Boothe will head chamber banquet

POWERS BOOTHE

The "nationally known performing artists from Snyder," a list headed by actor Powers Boothe, will comprise the program for 1986's Snyder Chamber of Commerce Banquet now scheduled March 15.

The banquet plans were revealed Tuesday by Helen Hatter, chamber volunteer who has been heading up this year's planning effort.

In addition to Boothe, she said they have received a commitment from Dane Witherspoon, Barry Tubb, Brad Maule and Ann Patterson.

Closing arguments offered for MacLeod murder trial

ODESSA (Special) — Prosecutors painted confessed killer Arthur Lee MacLeod as a man with a concrete plan to commit the perfect crime, but the defense portrayed the former teacher as a victim of tragic circumstances.

During closing arguments Wednesday morning in the murder trial of 36-year-old MacLeod, Lubbock County District Attorney Jim Bob Darnell told jurors the death of the defendant's wife, 35-year-old Evelyne Feather MacLeod, was planned.

Darnell told the eight-man, four-woman jury that the woman's May 15, 1985 strangulation and subsequent dismemberment were calculated acts.

But MacLeod's attorney, Quinn Brackett of Lubbock, called his client's actions the product of the couple's "unnormal and deviant relationship."

"Ladies and gentlemen, what happened out there at that house was a horrible situation. It was a sick deal," Brackett said.

"You put those two people together and things were doomed from the word go."

While not downplaying the effects of alcohol on both MacLeod and his wife the night of the slaying, the defense attorney emphasized the events leading to the death.

On Tuesday, a Lubbock psychiatrist testified that MacLeod appeared to be a man deeply deceived by the wife he idealized and later strangled.

"She was the kind of woman I had always dreamed of," MacLeod said of his slain wife.

H.E. Whittington of Lubbock, who conducted a psychiatric exam on MacLeod after the slaying, said MacLeod told him, "We looked at each other as salvation but we had just the opposite effect."

Closing arguments from both sides concluded during the morning and the jury received the case at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday.

They were said still deliberating at noon.

Ask Us

Q. — Are nurse-midwives legal in the state of Texas and, if so, do they have special training or are they just LVN's and RN's?

A. — Yes, they are legal. The state does not license midwives, but the law regulates what they may legally do based upon their training, which follows the same guidelines as a licensed vocational nurse or registered nurse.

Decline of oil prices said continuing

NEW YORK (AP) — Sellers continue outnumbering buyers on world oil markets, with most crude prices hovering at levels not seen since 1979.

On Tuesday, West Texas Intermediate, the major domestic grade of oil, dropped 67 cents per barrel to $20.60 for February delivery, while Brent North Sea crude fell to $19.70 a barrel in the cash market, down from Monday's $20.75 price.

Gasoline and heating oil prices, however, were up slightly on the New York Mercantile Exchange, which reported its highest-ever trading volume.

The February futures contract for Brent North Sea also bucked the trend, opening higher at $21 a barrel, falling to $19.50, then recovering to close at $20.20, up a nickel a barrel from Monday's close.

Still, overall crude prices stood down 37 percent since November and 20 percent lower than they were last Wednesday.

"I think we've got utter chaos in the oil business and there is no confidence in anybody stepping in to restore stability," said Rosario Ilacqua, an analyst at the New York brokerage house of L.F. Rothschild, Unterberg, Towbin.

"The facts are, if the producing countries cannot get together to hold the price at $27, what is to hold it at $20 or $15?" said Ilacqua. While suggesting that more erosion is likely, however, he also joined other analysts in suggesting that price pressures would force an eventual turnaround.

Since the 1970s, fears of shortages, the high cost of oil and concern over the double-digit inflation spawned by the price explosion led to conservation and fuel switching that undermined the demand for oil.

This helped produce the petroleum glut that now is causing prices to collapse.

The fallout also hit the stock market. Six of the most active issues on the New York Stock Exchange on Tuesday were oil companies and all fell in value. The Dow Jones industrial average fell 14.68; three of its 30 stocks are oil companies.

Chamber pledges expanded efforts to solicit industry

A new pledge and plan for action regarding the search for additional industry in Scurry County was offered Tuesday during the first meeting of 1986 for the Snyder Chamber of Commerce board.

Chamber officials now propose the formation of an industrial task force "representing every segment of the community."

This task force is to be formed within the next few weeks, and its purpose would be "to meet and to discuss" ways to expand the county economy.

From this initial gathering, the intent is to form an advisory group designed to assist the two agencies now in place to solicit new industry — the Industrial Foundation and the Board of County Development.

"Not to work against, but to work with," commented new Chamber President Jack Denman, who chaired his first meeting as president Monday.

It was pointed out that the Industrial Foundation is "a legal vehicle to own and subsidize property," and that the BCD was created as an extension of county government, a way of using tax dollars to advertise for industry and to fund industry-related visits.

The advisory group as now proposed would be a means of better coordinating both the BCD and Industrial Foundation efforts.

Denman noted the plan was the offshoot of chamber membership visits proposed during 1985 by past-President Roy Baze. "The message we got was loud and clear," Denman noted, "The chamber needs to get more involved in the search for new industry, new business."

After Denman's proposal, the plan gained unanimous support of the 12-member chamber board.

During the first meeting of 1986, the chamber also approved appointments for the various chamber divisions and committees for the year.

Guilty decree reached here

A six-man, six-woman jury in 132nd District Court Tuesday found Domingo Zapata Martinez guilty of charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Jurors returned to the courtroom Wednesday morning to hear evidence in the punishment phase of the trial.

Martinez is being tried in connection with the October theft of a pickup owned by Kenneth Lynch of Snyder.

During Tuesday's proceedings, a witness who had been cited for comtempt of court for refusing to answer questions agreed to take the stand. As a result, the contempt charges were dropped.

BACK TO CLASS — As of 8 a.m. Wednesday, 806 students had signed up for the spring semester at Western Texas College. Regular registration ended Tuesday afternoon, but students — both fulltime and part-time — will be able to enroll in classes through Feb. 4. Spring signup at 806

Registration for the spring term at Western Texas College appears to be keeping pace with fall enrollment here as the initial signup ended Tuesday and classes began Wednesday morning.

A total of 806 had registered as of 8 a.m. Wednesday — 464 fulltime and 342 part-time students.

On the last day to signup for classes last fall, the student count went to 1,006. College officials expressed confidence this number would be bettered this spring.

One factor which will aid this will be the some 72 students attending a Mid-Winter session at WTC. These numbers will not be plugged into the student count until registration is concluded.

The final day to enroll for classes this spring is Feb. 4 — a Tuesday.

The number of fulltime students on campus appears to be holding the same, but an initial drop in part-time numbers was noted this spring.

Dr. Duane Hood, dean of student services, noted it was too soon to determine if this would be a permanent trend since part-time signup goes "until the last day."

Regarding semester hours — the actual number of class hours registered for — the spring term is now at 8,300. The final figure

City retains vehicles following bid waiver

Noting that it would "create a real imposition to the bidders," Snyder city councilmen voted Tuesday to accept police cars ordered from Mal Donelson Chevrolet Co.

The called meeting was held since the apparent low bidder for the four vehicles did not exactly meet bid specifications.

Police Chief Bill Stone did not accept delivery of the vehicles because front seat arm rests listed in the bid specs had not been installed.

City Manager John Gayle noted Stone wanted council members to be aware of the change and to make a decision about keeping the vehicles.

Originally, the council accepted the Mal Donelson bid of $38,739 over a $38,994 bid by Wilson Motors.

Councilman Truett Bryan noted, "If we rebid, we are looking at 60 days before we can get them (new vehicles)."

In other action, councilmen unanimously approved a motion by Mickey Nunley to appoint Larry Anderson of the local CPA firm Anderson and West for the city's outside audit. There was no discussion on the proposal.

Those attending Tuesday's special session included David Hines, Tommy Davis, Truett Bryan, Troy Williamson, Mickey Nunley, Don Osborn, Gayle, Mayor Rod Waller and Ernie Armstrong, city attorney.

Snyder vet Charles Church has been on top of the world since his beloved Aggies won the SWC and defeated Auburn in the Cotton Bowl.

Most professional people are philosophical about laymen who do their own work. For instance, a lawyer just smiles about the fellow who writes his own will, knowing full well that "pay me now, or pay me later" will eventually bear fruit.

We thought about Church when we heard the story about a farmer who had a horse which had developed an ailment that demanded the attention of a veterinarian.

The farmer was too cheap to pay the vet, so he decided to seek the "low-fee" advice of a neighbor. "What did you give your horse when he was sick?" the farmer asked.

"I mixed a quart of turpentine with his feed," the neighbor said.

The farmer immediately went out to the barn with a quart of turpentine, pleased that he had saved a professional fee. He put the turpentine in the horse's feed. The next day the horse was dead.

The farmer was heartbroken, since the horse had been a good and faithful friend. The farmer decided to go into town and find a place to drown his sorrows.

In the bar, the farmer saw the neighbor who had given him the advice.

"Didn't you tell me you gave your sick horse turpentine?" the farmer asked.

"Sure did."

"Well, I gave my favorite horse turpentine and he died," the farmer said.

"So did mine," the neighbor said.

That situation is sort of like the woman who asked the druggist if birth-control pills are deductible with the IRS.

"Only if they don't work," answered the pharmacist.

Reagan, Congress still at odds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has begun a new legislative year the way the last one ended — deadlocked with President Reagan over how best to stem the deluge of federal red ink.

The president, holding his second White House meeting in as many days today with congressional Republicans, is insisting that for now the goals of a strict budget-balancing law enacted late last year can be met with spending cuts alone. Reagan also insists he can maintain his military buildup.

On Capitol Hill, most Democrats and some Republicans say tax increases will be necessary.

"There's no way that you can fix the deficit with taxes," said Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee. "Conversely, there's no way you can fix the deficit with just budget cuts. So you need some of both."

But the president again told Republican congressional leaders Tuesday that tax increases are out of the question.

"The president made it clear ... at the leadership meeting he doesn't see any need for that," said Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan.

Dole, meanwhile, said he suggested to the president that "we'd like to have a sort of a partnership ... between Congress and the White House" to settle the budget problems.

In the past, "sometimes it's been a sort of a silent partnership," Dole said, wryly noting last year's budget squabbles between the White House and Senate Republicans.

Reagan invited all GOP senators to the White House for breakfast today as part of an administration effort to clear away hard feelings that may be lingering from last year and to smooth the way for the austere budget plan Reagan will send to Congress early next month.

That work will continue with a trip Reagan is planning to Capitol Hill on Jan. 31 to meet with House Republicans, who broke ranks with the president last year when he gave an approving nod to a tax overhaul proposal drafted by the Democratic-led House Ways and Means Committee.

Although Reagan is trying to soothe bruised feelings, he is showing no signs of a willingness to give ground on the new budget he is about to send to Congress. The new law aimed at achieving a balanced budget by 1991 sets a deficit ceiling of $144 billion for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

With deficits now running at an annual rate of more than $200 billion, Reagan is expected to recommend meeting the goal with about $54 billion in savings achieved through cutting or eliminating various federal programs or imposing user fees for government services. Many of the proposals are expected to be ideas Congress has rejected before.

Administration officials have said the president also intends to request a 3 percent increase in Pentagon spending, after inflation.

Reagan also is considering a plan to resume military aid for Nicaraguan rebels, in amounts from $25 million to $100 million, administration and congressional officials have said. The CIA backed the rebels covertly from 1981 to 1984, and they now receive $27 million in non-lethal logistical aid.

The New York Times reported in today's editions the president had decided to seek $60 million in military aid and $30 million in non-lethal aid for the rebels.

Three found guilty

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A special judge Wednesday found a Sikh bodyguard guilty of assassinating Prime Minister Indira Gandhi in October 1984 and two co-defendants guilty of conspiracy to commit murder. He sentenced all three to death.

"The present case is one of the rarest of the rare. The extreme penalty of death is called for," said Judge Mahesh Chandra, who heard the eight-month trial without a jury.

Mrs. Gandhi was shot and killed on a garden path in her compound on Oct. 31, 1984. Satwant Singh, a 22-year-old bodyguard was found guilty Wednesday of murdering her, conspiracy, illegal use of firearms and wounding a policeman at the scene.

The two other defendants, who also are members of the Sikh religious minority, were police guard Balbir Singh and civil servant Kehar Singh. Kehar Singh was an uncle of Beant Singh, a second bodyguard who police also say shot Mrs. Gandhi.

Political observers had predicted a guilty verdict for Satwant Singh despite his lawyer's contention that he was an innocent scapegoat in a family plot involving Mrs. Gandhi's son and successor as prime minister, Rajiv Gandhi.

Several hundred police were deployed outside the courthouse where the verdict was read to prevent demonstrations by angry Sikhs. The public was kept away from the jail, which was cordoned off, and no trouble was reported.

QUICK QUIZ

DO YOU KNOW

How much cheese should you shred to make the cup called for in a recipe? Four ounces of any natural or pasteurized process cheese equals a cup of shredded cheese.

What makes the holes in Swiss cheese? The holes, called "eyes" by cheesemakers, are created by a gas that develops naturally during the curing or aging of the cheese. The process is something like the rising of yeast bread.

How much fresh whole milk does it take to make a pound of cheese? Ten pounds of milk (a little more than a gallon) are needed to make a pound of natural cheese. A pound of cottage cheese requires six and a quarter pounds of milk, nearly three quarts.

If you'd like to learn more about cheese, send for "Glorious Cheese, The 1986 Engagement Book for Cooks." Here is another Marty Bergen hand, this time on defense (Bergen was West), but first a word of explanation about the bidding. East made an opening weak two-bid in spades, and South doubled for takeout, but what about that strange two no-trump bid by North? In their methods, two no-trump was meant to force South to bid three clubs unless he had a strong suit of his own. North might then bid three hearts, but getting there in such an indirect way would show that North had less than six high-card points. Of course, when South bypassed clubs to bid diamonds, he showed at least five and probably six diamonds, so North was happy to let him play in that trump suit.

What about Marty Bergen's double when he knew his side had a sure four spade contract? Since the opponents were vulnerable, he hoped to collect more in penalties than the value of his own non-vulnerable game. Watch how he defended. He opened the king and ace of hearts, and then continued with the two. This card, his lowest remaining heart, asked partner to play back a club. East ruffed the heart and followed instructions by returning a club. Marty won with the ace. Another heart was ruffed, and since Marty had concealed the club king, East played a spade. Declarer trumped, picked up the remaining trumps and played toward dummy's Q-10 of clubs. West ducked, and South cannot really be blamed for putting up dummy's 10. Marty Bergen's clever falsecarding had netted his side 800 against what would have been only 420 if he had bid the sure four spades.

THE FFA EMBLEM

The familiar FFA Emblem is made up of five symbols that depict the organization's purpose.

The emblem's background is formed by a cross-section of an ear of corn. Corn represents common agricultural interests because corn is native to America and grown in every state.

The rising sun in the center of the emblem symbolizes progress in agriculture and the confidence that all FFA members have in the future.

The plow is the symbol of labor and tillage of the soil.

The owl symbolizes wisdom and knowledge.

The words Vocational Agriculture surrounding the letters FFA tell us that FFA is an important part of the vocational agriculture/agribusiness program.

FFA launches a new tractor safety campaign

A campaign entitled "Brand 'em to Save a Life" has been launched by FFA as a safety emphasis measure aimed at cutting down on tractor accidents.

The program, adopted at the 58th National FFA Convention in Kansas City, will serve to educate farmers on the three leading causes of farm tractor fatalities. Tractor overturns, runovers and unguarded power take-off entanglements.

The National Safety Council estimates that there are between 500 and 600 tractor fatalities each year.

Overturns account for approximately one out of every two tractor fatalities, runovers account for one out of five, unguarded power take-off entanglements one out of 25, and most of the tractor accidents occur on older tractor models.

For that reason, during the "Brand 'em to Save a Life" campaign, targeted for the spring of 1986, FFA'ers will provide safety fact brochures and safety decals on an estimated 2.5 million tractors manufactured prior to 1970.

Newer model tractors have been engineered to accept rollover protective structures and have been decaled with safety reminders.

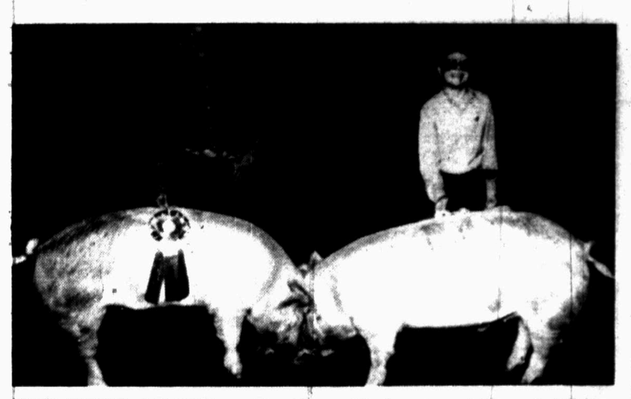

International Harvester Company and J.I. Case will work with FFA on this special campaign. It is a part of the National FFA Safety Program, sponsored by the Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute and Dow Chemical U.S.A.

Lamesa tops Snyder here, 71-56...

Free throw line no charity spot for Tigers

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

It's one of the most important factors of the game, yet it's probably the most overlooked by high school players - free throws.

A handful of turnovers and a three-for-eight performance from the line in the first five minutes of the fourth quarter spelled Snyder's doom here Tuesday as the Tigers lost a District 2-4A contest to second-ranked Lamesa, 71-56.

The final score was not indicitive of how close the battle was fought. On the other hand, Lamesa's 12-of-14 effort from the charity stripe in the final 1:18 of the ballgame helped prove that free throw shooting can make - or break - a ballclub.

"The difference was free throws. They made theirs and we missed ours," agreed Snyder Coach Larry Scott after the game, which set the Tigers back 14-5 overall and 5-2 in district play.

Snyder had owned a nine-point lead at times during the ballgame, but Lamesa stormed back at the end of the third quarter. Backed by the all-around play of 6-3 all-stater Jerry Mason, the Tornadoes outscored a gutsy Snyder team 10-2 over the final three minutes of the period. The result was a 46-40 lead by the Tors.

The score was still a six-point difference, 52-46, when Trey Tippens made one of two free throws with 4:41 left. Snyder had a chance to pull within four points moments later, but turned the ball over on the fast break. Another try went north when Bobby Scott failed to connect on a one-and-one from the charity stripe. Jackie Anderson couldn't find the hoop from the line moments later either, though Scott did get credit for the front end of a bonus situation when officials whistled Lamesa for goaltending - touching the net - when the ball spun around in the cylinder.

Snyder had its final opportunity when Mike McWilliams shook off the free throw woes and bagged two at the 1:50 mark, making the score 55-51. The Tigers had a couple of chances to pull within two points, but Snyder's usually good outside shooting was not to be found.

Lamesa went shot-for-shot with the Tigers and hit a dozen free throws late in the game when Snyder was forced to foul to try to get the ball back.

Snyder's lack of success wasn't all from the free throw line, though it appeared that's where the Tigers might have lost some confidence.

"Sometimes when you don't hit your free throws, it shakes your confidence," Scott said. "But like I told the kids, they have nothing to be ashamed of. The shots just didn't fall for us. We got the shots we wanted. They just wouldn't go in."

Coach Scott said that other than free throws - Snyder was 14 of 28 for the night - he was pleased with the way the Tigers played.

He should be.

Snyder came out in a box-and-one defense and completely dominated the inside game. Tippens and 6-3 junior Chris Garrett played some of their best ball of the season as Snyder marched to a 17-12 advantage in the first eight minutes.

Ironically, and perhaps a serving as a cruel fortune teller, the Tigers were only one-of-five from the line in the first period.

The defense served to keep the ball away from Mason. He managed only only six of Lamesa's dozen first-quarter points.

The theme continued in the second half, with one crucial change - the foul situation. Tippens got his third foul with 4:29 still to play in the half and McWilliams followed at the 3:14 mark. Coach Scott was forced to go to his bench and relieve both players.

Lamesa eventually caught the Tigers. Ironically again, they did it from the line. Mason's freebees with 1:15 left made it a 30-30 game. A Snyder turnover put the visitors up 32-30, but Don Osborn popped a free shot with 46 seconds to go and Garrett snaked a rebound up and in just before the buzzer to leave Snyder with a 33-32 halftime advantage.

The game turned around quickly in the third quarter. A estimated crowd of 1,200 - mostly Snyder fans - watched as Garrett and Tippens were flagged with their fourth fouls in the first minute and a half. Lamesa, unable to feed Mason the ball with consistancy in the first half, immediately went to the big gun now. The Tors outscored Snyder 14-7 in the period and Mason accounted for 10 of the visitors' points.

"We began to get in foul trouble in the second quarter and we weren't able to cover Mason as closely as we had too," said Snyder's Coach Scott. "We just couldn't play as aggressively as we needed."

Mason's 35 points - including a 13-of-15 effort from the charity line - led all players. He aided Lamesa to a 19-4 season record and a 7-0 district mark. It was the Tors' 48th consecutive District 2-4A victory.

Cedric Mason - Jerry's brother - popped for 11 and Carl Pennington had 12.

Snyder got 16 points from Bobby Scott, 13 from Anderson, 11 from Tippens and 10 from Garrett. Garrett also yanked down 17 rebounds. As mentioned, he was indeed a force underneath the basket.

Snyder now has the unenviable task of having to match up with the state's No. 8 ranked team - Andrews - on Friday.

"We're still in it," said Coach Scott. "We've got a good chance of taking second place. I know it will take a day or two to get over this loss, but we'll be ready to go to Andrews."

'Have to win them all now..'

Lady Tors shock SHS girls

LAMESA -- Coach Ken Housden's Lady Tigers put themselves in the hot seat here Tuesday night by falling to Lamesa, 68-66.

"We've got to win the rest of them now," said Coach Housden, whose girls drop to third place in district play with a 6-3 record. The Tigers are 17-3 overall.

Lamesa went into the game as one of the most improved teams in the district and came out of it with even more confidence. Led by 6-1 sophomore Kim Turner and Monique Mason inside, the Lady Tors outgunned Snyder 19-8 in the first quarter. It was all catchup from that point on.

Snyder rallied to make it a 29-28 halftime, but Lamesa sprinted out to a 51-40 advantage in the third, and took the victory.

"They (the officials) let it get pretty physical underneath and Mason and Turner hurt us pretty bad on the boards. The Mason kid blocked a few shots on us. I thought some were fouls but that's they way it goes, I guess," said Housden.

Snyder had three players to foul out of the game, including leading scorer Karlene Thompson.

"I think possibly so. Surely that was part of it. I don't think we were mentally ready to play," said Housden.

Thompson's 37 points and 11 rebounds led all players. Stephanie McKnight and Christy Comer added 6 each for the Tigers.

For Lamesa, 11-11 and 6-3 now, Jennifer Smith had 35 points and Mason turned up 11.

Friday's game with Andrews - 2-4A's second place team currently - is set for 8 p.m. at Snyder High School Gym.

Western begins home stand

WTC needs wins in unlikely place-home

Maybe a little strategy is in order.

Perhaps Coach Phil Spradling should load his Westerners in a bus, drive to Big Spring or Odessa or Ranger or anywhere, blindfold his players, and then bring 'em back to Snyder for Thursday's game with Midland.

"We've played so much on the road this season we're getting use to it," said Spradling, whose Westerners have played only six home games in their 19 outings this season. The Westerners are undefeated on the road in Western Junior College Athletic Conference play, but 1-2 in conference games at home.

Thursday begins a three-game home stand for the Westerners, too, but Spradling feels that the teams' fortunes will turn around.

"I think the next three at home will help us. We've got two wins under our belt this time (against Clarendon and Frank Phillips) and we're getting back into the feel of playing basketball. We're beginning to come down to the end and we're going to find out who has got character," Spradling said.

The coach said the toughest aspect of playing in the coliseum is the "wide open spaces."

"It's tough to get use to, especially when we aren't able to work out there very often," he said. "We try to shoot some there, but because there are only two goals, and because there are other teams needing to work out there too, it's tough to plan workouts there."

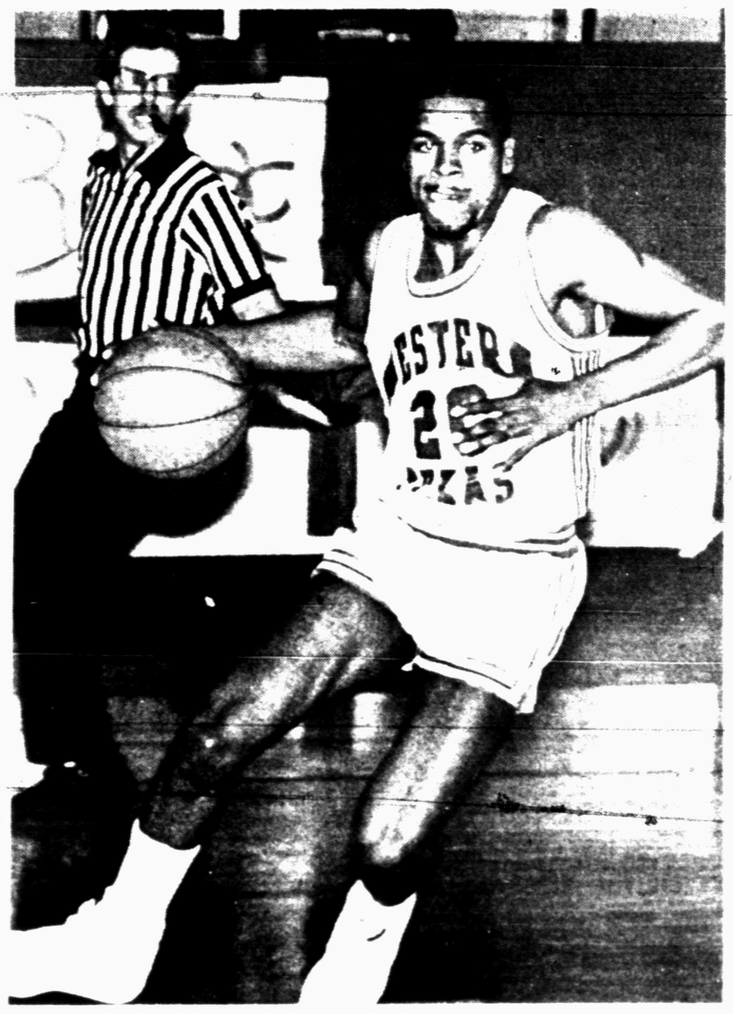

He does see some advantages, however.

"It's a big plus when our fans are out there and being enthusiastic. Believe me, the players really appreciate vocal fans. We want to get the fans out for these three games and we'd like them to make some noise, to get involved."

Spradling said the Westerners shouldn't have any trouble getting ready for the game with Midland.

"They're the number two ranked team in the nation and we know we can play with them. They beat us by one point (in a non-conference game earlier in the season) and we had chances to win the ballgame. So we'd like to prove that we can play well at home, in front of our fans, and we'd like to show we can play with a team of Midland's caliber. If you can't get up for that, you can't get up for anything."

Tipoff is 8 p.m.

McEnroe leaves pro tour

NEW YORK (AP) - Saying he needs time to rest and get back in shape, tennis star John McEnroe has left the professional tour for at least 60 days.

The New York left-hander petitioned the Men's International Professional Tennis Council Tuesday for a reduction from a mandated minimum of 14 Nabisco Grand Prix tournaments in 1986, saying he needed the time to rest and get himself in shape.

The Pro Council granted the request.

Under the rules, a player who does not compete in any pro tennis event for a minimum of 60 or more consecutive days can petition the Pro Council for a reduction of his commitment. The rule was put into the Code of Conduct several years ago after Sweden's Bjorn Borg was unable to play a limited schedule since the rules at that time did not allow for fewer than the maximum number of tournaments.

Miracle Red Raiders attack Mustangs in key SWC game

The Red Raiders just hope tonight's game against Southern Methodist can help the defending Southwest Conference basketball champions forget the one that got away.

The Red Raiders had specialized in winning last-second thrillers until the fates turned against them Saturday in friendly Municipal Coliseum.

They were 4-0 thanks to three, last-second, game-winning shots from Tony (the Buzzer Beater) Benford.

It appeared the Texas Aggies were on the verge of falling victim to the Red Raider magic.

Leading by two points, Dewayne Chism stole a pass and drove uncontested for a slam dunk. However, he missed and the Aggies converted the error into a three-point play that won the game 58-57.

Myers said "People have to remember that Chism didn't miss the shot on purpose. Nobody feels worse than he does.

"There were other circumstances that led to the loss. We'll have to forget about it."

Myers added "We've had some miraculous wins and this is one that was miraculous the other way. I guess everything evens out."

Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf said "It was the greatest comeback I've ever seen and I've been coaching quite awhile."

Against this backdrop, the Red Raiders visit Moody Coliseum alone in second place behind the Aggies.

They'll face a revived Southern Methodist team that may have found itself in a 63-56 upset of the Texas Longhorns on Saturday night.

SMU is 3-2 and broke a two-game losing streak by defeating the Longhorns for the eighth consecutive time.

The insertion of 6-9 sophomore Glenn Puddy of Houston into the lineup has solidified the Mustangs' frontline. He had nine points and three rebounds in 27 minutes against Texas.

Williams had 19 points and 8 rebounds in the triumph over the Longhorns.

"Terry has been a different center than the one we've seen play in the last two games," said Bliss.

Tech swept SMU in two regular season games last year.

"Gerald has done a great job with a young team this season," said Bliss. "It's going to be a fun game."

Myers said he hoped the Red Raiders could shake off the tough loss to the Aggies.

"SMU is getting it going again and it's hard to win at their place," Myers said.

In other games tonight, Rice is at Baylor, Texas A&M is at Houston, and TCU is at Texas.

Guy Lewis announces he'll retire after 1986

HOUSTON (AP) - It took Guy Lewis 33 years to get enough of what he never intended to be - a basketball coach.

But after five NCAA Final Four appearances, participating in the "game of the century" against UCLA and becoming the No. 11 all-time winningest Division I coach, Lewis called it quits at the University of Houston Tuesday, effective at the end of the season.

"When I got out of the service (in 1945) I thought I was a hot pilot," Lewis said. "I never intended to be a coach. I thought I was going to be a pilot the rest of my life. It didn't work out that way."

Lewis' tenure at Houston did work out though.

After playing three years for the Cougars in the 1940s, Lewis returned as an assistant in 1953 and became head coach in 1956.

In the past 30 years, he's had only three losing seasons, the first three, and has a string of 26 consecutive non-losing seasons still intact.

Lewis will go into tonight's Southwest Conference game against Texas A&M with 586 victories, second among active coaches. Lewis teams have had 14 20-victory seasons and 29 of his players have been drafted by the pros.

His teams were ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press final polls in 1968 and 1983.

But enough was enough.

"I went in to see Tom (Ford, athletic director) last week and told him 33 years at Houston was enough," Lewis said.

"I never thought of this as a job. To me, it was a crusade to built it into a great basketball program and a great school. It is known all over the nation as a great school. Unfortunately, the people of Houston don't know it."

Jones chosen runner of year

GREENBRAE, Calif. (AP) - Steve Jones of Wales, who came within one second of equaling the fastest men's marathon time ever, and Joan Benoit, who broke her American record in the women's marathon, have been named Runners of the Year for 1985 by Runner's World magazine.

Oil price drop could affect banks in Texas

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas banking system could face further problems if contract prices between oil producers and refiners follow the recent sharp decline of price quotes on the spot market, an energy banking specialist says.

"As the crude prices drop — and if they drop very severely, very quickly — probably the banks that have deep problems now will have very deep problems in the future," said Gene Fiedorek, manager of the energy group for RepublicBank Corp. and an executive vice president of RepublicBank-Dallas.

He added, however, that banks that are relatively free of problem energy loans "will have the least problems, although our problems will grow to some extent."

On Tuesday, First City Bancorporation of Texas reported a 53.2 percent drop in its 1985 fourth quarter net income from the same period during the previous year.

Senior First City Chairman J.A. Elkins Jr. said sour energy loans contributed to the decreased earnings.

Frank Anderson, a banking analyst in Dallas with Weber, Hall, Sale & Associates, Inc., agreed that financial institutions would have to begin setting aside more money to cover loan losses. But he didn't think falling oil prices would lead to the failure of a major bank-holding company.

Those companies would feel the most pressure, Anderson said, if oil prices "were to blow down and stay there."

Texas banks won't immediately be affected by the drop in spot crude oil prices because most of the banks' customers in the energy sector use the "posted" or contract price, Fiedorek said.

Those quotes generally follow the trends in the spot market — where surplus oil is sold on demand — but don't drop as far or as fast, he said.

"People are talking about spot headed for $15 or $20, but that doesn't mean the posted prices will drop that far."

Spot prices tend to be "an emotional number," Fiedorek said, adding that speculators can account for some of the wide fluctuations in the quotes.

The spot price closed Tuesday at $20.10, down from $32 in November. But Fiedorek noted Permian Corp.'s posted price late Tuesday was still at $26.75 — more than $6 per barrel higher — though he expected the posted price would also fall somewhat.

While concerned by the drop in prices, the RepublicBank official said a significant drop in oil prices had been expected early this year. The "realistic conservatism" in RepublicBank's projections also looks for the slide to continue through 1987, he said.

Fiedorek also believes most banks are trying to shed as many of their non-performing energy loans as possible. RepublicBank reviews most of its energy loans every six months, he said.

"Any new loan that we make and any existing loan that we've reviewed in this past two months ... we will restructure to give us a comfort margin of collateral to the loan," Fiedorek added.

"Banks are taking a much closer look than they would have," Anderson said. "You've got a lot of pressure on auditors to look at these loans more strongly."

In his analysis of the holding companies' fourth quarter earnings reports, Anderson said it appeared "a lot of the banks are trying to take a very conservative attitude, based on $20 to $22 oil."

"I don't think reserves are set up for much below that," he added. "A lot of these loans were made with the expectation of $40 to $50 oil."

Separately, RepublicBank Corp. reported Tuesday that its net income for 1985 was $140.2 million, a slight gain from the $137.3 million earned in 1984. Fourth quarter earnings, however, were down nine percent to $33.5 million, according to a statement from the bank holding company, the state's largest.

Other Texas banks also reported losses including Texas American Bancshares Inc. which reported a 39 percent decline in its net income for 1985 from the previous year.

BancTEXAS Group Inc, reported a net loss of $23.9 million for the fourth quarter, ending the year with a loss of $35.4 million compared to loss of $6.6 million for 1984.

Texas American's 1985 income was $2.6 million compared to a $4.2 million 1984 net income.

Dear Abby

Man Is Burned Trying To Fan Friendly Fire

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: To get to the point, I blew it, but I have only myself to blame.

I'm a 40-year-old man. In the three years since I've been divorced, I've dated many women, but none of them caused sparks to fly—until I met "Kathy" at a singles club. She's 35, great looking, a wonderful personality, intelligent and has two children. I have one.

It was love at first sight—for me, anyway. The next weekend we went shopping at a mall. Just being with Kathy thrilled me. We laughed and joked, and I felt like a teen-ager again. I know she liked me, too. She was very open and wasn't afraid to show affection. She spontaneously took my hand, and hugged me a couple of times. I wanted to be close to her, so on the way home we stopped (in broad daylight) and I kissed her just once and she didn't fight me. Then I made the mistake of my life. I said, "Your place or mine? Or should we stop at a motel?"

She said, "I don't want to be rushed into anything. Please take me home." Then her attitude changed completely. She turned very cold. I apologized and asked her to forgive me, but she stayed cold. I'm sure she thought I acted that way with every woman I met, which isn't true.

I called her the next day, apologized again for the way I acted and asked if I could see her again. She said, "No, I don't think so."

Now what do I do? I have never felt this way about a woman in my life. Should I call her again? I don't want to make a pest of myself, but I can't get her off my mind.

BLEW IT

DEAR BLEW IT: Wait a few days, then write a note to be delivered with flowers. Apologize again, assuring her that if she gives you another chance, your relationship will progress at the rate of her choosing. Then call her. If she's still cold, you'll know you really blew it, and call it a good learning experience.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend is really a neat guy and we don't have any problems, but there is one thing that bothers me. He likes to drive out to the cemetery to make out. I'm not superstitious or anything like that, but it is kind of spooky parked up there with all the tombstones.

I love him a lot and don't want to say anything to spoil our relationship, but how can I tell him I wish he could find another place to park?

FREDDY'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Tell Freddy you don't mean to put him down, but you don't dig the surroundings, so how about finding a place that's not so down to earth.

DEAR ABBY: This is for that Chicago woman who said she tipped her hairdresser and manicurist all during the year, and "come Christmas," instead of their giving her presents, she's on the giving end again.

Well, I have been a hairdresser for 26 years and have always given my customers a gift in appreciation of their patronage.

At Christmastime I am inundated with recycled candy, stale nuts, cheap cologne and wine I wouldn't give a wino on skid row.

During the year we hairdressers have to endure foul language, dirty jokes, bad breath, body odor, late arrivals and last-minute cancellations. We console people in their grief and listen to gripes about their husbands, children, grandchildren and neighbors, not to mention being exposed to colds, coughs and the flu. ("I got out of a sick bed to come here.")

In return we give sympathy, encouragement, understanding, advice and a shoulder to cry on. These women wouldn't get as much from a psychiatrist, and we're cheaper. In addition, we use our talent to the best of our abilities with what we have to work with—which in some cases is almost total baldness.

Abby, please tell that Chicago woman if she needs a present at Christmas to come here, and I will let her walk a mile in my shoes.

LOS ANGELES HAIRDRESSER

Peter Gott, M.D.

Proof of risk from X-rays

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a doctor of radiology and am skeptical about the conclusions you reached in a recent column about the dangers of low-level radiation. If you will send me the reference that documents a 50-percent risk of dying from leukemia following a pelvic X-ray, I will donate $1,000 to the charity of your choice.

DEAR DOCTOR — I didn't say "dying"; I said a 50-percent risk of infants developing leukemia if their mothers had pre-partum pelvic X-ray.

The reference is in "Radiation and Human Health," by John Goffman, M.D. (Sierra Club Books, San Francisco, 1981), pages 741-744. The primary references Dr. Goffman uses are Stewart, A., et al. Lancet 1956: 2:447, and Stewart, A., British Medical Journal, 1958: 1:1495-1508. He also cites nine additional studies that he believes confirm Dr. Stewart's conclusions.

I would be pleased if you would make your kind donation to the Children's Happiness Foundation, Box 694, Green Harbor, MA 02041.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Are microwave ovens in any way cancer-causing or detrimental to your health?

DEAR READER — The U.S. Government has established safety standards for microwave ovens. These standards set acceptable limits for microwave "leakage" from the appliances at the time they are new and after five years of use. The release of microwave radiation is theoretically prevented by radiation-absorbing seals and safety interlocks on the doors and metal screens in the door windows.

Ordinarily, microwave ovens pose few if any health hazards when they are new. The problem comes as they age and after servicing by technicians who may not be adequately trained. Radiation leakage can occur in these situations. The results can be harmful. Microwave radiation can cause potentially fatal interruptions in the electrical pulses of heart pacemakers; it has caused burns from dermal medicine patches containing metallic elements. It can result in cataracts.

Interestingly, the Soviet Union has set safety standards for industrial exposure to microwaves that are 100 times more stringent than the U.S. limits. Studies in the Soviet Union have indicted this form of radiation in myriad central-nervous-system, hematological, biochemical, endocrine, gastrointestinal and testicular disorders.

A secondary danger from the use of microwave ovens occurs when infant formula is heated. Because of the way microwaves heat, the formula itself will be considerably hotter than its container, potentially causing mouth burns to the baby. When heated in a closed container, such as a bottle, water heats faster than the fat and protein in the formula, turns to steam, and has exploded in some instances, severely burning the infant.

One has to weigh the convenience of rapid cooking against the safety hazards. Before you buy a microwave oven, consult the most recent Consumer Reports Buyers' Guide (available from your local library). Make sure that the servicing is done by a well-trained, reputable technician.

If you have questions about HIATAL HERNIA, you can get answers in Dr. Gott's new Health Report on the subject. Send 75 cents plus a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to ask for the Health Report on Hiatal Hernia.

Two days have three mishaps

A single minor traffic mishap was recorded in Snyder Tuesday while two were worked by police Monday.

Involved in Tuesday's mishap were a 1984 Ford driven by Kenneth Lee Jamison of the Beacon Lodge and a 1971 Ford driven by Kerry Lynn Gardener of 100 37th St.

No injuries resulted from the collision.

Two minor traffic accidents were reported in Snyder Monday.

Involved in the first — at 4:56 p.m. on the parking lot of Dub's Barbeque at 37th St. and Ave. D — was a 1981 Chevrolet driven by James Edgar McCade of Slaton which struck a utility pole owned by Southwestern Bell Telephone.

The second mishap was reported at 6:02 p.m. in the 500 Block of 24th St.

Banquet plans are announced

Assisting with these plans is Jerry Worsham, who is heading the entertainment committee for the banquet.

In addition to the entertainment portion of the banquet, Hatter noted this year's event would drop the serving line format with banquet goers to be served at their tables.

Other members of the banquet committee are Gloria Shaw, food; Carol Miller, decorations; Anita Talbot and Charlene Light, ticket sales; Donna Fowler, publicity and press; Donna Holt, program design and printing advisor; Mort Ewing, head table and emcee; Bill Stone, security; Jeannean Patterson, Lyn Lancaster and Jeana Duke, special parties; Charlie Yoast, coliseum planning; and Jack Denman, chamber president.

Police seeking missing bicycle

Police are investigating a single misdemeanor theft report filed Monday involving a missing bicycle.

Lacy Edwards of 2901 Ave. X reported at 10:28 a.m. the theft of a 20-inch BMX type bicycle from the residence.

Police logged two misdemeanor arrests Tuesday.

One man was jailed for driving while intoxicated while a second subject was jailed for violation of probation.

Consumer prices increase in 1985

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices edged up 3.8 percent in 1985, the fourth consecutive year that inflation at the retail level has been held to 4 percent or less, the government said today.

For December, retail prices rose just 0.4 percent.

The Labor Department's Consumer Price Index was down slightly from the 4 percent gain of 1984 and would have been down even more if not for last fall's gains in fuel and food costs.

Classes begin for spring term

last fall was 9,200.

Extension center enrollment this spring is at less than 100 as of Wednesday. Classes will be offered at three locations, Sweetwater, Ballinger and Haskell.

Dormitory space was also available although the apartments on campus were filled. WTC officials said 162 dorm rooms were occupied with some 30 will be available.

"We're hoping for another 200 to register," Hood said, "Mostly part-time people."
