Two police officers quit, four seek chief's post

Resignations reduced the Post police department to only two officers this week as the city council prepared to interview four applicants for the position of police chief at a special council meeting scheduled for 6:30 p. m. Monday.

Larry Payne, police officer in charge until a new chief is named, told The Dispatch yesterday that both David Bradshaw and Hal Heathington have turned in their resignations from the department.

Bradshaw's resignation was effective Monday and Heathington's yesterday.

Payne said Bradshaw quit here to become a deputy sheriff at Jourdanton, below San Antonio, and that Heathington had received a "couple of job offers" but had not discussed his future plans with Payne.

The resignations leave only

Payne and patrolman Don Franklin as active members of the five-man force former chief Keith Davis had put together before his recent resignation after which he was indicted by a Garza County district court grand jury on a charge of forgery and passing in connection with an allegedly forged letter of recommendation.

Both Bradshaw and Heathington had been employed here only for a short time.

Payne told The Dispatch that he and Franklin intend to remain on the job "although our hours now will be considerably longer."

What council policy will be concerning law enforcement here with two new councilmen at the council table following the April election possibly will emerge from the special meeting Monday night.

OATHS OF OFFICE — Two new city councilmen and two re-elected incumbents were administered their oaths of office by Mayor Giles C. McCrary at a special city council meeting Friday. Wilson, and Fred Myers, re-elected. — (Staff Photo)

Councilmen sworn in, opinion given on librarian's salary

Following the swearing in of four city councilmen — two new ones and two incumbents — the city council awarded the bid for a new tractor-loader, and reviewed an opinion from City Atty. Pat N. Walker on the librarian's salary at a special meeting Friday afternoon.

Administered the oaths of office by Mayor Giles C. McCrary were Dr. William C. Wilson, new councilman, for a two-year term; W. G. (Bill) Pool Jr., new councilman, for the one-year unexpired term of E. R. (Buster) Moreland; and incumbents Fred Myers and Jim Wells for new two-year terms.

The contract for the purchase of the new tractor-loader, which is to be used principally at the city's sanitary landfill, was let to Plains Machinery Co., the only bidder. The tractor-loader will cost approximately $37,000, including $8,000 trade-in allowance on an old tractor.

The city attorney's opinion on the librarian's salary is that the nepotism laws do not apply to the "relationship existing between Jim Wells, a city councilman, and Mrs. Pee Wee Pierce, city librarian, for the reason that Mrs. Pierce has held her employment for more than two years prior to April 12, 1974, the date that Jim Wells will take his new oath of office."

"This opinion," Walker's report continued, "does not apply to or relate to the conduct or the question of nepotism as it might have existed prior to April 12, 1974."

Walker recommended that "since it appears that Mrs. Pierce is a city employee, though she was initially employed by the library board and was paid from funds furnished by the Federal Government, it is my opinion that the City should set and establish her salary."

The question had come up at the council's regular April meeting when the library board requested that the city pay half the librarian's salary, with the county paying the other half, after Emergency Employment Act funds, with which Mrs. Pierce has been paid in the past, are cut off on April 30.

IN COMMUNITY ACTION

South Plains directors vote Garza fundings

Directors of the South Plains Community Action Association, Inc., meeting in Levelland Tuesday night, voted funding to two Garza Community Action projects and decided to seek a $50,000 grant for an alcoholism counseling program with Garza assured of one of the counselors if the grant is obtained.

The directors approved $800 for a summer youth program here which Executive Director Howard Maddera termed "fantastically successful last year" and $1,400 as the final assistance to Post's Meals on Wheels program.

Maddera told directors that $1,700,000 is available in Texas for funding the alcoholism counseling program through the Texas Commission on Alcoholism but that these funds must be assigned by June.

He said a $50,000 grant would enable the establishment of three or four alcoholic counselors in the South Plains area. He said Garza County, with the commissioners court agreeing to provide 10 per cent cash contribution and also in-kind aid for office space would be in line to receive the first of the counselors.

All of the funding, however, for these and other projects approved by the board are conditional upon Congress passing a new bill to extend the life of Community Action and the OEO for another three years.

As of now, the South Plains agency has funding only to Smallwood rites are conducted

Last rites for G. N. Smallwood, 83, of Southland were at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Southland Baptist Church with the Rev. C. T. Jordan, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Englewood Cemetery in Slaton under direction of Englands Funeral Home.

Smallwood died at his home about 3:15 p. m. Monday following an apparent heart attack.

A native of Orange City, Tenn., Smallwood moved to the Southland community in 1915 from Young County. He was a retired farmer and a member of the Southland Masonic Lodge for 54 years.

Survivors include his wife, Jennie; six sons, Arthur L. of Slaton, E. C. of Post, Neil of Odessa, Albert of Monahans, Harvey of Brownwood and Sidney of Lubbock; a daughter, Mrs. Billy Ramsey of Midland; two sisters, Mrs. Ida Dunigan of Olney and Mrs. Bessie Harmon who lives in California; and 14 grandchildren.

More grass fires keep firemen busy

Fire Chief Neal Clary reported several more grass fires during the past seven days which the Post Volunteer Fire Department was called out to extinguish.

Most of them were in rural areas and none of them were of any great size, Clary said.

No Tower movies this weekend only

The Tower Theatre will not open this weekend, but will resume its weekend movie schedule next weekend, Mrs. Joan Guthrie, who operates the theater, told The Dispatch yesterday.

Her son, Danny, has been ill and Mrs. Guthrie did not get a movie for this weekend ordered on time, she explained.

IRA L. DUCKWORTH
55-year award goes to Post insurance man

Ira L. Duckworth, with 55 years of service, was one of three agents with long-time records of service honored by the Kansas City Life Insurance Company at a banquet in the South Park Inn, Lubbock, on April 9.

Harry W. Kenny, executive vice president of the company, presented Duckworth with a plaque because, as he said, they did not have service pins that go up to 55 years. Kenny praised the Post man for his dedication to the company and to the life insurance industry, and for the high standards of character and ethics established by his example as an agent.

Duckworth signed his contract with the Kansas City Life Insurance Company on Sept. 29, 1919. He was associated with the Citizens National Bank at that time, and later with the First National Bank after the two banks consolidated in 1932.

Duckworth and the late O. L. Weakley sold control of the First National Bank in 1955. He was a partner in the Post Insurance Agency until it was sold to Harold Lucas in 1958. However, he has an office on

Applications being taken for mill tour

Anyone wishing to go on a tour of Postex Plant, to be sponsored by the Women's Division of the Post Chamber of Commerce, is asked to call the Chamber office, 3461, to get their name on the list.

The tour of the textile plant is scheduled for Tuesday morning, April 23.

The tour will be limited to 50 persons — providing that many call for reservations.

Highway crashes are fatal to five cattle

Four head of cattle owned by Darrell Jones, who lives a mile and a half northwest of town, were killed after being struck by two vehicles shortly after 5 o'clock Friday morning, and another was so badly injured it had to be slaughtered.

The cattle struck by the vehicles, one of which was a city police car, were among eight which had broken out of a pasture and strayed onto U. S. Hwy. 84.

The first two of the cattle were killed when struck by a pickup truck driven by Paul Perez and also occupied by Anselmo Casares, owner of the truck.

The city police car, driven by Patrolman David Bradshaw, struck three of the cattle near the scene of the accident after driving out to investigate what a truck driver had reported as "a bad accident with people hurt."

Bradshaw left the police station to investigate the truck driver's report after calling Sheriff Jimmy Holleman and another officer to bring the ambulance to the scene of the accident.

Patrolman Bradshaw reported he was going up the caprock and passing another vehicle on the highway when the cattle ran out in front of his car.

Bradshaw, who escaped injury in the accident, then cancelled the ambulance call, but the sheriff went out to help round up the cattle that were not injured and get them off the highway.

The pickup which first struck the cattle was extensively damaged and had to be towed away by a wrecker. Neither Perez nor Casares was injured. Damage to the police car, which is now in the shop for repairs, was estimated at $350.

Following the Friday morning accident involving the cattle, the same police car was damaged early Sunday morning when Patrolman Hal Heathington backed into a pipe just off a dirt road in turning around after investigating a car out beyond 10th Street and Mohawk.

HIGHLAND RESOURCES OFFICIAL SAYS

Time to work together to solve energy crisis

R. P. Haddox of Houston, vice president of Highland Resources, Inc., in a vigorous defense of the oil industry in the current energy crisis told Post

Rotarians at their Tuesday luncheon:

Farenthold to be here Friday

Frances "Sissy" Farenthold will bring her campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor to Post Friday with a 12:15 p. m. rally scheduled for the courthouse lawn.

"Let's quit pointing fingers of blame and work together to solve our problems."

Using wall charts and a vast array of statistics, Haddox hit at "a lot of talk about price gouging, windfall profits, and tax loopholes."

"Let's see," he told his hearers, "if there is anything to the charge of a conspiracy of the oil companies to create the crisis."

Margie Wilson, her county campaign manager, urges everyone to "come out and hear what Sissy has to say" before making up their minds as to whom to vote for in the May primary.

He said that U. S. gasoline is not over-priced, showing how it rose only 6 1/2 cents per gallon before taxes in 18 years.

He said the rate of return on investment of the oil companies for a long period of years has been much smaller than the rate for general manufacturing firms and that it is now only beginning to climb to a near equal basis.

In case of bad weather, the rally will be moved indoors to Catholic Hall at 205 West Main.

Poster contest on conservation

The Garza Soil and Water Conservation District has announced it will sponsor a conservation poster contest limited to the Post Elementary School, according to Bob Arhelger, district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service.

He said the oil industry by 1985 will need $1,350 billion for investment, and a lot of that is going to have to come from profits if the search for new energy is to continue.

The subject will be "Conservation of Our National Resources." The posters will be picked up at the elementary school on the last day of the contest, Friday, April 26.

"There is no way the United States can become self sufficient in its energy requirements by 1980," Haddox declared, "and the government is going to have to let oil companies make the profits they need for new explorations if the goal is to be reached by 1985."

The tour will be judged by members of the Woman's Culture Club for originality, content, and neatness, Arhelger said. The first, second and third place winners will receive cash prizes of $7.50, $5 and $2.50 from the Garza SWCD.

Turning to other energy sources besides gas and oil, Haddox said solar energy can provide only a small portion of future energy requirements, and that there is not enough nuclear energy available in the free world to fuel the plants which will be ready to use that source by 1980.

Arhelger says anyone who has questions concerning the contest may contact the local SCS field office at the First National Bank building.

Haddox said the U. S. has the world's biggest coal supply and that turning coal into energy for the modern world probably will come about through gasification of coal — a very expensive process.

The contest is also being held to help emphasize Soil Stewardship Week, May 19-26.

The Highland Resources executive said the price of a barrel of oil must go to $7.50 to make oil extracted from shale, another process for the future, competitive.

Arhelger says anyone who has questions concerning the contest may contact the local SCS field office at the First National Bank building.

Amarillo rites for Joe Shields

Services for Joe Shields, 74, of Amarillo, owner of the former television cable Clearview Company of Post, will be held this morning in Amarillo, where Shields died Tuesday following a lengthy illness.

Shields recently sold Clearview Company of Post, which is now known as the Post Antenna Company, with Chuck Kenny continuing as local manager. Shields established the Clearview Company here about five years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Ethel; a daughter, Duke, and two grandchildren.

JERRELL C. BABB
Rites held for Jerrell Babb

Masonic services for Jerrell C. Babb, 83, of Glendale, Calif., a member of a pioneer Garza County family, were held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at Kiefer-Eyerkick Chapel in Glendale with burial in Forest Lawn Park.

Babb, who had been a Los Angeles attorney since 1925, died of a blood clot at his home in Glendale.

Born in Deep Creek, Tex., he lived on a ranch northeast of Post in 1906 with his parents, the John H. Babb, before C. W. Post founded the town.

He was a 1915 graduate of the University of Texas and practiced law in Sweetwater before moving to California. He was city attorney for Los Angeles for nine years.

Babb was the brother of the late Dezzie Power Dickinson, mother of Tom Power of Post and J. N. Power of Lubbock.

Survivors include his wife, Joan, of Glendale, and a daughter, Mrs. Geraldine Mellara of Eugene, Ore., and two grandchildren.

Seniors plan 'One Wild Night' Tuesday

The senior class of Post High School will present the three-act play, "One Wild Night," at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, April 23, in the primary school auditorium under the direction of class sponsors Beth Walker and Sam Buchanan.

The entire action of the play takes place in the home of Rodney Dodd, a healthy young man who thinks he is an invalid, played by Jerry Tyler.

The cast also includes: Henrietta, Dodd's housekeeper, Jill Cash; Jobstlow, the inventive butler, Craig Simpson; Aunt Myra Opal Dodd, Rodney's aunt, Daria Baker; Charlotte Allen, Aunt Myra's young companion, Becki Dalby; Dr. Bell, the family doctor, Jay Pollard; Nurse Trent, Dr. Bell's assistant, Melba Curtis; Ned Steerwell, a young, self-made hero, Steve Sawyers; Doris Winthrop, the pretty object of Ned's attentions, Jan Hall.

Hawkins, a moving man, Ricky Shepherd.

A new No. 1 need here

We still don't have a community-youth center, but voters indicated in the referendum here April 6 that they are in favor of such a facility.

At the same time voters put their stamp of approval on a community-youth center, they re-elected two new city councilmen and re-elected two incumbents.

The community-youth center, as The Dispatch has often reminded its readers, was tagged the community's No. 1 need in a West Texas Chamber of Commerce-sponsored clinic conducted here several years ago.

While a combined community and youth center still qualifies as one of the major community needs, let us not forget another pressing need, and right now perhaps the most critical one — adequate housing.

For the last few years, the Post community has suffered from a housing shortage, and the situation is getting worse instead of better. The reason, of course, is that nothing is being done to relieve the situation in the way of new housing.

So, we hope the new city council puts the housing shortage right up at the top of the agenda of projects they need to do something about — and fast. They can do this at the same time they are giving their support and assistance to a community-youth center and working on other projects confronting them.

The city council indicated a few weeks ago to one prospective housing developer that it is willing to help in the development of new housing. We do not feel the change in personnel on the council will alter this position.

In fact, the housing shortage has become so acute here, that, in our opinion, the council should make every effort to encourage a development project instead of just waiting for one to come before it. — CD

Where do you find Nixies?

First we had the pixies, then we had the gremlins, and now we have the Nixies.

The first two, according to folklore, were mysterious little elves who often were blamed for accidents and other mishaps.

The Nixie, however, is a new breed. Where is he to be found? Why, in the Postal Service of course. But if you think Nixies are elves who are the cause of your check being late — you're wrong.

The Nixies are a breed of Postal Service employees who handle the thousands of packages and letters that come in daily with incomplete or illegible addresses or have been misdirected or damaged.

The Nixies must figure out where the mail was supposed to go and see that it gets there.

In small towns, such as Post, as one Nixie admits, the job is not all that difficult. Most of the postal employees in rural areas know their customers and they deliver the mail to the right person no matter what it says on the address. For instance, one Nixie (not in Post) received a letter addressed to "Cookie, ask Smitty." The Nixie knew a letter carrier by the name of Smitty. Smitty knew a tavern owner named Cookie. So, Cookie got his mail.

In large metropolitan areas the personal touch disappears, and a Nixie clerk has to be part detective and part jigsaw puzzle expert. Of course, an intimate knowledge of the community and its various segments is a necessity.

One of the greatest Nixie achievements occurred last year in Chicago. A commercial airliner crashed on approach to the Chicago airport. It was carrying 1,400 pounds of mail which was damaged by fire and water. A team of Nixies went to work putting the pieces together and 98 per cent of the damaged mail was delivered.

Now if they could only get that letter delivered across town as fast as they do the one that goes down in a crash . . . Anyway, three cheers for the Nixies.

Maybe no runoff election

As predicted earlier, this might be one of the quietest election years in Garza County's history. A close inspection of the first Democratic primary ballot shows that there is only one race that might force a runoff election on June 1.

That one race that might prove to be the "fly in the ointment" is the one for governor, in which there are four candidates. The only two prominent ones politically, of course, are Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who is seeking a second term, and Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, who forced Briscoe into a runoff two years ago.

In this one race, however, the votes polled by the two lesser known candidates — Steve S. Alexander and W. H. Posey — could force a runoff again this year between Briscoe and Mrs. Farenthold.

Not having a second runoff election in this county would solve one big problem — that of financing it. Financing the two Democratic primaries was a big headache for the state in 1972 after the candidate financing fee law was changed, and is going to be a headache again this year in those counties where a runoff election is necessary. Chances are good, however, that Garza County won't be one of them. If it is, the second primary ballot will be one of the shortest, if not the shortest, ever picked up by a voter in a Garza County election. — CD

SINCE VERY FEW major political candidates bother to stop in Post anymore, Frances "Sissy" Farenthold's visit this Friday will be a big event here. Her Garza County campaign manager, Margie Wilson, says Mrs. Farenthold will speak at the courthouse square at about noon or shortly thereafter and then be hosted at a luncheon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. David N. Newby.

Whether you are a supporter of Mrs. Farenthold for governor or not (and I hope you are), you should go hear her speak tomorrow, since she thinks enough of us and our town to pay us a campaign visit. Her major opponent, Gov. Dolph Briscoe, will be in Lubbock Friday, but, according to a news release of his schedule for that day, he will "whistle" right on through Post, with Snyder his next stop after Lubbock.

THE MAN UP the street says a luxury becomes a necessity when you are able to make a down payment on it.

A few weeks ago I ran a story Secretary of Agriculture Butz told of a Snadley Clabberhorn who learned that just being alive can be hazardous to your health. One of my readers said he enjoyed the story, but that he has a better one, which follows:

Don't drink water. The stuff is dangerous. There may be nitrates in it or traces of radio-activity — no matter how purified. Water can also drown you. Or cause you to slip in the bathtub and break your neck. In fact, if you want to live a "safe" life there is little you can do besides lay down and die.

Don't eat sugar; there is a correlation between blanched foods and cancer. Refined flour and rice carry the same hazard.

Don't eat eggs or apples or carrots or rice or oats or barley or plums or cherries or garlic or wheat bran, or wheat germ or safflower oil, or soybean oil, or corn oil, or honey — they contain estrogens. Don't eat vegetables for the same reason.

Don't breathe. You inhale carbon dioxide, carbon monoxide or oxides of nitrogen and sulphur.

Obviously, don't drive or ride in an automobile; in the United States 50,000 persons a year are killed by autos.

Don't eat salt — it elevates your blood pressure.

Don't eat rutabaga, turnips, cabbage, spinach and carrots. They may be goitrogenic.

Don't farm — it has been named one of the three most dangerous occupations. If you ignore this advice, don't use any machinery — it causes thousands of accidents.

Don't go outside when it is icy . . . accidents.

Let the livestock go hungry. Stay in the house unless you have a gas stove — the fumes can kill you.

Don't switch to a microwave oven. Those rays may cause cancer. Don't turn on the TV for the same reason.

Finally, DON'T READ THIS . . . you might have a nervous breakdown.

Observe these few helpful hints on living, and 1976 is most likely in your future.

THIS IS FROM George Dolan's column in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram by way of Jay Harris' column in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal:

Two fellows driving into Mexico were arguing over how to pronounce the name of the town. They stopped there to get something to eat, and one of the fellows asked the waitress, "How do you pronounce the name of this place?" Looking levelly at the customer, the waitress replied, "Dairy Queen."

The following, written by James Ball Naylor (whoever he is), was clipped and left on my desk by someone:

King David and King Solomon led merry, merry lives;

They had many, many lady friends and many, many wives;

But when old age crept upon them with many, many quails,

King Solomon wrote the Proverbs and King David wrote the Psalms.

The Face of God or The New Face of Satan

By Edgar L. Fox

In eons past, before the advent of man, one of the angels of God made a boast. He said, "I will raise my throne above the stars of God . . . I will make myself like the Most High." (Isaiah 14:13-14) This angel was Lucifer, the star of the morning, who was cast out of heaven by God. Many times, Satan skillfully disguises his plans and purposes, for remember we are warned that he is transformed into an "angel of light." (2 Corinthians 11:24)

He used many faces today, many disguises. But underneath it all, he is still the adversary. The "roaring lion seeking someone to devour." (1 Peter 5:8)

He is not always as blatantly open as when he confronted Jesus and tried to get Jesus to fall down and worship him. He can come in a variety of ways, including the most innocent looking ones in the world!

This is what is happening in America today on the occult scene.

In Montana, a twenty-two year old social worker picked up a hitchhiker near Yellowstone National Park. The rider shot his victim in the back of the head, cut off his head, arms and legs, and then ate some of the heart. He told police he worshiped Satan.

In New Jersey, a 20-year-old factory worker induced two teenager friends to assist him in killing himself so that he could come back in another life to lead 40 legions of demons.

These may seem like extreme cases but they had their start somewhere. Perhaps they even started in a so-called "search for truth," or in someone's search for kicks.

In Leviticus 20:6, Our God says "As for the person who turns to mediums and to spiritists . . . I will also set my face against that person and will cut him off from among his people." Judgment is promised again in Malachi 3:5: "Them I will draw near to you for judgment; and I will be a swift witness against the sorcerers . . . says the Lord of host."

People who have made their peace with God through Christ Jesus need not fear the occult. Second Timothy 1:7 declares, "For God has not given us a spirit of timidity, but of power and love and discipline."

Two HECE students describe their work

Deborah Medlin is a senior at Post High School. I have been in HECE for four years. In my first year to be in HECE because I knew I would be able to take on the responsibilities of a job. On the first day of HECE in August at Collier Drug Store as a food service worker. My duties are to wait on customers and to help them with their orders. I don't work any other time. I also clean all the time. I also help with the store. I have learned a lot from HECE. It is a good teacher to have. I love the people I work with. I wouldn't know what to do without HECE. I have learned, but after HECE it is easy. I don't think I can do it for any other job. In my work I have the opportunity to meet people and I am able to talk to them, to serve them.

Nancy Cendalski, a senior at Post High School. I have been in HECE for three years. However, in the first year I had HECE at the Snak-Shak as a food service employee under the supervision of Mrs. Rosi Horton and the manager, Mr. Wayne Thomas. The reason I took HECE was to learn how to earn my own money and how to take on my own responsibilities. I do a variety of things at the Snak Shak, such as wait on customers, fill out their orders, fix things for the next day, and clean up afterwards. From this working experience I have learned to get along with people better by having patience with the customers and getting along with my fellow workers. One of the main things I have accomplished is making a lot of new friends. I feel I have learned quite a bit from HECE and really like working where I do.

MRS. ROGER NELSON (Lari Sims)

Listening Post

By GEORGE L. MILLER

I had a rude awakening the other day. I met with the Lubbock Area Library Advisory Council to discuss some budget plans for the next year and heard what the per capita tax support is for libraries in Texas.

Would you believe .004 of a cent per year? Less than one half cent per person per year! Lord knows what Texas accomplishes in achieving the Good Life. Oil wells by the thousands pumping black gold out of the earth surely makes our state one of the richest in the country.

And where oil is scarce, there's always cotton blooming. We may not lead the nation with our cotton production, but we can't be that far behind the leader.

Then there is cattle — and chemicals — and space travel — and you name it. We live well here, we prosper, we have class, we promote fine colleges and universities, we aspire to cultural leadership.

And we have the distinction to rank 50th out of 50 states in our support of public libraries!

There may be good cause for this, I don't know.

Maybe we're facing some sacred economic law that ordains that libraries shall be starved out of existence in the state of Texas.

Or we may be facing some kind of social law that says libraries poison the minds of youth, or some equally heinous crime. I just don't know.

I have an inkling that the true cause is apathy and misplaced values. A striking building erected for the purpose of making money, is worshipped by all. A struggling library trying to provide a service to the community isn't as visual, it's harder to show how it has made a profit for the town or the state.

Therefore, it must not be very important.

Here in Post we somehow failed to learn that lesson. We had the mistaken notion that a library was not only desirable, it was important enough that we were willing to roll up our sleeves and build one.

Built with volunteer effort at first, it was given some backing by our city and county and slowly but surely it grew. Eight years later, it is a proud accomplishment, a medal for the town.

Now we discover that we are out of step with the state. We have used our funds unwisely, our values have been wrong. Surely if we were in step, we wouldn't have thrown all that effort and money away on a luxury and a waste. We would have made do with passing around pocket books from hand to hand (after all, they are readily available to any grocery store in town aren't they?) Who needs a library?

—O—

Well, thank God, we were wrong. We didn't know it, but we were.

We said, "We need a library." Not just a building, not just books, not just the salary for a librarian — we need a library, a service, a vital nerve center that can collect and store information and make it available for anyone who needs it.

We saw the need, and we went after it.

I haven't stopped to count pennies to see how well we're supporting that library. I hope it's better than the state average. Whatever we're putting into it, we're getting our money's worth and then some, in the quality of service our library provides.

So I hope we know what a jewel we've got here. I hope we appreciate the fact that we're out of step with the state — and that we stay out of step!

Most of all, I hope that we are proud to have a library and support it with our all. Let's lead the state showing them what can and should be done, to provide library service for our town!

MRS. RANDEL BOWLER

Potluck by Rosemary Chapman

Did anyone other than myself get taken in by the TV commercials for "The National Star" last week? I could hardly wait to get my hands on a copy so I could read all about "Nixon's Last Shaky Line of Defense" and "The Jackie Nobody Knows". A better headline might have been "There's a Sucker Born Every Minute."

—O—

I mean, really, does anyone particularly care whether or not Jackie Kennedy Onassis has her clothes and shoes in various world residences arranged, filed, and catalogued for special use and in ascending color tones? The fact that Mrs. Onassis bought Ari 365 ties for Christmas — one for each day of the year — also leaves me cold. Earl would leave home if I bought him one tie for Christmas, less what 365.

—O—

As for "Nixon's Last Shaky Line of Defense," I could shake Nixon up more than "The National Star" did and if he doesn't start co-operating more with me, Congress and Leon Jaworski, I'm going to.

—O—

Say! Enjoyed all the clever telephone calls and comments about the Academy Awards column two weeks ago. (It's always nice to be agreed with.) I particularly liked Lou Marks' comment that Cher Bono has to show her belly button on all the TV shows because she doesn't have anything else to show. Lou added, "That woman is nothing but a bag of bones."

—O—

Dot Purdue said that her husband quit watching the awards ten minutes after they started. He read a good book instead while she, like several million other idiots, stuck it out to the bitter end. I'll bet Dot's husband didn't run out and buy a copy of "The National Star" either.

—O—

The Lubbock Museum is sponsoring a fund-raising tennis exhibition at 1:30 p. m. Sunday, May 5, in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum. Two pros, Cliff Richey of San Angelo and Torben Ulrich of Denmark will play, but the best part about it is that they will team up with Lubbock's Bob McKenna and Post's Bob Macy for one match. Macy will be Richey's doubles partner.

—O—

It should be a good match. Jackie-O said that she and Ari wouldn't miss it for the world and if you want tickets too, call the Museum (742-3151) or beginning April 22, go by Furr's Family Center or the South Plains Mall.

Consumer Credit — A 3-PARTY SYSTEM

It involves (1) the consumer, the person who buys merchandise or service on credit; (2) the credit grantor, the business which sells goods or services to the consumer; and (3) the credit bureau, an organization which maintains a comprehensive record of the consumers paying habits and makes sure this record is readily available when and where the consumer needs it.

The credit bureau is such an important part of this triangle because credit grantors cannot afford to sell goods or services on credit or to extend loans unless they have some assurance that the consumers will keep their part of the bargain by paying as agreed.

Obviously, not all consumers and credit grantors can be personally acquainted with one another. It's also obvious the cost would be enormous if each credit grantor had to gather all the necessary credit information on each prospective consumer.

Such a practice would not only make the cost of granting credit prohibitive, but also cause the consumer a great deal of delay and inconvenience.

The Post Antelopes' sprint relay team, miler Mark Bevers, half-miler Chris Wyatt, sprinter Dennis McDonald and long jumper Edward Price will compete this Friday and

"We feel each of our boys who will be competing at Odessa has a good chance to qualify for the state meet," Coach Tannehill said Tuesday.

Saturday, the Post qualifiers competed in an invitational meet at Mason, which attracted some of the best athletes in West Texas. The Antelopes' best showing came on Bevers' third place in the mile run in a time of 4:45.7.

Chris Wyatt placed sixth in the 880-yard run in a time of 2:03.3. The 440-yard relay team was disqualified because of a baton handoff in the wrong lane.

In the regional meet at Odessa this weekend, the sprint relay team of Mike Shepherd, Edward Price, Joe Moore and Dennis McDonald will compete in the preliminaries at 4 p. m. Friday, and if it qualifies will run in the finals at 1 p. m. Saturday.

Preliminaries in the 100-yard dash will be at 4:50 p. m. Friday and in the 220-yard dash at 5:45 p. m. If McDonald qualifies, he will be in the 100 finals at 1:45 p. m. Saturday and the 220-finals at 2:30 p. m.

Community Improvement program making strides

COLLEGE STATION — The Texas Community Improvement Program is alive and well, instilling pride and lending a hand to community leaders "to help them help themselves."

For more than 20 years the Texas Agricultural Extension Service along with the investor-owned electric utility companies of the state have sponsored the annual program for rural communities of 1,000 people or less.

"This year 191 communities representing 75 counties have enrolled in the program," points out Garland Marshall, community improvement specialist for the Extension Service. "These communities have ongoing, organized programs of community participation and involvement flowing from innumerable family activities and improvements that boost their well-being."

The Texas A&M University System specialist notes that the main incentive for these communities is to grow and develop within themselves so that they will be a better place in which to live. Furthermore, numerous cash awards sponsored by the utility companies are available to those that make the biggest strides and work together as effective units in reaching goals they have set for themselves. Cash awards will total $7,375 this year, with the top community in the state winning $650 to use in furthering its program.

A total of 372 communities conducted some form of organized activities during 1973, points out Marshall. Almost 1,000 communities have centers in which to participate in organized activities. Many of these have been constructed through efforts of the TCIP.

Regarding the scope of training programs in community improvement, Marshall notes, "The Extension Service in cooperation with some of the investor-owned utility companies has conducted leadership training for local community members in more than 700 locations during the past year.

Cash moves up on all-time home run list

Norm Cash's home run Monday, which enabled the Detroit Tigers to blank the Boston Red Sox, 1-0, moved the veteran Detroit first baseman up to 21st place on the all-time major league home run list, just ahead of the late Gil Hodges.

The Justiceburg native and former Post High School athlete, has over 500 home runs. Monday's was his first of the young 1974 season.

The 39-year-old Cash has been starting at first base in most of the Tigers' recent games. He showed enthusiasm early for the new season by reporting to Detroit's spring training camp even ahead of the pitchers.

WRITES FROM PANAMA
Dear friends:
I just wanted to take a few minutes to tell you at the Post Dispatch how much we enjoy getting the hometown paper to keep up on all the latest news of Post and Postites. Although we receive the paper about a month later than it is published, we enjoy it and read it as though it were today's local news.

We have spent the past four years in Panama and the Canal Zone with Special Forces. We will be returning this summer to Post for a few days to visit friends and family. We have enjoyed our stay in Panama, but are anxious to see everyone in Post and the surrounding area.

It is interesting to compare prices of groceries in Post with our commissary prices. About the only thing that is more expensive in Post is ground beef. Here, 5 lbs. of flour is 96 cents, 10 lbs. of potatoes, $1.80; one can tuna fish, 69 cents; one lb. bacon, $1.89; one lb. sausage, $1.45.

Of course, bananas are only 7 cents per pound at the market, but we also have some of our own banana trees. Gasoline in Panama is close to $1.00 per gallon for regular; regular is such a low grade gas here that even VW's can't use it! Gas on the post isn't but 49 cents per gallon.

We are almost through dry season here and the weather has been beautiful. April begins rainy season that will last until November or December. During rainy season we average 180 inches of rain. The first year we were here the sun did not shine during the month of October at all.

This has been an interesting four years with all the political interest in Panama and all the places to see in the area. We've met people from Midland, Tex., while we were here, and from all over Texas. Whenever someone asks our home state, we say "Texas." Then they ask where in Texas, and we start out with, "Well, do you know where Dallas is?" "Do you know where Amarillo is?" "Do you remember ever hearing of Lubbock?" Usually, we only get past the first question and have to explain where Post is in relation to Dallas. But it's been fun and we've met a lot of fellow Texans to talk to and talk about Texans and how we miss them.

Guess this letter had better stop or we'll never make it with one air mail stamp. Keep the papers coming!

Algae-eating fish can be answer to pond ecology

Most man-made problems in farm ponds often create problems more serious and sometimes deadly to life in the pond. Algae growth often stifles a farm pond, causing over-population of some species and starvation to game fish because small fish (their food) are heavily protected.

There are some herbicides that will effectively destroy the algae without damaging the fish. But the after-effects can often be disastrous to your fish. As the plant life decays, oxygen is used and poisonous gases are produced. If the algae kill is quick enough, the pond literally becomes a cesspool and the chance for fish survival is small.

There are fish that eat algae. That seems to be the answer. Put some fish in the pond that eat algae. If these fish are good to eat by man or other fish, then we have converted the algae into desirable food.

There are many fish that serve this purpose, but there always seems to be a problem. Maybe the fish are undesirable to eat, such as carp and goldfish, and grow so fast that they crowd out game fish. Maybe the fish reproduce so fast and require so little oxygen that the game fish suffocate.

It would be good if there was a fish that would eat algae, reproduce when three inches long, grow to five inches in one year, be good to eat, and when the pond gets too crowded, reduce automatically and start over. There is a fish often called St. Peter's fish (a native of the Sea of Galilee) that can do so much to balance the ecology in a farm pond and has many of these characteristics.

carry through June.

Maddera told directors that reports from Washington indicate that Congress appears to favor the three-year extension, but the senate does not have the votes to override a presidential veto so compromising efforts are being attempted to get a bill through in the next 90 days which both the President and the Congress will accept.

Maddera said the family planning program for the association is expected to be fully refunded for a new year in June and he obtained the board's permission to set up permanent clinics at several locations. Post is not included as one of these as physicians here have made arrangements to handle the necessary examinations.

The board authorized the expenditure of $2,000 to make repairs on a community action building in Tahoka, and granted Maddera's requests for various items of equipment, including those for the permanent clinics.

Maddera reported 12 school districts in the association area have signed up for 1974 summer Head Start programs.

Thad McDonnell of Levelland was re-elected president of the board in the annual election.

Attending the session from Post was Jim Cornish.

"There are lots of misconceptions about what the problem is in the energy crisis," Haddox said, going ahead to point out that the dramatic doubling of the world population in the last 44 years and its predicting doubling again by shortly after 2,000 has just increased the demand for energy like it has for everything else.

"We're having food prices jumping and cotton prices higher than ever before because of short world supply," Haddox said. "The U. S. today is importing almost all of the strategic metals it uses except iron because we're running out of these things in this country."

Haddox concluded his talk with the admonition, "Let get together and work it out."

Guests of E. R. (Buster) Moreland at the luncheon besides Haddox were Jeff Robinson of Highland Resources at Houston, Art Gibson, a supply company representative from Midland, and S. E. Windham, Billy Joe Dorner and Neal Chazy, all of Post.

Blanchard here visiting voters

State Senator H. J. (Doc) Blanchard and his wife, of Lubbock, were honored with a "campaign coffee" in the bank community room from 4 to 5:30 p. m. Monday.

Blanchard spent considerable time during the campaign event discussing the gasoline rationing situation in his district.

He pointed out his opponent is citing his absence on some votes at the constitutional convention in Austin but that any absences he has from the convention floor have been in efforts to secure more gasoline in emergency situations for his constituents.

He said that Borden County only has two service stations and recently both were completely out of gas, which virtually brought to a halt oil production in that county.

Blanchard said Odessa which is the center of one of the world's richest oil fields was virtually "out of gas too" and federal bureaucrats couldn't understand why drilling crews had to drive up to 150 miles a day to work.

The state senator said the state of Texas has set aside five per cent of its gasoline allocation for emergency use.

He recently was back in the nation's capital trying to pry more gasoline allocations loose for Texas.

PRICES TO REBOUND
Prices of feeder and fat cattle should increase by April or May, believes a livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Choice slaughter steer prices should move up to the $48-$50 range, and feeder prices should reach last year's levels. Present low prices are due to overfat cattle in feedlots, the trucking strike, fuel shortages, retailers lowering wholesale prices in order to widen margins, and past government controls. The increased demand for beef should help bring up prices to producers in the next few years.
