Spannaus to head airport

The Webb Steering Committee and the City of Big Spring announced today that they will hire Col. Harry Spannaus, wing commander at Webb Air Force Base, as the new city airport and industrial park director.

Col. Spannaus will take over management of the city's operation at Webb after the Air Force mission is ended. "I don't think the city could have found anyone more capable and competent than Col. Harry Spannaus to manage the airport and industrial park," said Mayor Wade Choate, who also chairs the steering committee. "We are looking forward to working with him."

The steering committee, a group of nine Big Spring men who will handle the transition from the Air Force to the city, began its search for a qualified person to operate the Webb facility by the appointment of a subcommittee headed by banker Jimmy Taylor, and including attorney Roger Brown and businessman Clyde McMahon Sr.

The subcommittee talked with Col. Spannaus and reported favorably back to the steering committee, which met last week in executive session with members of the city council.

The steering committee unanimously recommended that the city employ Col. Spannaus as airport and industrial park director.

Spannaus said that the decision to leave the Air Force after 26 years of service was naturally a difficult one to make.

"When you retire from military service, one of the main adjustments that has to be made is the loss of your many 'blue-suited friends,'" said Spannaus, "but here in Big Spring I believe that my wife Mary and I have made enough friends so that we feel that we will become an accepted part of the community."

Spannaus will be salaried by the City of Big Spring in his new job, and will hold the same job level as assistant city manager. As a city employee his salary will be $18,000, plus certain fringe benefits made available to all city employees according to City Manager Harry Nagel. He will be eligible for a pay raise based on merit.

Col. Spannaus explained that he had been offered a job in Korea with the Air Force which would have meant a career advancement for him, but because of the challenge of the Big Spring progress effort, and his many friends in Big Spring, he said he has accepted the new job without any reservations.

Spannaus is married to the former Mary Ann McKee of Hutchinson, Minn. They have three children, Terri (Mrs. Timothy Dunn), Kathi and Mark. Kathi is now enrolled at Texas Tech University, and Mark attends the Big Spring High School.

WING COMMANDER HIRED — Col. Harry Spannaus, left, will be hired by the Webb Steering Committee and the City of Big Spring to be director for the new city airport and industrial park. City Manager Harry Nagel, right, congratulates Spannaus. Spannaus will retire after 26 years in the Air Force.

Legislature adjourns

Time runs out on school bill

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Legislators who had 140 days to pass a public school finance bill waited until the last half hour of the last night to vote on it and — in anger and perhaps conscience — killed it.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe conferred with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Bill Clayton but emphasized, "I have no commitment to call a special session."

He said he would have an announcement today.

Hobby carried the $900 million school bill to the front of the chamber at 11:33 p.m. Monday. Those on the floor and in the packed gallery hushed as Sen. Oscar Mauzy began his explanation. "I haven't read it, and I don't know what's in it," said Mauzy, chairman of the five-member Senate committee that began May 21 trying to reach a compromise with five House members.

He said he had had the compromise proposal for only about half an hour and "couldn't in good conscience vote" for it.

Mauzy, D-Dallas, was interrupted by a messenger who told him the House had refused to debate the bill. The 92-55 vote was short of the two-thirds necessary.

Mauzy talked until midnight, refusing to let his colleagues vote on the House-Senate conference committee report, although Sen. Tom Croighton, D-Mineral Wells, pleaded with him to permit senators with rural districts to make a record on the bill.

Also dying at midnight — just needing Senate approval for passage — was a $53.3 million tax relief bill. It would have raised the inheritance tax exemption from $25,000 to $200,000 and eliminated or reduced the sales tax from gas and electricity bills for households in December-January-February.

"Wouldn't you say this is tokenism's finest hour?" asked Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, in stalling a vote on the bill.

McKnight's delaying tactics stacked up an $18 million retirement bill for veteran law officers.

Also left pending because of filibuster threats in the Senate were bills to restrict charges on directory assistance calls, to fund teaching hospitals and to set up Texas' second presidential primary in 1980.

The other major issue of the final day, an attempt to reduce medical malpractice insurance rates, was sent to the governor. The House approved, 141-1, a conference committee report putting a $500,000 cap on awards to injured patients, plus unlimited medical and custodial expenses.

The Senate approved the report, 29-2, although Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, referred to the bill as an "orphan" because it had three different sponsors this session.

Also sent to the governor were weakened versions of two major parts of his anti-crime package.

One bill allows the use of tape-recorded oral confessions as evidence in criminal trials — but only to challenge the testimony of a defendant.

The other requires parole-type supervision of convicts who are released early because of "good time" but who are not paroled.

Judges could not grant probation to persons convicted of kidnapping, rape, sexual assault or robbery if they injured their victims or used a deadly weapon in committing a felony. Persons imprisoned for violent crimes or for crimes in which they used weapons could not count "good time" toward their parole eligibility. This means they would have to spend a third of their full sentences or 20 years in prisons, whichever is least.

Legislators sent Briscoe a bill removing a section of the Texas Open Records Act that provides up to six months in jail and a $1,000 fine for divulging information held confidential by the act.

For the first time, Texans who are compelled to sue government agencies to obtain public documents could have their attorneys' fees and court costs paid if they win.

Also sent to the governor were bills that would: —Put an American Indian on the three-member Texas Indian Commission.

—Establish a $10.25 fishing license for nonresidents, other than Mexican nationals carrying visas and fishing in coastal waters.

—Require new buildings to have ramps or ground-level entries to make them accessible to the handicapped.

In the 16-hour final day, senators chose Sen. Don Adams, D-Jasper, as assistant presiding officer of the Senate. "He is fair, honest, honorable — just a great young man," said McKnight, one of five senators who spoke in Adams' behalf.

Senators also voted to study before their next regular session the feasibility of a refinery tax. To the glee of liberals, an amendment was added to study a corporate profits tax.

Rep. Sam Hudson, decided on the final day to break his 86-day fast, taking a bite from an apple out of the mouth of a roasting suckling pig. He said he also planned to eat a hamburger, doughnut, vegetable soup and mustard greens with cornbread dumplings — "something I've dreamed about."

Hudson, D-Dallas, fasted to dramatize his claim that his bills were not being heard in committee.

The legislature adjourned in memory of the late governor Coke R. Stevenson.

And, as the Rev. Frank Walker prayed in opening the final day in the Senate, "140 days is a long, long time."

Jail nearer for Mitchell, Haldeman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to block temporarily the imprisonment of former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and ex-White House aide H.R. Haldeman.

The court's action means U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica could send the two powerful figures of the Nixon administration to prison very soon.

The court, without comment, denied a request by attorneys for Mitchell and Haldeman that they remain free pending a request that the Supreme Court reconsider hearing their challenge of convictions stemming from the Watergate scandal.

Airline exec shot at while dusting crops

R.E. McClure, vice president of Trans Regional Airlines, reported being shot at while crop dusting for Agair Co. Friday.

McClure told sheriff's deputies he had heard the shot while flying over Eubank and Gatesville Rds., at 8:50 p.m. but he had seen no one on the ground. Deputies located a hole in the underside of McClure's plane which they estimate to have been made by a .38 caliber slug or a 30-30 rifle bullet.

The sheriff's department is running a survey of the area to attempt to locate the sniper.

Court won't rule on canal zone power

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to immediately consider whether the Carter administration has the constitutional power to surrender control of the Panama Canal Zone to Panama.

The justices turned down a request by six members of Congress and a U.S. citizen living in the Canal Zone that the court expedite consideration of their appeal from a lower court.

The appeal charges that the President and secretary of state have no power to enter into a treaty giving away control of a U.S. territory. It claims that such power is reserved specifically for Congress by the Constitution.

The U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington last month upheld a lower court's ruling that the suit was not "ripe for judicial determination."

In seeking a quick review by the Supreme Court, the congressmen argued that not only is the constitutional question "ripe," but that it may be rendered irrelevant very soon because of the Carter administration's commitment "to a completed treaty proposal which will deliver the Canal Zone or some major part of it to the Republic of Panama within the next few weeks."

The court's action today does not mean the court never will consider the merits of the appeal. The justices still can vote to hear arguments in the case at a later date.

The lawsuit challenging the administration's power to take such action was filed in January 1976 by Sens. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., James McClure, R-Idaho, and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., Reps. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., Lawrence McDonald, D-Ga., and Gene Snyder, R-Ky., and William R. Drummond, a civilian living in the Canal Zone.

Ethiopian pilot recalled

The last of our Ethiopian student pilots at Webb AFB was recalled by the Ethiopian government and departed the base last Friday without having completed his training.

The leftist Ethiopian government ordered the United States to close its military attaché's office in Addis Ababa, cut its Embassy staff by half and the Marine guard detachment by two-thirds earlier this month.

The actions, for which no explanations were given, followed the expulsion of 300 Americans late last month and the closure of five U.S. facilities by the increasingly pro-Soviet, Marxist military rulers of Ethiopia.

The first three Ethiopia student pilots arrived at Webb last September to begin T-38 training and completed the local phase of their work April 19.

The fourth student arrived in January and was in the midst of his training here when the unusual action was taken by the Ethiopian government.

Search here for escaped prisoner proves futile

COLORADO CITY — A search for an escaped murderer in Big Spring this morning brought no results and Billy Wayne Williams of Colorado City is still at large, after getting out of Mitchell County jail Monday afternoon.

Local law officers and a deputy from Colorado City put a cordon around the house of William's sister in Big Spring this morning, but he was not at that location.

Williams escaped around 3:45 p.m. when a Mitchell County deputy brought him downstairs in the jail to give him medication. When the deputy stepped into the next room to get the medication, Williams was "gone like a shot" according to Sheriff Bill McGuire.

The prisoner was being held without bond in Mitchell County jail for Nolan County officials, charged with the murder of his wife in Sweetwater.

Williams, who had his 27th birthday in the jail Saturday, was raised in Colorado City and played basketball at Colorado City High School.

Officers checked at the home of his brother in Van Horn Monday night and he was not at that location.

Sheriff McGuire said "Other than checking at the homes of known friends and relatives, leads are slim. He simply disappeared."

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Expires in '78

QUESTION: In a recent Herald, a story said that the superintendent of the Andrews schools, Norman H. Hall's contract was not renewed. The Herald reported that the contract expires June 1977. The Odessa paper said his contract expires June 1978. Which is correct?

ANSWER: The Odessa paper is correct. School officials in Andrews say that the contract expires in June 1978 and that Dr. Hall will remain as superintendent until that time.

Offbeat: Statue wins race

JESSUP, Pa. (AP) — Just as he has done for the past eight centuries, St. Ubaldo has won a race among three statues shouldered by scores of husky young men in a tradition brought to America from Italy by immigrants.

The race is traditionally held on May 16, St. Ubaldo's Day, in the town of Gubbio, Italy. But the race was held in this Lackawanna County town over the weekend.

St. Ubaldo, bishop of Gubbio about 1100 A.D., converted the German invader Frederick Barbarossa to Christianity. By converting Barbarossa, he is credited with saving Gubbio from destruction.

His statue has been allowed to win the annual race ever since.

Free Amtrak rides

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amtrak, the government-subsidized rail passenger service, will offer free train rides to children aged 2 to 11 beginning June 1 in nine cities.

Amtrak said Monday the only condition is that the child be accompanied by a paying adult. The program is scheduled to run through Nov. 30. Only one child may ride free with each adult paying full fare. Other children aged 2 to 11 can ride at the normal half fare. Amtrak said children under 2 will continue to ride free.

The free rides for older children are in exchange for coupons that Amtrak said would be published today in newspaper advertisements.

Amtrak said the rides may extend in any direction from Albany-Rensselaer, N.Y.; Seattle; Houston; Dallas; Ft. Worth, Tex.; Louisville; Nashville; Cincinnati; and Washington, D.C.

The special children's tickets will not be good for the holiday periods of July 1-4, Sept. 25, Oct. 7-10, Oct. 21-24 and Nov. 23-27 and also will not apply to discounted fares such as excursion fares or U.S.A. Rail Pass.

Chip, Caron to England

LONDON (AP) — President Carter's son Chip and Chip's wife, Caron, will be guests of Prime Minister and Mrs. James Callaghan at Britain's version of the bicentennial. The British are celebrating the Silver Jubilee of Queen Elizabeth's reign. The younger Carter and his wife will be in Britain June 6-12, a British spokesman said.

Chip, 26, will attend a number of events, including the Jubilee Thanksgiving service at St. Paul's Cathedral on June 7.

The Carters are also scheduled to watch a Jubilee regatta and fireworks display on the River Thames on June 9 and, two days later, they will be the guests of the Callaghans at the Trooping of the Color ceremony.

Jubilee draws stars

LONDON (AP) — Ballet and opera stars from many countries gathered to pay tribute to Britain's Queen Elizabeth II as she began the final two weeks of the Jubilee observance of her 25th year on the throne.

The British Broadcasting Corporation televised her attendance at a Monday night Royal Opera House performance, which it was broadcasting live throughout the United Kingdom and Europe and via satellite to the United States for later broadcast.

Prince Philip, Queen Mother Elizabeth and other members of the royal family sat with the monarch in a horseshoe-shaped balcony draped with garlands of flowers and ferns. Hundreds of tiny jewels sewn onto the queen's evening gown sparkled under the bright television lights.

Rudolf Nureyev and Dame Margot Fonteyn danced the world premiere of a one-act ballet, "Hamlet," created for the Jubilee by Sir Frederick Ashton, former director of the Royal Ballet.

Opera stars Placido Domingo of Spain, Boris Christoff of Bulgaria, Sir Geraint Evans of Wales and Richard Cassilly of the United States sang, and dozens of singers and dancers performed elaborate production numbers staged for the single night.

Re-enacts 'boats' flight

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — Capt. Charles Blair will do again Wednesday what he first did 37 years ago — take a flying boat across the Atlantic.

Blair will take a World War II vintage flying boat to Lake Derg, Ireland. His actress-wife Maureen O'Hara will be one of about 17 passengers on the 22-hour flight, which includes a two-hour refueling stop in Newfoundland.

In 1940, Blair tested a proposed U.S.-Britain commercial route by flying a Catalina seaplane across the Atlantic. This week's journey will be in "The Southern Cross," one of the few British-built Short Sandringham flying boats still in existence.

Hunting for clues that caused fire

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — The mayor of Southgate said today he was "not sure" whether the Beverly Hills Supper Club had undergone a routine fire safety inspection during the year before a fire killed 160 persons.

Mayor Ken Paul, who had said Sunday that he was "positive" the club had been checked for possible violations within the last six months, declined to confirm that statement at a news conference.

"I'm not sure," Paul told reporters. "I'm just not going to say anything that's not true. We're reviewing our records and the law."

Meanwhile, as further evidence that the hunt for bodies has given way to a search for clues as to the cause of Saturday's fire, a truckload of unused body bags was carted away from the disaster scene today.

Late Monday, a giant crane began ripping down the brick and wood facade, finishing what the fire started.

It revealed the original colonial face of what had been one of the Midwest's slickest nightspots, perched on a 17-acre bluff across the Ohio River from Cincinnati. Officials got their first look inside the Zebra Room, just above where the fire is thought to have started in a basement boiler room area.

They saw rubble but no bodies. Red Cross volunteers standing by sighed in collective relief. It had been their job to put charred corpses into body bags before transport to a makeshift morgue in a nearby Fort Thomas, Ky., armory.

Southgate Fire Chief Dick Riesenbergh said he is "absolutely certain" the rubble will yield no more victims.

Drummer, his wife returned to flames

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — Each made it through the thick, choking smoke to the night air outside the burning supper club. But each returned to the flames, thinking their loved one was still inside.

Everett Neill Jr., 27, a drummer in the house band at the Beverly Hills Supper Club, and his wife of two years, Paula, 23, perished Saturday night along with 158 others, including four other band members.

Mrs. Neill often sat off-stage while her husband performed. When thousands of nightclub patrons rushed for the exits after the fire was reported, she made it outside and waited for Neill.

When he did not appear, she went back into the building after him.

Meanwhile, Neill had made his way to safety at another point. He waited a few frantic seconds, then decided to go back to search for his wife.

Moluccans to give up their guns?

FRENCH GET THE SPIRIT — A model of the Spirit of St. Louis, foreground, which will be presented at Le Bourget Airport June 2 in commemoration of Charles A. Lindbergh's 1927 solo flight across the Atlantic, is shown with the Anglo-French Concorde supersonic plane at Roissy Airport near Paris, today.

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — South Moluccan terrorists holding 55 or more hostages aboard a Dutch train have asked the government for "intermediaries" to discuss their demands, a Justice Ministry spokeswoman said today.

Observers thought the request from the terrorists on the train might open the way to decisive negotiations. Several psychiatrists have been in contact by telephone with the Moluccans, listening to their demands and transmitting to them the government's reaction. But they are representatives of the government.

Officials said the Moluccans offered Monday to release their prisoners if they were supplied a plane to take them to another country. The Justice Ministry spokesman said the Moluccans were told they would have a better chance of getting a plane crew to take them if they also gave up their weapons.

There was no indication where the Moluccans might want to go or that any country was willing to give them refuge. One unconfirmed report said they might ask to go to Vietnam, but a government spokesman said that destination had not been mentioned in the negotiations.

Seven to 10 Moluccan extremists are holding between 55 and 57 hostages on a commuter train they took over May 23 outside Assen, in northeast Holland, while four others are holding four teachers in the Bovensmilde elementary school 10 miles to the south. The terrorists in the school released 105 children last Thursday and Friday after many of them became ill with a stomach ailment.

Violent deaths close to 50 mark

Violent deaths in Texas over the Memorial Day weekend neared the 50 mark today as most residents resumed their daily routines. At least 46 persons died violently during the three-day holiday, with traffic crashes accounting for most of the victims.

Among deaths recently reported: Two persons were killed in separate accidents in Sulphur Springs Monday afternoon and night. Sharon McKeever, 20, of Sulphur Springs was killed when a car hit the bicycle she was driving and an unidentified man died when his motorcycle was hit by a car.

Hortensia Serna, 52, of Houston died Monday of injuries she suffered Sunday in a two-car collision on a city street. Police said Kahlil Gaines, 2, was killed when he ran between two parked autos into the path of an oncoming car in Dallas Monday.

Public hearings on sanitary landfill locations for Big Spring, Ackerly and Forsan will be held Wednesday in Big Spring. The Texas Department of Health Resources will hold the hearings on the applications for permits for municipal solid waste landfills.

Taking advantage of taxpayer?

As I opened the mail last week, a clipping from Newsweek Magazine fell out.

Attached was a note from Tom Frey of Sterling City Route in Big Spring. Frey wrote:

"Now and again the Herald seems pro-Carter. Therefore, I wonder if the Herald will print this article which shows what 'good ole Jimmy' is doing with our tax dollars. After all, it's our money."

THE ARTICLE SAID that while President Carter is "tight as a tick" in many ways, stripping White House aides of limousines and color televisions, he last month granted a pay increase averaging 20 per cent to most of his closest aides, prompting what Newsweek called "an embarrassing wave of criticism."

The magazine says a dozen mid-level assistants now draw salaries that seem extravagant for their ages, their experience and, sometimes, the demands of their jobs. It quotes one junior aide who did not get a raise as saying, "The salaries bear no relation to reality. It's an abuse of taxpayers' money."

Newsweek said that few people who argue that Carter's inner circles of aides — such as Jody Powell, Hamilton Jordan, Stu Eizenstate and Robert Lipshutz — is overpaid at $56,000.

But then it goes on to point out some examples where critics feel aides are overpaid. Some are:

—Richard Hutcheson, 25, who earned only $6,000 in his previous job at the Democratic National Committee. He oversees the White House paper flow for a salary of $42,500.

—Rex Granum, 26, left a $24,000 a year reporter's job in Atlanta for Carter's campaign. He makes $48,500 as deputy press secretary.

—Betty Rainwater, 30, who is deputy assistant for research, at a salary of $42,500.

—Tim Kraft, 36, earns $51,000 as Carter's appointment secretary.

—Greg Schneiders, whom Newsweek said began the campaign by carrying Carter's suitcase and now earns $48,500 as director of special projects. Schneiders, 30, lacks a college degree and probably could not earn such a salary outside government, Newsweek says.

—Barry Jagoda, 33, who is a media adviser making $42,000.

—Richard Harden, 32, in-house accountant at $51,000.

—Bob Russell, 31, earns $42,500 as a congressional liaison aide.

Newsweek said the White House pay scale is traditionally linked to pay in Congress, and when Congress recently okayed a 29 per cent pay raise for itself, counsel Lipshutz called for similar raises in the White House.

BUT THE PRESIDENT balked, running his fingers down the list and saying, "Look, people are being overpaid. What is this business?"

So Lipshutz proposed a compromise, and Carter agreed with the lower levels (those above, believe it or not). In what Newsweek called a "tortuous press release," the White House then claimed it had saved taxpayers $166,000 by not granting the full increases.

All the publicity about White House salaries and about misuse of money during the Administration's changeover period has really hurt the Carter effort to convince the public (not to mention the Congressmen) that he will indeed be frugal. It is easy to be tight when it comes to other persons' projects, but how about his own?

There was no excuse for the abuse of travel funds last winter by using them to provide unethical income for staffers until they could get on the payroll.

ONE OF CARTER'S campaign attacks was that the White House itself was costing the public too much, and he promised to reduce the staff.

But has he? Under President Ford, the White House staff made less money and was smaller, 510 compared to President Carter's 590.

Carter says the large staff is only temporary, but it makes him look deceitful and foolish nonetheless.

The Herald editors, like all Americans, hope that Carter will be a truly great President and solve the problems this nation faces, but this newspaper did not endorse Carter, nor will it hesitate to criticize him when he is wrong.

The abuses of his White House staff have been wrong. One aide defended them by saying that the salaries were not out of line when compared with the rest of the government.

But Frey's penciled comment on the bottom of the article says it all: Yeah, but are they out of line with the rest of the U.S. taxpayers?

Baseball quiz

Around the rim

Troy Bryant

In Texas, football is known as THE sport. Texas has more high school football teams, football players and football game attendance.

But lately, baseball has made somewhat of a comeback, though not challenging football as numero uno, yet.

TO HELP keep up with the growing popularity of the sport at all levels, from pee-wee to pro, take this little quiz and see how far you go.

Passing this quiz won't automatically make you an aficionado, but it won't hurt.

1. What was Babe Ruth's real name?
2. What is the absolute least number of pitches by one team required in a regulation, nine-inning game?
3. From what state did "Dizzy" Dean hail and what team has he spent most of his career with?
4. The following teams have changed locations and names, what were they called before? San Francisco Giants, Oakland A's, Texas Rangers, Milwaukee Brewers.
5. No outs, bases loaded, a line drive ball is hit to the third baseman. What does he have to do to execute an unassisted triple play?
6. When can a batter get a run-batted-in (rbi) without having an official at bat?
7. What team is the only one to win four consecutive World Series titles?
8. Who won the first World Series

(1903)?

9. Who is presently the Major League's smallest player and how tall is he?

10. In what years of the Big Spring team win the Longhorn League Championship?

I hope you didn't cheat. If you got all of them right, you're in the wrong business unless you work for the Baseball Hall of Fame. Consider yourself average if you get five right, but if you got fewer than five correct, you need to do some studying.

The answers: 1. George Herman Ruth 2. No pitches (baseball rule book says a batter is out if he switches sides of the plate while the pitcher is on the rubber. If 27 batters on the other team did that, the game would end without a pitch thrown.) 3. Arkansas and the St. Louis Cardinals 4. Brooklyn Giants, Kansas City Athletics, Washington Senators and Seattle Pilots. 5. Catch the ball (batter out), step on third (to put out the runner going home) and tag the runner coming from second to third.) This is not likely to happen because the runner would probably make it back to second safely.) 6. When he walks with the bases loaded. He gets an rbi, but no at bat because of the walk. Also if he hits a sacrifice fly which scores a run. 7. New York Yankees, 1936, 37, 38, and 39. 8. Boston Red Sox 9. Fred Patek, Kansas City Royals, is five feet, four inches tall. 10. 1947, 1948 and 1949.

Sans souci

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — As if we didn't have enough to worry about in Washington, it is now rumored that the Sans Souci Restaurant is no longer the "in" restaurant since the Carter crowd arrived in town. The nation's two leading newspapers, Women's Wear Daily and The National Enquirer, have both reported that the Sans Souci is out and a Carter appointee wouldn't be found dead there.

THIS CAME AS a terrible blow to the elite clientele who eat lunch there every day. Those of us who have been dining through five Administrations have always considered the Sans Souci the power center of the country.

We believed that no important decision was made in the government without it first being discussed at our restaurant over rognons de veau and Dover sole, served with either a respectable Mouton Rothschild or a chilled bottle of Pouilly Fuisse.

High-priced Washington lawyers and higher-priced Washington lobbyists did their business under the watchful eyes of high-priced columnists and television commentators.

The Sans Souci became synonymous with big government and power politics. KGB agents used it to plant stories on unsuspecting newspapermen. World Bank officials met with ministers of finance to negotiate multimillion-dollar loans. Heads of conglomerates used it to plot strategy against SEC regulations. Contractors worked over Army and Navy procurement officials to land contracts. New tax shelters were designed on the white tablecloths.

There was no doubt in anybody's mind that if you wanted to make a deal you had to come to the Sans Souci.

The publicity that the Sans Souci was not the "in" restaurant any more hurt us all. Every day we sat at our tables waiting, hoping, praying that someone from the Carter Administration would walk through the door.

THE REAL PROBLEM for all of us was that no one knew what a person from the Carter White House looked like, and even if he did come there we wouldn't be aware of his presence.

Just the other day someone came in the restaurant in a leisure suit and sneakers. We all became excited because he was talking to Paul, the maitre de'hotel, with a Southern accent and he didn't seem to have a reservation.

"It could be one of them," a lobbyist at the next table said to me excitedly. "He seems to be shuffling."

"Carter people don't shuffle," I said. "They have style. Didn't you read Pat Caddell's memo?"

"I HOPE PAUL gives him a table. Wouldn't it be terrible if the first Carter person ever to come to Sans Souci couldn't get in?" he said.

"Poor Paul," I said. "He's in a quandary. He has no way of knowing if the guy's a cotton farmer from South Carolina or Carter's national security adviser for Southeast Asia."

Separate beds poor birth control method

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please help me. I am 32 and do not want any more children. I can't take the Pill and cannot have the I.U.D. replaced anymore. My doctor advises me to have my tubes tied.

Can you tell me something about having it done in a doctor's office, and about what the cost might be. It is not covered by my insurance. Also, would I need my husband's consent for this. He's against it, and says we should sleep in separate beds. I don't know what to do now. —J.W.

I think the procedure you refer to is the "bandaid" surgery for tying tubes. An instrument is inserted through a tiny incision in the abdominal wall and the tubes are tied or cut. Whether it is an office or hospital procedure is up to the surgeon.

While a doctor would undoubtedly want to discuss such matters as your husband's feelings about the procedure, actual consent by the married partner is required in only a few states. You'll have to check your own state's laws.

I can't estimate costs from one area to another, but they usually are not prohibitive. The procedure is a relatively simple one. If you are concerned about costs, check with a Planned Parenthood group, if there's one in your town. There may be a clinic with modest fees.

Tell your husband that separate beds rank lowest on the scale of effectiveness as a birth control method. However, there are options open to you — the condom, the diaphragm with spermicidal cream, and others.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has been told he has glaucoma. He has been on pills for it. Please send me any information you have on the subject. Will a special diet help? —Mrs. S.M.

The eye is filled with a substance called "aqueous humor," and the body regulates the volume. We don't know why, but often the volume builds up and pressure is exerted on internal eye structures. That's glaucoma. Caught early enough it can be treated successfully. If you'd like more information, I suggest you send for my booklet, "Cataracts and Glaucoma." Enclose 25 cents for printing and handling, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald. Diet is not a factor, except that liquid intake at night should be kept down.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a new Christian, having just come to faith in Christ as my Saviour a few months ago. I feel I am growing in my faith, but I want to know how I can grow more. Do you have any suggestions? —R.T.

DEAR R.T.: I'm glad you realize that you must grow in your relationship to Christ. Just like a newborn child needs to grow and become strong, every believer in Christ needs to grow spiritually.

The wonderful thing is that God has given us the spiritual food that we need for our spiritual growth. First, God has given us the Bible, His Word. You may already be reading your Bible, but it should become the foundation of your Christian life. Job said, "I have esteemed the words of his mouth more than my necessary food" (Job 23:12). Peter said: "As newborn babes, desire the sincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby" (1 Peter 2:2).

Get a translation of the Bible that you find easy to understand, and set dissolve them.

I'd like your opinion, because I am upset and worried about all this. I was very pleased to learn you are now with our local paper, because I have read your column in other papers for years whenever I could. I have written you before and have been satisfied with your answers as well as your booklets. —Mrs. M.G.W.

A chalazion (Ka-LAY-zee-on) is a cyst in a gland of the eyelid. The duct of the gland becomes plugged, usually from a previous inflammation, and matter collects to form a small painless lump in the lid.

Unfortunately, heat and local medication will not help. The cyst is removed through a tiny incision in the lid, which can be done in the office. You might consider seeing an eye specialist (ophthalmologist) for another evaluation. Thanks for the vote of confidence, and I'm pleased your paper is now carrying my column. The more the merrier.

aside time each day to study a Bible passage. You might want to begin with one of the Gospels, such as John. Pray over the passage you read, and ask God to guide you as you study, and help you to apply it to your life. Also, I have found it very helpful to memorize verses and whole portions of the Bible.

God has also given us the privilege of prayer. You are now a child of God, and God wants to hear His children talk with Him. God wants you to learn to bring everything that concerns you to Him in prayer. "Pray without ceasing. In everything give thanks; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you" (1 Thessalonians 5:17-18). As we learn to trust God in prayer, we grow in our relationship to Him.

God has also given us other Christians to help us. "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ" (Galatians 6:2). You need to become part of a fellowship of other believers. They can help you with spiritual problems and encourage you to grow.

No more informants

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The Internal Revenue Service has relied upon confidential, often controversial informants to provide the leads that have helped convict mobsters across the country. It was also an informant who supplied the inside information that cracked the biggest corporate fraud case in tax history against the Fruehauf Trailer Company.

BUT THE INFORMANT program is now in jeopardy. For two years, the General Accounting Office has been secretly studying the use of confidential informants and undercover agents. The final report, according to our sources, will criticize the program.

Former Commissioner Donald Alexander became disenchanted with informants after two disagreeable experiences:

1: Under Operation Sunshine, an undercover agent collected $54,961 to eavesdrop on bar conversations in Miami and Ft. Lauderdale. The operation produced allegations, none of which could be substantiated, against 913 people.

2: Under Project Haven, an undercover informant stole records of a Bahamian bank where wealthy tax evaders stashed their money.

Internal Revenue sources have defended both operations. But Alexander reacted by angrily slashing the funds for informants. The forthcoming report could lead to further cutbacks. Any more cutbacks, insiders warn, could cripple federal law enforcement efforts.

Footnote: The study was ordered by the Joint Congressional Committee on Taxation reportedly at Alexander's instigation.

GRAND NEPOTISM — Chile's dictator Augusto Pinochet, who prides himself on his reputation for financial integrity, has been accused of trying to throw his nephew a multimillion-dollar deal. A confidential commercial document indicates that the dictator designated his sister's son, Rafael Saavedra Pinochet, to negotiate a $100 million loan for Chile. Such a deal could bring the middleman a finder's fee of over $1 million.

Sources in the banking community believe Chile sought a 10-year loan at a moderate interest rate from European banks. But apparently, the dictatorship settled for a $125 million loan at less advantageous terms from a consortium of Canadian, Latin American and New York banks. We understand the nephew did not profit from it.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

Our 4-week-old baby was admitted to a local hospital a week ago, dying. The decision was made to transfer him to a hospital in Odessa. The ambulance was called.

It was at least 45 minutes before the ambulance arrived. We were in near panic!

Fortunately after 5 days in an Intensive Care Unit in the Odessa hospital, our baby passed the critical point.

My concern is for the other unfortunate people who must rely on such ambulance service as we received. As large as our town is, it would seem we could have an adequate ambulance service.

Please, whoever is in a decision-making position, do something about it.

It's money time again and nation notices Mahon

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the time of year when the nation notices George H. Mahon.

Late every spring, Mahon shepherds the congressional appropriation bills to the floor of the House, and people realize that he, as much as anyone except the President, is deciding how the federal government spends its $460 billion annual budget.

Then Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee for a longer continuous time than anyone in the history of the republic, retreats back into the private niche he and his seniority have carved. "I have never sought publicity, generally speaking. If you're making a career of public service and you dedicate yourself to getting your name in the paper every day, the people will grow weary and tired of it," said the Democrat from Lubbock, Tex.

He is a native of Loraine in Mitchell County and began his political career as district attorney for Howard and Mitchell Counties.

Indeed, for most of his 43 years in an arena where powerful egos vie for the limelight, Mahon has had no press aides, issued no press releases, and called no press conferences.

His Appropriations Committee and its defense subcommittee, which he also chairs, have shunned the spacious, brightly lit meeting rooms in the new House office buildings. They meet in the cramped quarters of

H-140, a room in the oldest section of the Capitol. There is no space inside for television cameras and few reporters. Mahon's subcommittee holds its important meetings behind closed doors, for security reasons.

Partly for that reason, it is difficult to gauge the extent of Mahon's power. As chief custodian of the nation's purse, he is obviously one of the most influential men in Congress.

But both Mahon and close observers say he is not as powerful as he once was or might be. "Don't quote me on this, but there is a lot of potential power in his job that he doesn't use, because of the type of person he is," said one committee staffer, who characterized Mahon as a passive man who sought to avoid controversies and fights where possible.

Mahon sees it as a matter of style and circumstance. "You can't undertake to throw your weight around too much without using up the capability to get things done," he said.

Mahon has not, as chairman, imposed his will on the national budget. He would like to see it balanced, but he has presided over the greatest deficits in history. He is a conservative on social issues, but spending for social programs has grown rapidly.

Generally speaking, Mahon said, this is due to the decentralized structure of the committee and his own inclination to cooperate with the 11 subcommittee chairmen rather than push them.

"You take Health Education and Welfare. On that subcommittee, you learn about all the illness and diseases that need cures and you tend to become more interested in those kinds of things. It's difficult for a subcommittee to keep from becoming more or less a prisoner of the agency it represents," he said.

Mahon's own special preserve in this process is the defense subcommittee, which controls the Pentagon budget. He has been its chairman since the late 1940s.

Mahon's regard for the military started early. He recalls that he first felt the call to public service as a young boy on a farm in West Texas when he read biographies of America's military heroes.

When he first became chairman of the full Appropriations Committee in 1964, Mahon assumed the right to pick members of the subcommittee. Like the chairmen before him, he used that power to give the subcommittee "a group of people you thought you could work with."

That power has been stripped from committee chairmen in the reform movement of the 1970s. Now subcommittee assignments are bid upon. But, Mahon says, members tend to gravitate toward the subcommittee which tends to their interests. The defense subcommittee is largely filled by men with a sympathetic interest in defense spending.

Within that group, Mahon has been able to tend to defense issues both large and small. He looks after both the B-1 bomber, an embattled major weapons system, and the A-7E, a light fighter which the administration wants to stop buying. It will nonetheless find the money for 12 new ones in the House budget next year. The plane is manufactured in Texas. "I think the great thrill that comes to any politician is the thrill of getting something done that's worthwhile. It doesn't have to be something big. It can be something small," he says.

In an era when young House members have tossed the most famous of the baronial old committee chairmen into retirement or obscurity, there has never been a move against Mahon. "He's too fair and too much a gentleman," says one liberal on the committee.

At 77, Mahon, a self-styled "apostle of the strenuous life," has resisted the encroachment of age better than all of the contemporaries who came with him to Congress when the New Deal was getting off the ground.

He has always been a strict Methodist who neither smokes nor drinks. He and his wife of 55 years, Helen, "live far from the social whirl of Washington," as he puts it. Mahon likes to walk, play golf, and listen to recordings of Mozart, Beethoven, and other classicists.

He has not been entirely successful at remaining young. His once black hair is stubbornly giving way to gray, and his back is stooped as he walks slowly through the tiled halls of the Capitol. His golf handicap has gone from 7 to 20. When reporters ask him questions about the defense budget, aides often whisper the answers in his ear before he speaks.

But he refuses to discuss the possibility of retirement, noting only that his father lived to be 97.

"I've just played things as they came along. In 1934, when I was first elected, I thought I'd like to serve at least two terms so as not to be considered a political accident. And I've been so busy since that here 42 years have passed and it just seems like yesterday that I came to Congress."

Leftist kidnapers due to free envoy

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) — The release of El Salvador's kidnaped ambassador was awaited today following fulfillment of the "sole condition" set by his leftist kidnapers, the reading of a five-page statement from them to the annual meeting of the Inter-American Development Bank.

The statement denounced the conservative military governments of El Salvador and Guatemala, criticized the bank and other development agencies and accused President Kjall Eugenio Laugerud's Guatemalan relief funds after the 1976 earthquake that killed more than 22,000 Guatemalans.

The statement also charged that the kidnaped man, Eduardo Casanova Sandoval, kidnaped and murdered hundreds of "patriots and revolutionaries" in El Salvador during the 10 years he headed his country's army.

The 1,200 delegates to the Inter-American bank's annual board of governors meeting sat silently at their opening session Monday as the statement was read to them in Spanish and simultaneously translated into English, French and Portuguese.

A bank spokesman said the kidnapers promised to free the ambassador and not to molest the delegates to the meeting if the statement was read. However, the El Salvador embassy said no further word had been received from the kidnapers late Monday night.

Casanova Sandoval, 58, was abducted Sunday as he and his wife drove home from a restaurant. The statement said his kidnapers were members of the Guerrilla Army of the Poor, said by police to be made up mostly of leftist Guatemalan students. In their statement they said they were aligned with the Farabundo Marti Popular Liberation Front in El Salvador, which said it was responsible for the kidnaping and murder of Foreign Minister Mauricio Borgonovo six weeks ago.

Bread prices rising

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher middleman charges are driving up retail bread prices at a time when farmers are getting much less for wheat than they were a year ago, according to the Agriculture Department.

The average retail price of a one-pound loaf of white bread nationally in April was 35.7 cents, up half a cent from March.

According to USDA's Economic Research Service, the April loaf of bread contained 2.7 cents worth of wheat, down from 2.9 cents in March. The total for all farm-originated ingredients such as shortening and sugar, including wheat, was 4.6 cents a loaf, against 4.7 cents in March.

The middlemen's share or "farm-retail spread" of prices between farmers and consumers, meanwhile, increased from 30.5 cents a loaf in March to 31.1 cents in April.

In another report, the agency said the average price of a loaf of bread in the first three months of this year was 35.3 cents, the same as in the first quarter of 1976.

The big difference, however, is that the farm value of wheat in a loaf of 35.3-cent bread in the first quarter of 1976 was 4.4 cents, and 2.8 cents worth in the first three months of this year.

Thus, farmers received 36 per cent less for their wheat over the span of a year, middlemen increased their margins and consumers wound up paying the same, according to the USDA analysis.

The Council of Wage and Price Stability said recently that the nation's biggest bakers have failed during the past three years to pass on to consumers the declining cost of making bread.

The council said retail bread prices rose 49 per cent between 1972 and 1975, mainly because wheat prices doubled during that time. But the council also said wholesale bread prices have continued to rise since 1974 "despite the significant decreases" in the prices of basic farm commodities used in bread production.

Moreover, the council said, the profits of wholesale bakers reached a five-year high of 13.1 per cent of investment in 1975, compared with an average of 9.9 per cent for all manufacturing. It said that profitability for bakers appeared to have leveled off in 1976.

Japan imports feed grain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Planned increases in Japan's livestock industry point to "a steady, if not spectacular" rise in that country's feed grain imports, according to the Agriculture Department.

Japan, the biggest foreign buyer of U.S. farm commodities, is expected to purchase $3.8 billion worth this fiscal year, compared with $3.4 billion 1975-76.

Alva L. Erisman of USDA's foreign Agricultural Service said in a report published Monday that Japan is boosting its feed imports an estimated 5 to 7 per cent this year to about 19 million metric tons. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

"The livestock industry is almost entirely dependent on imported feedstuffs, and the most efficient converters of feed — poultry and hogs — have spearheaded the remarkable growth in Japan's livestock industry," Erisman said.

Egg prices are down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer egg prices are down from their winter peaks, but will start rising again later this year, Agriculture Department analysts say.

Egg production dropped during the severe cold of last winter but now is edging up, resulting in lower prices, the department's Outlook and Situation Board says. Prices "will strengthen seasonally" by next fall but probably will not match last year's levels, officials said.

Wholesale egg prices in New York, which are used as a guide by USDA, averaged 78.4 cents in the last three months of 1976. The forecast for the fourth quarter of this year is 68 to 70 cents a dozen.

The wholesale price averaged in the first quarter of this year was 74.9 cents a dozen, and the estimate for April-June is 58 to 60 cents, the report said. By the third quarter, eggs may average in a range of 63 to 65 cents and continue up the remainder of the year.

Carter couldn't shun 'stop' sign of kids

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — The sign said: "Mr. President, please stop." He couldn't resist.

So Jimmy Carter waded hip-deep into a gaggle of screaming school children who ambushed him on his way back to this off-shore Georgia resort from bidding his wife, Rosalynn, farewell on her Latin American tour at the nearby Brunswick, Ga., airport.

The President's tan-and-cocoa limousine stopped abruptly on the main road. Secret Service cars braked to a halt behind. Carter climbed out, took 9-year-old daughter Amy in town and started patting heads, shaking hands and hugging shoulders.

He told two or three score youngsters, "Thank you all for stopping me. I'm glad to see you all."

The children had been excused from classes at the roadside Brunswick Christian Academy, for children from nursery school through the eighth grade.

"I don't want you all to get mad at me now, because you're out of class," Carter grinned.

He walked onto the grassy roadside with Amy, who looked downcast and lonesome for her mother. He led Amy into the squealing youngsters and introduced her. "Here's Amy." But the President's daughter was too shy to leave her father's side.

After he and Amy autographed a bound copy of Carter's campaign biography "Why Not The Best?" for teachers, the President said:

"I think we better go, because we've got traffic held up all the way to Savannah."

Frazier joins AHC as development exec

SOMERVILLE, N.J. — R. Mack Frazier has joined the Agricultural Chemicals Department of American Hoechst Corporation's Agricultural Division as a commercial development representative.

He will be responsible for the company's Hoelon herbicide experimental program on wheat and barley grown in North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Eastern Montana.

Hoelon is a new postemergence herbicide developed by American Hoechst Corporation researchers. The herbicide is being tested under an Environmental Protection Agency use permit for the control of wild oats and other annual grasses on spring seeded wheat, barley and soybeans.

Before joining American Hoechst Corp., Frazier was a sales manager for Vertac, Inc. in the southwest. The native of Big Spring graduated from Texas A&M University in 1970 with a bachelor's degree in animal

I work in billing and I can tell from people's comments that they're concerned about their bills.

Even though I know why they're higher, mainly because of higher fuel and construction costs, I'm concerned about mine, too.

That's why the last couple of years we've been trying to wrap our house in insulation. We've put six inches in the attic and three in the walls. It's really helped.

Series teach teens parenthood

By ROY WOOD
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The abuse and the neglect of children in today's society troubled Dr. Peggy B. Smith. She was convinced most of the efforts dealt only with the battered baby, where hopefully the broken bones would mend and the bruises fade away.

"Nothing was done to reach deep back and identify the problem," she said in a recent interview.

"I believed the real answer was to touch the lives of those who someday would be parents, and that meant going to the teenagers, those in the junior high schools, and there develop a sense of parenthood."

Dr. Smith, a native of Dallas and now an assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the Baylor College of Medicine, also said statistics revealed that in 1974 nearly 5,000 Houston area teenagers have birth — 25 per cent of the city's total birth rate.

"And the Houston experience is not unusual," she said.

"This is a national phenomenon. The incidence of teenage parenthood increases at the age of 15 to 16, so it was necessary to get proper parenting information to these adolescents."

Dr. Smith developed a classroom television series on how to be a good parent, blending together discipline, nutrition, daily living styles, and economics.

Sex Not Worth All The Trouble

DEAR ABBY: I am a 36-year-old liberated woman. I've tried sex and I don't dislike it, but it's not worth all the trouble.

Sex never was a very important part of my life, but most people think there is something wrong with a person who doesn't have a strong sex drive.

I am not frigid; I am very affectionate. I can lie in my lover's arms and enjoy the feeling of closeness, but if it doesn't culminate in the sex act, it's all right with me.

Am I weird? Or do you understand what I'm saying?

CONTENT

DEAR CONTENT: I understand what you're saying, and you are NOT weird. I think you are an intelligent, honest woman who values love above sex. No need to apologize for it.

DEAR ABBY: I clipped and saved the above from your column because I felt exactly the way CONTENT felt, and I applauded your answer.

I am a woman in my 50s, married 25 years, and I have a happy home and family life with my husband and three college-age children.

Knowing that a 36-year-old woman also felt that sex isn't worth the trouble gave me a great deal of comfort. So much emphasis is placed on sex these days that one gets the feeling that it is the ultimate in a relationship, and that love, understanding and affection are not enough.

How about running a survey, Abby? It would be interesting to find out how many women (and men) feel that sex is not really worth the trouble. Let's hear it from...

THE AFFECTIONATE SILENT MAJORITY

DEAR SILENT: Were I to ask my readers for responses to the question of how men and women feel about the importance of sex, the results would not be conclusive because: (a) those who readily volunteer information about their sex lives tend to be exhibitionists and therefore not typical; (b) I suspect that people lie about their sex lives more than any other subject.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a six-unit apartment house that is small, so we have gotten to know our neighbors.

My next-door neighbor is my problem. It seems that his biggest enjoyment in life is going through the trash barrels that sit on the side of our apartment building. These barrels contain the trash of everyone residing in this building, including my own.

How do I deal with this annoying situation?

N. HOLLYWOOD

DEAR NORTH: I fail to see how your neighbor's fascination with his neighbors' trash could present a "problem" to you. If it's his "biggest enjoyment in life," why not regard it as a weird and somewhat childish pleasure, and let it go at that.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PHILOSOPHY MAJOR": Schopenhauer, the great philosopher, said: "It is easy to let the adulation of the Diety make amends for the lack of proper behavior towards men. And so we see that in all times and in all countries, the great majority of mankind find it easier to beg their way into heaven by prayers than to deserve to go there by their actions."

Church speaker to meet with fellowship

Mrs. Aquilla Wilkins, Longview, will guest speak at the Monday, June 6 meeting of the Odessa Chapter of Women's Aglow Fellowship.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at 510 N. Grant Street, Odessa, according to Mrs. Carol McCord, publicity committee.

Ms. Wilkins is well-known throughout the Southwest as a speaker to church groups of various denominations. Her ministry relates largely to the Christian and divine direction in living a spiritual life.

The Women's Aglow Fellowship of Odessa is part of an international Christian organization of women whose aim is to minister to the individual needs of families on a personal level. Included in the ministries of women of all denominations.

Changes predicted for beauty salons to suit more women

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The beauty salon as we have known it may be on the way out. More emphasis will be put on giving a woman what she wants, at a price she can afford and within the time at her disposal.

That prediction comes from Jean-Louis David of Paris. American salons are already in such an atmosphere of change, the well known hairdresser points out.

"There will be new possibilities in a beauty salon, expensive and inexpensive," as he sees it. "Like dress designers who offer both couture clothes and ready-to-wear; a new kind of beauty salon will offer to pamper at a price, or a woman can merely have a hair-do without the extra services — manicure, pedicure, whatever."

The quick service is already operating at Henri Bendel, a fashionable New York retail store, where Jean-Louis has opened his first American salon, two of his top stylists will hold the fort there when he travels.

"It does not mean that only particular women will gravitate to those services," he explained. "A woman may want the ambience of deluxe service occasionally, stretching her budget to get it, and a woman who can afford lots of pampering may want to avoid herself of quick service from time to time."

In a way, the alternate beauty salon idea is designed to appeal to many women who might have done their hair at home to avoid fuss and expense.

But other things have changed. In fact, Jean-Louis has introduced some spectacular hairdos that take on new form. "Geometrics are out," he said. "It's a new kind of long hair — sexy, anti-coiffeur, natural."

He illustrated it on his wife, Danielle. After cutting the long hair in an oval

Planters topic of meeting

The trash that now occupies the space in the once filled planters in the downtown area was the topic of discussion at the business meeting of the Council of Big Spring Garden Clubs last Thursday.

Johnny Johansen was appointed to investigate either plants or shrubs to fill the planters.

At the meeting, which met in the home of Mrs. O.S. Womack at 1 p.m., the members unanimously voted to conduct a Spring Flower Show in 1978. The date of the show will be April 29-30, 1978.

Officers for the coming year were elected. The new members in charge are Johnny Johansen, president, Mrs. Alpha Morrison, vice president, Mrs. S.J. Kamm, recording secretary, Mrs. O.T. Brewster, treasurer, Mrs. Paul Guy, chairman of Spring Flower Show, Mrs. Mildred Sanders, co-chairman, and Mrs. J.J. Balch, general chairman of flower show.

Mrs. James D. Johnston, installed the new officers, around a "Pet Rock" theme. Mrs. Johnston told them to keep their Pet Rocks close by as they would not talk back to them and offer guidance in decisions at hand.

The Council will not meet again until September unless a meeting is called by the new president.

Body of girl unidentified

CORSICANA, Tex. (AP) — The badly decomposed body found Sunday on Chambers Creek by two fishermen is no longer believed to be that of a Dallas youngster missing since Feb. 11, according to Navarro County Sheriff Jerry Shelton.

Investigators had first thought that the skeletal remains found in shallow water along the creek to be that of seven-year-old Ladina McCoy, who disappeared while on her way to school.

Ladina was reportedly wearing a white blouse and red slacks when she disappeared. The same color clothing was found on the body.

Dallas authorities took the remains back to the Dallas County medical examiner's office for tests and a complete autopsy. Medical Examiner Dr. Linda Norton said testing would not be completed before Tuesday and she did not anticipate any announcements before then.

"They called me today and said they were 95 per cent sure it wasn't her," said Shelton. "The size of the clothing doesn't match. I understand that Ladina was wearing a size seven blouse. The blouse found on the body was a size four."

Shelton said his office will conduct a new search of the area around the creek for additional clues as to the victim's identity.

"We haven't had any children reported missing around here in a long time. We've sent out teletype wires across the state asking for any information about others missing. This body was definitely that of a white female, about four to seven years old."

"I'm just speculating but this may be an unreported thing or an extreme case of child abuse."

JFK birthday celebrated

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — More than 100 tourists and neighbors gathered at the late President John F. Kennedy's birthplace here to celebrate what would have been his 60th birthday.

"The need for courageous leadership in the John F. Kennedy mold is more critical than ever," said Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass.

The memorial observance at the Brookline house Sunday also included remarks by clergy; local politicians; David Kennedy, 21-year-old son of slain Sen. Robert Kennedy, and David Powers, close friend of the late president.

Visitors heard the recorded voice of Rose Kennedy recount the day John was born, and family stories of the years in the house at 83 Beals St.

Kennedy was 46 when he was assassinated in Dallas on Nov. 23, 1963.

Three to pick poet laureate

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby named three senators to choose a poet laureate for Texas, and each looked at him with a shocked expression.

Seldom at a loss for words, Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, commented, "It's poetic justice."

"There's no rhyme nor reason to it, senator," responded Hobby.

Schwartz will be joined by Sens. W.E. Snelson, D-Midland, and Grant Jones, D-Abilene, in seeking a Texas poet to be honored.

Teen drowns in waterhole

MOSQUERO, N.M. (AP) — A Tulia, Tex., youth drowned Sunday while swimming with friends in a waterhole on a ranch near here, police said.

They said Alfred Cordova, 15, was pulled out of the water by his friends, and Tucumcari medical examiner Billy Stitts tried to revive him with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but the boy was dead on arrival at a hospital in Springer.

Officers said Cordova yelled for help, but that his friends thought he was joking.

Air travelers get break on overseas baggage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just in time for summer vacation, new rules are going into effect permitting travelers on most overseas flights to carry a lot more luggage.

Beginning Wednesday, free baggage allowances on most flights will be based on the number of pieces a passenger is carrying and on their size rather than on weight, the Civil Aeronautics Board says.

Passengers holding first-class tickets will be allowed two bags, each limited in size to no more than 62 inches, plus a 45-inch carry-on bag. The size of a bag is the sum of its length, width and depth.

Economy-class passengers can check two free bags, totaling 106 inches, provided that neither exceeds 62 inches. They also are entitled to a 45-inch carry-on piece of luggage.

Based on standard baggage sizes, the total of 106 inches would permit a passenger to carry free of charge a man's two-suit and a three-suit. The 45-inch would match bags designed to fit snugly under an aircraft seat.

Present free baggage allowances on overseas flights limit first-class passengers to 66 pounds and economy class to 44 pounds. In the latter case, that usually limits a passenger to one checked bag and one small carry-on.

For several years, U.S. airlines have permitted travelers on domestic and Caribbean flights two large checked bags and one carry-on, with no weight restriction.

The new rules apply to most countries, but exclude travel between the United States and countries in Central and South America. A CAB spokesman said several Latin American airlines are declining to participate because they can make money on excess baggage charges.

Other countries not participating are the United Kingdom, Spain, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Iran, Yugoslavia, Nigeria, the Philippines and Pakistan. Travel from these countries will be covered by the old weight-based baggage regulations unless special tariff rates are filed by individual airlines. British Airways has filed such a tariff.

First Lady talks to cane cutters

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Rosalynn Carter visits a former U.S. sugar plantation now owned by the workers today following talks with Jamaica officials about their economic problems, Cuba and the weather.

The U.S. First Lady, after ending the first day of her seven-nation Latin American tour in official receptions and private meetings with government officials, gets out in the countryside to talk to cane cutters who have become manager-owners of the third largest sugar plantation on the Caribbean island.

The Bernard Lodge sugar cooperative, formerly owned by United Brands, is a cornerstone of Prime Minister Michael Manley's democratic socialist program aimed at bridging the gap between rich and poor. Its worker-owners who got $1.50 a day when Manley was elected in 1972 now earn $5.30 a day.

The visit to the cooperative was the only provision in Mrs. Carter's official schedule for her to come in contact with the Jamaican masses. But she was mobbed by an enthusiastic crush of children Monday on her way from the airport when Prime Minister Manley stopped their car briefly so she could greet the youngsters who had been let out of school for her arrival.

A light drizzle was falling as Mrs. Carter arrived from Georgia, and Manley apologized for the lack of sun. But he said since his guest came from a farming community, she "would appreciate that rain after three years of drought was a very good thing for Jamaica."

The weather shrank the number of invited guests at an official outdoor dinner party at the prime minister's home from more than 200 to fewer than 50 and forced them inside. But Mrs. Carter said she'd like to take some of the rain home to Georgia,

"where we've had to stop planting peanuts because of the drought."

The First Lady had a three-hour working lunch with Manley and leading members of his government. She said she covered all the issues listed in her notebook for discussion — Cuba, the Panama Canal, energy, trade policies, human rights and Jamaica's economic problems.

Mrs. Carter said she was "really pleased" with the conversation, which her press secretary, Mary Hoyt, described as "brisk, candid, informal and substantive."

Relations between the Jamaican government and the Nixon and Ford administrations were rocky because of Manley's socialist policies and his close ties with Fidel Castro's Communist regime in Cuba. But Assistant Secretary of State Terence Todman, who is traveling with Mrs. Carter, said that close association enabled the Jamaicans to provide information that would be "extremely useful" in the future normal relations between the United States and Cuba.

Ridin' fence

Here comes June

with Marj Carpenter

Another month is gone and I usually end the month with an assortment of miscellaneous reports on activities I passed by while out ridin' fence.

Things have been happening thick and fast — some of them good, some of them really tragic. I really think I should comment briefly on the passing of Howard Dodd. There are fire marshals and fire marshals, and he was a good one.

Back in the early weeks of 1976, when a grass fire on a windy day suddenly spread over 16 blocks on the north side, it was Howard Dodd who directed the battle of that blaze. He advised where to send which fire department and in what area to place the emphasis. A lot of homes were saved and there were no serious injuries.

He seemed to be everywhere at once that day. That may have helped shorten his life, but I do think somebody needs to say to the family that we appreciate the life of Howard Dodd.

Some folks live a lifetime and do nothing they can claim as really good. But just that one day, Howard Dodd did so much good for so many people.

And speaking of many people, it was really refreshing to me to see people giving from the heart with love — the presentation of the van to the Kenneth Williams was something special.

It's not too often nowadays you get in a room filled with that much good will.

My apologies to Barton, the high school band hall ghost whom I referred to as Arthur the other day in a column. Barton promptly sent me a black flower arrangement. He may be trying to tell me something.

Somebody that's due congratulations and as thus far had very little announcement is the Howard College Rodeo team, who have won a bunch, and are going to the national finals.

Speaking of rodeo, the annual rodeo is coming up soon. They are needing some float entries for the parade on June 22.

The Black and Gold game got everybody to thinking football. It's not that long until football season. Wish we could get a little bit of really go-ginning spirit going.

I was talking the other day to Diana Scrimshire, who runs the little hamburger and coffee shop in the 100 block on E. 3rd.

She's from Artesia, N.M., a small town that has won the state championship so many times, they can't paint all the years on the water tower.

She says they take their football so seriously there that a doctor will almost refuse to accept as a patient a pregnant woman expecting a baby during the football season.

They don't want to take any chances of getting called out on a Friday night.

Hope we don't play "Which came first the chicken or the egg again this season." By that I mean that the local fans say, "We'd go if they'd win." And we might ought to try the other tack one year. "Maybe they'd win if we'd go."

Anyway, that's my thoughts as we go into June — out where I'm ridin' fence.

Officials halt search for woman, daughters

FREER, Tex. (AP) — Officials called off a search late Monday night for a woman and her two children who were thought to be the victims of an abduction after they were reported safe.

A Duval County Sheriff's department spokesman said Maria Elena Tovar and her daughters, Belinda, 12, and Ludy, 7, were back at their Freer residence Monday night.

Earlier Monday, authorities said Mrs. Tovar, who was scheduled to testify about drug activities before the Duval County grand jury, was taken along with her two children by an armed man.

Officials quoted neighbors as saying the three were led at gunpoint by a man from a residence in this South Texas city.

The sheriff's office spokesman said he had been told the Mrs. Tovar said nothing had happened.

He added that he did not know if authorities would want to talk to the man involved in the alleged abduction.

Duval County Sheriff Raul Serna said after the reported abduction, a sheriff's deputy followed the car containing the four individuals to Alice, 35 miles to the southeast, where the deputy lost contact with the car.

Last week Mrs. Tovar testified in a divorce proceeding in San Diego, Tex., that she wanted a divorce because her husband sold marijuana.

State District Court Judge Richard Garcia granted the divorce and told Mrs. Tovar she should tell a grand jury anything she knew about her husband's activities.

Dist. Atty. F.A. Cerda said last Tuesday that Mrs. Tovar would be called before the grand jury this week.

The Department of Public Safety cancelled its search for the car and the missing persons at about 11:30 p.m.

Big Springer receives degree

Darlene Marie Greer of Big Spring received a bachelor of business administration degree from McMurry College Abilene, in spring commencement ceremonies recently.

McMurry is a four-year liberal arts college jointly owned by the Northwest Texas and New Mexico Conferences of the United Methodist Church.

Addressing the 111 graduating seniors at McMurry commencement was Dr. Maurice Cecil Mackey, Jr., president of the Texas Tech University.

The Reverend Claus H. Rohlfis received an honorary doctor of divinity degree. Rohlfis is a United Methodist minister and a member of the faculty at Southern Methodist University's

Astros smash league leaders

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston pitcher Joaquin Andujar has learned to keep his temper and his fast ball down and the results have been similar to Monday night's 5-3 five-hit victory over the league-leading Los Angeles Dodgers.

"If Cincinnati had given me a chance I would be a 20-game winner by now," Andujar said after handing the Dodgers their third straight loss of the season. "But I think I'm going to make it this year anyway."

Andujar came to the Astros last season after spending seven colorless years in the Cincinnati farm system. One of the raps on Andujar was he couldn't control his temper enough to become a major consistent major league winner. But Andujar had everything under control Monday night, including his fast ball and curve.

Andujar, 5-3, went 8 1/3 innings, allowing only five hits before turning the game over to Ken Forsch, who retired the side for his sixth save of the season.

"I wasn't tired," Andujar said. "I was pitching as hard in the eighth as I was in the first."

Houston hitters supported Andujar with a 4-0 lead in the second inning. Singles by Enos Cabell, Art Howe and Cesar Cedeno each produced runs and Dodger second baseman Ted Martinez' error allowed Howe to score the fourth run.

A comedy of Los Angeles

miscues helped Houston in its big second innings. Two of Houston's hits were off the glove of third baseman Ron Cey. In the same inning, Enos Cabell became involved in a run down between first and second. Cliff Johnson, on second at the time, took off for third and slid safely under the tag of Ron Cey while Cabell advanced safely to second.

Johnson was involved in more comedy in the sixth when his bat sailed out of his grip on a third strike, bounced on top of the Dodger dug out and into the lap of comedian Redd Fox.

The Dodgers rallied with one run on Steve Garvey's sacrifice fly in the fourth and Dusty Baker's two run homer in the seventh. But they couldn't overcome Houston's big second inning surge.

"That (Houston's second inning) was the whole ball game right there," Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda said. "(Doug) Rau pitched all right but it's mentally tough to come back from four runs behind."

It was the first time this season the National League Western division leading Dodgers had lost three games in a row. The Cincinnati Reds handed LA its first series loss of the season over the weekend.

OUT AT THE PLATE — Seattle Mariners' Steve Braun finds himself blocked out at the plate as he is tagged by Texas Rangers catcher Bill Bahey during seventh inning action in the first game of a double header at Arlington, Texas Monday. Action took place as Braun came around from first to home on a double by teammate Rupert Jones.

Rangers lose two to Mariners, Lucchesi storming after game

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Who's managing the Texas Rangers? Is it majority owner Brad Corbett? Is it executive vice president Eddie Robinson? Is it manager Frank Lucchesi?

An incident in the Ranger clubhouse Monday night between games of a humiliating doubleheader loss to the Seattle Mariners pinpointed the current chaos swirling about the talented but sinking team.

Lucchesi stormed out of his dressing room after a first game loss, yelling for pitching coach Sid Hudson. Three sports writers heard Lucchesi then holler for third base coach Connie Ryan, yelling, "You know the (bleep, bleep)."

Then Lucchesi shouted, "He should be general manager instead ... of executive vice president."

Asked if he meant Robinson ... and that if he meant "manager" instead of "general manager," Lucchesi said "I'm going to be like Nixon ... I don't recall."

Lucchesi received a telephone call after the first game that apparently triggered his temper display.

Asked if he was being second-guessed on his handling of relief pitchers in the 7-4 loss, Lucchesi said "No comment. I never hurt anybody in my life."

Lucchesi, who was heavily booed by the fans, said "In my four years with this club this is the toughest night I've had."

Asked if he thought his dismissal was imminent, Lucchesi replied, "I have a two year commitment. I'm not fearful for my job. It was normal for the fans to be hostile. We lost a doubleheader with two of our aces. They paid their way into the park so they have a right to boo."

Corbett was in Europe but there was dissension on another front.

Danny O'Brien, the general manager, was asked on a radio talk show if he thought he had been degraded by Corbett in not letting O'Brien know about a possible trade for New York outfielder Mickey Rivers.

"I've just got to straighten myself out," McGinnis said as the Sixers went through a loose, free-wheeling practice session at Memorial Coliseum Monday, just hours after Coach Jack Ramsay ran the Blazers through a precisely planned workout.

Ramsay got good production from Portland's reserves, particularly Lloyd Neal, Dave Twardzik and Corky Calhoun. But when Shue went to the Philadelphia bench, he ran into trouble.

El Paso shuts out Eastern leader

By the Associated Press

El Paso's Bob Ferris struck out 11 Shreveport batters Monday night as the Diablos shut out the Texas League's East Division leader 6-0.

In other action, Tulsa downed San Antonio 4-3 while Amarillo belted Jackson 7-3. Midland dumped Arkansas 5-2.

Ferris received hitting help from Bob Slater, who slapped three hits, drove in two runs and scored two himself. Ferris chalked up his fourth win against one loss.

Tulsa's designated hitter Rich Lisi blasted a two-run homer in the eighth inning to overcome a 3-2 San Antonio advantage. Ray Rainbolt, 3-1, got the win in relief while San Antonio starter Mike Martin's record fell to 2-3.

In Jackson, Juan Eichelberger went the distance to increase his season record to 6-2. Ivan Murrell contributed two hits and two RBIs to the Amarillo attack that handed Jackson's Juan Berenguer his fifth loss against two victories.

Larry Groover, usually a relief pitcher, stepped into a starter's role to shut out

Arkansas until the ninth inning, when the Travelers put together consecutive triples for their two runs. Midland picked up two insurance runs in the top of the ninth on a homer by Karl Gordon.

Tonight's games find Shreveport at El Paso, Tulsa at San Antonio, Amarillo at Jackson and Midland at Arkansas.

LAMESA — The tandem of Jake Broyles and Jess Claiborne captured first place in the Lamesa Country Club Memorial Day Partnership Golf Tournament here Sunday.

Broyles and Claiborne beat Mike Hargrove and Randy Addison by two strokes, carding a 131.

Art Ayres and Gus White teamed up to capture first flight honors. Gary Laughlin and Tommy Hall claimed second flight laurels while Jay DeFee and Chaplin teamed to deadlock Kelly Dickerson and Noel Dickerson for the third flight crown.

Champion golfer of Big Spring Weaver wins tourney

Pat Weaver pieced together a final round 69, two under par, at the Comanche Trail Golf Course Monday to win the Big Spring City Golf Championship Monday.

Weaver, a member of a well-known Big Spring golfing family, came from one stroke back to edge Dick Schwinn of Webb AFB with a 54-hole aggregate of 212.

Schwinn settled for a 73 Monday to wind up three strokes off the pace while Don Osborne was third, at 217, and Fidel Perez fourth with a 221.

Monday's play was highlighted by a hole-in-one achieved by three-time City Champion Jimmy Newsom the 175-yard, par three 13th hole. Newsom used a five-iron to get his ace. This was Newsom's fourth hole-in-one of his career.

In all, 80 players entered this year's tournament. Play started Saturday at the Big Spring Country Club and switched to the Webb AFB course Sunday.

Weaver, whose brother Mike, teamed with Bobby Menchaca to win the Comanche Trail Partnership Tournament two weeks ago, opening the tournament with a 71 on his home course Saturday. At Webb Sunday, Weaver settled for a 72.

Defending champion in the tournament was Tom Pettigrew, then of Webb. He since has been transferred to San Antonio.

The two Weavers are sons of R.H. Weaver, a past Big Spring Country Club champion.

Pat Weaver played the front nine in 35 Monday, shooting nine straight pars. On the back side, he had a birdie on the par four 14th hole, then fired another bird's, then on the pair five 16th hole to move in front.

Ronnie Jones captured

First Flight honors by seven strokes. The second flight winner was Kim Nichols while Paul Shaffer captured the Third Flight and James Massingill the Fourth.

Indian Eckersley pitches no-hitter

By the Associated Press

What does the future hold for Dennis Eckersley? Will anyone ever get another hit off him?

—In 1975, he was named American League Rookie Pitcher of the Year by The Sporting News for a 13-7 record and 2.60 earned run average.

—In 1976, he became only the sixth Cleveland pitcher to strike out 200 batters in one season.

—And Monday night — the record books will record it as May 30, 1977 — the Indians' 22-year-old right-hander pitched a 12-strikeout no-hitter in beating Frank Tanana and the California Angels 1-0.

How about 1978? Perhaps another no-hitter. Maybe even before this year is over.

"This is my first time I caught a complete no-hitter," said catcher Ray Fosse, "but if I'm around Cleveland much longer, I'm sure I'll catch more of his."

In his previous outing, Eckersley had beat Seattle 2-1 in 12 innings and held the Mariners hitless over the final 7 2/3 innings. The no-hitter gave him a streak of 16 2/3 innings without allowing a hit. The major league record is 23 by Boston's Cy Young in 1904.

The Angels did not come close to a hit. They managed only two baserunners — one when Eckersley walked Tony Solaita on a 3-2 pitch with two out in the first inning and the other when Bobby Bonds struck out to open the eighth but reached base when the third strike also was a wild pitch.

Orioles 9, Twins 7

Lee May drove in five runs with two homers and Rick Dempsey knocked in three runs with a single, double and triple for the Orioles. Baltimore took a 7-4 lead on May's second homer, a three-run shot in the sixth, and increased the margin to 9-4 on Dempsey's two-run double in the seventh but had to withstand a three-run Twins rally in the seventh plus a rain delay of 1 hour, 40 minutes in the ninth.

Brewers 4-3, White Sox 3-8

Ralph Garr's two-run homer and RBI hits by Lamar Johnson, Alan Bannister and Jorge Orta in the sixth inning helped Chicago win the nightcap behind Steve Stone. Don Money drew a bases-loaded walk off Lerrin LaGow in the eighth inning of the first game to force in the winning run in Milwaukee's victory. Richie Zisk of the Sox took over the major league home run lead with his 14th.

Mariners 7-8, Rangers 4-3

Seattle knocked out Texas pitching ace Bert Blyleven and Gaylord Perry and swept a doubleheader with a total of 26 hits. Ruppert Jones lashed a two-out, two-run double in the seventh inning of the opener and Bill Stein and Dave Collins homered as Blyleven was beaten. Carlos Lopez knocked in three runs with two homers and a double and Stein delivered three singles in the nightcap as the expansion Mariners ran their winning streak to a club record five games.

A's 6, Tigers 3

Dock Ellis, who had a 23.48 earned run average in his first four appearances for Oakland, scattered six hits in eight innings as the A's handed the Tigers their sixth consecutive defeat.

FOUR-TIME WINNER — A.J. Foyt, 46, of Houston, Texas, waves to fans after winning the Indianapolis 500-mile race Sunday. Foyt's win made him the first man in history to win the classic four times.

Everything's beautiful for A.J.

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Ol' grandpappy did it again — No. 4 at Indianapolis' fabled brickyard. Auto racing will wait a long time before it sees another like A.J. Foyt.

Etch his name in lasting concrete beside such immortals as Ruth, Dempsey, Thorpe, Bobby Jones and Babe Zaharias. He is one of a kind.

"When I get strapped into a car, everything is beautiful," the hard-nosed Texan keeps telling us. "Racing is my game. The politics, the financing, the sponsorship — all that stuff drives me up a wall."

The 42-year-old demon of speed was climbing no walls in the traditional Memorial 500 when he drove his self-designed Coyote to an unprecedented fourth Indy triumph, ending 10 years of concentrated effort. He last won in 1967.

Foyt is the maverick of the profession — intense, combative, a man of moods. Respected by his peers for his daring and rare driving skill, he nevertheless has left a legion of jealous rivals in the wake of his fire-spitting machine.

He never stopped to accumulate a regimen of close friends. His personality wouldn't allow it. Gracious and charming when thrown into a social atmosphere — not often, if he can help it — he becomes a vicious, snarling tiger when he enters the pits.

A lust for speed and victory courses through his veins. He resents distractions. He has been accused of being cold to his fellow drivers and curt with the press.

"I may be up to my neck in problems while I'm working in the garage," he says, "and some guy will come up and try to strike up a conversation. I say, 'Sorry, I can't talk now,' and the guy goes out and tells everybody I am a slob."

"They keep telling me I gotta do this and I gotta do that. I tell them, 'I don't have to do a damn thing but die.'"

Although five times a national driving champion, Foyt never has been satisfied to confine himself to the big tracks and the big money. He has gone against the best of his trade at Indy, Daytona, Le Mans and Sebring and has shown up at county fairs and obscure outlying tracks to race midgets, sprint cars, sports and stocks.

Often he has shown up unannounced in a station wagon or on a motorcycle and asked to be entered in a race. It leaves promoters chagrined that they have not had an opportunity to publicize his appearance. No other auto racing name so excites a crowd.

Like a ghost, A.J. appears, races, wins and then as quickly disappears. He's not much on ceremony.

Anthony Joseph Foyt Jr., was racing at 5 in a car built by his father.

Phil's Bonus hot at Ruidoso Downs

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. — Over the weekend, Phil's Bonus sliced up maiden competition in easy fashion at Ruidoso Downs.

The chestnut gelding, piloted by Walter Hodges, stormed into an early lead as an even-money favorite and cruised effortlessly on the front end for the remainder of the six-furlong journey. He hit the tape with 1 1/2 lengths of daylight.

In Thursday's feature, Phil's Bonus returns to face fellow sophomores and will travel 5 1/2 furlongs. The lure is a $2,800 allowance purse. The competition is limited to those who've won no more than two races this year, so Phil's Bonus figures to be another top gun.

Here's the way they'll line up: 1 — Top Gear, 120; 2 — Lady Johnny, 115; 3 — Phil's Bonus, 117; 4 — Mighty Fine Wine, 120; 5 — Worley Bird, 120; 6 — Running Nell, 115; 7 — Carro Erie, 117; 8 — Center Latch, 120; 9 — Red Road Show, 117; 10 — Little Foggy, 120.

Earlier in the meeting, Phil's Bonus gave indications of things to come by racing as a 9-5 choice in a 5 1/2-furlong sprint. He got away alertly, as usual, but was caught at the wire and finished a half-length in arrears.

Before that, he made two trips to the post — both at Sunland Park. He debuted as an even-money choice against maidens but came up a little short in the stretch, finishing third. In his encore appearance, he tested allowance sprinters, but found himself in hot water and faded out of the money as a 15-1 shot.

Little Foggy, who'll have Stuart Dolphus at the helm, could be the one who'll put Phil's Bonus to the test. Little Foggy was in action in last Friday's feature and went against the hard-hitting allowance sprinter, Barbijay, and the stakes star, Serene Princess. The latter has plunked over $60,000 in her coffers so far.

Faced with hurdles of that sort, Little Foggy was launched at 8-1. He raced with the early leaders, slugged his way into the front deep in the stretch, but was unable to stave off Barbijay and Seren Princess when those two came thundering toward the wire. Little Foggy ended up third. Compared to that assignment, Thursday's outing represents quite a dip in class.

Carro Erie raced against maidens at Sunland last spring, finished first but was disqualified for interference. Next time out, he dumped maidens by a neck as a 6-5 favorite, leading all the way. In his Ruidoso debut last week, he finished well out of the picture against Barbijay.

HAPPY CARDS — The Big Spring Cardinals are all smiles following a come-from-behind victory over the Merkel Texans, 6-5, Sunday in Steer Park. Tony Fierro (15) hit a bases loaded, one-out, double to win it for the Cards.

YMCA gears up for local summer program

As part of the Citywide Summer Recreation Program, the Runnels Junior High gym will be open to the public for basketball and volleyball two nights a week.

Don Hise will supervise the program and will be at the gym on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:00 to 9:00. Coach Hise said there will be informal games in both activities for all ages.

The program will begin Tuesday, June 7. Registration is not required and everyone is welcome.

Padres use 41 players to beat the Giants

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer "We've got a lot of young players, a lot of good ones. I've got to find out who can do what," Alvin Dark said.

The new manager of the San Diego Padres took a look at just about everyone and found out that Mike Ivie can hit the ball.

The Padres set a National League record by using 41 players in their doubleheader sweep of the San Francisco Giants 12-8 and 9-8 Monday and the teams set a major league record by using 74 players in the twinbill.

"Well, I got a look at all of them," said Dark, who took over his new job a few hours before the Memorial Day doubleheader and made one key change — moving Ivie from the No. 5 spot to third in the batting order.

Ivie responded with seven hits for the day, including a record-tying five doubles.

"It's the kind of day you dream about," Ivie said.

In other NL games Monday, Montreal swept a doubleheader from the New York Mets 5-1 and 3-2. St. Louis crushed the Chicago Cubs 14-0, Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh 6-4, Cincinnati topped Atlanta 7-3 and Houston dunned Los Angeles 5-3.

"I always thought he (Ivie) would be a good No. 3 hitter because he makes good contact," Dark said. "He's not too fast, but when he hits the ball like that, he doesn't have to be."

Ivie tied a major league mark when he doubled twice in a seven-run seventh-inning burst that carried the Padres to victory in the opener. His five doubles in the twinbill tied a NL record shared by three other players.

George Hendrick homered in each game for San Diego, which extended its winning streak to four games.

Cardinals 14, Cubs 0 Lou Brock had four hits, driving in four runs, Jerry Mumphrey chased home three runs and Ken Ritz smacked a two-run homer,

Schoolboys bamboozled?

LAS CRUCES (AP) — New Mexico State University head basketball coach Ken Hayes says there couldn't have been any misunderstanding concerning national letters of intent signed by two Marshall, Tex., High school basketball stars, but he doesn't want any unhappy players.

His comments, released through the NMSU sports information office Monday, came on the heels of accusations by Anthony Burns and Roshern Amie, who said they were bamboozled into signing national letters of intent to play for NMSU.

The players, both 6-feet-8, said they signed letters on May 4 but believed they were only Missouri Valley Conference letters of intent and not national letters.

A conference letter has the effect of eliminating only other schools within that conference from signing that player. Signing a national letter means a player cannot sign with any other four-year school.

Hayes said, "We have a longstanding policy in which we do not want any unhappy players. There never was nor could there have been any misunderstanding. However, if these two young men do not want to attend NMSU, we will try to accommodate them."

Amie has already signed a Southwest Conference letter with Texas Tech.

Terry Richter, Marshall's high school coach, said Saturday, "It's a big mess right now. Burns and Amie had originally signed the letters with New Mexico State but neither they nor their parents were fully aware of the implications of exactly what they were signing."

Fryar signs with ASU

Bobby Fryar, senior from Coahoma High school, has signed a letter of intent with Angelo State University. Bobby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Fryar of Coahoma.

He was recruited by ASU as a defensive lineman, the same position he played for the Bulldogs. He has been a starter on the Coahoma team for three years and served as co-captain this year.

He was named to 6 AA all-district first team as a junior and was named unanimously as a senior. He was picked to the All-Area team as a senior.

He also received the most valuable football player award at this year's athletic banquet. Bobby also lettered in basketball and track.

Buying and selling in the big leagues

BASEBALL American League BOSTON RED SOX — Traded Bobby Darwin, outfielder, to the Chicago Cubs for Ramon Hernandez, pitcher; sold Tom House, pitcher, to the Seattle Mariners; reactivated Rick Miller, outfielder; sent Dave

COACHES COLORADO CITY — Britt Canada has resigned as tennis coach at Colorado High School. He plans to work toward his doctorate.

Canada will attend the University of Texas Health Center in Dallas this summer, teaching on a part-time basis.

VISIT FROM HIS YOUNGER BROTHER — Can the Chicago White Sox look forward to another hard-hitting Zisk in the line-up? Sunday Richie Zisk, right, had a visit from his brother John, left, a student at Delaware Valley, Pa., College. Joh, 20, donned the Sox uniform and took a turn batting in pre-game practice at New York's Yankee stadium. Rickie Zisk is currently the home run leader in the American League.

'White paper' on dope shaped

MEXICO CITY, (AP) — A joint Mexican-American white paper will be presented to the next session of the United Nations asking for a world-wide war on illegal drugs, according to a U.S. congressman.
J. Herbert Burke, R-Fla., made the statements this weekend at the last session of the 17th Mexico-United States Interparliamentary reunion in the northern city of Hermosillo.
The "Declaration of Hermosillo," as it was dubbed by Rep. Eligio (Kika) De la Garza, D-Tex., will be a joint statement to the United Nations on a
"world problem that is increasingly affects world youth, and a request for nations to assist both internally and externally in dealing with illegal narcotics trade," Burke said.
Many delegates stayed over the weekend for sightseeing in Mexico City and Taxco and a luncheon
Monday offered by the undersecretary of foreign relations, Sen. Lloyd M.

Bentsen, D-Tex., co-president of the reunion left early.
Gov. Raul Castro of Arizona and Rep. Eldon D.
Rudd, D-Ariz., also left Mexico before the foreign ministry luncheon.
Burke said that one important item learned by the U.S. congressmen was that "many things of the past administration (President Echeverria's) are not the views of the current congress."
He said that Mexicans played down U.S.-Cuban relations and talks on a new Panama Canal treaty.
"One of the real problems
the Mexican congressmen brought up," Burke said "is the U.S. disallowing tax deductions for foreign travel for businesses and conventions. This will hurt their tourism."
Burke said the Americans will take this problem back with them and perhaps try to hold public hearings in the U.S. Congress.
Burke and De la Garza are members of the House Select Committee on Illegal

Distribution of Narcotics.
Burke said Mexican legislators realize that Mexican youth can suffer from the problem as well as youth in other countries.
Another issue, the exchange of prisoners, came up during the work sessions.
Burke said there are some American prisoners in Mexico and the United States does not want back.

And in other cases, he said, some crimes in Mexico are not crimes in the United States, so Americans returning home to serve Mexican sentences might go free.
A treaty allowing exchange of prisoners has been approved by Mexico but the U.S. Congress has not acted on it.
Burke said that personally he is worried about growth of cities on the Mexican side of the border where unemployment and lack of education cause the Mexicans to seek jobs in the United States.

He said when they don't find jobs they return to their cities in Mexico, increasing slums.
"And eventually you've got a revolution," Burke said.

MEMORIAL MUSTER — A century and a war is remembered with a Colonial muster, held on the village green in Peachtree City, south of Atlanta, Ga. About 240 people from 12, primarily Southeastern, states dressed in Revolutionary War replica uniforms to re-enact a battle on Sunday. The "Revolutionary War soldiers" had spent the previous night on the green in a period military encampment.

Columbia Records ex-president dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Goddard Lieberson, former president of Columbia Records and a leading
long-playing records to the American public, is dead at age 66.
Lieberson died of cancer
Sunday here at his home after being ill for the last few weeks.
Lieberson was married in 1946 to ballerina Vera Zorina, who was with him at his death along with their sons, Peter and Jonathan.
A native of England,
Lieberson started out as a pianist, composer and music teacher, and joined Columbia as a studio recording director in the late
'30s.
Rising rapidly in the burgeoning industry,
Lieberson built up Columbia's Masterworks library of classical recordings before turning to promotion of popular recordings and the Columbia Record Club. He was a prime mover in the rise of country music, rock and musical comedy
recordings.
Lieberson supported a fellow musician, Peter Goldmark, in the development of the 33-rpm long-playing record, which brought an explosion in the recording of music.

He also orchestrated the financing by the affiliated Columbia Broadcasting System of a musical based on George Bernard Shaw's
"Pygmalion."
"The show seemed risky,"
he once said, but "My Fair Lady" not only made millions but also started a trend of record albums of Broadway hits.
Lieberson served as president of Columbia
Records from 1956 to 1971, when he surrendered the post to a protege, Olive Davis, to become an officer and director of the parent firm. When Davis left in the wake of a payola scandal in 1973, Lieberson returned as

Rich, poor gap cited

PARIS (AP) — The chief
Third World spokesman at the so-called North-South conference said today
Western proposals to help close the gap between rich and poor have fallen "far below our expectations."
Speaking for the 19
developing nations
represented at the talks, Venezuela's Manuel Perez
Guerrero said that of "11
major concerns to us" outlined last month, only one, aid to develop Africa's communications and transportation systems,
"may be considered to have been dealt with positively."
Perez Guerrero is co-chairman of the talks, the 27-nation Conference on International Economic Cooperation.
"We are not expecting miracles," he said. "But we are looking for some fundamental changes and not for isolated gestures, which are not yet clear, at dealing with short-term problems.

We are realistic, but the stakes are high."
Perez Guerrero noted the Western nations had made references to "security of supply and availability" of energy and raw materials.
"On the other hand, no positive proposals have been made concerning basic interests of the developing countries, such as development of purchasing power of the export earnings of these products, and access to markets and technology."
A U.S. spokesman said that Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance's efforts to have the conference continue past the current ministerial session in Paris have not yet met with approval.
State Department spokesman Hodding Carter stopped short of predicting,

complete rejection of Vance's plan, but he said
only a minority of rich nations and a minority of poor nations supported the idea.
The meeting today got down to two days of tough, detailed negotiations on the other key issues — energy and finance, raw materials and development aid.
At the demand of the developing 19, the energy and finance commissions were merged for the final sessions, at which ministers will negotiate directly across the table.
The conference was proposed by the West 18 months ago, in the wake of the energy crisis, primarily to deal with energy problems. But the developing nations insisted that talks on energy be linked to their search for stable commodity prices.
