Hazardous waste questions asked by task force

A joint task force listened to experts discuss hazardous waste management during a meeting held in Sweetwater Tuesday.

The meeting was called by Senator Chet Brooks and Rep. Robert Saunders, co-chairmen of the 1990 Joint Task Force on Waste Management Policy.

Fisher, Mitchell and Terrell counties are proposed sites for a hazardous injection well or a hazardous waste landfill.

Senators Steve Carriker, Temple Dickson and Bill Sims were joined on the panel by State Representatives David Counts and Robert Hunter and received testimony from several experts including Daniel Teitelbaum, M.D., medical toxicology; Jonathon Ward, Ph.D., environmental toxicology; Robert Kier, Ph.D., hydrogeology, biology, engineering of hazardous waste storage and disposal; and Mike Robinson, Ph.D., petroleum engineering.

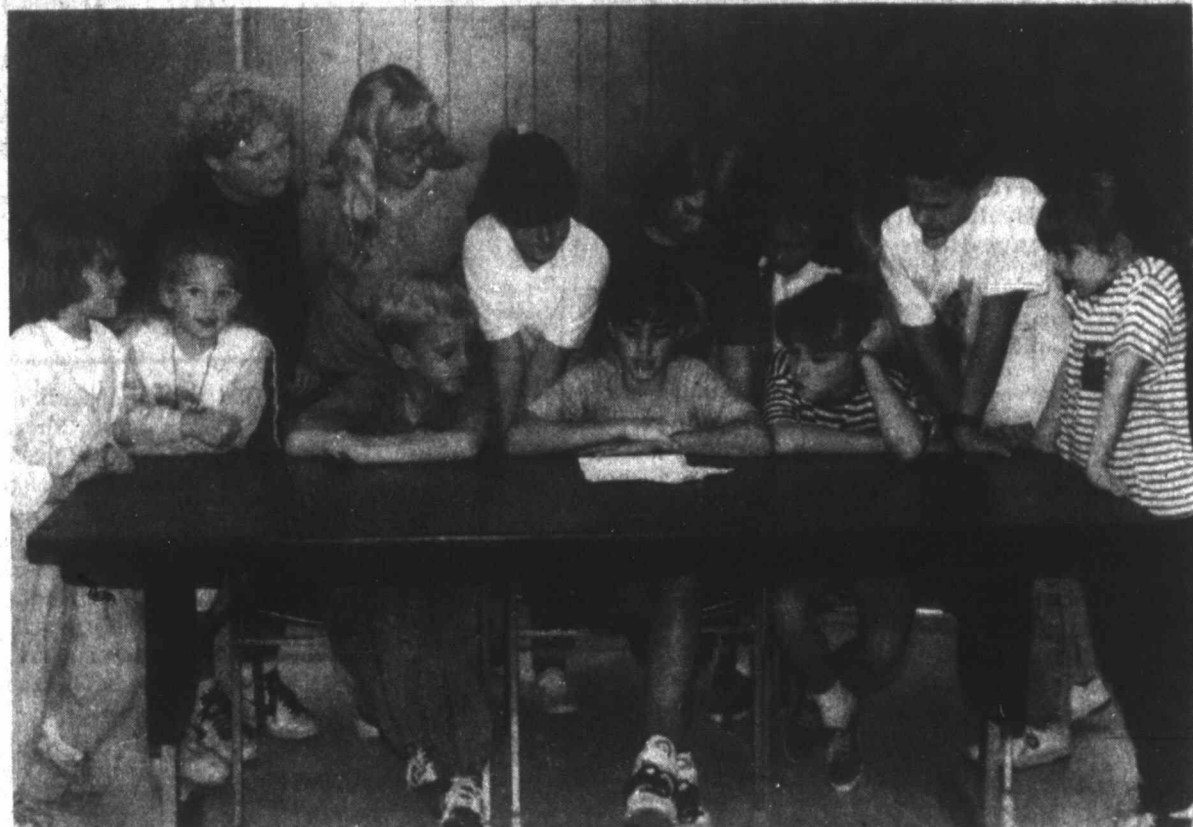

Also speaking were Dan Eden, director of the hazardous and solid waste division of the Texas Water Commission; Jim Myers, Texas Air Control Board; and Jim Cronin, vice president in charge of project development for National Waste and Energy Development of Pennsylvania which has proposed a hazardous waste landfill and incinerator in Mitchell County.

Teitelbaum, a toxicologist from Denver, Col., testified that the older hazardous waste sites in Colorado are a problem.

"It's a state problem. The state has to make an attempt to upgrade the sites and solve our problems of leakage and air pollution," he said.

"We have found unfortunately the latest technology does not work and what is considered to be state of the art work at the Rocky Mountain Arsenal has led to three problems," Teitelbaum said. "One, when the site was disturbed and opened, there

Home Health Care week observed here

Today marks the beginning of National Home Care Week, and Sue Dossey, director of the Mitchell County Home Health Care Agency, says the services provided offer a solution to a growing need among older citizens who want and deserve quality home care.

The Mitchell Home Health Care Agency is a service provided by Mitchell County Hospital and has six goals:

1. To continue to provide quality care with increasing volume of patients needing the service.
2. To continually upgrade documentation of the quality care given by all disciplines.
3. To provide continuing education to staff members.
4. To establish good rapport and relationships with other community resources interested in assisting persons requiring assistance.
5. To increase community awareness of the growing need and availability of home care services.
6. To serve the Mitchell County

Hospital as an outreach center for out-patient teaching as may be needed at the discretion of the physician in coordination with the discharge planner.

Dossey said home health provides nursing and home health aid services such as physical therapy, blood pressure clinics and patient/family teaching.

She said the local agency provides services for primarily Medicare patients. Private pay patients can be served, but "they have to meet very specific criteria," she said.

"Our purpose is to give our patients an opportunity to stay in their own homes," she said.

She said the agency provides quality medical and supportive services right at home and helps keep families together by bringing recovering patients back into the comfort and security of their own homes.

Ceballos and Lelek and their fellow classmates/authors received a good response from the Kelley students and teachers.

"Patient teaching is our big scope," said Dossey. "We teach them to care for themselves in their own homes."

Most Medicare patients are restricted to a nine-week time period for home health care. During those nine weeks, Dossey said she and her staff, while providing medical care, train the patients to take care of themselves after the nine-week period.

Dossey and her staff serve 15-20 patients a month in Mitchell County.

She is assisted by Brenda Grimes and Karen Hines, full-time LVNs; Denise Crawford, fulltime aide; Charisa Hall, secretary; Teresa Allen, office manager; Donna Thompson and Alice Head, parttime RNs; Shirley Grimes, Faye was considerable exposure to people on the north and west downwind of the arsenal who have had serious nuisance problems and also significant health problems.

"And materials stored in claycapped and new-technology waste pits have leaked and the stainless steel tanks which were used in storage in the interim have, within three years of their construction, raked and leaked," he said.

Several speakers also told the panel that medical facilities in Mitchell County are less than adequate to deal with toxic waste problems.

When asked how much money would be needed for a hazardous waste project and how much money would be generated, Cronin said he did not know.

Dickson (D-Sweetwater) asked if people involved in hazardous waste sites also are involved in racketeering, saying the task force wasn't interested in bringing racketeering to the state.

Cronin said he was unaware of any racketeering involved in hazardous waste projects.

Dickson, along with Rep. Robert Junell (D-San Angelo), David Counts (D-Knox City), and Carriker (D-Roby) are sponsoring a bill in the upcoming legislative session that will require a county-wide referendum on any proposed hazardous waste site before a permit is granted.

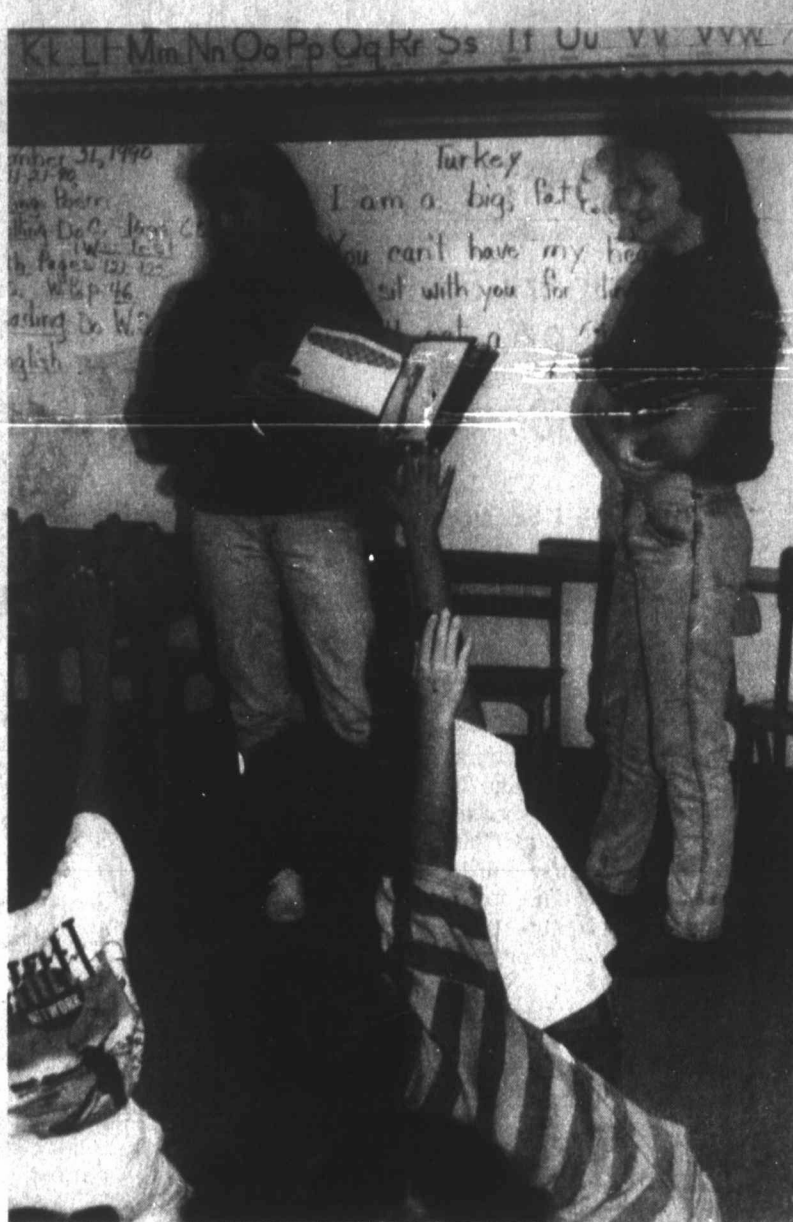

Postal program scheduled Dec. 4

The United States Postal Service will sponsor a program on complete addressing at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 4, in the C.C. Thompson of City National Bank.

Malcolm Price, postmaster, said the one-hour program will show business mailers how to speed up their mail and lower postage costs.

The Complete Complete Addressing Presentation is a multimedia program that blends a little entertainment with a lot of information. Starting with a very special mini-episode of the hit TV show Cheers, featuring Cliff Klavin as the Complete Addressing expert, followed by a step-by-step, "how to" program, and all the "take-home" materials you will need, the program is as efficient as it is informative.

Those planning to attend should call 728-3612 by no later than Friday, Nov. 30, to confirm your reservation and allow time to get enough information packets together.

women die each year as a result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate. The cost is only $60.00 + $4.50 S & H.

DOWNTOWN COLORADO CITY

CHIEF LONE WOLF

In 1927, while the Hotel Colorado was under construction, Ross D. Dixon and his wife negotiated a lease for a new movie theatre which would adjoin the five story "Colorado." The Dixons already operated two other theatres in Colorado City, the Palace and the Mission. They said they would call the new theatre the Palace, also, and rename the old Palace the Ritz.

Originally, it was announced the new Palace would be a $55,000 facility. Later, the cost was trimmed to $35,000 and by opening date, the figure was up to $40,000. The building housing the theatre was 40 feet by 140 feet, featured Spanish architecture and was cooled with "several electrical fans," plus two large "blizzards," which were a cooling and ventilating system. For heat the Palace had a "modern steam heating plant."

Seating was for 800 customers with mahogany chairs, upholstered in genuine leather. Equally impressive were the beautiful stage curtains which were dark blue velour, with gold fringe and the initials "P. T." on each side.

Impressive? You haven't heard the best yet. A pipe organ would be installed in the orchestra pit and the Palace would feature a vari-colored fountain in the lobby, which would shoot streams of water underneath a circling chandelier!

The theatres floor was "scientifically slanted to allow maximum comfort." The stage was described as large, in order to facilitate "spoken drama." And there were dressing rooms behind the stage.

Opening night was September 6, 1927, which was a Monday. And what motion picture could possibly be big enough to merit the honor of being "one of the most superb pictures ever seen in Colorado City?"

Only Douglas Fairbanks in "The Black Pirate," could answer such a call. (The film was first called The Thief of Baghdad, but promoters said research and expenses forced a change in the title).

So, on opening night, a full hour before show time, the theatre was packed with over 1,000 persons. Prices were 50¢ for adults and 25¢ for children. Hundreds of movie goers had to be turned away at the door.

Ushers for the evening were Nell Harper Greene and Katherine Price who carried out the theme of the evening by wearing pirate costumes. The program opened with live music by the "Hewitt Five," consisting of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hewitt, their son and two daughters. ("The concert was beautifully rendered").

Next L. W. Sandusky gave an opening address and he in turn introduced Colonel C. M. Adams, "as the crowd went wild with applause." After several minutes the ovation subsided and the popular Adams managed to laud the Dixons "for their nerve and faith" in the future of Colorado City.

Adams was followed on stage by the Reverend J. E. Chase (First Christian Church) who spoke briefly, then the Dixons were called to the state where they were presented "flowers by the admiring public."

Then, showtime? Not yet. A trio, composed of Tom Johnson, C. T. Haney and A. D. Cupp, performed. And, finally, a pantomime was presented on stage. It included Miss Elnora Thomas, J. W. Chase, Rosalie Leslie, Beatrice Logan, Ruth Boynton and Edna Mae Powell. Also, Mary Broadbudd, Marguerite Sandusky, Martha Reba Hubbard and Mmes. Lee Jones Jr., Bill Broadbudd, Jake Merritt, Ed Jones and Henry Vaught. They were also dressed in pirate outfits and the troupe put on their own version of "The Black Pirate."

At last, the lights were dimmed. ("The audience caught their breaths as the curtain parted"). And it was on with the show! Douglas Fairbanks outshined the pirates and a good time was had by all.

There were a few hitches on that night more than 63 years ago. The pipe organ could not be delivered in time for opening night, but an orchestra was sent from Dallas, by the company which manufactured the organ. Also, there were not enough seats available in the balcony, so rented chairs were hurriedly placed upstairs for the overflow.

And last, but certainly not least, the ladies restroom was not completed. To make amends, the Dixons announced a free program would be offered in the future, complete with guided tours of the fantastic theatre.

Apparently the Palace, like the Hotel Colorado next door, are headed for oblivion. Today, both are nothing more than nagging memories of a better day.

County Oil & Gas Report

A Mitchell County wildcat is scheduled for spudding five miles north of Iatan with Bright and Co. of Midland as the operator. The explorer well will be known as the No. 1 Va Tuyle. It is situated in a 640-acre lease in the T&PRR Survey A-584. It carries authority for 8,500-feet of hole making.

A total of five 3,300-foot developmental wells are scheduled to be drilled in Mitchell County's portion of the East Howard-Iatan Field.

Locations are about 9.5 miles southwest of Westbrook with Anadarko Petroleum Co. of Midland as the operator. The operation is in a 400-acre lease in the T&PRR Survey Block 29 Section 20, 21 and 29.

The wells are designated as the No. 5 McKenney and the No. 40 through 43 W.W. Watson.

First production data has been posted for the No. 38 W.W. Watson in Mitchell County's sector of the East Howard-Iatan Field, about 10 miles southwest of Westbrook.

The well was an exploration venture of Anadarko Petroleum Co. of Midland.

It showed ability to pump 19 barrels of 29-gravity oil per day, along with 98 barrels of brine, on an open choke. Anadarko took the hole to total depth of 3,300 feet and perforated the Glorieta-Clear Fork Formation for production at 2,258 to 3,092 feet into the wellbore.

SINCE 1895

Farm bill could drive cotton price down

The 1990 Farm Bill may boost Texas cotton acreage by 10 percent next spring -- a development that could help beleaguered East Texas wheat and corn farmers but drive the price of cotton down.

And lower cotton prices could put an economic squeeze on High Plains farmers, many of whom depend heavily on dryland cotton crops.

That's a possible scenario envisioned by economists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, who worry that the planting flexibility provision of the new farm bill could encourage increased production of cotton, leading to lower prices and damage to the state's agricultural economy.

While the new farm bill seeks to reduce their government payments, farmers have increased flexibility to diversify their crop plantings.

This provision, combined with two consecutive years of strong prices for cotton, could stimulate farmers to switch to cotton. Wheat and corn growers have been hit hard by poor crops and weak prices.

Dr. Carl Anderson, extension economist for cotton marketing, estimates that Texas cotton acreage, which leads the nation, will rise from this year's 5.6 million acres to 6.2 million next spring.

"Cotton is the number one cash crop in Texas," said Anderson. The 1990 crop of 4.7 million bales with an average farm gate price of $300 per bale produced $1.2 to $1.4 billion, he noted, representing more than 10 percent of total agriculture sales in Texas.

Anderson also expects total U.S. cotton acreage to increase from the present 12.5 million acres to 14.4 million next spring.

"Today's farmer is more market-dependent as a result of the farm bill," Anderson said. "Survival depends on taking advantage of market prices. But a small change in supply makes a big change in price."

Extension economist Dr. Ken Stokes in Dallas agreed that market prices will encourage farmers to shift to cotton. "But this increased cotton production could drive down those attractive prices," he warned.

A world drop in cotton prices precipitated by high energy costs and the possibility of world recession would have serious implications for Texas, he said.

"We now export almost as much cotton as we use domestically. If Texas produces significantly more than the market demand, we will have to find export markets for it."

"Current demand, however, is strong," said Anderson. "In November, the department of agriculture revised its estimates upward by 400,000 bales to a total of 15.4 million bales." Expectations of both low stocks and high demand have caused recent strong prices, he explained.

The so-called "triple base" provision in the new farm bill allows a farmer to divert a percentage of his or her base acres to another crop with higher market potential, while maintaining price protection on program payment acres.

"Some farmers will leave the program if the farm bill reduces their price protection safety net too much, especially if they think prices will remain high," Anderson said. "That will drive producers out of the government program into 'wildcat' cotton. This has the potential to weaken prices, creating greater instability in the world market."

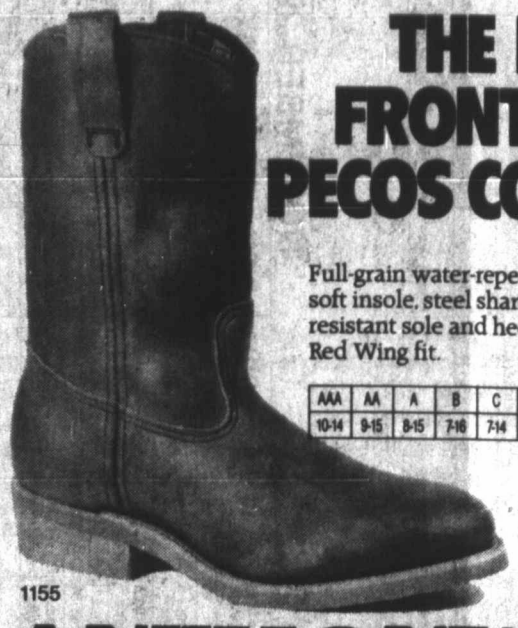

Anderson also said that a long-term effect will be stepped up consolidation of farms with fewer operators on larger farms. The "little guy" no longer has enough coverage to stay in business.

Anderson said his cotton acreage projections don't account for how much wildcat cotton could swell market supplies. In Texas, any major swings in the cotton market, he said, will affect dryland cotton farmers on the High Plains most severely because they have no alternative crop.

Both Anderson and Stokes cautioned farmers to seek price protection before switching to cotton acres from other crops. "Cotton demands higher levels of capital, risk, and management expertise in return for its high price potential," said Stokes. "There is no room for error."

Anderson said the East Texas blacklands had nearly 1 million acres in cotton in 1970 but had declined more than 80 percent to only 160,000 acres by 1990. Historically, cotton prices have been volatile, with prices swinging by more than $100 per bale in a single season.

CMS Ladies win 3 out of 4 matches Nov. 19

Continuing the 1990-91 basketball season, the Colorado Middle School Lady Wolves won three out of four matches with the Mustangs of Sweetwater on November 19.

The seventh grade B team won by a score of 17-14. Contributing in the victory were Kim Russell 10; Adria Rivera 4, Tia Bassham 2, and Terri Cawthron 1.

The A team Lady Wolves dropped their match in a narrow margin of 23-22. Those scoring were Brandi Parker 10, Alecia Key 6, Krissy Crawford 3, Marka Fambro 2, and Alyssa Finley 1.

The second Lady Wolf victory came from the eighth grade B team who won by a basket, 23-21. Jennifer Rivera was the leading scorer with 8 points while others who contributed were Emma Molina 5, Montoya Mayes 4, Tracy Scott 3, Shea Ortiz 2, Lori Dockery 1.

The Lady Wolves A team also had a point difference, but in their favor as the Pack won 19-18. Scoring were Jeanette Ceballos 8, Bethany Bridgford 7, Nikia Jackson and Kamie Lamb 2.

Lady Wildcats win season opener against Klondike

On November 13, the Westbrook Lady Wildcats began their basketball schedule against Klondike, and after trailing throughout most of the contest, the Lady Wildcats came back for their first win, 64-59.

The Wildcats got off to an extremely slow start only scoring 18 points in the first half, but coming out to play in the third quarter, Westbrook scored 23 points. Once trailing by 15 points, the Lady Wildcats were trailing by nine with one period remaining.

That was all the Wildcats needed as a stingy defense returned the favor of playing defense by holding Klondike to nine points while rolling in 23 once more, and a 64-59 final.

Stephanie Matlock and Sherry Putman were the leading contributors with 27 and 24 points respectively. Kristal Howard scored 11 while Chris Kelly had a deuce. Howard had 22 rebounds as Matlock pulled down 15 of her own.

The junior varsity Lady 'Cats put the hurt on Klondike taking the win by 32 points in a lopsided contest, 48-16.

Scoring for Westbrook were Sheila Hale 17, Angie Martinez 11, Tammi Putman 10, Taka Burkhart 8 and Patricia Alaniz 2.

On November 16, the Lady 'Cats won their second game of the 199-91 season in a game with Southland.

In a match that was pretty much decided in the first half by a score 31-3, ended up in a 63-9 total domination by the Wildcats.

Scoring in the thrashing were Angie Martinez 16, Sherry Putman 12, Stephanie Matlock 10, Chris Kelly, Sheila Hale and Kristal Howard 6, Patricia Alaniz 4 and Shanna Burnett 1. Howard had yet another big rebounding show with 15.

Pyburn to retire from FmHA

Alton Pyburn

Alton Pyburn, Mitchell County supervisor with Farmers' Home Administration, will retire effective Nov. 30.

Pyburn graduated from Texas A&M University in 1953 with an agriculture degree and an Air Force ROTC commission. After completing two years of active Air Force service, he returned to his hometown of Roby. There, in 1956, he began his career of more than 34 years with FmHA in Fisher County has an emergency assistant county supervisor. After six months he was made a permanent assistant county supervisor at Anson for Jones and Shackleford counties. Eighteen months later, Pyburn was promoted to county supervisor at Wellington, Collingsworth County, where he served from 1958-62.

In 1962, Sweetwater FmHA office was opened and Pyburn was able to transfer back to his home area, where Nolan and Coke counties were served. Coke County was transferred to the San Angelo unit in 1982, but Mitchell County was then added as a sub-office to Nolan County in 1984.

Pyburn's career had several highlights. The Bittercreek Water Supply Corporation was formed as a result of his advice and guidance of a steering committee that resulted in the loan and grants made.

Working with the Colorado Municipal Water District, a water and sewer system for the city of Robert Lee was made. Also, the Coke County Water Supply Corporation was started prior to the Coke County unit being transferred.

The first grazing association loan in the state of Texas was made by Pyburn. The loan has been paid in full.

Other improvements in the Nolan County area included the city of Roscoe receiving a FmHA loan to update its water and sewer systems. El Presidente Apartments was loan approved and financed through Nolan County FmHA. An industrial development grant was made to the city of Sweetwater to bring water and sewers to the Industrial Park.

Pyburn said that he has been lucky to have excellent personnel and FmHA County Committee people as well as private lending institutions to work with and assist him during his career.

Pyburn said that he has enjoyed being a public servant and having had a career while he has been able to help a lot of people. This was made possible by his loving, understanding wife, Lou Ann, and three fine children, Mrs. Doug (Melody) Lawrence of San Angelo, Weston Pyburn of Austin and Mrs. Scott (Julie) Stroman of Sweetwater.

FFA team competes at area

The Colorado High School FFA qualified the senior parliamentary procedure law team for the area competition on Nov. 6 in Snyder.

At the area contest, the C-City team missed out of getting to go to state by a matter of a few points. The area meet was held Nov. 17 at Howard College in Big Spring.

The senior team members are Jeremy Strain, Jodie Ellis, Justin Dockrey, Krista Moore, Caasi Smith and Cody Loving.

Extemporaneous speakers were Jodie Ellis, who placed fourth in district, and Caasi Smith.

Creed speaker was Justin Goebel.

The primary aim and function of the Future Farmers of America organization is the development of competent, aggressive agricultural leadership. Training students in scientific agriculture and agribusiness is not enough - they must be given an opportunity to develop their ability to think, to express their views, to defend their beliefs, to work together and to recognize and follow good leadership.

As part of the FFA Leadership Program, contests are held in parliamentary procedure, FFA skills, farm radio broadcasting, FFA quiz, extemporaneous speaking and creed speaking on agricultural subjects.

Winners in each of the area contests will participate in the state contest to be held at Sam Houston State University on Dec. 1.

Winners of the area contest are: Senior Chapter Conducting - Lamesa, 1st; Colorado City, 2nd; Anson, 3rd; Wall, 4th.

Junior Chapter Conducting - Meadow, 1st; Sands, 2nd. Extemporaneous Speaking - El Paso, 1st; Iraan, 2nd; Klondike, 3rd; Grand Falls, 4th; Highland, 5th. Senior Farm Skill - Lamesa, 1st; Ira, 2nd; Haskell, 3rd; Wall, 4th; Gail, 5th.
