU. Although LSU leads in the series that began in 1894, 29-26-3, the Bengals have not won since 1964. LSU is a 13-point favorite.

This year's Southwest Conference champion will be crowned at Austin, Tex., Saturday as No. 1 Texas tangles with No. 5 Arkansas for the right to meet Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl. Texas (9-0) puts its 29-game winning streak (third longest by a major college in the last 50 years on the line against an Arkansas team that won nine straight after losing its opener to Stanford.

Texas is the highest scoring team in the nation, averaging 41.1 points per game and Arkansas is second at 39.5 Texas has the best rushing offense (364.6-yards per game) while Arkansas has a more balanced attack, averaging 209.6 yards on the ground and 230.3 yards passing.

Texas is a seven-point favorite.

In other games on this final Saturday of the college football season ;Sugar Bowl-bound Tennessee is a seven-point pick over UCLA, Houston is 19 over Miami, while the North Texas State-Tulsa and Arizona St.-Arizona games are both off-the-board.

LSU (8-2) has the toughest defense against the rush in the country, allowing a mere 51.2 yards per game and should apply extreme pressure to Manning and the other Mississippi backs.

Mississippi, ranked No. 15 and headed for a Gator Bowl showdown with Auburn, lost the services of head coach Johnny Vaught when he was sidelined with a heart attack a few games back. Long-time aide Bruiser Kinard took over but was unable to light a fire under the usually high-spirited Rebels.

But playing LSU with Manning back at quarterback should give Mississippi plenty of incentive to end its regular season with a victory and spoil LSU's hopes of playing in a bowl game.

Hollywood In Review

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Lee Marvin, a paragon of the disreputable wastrel in motion pictures, will shave, don clean clothes, comb his hair and appear stone sober on the television special, "Changing Scene" Dec. 9.

It's as though some misanthrope assassinated Santa Claus.

For years Marvin has depicted the dregs of mankind, building up a following among the dissolute, the alcoholic and the league of dirty old men.

Now, treacherously, he has turned song and dance man. He hoofs with Gene Kelly in the ABC clambake and croaks along in his sourmash baritone.

Ditty is a Huge Hit

One suspects the white-haired Academy Award winner of letting success go to his head. His rendition of "Wandering Star," the ditty he warbled in "Paint Your Wagon' is a huge hit in England, Australia and Japan. There are no complete reports from Tierra del Fuego.

Why, Lee Marvin, have you turned traitor to your outcaste?

"Aw, hell," he said, his voice the timbre of thunder, "it's something different.

"In this show I just get up there and take it. The worse you are the better they like it."

Of Marvin this is true.

Hardly anyone soured the milk of kindness so much as Lee in the character of Kid Sheleen in "The Ballad of Cat Ballou" —for which he won the Oscar. Nor did parents point at Ben Rumsen, his role in "Paint Your Wagon," and urge their sons to follow Ben's benders.

Roles are Individualistic

"If there were any men left on earth like the characters I play," Marvin said wistfully, "They'd be in jail or the madhouse. My roles are all individualists, non-conformists.

"But if Ben Rumsem were around he'd be in a straight jacket. He was a gift to women and the community."

He was also a boon to distillers, manufacturers of crooked dice, marked decks, bordellos and lovers of street fights.

In a burst of rectitude Marvin concluded: "The farther a character is from my own personality and character, the easier it is for me to play him.

"Its not every day you can take a knife away from Clint Walker and make him look like a dummy."

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Of Stanford University's 5,700 students, 69 per cent have smoked marijuana at least once, a research study shows.

A similr study in 1966-67 showed 21 per cent experimented with pot.

Mrs. Emile Garfield, who headed the latest study for the Institute of Public Policy Analysis, said 11 per cent reported using marijuana twice weekly or more and there is "very, very little" abuse of so-called hard drugs.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) —"A big triple surprise is building up for 1971 and the stock market seems to be onto it," according to the Janeway Publishing & Research Corp. The company says the first surprise will show "business profits lagging" behind activity, the second will show "business liquidity unrepaired," and the last will show "corporate spending requirements continuing to participate in the general inflation even though business has been dealt into a deflation all its own."

Most stocks today are still priced at "recession levels,' Walston & Co. says. The company feels "we could witness good gains in a long roster of issues" because the stock market is "likely to benefit (as the) Nixon administration moves to pep up the economy." The company says "a lot of credit" is being pumped into the system and this, along with deficit spending by the government, should "boost" the economy.

"It appears that the risks of owning stocks at this time are far greater than the probable rewards," according to the Alan Institutional Gr. of the company believes the stock market has "reached an area of major overhead resistance strength in stock prices "appears to represent another major selling opportunity."

Recently many stocks have suffered "technical damage" while others retained their strength, TPO Incorporated says. The company believes the correction of the past few weeks has served to separate the strong stocks from the weak. The firm adds that "the list appears likely to swing sideways once or twice, setting the stage for a year end rally."

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Television series with British stars are generally considered poor bets by ratings-minded American network executives who feel the grassroots audience prefers homespun accents to foreign ones.

The feeling is that foreign-oriented shows are usually a hazard in the ratings for a network trying to get off to a flying start at the beginning of a season.

Except for ABC-TV's "Nanny and the Professor," in which England's Juliet Mills plays a governess with wizard-like powers (a la Mary Poppins), it's hard to think of a U.S. series that began this season with the main star from Britain.

Nevertheless, London once again has bloomed as a large supplier of regular series that will arrive on U.S. television in the next year.

Feldman Show

British comedian Marty Feldman, who scored well on Dean Martin's replacement series last summer, will have a weekly variety show on ABC-TV in the 1971-72 season. And a British singer named Val Doonican has been given a series on the same network next summer.

Two other new ABC-TV series next fall will offer American headliners —Shirley MacLaine and Tony Curtis —in London-based productions.

Curtis will team up with Roger (The Saint) Moore in a show called "The Friendly Persuaders," about a couple of fellows who make sure justice catches up with those who have escaped it. And Miss MacLaine will have a situation comedy.

This January, meanwhile, NBC-TV offers an hour replacement series called "Strange Report," starring Britain's Anthony Quayle as a scientific sleuth. It was filmed in England.

NBC-TV Presents Comedy

And in March, NBC-TV will also present a replacement half-hour situation comedy with Britain's Millicent Martin as an international airline stewardess who gets around. It is called "Bird's Eye View," and is also an English product.

If past shows are an example, the British-oriented series will be, for the most part, mediocre in the ratings.

Non-commerical American television has, of course, had a great critical reception with "The Forsyte Saga" and "Civilization," both British works. But as for getting ratings, the old story seemed to hold up again recently when NBC-TV's much-heralded British production of "Hamlet," with Richard Chamberlain, Sir John Gielgud, Sir Michael Redgrave, Richard Johnson and Margaret Leighton, failed to finish among the top 40 shows in the national rankings.

On the other hand, an ABC-TV comedy Western that played opposite it—"The Over-the-Hill-Gang Rides Again," with Fred Astaire, Walter Brennan, Chill Wills and Edgar Buchanan—finished very high up, in eighth place.

High School Dropout Earns $5.33 Per Hour

HOUSTON (UPI) — Beth Scroggins is 27, a high school dropout, mother of six children and a breadwinner earning $5.33' cents an hour.

She also is the only journeyman (journeywoman?) painter in Texas said Lee Bremberry, an official of the 1,700-member Painters Union Local 130.

Mrs. Scroggins doesn't recommend dropping out of school and she admantly disclaims any connection with the women's liberation movement.

She does recommend, however, that any female with the desire and bravado to tackle a traditionally male occupation forge straight ahead.

Better Know Job

"I don't feel like I'm part of the women's liberation or an equal rights movement," said the attractive brownette. "If a woman feels she is qaulified, she should go out and do it. If not, don't try it.

"And you had better know how to do it or you are in trouble," she warned. "They don't pay that kind of money to someone who doesn't."

"That kind of money" goes to $5.58 an hour this January and few stenographers or housewives take home that kind of pay. She earned only $3.50 an hour as a non-union painter.

Mrs. Scroggins weilded a brush for about five years before joining the union with her husband's encouragement.

"I was for her getting in the local," said B. Melvin Scroggins a pipefitter. "When you've got as many kids as we have, you have to expect to work.

Howard Hughes Has Vanished From Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Billionaire industrialist Howard Hughes has disappeared from Las Vegas after four years residence in seclusion, the Las Vegas Sun said in a copyright story today.

Publisher Hank Greenspun said Hughes, who arrived quietly on Thanksgiving Eve in 1966 and took over quarters in the Desert Inn Hotel, vanished on the exact date four years later.

"Prior to Thanksgiving Eve, a hoard of vehicles with California plates registered to 7000 Romaine St., Los Angeles, were conspicuous around the Desert Inn," Greenspun said.

When the autos left the scene, Nevada's most distinguished citizen was missing from the ninth floor complex he had occupied in seclusion for four years."

Greenspun said persons closest to Hughes' Nevada operations "could not give satisfactory answers as to Hughes' whereabouts." He said Nevada operations manager Robert Maheu "could shed no light on the strange development and disavowed any knowledge whatsoever."

Hughes had spent an estimated $250 million in Nevada to acquire seven casinos, prime land and mining properties. He acquired the Desert Inn, Frontier, Landmark, Silver Slipper, Castaways and Sands hotels on the Las Vegas strip. Recently, he moved into northern Nevada by acquiring Harolds Club, Nevada's major pioneer gambling club, for $13 million.

With Tate

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Attorney Paul J. Fitzverald, 33, the chief defense counsel in the Tate-LaBianca m urder trial, was booked on a drunken driving charge early today.

Police said Fitzgerald was stopped for a vehicular violation and refused to take any tests when requested to do so by the officers. However, officers said Fitzgeraldn was cooperative otherwise.

Under California law Fitzgerald faces automatic suspension of his driving license for six months for refusing to take sboriety tests at the request of the officers.
