Greenbelt Water Bill Goes Before Governor

AUSTIN — A bill by Senator Andy Rogers to clear the way for validation of the Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water Authority has passed the House of Representatives and now goes to the Governor to be signed.

The Childress Senator was joined in sponsorship of the bill by Rep. Will Ehrle, also of Childress, in the House.

The Bill amends a 1954 Statute creating the Water Authority so as to remove a stumbling block to confirmation elections. The measure makes clear that a city election confirming the Authority would not obligate the city to further participation. It would also allow additional towns to join in the project with contemplates a two million dollar dam on the Salt Fork of the Red River and a pipeline supply ot the member towns. Towns now included in the act are Wellington, Childress, Clarendon, Hedley, Memphis, Quanah and Paducah.

"The passage of this bill will allow our towns to go ahead with their confirmation elections so that the water rights will not be lost to some other area," Senator Rogers said today. "The Oklahoma people just across the line are thirsty for some of this water, and under Inter-State agreements they might be able to get it if we forfeit our right."

Senator Rogers said that none of the seven cities now involved would be placed under any obligation by electing to confirm the Greenbelt Authority but could back out of the Authority at any time before a required second confirming election. "But we need this first election to insure that we'll be able to hold onto our rights to the water," he said.

Dodson Farmers Co-op Plans 1957 Auction, Meeting

The Dodson Farmers Co-op Gin has scheduled its annual auction sale for Saturday, April 20, and the annual stockholders meeting Tuesday night, April 23, Ed Crowder, manager, has announced.

This is the sixth annual auction and will be at the gin warehouse.

"It has grown from a half-day affair, started to get people to the annual meeting. It has grown to where we must have all day for the sale, and it has become a community event—a day of fellowship and visiting," Crowder said.

It is the policy of the gin to stop bidding on all items before it reaches the regular retail price.

"It is well received by the people, and they demand we have it. The first year we registered 285 people, last year we had 439," Crowder continued.

Arnett seniors will have the concessions.

The stockholders meeting will be at the school Tuesday night, April 23, beginning at 7:30.

Entertainment will be by the Pride of Dodson.

Seven directors will be elected. The present board includes Pete Nipper, Olan Farris, Louis Patterson, E. C. Alexander, J. F. Kizer, E. E. Conaway, and Dewey Caswell.

The Dodson Farmers Co-op this year ginned 3,800 bales, and showed a net saving of a little over $35,000, Crowder said.

LOUISE ANDERSON

Wellington's Own Young Soprano

Louise Anderson In Concert April 26

Wellington's Louise Anderson, a gifted young soprano who is making a name for herself in concert work in New York, returns for her first appearance in her home town Friday, April 26.

The concert will be in the community building, beginning at 8:15 p. m. Her appearance is sponsored by the Skyrocket Band, and a 45 minute concert by the stage band will precede Miss Anderson's appearance.

Mrs. Cabot Brannon of Shamrock will be her accompanist.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Anderson,/ and twin sister of Mrs. Jack Kopp, Miss Anderson began her musical education as a child in Wellington. She later studied in Texas Technological College, Lubbock, then went to New York, where she has worked with outstanding maestros.

Returning to Texas after a three year sojourn in New York, Miss Anderson was in great demand for appearances in radio, oratorio, opera and club organizations — all those fields an artist needs in order to mature in musical expression.

Now firmly settled once again in New York, Miss Anderson has studied with such eminent teachers as Victor Trucco and Lawrence Davidson, both of the Metropolitan Opera. Her recent engagements have included appearances on CBS radio, the Popular Priced Opera Co., as well as numerous club, temple and church programs.

In May she will begin work with the Mannes Opera Company, to appear in Puccini's "La Boheme".

Miss Anderson has won praise as "a gifted young artist who offers her audiences the happy combination of a beautiful voice and a charming personality".

Tickets for her concert are on sale by members of the Skyrocket Band, and proceeds from the concert will go toward buying new instruments, Doyle McElroy, director, said.

thinking of making money with chickens?...

Fall egg prospects look good

Chick hatch down 21% (Feb. 15 U.S. Government report)...fewer pullets on farms . . . probably 5-6% fewer chicks will be raised this spring—all point to strong egg prices this fall.

The egg price pendulum is due to swing up again this fall. The substantial drop in chick hatchings, pullets on farms, and flock replacement intentions, should result in better egg prices. This offers real opportunity to the poultry raiser who is ready with sturdy, rugged pullets when prices start up.

HOW TO CUT PULLET-GROWING COSTS

And one way to make more money is to cut costs by cutting feed used in growing pullets. A recent study showed that pullets raised at the Purina Research Farms require 250 pounds less feed per 100 birds than the average in nine leading poultry states. That makes a saving of $8.50 to $12.50 on each 100 pullets raised!

You can start right now to make money with Purina's low-cost pullet growing plan. And, right here at the Store with the red-and-white Checkerboard Sign . . . we can help you start right . . . and stay right . . . with the Purina Pullet Program best suited to your particular conditions.

Why Are Texas Legislators Cold to Checking Their Integrity?

News reports indicate that Gov. Price Daniel's recommendation of a state-wide investigating committee seems to be doomed to failure. Voters should ask their representatives and senators why.

Gov. Daniel had pushed for an original investigating set-up to expose or disprove charges of corruption in public office. Now why should any honest citizen or public official object to such legislation as that?

The facts are that many members of the present legislature do object to the measure. Whether it is the method that will be used to which the public officials object or whether it is because some legislators do not want their actions investigated at all is something that the average voter should try to find out now.

The Daniel proposal calls for judicial district caucuses of grand jury foremen. They would elect members and alternates to serve on a state law enforcement commission. The commission would investigate matters submitted by the Governor or the Legislature or the committee could investigate by its own motion. The chairman would be appointed by the chief justice of the Supreme Court. Now what is unreasonable or unfair about such a plan to insure honesty in office?

Yet opponents of the bill have done a pretty neat job of labeling it the little "Gesatpo" bill. Again the people should try to find out why. Unquestionably the majority of the members of the Legislature are honorable men; but their reluctance to pass this bill designed for better government is most difficult for the non-political mind to understand.

And again The Leader would like to repeat one of its old beliefs—that is higher pay for members of the house and the senate and annual sessions instead of every two years. We are not optimistic enough to believe that this will solve all of the problems; but we do believe that it will result in a higher calibre in the men that seek office and the election of fewer hired retainers whether they be smooth retainers of corporations or the supposed friends of the people who are bought before hand by the union bosses.

CROSSROADS ★ REPORT

I see where the U. S. Congress is now busy making deficiency appropriations for federal bureaus and departments which have spent up all of their money before time for some more.

My serious neighbor says lots of kids never learn to get along on their allowances, either, as long as any time they over-spend Pop will come across with a deficiency appropriation.

Says what this country needs is a good home model deficiency appropriator to take care of us plain citizens when we run out of money before we run out of month.

The economics experts tell us that we are in an era of great prosperity in this country, but I figure it must be the most under-financed prosperity in history.

On account of it seems like everybody is complaining that he don't get enough money. School teachers, farmers, union members, business stockholders, Postmaster General Summerfield and others don't think they are getting as much as they need.

When some are not getting enough money, it seems logical that somebody else is getting too much. But it's not me.

My tolerably successful neighbor has been working on his income tax return for the last few days and says his most costly and demanding dependant is Uncle Sam.

Says the old gent is taking a third of his income and about all he gets in return is such questionable temporal blessings as statistics on whooping craines brain laundry service, protection against getting rich, etc.

Which he don't think is any bargain. The Lord makes available many more important items and only asks a ten per cent rakeoff on a man's income.

I see where general postmaster Summerfield got a little exasperated at Congress on account of they wouldn't give him as much money to run the post office as he wanted as quick as he wanted it.

So he announced a program of creeping sabotage of the postal service until these undisciplined legislators come to heel.

Which may give ideas to other bureaucrats as to how they can put pressure on tight Congressmen. And the mail service may henceforward be known as the blackmail service.

I see where a slight epidemic of economy has broke out in Washington and some federal offices are now willing to get along with mere $10 wastebaskets.

These are going to look pretty cheap alongside the $27 paper catchers called for in last year's budget, which must have been at least fur-lined at that price.

But I guess we can hope this is a sign that we are getting a better grade of executives, which you can tell they are important even if they just have a cheap wastebasket.

I see where President Ike says it is the poorest kind of economy to reduce the national budget just by cutting off a few millions here and a few millions there.

Which my unhappy neighbor says may be right but he is favorable to even a poor kind of federal economy in preference to none at all.

Says he is tired of having to cut a few dollars here and a few dollars there off his personal budget just so the government can build swimming pools in Port Said, tennis courts in Iraq, and other similar economical deeds.

Notary Publics Must Re-Qualify

Secretary of State Zollie Steakley has announced that he will reappoint persons now holding notary public commissions but that such persons must re-qualify by the filing of a new oath and bond with the County Clerk of his residence between June 1, 1957 and June 10, 1957.

Steakley emphasized that notaries public should not send requests for reappointment or for commissions directly to the Secretary of State. The law specifically requires the County Clerk to approve notary bonds.

Any person not now a notary public who desires appointment, ment should apply to his County Clerk between May 1, 1957 and May 20, 1957. Application during this period will assure prompt attention before the rush procedure of reappointing present notaries.

Secretary of State Steakley further pointed out that each person applying for a commission as a notary public must be at least 21 years of age and a resident of the county for which he is appointed. The exact name and permanent address of the applicant must be furnished the County Clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Quaid of Norman, Okla., were in town a short time Monday visiting friends. Mr. Quaid was with Raburn Grocery when they lived here.

SCD GRASS SEED DRILL

This is one of the eight grass seed drills which the Salt Fork Soil Conservation district owns for use by co-operators. They have been used in planting most of the grass seed and many other legumes that are vital to the soil improvement program.

On Tom Cunningham Farm

Sudan Prepares Land for Increased Sorghum Yield

Tom Cunningham, chairman of the board of supervisors of Salt Fork Soil Conservation District, has incorporated sudan grass into the excellent soil improving program he is carrying out on his land at Samnorwood.

He planted sudan in 1954 and 1955 on a shallow, sloping piece of land that had low productivity during the preceding few years. It was not harvested, but was allowed to fall on the ground, producing a good mulch that retarded wind erosion and slowed down water runoff, allowing the soil to absorb more moisture.

In 1956, Cunningham planted this acreage in grain sorghum, which produced a greater amount of grain than deeper soils that ordinarily outproduced his shallow land.

Cunningham believes the reason for this increase in production was the large amount of organic material returned to the soil, additional moisture absorbed, and the fibrous root system of the sudan grass which opened up the soil. These roots decay, leaving open pores down which the water percolates into the sub-soil.

Lyndon Johnson's Grazing Bill Gets Committee Nod

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson's bill providing for the establishment of a deferred grazing program in drought-stricken areas has been reported faroably by a unanimous vote of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

"I am going to get this bill up for action in the Senate just as soon as I can", Senator Johnson said, following the Committee's favorable report. "I am hopeful that we can get it passed soon."

Similar legislation, sponsored by several Texas Congressmen, has been approved by the House of Representatives.

Senator Johnson's bill would require the Secretary of Agriculture to provide a program in the drought areas under which farmers and ranchers would receive payments for deferred grazing as a means of allowing the land to recover its productivity. As amended by the committee, the bill would be effective for five years after enactment, would provide for payment at rates not more than the fair rental value of the land for normal grazing. Payment to any one person would be limited to $5,000 for land in any one county or land operated as a single unit.

Senator Johnson said the minor amendments made by the committee are acceptable, since they do not change the major purpose of the bill.

"Rainbows" Provide Theme for Program At Banquet Honoring Quail Seniors

A rainbow theme was carried out Saturday night, April 13, when Quail juniors entertained the seniors at the traditional banquet, held in the school auditorium.

A rainbow with a pot of gold at the end decorated the stage, and these decorations in minature were repeated on the tables, which were placed around a patio. Appetisers were served from the wishing well as the guests entered, and a spotlight played on the fountain centering the patio.

The rainbow also provided the program theme. After Marion Tidwell had given the invocation, Raymond Minatrea welcomed the guests with a short talk, "Rainbow Around My Shoulder". John Alf Thomas responded with "It Ain't Goin' to Rain No Mo". Some advice to juniors, "If You Meet the Sun Half Way", was given by Loyd Langford, while Martha Johnson gave the class will in "I Give You a Silver Lining", and Edna Wright read the phophecy in "Beware of Thunder Bolts". "Let a Smile be Your Umbrella", covered a series of jokes by Gano Wilson.

Climaxing the program was the short serious talk by Supt. Herman Moseley, "When You Reach the Rainbow's End". Ronald Cummings gave the benediction.

Musical entertainment was provided by the music department, directed by Mrs. Lowell Wells, and tap dance numbers were by Betty Moseley and Patricia DePauw.

Bible Comment:

Jews Understood Past Mistakes in Babylonian Exile

LET us look back a moment on the political history of the Jewish people up to the time of the Babylonian exile. The kingdom of an undivided Israel as we might think existed under David or Solomon was broken up after Solomon's death by the revolt of Jeroboam.

Ten tribes followed him to establish the Northern Kingdom, or the Kingdom of Israel. Two tribes remained loyal to Rehoboam to continue the Southern Kingdom, or the Kingdom of Judah.

The Northern Kingdom was swept away in 722 B.C. when Sargon, the Assyrian conqueror, overthrew it and carried its people into exile, never to return. It is to this that we refer today when we speak of "the 10 lost tribes."

The Kingdom of Judah continued until 586 B.C. when it was conquered by Nebuchadnezzar. The people were exiled to Babylon, but the overthrow of that country by Cyrus in 538 B.C. eventually led to the return of the Jewish exiles to their homeland.

What the Jews suffered during the 50 years of their exile in Babylon is vividly portrayed in the 137th Psalm, beginning, "By the rivers of Babylon, there we sat down, yea, we wept, when we remembered Zion."

There they discovered what they had lost in spurning divine counsels and in turning from the ways of God. The songs of Zion had a new meaning for them when they could no longer sing them in their homeland or in a strange land.

The comfort that the prophet of the Book of Isaiah brings to this afflicted people is no shallow optimism. He comforts them by reviving their hopes, faith and vision. He assures them that God has not cast them away. They have paid the penalty for their sins.

Miss Crawford will graduate from high school in Idalou in May. The prospective bridegroom is a senior at Texas Technological College.

"Dream Castles" Provide Theme for WMU Annual Banquet Honoring Seniors

The Women's Missionary Union of First Baptist Church honored Wellington seniors and high school faculty members with the annual Christian Education banquet Friday, April 12, in the church building dining hall.

Guest speaker was Darrell Gaut, Amarillo real estate man, who in his talk, "Dreams for your Castle", carried out the theme used throughout the banquet decorations and entertainment.

"In building your dream castle, there are some things I believe you should build into it," he told the seniors, "and these are conviction, fun, and the belief that you should be yourself."

Room decorations were a large pink castle, decorated in silver and glitter, from which entertainers entered.

Spring Breezes Flutter New Scarf Accents

STYLES come and go as the whims of fashion designers dictate, but scarves are as constant as the first robins with their perennial message of spring.

Wellington Leader

A SIGHT TO STRIKE FEAR—The massive black shape of a tornado moves slowly through Dallas, Tex. The narrow-looking funnel of the twister is sucking homes, cars and citizens into its whirling interior, leaving many dead and injured and property damage into the millions in its wake.

Walter Rogers Explains

Poage Bill Calls for "Light Spot" Cotton But Penalizes Acreage

A bill has been introduced in the House of Representatives by Congressman Poage calling for a "light spot" cotton grade, which would be an advantage to Collingsworth County, but the bill also carries another provision that would cost the county some 586 acres of its cotton allotment, Congressman Walter Rogers has notified The Wellington Leader.

This loss would come through the proposed apportionment of the state cotton acreage allotment to counties on the basis of cotton planted in the three preceding years, rather than the preceding five year period now used as a base.

"I am anixous for wide dissemination of this bill in order that anyone who desires to testify before the House Agriculture Committee in opposition to it may be appraised of its implications," Crongressman Rogers wrote The Wellington Leader.

In Collingsworth county, the cotton allotment using the 5-year experience is 67,676 acres; under the 3-year experience base, the allotment would be 67,090 acres.

Cotton-growing counties of the 18th Congressional District would lose 25,368 acres, Congressman Rogers pointed out.

Near-by counties and the cotton acreage they would lose by the Poage Bill are:

County	3 yr.	5 yr.
Childress	53,248	55,735
Cottle	54,201	57,084
Donley	29,683	30,423
Hall	94,439	98,880
Wheeler	28,554	29,274

The provision of the bill, H. R. 5686, which would require separate levels of support for light and heavy spotted cotton, has been sought by cotton growers for several years, with the Farm Bureau taking the leadership on both Collingsworth county and state levels.

Those favoring the bill believe that absence of a light spot grade is costing the cotton growers thousands of dollars each year.

Other provisions of the Poage bill include:

In case a county has planted a cotton, or regarded as planted under the AAA or Soil Bank Acts, up to 10 per cent less than the county allotment, then the figure that is the county allotment shall be considered as the acreage planted in the county for purposes of figuring the cotton acreage history of the county.

No part of the acreage reserved by the State Committee under the above provision shall be used directly or indirectly to make adjustments in county allotments for trends in acreage.

None of the above acreage shall be used for new farms, except that part of the county reserve set aside for new farms.

Where cotton failure on a farm was due to poor planting or cultivating practices, that acreage shall not be regarded as having been seeded to cotton for the purposes of future allotment programs.

If two or more farms are combined under one ownership or operation, the county committee shall consider them as separate farms for allotment purposes unless it is determined that the farms are easily accessible for movement of machinery and equipment, and are of approximately equal productivity, considering among other things the availability of water.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

It is to be regretted that the people of Collingsworth County turned down the measure to separate the offices of sheriff and tax collector in the April 2 election. We have as good a sheriff as any county in the Panhandle from the standpoint of law enforcement. But a good sheriff simply does not have the time to be an efficient tax assessor especially when a county is going from a strictly agricultural and ranching set of values on the land into one that involves producing gas wells, shut in gas wells, pipe lines, oil royalties, etc. It takes an expert to assess this sort of property correctly.

There is a way for the county to solve this problem and in so doing they may get out of the red in a few years. It is simply to hire a man to assess taxes who knows about pipe lines, shut in wells, royalty values and put him to work this year. The El Paso Natural Gas paid 35 million dollars for the property it owns in the northern part of Collingsworth County. This does not include the developments they have made since that time. Yet this newspaper understands that no taxes have ever been assessed against the very real and valuable holdings the company owns in this county. The El Paso Natural Gas is a business institution and does business on an honorable basis. They have no objection to paying county taxes as long as they are fair and equitable. They have lawyers to protect them in case they should tend to be extortinate. They can deduct state and county taxes from their income tax. Why let Uncle Sam get it when we need it so badly.

The El Paso Natural Gas is only one instance of where new tax sources could be found. Royalty payments have been made up to as much as $35 an acre. Practically none of this is on the tax rolls, but it is taxable. It will take a trained man to do the job fairly, efficiently and equitably; but it should be done.

The Senate Investigations Committee under the direction of Senator John McLellan (D) of Arkansas has started probing into the use of goon gangs by labor union bosses to deprive union members of their rights. Did you ever see a goon squad in action?

I did see a goon gang in action several years ago in Buffalo, N. Y. The controversy was over a bigger union muscleing in on a smaller one according to the newspapers.

I will describe one of the many scenes that I saw with my own eyes and recount what I heard with my own ears. I heard a commotion in the street and went to the window of the hotel room to see what was happening. Four men were struggling. All four were in the same type of working uniforms that might be those of a trucking company or a bus company. One tremendously big fellow was fighting three others. Finally two guys about his size got him collared one on each arm and the short broad-shouldered one stood in front of him and started telling him why he should sign up with their union.

The big man, held pinioned, shouted: "I don't want to sign with your lousy union—I belong to a good union already." With that declaration he used the shoulders of the men who held him and kicked the short broad shouldered one flat on his back. There was another hassle; but the big man failed to break loose from his holders. The short big shouldered man picked himself up and started in to beat the big fellow who was being held. He beat him methodically, scientifically and brutally in the solar plexis, the groin and on the chin. At last, they dragged him down the steps with his legs limp and his feet dragging. I watched by the window for an hour. Nobody came out. I presume that the big fellow signed against his will or else he died. That is the goon gang in action.

There is a story in this week's paper that is a reminder of the old days in Collingsworth when the buildings were meager and few and the grass was plentiful and the countryside was beautiful beyond words in the wet years. Eva (O'Neil) Hilburn died last Friday after an illness of only six hours. She was the daughter of one of the true pioneer families of the county. She lived here in her girlhood and once again as a married woman in the twenties. Those big eyes, that classic face and the warm smile endeared her to the people who knew her. She loved people, she loved music, she loved flowers. In my back yard is a living momento of the time that Eva Hilburn lived in Wellington. It is a climbing American Beauty rose that she introduced in the town. Every time I see it in bloom the rose bush reminds me of her just as the yucca in the front yard reminds me of my father and the pine tree reminds me of my mother. The landscaping in my yard is helter-skelter from an experts view; but every permanent plant or tree reminds me of a person I loved.

Bill Sims stopped me the other day at a feed store and asked me or demanded: "They ain't going to let us make any money any more are they?" I asked if he was talking about the soil bank, income tax or what. He said: "I am talking about all of them especially this business of putting a bigger and bigger debt on our children and grandchildren." We talked, but I had no answer that was satisfactory even unto myself.

Mack Willis left his tractor motor idling and in getting off he accidentally hit the gear that started the tractor moving even with the motor idling. He fell off and escaped with some cuts and a sprained ankle. He got his legs free before the plows moved over. It could have been very bad. If such a careful farmer as Mack can come this close to disaster, it is time for every farmer in the county to remember every minute and every day that farming was and is the most hazardous occupation in the nation.

"We extend our thanks to the Quaker Oats people for their donation of Aunt Jemima pancake mix, the Plains Dairy, Kimbell Wholesale for the syrup, and Pinkney Packing Company for bacon," the Kiwanis president said.

Mung Beans Beneficial To Two SCD Farmers

Murl Lacy, who farms four miles east of Wellington, and Louis Patterson, who lives north of Dodson, are two co-operators of the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District who have had excellent success planting mung beans with grain sorghum to help build land.

Lacy planted his sorghum-mung bean mixture in a three-fourths to one-fourth ratio. He found that sorghum production increased, although less sorghum was planted.

Mung beans with sorghum does not cut down the yield of grain sorghums, but it does add nitrogen to the soil since it is a legume," Ed Thomas of the Soil Conservation Service points out.

"Organic material is left on the surface of the soil along with the sorghum stubble. This organic material with the nitrogen that has been added by the legume helps improve the soil and retards wind erosion," he continued.

Lacy reports it costs the same to produce one-fourth bale of cotton as it does one bale.

If you can improve your land where you have an increase in production, then net earnings are higher," Thomas continued.

Patterson prefers to plant a mixture of one-half mung beans and one-half sorghums. He believes that he can clear more money from mung beans than he can sorghums, but the mixture is desired, because the mung-bean plants alone leave the ground bare after harvest.

Patterson likes mung beans because he believes they are soil improving as well as a cash crop. He also states that mung beans are easier to harvest than cowpeas since they do not shatter as easily.

Dodson Farmers Co-op Gin

DODSON, TEXAS

In Quail Game Conservation Area

Landowners to Issue All Hunting Permits

Hunting in the Quail Game preserve will be by permit only, with the landowners issuing the permits, officers of the Quail Game Conservation Association announced following a recent meeting at which by-laws were set up. All hunting regulations will conform to the game laws of he State of Texas.

Dues were set at $1 per farm on one section or less; $2 on farms of from one to two sections; and $3 for all farms or ranches of two sections or more. These are paid only once.

The big job of the association now is to contact all landowners of the district and secure their memberships, officers pointed out. Receiving dues are officers and directors: Donald Langley, president; Fred Bourland, secretary-treasurer; Monty Mitchell reporter; and Frank Kennedy, J. Z. Neeley, Ben Ratliff and Chester White, directors.

Membership is open to landowners and to business and professional men, but only landowners will issue the hunting permits.

It is pointed out that the hunter must have the permit with him at the time he is hunting and it may be checked by any game warden or law enforcement officer.

The State Fish and Game Department will have charge of restocking the preserve with game. Bob-white quail will be used principally, but officers said there may be a few chukker, wild turkey and deer released. This is not definite, they point out.

Boundary signs will be put up in a short time.

Present officers of the Quail Game Conservation Association will serve until an annual meeting is held some time in August.

Boundaries of the Quail reserve are all the area from Salt Fork River south to the Childress county line. TheDonley county line is the west boundary, and the East boundary line follows Highway 83 from Salt Fork River south to the intersection with Highway 52, then west four miles, then south along the east side of Precinct 3 to the Childress county line.

Former City Resident Sought

A search is under way for a man whose last known address was Wellington, who has unclaimed money or securities due him.

The man is John A. Stringer, sought by the Tracer Company of America, an organization which hunts missing heirs for U. S. Business firms with unclaimed cash and securities on hand. It is sponsor of the TV program, "The Tracers", on which Stringer's name recently was called.

Several persons have contacted The Leader regarding the man, including Mrs. R. C. Dryden, Anthony, N. M., who wrote Mrs. Ola Wall regarding him, and a crew member of the Katy Railway.

Postmaster R. T. Savage says the post office has no record of a person by that name, although it is possible he may have received his mail through general delivery.

Several long-time residents who were contacted gave the same answers: "Well' his name sounds familiar, but I can't place the man".

"Calling All Carrs"

Quail Seniors to Stage Class Play April 19th

Quail seniors will stage their class play, "Calling All Carrs", Friday night, April 19. The curtain of the auditorium goes up at 8 p. m. on a comedy the students declare will keep the audience laughing delightedly, even though they may be a little confused.

The play centers around rich Uncle Caleb Carr, who has a chronic ulcer, and who, at one point, his money-mad relatives believe has drowned. They even bring out his will, only to have him reappear.

Then there is his half-sister, Fenella, played by Betty Dollar; Henry Carr, a nephew, Earl Farris, and Elta Carr, Henry's wife, Patsy Aaron. R. A. Newman as Orville Carr is known as "their precious son." Caleb's secretary is Ira Holper, played by Eddie Wheeler; and Flossie Smiley, his nurse, is Edna Wright. Constance Carr, a niece by marriage, is Faye Lacy, and her daughter, Madeline, is Sheri Graham.

IN WAR AND PEACE

Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer, as Tolstoy's immortal Natasha and Prince Andrey, join Henry Fonda to portray the top starring roles in the mammoth Technicolor production of "War and Peace", opening Sunday at the Ritz threater.

"War and Peace" Comes to Ritz Screen Apr. 28-30

Although primarily a story of people rather than historical events, with a triple love theme that is the most moving in all literature, the mammoth film version of "War and Peace" starring Audrey Hepburn, Henry Fonda and Mel Ferrer, is backgrounded by three of the greatest battles ever recreated on the motion picture screen, along with scenes of military operations that are reported to be staggering in their vast scope.

The three-hour-and-twenty-eight-minute film, which opens Sunday, April 28, at the Ritz Theatre, follows the Grande Armee of Napoleon through his seven-year invasion of Czarist Russia, beginning with the first Russian defeat at Austerlitz, through the epic Battle of Borodino, the burning of Moscow, the retreat of the French forces through the cruel Russian winter over a countryside they themselves devastated, and the final blow at Berezina that sent their decimated armies stumbling back toward Paris.

Filmed in Italy in VistaVision and color by Technicolor, under the production hand of Dino DeLaurentiis and the direction of King Vidor, the Paramount release used 18,000 troops of the Italian Army and thousands of horses to capture the historically accurate scenes. Muskets, cannon, equipment and uniforms are reworn by the dragoons, hussars, and grenadiers of the Napoleonic wars, while the sections of Moscow shown burning down around Napoleon's ears are exact replicas of the 1812 city.

Interwoven with this gigantic tapestry are the color and movement, violence and beauty, peace and conflict, love and hatred of the lives of fully a dozen people as their noble and glamourous world is shown in all its splendor.

More Than Putting Water on the Ground

Farmers See Practical Irrigation Demonstration

Farmers attending the sprinkler irrigation meeting and demonstration on the John Harper farm north of Wellington Friday, April 5, saw for themselves the successful irrigation of a crop is more than putting water on the land.

Dave Sherrill, irrigation assistant at the Lubbock Experiment Station, and R. V. Thurmond, agricultural engineer for irrigation with the Extension Service, were in charge, while County Agent J. W. Thomas handled local arrangements.

Emphasizing the right management of a well, the men told farmers how to build up gravel packing in the sandy land area, then went on to bring out the importance of pulling the wall at the right rate, and the trouble they would encounter if they pull more water from the well than it is capable of producing.

A well should not be pulled at over 60 per cent of the drawdown, it was pointed out.

A demonstration was given on what happens when water pressure is not kept up.

Farmers were warned against trying to engineer their own sprinkler systems, and were told to turn the job over to people who have had training in this work.

Detailed information was given on such things as water patterns, pressures, the correct size of pipe and the importance of having the right kind of nozzle. Demonstrations proved which should be used.

A further demonstration showed the irrigation farmers how to auger their soil to see how much moisture it contains and how deep the moisture goes. No one can tell when to water his crop without this, they were told.

Approximately 50 local farmers attended.

1866 Passenger Tags Issued

County car owners bought 1866 passenger tags this year, Miss Louise Fulcher, deputy tax assessor-collector announced after totals were counted.

That office also issued 603 farm tags; 232 commercial tags; 27 truck-tractor; 50 trailer, 7 house trailer and 31 dealer tags.

County's Peach Crop Ruined

Little if any damage to Collingsworth county's wheat crop from Saturday's low temperature was predicted by County Agent J. W. Thomas, but little of the peach crop remains in county orchards.

There may be "just a very few" peaches on trees on which the buds had not "popcorned" out, Thomas said.

Saturday night's temperature dropped to 26 degrees, and it was the still penetrating cold that was so damaging, it was explained. Fruit was not considered hurt in the low temperature Thursday night.

Chas. Bearden, one of the county's most extensive peach growers, suffered from $7,000 to $9,000 loss, Thomas reported, and other orchard owners were damaged in proportion.

Some apple varieties have not yet bloomed, and there may be a small crop from these.

Deana Karen Terry, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Terry of Albuquerque, N. M., has been visiting with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bell and Mrs. O. A. Terry, the past two weeks. Deana came home with Mr. and Mrs. Bell who had been visiting in Albuquerque, and her parents will come for her this weekend.

Former Pastors to Preach

Homecoming at Friendship Baptist Church Sunday

Members and former members of Friendship Baptist Church will gather Sunday, April 21, for an all-day homecoming, at the church in the Buck Creek community.

This is the second homecoming held in the history of the church, the first being on the 50th anniversary in 1949.

Friendship Baptist Church is one of the oldest organized churches in Collingsworth county. Elder L. Stonecipher has been pastor for the last 10 years.

The day's program will be informal, to give more time for visiting and renewing friendeships, according to L. W. Hartman, who with Frank Boyles and J. C. Hartman Jr. is planning the homecoming.

Two former pastors will preach at the morning service, Elder J. L. Richardson, now of Spur, and Elder L. J. Crawford of Shamrock. L. W. Hartman will read the church history.

Dinner will be served at the church, and there will be singing and wellowship in the afternoon.

The church was organized January 15, 1899, by Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Goodnight, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Lawrence, and Mrs. M. F. Hunter. The latter is the only surviving charter member. Mrs. E. L. Rankin, the former Miss Lou Goodnight, was the first person received into the church for baptism, in August 1899.

Leadership of the church now lies with three deacons, who also are the men planning the homecoming event. Travis McGuire Jr. is Sunday School superintendent.

Lillie Baptist Church TU Host

Lillie Baptist Church was host to the Training Union zone meeting Monday night, April 15. Attended by 97 representatives of churches at Rolla, Quail, Lillie, Lutie, Dodson, Faith Baptist and First Baptist of Wellington.
