Lived A Hermit Amidst Millions

Albert Bruning . . . after a year and a half as a hermit in New York.

NEW YORK, May 7. — Lonely mountain caves and deep forests aren't necessary to the leading of a hermit's life.

Albert Bruning, 26, has been a hermit for a year and a half in America's largest city, within 10 miles of Broadway's glittering lights and teeming millions.

Hardly out of ear-shot of roaring elevated trains, rumbling subways and shrieking taxicabs, he has successfully spurned civilization since the fall of 1929 when he hid himself away in a skimpy woods near Creedmore, in the Borough of Queens.

Surrounded by some of the most famous restaurants in the world, he lived on a diet of milk and stale bread. Within walking distance of Fifth Avenue and Broadway shops, he let his lone pair of trousers go into rags and wrapped his feet in burlap. Barbers he scorned, and his hair and his beard grew accordingly. But he was happy.

He was happy, that is, until the other day when a policeman discovered him in his metropolitan hermitage—an improvised tent—and took him to a suburban station. Albert explained that he had taken up his hermit's life because he had lost his job as a clerk in a chain grocery store and didn't want to be a burden on his sister.

Blue-coated philanthropists went into conference. They decided he needed a decent meal, and providing him with a repast of steak, string beans and potatoes. Albert didn't touch the meat, but even the vegetables proved too much for a stomach grown unaccustomed to a civilized diet.

He became ill and was taken to the Kings County Hospital.

Young "Two-Gun" Desperado Captured

Fierce Battle Waged In City Rooming House

Trapped In Room On Top Floor Of House With Young Girl And Another Man After Long Chase By Officers

Gives Up Only After Being A Victim Of Several Bullets And Use Of Tear Gas Bombs By Detectives

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 7 — Francis "Two-Gun" Crowley, youthful desperado, was captured by police late today in an hour's gun battle during which he was shot several times.

Trapped on the top floor of a rooming house with two companions, Crowley fought it out with police machine gunners. Penned in his room with a girl identified as Helen Walsh, 16, his companion on a motor party in which Patrolman Frederick Hirsch was shot to death Tuesday night, Crowley yielded only after officers had hewn their way through the roof and resorted to tear gas bombs.

Dancer Slayer Held

Rudolph Durlinger, wanted in connection with the killing of Virginia Branner, a taxi-dancer, in Yonkers, N. Y., was captured with Crowley. Police an hour later said Durlinger had confessed it was he who killed the red haired Brannen girl.

Durlinger and the woman companion were not wounded in the exchange of more than 700 shots which threw the up-town Manhattan neighborhood into excitement and attracted a throng of nearly 10,000 spectators.

Taken To Hospital

Crowley, with bullet wounds in his legs, was taken to Bellevue hospital. The girl and Durlinger were taken to police headquarters under heavy guard.

Crowley's capture came after a search which had covered the five boroughs of New York City and every road and lane of Long Island for miles around North Merrick, the

Actual Construction Of Federal Building Starts

Dirt Contract Will Be Awarded Here Today

WITH workmen beginning the task of removing trees from the site, work on Lubbock's $335,000 federal building got underway Thursday. The lines for the building were being surveyed Thursday afternoon.

William MacDonald of the MacDonald Construction company of St. Louis, who has the contract for the building, was on the ground and supervised the starting of the work. Lotus Boos is to be general superintendent of the construction.

Letting Set Today

The dirt contract is to be let today, Mr. MacDonald announced after conferring with construction men, building supplies, salesmen and other interested parties.

With the exception of the superintendent and one or two other men, all labor on the construction work will be given local men, Mr. MacDonald said. Between thirty-five and fifty men will be employed at various times on the work. Four hundred and twenty working days are allowed for completion of the work.

"Myth" Is Removed

Start of the work removes the "myth" about Lubbock's federal building. Postmaster John L. Vaughan pointed out yesterday as he watched the workmen begin the task which will require more than a year to complete. Agitation for the building and federal court was started by citizens and organizations more than sixteen years ago. The bill for the court and building was signed in 1928.

"Lubbock's the livest little town I've ever visited," Mr. MacDonald said after he had just finished a series of conferences with construction men, brick, building, electrical and plumbing supplies salesmen. "I've never seen a more active group of business men."

Mr. MacDonald's company is building three other federal buildings and making improvements on two more in the United States at the present time. New buildings are being erected at White Plains, N. Y., Vermillion, N. D., and Brunswick, Maine, while an addition is

Bee's Sting Is Voice Restorer

(By The Associated Press)

SCRANTON, Pa., May 7.—The sting of a bumble bee is said to have brought back the faculty of speech to Mrs. Alice Collins, 61, Olyphant Borough, who lost her voice 20 years ago through paralysis of the throat.

Mrs. Collins, who was removed to a hospital a month ago, was wheeled out to the lawn of the hospital in the warm sunshine yesterday. Suddenly she screamed.

A nurse found a bee had stung Mrs. Collins, who found her speech had returned.

Investigation Is Delayed By Defiant Woman

Treasurer Of Anti-Smith Campaign Refuses To Testify In Inquiry Of Senate Campaign Funds Body

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON

WASHINGTON, May 7. (AP)—Defied by a woman witness, the senate campaign funds committee was halted abruptly today in its inquiry into the disposition of anti-Smith funds by Bishop James Cannon, jr., in the 1928 campaign.

Miss Ada L. Burroughs of Richmond, Va., the treasurer of the Southern Methodist churchman's anti-Smith organization, left the stand after declining to answer more than a score of questions in the face of a warning of possible prosecution.

Former Case Recalled

Later, Chairman Nye of the committee said "certainly we will have to cite her to the senate for contempt".

Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil operator, was cited for a refusal to testify before a senate committee. He served four months in jail.

To Call Meeting

Senator Nye also said he would call the committee together next week to consider information now before it "which may be found the basis for a report to the senate of a violation of the federal corrupt practices act." During the questioning he said evidence of a violation was available.

Miss Burroughs startled the committee when she said in a mild tone, after reading a prepared statement, that "I most respectfully decline to

Speaker Declares U. S. Fails To Appreciate Duties Incumbent On It As World's Creditor Nation

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Resentment against war debts over the United States and this country's tariff policies flaired forth in sharp speeches today before the International Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Carl Bergmann, former German secretary of state for finance, emphasized the importance of reparations and debts settlements on the international economic structure and described them as having been linked together to all intents and purposes.

Asks Cooperation

He called upon the international chamber to foster with all its power the reconsideration of the settlements.

An attack on the American tariff by Henry Bell, an English banker, was applauded at length. He contended this country had failed to appreciate the duties incumbent upon it in its new position as a creditor nation, concluding "we ask them to rise to the responsibility of their great position."

Misconception Charged

"It is an attitude of one part of the world, if not of more, to be most anxious to sell its goods, but to be very careful that it should not buy anybody else's goods in exchange," he said. "What is hurting the world mostly today is, I think, a misconception on the part of the great nation whose guests we are. They are magnificent hosts, but they are awfully poor customers."

Dr. Bergmann said he had been advised that the debts question was "a matter which had better not be

Waving Flags And Cheering, A Large Number Of Citizens Greet National Guardsmen At Detraining

(By Associated Press)

EVARTS, Ky., May 7. — Waving American flags and cheering loudy, several hundred residents of the strife-torn Evarts coal mining community greeted 325 national guardsmen as they detrained here this afternoon bearing orders to "protect those who behave themselves and take care of those who do not."

The guardsmen, despatched by Governor Flem D. Sampson, after a series of outbreaks during the past few months had brought death to five men and large property damages, came from Harlan where they mobilized this morning.

Addresses Assembly

While the troops were alighting from their special trains made up of day coaches, box car and cabooses, Colonel Dan M. Carrell, in command, addressed an assembly of residents and union miners in the little school house which had been closed because of disorders.

He also told newspapermen he had spent a part of the morning conferring in Harlan with union officials, mine operators and county officers in an effort to find a permanent solution to the economic situation and labor disagreements that heve resulted in hundreds of unemployed miners in the county. He said he would report direct to Governor Sampson on the results of his conferences. Addressing the meeting in the school house Colonel Carrell said, "we are here for the protection of the community with an impartial and unbiased attitude to preserve peace and safety."

Lone Survivor Of "Last Man's Club" Arrives In Capital With A Tiny Bottle Of Last Man's Wine

BY BESS FURMAN

WASHINGTON, May 7. (AP)—Charles Morey Lockwood, 88, last man of the Last Man's club, today viewed Washington for all his departed comrades of Company B, First Minnesota, and got as much kick out of it as he claimed for his little bottle of last man's wine.

"When we camped behind the capitol in '61," was the phrase oftenest on his lips as he reminisced for the 33 whom he survived in the famous company.

Lockwood arrived this morning, carrying in his inside coat pocket a small bottle of the wine which occasioned organization of the Last Man's club in 1884.

Company B, in reunion that year, voted to hold one every year around that wine bottle until only one man was left, and he was to drink the wine.

Lincoln Memorial, Arlington cemetery, the state and war and navy buildings were scenes of his wanderings, and his keen frontiersman eye spotted every Civil War memento a block away.

Numerous Social Affairs Are Being Given In City During Week-End

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

WHETHER or not this means anything, red, white and blue from about the most popular color combination for spring and you can't go wrong in wearing them if you have a sense of combination that will stop short of a red jacket, white blouse and blue skirt. You have to be a little more subtle than that.

Black and white isn't being moved from its seat of honor with fashions, we are told, but the patriotic scheme is simply a runner-up. That followed another announcement which suggested that three colors instead of two are used for costumes this spring.

This reminds me of something I was reading the other day on tests that are constantly carried on by stylists who seek new color combinations. This is one method that is used, you know, to pry us apart from our money. And among the new combinations are brown and pale green, yellow or red brick; dark blue with pale blue or cherry red; black with opaline green and aquamarine; sunlight yellow and cloud grey.

Didn't I learn in some course in design that a color is divided into hues and that the proper selection of hues will make almost any combination possible? That these hues are obtained by neutralizing the primary color, shading it with other colors to form the blue-greens, red purples, orange-yellows and such as that?

We used to think that we couldn't wear some colors, you know, but now we know better. There are hues for everyone if we know what to select and these are found through a trial and error process to a large extent. If there is anything you don't know about colors, I'll be happy to oblige, drawing on this vast knowledge of mine.

THE SERVANT PROBLEM

AN AMERICAN novelist, Grace Perkins, who is the author of "Personal Maid," has given some interesting sidelights on the servant problem. She got her inforamtion by arranging with the proprietor of an employment agency in New York to be permitted to sit in his waiting-room and pose as a maid looking for work. Here she heard hundreds of tales from servants who were only too willing to talk while sitting around looking for work. As the place catered to New York's wealthy, the novelist received some strange impressions of the characteristics of rich American men and women.

The composite mistress she learned of is a faithful but indifferent wife, talks too much, is easily fooled by her maid, worships the dressing table and looking glass, is interested almost entirely in personalities, is a doting but incompetent mother. The master of the house is a misty sort of individual dominated by his wife, perpetually frowning, physically attractive and ignorant of a servant's existence.

She suggests that most American women have not the slightest idea of how to get along with servants because they either treat them as they would beasts of burden or else go to the other extreme and make bosom companions out of them. She proposes, too, some rules designed to make harmony: don't talk too much to your maid; give her reasonable hours and a day off; treat her as you would a subordinate in a business office and don't tell her how efficient her predecessor was.

This experience was among maids of the rich in New York, of course, but most men and women are a lot alike. If it were not so we in Lubbock would not be hearing from Mrs. Jones' cook the scandals of the household or from Mrs. Smith's maid concerning the family skeletons. And plenty of news and gossip get started by this route.

A DIFFERENT METHOD

STYLES in figures for women may not change so much, after all. Perhaps it is simply the method of getting a figure that changes.

Some time this winter one of the leading stores in Washington celebrated its 70th anniversary and had a group of girl models to parade in gowns of the Civil War period. It was found that the 1931 girls could wear the tight-waisted dresses of 1861 without corsets of their grandmothers' day and that the lines of those gowns varied little from the fashionable ones today. Modern athletics was credited with giving today's young woman the slim, trim waist that fits easily into the whalebone old-fashioned basque.

The affair was in the Murdough home at 2317 18th street and twelve guests were present. The luncheon was informal.

This is one of a series of parties which is being given to honor Miss Stafford and Mrs. Mahoney.

State Medical Group Chooses Amarillo For 1932 Host City

Dr. John H. Foster, Of Houston, Is Named President Of Body In Closing Session At Beaumont

BEAUMONT, May 7. (AP)—Amarillo was selected as the 1932 meeting place by the house of delegates of the State Medical association today, just before noon, and Dr. John H. Foster of Houston was named president-elect. Fort Worth was the only other city seeking the 1932 meeting.

Dr. J. W. E. H. Beck of De Kalb, Red River county state senator and surgeon, was nominated for president-elect but withdrew in favor of Dr. Foster before the ballots were cast.

During the business session the convention voted to refer to the council on scientific work for final action a motion recommending sex instruction be provided in public schools.

Sterilization of mentally defective persons also was discussed but the matter was referred to the committee on the care and treatment of mental illnesses.

A resolution was adopted urging the public to seek scientific advice for guidance in matters of patented health foods, which the doctors asserted were flooding the market. Speakers who made up the house of delegates condemned these patented foods, on behalf of organized medical men in the state.

A message of sympathy and condolence also was authorized to be sent from the association to Dr. S. P. Brooks of Waco, president of Baylor university, who was reported as being seriously ill.

Bids for the 1932 convention were placed by Fort Worth, Waco, Luffkin, San Angelo and Galveston but the majority was for the Panhandle city when votes were counted.

Other officers elected at the morning session included:

Dr. E. H. Harris, Fort Worth; Dr. A. C. De Long, San Angelo; and Dr. J. W. Torbett, Marlin, vice presidents of equal rank; Dr. Holman Taylor, Fort Worth, secretary, re-elected; Dr. K. H. Beall, Fort Worth, treasurer, re-elected; Dr. G. E. Vinyard, councilor of the third district, re-elected; Dr. John H. Burleson, San Antonio, councilor of the fifth district, re-elected; Dr. C. P. Yeager, Corpus Christi, councilor of the sixth district, re-elected; Dr. H. R. Dudgeon, Waco, councilor of the twelfth district, and Dr. Preston Hunt, Texarkana, councilor of the fifteenth district.

The following delegates to the convention of the American Medical association were chosen: Dr. Holman Taylor, Fort Worth, and Dr. Felix P. Miller, El Paso, with the following as alternates: Dr. R. B. Anderson, Fort Worth, and Dr. W. D. Jones, Dallas; Dr. John Burns, Cuero, and Dr. C. A. Gray, Bonham.

Dr. W. D. Jones was elected a member of the council of medical defense and Dr. J. E. Robinson, Temple, was chosen a member of the council of scientific work. Dr. H. W. Cummings, Hearne, was chosen a member of the committee on legislation.

Honorary life memberships also were voted to a large number of members of the state association of medical men, some of whom have been members of the association more than a quarter of a century. The list included Dr. W. F. West, Ellis county; Dr. Gabriel B. Beaumont, Coleman county; Dr. A. R. Jarrott and Dr. J. B. Gordon, both of the Erath-Somerville counties territory.

Royal Couple Touring By Airplane

Princess Ileana Of Rumania And Archduke Anton, Austria, Have Mutual Fascination For Aviation; To Be Married

(By The Associated Press)

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 7.—Princess Ileana of Rumania and Archduke Anton of Austria, principals in a romance of the air, are touring Germany by air plane.

After their bethrothal ceremony Monday night in Umkirch castle, they took off from Freiburg, Germany in the Archduke's plane yesterday.

A mutual fascination for aviation was said to have been cupid's weapon in the case of Ileana and Anton. They met at Umkirch castle at Easter time and improved their acquaintance by daily flights about the country side. A similar delight on both their parts for motorcycling and Skiing cemented the attachment.

It is likely that the archduke will make an aviator of the princess. In addition to being an accomplished flier and plane engineer, he is a keen instructor of flying and has already given "wings" to 25 persons.

Hundreds of messages of congratulation are pouring in here from commoner and aristocrat. The princess is highly regarded throughout Rumania for her philanthropy and personal effort in behalf of such institutions as the Y. W. C. A. and the Girl Guides.

Details of their scheduled marriage for June have not yet been worked out but it is expected the ceremony will bring a notable gathering of royalty and nobility here.

Woman Is Hurt After Falling

Mystery Surrounds Life Of A Young Employe Of Hospital After Injury Which Doctors Believe Fatal

EASTLAND, May 7. (AP)—A young woman giving the name of Miss June Arnold of Patterson, N. J., was in a critical condition in a hospital here today from a head injury suffered when she struck her head on a sink while working in the kitchen at the hospital. Attending physicians held little hope for her recovery.

She applied to the superintendent of the hospital yesterday for work, saying she had received training as a nurse. She was given temporary work in the kitchen. She stooped to pick up a dish cloth and as she straightened up, struck the back of her head against a sink, the blow knocking her unconscious. She has been rational only at times since then.

During brief rational moments she told hospital attendants and officers that her father, George Edward Arnold, formerly was professor of biology in Columbia university and that he died in 1925, the year she was graduated from a Patterson, N. J., high school. she said her mother was dead and an only brother was killed in the World War. She wore a Masonic ring she said had belonged to her father. Donald Douglas of Akron, Ohio, she said was her guardian but she did not know his address.

The woman told of having inherited money from her father's estate but spent it. At the time of her injury here she had only 25 cents in her purse. She said she left Patterson for California last spring in her car but it was stolen in a small town near San Francisco last September. She left California several months ago, hitch-hiking across the country. In her purse were names of people in California and Big Spring, Texas.

Inheritance Taxes Sought From Estate Of T. B. Slick

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 7. (AP)—Melven Cornish, chairman of the Oklahoma tax commission, announced today an affidavit was found which is expected to play a prominent part in the collection of inheritance taxes from the T. B. Slick estate, variously estimated at from $10,000,000 to $50,000,000.

The affidavit was found by Bert Hodges, tax ferret, and purports to state Slick was a resident of Oklahoma county, Cornish said.

Heirs of Slicks, oil man known as the "king of wildcatters," have contended he maintained his official residence in Clarion, Pa., Cornish said, adding that Oklahoma officials have been balked in collection of inheritance taxes by claims of Pennsylvania authorities.

Princess Helena On Her Way To Belgrade; Mystery Felt

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 7. (AP)—Princess Helena was on her way to Belgrade, capital of Jugo-slavia, today, leaving behind her a wave of speculation concerning her future relations with King Carol.

The princess left last night, accompanied by a lady-in-waiting. Former King George of Greece, her brother, escorted her to the station. The duration of her stay abroad was not announced.

Her departure caused great surprise here. It was attributed in some quarters to the meeting between King Carol and King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia on the Danube several days ago. The fact that Crown Prince Michael still is convalescent from an attack of diptheria and that she herself was indisposed from caring for him only added to the general mystification.

SENATOR NAMED

AUSTIN, May 7. (AP) — Senators Woodul of Houston, Rawlings of Fort Worth, Martin of Hillsboro, Williamson of San Antonio and Woodward of Coleman were named today as senate free conferees to work with a house free conference committee on two truck regulatory bills. The house yesterday refused to concur in senate amendments to the two truck control bills. Both originated in the house.

Snowden Bill Gets Approval

To Determine By Series Parliamentary Steps Whether It Becomes Law; Opposition Is Very Small

LONDON, May 7. (AP)—The house of commons was on record today as approving Chancellor Phillp Snowden's land tax resolution but will determine by a series of parliamentary steps whether it becomes law.

The resolution providing for a levy of a penny a pound on land values, starting in 1933 was adopted by a vote of 289 to 230 last night. Former Prime Minister David Lloyd George swung the liberal strength behind the plan.

The measure is now in the "report stage" during which amendments will be considered and proposals discussed for framing the completed bill. After this, the completed bill will be brought up for first reading.

Neither in conservative ranks or in the party press has any str :g opposition to the measure been expressed yet but this is likely to ensue when the text is available. Indications are that one of the main lines of attack will be on the ground of public economy, critics having declared that the plan is extravagant.

PERMIT ISSUED

Erection of a frame-stucco filling station and store at 510 Avenue J by H. L. Gowin at a cost of $800 was authorized at the city building inspector's office this morning. The permit was the fifth of the week, sixth of the month, and sixty-sixth of the year. Authorizations in those periods represented valuations of $3,050, and $3,327 and $223, 932, respectively.

Mr. Dobie's Suggestion

SCATTERED throughout Texas—in West Texas as well as in other sections of our state—are numerous points of historical interest. In many instances broad highways traverse these points or skirt them, only shortly removed from a historic shrine. Yet in a few instances has the State of Texas seen fit to mark their locations and, as a result, thousands of tourists drive across the state and unknowingly pass by points which mark the glory of past years.

The Morning Avalanche believes Texas has a history which should be given the widest possible dissemination. Few, if any states of the union have as many points of interest within their borders. Certainly Texas reigns supreme in the broad Southwestern country, which is yearly attracting more tourists who come to see and learn, as well as to rest. Proud of the state's history, proud of their heritage, Texans should do what they can to let the world know about the Texas of yesterday so it may better appreciate the Texas of today and tomorrow. Making our historical points available to our visitors—calling them to their attention as they traverse our state—is a good way to accomplish the job.

In a letter to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, received here yesterday, J. Frank Dobie, probably the greatest of Texas' present literary greats, voices an idea along this line. In urging that the WTCC, together with the other regional bodies of the state request the Texas Highway department to mark points of interest, Mr. Dobie declares:

"Few of the rivers and creeks of the state are marked. I recall how disappointed I was when I crossed the Double Mountain Forks and did not know I had crossed it until two or three hours later. There are plenty of highway signs to tell us where to stop in some villages, but there are few signs to inform the intelligent tourists concerning the natural features of the land they are traversing. There should be markers at some point directing attention to mountains. On the El Paso road, running from San Angelo, one passes very near old Fort Lancaster, just east of the Pecos river, but unless the traveler is already informed, he will never know that he is within a thousand miles of this exceedingly interesting point. There should be a marker directing him to the spot and calling his attention to its existence. In Pennsylvania, Virginia and various other states the highways are distinguished by such evidences of historical interest."

In our opinion the project could easily be added to those of the West, South and East Texas Chamber of Commerce for the coming year—and good accomplished along the lines suggested by the famous author.

WHAT: NO AIR?

American homes and business quarters have the reputation of being the best and most scientifically ventilated in the world. Europeans shudder at the thought of the American practice of sleeping in bedrooms with the windows wide open even in the dead of winter.

In the face of these world-renowned traditions an eminent Swiss physician comes out with the startling claim that "Americans are so opposed to fresh air, it is a miracle they do not die of suffocation."

He was serious, even grave, but he was referring to suffocating clothing, not to suffocating rooms.

Doctor K. Rohr, as a member of a party of visiting foreign physicians, observed that masculine America is overdressed from the viewpoint of health. He would have the men discard collars, vests and some underclothing, and cut off their trousers two inches above the knees after the fashion of the Swiss yodeler. He even goes farther to predict the coming to pass of this sartorial revolution.

Europe has carried the sun-and-fresh-air movement farther than it has gone in the United States, although the American people in greatly increasing numbers are going in for swimming, beach-lounging and scantier swimming attire. Public bathing is natural has not, however, gained a footing on American soil.

If Doctor Rohr thinks the 1931 American suffocating under too much clothing, what would he have thought of his forebears before red flannels were discarded and summer-weight clothing was introduced?

Culture doesn't guarantee success. Many a polished man has a dull finish.

Practical Health Problems

WATER ESSENTIAL TO LIFE

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN,
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

A person can go without food for many days, living on the reserve in his body. He cannot go long without water, because water is second only to oxygen, which is the main substance secured by respiration.

As an essential substance in human economy, water is the universal solvent. As a constituent of the blood it carries nutritive substances to the cells, it carries away waste products and aids their elimination through the kidney and the bowels.

None of the chemical changes that take place without water. When water is taken into the body by the mouth, it passes through the stomach and is absorbed largely in the small and large intestines. It leaves the body by way of the kidneys primarily, but also through the lungs, the skin and the bowels.

Water is not important in the nutrition of the body, except as it concerns the handling of other substances. The amount of water taken in is fairly well balanced with the amount of water that passes out. There is at the same time a definite reserve of water constantly in the body. When large amounts of water are taken, the output increases. If for some reason the output increases and the intake decreases, dehydration rapidly occurs.

Two investigators analyzed water intake and output with a view to balancing the ledger. They found that the water intake includes about 300 grams taken in the form of drinking water, 880 taken as coffee, milk or slop, and 720 in the form of water from solid foods.

By means of oxidation of protein, fat and carbohydrate, an additional 396 grams is supplied, making a total of 1894 grams of water intake. The output includes 780 grams by way of the kidneys, 300 by the bowels, and 700 vaporized through the skin and by breathing. This would leave a water balance in the body of 144 grams.

Foodstuffs vary in the amount of water that they contain. Cucumber, tomato, or watermelon will run high in water content, as much indeed as 90 to 95 per cent.

There are, of course, conditions in which the major part of the water is not lost by the kidney but through the skin. A normal output of fluid from the kidney may vary from a pint to three quarts a day. The moment the water supply is reduced too greatly unfavorable reactions appear. It is of the greatest importance to realize that unconscious patients do not get enough water, and that absence is followed by great distress. In such cases a sufficient supply of water is of more importance than food and medicine.

A sick person confined to bed will not ordinarily take enough water. It is important to have fluid constantly at the bedside in the ordinary case of illness, particularly when there is fever, and to see to it that enough fluid is taken to supply the demand.

Cancellation No Cure

BY CHARLES P. STEWART,
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 7.—This year's meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce (May 4-9, in Washington) furnishes European financiers with a better opportunity than usual to harp effectively upon the urgency of war debt cancellation—meaning cancellation of the old world powers' 12 billions in obligations to this country.

Senator Wm. H. King

It is a better opportunity than usual because of the hard times.

The argument of European nations is that the constant drain of repaying some of the money that they borrowed here is keeping their various peoples too poor to have anything to spend on new goods, with resulting trade demoralization everywhere—in America as well as abroad.

European financiers are not the only ones who contend that war debt cancellation or sharp reduction would immediately be followed by an international business revival, or who doubt whether much of a revival can be accomplished by any other method.

American bankers whose dealings are largely in foreign money markets quite generally express the same opinion.

Several of the greatest among America's industrial leaders agree with them. President W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania railroad, for example, recently attracted widespread attention by his speech before the Bond club of Philadelphia emphasizing the necessity, as he put it, of "correcting the war debt situation"—which the press, with practical unanimity and on denial from Mr. Atterbury, has interpreted as a plea for cancellation or "sharp reduction."

BUT—

"No one can convince me," says Senator Robert B. Howell of Omaha, "that any concern ever stayed long out of the 'red' by following a policy of cancelling huge sums, due to it from its customers, in order to keep its custom.

"I can understand," admitted the Nebraskan, "that a few individual American interests, which floated America's original loans in Europe at a profit to themselves, may see a chance to gain addition profits by floating fresh European loans now, if they can make fresh ones possible by having the earlier indebtedness wiped off the slate.

"However, even though the European nations be forgiven their war time borrowings here, the bonds given to raise the sums which were sent to them still will remain outstanding. Someone will have to pay interest and principal on them. And who will that be but Americans generally! True, the few Americans who hope to profit from new loans are included among Americans in general, but they are only about 10 per cent of our total number, with 90 per cent of our total wealth. Besides, they will be getting their fresh profits, plus their profits on the wartime loans. They can afford to bear their small share of the American cost of cancellation. The average American is not so fortunate."

"SHARP REDUCTION"—

"Sharp reduction" was an expression employed by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor in a talk before the Harvard Business School club at Cambridge, advocating war debt concessions to Europe—cancellation or "sharp reduction," he said.

"Sharp reduction," observed Senator Howell, "is just as much at the American public's expense as cancelation. That is to say, we pay the bill—minus only whatever difference there may be between reduction and cancellation.

"We have made some pretty sharp reductions already.

"Our war debt settlements are so involved in actuarial calculations that I feel sure not many folk, either here or abroad, are at all accurately acquainted with them.

"Averaging them all, the terms, as they stand today, are these:

"For 62 years Europe is to pay to us approximately 2.7 per cent interest on an indebtedness upon which, for the same 62 years, we must pay 4 per cent. At the end of the 62 years the principal of the entire sum—the whole 12 billions—which Europe borrowed in America is cancelled."

CRIME STATISTICS

Accurate diagnosis is half the cure, the Wickersham commission has found, applies to social diseases as well as to physical and mental disorders. It has finally concluded that society cannot treat crime intelligently and effectively until it compiles an accurate and complete index of crime. All, including the police have been doing too much generalizing, drawing conclusions and "talking through the hat."

The Association of Police Chiefs is bridging the gap met and lamented by the Wickersham commission in its survey. Its crime statistics bureau eventually will have the information the commission wanted but found unavailable.

There is need for state legislation setting up machinery to compile crime statistics as comprehensive as the vital statistics most states now gather. When this need has been met the federal census bureau will take over the work now being performed by the police chiefs for the public benefit.

Crime conditions in the United States are grave, but the commission is convinced that they have been exaggerated by those who would have the people think a crisis is at hand. It cautions the authorities and the public against drawing hasty conclusions from inaccurate information. Such conclusions and generalizations result needlessly either in hysteria or apathy.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

A PLANE CAN CLIMB TWO MILES AND DESCEND IN FIVE MINUTES:

These remarkable small, sturdy fighting planes were recently built by the Boeing Air Transport Company for the United States Army and Navy forces. In pre-delivery tests it was found that they could climb to an altitude of over 10,000 feet and descend to earth again in five minutes. In descending they were pulled out of a two-mile vertical power dive at a speed of more than 350 miles per hour, zooming abruptly back into the sky. The strength of the wings is illustrated by the fact that the ribs support 100 pounds for each of their own weight.

GILDED PLATINUM WAS SOLD AS GOLD:

In 1774 solid platinum ingots, superficially gilded, were passed off as gold bricks on some Hollanders on the South American coast. For this "deception" the enraged Dutch settlers summarily revenged themselves by equipping an expedition to the coast, which seized the "offending" Spaniards and strung them up on the yardarms of the Dutch ships.

When platinum was first discovered it was ridiculously cheap. Its very name (literally "little silver") is an indication of its original low value.

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY • by MILES BURTON

CHAPTER 36

"Good man!" exclaimed Sir Edric. "It was a pretty long shot, sending for you like that, but it came off, after all. That establishes one thing, at least, that the robbery was carried out by the gang you got in touch with. Since they put you in touch with the Funny Toff, it is almost certain that he was at the bottom of it. If we can only trace the lorry of the driver, we shall be on his tracks."

"Yes," replied Dick doubtfully. "That's true enough as far as it goes, but, from our experience of the Funny Toff, it's pretty safe to guess that he has taken precautions against the lorry or the man being traced. I shouldn't wonder if the next thing you found wasn't the wretched man's body. He seems to have a short way with anybody who's likely to give him away. Besides, time's getting on. This happened yesterday morning, you tell me?"

"I know," agreed Sir Edric. "I am hoping every moment that we may hear something."

"There is nothing to prevent your hoping, I suppose," remarked Dick. "But I tell you what, Conway: I'm immensely interested in that lorry. It's all Lombard Street to a China orange that it is the one from which Inspector Brooks' body was thrown out. I don't suppose that the Funny Toff keeps a fleet of them."

"I expect that you're right," replied Sir Edric. "But I don't see that that helps us much. The constable at Brentbridge said that he wouldn't recognize the lorry that passed him. He was too much dazzled by its headlights to get a good look at it. We don't know where the Brentbridge lorry came from, nor where it went to."

"It's a pretty safe guess that it changed its number somewhere on the road, and went to Ely Street, where its driver locked it up all safe and comfy," said Dick. "As to where it came from, that's a different matter. But at the moment, as I quite realize, the interesting question is where it is now."

He lay back in his chair, and sat for a few moments gazing at the ceiling and whistling softly. Sir Edric bore it for as long as he could. And then at last "I wish to heaven you'd stop that noise, Dick," he said irritably. "If you've nothing further to suggest, you can clear out. I'm busy."

"That's your trouble, Conway," replied Dick agreeably. "You and all your underlings are always too busy to think. Pass me that Whitaker's Almanack on your desk, will you?"

Sir Edric handed it to him, and he turned over the leaves until he found the information which he sought. Then, with an ingratiating smile, he turned once more to Sir Edric. "Look here," he said. "You dragged me up to town, and now, if you want to get rid of me, you'll have to pay for the privilege. I feel like a little motoring this afternoon. Have you got a car, a very obvious police car, with a comparatively intelligent driver, that you can put at my disposal?"

"What the duce do you mean?" asked Sir Edric. "Do you suppose that the Government maintain expensive cars for the disreputable acquaintances of Assistant Commissioners of Police to go joy-riding in?"

"I don't want to go joy-riding," replied Dick. "If I did I'd take my own car, which your minions so thoughtfully kept an eye on in St. James' Square the other morning. It's a better bus than anything you've got, but unfortunately it seems a bit too familiar to the Funny Toff. The fact is, I've got an idea, and I'd just love to score one up on Pollard."

"Verry well," said Sir Edric hesitatingly. "I suppose you can have a car. But none of your Sherlock Homes stunts, mind."

"I give you my word that I am only going to look for something, which I probably shan't find," replied Dick. "If I do find it, I won't touch it, but I'll come straight back and let you know. Now I'm going out to get some lunch. I'll be back soon after two, if you will have the car waiting for me."

As Dick lunched it seemed to him that his idea was remarkably far-fetched. Yet, while the Assistant Commissioner had been talking to him, he tried to put himself in the place of the brain that had organized the robbery. The lorry was bound to leave, with the safes loaded upon it, and the men who had carried out the coup hidden under the tarpaulin, at its usual hour, if it was to escape attention. Now, what would the next move be? The nat-

BIG SPRING, May 7.—A general mass meeting was held by the citizens of Big Spring here last night to discuss a city hall, fire station and public auditorium with a seating capacity of 1,200 to 1,500 people. After the building is erected additional fire equipment can be purchased which will enable the city to get a reduction of three to five cents in its fire key rate.

Sketches and drawing were submitted on the $300,000 proposed structure.

The Philippines have appropriated $8,000,000 for highway improvement.

BEST DRESSED GOLFER

Title of "Best Dressed golfer of Post," which has been vacant since George E. "Go Easy" McPherson moved to Lubbock several months ago, was awarded "Little Eddie" Warren Friday after the stiffest competition seen on a golf course in the county seat of Garza county. Decision was not rendered until the former title holder had to make a special trip from Lubbock to decide on his successor. The contest had narrowed down to a fight between Arnold Dalby, one of the popular young business men of Post and the fighting editor. Both men were dressed in almost identical costumes. It was reported that the decision was made on the choice of the plaid for the golf knickers and sox.

The E. L. Chapman-Tilford Hunt Number 1 was drilling at 3,100 feet and the W. W. Wheeler-Parmley No. 1 was drilling at 3,110 feet with strong gas pressure and a slight showing of oil. The Darwin Bendemun-Cronkrite No. 1 was at 3,100 feet. Three other wells had suspended drilling operations for this week.

Nine blocks had been made for tests to be started within a month, three other tests were planned to be spudded in within ten days and a contract was signed today to drill on a block six miles west of town, to be started within 15 days.

Heavyweight War May Break Today In Federal Room

NEW YORK, May 7. (AP)—A boxing problem that may flare into a war between two of the strongest organizations in the game will be laid before the judiciary in federal court here tomorrow morning.

Risking the most severe penalties the New York State Athletic commission can mete out, Madison Square Garden of Illinois will ask for a federal injunction restraining Primo Carnera from Fighting Jack Sharkey under the proomtion of Jimmy Johnston at Ebbets Field June 10. Affidavits for both sides, one of them of deep significance to the commission, have been filed.

The Garden of Illinois claims a contract calling for exclusive right to Carnera's services up to September Carnera, in his answer filed yesterday, claimed the contract fradulent, inquitablt, and entered into by the Illinois Garden as a subterfuge.

See's affidavit officially linker Carey and the New York Garden for the first time with the Illinois Garden, a connectioh Carey has stoutly denied since the New York commission suspended Max Schmeling, stripped him of recognition as heavyweight champion, and ordered the New York Garden to have no dealings with him. Carnera also was under suspension at that time and Stribling has been suspended since.

Avalanche-Journal Team Is Winner Over Rainbow Club

The Avalanche-Journal baseball team, members of the City League, won a practice game over the Rainbow club, another City League member, by a score of 9 to 6 yesterday afternoon. Capps, Avalanche-Journal southpaw, pitched a neat brand of ball and his mates were on their toes all the way.

The teams, with four others, will begin the regular Lubbock City League season on May 19.

Night Baseball Contest On Texas Tech Field Tonigh

Alexander May Hurl For Long Whiskered Men

First Night Baseball Game In Lubbock Scheduled For 8:30 Tonight On Tech Field With College vs. Whiskers

Featuring baseball under electric lights, the pitching of one Grover Cleveland Alexander, and long hair and whiskers, the House of David baseball club from Benton Harbor, Michigan, are slated to appear for the first time before Lubbock and South Plains fans, tonight at the Texas Tech field.

The "most famous independent traveling baseball unit in the world" will be pitted against a crack team of college boys, supplemented in spots by well known Lubbock and South Plains diamond-men, in the biggest baseball attraction for this territory since the booming days of the old West Texas League, and "Crip" Golightly, manager and coach of the local team, known as the Lubbock Meteors, promises fandom that the long bearded boys from the Great Lakes region will not take more than their share of the "spotlights" this evening. He has developed a first class amateur team to meet the semi-pros of whiskers.

Bound together by religious traditions and beliefs handed down by the late "King" Benjamin Purnell which prohibits them from trimming their beards and shearing their hair, otherwise having nothing to do with tonsorial parlors, the House of David players bring something new in the way of athletic entertainment to these parts. This season they are using an expensive lighting plant, a portable affair, which has successfully illuminated many of the National and American League parks as well as nearly all of the Texas League fields, and for the first time they have with them as manager and moundsman Grover Cleveland Alexander, one of the "immortal trio" of major league pitchers. Alexander has promised to take the mound against the local club.

That local club promises to be no set up for the visitors. Coach Golightly announces as a probable lineup some of the best ball players of this section, among them and making up the major part, Tech college men who would undoubtedly be on the Matador baseball club if such existed. With an outfield consisting of "Evo" Marshall, former Texas Tech star; Buddy Brothers, the "one-handed wonder" whose name is almost a byword with Tech athletic fans, and Ed Hambright, Speed Moffett, and Harold Crites, and Ernest Dowell ready to cover the other outer garden patrol, that part of the lineup is taken care of. The infield probably will find White of Lamesa on first, "Dirty" Waller at second, Lawrence France at short and "Red" Gaither at third. "Big" Galey will undertake the back stopping job and the hurling probably will be divided between Hopper of Tech, Hoyle of Wolffarth and Davidson of Lubbock.

Not only does Grover Alexander bring with the House of David club the only portable light plant capable of lighting a ball park so that details of night games may be seen, but comes also some of the best all-round ball players outside the major leagues. Heckman, star first sacker, is "the Babe Ruth of the club. Last season he hit .421, and home runs are common with him. Williams, Faust and Harrison complete a first class infield. Moore, Hipp and La Fluer do the garden work. Alexander has been named to pitch, with Tolles and Kimpling ready for relief work. Bleiding is the catcher.

Part of the proceeds of tonight's game goes toward furnishing the varsity men's club room at the Tech gymnasium. Students who present student activity books will be admitted for 50 cents, otherwise the general admission charge is 75 cents. The game will be played on that part of the Tech campus west of the football field. A limited number of parking spaces near the sidelines will be available at a small additional cost, Coach Golightly announced yesterday.

Will Rogers To Stage Show For Arizona U. Polo Team

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 7. (AP)—Will Rogers is going to see to it that the University of Arizona crack polo team gets its chance in the intercollegiate tourney at Long Island in June.

Unable to ship their own ponies east because of the expense, the Arizona quartet entered the meet with the plan of using eastern mounts. Because of this their entry was denied.

Rogers, whose first love is polo, being a two handicap player, will leave today for Tucson, where he will stage a charity show, the proceeds to go toward financing the Arizona university.

HENDRICK TO REDS

NEW YORK, May 7. (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers today announced the sale of Harvey Hendrick, reserve outfielder, to the Cincinnati Reds. Hendrick will report to the Reds at Boston Saturday. The transaction was on a strictly cash basis, the Dodger management said.

Old Pete Appears Here Tonight

Several Lubbock fans have seen the above gentlemen before, but not as members of the same baseball club. Grover Cleveland Alexander, with the golf stick, for 20 years a star pitcher in the National League, is manager and pitcher of the House of David team which meets a local club here tonight. The man behind the bushes is Dave Harrison, House of David third baseman, whose hair is 36 inches long but which does not interfere with his diamond abilities.

Dark Horses In Preakness Workouts Loom Strong Contenders To Favored

BALTIMORE, May 7. (AP)—Preakness dark horse splashed through the rain and mud at Pimlico today and showed that the $50,000 classic for three year olds Saturday is not completely overshadowed by their co-favorites, the Greentree stables' Twenty Grand and Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's Equipoise.

Clock Tower, black son of Sno II—Daylight Saving, M. L. Schwartz' hope, demonstrated that his near defeat of Twenty Grand in the Wood Memorial last Saturday at Jamacai was significant by Stepping a mile and a quarter through the slop in 2:11 2-5.

A. C. Boswick's Mate also turned in a workout that showed, according to his trainer, Jim Healy, that "he is in better shape than at any other time in his career." He covered three quarters of a mile today in 1:15 4-5.

Walter M. Jefford's Tegis was sent an easy mile and an eighth today in 2:06, the time for the mile being 1:50 3-5.

The local weather bureau announced that clear, windy weather appears on the way tomorrow, and Saturday, it was predicted will be a "beautiful day." Whether today's slopy track will be completely dry and fast by post time remains to be seen, however.

Hambright And Marshall At Home After Baseball Trials

Ed Hambright and Raymond "Evo" Marshall, two of Lubbock's big league baseball aspirants, returned to the home fires yesterday, victims of a bankrupt league. They will be seen again before a Lubbock public tonight in the House of David vs. Lubbock Meteors game at the Tech field.

Both players, popular over the South Plains, sought and were given trials with Texas League teams this spring—Hambright with Wichita Falls and Marshall with Houston, but as the season started they were told to put on a little more experience and a few more years. Both went to Tyler and had little trouble winning places on the East Texas League club, but the league was disbanded yesterday and a few hours later the lads were en route home.

The NUT and CRACKER

BY COL. JOE O'GOOFTY

NEW YORK, May 7 — Umpire Will McGowan and Second Baseman Jimmy Reese of the Yankees co-operated the other day in giving your correspondent a suggestion for a contest among my many readers. The question is: How do you make a chump, if possible, out of an umpire?

Here is how it started. McGowan called a third strike on Reese the other day. Reese tipped his cap, bowed laughingly and thanked Mr. McGowan with gestures.

"Get out of the game," was McGowan's order. "You can't make a chump out of me."

To which Reese deferred with, "I'll admit that," and added, "Nature was too fast for me."

Which raises the question in your correspondent's mind, how is one to go about making a chump, if possible, out of an umpire?

Suppose a player should carry a floral horseshoe concealed in his shirt. Upon the third strike being called, he might pull out the horseshoe and present it to the umpire with some short, appropriate speech.

Or, would it help to make a chump, if possible, out of an umpire if the player had a band concealed in the stands? Upon being called out on a third strike, the player might have the band strike up a snappy overture from "Les Miserables" or a lilting aria from Gibbons' "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire."

But maybe trying to make a chump out of an umpire is only painting a lily, after all.

Cotton Cotton Rallies Sharply At End — Livestock Market Offering Slightly Under — Grain Prices Of Grain Dropping Lower

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 7. (AP)—Cotton was rather erratic today in moderate trading. Prices fluctuated, being largely influenced by the course of the stock market, although there was at times fair trade buying and prices fixing by the mills. The weather as a rule, an early bullish influence. The market rallied sharply at the end almost to the highs and closed steady at net gains for the day of 2 to 6 points.

A private authority reported that the sales of fertilizers during April decreased 17.3 per cent compared with April last year.

The chairman of the farm board stated that private reports pointed to a decrease in acreage of 12.5 per cent.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 7. (AP)—Rather nervous and irregular fluctuations, attributed to conflicting features in the weather news and the unsettled ruling of the stock market, were followed by closing advances in cotton today. July contracts closed at 9.96 compared with 9.91 at the close of the previous day, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 3 to 6 points. Reports of further rains and cool weather in the south and talk of lower money rates seemed to encourage some buying of later deliveries but the market was comparatively quiet.

A forecast for warmer weather in the southwest and renewed weakness in the stock market probably accounted for some of the afternoon selling.

Local Markets

These prices are furnished by the following Lubbock firms: Poultry—Lubbock Poultry and Egg company, delivered Lubbock; Dairy Products—Bell Ice Cream company and Mistletoe Creameries; Grain—S E Cone Grain and Seed company, following prices being asked by Lubbock grain dealers. Cotton — Plucker Cotton company. All prices subject to change during day.

Share Trading Dull And Erratic As Several Groups Establish New Lows

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, May 7. (AP)—A vigorous movement of funds in bonds, anticipating reduction of the New York federal reserve rediscount rate to 1 1-2 per cent and reflecting previously taken steps in the broad easy money program, provided a contrast to the uncertain course of stocks in today's financial markets.

Bonds have been helped at previous times during the last eighteen months by favorable credit developments, but other influences have tended to weaken confidence and rallies in the investment market have been fallible short lived. Wall street now believes the central banking authorities are seeking to force commercial banks into bonds, thereby strengthening the investment market and helping the cause of business recovery. It is almost axiomatic that a sustained rise in bond prices must precede any durable improvement in stocks; such, at least, has been the experience in past economic cycles.

Share trading was dull and erratic, unsettled by selling of the amusement shares and a few miscellaneous stocks. Most groups eventually joined the decline, which was sufficient to establish new lows for several.

Pen No. 2 was fed meal, ground bundle cane and alphalfa. Pen No. 3 was fed ground milo heads, cotton seed meal, cotton seed hulls and alfalfa. The calves will be classed by J. M. Jones, head of the animal husbandry department of A. and M. college. The exact weights will be secured and cost of production computed. The calves will then be shipped to Fort Worth where accurate dressing per cents will be obtained.

The information of feeding, gains and costs of gain will be compiled and printed in bulletin form by the experiment stations of Texas under the supervision of A. B. Conner, of A. and M. college.

At 10 o'clock Friday morning an auction sale will be conducted at which time 20 heads of finished baby beeves fed by the 4-H club boys of Howard county will be auctioned to the highest bidder. Hotel coffee shops, restaurants and meat markets of Big Spring have agreed to buy in the calves placed on sale.

$10,000 To Square

"Franklin asked what he could do to square the matter and keep it out of court. Goldman told him it would take $10,000. Franklin said he would do whatever he could and asked to come to town," White testified.

He said the three men rode to town in Franklin's car, that Franklin drove, chose his own route, arranged for telephoning his brother and was not detained at any place by White or Marsh.

Called To Camp

Franklin, at this morning's session had testified that after he had been called to the tourist camp by the girl he was confronted by White and Marsh who asked him how much his life was worth, how much money he could raise and told him "we have an affair to settle with you." Franklin said Marsh declared, "it should be worth $50,000 to settle this affair with me." White was armed at the time of the conference, Franklin testified.

The $50,000 figure being too high, $10,000 was suggested and when Franklin telephoned his brother to come talk over the proposition with them, the brother called police instead.

Franklin said he met the girl a year or so ago in San Angelo when she was divorced from White and that she had done some work for him.

Arguments in the case will be heard tomorrow morning.

town in which Patrolman Hirsch was killed. Today the chase had extended into New Jersey, but no real clue to Crowley's whereabouts was found until late this afternoon when detectives picked up his trail.

Detectives entered the rooming house and called for reinforcements when Crowley refused to answer their request to admit them to the apartment.

From vantage points in nearby houses guns were trained on windows of the room. Another order was given to occupants to come out and bullets were the answer. The police raked the windows with machine and gun fire. Bullets chipped pieces of stone from the face of buildings across the street. For nearly an hour the neighborhood rattled with machine gunnery and pistol shots, while in the street squads of police formed lines and held back crowds which sought to get within the danger zone.

After Crowley had been wounded detectives got close enough to him to warn him that unless he gave up quickly, he would be shot to death. He yielded to the last warnings, staggering into the hall, where he collapsed.

Search of Crowley and the apartment revealed a small arsenal. He had a pistol holstered to each leg, below the knee and five others were discovered in the building and its back yard.

Police said tonight the capture of Crowley and Durlinger had yielded confessions from the youths that would clear up two murders and the shooting of another person.

Police said Durlinger put up a fight in the rooming house and that the girl also struggled fiercely against capture.

Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney directed the seige.

Denies Legality

In her prepared statement Miss Burroughs denied the legality of the senate resolution authorizing the inquiry and challenged the constitutionality of the federal corrupt practice act—which Bishop Cannon is accused of violating.

Bishop Cannon, who sent a similar protest to the committee, sat near Miss Burroughs, resting his chin on one of his crutches as she stood her ground against questioning by Senator Nye, answering repeatedly "I decline to testify." He later gave a copy of Miss Burroughs' statement to the press.

Aware Consequences

"You are aware of the possible consequences attendant upon your action?" inquired Chairman Nye.

"Yes," she said.

Representative Tinkham has accused Bishop Cannon of failing to account for a major portion of the $65,300 given to him as chairman of the anti-Smith committee in Virginia by E. C. Jameson, New York financier.

Only once did Miss Burroughs answer a question. Nye asked if she prepared the statement which she read to the committee. After declining to answer, she hastily added that she had prepared it, then admitted she had received legal assistance.

Bishop Cannon asked if his protest against the committee's authority would be included in the record. He was told it would.

Senator Nye said if the committee determined to cite Miss Burroughs for contempt it would have to do so to the senate.

Congress does not reconvene until December.

The resolution giving the committee authority to inquire into Bishop Cannon's 1928 activities was introduced by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, and was adopted unanimously by the senate.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 7. (AP)—Forced down by bearish effects of Candian showers and predicted further moisture in drouth regions northwest, grain prices went lower most of the time today. Spread trading in which was bought and wheat sold gave only transient strength to corn. Surprise over Russian wheat shipments totaling 1,040,000 bushels was a contributing source of weakness.

Wheat closed irregular, 1 3-8 cents down to 1-8 advance, corn at 5-8 to 1 3-4 decline, oats unchanged to 3-8 to 1-2 off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 25 cents.

One leading authority said high winds had intensified this condition, while much of North Dakota and Montana needing rain at once to produce satisfactory germination.

Protest Made By Officials

Clemency For Lloyd Conatser Is Protested By Members Of Sheriff's Association Meeting At Amarillo

AMARILLO, May 7. (AP)—Adopting a resolution protesting clemency for Lloyd Conatser, who is under life sentence for the slaying of the sheriff of Fisher county and one of his deputies in 1927, the North Texas and Southern Oklahoma Peace Officers association closed its final business session early this afternoon.

The resolution was forwarded to Governor Sterling by registered mail.

Frederick, Okla., was selected as the 1932 convention city and E. T. Smith, Hollis, Okla., was reelected president of the association. He has served two years. Sheriff Bill Thompson of Amarillo was named first vice president; Lynn Blackwood of Frederick, second vice president, and H. G. Ellis, Wichita Falls, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Tribute was paid to the late Sheriff Wall Williams of Duncan, Okla., and his dupty, Elmer Carter, who were killed during the last year in the line of duty. Both were members of the association.

The officers were entertained at a barbecue on a nearby ranch and will participate in shooting contests this afternoon.

The Campfire Girls group was awarded $10 for its activity in staging pageants before the four civic clubs in the interest of the campaign.

Express Satisfaction

Members of the committee expressed satisfaction with the work accomplished during the drive. An informal inspection tour over the city was made by the committeemen Wednesday.

"Lubbock appears to be cleaner than it has been in many years," Mr. Atkins said. He estimated approximately 50 per cent more work was done around the homes this year than in 1930, when Lubbock attained the record as the first ranking city in the state in the national cleanup and paintup campaign.

Below is a summary of what Lubbock residents did around their homes in this year's campaign:

Cleaned—1468 alley lots, 1968 back yards, 1901 front yards, 964 vacant lots, 350 basements, 381 attics, 406 house gutters, 396 street name signs, 1630 porches, 1130 garages, 311 furnaces.

Painted and decorated—319 houses, 1104 walls, 1404 floors, 496 porches or stairs, 486 fences, 422 outbuildings, 1264 screens, 451 roofs, 1074 walls, papered or kalsomined, 1860 walls cleaned.

Planted—flowers in 1370 boxes, 1723 flower gardens, 1331 vegetable gardens, 763 garden plots, 3585 trees, 2464 shrubs.

Miscellaneous—2060 rubbish piles burned, 109 insect breeding places destroyed, 3385 rats killed, 541 fences repaired, 341 porches and steps repaired, 283 roofs repaired, 810 water faucet leaks repaired, 1046 screens repaired, $137.50 worth of junk paper sold, 490 refuse cans disinfected, 582 refuse cans installed, 634 old signs removed, 1373 hedges trimmed, 2500 trees trimmed, 1130 dead trees and stumps removed.

brought up before this conference, because it is of the highest political importance."

Plunging into the subject regardless he said "under the Young plan, Germany has to pay her several creditors what they owe to the United States so that the full burden of the international debts falls upon Germany."

Declaring the reparations problem still awaits a complete economic solution, Bergmann said that since the existing agreements were concluded the world has undergone such violent economic changes that a settlement "which may have been considered possible of realization at the time must now be looked at more critically."

Mr. Bell said England in 1930 had bought more than four times as much goods from the United States than this country had from England.

"In the whole of Europe, America sells twice as much as it will take in exchange," he said. "And we come here today to put it up to them as to whether they will face the new position in which they find themselves, whether they do not feel that, in regard to this kind of debts and possibly in regard to the other kinds of debts about which you have just heard, a rather larger, a rather kinder, a rather better attitude might be taken."

Alfred Falter, chairman of the Polish delegation, told the agricultural group meeting this afternoon world-wide action to adjust production to consumption was imperative.

mar school here.

All Aid Summoned

The injured were taken to Mercy hospital, and all physicians and nurses in the county were summoned. Teachers from the Fremont school went to the hospital to help.

Fifteen children who were either not seriously hurt or unscathed were not taken to the hospital. All lived in the Bear Creek and Lakeside districts, just north of the city.

Confusion Reigns

Confusion reigned at the scene of the wreck and at hospitals where parents struggled to find their injured children and mothers claimed the bodies of their dead. Additional physicians and specialists were summoned from San Francisco.

The only eye witnesses of the crash were Mr. and Mrs. Wicklund, who were in an automobile directly behind the bus.

"It was ghastly to see all those children ground to death and hear their screams," Wicklund said.

Train Whistled

"I saw the train approaching. It was moving slowly and I didn't think for an instant the bus driver didn't see it. The wig wag was going, a bell was ringing and the train whistled as it approached the crossing and again just before the crash.

"But the driver drove right on the tracks without stopping. We heard the screams of the children as they saw the big locomotive bearing down on them then the whistle screamed again and then everything was blotted out by the horrible noise of the train striking them. The train ground to a stop and the bus fell off to one side and slid into a ditch.

"I distintcly saw one little girl thrown out of the window. As I watched the wheels of the locomotive passed over her body. Over the noise of the crunching bus I could still hear the screams of the children.

"After the bus stopped in the in the ditch my wife and I ran over. Several of the children were still pinned in the wreckage of the bus and we had a terrible time trying to get them out."

Troops Arrive

W. M. Hightower, president of the local United Mine Workers asked all who would co-operate with the soldiers to hold up their hands. Hands went up throughout the hall to the accompaniment of a rousing cheer. Union leaders are to meet again tomorrow to discuss the situation. Arrangements were made to quarter the approximately 325 guardsmen in the local hotel, in the cars on which they came and wherever room could be found, but it was expected they would pitch camp on the outskirts of town tomorrow.

The mines lie two and three miles away from Evarts and no immediate plans were made for the soldiers to replace the mine guards. The latter remained on duty.

During the meeting Hightower asked that a collection be taken up for a miner evicted from his home on company property and Colonel Carrell and Major Cheschier contributed $3, the money needed to move the man's belongings to another place. Colonel Carrell said he was informed the Red Cross would come in with aid.

It was an exciting day in Evarts. Never before has such activity been known in this little mountain village which jumped from a population of 500 to 1,400 during a decade of coal mining operation in nearby hills.

Chief of Police Asa Cusick, voiced what he said was the general sentiment of the people of Evarts today in declaring "union miners are glad the soldiers were ordered here. The miners have never been at fault; it's always been the mine guards."

Long before time for the arrival of the troops train union miners paraded the streets bearing welcome banners and waving American flags. Several hundred stood around the railroad station for hours in order to be on hand when the soldiers arrived.

Last Man

Potomac across from Arlington.

"I remember the first time I saw Abe Lincoln," he said. "It was on Arlington heights—a grand review. He sat on a fine black horse, with his plug hat set back. Like this—"

Lockwood pushed back his gray cap illustratively.

"And that plug of hair of his was hanging down like this. I thought he was about the homeliest man I ever saw in my life."

A few steps up the 57 to the Lincoln shrine, Lockwood's keen eyes spotted inscriptions—"the name and date of every state!" he exclaimed. "I'd like to see where South Dakota is. It's been my home since it was a territory."

Then, as he first glimpsed the central figure of the shrine—"that's a grand monument of Lincoln. Just as natural as can be. But he didn't look as old as that in '61. But he had that careworn look—so much careworn.

"I saw him three or four times while we camped around here and before and after the battle of Bull Run. Once I called on him and shook hands with him—that was after Bull Run. He was always kind to all the soldiers, and glad to see them."

All Lockwood's recollections were dated by the first battle of Bull Run, the anniversary Company B chose to celebrate each year, until 33 chairs were draped in black around the banquet board and only Lockwood's strong voice answered the roll call."

To the unknown soldier of the World War, Lockwood paid reverent homage, but he could scarcely be torn away from the monument close to Lee Mansion, honoring the 2,111 unknown soldiers of the Civil War whose bones were "gathered after the war from the fields of Bull Run and the route to the Rappahannock."

Lingering there, he expressed a hope he'd find in Washington some of the G. A. R. boys with whom he could celebrate Memorial Day on Arlington heights.

"I don't know what they'll do without me back home in Chamberlin," he said. "I always take charge of the celebration Memorial Day. But I just told the ladies I couldn't do it this year—I'll be on Arlington heights!"

Declares Lubbock Has Chance To Build Up Great Payroll Through Buying Products Of Local Concerns

Continuing his plea for consumption of Texas made products, Col. W. E. Talbot of Dallas, Republican candidate for governor of Texas in the 1930 election, told Lubbock Kiwanians Thursday noon at the Lubbock hotel of the state-wide campaign which he is conducting.

"We patronize everybody but ourselves," Col. Talbot declared in his opening remarks in which he explained the campaign and what it means to the people of Texas. "Texas leads in raw products and there's no reason why the state can't also lead in manufacturing."

Sherrod In Charge

Col. Talbot was introduced by Postmaster John L. Vaughan of this city. B. Sherrod was in charge of the program.

Preceeding his talk, Mrs. Carl Scoggin gave two vocal selections. She was accompanied by Mrs. Mamie I. Neal. Dr. E. O. Harden, of Nashville, director of educational activities of young people of the Methodist church, led the club in group songs.

Cites Local Plant

Citing a local manufacturing plant, the Caprock Uniform and Embroidery company which turns out a standard product, Col. Talbot said Lubbock had an excellent chance to build up a payroll of between twelve and fifteen thousand dollars a month by patronage of the plant. Only about fifteen per cent of the plant's turn products is purchased by Lubbock people, he said. Increasing this to at least fifty per cent would be an easy task and would mean thousands of dollars yearly to local business.

"You have got to create the buying power," he continued. He cited the cases of a number of Texas towns which decreased in population during the past decade and declared that upon investigation he found that the cause was laid to the citizens not patronizing the home town merchants.

Explains Campaign

He explained fully the campaign on cotton, how people were placing orders for Texas-made cotton suits, hats, shoes, shirts, socks, and other articles. There are more than 6,000 orders on cotton suits now facing the three manufacturers in the state, he said.

"Lubbock has two good chances to prove up this campaign," he said. "By fattening your own livestock here instead of letting it be shipper north to be fed on your cottonseed hulls, your town and section can put millions into circulation. Texas cattlemen by doing this can bring $158,000,000 yearly into the state. Another chance for Lubbock is the development of a wool products manufacturing plant. With the state leading in the production of wool and with freight rates so scheduled, the manufacturers of the east would be forced to give up in despair if Texas started wool products manufacturing. Why every year Texas pays $26,000,000 in freight on dirt and grease in wool shipped to Boston and other points.

The substitution of cotton for jute and other products is the only solution to the state's problems, he said. By this method, the unexportable surplus will be used up.

Tony Herrera To Clash With Kid Berg In Garden Tonight

NEW YORK, May 7. (AP)—Tony Herrera, a young man of complacted Scotch-Mexican descent whose real name is Campbell, will test the comeback ambitions of Jackie Kid Berg, British lightweight, in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Berg, setting out again on the title trial after his surprising knock-out by Tony Canzoneri, the 135-pound champion in Chicago recently, is a 7 to 5 favorite to win the decision in ten rounds despite Herrera's right hand punching ability. Herrera has now two decisions and has fought one draw in recent matches here.

Heydler States Protested Cards-Cubs Contest Stands

NEW YORK, May 7. (AP)—President John Heydler of the National League today announced he had disallowed the protest filed by the St. Louis Cardinals on the game the Chicago Cubs won at Chicago April 19, 4 to 1.

The Cardinals had asked that it be replayed.

The protest was based on the decision of Umpire Charles Moran, who had ruled Riggs Stephenson, Chicago outfielder, had held a ball "momentarily," retiring a St. Louis batter. St. Louis claimed that ball should have been declared a double.

President Heydler held that the decision was one involving solely the accuracy of the umpire's judgment and that the game shall stand as played.

Committee To Gather Again

Gulf Coast Advisory Group To Make Careful Study Of Three Districts And Then Submit Final Reports

HOUSTON, May 7. (AP)—The gulf coast oil proration advisory committee of 11 members today resolved itself into three sub-committees to make a careful study of the three districts of the region.

"We shall reconvene as a committee of the whole again on May 18 to study the three committee reports and to draft our final recommendations to the railroad commission as to ways to keep gulf coast oil production within the commission's allowable for us—140,000 barrels," said R. H. Hargrove, of Houston, chairman of the main committee.

"There was a spirit of harmonious cooperation at the meeting today and I am sure all the gulf coast operators will do everything in their power to comply with the railroad commission's orders."

The three sub-committee chairmen are District No. 3—Davis Harris of the Humble; District No. 4—George A. Peddy of the Humphries, and District No. 15—Mr. Hargrove.

"In doing this we are following the wishes of the railroad commission which has had similar committees appointed in the other fields of Texas," Hargrove said.

TO PLAY AT PLAINVIEW

Because of the showing the organization made recently when it played for a Rotary convention at Plainview, the Texas Tech Matador band has been asked to render a concert there tonight. The band will receive a percentage of the proceeds which are to go to the general band fund.

A special program has been arranged for the concert and it is probable that several solos will be given. The band has given three concerts in Lubbock this year, one at Slaton and one at Amarillo. In addition the organization has given several concerts at the local theatres.

The performance will be given tonight in the municipal auditorium beginning at 8 o'clock.

DANCE IS TONIGHT

Students will make merry tonight at the sixth annual Double "T" dance in the basement of the main engineering building. Bids were given out this week by the members and complete arrangements have been made. Frank Stone and his Collegians will play.

The double "T" organization is composed of Tech men who have received a letter in any sport in the college. The Tech regular letter sweaters have a double "T" which is the college symbol. Last winter the organization gave a minstrel at the local high school building. The funds were used to decorate the "T" room. James Harley Dallas of Brownfield is club president.

PLAN FISH DAY

There's one day in the year when the freshmen of Texas Tech rule supreme when they themselves give orders, take none, have to shine no shoes and are the "man about the place"—that's on "fish" day. May 16 has been set aside for freshmen day this year and the first year students are planning things in a big way. According to Matt Seymour, class president, complete arrangements will be made within the next few days.

A special train is to be run to Silver Falls lake near Crosbyton where several hundred students will spend the day dancing, boating and swimming. A dinner is to be served at the noon hour.

PROOF BEING READ

Approximately 200 pages of the annual college bulletin have been proof read, according to Dean A. H. Leidigh. The book is expected off the press sometime this month. Part of the book already has been printed.

This year's bulletin will contain about 300 pages and will contain complete information concerning the college and the courses and announcements for the school year 1931-32.

The booklets will be mailed to all parts of the country when released from the press.

WRITES ARTICLE

Miss Mary Beth Sheely, sophomore student of Lubbock, recently had an article published on the animal page of the Denver Post. Miss Sheely wrote the article when enrolled in the feature writing course last winter under Cecil Horne.

The story concerns how horses carry school children in West Texas safely to and from school.

VISIT STATION

In order to get first hand information on a feeding contest recently conducted at the federal experiment station at Big Spring, Professor W. L. Stangel and six students who are in his advanced animal husbandry class will visit there today. Professor Stangel is head of the animal husbandry department.

According to Professor Stangel the experiment is of special interest in this country and will be of benefit to the Tech students.

REPORT AT MEETING

A report of the recent meeting of the Texas Association of Colleges which was attended last week by J. M. Gordon, dean of the school of liberal arts, and Dr. A. W. Evans, head of the education department was made at the last faculty meeting. The gathering of the Association of Texas Colleges was held at Austin.

Professor J. F. McDonald of the Tech extension department also attended the meeting in interest of the Tech department.

COUNCIL TO CONTINUE

Because of the interest taken in the organization, members of the freshmen Y. W. C. A. council of the college recently decided for the council to continue next year as a sophomore organization. Working under the direction of Miss Jo Wilder, Tech Y. W. C. A. secretary, the organization points to its many accomplishments.

Members of the "Y" plan a Mothers Day tea for next Sunday at the home of Mrs. C. M. Ballenger. Each girl will bring her mother or some guest.

MORRIS IS EDITOR

Tommy Morris of Whitney, senior in the engineering school, has been appointed editor of the special engineering edition of The Toreador which will appear Thursday, it has been announced. According to Frank Emison, regular editor, the paper will come out next Thursday and will contain special articles about that school.

The engineering show opens that night and much of the paper will be devoted to that attraction. The paper also will contain special freshman material.

SOUTHERN SCHOLARSHIP SOCIETY

The meeting set for this evening, Friday May 8, has been postponed until Tuesday May 12, at the same hour, 5:00 p. m. The reasons for this are the delay in the mailing of the announcements to new members, and the forced absence of some of the members.
