Carter resumes campaigning, visits Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — President Jimmy Carter returned to the campaign trail Monday, capping a three-state fund-raising swing with a stop in conservative, Republican Dallas where he surveyed a drought-stricken farm and helped local Democrats fatten party coffers.

Arriving at Dallas Love Field 30 minutes late due to the area's first rainstorm in 29 days, Carter and reporters boarded a squadron of Marine helicopters and flew to a farm outside Justin, about 30 miles north of Dallas, where the president saw crops ruined by a searing heat wave.

"My heart goes out to you and I wanted to come here to dramatize for the rest of the nation the practical effect of the intense heat wave that has stricken most of Texas," he said.

Carter assured farm owners Olen and Myrtle Range he would hasten the flow of federal dollars to the sun-scorched Lone Star state, then called on the Almighty for additional relief from the blistering heat.

"We'll be praying for rain and cooler weather," the president told the Ranges.

He then traveled to Union Station, a renovated train depot in downtown Dallas, to be greeted by a handful of anti-draft protesters and about 1,000 supporters who each paid $10 and waved signs that read: "Thanks for the rain, Mr. President."

Obliquely acknowledging the anti-draft protesters, Carter said, "Today is the first day of registration for our young men to make sure that in the future that if we are challenged, we will be able to defend ourselves. We do not anticipate departing from a full volunteer military force. We are registering... just in case we are challenged in the future."

The president also noted the United States has "respected the rights of all peoples throughout the world. Our commitment to human rights will never change and that is what we believe in," he said.

At that point, a 29-year-old member of the American Communist Workers Party was dragged from the meeting hall by a Carter supporter after shouting denials of the president's statement.

"All is not right with American today," Oran McMichael yelled. "Today marks the day that the American working class youths are called on to give their lives for a few rich folks."

The man later was questioned by Secret Service agents, then released. Later McMichael, a machinist for a Houston oil company, said he traveled to Dallas to "serve notice to the politicians and let them know that the American people will not stand for war, the draft or terrorism."

The President's motorcade then traveled to the North Dallas home of Jess Hay, former Carter campaign finance manager and former national finance chairman for the Democratic Party, for a private, $5,000-per-couple reception.

Four-year-old Dallas resident Erin Nowlin takes a close look at a business venture inspired both by recent hot weather and Carter's Texas visit. Neighborhood children set up a soft drink stand near the site of a $5,000 per couple fund raiser — and even offered the president a free sample. (AP Laserphoto)

Texas plans to appeal alien ruling

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorney General Mark White said today the state of Texas will appeal a federal court decision that knocks down a state law and opens public school doors for thousands of illegal alien children.

And a national Hispanic leader says the appeal can only damage relations between Texas and Mexico.

U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals struck down the state law that blocked children of undocumented workers from enrollment, saying children excluded from school suffer "great harm."

"The statute absolutely deprives undocumented children of access to education, thereby causing them great harm," U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals wrote Monday in a ruling that paves the way for undocumented children to attend public school.

The landmark ruling orders four school districts in South Texas to admit illegal aliens Sept. 1 and enjoins the Texas Education Commissioner from enforcing the law statewide. Texas is the only state that excludes illegal aliens from state education funding.

The reaction from government and school officials and minority leaders in the state was immediate and strong.

Ruben Bonilla, national president of the League of United Latin American Citizens said he sent White a telegram today urging the state to "accept the ruling." A short time later, White announced he would appeal.

"An appeal would reflect an attitude of indifference," Bonilla said. "The decision reached (by Seals) is a landmark decision bringing Texas back in line with the concept of equal opportunity."

Gov. Bill Clements said he did not think Seals' ruling was "a proper one."

"I don't agree with it," he said of the decision. "It's not equitable. It's a contradiction in terms that goes beyond a legal ruling. Until the illegal alien question is solved, this is a peripheral issue."

Texas Education Commissioner Alton Bowen earlier had estimated opening schools to illegal alien children would cost taxpayers $100 million a year.

"I don't know of any crisis that measures up to this in my six years here," said Billy Reagan, Houston Independent School District superintendent.

Reagan said he will ask his school board to seek federal impact funds to help state school districts cope with the additional students.

"Certain parts of the state are going to be tremendously hurt," Reagan added.

He said HISD would have few financial problems absorbing an estimated 5,000 to 7,000 illegal alien children, but noted that the hardest-hit schools would be along the Texas-Mexico border.

School attorney Kelly Frels said a decision on appealing the ruling would be made later this week, but attorneys for the state earlier said they definitely would appeal an unfavorable decision.

Frels said officials might ask for a stay of the order, to give school districts time to plan for the additional students.

The Texas statute gave schools the choice of refusing to admit undocumented children, or admitting them by charging tuition.

In his ruling, Seals noted that an amendment passed in 1975 to the law effectively excluded the children from school.

"Although some school districts continue to educate all children," Seals wrote, "the majority exclude them (undocumented children) or require tuition."

Seals noted national immigration quotas are "disregarded" and that many illegal aliens come to the United States to become permanent residents.

Congress urged to avoid tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary G. William Miller cautioned Congress today that hasty action to cut taxes in this election year could make it even more difficult to stop inflation and reverse the economic recession.

However, Miller held out the hope of a tax cut in 1981. "If designed with care and deliberation as part of an over-all economic program, such action may well improve our economic performance over the next several years," he said.

Miller was the first witness as the House Ways and Means Committee, reacting to Republican calls for immediate action on tax cuts, opened hearings on whether any tax reduction is desirable given the state of the economy.

The chairman of the committee, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., said voters are telling him they support efforts to hold down federal spending and reduce the budget deficit in an effort to conquer inflation.

"They very clearly understand that tax cuts increase deficits and deficits increase inflation — as well as interest rates," Ullman said. "In my travels the message is becoming increasingly blunt: 'We don't want a political tax cut.'"

The hearings were scheduled after Republicans and their presidential nominee, Ronald Reagan, called for passage this summer of a $36-billion tax cut, which, starting next Jan. 1, would reduce individual income-tax rates by an average of 10 percent.

Miller said backers of any such across-the-board tax reduction should weigh its effects on inflation.

"Over the past 15 years, every period of economic expansion has driven the rate of inflation to new heights at the top of the (business) cycle," he said. "The ensuing periods of contraction have temporarily lowered the rate of inflation, but each time the rate of inflation at the trough has been higher than before."

President Carter and his advisers say any action to reduce taxes should be delayed until next year, when they predict the current recession will have reached bottom and a recovery will have started.

The president met with congressional leaders today but there were differing reports on whether a consensus was reached on a 1981 tax cut.

Sen. Russell Long, who favors a tax cut beginning Jan. 1, told reporters after the meeting that "we are not at war or at odds... perhaps we will coalesce."

Sen. Wendell Ford, D-Ky., said in a separate interview that "the basic consensus of the group" was that there would be no stampede "into any political tax cut."

"So a political tax cut is basically out," Ford reported.

Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he believed a tax withholding reduction should begin Jan. 1 "and that we ought to do something about depreciation and that ought to apply to orders that are being placed now." He would not say how large a tax cut he favors.

He described the sentiments at the meeting by saying, "We weren't in total agreement, but we weren't in total disagreement either."

The White House repeated its position that now is not the time to consider a tax cut when it released its mid-year economic review Monday.

"The administration believes strongly that the last months of a congressional session, in an election year, are not the time to make the judicious decisions needed for a skillfully designed tax program to improve economic performance," said James T. McIntyre Jr., director of the White House Office of Management and Budget.

Unless a tax cut is of the kind that will increase investment and productivity, Carter's advisers say, it is likely to worsen inflation.

In the new review of the economy, the administration said unemployment is likely to reach 8.5 percent of the work force by the end of 1980 and remain near that level most of 1981. The rate was 7.7 percent in June.

A tax cut traditionally has been the federal government's basic prescription for fighting unemployment. But the situation is different this year, say Carter's advisers, because of persistent inflation.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation faces a painfully slow recovery from recession, with unemployment stuck at 8.5 percent through 1981 and pocketbooks continually hit by double-digit inflation, the Carter administration says.

An even gloomier picture of the economy is painted by the Congressional Budget Office, which is expected to predict about a 9 percent unemployment rate when its forecast is released Wednesday, sources said Monday.

The Carter administration released its revised economic outlook Monday, and it was drastically different than the original estimates in March, casting out any hope of a balanced budget for fiscal 1981, which starts Oct. 1.

The administration now is predicting:

—A $30 billion budget deficit for fiscal 1981, a far cry from the $16.5 billion surplus projected in March.

—A $61 billion deficit for fiscal 1980, up from the $36.5 billion gap expected in March.

—A 3.1 percent decline in the nation's overall economy between last year's fourth quarter and this year's fourth quarter, followed by only a 2.6 percent rebound next year — the slowest recovery from a recession since World War II.

—Consumer prices will rise 12 percent between 1979's fourth quarter and 1980's last three months — slightly better than the 12.8 percent pace predicted in March — and a 10 percent jump next year, a little worse than the earlier expectations.

—Unemployment will rise from its 7.7 percent now to 8.5 percent by year's end, putting almost a million more people out of work, and will not improve during 1981.

Despite the dismal forecast, administration officials said there will be no proposal for a tax cut to stimulate the economy at this time.

"It is quite likely a tax cut will be desirable in 1981," said James T. McIntyre Jr., director of the Office of Management and Budget. But he added, "The administration believes strongly that the last months of a congressional session, in an election year, are not the time to make the judicious decisions needed for a skillfully designed tax program to improve economic performance."

Charles Schultz, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, said the administration can "gain considerable advantage in waiting" so the president can work carefully with Congress on a tax reduction aimed at spurring investment and productivity, he said.

That view was sharply disputed by two private economists, who said the faster a tax cut is enacted, the better.

Registration of 20-year-old men continues; 175 sign up Monday

The second day of military draft registration for 20-year-old men was to resume today in Midland post offices, which on Monday registered 175 men for the U.S. Selective Service System.

The count included those who registered at the main downtown post office and at U.S. Postal Service's Graves and Village stations.

Next week, 19-year-old men are to register for the draft, and 18-year-old prospective inductees are to register in January.

An estimated 2,000 Midland County men are expected to register for the new draft in the next two weeks. Nationwide, 4 million 18-, 19- and 20-year-old men are to be placed on the Selective Service System rolls.

Plans to expand Petroleum Center Office Complex, which won't be completed until September, were announced by the I.D.P. Corp. Two more buildings will be added at the site on North A Street and Wadley Avenue.

Complex to add office buildings

Firm notes 'increased demand' for space

Two more office buildings will be going up in a complex near Midland Air Park, according to an announcement by the I.D.P. Corp.

The new structures will be an addition to Petroleum Center Office Complex at the intersection of North A Street and Wadley Avenue. The first two, which were announced in April 1979, should be completed by the end of September, said a spokesman for the corporation.

Total cost of the two new buildings is $6 million. Each building will have 127,000 square feet. Construction should begin about Nov. 1 with completion date in late September 1981.

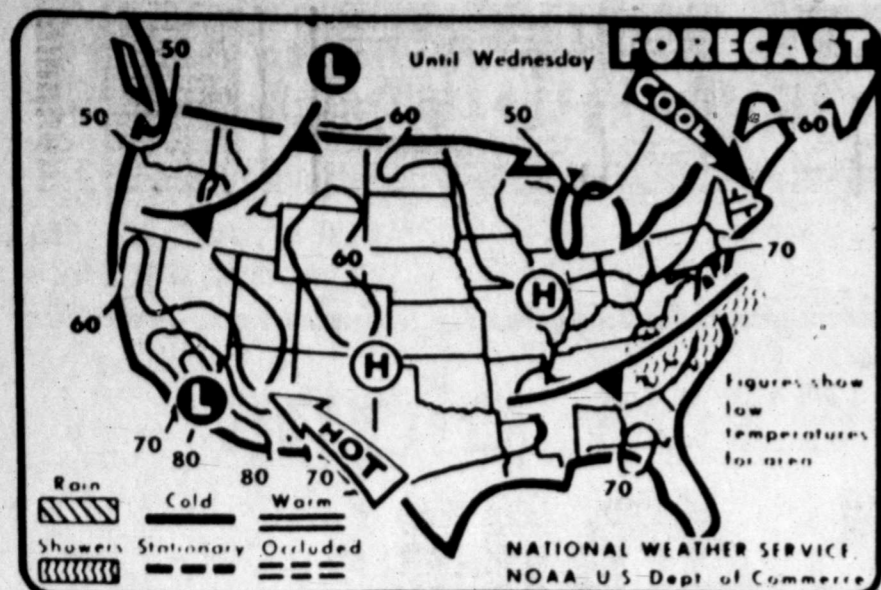

The additional offices are in answer to "an increased demand and phenomenal response to quality office space," said the spokesman. The offices were described as "push, with marble walls and marble floors." Each two-story office will be off-white in color with black glass.

Interiors will feature a center atrium. Executive suites will be located in the circular areas located in the center of each side of the buildings.

The four-building complex, when completed, will stretch over a 10-acre site. The buildings will take up four acres while parking will be provided on the remaining six acres.

INS grants asylum to 12-year-old boy

CHICAGO (AP) — Soviet-born Walter Polovchak ran away from home last week when he heard his family was considering returning to the Ukraine. Now the 12-year-old has been granted political asylum in the United States, a decision his mother calls "ridiculous."

The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service Monday granted political asylum to the boy, making his wish to stay in America no longer contingent on whether his parents leave or stay, said Verne Jervis, an INS spokesman in Washington.

Walter has said he wants to stay in Chicago because "here is better than my country," and his lawyer, Julian E. Kulas, said the boy was "very pleased" about the INS decision. But Kulas also said the "doesn't solve the entire problem."

"Now, the boy may not be taken out of the United States against his will. But the question of custody will not be resolved until July 30," Kulas said.

"I really hope that now the father will change his mind about going back and stay here a little longer," he said. "He may feel better about the country the longer he stays. But I think Walter's best interests are served if he is permitted to stay."

Walter's father, Michael, could not be reached for comment, but his mother, Anna, told The Chicago Tribune: "You mean a government is telling a mother what to do with her son? That's ridiculous!"

Walter emigrated to Chicago in January with his parents, brother and sister, Natalie, 17, who was traveling on her own passport and has decided to stay in the United States.

When he learned last week that his parents planned to return to the Soviet Union, he ran away and moved in with a relative here.

Police found Walter and took him to a district police station, but when his father tried to retrieve him, police called the State Department, which issued a temporary order keeping the boy in the United States until a court hearing could be held.

"I would rather never again see my parents than leave Chicago," the boy said then. "I want to stay here. I have new friends, a nice school, a bicycle I fixed myself, and I don't want to be sent back. Here is better than my country."

Circuit Judge Joseph C. Mooney on Saturday ordered the boy be placed in state custody pending a final hearing July 30. At that hearing, the judge will decide whether to return the boy to his parents or allow him to stay with two Ukrainian-born aunts here.

Even if his parents retain custody, however, they may not take him back to the Soviet Union against his will.

In the meantime, the boy will continue to live with a Ukrainian-American family in the area, Kulas said.

Jervis said Walter could apply for a permanent visa after a year, and Kulas said the boy would do so.

Kulas said over the weekend that Soviet authorities had told the elder Polovchak that because his two sons were on the couple's visa, both must accompany the parents or the family would not be allowed to return to the Ukraine.

However, Kulas said the granting of political asylum separates Walter from his family's passport, paying the way for Polovchak, his wife and their youngest child, Michael Jr., 6, to return to the Soviet Union.

Freed hostage says, until release, he knew nothing of rescue attempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Queen says he felt "like Rip Van Winkle" during the eight months he was held hostage by Iranian militants in Tehran. Queen says he didn't know until he was freed July 11 that a U.S. military rescue effort had been mounted last April 24.

After the raid, which was canceled before reaching Tehran and left eight servicemen dead when a transport plane and a helicopter collided in the Iranian desert, the militants threatened harm to the 53 hostages if any further rescue attempt was made.

But Queen told his fellow State Department employees Monday that "the conditions for me did not really change."

Queen, although saying he didn't know the specifics of the raid until he was freed, said he was vaguely aware of some event. He said the hostages thought the United States had "planned something" and then "called it off."

Despite statements by the Iranians that they scattered the hostages around Iran after the rescue mission, Queen gave no indication he was aware of the transfer of any of his colleagues away from the U.S. Embassy area in Tehran.

Queen told a news conference Monday that he was kept for three months in a windowless basement. He said, however, that he does not know how all the other hostages were treated.

Queen, who was released because he suffers from multiple sclerosis, was scheduled to meet today with the families of some of the hostages.

He has been undergoing treatment at the Georgetown University Medical Center and may be released soon, doctors say, to return to his home in Maine.

The woman, Rhonda Christi Worley, also was fined $250, ordered to make $50 in restitution and to pay $87.30 in court costs.

Chevron energy report:

VAST OIL POTENTIAL IN THE U.S.

-- untapped and unavailable.

Excessive government restrictions on public lands are preventing much needed energy development.

Most energy experts in both industry and government agree: there may be as much oil in the U.S. still to be produced — much of it undiscovered — as America has produced in its entire history.

The U.S. may still have as much unproduced and undiscovered oil as has been produced in America's entire history.

An estimated 2/3 of this undiscovered oil supply, as well as other energy sources, is beneath public lands. But our government, in responding to the environmental concerns we all share, has overreacted in making more and more of these lands off-limits to energy development and many other uses.

These lands can be managed to accommodate our need for food, timber, recreation, minerals and energy, as well as our need for a healthy environment.

Chevron, for instance, has been producing oil and natural gas safely for years in environmentally delicate places, such as a bird refuge, a moose sanctuary and off-shore fishing areas. The animals and their habitats have flourished.

America's untapped energy potential can play a major role in reducing our dependence on foreign energy supplies, so we can't afford to make land with such vast energy potential off-limits. Doing so is like locking the door to America's future.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

The anatomy of a White House scandal

WASHINGTON — Investigators for the Senate Judiciary Committee have painstakingly pieced together the story behind fugitive financier Robert Vesco's attempt to buy his way out of trouble in Washington.

Jack Anderson

The investigation was ordered by Sens. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., and Orrin Hatch R-Utah, in response to charges that the Justice Department obstructed a two-year grand jury inquiry into the case.

House aide Richard Harden all about the millions he expected to collect for helping Vesco. Both men later swore under oath that Harden had persuaded Lee to abandon the scheme.

JUNE 1977 — Before Vesco would make the payoff, he demanded "a signal to show that the Carter administration was doing something about his legal problems."

MAY 1978 — Meanwhile, R.L. Herring came under federal investigation on unrelated fraud charges. In a desperate attempt to stop an indictment,

CHARLEY REESE

Powers' CIA book shows shabby political leadership

Thomas Powers' book, "The Man Who Kept the Secrets," is about the Central Intelligence Agency. What shows through, however, is shabby political leadership.

Charley Reese

I don't believe the author intended this result. He almost brushes over it and keeps his focus on the CIA and on Richard Helms, a career spook who became director during the Johnson Administration.

Yet from his rather detailed account of CIA ventures in Chile, Cuba and Vietnam there emerges a clear pattern of failure at the top by elected politicians who frankly weren't worthy of the professionals they commanded.

In retrospect, the decline of the United States began in 1960 with the election of John Kennedy. It has continued unabated through the administrations of Lyndon Johnson, Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter.

It's true, the CIA sometimes failed to accomplish what it was asked to do; sometimes, the CIA simply made mistakes; but often when there was a failure, there was a failure because either the politicians did not listen to the professionals or waited too long before they acted or when they did act, they did less than they should have.

The Bay of Pigs provides a good example. The original mission approved by Eisenhower was the insertion of a 25-man force to form a nucleus of a resistance movement. Between the election and Kennedy's inauguration and in the early days of his administration, the project grew into an invasion force of nearly 2,000 men backed up by air strikes.

This was the work of dilettantes. If it was going to be a military operation, then the CIA had no business running it. And if it was going to be a military invasion of an island defended by a substantial army, then the U.S. Army should have led it, not Cuban exiles. Yet Kennedy and his advisors refused to face these decisions.

Even after the invasion was compromised by the loss of a briefcase in Mexico and even after there was an indication Castro knew it was coming (he began a massive roundup of dissidents a week before the invasion date), no one at the top had the courage to abort the operation.

Obviously what was happening was a case of decision by indecision which carried right through until 1,500 men, stranded on a beach, were denied the air support without which everyone agreed in advance the mission would be a disaster. And it was a disaster, a deep, public humiliation of a great power by a two-bit communist dictator.

Why did Sen. Frank Church virtually destroy the CIA as an effective institution? To get his name in the news in preparation for his presidential run. Why did the Congress cut off military aid to Southeast Asia? To placate liberal critics at home. Why did Nixon opt for the volunteer army, which is a disaster? To defuse the campus protests.

If you count the steps in our decline since 1960: Cuba, Southeast Asia, Africa, Iran, the loss of military superiority, OPEC, and inflation, every single one of them can be traced directly to decisions made by the civilian political leadership.

Military power, industrial power, and the best intelligence agency in the world are as nothing in the absence of political will to use them decisively to achieve clearly defined objectives. If the 1980 elections fail to produce leaders who can put their country ahead of their own political ambitions, the Soviet Union will defeat us.

INSIDE REPORT:

Reagan should have pushed for a pro-ERA plank

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

DETROIT — Had they another chance, Ronald Reagan's political advisers would stand up to the wrath of Phyllis Schlafly and push for reaffirming the 1976 platform plank that endorsed the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA).

"Except for Phyllis," one Reagan insider told us, "all the real pressure on ERA comes from the pro side ... just like all the pressure on the abortion question comes from the anti side." Therefore, strictly in terms of hard practical politics, Reagan would have been best off to push for an anti-abortion plank (as he did) and a pro-ERA plank (as he did not).

Reagan's political high command feels newspaper and television obsession with ERA has hurt with women who might otherwise vote for Reagan. While the right might complain, Reagan advisers in hindsight believe that the strong anti-abortion plank would satisfy them no matter what happened on ERA.

REAGAN'S WARNING During a private talk with party leaders, Ronald Reagan referred to polling statistics that gravely disturbed his audience: Reagan, not President Carter, may suffer the most from Rep. John Anderson's independent candidacy.

ans stand to lose the most because of him. A footnote: One reason right-wing haters of Henry Kissinger were persuaded not to demonstrate against his speech to the convention Tuesday night was a poll, taken for the Republican National Committee, showing a 68 percent national popularity rating that is higher than any other Republican, including Ronald Reagan.

COMPLAINTS ABOUT CASEY Reagan campaign manager William J. Casey is being rapped by Reagan political operatives for making a deal during his recent trip to Europe that he could not deliver: a promise that Americans living overseas would have a voice in the selection of the party's presidential ticket.

Casey, a hard-working, tough New York lawyer, has still not managed to satisfy Reagan's regional political directors (known as RPDs) that he really knows his new trade of political management. On the organizational chart of the Reagan campaign, 34 state and territorial chairmen plus the 19 RPDs report directly to Casey.

One reason for the unhappiness of the RPDs: They have yet to see the fall campaign road map, which pollster and political adviser Richard Writhlin is supposed to be perfecting. Now that the convention is over, they are hoping strategy for the fall campaign may soon emerge.

NO WHEELS When Republican National Chairman William Brock heard that Reagan-Ford negotiations over the vice presidency were breaking down, he asked two early participants in the talks — Sens. Howard Baker and Robert Dole — to rush from Joe Louis Arena to the Detroit Plaza Hotel for emergency help.

But when the two Republican worthies left the convention, they could not find a car to take them back to the hotel. They were stranded. In fact, it was too late; by the time they would have arrived, the impasse between Reagan and Ford could not be resolved.

RHODE ISLAND DEADLOCK Of all reports of Jimmy Carter's decline sweeping through this Republican convention city, the most startling was about his precipitous decline in overwhelmingly Democratic Rhode Island that has produced a three-way tie with Ronald Reagan and John Anderson.

In late winter, various surveys put President Carter 20 to 30 percentage points ahead in Rhode Island. A new private poll shows a virtual three-way deadlock: Carter, 28 percent; Reagan, 27 percent; Anderson, 27 percent, undecided, 18 percent. An even race in Rhode Island projects to a national landslide for Reagan if the election were held today.

DID HEINZ FLUB?

Presenting Republican Senate candidates to the convention Tuesday night, Sen. John Heinz of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, was distracted by the wildly waving Idaho standard: He had failed to mention Rep. Steve Symms, who has a 50-50 chance of beating Democratic Sen. Frank Church, a very special Republican nemesis.

When he saw the standard, Heinz quickly paid tribute to Symms, who stayed home in Idaho, campaigning during the convention. Heinz may have been following orders from convention managers in praising only those candidates physically present on the platform. But considering the importance of the Symms-Church contest, some delegates strongly criticized the omission.

Drugs available now over counter

Dear Dr. Solomon: I understand that some drugs that required a prescription now don't require one. Is this true and is it safe? — Mr. G.P.N.

Dear Mr. N.: It's true, and safe. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has recommended that certain drugs that it has found to be safe no longer require a prescription. This lowers the price of these drugs and eliminates unnecessary visits to doctors' offices. Examples include decongestant nasal sprays, antihistamines and anti-acne preparations. It's important to read labels carefully, though, and use these drugs only as recommended.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I realize that cancer can spread from one part of the body to another, but I don't understand how. Can you explain? — Dot

Dear Dot: Cancer cells growing in one part of the body can be carried to other parts of the body through the lymph channels and blood vessels. Lymph is a clear fluid that is collected from tissues throughout the body and eventually is added to the blood.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am a high school senior, active in three sports. I expect to play ball in college and, later, as a professional. I realize the difficulty in achieving this goal, and am also concentrating on my studies. However, I feel I'd have a pretty good spot in basketball except that I seem to be getting more nearsighted. I have tried wearing contact lenses but have never been able to get used to them. Do you know of any method to prevent or even reverse nearsightedness? — Ken nearsightedness which was developed in the Soviet Union about six years ago, is being used on an experimental basis in the United States. The procedure, called radial keratotomy, involves cutting microscopic slits in the cornea of the eye to weaken it. The theory is that internal pressure will then tend to flatten the curve in the eyeball which is causing the nearsightedness.

Dear Ken: An operation to correct

Dr. Leeds Katzen, chief of ophthalmology at Mercy Hospital in Baltimore, is one of about 25 physicians performing the operation. But says it often does away with the need for eyeglasses or contact lenses.

Dr. Katzen is part of a group of surgeons throughout the United States who are studying the procedure. He warns that a great deal of research is needed before the operation can be considered safe and effective for general use.

The procedure takes about 20 minutes. Patients generally experience a mild irritation for a day or two, but can return to work in less than a week. Complications are said to be rare, although some bleeding and infection occasionally occur.

The operation has not been embraced wholeheartedly by all physicians. Critics contend that it is inadvisable to perform surgery on a healthy eye for a condition that can be corrected with eyeglasses or contact lenses. Moreover, the technique is too new for an evaluation of long-term results.

(If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Slomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Lights dim on nation's film stages as TV actors join screen strike

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Prime-time television actors joined the Screen Actors Guild strike today, and floodlights were doused on film stages from New York to Los Angeles to "Dallas."

The American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, which represents most of the nation's prime-time TV actors, joined the SAG walkout at 12:01 a.m., assuring a shutdown of film and TV production in this country and on American movie locations around the world.

If it lasts long enough, the walkout could send film and TV executives scurrying for a substitute product — and could prevent Americans from finding out as scheduled just who shot dastardly J.R. Ewing.

AFTRA members voted to strike at meetings in Los Angeles in New York Monday.

Even after the strike began today, talks continued between the unions and the Association of Motion Picture and TV Producers. Negotiations recessed at 12:30 a.m. PDT, but were to resume later today.

"As long as we're making progress we'll continue to meet," said Alan Davis, director of AFTRA's western section. "The issues that were on the table when the strike went into effect last night are still on the table. As to how long the strike will be, that's anybody's guess."

Monday's SAG strike alone was enough to turn studio back lots eerily quiet and cancel on-location filming.

Burt Reynolds reportedly left a New York movie set as the strike began, while stars Candice Bergen and Jacqueline Bisset, on location in New York, were told to "go back to bed." Among those television actors not working today were Polly Holiday of "Flo" and Ricardo Montalban of "Fantasy Island."

AFTRA's strike could seriously hurt producers in the midst of shooting for the new fall TV season. Unaffected are game shows, soap operas and network newscasts, whose AFTRA personnel are covered by different contracts.

"We're shut down," said Lee Rich, whose Lorimar Productions produces the wildly popular "Dallas" nighttime soap opera. The show is expected to open its fall season by telling fans who shot the character J.R. Ewing at the end of the last season.

"We've shot parts of a lot of episodes of 'Dallas,' but have nothing completed," said Rich.

"If it (the strike) is a short-run thing, it will have virtually no impact," said a CBS spokesman Monday. "If it's protracted, it will have a very serious impact. Anything further on than a week would be progressively worse."

An NBC spokesman said there had been "no interruption in NBC's programming." He added that the network had a big backlog of shows with which to try to ride out a prolonged strike.

One source speculated that if the strike lasts more than 30 days, the TV networks would be forced to make earlier-than-planned forays into their stock of first-run theatrical films and to go shopping for foreign-produced TV shows.

"NBC, CBS, ABC have a large amount of theatrical films which they haven't shown yet," said Lee Isgur, entertainment analyst at Mitchell Hutchins in New York.

As for potential advertiser revenue loss to the networks, Isgur said: "They (the advertisers) don't have too many places to go."

At issue are SAG-AFTRA's joint negotiations for a new three-year contract with the major film studios, the three major TV networks and independent producers.

Negotiations for a new contract began May 19 but broke off June 30, the day the old pact expired. The contract was extended indefinitely, but on July 16, a strike was authorized by a 91 percent vote. Talks did not resume until Thursday.

SAG and AFTRA are seeking a 40 percent increase in minimum scales, which are now $225 a day and $785 a week, and 12 percent of the gross revenues from such things as pay TV, video recorders and video discs. The unions say the cost of living has risen 35 percent since the last pact. In 1979, the unions say, almost 90 percent of their members earned less than $10,000.

The unions also want improved fringe benefits, including the creation of dental and optical plans.

Producers have offered an 8.4 percent scale increase in the first year of the contract, but want actors working on original pay TV and other "supplemental market" productions to be paid 80 percent of scale. The producers are willing to pay actors a share of their gross receipts for sales of TV shows and films to the supplemental markets, but have balked at the 12 percent sought by the unions.

SAG members in TV commercials struck for six weeks in 1978-79. The last film strike was in 1960, led by SAG President Ronald Reagan, now the Republican presidential nominee.

Sellers hospitalized following heart attack

LONDON (AP) — Actor Peter Sellers was reported in grave condition at a London hospital today after suffering a heart attack at the plush Dorchester Hotel.

The 54-year-old Sellers has suffered a string of heart attacks over the past six years. The last was in May in Dublin, where he was hospitalized for several days. In 1977 he was fitted with a pacemaker.

A spokesman at the Dorchester, home for visiting royalty, tycoons and movie stars, said Sellers checked in Saturday with his secretary, Michael Jeffries.

After being stricken at the hotel today, he was rushed to a hospital where a spokesman said he was "gravely ill."

Culver Youth Home reopened as houseparents take post

Culver Youth Home, Midland County's detention center for juveniles, reopened today after county officials succeeded in their search for new houseparents.

The home was closed July 1 after houseparents Howard and Clystene Williams left. The Williams told county officials June 16 they would not renew their contract option after the initial six-month trial period. They had been employed on a six-month probationary period, to see if they and the county found it satisfactory.

Officially, the Williams listed an opportunity to open their own business as their reason for leaving. Unofficially, the couple found the job extremely confining, since one of them was required to be at the home at all times.

The houseparents' job includes supervising the juveniles at the home. Last year the home had an average attendance of five juveniles at any one time.

County Juvenile Probation Officer Grover Green late in June said the outlook was grim for finding new house parents before the Williams left. And shortly after that, Culver Youth Home was closed.

On Friday, county officials hired a couple from Odessa, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Clayton, as the new houseparents. They began their job today. Only three juveniles were taken into custody while Culver was closed. They were picked up Friday and held in City Jail until this morning when they could be transferred to the youth home.

According to Green, the Claytons had lived in Odessa previously, moved to Missouri and recently returned to Odessa. They are a young couple, in their late 20s.

"We hope it works out real good," he added.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices staged another vigorous rally today as government officials said inflation fighting remained a key priority and as Exxon Corp. reported second-quarter earnings of more than $1 billion.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which is at its highest level in more than three years, climbed 8.19 to 936.86 in the first two hours of trading.

Advances led declines by a 2-1 margin in New York Stock Exchange trading.

Exxon said its profits rose 25 percent, far below the first quarter gain of 102 percent, as rising prices spurred conservation by motorists.

Exxon rose 3/8 to 72 1/2 after the earnings were announced.

Eastman Kodak, which announced it is entering the clinical chemistry market with a new blood analyzer, was up 1/2 to 54 1/2.

Engelhard Minerals, which reported higher earnings on Monday, rose 1 to 35 1/2.

Big Board volume totaled 22.72 million shares in the first two hours of trading, compared to 19.00 million at the same point Monday. The NYSE's composite index rose .39 to 70.49.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 1.07 at 313.11.

Board will recommend hike in insurance rates

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—State Insurance Board statisticians will recommend a 19.8 percent average increase Wednesday in private passenger car insurance rates.

If approved by the three-member board, the increase would raise Texans' total premiums by an estimated $257 million a year.

Board staff members will present their detailed recommendations to the board Wednesday at the annual automobile insurance hearing.

Insurance companies are expected to request an even larger increase.

"It looks like the worst in 10 years," said Clint Dure, manager of the Texas office of the Insurance Information Institute.

The board trimmed or avoided rate increases in some past years by tinkering with deductibles or the formula for predicting future accident costs from past experience.

But board member Lyndon Olson Jr. indicated there was little chance of that this year.

"My expectation has been that we are not going to play games with people for any political purposes... If the economy is this bad and the data is this bad and justifies that big a rate increase, we'll just have to bite the bullet," Olson said Monday.

Rates are based largely upon statistics on the number of insured accidents and the cost of fixing cars, treating the injured and burying the dead.

A driver's premium increase probably will differ from the average because of variables in his or her age, hometown, coverage and usage.

Board staff recommendations would raise premiums in all 40 rating territories, with increases ranging from a low of 2.9 percent in Tom Green County (San Angelo) to a high of 25.5 percent in Rockwall County northeast of Dallas.

Statewide average changes recommended by the staff for the various categories of coverage are:

- Basic $10,000-$20,000 bodily injury liability, down 1 percent.
- Excess limits bodily injury liability, down 14.8 percent.
- Basic $5,000 property damage liability, up 26.7 percent.
- Personal Injury Protection, up 14.9 percent.
- Medical payments, up 15.1 percent.
- Uninsured motorists, up 23.5 percent.
- Fire, theft and miscellaneous, up 27.6 percent.
- Full coverage comprehensive, up 26.7 percent.
- $50-deductible comprehensive, up 26 percent.
- $200-deductible collision, up 19.5 percent.

In Texas, the board issues uniform rates but allows companies to deviate from them after proving there will be no danger to an insurer's solvency.

Here are the proposed premium increases for typical adult drivers who buy basic liability, $5,000 Personal Injury Protection, $200-deductible collision and $50-deductible comprehensive, by rating territory:

- Harris County, $61.
- Dallas County, $56.

Alaska lands effort slowed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators trying to strengthen environmental rules in the big Alaska wilderness bill were slowed today when an Alaska senator began throwing parliamentary roadblocks before debate even began.

Democratic Sen. Mike Gravel first argued that the proposed amendment was not in line with Senate rules.

Then, after the amendment was ruled to be in order, he demanded that the Senate clerk "read the whole cotton-picking thing" so he and other senators could be sure what was in it.

Reading of the lengthy document was expected to take at least an hour.

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., chief proponent of the amendment which would add to the state's wildlife refuge acreage, acknowledged that several changes had been made from the printed version distributed earlier to all senators.

Hart said Gravel had been informed of every change, but Gravel said he still wanted the amendment read "and it might be very edifying."

Klansmen acquitted, another convicted

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—An all-white jury today acquitted two Ku Klux Klansmen and convicted a third on a reduced charge in the shotgun wounding of four black women outside a downtown tavern.

Marshall Thrash was fined $225 and given two workhouse sentences of nine months each and another of two months on his conviction of two counts of assault and battery and one count simple assault.

William Church, imperial wizard of the Justice Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, and Larry Payne were found innocent by the jury.

The three Klansmen had pleaded innocent to four counts each of assault with intent to commit murder which resulted in bodily injury. Each count carried a maximum penalty of five years to life imprisonment.

Defense lawyers had urged the jurors not to consider how their verdict would affect racial relations in Chattanooga.

The six-man, six-woman jury had deliberated 3 1/2 hours Monday night without reaching a verdict.

In the April 19 incident, four women were hit with shotgun pellets fired from a moving car as they walked from a tavern in a predominantly black neighborhood. They have recovered.

Leroy Phillips, lawyer for defendant Marshall Thrash, told jurors Monday it would be an "injustice" to decide the defendants' guilt or inno-

Sex Education

Classroom theory gives way to practical reality when Coach Reeves teaches a sex education class dealing with sexually transmitted diseases and Thorpe (Kevin Hooks, right) confesses to Coach Reeves (Ken Howard) that he might be afflicted with V.D., on "The White Shadow," to be rebroadcast Tuesday, July 22, on CBS.

When the disease proves to have been spread to others, the situation threatens to explode. Thomas Carter, who appears regularly in the role of Hayward, made his directorial debut with the teleplay written by Sam Heffer.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Those born on this date are optimistic, sincere and hard-working. Changes are in the wind where career is concerned and most of them will work to your advantage. Relatives will provide both happy and troublesome moments, but a child could disappoint if better lines of communication are not developed. In romance, be careful not to mistake sympathy for love! Involvement with someone who does not share your goals, outlook would be a serious mistake. Control temper when dealing with those who oppose you. Sweet reason wins out!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Meet all obligations, deadlines on time. Any mistakes at work should be corrected at earliest opportunity.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Go over financial affairs carefully. Handle a sensitive colleague with "kid gloves." Work atmosphere becomes more harmonious. Use leisure time to improve relations with a close relative.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be circumspect about repeating rumors. They could explode in your face! Keep business dealings aboveboard. Temper emotional response with logic. Make important points in professional and personal arguments, debates.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Short visits, journeys are featured. Realize that it takes two to argue! Unruffled determination means the difference between a passing squabble and a long-term feud. Associate could be nursing a secret grudge.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Financial affairs are susceptible to profitable rearrangement today. Seek more information about unclear situation. Romantic partner may have made a greater commitment than you realize.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Follow up on a recent application. Apply for permit, visa or license. Friends are eager to share new plans, schemes. Spend the evening with someone who shares your interests, goals.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Career matters should take precedence over personal affairs today. Work behind the scenes to further pet project. Refuse to be talked into lowering your standards!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov.

21): Business, career affairs demand top priority. Put forth your best effort! Member of the opposite sex figures prominently in your financial plans. Expect more money and responsibility at work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Study spending patterns before attempting to revise budget. A mid-week journey could mean extra income. Brief message from unexpected source gives new inspiration.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A quiet working environment helps you make a decision about an employment matter. Contact superiors regarding future changes. Talk over family problems with mate, not co-workers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Distant affairs may appear in dubious light. Launch low-key, personal investigation. Go over accounts, bank statements. Someone who has asked a lot of favors in the past gets in touch with you again.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Postpone the signing of important papers. Time could be running out on an excellent opportunity. Check with distant contacts for accurate information. Mixing with a new social group could be fun.

GOREN BRIDGE

There is a strong temptation to continue with the ace of hearts. Partner's ten might be the start of a high-low signal, or it could be a singleton, or from ten and a higher honor. In any case, it should be obvious to West that it would be dangerous to continue with the ace of hearts for fear of setting up declarer's queen for a diamond discard, or of giving declarer time to utilize dummy's long suit. Observing the club strength in dummy, West lazily shifted to that suit. East won the king, and reverted to a heart, but that was all the defenders could get.

If partner has the king of clubs, there is no hurry to collect it. A moment's reflection should make it clear that, unless the defense can take a diamond trick, there is not much chance of defeating the contract. West must hope that his partner has the king of clubs and queen of diamonds, and shift to a low diamond at trick two. Now the defenders can get a diamond trick as well.

Among the sayings of the wise handed down to us from the days of whist is one to which we would like to take strong exception. It is: "Lead through strength." To attack the enemy at his strongest point seems equally unsound whether it takes place on battlegrounds, on football fields, or at the table. The simplest and, it would seem, the most effective strategy is to pick off tricks before declarer gets his big guns into action. Today's hand is a typical example.

The bidding was short and to the point. South had a normal one spade opening bid and West had an equally sound two heart overcall. With such a fine fit for his partner's major, North felt there was no point in introducing his club suit and, since he was not prepared to play below game, he made a forcing jump raise. South could do no more than continue on to game.

The opening lead was the king of hearts. East followed with the ten and South contributed the nine. The defense stands or falls on West's lead at trick two.

Lighten walls to make dark rooms larger

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. We have small dark rooms in our apartment and old, dark brown vinyl squares on the floor. The vinyl is covered with worn-out carpeting that needs to be removed.

We can do whatever we want to the floors and paint as we like. What might you suggest? We can do the work ourselves if it isn't too difficult.

A. To make small dark rooms seem more attractive and larger you should lighten the walls, ceiling and floor of your apartment and let in as much natural light as you have. Then add artificial lighting as needed.

Off-white or beige walls immediately look clean and sparkling and provide a neutral background for nearly any color scheme you wish to establish.

For the floor, consider a number of options. If the floor tiles are in good condition and not broken, you could add off-white or beige vinyl squares on top. The peel and stick variety are available in quite a few colors now and are reasonably easy to install. They are not the heaviest and most durable but they should look fine for a couple of years.

Another option might be to lay inexpensive wood planking down on the floor and give it a heavy coat of off-white paint and seal with several coats of polyurethane.

Still a third option is to use carpeting—either peel and stick squares or traditional carpeting which you can find to fit most any budget. If you use the light and neutral colors for your floor and walls, add color and drama to your room with bright and interesting fabrics for upholstery and give attention to dramatic accessories.

Q. We've recently painted our walls an off-white and re-sanded the oak floor so it is a light color. Our furniture includes some rosewood and fruitwood finishes plus a beige velvet striped chair and an oatmeal and beige tweed sofa.

I'd like a rug. What kind and color should we use with so much neutral coloring. I think I might like some bright color. We like rather contemporary things. — W.Y.M.

A. You have almost unlimited choices in the type of rug you might use. You could create a very sophisticated look keeping to a monochromatic scheme of beiges and wood tones by choosing a beige-on-beige rug design. Some are multi-height piles or others are sculpted to give interesting textural qualities.

Or you could choose a dramatically modern design like a shaggy rya rug from Scandinavia with a variety of browns, beiges and off-whites.

Still another choice might be a brightly colored and patterned red Persian or a more subtly colored Chinese rug in traditionally more subdued designs.

Finally, you might consider a technique used frequently by interior designers: choose one carpeting color for a rug-size piece and have a border of a contrasting carpeting bound to the edges. This allows the coordination of colors in the room and can be a relatively inexpensive way to create a custom look if you choose medium to low priced carpeting. The edges then need to be bound for a finished look.

Office plants need attention

STREAMWOOD, Ill. (AP) — The best plants for an office must withstand neglect and not take up large amounts of space on cluttered desks or in walkways.

Office hazards to consider when selecting plants include poor lighting, lack of air circulation, and drafts from air conditioning.

Dick Husby, marketing manager of Garden Scene planterware, says plastic pots are good containers for office plants, because they retain moisture longer than other pots. Also, plastic pots have a variety of colors and shapes to blend with office decor.

After years of being shut-ins, elderly now count on 'social' visits

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ida Gurien, 76, leaves her south Philadelphia apartment once a year, to visit the grave of her husband, Sam.

Being a shut-in, Mrs. Gurien's only other contact with the outside world until two years ago was through occasional visits from old friends.

But now she and other elderly shut-ins can count on regular visits from social workers of the Albert Einstein Medical Center's Daroff Division.

Through a special program, the hospital has, in effect, adopted hundreds of elderly and indigent south Philadelphia residents, giving care that few community hospitals are able to provide.

THE HOSPITAL'S SOCIAL work staff found these people by spending two years knocking on doors and scanning organization membership lists, hospital records and neighbors' referrals.

Mrs. Gurien says she thinks of Betty Bregg, her social worker, "as a friend."

Once a week for the last two years, Mrs. Bregg, 36, has aided Mrs. Gurien. She has helped the woman cope with the Internal Revenue Service and the Social Security Administration; chided her for eating more candy than she should with a mild diabetic condition, and arranged for a professional homemaker to come weekly to help with household chores.

This is not how most hospitals approach medical care. But at Daroff, community service is regarded not only as decent policy, but as a way to prove that it deserves to survive.

A program to replace its building, built around 1920, will be considered in the next few months by the Health Systems Agency of Southeastern Pennsylvania, a regional planning agency. Then a committee of HSA board members will decide the fate of the hospital sometime in the fall.

IT IS BECAUSE the outlook for Daroff seemed dim a few years ago that hospital officials sought ways to improve. Daroff had difficulty recruiting doctors and nurses and was considered the poor stepister of the Einstein hospital's Northern Division, which has much more sophisticated technology, a teaching program, and is in better shape financially.

About four years ago Daroff hired consultants who "undertook a very intensive analysis of our role to determine our reason for being," said Warren Green, the hospital's administrator.

The consultants decided community service was the answer. The result is a staff of 12 social workers, about three times the size of such staffs at comparable hospitals, said Joanne Schwartz, director of community service.

The hospital's program includes a cardiac rehabilitation program of exercise and group therapy to help heart patients; a psychiatric department with a 58-bed in-patient unit and an out-patient day hospital that handled 18,900 visits last year; a work rehabilitation program for alcohol and drug patients; and the isolated elderly program involving about 550 people.

"Until we actually got out there, a lot of people weren't known to agencies — only if the people picked themselves up and called for help," said Norma Rotman, who supervised the two-year search for the isolated senior citizens.

"If they did not call, nobody looked for them," she added.

Program gives parents information, but lacks in emotional help

CHICAGO (AP) — Doctors who counsel parents about birth defects usually do a good job of providing medical information but are much less effective in helping parents deal with the emotions that may come when a child is born with a defect, a new study says.

The study, commissioned by the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation, was conducted by Dr. James Sorenson, associate professor of sociomedical sciences at the Boston University School of Medicine, and Drs. Norman A. Scotch and Judith P. Swazey, also of Boston University. Its findings were reported in this week's issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

More than 2,200 people over a five-year period were asked why they were going to genetic counseling sessions, then asked after the sessions whether their concerns had been satisfactorily discussed.

The study found that couples attend counseling to obtain a variety of information, such as a diagnosis for one child or one member of the couple, the prognosis for a birth defect in an

AT WIT'S END Saying 'no' is nothing original

By ERMA BOMBECK

I come from a family of pioneers. My mother invented guilt in 1936. My dad dedicated his life to trying to get nail holes in the wall to heal themselves.

And according to my children, I introduced the word "No" to the Western world. (Before that time parents used "We'll see.") Their theory is that at first I only used the word to get attention. Then I started to enjoy it and today it's such a habit I say "No" before they even ask the question. It's a distinction I don't deserve. I am not the first mother in North America to use the word "No." In fact, there is no doubt in my mind that when historians decipher cave markings of prehistoric cave dwellers and discover etched in a rock a plaintive, "Mom! Can I eat the leftover bear?" her response chiseled below will translate into, "No! I'm saving it for lunch!"

The word "No" is finally gaining the respectability among child psychologists it has so long deserved. Some of them are at last spreading the word that "No" means love and character building.

When I told my kids this, they said they already had more character than Mt. Rushmore.

They never understood me. They always thought I got some kind of a cheap thrill out of saying, "No, you can't drift down the Ohio River in a plastic dishpan," and watching them fall around over furniture staring at me with the contempt usually reserved for a mother who picks her children up by the ears.

I don't expect anyone to ever fully appreciate that a mother makes more decisions in one morning than the Supreme Court makes in three years.

"Can I borrow your camera to take to a beach party?"

"You wanta chaperone our three-day-two-night prom?"

"Can I pierce the dog's ears?"

"Will you tell me where you hid the book that condenses every novel ever written so I won't have to read this whole book tonight for my report?"

"Can I wear what I've got on?"

"Can't I stay here for a week by myself?"

"Do you want me to grow up hating you?"

I went shopping with my daughter the other day and as I pulled on a bathing suit I turned around and said, "What do you think? Should I buy it?"

She shook her head and said, "No."

"Why not?" I demanded.

"Because your entire body looks like it needs pressing in it. I'm saying no because I love you and it will build your character."

Somehow, it sounded better when I said it.

DEAR ABBY

Whole country's gone to dogs barking

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Concerning your advice to the Richmond man who asked what could be done about barking dogs: Calling the police won't work. A barking dog was driving me crazy, night and day, so I called the police. An officer came to my house and told me there was nothing I could do about it. He then suggested I simply trap or shoot it. Personally, I don't think it's very sporting to hunt domesticated animals, so what's my next move? — PERPLEXED IN PLAINVILLE

P.S. Abby, Plainville, Kan., has a population of about 3,000, and there's an ordinance here against discharging firearms inside the city limits, where I live.

DEAR ABBY: If you want peace and quiet, away from the noise of barking dogs, don't move to Bel Air, Calif. They will investigate your complaint by coming out to see if the dog is being neglected or abused in any way. And if it is, they will help the dog and fine the owner! — NO DOG LOVER

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to the Richmond, Va., man whose peace was disturbed by barking dogs wasn't worth much.

"Call the police" you say. Really now, Abby, I don't know where you live, but here in Santa Rosa, the police will do nothing. Believe me, I know. We've been forced to move twice because of barking dogs — San Francisco and once in Hayward. I've called the police, the Humane Society, Animal Control and the SPCA, and learned that dogs have more rights than people. — CALIF. DOG HATER

DEAR ABBY: You are naive when it comes to trying to get relief from the barking dogs by calling your police department. We had that problem. I called the police and they refused to come out. I called my lawyer and even my county prosecutor. I was informed by both that there is no law about barking dogs. If a PERSON disturbs the peace or creates a nuisance, the police will come out, but they won't come out for a complaint against a dog unless it has bitten someone.

At first I talked nicely to the dog owner. That didn't work, so I talked nastily to him. He vandalized my property and has trained his dog to bark whenever he sees me. — HELL IN ERIE, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to stick in my two cents worth concerning one of the most frustrating of all frustrations — barking dogs. I seem to recall that a few years ago, Johnny Carson was going crazy because one of his neighbors had a couple of dogs who took to barking late at night and early in the morning. I think Johnny said he asked his neighbors in a nice way to please keep their dogs quiet, but the dogs kept on barking, so Johnny took his neighbor to court. If I'm not mistaken, I think Carson lost the case. So, if Johnny Carson with all his clout can't get anywhere, that poor guy down in Richmond, Va., doesn't have a prayer. — INSOMNIAC IN LONG BEACH

DEAR INSOMNIAC: A few years ago, Johnny Carson DID have trouble with a neighbor's barking dogs, but the case never went to trial. A ruling was handed down that either the owners of the barking dogs had to keep them indoors at night and during the early morning hours when the prolonged barking took place or hire a trainer to keep the dogs under control. Since nothing further has been heard from Carson, I assume that nothing further was heard from the dogs.

Bani-Sadr takes oath today, hostage decision may be soon

By The Associated Press

To shouts of "God is great!" Iran's President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr took a formal oath of office before the new Iranian Parliament today. He is expected to nominate a prime minister Wednesday, after which the Parliament could take up the question of what to do with Iran's 52 American hostages.

Today was their 262nd day in captivity.

The U.S. State Department said Monday the Iranian prosecutor-general's office claimed it has no record showing the revolutionary government was holding a 33rd American, freelance journalist Cynthia Dwyer of Buffalo, N.Y. But officials in Washington said the department still believes she is held in Iran and has asked urgently for clarification.

Mrs. Dwyer was arrested May 5, and the Iranian Foreign Ministry confirmed four days later that she had been detained. State Department officials said it was possible she was being held by one of the vigilante-style Islamic courts that mushroomed after the overthrow of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

"It's distressing, but we have to hope she'll turn up," said Mrs. Dwyer's husband, John, an English professor at the State University of New York at Buffalo. The couple have three children.

Bani-Sadr was elected president last Jan. 25, and was sworn into office by revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini 10 days later. But the new Iranian constitution requires that he take the oath before the Parliament, or Majlis, which did not become fully functional until Sunday, with the election of militant Moslem cleric Hajjatoleslam Ali Akbar Rafsanjani as speaker.

The president vowed to defend Iran's Islamic republican system and "to devote myself to serve the people and promote the country," said a report by the official Iranian news agency Pars.

At the end of the brief ceremony, Majlis deputies shouted, "Allahu Akhbar!" — "God is great."

Bani-Sadr has not revealed his choice for prime minister. The nominee must be approved by the Majlis, which is controlled by the clergy-dominated Islamic Republican Party. The IRP, led by Ayatollah Mohammad Beheshti, has been engaged in a power struggle with Bani-Sadr and his followers.

Khomeini sent a message to the Majlis this week criticizing Bani-Sadr's current government for its "indecisiveness" and telling the Majlis it "must decide on a government which is 100 percent Islamic and not accept any minister like some of the present ministers."

Iranian leaders have said the Majlis will take up the hostage issue after the selection of ministers. But some anti-American militants have suggested putting off the debate until the fall.

In another development, reports from Tehran said three of five foreign television journalists seized Monday by revolutionary guardsmen were released today. The Tehran newspaper Ettelaat quoted a guards' spokesman as saying the foreign newsmen had been sending news to the United States secretly, and "that is a kind of espionage."

One of those freed today, Scot Chisholm of Visnews, told a Tehran reporter that a revolutionary guard leader said he and the two others released — John Conner and Simon Maxwell of UP-ITN — would be able to continue working in Tehran. But the two men still in custody — Carl Sorenson of Danish television and Turkish television newsmen Hamm Sami — would be expelled.

Sorenson and Sami had been doing work for an American network, the guard leader reportedly said.

Leaders seek blockade to stop junta

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivian political and labor leaders called today for an international economic blockade to help bring down the military junta that overthrew the civilian government last week.

The Committee for the Defense of Democracy, in a statement distributed secretly to embassies, accused Gen. Luis Garcia Meza's forces of executing opponents and dumping their bodies in common graves; arresting or driving into hiding hundreds of politicians and union leaders, depriving Bolivians of all but official versions of the news and censoring reports by foreign correspondents.

The military regime has admitted only two dead since the coup last Thursday and has refused to say how many persons have been arrested. Reliable sources have reported at least four additional fatalities.

The committee, formed last year amid rumors of an impending coup by ultra-conservative military officers, also asked all nations to withhold recognition of the military chiefs who overthrew interim President Lydia Gueiler to block the election of leftist ex-President Hernan Siles Zuazo to succeed her.

"No government that is at all humanistic could recognize a bunch of uniformed psychopaths," said the statement, which was signed by five members of the committee. Most of the committee were in hiding.

As of Monday night, no government had recognized the new regime and the takeover had been condemned by the United States and democratically governed nations in Latin America. The United States said it was cutting off military aid to Bolivia but would continue "humanitarian" aid.

The general strike called last Friday to undermine the military regime was only partially effective in downtown La Paz on Monday. But despite the junta's threat to fire anyone who did not report for work, nearly all businesses were closed outside the city center and many streets were barricaded. Little public transport was available, and many people jammed aboard passing trucks to make their way through the city.

Juan Lechin, the leader of the tin miners who disappeared after the coup, broadcast an appeal to end the strike and not to resist the junta. It was assumed that he was coerced into making the broadcast.

In the slum areas on the hills around the city, people jeered and whistled at military patrols in tanks and armored cars.

Despite the imposition of martial law, sporadic street fighting continued at night in La Paz, and more fighting was reported in the southern tin-mining areas.

Troops fired automatic weapons into a La Paz square Monday to disperse some 200 opponents of the regime chanting anti-junta slogans. The number of casualties, if any, could not be determined.

Several blocks away about 1,000 foreigners lined up to register. The new interior minister, Col. Luis Arce Gomez, said the registration was ordered because of "reports that many are hee illegally. We believe some of them may be extremists."

The government TV station said several people were wounded in Cochabamba, 240 miles southeast of La Paz, when a jeepload of youths fired automatic weapons fire into a street.

"There were numerous injured, mainly women, and the perpetrators fled," the report said without elaboration.

Introducing the world's most comfortable business flight to London.

Our new SKYLOUNGER™ lets you sleep lying down. British Caledonian Airways is committed to a demanding, yet highly rewarding concept. To provide you, the long-distance business traveler, with more comfort than any other international airline.

Through the years, we believe our luxurious First Class service has done just that. But even the best can get better.

That's why our First Class service now includes the SkyLounge™ seat. Made to British Caledonian's specifications, it can recline to a horizontal position. So you can actually sleep lying down.

Fully reclined, it still leaves you plenty of room between rows. And upright, there's even more room. It lets the window passenger move easily to the aisle. Even if trays are in use.

So next time business takes you to London, ask for our SkyLounge™ Service. We're sure you'll agree our First Class is the most comfortable way to fly.

The EXECUTIVE SUITE™ now gives you even more legroom. The Executive Suite™ is another class of comfort. Tailored exclusively to the business traveler. Offering a collection of extras you have specifically requested.

Such as choice of wine, entree and dinner time. Complimentary cocktails. And newspapers from both sides of the Atlantic.

What's more, now you get even more legroom. We've increased seating space in this section by actually removing an entire row of seats. And we're still the only airline that guarantees you'll never be more than one seat away from the aisle.

But perhaps the most pleasing thing about us, all things considered, is the British experience you get on board. We never forget you have a choice.

For reservations aboard one of our nonstop wide-bodied flights from Houston, call your travel agent or British Caledonian Airways.

British Caledonian Airways

Cubs do all the wrong things in 9-7 defeat to Captains

By TED BATTLES Sports Editor

The way the Midland Cubs were playing, Shreveport needed only a paltry three hits to stage a five-run ninth inning rally which gave the Captains an uphill 9-7 win in the opener of the five-game Texas League series at Cubs Stadium Monday night.

The Cubs did so many things wrong during the course of the night, that it was difficult to pinpoint the turning point in the three hour, 24-minute drama that saw the Cubs manage to snatch defeat from certain victory. At least, that's the way it looked.

No, Manager Randy Hundley didn't say, "It was a team effort." He looked at the five errors, three wild pitches, two passed balls and two hit batsman which more than wiped out the Cubs' 13-7 base hit edge and kept a stiff upper lip. "I've been around baseball long enough to know that these things happen. I'm not going home and jump off the bloomin' roof over it."

If he had, he really couldn't be blamed. After all the Cubs led 7-3 going into the eighth when with runners on second and third with two out, relief pitcher Kent Hunziker broke off a curve to fan Jim Rothford for the final out, but wait, it bit the dirt and scooted past catcher Mike Shepton as a "harmless" run scored from third.

THERE WAS one out in the ninth when the same thing happened with David Cardwell flailing at a third strike in the dirt and reaching first safely. Hunziker misplayed Jim Wojcik's grounder and instead of the game being over, David Wiggins tripped home two runs to left center and even ace reliever Bob Blyth couldn't extinguish the fire.

After walking Charles David, Shepton called for a pitch out to catch the larcenous David, the ball got through

In the ninth, a walk to Joe Hicks and an error on Gary Krug's grounder up the middle put runners on and Randy La Vigne sacrificed them into scoring position. "You've got to be before you can win and even though I had two lefthanders coming up, I thought one of them could hit their lefthander."

Chicken tonight

Chicken is on the Cubs Stadium menu tonight as the San Diego Chicken makes his belated appearance during the game with Shreveport. The gates open at 6:30 p.m. as the famed fowl of baseball makes his Tall City debut.

his glove for a passed ball and Wiggins trotted in from third with the tying run. That set up Tom Anthony's single that produced the eventual game-winner.

The Cubs weren't completely dead.

THE CUBS jumped to a 4-1 lead in the first with a five-hit attack and Henry Mack led 6-2, allowing what amounted to a couple of infield hits, going into the sixth. That's when his control deserted him and Hundley quickly brought in Hunziker with one-run in to get the inning ending double play.

The Cubs collected 13 hits with Joe Hicks continuing his hot spree by doubling twice and knocking in two runs to stretch his consecutive game streak to 12, during which he has batted .432.

BRUN BREWIN'S—Shortstop Chico Alfaro came up with a couple of nifty fielding plays and two hits in his farewell to the Cubs. He reports to Wichita today and if he continues to hit, he may not be far from Chicago... Dave Owen will be recalled from Quad Cities to replace Alfaro... Jon Perلمان, 9-6, will go for the Cubs tonight...

Braves' homers are wasted

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

Beanball? A menace to baseball? Don't talk nonsense. It's just a brushback pitch—and it has its purpose. So says Dick Williams. And his Montreal Expos and the Atlanta Braves offered a pretty convincing case Monday night.

In that launching pad called Atlanta Stadium, Gary Carter crashed a grand-slam home run in a six-run first inning and a two-run homer in the seventh while the Braves unloaded five home runs in their 8-6 loss.

"Now do you see why it's good to use the brushback pitch a little?" Williams, the Expos' manager, offered after the fireworks had ended. "There are no more now than there have been in the last 105 years. The beanball isn't the term. It's brushback pitch."

And, with a laugh, he added, "Evidently they didn't establish that tonight."

Elsewhere in the National League, Houston edged New York 3-2, St. Louis downed Los Angeles 5-2 and Cincinnati shaded Philadelphia 5-4. Chicago and San Francisco played 12 scoreless innings before darkness suspended play. The game was to resume today.

"It was probably one of the best nights I've had in the major leagues," Carter said. "But more than anything else, I'm pleased we won the game. I remember the last time we were in here, Larry Parrish hit three home runs and drove in seven runs, and the final score was Atlanta 8, Parrish 7."

Williams, too, admitted he had to hold his breath a bit. "A few rockets out there tonight. Quite a few... It's a good thing we had a six-run lead. I felt pretty safe—except it didn't work out that way."

His counterpart, Braves Manager Bobby Cox, added: "Six runs down, especially in the first inning. I wasn't too worried because we had 27 outs left to score, and the way we've been hitting the ball lately, I figured we had a chance."

Rick Matula gave up Carter's grand slam and Gene Garber allowed what proved to be his winning homer, enabling the Expos to edge two percentage points ahead of idle Pittsburgh in the East Division.

Winner Scott Sanderson allowed homers by Glen Hubbard and pinch-hitter Biff Pocoroba, then Chris Chambliss, Bob Horner and Jeff Burroughs jolted Montreal reliever with seventh-inning homers.

Puhl. He calmly stroked the single up the middle that gave the Astros their victory and widened their NL West lead over the Dodgers to 1 1/2 games.

"Pressure? I felt no pressure," Puhl said. "It was a rather calm task."

Frank LaCorte, 6-0, got the victory with two perfect innings, his first since being sidelined last week by a case of strep throat. "I don't think I'll get him sick anymore," Manager Bill Virdon joked.

Cardinals 5, Dodgers 2 A few good words of advice from St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog woke up Dan Iorg's bat after 83 homerless games as his three-run blast in the sixth inning carried the Cardinals past Los Angeles.

"It was obvious by the way I wasn't hitting that something was wrong," said Iorg. "I just had to get my weight back in my stance. I was too much on my front foot."

Ted Simmons also homered for St. Louis and Rick Monday homered for the Dodgers.

Reds 5, Phillies 4 Ken Griffey and Johnny Bench doubled to break a seventh-inning tie and, after a rain delay of nearly an hour, Dan Driessen singled Bench home with what proved to be Cincinnati's winning run that handed the Phils fourth consecutive loss and seventh in their last 10 games.

Stone notches 13th victory

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

The perfect pitching staff in the American League these days would have Steve Stone starting and Dan Quisenberry finishing.

Stone, who has become the ace of the Baltimore staff ahead of a couple of Cy Young winners, posted his 13th consecutive triumph Monday night as the Orioles defeated the Minnesota Twins 12-5 in the nightcap of a doubleheader after dropping the opener 8-7 in 11 innings.

Meanwhile, Kansas City's Quisenberry took over the league lead with his 20th save as the Royals edged the Chicago White Sox 2-1.

Elsewhere, the Milwaukee Brewers trimmed the New York Yankees 7-4, the Detroit Tigers clobbered the California Angels 14-3, the Texas Rangers downed the Boston Red Sox 5-3, the Toronto Blue Jays nipped the Oakland A's 1-0 and the Seattle Mariners blanked the Cleveland Indians 7-0.

Stone blanked the Twins until the eighth inning, when they scored five times, three on a double by Ron Jackson. By that time the Orioles had a 12-0 lead as Dan Graham drove in six runs with a grand slam homer and a single and Eddie Murray, who hit a solo homer in the opener, added a three-run shot.

"It's tough to be a star in a rotation that includes a three-time Cy Young winner in Jim Palmer and Mike Flanagan, who was last year's Cy Young winner," said Stone, who hasn't lost since May 5. "At the start of the season I was ticketed to be the fifth starter. This is absolutely the best I've ever pitched."

The Twins won the opener when John Castino, Butch Wynegar and Pete Mackanin singled off Tippy Martinez in the 11th inning while John Verhoeven scattered seven hits over 82-3 innings of relief for his first major league victory. The Orioles blew a 5-1 lead on Minnesota home runs by Ken Landreaux, Roy Smalley and Hosken Powell.

Brewers 7, Yankees 4 Ben Oglivie had three hits and drove in three runs and Cecil Cooper added four hits and an RBI to help second-place Milwaukee reduce the Yankees' lead in the AL East to 7 1/2 games. Mike Caldwell beat the Yankees for the eighth time in nine career decisions but lasted only five innings before giving way to Bob McClure. Milwaukee took a 3-0 first-inning lead when Paul Molitor, Robin Yount and Cooper, the first three batters, all singled, with Cooper's hit scoring Molitor. Oglivie scored Yount with a sacrifice fly and Sixto Lezcano tripled Cooper home.

Tigers 14, Angels 3 Steve Kemp hit two homers and drove in four runs, Richie Hebner hit a three-run blast to cap a seven-run sixth inning and Champ Summers hit a solo homer in the ninth as the Tigers routed California. Kemp homered in the fourth inning and delivered again with two runners on base to wrap up a four-run fifth inning. Hebner connected off Dave Lemanczyk, who was charged with six of the seven runs in the sixth inning, all of which were unearned as a result of a two-out error by shortstop Fred Patek.

Rangers 5, Red Sox 3 Jon Matlack and Danny Darwin combined for a seven-hitter as the Rangers rode a 14-hit attack and posted a three-game winning streak for the first time since mid-April. Matlack blanked Boston on two singles for six innings before losing his shutout bid on Carlton Fisk's 12th homer in the seventh. Darwin was tagged for a two-run homer by Dwight Evans in the ninth.

Blue Jays 1, A's 0 Toronto's Dave Stieb pitched his second consecutive shutout, a seven-hitter, and Al Woods hit a fifth-inning home run. Stieb struck out four in pitching his seventh consecutive complete game and his fourth shutout. He also doubled in the third.

either going downhill or in transition. Flores doesn't see downhill signs, but he admits to problems.

"Our most urgent problem is to improve the defense," he says, thinking back to his 9-7 season last year. "We've got to strengthen ourselves somehow, although we only have four experienced linebackers in camp."

Midland LL teams get district wins

BIG SPRING — Midland North Central defeated Lamesa 10-3 Monday night and advanced to Wednesday's winner's bracket game against Midland Eastern in the District Little League tournament.

Terry Baxter earned the mound victory for North Central and received offensive support from Chris Kenney and Ronny Tyson, who had three singles each, and Chad Jordan who doubled. Also, Jay McCarty, Baxter and Paul Colwell all singled.

For Lamesa, losing pitcher Jerry Mason homered and Prentice Smith doubled.

Midland Eastern gained the berth against North Central by defeating Big Spring American 6-5 in seven innings.

In loser's bracket action tonight, Lamesa meets Big Spring National and Big Spring American battles Midland Mid-City.

Athletes try many ways to beat heat

By LARRY SIDONS AP Sports Writer

Weekend athletes seem to be wilting, but the professionals are holding up fairly well in the heat that is broiling most of the nation's eastern half.

No major sports events have been canceled so far because of the heat and, while several pro football players have been overcome by the high temperatures at mid-summer training camps, no serious injuries have been reported.

The daily readings in the 100-degree range, however, have cut down substantially on play at neighborhood tennis courts and golf courses in at least one city.

"We've noticed a big difference in the last couple of weeks," said Jerri McAbee, office manager at the Blackburn Tennis Center in Dekalb County, near Atlanta. "We have camps and clinics in the morning, but we hardly have anyone from noon to 6."

Dave Myers, head golf pro at Dekalb County's Sugar Creek course, said play has been down about 20 percent there since the heat struck

RICHARD VINCENT

A swimming success story

The grand dame of local swimming — the Allison West Texas Invitational — celebrated her thirty-third birthday in fine fashion over the weekend.

Yes, she's now 33-years-old, but she seems to be going on 50, what with the way the annual event seems to come off without the slightest hitch.

Like persons very much set in their ways, the Allison West Texas Invitational knows where its going, and people expect as much.

They weren't disappointed. And the team that should get the biggest slap on the back for helping to make the meet a success wasn't DADS Club of Houston, which won the event, or the runner-up Hurricanes, of Miami, Fla., or even City of Midland Swim Team.

Rather, the winner of this year's outstanding team award (may I have the envelope please) is a group that didn't wear tank trunks, goggles or caps during the recent three-day event: The meet officials, and anyone who had a hand in helping carry this mammoth undertaking.

There are, of course, too many names to list individually. But Mr. and Mrs. Fred Allison, who sponsor the event, and the various groups who cooperate in the project — COM, Midland Chamber of Commerce, Midland Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes and Midland Parks & Recreation Department — deserve to have their names in lights.

If there was anything bad said about the meet, well, I didn't hear it. In fact, everyone I talked to during the course of the three-day event seemed more than ready to return the Texas-style hospitality that was heaped on guests like gravy on a big, ol' chicken fried steak.

Whether they came from the sunny shores of Florida, or New Mexico, Australia or Texas, the consensus was "this is a class meet run by class people."

"We really enjoyed the hospitality, and I sincerely mean it," said Jeff Douglas, whose daughter Nancy, representing Pine Crest Swim Team of Ft. Lauderdale, seemed to steal the whole show with seven victories in nine events.

Then there were Lee Askervold and Walt Gruenberg, fathers of children swimming for the Hurricanes.

It was the second straight junket the fathers had made to the meet, and the way they were digging it — moving up and down the pool, egging their youngsters on, putting up hurricane warning flags on the team's tent, enjoying Sunday night's barbecue dinner and just soaking up the camaraderie that seemed to bubble over everywhere — it could be a regular part of their itinerary.

"Hey, we really enjoyed it," said Askervold, his voice rough and scratchy after a day of yelling.

John Jordan, the subdued COM coach who has a knack for putting things in perspective with as few words as possible, did it again.

"The meet ran really smooth," he said.

But perhaps the highest accolade came from Bill Lavine, the intense but totally down-to-earth coach of DADS Club.

"One of the COM parents came up to me and said they really enjoyed having us here," he said, "but it was our pleasure. We look forward to it every year."

camp in Pleasantville, N.Y., 11 players over two days were sickened by high temperatures, forcing the team to rearrange its practice schedule.

Two-a-day workouts are routine at this time of the preseason for football teams, but the Houston Oilers cut back to one session Saturday because of the heat. Coach Bum Phillips held that in late afternoon to avoid the hottest temperatures.

The St. Louis Cardinals of the NFL canceled a day practice at their St. Charles, Mo., camp and worked at night. And the baseball Cardinals used a rather unusual method of coping with the heat.

When the temperature on the artificial turf of Busch Stadium zoomed to 146 degrees, several Cardinal players dipped their feet — shoes and all — in water.

"You want to cool the metal off," first baseman Keith Hernandez.

Newton paces Frontier Days Rodeo

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — For some 233 bull riders at Cheyenne Frontier Days Rodeo, Jim Newton's opening day score of 84 is proving hard to beat.

The Colorado Springs, Colo., cowboy was one of the first bull riders out of the chutes Saturday, and his score still stood after 12 sections of bull riding at the 84th annual "Daddy of 'em All."

Some of the best bull riders, like five-time world champion Don Gay, have been thrown on their first outing.

Other early leaders also have proved hard to topple, but Olie Smith roped his way into a tie for the calf roping lead Monday, and Rick Bradley emerged as the new leader in steer wrestling.

More than 1,400 wranglers are competing for a record $425,000 in prize money in the nine-day-long rodeo, which is billed as the world's largest outdoor rodeo.

Smith, a Del Rio, Texas, cowboy, roped his calf in just 12.1 seconds to tie Richard Stowers of Tichunging, Okla., for the first go-round lead in the race for nearly $79,000 in calf roping prize money.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Comaneci scores another perfect 10

By The Associated Press
OLYMPICS — Romanian gymnast Nadia Comaneci, who became the first Olympian in history to score perfect 10s, at the 1976 Games in Montreal, scored another 10 on the balance beam during the second day of competition and the opening day of gymnastics at the Summer Games.

Soviet Natalia Shaposhnikova duplicated the performance on the vault in the first day of team competition, with the Soviets holding the lead. The East German women swimmers got gold-medal performances from Barbara Krause, who broke her 100-meter world record for the second time in two days, this time with a clocking of 54.79 seconds.

Three world records were set, one was tied and two Olympic records fell: Sergei Koplakov of the Soviet Union set an Olympic record of 1:49.81 in winning the men's 200-meter freestyle swim. Ines Geissler of East Germany won the women's 200 butterfly in Olympic record time of 2:10.44. Irina Kalinina of the Soviet Union won the women's springboard diving gold medal and Bengt Baron of Sweden won the men's 100 backstroke in 56.53.

Daniel Nunez of Cuba won the 56-kilo class weightlifting event with a world record total lift of 275 kilos. Yurik Sarkisian of the Soviet Union won the silver medal and set a world record of 157.5 kilos for the jerk maneuver during the competition. Karoly Varga of Hungary tied the world record of 599 points in the prone-position small-bore rifle competition. East German Helfried Helfort also tied the record but the judges placed him second on a technicality.

BASEBALL — Pitcher Larry McWilliams of the Atlanta Braves was named the National League Player of the Week for pitching two complete game victories during the week, beating New York 5-2 and Philadelphia 3-2.

GOLF — Laurie Rinker of Stuart, Fla., fired a 1-under-par 72 to lead the qualifiers at the Women's Western Golf Association Junior Tournament. Joanne Paicillo of Stanford Calif., was in second place at 75. Three golfers were tied at 77: Steinhilber of Madison, Wis.; Nancy Ballard of Pontiac, Mich.; and Nancy Ledbetter of Lake Zurich, Ill., in the tournament for golfers ages 17 and under.

Orr claims high school athletes need agents

Houston (AP) — There were times during the intense recruiting campaign for his services that Abilene Cooper's blue chip running back Terry Orr simply had to leave home to get some peace and quiet.

"High school players definitely need agents these days," said Orr, who will compete for the North All-Star football team Saturday in the finale of the Texas High School Coaches Association Coaching School.

The 6-3, 210-pound Orr said he was offered money to sign a scholarship agreement with various schools. Orr opted for the University of Texas and declined to mention any schools that offered him money.

"They'd say, 'Listen to me and I'll guarantee you'll get more if you go to school here.' One school even offered me money even though I told them I wouldn't go for any of that under-the-table stuff. There was a lot of pressure involved," he said.

Although Orr said he could have used an agent, his parents left the final decision up to him. "My parents let me make up my own mind because they said I was the one who was going to school," Orr said. "The most important thing high school players being recruited can learn is how to say no. It was hard for me to do."

Orr disliked other aspects of recruiting, too. "It really perturbs me more when a black athlete is taken advantage of by recruiters," he said. "Most players are treated just like pieces of meat."

Orr is glad his decision to attend Texas is behind him now and he's looking forward to playing for the Longhorns, whether it be at running back or, because of heavy competition there, at linebacker.

"Coach (Fred) Akers (of Texas) said some of us will be playing linebacker," Orr said. "I really don't have any preference. I just want to play."

More than 7,500 coaches are expected to register for this year's coaching school, which officially opens a five-day program today. Ohio State University football coach Earle Bruce and Pittsburgh's Jackie Sherrill will be among the speakers.

The all-star football teams are drilling daily on the University of Houston practice field and the all-star basketball squads are drilling twice daily at Hofheinz Pavilion on the UH campus.

The North-South basketball game will be played Friday night and the football game is scheduled Saturday.

Carter to hasten aid to heat-stricken farmers

By PAULA FROKE Associated Press Writer

President Carter, promising to pray for rain and cooler weather in sun-scorched states, says he will hasten federal aid to Texas farmers and urge federal agencies to "do everything possible to alleviate the drought and intense heat wave."

Thunderstorms on Monday in parts of the South and Southwest brought some relief from three weeks of 100-plus temperatures, but also brought flooding that forced residents in at least one state to leave their homes.

And the North and Northeast, which had been spared the heat plaguing other parts of the country, on Monday endured a second day of temperatures over 100 degrees. Water emergencies were declared in New York and Philadelphia.

The heat has been blamed for at least 1,191 deaths in 21 states since June 22, according to an unofficial survey by The Associated Press.

"We're trying to do everything we can," Carter said as he surveyed a parched field of grain sorghum in Justin, Texas. "We'll be praying for rain and cooler weather."

Richard Alexander, an official of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said the farmland Carter inspected had yielded only 200 pounds of sorghum per acre, down from a projected 3,500 pounds per acre.

While Carter promised aid to Texas, Arkansas officials were still seeking help and Missouri was looking for more.

Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., said he was "appalled and frustrated" because the Farmers Administration has not declared the state a heat-wave disaster area. The Small Business Administration declared a disaster area in the state last Thursday.

Missouri Gov. Joseph Teasdale and Lt. Gov. William Phelps went to Washington Monday to seek an additional $20 million in federal aid. The state has already received more than $6.5 million from the government, with most of the money going for the purchase and delivery of fans.

Temperatures in both Arkansas and Missouri cooled somewhat on Monday, but hot weather and increased humidity were expected to return by the end of the week. High temperatures in the 80s were reported Monday in Arkansas, while in Missouri only Joplin reported a temperature of 100 degrees or higher.

In Mississippi, 11 inches of rain Monday brought some relief from the heat, but forced more than 1,000 residents to leave their homes.

The National Weather Service placed the entire Mississippi Delta under a flash flood watch Monday night.

While many of the states hardest hit by the heat were enjoying some relief, temperatures in New York hit 102 degrees, surpassing the 100-degree mark for the second time in three years. The first time came Sunday, with a 101-degree reading.

Oregon also reported its hottest temperatures of the year—104 degrees in Medford and Warm Springs.

New Yorkers consumed 2.4 billion gallons of water on Monday, up from 1.5 billion gallons on an average day, and city officials banned all lawn watering and unauthorized opening of fire hydrants. Power companies in New York and New Jersey reported record demands.

Philadelphia officials Monday reported a drop in water pressure from a normal 38 pounds per square inch to 6 pounds per square inch on Sunday, and ordered all fire hydrants capped.

"The situation is reaching critical proportions and we literally cannot afford to spare a drop of water for any nonessential purpose," city Managing Director E. Wilson Goode said Monday.

Pennsylvania reported its first two heat-related deaths on Monday.

Rain relieves Dallas of heat

By The Associated Press

A welcome thundershower that pelted Dallas-Fort Worth chiseled the first crack in the merciless high pressure dome that has stifled North Texas for a month.

Monday's showers were the first trace of rain to dampen the North Texas area since June 22. Scattered rains also fell in several other parts of Texas.

In downtown Dallas, diners in a popular restaurant applauded the first clap of thunder.

"It's like Christmas or a baby with a new toy," said Ralph Fike, an East Dallas service station employee. "I just washed my car yesterday, and I'll wash it every day for the next six months if it'll get us some more of this rain."

However, the National Weather Service warned the brief showers did not necessarily signal an end to the record-breaking heat wave that for 29 days has held the Lone Star State in its grip.

"The rain just cooled things off Monday. It was nice while it lasted. But that's going to be about it," said forecaster Harold McCrabb.

"We certainly don't look at this as a drought-breaker. We think we're right on the edge of a drought now," McCrabb said. "There may be some isolated thundershowers around the state later in the week, but we don't expect any more."

Children in parched Dallas city parks greeted the showers with shrieks of delight, according to park spokesmen.

"Everybody seems to be real happy with it," said Bill Walker of Dallas' Everglade park.

The official noon temperature was 101 degrees at the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport, the NWS said, but had dropped to 91 degrees by 5 p.m. after the brief thundershower.

The rain caused brief power blackouts Monday afternoon in north and southwest Dallas. The accumulated dust from four hot weeks mixed with Monday's rain created "mud on the electrical lines," said Ray Ward of the Dallas Power & Light Co.

Scattered showers also pelted parts of Northeast and South Texas as a cool front snaked across the Texas Panhandle. In addition, some heavy thundershowers were reported along the upper Texas coast where the tropical depression fizzled as it moved inland Sunday.

Showers also moved over Amarillo and Plainview in the Panhandle and into the South Plains about noon Monday.

But National Weather Service forecasters warned that though there has been some change, the searing 100-degree temperatures could continue.

"It's moist enough and unstable enough, so it's always a possibility that some areas may get some relief, but highly doubtful," said an NWS forecaster.

"The fact is, if the sun pops out it could even go higher than yesterday."

Skies are partly cloudy over Dallas-Fort Worth, Wichita Falls and most of East and Central Texas.

City markets suffering from heat

By THERESA HUMPHREY

BALTIMORE — The 200-year-old Lexington Market is known for drawing large lunchtime crowds from downtown businesses. But that hasn't been the case since a sweltering heat wave struck the Chesapeake region last week.

Vegetables are wilting, icing is melting from baked goods and many stands are closed.

"Nobody's coming out in this heat," said Tony Serio Jr., who helps his father operate the Tony Serio & Sons produce and vegetable stand.

Serio said the stand was selling much more cold, fresh fruit than usual, but that vegetables were suffering.

"Our vegetables are going bad. See this tomato? I put it out this morning and it was good. Now look at it," said Tony Serio Sr. as he picked up an overripe tomato that was squishy when touched.

Greens, such as collards, kale and spinach, have been wilting quickly on the produce stands as temperatures range from the high 90s to over 100 degrees.

"This is the season for greens, but we can't keep them fresh," said Joe Liberto, who helps run the G. Liberto & Bros. vegetable and produce stand. "Nobody's out here buying."

"It's too hot in here. We can't keep the stuff out here. And we've taken the cantaloupes off the shelves completely. In hot weather, they spoil within two hours," he said.

Several of the merchants complained Monday of inadequate air conditioning in the 29-year-old building, built on the original building site. Part of the problem, they said, is the high ceiling.

Serio and Liberto said their business has been down 20 to 30 percent for the past week, and said they have reduced the amount of produce they order.

On the meat stands, the picture was equally bleak. J.A. Regan, whose coolers are usually packed with beef and chicken, said his business is also down 20 to 30 percent. He said he is compensating for the heat and the loss in business by buying from local distributors instead of ordering from the West.

All three merchants pointed to other closed stands. "There isn't any business, so they're all starting to take long weekends," Liberto said.

In the back of the market, at John W. Faidley Sea Food Inc., owner and Vice President Bill Devine said he had not cut back on his supply of fish, but "the variety is limited now. The hot weather is cutting the oxygen supply in the water and killing off the crabs."

"And there's been a shortage of flounder, black bass and lake trout for the past several weeks," he said.

At Muhly's Bakery, icing was melting off of cakes.

"It's getting real yukky," said Betty Lough, while a fan whirled on the counter behind her. "It's too hot in here. Nobody's buying. We don't have nearly the same amount of food out that we usually have," she said, pointing to empty shelves behind the counter.

She said business was so slow the bakery was closing a half hour early on Monday.

"The people are afraid to come out," Regan said as the sun blazed down, "and I can't say I blame them."

Second major figure slain in Turkey

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Leftist union leader Kemal Turkler was assassinated in an Istanbul suburb early today. He was the second major figure slain in Turkey in four days.

Anonymous callers told Turkish newspapers that Turkler was killed by the "Avengers for Turkish-Islamic Union," a little-known extremist faction fighting for an Islamic revolution in this NATO-member country.

Turkish police sources said the group was also believed to have staged the kidnap-murder of a reporter for the leftist newspaper Demokrat, Recal Unal, whose bullet-riddled body was found on an Istanbul street Monday night.

Police sources, quoting witnesses, said Turkler and his bodyguard were leaving the union leader's home in Merter, 10 miles west of here, when three people in a speeding car sprayed them with pistol fire.

Police said Turkler was hit six times in the chest and neck and died on the way to a nearby hospital. His bodyguard was seriously wounded in the attack, police said.

The gunmen exchanged gunfire briefly with troops posted at a nearby junction and fled toward a shantytown area.

The getaway car was found in Gungoren, a few miles from the site of the assassination. A preliminary investigation showed that the vehicle was stolen a few days ago, the sources said.

Turkler was the leader of Maden-Is, the largest union in the radical leftist DISK labor confederation, Turkey's second largest organized labor group. It has a Marxist orientation and supported former Social Democrat Premier Bulent Ecevit in the 1973 and 1977 general elections.

Poor paying more than middle-class on utilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poor people are spending four times as much money as middle-class families on utility bills and their problem is becoming "increasingly desperate" as they try to meet increasing energy costs that mean higher rates for home heating and cooling, a federal committee says.

The Department of Energy's Fuel Oil Marketing Advisory Committee recommended that federal programs to help poor persons pay utility bills be sharply increased.

The report, obtained by The Associated Press, said low-income families spent 21 percent of their income in utility bills, compared to 5.1 percent for middle-class families.

Congress is considering increasing energy aid to the poor this winter from $1.6 billion to $1.8 billion. The 36-member committee proposed spending at least $3.5 billion.
