THEIR OPINIONS DIFFER ON TREE PLANTING IDEAS

Residents are divided on Broadway regarding the proposed program to mark the unpaved center of the street with trees and shrubs. Sentiment among property owners is divided about equally, with about 50 per cent of the property owners favoring the program, and the other half opposed to the trees and favoring solid paving.

RESIDENTS ARE DIVIDED CENSUS SHOWS MANY FAVOR PAVING

The proposal is the outgrowth of an offer made by Don L. Jones, Supt. of the experiment station here, that he will give trees free for use on the street. No definite expression has yet been made by city officials regarding the proposal, although one or two members of the commission are favorable to it.

Statements of property owners on the street, gathered at random, follow: E. R. Duggan—The proposal on its face is absurd, for many reasons, first of which is that Broadway is now the only really wide thoroughfare in the city, and the future must be looked to in building a city. We have the foundation started for a real city, and I think it is a shame if we practically ruin our only wide street with trees. I favor completion of the paving full width.

Dr. W. E. Craven—Prefers extension of the paving full width, as was the original intention when the parkway was left.

E. L. Robertson—Says trees and shrubs are pretty, and that on its face, the proposal sounds good, but that it is not practical. Favors completion of the paving.

Rix Wants Parkway
J. A. Rix—Favors the proposal if plans are perfected for maintenance of the parkway. Also favors shrubs, flowers and grass. Mr. Rix was joined by his wife, who said the street should be parked and maintained.

Chad B. Hurbut—Wants parkway.

Roy St. Lewis, district attorney, who prosecuted Hale, came here to oppose the motion and said it was a case of a fellow convict, John Ramsey, shouldering the blame so one of the pair might be freed. NORRIS TO LEAD PRAYER SERVICE UPON RETURNING

AUSTIN, Jan. 26—Dr. J. Frank Norris, fundamentalist pastor of Fort Worth, tonight will receive congratulations of his congregation at the First Baptist church of that city on his acquittal here last night of the murder of Dexter E. Chippa, lumberman. The verdict of not guilty was found by the jury in an hour and twenty minutes but was not returned until about an hour later because Doctor Norris could not be located immediately.

The acquitted pastor will conduct prayer meeting services at the gathering tonight, which was announced at a meeting of 250 persons summoned by the radio station of the church within a few moments of the report of the jury at Austin last night.

Doctor Norris, who signed a statement admitting the killing shortly after it took place in the office of his church on July 17, pleaded self-defense and was acquitted on a charge by the court that if the jury found that the pastor was in "apparent danger" of his life at the hands of Chippa, even though the latter was unarmed, as the evidence indicated, they should find the defendant not guilty of murder.

Still in "Gethsemane"
Doctor Norris said today he was still in his Gethsemane and declared he had never been in doubt as to the verdict in his favor. He planned to start for home about noon.

First reports last night were that the jury had taken two ballots before arriving at acquittal, but today it was said only one vote was taken. Doctor Norris said members of the jury called on him at his hotel last night after their discharge from service.

Two Slain, Three Wounded In Arkansas As Moonshiner Defends Still In Raid

(By Associated Press)
CAMDEN, Ark., Jan. 26—Two men are dead and three are slightly wounded as the result of a gun fight between a sheriff's posse and an alleged moonshiner near here last night.

During a raid on Paul Stanley's home, a tent, Stanley and Deputy Sheriff Zach Horton were killed. Sheriff Arthur Ellis, Jack Lewis, whose standing in the raiding party was not definitely established, and F. D. Deering of Louann, Ark., a bystander, were wounded.

Witnesses said Stanley had been "tipped off" that the tent was to be raided. His wife and their 20 year old daughter lived in an adjoining tent, and Stanley, witness said, lay in ambush for the officers.

When Deputy Horton approached, it was declared, Stanley opened fire, killing him instantly. B. M. Milner, another deputy, then opened fire upon Stanley.

Two of the wounded men were in line with the first outburst of Stanley's gun. Several men, seen in Stanley's tent by the officers, escaped during the battle.

In some manner Stanley stabbed Lewis with a knife before he was shot down, it was asserted.

The officers also carried beside the regular search warrants, a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Stanley, sought by Lewis on a charge of disturbing the peace.

MRS. HEENAN ON WITNESS STAND

(By The Associated Press)
WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 26—Mother Carolyn Heenan and her woman friend of five years, Mrs. Catherine Mayer, today came to the aid of Mrs. Frances "Peaches" Heenan Browning, and added their testimony to the sixteen year old girl's in an attempt to show that her six months of marriage to Edward W. Browning, the wealthy New York realtor, was a life of quarrel, at least one scream and many fights.

Mrs. Heenan said she first met Mr. Browning on March 15, 1926, when he visited their home to call upon Frances, then 15 years old.

"Thought Him Fine Gentleman"
She then thought him a very fine gentleman," she said, "and he showed me many beautiful letters to prove it. They were from young women who wanted to marry him, and in one case there was a letter from a man offering Mr. Browning a step daughter for a wife."

The mother said she "always waited up for her daughter" when the girl and the real estate man went out at night.

Mrs. Mayer, before her, had testified that one night at Cold Spring, N. Y., where the couple were married, she had heard Mrs. Browning scream, and when she and Mrs. Heenan rushed to the bed room of the couple, they found the girl in tears, and saying: "Mother, please take me away."

Mrs. Browning, who was held over from yesterday, took the stand today on the continuation of cross-examination by John E. Mack, attorney for the real estate man, and spent most of her appearance identifying numerous letters, addressed by her to the realtor.

Mr. Browning, during the marking of the letters for identification, tugged at his collar and seemed more nervous than his wife in the witness chair.

Fifty Thousand Know Byrd Plane To Stand In New Ford Museum

DETROIT, Jan. 26. (AP)—On a site in the village of Fordson, where he was born 62 years ago, Henry Ford will build a museum of industrial exhibits. It will occupy a forty-acre area. Construction will begin this spring with a view to finishing the structure by late fall.

An exhibit showing the progress of transportation will be assembled in the museum, and in this group will stand the plane "Josephine Ford", in which Commander Richard E. Byrd flew over the north pole in 1926.

On cars—the one-horse shay, the first locomotive to travel from Detroit to Chicago, and other vehicles will constitute the panorama of transportation.

Many other lines of industry will be exemplified in the museum. Ancient and modern methods of brick making—an industry for which Fordson formerly was widely known—will be displayed, as will a collection of sawmills.

WASHINGTON'S OLD SHOP CLOSED

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Jan. 26 (AP)—Young George Washington, he of the cherry tree fame—probably would be a happy youngster were he here today. The druggstore where his mother purchased castor oil for him is closed.

What may be the oldest apothecary shop in the United States was opened here by Hugh Mercer. The Washingtons lived nearby. Mary Washington, like most mothers of her day, was a firm believer in castor oil as a cure-all for what ails you.

When George grew up, however, he evidently forgot the physician's concoctions, for it was at Washington's request that Mercer was chosen by congress as a brigadier-general in the Continental army.

Murnau Keeps His Eyes On Details

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 26 (AP)—Microscope and stop watch are the paraphernalia of F. W. Murnau, painstaking director of motion pictures.

Thirty-two times he had an actress walk past a window and glance into it for one scene in "Sunrise" before he set the action as he wanted it. Each time he had a camera follower on a perambulator. Each time he held the stop watch on the movement to get the exact timing.

A bank of daisies in another set did not come to his expectations. He knelt and examined them closely. Then he turned a couple of assistants loose with hands full of daisies, picking the flowers among the clusters in the grass until the whole looked right.

The two incidents are examples of the care given by Murnau to the almost imperceptible details of his pictures, and his "try, try again" policy.

SWATSMITHS READY FOR DETROIT'S RACE

MORIARTY WILL HAVE STRONGER TIGER COMBINE

PURCHASE OF McMAUS A BOON TO ENTIRE CLUB IS THOUGHT

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, Jan. 26.—Three of the four leading hitters of the American League left over from Ty Cobb's stewardship of the Detroit Tigers are the heritage of George Moriarty, former American League umpire, who will pilot the club this year. One of this star outfield trio will be selected for the center field position vacated by the Georgia Peach, playing manager for four years.

Heinie Manush, the league-leading batter, whose average last year was .377, Bob Fothergill and Harry Hellmuth, who tied with averages of .367 each, back of Babe Ruth in second place are Moriarty's 1927 nucleus.

The outstanding winter purchase of the Tiger manager was Marty McManus, St. Louis Browns' infielder who was sought by several other major league clubs. McManus will play third base, present plans indicate. Jack Tavenner will be returned to short stop and Lou Blue will remain at first base. Charlie Gehringer will be a leading contender for second.

Moriarty has maintained silence as to reorganization plans but he has launched extensive efforts to build a new pitching staff. A score of pitchers many of them hold overs, will enter spring training several weeks before the bulk of the Tiger retinue is to join them in San Antonio. Jess Boyle, Owen Carroll and Carl Hubbell, three pitchers who helped Toronto win the International League pennant last year, are to lead their experience in Moriarty's attempt to lift Detroit from the league's second division.

George Davenport, Kenzie Holloway, Rip Collins, Lil Stoner, Sam Gibson and George Smith lead the right handed hold over staff. Earl Whitehill, Edwin Wells and August Johns are 1927 port siders.

Three recruits have been taken from the Texas League. They are Owens and Wall of San Antonio and Walkup of Fort Worth.

Bristling Battles of Bare Fist Days

(Copyright, 1927, NEA Service, Inc.)

I was reeling around the ring in Philly with a paralyzed left arm hanging by my side facing Jimmy Mitchell, a dangerous puncher, and I thought my first defeat was staring me in the face.

The old bean began to work. I started talking to Mitchell. "Just because my left is shot," I says, trying to muster up a grin and give him a confident look, "don't forget I got a right here that's good enough to smack your whiskers off."

He blinked and surprised because fighters seldom talked a lot to each other then. He'd rake me with a stinging left and I'd get real solicitous and say, "Aw, gee, Jimmy, you don't mean to tell me that's all the punch you've got."

Well, what with talking to him and him listening I managed to engage his attention enough to pile up enough points to get a draw. I was never closer to an ignominious beating in all my life. I'll never forget that fight.

Then came my famous fight with Jem Carney, champion of England, that lasted 74 rounds.

Carney came to America and posted a side bet of $5,000 that I met with the aid of friends, Jimmy Ormonde of Boston arranged the details. The fight was held under Marquis, of Queensbury rules to a finish, using kid gloves.

I was injured in the left shortly before the fight and had to postpone it a month and in the meantime could not do any road work and got hog fat. I had to holl out to get down to 125 pounds and the boiling softened my skin and my hands.

Jack Dempsey saw my condition and wanted and begged me to forfeit.

Our ring was pitched in front of the Atlantic hotel at Revere beach and the fight was started. I remember Carney brought a big gang with him headed by Al Smith, the leading sportsman of the day. Frank Stevenson was the referee.

Dempsey and I talked things over before the fight and we agreed that I had to get Carney inside of ten rounds or I'd be beaten. I was so weak I started out with a rush, throwing punches all over, but Carney wisely backed away. I sneared him and sneared him but he refused to stay down. The tenth round came and I began to fall rapidly. Suddenly that terrible feeling came into my heart that I was headed for destruction, that I was slowly getting weaker and weaker and I knew I couldn't win.

It's an awful sensation. All my friends eyed me after the round with commiseration. Little did I know then the fight was going to 74 rounds.

EDITOR'S NOTE—In the next chapter McManis continues his description of the fight for international supremacy.

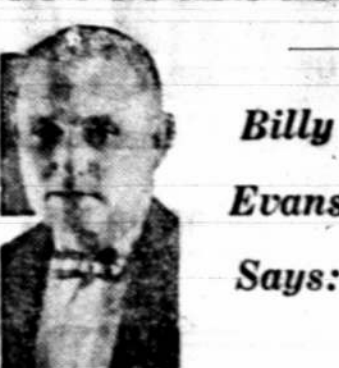

New Manager

STRIBLING

IF there is one thing that has kept Young Stribling from being a champion, it has been family interference. Managed by Ma and Pa Stribling, he probably has been the worst-handled fighter in the history of the ring. Not that Pa and Ma deliberately mismanaged his affairs, they just didn't know.

Recently Walk Miller, who carried Tiger Flowers to the middle-weight title, took over the management of Stribling.

Billy Evans Says:

Rags to Riches

In the first game, one punch is often the medium of transforming a fighter from a diet of pork and beans to sirloin steak with all the trimmings.

One punch is often the difference between being just "ham" to the rating of a title contender. If in doubt, give Billy Wallace or Eddie Roberts.

Within the past two months these two boys have sprung from what Horatio Alger would label "rags to riches."

The case of Eddie Roberts is monumental than that of Billy Wallace, hence we will consider him first.

Picked a Soft Spot

Joe Dundee, fighting contender for the welterweight title, accompanied by his manager, decided to see America first before doing any fighting in New York. A trip to California was to be a mere vacation jaunt.

Getting to the coast, promoters besieged Dundee to show his wares. A half dozen names were presented to his manager, with the request that he pick one of the "hams" to give Dundee a little workout.

Dundee and his manager, after giving the list the up and down, thought Eddie Roberts looked to be the softest proposition and selected him.

The result is now a matter of ring history. Dundee, a slow starter, was stopped in the first session, the referee finally intervening. Dundee, of course, insists he could have weathered the round.

Value of a Punch

The first punch of the fight that floored Dundee put Eddie Roberts in the heavy dough class.

I am informed that Roberts received a guarantee of $400 for the bout. For his return match with Dundee he received a privilege of the receipts, making him practically sure of $15,000.

One punch, properly hung on the jaw of Joe Dundee, a Broadway fight favorite, made Roberts a "natural" for his New York premier. He draws down 50 times as much for his return bout as he received from the contest in which he kayoed Dundee.

If Roberts had merely outpointed Dundee, no matter how decisive the margin, New York wouldn't have been interested. The vast boys would have insisted that it was just a fox-trot for Dundee in his travels from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

One punch on the button, however, made Roberts a headliner.

The Big Opportunity

Getting back to Billy Wallace, now of Cleveland, but formerly of the Pacific coast, Wallace is no youthful phenom. He is 26 years old and has been fighting seven years.

In his coast engagements, most of them being limited to four rounds, he wasn't getting anywhere, despite a bar of about 25 knockouts to his credit. His victims lacked reputations.

Then came the big chance, along these somewhat similar to the case of Eddie Roberts. Kid Kaplan, who gave up his featherweight crown, because of inability to make the weight, wanted a workout prior to making his New York debut as a lightweight, with Champion Sammy Mandell as his prospective opponent.

Surprise Party

For the first four rounds of the bout Kaplan fairly smothered Wallace. Then in the fifth, when it seemed Kaplan would win as he pleased, Wallace hung a terrific right on his jaw and—down he went.

On three more occasions he solled a very nifty pair of lights by contact with the floor. That one punch made Wallace a Broadway card. In his next engagement he strengthened his prestige by stopping the very clever Cuddy Demarco.

Yes, sir! The fight fans crave the punch, not footwork.

SUL ROSS WINS OVER MATADORS TO EVEN COUNT

WOLF PACK STRIKES ITS STRIDE IN VICTORY, 35 TO 26

(By The Associated Press)

Coming back after a stinging defeat on the night before the Sul Ross pack of Lobos trampled the Scarlet clad basketballers in defeat before a record attendance in the new assembly hall last evening by a score of 35 to 26, in a flashy and more interesting game than the night before the Wolves proved to be worthy of the name given them in the basketball circles of the state.

The Shotgun forces really came through and struck their stride against the Matadors last night and proved that while they are not the defensive club the Tech cagers are, they are more alert on their chances for counters. Time and again the Matadors in open shots, would shoot wide, high or low at the hoop, their inability in finding the basket causing the defeat.

Captain Ford, center of the Lobo combination, led the field in scoring last night with seven field goals and two free tosses; he was closely followed by his team mate, Kell, who tossed five goals and one free chance.

All Jennings, the husky Hightobam forward, was first to chalk up a counter with a short slinker under the hoop. From Jennings' counter on until the shot was heard of "Pop" Noles' pistol to end the half the score varied but little and the session ended with a tie score of 15-15.

Second Half Is Fatal

Beginning where they had left off in the first half the second period of play was resumed and for the first few minutes proceeded as the first half had ended; but soon the Lobos, led by "Big Wolf" Ford, started to gain a fairly good lead and retained it throughout the contest.

George "Rock" Weaver, center of the Tech cagers, scored four field goals in the first session, but never succeeded in counting during the last period. Percy Walker lost his eye for the basket and missed seemingly crisp shots repeatedly.

Outstanding in the floor work of the evening, Kell and Ford, both former Panhandle high school performers and now of the Shotgun forces, take the honors. Their ability in working the ball down in scoring through the Matador defense was remarkable and indeed held the interest of the house.

The visitors left last night for a two game series with the Wayland Baptist college Jackrabbits; and thence, for the week-end, with the West Texas State Teachers college lads.

The Matadors leave out for a two game series with the Simmons University Cowboys on Friday and Saturday in the Cowboy corral.

Rain Beats Down On Texas Golfers

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 26 (AP)—The Texas open golf championship tournament was postponed today from Thursday, Friday and Saturday to Friday, Saturday and Sunday, because of continued wet weather.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 25 (AP)—A cold rain which continued today to drench the fairways of the Willow Springs golf club here threatened to force the winner of the Texas $5,000 open golf championship to dig his prize money out of the mud.

The annual tournament, starts tomorrow with an amateur professional team match. Medal play for the open tournament itself will begin Friday and continue Saturday and Sunday.

Almost 100 professionals and amateurs from all sections of the country have already entered the tournament and almost that many more are expected to register today.

TODAY IN WASHINGTON Congress meets at noon. Senate resumes consideration of deficiency bill. Four department supply bill is again before the house for consideration. Foreign relations committee meet on Nicaraguan affairs. W. C. T. U. continues sessions on prohibition enforcement.

Kansas City Waits For Caging Tourney

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 25.—Baseball may be the national game but Kansas City, preparing for its seventh national Amateur Athletic Union basketball tournament, remains true to the indoor sport.

Claiming more basketball teams than any other city of its size, Kansas City is not sitting itself on preparations. More than 27,000 persons thronged into Convention Hall during the six days of the 1926 tournament and paid $18-25.25 to watch the matches.

This year, beginning March 18, the Hilliard team of St. Joseph, Mo., national champions, will defend the title against more than 40 crack squads.

Dr. Joseph A. Reilly, athletic director of the Kansas City Athletic Club and nationally known sport official, largely was instrumental in bringing the first tournament here in 1921 and in making Kansas City the basketball center for subsequent A. A. U. tournaments. His teams have held the championship at various times and it was a K. C. A. C. five that pushed into the final bracket with the Hilliards last year. Reilly has managed all the Kansas City tournaments.

As a preliminary to the national event the Southern A. A. U. open will be in Dallas, Texas, March 4 and 5.

In the Realm of Sport

Governor To Revive Michigan Mitt Body

Possibility that Michigan will again be the battleground for championship basketball contests is in the air in the announcement of Gov. Fred W. Green, Michigan's new executive, that he will reestablish the state athletic board of control. The board and its functions lapsed when former Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck banned championship bouts. The board was in effect a state boxing commission with a fulltime commissioner and four advisory members. Matches were limited to ten rounds but the law did not prohibit championship affairs.

Sweeping Challenge From Aquatic Punks

The Pung family of Honolulu, father, mother and ten children, challenge any family of like size to a swimming race any distance, free style. In a recent Kanaalua (old timer) swimming meet, the Punges competed in a special event and one of the children, a girl of 14, won. Pung is of Chinese birth and his wife Hawaiian. He is also a baseball player.

Hard Hitting Captain Leads College Team

Captain Tom Angley, leader of the Southern Conference in home runs, hopes to bring another championship to the Georgia Tech baseball team. The Yellow Jackets led only four players from the championship nine, which defeated almost every Conference team. Georgia was the only member to get an even break. Angley, the home run slugger, has played as a catcher and outfielder and will join the Atlanta club of the Southern Association when he finishes college.

Plans Being Formed For Winter Sports

Already plans are actively forming for the Olympic winter sports of 1928 which will be held at St. Moritz. The entries for the international hockey tournament are now being received. Canada, which was the victor at the Olympic winter games at Chamoni in 1924, the United States, Belgium, England, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Switzerland, France, Germany, Austria, Italy, Spain and Poland. It is probable that Japan, Denmark and Norway will also participate. The winter Olympic games will be held in the month of February under the auspices of the Swiss Federal Council. The special commission of the International Olympic Committee will be Baron G. deLafayette Grandjean.

Westerner Quintet Beats Wilson, 19-2

The Lubbock high school Westerners hit their stride in a practice game against the Wilson high team at the Tech assembly hall last night and turned back the invading athletes by a score of 19 to 2. The visitors counted their only field goal with but three or four minutes of playing time remaining.

Coach Ludwig Von Tunigeln, called on his first and second team athletes to stem the Wilson advance and they responded nobly but the invaders' inability to stop field counters from 45-45 yard and in the open was the cause of their defeat by such a wide margin. The game was a practice event and came as a matinee to the Matador-Sul Ross battle. "Iron Head" Hamilton, Tech student, was the referee.

BOY SCOUTS TAKE MANY AWARDS

Approximately 55 Boy scouts and adult leaders of scouting met before the examining board of the local unit at the city hall Tuesday when examinations were given pursuant to awarding some 105 merit badges. H. E. Palmer, scout executive said today.

Some of the boys were held over for another examination, being unable to meet requirements of the national court of honor, it was said. Officials insist that the boys be thoroughly conversant with the various subjects leading to merit badges, and some could not qualify.

Thursday night, all tenderfoot, second class and first class scouts will appear before the examining board for examination. The session will be held at scout headquarters at 7:30.

TEXAS COURT RULING MADE

AUSTIN, Jan. 26 (AP)—Court of criminal appeals today reiterated its opinion that Texas open port law was unconstitutional and invalid when it overruled the state's motion for rehearing in the case of A. W. Ratcliffe, convicted of assault on railway guard in Potter county.

Banishing Boredom For "Leisure-Time" Wives

Miss Marion Coates, president of the new Sarah Lawrence College. Lower right is W. V. Lawrence, the founder.

By NEA Service
HAVERHILL, Mass., Jan. 26.—Teaching girls how to entertain themselves, after marriage—eliminates their dinner dates, dancing dates and late parties, is to be part of the instruction in a new college recently founded by an aged millionaire who would see "a woman get a woman's education."

"Most unhappiness exists because married women don't know what to do with their leisure time," said Miss Marion Coates, of Haverhill, who is to be president of the new school.

After a girl marries she is lifted from a world of attentive friends and dropped down into an apartment, with nothing to do, after she washes the breakfast dishes.

"She rushes aimlessly to teas and bridge parties, seeking amusement. She is bored when alone, restless and unhappy," said Miss Coates.

Need Separate Education
William V. Lawrence, 85, of Bronxville, N. Y., who has founded the school and appropriated $1,250,000 for it, believes that girls now get a man's education with four years of studies unsuited to them. Consequently he founded the Sarah Lawrence college, in memory of his deceased wife, and engaged Miss Coates to carry out his ideas of what a woman should learn.

The new school to open in Bronxville September, 1935, will offer but a two-year course, so planned as to "prepare girls for a higher, intellectually useful life."

But there will be no classes in cooking, sewing, dusting or dish washing, according to Miss Coates, who says "cooking is but a small phase of married life and we buy clothes ready made."

Miss Coates, at present principal of Bradford Academy, New England's oldest school for girls, talked of premarriage education and how it would be taught.

There are to be classes in world literature, world citizenship and government, psychology, economics, dramatics, French, a bit of philosophy and a great deal of time devoted to studying piano, violin and voice.

"If a girl studies the best of ancient and modern literature she will develop a love and understanding of great books which gives her a balanced perspective of life—providing self-entertainment for dull evenings, alone."

"Instruction in dramatic technique and play production will fit girls for organizing community plays, staging church tableaux, playlets and pageants," said Miss Coates.

"Instead of becoming just a nonentity in her community she can be a leader, in one or more phases of community life, by properly utilizing her leisure time."

management of a home and family, with enough outside interests to fill her leisure time.

"We want to provide a general knowledge of cultural subjects which concern the modern woman, encouraging hobbies for the leisure time and develop each girl into a more interesting person for others to know," says Miss Coates.

She, a graduate of Smith and Radcliffe colleges and a leader in the girls' pep school world, was picked by the elderly millionaire to head his school. Yet, she never has been married. And at 41, this attractive, effeminate woman asks "why should I?" Her leisure time interests have eclipsed the need of a husband.

Broadway Parking

If properly cared for, but also wants space in center cut, to ten feet instead of twenty as now, adding five feet of paving on each side, which he said will be ample. Urges organization of parks board to look after maintenance of such movements.

A. V. Weaver (City Commissioner, but speaking as private citizen and wants expansion of paving full width, saying trees would add much to beauty of streets, and would cut glare from sun on full width paving.

Wilson Opposes Plan
Roscoe Wilson—Unalterably opposed to proposal, as it would add to accident hazard, and deter from natural beauty of broad street. Wants paving put to full width.

Judge Geo. W. Foster—Wants paving full width, as was understood among property owners when street was paved leaving unpaved center.

J. S. Johnson—Opposed to "Forest" on city's main thoroughfare, and wants full width paving. Says accidents are plentiful on street now, and that trees would add to hazard.

F. R. Friend (former Mayor)—Opposed to proposal, saying it is very impractical; that expense of maintenance would be prohibitive, and that unless properly cared for, would be detrimental to street. Wants full width paving.

Murry Jones—Wants paving all across street.

W. E. Atkins—Prefers full width paving but if this is not forthcoming, would like to have trees in parkway, and have them properly cared for. Either way would be acceptable.

Chas. F. O'Neill—Favors proposal, and wants to work to this end instead of once. Says would add much to natural beauty of street.

W. B. Elkins—Wants parkway, with trees and shrubs, but suggested that paving should have been laid to turn water into parkway instead of into gutter at curb.

Other ideas wanted
Other property owners are privileged to speak through the columns of this paper if they desire. The City Commission is to meet in regular session at the city hall Thursday afternoon, and probably will discuss the "why" of changing prices will be taught the prospective brides. The definite ways of cutting the grocery bill are not to be considered as important as a general, wise management of the home, it was learned.

ROAD PROBLEMS FACE OKLAHOMA

Senate Committee Meets For Discussion Of New Bill Facing Legislature

(By The Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 26.—The senate roads and highways committee today voted to report the Singletary-Fry house amended highway bill, with amendment, to the senate this afternoon, and recommended that it be passed.

The substitute bill provides for a highway commission of five members, as does the house measure, but five year terms, one to expire each year, were submitted for four year terms, which would run concurrently with that of the governor. The power of removing the commissioners would be removed from the governor, under the sub, and would be placed in "any court of competent jurisdiction."

Only Three Against It
Members of the committee said only three votes were recorded against adoption of the amended bill, with 22 voting favorably.

A section of the amended bill, covering the committee changes, reads: "Said commission shall be appointed by the governor and with the consent of the senate; one member shall be appointed for a term of one year; one shall be appointed for a term of two years; one member shall be appointed for a term of three years; one member shall be appointed for a term of four years, and one member shall be appointed for a term of five years. And upon expiration of the term of office of said commissioners respectively, their successors shall be appointed by the governor and with the consent and advice of the senate for a term of five years."

Commissioner Appointed
Any commissioner appointed under provision of this act shall hold office for the term for which the appointment is made. Provided, that any such commissioner may be removed from office in any such manner as may be now authorized by the constitution or laws of the state of Oklahoma, or may be removed by any court of competent jurisdiction for wilful neglect of duty, corruption in office, drunkenness, incompetency, or any offense involving moral turpitude, committed while in office."

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 26.—The senate roads and highways committee met today with the intention of agreeing on a report on the Singletary-Fry house highway bill, to present to the senate this afternoon.

Decision to make a report today was reached yesterday at a closed meeting of the committee, which followed two heated open hearings on the measure, at which spirited debate was presented.

Members of the committee declined to discuss the probability that the bill, which already has passed the house would be amended before it reaches the senate floor. Some members of the committee, while not particularly opposed to the section of the bill providing for a five man highway commission in place of the present three man body, have expressed themselves as opposed to supplanting current four year terms of the commissioners for the present continuous body that serves terms of six years.

Opposition also has been expressed to the clause in the bill providing that the commissioners would be removable by the governor arbitrarily. It has been argued in answer to this, however, that recent decisions of the United States supreme court and Oklahoma supreme court have upheld the power of the chief executive to remove appointed officers, regardless of whether that power is vested in him by law.

Today's meeting, like that of yesterday, was behind closed doors.

Historic Canal Soon to Become Link in Great System of Waterways Along the Atlantic Seaboard

By NEA Service
ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., Jan. 26.—Piercing the heart of the Great Dismal Swamp, a tangled morass that is yielding gradually to civilization after its trackless wastes had hidden grim defiance to man for three centuries, is an historic canal that soon is to become a link in the great system of inland waterways which parallels the Atlantic Seaboard. Named after the great swamp, it is the Dismal Swamp canal.

This waterway connects tributary waters of Chesapeake bay, on the north, with the river and sound waters of North Carolina, on the south. Commercially, it links Norfolk, Va., with Elizabeth City, N. C.

The canal itself is 22 miles long, connecting the Elizabeth river in Virginia, with the Pasquotank river, in North Carolina. The total distance between Norfolk and Elizabeth City is 45 miles.

Purchase Negotiated
Purchase of the canal at a price of $500,000 was authorized by congress two years ago, and final papers incident to the transfer from private to public ownership are being forwarded to the War Department for approval. It is expected that the purchase will be consummated early in the spring.

The digging of the Dismal Swamp canal was undertaken jointly by Virginia and North Carolina in 1784. Among leading men of the time who saw its importance was George Washington, who in a letter to James Madison dated Nov. 30, 1875, wrote:

"It gives me great pleasure to hear that our assembly were the way adopting a mode for establishing a canal between Elizabeth river and Pasquotank, which was likely to meet the approbation of the state of North Carolina.

"It appears to me that no country in the universe is better calculated to derive benefits from inland navigation than this is, and certain I am that the consequences to the citizens individually and the source of wealth to the country generally, which will be opened thereby, will be found to exceed the most sanguine imagination."

Slaves Told to It
Cutting the canal proved a staggering task. Hundreds of slaves supplied on contract by their masters toiled year upon year at the back breaking task of digging away the marshland with crude implements. There were delays, when money ran short and additional appropriations had to be awaited. Literally the canal was bled in blood and tears.

Finally the great task was completed in 1820. For 46 years, until the civil war, it was the main artery of water commerce between Virginia and North Carolina, proving a profitable investment for the two states, and fulfilling the dreams of those who conceived it. During the war it was the scene of several minor naval engagements.

Soon after the close of the civil war a competitive canal, the Albemarle & Chesapeake, was opened some 25 miles to the eastward. This was deeper and deeper, away the marshland with crude implements. There were delays, when money ran short and additional appropriations had to be awaited. Literally the canal was bled in blood and tears.

Owned private, the Dismal Swamp canal of course, was a toll canal. Business languished perilously near to the vanishing point. For a decade and a half the canal has been dependent upon local water traffic between Norfolk and Elizabeth City, and upon occasional patronage by yachtsmen attracted by the scenery and historic associations.

Upon its acquisition by the government canal, of course, will be reopened as a toll free artery of navigation, and again is expected to carry much shipping. It is shorter and better protected from storms than the connecting waters of the alternative canal.

The Dismal Swamp
The great Dismal Swamp embraces an area of 560 square miles. Both "Dismal" and "Swamp" are misnomers, for the great tract is neither.

Federal topographical maps disclose that it is from 13 to 22 feet above sea level, being in fact a basin-like plateau which has the characteristic of a swamp because of inadequate drainage. Many thousand acres of it are of deep, black loam, which produces abundant harvests when drained.

Roughly in the center of the swamp is Lake Drummond, a shallow expanse immortalized in the poem, "The Lake of the Dismal Swamp," by Thomas Moore, the Irish poet. It includes the lines:

They made her a grave too cold and damp
For a soul so warm and true;
And she's gone to the Lake of the Dismal Swamp
Where all night long by a fire-fly lamp,
She paddles her white canoe.

"The earth tossed up by the workmen digging the Dismal Swamp canal provided a foundation for one of the most important roads connecting southeastern Virginia and northeastern North Carolina. In the last few years this road has been hard surfaced in its entirety, and named, appropriately enough, the George Washington highway. It is a link in the Atlantic coastal highway, running from Maine to the tip of Florida.

When steps were begun for the acquisition of the canal by the government unexpected delay was encountered in obtaining a clear title to the property. It was discovered that the original deeds in many instances were based upon landmarks that had been obliterated in the course of time, and nearly a year's painstaking investigation was required to straighten out this essential factor in the transaction.

Ponzi Rehearing Is Denied By Justices

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 26 (AP)—The motion for a rehearing in a habeas corpus case decided against Charles Ponzi who is seeking means to prevent being returned to Massachusetts as a "common and notorious thief," was denied today by the Texas criminal court of appeals.

Ponzi, in jail at Houston, lost in his efforts to prevent extradition in hearings before former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, and also lost in the courts when he filed habeas corpus petitions. The ruling today was on his effort to reopen the case in the highest court of the state to which it can go.

McGoldrick, one of his ankles bruised and swollen as a result of his 30 foot leap from a cell window, said that he knew nothing of the plot to escape but had "just happened along," as Albert Rosenberg and Basil Hugh Baughart, the other two fugitives, crawled through the window which had been opened by cutting one of the steel bars with a hacksaw.

Escaped Convict Is Returned By Guards

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 26 (AP)—Frank McGoldrick of New York, who escaped from the Atlanta federal penitentiary last night, with two other prisoners, was caught today hiding in a light underground in the woods near the prison.

McGoldrick, one of his ankles bruised and swollen as a result of his 30 foot leap from a cell window, said that he knew nothing of the plot to escape but had "just happened along," as Albert Rosenberg and Basil Hugh Baughart, the other two fugitives, crawled through the window which had been opened by cutting one of the steel bars with a hacksaw.

PAVING ALLEYS IS CITY'S PLAN

City Officials Talk It Over With Dallas Man; Downtown Section Affected

L. Wright, West Texas representative of the Portland Cement Association of Dallas, was in conference today with city officials regarding a proposition to pave all alleys in the business district of the city, and it is understood that officials look with favor on the proposal.

The completion of such a program, according to Mr. Wright, will not only add to the beauty and attractiveness of the business district, but will eliminate many disease hazards now present.

Commission Meets Thursday
The City Commission is to meet Thursday afternoon in regular session, when it is believed that the matter will be taken up for discussion. Several of the alleys in the city now are under paving.

While Mr. Wright is primarily interested in concrete, he has not mentioned any specific type for the program. Estimates arranged by him through Martin R. Smith, city engineer, place the approximate cost of concrete paving at about the same unit price as the contract recently awarded for brick paving on residential streets. These estimates will be submitted to the commission.

Oklahoma Lawyer Is Appointed For Case

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 26 (AP)—Appointment of A. Scott Thompson of Miami as the seventh special supreme court justice to hear contempt proceedings against M. Bart Martin, Tulsa attorney, February 2, was announced today by Governor Johnston. Names of the other six special justices were announced yesterday.

The seven special justices will take the place of seven justices who disqualified themselves to hear the case. Justices Fletcher Riley and J. W. Clark refused to qualify.

McNary-Haugen Bill Granted Precedence

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The house rules committee decided today to give the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill the legislative right of way as soon as the house completes its appropriation measures.

Decision to give the farm relief measure preferential consideration was unanimous. Chairman Spill said the committee took the position that a bill of such importance should be permitted to come to the floor for consideration by the house.

Pioneer West Texas Dies After Sickness

WICHITA FALLS, Texas, Jan. 26 (AP)—Myles O'Reilly, pioneer resident of West Texas and the man who laid the first brick in Wichita Falls, died at his home Wednesday morning following an illness of two weeks.

Mr. O'Reilly was a contractor on the palace of King Kalakaua, which in later years became the home of Queen Liliuokalani in Honolulu, one of the show places of the Hawaiian islands. He had been a resident of Wichita Falls for forty-four years.

SAINT AND SINNER

BY ANNE AUSTIN COPYRIGHT 1926, NEA

UNDER the grimly watchful but sympathetic eyes of four policemen and a woman police officer, Faith took Cherry into her arms and kissed her, then began gently to remove the girl's hat and coat, while her eyes devoured the beloved little face that had changed so tragically since Thanksgiving Day.

Faith knew instantly that there would be no "scene." Cherry had done for weeping and her self-castigation in the bitter loneliness of a prison cell. The Cherry who had come to see her mother for the last time was a Cherry whom her mother would hardly have recognized, if her dead eyes could have opened to exchange with her best beloved child that look of farewell.

"Will you let me see her now, Faith, before the service begins?" Faith nodded, her throat too tight with tears to permit her to speak. The two sisters, their hands tightly locked together, passed from the living room, through the shabby old dining room, into the narrow little hall and on into the bedroom where Mrs. Lane lay in her coffin. They were followed to the very door of the death chamber by the officers of the law, their shoes squeaking in the funeral hush that hung over the whole house. Faith had an almost uncontrollable desire to close the door in their faces, to insist upon Cherry's right to see her mother alone. But a glance at Cherry's still, pale face told her that the prisoner was unaware of surveillance.

Jim Lane rose from his chair by his wife's coffin and without a word put his arms about his daughter. Cherry returned his kiss, then, with her small tight mouth working pitifully, she stepped softly to the coffin and looked upon her mother's face. Jim Lane and Faith turned their backs upon her, and the four policemen, grouped in the doorway, followed their example, their heavy, grim faces flushed with embarrassment.

But if they had all been looking they would have seen nothing but a small, rigid figure, standing above a coffin. They could not have seen that Cherry's small hands seemed to be bursting through the thin, satin-smooth skin. They could not have heard the message which she whispered to that serene, still face which was so ennobled and beautified in death. A small army of reporters and feature writers would have given almost anything they possessed to hear that broken, childish whisper, but no one, not even Faith, knew what the "accused murderess" whispered to the mother who had been killed by the news of her daughter's indictment.

"I didn't do it, Muggy. I've been a bad girl, Muggy, but I didn't kill Mr. Cluny. Oh, Muggy, Muggy, I loved you and I need you now and you've gone away." Two tears fell from her wide, golden eyes to the still face on the sixth pillow of the coffin. But when Cherry at last turned away, to face her family and the officers of the law, her eyes were dry again, her head held high and proud.

"I want to go back now, Faith," she said clearly, and with scarcely a tremor of her voice.

The Nursing Profession And Its Requirements

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

NURSING is one of the most useful and interesting of modern professions.

The trained nurse who studies in a regular hospital training school follows a regular curriculum through which she obtains much information relative to the care of the sick and much practice in actual attendance upon them.

The better schools of nursing require graduation from high school before entrance in the in the work; a few even demand some college education.

Qualifications There is a developing a general opinion to the effect that two years of high school work give sufficient information to qualify a girl to take up nursing, at least to the point at which she will devote most of her time as a practical nurse in the actual care of patients.

On the other hand, such an amount of education certainly would not fit her for the position of superintendent, nor for practice in some of the many specialties of nursing which have recently come into use.

Among the subjects that will prove of especial value to those who propose to take up nursing are biology, hygiene, chemistry, household sciences, including cookery, nutrition and house-keeping, and some economics.

Correspondence Schools There are a number of correspondence schools for the study of nursing. There are no state registration boards in nursing that will accept the graduates of correspondence schools as equipped to do this work.

It is no more possible to learn the nursing care of the sick by correspondence than it is possible to learn scientific medicine by correspondence.

A good nurse should have an alert and an understanding mind, and should be a person of sound and careful judgment.

As A Woman Sees It

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

TEETH OR TOYS?

A WOMAN said to me, "All this theorizing about making Johnny a perfect boy and paying money to specialists instead of putting it into the bank for him--that's all right for the rich. But how about the poor who can do neither? It discourages intelligent women from contemplating maternity."

"Well," I answered, "you'll have to admit that the physical part of child-bearing is not the hardest. It is not an easy thing today, being a mother. But I don't agree with you about any workable theory being discouraging. Theory and practice are father and son. Practice, even though it can take only a few toddling steps, may as well go in the direction that some good theory points out."

Rich and poor alike today may be inclined to pay more attention to material things than to a health inheritance for their children.

Poor is only a term of comparison. There are few people so poor that it is impossible to give their children an intelligent chance for good health.

As far as sacrifice goes, the child himself can do without a few material things to invest in his inheritance of health, if necessary. A clean throat and good teeth are more important than movies, phonographs, toys and a lot of other things.

Here are some cases I actually know about. A little girl has needed her tonsils out for years. She is peaked and ailing. Her parents threw up their hands at the mere mention of an operation. They were too poor! Last fall they bought a second-hand flivver for two hundred dollars.

The poor aren't the only ones who make mistakes. I have watched the daughter of a rich family grow up into a pale, frail woman because they wouldn't send her to a warm climate after an attack of pneumonia that nearly killed her when she was a little girl. Her mother told me it was too expensive. I know that child's health went into bonds. These are absolutely true cases. I know of dozens more.

I am trying to stand up for the intelligent parent, rich or poor, who sees that health physically and mentally is the child's best inheritance.

The Highway Board

Gov. Moody has announced the appointment of two members of the state highway commission. They are H. S. Sterling, publisher of the Houston Post-Tribune, and Cone Johnson, attorney of Tyler, long a leading figure in Texas Democratic circles.

A third commissioner, Governor Moody has announced, will be named here. He comes to Lubbock, where the third man will be from that section of the state. It will come. Let us hope he is a West Texan.

Many months ago the Daily Journal launched a campaign to put a real road on the West Texas highway commission. The Journal doesn't want a San Antonio West Texas road, "West Texas Texas" or a Dallas West Texas. What it does want is someone who lives in West Texas—not on a border of West Texas—someone who knows West Texas and its highway needs.

Get a map of Texas and a pencil. Start at the Oklahoma border and draw south, through Tyler, in Smith County, West Texas, then on a due south and south line through Houston, continuing to the Gulf. To the right of that line you will find approximately one-fourth of the total area of Texas. On the west you'll find the other seven-eighths.

LIVESTOCK HAS MADE BIG GAIN
That's What Secretary Of U. S. Agriculture Tells Grazing Men
(By Associated Press)
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 26.—The past year has seen increased production, better quality and increased revenues in the livestock industry, William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, told the members of the National Livestock association, in annual convention here today. Secretary Jardine came to Salt Lake City to meet the livestock men at the grazing conference yesterday and remained to speak at the opening of the convention which continues through Thursday.
"The total quantity of beef produced from cattle slaughtered under federal inspection in the ten months, February to November, 1926, exceeded that produced in the corresponding months of 1925, by 214,000,000 pounds," the secretary said. "This is an increase of 8 per cent and exceeds the five year average, 1921-1925, by 522,000,000 pounds or 14 per cent."
Stock Yards Show Increase
Citing the Chicago stock yards receipts as an example, the secretary said the total receipts there had increased 12 per cent and the choice and prime grade steers showed an increase of 124 per cent over a similar period of 1925, and 56 per cent above the four year average. Good grade steers increased 24 per cent and there was a decrease of 12 per cent in the number of common grade steers and "these figures do not tell all the story," the secretary continued, "because steers represented only 48 per cent of the total slaughter of those months. The other 52 per cent included cheaper classes of cattle—cows, bulls and stags—and these enjoyed a price advance over the corresponding period of 1925. This was sufficient, with the advance in common steers, to raise the average cost of all cattle slaughtered 26 cents per hundred pounds, or around $2.50 per head."
Urging the cattlemen to improve their breeding stock, Secretary Jardine said a study had disclosed the fact that improved livestock has a "forty per cent greater utility value" than common animals.
Market News Broadcast
Distribution of livestock market news, the speaker said, has broadened until the service now covers 26 markets from Boston to Los Angeles, Atlanta to Portland, Ore., and St. Paul to Fort Worth. He said the association was responsible for the inauguration of this service, which had proved of inestimable value to the cattlemen.
He concluded his address with a plea for co-operation among the stock growers, and also for co-operative marketing, adding "the co-operative spirit is needed in solving every problem that confronts us."

TEXAS BRIEFS
By Associated Press
AUSTIN.—Indications were that immediate confirmation would be given R. S. Sterling, Houston publisher, and Cone Johnson, Tyler lawyer, whose appointments as highway commissioners were sent to the senate Tuesday by Governor Moody.
MIDLAND.—Colorado was selected as the 1928 meeting place of the district convention, West Texas Chamber of Commerce. All resolutions adopted by the general convention at Amarillo last June were endorsed at the annual regional gathering here Tuesday.
CISCO.—All business houses here closed Tuesday afternoon for the funeral of Mrs. Julia D. Alexander, prominent in Texas Rebekeh assembly circles.
AUSTIN.—A bill to be introduced in the senate by Edgar Witt of Waco provides for compulsory physical education in Texas public schools.
BRYAN.—Six jurors had been selected Tuesday night at Franklin to try Sledge Houston of Somerville for the murder of a peace officer. The case was transferred to Franklin after a mistrial at Belton.
SAN ANTONIO.—The South Texas Chamber of Commerce went on record as opposed to any further expansion of state government, including the creation of any more bureaus.
GAINESVILLE.—Following the loss of much poultry in this vicinity, law enforcement officers have declared war on chicken thieves. Tuesday the efforts of police bore fruit when Judge John Cox, of the Cooke county court, assessed penalties of $100 and costs and sixty days in jail against two men charged with theft of chickens.
