TALE OF VICE TACKED ON EX-POLICE CHIEF

Tribute Collected Weekly By Officers From the Law Violators of City

CANTON, O., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Canton's underworld, its weird life workings and its alleged intimate contacts with the police force, and S. A. Lengel, deposed chief, in particular today were exposed to pubic view in the "underworld's" own testimony before the civil service commission to which Lengel has appealed for reinstatement.

Counsel for Mayor S. M. Swarts, who dismissed Lengel for his alleged blundering in the Mellett murder investigation, toleration of intimacy between the underworld himself and the department, and for other alleged misconduct in office, spent the day in introducing the testimony of reputed princes of the underworld and of police officers.

His counsel endeavored to show how Carl Studer, charged with federal liquor conspiracy and Louis Mazer, similarly charged and indicted for the murder of Mellett, ruled a little kingdom of vice, how the police department was lax in law enforcement and how Lengel, allegedly accepted bribes and "had things fixed."

Studer denied dealing in liquors and operating houses of ill-repute, but two women swore they "worked" in his "houses" and "split fifty-fifty" with him. As Studer left the hearing room, he was arrested and charged with operating disorderly houses.

Mamie Lee Ahlers, who declared she had run houses of ill fame in Canton for 14 or 16 years, told the commission that for a period of six months she regularly paid tribute of $50 a week either to Lengel, or E. E. Curtis, former safety director now serving a sentence in the Ohio penitentiary for accepting a bribe.

The woman said she paid the money to Lengel personally in his office and that once when her house was to be raided Lengel called her and told her "the cops are on the way."

She declared that Lengel had once accepted $25 from her to destroy a warrant against a "friend."

Once when she was serving sentence in Marysville reformatory, Lengel visited her, she said, and promised that if she would go to Columbus and testify against C. C. Curtis, former mayor she could "come back to Canton and do as you please."

The other woman of the "underworld" linked Studer and Mazer with their activities both declaring they paid either of them or "the partnership half of their earnings.

"We Wouldn't Dignify Jim By Mentioning The Klan," Colquitt Says

He Explains Reasons Why Secret Order Was Not Openly Scored

DALLAS, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Former Governor O. B. Colquitt, member of the sub-committee which drafted the democratic platform at the party's state convention in San Antonio this week issued a statement here Thursday giving reasons why the resolutions committee did not mention the ku klux klan by name in the platform. The former governor said he was in readiness to introduce a plank on Fergusonism, in case the klan issue was raised, and explains his reasons.

The Colquitt statement:

"Fergusonism was the paramount issue in the late campaign and on that the people have spoken in no uncertain terms of condemnation. Two years ago we had to choose between the klan and Fergusonism. We took Fergusonism rather than the klan. It made us sick to have to do it and we have been vomiting up regrets ever since.

"This year we said that the klan had been destroyed as a dominating political factor and refused to join with Ferguson and make it a political issue though Ferguson urged it ever so persistently. We refused to allow him to swerve us from this attitude of making Fergusonism and the shame it had brought upon Texas as the real issue.

"The best class of all our citizenship voted with us on that issue. I was opposed to allowing any fear of the future activities of Fergusonism to deter us from a vigorous denounciation of it in our platform. But since the draft of the platform as submitted to us had not dignified Ferguson or Fergusonism by name, and as that course seemed to meet with approval, I did not believe that we should allow Ferguson to drive us into mentioning any secret order by name. I was perfectly willing to do so, if the platform contained a proper denunciation of Fergusonism and the things that term stood for in Texas politics.

Mrs. Warner T. Humphrey, Burkburnett, is winner of the Record News shopping letter contest. Mrs. J. N. Shirrell, 1805 Elizabeth, city, is winner of the second prize, and Mary Frank Nichols, 1018 Lucile street, city, is the winner of the third prize.

Hundreds of letters were considered and the choosing of the award was a difficult task, according to the Style Editor. Every letter clearly indicates that women in Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma are wide-awake and thoroughly familiar with the styles.

Mrs. Humphrey's letter, which will be printed in full in Sunday's Record News, discloses a remarkable shopping instinct and her selections are what might be termed "style without extravagance." She shows how a young married woman can buy the clothes she needs at a nominal cost—how a stylish fall wardrobe can be obtained by the woman on a small income without a sacrifice as to style or value.

Mrs. Humphrey will receive the first prize of $75 in trade at any store in Wichita Falls. Mrs. Sherill a similar prize of $25, and Miss Nichols, $12.50. These three winners are requested to call at the Record News office for a credit memorandum which will be exchanged to any store for merchandise.

Gentlemen Prefer Blondes

Miss Jacqueline Shalley.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—"Evidently they prefer blondes," exclaimed pretty 17-year-old Jacqueline Shalley, when it was announced that a jury of American, British and French artists had voted her the prettiest woman in all France.

The election took place a few days ago in the presence of at least 1,000 people who had paid $10 apiece for the privilege of seeing the candidates pass before the jury.

The crowd of on-lookers as well as the judges were dazzled by Mlle. Shalley's blonde loveliness. She announced afterward that she was very much surprised by the decision, and that she is really quite plain, in comparison with her elder sister, at home in Rouen.

The new beauty queen has danced for two years at the Folies Bergere, where she began her career as a Naiad in the stage tank. Then she learned to dance and became a star of minor magnitude.

The prize for being France's prettiest girl is a visit to the United States and a five-year contract with an American movie company.

COLD WAVE FADES AWAY

Cool Weather Swept In By An Early Norther Thursday

Comfortably cool temperatures prevailed over north Texas and western Oklahoma all day Thursday and Thursday night as a result of an early season "norther" that brought cloudy skies and a smattering of rain to a large area in both states.

Most of the area covered by the Fort Worth and Denver and M. K. and T reported rain varying in amount from quarter to a half an inch. Rain also fell to the south over the route of the Wichita Falls and Southern as far as Graham and southwest over the route of the Wichita Valley.

No new norther was expected Thursday night by railroad officials, although it was predicted that the thermometer here would be sent lower than the minimum of 67 noted Thursday.

Wichita Falls and vicinity received the tail end of a low pressure condition which developed in the northwestern portion of Kansas and drifted southeast through Oklahoma and into Texas.

A cold wave spread out over western Oklahoma, the thermometer registering as low as 46 degrees in some points, but this condition did not prevail far into Texas. Weather reports indicate that colder weather is due here the latter part of this week.

Wurzbach Wants "Cary Over" Survey

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—A large percentage of the 4,000,000 bales of "carry-over" cotton reported by the federal government are untenable for contracts and absolutely unspinable, and at the next session of congress he will introduce a resolution asking for a survey to determine the exact status of the cotton listed as "carry-over," Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach said Thursay.

He said that in fact a large number of bales, listed as surplus from one year to another, having a depressing effect on the cotton market, do not exist but have been destroyed by fire and rendered useless from other causes.

ILLINOIS AND TEXAS THEFTS FAIL TO HOLD

Two Meet Death When Ranger Shoots; 3 Caught By Posse

CLARKSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Two men who attempted to stage a daring daylight robbery here today, unknowingly on the beat of a Texas ranger, walked into the jaws of death with their loot of approximately $35,000 in a suitcase. The men were shot down by Ranger Captain Tom Hickman, assisted by Stewart Stanley, former ranger sergeant, and the latter's father, Sam Stanley, as they emerged from the Red River national bank, B. Q. Ivy, constable, appeared in time to participate in the gun battle with the robbers.

Suspecting that a bank robbery was about to be perpetrated and setting a trap for the robbers, Captain Hickman made it a point to be at the right place at the proper time. Wednesday, Hickman, who was visiting former Sergeant Stanley here, saw the two men pass through Clarksville and made up his mind that they were participents in the recent Irving bank robbery near Dallas. He found that they were staying at the home of a brother-in-law of one of the suspects, six miles east of Clarksville and that they planned to go to Fort Worth Thursday afternoon.

Being confident that the two men would attempt some sort of robbery, Hickman determined to follow them from Clarksville, if nothing transpired here. With Young Stanley, he parked his car at the corner of the public square dingonally across the street from the bank, meanwhile stationing the elder Stanley armed with a rifle, upstairs across the street, south from the bank.

Shortly after noon, the robbers drove up and parked their car near the bank building, half a block west from where Hickman and Young Stanley sat in their car. The robbers entered the bank a few minutes later, remaining inside about five minutes.

While the robbers were in the bank, Hickman and Young Stanley left their car and stationed themselves in the center of the street intersection, where they could cover both the front and side of the bank building.

Captain Hickman fired four shots with his rifle, when it jammed, then he began using his pistol. Altogether the ranger fired seven or eight shots and his companions four or five shots each. The robbers returned the fire, firing several shots each, none of which took effect. Both robbers were riddled with bullets the officers keeping up their fire until the men were dead.

Altogether there were seven persons in the bank when the robbers entered, Robin Gravs, cashier, four other employes, and seven customers were locked in the record vault by the robbers, while others in the building were required to lie down on the floor.

Captain Hickman said that as the men emerged from the bank he called upon them to surrender but instead of doing that they reached for their guns and the battle started. Neither of the Stanleys are officers at the present time.

Identity of the robbers was established late today Captain Hickman said. In a pocket of one of the men was found a poll tax receipt issued at Fort Worth to A. M. Slaton, 45. The same name was found on his trousers as a cleaner's identification tag. The other man was identified by Clarksville citizens as a man named Smallwood, who once resided near Clarksville.

SLEUTHS CATCH ROBBERS

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Corn belt sleuths geared to the mud of an autumn rain, today captured three jewel bandits and recovered nearly $500,000 in gems within twelve hours after the perpetration of a bold train robbery.

The trio who last night gagged three jewelry salesmen on a crack New Orleans train of the Illinois Central and robbed them of their kits of gems, crawled from a hay mow near Buckley, Ill., today and surrendered to a company of farmers and sheriffs recruited from the whole countryside to intercept a flight to Chicago.

Then the captors, aided by most of the 50 inhabitants of Loda, Ill., tracked through the mud along the bandits' trail and uncovered two brief cases cached under the scales of the village stockyards, containing the fortune in precious stones.

Tonight the jewel bandits were in jail at Champaign while the three salesmen who were robbed checked over the recovered jewelry with officers.

The men gave their names as George Brown and O. A. Burke of Chicago and Harry Leonard of Butte, Mont. Binding the salesmen the three thieves last night grabbed their packets of gems and jumped off at Champaign where they hired a taxicab to take them to Chicago.

The salesmen spread the alarm at Mattoon and when the bandit party whirled northward through Paxton, Sheriff Frank Curtis greeted it with a volley of buckshot.

The shot punctured the rear tires and forced the robbers to abandon the taxi at Loda, four miles north of Paxton. They ran on foot in the rain and the night toward Buckley, a few miles further north where they broke open the mayor's garage but failed to steal his car.

Meanwhile Curtis, two state highway police and a hastily gathered posse growing larger as the alarm spread took up the pursuit.

The bandits took refuge in a corn field and at dawn today after scouring every barn and outbuilding in Buckley the posse narrowed its quest to a barn standing alone on the outskirts of the village.

READ THIS FIRST.

MERRY LOCKE, pretty and gay as her nickname, is a born flirt. She has no ambition beyond having a good time and plenty of beaux.

At twenty, she fails in her course at business college, to the great disappointment of MOMS, her ambitious mother. When her father dies suddenly she takes a job in LILLIE DALE'S neighborhood beauty shop, a nice lazy job with a tiny salary attached to it.

At that time she is having the first real love affair of her life. The man in the case is TONY GAINES, a young lawyer, who wants to marry her. But their engagement is broken when he finds out that Merry goes out with other men on the nights when he doesn't call on her. He goes to Montana and later Merry hears he is engaged to a girl there.

HELEN, the oldest of the four Locke sisters, marries and settles down to have her family. CASSIE, the second oldest, marries her rich employer, MORLEY KAUFMAN. Merry envies Cassie her easy life.

When she meets BILL ERSKINE, a wealthy bachelor, she decides he is the husband for her, because he can give her all the things Cassie has. But Bill keeps putting off the date for their wedding, even after Merry has trapped him into an engagement. It is finally set for September, but September Bill goes to Florida. Merry begins not to care whether she "lands" him or not.

Moms takes Lillie in to live at the house. She rents another room to MR. HEFFLINGER, and promptly begins to "act too silly for words" over him, as JINNY, the youngest of the sisters, says. Jinny finally runs away from home and marries DERRICK JONES, who lives next door. She goes to live with the Jones family.

One night Bill returns unexpectedly, and finds Merry in the arms of LES PURCELL, an old beau. He has just been breaking the news to Merry that he is married, and his wife is about to divorce him. Bill becomes jealous of him, and he and Merry quarrel. When he is gone, she has hysterics, and sobs out to Moms that she doesn't care about Bill anyway, but is heart-broken about Tony Gaines, still.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"I'm going to marry Mr. Hefflinger, said Moms, without looking up.

CHAPTER XLIV.

Outside of the curb the taxicab waited in the rain to pick up another fare.

Merry jumped into it, and Bill Erskine started to heave himself in after her.

"I don't want you to come with me!" she blazed at him.

"Where to?" asked the taxi driver, turning in his seat to watch them.

"But I'm going anyway!" Bill declared stubbornly. Merry tried to shut the door of the cab, but he hung on to it.

"I'm not going to let you dash off like this," Bill went on. "I'm going to find out first what ails you—" He managed to get into the cab at last.

"Where to?" asked the driver for the third time.

Bill waved one of his fat hands. "Anywhere!" he roared in answer. "Drive until I tell you to stop!" He slammed the door, and they were off.

"Now, then," he said to Merry, "what ails you, anyhow? I come all the way from Florida to see you—and I find you with another man. You all but throw me out of the house, and when I forgive you and try to buy you an engagement ring, you walk out of the store, leaving me standing there like an empty plate!"

He snorted with righteous wrath, and bit off the end of a fresh cigar with a snap of his teeth.

"I think you owe me an explanation," he added.

"Well, you aren't going to get one! So write that down on your cuff!" retorted Merry.

Her eyes were full of resentment and sulkiness. Their luster had fled, and they were as dull as unpolished emeralds.

"Why did you come downtown to meet me, in the first place?" Bill wanted to know, after a long pause. His voice was full of puzzlement.

"Who knows?" asked Merry, with a shrug. She began to hum and to drum on the window pane, as she looked out at the soaked, hurrying crowds on their way to work.

"You've fallen for that bird I found you with last night, haven't you?" Bill said, leaning forward to look her full in the face. "That's what wrong with you, isn't it?"

Merry only raised her eyebrows. Just as well to let him think she was in love with Les Purcell, if he wanted to, she figured. It never did a man a bit of harm to be jealous.

She went on humming.

"I wish you'd stop that noise and answer me!" Bill blurted out. "Why didn't you write and tell me that you didn't want me to come up and see you? I felt pretty flat last night, when I walked up on the porch and saw you having a petting bee with that Purcell, or whatever his name is—"

"That's his name," Merry broke in with maddening calmness.

"And you're crazy about him, aren't you?" Bill persisted.

Suddenly she swung around on the seat and faced him.

"Is it any of your business," she asked him, almost shouting. "You've been putting me off for months and months and months? Is it any wonder I get tired of sitting around, waiting for you to come along and marry me? Is it, I ask you? Is it?"

He did not answer.

"And then, when I get peeved and tell you I don't care whether I ever marry you or not, what do you do" Her voice went more shrill and high. "You call me up and try to palm off a little half-karat diamond on me! You think that will keep me sitting around for six months more, don't you? Well, it won't! I'm all through!"

She was shaking all over and tears stood in her eyes, hard and bright as diamonds.

"You stop this cab and let me out," she cried, and leaned over to open the sliding window in front of her. But Bill stopped her.

"Now, now, honey, wait just a minute," he tried to sooth her, "we'll go right down now for our marriage license ,if that's what you want. Now, just calm yourself, and we'll talk this thing over quietly."

His tone was smooth as silk, but his face was stark with horror. Like every man he was afraid of a scene with a woman, and it looked to him as if Merry were going into hysterics again.

"I'll tell you what we'll do," he said. "I haven't had any breakfast. We'll stop somewhere for a cup of coffee and then we can decide what to do." He began to pat her shoulder as he talked.

"I wonder if they'd give us something to eat if we went out to the Blue Admiral Inn?" he said. "We'll try it, anyway." He leaned forward and told the taxi man to cut across town to the Dover road.

In the gray light of the early morning, the Blue Admiral Inn was not the gay and colorful place that it was at night when it was filled with yellow lights, music and well dressed people.

There was only one waiter in sight, and he was sleepy looking, and his collar was wilted. He wrote down their order silently and sidled away through the maze of bare tables.

When he came back he brought coffee, ginger ale and cracked ice in a yellow earthenware bowl.

"Why the ice?" asked Merry, who had not said a word since they entered the dreary place of nightly revelry.

Bill smiled at her and took out his familiar flask of engraved silver.

"Just a little pick-me-up before breakfast, honey," he explained, pouring whisky from it into a glass.

Then he added the sparkling ginger ale, stirred it and passed it across the table to Merry.

A year before she would have refused the drink, as promptly and sensibly as she would have refused deadly poison.

But now she took it without a murmur, and drank a third of it before she gave it back to Bill.

"Shall I pour you some coffee?" he asked, when he had drained the glass.

Merry shook her head. "Give me a cigaret," she said, sullenly, and Erskine lit one and gave it to her.

Presently he made himself another highball.

"Sweeten it for me?" he asked, shoving it across the cloth to the girl.

But once more she shook her head.

"No more," was all she said. She always knew when she had had "enough." She had had enough to drink now, in her own judgment. A warm and pleasant thrill ran through her veins. It seemed to fill her with sunshine, and when she looked in her vanity case mirror, all her color had returned to her face.

Through a haze of gold she saw Bill leaning across the table. His face seemed to rock a little as he leaned.

"You and I are fools to row like this—when we have such a good time together," he was saying, and his voice sounded far off. "Do you know that?"

She heard herself laughing—a lazy, drowsy laugh. "I suppose so," she answered.

The highball glass was right under her nose again, and she picked it up and took another drink.

"You taught me to do this, Bill," she said, looking at him dreamily. "You taught me to drink, and you taught me to smoke. You certainly ought to marry me, if anybody does, because—because—" She could not remember what she wanted to say.

"Because why?" asked Bill. He was sitting beside her now, one arm across the back of her chair. "You tell Bill why, Little Sister."

"Well, because you taught me to drink, and you taught me to smoke," she finished, with an enormous effort.

"Yes, but I didn't teach you to pet," Bill told her, but she scarcely heard him. Her head was swimming now, and she felt weak and dizzy. "Who taught you to pet?"

She tried to remember who had. Then she wondered vaguely if she ought to tell Bill who had first taught her what it is like to be kissed by a man. Then she heard herself telling him, anyway.

"Les Purcell." Her voice was soft and thick. "Les Purcell, years an' years an' years ago—"

* * * *

When she came to she was lying down on a hard leather sofa in a little dark room.

She opened her eyes, and looked around her. Beside her rose a wall covered with brown wall paper.

She seemed to remember that wall paper—that brown ugly paper patterned with tan roses.

Then all at once she knew where she was. She was in the little sitting room behind Lillie Dale's beauty shop!

But how had she come there, she wondered. Surely not more than a minute ago she had been at the Blue Admiral Inn, sharing a highball with Bill Erskine.

"Lillie!" she called faintly, "Lillie—are you here?"

Almost at once the tap-tap of high-heeled slippers came across the floor outside. Then the door swung open, and Lillie came into the room.

"Better?" she asked, looking down at her solemnly.

"Better? Wha I sick?" Merry wanted to know. "How did I get here?"

"Your noble friend Erskine, brought you here and dumped you," Lillie told

Pimples

What can I do?

OH, why can't I have a skin like other girls? Why do I have to have these ugly pimples blotches and blackheads?

"If I could only find something that would clear up my skin and give me back my soft, rosy complexion, I know I would be the happies girl in the world! What can I do?"

Is that you talking? If it is, you don't have to worry a minute! Just build up the rich, red blood in your body. Then your skin will be as clear and soft as anybody's.

That's what S. S. S. has been doing for generations—helping Nature build rich, red blood! You can build red-blood-cells so fast that the impurities that cause breaking out on the skin hardly get into the system before the pure blood annihilates them—kills them right out—stops them from breaking out through the skin.

And then this rich, red, pure blood feeds and nourishes the tissues of the skin and keeps it looking healthy.

That's all there is to it. Healthy, vigorous red blood such as S. S. S. helps Nature build, makes you healthy all over. It beautifies your skin — drives away pimples, blackheads, blotches, rash, boils and eczema—gives you back your appetite—builds firm, plump flesh and fills you full of new life and energy.

Girl Gained 7 Pounds Nine Years an Invalid

That's Just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take, tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself. They surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Smith's and Renfro's Drug Store or any druggist.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength:

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Imitation of McCoy's may be offered but be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine and if after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why get your money back.—Adv.

What the Mayor of Brenham Says about Concrete Streets

Mayor A. A. Hacker of Brenham, Texas, reports an experience with concrete streets which is of immediate importance to you, and every other property owner in this community. Here's what he says:

"We are proud of our streets. About four years ago we paved all the principal ones in the business district with portland cement concrete, 7 inches thick. There has been practically no expense for maintenance, and it seems to me as though the concrete gets better with years."

They know in Brenham that there is no excuse for bumpy streets, for under the heaviest traffic concrete stays rigid, permanent, free from bumps or ruts. Concrete pavement has the maintenance built into it.

Concrete streets are also skidproof and they remain true and even through changing seasons.

Many Texas cities and towns are paving with concrete because like Brenham they have learned its outstanding advantages through experience.

All of the facts are in our free booklet on "Concrete Streets." Ask for your copy.

FEW PLEBES GO TO AUSTIN

"Freshmen" Members Of Legislature Noticable By Absence

AUSTIN, Sept. 9—There will be fewer "freshmen" in the 40th legislature than for many years, the membership roster of nominations show.

Probably fewer than 45 will see their first service in the 40th house, out of the 150 members of the body.

There were 76 brand-new members and 74 old members in the 39th legislature.

This time, 85 old members will return. There will be eight or ten former members who are not in the present body, but who will return after the interval to the new legislature. Then out of the 10 or more special elections held last January and in August and September to fill vacancies in the present house, most of those who will see the 30 days service in September and October have been nominated for full terms.

This will have an important bearing on the dispatch of business, veteran members say. The initial business will be already in the hands of the old-timers, and no time will be lost in learning the rules, and getting the machinery into motion. There will be enough old members to form a large portion of the membership of all committees and this again will expedite business.

her bluntly. "He said you'd been taken sick, but I knew what was the matter with you, of course. I've been all day trying to get you straightened out! And he's never so much as telephoned to ask how you were!"

He did not telephone on the following day, either. On the second day Merry called up the Towers hotel and asked for him.

The clerk told her he had checked out on the day before!

* * *

Then on the first day of November two things happened with the suddenness of a clap of thunder—and the after-clap.

Merry went out for a long drive with Les Purcell—and Les Purcell's wife tried to kill herself by taking poison.

Trails His Man 3000 Miles; Gets Vengeance With Gun

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 9.—(AP) A 3,000-mile journey to murder the man who abandoned him in a Mexican jail had ended successfully today for Benjamin H. Turner, mild-mannered little American accountant of Mexico City.

Tried in Mexico for murder, Turner said he was released six years ago and since has trailed James D. Hallen, a soldier of fortune with an international record of larceny, forgery and swindling operations, "to settle with him" for taking his life savings and then failing to defend him at his trial.

Turner accomplished his purpose at Hallen's home in Falmouth Foreside yesterday. Calling Hallen from the house Turner pumped five bullets into his body, then told two terrified witnesses to "get the police. I won't run."

Turner's story and newspaper clippings found in his trunk at a hotel disclosed that in 1921 he shot and killed Ramon Argielles, a Mexico City broker, for a swindle. Letters to detective agencies indicated that he turned over all his money, $1,200, to Hallen as attorney's fees and that Hallen left for the United States soon afterwards. Turner was acquitted in March, 1923, after members of the American colony had hired counsel for him.

Church at Electra Selects Officers

ELECTRA, Sept. 9.—An important meeting of the official board of the First Baptist church was held Wednesday evening at the church, with the pastor, Rev. E. M. Francis present. At the meeting the principal business was the election of officers for another year. Those elected were: C. O. Roberts, superintendent of the Sunday school with E. E. NEGRESSES IN FIGHT.

ELECTRA, Sept. 9.—Two negro women engaged in a shooting affray in a small restaurant on Front street at 10 o'clock, run by a negro woman, Noba Newman, and Luella Newman, who are sister-in-laws, engaged in a fight in the restaurant, followed by Noba shooting Luella. One shot was fired from a 32 automatic. The shot penetrated her right arm, and then skimmed the ribs for about 18 inches in the left side. The Totten Brothers ambulance took the injured negress to the Electra hospital for treatment and then to her home in the rear of the J. T. Cabe residence on East Ida avenue.

The negress who did the shooting was placed in the hands of county officers and in the local jail but will be taken to Wichita Falls soon.

Long Arctic Tour Ends as McMillan Party Reaches Home

ST. GEORGE, Me., Sept. 9.—(AP) A voyage of 4,000 miles that took him to uncharted shores 300 miles beyond the Arctic circle ended today with the arrival here of Lieutenant Commander Donald B. McMillan. The Bowdoin and the Sachem, vessels used by the exploration party, put in last night at Tennant's Harbor with a rich collection of birds, fish and minerals and botanical specimens for the Field Museum at Chicago.

The 26 members of the party passed through their Arctic experience without a single case of sickness or accident. Three women who made the voyage were so enthusiastic that they have begged permission to go on a similar trip which already is planned for next year.

Representatives from all denominations co-operate with Inter-Denominational revivals of Salvation and Healing conducted by Evangelist A. E. Davis of Wilmore, Ky.

STICK TOGETHER

BROOK, Ind., Sept. 9.—Hoosiers stick together. Mr. Reiser is putting up skyscrapers. If in building up one of his massive structures he used a brick from my pile, goodness knows he was welcome."

California Man Demands $1,000,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—J. B. Walker of Pasadena, Cal., filed today in the district of Columbia supreme court for an order of compel Secretary Work to pay him $1,000,000 out of funds held by the government for Jackson Barnett, Oklahoma City Creek Indian, reputed to be the wealthiest of his race in the world. Secretary Work was ordered to show cause by October 8 why the request should not be granted.

Walker contends that years ago when Barnett, who has been declared incompetent by an Oklahoma court, was in need of funds, he befriended him and that Barnett promised to pay him for this favor.

MILLER-FERGUSON CO.

All Texas is Invited!

The Port of Corpus Christi—the nation's newest deep water harbor—will be opened to world commerce September 14th. In honor of the occasion, Corpus Christi has arranged a mammoth celebration to which all Texas is invited.

The celebration will be an event worthy of completion of a wonderful project. Less than four years ago the late Warren G. Harding, then president of the United States, signed the bill authorizing the Port of Corpus Christi. It is a federal development, based upon an economic necessity. It meets the need that has long existed for additional harbor facilities on the Texas gulf coast at a point where the fruits of cheap water transportation may be grasped by two-thirds of the area of this great state.

The Port of Corpus Christi is a FREE port—publicly owned—for public benefit.

Now that the job is done, the people of Corpus Christi ... of South Texas ... want all Texas to celebrate with them.

The Celebration Program

Official Dedication of the Port, following combined Naval, Military and Civic Parade; Regatta in which at least two holders of world speed boat records will compete for $2,500.00 in prizes; Beauty Contest and Bathing Revue, with $2,500.00 in prizes; Historical Pageant of Corpus Christi; $5,000.00 Fireworks Display.

Exceptionally low railroad rates from all points. Plan NOW to attend! It will be the greatest celebration ever held in Texas.

Shippers desiring specific information about the Port of Corpus Christi and its services are requested to address TRAFFIC BUREAU, Nueces County Navigation Commission, Corpus Christi, Texas.

QUESTION VOTE IN MONTAGUE

Henrietta Judge to Officiate In Election Contest At Montague

BOWIE, Sept. 9.—District Judge Vincent Stine of Henrietta, Texas, has called a special term of district court at Montague for Thursday, September 9, at which time he will hear two election contests. One is the contest of Bill Davis vs. Luke Ryan, for the constableship at Sunset. Ryan defeated Davis for a second term by three votes. Davis alleges Ryan is credited with ten votes more in the Denver box than he actually received.

The other contest is in the sheriff's race. John Wales is contesting the nomination of Bob Anderson of Nocona. Anderson defeated Wales for a second term by 27 votes. Wales alleges irregularities in holding the election, and alleges practically four hundred unqualified voters were permitted to vote.

Abuse Hurled By Rival Labor Units

BOURNEMOUTH, England, Sept. 9.—(AP)—A copy of a lengthy and abusive telegrams purportedly signed in behalf of the All-Russian central council of trade unions by M. Tomsky, Moscow, fraternal delegate whom the government forbade to land in England, was circulated today among the delegates to the British trades union congress, in session here.

The general council of the T. U. C. in circulating the document attached a rejoinder in which it stated it had no intention of replying "to this ill-instructed and presumptuous criticism."

The Tomsky telegram attacked the British conservative government which is said "willingly admits representatives from Amsterdam and the American Federation of Labor, who either blackleg the miners or shamefully talk of loans at interest," but refused to admit representatives of the soviet workers who were "giving their last penny to help their class brothers in this great fight."

JOHN BULL AS A RUM MAKER

"THE present exhorbitant rate of duty will gradually but surely bleed the whiskey trade to death. Year by year the consumption of home made spirits in this country is decreasing."

This is the verdict of William H. Ross of England, the chairman of distillers company of Great Britain known as the world's greatest liquor combine.

His tears will not affect the drys of America; they are longing for the day when Great Britain will go dry. A foreign correspondent writes entertainingly of the condition of the liquor trade in Great Britain and northern Ireland which together produce the great bulk of the liquor supply of the world.

These manufacturers are suffering from a whiskey glut that is more than 40,000,000 proof gallons of hard liquor is distilled every year and consumption amounts to only 12,000,000 proof gallons as against 28,000,000 10 years ago.

This is interesting because it tells of the change in the drinking habit of Mr. Bull. This foreign correspondent has been given the figures. Now the outside world, including America, is only taking 8,000,000 or 9,000,000 proof gallons yearly.

Against this 20,000,000 to 21,000,000 gallons representing the combined domestic and foreign consumption of British and northern Irish liquor at 40,000,000 proof gallons which are being distilled every year. It is said there are 150,000,000 proof gallons of spirits in bond in England and in northern Ireland with a decreased home consumption and drastic enforcement of liquor laws in the United States. This is why the British manufacturers are in the dumps.

There is no market for their products. It is admitted the makers or rather their books still show dividends standing usually around the 25 per cent mark. An industry that pays a dividend of 25 per cent should be able to weather the storm for a time.

On the alcoholic beverages sold in Great Britain and northern Ireland, principally the 12,000,000 gallons of spirits and the 26,000,000 bulk barrels of beer the British government is collecting in duty annually the collosal sum of $710,000,000 and the total bill of Great Britain and northern Ireland stands at $1,500,000,000 which means a daily expenditure of nearly $5,000,000.

"In not levying a tax on exported spirits the British treasury is losing another $125,000,000," says the writer, "and the whole American debt could be paid in eight years if Great Britain went on the wagon" is the contention of the leaders of the dry forces of England and northern Ireland. It is admitted by many of the champions of a dry movement in Great Britain and Northern Ireland that the big decrease in the consumption of spirits is due to its high cost and not to temperance propaganda. Manufacture of spirits demand that part of the tax be shifted on to port wine and other highly alcoholic beverages.

On the other hand the British wine merchants are prepared to battle to a finish to prevent a catastrophe for they insist that port wine and sherry are taxed to death as it is.

John Bull has his troubles. He is taxing whiskey to death. This makes whiskey high priced and the subjects of Mr. Bull are taking ale and porter and beer and letting the hard stuff and its makers go to the damnation bow wows.

"MURDER WILL OUT"

ONE of the greatest arguments ever made at the bar was that of Daniel Webster, in a New England murder trial, nearly a hundred years ago. The eloquent lawyer and statesman was prosecuting a murderer. Many of us read that speech when we were little boys. No oratorical compilation is complete without that speech.

If memory serves us right, the victim of that tragedy was a Captain White. For the jury Webster painted one of the most graphic word pictures of which the human mind could conceive. He pictured the form of the aged man as he lay upon his bed, the moonbeams stealing through the half-closed window shutters, the breezes of early evening toying with the thin gray locks on the wrinkled forehead. Then he traced the movements of the murderer as he stole into the room, held court and counsel and jury under the spell of his eloquence as he described in detail the bloody deed itself, followed the retreat of the slayer as he retraced his steps into the open, and exposed the falacy that, because no eye had seen, no ear heard, the secret of the murderer was safe.

"Murder will out," thundered Webster. "There is no refuge from confession but suicide, and suicide is confession."

We are reminded of that New England tragedy of a hundred years ago by another tragedy that occurred in Alabama only last week. A young man is held in jail, accused of planning and putting into execution the murder of his wife's father. The accused didn't actually do the shooting, but persuaded or forced one of his negro tenants to do it for him. According to the police, the prisoner has made a full confession.

The young man, who is only 26 years of age, has enjoyed every advantage, we are told. Yet, if his story is true, he caused the death of his father-in-law in order that his wife might inherit the dead man's property.

How any man of ordinary intelligence could ever bring himself to the point of believing that money secured through such means would bring happiness, is beyond our ken. Even harder to understand is how one possessed of common sense could for a moment think that, under the circumstances, his part in the crime would not come to light.

But men do both desperate and dastardly things in the hope of gain. In the pursuit of happiness they destroy that which they pursue.

Far better would it have been for all concerned if the life of the young man himself had been taken and that of the older man spared.

"Murder will out."

A NOTICE FROM OHIO

ATLEE POMERENE of Ohio, who is is the democratic nominee for United States senator this year, is against abrogation of the two-thirds rule in the party nominating convention. Atlee Pomerene served a single term in the senate of the United States. He was defeated for re-election by the railroad vote, the feminist movement and the radical drys.

All these factions or their representatives, sought to instruct the senators how to vote on certain bills. He refused to take orders. He declared he was a representative in the senate of all the people of Ohio and not of certain factions or organizations.

Now, he is on the road again. If he wins the senatorship in November he will be the choice of the Buckeye democrats for the presidential nomination in 1928. Now why should an able lawyer, a ripe statesman and a patriotic American democrat cling to the twin barbarisms known as the two-thirds nominating and unit rule.

There may be method in his madness and another deadlock may come in 1928 and a Buckeye democrat would fit in after the wreckage had been brushed away.

NOT A QUITTER

UNDER the system of the Illinois Central Railroad company, John G. Drennan, for 30 years its general attorney, has just been retired.

Mr. Drennan is 72 years old, and said by Illinois Central officials to be "the youngest and most active man ever retired from the service." This does not mean of course, that he is the youngest in years.

Announcing that he will engage in private practice of law, the retiring counsellor had this to say to his successor:

"Rest, vacation? I don't need rest. I'm going to work. I couldn't quit."

What's a matter of 5, 10 or 25 years to a man whose physical and mental faculties are strong and alert? Nothing at all. It is true that old men sicken and die. But young men, children and babies do likewise.

And while Mr. Drennan may be retired, we venture the assertion that his successor and officials of the Illinois Central will frequently seek his counsel on important matters.

They might put him on the shelf and forget him if he were a quitter, but he isn't.

You can't lose a man like Drennan in the accumulation of years. The world needs these "young old men" and if Father Time tried to hide them in his debris, the world would find it necessary, every now and then, to get busy and dig them out.

The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All The Trains

SMELL

By Arthur B. Reeve

"Not likely," I considered. "The stuff was delivered to some Italian bootleggers working in harmony with the tanker on shore. There were five of them. Their headquarters for the time were in an old deserted bungalow down close to the beach. That's where Cronk was to pick up the stuff for Hinman, and did."

I was busy building up a story as pretty as if I had been writing it. "Now suppose one of them had a hand in it. They'd have driven off the car most likely. As it was, they might have gone on undiscovered, except for the attention called by this abandoned car, if a motorcycle state trooper on duty out near Smithtown hadn't seen a high-powered motor car speed into the main road from a little traveled side road, after he had been called in on the case. His suspicions were aroused and he decided to investigate the few shacks along the beach near the end of that road. You know reports of rum running soon spread. Those who hate liquor hate so intensely that their ears are always open, and those who love it and have the money—well, I needn't say anything more. They say enough."

"I see. Ears and tongues," exclaimed Hewitt. "Is that what you're driving at? What about Kennedy's theory and taste, though? From all accounts of this choice collection of wines and cordials, it must have been extra fine, worth a king's ransom, to have so many people after it. Some sense they displayed, in a way, after all, then!" Hewitt's sally was greeted with a laugh.

"What did he do? I haven't heard a thing about it. My boat just docked today. It must be interesting or you fellows wouldn't all be discussing it."

"It is interesting," returned Chandler. "At least, we're interested. Cronk was Hinman's—Percy Hinman's—chauffeur, and Kennedy has just informed us that every crime depends on one of the five senses for its solution. I should think that was enough to get interested."

"Well," drawled the general, "it seems to me a great many crimes could be brought under the sense of touch. I have been touched so often that it's a crime. What did this Cronk do?"

"That's just it, General. We don't know just what he did. He seemed such a harmless, inoffensive sort of fellow, attended to his own affairs, apparently had no enemies. It wasn't what he did. It was what others did."

Kennedy nodded tolerantly at my assumption of knowing anything about the case. Again I subsided, determined to let the others do the telling, instructing Tams.

"But what was it and when did they find out about it?" insisted the general with some asperity.

"Last night they found Hinman's car, a big blue Packard sedan, upholstered in whipcord, abandoned on a lonely Long Island road down Smithtown way. It was empty, too. But from what we hear, it couldn't have been empty when Cronk started out with it."

"No, it was not, Chandler. It had some of that one thousand cases unloaded at Nissequogue from that German tanker that streamed up Long Island sound last Saturday night, lightering off stuff by appointment at various places all along the shore."

"Now, Kennedy," bantered Chandler, "there might be something to your theory as to taste. Suppose there's some poor devil hasn't had a taste of anything for a long time, dry as a camel's tonsiles. There might have been a crime committed."

"That's right about rumor," agreed Kennedy, thoughtfully. "The gossip was that many bottles of fine wines and cordials had been taken ashore at Nissequogue from this German boat, along with a thousand or more cases of other, common, stuff, stored in one of those shacks. The revenuers got a tip from the gossip, whatever the motorcycle man may or may not have suspected."

"Yes," agreed Larry Halpin. "I heard something about that raid along the beach, too. They got the men, all right. And I, for one, wouldn't be surprised to hear that the same men who acted to deliver to Cronk his carload, as agents were the ones who followed him up and got it away from him again as hijackers."

Kennedy nodded politely, then went on with the facts. "When they organized the raid on the shacks, there were six men, all told—two revenuers, two state troopers, and two special country officers. When they approached the beach they saw five men sitting on a sand pile in front of the suspected shack. In all they got over a hundred cases of stuff that hadn't yet been removed. But not a smell of the choice wines and cordials from France and Italy and Spain. If they had had a thousand cases in addition to that stuff of Hinman's, they must have been working fast to move all but a hundred cases before the following forenoon, down there."

"Did they put up much of a fight?" asked Chandler, always with a sense for the melodramatic.

"No. The raiders didn't give them a chance," returned Craig. "One of the men pulled a gat, but the troopers were expecting that and winged him in the forearm. He dropped it and they closed in. They got this chap so suddenly it took the breath away from the others. I don't believe they knew whether they were captured or surrendered. They've been questioned at Riverhead, but have shut up like clams."

"Is that the whole gang or just a part of it, do you think?" inquired Tams.

Kennedy shrugged. "I believe there are a couple of Eagle boats cruising up and down the Sound now. But they haven't got the tanker, yet. Also they have tripled the number of revenue men on shore. It's hard to tell whether it will do much good. They just move from the south shore to the north shore of the island. You've got to keep the boats away from both shores."

"I see," nodded Chandler, always coining phrases. "Rum-runners and hijackers are the root of all evil."

"The thing that seems so ridiculous to me," I put in, "is where the murderer or the murderers hid the body. It seems to me that that old fish-glue factory was about as poor a place as they could have selected. There were much better places that were passed up. A hundred yards nearer, and away in from the road, is an old clay pit. There's a pool of water now at the bottom of the clay pit. The body could have been dropped in and would likely never have been found. Occasionally the glue factory is used and it just happened that they had determined to open it up the day after poor Cronk was dragged there and thrown in the cellar. But that old clay pit, and the kiln, even, further along a few feet from the glue factory, either would have been a safer place to hide a body. Then it would have been just a case of an abandoned car found on a road."

By this time the earnest voices in our corner of the lounge were arousing curiosity, to say nothing of the personnel of the party. Men came straggling over to join us, and when one fellow left, there was always another to take his place, perhaps two.

"I'll tell you what we can do," breezed Chandler. "Theoretically we'll solve this case, sitting right here in the club. We can put our wits to work—not our senses. What about it, Kennedy? Then when we have it all logically constructed, I'll dress it up, put the old hokum in it, shove in the gags, and we've got a Broadway success!"

Questions from the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

No One Need Be a Martyr to Bores if the Noble Art of Self-Defense Is Developed. Fight Bordom with Bordom.

"For many years," said a woman to me recently, "I have been that most pitiably defenseless creature in society, an old maid. Everywhere I went my role was that of the star listener, and when I was out in company the best thing I did was holding my tongue, for I have neither husband nor children to talk about. I live in a hotel, so the servant question is barred to me, and this made me the predestined victim of every female bore with whom I came in contact.

"All that I could do when I foregathered with my sex was to sit helplessly by in meek silence, enduring grinding torments, while married women discoursed about their troubles with their husbands and told me what marvels their children were, and monologued about the imperfections of hired girls.

"But I am a conversational easy-mark no longer. I endure this dumb agony no more, for I have worked out a line of self-defense that not only enables me to hold my own in any talkfest but to deal a solar plexus blow that will put any lady to sleep as soon as she begins to get tiresome discussing her favorite topic.

"For instance, I used to lend my ears until sometimes I feared I would never get them back at all to women who complained to me about how their husbands didn't understand them, or how unreasonable their husbands were in not letting them go off to Europe or buy a new car, or what not. A dreary proceeding, believe me! For nothing is more wearying than listening to the tale of other people's troubles. But do I waste a couple of good hours now listening to the woes of wives who are having a perfectly gorgeous time visualizing themselves as martyrs? I do not.

"I have concocted a romantic love story about myself. It is gory with broken hearts and drips with tears, and as soon as a woman commences telling me about her troubles with her husband I knock her cold with my blighted life, and that shuts her up as tight as a clam. Nobody is going to listen to a moth-eaten love story if they can help it, and so women steer clear of topics that are likely to lead me to confide my personal reminiscences to them.

"So that's that. And I have silenced the mothers of the infant phenomenons by going after them with heavier artillery than they possess. I study the funny columns of the newspapers and memorize the alleged bon mots of imaginary babes and sucklings. Then whenever the proud mamma relates to me the cute things her little Sally said I blaze away with a fusillade of ancedotes culled from the juvenile wit of the comic strips.

"Nobody wants to know about the clever things that other people's children did. Especially does this get on the nerves when it makes their own seem candidates for the feeble-minded institution, so I have invariably found that after one such attack the average mother flees from the scene."

COUNCILMEN KIDNAPED.

Key West, Fla., Men Feared to Have Been Tarred.

KEY WEST, Fla., Sept. 9.—(AP) Owen S. Sawyer, city councilman, and Reginald Pritchard, member of the board of public works, were said by police today to have been kidnaped and tarred by masked men last night.

Sawyer is said to have come into disfavor recently by his activities in curtailing the city's budget by decreasing the personnel of the police, fire and sanitary departments.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 9.—The beauties seem to have brought prosperity to the shore with them. A total of $5,147,940 was deposited in the city's banks in one day, breaking records.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

MOTHER'S MAN

Mother's man is shorter than
The great, big, ordinary man,
But I am sure, if short or tall,
That doesn't matter, after all.
For Mother's man can pick up strings,
And run on errands after things,
And rake the lawn, and sweep the stairs,
And lift a lot of Mother's cares.

Mother's man can make her glad
That such a little man she had
In other ways than doing tasks:
Because, you see, a mother asks
A boy to be as good and kind
To other folks. A boy will find
In school and play a lot of ways
To gladden Mother's nights and days.

Mother's man grows year by year,
And yet his mother need not fear,
For manly boys make manly men,
And noble sons are noble then.
A fellow's mother soon will be
As gray as others that you see,
And yet she knows, because she can,
Her boy will still be Mother's man.

A BIT CARELESS

An ardent ornithologist of some repute, who was correspondingly ignorant of economic entomology, had a family of little blue jays in cages which he was raising. He hired small boys to go out in the country and collect grasshoppers for the blue jays' dinners. One day the boys reported that there were no more grasshoppers, but they collected a lot of lady bugs. The ornithologist discovered that blue jays do not like lady bugs, so he threw them over the fence. A lady bug may be a lady bug in the fields, but in a garden it is known as a potato bug and does not behave itself like a lady at all. Next day a stout-armed Irish lady living on the other side of the fence came over with a rolling pin and gave the ornithologist a lesson in "bugology."

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. A cotyledon is a primary seed leaf, that is, the first pale thick shoot sent up by a sprouting seed.
2. A spathe is a modified leaf curled around a spike of flowers, like the pulpit part of a Jack-in-pulpit.
3. A spadix is a long axis on which flowers are densely crowded, like the Jack part of Jack-in-pulpit.
4. A ray-flower is a flower having one lobe and strap-shaped, like the rays of a daisy.
5. A corm is a bulb-like but solid thickening of the stem, beneath ground.
6. A tuber is not a root but a subterranean storage organ of the stem.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE

Today's planetary aspects are quite favorable until about 2 p. m. when they undergo a sudden change and become quite adverse, with depressing influences which remain in force during the balance of the day. The early hours provide an opportunity, not for any new undertaking or enterprise, but for a revision of what already been accomplished, and there will be sensed a clearness of vision which will enable you to take practical steps against the repetition of error. During the adverse period, it will be advisable to do as little as possible, and to seek relaxation or rest, although attention must, of course, be given to work of an obligatory nature. Efforts should also be made to control the bad disposition that will be engendered by the unfortunate influences, and this applies especially to the home circle.

Children born today, will enjoy during infancy, fairly good health. This does not mean, however, that they will be entirely free from sickness, but it does signify that they will have a fairly normal condition of physical robustness. During their teens, the signs denote that they will show satisfactory development, and in course of time, achieve a strong and vigorous maturity. Their dispositions will be rather rebellious, and they will show a distinct tendency to want their own way in everything, and when thwarted, they will display resentment and anger. They will, however, be truthful and never evasive, and the bad traits in their make-up can very easily be eradicated, provided they are tackled at their first appearance and consistency in treatment is maintained thereafter.

If today is your birthday, you are more guided by emotions than by facts, and rely altogether too much on what you consider your intuition. You are inclined to go off at half cock and notwithstanding the many times that the inefficacy of this treatment has been revealed, you still persist in the same foolish course. When you meet a person, you do not wait to get acquainted with them, until deciding whether you like them or not, or whether they are worthy of your regard. You jump at conclusions and they are, of course, very often erroneous. You are not communicative, and if you think anyone is trying to get information from you, even though it would not hurt you to give it, you can be and most generally are, baffling.

You are fairly ambitious, and resourceful, and you are very much devoted to your home and capable of great love possibly at first sight.

Successful people born this date are: Garrett Davis, U. S. senator. William Crompton, inventor. Joseph Wheeler, soldier and congressman. John Brisben Walker, editor and author. Poultney Bigelow, author. James E. Keeler, astronomer.

OK'S CONTEST.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 9.—(AP)—District court Judge Samuel Hooker today upheld the right of O. H. Searcy of Muskogee to contest the nomination of Edwin Dabney as the democratic candidate for attorney general.

A temporary restraining order, preventing Searcy from taking depositions in the case was dissolved, and Dabney's petition to make the injunction permanent was denied.

My Favorite Stories
By IRVIN S. COBB

THE WILY TIGER

This one springs from French sources. A Frenchman was going to India. His friends told him that on no account must he fail to enjoy the tiger hunting.

"It's no trick at all," they said. "You tie a bleating goat in a thicket at night; its cries attract the tiger. Meanwhile you are in a tree nearby. When the beast arrives, aim between its eyes shining in the darkness and fir, and it will fall as though stricken by lightning."

On his return they asked how many tigers he had killed.

"None at all," he replied sadly. "They've become altogether too clever. They now travel in pairs, and each one closes an eye. So of course . . ."

CATS DEFEAT SPUDS TWICE

North and Burns Thwart Heavy Hitters Quite Conclusively

That double-header epidemic recently incurred at Spudder park had a kick-back to it yesterday, the noble Jake Atz's Cats taking Wichita Falls down twice in a twin argument.

Fort Worth won the first game, 8 to 2. Fort Worth won the second, 2 to 0.

The opener started out like a pitchers' duel between chubby Lou North and Bill Shores. The Panthers got rough and Bill forgot it was a mound battle. Lou didn't. The baldheaded blonde held the home guard to four scattered safeties.

A magnificent rally netted the Spudders two runs in the eighth, but fell six runs short of tying the count. Lou, incidently, who issued a base on balls to seven out of nine Spudders in the game, gave Turgeon a walk at the start of the rally. Jenkins shot a full-length double to left center and Pete checked in. Infield outs by Williams and Benton shoved Jenkins over.

Just Tough, That's All.

Shores chunked a flossy brand of ball through six frames, faltered in the seventh and then breezed through the eighth and ninth just as flossy as ever. 'Twas just a tough break for the youngster. Jake's gang got a run on a walk and singles by McDonald and Compton in the fifth. But if fortune had favored just a wee bit when Tony miscued in a desperate attempt to make a play on a double play ball with three runners chasing all over everywhere maybe the Cats wouldn't have counted all of seven runs in the seventh. But they got started and licks by Lindimore, North, Compton, Sears, Koney and Smith, mixed with another kick by Bill himself, a couple of infield outs and a walk made a regular run-around of Gardner's pasture for a few minutes. Our nine probably would have lost the game all right, all right, but Tony made the mistake of booting just at the wrong time instead of waiting for an inning where there were two out and nobody on.

Dennis Burns trumped our batting aces right at the start of the second mill and never was in appreciable danger. He was touched for five hits, all singles.

Lester White turned in a good pitching article, but a hit batsman, and bingles by McDonald and Compton gave Fort Worth the victory in the first round. One run was all that was needed. However, Konetchy piled a homer over the port palings in the sixth with none on, making it 2-0.

"LADIES' DAY" THIS AFTERNOON.

The Cats are with us again this afternoon. Another double bill is on the card. First game starts at 2:30 o'clock. And it's "Ladies' Day."

Tom Estell probably will pitch the opener. Williams was not sure last night just who else, if any, he would use in the other game.

CUBS GO HARD

WACO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Jake Freese held the Bulls to five hits and the Cubs won the first of a two game series here today, 11 to 2. The locals got to Minty and Jacobus in the third for six runs. Glass hitting a double with two on and McNamara with a circuit blow in the same round. Miller hit a home run in the sixth with the bases empty. Glass and Heath, rookies in the Cubs lineup hit for the circuit in the eighth with the bases empty. Score:

BEARS WIN, 5-4

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—After the Bears booted away four runs Golvin and Phipps came through with well timed hits in the ninth inning for a 5 to 4 victory in the opening game with Beaumont Thursday, thereby enhancing San Antonio's chances for second place in the Texas League finish.

Bob Couchman and Jack Robertson tied up in a splendid battle of pitching with Couchman holding the edge to be relieved in the eighth by Owens, who held the Exporters and would have set them down runless but for a bobble on an easy chance.

Neither Couchman nor Owens walked a batter. Score:

Feret third player of international prominence to turn professional this year, achieved distinction early this season by defeating Vincent Richards during the Franco-American team series in Paris. Later he was beaten by Howard Kinsey of California.

ACES ALL! And Fate of Four Clubs Rests on Their Hurling Arms

Pitching's deciding the National league race.

The Cardinals, Reds and Cubs all stand a chance of beating out the champion Pirates two or three times before the closing days of the campaign. Every one of the four clubs has plenty of offensive strength. So the class of pitching dished up by the mound staffs of the interested teams will swing the tide one way or the other.

The Pirates' ace is none other than Bespectacled Lee Meadows. He is leading the Pirate flingers in victories won to date. Flint Rhem, working his second year in the big show, is the big star of the Cardinal team. Joe McCarthy's kid Charley Root, serving his first year in big time, is the outstanding member of the Chicago outfit and Carl Mays, discarded as done by the American league three years ago, is the boy who is setting the pace for the Reds.

Luque May Yet Figure

The Reds have the pitching strength. Mays, Pete Donohue, Jakie May, Rixey and young Fred Lucas have been giving the opposition tough days right along. Had Adolpho Luque not suffered his attack of appendicitis last spring the Reds might now be leading the pack. Luque is now returning to from and may be the card Hendricks needs to go with Ace Mays.

The Cardinals, in addition to Rhem have reliable old Bill Sherdel, Vic Keen and Jess Haines. From these four they have been getting the bulk of the pitching. Young Reinhart, serving his first full season, is doing his bit. The feat of old Allan Sothoron in letting down the Pirates with two hits the other day gives the Cardinal followers hope that the red shirted one may add a few victories to the list in the closing weeks. The two-hit affair was the first full game Sothoron had hurled this year but he showed masterful form in that exhibition. Herman Bell and the veteran Grover Alexander, furnish some reserve strength.

The Pittsburgh Pirates might have been sitting high above the clouds at this period had Emil Yde, Aldridge and Johnny Morrison come through in good shape. As it is Lee Meadows and Wos Kremer have been doing the bulk of the work. Joe Bush, discarded by the American league clubs, has turned to in the recent weeks and with a string of victories has aided the team materially. He may give the Pirates the pair of aces needed to "call" the other clubs.

McCarthy Juggles Staff

Joe McCarthy, baby pilot of the big show, has in addition to young Charlie Root, a sweet pitcher in Jones and by clever handling has made another youngster, Bush, and Bill Blake turn in some timely games. Jones leads the team in percentage of games won. Bush has turned in around a dozen victories. Bill Piercy, Tony Kaufman and Osborne have contributed bits of good pitching at opportune moments. If one of the latter three would suddenly run wild on a winning streak the jolly Cubs might find themselves sitting pretty for a day or two at least.

Truly it is a pitcher's battle in the old league. And there isn't enough difference in the relative strength of the squads to give any team a decided angle.

Finalists Picked In Net Tourney

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Louis McFarland, Pasadena, Calif., and Clara L. Zinke, Cincinnati, will meet tomorrow to fight it out for the girl's national lawn tennis championship at the Philadelphia Cricket club.

Miss McFarland today eliminated from the championship chances Miss Madge Cladman of Santa Monica, Calif., in the semi-finals round, 8-6, 6-0. She kept Miss Gladman in the back court and the latter had little chance to show her skill at close net work where she is quite strong.

Miss Zinke's opponent in the semi-final was Marjorie Morrill, Boston, who gave her stiff competition. The scores were 6-3, 6-8, 6-4.

WORK BETWEEN BAINS

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—(AP)—With more of the rough and tumble element injected than has been the case in recent workouts, Gene Tunney and his sparring partners worked between showers here today.

Ryan Doney, Cleveland middleweight made his first appearance leading off the first two rounds of the afternoon. He started in from the jump to throw bad rights at the challenger and Tunney was kept busy re-buffing his fierce attack. Vidaback boxed two crafty rounds and the entertainment closed with more of tackle plays and split bucks by Mays.

Jack Assured Of A Fair Referee

ATLANTIC CITY, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey has been assured of a square deal in the selection of a referee and two judges to decide his championship battle against Gene Tunney in Philadelphia two weeks from tonight.

The world's heavyweight champion, it was learned tonight, has submitted a list of six officials to Frank Wiener, chairman of the Pennsylvania state athletic commission any one of whom, Dempsey considers, will be qualified.

The names are reported to include Frank McCracken, Pop O'Brien, Tommy Reilley and Arthur Nolan.

Chairman Weiner has informed Dempsey that the selections will be made in advance of the contest, but the choices will be kept secret until a few moments before the contestants step into the ring.

BUCS WIN AND LOSE TO CUBS

Both Teams Set Back By Slight Margins While Leaders Idle

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Pittsburgh and Chicago by dividing a double header here today, both received slight setbacks in their efforts to catch up with the National league leaders, St. Louis and Cincinnati who were idle. The Pirates won the first game 2 to 1, but made a poor showing in the second contest which they dropped, 10 to 1.

The opening fray was a pitcher's duel in which Joe Bush bested Percy Jones. Three walks and an error gave Chicago their lone tally which was driven in by Jones in the second set. In the same round the Pirates put the game in the winning column when Bush doubled down the right foul line sending Traynor and Cronin across the plate.

Osborn finished the game, going in after Jones had been relieved by a pinch hitter in the eighth.

The champion's defense collapsed in the final game and the Cubs had things pretty much their ownway. They pounded Koupal, Yde and Mahaffey for 12 hits, while Kaufmann held the Pittsburghers to seven. Five errors were also chalked up against the Pirates.

The Cubs had their big inning in the seventh, when they scored four runs. Scott hammered out a three-bagger, sending in Adams and Heathcote and then added another run when he scored on Yde's wild pitch. Wilson accounted for the fourth marked when he singled and registered on errors by Cronin and Wright.

The hitting of Kaufmann and Wilson each of whom made three hits and one run featured the second game.

When Suzanne Lenglen sails for American shores shortly on her exhibition tour which will net her the tidy sum of $110,000 she will leave behind the greatest collection of tennis trophies prized by any other feminine player in the world. The collection includes no less than 30 challenge trophies.

It is easy to see how she acquired these, however, when it is recalled that between 1914 and 1926 she lost but one match. That one defeat came in 1921 when she was forced to withdraw from her match with Mrs. Molla Mallory during the American championship tourney at Forest Hills, L. I. This match had aroused world-wide interest because of the fact that Suzanne had defeated Molla abroad a few months previously. Suzanne's adherents point to the score of that match—6-2, 6-3, to prove that she had already demonstrated her mastery over the American queen.

Louis Young, football coach at the University of Pennsylvania, and usually boss of a powerful team, believes that the new rule concerning the five-yard penalty for incompleted forward passes will cause more passing rather than reduce the number this season. But he believes that a short, swift pass will be used more extensively than the long daring ones of the past.

"One thing is certain," he says. "Coaches all over the country will have to perfect their defense against short passes and will also have to have men ready for long passes particularly if the defensive backs are drawn up close to the line of scrimmage.

"I believe, however, that the daring features of the forward pass will be virtually eliminated because there will be less chance taking. Coaches are going to instruct their quarterbacks to protect small leads by playing straight football, especially in important contests.

"The loss of five or ten yards when a team is in a tight place late in the game, with the score against them, will be nothing as compared with the possibility of a thirty-five or forty-yard gain if the pass is successful. That is why I believe that the spectators will see considerable forward passing in the second half."

More enlightenment on the matter of hitting, produced by Mr. Robert Fothergill, now leading the American league in batting.

You'll recall that Fothergill's views on the weighty matter of hitting technique ran something like this: "I just go to the plate and sock the ball."

Now the Tiger outfielder goes deeper into the matter. It was pointed out to Bob, that, as a righthanded hitter, he faces a longer trip to first to beat out hits than lefthanded swatters do.

"That's right," mused Fothergill. "But I try to overcome that, however, by hitting 'em so far that I can walk to first."

That is another angle of the business of hitting which has been met and handled capably by the happy Mr. Fothergill.

SOX TAKE BRACE

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Chicago ran its winning streak to six straight today by taking both games of a double header from St. Louis by scores of 3 to 1 and 5 to 1, both games were won by opportune hitting. C

Romonoff Takes Mantell For Beating In Straight Falls By Surprise Drive

Well, the great Dutch Mantell got beat.

The nation's favorite was licked in straight falls, too.

Sure, he lost albeit there're some who say his defeat was an unorthodox one that the referee had a lot to do with it. However, that's what they've always said regardless of who copped the decision.

Billy Romonoff, the popular New Yorker, who holds a verdict over Matty Matsuda, realized the revenge last night at the Eleventh and Ohio arena that he has sought for more than a month following one night here when Dutch kicked him in the ribs, knocking him down and then bounced on him for the deciding fall.

Taken By Surprise.

Mantell had all the better of the mill during the first 20 minutes or so last night, outroughing Romonoff who fought him at his own game, and dealing him gobs of misery. But the

> Said Dutch Mantell after the match:
> "You just wait until my eyes get well! I'll come down here and take care of these fellows!
> "I guess Ross is satisfied now. He's been trying all along to get me beat. I didn't want to wrestle last night, anyhow.
> "I haven't any kick about that first fall, but I wasn't even close to being pinned in the second. Romonoff didn't even have a hold on me. My shoulders weren't flat and even if they did go down at any time they were not for the full three seconds."

blonde Russian rallied and near the 25-minute stage began getting the better of the battle. He worked the burly Mantell into a number of tickish situations including a torturing step-over toe hold at one point, but his annexation of the fall came in a more or less peculiar manner.

For Dutch, Dutch, who makes it a specialty to trick and surprise his adversaries, was tricked and surprised himself. Referee Joe Kopecky had just broken the men from the ropes following a gruelling application of a toe hold put on by Romonoff. Mantell edged but a few inches or so from the ropes and started stalling with a shoe, apparently resting the mistreated foot and ankle Romonoff had been working on. Kopecky turned to the Russian and waved him onto the Dutchman.

Kopecky waved a couple of times. Only one was necessary. Swift as a photographer's flash, Romonoff pounced on his kneeling opponent, slammed on a body scissors and then grabbed a wrist lock. That was sufficient. Dutch's shoulders were down. Romonoff had won the first lap of his drive for revenge in 38 minutes.

Dutch Beats Self.

The veteran Mantell appeared slowed up on the comeback, possibly from rough mauling dealt him during the first clash. At any rate, although fighting back sturdily, Mantell ran second best. Romonoff outgeneraled him and outwrestled him and strangely, the Dutchman threw himself. In 24 minutes Dutch had worked into a prone leg split, and seemed for the first time during the return to be in a position to take the fall. But Mantell became over anxious or something, because he did nothing else but roll over and pin himself. Once on top, although Mantell had a split on him, Romonoff stiffened and Dutch's shoulders three seconds, according to the referee's went to the mat for the fatal three's ruling. Dutch had victimized himself.

The match proved a heavy crowd pleaser and came up minus many of the jarring episodes realized during several previous matches. The gathering was large and it was kept in an uproar during most of the set-to.

Joe Kopecky, who is a middleweight, failed to beat Yaqui Joe, the welter, twice within an hour, but he came so near to it that an honest wagering lad, if any, would hate to take the money bet against Yaqui.

The big fellow and the little fellow put on a riotous exhibition and a thorough satisfier throughout. Kopecky took a fall in 43 minutes with a hook strangle and leg scissors. When the hour was up, he had the Indian in a dangerous body scissors and seemed on the verge of forcing Yaqui to concede the fall rather than risk a set of splintered ribs.

Kopecky looks like he could make it exceedingly warm for Gus Anderson. Incidently, several fans called for Andersen last night.

Declares Husband Choked Her; Sues

At least one Wichita Falls husband has the habit of choking his wife if the allegations of that party in a divorce petition filed with the district clerk Thursday is to be believed. At the slightest provocation "hubby" would choke her unmercifully she alleges in the petition. The habit is made the grounds for a request for a divorce under the cruel and inhumane treatment of the marriage laws.

The petition was one of two filed with the district clerk Thursday. Five divorces were granted by Judge W. W. Cook of the 30th district court during the day.

Allred Returns

James V. Allred, who returned from the state democratic convention at San Antonio Wednesday evening, announced Thursday that he had returned to work, opening law offices in the Harvey-Snider building. He and his brother, Raymond Allred, will be partners in the new law firm.

Mr. Allred was anxious to correct any erroneous impression that might have been gained in the news that he would await the official count, and stated that he did not have any intentions of contesting the count, but, considering the close race, he merely preferred to await the official count before making any decision.

The convention at San Antonio was a very interesting one, he stated, especially in the tremendous ovation accorded Dan Moody.

Cops Capture 70 Gal. of Choc

Approximately 70 gallons of "choc" beer was confiscated by city police in a series of five raids conducted on Lake street and Tenth street in the early hours of Thursday night. Four of the raids were on Lake street and a fifth on Tenth street. Five arrests, four women and one man, were made, bonds being made in most of the cases for appearance in the corporation court this morning.

The "beer" was dumped out by the officers.

2 BILLS BEAT BACK FRENCH

Tilden and Johnston Win In Decisive Fashion Thursday

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—(AP) America's hold on the Davis cup, emblem of world tennis supremacy, seems secure for at least another year in the hands of her famous veterans, "Big Bill" Tilden and little Bill Johnston. Holding the ramparts today against the challenge of France on the courts of the Germantown Cricket club the two "Bills" beat back the invaders decisively in the opening two singles matches of the challenge round.

Tilden, in one of his rampant moods overwhelmed the "bounding Basque" Jean Borotra, ace of the French forces, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3 in the concluding match after Johnston, overcoming more spirited resistance had taken the measure of the methodical stroking Rene LaCoste at 6-0, 6-4, 0-6, 6-0.

Convincing Triumph.

These two convincing triumphs, watched by a colorful crowd of 9,000 spectators including the donor of the trophy at stake, Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis, gave America a commanding edge in the championship series. With only one victory out of the remaining three matches needed to clinch possession of the cup for the seventh year in a row the United States will pin its faith in the doubles tomorrow upon the team captain, Richard N. Williams and Vincent Richards. Their opponents will be Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, of the Wimbledon doubles title.

The final singles contest will be played Saturday with Johnston opposed to Borotra and Tilden facing LaCoste.

Although America entered the battle today a decided favorite, the clean cut character of her victories, leaving no doubt as to the relative superiority of the players, came unexpectedly.

Neither a Match.

Neither Frenchman was a match for his more experienced and resourceful American rival. LaCoste furnished the challengers their only ray of hope when he staged a rally that gave him the third set of his match against Johnston at love. "Little Bill" was obviously tiring and losing the fine edge of his control at this stage of the match but the refreshing influence of the rest between sets gave him the zest he needed to race through the fourth set and clinch the match.

Tilden's devastating defeat of Borotra seemed prompted by a desire to wipe out the memory of his torrid struggle with the Basque in the Davis cup play last year as well as to offset the defeat administered by the French ace indoors last winter. The tall title holder smothered his opponent with an onslaught of such baffling versatility that the Frenchman frequently stood helpless and bewildered in his tracks as Tilden's drives whistled past.

Days Are Bright For Rajah's Mother When Cards Rule the Roost

AUSTIN, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby and his St. Louis Cardinals in their stirring fight for the National League flag have no more loyal supporter than Mrs. M. D. Hornsby, the 63-year-old, invalid mother of the Cardinal manager.

Mrs. Hornsby is confined to her bed at the Austin home of her sister Mrs. Knox Johnson, seeking to gain enough strength to attend world series contests at St. Louis, should the Red Birds stand off the last rush of the Pirates and Red Legs. And the mother of the great St. Louis second sacker is confident her stalwart son will lead his mates to triumph, not only in the seething National League scrap, but in the world series play as well.

For nearly a decade Mrs. Hornsby has been an invalid, bed-ridden much of that time; but always she has been buoyed by the diamond exploits of "Rog" as she terms her son.

"My sister just lives baseball," Mrs. P. C. Schaefer, another sister, speaking of Mrs. Hornsby, told the Associated Press. "Each afternoon she is restless until she learns how the Cards came out. When they are on a winning streak life is bright for her, but when they are losing, she grieves."

Mrs. Hornsby keeps in touch with the Austin American, local member of the Associated Press and shortly after the baseball scores are received, she is told how the Cardinals fared.

Quite frequently she receives a telegram from her son, filed shortly after a game and relating some of the high lights of the contest. Such messages cheer her immeasurably, Mrs. Schaefer said. Last Sunday when the Cardinals trounced the Redlegs, 7-3, at Cincinnati and regained the peak Hornsby wired his mother, "we are going to win. I'm feeling fine."

Mrs. Hornsby was much worried over the fact that her son in one of Saturday's games against the Reds had collapsed after losing Zitzmann's fly in the sun.

Casper Ships Out 9 Trains of Gas

CASPER, Wyo., Sept. 9.—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana refineries loaded out of Casper in August nine solid trainloads of gasoline for the export trade. Each train consisted of 60 tank cars and each car had a capacity of 10,000 gallons, making the total shipments for the month 5,400,000 gallons. The gasoline is shipped through direct to Beton Rouge, La., by fast freight where it is loaded into ocean-going tankers at the docks of the Standard Oil company of Louisiana and thence sent across the Atlantic for distribution in European countries. Casper refineries have been shipping for export more than 100,000,000 gallons of gasoline annually for the last several years.

Texas Concern In S. Dakota Field

ABERDEEN, S. D., Sept. 9.—The Joshua S. Cosden interests have contracted with H. V. Meahon of Casper, to drill a test well for oil on the Weedman structure, in 16-9-17, about 19 miles south of Faith. The structure is one of three taken over recently from the Moreau Oil & Gas company which is controlled by C. H. Weedman of Faith. Weedman has been working early and late for the past seven years to get some one to drill a test well in the Faith district.

A. G. Reed, land man, and R. C. Williamson, drilling superintendent, of the Cosden company with headquarters at Fort Worth, Texas, were in Casper a week ago buying material and contracting for the well. Meahon has started moving material to the well site already and part will go by train and part by truck. It is expected that drilling will be under way inside of 30 days. Contract depth calls for 3,000 feet.

Henrietta Goes Ahead With Celebration as Storm Appears

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Sept. 9.—Henrietta went right ahead with festivities Thursday despite the setback given the day's program when it became necessary to again postpone the convention of the Red river district of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce because of heavy rains. Rainfall ranging from a quarter to three-quarters of an inch blanketed the entire district, making roads almost impassable, and early in the day it was decided to call off the meeting.

B. M. Whitaker, president of the convention committee, and E. H. Whitehead, publicity manager, conferred with J. M. Tetro, of Henrietta Chamber of Commerce, and it was decided to abandon the meeting for this year.

Elaborate Plans.

Elaborate plans had been made for the day at Henrietta. Large delegations from Wichita Falls, Iowa Park, Electra, Burkburnett and other points had planned to attend, and Iowa Park was going to turn out especially strong for the purpose of bidding for next year's convention.

Most of the social features of the day's program were carried through with enthusiasm, and large crowds of local people took part in the festivities. The band concerts and contests which were to have been a feature of the convention were held, Jacksboro and Decatur bands participating. Decatur won first prize in the band contest and was given $75, and Jacksboro took the second prize of $25.

Dance at Night.

A noon luncheon with speaking, and a street dance in the evening concluded the day's festivities, and while disappointed in not being able to have the convention was held by local business men, they all enjoyed the band concerts and the evening dance.

The convention was first scheduled for July and was postponed at that time, because of rains, until yesterday when again rain prevented the meeting, and as the time was getting late for such matters it was decided to call the convention off for the year. Announcement as to next year's activities of the district will be made from West Texas Chamber of Commerce headquarters within a few days.

LEGION SPLIT ON FIGHT ROW

Resolution Favoring Boxing In Texas Is Put To Convention

AMARILLO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The ghost of the famous Maher-Fitzsimmons prize fight, which resulted in a special session of the Texas legislature being called by former Governor Culbertson to prevent that fight, rose up today to plague delegates to the sixth annual convention of the Texas department, American Legion, now in convention here.

Despite opposition raised against a resolution which would place the legion on record as sponsoring boxing under the Ontario commission plan, the resolution was passed, 326 to 113.

Bitterly denouncing the resolution as a "vehicle by which Gutter Snipe fight promoters hope to ride into power," W. J. Johnson of Houston urged delegates to defeat the proposal.

In just as strong defense of the resolution were speeches by W. J. Rhinehart of Dallas, and Simpson of the resolutions committee.

Johnson assailed the resolution as a violation of the preamble to the legion constitution which requires each legionnaire to stand for "God and country."

"The minute the legion sets up a proposal like this it is setting aside the law we have sworn to protect," Johnson declared. "I defy anyone to say where the right of "God and country" is held by professional fight promoters. How can we maintain the dignity and keep spotless the name of the legion if we allow its name to decorate the ringside of professional prize fights?

"I have no objection to boxing exhibits, but I do object, and most vigorously, the undoing of the work of that great governor who called a special session of the legislature to prevent the Maher-Fitzsimmons fight."

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The cotton market was lower today under selling or liquidation and southern selling which seemed partly due to a more hopeful view of the weather outlook. December contracts sold off to 17.62 or 25 points below yesterday's closing quotations, and 65 points below the high price touched just before publication of the government crop report yesterday. December closed at 17.68, the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 18 to 24 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of one to ten points. Prices held fairly steady during the first hour on private reports of further rains in Oklahoma and buying orders brought in by the steadiness of the previous day. Offerings increased on very slight bulges, however, and the market weakened during the day on reports of increased southern hedging and a falling off in the demand from the trade in the local market.

October broke to 17.49 and January to 17.72, active months showing net declines of about 24 to 25 points, but at these figures there was a little more buying and rallies of 10 or 12 points followed publication of the detailed weather reports showing general rains in Oklahoma. Except for covering demand was limited and prices eased off several points in late trading under renewed liquidation and southern hedging.

A good part of the selling was attributed to liquidation of contracts bought yesterday morning or on the rally late yesterday but local brokers also reported an increased volume of southern hedge selling, while the apparent falling off in trade buying was supposed to be a reflection of the higher crop figures than expected yesterday.

A sharp break was reported in the futures market for Egyptian cotton in Alexandria which may have helped to explain the less active demand reported in the market here for foreign trade account.

Exports today 24,871, making 504,992 so far this season. Port receipts 33,060; U. S. port stocks 686,659 bales.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The cotton market was comparatively quiet to day presenting a considerable contrast to the activity of yesterday when the government report caused wide fluctuations. The trend of prices was reactionary owing to efforts on the part of ring trades to force liquidation of the long interest carried over the government report. After a steady opening the market eased off under hammering by shorts until prices showed losses of 50 to 54 points from the previous close. This decline attracted trade buying stimulated by the lower levels and by rains in the northwest, prices recovering about 12 points from the lows. This recovery was maintained until near the end when a renewal of liquidation caused a drop to within three to five points of the low. The close showed net losses for the day of 17 to 20 points. At the start Liverpool was a little lower than due, but the local market opened about steady, first trades showing a loss of one point to a gain of three points. The opening prices proved to be the highs of the day.

The market soon started to ease off despite rather fair rains in the western belt and a forecast for unsettled weather and before the decline was checked helped as it was both by liquidation and hedge selling October had dropped to 17.53. December to 17.60 and January to 17.66, or 10 to 24 points below the close of yesterday.

There was a rally of about 13 points later on trade buying helped by reports of rather considerable rains in Oklahoma. Most of this recovery was lost in the final trading.

Exports today 25,357 bales.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—All grains averaged higher in price today on the board of trade, short covering for a house with eastern connection being responsible for liberal buying of wheat which carried that grain upgrade. Corn and oats followed wheat largely because of unfavorable weather conditions at the finish wheat was up one to 1⅝c, corn had gained ⅝ to 1¼c, oats were ½ to ⅝c higher and provisions finished at the same as yesterday's close to 17½c advance.

Corn was sluggish most of the day and was a disappointment to friends of higher prices, the outside trade being slow. On the breaks, however, there was a fair demand from commission houses.

There was little activity in oats which merely followed other grain.

A fair demand gave strength to provisions.

DISMISSED; ELECTED

Deputy, Fired By Chief, Beats Him At Polls

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 9.—(AP) Dismissed from office as chief deputy clerk of Dunne court, Selam Fjelstad gained vindication at the polls Tuesday. Miss Fjelstad defeated County Clerk Austin Jolinson, who dismissed her, winning the Republican nomination by approximately 2500 majority. The winner is a daughter of the late George Fjelstad, defeated shortly before his death by Johnson. Johnson might have been unopposed for re-election if his former deputy had not been fired.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Alternate periods of weakness and strength characterized today's stock market with final quotations disclosing considerable irregularity. Business showed a marked falling off in volume, due to the observance of the Jewish religious holiday by many traders. Although the retention of the 4 per cent rediscount rate by the Boston federal reserve bank late yesterday helped to revive speculative confidence, the credit situation was still a source of uneasiness to many operators and investors. The New York federal reserve bank directors of which met after the close of the market today, also announced the maintenance of the 4 per cent rediscount rate.

There was nothing in the day's news to influence the movement of securities prices aside from the publication of a few earnings and sales reports which provided cumulative evidence of current prosperity in many lines of business. Trading was largely of a professional character with neither "bulls" nor "bears" able to gain any decided advantage.

Rails developed a temporary outburst of strength under the leadership of Chesapeake and Ohio, which advanced four points to 162¼, duplicating the recent high price established a few days ago prior to the deduction of the quarterly dividend. The preferred touched a new top at 161½, new 1926 peak prices also were attained by Kansas City Southern common and preferred and Chicago Great Western preferred.

U. S. Steel common and General Motors, two of the recent market leaders closed fractionally higher at 150½ and 217⅝, respectively. Several of the low priced motors, including Chandler, Chrysler, Dodge, Hupp, Moon and Jordan were heavy, the last named touching a new low for the year at 19½.

Despite the continuance of the 5 per cent renewal rate for call money, pool operations were vigorously conducted in a select list of specialties. Radio Corporation was bid up over two points to a new high at 52½, but later lost half its gain on buying influenced by rumors of important developments at the radio exposition which opens here next week. Warner pictures soared over seven points to a new record high price at 60⅜ in further reflection of the announcement of the opening of new theaters in Atlantic City and Chicago. Substantial gains also were recorded by Burroughs Adding Machine, Eastman Kodak, Onyx Hosier and U. S. Industrial Alcohol.

Selling pressure was effective against such issues as DuPont, Mack Trucks, National Enameling, Union Tank Car, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Wright Aeroplane all off two to 4½ points.

Call money held steady at 5 per cent all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were heavy. Demand sterling ruled fractionally lower around $4.845 and French francs fell back about five points to around 2.86 cents. Spanish pesetaas advanced five points to around 15.20 cents but the other European rates showed nominal recessions.

SCOUTS PLAN A BUSY FALL

Extension of Scouting In City One of Big Aims Now

Extension of scouting is the aim of the Boy Scouts of the city in their fall program which has been announced by Scout Executive Frank B. Creighton. Starting soon, a campaign for educational publicity among the scouts is to be featured; in October a training school teaching scouting, handicraft and games will be opened; a Patrol Leader's Conference will be held for all patrol leaders in the city; a program for junior boys between the ages of 10-12 is to be begun this fall; a campaign through troop committees for more and better scouts will be launched; and work through the churches will be the features.

Several hundred boys are already enlisted in scouting in the following troops: One, Episcopal church, Edgar Ellis, scoutmaster; two, First Methodist church, Bill McClure; four, First Christian, John Tevis; five, Catholic, no scoutmaster at present; seven, First Christian, Leo. Loeffler; eight, Floral Heights Presbyterian, Rev. E. F. McGaughey; ten, First Presbyterian, Dick Thompson; eleven, Floral Heights Methodist, Walter Nelson, Jr., twelve, Grace Methodist, Don Ross; thirteen, Temple Israel, Dan Friedman; fifteen, Highland Heights Christian, J. C. Powell; sixteen, First Baptist, Kenneth Erwin; sixteen, First Baptist, Winslow Beckham; thirty, colored boys, Willie Lea.

Prospects have been worked out for the following troops: Three, First Methodist church; six, Walnut Street Baptist; nine, Floral Heights Baptist; fourteen, South Side Baptist, eighteen, Lamar Avenue Baptist; nineteen, Yale Avenue Evangelical; twenty-one, Highland Heights Baptist; a troop for Scotland Park. Orginizations are expected to be perfected in a large number of these places within the next 00 days, Mr. Creighton said.

Troops are looking forward to the fall rally to be held next week at Bellevue Park. Each troop this year is to promote a Father and Son hike some Sunday afternoon, and a Father and Son banquet with the regional chairman to be the principal speaker, it was said.

Evangelist Here For Revival At 18th And Holiday

Evangelist A. E. Davis of Wilmore, Ky., arrived here today to begin an inter-denominational revival campaign on the corner of Eighth and Holliday streets. Evangelist Davis has conducted successful campaigns this summer at Temple, Houston and Waco, it is said. He was associated with Raymond T. Richey in the Houston campaign. "The Full Gospel Advocate" makes the following statement concerning his work there: "We are happy to add our testimonoy to the very excellent ones spoken elsewhere in behalf of our gifted and consecrated brother. Evangelist A. E. Davis. Evangelist Davis closed a series of meetings at the city auditorium annex, Houston Sunday night, with the altar filled with penitents and with the saints edified and built up in a most holy faith."

Last Sunday night the Rev. Mr Davis closed a four weeks' series of meetings at Waco, with representatives of every church in town co-operating.

A large tent is being erected and placed in readiness for the revival to begin next Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

COLLECTIONS LARGE.

August tax collections for Wichita county this year were surprisingly large, especially for the month of August. More than $58,000 was collected by Guy C. Raley, county tax collector, the state's portion being $23,865.23, and the county's share totaling $34,788.82.

The reason for the unusual collection was probably the payment of their 1925 taxes by several of the larger oil concerns that had withheld payment until settlement of disputes on road bonds.

CHARGES FILED

Charges of assault with intent to murder were filed Thursday by the district attorney naming Noba Newman, Electra negress, alleged to have shot her sister-in-law, Luella Newman in the course of an altercation yesterday. FAIR GROUNDS SHOWING LIFE

Clean-Up and Paint Squads Get Busy For Exposition

When the thousands of visitors gather at the fair grounds on October 2 to witness the opening of the 1926 Texas-Oklahoma fair they will behold a different ground from the one that met their gaze last year. The grounds are being transformed into a thing of beauty through the use of a clean-up squad and plenty of paint. All buildings are to be dressed in white, and most of the larger ones are already painted, while all will be clean and properly arranged inside for the exhibits.

Another big item of improvement is at the entrance gate. This gate served well when the place was an army camp but the entrance is too small for the thousands of cars which annually visit the fair. This entrance is being widened to permit as many as four cars abreast to enter at one time, and will prove most valuable in facilitating travel in and out of the grounds.

Practically all of the equipment for the loud speakers, which will be installed in all the buildings and at the grand stand, have arrived and work will begin next week on installing this equipment. When completed it will permit announcements and programs to be broadcasted throughout the entire fair grounds from one broadcasting point.

"Everything is going smoothly, Secretary-Manager R. E. Shepherd stated yesterday, "And I am still getting letters from the entire western area of Texas, promising a big attendance and many exhibits for the fair. I believe we will have a much greater fair this year than ever before, and hope we can take care of the thousands who will come here to attend the fair, in first class style."

STUDENTS ENROLL.

RULE, Sept. 9.—An unusual number of students registered here Monday for the opening of school. The enrollment in the grades was over three hundred, while those in high school numbered 138, an attendance never before approached in the history of the school. More than thirty of these high school students are from outlying districts.

BARR FUNERAL.

Local Courts To Start Next Week

The two Wichita Falls district courts are scheduled to see their first full week beginning next Monday since the beginning of summer with a full docket of criminal settings arranged for the 30th district court and a number of civil cases set in the 78th court before Judge W. W. Cook. The week will be a jury week for both courts and indications are at this time that each will be kept busy through next Saturday afternoon. A number of criminal settings have been made in the county court at law before Judge C. M. McFarland for the week also.

W.B.A. LEADERS VISITING CITY

State Officials Are Here To Arrange for Big Pageant

Mrs. Sallie Botzler, state commander of the Women's Benefit association, and Mrs. Mamie Vaughn, district deputy of Dallas, are in Wichita Falls perfecting arrangements for a pageant to be given October 7 at the Texas-Oklahoma fair, it was announced yesterday. Mrs. Jennie Little of Toledo, Ohio, pageant director, will arrive here September 15, to take charge of the performance.

An all-day meeting and 6 o'clock dinner will be held at the Kemp Tuesday, October 6. Delegates from Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Sherman, Denison, Amarillo and from points in Oklahoma are expected to be present.

The pageant is said to be the most spectacular pageant ever planned for this city. Mrs. Little has directed similar pageants in Los Angeles, Detroit, San Francisco and Chicago. Rainbow colors will be carried out in the spectacular event, and Mrs. Botzler will be crowned queen of Texas with 50 beautifully gowned women. Three hundred women and children of Wichita Falls are expected to participate.

PERKINS BABE FUNERAL HELD

Services Conducted Thursday at The Methodist Church

The funeral for Dorothy Joe Perkins, three-and-a-half-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Perkins was held Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the First Methodist church. Rev. Walter J. Johnson, pastor of the church, conducted the services, and was assisted by Rev. C. M. Simpson, presiding elder of the Sherman district, who baptised the little girl, and by Rev. Frank M. Richardson, presiding elder of the Wichita Falls district.

Music was furnished by a quartet composed of Joel H. MacGregor, Mrs. George Thorburn, Miss Mildred Martin and Grover Bullington, with Mrs. J. W. Akin, Jr., at the organ. Mrs. Thorburn sang a solo, "Jesus Wants Me for a Sunbeam," which had been a favorite of Dorothy Joe.

Pall bearers were R. D. Kennedy, Oral Jones, W. B. Hamilton, C. W. Snider, N. H. Martin, L. H. Cullum, J. L. McMahon and N. M. Clifford. The body was placed temporarily in the mausoleum of Judge A. H. Carrigan in Riverside cemetery.

The child died Wednesday afternoon at the residence, 1501 Tenth street following a short illness.

HOME DESTROYED.

Fire practically destroyed a vacant residence at 2615 Pennsylvania avenue at about 8:30 Wednesday evening, and the home of Joe Ross, 2613 Pennsylvania, who owned both houses, was damaged slightly. The damage, which was placed at about $1,500, was covered by insurance.

Marketing Expert Addresses Rotary

"The keynote you will have to contend for in the Wichita Irrigated valley is quality products," George Crawford, of the agricultural experiment station of College Station told members of the Rotary Club Thursday at noon at the Kemp when he spoke of his observations of the irrigated area near Wichita Falls. "Quality always succeeds and that is a principle to keep in mind.

"Find out what product grows best in the soil, and grow a quality plant, using the best seeds and cull the plants. Some have discussed organization for distribution only, but your organization should be along production and quality," Mr. Crawford declared.

Competition in selling is on all sides, he said, and he spoke of the Rio Grande irrigated valley which can produce vegetables in December and January. "From the standpoint of quantity, they have you cornered, but for quality of products, you can get your vegetables to northwest Texas and southern Oklahoma in better condition than they can be received from the Rio Grande Valley."

The speaker was introduced by Guy R. Jones, county agricultural agent. Leonard Grayson was in charge of the entertainment for the day, and introduced Mr. Jones. J. H. Allison introduced Charles Buckingham of London, England, who proved none other than the impersonator, Fred Ekberg of Dallas who entertained with a number of humorous dialect readings, including the English viewpoint of an American ball game, a story of the windstorms in Swedish dialect; the negro preacher on "Eternity," and others.

J. S. Pitman introduced the male quartette of the First Methodist church, Joel H. MacGregor, E. F. Bohmfalk, Francis M. Hansen and H. W. Gray who sang a group of negro folk songs concluding with a popular number.

NEW STUDENTS WILL REPORT

Junior High Pupils For The Coming Year to Go Friday, Saturday

All pupils of the junior high school, those of the seventh and eighth grades who have come to Wichita Falls to live since the close of last school year, are asked to report at the junior high school building at Eleventh and Broad Friday or Saturday, H. A. Glass, principal, announced yesterday. Classification of those students will be made on those days, he said.

Should these new students wait until Monday for classification, they will be delayed, for classification of the students who were in the local school last school year will be Monday and Tuesday.

Fourteen hundred boys and girls of junior high school are expected to enter Monday morning, Mr. Glass said.
