WOMAN EVANGEL COMES
AUBURN TRESSES
FOR COURT

By DAN CAMPBELL
United News Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Sept. 28.—(United News)—A woman, who is being prosecuted for alleged immorality, is being forced to appear in court today to defend herself against charges of immorality. The woman, who is being prosecuted for alleged immorality, is being forced to appear in court today to defend herself against charges of immorality. The woman, who is being prosecuted for alleged immorality, is being forced to appear in court today to defend herself against charges of immorality.

Notes from the sermon were found in the Bible on the high and the secretary was questioned as to her knowledge of where the text of the sermon was obtained. She declared that Mrs. McPherson used a book while preparing the sermon and on being pressed as to where the book was, she answered with some hesitation that it could be found in the McPherson library.

A book, "The Mind Unmasked," found in the McPherson library, was the state contended that Mrs. McPherson and her radio operator, Kenneth G. Orniston, spent a number of days during the time that she claims she was held by kidnappers, will be the basis for the state's attack, it was said.

According to testimony, this book and a number of other physiological and theological treatises were left in the language by Orniston and "Miss X."

The state will contend, it is reported, that notes taken from the "light and darkness" sermon contain sentences from the second chapter of the book, "The Mind Unmasked."

Walter B. Lambert was the state's star witness of the day. Lambert testified that he saw both Mrs. McPherson and Orniston enter a hotel at the beach, five hours before an alarm was sounded that she had been kidnapped.

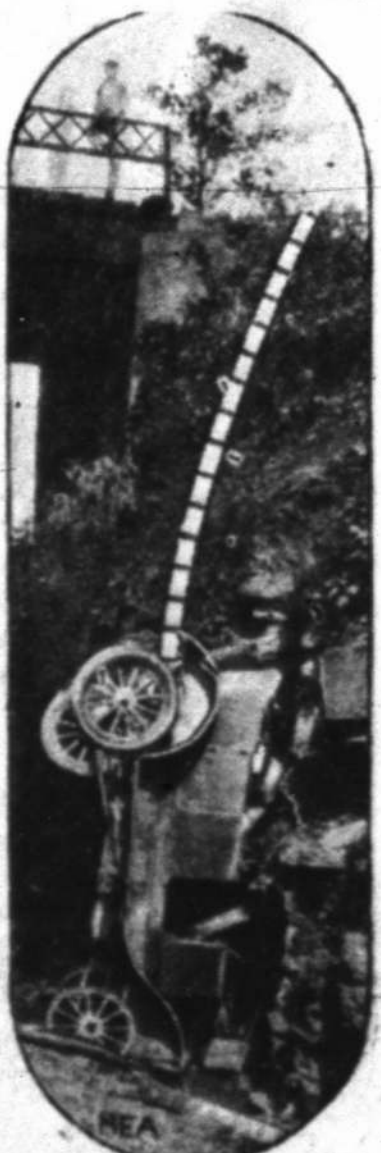

Lambert positively identified Mrs. McPherson and stated that she was carrying a brief case with her name printed in lead lettering across it.

TWO FIRED IN B. HALL SUIT

House Postpones Action on Hall Bill to Extend Text Book Contracts Pending
Investigation of Effect by Author

By United News
AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 30.—The house committee on education today postponed action on the bill to extend text book contracts for five years upon their expiration.

Hall positively denied imputation by State Superintendent of Public Instruction R. M. N. Marks that the bill was in the interest of a book publishing company now holding contracts with the state for text book contracts.

The Harris county representative asked postponement of action by the committee until he could make an investigation in an effort to ascertain if the bill would injure the income administration or give undue aid to any book publishing company.

Hall emphatically stated that in introducing the bill it was his intention of helping the state schools and that he had been informed that it would meet approval of Attorney General Moody. He said that former state director of Lamar county had assisted him in the preparation of the bill.

Statement made by Hall that in the event he found that the bill would be to the particular interest of any book company he would either withdraw it or ask the committee to kill it.

It develops that senate bill number 17, authorizing the purchase of school books, is being considered by the senate in a concurrent resolution by both branches of the legislature, now being signed by the governor. The bill carried the emergency clause and became law the instant the governor signed it.

Parliamentarians say that the legislature's only course is to repeal the law and efforts in that direction probably will be made.

Appointment by the governor of W. C. Wither of Lubbock as district attorney of the seventy-second judicial district was confirmed by the senate in executive session today. The committee on nominations had favorably reported on the Wither nomination.

This was the only matter considered in today's executive session.

The house today ordered the appointment by the speaker of a committee of three to investigate the claim made by James T. Deshields of Dallas to ownership of an oil painting, "Settlement of Austin's Colony," in the hall of the house of representatives. The painting is the work of H. A. McAnally, who also painted the picture of "The Battle of San Jacinto," hanging in the senate chamber.

Another resolution adopted by the house extends an invitation to the American Legion to hold its annual meeting next year in Texas instead of at Pacific Grove.

STARK ADMITS INJUNCTION BROUGHT DISMISSAL OF STUDENTS

Charge Disloyalty

SENATE QUESTIONS UNIVERSITY OFFICIALS DURING HEARING

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 30.—Two students were dismissed from the University of Texas positions for alleged disloyalty because they helped bring an injunction suit against the board of regents of the University of Texas, which is the university board of regents, admitted Thursday. He is attending the hearing before the senate state affairs committee on the concurrent resolution by Senator Phillips asking for a sweeping investigation of the University.

Questioned by Senator Pappell of Wichita county, Stark answered that the reason the boys were fired was disloyalty to the University. He then admitted that the only charge against them was filing the injunction suit.

The board president said he had never heard anything derogatory to their character and that he doubted that he would know them should they walk into the committee room. The action of the board in firing them was unanimous, though a full board was not present, Stark said.

The students were Percy B. Woodward, faculty mail carrier, and Geo. H. Hefley, dean assistant in charge of the reserve library.

H. G. Woodruff, of Paradise, member of the house and former resident of B. Hall, boys' dormitory, in connection with which the injunction suit was filed, said the committee that he Hefley had not only worked his way through school since returning from the world war, but that he had contributed to the support of a passed brother. He worked on three years at 20 cents an hour in the library and last year was made an assistant at $1.00 a year, representative Woodruff said.

GAMBLING PROBE
AT SARATOGA

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Now that the last horse and harness races have departed from Saratoga and the sleepy old Spa is preparing for its winter's nap, the heavy hand of executive disapproval, reaching out from the state capital at Albany, has fallen upon two officers charged with detection of duty in their failure to suppress gambling during the racing season.

K. C. SOUTHERN EXPLAINS MERGER

JOHNSTON TELLS I. C. C. MORE ABOUT LOREE PLAN

By United News
DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 30.—The consultants of L. P. Loree, chief proponent of the plan to merge three Southwestern railroads into one giant system, divulged further into the technicalities of the plan Thursday before the interstate commerce commission here, when C. E. Johnston, Kansas City, vice-president and general manager of the Kansas City Southern railroad, explained the plan in detail that has been devised to effect operating economies.

One of the most important points in the merger plan as divulged by Johnston, is Loree's idea that a branch line should be constructed to connect the Kansas City Southern and the Katy railroads, between Atoka, Okla., and Shreveport, La.

As an alternative plan, the Kansas City Southern might purchase the Paris and Mount Pleasant railway, to connect the two systems, Johnston said.

In substance, Johnston reiterated the Loree plan, declaring that a connection of the Katy, Kansas City Southern and Cotton Belt roads would effect economies of drifting empty equipment moving north and south, cutting it to produce revenue for the Katy northbound traffic and for the Kansas City Southern on east bound shipments.

No Excuse for Loneliness as Long as Children Need Care

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEA Service

ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 30.—Every man and woman should work—if not from the necessity of making a living, then for the betterment of mankind.

This is the theory of Mrs. Albert Dodge Smith, of Orange, N. J., and she has put it into practice.

With a beautiful home, a comfortable income, and utterly alone in the world, she turned her back on the comfortable easy life of a society woman, and looked about her for something useful to do.

Her fondness for children directed her course, and a tour of the children's hospitals suggested to her a plan. She decided to do something for convalescent children, to bridge the gap between the hospital and the home, often a poor and over-crowded home.

Not an Institution

"So I built a bungalow in the rear of my home," she explains, "planning it carefully so that it should have all the sunlight and air possible. It will accommodate 20 babies at a time, but I rarely take more than 10 because I want to make a home for them, not an institution."

"I hired a trained nurse and a cook and notified some of the hospitals in the crowded sections of the New York east side that I would care for convalescent babies, nurse them back to health and give them a long vacation in the country before they go back to their homes."

Children need love just as they need air and sunlight. An institution is entirely wrong for their normal growth. If women of means in this country would just give shelter and love to one homeless baby there would be no need for orphan asylums or institutions.

Many Applications

"And the joy and satisfaction that comes from helping one needy child develop mentally and spiritually as well as physically more than compensates for any sacrifice involved."

Since Mrs. Smith opened her bungalow for convalescents, she has had more applications from hospitals and doctors than she could possibly fill, and has often been obliged to choose the most needy rather than extend boundless hospitality.

"The number of applications I have received, as well as the number of babies I have been able to put on the road to health, convinces me that there is a definite need for such work in this country, and that other women with sufficient means and time could well help carry on the work," she says.

Mrs. Smith believes there is no reason why any woman should feel alone in the world so long as there are any children who are homeless.

"Children are women's work, and their natural responsibility, more than any other form of social service," she concluded. "Whether you work for your own children or for others is immaterial when you consider the benefit to posterity."

CONVOCA TION TOMORROW

The first regular student convocation of the year will be held tomorrow morning at 11:45 at the pavilion according to an announcement by Dean J. M. Gordon yesterday. Classes will be dismissed at 11:40 and the meeting will be adjourned at 12:30. Routine announcements concerning classes and other school matters will be made at the meeting, as well as some student speeches immediately after the convocation. The first senior class of the Tech met and discussed plans for the election of officers of the class also be held.

NEW FLAG ADORNS CAMPUS

A new American flag is now flying from the campus flag pole and will be put up and taken down each day by members of the Military Department. The new flag is much larger than the old one and can be plainly seen from the business section of Lubbock.

MORE CLASS ROOMS TO BE ADDED TO THE TECH

To remove the crowded condition of several of the classes and to prevent holding of classes in the pavilion and cafeteria, room 305 of the administration building will be cut into three small class rooms to be used by the smaller advanced classes of the school. The room is fully large enough to accommodate 200 students and with partitions placed in will be able to hold three classes of approximately 50 students each.

HOME ECONOMICS FACULTY TO ENTERTAIN CLUB WITH TEA THIS AFTERNOON

The first meeting of the Home Economics Club will be held this afternoon at four o'clock in room 205 of the home economics building, when the faculty will entertain with a tea. The business session of the meeting will consist of election of officers and outline of the program of the first term.

The club will build to their Student Loan Fund which was established last year, the first organization in the Tech to establish a loan fund. A sum was built up and major part of it is out on loan to students of the school this year.

The faculty of the school will serve tea to the members and other students immediately after the business session. Every student of the school is urged to be present.

MAGAZINES TO GRACE CAMPUS SOON

Students interested in journalism are at present working on the plan for a comic and literary magazine which shall be published monthly. The publication will not in any way conflict with the present weekly publication nor will it carry anything which will be in the newspaper. The book will be solely for the purpose of giving vent to the literary and humorous exclamations of the student body.

The first edition will be off the press about the latter part of next week according to those in charge. It will be nameless and a prize will be offered for the best name submitted to the magazine.

W. A. A. TO STAGE PARTY TONIGHT

Immediately after the pep meeting tonight the Women's Athletic Association of the Tech will entertain all standing, the girls who won awards last year did not receive them, but they will be awarded later on this year.

Every girl of the college is cordially invited to attend the party tonight.

STUDENTS STILL HUNTING JOBS

A constant demand for jobs to aid in the payment of their expenses throughout the year has come from the students of the Tech this year. In order to aid the students, Registrar E. L. Dohoney sent out over 600 letters to the business men of Lubbock asking for information concerning student employment and as yet he has received only about one-third of the replies.

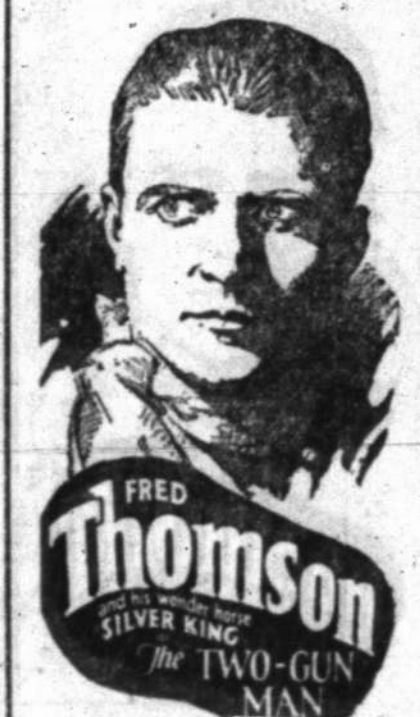

A number of students withdrew from school the past several days because they were unable to obtain work. More will have to withdraw in the near future unless they can secure employment.

An urgent appeal is being made to the business men and the citizens of Lubbock to aid the students all they can in securing employment for the students. Any one who has a position where a student may earn part of his or her expenses are asked to call 1280 and ask for Miss Ingram, who has charge of this work.

Finnis Vaughn, 1509 Avenue J, underwent a tonsil operation at a local sanitarium today.

THE VALUE OF GOOD BUILDINGS

The matter of buildings is something that is given very little thought by the majority of the people who build. They look upon a house as a house and give the matter of detail as to what goes into the construction or how it is constructed very little attention, which is one of the great mistakes of building cities. As a rule the buildings in Lubbock are very well constructed, in the business section but we are told that there is a wonderful lot of shoddy work in the building of homes. Inferior material is often used, and inferior workmanship in the construction cheapens the building, but after it is covered up with wall paper or brick veneer, or stucco, it is sometimes hard to detect, but time will tell, and it will prove that there are many buildings of the town that are not what they appear to be, and in a few years will fall down, or begin to show what they lack.

The advantage of good buildings is brought out in a statement from Mr. Davies Warfield, president of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, in speaking of the damages of the recent storm in Florida. He says while the loss of life entailed in Florida is most unfortunate and regrettable our information is that buildings erected under modern methods of architectural design and construction have withstood the tempest in admirable shape, the damage being local, such as plate glass and that class of damage. Temporary buildings of flimsy construction were seriously damaged, together with hundreds of automobile camps composed of crib and canvas construction and the innumerable little booths that line the various roads in Florida. This proves to be the case in every wind disaster of late. When a tornado struck Logan, O., two or three years ago, all the old rockeries which made that city hideous were reduced to heaps of bricks and splinters. The good new buildings remained good and new. In the long run, the city was immensely benefited by the swift disappearance of the unsafe and ugly stuff. Florida was full of flimsy buildings, as so many places are where winter is unknown. It is these which have been blown into toothpicks. If the builders of the present will learn a lesson from the mistakes of the past, the new Florida may greet the arrival of future hurricanes—not with smiles, because a hurricane is never a smiling matter, but with a serene confidence in the soundness of its structures.

We think it a wise thing for the city officials to keep in force every building ordinance that tends to make the buildings more substantial. While we are not contemplating any severe storms, like they have recently had in Florida and other places east, it is nothing but good business to keep our buildings fit. Poorly constructed buildings are a menace to the health of the community. They are dangerous to life and property, and men who know buildings should be placed in charge of every job. Contractors who do not know how to build, or who are not honest enough to give people what they pay for or what they should have for the money should not be allowed to operate in the city.

We are of the opinion that it pays to build good buildings.

FLORIDA DISASTER

The wind, in its fury, is a demon. The thought that is age-old comes home again when we read of the destruction following its wake in Florida. Where fair cities bloomed on land, much of it reclaimed from the sea by the skill and ingenuity of man, waste and sorrow affirm the might of the hurricane, more powerful to destroy than man, to protect. Few forces of nature are understood by frail mortals, and all of us stand in awe as the gale whistles above us, bending trees and shaking houses. It is bad enough inland but when its full force propels the water to the shore, terror, disaster and death are certain to follow in its train. The news of the havoc in Florida is not complete. Exaggeration may mingle in the stories, but there can be no doubt that one of the worst disasters of modern times has struck North America. Those who have seen the Florida resorts have observed the built up causeways, the lowness of the land and can easily realize how high waves, pushed forward by the prodigious effort of nature, swept over the islands, reclaimed beaches, connecting highways and the land itself. Imagine, if you can, Morehaves, on the shores of Lake Okchobee, a lake 40 miles long and 30 miles wide, twenty feet deep. When the storm's wind hurled enormous waves against the dam, protecting the city, its power could not be denied, and a flood of water inundated that locality, where only brick houses remain standing and where scores were drowned as frail buildings collapsed. Martial law, breadlines, water famine, dead bodies and twisted wreckage testify where the swirling fury passed. Families scattered, lost children seeking parents perhaps, never to find them. Fathers and mothers looking for their boys and girls, many of whom are gone forever, the tender victims of a power father and mother could not forestall. The bright ray of human fellowship, of sympathy, of neighborliness, as all America does what it can to help the victims bear their sorrow and the living to find food and shelter, alone prevents the scene of desolation from being a picture of hell. Airplanes, special trains and steamers are already on the scene or en route to carry relief. Food, shelter, medicine, clothes and resuscitation are necessary. The United States, as one people, leap forward to help. It is a magnificent picture!

In sympathy we look on this storm-swept city. We wonder why people will invest their money in places like that. We wonder with all of the broad, fertile prairies of the South Plains where the towns are high and dry, and immune from flood damages, that people will crowd in and around the dangers that lurk in the low lands, but these storms come far apart, and the beauties that are manifest in those localities between times are enticing, and people are willing to take a chance because of the delightful climate and other attractions.

EXPERT TESTIMONY

That parents are slackers was the affirmation received over and over by a writer for Good Housekeeping who sent out a questionnaire to criminal court judges, educators and other people in touch with the problems of youth today. Their views are summed up in the conclusion of one man who in mentioning dance halls, road houses, vulgar magazines and vulgar movies, says that anyone even superficially familiar with these things "will probably agree that a social order willing to tolerate such agencies is likely to develop exactly the sort of younger generation it deserves. I believe that the general moral standard of our young folks is decidedly better than their elders who control the social situation have any right to expect." All these strictures, however, are from the outside. From one school comes the voice of youth itself. The principal put the matter up to his senior class: Is the moral tone of young people really bad? "It is very bad," they declared unanimously. Moreover, as men from the days of Adam, they blamed the girls. "They paint too much and expose their bodies too much," they said. The principal asked them what they would recommend. "They urged that every boy's father make a chum of him, restrict the boy's spending money and himself have the standards he wanted boys to live up to." Mothers, they said, should be more careful about their own example and about their own example and about their girls. One boy summed it up: "If you have any doubts about conditions in the future, I can tell you that when we are fathers things will be better. We'll be about one thousand times stricter than our parents have been." There, at last, is expert testimony.

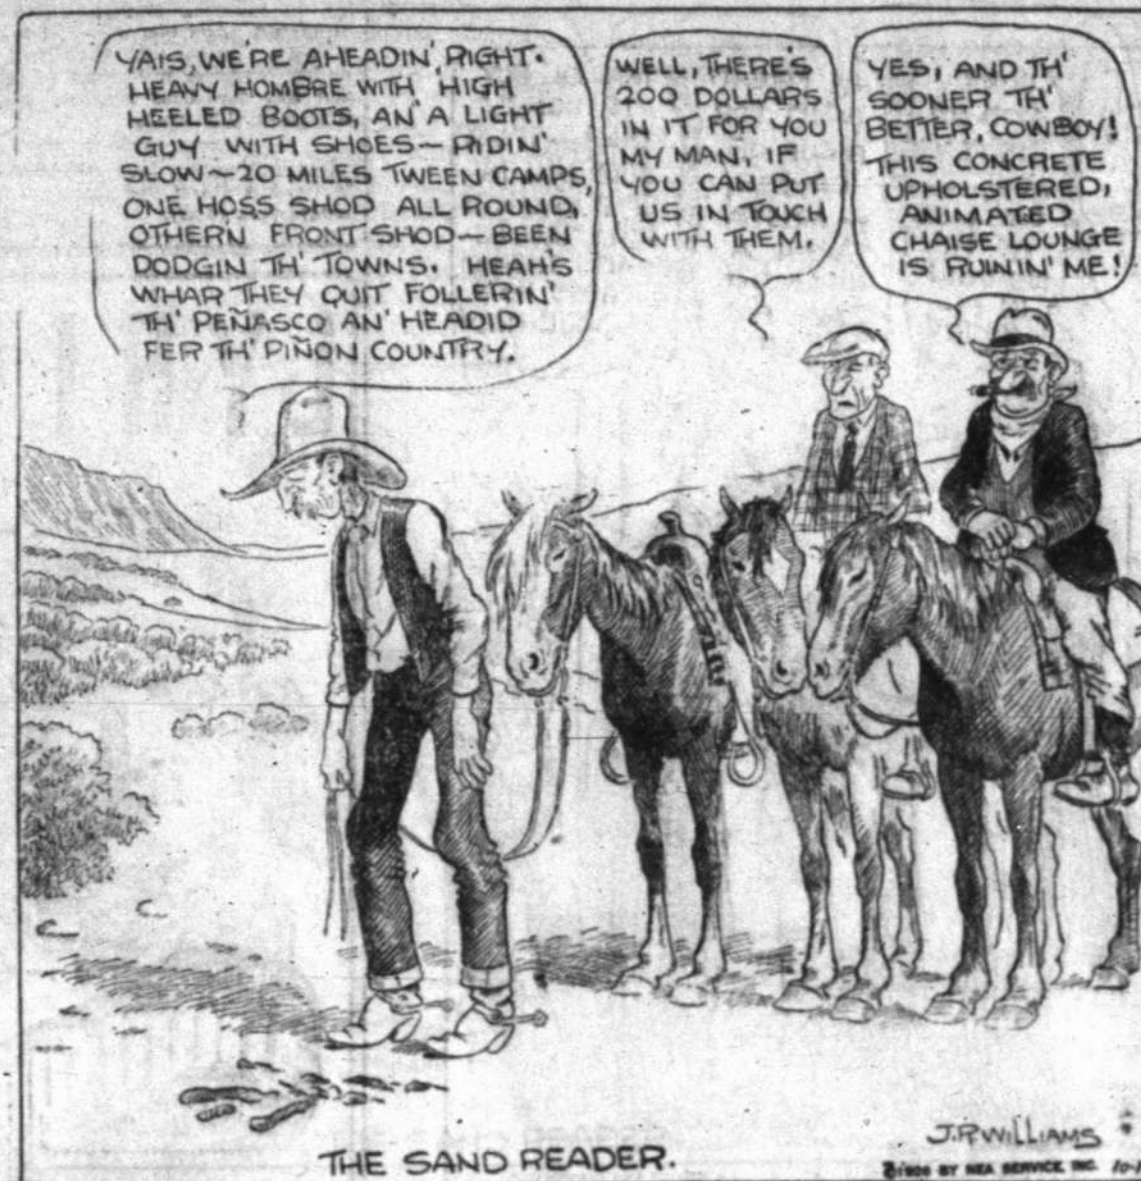

GRAND OPERA

John McCormick told a critic that he thought grand opera ludicrous, and "felt like a fool when tagged out in regulation costumes attempting to warble his love to a fat prima donna." Galli-Curci agrees with him, and says the aristocrats of the music world are concerts and symphony orchestras. She left an impression on the critic's mind that to her "grand opera is a glorified show that falls short of getting across." Maybe so. A good many music-lovers feel much the same way about it. The essential artificiality of grand opera is too great to make any veritable dramatic appeal. Viewed merely as a show, however, it ranks supreme among shows. Eye and ear are satisfied to the full, and the emotions roused by the appeal of beauty to these senses are gratified. There is always room for differences in personal taste. Some people prefer the coloratura, some the mixed chorus, some the symphony concert and see the Sunday evening hymns at home. But it is a foolish mistake to make categorical comparisons in the field of music as it is to discard the American beauty because one has come upon a stand of wild violets. And so, bourgeois or plebeian as the lure of grand opera may be taken exactly for what it is, a glorified show, it will continue to attract.

LURE OF THE UNKNOWN

Wanderlust is wanderlust. Lust for strange roads is lust for the unknown things to be seen along them and at their ends. Individuals of all ages and all generations have known it—have felt it dragging them from the beaten tracks to trails that lead into uncharted regions. Some never return. Some do, in rags, broken, worn, weary, with stories of monsters and evil things encountered and with scars to prove their adventures. A few return in fine raiment, enriched, with wondrous tales of good things found and with evidence that bears them out. Thus do the terrors and treasures of the unknown become evident. Sometimes the lure gets into the feet and pulls its victims along strange paths toward wondrous places, new lands, unexplored wastes. Sometimes it gets into the mind and leads toward strange theories and after strange objectives, some of them real, some chimerical, some of them good, some bad. Sometimes the lure of the unknown draws toward strange political, moral, social, economic or metaphysical "isms"—some of which prove sound and safe, but most of them unsound and deadly dangerous. Sometimes it gets into youth and tempts it toward odd moral conceits and fancies—some harmless, some destructive. Many wanderers perish on their journeys along strange mental lines. Others return, sadder and wiser. A large number of grown-ups "isms" chasers are today wandering after strange notions. And many of the younger generation are in pursuit of strange fancies that may come true, hunting new pleasure by new paths into new haunts. May all return as hopeful and confident as they set forth.

SO THINK WE

We think that girls should be permitted to study one language only. We are sure that one tongue is enough for any woman.

We think that idlers are easier to yield to temptation than the fellow that is busy all the time. We would suggest then that you not be idle.

We think one is popular when people like you for what you do, and are respected when people like you for what you are.

We think that charity should not only begin at home, but it should stay there as long as it is needed.

We think if a fellow is sure he is right, then lots of time they will not go ahead.

We think old John Barley Corn is dead, but he left a (boot) legacy that is damming a large number of his heirs.

We think the only way we will be able to get rid of dry goods box stores is to not permit them to operate on street corners.

We think conversations on the sidewalk to listen to the spell of some fellow who does not know any more about what he is saying than an ordinary monkey should not be allowed.

We think now that Battleground has the worms pretty well knocked out, he will have to settle the price of cotton and picking.

We think a lot of people holler before they are hurt, but again on the other hand, a lot of people are not quick enough to become alarmed about some things.

We think it will be a fine thing when every fellow in town takes so much pride in his home that he will vie with his neighbor to see who can have the prettiest and the cleanest.

We think people have very little to do when they circulate harmful reports about other communities. Like the case of the fellows under the cap rock telling cotton pickers that people are dying of poison intended for the worms.

We think Lubbock would do well to put down a gas well right in the city limits.

We think the people of the South Plains can easily see the need of gravelled or hard surfaced roads now since the bottom has fallen out of this country because of the big rains of recent days.

We think the people of the South Plains will be very busy for the next few weeks gathering the cotton crop if the weather stays fair.

We think Lubbock has wrought well, and has supplied the children with some splendid school buildings, but now comes the problem of getting to them when the weather is wet or snow is on the ground. We need some more side walks.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that the report has been put out that cotton pickers are dying on their cotton sacks from the effect of the poison that was put out to kill the leaf worms. It's all a mistake. There is not a single death of even anyone seems seemingly sick from this effect.

FIRES.

Two hundred eighty-four Texas, big, little, and small, were killed in fires each year, many of which are preventable. This, not to mention the millions of dollars worth of material, not to say anything about priceless heirlooms that go up in smoke each year. What is a small fee for inspection compared with all this loss of life and property?

People take more chances with fire than most anything else. They are careless from many angles. They leave fire in stoves, and build fires in stoves without getting the bird nests out of the pipes in the early winter and never seem to think about having an inspection made of the home to prevent fires. The losses are great every year, and getting greater, and still we are careless.

TRADING AT HOME

Slaton Slatonite: Somebody said Slaton people ought to wake up about this "trading at home" proposition. Fears Shortage of Lumber, Urges Forest Planting

By NEA Service.

Millions of acres of idle lands throughout the United States must be put to work or the country faces a timber famine.

This is the message of Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Nature Association.

"A food shortage could be corrected within a year or two," says Mr. Pack, "but a wood shortage would take a hundred years to remedy."

Future Independence

Economic strides taken by this country in the last 50 years are staggering when set down in figures. The future holds forth promise of even greater things, but the future economic independence of the United States depends upon its trees.

Eighty-one millions of acres of land.

"William Penn foresaw this when he cautioned the colonial planters to plant one acre of every five in But his advice was not heeded."

Pennsylvania is an example. Pennsylvania's annual lumber harvest is 450 millions board feet. But a consumption of the state is more than two billions of feet, six times Pennsylvania's forest production.

Idle Acreage

"Yet Pennsylvania has more than three million of acres of this idle New England has a great deal, so has Michigan, New York, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Ohio, Indiana and a great manufacturing states."

SLATON UPSETS DOPE BUCKET BY BEATING PLAINVIEW

DALLAS WINS DIXIE SERIES FROM PELICANS

WESTERNERS WILL MEET WITH POST CAPROCKERS TODAY

TIGERS CLAW BULLDOGS AND WIN BY SIX POINTS IN GALLANT BATTLE ON SOUTH PLAINS FAIR GROUNDS GRID

In the game yesterday afternoon between Slaton Tigers and the Plainview Bulldogs, the favorites of the bugs, which was Plainview, was taken to defeat by the Tigers with a score of 19 to 13. Plenty of action was given the patrons of the South Plains Fair when these two clubs met. There was not an idle moment in the playing of the game. Both clubs fought a gallant fight; the Tigers seemingly, were in better condition for the fight than the Bulldogs—showing a harder training system.

PLAINVIEW SCORES FIRST

In the initial quarter the two clubs battled to a scoreless tie, each team exchanging punts "by" about the same measure. Most of the game was played in mid-field.

In the second quarter both clubs counted. Plainview, however, was the first to score. It was after both of the punters had exchanged punt after punt with Craig getting the better end of the exchange that the Tigers were backed to their own 15 yard line. Wicker was called back to punt and Brown, the lengthy wingman of "Dope" Allen's crew, leaped for Wicker's kick to block behind the goal line. "Wiley" Pearce plugged on the goal from the first center of the game.

Slaton came back after they had been scored on to tie the contest in the second period of the game. Again, who had run into the game substituting for Phil of the Tiger club, rushed in for the first play to make a perfect block on the line for 22 yards advancing the Tigers to the Plainview's 31 yard line. The Tiger backs then began their heavy plunging gaining on every play called—until Slaton received a triple pass behind the line of scrimmage and made a ring run of 22 yards for the Tiger's first count. Some discussion was made as to the play made at this particular time—Slaton had been retarded with a body block and fell to the ground and had never stopped, a Plainview line-man, let him go for the touchdown—referee McDermott had never blown his whistle to declare the ball dead. It was a good thinking ability of Slaton that carried the Bulldogs.

Both Score in Third

Both clubs, as in the second period scored the third session ending with the count still tied; but with more points added to it—the score was 13 and 13. The Bulldogs scored first in the third period with a long pass the main feature of the play. It was a pass from Howell to Brown that marched the ball within striking distance on the Tigers. Then a series of line plays carried more towards the scoring position coupled with a hard hitting line Brown easily counted for the Bulldogs. Craig failed to kick the goal.

After the Bulldogs counted on the Tigers they kicked off to the Plainview grid heroes. And after exchanging punts for the next few plays—it was a pass, Cannon to Slaton for 50 yards that again tied the score up.

Last Period the Tigers

The last quarter may be easily given to the Tigers—they outgained, outwitted, and out played the Bulldogs, as the Plainview club seemed to taste a weakness and tried appearance. With the heavy bodies of the Tiger back running consistently to the Bulldogs or the victory. Hucksby intercepted a Plainview pass on the fifty yard line, and ran for 20 yards. Then Wicker was the principal factor of the victory. Time and again he ripped and tore holes in the Bulldog defense.

Howell and Craig valuable. Howell, captain of the Bulldogs, and John Craig were the main ground warriors of the Bulldogs; while Deffen might be shared honors for his ability for a "three yard line"; as in case they needed the three yards for first down, Deffen was given the order—usually carrying them out. Howell is a triple threat man, punter, passer and good ground gain. While Craig's main feature is punting and passing. Both Howell and Craig have real off-stepping strides and counted in several of their games on the gridiron.

Hucksby and Wicker. Hucksby, considered as the best center in football circles, of the South Plains and Panhandle, was one of the strong-holds of the Tigers yesterday. He intercepted more passes in the game than others completed. Hucksby was in every play—and a strong defense worker.

Wicker, the husky full back of the Tigers, gained more yards on running plays than any other individual in the game. Consistently and with much for he broke thru the Bulldog defense for good gains.

Computed Summary. Total yards gained on running plays alone. Slaton 123. Plainview 228. Yards lost on running plays alone. Slaton none. Plainview 25. Passes, incomplete, complete and number of yards. Slaton attempted 7, completed 4 for 49 yards. Plainview attempted 17, completed 2, for 35 yards. Punts, Slaton 7 for 260 yards average of 37 yards; Plainview 9 for 227 yards, average of 25 yards. Glenna Collet Loses Women's Golf Title

By United News. MEMPHIS CRICKET CLUB, SOUTH AIRMORE, Pa., Sept. 30.—Another national champion was uncovered yesterday, when Glenna Collet, queen of American golfers, was beaten in a quarter final match by Miss Virginia Wilson, of Chicago.

It is an illustrious company of ex-champions that Miss Collet goes to join—Bobby Jones, Bill Tilden, Helen Willis, Jack Dempsey and a host of others who "couldn't be beaten" until the right party happened along.

The plucky Providence girl, twice holder of the women's national golf title, went down fighting. An unlucky bound of her ball on the fifteenth fairway put Miss Collet into a trap and left her at a disadvantage she never overcame.

St. Louis Will Move to N. Y. Tomorrow

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 30.—St. Louis, figuratively speaking, will move to New York on Saturday.

Only a comparatively few, in actual fact, will make the trip to watch the St. Louis Cardinals fight out the first games of the world series with the New York Yankees. But by every means of modern communication, St. Louis will be listening in on Saturday when the club's heroes step out in their first world series.

Seldom is this huge commercial city stirred to emotion or any show of enthusiasm. But these pennant winning Cards have succeeded in pitching the tension very high.

The only problem confronting local managers of the National league club is how to pack a half million people in a park that will seat forty thousand and that with some degree of crowding.

NEW ORLEANS GOES DOWN BEFORE TEXAS LEAGUE CHAMPIONS

By United News. NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 30.—Hack Miller, home run hitting out-spier of the Dallas Steers, was directly responsible for the sensational victory of the Texas team over the New Orleans Pelicans here today, and the consequent termination of the Dixie series.

It was in the seventh game of the series. The Pelicans won the first two straight. The Steers won the third and fourth games, tied the fifth and won the sixth in Dallas. Thursday's game decided the series.

Slim Love, hurling ace of the Texas League champions, went the full nine innings for the invaders, and won a well deserved victory over Martina of New Orleans.

It was Love's third victory during the series.

The Lubbock High School Westerners, under the direction of Coaches Von Tungen and Fruka, will raise the curtains for their initial fall showing of gridiron performances here this afternoon in the South Plains Exposition at the Fair grounds gridiron with the Post City aggregation. This will be the first matched game the Westerners have played this season.

Strenuous workouts have been handed to the Westerners here for the past two weeks and the Mentors have rounded out a fighting aggregation to meet with the Post club. Several of the lettermen of the 1925 club are back in their prime. "Buddy" Brotherton, probably one of the best all around performers of the grid in West Texas, and only has one hand for use, is a triple threat man. Kicks, passes, and a good gamer.

The Westerners are to present one of the strongest teams that Lubbock has had since the days of "Shorty" Gilbrath. The clubs of th intervening years have lacked the fight and real football tactics, that it takes to get the game over. Von Tungen and Fruka, both have installed a new spirit in the youngsters—teaching the fundamentals of the fight and the actual football tactics.

Very little is known as to the working of the Post club, as they have been silent workers this season. Nothing is known of them with the exception that several of the last year club are again in the line-up which indicates that the game will be a battle. Post held the Westerners to a small count last season, 7 to 0. The game will start promptly at 4 o'clock.

PURSE STOLEN CAR RECOVERED

Add theft toll of Panhandle-South Plains Fair.

A purse with about $75 in it was stolen from a beauty parlor here Wednesday night, when the woman to whom it belonged left it under her hat and coat on a chair.

To counteract this, officers found the Chevrolet car stolen the same night from T. B. Bowles. It had been driven twenty miles by some illicit joy-rider, who abandoned it at 13th and Avenue C.

HE PREFERS THE DAILY AVA LANCHE

"I like the Daily Avalanche better than the Star-Telegram for news," said W. M. Mills of Shawlwater yesterday while visiting in Lubbock. Mr. Mills related an incident of news concerning the Florida storm in which he purchased a Sunday Telegram and then swapped it back to the news dealer for a Daily Avalanche in order to get a more complete story of the destruction.

R. P. Marcham, of Smyer, was a fair visitor in Lubbock yesterday and stated that Smyer is enjoying a substantial growth at present. He reports completion of a $35,000 school building and says that the schools will open about November first. He also reports the new $25,000 gin completed and ready to begin operations.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Osage Indians Get Two More Millions to Spend on Rolls-Royce as Oil Men Bid in On Indian Leases at Pawhuska

By United News.

PAW HUSKA, Okla., Sept. 30.—The oil kings of the Southwest met Thursday in 3 local theaters and waged financial warfare for the Osage Indian lease as the prize. When the smoke of battle cleared away the choice acreage was in the hands of Skelly, Phillips Texas Oil company, Prairie Oil company and the Gypsy Oil company. These are the Oklahoma producers for the gulf states.

The acreage bordering on the Durban field was the subject of the keenest bidding. W. G. Skelly bidding for the Skelly Oil company, and Frank Phillips, bidding for the Phillips Petroleum company, were the two chief bidders. After a brief session, during which bids mounted furiously, Skelly marched off with the plot he had wanted. This was tract 780 and Skelly paid $415,000 for it.

RUSSIAN WOMEN AND INDEPENDENCE

Y. W. C. A. WRITER DISCUSSES SEX STATUS UNDER SOVIET REGIME

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two articles on the status of women in Russia by Miss C. Louise Gates, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. in Toledo, a member of the group which recently investigated conditions under the Soviet Government. In this article Miss Gates reveals that the Russian women have attained intellectual and social independence.

By C. LOUISE GATES

Written for the United News
TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 29.—No country holds more fascination than Russia for those who are interested in the experiments of the present generation in working out the changing life of woman because of her changing position in the home, business and the professions.

For there, more than in any other country, women are striving forth boldly in new and untried paths.

In Russia, where women of intellect have always worked with men, where in the last century some of the greatest seekers of liberty have been women, a place of unusual importance has resulted from the combination of war and revolution that overthrew the old regime. The Russian woman does not boast over her new independence. She accepts it as a prize long sought and the beginning of a new responsibility that she is ready to undertake with eagerness.

In its very beginning the soviet union recognized the contribution of women in government, and sought to free her from the burdens she had carried, thus releasing her energies for the state. She has full suffrage and with all workers, shares the 8 hour day. Maternity benefits for business mother and child, nurseries and kindergartens run by factories and government free the women from the double responsibility of work and home that crushed so many mothers who must work.

The seriousness of the housing problem, especially in Moscow, where the city shelters twice as many people as it has provision for in normal times, has complicated the problem of family life. By community kitchens and laundries the state hopes to take upon itself the drudgery of house work, and by nurseries to relieve parents of responsibility for the care of children.

From our traditional point of view, this strikes at the heart of domestic life by taking away the satisfaction good housekeeping and the responsibility for the training of children. Family life in Russia seems destined for chaos. Yet, we know that many mothers in America who work are facing with anxiety the adjustment between business and home-making.

I talked with many Russian women about their attitudes toward men, and again and again I found even at the idea that women need aid for attention. They claim a basis for comradeship and mental companionship. As

Big Bite for Little Girl

There's a meal in itself in one of these big apples. They're the biggest ever grown on the farm of Fred Seeling, at Chillicothe, O. They measure six inches in diameter and weigh more than two pounds each. Yet these two are the only big ones off the same tree. The rest weren't half their size.

one communist member of the central government said to me, "Looks do not last; clothes that are attractive may not always be purchasable; but a brain that wins admiration keeps its power."

It was a source of amazement to me from our country of handsome women with lovely frocks, to find this courage of women who know that they can hold men with an exterior effort. It is their sense of dignity and independence that makes Russian leaders unafraid of the easy marriage and divorce laws that were passed by the new government.

These laws allow a laxness of relationship that would be inconceivable for a country such as ours that relies for strength and stability on home and personal life.

In marriage the economic factor does not enter, for a woman is not necessarily supported by her husband. She, too, is a worker of equal importance with him. There are to be no parasitic wives in Russia. They do not want a stability of obligation, divorced from love. It is this attitude of the women, combined with their general contempt for all things bourgeois, that accounts for the absence of well dressed women on the streets. They are neat and clean, but there is for the most part, an indifference to appearances, as though they were wholly unessential.

FLIES 312 MILES IN TWO HOURS IN NEW NAVY PLANE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Lieutenant Frank H. Conant of navy bureau of navigation, flying a new type single seater pursuit plane built for the navy, flew from Mitchell Field, N. Y., to Hampton Roads, Va., 312 miles in two hours flat today, the navy announced. His average speed was 156 miles an hour. He was not attempting to set a record. The navy reported no comparative figures were available, but the time was regarded as phenomenally fast.

COTTON FARMERS LOOK GLOOMY

RAIN AND COLD HAVE BLACKENED FIELD AND RUINED TOP CROP

With the cotton fields of this territory black as a result of the past several days of extreme wet weather and cold spell, the farmers of the South Plains looked gloomily yesterday as they congregated in the various places of the fair grounds. Although the crop proper is not damaged over 50 per cent by the rain and cold, the entire top crop is lost, according to the farmers and experts.

D. F. Eaton, county farm agent, stated that no new crop would come at all in this territory as a result of the spell. He said that some of the fields were damaged considerably because of the cotton being washed out and knocked out.

J. H. Townsend of the New Hope community reported that most of the cotton between here and New Hope looks black as if a frost had struck it, all the leaves being dead. J. A. Buzzards, of the Carlisle community, reported that his fields were of the same color and the leaves dead.

"Something" happened to it and the leaves are all dead and the fields look black as if a frost had hit them," J. C. Shaw of 5 miles west of town said when approached on this subject. Several other farmers of the county expressed themselves as doubtful of the government report being exactly accurate for this territory at any rate.

LOREE, DICKERING WITH DUFF AT I. C. C. MEETING, PROMISES TO RECOMMEND WACO TO BEAUMONT RAILROAD

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 30.—L. F. Loree, author of the plan for the proposed merger of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, the St. Louis and Southwestern, and the Kansas City Southern Railways, was the chief witness Wednesday at the hearing before S. C. McChaffie, director of finance for the interstate commerce commission.

Loree explained his idea of the merger and said that the roads concerned in the transaction would not lose their individuality. Separate traffic solicitation staffs would be maintained, he said, when explaining his views on the $305,000,000 consolidation.

R. C. Duff, who is representing the interest opposed to the consolidation, was also one of the principals in today's hearing. Much of the time was given over to a discussion of details between him and Loree.

"Is it not fair to ask the stockholders of the interested railways if they want this merger?" asked Duff. Loree declined to answer the question. He, however, repeated his previous statement to the effect that many of the smaller lines should be entirely abandoned.

According to the plan submitted by Loree the Kansas City Southern would acquire control stock of the Katy and the Katy would in turn acquire control stock of the Cotton Belt. He said that the three roads were in good condition financially.

Duff objected to the proposed plan whereby the Cotton Belt would continue to solicit business for use over the Southern Pacific lines which has a contract with the Cotton Belt in case, the merger is approved. Loree admitted that loss of identity in consolidation had in the past been injurious to railroads through loss of good will and knowledge of traffic conditions in the area of each line of the merger.

Duff charged that Loree had objected to approval of his application for authority to extend the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Sabine from Beaumont to Port Arthur. Loree then agreed to recommend to the board of the Kansas City Southern that Duff's railway be purchased and included in the merger.

Under Loree's plan the Kansas City Southern would be extended to New Orleans by the acquisition of the Louisiana Railway and Navigation company.

WANTS DELAY IN HIGHWAY MATTERS

WHEELER THINKS HASTY ACTION MAY RESULT IN DISASTER

FORT WORTH, Sept. 30.—Delay of final action on highway legislation now pending at Austin until the regular session of the Legislature in January, to afford ample time for local and statewide conferences, is advocated in a statement issued here today by W. T. Wheeler, secretary of the Texas Highway Association.

Wheeler warned that hasty action on the highway matters might result disastrously, and declared that the state has "all to gain and nothing to lose" by the delay.

"The special session of the Legislature now in session was supposed to have been called for the validation of Texas road bonds," Wheeler stated, "but the Governor has submitted a number of other matters also, including the proposal to increase the gasoline tax from one to three cents and the revision of the automobile license fee law. Both of these measures already have been passed by the House, and are scheduled to be considered by the Senate during next week."

Wheeler declared that a definite program as to the needs of the State Highway Department and county road building should be worked out, and stated that such plans can be drawn only through local and statewide conferences devoted to careful study of the subjects. Through such meetings he said, could be inaugurated a definite policy of construction, maintenance and operation by the State of a system of connected public highways, and all laws necessary to the establishment and prosecution of such a policy could then be submitted at the regular session of the Legislature.

Wheeler pointed out that officials of the Texas Highway Association have been busy for several months in preparation for the validation of the road bonds and, having had no intimation that any highway legislative matters were to be submitted to the Special Session, have had no opportunity to arrange for such conferences in the past.

"And the time is now here," he said "when Texas should adopt a definite policy as to its highways and not be changing laws affecting them at every session of the Legislature. We should find the right system and then stick to it," he declared, adding that "it's the only thing to do."

Legislation enacted in haste at this session, Wheeler said, might prove after consideration to be improper and the questions would again be before the regular session in January.

Wheeler declared that the association he represents is not opposed to the increased gasoline tax, nor to the revision of the license fee law, but reiterated his previous statement that the changes should be made only after careful deliberation.

One of the arguments being used in support of measures at this session, Wheeler said, is that the schools need additional funds and will receive a portion of the revenues from the increased gasoline tax. He pointed out, however, that two bills already have been introduced in the Senate providing for ample school aid, the necessary funds to be taken from the State's present treasury surplus of $7,000,000.

BOB HAIRD BANDITS CONFESSION CALLED HOAX

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Sept. 30.—Her sensational death house "confession" branded a hoax by Solicitor John Boykin after a lengthy investigation. Ruby Ray, bobbed haired flapper bandit, was brought back to her prison cell here today.

Serving six years for robbery, the Ray girl walked into the death house recently, stood before the cell of Mel M. Gore, condemned slayer and dramatically confessed to having committed the murder for which Gore was sentenced to the electric chair.

Governor Clifford Walker granted Gore a sixty day reprieve while the supreme court reviewed the case. A few hours before he was to die, however, Gore branded the girl's story as false and thanked her for trying to be a "good sport."

Betty Ross

THE first American flag will be redesigned for visitors to the Panhandle-South Plains Fair, by none other than Betty Ross, the original designer of our first national emblem. To emphasize the 150th anniversary of the Signing of the Declaration of Independence, which the year marks, this historic incident will be presented in lines of glowing fire, outlined against the night. The realistic picture will show Betty Ross, seated in her rocking chair, weaving with her nimble fingers, the stars and stripes which now float over every corner of the civilized world. This is one of the most popular fireworks "sky pictures" ever presented.

LOVINGTON, N. M., Sept. 30.—Continued cold rains throughout the county fair held at Lovington, Sept. 24 and 25th reduced the attendance to a few local people. Fine specimens of agricultural products from the irrigated

War Weddings Fail to Hold Together

By United News.
PARIS, Sept. 30.—Nearly 100 divorce suits brought either by war brides or by their husbands who were members of the American expeditionary forces are now before the French courts.

Desertion takes first place among the charges given in the pleas; incompatibility of temper is a close second. While their parents separation, several hundred children who were born as the result of these war time marriages are in dire need of help.

The divorce claims awaiting action call attention to the records which show that 80 per cent of the happy marriages, many of them made while the A. E. F. was packing up to leave France for the United States, have been failures. Girls from France, Belgium and Germany were the happy and hasty brides of those days and many of them, alone with their husbands, have regretted the step they took.
