Texas Warned to Supplement Relief Funds in August

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—Texas was warned today by Federal Relief Administrator Hopkins that it would receive no further grants from the government until it "provides a substantial share" of the money needed to care for its unemployed.

The administrator wired Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson that the recent grant providing funds for relief work during August was the last the state would receive until it increased its own fund.

He said Texas should raise $20,000,000 for relief work.

One striker was in jail, charged with reckless driving after a woman and three children had been run down and injured by an automobile. Officers said he was pursuing a car containing two officials of the construction camp.

Americans Urged To Visit Mexico By Two Authors

By MERRILL E. COMPTON
United Press Staff Correspondent

DALLAS. — North Americans are advised by Michael and Virginia Scully, authors of Grand Rapids, Mich,, to explore Mexico.

The Scullys record their experiences in motoring 3,000 miles in the sister republic to the south of Texas in a recent book, "Motorists' Guide to Mexico," published by the South-West Press, Dallas.

"The opening of Mexico's first system of motor highways means the opening of a new world to the American motorist," they write in their introductory chapter. With typical American salesmanship they endeavor to entice the motor tourist in Mexico by answering in this chpater such questions as: "But is it safe?" and "how are the roads?"

Of the former, they write, "we drove about 3,000 miles through the republic in three months. We encountered nothing but friendliness and courtesy, even from traffic police. We witnessed two arrests, both for drunkenness, and these occasions marked our nearest approach to violence and crime."

Answering the latter question, they draw a comparison with present day Mexico and the Mexico of 1925 which they said was then "as inaccessible as Australia to the American motorist." Armed with statistics, they support, Mexico's claims to highway development.

To Texans the book has more than customary interest. Texas is next-door neighbor to Mexico. No spot in the state is more than a good day's drive from the Scully's suggested port of entry to Mexico, Uuero Laredo, either through central Texas via San Antonio to Laredo, or, from Houston along the gulf coast to Laredo.

They write a day-to-day guide how to travel Mexico. Routes, hotels, automobile service stations, recreational centers, fishing holes, old temples to visit and marketing spots are located. Three chapters are devoted to Mexico City, covering in detail information about the hotels and tourists accommodations, the shopping that can be done and what attractions are to be seen.

Typical of their style in describing a section o the country is their narrative about Tamazunchale, which said in part:

"Until late 1931 this town of 2,500 people had never seen an automobile. If a citizen wanted to reach Mexico City, he rode for 12 days through the mountains burroback. . . . The automobile is still a big surprise to Tamabunchale. But the bus line from Mexico City to Tampico runs through the town nowadays, and there are three gasoline stations, plus an adequate repair shop, to serve the motorists. Tamazunchale lies at the base of the great climb. No matter if you have scaled the Alps, the next 100 miles can offer you one of the real thrills and many of the most beautiful views of a lifetime."

At the end of chapters the authors have condensed factual information under the heading "For Your Iinformation." It is a galaxy of facts covering information as to the American consulates, banking facilities, garages, theatres, cafes and bars and other conveniences or necessities. Maps, both of highway systems and of cities, make the book useful. A collection of useful English and Spanish phrases in the back of the book.

CUBAN REVOLT CRISIS NOW THOUGHT NEAR

By United Press

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 9.— The crisis in Cuba's unrest appeared to be near today as secretary of state Ferrara arrived here from the United States.

The food shortage grew more stringent and sporadic firing in the streets by police continued.

Observers expected a definite political development to follow after Ferrara's arrival. He went to confer with President Machado.

As secretary of state he would succeed to the provisional presidency should Machado follow a widely suggested course and ask congress to grant him a "leave of absence."

Machado stood publicly by his insistance that he would not withdraw and started a counter offensive by radio broadcasts by attacking the United States' activity.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.— Despite the increased gravity of the Cuban situation, state department officials today reiterated the United States was not even considering military intervention.

Farmers Launch a War On Squirrels

LOGAN, Utah.—Utah farmers are conducting an intensive campaign against the squirrel.

Determined to rid the countryside of the troublesome little animal which yearly causes a heavy loss the farmers scattered over 15 tons of poisoned oats about farms. This action will be repeated until the squirrel population has been perceptibly reduced.

Eastland Lions Hear Cisco Club President Talk

Bert McGlamery presided over the meeting of the Lions club, which met in regular session Tuesday at noon on roof garden of the Connellee hotel.

Horace Condley and J. C. Patterson, the program committee, presented W. H. LaRoque of Cisco, who delivered an address in which he described his recent trip to A Century of Progress at Chicago.

Included among the visitors present were R. F. Holloway of Ranger, Mat Williams and Porter G. Davis of Cross Plains, O. G. Lanier of Ranger and H. C. Davis of Eastland.

There were 18 Lions present.

Knights Pythias Held Important Meeting Tuesday

Following a recess of several meetings, of the Knights of Pythias, due to their being engaged in local civic affairs, a regular meeting was held Tuesday night in K. of P. hall, with Chancellor Commander T. J. Powell, presiding.

Plans for resumption of work were brought up and talks on the good of the order made by J. F. McWilliams, Karl K. White, H. C. Davis, Tom Lovelace, Charles Shepherd, present for the first time since his recent illness, and who warmly expressed his appreciation of the knights' kindness during his operation and convalescence; and Dr. R. C. Ferguson in an interesting sketch of his recent trip to New Mexico, its ways and habits.

A committee was appointed to confer with the Pythian Sisters temple, in connection with resuming the monthly social sessions in Tom Lovelace, J. F. McWilliams, and Arthur Wright.

An important move was made in their decision to ask the Cisco lodge to consolidate their meetings with the Eastland lodge, and hold their sessions in Eastland.

Knights McWilliams and Lovelace were appointed to go on this mission before next Tuesday's meeting and to invite the Cisco lodge to be their guests at that time.

All local knights are urged to be present next Tuesday night as there is important work to be arranged.

CASH PAYMENT TO FARMERS TO BE DELAYED

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. — Immediate cash payment of $190,000,000 in crop reduction benefits to American farmers was in doubt today as officials sought to untangle complications arising from a 58-year-old law.

Agricultural adjustment administration officials said if the cash payments were not made on schedule, success of President Roosevelt's farm relief program would be endangered.

Farm credit administration leaders countered with the assertion that much of the $190,000,000 fund should be used to reduce the farmers $350,000,000 debt to the government.

The law says the government can pay no money to any individual without deducting what that individual owes the government. Attorney General Cummings prepared a ruling for presentation today to a committee of three.

The committeemen indicated they would dispose of the dispute in a few days.

The impasse is holding up $100,000,000 in checks prepared for delivery to cotton farmers who promised to reduce their crops. About $90,000,000 more is scheduled to be paid wheat farmers this fall.

Italy Shows Good Upturn in Business

By THOMAS B. MORGAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

ROME, Aug. 2.—Signs that Italian production is on the uptrend are found in the production figures for the first few months of 1933.

In practically all branches, an increase of production has been registered. Basic industries like agriculture, steel, transportation, etc., have registered progress over 1932. The tendency of consolidating the home market in the face of the world depression is said to have met with satisfactory results.

Of the Italian industrial and agricultural situation, the bulletin of the Association for Italian Stock Companies said in its May report:

"No substantial changes have occurred of late in the Italian economic and financial situation. The effects of world depression are still felt acutely, but conditions on the home market progressively reflect the tendency of the last few months to adjust business activities to prevailing price levels and to the reduced demand, especially of export markets. As export trade declines, the possibilities of the home market are more carefully studied, and in many cases compensate for outside losses. So it is in the automobile industry, as is shown by 31,229 new units placed on the roads in 1932 over and above replacements; so it is in many other fields in which home production is supplying needs heretofore met by imports.

A comparison between production data for the first quarter of 1932 and 1933 confirms the impression that business activities are stabilizing, with a tendency to improve:

Production	1932	1933 (metric tons)
Pig iron	106,259	123,161
Raw steel	306,410	404,845
Iron alloys	2,340	5,004
Roll steel 2 mos.	174,882	207,431
Non-ferrous metals	12,152	11,249
Cement, 2 mos.	307,926	346,041
Hyperphosphates (2 mos.)	104,406	163,051
Reeled silk	506	349
Rayon	586	549
Petrol	33,796	38,077

TWO MANSFIELDS FRIENDLY

By United Press

MANSFIELD, Mass.—Few New World and Old World communities are more friendly than Mansfield, Mass., and Mansfield, England. Invariably they exchange holiday greetings and Christmas presents. As an added token of good will, an oak tree on the grounds of the historic Fisher-Richardson house, which was built in 1701, recently was dedicated to the inter-community friendship.

"I Loved . . ."

"I loved Bill Costello . . . and the whole world will know of it" . . . A hused courtroom throng at Salem, Mass., listened to Mrs. Jessie Costello, shown above, in a serene pose during her trial, as she took the stand to make an impassioned denial of the state's accusation that she poisoned to death her husband.

Investigation of NRA Violations Will Begin Soon

By United Press

FORT WORTH, Aug. 9.—Investigation of violations of NRA codes in the southwest area will be conducted by a corps of agents under supervision of Clifford R. Jones, regional public works director, it was announced today in a communication from the United States District Attorney Clyde O. Eastus from Washington.

All complaints will be turned over to Jones' headquarters here for investigation, the communication from the other Texas district attorney said.

Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico are under Jones' direction.

The cases of employers who refuse to comply with Jones' recommendation will be turned over to United States district attorneys for prosecution, Eastus said.

PRICE DISPUTE HAS HELD UP CODE PASSAGE

Wage and Labor Provisions To Be Substituted Into Final Draft.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The NRA today authorized the oil industry to substitute labor and wage provisions of its modified proposed code for simlar provisions of the re-employment agreement.

The move came as action on the industry's code was held up due to a dispute over a price fixing provision, opposed by Administrator Hugh Johnson.

The NRA's action permitted employers of the industry to sign the President's agreement and secure blue eagles with the understanding the wage labor modification become automatically effective.

Clerical employes in refinery, drilling production and pipe line operation were placed under a 40-hour maximum week, and all other employes in such operations with a few exceptions on a 36-hour week.

The modifications abolish child labor in the industry and include the standard agreement for collective bargaining.

The minimum hourly rate for drilling, refining and pipe line employes in Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma was specified at 48 cents.

Filling station employes and those of garages selling gasoline were placed under a minimum wage of $14 a week in cities between 2500 and 250,000 population.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

PRAYER FOR WISDOM: So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.—Psalm 90: 12.

IT BUILT THE COUNTRY

Farm loan and home loan and anti-foreclosure measures are only the temporary, negative and relief side of a fundamental fact upon which Texas and the nation have based their growth.

That is the wide ownership of the soil as a prerequisite to contentment of a people and prosperity of a country.

Against the iron Calvanistic theocracy of New England that governs men's lives and thoughts as well as their souls, only the widespread ownership of land, that spread colonization, at last was able to bring democratic rue to what was then the nation.

As long as the South and West, and Texas a republic and a state, engaged in homesteading of land to citizens, there was growth, the accretion of wealth, the spread of contentment, prosperity and democracy.

Rescue measures, such as laws to protct some of the home-owners and farm-owners, are urgently needed now, to save one of the bulwarks of the nation. It is hard to comprehend, with the basic fact so plain, why a people has permitted its government so far to drift as to levy the unconscienable burdens of past years upon the owning of homes and and. Texas has seen more than half its farmers become tenants.

The billions now being spent to create work for jobless people, if spent in tying families back to ownership of homes and farms, whether the loans ever were repaid, would go immeasurably further toward stabilizing conditions than it can in luring still other thousands to overcrowded cities, and tending to make them permanent charges upon government bounty.

Of course, too much wheat and corn and cotton are grown now, one says. But those tilling their own farms would grow their own food. And the answer to overproduction is that, under past conditions, nearly all the wealth created by production has gone to others than the tenants who produced it.

NINETEEN MILLIONS ASKED FOR PUBLIC WORKS IN TEXAS

Texans speaking through the state rehabilitation and relief commission announced applications received by it for federal loans under the public works program aggregated $19,759,057. There were 127 applications including the Austin program. State Director Lawrence Westbrook said applications would be submitted to the federal regional administrator for consideration "as son as that official had been chosen." Col. Clifford Jones of West Texas is the regional director. He will boss the job for the Southwest. A state advisory board of three for Texas will be named. Secretary Harold Ickes will say the last word.

It is beginning to dawn on the American people that all the appropriations for national recovery and public works construction are not "federal or state grab bags."

A WARNING TO TEXAS CONGRESSMEN

James Shaw is state manager for the homeowners loan corporation. From his Dallas headquarters he has given the warning that unless recommendations of Texas congressmen for the appointment of county appraisers and attorneys are in his hands by Monday he will name the members of the state setup without the assistance of the aforesaid M. C.'s.

Is it possible that there is a Texas congressman who is unable to find in his district acceptable attorneys and appraisers to fill the posts? Before his departure for Dallas state manager Shaw had 5,000 letters or wires from as many individuals offering to sacrifice themselves on the alter of their state and nation and "no questions asked."

DiD YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

Instances of government reports achieving the distinction in the category of best sellers are as rare as rook's eggs. The ordinary man, when handed an official report of the kind mentioned, hegards it with askance. To him it is nothing but a collection of facts and figures, dry as dust and not worth a second look. For that attitude he can scarcely be blamed. Outwardly they are depressing looking things, but if the trouble is taken to delve through their unattractive exteriors, quite a bit of interesting information can be laid bare.

The trouble with these reports is that they are not presented to the public in the right way, and only reach the eyes of a few people.

The right way to reach all the people would be for the reports to be written in a way that people could understnad, and be placed in the advertising columns of the newspapers. This not only should be done by the national government, but by city, county and state governments as well.

Texas U. Coach To Publish Book

By United Press

AUSTIN. — Clyde Littlefield, University of Texas football, track and field coach, will enter journalistic fields early in August with the publication of his book, "Track and Field Athletics."

The book is to be published by a firm here.

Littlefield's book represents the first major attempt to give sports in the southwest their due respect. His work will be a textbook for the coach, for the player, and a handy reference volume for sports writers, according to comments by his editors.

"Track and Field Athletics" will vary in subject matter from a compilation of Southwest and Interscholastic league records to exercises valuable in conditioning a man for track and field events, care of injuries, and principles of coaching.

HOOKS and SLIDES

BY BILL BRAUCHER

"Hello, McCarthy!"

ON August 27 in Yankee Stadium, there will be an opportunity for some enterprising cameraman to make an interesting picture. For, on that day the St. Louis Browns will open a series with the Yankees, and Rogers Hornsby will meet Joe McCarthy again.

Both are members of the Association of Ex-Managers of the Chicago Cubs. There was a great deal of talk among friends of McCarthy when Hornsby was named to succeed him back in 1930. It was to the effect that Hornsby, whose reputation as trouble-maker is baseball legend, had undermined Marse Joe.

The picture to be taken on August 27 would show McCarthy and Hornsby shaking hands and beaming at each other. It would clear up a lot of stories about McCarthy's rancor.

Not a Yes Man

AS a matter of fact McCarthy never has substantiated any of these rumors, whether he feels or not that it was the Rajah's ambition that opened the gate for him at Chicago. McCarthy has passed off his dismissal from the Cubs as one of the pranks of baseball in which you are a hero today and something less than that tomorrow. Joe has spoken praisefully of Hornsby's ability as a baseball man.

Most of Hornsby's trouble has been the result of his brutally frank speech and his absolute certainty of his own wisdom in baseball affairs. He is a "No" man by nature. When he was acting as manager of the Giants the front office questioned one of his moves. Hornsby let go a blast that made the ceiling rattle.

Rogers the Boss

THAT means a drastic change in the conduct of the Browns' affairs. It is no secret that the front office has interfered time and again with the field management of the team. There will be none of that under Hornsby. The Rajah will run the team.

Another angle that will be fun to follow is Hornsby's work with the weakest hitting team in the league. Hornsby, the great hitter, managing the punchless Browns—a team hitting 50 points below the Senators!

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

ROGERS HORNSBY made the seventh place Cardinals world champions in 1926, a year and a half after he took charge of the team . . . and he faces the same opportunity with the Browns. . . . It was John McGraw's way of expressing contempt for Frankie Frisch when he traded Frisch and pitcher Jimmy Ring to the Cardinals for Hornsby seven years ago . . . "A pitcher for good measure" . . . Frisch had taken umbrage at McGraw and snapped back at him. . . . When Rajah was traded to the Giants, there was the matter of stock he owned in the Cards to be straightened out . . . after Hornsby had been called into conference and agreed to sell for $100,000 Sam Breadon uttered his famous remark, "I'd rather argue with a roomful of tigers than Hornsby."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, July 00.—Secretary of War George H. Dern functions under the aegis of the god Mars.

So it seemed fair enough that he should be the one to break into print with what appeared to be the first public break between a couple of cabinet members.

And it's fine to have as the Army's head a man who doesn't know when he's licked.

But Dern simply can't have that six or eight hundred billion dollars the War Department wants from the $3,300,000,000 public works fund.

He announced that he had been dissatisfied with the action which he "anticipated was about to be taken by the public works board" on the Army request for $135,000,000 for barracks and that was taken as a howl at Secretary of the Interior Ickes, chairman of the board.

Ickes simultaneously insisted that approved projects must be sane from both engineering and social viewpoints and "offer return in money or services to the community."

Dern's outburst was partly the result of peeve and partly for purpose of propaganda. Army requests for specific grants were being shoved off to sub-committees and he wanted to drum up support from the powerful "Army lobby." He did stir up favorable pressure, but he also roused the pacifists, who marched to Ickes protesting the $50,000,000 sought for military motorization and other items for airplanes and ammunition.

The board meanwhile had studied a partial army engineers' program of $275,000,000 for rivers and harbors and flood control, lopped off about $100,000,000 and sent the balance to the White House for approval.

"Pork!" said Roosevelt of some of the projects as he sent the program back for further slashes.

Then he investigated the dispute between Dern and Ickes, since he didn't want any cabinet members fighting openly. He decided that Dern had been fairly treated.

* * *

GOVERNOR RUBY LAFFOON of Kentucky, who was taken for a fast ride here despite the fact that he had made "colonels" of many prominent figures in the administration, returned home convinced that he needed a "brain trust" of his own.

The powers here demanded that he should call a special session of his legislature: 1. To provide for a repeal vote. 2. To vote state unemployment relief funds, lest Washington cut off federal grants. 3. To create a satisfactory state highway administration if Kentucky wanted any public works highway funds.

Ruby apparently saw the point. He planned to draw on the University of Kentucky for his "brain trust."

SEA SOCIETY HONORS F. D. R.

BOSTON.—The world's oldest marine society—the Boston Marine society—recently secured a new member, Cap'n Franklin D. Roosevelt. The president qualified for membership unknowingly when he piloted the yacht Amberjack II along the New England coast on his vacation cruise, and soon afterward was elected to life membership. President John Adams, who was in the white house when the society was founded in 1742, was an honorary member.

— THIS CURIOUS WORLD —

THE OSTRICH has been domesticated for its feathers since about 1867, when the French established a farm in Algiers and exported ostrich feathers to Egypt. Since then successful farms have been established in many parts of the world. In the United States, there are farms in California, Florida, Texas and Arizona.

Floyd County Girls Visiting State Farm

By United Press

FLOYDADA, Texas. — Two Floyd county girls are having the unusual experience, that of being guests for more than 30 days at the state penal farm at Sugarland.

Mary Louise Conway, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Conway, is one of the girls and the other is her chum, Miss Imogene Ray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ray.

The girls are visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Pierce, grandparents of Miss Conway. Pierce is superintendent of the farm. Mrs. Conway was reared at the farm, as was her mother before her.

"I have been on a 'furlough' for the past 17 years," Mrs. Conway explained. "We told the girls that we hoped they would be better children when they came back."

Mrs. Pierce planned to return with the girls here to visit her daughter.

For the LOVE of EVE

by Lucy Walling

© 1933 BY NEA SERVICE INC

BEGIN HERE TODAY

EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, secretly marries DICK MADDEN, a construction superintendent. Dick opposes her continued employment and pleads for a home but Eve is determined to go on working.

MARYA VLAD, fashion artist, and ARLENE SMITH, stenographer in the advertising office, notice Eve's excitement but do not suspect her secret. Two hours after her marriage Eve learns that she must make a trip to New York for the store and that she must leave that night.

She waits until she and Dick eat at dinner before telling him the news. Dick takes her to the station and sees her aboard her train. From the train window she sees him join a gay party of young people.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

EVE awoke with the dawn and lay for a long while watching the wintry Hudson river as the train sped by. She wondered about Dick—what he was doing at this hour, whether he was asleep and dreaming of her or on his way to work. She reached under her pillow for the chamois bag. It was there and the little gold wedding ring was safe. She slipped the ring on and decided to wear it until she arrived at the hotel.

Over her black pajamas she dropped a black silk robe with a great, golden dragon heavily embroidered on the back. A pair of golden mules completed her Pullman ensemble and she picked up her dressing case and made for the dressing room.

"Good morning," an uncertain voice greeted Eve as she entered.

"Good morning," Eve answered with a swift appraisal of the young creature before her. An extremely plain face but one which was rapidly being transformed by the expert use of cosmetics. The other girl drew a blue wool frock over her head in one quick motion. Then she stood before the long mirror and pulled the dress tightly over her hips, turning right and left.

"There! All ready for the big adventure," she announced pertly.

Eve lifted her eyebrows inquiringly. The girl lit a cigaret and nodded, "I'm nervous as a cat. This is my first trip to New York. A married girl friend lives right across the river in New Jersey but she doesn't expect me. You see I've taken my life in my own hands. I want to find a husband before the bells ring 30. There's a new crop of girls springing up every year and there certainly aren't enough eligibles to go around at our four corners. My sister discovered it too late, so she's hitting for new pastures before I'm past the age."

"That's a pretty wedding ring," she said. "Well, you're one of the lucky ones—to have a husband in these days of competition!"

The girl's hand was on the door knob when she turned back, "My name's Corinne Devore," she said, and paused. "Not that we're likely to meet again, of course," she hurried on when Eve remained silent, debating whether or not to return the confidence by telling her own name. "I know what you're thinking," she went on defiantly. "That it sounds made up. Well, it is! My real name is Cora Dilly. I've always hated it and I didn't see any reason for dragging it along to New York."

• • •

WITH that Corinne Devore was gone, leaving Eve with the guilty feeling that she had been a trifle snobbish.

"She may not be so lovely, but she's wise," Eve said to her own reflection in the mirror. "She'll make people notice her. She'll probably get her man, too, and when she does she'll know enough to hang on to him. Oh, how could I leave Dick as I did!"

However, Eve was pleasantly excited as the train drew into Grand Central station. A redcap took her bags and led the way to a taxi. She reached the hotel in a flutter of anticipation. She wrote "Miss Eve Bayless" on the register and inquired if there were any messages for her. She held her breath while the clerk looked. Yes, there was a telegram.

Eve clutched it tightly as she followed the bell boy to the elevator. She looked attractive but was entirely oblivious to the appraising glances that followed her. Her suitcase unstrapped, she dismissed the boy with a tip, turned the key in the lock and, with fingers that shook, tore open the thin yellow envelope.

She stared at the message a long moment. It read: "Interview Phoebe, Inc. She knows what Lake City is wearing before we know it.—Earle Barnes."

Eve sank weakly into a deep cushioned chair. She was more than hurt. She was even a little frightened. Would this thing she had done always stand between her and Dick? He couldn't leave his work to come with her on a honeymoon trip. Why should he expect her to give up her big opportunity to spend a honeymoon at home? Oh, why had this whole miserable situation come about?

• • •

LATER however as she rode to the style advisory bureau of Phoebe, Inc., Eve's trained mind concentrated on the business of the day. Freda Carter was to meet her there. They had made the appointment in a hurried telephone conversation. Freda seldom stopped at a hotel when in New York, as she had a sister living in Brooklyn.

With Freda who was just back from Paris, her head full of fashion news and her trunks packed with French gowns, Eve made the rounds of New York's smartest shops. They spent a leisurely noon period with some advertising woman over a meal served peasant style in a quaint French restaurant.

That evening Eve dressed for dinner in a new gown of pale gold lace. It represented the measure of her yielding to the temptation to purchase every lovely thing she beheld.

She found herself warming to Freda Carter. With her Eve felt none of the barrier of formality that often exists between women who are brought together by professional interests. They dined pleasantly at Eve's hotel.

"About tonight," Freda said over the coffee cups, "I thought you'd like to see a musical comedy so I arranged it. I met an interesting man on the ship, Ernest Franks is his name. He's going to call for us at eight o'clock."

Eve said she would enjoy going to the theater. She was surprised when two men instead of one met them as she and Freda left the elevator.

"I brought this lone wolf along," Franks explained after introducing Theron Reece, "because he needed company. I hope you'll like him."

"He looks likable," Freda said as she and her escort led the way to a taxicab. Eve followed with Reece whose charms easily overshadowed those of Franks.

Judging from the applause the musical show was a great success. Eve followed its theme only vaguely. She permitted herself to lapse into lethargy, rousing occasionally to smile brightly at her companions. She was conscious of pleasing music and then the final curtain.

Theron Reece hummed one of the song hits as he guided her through the lobby. As they joined the throng waiting for cabs outside he suggested a night club.

REECE was disappointed when the head waiter was unable to seat them at a table in the inner circle. A smart chorus of young girls was dancing vivaciously, beautifully. The applause was hearty and long. Then the dancing space was cleared for patrons. Franks did not dance but Reece apparently wanted to be on the floor all the time. Again and again he managed so that he and Eve were on the floor and the center of attention before the other dancers left their tables. Eve was not quite sure she liked this. The lights turned to a rosy glow and the orchestra played a waltz that made Eve think of Dick. Reece held her closely but Eve drew away.

When they returned to their table Freda was displaying a new cigaret case she had purchased in Paris. She passed it around. Eve glanced at the other tables, then hesitatingly took a cigaret. Franks closed his hand over it.

"Don't," he said. "It spoils the illusion." Then he added, "With apologies to Miss Carter!" Freda smiled. She did not mind.

"And don't drink either," Reece added, as he poured the contents of a silver flask into three glasses of ginger ale. "We want you to keep that 'little girl' look. It's a rare thing in a place like this."

As they left the night club Ernest Franks suggested walking a few blocks before he escorted Freda to her sister's home in Brooklyn. "Fifth Avenue is right around the corner," he said. "It's a glorious night and the windows after midnight are always worth looking at."

Freda agreed to walk with him. The sidewalks were dry and her long fur coat protected her against the cold. But Reece protested that Eve's wrap was inadequate, so they separated. Reece signaled a taxicab and he and Eve drove to her hotel.

"Are you so absurdly young as you look?" he asked. Then, without waiting for an answer, he deliberately took her hand. He held it tightly and Eve did not try to withdraw it. After all, it was but a few blocks to the hotel.

Suddenly the man took her in his arms and, before she could free herself, pressed his lips to hers.

They arrived at the hotel and Eve without so much as a good-night, hurried to the elevator.

Fort Worth Girl 'Learning to Hear' After Many Years

By United Press

FORT WORTH.—It is a queer world to Miss Dorris Morrow, attractive Fort Worth girl, since she can hear.

For the first time she can remember Miss Morrow is able to hear sounds. This through the aid of an instrument. She had been deaf since she was a year old.

She is now learning to associate sounds with objects but at first the noise of a passing automobile, a factory whistle or a song meant nothing to her, other than sound vibrations in her ears.

Her own voice even surprised her. It sounded terribe the first time she heard it, she said, and she threw her hands over her ears.

Words that she used in her own speech meant nothing to her orally. She is an expert lip reader and through that medium she began to associate words and sounds.

Miss Morrow never has used the sign language. In several years at special schools she was taught how to operate her vocals cords so that she could speak. Her language is remarkably accurate.

She finished her high school course in pubic school here in 1930 with excellent standing. Before entering school here she spent eight years in the Central Institute for Deaf in St. Louis, where she learned to use her vocal cords adeptly.

Miss Morrow withdraw from the College of Industrial Arts at Denton last winter, after two years work, because of ill health.

Jones, who was assisted in receiving and in the pleasant duties of the evening by co-hostesses, Mmes. Iola Mitchell, Ernest H. Jones, Tom M. Johnson, W. B. Harris, Will Keith, W. C. Marlow, D. J. Jobe, and the honoree, Mrs. Guy Dunnam.

Ten small tables dressed in linen, with yellow and green borders, and centered with lovely garden flowers, with freesia bordered place cards in the color motif for four covers, were spaced over the velvety sward for the buffet supper of fried chicken, hot rolls, salads, iced tea with lemon, ice cream and cake.

Unique and smart entertainment was provided by Mrs. B. E. McGlamery in introduction of a clever style show, of hats, vintage gay nineties, and modeled by members of the W. M. S.

A handsome register book the gift of Mrs. Jones, the hostess, was presented Mrs. Dunnam.

Inscribed therein were individual wishes for her happiness by Mmes. Turner M. Collie, E. C. Satterwhite, Ed F. Willman, Frank Crowell, A. F. Taylor, J. J. Mick, Robert Jones, Fred Davenport, M. H. Kelly, B. E. McGlamery, O. O. Mickle, Lanies Harkrider, T. J Haley, Cecil W. Webb, W. W. Kelly, Joe C. Stephen, M. B. Griffin, W. E. Coleman, J. P. Hearn, J. Frank Sparks, Anna Perkins Stewart, Sam G. Thompson; Misses Evelyn Hearn, Maurine Davenport, and Berniece Johnson, the assisting hostesses and house hostess, Mrs. Frank Allen Jones.

Mrs. Dunnam leaves in a few day for her future home in Houston.

Delightful Program Enjoyed

Mrs. M. L. Smitham entertained the Women's Missionary society of the Christian church most charmingly at her home Monday afternoon.

Bouquets of roses, and bright zinnias were artistically used in decoration.

The program was opened by the vice president, Mrs. Eugene Day, in the absence of Mrs. C. A. Peterson, president.

The subject, "Old Books for New," was beautifully presented, prefaced by the devotional, conducted by Mrs. Will Wood, and opening with singing of the first verse of a series of hymns, and closing with hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

The subject, "Come Ye Apart to Pray," was presented by Mrs. J. H. Vaughn, leader, and Mmes. J. R. Gilbreath, T. A. Bendy, W. B. Duke, Harry King, E. E. Wood, closing with an unusually fine review of "Speaking of Books," given by Mrs. J. H. Caton.

At the tea hour the hostess served an attractive salad plate of frozen fruit, with orange filled red sandwiches, cheese balls, and iced tea.

The afternoon closed with ensemble singing of "In the Garden," with Mrs. J. A. Beard pianist for service.

Guests were Mmes. A. C. Simmons, Hornwell, Watson, and Webster; members present, Mmes. J. A. Beard, J. H. Vaughn, W. C. Bagley, T. L. Cooper, R. L. Gattis, W. M. Wood, J. H. Caton, Eugene Day, Harry King, E. E. Wood, W. B. Duke; Miss Sallie Day, and hostess, Mrs. M. L. Smitham.

Adjourned to first Monday in September with Mrs. D. J. Fiensy, hostess.

Mrs. Pangburn Entertains Auxiliary

The Women's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church spent a most pleasant afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. M. Pangburn, South Ostrom street, on "Church Society Day."

The session was opened by the president, Mrs. C. W. Geue. On account of the moving from the city of Mrs. M. C. Hayes, first vice president, Mrs. Ray Larner, second vice president, succeeded her.

Mrs. J. Leroy Arnold and Miss Mabel Hart were named nominating committee to submit a name to be voted on for second vice president at next meeting.

A very fine spiritual devotional on "Prayer" was led by Miss Hart, and opened with the hymn, ensemble, "Sweet Hour of Prayer."

A talk on the 11th chapter of Luke, verses 1-4, was beautifully presented.

Mrs. Pangburn read a poem, "The Relijus," that was written by John Martin. Mrs. J. A. Whatley presented a deep review of Maeternlinck's "Treasures of the Humble."

The program was one of the best given for some time, and enjoyed by Mmes. Robert Pearson, Vern Hart, C. W. Geue, J. Leroy Arnold and hostess, Mrs. Pangburn, who served a dainty refreshment of rose and brick ice cream, small cakes and iced fruiter punch.

FINISH OF STRATOSPHERE ATTEMPT

The stratosphere balloon in which Lieut. Com. T. G. W. Settle was to try for a flight 10 miles into the upper air, rose ghostly above Soldiers' Field in Chicago, above, as it was inflated. But less than 10 minutes later it was sprawled across the C., B. & Q. railroad tracks three miles away, as shown below. A defective value is believed to have forced Settle to land, the carefully planned flight a fizzle. The balloon was not seriously damaged, and Settle is expected to try again.

Ruth Chatterton In Amazing New Role At Lyric Today

Ruth Chatterton comes to the Lyric theatre today in the most astounding characterization she has ever portrayed on the screen—in the title role of the First National picture, "Lilly Turner."

As Lilly Turner, the "Cooch" dancer and come-on girl for a carnival, she has in this picture more clandestine love affairs than most actresses portray in a lifetime. She flits from one love to another with a wild abandon inspired by cruel mistreatment at the hands of her first lover. It is not until she finally awakens to real love that ghosts of her many sweethearts rise up to haunt her.

The picture, based on the stage success by Philip Dunning and George Abbott, reveals the lift behind the scenes of the players in the tawdry medicine tent shows and the glamorous carnivals. Gone is the stately Miss Chatterton, of the society drawing room: In "Lilly Turner" is Chatterton, cooch dancer who wiggles her hips and jiggles her chest muscles to fascinate and lure the male; the poseur in pink tights and flimsy, transparent costumes.

Never, it is said, has she given such a powerful characterization as that of Lilly Turner, the girl who flaunts her charms to devastate the heart of the male; whose life is one of butterfly gaiety on the surface and bitter heartaches beneath.

"Lilly Turner" is a vivid, realistic story with frivolity and pathos and real dramatic power. George Brent plays the leading masculine role opposite Miss Chatterton, the first time the two have been teamed together since their marriage last fall. Others in the cast include Frank McHugh, Ruth Donnelly and Guy Kibbee.

The direction was in the hands of William A. Wellman who directed Miss Chatterton in "Frisco Jenny."

Arrested As a Self-Kidnaper

A kidnaping with a new twist was revealed by police who arrested David M. Kahan, Brooklyn realty man, on the charge he abducted himself in an attempt to collect ransom from wealthy relatives. Seized in Hudson, N. Y., Kahan is shown arriving at court in Brooklyn, where he was charged with blackmail and attempted extortion.

Arlington Downs May Begin Season After August 27

FORT WORTH.—Date for the fall horseracing season at Arlington Downs, between here and Dallas, should be forthcoming within a short time.

Seven thoroughbred horses owned by W. T. Waggoner, owner of the Arlington Downs, have been brought back from eastern and northeren tracks to rest and train for the event.

The races can be held any time after Aug. 31, when the recently passed horse-racing law goes into effect. It probably will be held late in September.

So long has it been since Texans have gone to the window and laid down their bets on horses, they may have become a bit rusty. Horse-racing was barred 24 years ago.

The legalized "certificate system," is a softer way of saying pari-mutuel. Racing fans who have followed or attended races where they employ the pari-mutuel system will find the Texas betting quite similar.

There are some striking exceptions. The bettor must be at the track to place his bet. Also there will be no posting of odds at the track.

At eastern and northern tracks the odds on each horse are placed on a bulletin board at the track.

If the bettor at Texas races is a "wise-guy" he probably will not have much trouble in finding out just about how the odds lay.

To place a bet, the one merely walks up to the bookmaker's window, plunks down his $2 or up, and receives a card with the name of the horse he chose on it.

If his horse finishes first, he returns to the window, presents his card, and gathers back his ante plus his earnings. If the horses finishes second or third, the returns are smaller.

ONCE . . . . . EACH DAY

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

We owe our simple American homelife to the President.

We don't wear wooden shoes or

Dance in Parisian night clubs or

Live in villas or

Row to work in gondolas, but

Our pleasant little lives are composed of shorter hours and longer numerals (sometime) on our pay checks, for

We've gone in for feathered stock, and tied ourselves to the eagle's claws.

At any rate, we see our families again . . .and the neighbors.

We sleep in our spare hours and eat what the eagle buys . . . and talk NRA endlessly over

The office desk,

The breakfast table,

The back fence,

And our own nodding heads. Yowsah, mostly over our heads—the bird is somewhat complicated when we go into an analysis of what makes his wheels go 'round.

Mr. President and all the other misters who wave their arms and tell us how to climb to the financial heights say he's fragile and must be handled with something akin to care.

This is one time we can't refuse to co-operate and expect to go on eating. After a four year diet, we want soup.

The li'l ole game of 50-50 fair play is 'pon us. We tap the paper before us thoughtfully . . . the pen is filled with ink . . . we are at the point of signing our fates.

The question marks loom all around us.

We sigh. Life, after all, is very dense and dull.

We can't break the economical golden rule now without expecting to have it broken over our own poor heads.

We must punch the clock to the second . . . we open and close our doors with the cuckoo . . . our pay checks have reached a definite minimum . . . at last we see our homes.

We have ceased to do the work of four men. We touch elbows with the beaming who have not had, and now have, work. We crown the blue eagle.

They call it NRA. We thank the President for our simple home life.

Ex-Texas Ranger Urges Execution of All Kidnapers

By WINSTON COPELAND
United Press Staff Correspondent

FORT WORTH. — Execution within 30 days after kidnapers are caught would stop that racket, Tom Hickman, famous former captain of the Texas Rangers, said today.

"A strict, inescapable death penalty, for men and women alike, with speedy trial and execution within 30 days after capture, will do more than make kidnapers stop and think," the former nemesis to Texas banditry told the United Press.

"But," he emphasized, "There should be no escaping the death penalty. If half are let off with lighter sentences, there are plenty criminals willing to gamble they'll be in the lucky half.

"Life imprisonment or isolation on an island won't work. Criminals escape now even from Devil's Island."

Hickman is well-versed by experience on criminals. His activity with the world-known Texas constabulary has rubbed his elbows with all classes, from petty gambler to bank robber and kidnaper. He once stood boldly on the street of Clarksville, Texas, and in the open shot it out with three bank robbers, felling all three.

"Where there's the slightest chance of escape you'll find some taking that chance," he continued. "The death penalty for kidnaping should be made uniform throughout the United States so there can be no getting around it."

Hickman, most noted of modern Texas Rangers, believes President Roosevelt's move for congressional and federal action is the right step. He agreed with Major Gen. Smedley Butler in the necessity of federal action but differed in the procedure.

"A central organization under the department of justice would prove much more effective than loosely strung federal marshals," he said, "This organization, of say 10 to 15 men, could work on all cases and be equipped with airplanes to move quickly. At least the head of this single organization should work on every kidnaping so as to make a closely knitted and uniform effort.

"Apparently there are only a few gangs pulling recent kidnapings. A single solidified force would be able to run them ragged and quickly put them out of business. Some of the kidnapings are pulled by rank amateurs who get by on sheer luck. They would be easy.

"Kidnapers are a worse form of criminals than bankrobbers. Consequently they must be deat with as the worst of criminals."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

ALTHOUGH pears of some variety are to be found in the market almost the whole year through, the delicious Bartlett pear is at its best during August and September. Many other high quality varieties follow the Bartlett, prolonging the season into the late fall.

Unlike most fruits, pears are best picked green and allowed to ripen in storage. In this way the fruit develops better flavor and finer, smoother texture than if tree-ripened. Consequently, in choosing pears, those on the verge of greenness rather than ripeness are desirable.

Excellent Tonic Fruit

In spite of their seeming sweetness, pears are somewhat acid and therefore are an excellent tonic fruit. Their flavor is refreshing, tending to tone up a tired appetite. Used fresh in salads, fruit cups and desserts, or as a breakfast fruit, they provide a welcome change.

Baked pears may be prepared like baked apples and are especially good for breakfast with bacon and eggs. If wanted for dessert, they can be pared and cored, sprinkled with sugar and baked, covered, in a moderate oven for an hour.

Served with whipped cream and ginger cookies, they make an inviting last course for an August dinner. Two tablespoons sugar for each pear make the fruit pleasantly sweet for the average taste. A little powdered ginger added and mixed with the sugar adds zest to the fruit.

Make Delicious Fritters

Fritters made with pears are very good, too. Served with ginger sauce, pear fritters make a fitting dessert for a September vegetable dinner. Pare fruit and cut in thin slices. Drop into fritter batter and fry in deep hot fat.

Stuffed pear salad always is popular and when fresh, perfectly ripe, juicy fruit is used, the salad is delicious. Cream cheese mixed with finely chopped preserved ginger and nut meats is a delectable combination for the stuffing. Chill pears, pare and cut in halves lengthwise. Remove cores and sprinkle with lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Drain the ginger from its syrup and mince. Work nuts and ginger into cream cheese, add cream if necessary to make soft enough to mold. Mold in small balls and place a ball in the cavity of each pear. Serve on crisp lettuce with French dressing to which orange juice has been added.

Tomorrow's Menu
