RAIN

City receives .39 inch, more in forecast

Hereford officially received .39 of an inch of rain overnight, the first appreciable moisture in 78 days.

More rain was forecast for tonight and through Monday. There is an abundant supply of moisture from the Gulf of Mexico, a low pressure trough to the west and a cold front from the north that are combining to set off the storms.

The 78 days without rain are usually the 78 wettest days of the year, not the driest. June and July are usually the two top moisture months in Hereford. There was no precipitation in June, leaving the area with a moisture deficit of about four inches.

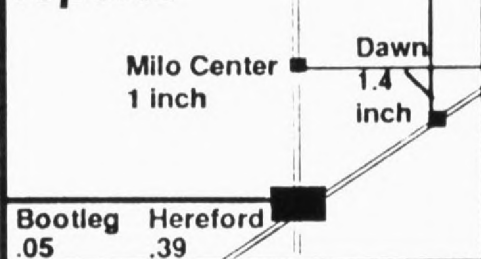

The eastern two-thirds of Deaf Smith County picked up rainfall. At the county barn at Bootleg, only .05 of an inch was recorded. Other reports in the area included an inch at Northwest Grain, northwest of Hereford, .45 at Frank Bezner Jr.'s, south of Hereford, and .60 at Easter Grain, 10 miles south of Hereford.

The biggest report was 1.4 inch at the J.E. McCabe place near Dawn.

"That was a pretty good sample, but we could use some more," McCabe said this morning.

There is a 30 percent chance for rain tonight and a 20 percent chance for more showers Saturday.

Education official says funding fair

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas' new school funding plan is fair, said a state education expert, disagreeing with poor school districts that are challenging the law in court.

"I feel it's an equitable system that meets the basic standards of fiscal neutrality," said Lynn Moak, deputy education commissioner for research and development, during a break Thursday in a hearing on the law.

He has testified this week about the new law and the history of school finance.

The trial on the plan began July 9 before State District Judge Scott McCown. Lawyers predict the trial should conclude next week.

The poor districts say the law did little to change the school finance system ruled unconstitutional last year by the Texas Supreme Court.

The plan was passed by lawmakers in June, in response to the court's unanimous order to even out funding between rich and poor school districts.

It provides $528 million in additional state education funding for the 1990-91 school year.

The plan is meant to phase in an equitable system for 95 percent of students over several years. The other 5 percent of students are in the wealthiest school districts.

Moak said the law "absolutely" made significant changes in the $13.5 billion-a-year school finance system, which relies on state aid, local property taxes and some federal money.

He said the measure takes into account money raised locally by school districts "to a greater extent than anything else that we've ever had."

The law also sets up a process to adjust spending to reflect changing education costs, he said, and it strongly ties funding to student performance through the process of accrediting schools.

Assistant Attorney General Kevin O'Hanlon said the law, while allowing some leeway for legislative policy decisions, sets up an automatic system for adjusting education spending.

Century plant reaches high

This century plant, in the 200 block of Ave. A, has felt right at home with the recent hot, dry weather, but probably enjoyed the rain early this morning. The plant is named the century plant because it was mistakenly believed it blooms only once every 100 years, but blooms are still very uncommon.

S&L bailout fund may be too low

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush's savings and loan bailout fund will be nearly out of money if officials reach their goal of closing or selling 77 institutions by Sept. 30, a federal agency says.

Figures provided Thursday by the Resolution Trust Corp. Oversight Board indicate that, unless Congress authorizes more borrowing, regulators could have as little as $7.3 billion in borrowing authority left when the new federal fiscal year begins Oct. 1.

"The bottom line ... (is) it would cause us to very significantly reduce the pace of resolutions," said Peter Monroe, president of the oversight board.

In addition to the $7.3 billion, the agency could spend any money it can get by selling repossessed real estate and sour loans inherited from previous S&L bailouts, he said.

If Congress doesn't provide more money before adjourning for the November elections, the government will be forced to slow the pace of the bailout or dramatically increase the pace of asset sales, Monroe said.

His comments, combined with the new figures, are the clearest indication yet from the administration about the urgency of providing additional bailout funds.

In appearances before congressional panels in May and June, Treasury Secretary Nicholas F. Brady roughly doubled the administration's August 1989 estimate of the bailout cost from $50 billion to between $90 billion and $130 billion. He had said additional money would be needed by the end of December or early next year.

Monroe's figures indicate that, at the current pace, the bailout will run out of money soon after Sept. 30.

So far, the trust corporation has "resolved" the cases of 210 S&Ls, leaving roughly 250 insolvent thrifts open and under government control. At least an additional 250 institutions still under private ownership are expected to fail.

"We're two-sevenths of the way through," Monroe said.

Because money is scarce, officials will concentrate this quarter on closing the S&Ls that are losing money the fastest, he said.

In any case, officials will "never go back" to the type of deals done in 1988 by the now-dismantled Federal Home Loan Bank Board, Monroe said. Because the bank board lacked cash to pay off depositors, it attracted S&L acquirers through guarantees and other subsidies extending up to 10 years.

The 1988 transactions are coming under increasing criticism in Congress because they virtually ensured lucrative returns to S&L buyers who made only a small investment.

The oversight board authorized the trust corporation to borrow up to $34 billion through the Treasury for the 77 resolutions in the July-September period. This "working capital" borrowing would be repaid as the government sells S&L assets.

In other developments Thursday:

-Angry Northeastern and Midwestern House members said they were introducing a bill to force states with a disproportionate share of troubled thrifts, such as Texas and California, to pay a bigger portion of bailout costs. If a state declines to pay, its state-chartered thrifts no longer would be eligible for federal deposit insurance.

Other legislation, sponsored by Rep. Joe Kennedy, D-Mass., would force wealthy Americans to pay more of the cost. His bill would raise $100 billion over five years by imposing new income taxes on individuals earning more than $100,000 a year and corporations earning more than $75,000 a year. It also would eliminate a provision that forgives inheritance taxes on capital gains at death.

-The Justice Department said it had uncovered "certain S&L cases" where thrift institutions had swapped bad loans with each other to avoid regulatory scrutiny. But spokesman Doug Tillett said "the department has no evidence at this time that suggests the existence of a large-scale conspiracy" among thrifts to trade bad loans.

-In Dallas, former Sunbelt Savings Association Chairman Edwin T. McBirney III, known as "Fast Eddie," pleaded innocent to bank fraud charges. Sunbelt failed in 1988 at an estimated cost to the government of $2 billion.

Three fired jailers waive arraignment

Three former Deaf Smith County jailers waived arraignment on Thursday in 22nd District Court in Hereford and will go on trial on August 28 for alleged mistreatment of two inmates in their custody.

Tommy Gallagher, 22, and Lyle Vanbuskirk and Ralph Gallegos Jr., both 23, were fired June 25 by Sheriff Joe Brown after Brown learned of a June 22 incident at the jail.

The three former jailers are charged with official oppression after an inmate was reported to have had his hands cuffed and his legs shackled, his trousers pulled down and obscenities written on his buttocks.

One of the jailers, in a voluntary statement, said the incident "was intended as a joke."

The incident was reported to Brown on Monday after it occurred on Friday night at the jail.

Gallagher and Vanbuskirk each face two charges of official oppression because they are alleged to have involved another man in the incident. Gallegos faces one charge of official oppression.

North's Iran-Contra conviction reversed

WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal appeals court today reversed Oliver North's Iran-Contra conviction for altering highly secret National Security Council documents. The appeals court sent the entire case back to a lower court to determine whether it was tainted by his immunized congressional testimony.

North was convicted on May 4 of three counts stemming from the Reagan administration's secret arms clandestine effort to aid the Nicaraguan Contras.

The divided three-judge panel held that North was entitled to a new trial on the charge of altering and destroying sensitive NSC documents because U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard Gesell gave erroneous jury instructions.

The court also held that North was entitled to a full hearing delving into whether North's nationally televised testimony seeped into the case.

The court also held that if Gesell determines at the hearing that such tainted evidence was used to convict North on the other two charges, he would be entitled to a new trial on those counts as well.

Senate approves farm bill reduction

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture subsidies in the 1990 farm bill face tough challenges in the Senate, though one effort to eliminate payments to high income "fat cat" farmers was overwhelmingly defeated.

As debate on the five-year bill opened Thursday, Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev., offered an amendment that would have barred subsidies to farmers with gross sales over $500,000 a year.

"The American taxpayer shells out $1.2 billion each year to millionaires who own farms," Reid said. "Why are we concerned about protecting these farmer fat cats?"

He said his amendment would affect only one-half of 1 percent of the farmers in the country.

But the idea was opposed by Senate Agriculture Committee members who said it would inevitably hurt family farms.

Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., said farmers who gross $500,000 don't necessarily net any more than a factory worker once expenses are paid.

Sen. Richard Lugar of Indiana, the ranking Republican on the committee, added, "It is not hard to see how farmers could subdivide their businesses to evade this amendment if they were so inclined."

An amendment offered by Agriculture Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., and passed on voice vote, reduced proposed commodity supports in the Senate bill to a five-year cost of $54 billion. That's $8 million below the amount approved for agriculture in the Senate budget resolution last month.

It's unlikely, however, that the cut will satisfy the Bush administration, which has threatened a veto unless "substantial, multi-year savings" are made.

Among major provisions, the bill would:

- Freeze current target prices and loan rates.
- Create mandatory marketing loans on wheat and feed grains.
- Moderately increase planting flexibility.
- Establish a new program for oilseed production.

- Improve the quality of grain.

- Ban the export of pesticides that are outlawed for use in the United States.

- Give better protection to fragile wetlands.

- Give farmers incentives to prevent contamination of groundwater.

- Encourage reduced use of pesticides.

- Establish a labeling system for organically grown products.

Richards returns Fonda's donation

AUSTIN (AP) - Republican gubernatorial nominee Clayton Williams tried to associate Democratic nominee Ann Richards with actress Jane Fonda, whom he described as a traitor for her anti-war protests during the Vietnam War.

The Richards campaign Thursday called the Williams tactic "witch hunts" and "the lowest campaigning."

Williams said Ms. Richards accepted campaign money from the actress. But Glenn Smith said Ms. Richards returned a $1,000 check from Ms. Fonda after the Williams campaign told a group of veterans to confront her about it.

"We didn't want to see the pain of our Vietnam veterans exploited once again for someone's personal political gain," Smith said.

"This is the lowest campaigning that we've seen in Texas," Smith said. "I don't think we can participate in these kinds of witch hunts."

Williams, however, hammered on the issue because Ms. Richards accepted contributions from the Hollywood Women's Political Action Committee. The PAC is composed of several dozen women entertainers, including Ms. Fonda.

But Smith said Ms. Fonda has contributed to the federal PAC, not the state PAC from which Ms. Richards received her money. He said the two PACs do not mix funds.

In San Antonio, a Republican legislator who was a prisoner of war in Vietnam began the barrage against Ms. Richards for accepting the Hollywood Women's PAC money.

In other political developments:

- Williams was endorsed by the Texas Association of Business.

- A spokesman for Rick Perry, the Republican nominee for agriculture commissioner, criticized Democrat incumbent Jim Hightower, saying he has been using a state employee on his campaign. The employee, Andy Welch, said he goes off the clock when talking to reporters about campaign issues.

Former Amarillo lawmaker sentenced to jail term, fine

AUSTIN (AP) - A former state lawmaker from Amarillo will begin a three-month jail term Monday after pleading guilty to collecting state money for legislative trips he never made.

Former Rep. Charles J. "Chip" Staniswalis also must pay the state

$11,000 and perform 400 hours of community service under a plea agreement. He was placed on 10 years probation.

"God only knows how sorry I am for doing something so stupid," said Staniswalis, a Republican, after leaving the courtroom Thursday. He was sentenced by State District Judge Mace Thurman of Austin.

Staniswalis, 41, will serve his jail term in Travis County. While in jail, he will perform community service as part of a work-release program. The type of community service had not been determined.

He must pay a $2,000 fine and $8,976 in restitution to the state. The judge said Staniswalis must pay the money at a rate of $125 a month, plus another $40 monthly probation supervisory fee.

Mike Lynch, the assistant Travis County district attorney who prosecuted the case, called the plea agreement "just and fair."

"I think the fact that we're talking (about) a public servant with a special position of trust makes us look at it in a little different light than if it was a normal citizen who just happened to be charged with theft," Lynch said. He heads the district attorney's Public Integrity Unit.

Staniswalis pleaded guilty to a felony theft charge, for which he could have been sentenced to a maximum 10 years in prison and fined $10,000.

He also pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor count of tampering with a governmental record, which carries a maximum punishment of one year in jail and a $2,000 fine.

As part of the plea agreement, two felony tampering charges against Staniswalis were dropped.

Seven false trips were listed in the indictment against Staniswalis. But the restitution covers the cost of 22 trips, Lynch said.

The trips, most in 1988, supposedly were to Austin for state business, but Lynch said Staniswalis actually was elsewhere.

"I think we verified on one occasion that he was skiing in Colorado. On another occasion, he was in New Mexico ... I believe he was attending his own wedding reception on one of the days when he was allegedly in Austin on state business," Lynch said.

Staniswalis, a real estate broker, served four terms in the Texas House, from 1981 to 1988.

He did not seek a fifth term, instead running for Congress. He was defeated in the 1988 GOP primary.

Panhandle man indicted for murder in possible satanic case

PANHANDLE, Texas (AP) - A 19-year-old man has been indicted on a murder charge and two attempted murder charges in the July 13 shooting death and the wounding of two people in a case that a prosecutor says may have satanic involvement.

The indictment returned Thursday by a Carson County grand jury names Kenneth Glenn Milner of Panhandle and accuses him of murder in the Friday the 13th shooting death of Frankie Gasper Garcia, a 17-year-old Panhandle High School student.

Milner is also accused of attempted murder in the July 14 stabbing of Jimmy Britten of Groom and of attempted murder in the wounding of Panhandle High School principal Ken Williams.

Investigators contend that Garcia was shot as an occult sacrifice in a decaying barn in back of a deserted house northwest of Panhandle known to Panhandle youth as "the haunted house."

Earlier this week, Carson County District Attorney David McCoy said, "We're looking at the possibility of satanic involvement" in the shooting death. Britten was stabbed at his home about 1:30 a.m. Saturday, a few hours after Garcia was shot to death. He was treated at a local hospital and released the same day.

About two hours later, officers said, Williams was shot twice through the door of his home.

Williams, formerly the assistant principal at Horace Mann Junior High School and baseball coach at Amarillo Palo Duro High School, was wounded in the abdomen and leg. He was listed in satisfactory condition at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo Thursday.

District Judge John T. Forbis of Childress issued a gag order in the case earlier this week, restricting law enforcement agencies from releasing information pertaining to Milner's activities.

But he designated McCoy as official spokesman for the case.

Steve Sherwood, who graduated from Panhandle High School with Milner last year, said Milner was open about his involvement with the occult.

"It wasn't a secret, he told people about it," Steve Sherwood said. "He told a group I was in that he worshiped the devil."

Quayle ends two-day political tour in Texas

HOUSTON (AP) - Vice President Dan Quayle, in Texas for two days to stump for Republican candidates, predicted that the nation's beleaguered space program will be back in orbit soon.

"Let us make 1990 the year we renew our commitment to space exploration," Quayle told Harris County Republicans at a luncheon Thursday.

Quayle made stops in Austin, San Antonio and Houston during his brief trip to the state, which ended Thursday afternoon.

The Bush administration recently called for the formation of a task force to look into NASA after the agency grounded its space shuttle fleet. NASA also is being criticized for a defective mirror on the $1.5 billion Hubble Telescope launched in April.

The vice president, who chairs President Bush's National Space Council, said he is convinced NASA will get back on its feet.

The task force "primarily will look at where we're going to go with NASA," Quayle said during a round table discussion with reporters at a downtown Houston Club. "We've had some mild setbacks, but we'll answer questions that come up and move forward."

President Bush, he said, "is committed to space exploration."

The future might also see the United States and Soviet Union working together on space projects.

"I think there's probably some potential down the road to work with the Soviet Union," he said. "I'd say about one-third of my conversation with President Gorbachev when he was here was on space exploration."

Quayle said there is intense competition in the space program from the Soviets and Japanese, therefore, the United States must "take this as an opportunity to look really aggressively to the future."

The vice president has been in Texas campaigning for GOP gubernatorial candidate Clayton Williams, state Sen. Buster Brown, who is running for state attorney general, and state Rep. Rick Perry, who is hoping to knock off Jim Hightower as agriculture commissioner.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to respond to the letter written by a mother in Brandywine, Md. Her son was addicted to drugs. She started out by saying, "No one knows the heartache..." I would like to tell her that I know, and so do millions of other parents.

We experienced all those awful feelings she described -- pain, anguish, despair, hopelessness and a terrible sense of failure. What saved us was an organization called "Families Anonymous." The people we met there had all been through what we were suffering. They gave us the strength and the emotional support we needed to carry on. It is impossible to describe the benefits we derived from Families Anonymous. People took us right in and opened their hearts to us. They knew what we were going through because they had experienced the same thing themselves.

There are chapters of Families Anonymous all over the country. You can find them in the telephone book. Like Alcoholics Anonymous, it costs nothing to join. People call one another by their first names. For those who wish to keep their membership secret, it is easy to do so.

Please publish this letter and pray that the mother in Brandywine will see it. Best wishes and bless you for getting the word out, Ann. -- Betty in Ohio

DEAR BETTY: Thanks for another opportunity to tell my reading audience about Families Anonymous. I have been recommending this organization for years. For those who would like more information, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Families Anonymous, P.O. Box 528, Van Nuys, Calif. 91408.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It has happened a hundred times before, but tonight the straw broke the camel's back.

I am a member of the clergy. Upon arriving at a public function, I was asked if I would offer the invocation. It is disconcerting to be asked at the last moment because I cannot do my best. I complied with the request even though I was not happy about it.

On several occasions I have been asked without warning to "say something" at parties, picnics, family reunions, business dinners and community gatherings. When this happens I am reasonably certain that the first-choice clergyman didn't show up or that no one thought about a blessing until the affair was about to begin.

Also, Ann, I do not appreciate an invitation to invoke God's blessing on a new power plant or a supermarket. Nor do I enjoy being asked to offer a brief prayer that will fit all denominations. What these people really want is for me to hurry up and get it over with so they can go back to what they were talking about before they were so rudely interrupted. To them, the best part of the prayer is "Amen." Obviously, I cannot sign my name to this, but I do hope you will print it. Please call me -- A Clergyman in Harrisburg

DEAR HARRISBURG: Thank you for being so candid. I'm sure thousands of your colleagues will bless you for speaking their minds today.

Gem of the Day: The person who smiles when everything goes wrong has already thought of someone he can blame it on.

Feeling pressured to have sex? How well-informed are you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet "Sex and the Teen-ager." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45)

Important safeguard tips given on drugs, alcohol

Self-assurance and confidence are important safeguards against drug and alcohol use by adolescents. Studies show that youngsters who feel good about themselves are better able to withstand peer pressure to engage in dangerous or illegal behavior.

If course, some youngsters who are sure of themselves and are full of self-confidence turn to drugs and alcohol, too. Some might do it for fun or to fit in with a crowd they admire or to appear more grown up.

The following suggestions offer some ways parents can help develop self-confidence in their children.

* Ask your child to suggest activities you can do together. Asking your youngster to choose an activity, whether it is watching TV, listening to music, going to a movie or some other favorite activity, is a good way to show that you value his or her ideas.

* Allow for mistakes. Parents are the first and the most important teachers of young people. When the child makes a mistake or an error in judgement, use the incident as an opportunity to help the child learn. Talk about the experience. Ask how the incident could have been handled differently. Offer guidance.

* Establish trust. Let your child know you trust him or her. It's often difficult to walk the fine line between permissiveness and protection. But by setting clear rules--and allowing your child to function within the boundaries you set--he or she should have enough flexibility to feel independent.

* Give your youngster real responsibility. Young people who have regular chores know that they are making a contribution, and this helps them build their sense of self-confidence. If the chores require some thought and decision making, so much the better.

* Give lots of praise. Catch your child being good. Too often as parents we notice only the things our children do that are wrong. Emphasizing the things the youngster is doing right can reinforce correct behaviors.

* Praise effort, not just achievements. Succeeding or being first is less important than doing one's best. What is important is how hard the youngster tries and how much parents show they care about the effort.

* Encourage your youngster to find something that he or she enjoys. Suggest activities that would provide an alternative to taking that first drink. Hobbies, sports, cooking, music, or collecting stamps are some possible ways to keep a youngster engaged.

* Criticize the action, not the child. Be stern and direct if the action warrants it, but keep the discussion focused on why the activity is not permitted rather than criticizing the youngster's judgement or intelligence.

* Don't make any subjects off limits. Youngsters need to feel they can talk to their parents about anything--from drugs to sex to clothing to sports. Parents who change the subject, lose their temper or signal that they do not want to talk about certain things soon find their children won't confide in them.

Hereford holds off Friona, 7-6, to win Bronco tournament

The Hereford All-Stars advanced to the sectional round of Bronco competition Thursday with a 7-6 win over Friona in the finals of the district tournament at Kids Inc. Park.

Hereford fell behind 2-0 early and had to hold off a late Friona to get the win.

Friona starter Jack Wilson kept Hereford handcuffed through most of his 4 1-3 innings as he allowed only one hit and four walks. But Friona committed five first-inning errors and six in the fifth as Hereford scored seven unearned runs.

Hereford's Sonny Perez went the distance and struck out 12 for the win, giving up six runs on six hits with two walks. Perez started all three Hereford games in the tournament, winning two, and totaled 25 strikeouts in 14 innings.

Friona got off to a quick start as Wilson singled to lead off the game and scored on Lance Looper's double. Leonard Alvarado singled to drive in Looper before Perez could get out of the inning.

Hereford came right back to take the lead in the bottom of the first as the first three batters came around to score before an out was recorded. Tanner Murphy walked and stole second, scoring when Wade McPherson's fly ball to right was dropped for an error. Kip Smith reached when his roller to short was bobbed for another error with McPherson scoring from second on the play. Smith put Hereford ahead when he stole third and came home on a throwing error.

Offense disappeared after the first inning outburst. Hereford saw 13 of 14 batters retired into the fifth inning. Friona fared a little better, getting a home run from Alvarado leading off the fourth to tie the game.

Hereford took command in the fifth when Raymond Gonzales reached on an error and Murphy walked. An errant pick-off throw advanced the runners before McPherson came up with the first Hereford hit of the night, a single through the hole at short, for two RBIs. McPherson went all the way around on the play with the help of two more Friona errors to give Hereford a 6-3 lead. Smith added what proved to be the winning run when he walked, stole second and third and came home on a throwing error.

Friona cut the margin to 7-5 in the sixth as Looper led off with a single and Reyes Valdez drew a walk. Two Hereford errors with two outs put the tying run on second before Perez got a strikeout to escape.

Friona kept the pressure on in the final at bat, getting a pair of two-out singles off Perez to pull within a run. An intentional walk to Valdez and a double steal put Friona a base hit away from the lead before McPherson turned a slow roller from Rusty Simmons into the final out.

Out of room

Hereford All-Star right fielder Kip Smith hits the fence while chasing a home run off the bat of Friona's Leonard Alvarado during Thursday's final game of the Bronco District Tournament at Kids Inc. Park. Hereford overcame the blast, coming from behind for a 7-6 victory to advance to sectional competition.

West Texas Babe Ruth tourney starts Saturday

All-star baseball competition returns to Hereford Saturday for a five-day run with the opening of the West Texas State Babe Ruth Tournament at Kids Inc. Park.

The Hereford All-Stars will host teams from Andrews, Brownfield, Dumas and Graham in the double elimination event.

Andrews and Dumas will open the tourney at 6 p.m. Saturday with Hereford to face Graham in Game 2 at 8 p.m.

The Hereford-Graham winner will face Brownfield at 6 p.m. Sunday in Game 3. Game 4 will match the losers from Saturday in an elimination game.

Games 5 and 6 are scheduled for Monday with 7 to be played Tuesday at 7 p.m.

The championship round of the tournament will be played Wednesday at 6 p.m. If necessary, a second game will start about a half hour after the end of the first.

Admission to the tournament is $2 for adults and $1 for children 11 and younger. A concession stand will be open until 11 p.m. each night.

Norman, Allen lead early on at British

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) - He's such a little-known player that the wrong man is listed beneath his picture in the PGA Tour guide. After what he did to begin the British Open, maybe people will start recognizing the real Michael Allen.

Allen holed a putt of at least 100 feet while shooting a 6-under-par 66 that tied superstar Greg Norman for the lead after Thursday's opening round.

"It's the longest putt I've made in my life," said Allen, who spent several years on the European PGA Tour before finally moving to the American Tour this season. "I've never holed a wedge that far, for that matter."

Information on another golfing Michael Allen, even less well known, is listed under his photo in the guide, and few people would have noticed the discrepancy if not for his play Thursday. Allen is only 118th on the U.S. Tour money list this year and his best finish is a tie for 12th in Los Angeles.

Allen, 31, leaped into the spotlight with the monster putt on the 13th green - estimated at anywhere from 100 to 150 feet - and had several other long putts to save pars.

Allen had a one-shot lead approaching the final hole, but made his only bogey and dropped back into a tie with Norman. The Australian, who won the British Open in 1986, is a contender at virtually every major tournament but usually not an early leader.

Norman, who had a bogey-free round, is known for his late-round charges. But he had no objections to his quick start.

"I am not going to get off to a poor start in every tournament," he said. "I hope I play the latter part of the tournament as I normally do."

Allen and Norman had a one-shot lead over Masters champion Nick Faldo, who skidded a 40-yard bump-and-run shot into the cup on the 18th hole for an eagle. Eight players finished with 68s.

Arnold Palmer, playing in his last British Open 30 years after his first on the historic Old Course, shot a 1-over-par 73 that included two birdies.

Palmer was one of many players who succumbed to the tricks of the 17th hole, where a deep bunker swallows short shots and the infamous road awaits shots hit too long. He bogeyed the hole.

Three of the first 12 golfers took advantage of balmy weather to birdie the par-4 hole, but the 17th got tougher as the winds picked up. Only two of the remaining 144 players bettered par on the hole.

There were as many bogeys (65) as pars on the 17th and 21 players had double bogeys or worse. One unfortunate Scot, Russell Weir, had a quadruple-bogey 8 on the 461-yard hole.

Johnson ready to forget '89

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Jimmy Johnson is happy again even if it's rained every day since he arrived at St. Edward's University for training camp.

His life is winning football games. He hasn't won many lately.

But the first 1990 Dallas Cowboys training camp practice has helped him put aside the 1-15 disaster of 1989.

It's a fresh start for Johnson after the worst experience of his coaching career.

"It's good to be on the field again focused on a new season," Johnson said. "I can handle the rain. That doesn't hurt."

In 1989 everything went wrong. "We made some mistakes," Johnson said. "We didn't know the talent base was that bad. It wasn't fun."

Losing wore hard on Johnson. "I haven't hurt as much in my life. It was as difficult a year as I've ever had in my life," he added.

Personal problems also coincided with Johnson's professional problems in 1989. Johnson and his wife, Linda Kay, were divorced.

A drained Johnson studied the Cowboys' problems in the off-season and decided the primary problem was lack of speed. He has added speed at every position.

"I believe we can win with the players we have," Johnson said. "I believe we can have a winning season. I personally will not be happy unless we win more games than we lose. That's my makeup."

There are only 28 players left from last season in a turnover of former coach Tom Landry's personnel.

Owner Jerry Jones said don't laugh at Johnson's vision of an over .500 season.

"I believe this is where you'll see Jimmy Johnson at his best," Jones said. "He's had tough times before and always excelled. He has the intellect of a heart surgeon."

Johnson said the 1989 season, which included only a victory over the Washington Redskins, was hard to swallow.

"We were frustrated because we wanted things to happen sooner than it was happening," Johnson said. "But we don't want to forget the hurt and disappointment of losing. That's what drives you to win. That's why I was upset after last season. I don't like to lose."

Johnson brought the Miami Hurricanes a national championship in 1987 and was 52-9 at the school in five seasons. He said he became accustomed to winning.

"I won't be happy this year unless we win more than we lose," Johnson said. "Last year we knew it was going to be an uphill battle. This year we have a realistic chance to win. We've had a major improvement in talent over a year ago."

Johnson said last year's team had so many newcomers "because of injury, trades and waiver wire pickups that 'we were playing sandlot ball because the receivers didn't know the plays.'"

Johnson said, "We never quit but we weren't really a team. We were a rag knot group."

He has whipped his leftover "rag knots" into shape in the off-season, holding more minicamps than any team in the NFL. A rebuilt indoor training facility and a new weight training coach, Mike Woicik of Syracuse, have the team in top condition. "One of the reasons I feel so good about this season is because Mike has joined us," Johnson said. "The players say he is really working them."

Johnson also has been granted his wish of training in a hot weather site, St. Edward's University in Austin.

"I'm used to conditioning a team in the heat," said Johnson, who didn't like the cooler California Lutheran College facility at Thousand Oaks. "We'll never get beat again because we didn't train or give it our best effort. Getting beat is one thing."

Kosub records hole-in-one

Vernon Kosub shot his second hole-in-one in a week Tuesday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Kosub aced the 140-yard par-3 third hole using an 8-iron.

The shot was witnessed by Gary Kreighauser and Sammy Davison.

Holly, Tex-Mex win in ASA play

Holly Sugar and Tex-Mex took the titles in this week's round of Agriculture Softball Association play.

Holly won the Agriculture Division by beating Imperial Sugar 26-8 in the opener and Excel I in the finals 16-9. Excel I reached the championship game by knocking off Barrett-Fisher 16-4 and Excel II 11-7.

The Business Division played a double-elimination format among five teams.

In the first round, McCracken Trucking beat Hit-n-Run 12-7 while Vallejo Trucking won by forfeit over Ramirez & Sons. Vallejo moved on to face Tex-Mex, losing 17-6, with Hit-n-Run eliminating Ramirez & Sons 20-7.

In the third round Tex-Mex handed McCracken an 8-7 loss and Vallejo eliminated Hit-n-Run 10-9. McCracken then knocked out Vallejo 7-6 to set up a rematch with Tex-Mex. Tex-Mex won the championship with a 7-4 decision.

The fourth week of ASA competition will get going at 8 a.m. Sunday at Veterans Memorial Park.

MVPs for the week were Bobby Moya of Tex-Mex in the Business Division and Robert Casarez of Holly in the Agriculture Division.

'Stros expose Montreal, 4-3

By BILL BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

The Montreal Expos' late-inning thunder was no match for the Houston Astros' extra-inning lightning.

The Expos forced extra innings for the second consecutive game with a late-inning home run, but for the second consecutive night they lost in the 11th inning.

Ken Caminiti's RBI single in the 11th lifted Houston to a 4-3 victory over Montreal on Thursday night, giving the Astros a 7-0 record in extra-inning games at home this year.

"This is like last night. We tied it with a home run. Then we couldn't get any runs after we tied it," Montreal manager Buck Rodgers said.

"I was looking for anything I could pull," Caminiti said of his game-winning hit. "Matt (third base coach Matt Galante) at first told me to sacrifice, but then he scratched that and told me to pull it and get him to third."

Elsewhere in the National League, the New York Mets defeated Atlanta 6-2, Philadelphia beat Cincinnati 5-2 and St. Louis clubbed San Diego 8-3.

Franklin Stubbs led off Houston's 11th with a single off Bill Sampen (7-2). Stubbs then stole second and came home when Caminiti, who rescued the Astros with a diving catch in the top of the inning, followed with a single down the right-field line.

Houston led 3-1 in the eighth when Otis Nixon got an infield hit with one out off reliever Juan Agosto. With two outs, Agosto was replaced by Dave Smith, and Tim Wallach drove the first pitch over the left-field fence to tie the game.

Reliever Larry Andersen (5-2) picked up the victory.

Mets 6, Braves 2

New York won for the 16th time in 18 home games, defeating Atlanta as David Cone, 1-4 on June 4, won his sixth straight decision and reached double figures in strikeouts for the fourth straight game.

Cone (7-4) allowed six hits, struck out 11 and walked three in 7 2-3 innings.

Cone had a 3-0 lead before Dale Murphy hit a two-run homer in the sixth inning. John Franco got the last four outs for his 20th save in 23 opportunities.

Gregg Jeffries had a pair of RBI doubles and Kevin Elster singled in two runs as the Mets moved within 1 1/2 games of Pittsburgh in the NL East.

Phillies 5, Reds 2

Philadelphia snapped Cincinnati's four-game winning streak as Darren Daulton had three hits, drove in two runs and scored twice.

Daulton hit a solo home run in the first inning off Jack Armstrong (11-5), then added a triple in the Phillies' two-run fifth and an eighth-inning single.

Pat Combs (6-7) allowed 11 hits in seven-plus innings before Roger McDowell pitched the last two for his 14th save.

The loss cut the Reds' NL West lead to eight games over San Francisco.

Cardinals 8, Padres 3

St. Louis handed San Diego its fourth consecutive loss behind homers by Todd Zeile and Terry Pendleton.

Bruce Hurst (5-8), who allowed both homers, lasted only four innings.

After Zeile homered off Hurst's first pitch in the bottom of the second, the Padres tied it against Joe Magrane (5-12) on doubles by Mark Parent and Shawn Abner in the third.

The Cardinals then scored five runs in the bottom of the third.

Ripken keeps streaking

By The Associated Press

Streaks are nothing new to Baltimore's Cal Ripken. But he's especially proud of his latest one.

"I've been looked at as an offensive guy who just happened to play shortstop because they wanted another bat in the lineup, so I'm happy to do something on defense," Ripken said after tying a major-league record with his 88th consecutive errorless game at short as Baltimore beat Chicago 4-1 on Thursday night.

Ripken, who hasn't made an error since April 13, matched Kevin Elster's string of successive games at shortstop without an miscue. Elster set the mark with the New York Mets from July 1988 to May 1989.

In the process, Ripken extended his major-league record of errorless chances at shortstop to 401. He has long since owned the American League marks for consecutive errorless games and successive errorless chances.

Ripken also holds the second-longest consecutive game streak in major league history. He passed Everett Scott earlier this season and his 1,341 consecutive games is second only to Lou Gehrig's 2,130.

In other American League games, it was Detroit 1, Boston 0; New York 2, Minnesota 1, and Milwaukee 4, Seattle 0.

Ripken not only played flawlessly in the field, but also contributed a two-run double to the Orioles' cause.

Ripken snapped a 1-for-11 slump with the score tied 1-1 in the first inning with his two-run double off Adam Peterson (0-2). Baltimore's other two runs came on homers by Phil Bradley and Mickey Tettleton.

"He got a big base hit for us, no doubt about it," Oriole manager Frank Robinson said. "It was a real lift for us to get that run right back and then get ahead."

Chicago's only run off John Mitchell (2-2) came on a first-inning double by Robin Ventura.

Tigers 1, Red Sox 0

Jeff Robinson pitched a two-hitter for eight innings and Larry Sheets' sixth-inning single scored Alan Trammell all the way from first base, lifting Detroit over Boston.

Robinson (7-7) struck out four and walked five. He outdueled Greg Harris (7-4), who allowed eight hits.

The only hits Robinson allowed were a first-inning single to Tom Brunansky and a fourth-inning single to Mike Greenwell.

With one out in the sixth, Trammell beat out an infield single, his third hit of the game. With Sheets at the plate, Trammell broke for second, and Sheets grounded the ball through the hole vacated by shortstop Tim Lincecum. Trammell never slowed down and easily beat center fielder Kevin Romine's throw.

Yankees 2, Twins 1

Tim Lincecum snapped an eight-game losing streak and New York scored both of its runs on a fifth-inning error by Minnesota shortstop Greg Gagne.

Leary (4-12) allowed eight hits in 7 1-3 innings.

After giving up a run in the second, Leary blanked the Twins on five hits before being relieved by Greg Cadaret with runners at first and third with one out in the eighth.

Cadaret got Ken Hrbek to ground into a double play and Dave Righetti pitched the ninth, earning his 20th save in 22 opportunities.

In the fifth, Yankees rookie Oscar Azocar singled and went to third on a single by Roberto Kelly. Deion Sanders then walked to load the bases, and Azocar and Kelly scored when Steve Sax's grounder went through Gagne's legs for an error.

Brewers 4, Mariners 0

Mike Felder and Greg Vaughn hit first-inning home runs as Milwaukee beat Seattle in a game that took nearly six hours to complete because of rain.

After the game's start was delayed by rain for three hours and three minutes, Felder hit the second pitch thrown by Seattle's Randy Johnson for his first homer since Sept. 26, 1989 to give Milwaukee a 1-0 lead.

Two outs later, Seattle third baseman Edgar Martinez dropped a slicing line drive by Dave Parker for an error and Vaughn followed with his eighth homer of the year for a 3-0 lead.

That was more than enough for Bill Krueger and Jamie Navarro, who combined on a seven-hitter. Krueger (5-5) blanked Seattle on three hits and two walks through five innings before Navarro finished up for his first major league save.

Johnson (9-5) lost despite pitching a six-hitter.

but there is no excuse to get beat if you don't give your best effort."

The Cowboys held their first practice Thursday on a soggy training field at St. Edward's, some 1,200 miles from California Lutheran College, where they had trained for 27 years.

The coaching staff had to break out rain gear for the second practice but Johnson said the rain was a good omen.

"We had to work out in a monsoon almost every day one year in Miami and didn't lose a game," Johnson said.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE MAN WHO BURIED JESUS

JOSEPH OF ARIMATHEA, A RICH MAN, WAS A SECRET DISCIPLE OF JESUS. MANY WEALTHY JEWS OF THE TIME WERE FINANCING REVOLUTIONARY GROUPS IN THE HOPE OF OVERTHROWING ROMAN RULE IN THEIR LAND—FOR, BESIDES THE HIGH ROMAN TAXES, THEIR ANCIENT RELIGION WAS IN DANGER OF BEING STAMPED OUT! WHETHER JOSEPH SAW IN JESUS, THE PROCLAIMED MESSIAH, A MAN WHO WOULD END ROMAN RULE OR IF HE UNDERSTOOD AT THE OUTSET THAT JESUS WAS CONCERNED WITH MAN'S FUTURE IN ITS SPIRITUAL ASPECT ONLY, IS NOW HARD TO SAY.

AS AN EXTREMELY WEALTHY MAN, JOSEPH WAS A MEMBER OF THE SANHEDRIN, THE HIGHEST RULING COUNCIL IN JERUSALEM. WHEN THE SANHEDRIN LAID PLANS TO DESTROY JESUS, HE MADE NO PROTEST WHATSOEVER, INDEED, IF HE HAD, HIS OWN LIFE WOULD HAVE BEEN ENDANGERED. IT'S QUITE POSSIBLE HE FIGURED HE WAS WORTH MORE TO THE CAUSE ALIVE RATHER THAN DEAD!

IT IS INDICATIVE OF THE MAN'S HIGH POSITION THAT, RIGHT AFTER JESUS' DEATH ON THE CROSS, JOSEPH COULD GAIN AUDIENCE, IN THE DEAD OF NIGHT, WITH PONTIUS PILATE. TO OBTAIN PERMISSION TO REMOVE THE BODY FROM THE CROSS AND BURY IT, WHICH HE AND NICODEMUS, ANOTHER RULER OF THE JEWS AND SECRET ADMIRER OF JESUS, DID.

SOME AUTHORITIES ARE AGREED THAT IN THE YEAR 63 THE APOSTLE ST. PHILIP DISPATCHED JOSEPH TO GREAT BRITAIN WHERE HE LIVED OUT HIS REMAINING YEARS IN COMPANY WITH HIS BROTHER DISCIPLES AT GLASTONBURY.

NEXT WEEK: YE SHALL NOT EAT MEAT ANY MORE!!

The most expensive wallet ever made is a platinum-cornered diamond-studded crocodile created by Louis Quatorze of Paris and Mikimoto of Tokyo. It sold for $72,000.

To remove chewing gum from clothes, press ice cubes against the gum until it becomes brittle and breaks off. Then use a spot remover to vanish the last traces.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: My boyfriend is 17 years old. He's quite muscular but wishes to be bigger. He does weightlifting every other day. Recently he purchased an amino acid powder, which when combined with water turns into a malt. Is it necessary for him to use this substance?

Also, along with the powder he bought testosterone pills. Are these pills beneficial, harmful or neutral when combined with weightlifting? I'm very concerned about this as I care for him a lot. He is not on steroids, thank God. We're both very interested in knowing the facts on these substances.

DEAR READER: Whether your boyfriend needs protein supplements or not for his muscle development program depends on his regular diet. I doubt he needs it. Usually 100 grams of good quality protein a day will provide more than enough protein to support the development of one pound of muscle a week. That is about the most you can expect from a well planned muscle building exercise program.

His diet can provide that much protein. A pound of lean round steak, raw weight, with all the fat removed contains about 100 grams of complete protein. You can expect about 40 grams of good quality protein from skim milk with nonfat solids added. Then there is the protein in other foods as well. These foods are superior to taking protein powders. But I must add that it is important to not consume so-called protein foods that are high in saturated fat, such as whole milk and fatty meats. He doesn't need to use red meat as he can also use fish and chicken. Chicken breast is high in protein and low in fat—particularly if the skin is removed before cooking.

The other requirement is to consume enough calories from all sources that the protein is not used for energy and is available for building tissue.

Have him read about the food requirements for muscle development in Special Report 92, Strength Training for Health, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER 92, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

Testosterone is a steroid. If it is pure testosterone, swallowing it will not make much difference as it will be quickly destroyed by the liver. Preparations that are absorbed from the cheek may raise the testosterone level. Anabolic steroids that are swallowed do affect the body and I would not recommend that he use them.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am enclosing a letter from an orthopedic specialist to my doctor about my condition of spinal stenosis. I am in constant pain in my lower back and sometimes in my legs. The only advice either doctor has given me is to take something for the pain. Do you have any better advice?

DEAR READER: Spinal stenosis means there is narrowing of the canal for the spinal cord and the nerves exiting the spinal column. It can cause leg cramps when walking and severe pain. The orthopedic surgeon noted that there is not much that can be done for this short of rather dramatic surgery, which he is reluctant to do at your age.

The surgery to relieve the compression carries the risk of developing more scar tissue and creating more problems than it relieves. It is a difficult decision and you may want a consultation with a neurosurgeon.

I note the orthopedic surgeon recommended physical therapy, which could help. If the pain is too severe you may get some help from a pain clinic.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My mother has been taking Thorazine for 19 years. She was 55 when she started it and now she is 73. What can happen to a person who has been on this medication for such a long time? It is urgent that I know and I am not getting any answers from her doctor.

DEAR READER: Thorazine is used to control certain manic type behaviors, control nausea and vomiting and certain psychotic disorders as well as some other conditions. It is indeed rare that it would be used for such a long time. I can't comment on the choice to prescribe it as I do not know why it is needed in your mother's case. Often, we need to use medicines that we would rather not use because the medicine is the only way to control a more serious condition than the problems caused by the medicine.

The list of things Thorazine can cause, particularly with long-term use in an older person, is quite long. One of these is tardive dyskinesia, a neurological disease.

Physician shows Chinese culture through cuisine

TAYLORVILLE, Ill. (AP) - Dr. Hua Long Chen delivers babies, but customers have to pick up his Chinese egg rolls themselves.

They are available fresh and hot at the old liquor store he uses for his kitchen and office, and frozen at local supermarkets.

And Chen, who does in-store cooking demonstrations and writes commercials, is calling on grocers in other parts of Illinois as he plans his expansion.

His new enterprise began as a matter of pride.

Chen was embarrassed by what American restaurants and grocery stores call egg rolls - no meat but lots of cabbage wrapped in a thick, tough skin.

"This is awful," said Chen. "I really feel ashamed to encounter this kind of food and have it called Chinese."

So he dusted off an old family recipe from Taiwan, added a few personal touches, and went to work.

His friends loved his authentic egg rolls, asked him to make them for their parties, and eventually persuaded him to go into business.

He made 300 egg rolls for a local grocer last Labor Day, and they were gone in a little more than two hours.

"The store called me and said, 'Doc, we're out, you got any more?'"

Not that day, but by February, Chen and his staff of five had moved into the liquor store and were geared up to produce 1,200 egg rolls a day.

The affable obstetrician slips off his blue blazer and dashes into the kitchen to demonstrate some of the secrets of his egg rolls.

There is the filling made from beef, pork, onions, mushrooms and carrots, and the wrapping made from tissue-paper thin dough. The egg rolls are then fried in soy oil because it is relatively low in saturated fat.

"After you cook it, it is very crispy," said Chen, whose brightly colored egg roll boxes proclaim: "It's different. It's better."
