

HYPNOTIZED?

You Could Be, Says Johnny Clark,
Student Of Hypnotism Since College Days

Have you ever been told you're "sleepy-eyed"?

Then you may be a good subject for hypnosis, according to Johnny Clark Jr.

Clark has studied hypnotism since his college days and maintains an active interest in the field today although he no longer practices the science.

"Hypnotism is nothing to play around with," Clark noted in an interview Tuesday.

He said that the more a person studies this field, the more hesitant a person becomes in using it.

Although hypnosis is being used in many branches of the medical profession today, its greatest use is probably in psychiatry.

Clark noted that hypnotism deals with a person's mind. "Anytime you do this," he said, "it can be dangerous." He pointed out that a subject may wake up before he is supposed to and become frightened. When this happens, the subject seldom wants to be hypnotized again. The hypnotist is then in the position of having planted something in his subject's mind and not knowing what effect it may have.

Then, too, a subject may hurt himself. . . . bump his head, take a fall, etc. . . . while under hypnosis and be told he will feel no pain when he awakens. Clark pointed out that this can be bad if the injury is serious and if no pain is felt, a serious injury could be overlooked.

Clark became curious about hypnotism when he was a college student, took a course in the subject, continued his study and has done considerable work in the field since that time.

Asked if a person can be made to do something against his morals or convictions while under hypnosis, Clark replied that, contrary to popular opinion, he can.

"Technically, no," Clark explained, "but it is very easy to trick a person."

He gave this example to the reporter:

"If I told you to take a gun and shoot someone, you wouldn't do it. But if I told you to take a water gun which was really a '45' and told you to 'squirt' someone, then you might blow their head off."

He also said that a person can be hypnotized without their knowing it.

He said that he had hypnotized people while driving in an auto and put them to sleep without their knowing what he was doing.

He explained hypnosis as "being asleep" saying that the person may walk, talk and act normal but he is basically asleep and responsive to the suggestions of his hypnotizer.

He also noted that, under hypnosis, some people can recall things that happened in the first year of their life.

Mental telepathy also plays a part in hypnosis. Clark said that sometimes a hypnotized subject is able to "read the mind" of the person who has hypnotized him.

"You think about something strongly and the person you hypnotized may do the thing you're thinking about."

He added that he had no explanation for this . . . that he has just seen it happen.

Asked if a person could be cured of smoking by hypnosis, Clark said he could.

However, he added that it would be a continual process and the person might have to be hypnotized numerous times.

"I want it made clear that I don't do this any more, though," Clark emphasized again.

He said that it takes approximately five to 15 minutes to hypnotize a person for the first time.

"After you have once hypnotized a person," he continued, "they're yours. It is very easy to hypnotize them again any number of times."

However, if a person knows you're trying to hypnotize him and fights the process, then that person cannot be hypnotized.

That is, not unless the hypnotist "sneaks up" on them.

"How do I know then," the reporter asked at the close of the interview, "that I am not hypnotized right now?"

With a steady, penetrating look, Clark smiled.

Dr. McClung Is Speaker At Revival

Revival services will begin at the First Baptist Church Sunday Feb. 28 and will continue through Sunday March 7, according to the Rev. John Lewis, pastor.

Evangelist for the meeting will be Dr. Roy C. McClung, president of Wayland Baptist College.

Dr. McClung has been president of Wayland since July 1, 1963, and is in demand in the area as a speaker and preacher. In June, Dr. McClung was one of 45 college presidents invited to attend the President's Institute at Harvard University.

Dr. McClung had been pastor at First Baptist Church, Plainview, for five years when he became president of Wayland. Before that he served as pastor at the First Baptist Church of Ada, Okla. and had served pastorates in Kentucky and Indiana.

Dr. McClung holds the Th. D. degree from Southern Baptist Seminary, which he has served as a trustee. His B.A. degree was earned at Oklahoma Baptist University, which he has also served as a trustee. In recent years he has served in the executive board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas and was regional director for the Texas Baptist Christian Education Crusade when he became president.

Dr. McClung has an active interest in Boy Scouts of America, serving as chairman of the Haynes District. He is a member of the Plainview Lions Club.

Services during the revival are scheduled for 10 each morning and 7:30 each evening.

Music will be under the direction of Bob Allford, minister of music and youth for the local church. Rev. Lewis invites the public to attend the services.

It's Cold Up There!

Finding the temperatures a bit cool at times?

According to Don Hardy, stationed at Fort Wainwright, three miles east of Fairbanks, Alaska, Olton is practically in the tropics.

In a letter received this week, Hardy sent the copy of recent temperatures in Alaska---printed here in comparison with local figures---and had this to say:

Feb. 15, 1965

Hello Bill,

I guess you're ready for nice summer weather. I'll tell you, I'm sure ready. We have had a real cold winter here at Fort Wainwright, (3 miles east of Fairbanks). The best I remember, our coldest day was in December. It was 68 below. Believe me, this is cold!

I thought you would like to compare our weather with yours.

I just have 139 more days in this man's Army.

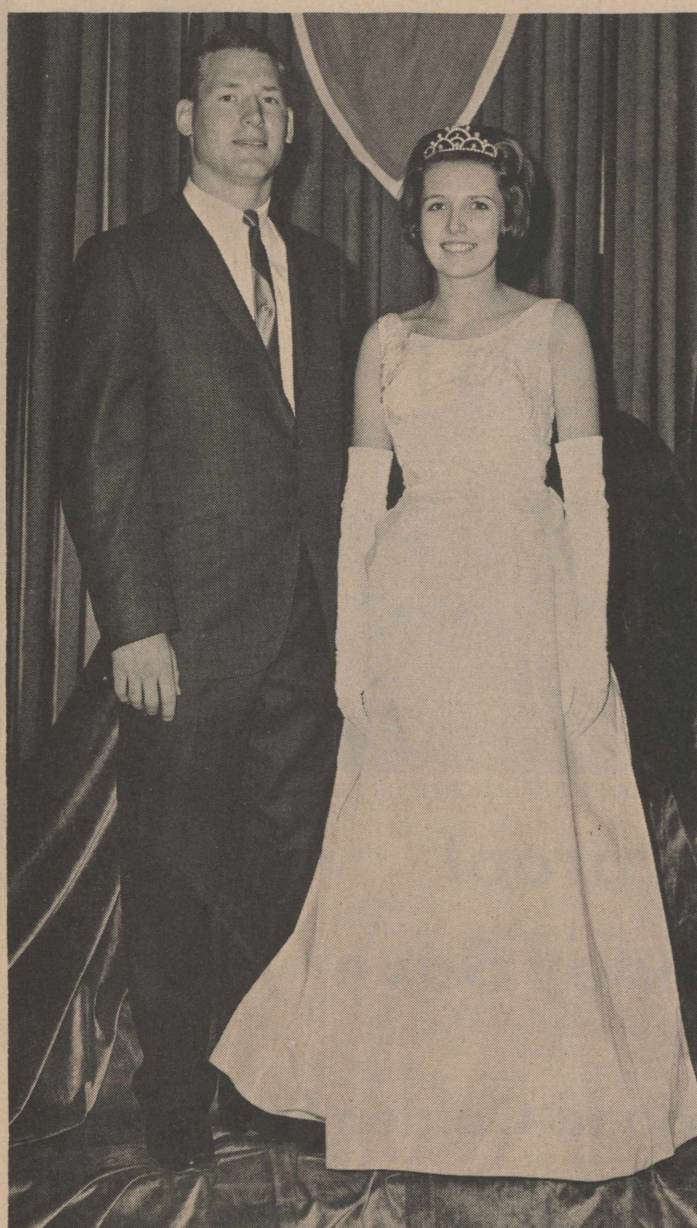

Sincerely,
Don

Future Farmers Week

Future Farmers of America Week is to be observed during the Feb. 20-27 period. And this is one of those annual events that is fully worthy of the attention and interest of us all.

The stated purpose is "Public recognition of the Future Farmers of America organization in developing better agriculture and rural citizenship." The young people who participate are brought close to the profound values that are a part of nature. They have a healthy and dedicated interest in crops, in farm animals, and in the ever-changing techniques which give our agriculture its vast efficiency and productivity and help make us the best fed people in the world. The city dweller is totally dependent on the farmer for the means of life itself.

Beyond this, the nation faces a critical problem of juvenile delinquency. Various cures are offered, based on the home, schools and churches. In addition, those groups which work with youth, in all manner of fields, can do an essential job in building character, honor and responsibility. The Future Farmers organization is one of the best of them.

Need A New Hat?

Mrs. Reader, do you shop the grocery ads each week in the Enterprise?

Most of you do because grocery specials save you money on that important food bill.

A release from Texas A&M University at College Station this week declared that "families who shop for foods featured at weekend specials can cut the costs of their weekly food budgets considerably."

The press release declared that a recent survey by the U. S. Department of Agriculture disclosed that weekly costs of a "market basket" of food usually bought by a family of four averaged $32.11 over a three-month period.

Had the same food been purchased during the weekend, selecting advertised specials--the cost in the same store would have been $2.10 less per week.

That, ladies, is a little over $8.40 per month...or say one new hat.

That's the finding of Mrs. Gwen Clyatt,

Texas A&M extension consumer marketing specialist.

The study revealed that meat, including poultry and fish, is the food most frequently on special.

"That's an extra budget help, since meat takes up to one-third of the average family's weekly food money," the specialist emphasized. According to the study, chuck roasts led the list of meats most often put on special, with broilers taking second place.

She declared well-balanced menus can be planned from the many foods featured on special. Buying the featured food specials can save food shoppers as much as six to 10 percent a week, and sometimes more, according to the study.

And that's a mighty good reason to read your food ads which appear regularly in The Enterprise.

Ask Amy

Dear Amy:

I have been bedridden for two years. I have two lovely children, ages five and six. During my illness my mother-in-law has been taking care of the children. Also, during this period, my mother-in-law has encouraged my children to come to her with their problems and even to call her mother.

I am able now to fulfill my obligations as a housewife and mother and I would like her to leave. She has her own apartment. I have discussed this with my husband, but he refuses to voice an opinion. My children prefer her to me. I appreciate her taking care of my children, but now I want my children's love back.

Dear Ex-mother:

There is not enough gratitude or money in the world to repay your mother-in-law for her unselfish devotion to you and your family.

Treat her kindly! But tell her that you are ready to take over now and that she can finally go home and live her own life. A woman as wonderful as she can't help but understand and she will probably thank God. You haven't lost the love of your children. As time goes by, you shall see.

Dear Amy:

How should a girl treat a boy? Like a friend and call him stupid? Like a mother and be polite to him? Like a brother and hit him? Like an idol and be shy to him, or be forward and act up to him?

I find it impossible to be natural to a boy so how should I act?

Dear Help:

Until you can act normally and naturally in a boy's company, stick with the girls, honey child. You are not yet ready for the opposite sex.

Dear Amy:

I'm writing to a pen pal and I've never seen him -- only through photos--and I like the way he looks. It seems we both have the same likes and dislikes. In his last letter he told me he is in love with me and that he wants me to believe this and that that I should soon expect an engagement ring. I immediately wrote him back and told him that I would refuse to accept the ring until I saw him in person. Now he won't write to me, and I'm beginning to miss his letters.

I haven't had much experience with boys so I don't know how I can get him to write again or whether I should accept the ring?

Dear Mary:

Don't accept the ring! It's one thing to correspond with a fellow on a purely platonic basis, however, if it gets to the point where you become serious, you should arrange to meet. In my opinion, there is something wrong with a guy who wants to give a girl a ring via the mails without having seen her.

It's time you dated some boys in the flesh if you want to find out what they're really like!

Dear Amy:

I am finally in a position where I can purchase a new wardrobe. I will not be able to buy another for a while, so I want to shop carefully and wisely. I have almost always bought things for myself either because my husband liked what I picked out or because I liked it myself. What I never considered was whether or not the style I chose was right for me or whether the hat I chose was the proper style for the coat, etc.

I don't want to ask the advice of sales clerks because the majority of them say that whatever I try on looks good. This has become very important to me and I can't bring myself to go out to shop until I do find out.

Do you know of any department store or such that will help women in the proper selection of clothes to suit them? Please don't think this is a foolish problem. I'm counting on you to help me.

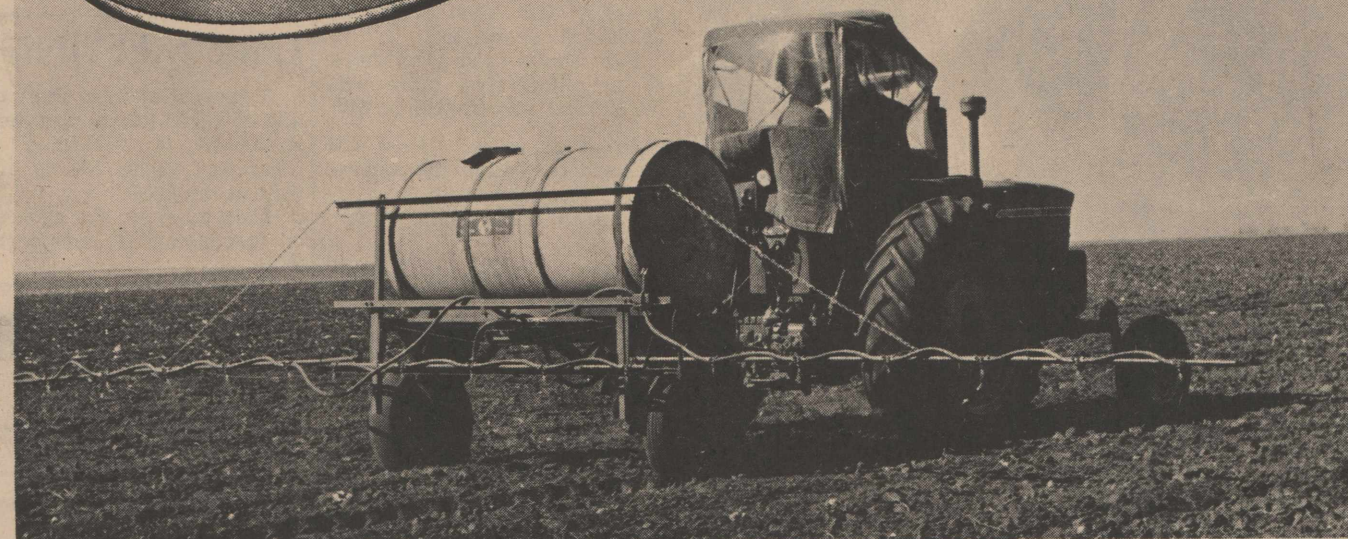

Dear Mrs. E.S.:

Every major department store has a Fashion Coordinator trained for the purpose you described. Seek her out. She will be more than happy to assist you, and you can be sure you will be properly attired.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Bill,
We don't want to miss any news from "home" so please change our address to:

Jerry Nichols
Box 152
Pinedale, Wyo. 82941

We only moved 75 miles from Jackson but we had surely grown fond of Jackson and hated to leave. The country here at Pinedale is very similar to that around Jackson and the fishing is supposed to be better, so there are consolations! I would appreciate it if you would publish this letter so that any "Oltonite" coming up this way this summer might know we are here and would stop to visit.

Jerry still works for Vangas but now manages the Pinedale and Big Piney branches instead of Jackson.

Sincerely,
Sally Nichols

P.S. We don't miss a trip to the Post Office on Monday or Tuesday as this is when The "Enterprise" arrives.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Dear Bill,
I want to express my appreciation for your editorial "Unsolicited Peddlers" in the Enterprise dated February 18, 1965.

While our "small town" citizens generally cherish their fellow residents and local institutions, they sometimes fail to understand the significance of business given to out-of-town salesmen, "here today and gone tomorrow."

Your editorial clearly outlines the problem in terms of the consumer's own interest, and your list of questions is especially pertinent.

Sincerely,
Roy Davis, Manager
Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce

Anton Downs Nazareth Team Scoring 54-53

The Anton Bulldogs took a last minute 54-53 victory over the Nazareth Swifts in bi-district contest here Monday night.

Anton's stocky Larry Crews kept the Bulldogs in the play-offs with 31 points and knocked the bottom out from 15 feet away for the winning basket with a bare 10 second remaining on the clock.

The victory improved the 'Dogs season record to 23-4 and provided them with their eleventh win since they opened District 6-B play.

Nazareth, which had breezed to the District 5-B title with an 8-0 record, challenged the winners throughout and, in fact, pulled into a four-point lead with less than four minutes to play.

Guard Marvin Hoelting led the Swifts with 22 points. Art Brockman, Nazareth, was the only other player in double figures as he hit for 12 points.

New Mexico Artist's Work

On Display Here

The Olton Art Guild is sponsoring an exhibit of paintings and lithographs by the noted New Mexico artist Carl Von Hassler, Dean of Fine Arts of Albuquerque. Von Hassler was born in Germany in 1888. He studied and graduated from seven academies in Europe. He came to America with a group called the "Ash Can School", because of their desire to paint everyday objects rather than calclal subjects. Desire for nature's beauty led him to the vicinity of Albuquerque in 1922. He studied the Taos Indians and did some wonderful work in their native homeland. He has a lifetime gallery at the Alvarado Hotel in Albuquerque and his work is highly recommended by the Fine Arts Department of the University of Albuquerque.

The exhibit will be on display at the Olton School cafeteria, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. until March 2.

The exhibit of six works includes two oils, two tempas and two black and white lithographs.

Pendergrass

At PGA School

DALLAS--Approximately 140 students are enrolled for the PGA Business School being held at the Executive Inn here. Among them is Fred M. Pendergrass of Olton Recreation Center.

This is the third PGA Business School of 1965. It follows the two sessions held earlier at Clearwater, Fla., and San Francisco, Calif.

Earl Stewart of Oak Cliff Country Club, Dallas, is director of the PGA Business School. The school consists of an intensive five-day session, which began Feb. 22.

All three schools, standardized as to curriculums, are under the supervision of the PGA Education Committee with Gene C. Mason, a PGA vice president from Portland, Ore., as chairman.

The schools are open to all PGA members, assistants, to PGA members, apprentices and approved tournament players. Each school consists of a minimum of 40 hours of golf professional instruction.

The basic aim of the schools is to elevate the standards of the golf profession by providing the best possible education to golf professionals, assistants and apprentices, and thus make better trained golf professionals available to golf clubs and courses.

A banquet will be held for all graduating students Friday, Feb. 26, sponsored by The Fawick Flexi-Grip Company. Wally Ulrich, vice president of the firm, will act as host.

MEMBERS OF THE OLTON FFA, along with advisor Calvin Horn, are shown here in a recent picture. This is National FFA Week and the Olton group is in the midst of a busy stock show season, including the show at Littlefield this week-end. A salute to the Olton FFA appears on Page 2.

AN FFA WEEK REMINDER

Agriculture -- Our American Heritage

BY DAVID STANDARD, VICE PRESIDENT, TEXAS ASSOCIATION, FFA-AREA IV

Living in America is like going to a movie in the middle of the picture. A lot of action has already occurred and it takes some time to find out what the picture is all about. In order to understand the picture of America we need to know what has already happened. The American picture is the story of all the people in America. We need to know how we fit in the story, what our part is, and what we can do to make the picture better. The purpose of an economic system is to get the people to do the work needed to make the things the group must have to stay alive. The first requirement of an economic system is to produce the goods and services required by the group. The actual performance of the American system has been far better than ever imagined. Our everyday lives are safer, more comfortable, and happier than most people in the world. We have lived under our constitution less than 200 years. Our life as a nation is only the wink of an eye in man's long history.

on earth--and yet in that short time we Americans have made a record that exceeds all of men's previous hopes.

Our American Free Enterprise System which rewards the individual according to the goods and services he supplies to others, has produced more goods, provided a more equitable distribution, and maintained a higher level of personal freedom than any other system in the world. Compare the results of our Free Enterprise System with other economic systems. Suppose that in our imagination we could compress the total population of the world, more than 2.5 billion people, into one town of 1,000 people. In this imaginary town--the world reduced in exact proportion to a community of 1,000--there would be 60 Americans. The remainder of the world would be represented by 940 persons.

1. The 60 Americans would receive half the income of the entire town and own half the capital. The other 940 people would divide the other half. 2. The Americans would produce 16 percent of the town's total food supply and would eat 72 percent above the maximum food requirements. The 940 non-Americans in the town would be hungry and have little prospect of ever having enough food.

3. The 60 Americans would have an average life expectancy of 70 years. The other 940, less than 40 years average.

4. The 60 Americans would have 15 times as many possessions per person as all the rest of the people.

5. The lowest income group among the 60 Americans would be much better off than the average of the rest of the town.

Yes, one of the elements of America's greatness about which we as citizens need constantly remind ourselves is our economic system of free enterprise. No other country can point to an economic system which is uniquely its own and whose basic principles have so influenced its growth and its greatness. This system recognizes the natural wants and desires of man to work and create and produce in proportion to the rewards which he can attain. It recognized his ambition to be free . . . to live as an individual being. It gives prominence to man's inherent desires to enjoy the fruits of his own labors; his respect of private property; his right to compete in a free market with limited government regulation.

But free enterprise is only one element that has molded our country. The other element is agriculture. It would be impossible for our nation to have attained the wealth and prosperity that we have without agriculture. For agriculture is the backbone of our nation. Agriculture helped create our country and agriculture is helping keep it strong.

Our country started out with an agricultural economy. The early settlers depended upon agriculture--they had to for they knew their survival depended upon the years harvest. In those days one farmer could produce enough food to feed himself and only five other people. Farmers have progressively improved their skills until today one farmer can produce enough food to satisfy his own needs and those of 30 other people. How true the old saying is "As farming goes, so goes the country." Agriculture has come to be regarded as only a minor part of our economy, yet the farming business still is the nation's largest, most important single industry. Agriculture provides employment for 40 percent of all jobs in the country. This includes the number of people actually working on farms, plus some six million workers who provide the goods and services farmers use. Farmers spend around 4.5 billion dollars a year for capital equipment; an investment well above the total for any other single industry. Last year farmers grossed a total of 45 billion dollars. Truly agriculture has been a vital part of our American Heritage!

During National FFA Week
February 20-27

Congratulations - - Olton FFA!
We Are Proud To Back You!

Official Memorandum

By

JOHN CONNALLY
Governor of Texas

AUSTIN, TEXAS

GREETINGS:

The Future Farmers of America organization is playing an outstanding role in assuring the future progress and prosperity of our State and Nation.

The importance of agriculture in our State increases as Texas progresses, and it is vital to our well-being that we train skilled farmers and ranchers to provide a plentiful supply of food products in years to come.

The FFA is composed of boys who are studying vocational agriculture in the public schools in preparation for careers in farming, ranching, and related fields. In studying the science of agriculture, these Future Farmers are striving to continuously improve this great industry for the welfare of all citizens.

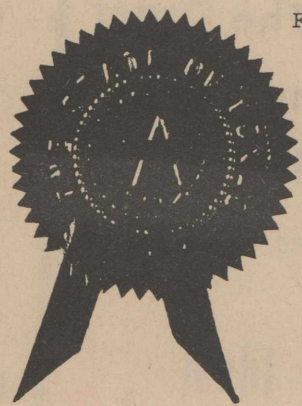

Texas now has over 900 active FFA chapters with over 40,000 active members and more than a quarter of a million former members. During the past 36 years, the Texas Association, FFA, has performed valuable services to our State by developing leadership, encouraging cooperation, promoting good citizenship, teaching sound methods of farming, and inspiring patriotism among its members.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the week of February 20-27, 1965, as in Texas.

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA WEEK

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 15th day of Jan. 1965
John Connally
Governor of Texas

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

Because we believe in the future of farming, we strongly support the sound program of the FFA. Its program is intended to develop the skills of vocational high school students wanting to learn more about farming . . . in the classroom and on the farm; the program fosters the agricultural leadership America has always enjoyed. Join us today — give the FFA your support!

County Cotton Crop Third On High Plains

Lamb's County total of 178,820 running bales ginned for 1964 ranked it third among the 23 High Plains counties and Lamb was only one of seven counties that increased their production over the previous year.

The preliminary ginning totals, as reported by the U.S. Bureau of Census, show 1,891-868 running bales ginned in the 23 High Plains counties through Jan. 16, 1965. This figure compare with a total of 2,090-740 bales as of the same date last year, a decrease of almost 200,000 bales or about 10 percent.

While these are only preliminary 1964 production figures they should be fairly close to final production for the year. The report also indicates a drop in State production from 4,375,887 to 4,053,000 bales. Latest USDA estimates place total national production at 15,317,000 bales, up slightly from the 15,289,986 bales grown in 1963 and the largest crop since 1953.

Most observers attribute the drop in High Plains production to drought conditions which prevailed over the area during the growing season. Only six other counties -- Castro, Floyd, Hale, Deaf Smith, Parmer and Swisher -- were able to show an increase in bales produced. Of these, Castro had the largest increase, percentage-wise, with 28.7 percent. In the 16 other counties where production went down, Howard with its large dryland acreage had the heaviest percentage loss at 52.9 percent, followed by Dawson with a 36.8 percent drop and Lynn with 32.2 percent.

The 23 High Plains counties represented by Plains Cotton Growers and their ginnings, in 500 pound running bales, appear below along with the comparable figures for the 1963 crop.

Early Pruning Can Be Risky

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 18 --Resist the urge to prune trees and shrubs in the garden until you are relatively sure all danger of severe freeze is past, says Everett Janne, Extension landscape horticulturist at Texas A&M University.

Often the impulse is to start pruning rose bushes and other shrubs with the first shirt sleeve weather in January and February. In most areas of Texas there is still danger of freeze damage to tender growth as late as mid-March.

Warm weather in January frequently forces the terminal buds to begin growing. If this growth is removed by early pruning, the lateral buds begin to grow during the next warm spell and a late cold snap may cause serious damage to these buds, says Janne.

The following are the only justifications for pruning plants: to remove dead or diseased wood; to repair storm damage or mechanical injury; to balance the top with the root system when transplanting; to develop and maintain a desired shape or size; to rejuvenate older plants; or to improve or increase flowers and fruit.

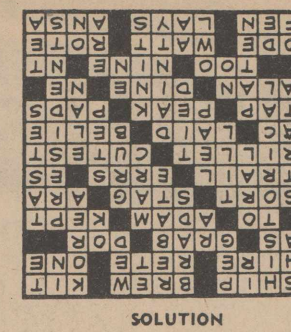

Flowering trees and shrubs which bloom early in the spring, such as flowering quince, spiraea, forsythia, lilac, and redbud, should not be pruned until after flowering. Trees and shrubs which flower from early summer through the fall months, such as Crepe myrtle, hybrid tea roses, and shrub althea, usually produce their flower buds on newwood. They should be pruned in late winter or early spring after danger of frost is over and when new growth begins, says Janne.

Complete information and illustrations on pruning trees and shrubs can be obtained from your local county agent's office by requesting B-977, "Modern Pruning Methods," published by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, College Station, Texas.

County Cigarette Bill About $764,000 Annually

What have residents of Lamb County done about their cigarette smoking since the Surgeon General's report came out a year ago?

Judging from the latest figures on cigarette sales in the area, very little.

Most people are smoking as much as they ever did. A few were shocked sufficiently by the report, which warned of the health hazards connected with smoking, to give up cigarettes entirely or to cut down on their use.

Just what happened after the Surgeon General's findings were announced is brought by the new figures. They show that sales of cigarettes in the United States dropped 30 percent during the following month.

A short time later, however, the panic over smoking had subsided somewhat and the rush back to cigarettes began. Within a few months, the situation had returned to normal.

Lamb County residents smoked a total of 2,590,000 packs of cigarettes in the past year, on the basis of regional statistics issued by the tobacco industry and on tax reports from the Internal Revenue Service.

This was at the rate of 175 packs per capita for the entire County population over age 18. In 1963 the average was 179 packs per capita.

By way of comparison, the amount of smoking done nationally was 207 packs per person. The rate in the West South Central States was 173 packs.

Data released by the Department of Agriculture reveals that nearly 495 billion cigarettes were sold in the United States in 1964. This was only three percent less than in 1963, which was a record year.

However, a new report by Surgeon General Luther L. Terry, released last month, expressed some satisfaction with the progress that has been made.

He declared: "If smoking habits had continued at the level of three years ago, there would be about 3.5 million more smokers today than there actually are."

The population rise would have accounted for a good part of the increase.

How much does the average Lamb County smoker spend for cigarettes? Approximately $52 per year, it is estimated.

For the county as a whole, the annual bill is about $764,000.
