THE JUNCTION EAGLE

Volume 46

Junction, Kimble County, Texas, Thursday, July 25, 1929

Number 15

LOCAL HEALTH SITUATION IMPROVES

Many erroneous and misleading reports are being circulated over the state relative to illness in Junction. There are now five cases of so-called smallpox in the county, some of which are more than twenty miles from Junction. There have been no deaths and no new cases in several days. Only sixteen cases of fever have been reported and there is some doubt whether all were cases of typhoid. Those who are now ill with fever are being carefully nursed and with the aid of physicians and the sanitary engineer it is believed that the source of infection has been found and the danger of a further spread stopped.

Samples of milk, water, etc., were sent to Austin for analysis and while B. Coli, were found, that does not mean that the samples were contaminated with typhoid germs. The health department will tell you that they examine very few samples that do not contain B. Coli. Of course, they are present in quantities sometimes to be dangerous.

The City Council has adopted ordinances that will help in protecting the health of the community. Our milk supply is being graded and as soon as some conditions can be met Junction will have only Grade A milk. Mr. H. E. Hargis, our sanitary engineer, is assisting all interested in adopting sanitary conditions that will mean much to Junction. There is no need for any alarm as the conditions are no worse in Junction than in other towns over the state at this time of the year. Some have even thought that it is dangerous to swim in the beautiful sparkling Llano River. There is no clearer, purer stream in Texas than the Llano and it has its source in bubbling springs only a short distance above Junction. If it is safe to swim anywhere it is safe in the Llano.

DRILLING NEAR LONDON IS ACTIVE

The clouds in the oil sky around London are precipitating, and definite reports as to the ultimate results of some of the tests will be available soon, according to reports coming from London.

The Amberson well No. 1, being drilled by Linsay Bros. on the old Amberson place a few miles south of London is down about 950 feet with drilling temporarily halted. According to reports the formation in this well is looking good.

The C. E. Lambert well No. 1 being drilled by Carl Bryant is down to the 300 foot level. A great deal of trouble was encountered at this well just after it was spudded in, but this trouble has been straightened out and members of the crew stated that 90 feet were drilled in 24 hours.

The greatest interest is being shown in the Cannon well. A break down last week slowed up drilling, but after the break was repaired more casing was lowered in the well, the water was cased off and the drill is pounding into the earth now.

Geologists seem to favor London territory and it is hoped that a good producer can be brought in.

Mrs. F. M. Hodges of the Sycamore community enjoyed a visit from her brother, S. H. Lane, of San Antonio.

BORDEN ICE CREAM IS NOW GRADE "A"

Mr. E. R. Borden received a message from the State Department of Health Tuesday stating that Borden's Sweet Cream Ice Cream is now grade "A" ice cream. In recent tests it measured high in purity.

A message has also been sent from the State Board of Health to the local health officer stating that the ice cream is Grade "A."

Immediately after receiving this message the plant began operation. Forty gallons of ice cream was manufactured Wednesday and forty more made today.

MOGFORD BROS. HAVE FINE GOATS AT RANCH

A picture of a large flock of goats on the Mogford Brothers Ranch in Kimble County appeared in the current issue of the "Farm and Ranch" Magazine.

Both the Mogford brothers are graduates of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, and are well qualified to be excellent ranchmen. Ranchmen of Kimble County are coming to the front and receiving recognition for the progress which they are making in the livestock industry. According to information, Junction is one of the largest inland wool and mohair markets in the world, and such ranchers as the Mogford Bros. are responsible for this position which Junction holds.

NEW MASONIC OFFICERS INSTALLED

New officers of the Masonic Lodge were installed at the meeting held Saturday evening, July 13. The new members were elected at the regular meeting in June.

The officers installed were: Frank Patterson.....W. M. Jim Massie.....S. W. D. P. Taylor.....J. W. Lanan Bissett.....Treasurer Jas. A. Miller.....Secretary Geo. W. Cavahess.....Tiler Joe Bissett.....S. D.

New Battery Shop Opens Here Monday

With a force of expert mechanics, Messrs. W. M. Keen and Leonard Cowsett opened the Junction Battery and Electric Company in the McDonald Chevrolet stand Monday morning. They are well pleased with the business received during their opening days. New equipment has been ordered and Mr. Cowsett says that they will have the best equipped shop for general repair work between San Antonio and El Paso. The new company will feature battery and ignition work as well as general repairing.

Mr. Keen, in commenting on the work of the new business says, that when your car is running good go where you please, but when it is running bad bring it to the Junction Battery and Electric Company.

Messrs. Keen and Cowsett are not new comers in Junction. They know the people and their needs and both these gentlemen invite car owners to visit their place of business and satisfy themselves as to the character of work done. If your car needs a complete overhauling they ask that you come around and let their skilled mechanics put it in first class shape for a reasonable charge.

UPHOLSTERY OF AUTOMOBILE IS MOHAIR

Last Monday Mr. W. C. Stilsby, ranchman of Silver City, New Mexico, and breeder of Angora goats, was in Junction en route to the Goat Sale which is being held in Rocksprings. Mr. Stilsby was driving a new Ford sedan which was especially upholstered with Angora mohair.

Mr. Stilsby stated that he worked for eighteen months to get some company to do the job, and finally he got it done in El Paso. Made solely from the fleece of the Angora goat, the upholstery has a beautiful appearance and is comfortable and lasting. It is estimated that the upholstery will last for over six years of continuous service. It will outlast the average life of any car.

The car was parked on Main street for some time Monday permitting people to examine the unusual sight. Parked next to this car was a $2,000 car of popular make which was supposed to have mohair upholstery, but its quality was far inferior to that used in Mr. Stilsby's Ford.

"It would be a boon to mohair producers of Texas and New Mexico if car manufacturers would use mohair for upholstery in their stock cars," stated Mr. Stilsby. According to Mr. Emil A. Loeffler, the new Ford Town Sedan now comes equipped with mohair upholstery.

Mr. Stilsby has been a ranchman in New Mexico for approximately thirty years and usually runs from 1,000 to 1,500 head of goats. He is a booster of the mohair business and is interested in getting a steady market for the mohair as well as being interested in producing it.

JETTON IS ERECTING DAIRY BUILDING

Mr. Boyd Jetton is constructing a new building for his dairy on his farm south of Junction. The new building will be constructed of concrete building tile, furnished by Bissett & Baker. Bissett & Baker of this city are the contractors.

A first class dairy building is being erected. With a floor space of 13x44 feet, the structure is to be divided into three compartments, the cow stalls, the washing room, and the cooling and bottling room. The building is being so constructed that the floors may be washed by means of pressure water. A concrete floor and metal roof are two outstanding features of the new building.

OLD PIONEER OUTPOST IS SOLD FOR A MEAGER SUM

Old Fort McKavett, pioneer outpost, has been sold. The principal part of the fort, including the hotel, the old mess hall and the old barracks were sold to W. B. Arnold for $1,500. In 1885, it sold for $200,000. The hotel which was included in the sale is famous because General Robert E. Lee lodged there for several months while he was stationed at the old fort. The old hotel, which is constructed of stone, has large rooms and massive locks on the doors. These locks are the same which were used when the fort was an army post of note.

Several families now occupy the mess hall which is a long building built of stones. The old barracks are tumbling down, after having been wrecked for the lumber. The Fort McKavett

BILLIE McKEE SPEAKS TO ROTARIANS

The Junction Rotarians had an interesting meeting at their regular weekly luncheon last week. A talk by Uncle Billie McKee on friendship was enjoyed by the Rotarians. Uncle Billie can sing as well as talk and the Rotarians are expecting a vocal solo by him at an early date.

President Emil A. Loeffler gave an interesting report on his visit to the meeting of presidents and secretaries at Brownsville. Emil is an active Rotarian and does much for the order. He attended the luncheon of the Kerrville club yesterday.

Some Rotarian talks at each luncheon on one of the Rotary code of ethics. The following is the talk given last week by Uncle Billie on the subject of FRIENDSHIP:

"The aim and object of Rotary is to promote true friendship. Friendship is the greatest word known to man because it has the elements of love, fidelity and service."

Love is that something that binds and holds men together when everything else fails. Fidelity means that we should be true and faithful to each other, unwavering in every task we have to perform, and true to our convictions of right, truth and justice to all men.

Service means that we should work for the things that are right, things that are noble, and things that go to build up and maintain every institution that has for its object the betterment of all. The aim of Rotary is to promote friendship, it therefore stands for the best possible for man to obtain in life."

McDonald Service Station Now Open

A new and yet not a new business, the McDonald Service Station at the old stand of the McDonald Chevrolet Company at the northeast corner of the court yard. Messrs. W. M. and Luther McDonald are the proprietors of the new service station where you will be able to buy that good Gulf Gas, grade A oil, tires, tubes and all tire accessories. If you want your car washed, they state that they are equipped to give you first class service.

The Messrs. McDonald extend an invitation to their friends to call to see them at the old McDonald Chevrolet stand when in need of gas, oil, tires, boots, etc.

Miss Natalie Lowry returned last week from Alpine where she attended the Sul Ross College during the summer term.

FORMAL OPENING IS POSTPONED

The formal opening of the Highland Chevrolet Company in the new building has been postponed from Saturday to a later date, according to Mr. J. S. Farmer, manager. A little more time is needed to get the shop prepared for the opening.

A large amount of new machinery has been ordered, and the shop will be one of the best in southwest Texas when completed.

The definite date for the formal opening will be decided later, stated Mr. Farmer.

MISS VIVIAN JAMES IS DUCHESS OF JUNCTION

Miss Vivian James has been appointed Duchess of Junction for the West Texas Exposition which will be held in San Angelo September 16-21.

Miss Elizabeth Summers was chosen as maid of honor. Hon. Coke R. Stevenson and Mr. E. V. Stewart made the announcement that Miss James would represent Junction. Detailed plans have not been announced yet, but the full particulars will be given later.

PIERCE MAKES ADDRESS TO LIONS

"If you are going to be a slave to any one thing, be a slave to 100% attendance," stated N. H. Pierce, visiting Lion who spoke before the local Lion's Club Wednesday noon at the regular luncheon hour. Mr. Pierce is secretary of the 15th District of the Lion's Club in Texas.

He said that there were 238 Lion's Clubs in Texas. "Texas has 15% better attendance at the Lion's Club meetings than any other state in the Union," concluded Pierce.

There were ten members present at the luncheon and two visitors. Master E. O. Kelly played several selections on the cornet for the entertainment of those present.

The district convention of the Lion's Club will be held in Balinger in August. Several representatives from the local club are planning to attend this convention.

Howard Blackburn Builds Motor Boat

Being 2180 feet above sea level, absence of salt sea breezes, and absence of the conventional "tars" did not hinder Howard (Pete) Blackburn while building a motor boat which he launched Saturday afternoon on the Scudder Hole in the South Llano River south of town.

The boat is 20 feet long and six feet wide. It is powered by a master Buick motor and driven by a three blade steel propeller. A powerful spot light is mounted on the prow of the boat.

Blackburn has been working on the boat at odd hours for over a month. It has a seating capacity of 14 people, but will carry several more.

Blackburn stated that later on he planned to take passengers in the boat.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Holkamp of San Antonio and Mrs. Burdett of Fredericksburg are here this week visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. Holkamp. They are spending part of their time on the South Llano. Mr. E. Holkamp is with them to give instruction on how to catch the fish.

RANCHMEN TO CELEBRATE AUGUST 6

College of Texas. Exhibits of registered fine wool sheep and Angora goats, sheep and goat judging contests for boys, special group sessions for the wives of the ranchers as well as for the men and a barbecue dinner daily served in real western style are some of the phases of the program.

Outstanding cattle, sheep and goat specialists will discuss various problems of the industry at the general sessions and specialists in the field of women's activities will address the women's section. G. W. Barnes, beef cattle specialist of the Extension Service, will have charge of the sheep and goat judging contests. Kincaid, Jr., will present the prizes to winners in sheep judging, donated by the Texas Rambouillet Sheep Raisers Association.

An abundance of camp sites with shade and water will be available for those who attend the roundup and visitors have been urged to come prepared for camping. Band music will be furnished on the opening day through the courtesy of Claude Ward, secretary San Angelo Board of City Improvement. Committee of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association co-operating with the Experiment Station in providing barbecue and entertainment in Tom Bond, Sonora; S. S. Bundy, Roosevelt; Horace Fawcett, Del Rio.

REUBEN LOEFFLER WINS TENNIS FAME

Reuben Loeffler, whose home is in Junction, is making a good record as a tennis player in Sul Ross State Teachers' College in Alpine, where he is attending school. Last year as a member of the college team, he did not lose a match.

At the annual summer tourney which is being held there now, Reuben has worked his way up to the finals. He is expected to win the tournament.

NEW LONDON BUILDING NEARING COMPLETION

The new building which Mr. Arthur Adams is building in London is nearing completion and the painting and interior finishings are all that remain to be done. The new building is two stories high. The lower floors will be occupied by a cafe and a meat market. The upper floor will be a hotel.

Mr. Adams has faith in the future of London and he is getting ready ahead of time for the oil boom which everyone is anticipating.

Judge Weaver H. Baker was a business visitor in London Monday and Tuesday.

JURY RULES ON HIGHWAY DAMAGES

Holding that the San Angelo Sherwood road, officially known as State Highway No. 99, will increase the value of lands it traverses by ten per cent of their present values, and assessing condemned property upon a basis it considered proportionate to its current value, the jury of the commissioners' court to assess values in the condemnation proceedings submitted its first report to the court Wednesday.

Briefly, the result of the jury's survey and reports, if adopted by the court, will be that property owners who failed to reach agreements with the county relative to settlement of values and work to be done will be considered indebted to the county in various sums, none of which are expected by the county commissioners to be settled in cash.

Property owners who donated rights of way to the county and, in return, were promised free work in moving the fences back the necessary distances will profit to the extent of such agreements, while owners of property involved in the survey by the jury of view must re-establish their own improvements, such as fences.

The jury reached its conclusions upon the basis that property actually condemned for the 100-foot right-of-way should be assessed upon what it considered a fair sales value, while 10 per cent of the value holdings traversed by the highway should be charged against the owners because of the increased benefits the improved highway will add.

The report concluded with the request its authority be continued in force until the August term of the commissioners' court because of lack of time to receive claims from non-resident landowners who were cited by publication. It was announced that the jury will meet on July 29 to complete its report, at which time the court will receive the final report and act upon it.

A detailed review of the jury's findings follow, with the name of the property owner listed first, and the credits and debits following:

Ethel Lee Caldwell—Credited with $60 for moving 0.8 miles of wire fence; $87.50 for moving 0.7 miles of woven wire fence; and $72.90 for 2.53 acres of land condemned, and charged with $252 for improved value of the property.

Mrs. S. E. Hodges—Credited with $100 for moving two miles of common fence, and $149.40 for four acres of condemned land and charged with $1440 for the increased value of 960 acres at $1.50 per acre.

John P. Lee and Sarah A. Lee—Credited with $35.25 for moving 2,092 feet of five-wire fence, $360.45 for moving 2.67 miles of woven wire fence, $25 for moving a filling station, $525 for damages to 21 lots, and with $212.40 for 7.08 acres of condemned land; charged with $1640 for increased value of the property involved.

Eddie Maier—Credited with $62.50 for moving 1 1/4 miles of fence, and $126 for 4.2 acres of condemned land; charged with $960 for increased value of 640 acres.

The jury reported it had notified all interested parties, heard all testimony, and received written claims offered in relation to damages. It attached the written claims to its report.

One of these claims showed that John P. Lee claimed $1,000 as damages and asked the replacing of all improvements at county expense. Another claim was made by Eddie Maier, offering to give the right-of-way in return for the building of a fence on both sides of the highway. Mrs. Sadie Honea claimed $300 as damages, and Tedy & Roberts claimed $150.

The law gives any parties who so desire the right to appeal from the report of the jury of view and the action taken by the commissioners' court, but such appeals, if any made, will not delay the building of the highway, it was pointed out by county officials.

SOB STORY PROPAGANDA

There seems to be a determined purpose on the part of many of the big dailies to play up the "atrocity" of what they call "dry killing," especially if it is a bootlegger they put on the front page along with a story so worded as to incite resentment, if not rebellion, against the prohibition law.

If a bootlegger kills an enforcement officer they are more than likely to slip that into one of the back pages with a bare recital of the facts. Observant readers of the daily press can hardly miss the subtle propaganda behind all this. Wholesale handlings of the news in this fashion doesn't happen by accident. Dig back far enough into this thing and it will be found that selfish interests are behind it seeking to discredit the Eighteenth Amendment.

The fact of the matter is that the opponents of the law sense a determined effort on the part of the government to enforce the law and that is exactly the thing they do not want. They have said that the law could not be enforced. Any promise of success in its enforcement, therefore, is discouraging to those who are opposed to it. Their front page sob stories are in line with their settled policy to discredit the law.

For instance, there appeared on the front page of one of the Dallas papers a few days ago a picture of a man and his wife who had been compelled to mortgage their farm to pay a fine imposed for violating the prohibition law. Along with the picture there was a sob story calculated to insinuate resentment against the law into the minds of unthinking readers.

A few days later there appeared on one of the back pages an account of the killing of an officer by some negro bootleggers. But the sob story writer's pencil did not seem to be working very well that day. He did not inject any sly digs at the law. He contented himself with a bare recital of the facts.

In one case a mortgage was put on a farm and it almost broke the sob story writer's heart. He lifted up his voice and wept.

In the other case an enforcement officer lost his life and no doubt there was an orphaned and widowed home, but that didn't make very good propaganda; moreover the sob story writer had wept so much over that mortgaged farm that his tear ducts had turned into a "dry hole."

Some of these days some poor oppressed bootlegger will be forced to pawn his wife's engagement ring to pay himself out of jail. The tear puller will have another golden opportunity then. He'll spud again and bring in another gusher.—Texas Christian Advocate.

NEWSPAPER PAYS 20 YEAR OLD PRIZE

More than 20 years ago Mrs. John DeGroat won a six-months' scholarship in a Rochester (N. Y.) business college in a circulation contest conducted by the Rochester Herald. She was unable to take advantage of the prize at that time.

Mrs. DeGroat now has a son who desires a business education. His mother called at the Democrat and Chronicle office, this newspaper having absorbed the Herald, explained the circumstances, and arrangements were made so that the twenty-year-old prize, now greatly enhanced in tuition value, was transferred to her son.

One cup of rice will absorb 3 or 4 cups of milk in the double boiler and is of course much richer in food value than when boiled in water.

If a young heifer is handled occasionally and gets accustomed to the halter and stanchion, she will be much easier to manage when she is put into the milking herd.

You want your land abstracted; then you had better see E. H. Hekamp; he has complete index of all County lands. (adv)

MOUNTAIN SUN OWNER DIES

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon, July 15, for Clarence E. Salter, 48, publisher and part owner of the Kerrville Mountain Sun, who died at the home of a sister in Oklahoma City. The services were held at the home of W. A. Salter, Elm Street in Westland Place, with Dr. W. P. Dickey of the First Presbyterian Church officiating.

After a brief service at the residence, the cortege bearing sorrowing relatives and friends wended its way across the hills to Sunset Cemetery, 18 miles northwest of the city, where interment was made. It was the expressed wish of this great lover of Nature that he might rest in Sunset, a beautiful little plat adjoining Heart of Hills Fish Hatchery, a project which he was instrumental in having established by the State of Texas.

Born at Thayer, Kansas, on June 3, 1881, Mr. Salter moved with his family to Oklahoma soon after that State was opened for settlement. After graduation from Northwestern Normal at Alva, Okla., he became associated with the newspaper profession and made it his life work. For several years he published newspapers in Oklahoma, and later was employed by the San Antonio Express. Twenty years ago, he came to Kerrville to work for The Sun and for the past eight years he and his brother, W. A. Salter, owned and published this paper.

Clarence Salter took a deep interest in civic affairs, being actively identified with Chamber of Commerce work, and was a charter member of the Kerrville Rotary Club. But his chief interest was in the great outdoors, in the protection and conservation of game and fish. All of his spare moments were spent in camp, beside a stream or in the hills. He will be best remembered as a student of wood lore and as a true sportsman, who played the game fair. It has been often repeated that he would report his closest friend or himself to a game warden for any unintentional breach of the fishing or hunting laws.

TUBERCULOSIS DEATH RATE IS DECLINING

Almost amazing has been the decrease in the tuberculosis death rate in the United States during the last 25 years, a greater decrease than the most optimistic scientist or physician would have predicted a few years ago. In 1905 the death rate from the "white plague" was around 194 per 100,000 population; by 1915 it had decreased to only 91; while in 1928 it had fallen to 10 per 100,000.

While the vigorous research and educational campaigns which have been waged against tuberculosis have been responsible for much of the improvement shown, it is said that deaths from the disease have greatly decreased throughout the world, even in countries in which little in the way of preventative measures has been undertaken.

A prominent scientist believes that the human race is gradually becoming more resistant to the tuberculosis germs, or possibly the germ itself is growing weaker. This good news with respect to tuberculosis is largely offset, however, by the rapid increase in the death rate from cancer, in spite of the most determined efforts to check its ravages. Occasionally a new method of treating cancer gives promise of success, but so far

MASON MEN PURCHASE WEST TEXAS SHEEP

There has been a rapid movement of sheep into this county during the last two weeks from western counties, the animals being purchased for breeding purposes and also to be put on feed for next spring's market.

Tom and Walker White spent several days last week looking at sheep in West Texas and purchased 1,771 head of high grade Rambouillet yearling ewes from Mans Holbert of Mertzon. These sheep were received on the 11th and have been placed on the Mill Creek ranch, which is operated by White Brothers, Tom, Walker and J. W. White, Jr. These sheep were shipped to Brady and brought here by truck.

C. D. and Marvin McMillan received 800 head of Delaine yearling muttons last week which they plan to put on feed this winter. These muttons were purchased from W. P. Epperson and Joe Turner of Rocksprings.

Marvin Leifeste bought several hundred head of Rambouillet yearling muttons last week, buying from ranchmen at El Dorado. The prices paid for these three bunches of sheep ranged from around $6 for ewes, to about $10 for ewes, it is reported.

Cattle sales have been generally slow, there being few transfers reported. Wes Smith delivered about 100 two-year-old steers Monday to Frank Lacy and a Mr. Featherstone of Brown County, it was reported.

TRACE PIPE ORGAN BACK TO EARLY CIVILIZATION

The story of the pipe organ—the noblest of musical instruments—abounds in romance, for its beginning lies in remote antiquity and its development follows the progress of civilization for more than 2,000 years. Limited space permits only briefest mention of a few cardinal points in its history.

Of first importance, the parent instrument was a set of pipes fastened together in a row and made to sound by the direct force of the breath. Later some 200 years before Christ, there came the water organ, which, in turn, gave way to the bellows type of instrument that was first used in the church about 430 A. D. It is the bellows type, highly perfected, that is in common use today.

In this country our strait-laced Puritan ancestors opposed music as an invention of the evil one himself, so its acceptance came slowly, and up to the middle of the Seventeenth century, only that of the crudest kind was heard.

The real history of the pipe organ in America began about 1713, with the importation from England of what has come to be known as the Brattle organ. It came to Boston, Mass., as the property of Thomas Brattle, a prominent man of the time, and was set up in King's chapel.

Other organs were imported in the years that followed, until John Clemm produced the first American-built instrument in 1737.

No remedy except the knife in early stages has been of much permanent value.

Patient workers in laboratories throughout the world are giving their best energies to the fight against cancer, and some day their labors may be crowned with success. It will be a great day for humanity when a real cure for cancer is discovered.—Hamilton Herald Record.

TRAIN IS SAVED BY LOYAL INDIAN

Soperton, Wis.—A tale of the striking loyalty of an Indian, was brought into this small lumber community recently by a railway section foreman. Tom McAllen, the foreman, was through with his day's work and was bound for camp, he related, when from the platform of the gasoline car on which he was riding, he espied the body of a man prone on the rails.

As the gasoline car drew nearer, Jake Waubejay, a Potawatami Indian, seventy-five years old, arose from the track and motioned frantically toward the car.

McAllen found the old Indian was guarding a broken rail he accidentally had stumbled upon. Waubejay had resorted to ancient "ear to the ground" tactics to warn him of the approach of a train because his eyes were virtually sightless.

Logging trains operated by the company that frequently had given the Indian odd jobs, plied the road frequently and McAllen said a wreck certainly would have followed had a train struck the broken rail.

A satisfactory tree poison is made by heating 1½ gallons of water to boiling, adding one pound of washing soda and a four-ounce can of concentrated lye, and after these have dissolved adding one pound of white arsenic. The solution is boiled and put away in a can ready for use. Livestock must be kept out of the poisoned area until the sap stops running out of the cuts.

FRONTIER TIMES

A favor has been bestowed upon us. Mr. J. Marvin Hunter, editor of the Bandera New Era and the Frontier Times, has been gracious enough to send the Frontier Times to this newspaper office free of charge.

Anyone who has read the magazine will realize how great a favor was really shown us. Great things can come from little places, and even though Bandera is not a metropolis, one of the most unusual and most interesting magazines in the United States is printed there.

The unique magazine is not filled with empty fiction, but it is crammed full of thrilling, truthful history of the pioneer days in Texas. The range where the longhorn roamed is vividly reproduced for the reader. It's a magazine worth filling and placing in the home library. We are indebted to Mr. Hunter for his courtesy and thoughtfulness.

Salmon loaf is a good summer dish because canned salmon can be obtained almost anywhere, and the kitchen will not be heated for very long in making it. Drain the oil from a can of salmon and pick out all bones and skin. Break the meat into fairly small pieces. Add an equal amount of soft bread crumbs from the center of a loaf. Add 2 well-beaten eggs, salt, pepper, chopped parsley, and enough milk to moisten—about 1/2 cup. Place in a greased baking dish, mold into a loaf, and bake in a moderate oven until brown.

MRS. GRACE SIMON DIES AT MASON

Mrs. Grace Simon of Tea Cup died in a Mason hospital July 22, 1929. The body was brought to Junction for burial in the Junction Cemetery. The Rev. G. W. Crabb officiated.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the cemetery. A large gathering of friends and relatives were present to witness the last rites. A beautiful floral offering was heaped on the newly filled grave. The entire mound was hidden behind the many flowers, which kind and loving friends had brought.

Mrs. Grace Simon was born on November 24, 1905, at Boerne, Texas. Her maiden name was Miss Grace Willford. On February 3, 1924, she was married to Mr. C. W. Simon. She joined the Baptist Church last summer and the Rev. G. W. Crabb, who conducted the funeral, baptised her last summer.

Deceased is survived by her husband, two children and two sisters, Mrs. Evans and Mrs. McNatt. Her father, mother and two brothers have gone on before.

LONDON LOCALS

Another old timer passes away. Last Friday Uncle Jack Brewer, an old citizen of London, but recently moved to Melvin, crossed over the divide that separates time from eternity. His remains were brought back to London and laid to rest by the side of his faithful wife who preceded his going some years ago. Thus it is and thus it should be, the old pass from the stage of action while the young are ready to take their place. We are often made to feel that the old could have done better had they not been so slow. Then we are made to wonder whether the present and rising generation with their electrified going will be able to carry on as safely and as useful as the aged and those who have crossed the line have. It will require quick, sober thought and action to steer us safely from here out, or we will certainly go into the chasm of destruction. This is no calamity howl! Here is an illustration: If you see a high-powered machine at terrific speed headed for a hidden bluff with a reckless, heedless driver at the wheel, what would you expect? Answer for yourself. Just so it is with the world today.

Little Dixie and Margaret Weaver have our thanks for a nice basket of peaches last week.

Mrs. Lillie McCaleb was in town last week.

J. R. Wahrmond and other Melvin friends of Uncle Jack Brewer accompanied his remains to London last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Hodges of San Antonio, two of our appreciated young friends, called on us last week. Always glad to have Eli and Cassie come to see us.

Mr. and Mrs. Dee Gibbs were here last week.

Miss Victoria Brewer is visiting in Lampasas this week.

The oil interest is about as follows: The McLean well on the Canon place stripped the cog from part of their machinery and has been at a standstill since.

The Lindsey Bros. well on the Amberson place suspended operations several days ago and the drillers I think have gone visiting.

The Bryant machinery only is in operation night and day, and they are drilling at about 350 feet. All kinds of bad luck has been met in the beginning of this well, but it is now going down satisfactorily.

SARGON TURNS TABLES AFTER 15 LONG YEARS

"Sargon turned the tables for me after I had tried for 15 years to get well of stomach trouble. Now I am gaining every day. I went from 119 to 130 pounds, a gain of 11 pounds in 3 weeks on just three bottles. That's pretty good for a man 62 years old."

"I suffered day and night for almost 15 years and spent many hard earned dollars for medicines, but none of them reached my case until I got Sargon. I felt weak and sick from morning until night. I would just drag myself around but now I feel years younger and can keep going all day. I eat anything I want and have no trace of stomach trouble, headaches or dizzy spells any more."

"The Sargon Soft Mass Pills straightened out my liver and I no longer suffer from biliousness and constipation. It sure is great to be feeling like my old self again and I will always praise the Sargon treatment. There never was any medicine equal to it."

BABIES ARE WORTH $500 AT PITTSBURG

The citizens of Pittsburg, Texas, and Camp County from now on will consider a baby born with only a silver spoon in its mouth a piker. Their new arrivals are going to be $500 babies, and no mistake.

The citizens of that fine town on the bank of Cypress creek have laid the foundation for a movement that will undoubtedly send baby stock skyward.

Mayor Claud Clayton and a young friend of his at Pittsburg, D. C. Ralston, who is a telegraph operator for the Cotton Belt route, conceived an idea that if a newly born was not worth $500 or $1,000 the youngster would have to take its chance in life just like other babies.

The new organization will be called the Goofus Club. Here's what it's all about:

Five hundred local men are to compose the membership. Every time a baby is born to a member, the other 499 pay into the treasury $1 each. The new parents are presented with $250 in cash, the other $250 to be deposited in a savings bank, the interest to be compounded semi-annually. Bankers and insurance men at Pittsburg have estimated that when the youngster grows up to college age he or she will have more than $1,000.

"Give me an interview on this great idea," I said to Mayor Clayton.

"Sure thing," His Excellency replied. "Here's the real spirit behind the club. It will wake up the coming generation to the importance of taking care of the living as well as making preparations to put away the dead. In studying over our plans we are reminded of the story in the Bible where men and women prayed for children, and were afterwards blessed and as many homes made happy by the influence of the little ones."

There are no membership requirements in the Pittsburg club—no age limit or marital ties.

The only regret I have now, as I think about this wonderful baby movement, is that I was not born at Pittsburg, Texas.—Dallas Journal.

A pair of kitchen shears with sanitary white handles and strong, sharp blades is a useful tool. It can be used for chopping celery, apples and pickles for salad, also chicken and other meats; for cutting the tails and heads from fish; for cutting lettuce for shredded salads, bread for stuffing, marshmallows, dates and nuts, for desserts. Then there are all the ordinary uses for scissors—to cut paper for lining cake tins, twine on packages, shelf paper, and many other uses.

Only fruits and tomatoes should be canned in the water-bath. All non-acid vegetables and other foods should be processed under steam pressure.

TRAIN PASSES OVER YOUTH, HE STILL LIVES

San Benito.—An engine and eight railway boxcars passed over Marcos Lopez, 21, of this city as he lay between the rails, and the young man is now in the hospital, expected to recover, in spite of cuts, bumps and bruises.

Railroad men and other persons familiar with the construction of engines and cars expressed surprise that the man escaped with his life. He is believed to have gone to sleep on the track following a dance, which ended shortly before day Sunday. He probably kept trying to raise his head, and again by beams of the boxcars, physicians said, judging from the large number of bumps on his head.

PURE PHILOSOPHY

Can you visit the beautiful home of a friend, can you ride in his expensive automobile without feeling envious? Can you return to your own little home and belongings and feel happy and contented with what you have there? Can you get behind the wheel of your cheaper car and still experience a thrill in its possession? If so, you have the right philosophy of life.

If not, you are missing a lot of joy that might be yours. To get the most out of life you must be happy with what you have. Of course you should not carry this spirit to excess and feel no incentive to possess better things than you now have.

But if you work industriously and to the best of your ability, then whatever you own as a result of your labors should bring you happiness and contentment. Not the contentment that comes of laziness but the peace of mind that comes with the consciousness of having done your best, so far. You will keep working a little harder as times go on, if you have the right stuff in you.—Hamilton Herald Record.

SHORT COURSE FOR FARMERS AT A. & M.

College Station, Texas.—Virtually every phase of agricultural thought and activity will come in for discussion at the twentieth annual Farmer Short Course to be held at the A. & M. College of Texas July 29 to August 3. Group sessions for men and boys and women and girls will be held and sectional meetings will be devoted to specialized fields of farming and farm operation.

Topics of general agricultural interest will be discussed by outstanding educators and specialists at the forenoon and evening sessions for men and boys while subject matter lectures and demonstrations will be held during the afternoon. Special programs have also been arranged for women and girls, featuring topics of particular interest to the farmers' wife and daughter.

Good flavors to serve together: Fried chicken and corn fritters, with a spoonful of bright red jelly on each fritter; beefsteak with fried potatoes, browned mushrooms, fried tomatoes or fried onions; lamb chops around a mound of green peas or buttered carrots or lightly piled mashed potatoes. Have the platter very hot. Pork chops look well served with apple rings or jellied apples colored red. A bit of green garnish—parsley, cress, celery tops or lettuce—makes any meat or fish dish look well.

To prevent buttermilk from "weining off" in summer, the cream should be churned when only mildly sour, and the buttermilk should be cooled immediately and kept as cold as possible. In hot weather the curd is likely to settle to the bottom, leaving clear whey on top. In this form buttermilk is not attractive. Buttermilk that is only mildly sour and is kept in a refrigerator or in cold water will usually whiff off very little for several days.

ROADS OF THE FUTURE

According to Dr. Miller McClintock of Harvard University, highway construction has failed to keep pace either in respect to miles built or operating conditions, with the progress made in automobile production. As the automobile developed from the carriage, so did the highway evolve from the wagon road, and in most localities it still shows a remarkable likeness to its forebears.

The future through highway, and even secondary roads in rural localities, will be a great deal safer and more usable. Pavements will be wider. Turns will be scientifically banked. Grade crossings will be avoided. When possible, four lanes of traffic will be used, so that passing cars do not have to turn into oncoming traffic.

Progressive communities and states are already building and planning the highways of the future to accommodate increased traffic in a satisfactory manner.

SWEET-CREAM BUTTER

Butter made at this time of year for fall and winter use should be churned from Pasteurized sweet cream to insure its keeping well. See that the cream is sweet enough to use in hot coffee without curdling. The butter-making process is practically the same as when sour cream is used. The temperature of the cream for churning should be between 52 and 60 degrees F. About 30 minutes is needed to have the butter come firm enough. Stop churning when the granules are the size of wheat kernels. It is especially important that butter made in summer come in firm granules so that its body will be waxy. When butter comes soft, both the flavor and the body are likely to be greasy, an undesirable characteristic that intensifies with age.

RHODE ISLAND RED HEN - ADOPTS FOUR BULL PUPS

Coleman. — A Rhode Island Red hen, owned by C. C. Cornelius of this city, has tackled a big job, having adopted four English bull pups, about four weeks old.

The hen, pups and mother of the pups all seem to be pleased with the adoption. The hen is very attentive and remains with her canine family day and night, hovering them at night, while the mother dog is unconcerned and only serves when meal time comes, and then it is necessary to conscript her for that important service.

The pups do not understand what their new mother means by clucking and scratching but they are perfectly content when she covers them and they nestle close to her at night. The hen adopted the puppies about ten days ago, and she does her best seemingly to understand them, but when they pull her wings and get rough with her, she seems to be puzzled, yet she apparently enjoys their companionship and will not permit any intruding on her rights.

This unusual family arrangement is proving to be quite an attraction and many people are visiting at the Cornelius home to see the hen and her pups.

To whip cream successfully in warm weather, it is well to chill the cream, bowl, and whipper before you begin. Cream for whipping should contain at least 30 per cent butterfat, aged for 24 hours or more.

THE LETTER "E"

Someone has advanced the opinion that the letter "e" is the most unfortunate character in the English alphabet, because it is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger, and in hell all the time.

But we call his attention to the fact that "e" is never in war and always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease, and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat, no life and no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect, and without it there would be no editors, devils, or news.—Charleston Gazette.

CAUGHT

A clergyman one day announced from the pulpit: "Next Sunday I shall preach on 'Lies and Lying,' but meantime I wish you would all study the 17th chapter of St. Mark."

The following Sunday when he arose to give the sermon he inquired: "How many of you have studied the 17th chapter of Mark?"

"You are the ones I mean to preach to," declared the clergyman. There is no 17th chapter of Mark."

Bread for sandwiches should be 24 hours old. It should be cut in thin slices, and preferably filled with a chopped filling. If the filling is soft and likely to soak through, butter both sides; otherwise the butter may sometimes be mixed with the filling and the spreading may be done in one operation. Cream the butter until soft enough to spread, but do not melt it as the flavor will be changed.

SIAMESE TWINS TO WED SISTERS

Lucio and Simplicio Godino, 21-year-old Filipino "Siamese twins," announced their intention of marrying Natividad and Victorina Malos, sisters, despite official opposition.

A license clerk's ruling the twins were not single because they were joined together was overruled by the Philippine department of justice and they will be granted a license to marry. The clerk held that they were one individual with a dual personality and that their marriage would result in that one individual having two wives.

The twins are joined at the base of their spines. The tie is flexible and they are able to get around easily, although always back-to-back.

EXPLOSION AT BURNET MILL RELATED IN FRONTIER TIMES

(Reproduced through the courtesy of J. Marvin Hunter, editor of the Frontier Times.)

"The account published below of the terrible explosion, which took place in Burnet almost 50 years ago, is taken from a copy of the Burnet Bulletin published on January 8, 1880. The paper has been preserved by the Blackburn family, and was kindly loaned us for reproduction. Old-timers in Burnet County will recall the incident with startling distinctness, and will read the article with great interest, as will also many of our younger readers, who have heard their parents speak of this terrible tragedy. The writer can remember distinctly when many of the heavy pieces of iron thrown by the explosion were still scattered about near the mill.—Ed. Bulletin.)

As stated in our last issue, we stopped the press to give bare mention of the terrible calamity that befell the "Burnet Meal and Flouring Mills" on last Thursday. It now becomes our painful duty to furnish the horrid details as far as may be, to account, if possible for the incident, and to allude more especially to the three unfortunate souls that were hurled into eternity without a moment's warning.

It appears that Mr. John Smart, senior proprietor and manager of the Mills, was sick in bed the morning of the explosion, and his duties were divided between his aged father and his younger brother—the father acting outside as fireman, the brother engaged inside the house at the hoppers and smutters, and up-stairs at the bolting chest. Mr. Bryce Smart, Sr., fired up very early, in order to get through a large job of grinding by noon—100 bushels of wheat, we understand, and an order for 1,000 lbs. of flour from Messrs. Westfall, Watson & Co. Under the hurry of the unusual strain, it is supposed he neglected to observe the steam-gauge, or placed too much confidence in the strength of the boiler. And having, besides, little or no knowledge of the dangers of steam, in connection with a boiler to which he was unaccustomed, (it was a "Locomotive") it is reasonably surmised that the boiler must have taken on three or four hundred pounds of steam, and produced the disaster. What added to the risk, too, the safety valve allowed only about half an inch vent, and steam was generated on the fatal morning with cedar wood, which, is known, makes an intense heat and very rapid.

The explosion occurred about 9 o'clock, and the boiler was torn literally into shreds—showing, according to the opinion of experts, that it must have been a first-class specimen. Pieces of sheet-iron, steam-pipes, bolts, fractured casting, flew in every direction, and almost littered the ground toward the north. About 5,000 pounds of the boiler flew in that direction, ricocheted twice, plowing the ground ten or twelve feet in two places, like a shell, and finally stopped at least 150 yards from the mill. The steam-gauge was found across Hamilton creek. The bolts of pieces of the boiler appeared wrenched out like tacks from a shoe, and the general color of every part a dead, grayish hue—showing the action of intense heat.

Six men and a boy were in and about the scene at the time of the explosion—four inside the house and up-stairs. Had it been fair weather that invited visitors, the casualties might have been trebled.

Mr. Bryce Smart, Sr., was standing close to the boiler, and was driven into a stack of wood, his body horribly mangled. It had to be uncovered. All the head was gone except the venerable beard. The chest appeared torn open, and the writer saw his grief-stricken son pick up his bleeding heart lying yet warm upon the ground. It was a pitiful, dreadful sight, and brought tears to many eyes unused to weeping. The old man's tongue and a part of his skull were found in the adjoining field fifty yards away. His remains were taken to his home in Williamson County for burial. He was some 62 years old, and universally esteemed as an honorable man, a good citizen and an humble member of the Christian Church.

Mr. H. H. Hall was standing at the engine, replacing a belt upon one of the wheels—the machinery not running at the time. A hundred-pound fragment of the boiler cut both legs off and broke several large wheels before it stopped. One leg of the unfortunate man was found driven under the hopper, the other lay by the smutter. When assistance came he was lying on the ground, an awful sight, bleeding copiously, and suffering untold agony. And yet when asked what could be done for him, this hero in a rough garb managed to mutter: "Never mind me—look after the rest."

Coming from one known to fame, such sublime self-denial would immortalize the author of it as worthy Sir Sidney Smith, himself. All that was possible was done by the physicians and citizens, but he was too far gone from loss of blood, and breathed his last about dark. Before death came, however, he spoke of his wife and children, asked if Mr. Smart was hurt much, requested prayer of someone, and when Rev. Mr. Aaron gratified him in fervent, solemn petition to God, the dying man breathed a deep "Amen," and passed gradually into a comatose state. Mr. Hall was about 45 years of age and left a wife and four or five children, who, we are glad to learn, have some property left them.

Johnny Blackburn, about 13 years old, was on an errand of charity at the request of his heartbroken mother, and passing on his way by the mills, lingered at the engine a moment, when death came upon him. Some part of the boiler cut his skull open on the right side, from which he remained unconscious until 3 o'clock next morning when his young spirit passed away. It is said the little fellow showed a great fondness for machinery and it was this taste that indirectly caused his untimely death.

The explosion was heard from six to eight miles away. Messrs. Smart, Avery, Lamberston and Clapp were up-stairs at the time but escaped uninjured. The steam filled the room and hurled a window sash to the ground. Mr. Avery is of the opinion that the boiler must have been at white heat with several hundred pounds of steam; it was warranted for 150. Mr. Smith, the wheelwright, is of the same opinion.

The remains of Johnny Blackburn and Mr. Hall were followed to the cemetery last Friday

"JUNCTION TO GET AIRPORT"—BAKER

Hon. Weaver Baker was over from Junction the latter part of last week transacting legal business. Mr. Baker tells us that Junction is in fair way to secure an airport, as the citizenship there is enthused and he would not be surprised to see this move culminated in a short time.

The people of that section are making a determined effort for a railroad, says Mr. Baker, and had a meeting last Thursday night, on a proposition for a railroad that is being promoted from Corpus Christi westward, and touching Kimble County.

Mr. Baker tells us that Kimble County will turn out in numbers at the meeting of the Texas Angora Goat Raisers' Association, to be held in Rock-springs July 23, 24 and 25, and says that Hon. Coke R. Stevenson will more than likely address the gathering on one day, at which time he will go into matters that we are all interested in that surround the political arena at Austin.

Maybe Coke will tell us how he lost the chance for speaker of the house by serving the interests of West Texas in his fight for Commissioner Robinson. But here was illustrated a repetition of that old saying, "I had rather be right than governor," Coke stuck to an honest, honorable gentleman who has served us well, and we all know that all of West Texas love Stevenson for his acts.—Rock-springs Record.

THE LAST LONGHORN

(Reproduced through the courtesy of J. Marvin Hunter, editor of the Frontier Times.)
They answered well their purpose
But their glory must fade and go
Because men say there's better things
In the modern cattle show."

Thus runs the old song. The cattle which made Texas famous are now curiosities. Occasionally one finds an old timer hiding out in the brush which lines the banks of the Rio Grande. Fierce and untamed ready to do combat with any hardy soul who dares approach him, he remains a symbol of the Texas that was and will never be again.

Prof. J. Frank Dobie of the University of Texas suggests that the Lone Star State should provide a natural park where the last longhorn could spend his declining years in peace. And a museum where his tough hide could remain on exhibition after his wild, free spirit had fled. Professor Dobie remarked that before the plow of civilization there was in Texas at least the longhorn steer and the cowboy who brought him up in the way he should go, will never be again.

Texas was sparsely settled for years after the war between the states, and the fame of her virgin soil did not spread abroad through the land until after Texans had taken the long trail herds up across the Indians' nation to Abilene and Caldwell and Dodge City. When the cattle buyers from Kansas City and Chicago and points east first saw Texas steers with huge horned heads, they were stirred by irresponsible curiosity to see the land which produced such wonders. And in the succeeding years, our population grew rapidly.

The big ranches are being broken up now, the plow has conquered the branding iron, the Chisholm trail lives only in the memories of the men who steered their course toward Kansas with the aid of the North Star. The prairie is fenced. The long-horned gentry which caused the cowboys many anxious moments "out our way" has followed the buffalo into the dim twilight of the past. They have taken the sunset trail, most of them. Only in Old Mexico are they to be found in herds. One such herd was brought to Houston when a film company made Emerson Hough's "North of Thirty-Six" into an epic of the screen.

But Texas, the state the longhorn once roamed over at will, has few surviving specimens. It worries Prof. Dobie and others. A matter of sentiment, yes. Some of our sportsmen have huge game preserves where they can go and shoot will. Why not a refuge for the last longhorn, a sanctuary where the report of the rifle is not heard, only the click of the cameras as the younger generation photographs an animal whose speed and swiftness in the old days caused grandfather to wear off many pounds of nervous eery?—Houston Chronicle.

NEW EDISON STAMP

Commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of Edison's invention of the incandescent light, a special 2-cent postage stamp will shortly be issued to honor the great inventor. The issue of this stamp is an incident of Light's Golden Jubilee, which is being celebrated in a five months' series of events which will culminate in a great testimonial to Edison to be held in Dearborn, Mich., next October.

The commemorative stamp is of regular size, printed in red, with a picture of the original lamp giving off rays of light, above which are the words: "Edison's first lamp." In the corners appear the dates 1879 and 1929.

When one observes the almost universal use of the incandescent light and other electric appliances which Edison's genius has given to the world, it is difficult to realize that all these modern miracles have been wrought with fifty years, and that the man who made them possible is still living to receive the plaudits of his fellow citizens who enjoy these price-less gifts.

Perhaps no man ever lived to witness the fruition of his labors to such an extent as has Thomas Alva Edison.

Britain is still the world's biggest creditor. Her foreign investments total four thousand millions as against two thousand eight hundred millions of the United States.

It is only those who do not know how to work that do not love it. To those who do it, it is better than play—it is religion.—Patterson.

West Texas Village Plays Its Last Tune

Its postoffice has been demoted to the third class; every week someone moves away; the jail has had only two occupants since Christmas; buildings pitched together five years ago are rattling in the wind—on July 30 the lease by which the residents of this town acquired the right to create the first oil town in West Texas expires, and beyond the promise by the men who have an additional year's lease on the property that "everybody will be treated all right," Best is wondering.

There are vacant buildings on the main street and about some of them there is the forlorn look of a place that has surrendered. The once imposing "turn to the right" sign in the main street is dilapidated, and the hotel is crying for paint and a window pane or so. The red picket fence around the jail is intact but the city hall is dusty and unused.

TESTS TELL TRUTH

Livestock are not necessarily free from disease because they are fat, sleek, and apparently in good health, and it is well to keep newly purchased animals under observation for a few weeks before adding them to the farm herd. Many tuberculous cattle that appear to be in perfect health transmit the disease to other animals. The tuberculin test is the only means of detecting the disease in the early stages. Animals infected with infectious abortion seldom seem to be sick, and the disease can be diagnosed only by blood tests, bacteriological examination, or the act of aborting. Animals that have only mild attacks of diseases may spread infection that causes severe attacks in other animals.

Texas has 8.8 per cent of the total land area of Continental United States.
