Senate Approves $1,630,417 For Tech For Next Bi-Ennium

Funds Voted For New $250,000 Aggie Building

Action On Bill Is Completed By Legislature

INCREASED appropriations for Texas Technological college, including $250,000 for an agricultural building, stood approved by both houses of the legislative Friday, with passage by the Senate of the higher education bill.

Amendment offered from the floor by Sen. Marshall Formby of McAdoo increased the figures recommended by the finance committee by more than $300,000 and brought the total approved for Texas Tech for the next bi-ennium to $1,630,417. The amendment was adopted by voice vote and without opposition, the Associated Press reported.

Aggie Building Included

The bill appropriates $928,211 for the first year of the 1941-43 biennium and $702,206 for the second year.

Included in the first year's appropriation is $250,000 for an agricultural building and in the second year's appropriation is $30,000 for library equipment, the Associated Press reported.

Formby's amendment provided for an additional $265,240 for salaries, including funds for several new faculty members, $25,000 each year for scientific research and $10,000 for library equipment, above the amounts recommended by the finance committee.

The increase in allocation for library equipment brought the total to $30,000, the committee having recommended $20,000.

To Go To Conference

The House recently approved a bill appropriating $1,081,194 for the first year and $856,194 for the second year.

Appropriation for the current bi-ennium is $595,586 for each year.

The Senate and House bills will go to a conference committee for adjustment of differences.

Sen. Formby explained from the

Tech Re-Enters Border League Of 9 Members

Invitations Quickly Accepted By Texas Representatives

(By The Associated Press)

TUCSON, Ariz., May 9. — Three Texas colleges were admitted tonight to the Border Intercollegiate Athletic conference, swelling its membership to nine.

Faculty representatives of the six old members extended invitations to Texas Tech of Lubbock, Hardin-Simmons university of Abilene and West Texas State Teachers college of Canyon.

The schools immediately accepted through representatives attending the annual conference meeting: Dr. D. A. Shirley for West Texas State, H. C. Pender for Texas Tech and Dean L. Q. Campbell for Hardin-Simmons.

May Extend Rules

Their membership will be effective in September.

Championship rules may be extended now that the conference is larger, said C. Z. Lesher, University of Arizona representative and conference secretary.

"The conference at the present time encourages members to play a minimum of four other members in football," Lesher said.

"The three new members are already participating with various members in sports competition and every effort will be made to arrange schedules in basketball and track to include the new members this year, and football as soon as possible."

Old members of the conference are University of Arizona, University of New Mexico, Arizona State Teachers colleges at Tempe and Flagstaff, New Mexico Aggies and Texas Mines.

Other Proposals Studied

Until tonight there had been only two changes in membership since the conference was organized 10 years ago. Texas Mines had been admitted and Texas Tech

Crosby Man Struck By Lightning; Two Hale Persons Die

Twister Sweeps Stretch Northwest Of Plainview; Several Residences Leveled

THREE persons were killed on the South Plains late Friday afternoon when a twister struck in Hale county and other counties received rain accompanied by hail.

Lightning struck T. Ewing Parham, 44, at his farm home in the Broadway community in Crosby county. He died a few minutes later after he had been placed in a car to be taken to Crosbyton.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hay were killed instantly when their home was demolished 15 miles northwest of Plainview. Several other farm homes were leveled in a 20-mile-long area by a tornado that struck about the same time rain fell in Lubbock.

Mrs. Hay's clothing was ripped from her body as the couple was hurled nearly 300 yards from the wreckage of their farm home, into a field.

Both bodies were badly mangled.

Parham, who had lived in Crosby county three years, was returning from the barn at the rear of the house after doing evening chores. His wife was standing not more than 50 yards away when the bolt struck him.

Mrs. Parham saw the accident, which happened about 5:30 o'clock.

John Boone, about 55, suffered a fracture of the back when his new home was blown away in the Halfway community, 17 miles northwest of Hale Center. His wife was visiting neighbors a quarter of a mile away and was not injured.

Residence Destroyed

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Burleson and their 7-month-old son were slightly injured when their two-room residence was blown to bits.

Burleson said he saw the house sway and, seconds later the three were swept into the yard.

Others injured in the same vicinity included: Mrs. Lloyd Thompson, arm fracture; Lloyd Thompson, lacerations; Floyd Thompson, fractured arm, and Warren Dillar, rib fracture.

Their homes and those of others were blown away.

At Lubbock sanitarium, R. L. Elbert of Lubbock route 1 was admitted for treatment of an eye injured when he was struck by a hailstone. H. B. Day of Abernathy was treated at the sanitarium for a shoulder injury.

Bill McKee, mayor at Ralls, said the storm did not reach that area.

Blackout At Hale Center

A report of Vic Lamb, Hale Center newspaperman, was that Cotton Center, 14 miles southwest of Hale Center, was only slightly less damaged than halfway. There were no serious injuries at Cotton Center, however.

Hale Center was darkened at 5 o'clock to the extent lights were necessary in residences. Oldtimers said there had been nothing to equal the unusual action of boiling clouds in the area.

Awnings were blown off Turner and Kinard grocery stores at Cotton Center and at least four shacks were overturned. Roofs were blown off numerous buildings, including the grocery stores, where stock was damaged by an inch of rain that fell.

Miss Louise Rankin, Cotton Center teacher, was uninjured when part of the Kinard grocery roof struck her parked car, in which she was sitting. The radiator was damaged.

Hail At Abernathy

A 1-by-4 board was driven through the wall into the living room of a home recently built by Mrs. J. C. Brown. Several windows were broken by flying debris.

Hotel, Cafes, Clubs Raided

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 9.—Fashionable hotels, clubs and restaurants were invaded today by immigration inspectors and city detectives staging the second roundup of the week against foreigners suspected of being in this country illegally.

The quarry this time consisted of Italians, mostly waiters. Seized in raids in several cities Wednesday were 160 German seamen, all charged with overstaying their leave in the United States.

Repeating Wednesday's procedure by moving swiftly and with no advance warning, the officers made 26 arrests within three hours, and officers armed with warrants were still engaged in the search.

Taken To Ellis Island

Among the places employing the aliens were the Ambassador Ritz-Carlton and Pierre hotels and a restaurant in Rockefeller Center's R. C. A. building.

Those arrested were taken to Ellis island where they joined 144 German seamen and two German newsmen held without bail for deportation hearings.

Although official comment was lacking, it was assumed the roundup was staged on the same authority as its predecessor. That was ordered by Atty. Gen. Jackson who indicated the action was a precautionary measure to forestall possible fifth column activities in this country.

DUBLIN, Eire, May 10. (Saturday) (AP)—An Irish crew was signed today to man a small freighter purchased in the United States for shipment of wheat, tea and coffee from New Jersey to Eire.

RAF Stages Its Greatest Raid Of Entire War

(By The Associated Press)

Great Britain's offensive air arm punched with explosive force early today at French coast invasion ports in a follow-up to the greatest RAF raid of the war.

Watchers in England heard violent explosions in the neighborhood of Calias, across the channel, and saw stabbing searchlight beams along the French coast.

London sources estimated yesterday that between 300 and 400 bombers sallied out Thursday night in a campaign against the Nazi submarine might at its source. The planes roared over Hamburg and Bremen, German shipbuilding centers, for two hours. Friday morning and the British said the cities were left in flames.

The German luftwaffe was back over England last night and early today, but preliminary reports indicated the attacks were not as intense as those of the preceding night.

The British also reported the 10,000-ton cruiser Cornwall had sunk a German sea raider, believed to be the 21,131-ton former trans-Atlantic liner Hansa, with a probable loss of 247 Nazi sailors in the Indian ocean. Fifty-three German survivors were taken prisoner and 27 British sailors were rescued from their captivity aboard the raider.

Air Power Shown

The greatest RAF blow of the war was regarded as evidence of Britain's growing aerial punch now that the American-made planes are arriving on the island. Some of the American craft participated in sideshow raids on German continental bases. Berlin also was a minor target.

Germany acknowledged considerable deaths resulted from the strong RAF blow and said that some British planes had penetrated as far as Posen in former Poland.

Industrial damage at Bremen and Hamburg was minimized by the Germans, but the British told of docks and buildings blasted to bits, of great fires which sent columns of smoke thousands of feet into the air.

Ten British planes were lost, the

District Supervisors To Be Elected Today

Lubbock county farmers will go to the polls at eight different boxes today to vote on three additional soil conservation district supervisors.

The Lubbock county district was approved in an election last December, and George E. Ecklund and J. O. Perkins were named supervisors. But state conservation officials have explained that five supervisors must be had in this district, necessitating the election of three more.

Names that will appear on the ballots are Earl Davis, Acuff, T. L. Holt, Idalou, and Grover C. Gillett of north of Shallowater.

Voting boxes will be at Monroe, Becton, Shallowater, Wolfforth, Idalou, Slaton, Cooper and at the county courthouse.

Only light voting is expected, Jobson said.

BANDS PLACED

WACO, May 9. (AP)—Class B bands from Plainview, Wink, Pecos and Mexia placed in the first division in concerts today of the sixth district, national school music competition-festival.

WITH registration for the first joint meeting of Texas Grain and Feed Dealers association and Panhandle Grain and Feed Dealers association nearing the 300 mark late Friday, the visitors took the afternoon off for a little recreation and will meet this morning again in Lubbock hotel.

Crop Statistician Visits In City

The only woman crop reporter, estimator and statistician in the grain business, who has been in the game, "more years than I care to remember," is in Lubbock for the first joint meeting of the Texas and the Panhandle grain dealer groups.

She is Mrs. Eileen Miller, owner of the E. H. Miller Statistical service of Chicago, who has a string of 2,400 correspondents scattered over the continental United States and up into Canada, but who forms her own opinions by personal investigation of crop conditions.

To Make A Living

Mrs. Miller started her own business in 1939 after spending nine years with the James E. Bennett concern, one of the largest in the business and with the Sheilds Co. for three years. Before that she had been a stenographer, clerk and statistician for other firms.

"I went into the crop reporting business because I needed the do-ra-me," Mrs. Miller laughingly explained. "It was not out of any sentiment, or anything like that. I had to make a living to support my folks and I went into it to make a living."

Mrs. Miller was born in southern Illinois, but at an early age she was taken by her father to Tennessee, where she was reared. Her father was a large land owner and she rode over his land with him as a girl and from him she gathered her love of the out-of-doors and her business inclinations. "My father taught me to stand on my own, and I have not forgotten it," she added.

Travels Widely

Her first job was a clerk in a department store, she said; she studied stenography and typewriting at night and became a stenographer. After that it was only a step into business.

"I travel an average of 5,000 miles a month, in the crop growing season," Mrs. Miller explained. "Besides these, I get reports from 2,400 correspondents. My

Former Police Chief At Monahans Guilty

BRADY, May 9. (AP)—Walter Stapp, former Monahans police chief, was convicted late today of slaying Jack Runnels of San Angelo. He was given a three-year sentence in prison.

The McCullouch county jury deliberated more than four hours in Stapp's fifth trial. The case was transferred to the 35th district from the 119th at San Angelo.

Runnels was shot in September, 1937, at a roadside tavern.

The state presented testimony that Runnels, a bystander, was struck by a bullet from Stapp's gun after the former police chief scuffled with Bonnard Cook.

Suspect Nabbed After Lubbock Man Threatened

The sheriff's department Friday night said Buster Jones, about 22, was being held in Portales, N. M., on a charge of writing a threatening letter to extort money from Morton J. Smith.

Smith, 76, for whom the town of Morton was named, had received the letter demanding $1,000 through the mail, authorities said.

Arrest was made late Friday at the youth's home at Causey, N. M., 35 miles from Portales by the Roosevelt county sheriff. Tom Abel, Lubbock county sheriff, said he probably would go to Portales this morning to return the suspect here.

An unsigned letter was received by Smith, called a sparkplug in organization of Cochran county but who has lived in Lubbock 31 years, Thursday, the felony complaint set out.

May Be Federal Case

Sheriff Abel said he would present the case to federal authorities if they saw fit to prosecute.

Burton S. Burks, district attorney, recited in the complaint context of the alleged letter, as follows:

". . . Oh you may not pay it but, well wait and see.

"I'm going home and I'm going to wait untill Sat. You can send the one Thousand $1000.00 to me or just for get it. Do what you want about it.

"Will Come To Lubbock"

"I said when I got 21 years old I would make you pay or suffer.

"If I don't get $1000.00 by Saturday in the mail I will come to Lubbock Sunday . . ."

The following was appended to the letter:

"It doesn't make me any difference what you do about sending the money. There are other ways

Strap With Wooden Handle Said Used At Reformatory

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 9—Testimony that boys at the Gatesville State reformatory are disciplined by whippings with a two-foot-long strap attached to a wooden handle was studied today by the House committee on eleemosynary institutions.

Officials of the reformatory testified that the boys are stripped, made to lie across a mattress on the floor and are lashed five to 20 times, depending on offenses, most common of which are running away and stealing.

Among the witnesses who appeared before the committee last night were E. H. Nesbitt, superintendent of the reformatory; Rufus Burleson, barn foreman; Edgar Lorenz and J. H. Head, teachers, E. L. Polk, night watchman, and Leon Jenson, storekeeper and accountant.

After the hearing, at which witnesses were questioned also about financial affairs at the reformatory, Chairman M. A. Bundy of Wichita Falls facing Nesbitt, declared:

"You and the other heads of state institutions are drunk with power."

Witnesses said the strap with which the boys are whipped was not the same thing as the "bat," the use of which at the state penitentiary was recently outlawed by the legislature.

There are about 800 boys at reformatory, ranging in age from 10 to 18 years. Attendants said whippings are necessary to maintain discipline.

Soviet-US Pact Loses Value

By J. C. STARK
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The European war and the American national defense program have made virtually a "dead letter" of the United States-Russian trade agreement, informed sources said today, and formal commercial relations between the two countries may be allowed to lapse entirely this summer.

The United States is finding it increasingly difficult to obtain supplies it wants from Russia, especially manganese, since Balkan war moves halted shipments via the Black sea route, it was explained.

Because Russia has encountered difficulties in obtaining export licenses for American materials now declared to be needed here for national defense, she has almost completely suspended purchases in this country and her buying agents are returning home.

Political relations with Russia, which showed signs of improving during the winter, also appear to have cooled since the Soviet union signed a "neutrality" pact with Japan a few weeks ago. All of these developments have raised doubts in diplomatic quarters that the commercial treaty, negotiated in 1937 and renewed annually since then, will be kept in force for another year.

The present agreement expires on Aug. 5. The question of renewal has not yet arisen in diplomatic discussions, officials said.

Almost Direct Deliveries To Allies Hinted

By RICHARD L. TURNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 9. — The direct, or almost direct, delivery of American supplies to British forces in the Middle East was strongly indicated today by a Maritime commission announcement that American ships would soon be sailing into the red sea.

At the same time, the commission said that sailings to China would be increased in the near future. Which some interpreted as meaning that American help to that country in its war with Japan would be correspondingly stepped up. Details of the sailings and of the cargoes to be carried to China, and to the Red sea, were carefully kept secret.

Meanwhile, it was reliably reported that the German government had challenged the aid-to-Britain program for the first time, in a note which argued that the requisitioning of German ships for use in that program would violate international law.

Classification Changed

The Red sea constitutes the eastern approach to the Suez canal, a vital point in the British system of empire transportation. While major fighting continued between British and Italian forces in Ethiopia and elsewhere in Eastern Africa, the Red sea was defined as a "combat zone" and American vessels were forbidden to enter it.

Several weeks ago, however, President Roosevelt removed it from that classification and said that American vessels could go all the way to the Suez canal, itself. Taken in conjunction with recent events, the Maritime commission's announcement was of prime importance.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill said this week that the British had nearly half a million troops in the Middle East guarding Suez against capture by Axis forces converging upon it from two directions — the Balkans and Northern Africa.

The German complaint was embodied in a note delivered at the state department last night dealing with pending legislation to au-

U.S. Said Kai-Shek's Choice Of Mediator

TOKYO, May 10. (Saturday) (AP) — The newspaper Nichi Nichi today quoted the Japanese ambassador to Nanking as saying Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was determined that Japan must negotiate any possible peace move with his government through the United States.

The paper in a Shanghai dispatch said Japanese ambassador Umatore Honda declared the Chinese generalissimo was determined not to deal directly with the Japanese government in any possible move for bringing peace.

Honda, without naming the individual, said in the Nichi Nichi dispatch that "certain foreigners" recently visited Chungking and conferred frequently with Chiang Kai-Shek.

It was said here this obviously referred to Marine Captain James Roosevelt, son of the United States president, whose visit to the Chinese nationalist capital now takes on a new and highly significant importance.

A SLOW BURN

HEED, you sun-tanners! There's a right way and a wrong way of getting a nicely evened tan this summer.

First of all, don't begin with the grim attitude that you've got to change from white to brown in a week. And don't drench your body in olive oil or any heavily oil unless you want your skin to be seared like a French fried potato. Use one of the sun-tanning lotions on the market, as these have been chemically analyzed and the special tanning agents in them prevent the burning rays of the sun from penetrating the skin.

Start with five minutes on both sides of the body the first day, then build up gradually, adding three minutes each day. Never take over 20 minutes on each side at any time.

Take your bath lying on a large white sheet. That is important for this reason: When you lie on your stomach or your back, the sides of the body are in shadow and don't get the sun. But the whiteness of the sheet will draw the reflections and you'll tan more evenly.

QUEEN ELIZABETH

MISS Margaret W. Weeks, Canadian by birth and a naturalized American, will speak over KFYO at 7 o'clock tonight, as a member of the local committee arranging for the benefit dance for the British War Relief. She will speak of Queen Elizabeth and her two daughters, her remarks inspired by the approach of Mothers day.

TO MOTHER

MARGARET Kernodle, Associated Press feature service writer, points out the job that Mothers day ought to be a 365-day event. She's on the job that much and she ought to rate consideration and kindness that often.

But Mothers day, like New Year's day, is a good time to make resolutions. Naturally children like to give their mother gifts and to see her happy on each second Sunday in the month of May. But that isn't enough. Here is a good start, suggested by Miss Kernodle, in making resolutions for year-round consideration of Mother:

Help her have at least a short vacation. If it is impossible for her to go anywhere, give her a vacation at home.

If the whole family pitches in to take over housekeeping duties, you may not live as well for a while but you will give her a chance to rest, read or gad about the neighborhood. (And more than likely, if she is like our mother, she will insist on taking over and cooking a good meal just as you are at your wit's end.)

IT won't hurt little Percy to do the dishes, Maggie the cleaning and Dad chips in with some of his famous cooking learned on fishing trips, if that is the only way Mother can have a holiday at home. You will appreciate her more when she "returns" to her duties.

You can give her regular opportunities to get away by herself, even if she had nothing to do but window shop, go to a picture show or go to the park. She is a human being, you know, and deserves a breathing spell some time.

HOME ACCIDENTS

ACCIDENTS, not mumps, measles or pneumonia, take the heavy toll of our children today. Accidents are the leading cause of death among children between 4 and 10 and rank second for children between 2 and 4.

Most frequent causes of accidents at home are suffocation, burns, poisoning, cuts, drowning and falls. Many of these could be prevented by simple precaution and watchful care.

The young child is a great experimenter. If he sees mother take something from the medicine chest, he may drink it or even try to use daddy's razor. The best way to prevent such accidents, of course, is to keep such things out of baby's reach.

One of the most dangerous times come when the child is permitted to play out doors. First, teach him the difference between a red and a green light and that speeding motorists have the right-of-way. If that lesson is taught, the chances of his being crushed by a car decrease immensely.

Federal Judge Allred Strikes His Name From List Of Senatoral Candidates

Jim Ferguson Is Still Possibility

(By The United Press)

Federal Judge James Allred struck his name from the speculative list of U. S. Senatorial candidates today as continued filings increased the possibility that another former governor, James Ferguson, may enter the race.

Ferguson said several days ago that he was trying to decide. Friends said he and his wife, former Gov. Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson, believe they control a block of votes and that a plurality may be enough to win.

Can Serve In Senate

Impeachment barred Ferguson from further service as governor, but his Senatorial eligibility was not affected.

Allred dismissed with a smile suggestions that he return to the political spotlight he occupied six years as the state's "boy-governor." He indicated he was well-satisfied with the quiet life, good pay and guaranteed future of a jurist. His name was mentioned frequently in the flurry over the death of the late U. S. Senator Morris Sheppard.

Still the big question mark was the intent of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel. No light has been shed on the plans of the one-time flour salesman, author of political biscuits and hill-billy music, since his good friend, Haf Collins of Mineral Wells tossed his hat into the ring.

Collins Opens Tonight

Collins was completing preparations today for his opening speech Saturday night on the courthouse square at Waco, where O'Daniel started 1938 and 1940 campaigns that put him in the governor's chair.

It appeared that an inner-spring mattress might be given away to the largest family attending the rally for the Mineral Wells hotel man. This would be a feature in addition to an orchestra and blackfaced comedians who are to present a revised version of O'Daniel's famous "Pass the biscuits, Pappy" technique.

U. S. Rep. Martin Dies, chairman of the House Committee Investigating Un-American Activities, embarked on another lap of the 150-audience marathon he scheduled for himself between now and June 27, the day before election.

U. S. Rep. Lyndon Johnson claimed at San Angelo last night that he was "sweeping West Texas." He certainly was doing this physically, having completed 18 speeches in three days.

Dallas Banker Raps Labor Troubles; Says Remedy Is Needed

The labor situation is the most disturbing element on the national horizon and there must be some modification before the defense program can move at its peak, Nathan Adams, president of the First National bank of Dallas, said here Friday afternoon. Mr. Adams was visiting in Lubbock for the day and attended the marriage of Miss Mary Katherine Underwood to Wayne Prather Friday night.

"There must be something done so that the man who wants to work can be protected the same as the striker," Mr. Adams declared. "They tell us we have free speech in America but at the same time an employer faces a $10,000 fine and six months imprisonment if he tries to talk to his employes while any labor racketeer in the country can call them into a meeting and talk to them as long as he likes . . . There's something wrong in that situation.

"The only way to get this labor situation changed and these strikes stopped is by a movement from the mothers of these boys of draft age who are having to serve their country in the army at $21 a month," he continued. "It's not right for these highly-paid workers in the defense plants to be striking when these boys have to serve in the army under conditions far-removed from the laboring situation and at considerably less pay.

"These workers ought to be as patriotic as these boys serving in the army," he declared. "If they're not patriotic, something ought to be done about it."

Mr. Adams last visited Lubbock 12 years ago and marveled at the city's growth and especially that of Texas Technological college. He was a guest at a luncheon at the Hilton hotel Friday noon given by Sam C. Arnett, sr., president of the Citizens National bank. Other bankers of Lubbock were guests.

Mr. Adams has been president of the Dallas institution since 1924 and has been a resident of Dallas 52 years.

Gain Of 10 Per Cent In Meters Registered

Gain of slightly more than 10 per cent is reflected in number of water meters installed in the past year, the city engineering department said Friday, the number having increased from 7,030 May 1, 1940, to 7,780 May 1, 1941.

The report also showed that water consumption during April this year dropped 8,109,000 gallons below that of the same month last year. Consumption during the past month was 94,944,000 gallons as compared with 103,053 gallons in April, 1940. The drop was attributed by officials to the heavier rainfall during the past month.

West Texas Hospital And Clinic Is To Be Formally Opened Sunday; Observance Will Be Feature Of Hospital Day On Monday

After delay caused by absence of staff members who were commissioned as reserve army officers and by failure of equipment to arrive because of priority of army orders, West Texas hospital and clinic will hold its formal opening Sunday.

The program will be held in connection with National Hospital day, which is Monday.

New Equipment Installed

The hospital has been completely remodeled and air-conditioned with a York air-conditioning system. The clinic has been completely equipped with Carrier air conditioning.

The hospital also has a spray system in operation on its roof, and the clinic constantly keeps six inches of water on its roof to aid in cooling, it was said.

The hospital now has the largest number of air-conditioned rooms of any hospital in this section of the state.

Organ Program Scheduled

The project was designed by Wyatt C. Hedrick of Fort Worth. W. G. McMillan was general contractor.

A program by Bernie Howell at the console organ will be featured in the clinic lobby at the conclusion of the tour Sunday afternoon. Refreshments will be served.

C. J. Hollingsworth is superintendent and Miss Martha K. Haugsten is director of nursing.

RESIGNS SCHOOL POST

SLATON — Bevington Reed, a teacher here, has resigned and gone to New Jersey, where he is taking training to enter Boy Scout work. Mrs. Roy Boyd will complete the term for his classes.

Hubs Shade Amarillo, 5 To 4

Lubbock Rallies In Tenth For Winning Runs

(Special To The Avalanche)

AMARILLO, May 9.—Manager Charlie Engle inserted himself in the ball game as pinch-hitter for Pitcher Byron Adamitis and singled with two out in the ninth to put a runner in scoring position, and the Hubbers went on to tie the count at 3-all and finally win, 5 to 4, in a ten-inning baseball thriller here tonight.

The game opened the three-contest series at the Amarillo park. The teams meet again Saturday night and Sunday afternoon, after which the Lubbock Hubbers return to their home park to open the night season Monday against the Big Spring Bombers.

Wobszal Slams Double

A single by Gene Schlereth, an overthrow error and a double by Ralph Wobszal gave Lubbock two runs in the tenth. The Sox scored once in the home half of the ten-on two singles, but Pinch-Hitter C. C. McFather whiffed with two on to ruin the rally.

The Hubbers collected eleven hits off Hill and Carlson, but did no scoring until the seventh inning. Hill having limited them to four hits, all singles, and with not more than one in any inning.

Amarillo had scored once in the third off Adamitis and twice in the sixth to take a three-nothing lead before the Hubbers started unlimbering their bats. Hyma and Vrablik took turns on the mound for the Hubbers.

WHEN "TWISTER" HIT BALL PARK—The Lubbock ball park, "Home of the Hubbers," which has withstood a lot of high winds and Shaughnessy play-off series, was more or less of a shambles late yesterday following the sudden windstorm and rain. A "small twister," witnesses said, caught the roof of the park, including the press box, and sent it high and off, as the above picture, by C. W. Ratliff, shows. All except about 20 feet of the roof was sheared off; practically all the wire netting in front of the stands was torn down, and there was some interior damage. Wiring of the grandstand, for lights, telephones, radio and telegraph circuits, was dismantled. The press box, first to go, was carried high in the air, and collapsed "like a cracker box" when it hit the ground. (Note the ladder still leaning against the back of the ball park.) The lights themselves, and the light poles, were not damaged, it was believed, and repairs will be made in time for Monday night's game here with the Big Spring Bombers, although the roof won't be repaired or replaced by that time.

Borger Defeats Big Spring, 4 To 2

BORGER, May 9 (Special)—Bill Garland, speedy Gasser southpaw, pitched hitless ball in all but the seventh inning here tonight as he marked up his third WT-NM league victory and gave Borger its eleventh with a 4-2 triumph over the second place Big Spring bombers.

Garland fanned eleven batsmen to run his strike-out string to 42 in three games. The Bombers got only one extra base blow, a double by Drake.

It was the first pitching defeat for Charley Welshell, Bomber pitching ace, who had won three starts.

Clovis Pioneers Win From Spudders, 13-4

CLOVIS, May 9. (Special)—The Pioneers pounded two Wichita Falls moundsmen for 13 hits which, combined with seven walks and four errors, gave Clovis a 13-4 victory over the Spudders in the series opener here tonight.

The second inning saw nine runs across the plate, four for the Spudders, five for Clovis, but those four were the only ones that Pitcher Rollins of Clovis allowed. Wichita Falls 040 000 000—4 8 4

Mud May Enter Preakness Race

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE, May 9.—Headed by the Kentucky cannonball, Warren Wright's Whirlaway, a field of eight colts was entered today for tomorrow's 51st running of the Preakness, with Ol' Man Mud a possible added starter.

Of the eight named to shoot for the jackpot of about $50,000, only one—Our Boots, standard-bearer of the Woodvale farm of Royce Martin, of Toledo—appeared other than a certain starter, despite the rain.

Our Boots, one of the three in this field who chased Whirlaway home in his record-smashing Derby run a week ago, did not come out of that tussle any too well. Trainer Steve Judge dropped the colt's name into the entry box with a large order of doubt and said he wouldn't decide until sometime tomorrow whether the son of Bulldog would answer when the band calls them out with "Maryland, My Maryland."

Possibly Good Footing

It was generally agreed that, while the chances for a lightning fast track were slimmer than a bettor's bankroll, there was a likelihood of good footing on a drying out track with no more rain between now and Preakness post-time (4:45 p. m., E.S.T.)

The "question marks" were Crispin Oglebay's Ocean Blue, a son of Blue Larkspur and grandson of Man O'War, who won the survivor stakes here Tuesday, and Curious Coin, from the Cold Stream stable of Elmer Dale Shaffer and Jack Howard, who ran second in Hialeah's Flamingo StaKes and in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica.

For the "speed-lovers," the candidates were Robert J. Klebergs Dispose, who finished sixth in the Derby, and Ogden Phipps' King Cole, Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons' Handsome Hope.

Rank outsider was Kansas, color-bearer for the Millsdale stable of Tony Pelletert of New Orleans and Mel Emercih of Chicago.

Brownies Knock Out Bob Feller And Tribe, 9-6

ST. LOUIS, May 9. (AP)—The Browns won the only game of the day in the major leagues today, knocking out rapid Robert Feller and beating the Cleveland Indians, 9 to 6, for their first victory over the speedball pitcher since 1938.

The other game scheduled in the American League, Detroit at Chicago, was postponed because of cold weather, and the two National League games, Boston at New York and Brooklyn at Philadelphia, were called off because of rain.

The Browns, whose giant-killing feats had much to do with Clevelands downfall last season, broke the Feller jinx with a surge of batting power that overcame what appeared to be a discouraging 4-run handicap.

Cullenbine Helps

The Indians, slapping out singles with abandon, rolled their quartet of runs across the place against Vernon Kennedy in the second inning and Feller seemed on his easy way to his sixth victory of the year. He wound up with his second defeat.

In the third inning, Harlond Clift singled, Alan Strange hit his second double and Chet Laabs walked to fill the bases for the Browns. Roy Cullenbine, Brooklyn's one-time $25,000 bust who is becoming a batting beauty with the Browns, then cleaned the sacks with a resounding triple.

Feller was driven out in the next inning when the tailenders of the Browns' batting order started them off on a 4-run rally.

Soose Wins From Overlin

NEW YORK, May 9. (AP)—Billy Soose tonight won the New York version of the world middleweight championship by taking a 15-round decision over Ken Overlin. There were no knockdowns and neither fighter was in serious trouble. Overlin weighed 159 1-2, and Soose 157 3-4.

The pro-Soose crowd greeted the verdict with cheers, although many of the ringsiders had the defending champion the winner by a wide margin. The Associated Press score-card showed 11 rounds for Overlin and four for the Farrell, Pa., ex-collegian.

The cageyness picked up in a dozen years of barnstorming around the Kerosone circuit seemed to be carrying Overlin to a victory over the harder-punching Soose, but the spindly-legged collegian staged a stout rally to take the final round and swing the verdict his way.

Referee Arthur Donovan gave Overlin seven rounds and Soose eight, Judge Marty Monroe had the same opinion, while the other judge, Bill Healy went overboard for Soose, giving him nine rounds, to five for Overlin and one even.

Overlin appeared to have the fight under control from the start, circling the stalling Soose in a jiggling, bobbing dance and darting in to land sharply, usually with a curling left hook to the body.

'Them Dodgers' Pack 'Em In

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

BROOKLYN, May 9.—More than a million and a half fans have passed through the turnstiles since the start of the major league season three weeks ago and almost one-fifth of these have crowded into the Dodgers' home arena, Ebbets Field, one of the smallest parks in the big time.

The Dodgers' amazing attendance figures have become as exciting to baseball executives as the clubs won and lost figures have to the fans.

Is Regular Occurrence

By actual count the Dodgers have drawn 291,081 paid admissions to 18 games at home, exceeding by more than 100,000 persons the turnout at Cleveland for the American League leading Indians in the same number of games, or at that other great baseball town, Detroit, for 17 games. Both these cities have huge stadiums.

Time after time the hilarious crowds that jam Ebbets Field to hoot and holler for "them Dodgers" have been approximately equaled the next largest turnout in either league and it has been a common occurrence for the throngs there to exceed the combined attendance of all other National League games.

MacPhail Cashing In

A four-game series with the world champion Cincinnati Reds on the worst sports days in the week—Monday through Thursday—brought out a total of 74,073 and two games with the St. Louis Cardinals the middle of this week produced 44,295 paid admissions.

None of these figures include ladies day, boys day or other guests. Yesterday 10,621 women were admitted for payment of 10 cent tax. However, at least half of these fans moved over to higher priced seats by payment of additional 35, 65 or 85 cents, depending on their location and the Dodgers actually benefited almost as much from this method of admittance as if the women were counted as paying customers.

In the big leagues the visiting club receives a little less than 25 cents for each paid admission, but the home club keeps all receipts from ticket exchanges by ladies day guests. The Brooklyn club also places a service charge of 40 cents on all passes. Thus it may be seen that President Larry MacPhail, top showman in baseball, has managed to play both ends against the middle.

Lubbock High Golfers Play At Sweetwater

Lubbock High school's golf team has accepted an invitation to compete in a four-school meet as guests of Sweetwater High school at the Sweetwater municipal course today.

Coach E. M. Barnett of the Westerners is taking Robert Allen, Morris Allen, Chick Trout, jr., Sam Cobb, Archie Chism and Hooper Stiles, jr., to Sweetwater this morning.

Coach Larry Priddy of Sweetwater High also invited teams of Abilene and Big Spring.

Coast Grid Czar Declares 22 Freshmen Are Ineligible

Amarillo Stars Are Ruled Out

By RUSS NEWLAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—In the most drastic purge in the history of the Pacific Coast conference, 22 freshman athletes representing five member schools, were ruled ineligible today for further competition at their alma maters.

The announcement, by Commissioner Edwin N. Atherton, hit Stanford, Oregon, Washington State, Oregon State college and the University of Washington.

Stanford, noted for its high scholastic entrance requirements, lost the largest number of athletes, eight including Robert Waters, sprint phenom from Bakersfield.

Oregon Loses Six

The edict cost University of Oregon six freshman stars. Washington State lost four potential varsity football luminaries and Oregon State and the University of Washington each were deprived of continued athletic activities of two students.

Atherton, one-time G-man whose two-year, two-million word fact finding survey accepted by the conference in December, 1939, resulted in wholesale revamping of the athletic code, absolved the Universities of Idaho and Montana of any violations following his latest investigation.

Aside from being the hardest hit in the matter of freshman athletes already enrolled, Stanford was denied the possible future of athletic participation in an inter-collegiatescope of thirteen high school stars in the states of Oklahoma and Texas.

Atherton said his inquiries revealed that a Stanford alumnus living in Oklahoma had undertaken to recruit the finest athletes of his state and Texas by writing letters to the members of first and second team of the outstanding high school football squads in the two states.

Payne, Greathouse "Out"

The boys declared ineligible for future Stanford athletic activities included the following Oklahomans: Albert Downs of Atoka, Leroy Garren of Maude, Darrell Hagris of Madill, Billy Houck of Mangum, Gordon McDowell of Cherokee, and Harold Simeroth of Purcell.

The Texans declared to have been contacted were Jack White of Paris, Otto Payne, jr., and Myrle Greathouse, both of Amarillo, Hans Neumann of Port Arthur and Bentley Jopes of Cleburne.

These boys, members of all-star Oklahoma and Texas high school teams, were the subjects of an organized campaign to effect their enrollment by a Stanford alumnus residing in Oklahoma," Atherton's report stated.

The Stanford freshmen under fire were said to have been given tuition awards "by alumni organizations with no official standing."

Steers Sweep Series With Baylor Bruins

AUSTIN, May 9 (AP)—The University of Texas Longhorns swept their two-game Southwest conference baseball series with Baylor university here today with a 7-6 win. The Steers also took yesterday's tilt, 9-4.

Leading the conference, Texas has three more scheduled games to play with the possibility of working off two additional rained-out games.

MARBERRY RELEASED

FORT WORTH, May 9 (AP) — Fred Marberry, former major league pitcher and for the past three years with the Fort Worth Cats of the Texas league, was given his unconditional release today.

Marberry, who is in his twentieth year of professional baseball, said he hoped to catch on with some other club and finish out the season.

Schoolboy Baseball Meet Sees Cooper, Whitharral Advance To Final Round

By JOE PIERCE
Avalanche Sports Writer

Cooper's impressive high school baseball team won its second consecutive game in the eastern division of the Lubbock district high school baseball tournament at Hubber Field Friday and moved within one victory of the division championship.

Coach Fred Rich's boys jumped on Idalou to capture a 16 to 6 five-inning victory, stopped by the league rule which provides that if a team is ahead by 10 runs at the end of five frames the contest shall be stopped.

Roosevelt, beaten by Frenship in the opening game of the tournament, continued to march through the losers' bracket by taking a 4 to 2 decision in the smoothest game yet played in the tournament.

The final game of the scheduled triple bill was rained out, with Idalou leading Roosevelt by 5 to 0 in the last half of the third inning.

2 Or 3 Games Today

The tournament starts again at 1 o'clock today, weather permitting, with Idalou and Roosevelt starting all over on their game. The second game. If Cooper, which hasn't yet lost a game, wins that one, the tournament will be over, but if Cooper loses, the winners must capture still another decision to win the championship of the double elimination tournament.

Doyce Barrett, a big husky lad who'll make somebody a fine player in a couple of years, pitched his second tournament victory for Cooper, limiting the Idalou nine to five safeties and striking out seven in five innings. He was never in trouble, his mates giving him three runs in the first, three in the second, seven in the third and three in the fourth.

Wildness of Idalou pitchers contributed heavily to the lopsided score, with Cooper drawing seven bases on balls. Catcher Glenn McDaniel led the batting spree with three consecutive singles and six runs batted in.

Shallowater went a run up in the first inning of the opening game, but Roosevelt got it back and added an extra in the third. Shallowater tied the score in the fourth, but Roosevelt put on a two-run rally in the fifth to win.

Clever Roosevelt Manager

Skillful maneuvering of pitchers brought Roosevelt out on top. Bates Reasoner started, but wildness got him to only two batters. Alvey Joe Ater, who had pitched a victory over Southland Thursday, came in then.

Between them, the three Roosevelt pitchers walked five batters in the fourth inning, but clever fielding, including a pitcher to catcher to first base double play with the bases loaded, retired the side with only one run.

The final game, between Idalou and Roosevelt, was well on its way to bring a thrilling pitchers' duel when the rain and sand came. Idalou scored a single run in the first and another in the second, while James Turner was setting Roosevelt down without a scratch.

In the third, with a storm brewing, the Roosevelt team began trying to stall for a postponement, and allowed the Wildcats to push over four runs before Umpire Otis Gunter called the whole thing off.

MORTON, May 9. — Whitharral, defending district baseball champion, moved through the losers bracket in fine style today, winning two games and the right to meet Morton's Indians in the finals of western division play in the Lubbock district high school baseball tournament.

Morton, surprise victory over the Whitharral team in the first round, moved up to the finals by defeating Smyer, 12 to 5.

Play Saturday will begin at 2 o'clock. If Morton wins the first game, the tournament will be over, but if Whitharral wins the opener, a second game will be necessary. Whitharral must sweep the doubleheader to win the title.

Meadow and Smyer dropped out of the tournament today, both victims of Whitharral's hard-hitting attack in five innings. Meadow lost the opening game by 21 to 5, Smyer losing in the nightcap, 12 to 2.

Dyer led the Whitharral hitting, slamming out a home run in each game.

Fine relief pitching by Gerald Johnson gave Morton a victory over Smyer, as Johnson registered his third victory of the tournament. He started and finished games Wednesday and Thursday, came in in the fifth today.

Smyer was leading, 9-7, when Coach George Gray called on Johnson to relieve J. B. Passmore. For the remaining three innings, Johnson pitched one-hit ball and yielded no runs, and his mates cooperated by shoving across seven runs.

There's no doubt about it, the sow is the real center of hog profits. Feeders make or lose on what she gives in the litter. Sows need pig-building feed if they're to farrow big litters of heavy pigs — and Purina Sow and Pig Chow is built especially to go with grain to give sows what they need to produce big litters.

Come into the store and see us about Sow and Pig Chow. We'll show you records that prove it's a real-pork-making ration.

Wheat Crop Of 653,105,000 Bushels Forecast By Department Of Agriculture

Condition Better Than Normal

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The Agriculture department today estimated 1941 winter wheat production at 653,105,000 bushels, compared with 589,151,000 bushels last year.

The crop reporting board estimated an average yield of 16.2 bushels an acre of 40,313,000 acres left for harvest on May 1, compared with 16.3 bushels an acre on 36,147,000 acres on the same date last year.

Better Than In Years

The board said condition of crops generally on May 1 was better than usual. The winter wheat crop was said to be in the best condition in many years.

The board estimated rye production at 45,623,000 bushels, compared with 40,601,000 bushels last year.

The board did not estimate spring wheat production, but said seeding conditions were generally favorable after an early wet season. March planting intentions of spring wheat of 17,137,000 acres probably will be fully met, the board said.

Peach Crop Better

The board estimated 1941 peach crop in the 10 Southern states at 22,031,000 bushels, compared with 13,856,000 bushels last year and an average of 14,293,000 bushels for the past ten years.

Production of oranges was estimated at 78,354,000 boxes, compared with 75,646,000 boxes last year.

Grapefruit production was estimated at 42,963,000 boxes, against 35,175,000 boxes last year.

New High Records Seen

Milk production increased more raidply than usual during April and established new high record for May 1 as a result of favorable weather and larger feeding of cows in response to higher prices for dairy products.

The board estimate of winter wheat production, with comparable figures for a year ago, included:

Kansas, 165,822,000 bushels this year, compared with 123,648,999 bushels last year; Nebraska, 30,780,000, compared with 33,696,000; Oklahoma, 62,384,000, compared with 56,332,000; Texas, 47,614,000, compared with 29,355,000; Ohio, 40,754,000, compared with 42,097,000; Washington, 43,148,000, compared with 25,984,000.

BUYING IS SCATTERED

NEW YORK, May 9 (AP)—Buyers took on scattered coppers, rails and industrials in today's stock market but left many leaders to shift for themselves in a narrow range.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 39.8. Dealings slowed after moderate activity in the forenoon. Transfers amounted to 397,380 shares compared with 440,400 Thursday.

An exception to slim movements elsewhere was a last-minute burst of strength in a Southern Railway-Mobile and Ohio trust certificates which jumped 4⅞ points to a new year's top at 33⅞. The run-up was in the wake of a decision by the appellate division of the N. Y. Supreme court affirming a ruling holding the Southern Railway liable for the annual $4 dividend on the certificates.

General Motors was up ⅛ and Chrysler down ⅜, tlthough automotive production pushed up sharply this week under the impetus of near-record sales demand.

Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Great Northern and Chesapeake and Ohio were up a shade as traffic prospects brightened for most roads. Anaconda, Kennecott; Phelps Dodge, Inspiration Copper and American Smelting emerged with plus signs. Heavy copper purchasing both for defense and private purposes aroused thoughts of stead dividend payments in this group.

Ohio Oil was up ⅜ at 9, a new 1941 high, but Standard of N. J. and Texas Corp. were behind. Modest improvement was shown for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, J. C. Penney, du Pont, United Aircraft and International Paper common and preferred.

Grain . .

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, May 9 (AP) — Wheat and other grains and provisions resumed the price advance today along with other commodities. Dollar wheat reappeared on the board of trade for the second time this week when a car of No. 1 hard sold at $1 a bushel and No. 2 red brought $1.01.

Wheat futures rose as much as 2 cents, equalling or bettering the 12-months peaks reached earlier in the week, while corn was up 1¼-¾ cents to new highs for the past four years. Lard and soybeans also were at the best levels for more than a year.

Buying of grains was stimulated by prospects of passage of higher loan legislation and announcement that the government crop lending agency is seeking additional borrowing power. Reports that France may take more U. S. wheat also attracted attention.

Wheat closed 1½-2 cents higher than yesterday, May 98⅝, July 96⅞-¾; corn 1¼-3¼ cents up, May 71½-¾, July 72⅝-¾; oats ⅛-½ higher.

service covers wheat, corn, oats, rye and barely. I used to use cotton, in fact I had the only cotton ginning service, but I cut cotton reports out as there was little demand for them."

Her journeys take her all over the nation, but she manages to spend from three days to a week in he rChicago office to compile her reports. She starts out early in March and travels each month through October. One year, she said, she was out through to Thanksgiving day, because of a special corn problem.

Sticks To Report

"When I form my judgment and take my position, after I have had my reports, I stick to my judgment," she explained when asked about her work. "I get reports, facts—I don't get opinions. I don't want opinions about crops and conditions, I want facts."

But the pride of the Miller organization is an eight-year-old son, now in school in Chicago, who has, since he was two or three years old, made one trip a year with his mother. "He makes one crop report trip a year with me," she explained. "He can tell the difference between wheat, oats, barely, rye and corn. Just now, he thinks he wants to be a policeman. He is undecided which he really wants—to be a policeman or a reporter but I think right now he prefers the police."

She laughingly recalled an incident on his trip last year. The mother and son went into a wheat field that was just about gone. "Well son, she said to him, what's your report on this field?"

"Why mother, it's what used to be a wheat field—but now ain't" he replied.

That the legislation would permit the confiscation of private property owned by foreigners.

That President Roosevelt could not properly claim the existence of a natural shipping emergency since the shortage of ships was the consequence of releasing vessels to the British.

fell but only slight damage was reported. The roof was blown off the residence of L. M. Rankin and a barber shop roof was damaged.

C. E. Luce, deputy United States marshal, was returning from an official business trip in Lockney when a damaging hail storm struck about seven miles north of Hale Center, he said. He was accompanied by his daughter, Ruth.

Stones ranged from about the size of a hen egg to the size of a fist, Luce related. The steel top of his automobile bore many indentations which could have been made only with hammer force.

The fall continued for approximately 30 minutes and covered a distance of about 20 miles from north to south, apparently the path of the twister that struck to the west of the highway.

Windows Are Broken

Mrs. H. M. Lowe of Idalou said hail and wind, accompanied by rain, broke plate glass windows in business buildings. The roofs caved in on Lowes' drug store and L. P. Soap grocery, flooding both places.

En route to their homes in Idalou, four men were uninjured when a car in which they were riding overturned about three miles west of Idalou. High wind and slippery condition of the highway were blamed for the mishap.

Passengers were H. M. Lowe, Tom Taylor, Tracy Roberts and Clyde Henderson. The men had attended games of the Lubbock district high school baseball tournament.

Key Eley, Slaton grocer, said that area was hit by a strong northeast wind, accompanied by hail and rain. There was only slight damage.

Grandstand Undoofed

Damage extended nearer Lubbock. Roof of the Hubber baseball park at Second street and College avenue was blown off. One tree was snapped off seven feet above the ground on the lawn of county jail and a limb of another was broken off.

A cabin belonging to G. V. Fulton was damaged at Buffalo Springs lake, the porch being blown away. Officials said no other cabins were damaged, although the large floating boathouse was torn loose from its anchors.

Steve Weightman, 14, of 406 Avenue X said his mother, Mrs. J. E. Weightman, was lifted a foot and a half off the ground as she walked along College avenue between Third and Fourth streets.

She was knocked momentarily unconscious when she struck the ground on her stomach, the boy said.

Crops Not Hurt

He was looking at the baseball grandstand when the roof collapsed.

"It seemed to lift, then suddenly sank," he related.

A large willow tree was uprooted at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Moore, a mile and a half north of Lubbock. A window pane was blown out at the home of neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Nichols. Light lines were down for a short time before they were repaired.

Damage to crops in the stricken areas had not been ascertained Friday night.

Lamb said not more than 10 per cent damage was suffered in the wheat growing sections of Hale county from which he had received reports. Crosby county's fine wheat crop was not believed injured.

Further crop reports will not be available until surveys have been made today.

Rites To Be Sunday

Funeral services for Parham will be conducted Sunday afternoon at Crosbyton, Curry Funeral home at Crosbyton announced.

He is survived by the wife; two daughters, Mrs. Kirk Gibson of McAdoo and Miss Winona Parham of Hillsboro; a step-daughter, Virginia Rhea Fletcher; his father, J. W. Parham of Hillsboro; three brothers, Weldon of Brownwood, Elza of Waco and Marshall of Menard; and two sisters, Mrs. Amy Wallace and Mrs. Myrtle Wallace, both of Hillsboro.

At Lemmons Funeral home in Plainview, it was said funeral services probably would be conducted for the Hays Sunday at Plainview. Hay was 48, Mrs. Hay 36. They had no children.

European Conflict

British said.

For their part Germany struck savagely at Hull and other English ports deemed vital to British survival. The British have acknowledged steadily mounting damage to important port facilities.

British, Allied and neutral merchant shipping losses in April were 106 ships totaling 483,124 tons, the British ministry of shipping announced early today.

Highest Toll Announced

This was the highest monthly toll yet announced.

Other major military news came from the Italian high command which announced that Italian planes had scored torpedo and bomb hits on two British battleships, an aircraft carrier, two cruisers, a destroyer and three merchant ships in a violent battle in the straits of Sicily. None of the ships were claimed as sunk.

Sixteen British planes also were reported shot down. German airmen were given credit for three of the British craft, and the Italians admitted losing five planes.

On the diplomatic front Russia again took the spotlight in her first foreign policy move since Joseph Stalin discarded his official anonymity and became premier a few days ago.

Russia withdrew diplomatic recognition from three German-occupied countries — Yugoslavia, Belgium and Norway. The ministers of those emigre governments allied with the British war cause were told their powers no longer were valid; in other words, to leave Moscow.

Speculation Aroused

Observers immediately interpreted this move by Stalin as one aimed at patching up differences with Germany caused by the Soviets' expressed displeasure at Nazi inroads into the Balkans.

The action also caused speculation whether Russia intends to tie up with the Axis and again join Germany in splitting up territorial plums. After Russia signed the historic friendship treaty with Germany in August, 1939, the Nazis invaded half of Poland, the Soviets the other.

There were signs that Germany might strike through Syria toward the oil fields of Iraq. There was even speculation that French "collaboration" with Germany include changes in the French-German armistice terms to permit it.

Syria adjoins Iraq where the British reported their armored forces and the RAF crushed nearly all Iraq resistance after the "pro-German" government of Premier Rashid Ali Al Gailani began hostilities a week ago.

Sandstorms Rage

But the British, including Prime Minister Churchill, still fear Germany might intervene in the dispute and thus menace the Suez canal from the east.

Informed London quarters said British naval units were concentrating on interrupting the flow of Axis supplies to Libya to the west of the Suez, but there still was no admiralty account of the naval battle reported by Rome.

The military situation in North Africa was unchanged. Sandstorms raged at Tobruk and only patrol activities were reported at Salum, Egypt.

you could have to pay it without money. I had just about as soon have it other ways but I am going to have it one way or another."

Expression Underscored

The expression "I am going to have it one way or another" was underscored.

Smith came to the South Plains 56 years ago, participated in cattle drives, then returned here.

He bought 20,000 acres of land, cut it up into 177.1 acre farms, chased away a herd of antelope, staked out the Morton townsite and helped build a $200,000 courthouse and jail.

There were four houses between Lubbock and the New Mexico line when he bought the Cochran county acreage.

Smith declined to make a statement to reporters. Mrs. Smith said he was nerovus and "feels very badly about the whole thing."

Americans took about $4,000,000 into the Bahamas last year.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands: One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

United They Still Stand!

THE overwhelming vote of confidence given by the House of Commons the other day to the cabinet of Prime Minister Churchill was positive proof that the British people are solidly behind their leadership.

Furthermore, it demonstrated beyond question that the British people are convinced that they could not equal the government leadership they now have. They proved that they have confidence in those leaders. The fact that the vote was 447 to 3 makes these facts evident.

It must be recognized, of course, that some of those who voted to support the government may have done so to preserve the appearance of unity. Some may honestly have felt that it is better to be united behind leaders of inferior ability than to have a people divided, even partially, in their support of and confidence in leaders of greater ability. But Churchill did so for reasons of patriotism or policy, and the overwhelming 447-to-3 vote still stands as irrefutable evidence that the British believe they have the best men in the places where they are needed.

In that opinion, they unquestionably are joined by the people of the United States. The possibility of increased aid from this nation certainly would have been weakened immeasurably—it might have been removed entirely—had the Churchill government fallen.

To the British, to Americans, and to the Axis powers, the nature of the vote was such that all know beyond question that the front which is bearing the brunt of the attack upon world democracy is more solid than it ever has been before, that British courage is unshaken, that it fights with courage and confidence behind its leaders, and that there is no slightest inclination to attempt horse-swapping in mid-stream.

'Foreboding'

AS APPROPRIATE to these ominous times as anything we have seen in print lately was a poem reproduced in a recent issue of the bulletin of Lubbock Optimist club. It appeared in a Los Angeles newspaper two or three years ago under the title, "Foreboding," with Mabel Freer Loveridge, about whom we have been unable to obtain other information, as the author. It speaks for itself:

While I am rocking you, my son,
And singing lullabies,
Someone is planning stouter planes
For Death to ride the skies.
While I am dressing you, my son,
In little boyish suits,
Someone is making uniform
And sturdy soldier boots.

While you are chasing butterflies
Amid the tangled grass,
Someone is testing chemicals
To make a deadlier gas.
And while you eat your simple fare,
Perhaps the war lords sit,
To start again the bugle notes
That only call the fit.

While I would build a splendid man
So fine and strong, my son,
Someone in secret, tries to make—
A farther reaching gun—
A gun that on some distant day
When drums of battle roll,
May leave me with a golden star
And iron in my soul.

Someday I'll Find You

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

YESTERDAY: Things are going well with Eileen Gardner, whose songs over the air are highly popular. But there are flaws—Jordan Estill, whom she just has sent away, was one. He had been determined to marry her, and it took strength to break off, because only a memory of Martin remains to replace him—Martin, whose last name Eileen does not know. Now her roommate, Molly, is warning her that Mr. Weigand, manager of the station, is a half-hearted Don Juan.

Chapter 11

New York Hears

Eileen first stared, then laughed.

"You mean—you mean that mousy, frightened little Mr. Weigand, who adores Martha so that when she isn't here he holds any other hand—

"That's what I mean. He adores her just that way. Any other hand. Yours. Mine."

"Good heavens. He's no temptation."

"Not to me. But, Martha sees him like that."

Eileen said, even while she dug in her trunk, which, draped in a Spanish shawl, stood against one wall and wasn't unlike a seat if covered, they hoped, "Molly, that's so impossible."

"All right. Anyway, put up the photographs. If you don't want to keep a rose under the handsomest, I'll do it myself."

Eileen set them out—there was no lack of them, girls and men, groups and singles.

"This is he," Molly said solemnly, and thereup dug a Woolworth spray of daisies and a small glass vase from her own possessions and set them before Jordan Estill's picture.

Eileen forgot all about it, for she was very busy. That is, sometimes, seeing the daisies gathering dust just under Jordan's wellheld chin, she laughed, diving in and out of the sunny cement-walled room.

Forgot it so completely, that when Mr. Weigand slipped his hand mechanically into hers if they happened to be near each other, half the time she left it. He looked so hurt when she took it away that she felt like somebody being rude to a child.

The thing which was most important to her blotted everything out for a while. The cable to Martin. She had used, flippantly, like everybody else, a phrase about being "all burned up." She was burned up about the cable.

Her palms were hot and she went from rehearsal to work in a painful state of tension and expectancy. She tried not to show it to Molly, but Molly, shrewd-eyed, and herself pouncing on Eastern mails with frank excitement, knew that, at least, there was someone, something, not Jordan Estill, whom Eileen waited to hear from.

And there was no answer.

She said to Molly finally, after a fortnight of waiting, "What happens when there isn't anybody to take a cable? Don't the company tell you they couldn't deliver it or something?"

"If it isn't delivered."

That was true. It had been delivered. Naturally, Martin was on the boat. But he hadn't wired again.

Of course he hadn't . . . and yet—he still might . . .

So it was an Eileen with seven-eighths of her mind on something far removed from singing, records, anything in the world but her own affairs, who strayed into the recording room in response to a message about one of her songs. "Something important," the messenger told her.

Little Mr. Weigand was fussing with the phonograph in a corner.

"I want you to listen to a couple of your own recordings," he said.

"What for?"

He smiled mysteriously. "I'll tell you later, or Martha will," he said. "We're both all excited about it."

She sat back. She listened. There didn't seem to be much point to hearing herself sing: "Just Awearyin' for You," and "You Are My Lucky Star." They sounded all right. That is, they sounded like somebody else's voice with occasional touches of familiarity.

Casanova

Mr. Weigand took them off and came over to her, beaming.

"We got a wire from one of the big New York studios today." He named it.

Eileen sat up, all her indifference gone.

"You know, we send them recordings from time to time, to keep them interested. You never know."

She nodded.

"Well, my dear, they wire that they'd like to rent these two recordings!"

He beamed with innocent joy.

"They do?"

"Yes. I knew you'd be glad to hear it."

She waited, but that was all.

"But—Mr. Weigand—don't I get any royalty from that?"

Mr. Weigand cleared his throat.

"Well now, my dear—you know how we are fixed here. It takes all we have to carry the station. And Martha and I take it for granted that you young people are as interested in the cause of art as we are. We try to choose only real enthusiasts—"

"In other words," Eileen said, "you pay me what is less than a living wage for singing over your station, on the pretext that it will lead to something more, and when it does lead to something more you hold out on me."

She was suddenly furious. He stood blinking at her in what seemed honest surprise.

"But Eileen—the honor of singing here—"

The door behind them opened quietly.

"I don't know whether you know that I am staying on here, in spite of an offer to tie up with the best agent in Denver," Eileen said quietly. "You should. I told your wife about it."

"But, my dear. We did know. We thought it was so beautiful of you. But—" he came nearer, looking at her with his usual timid wistfulness—"we rather thought it was because you personally liked us—"

He put an arm around her waist, and began to say gently, "In fact, that—"

She gave the arm a quick jerk, and turned on him angrily.

"Then it seems to me it ought to work both ways. I think—"

She got no chance to go any further. Martha Weigand, from the door, said, "I thought so!" There was fury in her voice.

Eileen faced round on her, still not taking in the situation.

"Just what did you think?" she demanded, staring at the woman's snapping black eyes and the shaking stout body in its beads and batiks. Mrs. Weigand was undoubtedly as angry as Eileen. But Eileen was unprepared for the cause of her anger.

"I thought you were staying on here because you were making a play for my husband! And you tell me after that, you little love snatcher, that I haven't a right to use you for my art? Holding his hand, coming off here alone with him—"

"This is idiotic as well as outrageous," Eileen said, suddenly cool. The two people were such conceited freaks. It was all grotesque.

"Your husband was trying to tell me that I hadn't any right to royalties on records of my own voice. And when I objected, apparently he was under the impression that a little petting would make up for it."

"You brazen little thing!" Mrs. Weigand said. "Don't you suppose that I know why you came here—why girls come out here? Naturally I put up with it, if they will be such fools. But beyond a certain point I protect my husband from them. And that point's come with you."

The Break

It was all nearly insane. Eileen felt as if she was in a world standing on its head.

"You mean," she said mercilessly, "that you suppose that funny little man is so attractive that girls my age can fall for him—and that you are willing to use it?"

Someone else clattered in.

"Eileen—" Molly called. "Been looking for you everywhere. Message." She waved it. "What's the matter?"

"The matter is, you were right and I was wrong," Eileen said. "This dreadful little old man thinks I'm crazy over him. And his wife thinks I am, too — and singing here—" Eileen began to laugh—"for love of him!"

"My husband admitted to me that he was interested—" Mrs. Weigand shouted.

"But you showed me you cared . . ." Mr. Weigand began, still piteously.

Molly Flanagan put an arm around her friend's waist.

"Come along, kid. Same old game. It happens regularly once a season. Martha has to believe she owns the tops in glamour boys, and Weigy just sort of keeps himself and her fooled about it. I guess that's all. Last year it was a waitress, fortunately.

"Look here, Weigands—" Molly turned on the couple, her eyes as flaming as her hair—"Don't you think you're pretty dumb to pick on your fans' pet radio singer? Not to speak of she's engaged to one of the profs in the university, and a girl with lots of backing and position? What goes on, anyhow, that you got crazy with the desert heat and didn't make it a dishwasher — or even a washwoman's child like me? Pipe down!"

Mrs. Weigand, unbelievably, did pipe down.

"If Eileen is engaged," she said, going back to her accustomed stateliness, "I can forgive and understand her — ah — girlish familiarities. We were all a little excited, dear. Shall we forgive and forget?"

She beamed kindly at Eileen.

Eileen took two steps toward the pile of records on the phonograph. She picked up the recordings, and carefully threw them on the floor and stamped on them.

"I certainly shan't," she said. "In fact, you will have to find somebody else for the evening song hour. I'm going back to Denver tonight, if I can hire anybody's

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WENDELL Willkie astonished even close friends, on a recent visit to the Capital, with the intimation that he might not be averse to heading a third party in 1944. Although he muddied the political waters with this revelation, he did shed fresh light on his own attitude toward both the GOP and the Roosevelt administration.

The 1940 Republican nominee has taken a "plague on both your houses" stand toward the major parties to which he once belonged. He thinks that the majority of GOP-ers, inside and outside Congress, are hopelessly wrong in refusing to follow the president in his foreign policy. But he feels that FDR's domestic program, particularly the administration and management of it, has not improved since the days when Willkie was head of Commonwealth & Southern.

If both groups continue in what he regards as evil ways, he believes that 1944 might be an excellent year in which to try to lick them. His friends have claimed since November that he rolled up his large vote without much active assistance from the GOP organization. So they maintain he might have a good chance, if he could win the nomination on a ticket combining the best features of both old parties.

SPREE: Federal Reserve Board Chairman Marriner S. Eccles favors the Treasury plan to prevent inflation by heavier taxation. But he does not believe that Secretary Morgenthau's program strikes deep or far enough into the American people's swelling pocketbook.

Bankers Eccles points out that the $19,000,000,000 which the government expects to spend next year will be paid out again, whether raised by bond issues or taxation. It will flow back to the people who forked over the larger taxes, or to the financial houses which bought the bonds. They will have far more to spend than ever before, despite rising taxes, and they will have a smaller amount of consumer goods for purchase. Therefore he figures that the contemplated controls will be insufficient.

Since corporations with defense orders will make the biggest profits, Mr. Eccles advocates higher increases on corporate taxes than those proposed by Mr. Morgenthau. He also has made a study of consumer credit, or instalment buying. As an additional safeguard, he favors some effort to tighten up the terms of payment, thus making it more difficult for folks to step out on a long-term buying spree.

SURPRISE: Young men who preferred to join the National Guard rather than be drafted now discover that the joke, if any, is on them. Despite their year with the Guard, they still will be eligible for a year's service with the selectees at the end of their present training period. Not even Selective Service officials were aware of this provision until recently, for they had advertised that National Guard service would permit men to escape the draft. It is probable that Congress will be asked to remedy the situation, provided both units are not kept in camp for longer than a year.

NEW YORK
By S. Burton Heath

WHILE re-armament lags, there are at least 4,500 plants pleading for the opportunity to help with it. While the pressure on machine tools is so heavy that they aren't available even for schools to train defense workers, there are at least 157,000 ready and capable of doing two million hours of production each day. These figures are minima. They are for plants and tools located and recorded by the National Association of Manufacturers.

With the co-operation of dozens of other agencies the N.A.M. has studied 18,000 plants throughout the nation. It found six less than 4,000 which actually are working on defense contracts, and 539 more than 4,000 which would like to help but have been given nothing to do. The factories which have the orders represent the largest and most efficient producers, in general. These are the ones which went after contracts, and they are the ones with whom the Army, the Navy and the OPM have found it easiest to place and supervise the execution of orders. But the 2,000,000,000 idle machine-tool hours each day demonstrate that the possibilities have not been very thoroughly exploited.

One argument has if that these figures are not only minima, but are close to maxima. This is based upon the theory that every plant that wants war work cooperated in the survey, while those which did not come in were the ones with nothing to offer. It is suggested that this may be fallacious. Presumably all who are anxious for government work did get into the study. But in all-out production the manufacturer's desire to do war work is not so important as his ability. Many firms which could make armament would prefer to maintain their civilian markets, and are not deliberately inviting attention to their availability. These might swell the totals found.

MATERIALS: Attempts either to get original contracts into the hands of the smaller plants, or to induce prime contractors to farm out parts of their orders, have been none too successful. This is an important factor in the plaint of Purchaser Director Donald Nelson, who is credited with achieving marvels and yet is becoming increasingly frank about his worries. Unless we wake up, he says, nobody has the right to be very optimistic about anything that is American.

At the risk of having Mr. Nelson branded with the label of "defeatist," along with most of those who have been pointing out factually that we are not in condition now to fight and are not preparing fast enough, his summary of the situation should be given wide attention. It is his opinion that after starting far behind Germany, even today we and Britain together are not producing as much as the Reich is obtaining for its Armies. The Nazis entered the war fully equipped and with their factories working on high. England went in poorly prepared, and lost most of what she had at Dunkerque. We had virtually nothing, and sent most of that to France, from whom Hitler took it.

When the German Armies marched into Poland Hitler was spending the equivalent of $1 billion a month on armament. Now he is spending closer to $3 billions than $2 billions a month, or 60 per cent of the national income. He has integrated the economies of virtually the whole Continent. Besides the Reich's own carefully organized industry, he is drawing upon the production of France, Belgium, Holland, Norway, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Italy. He has their pre-war accumulations, their raw materials, and their productive capacities.

INSISTENCE: As a part of the picture Nelson points out that whereas Germany is spending the equivalent of some $2,5 billions a month for war goods actually manufactured and are ready for use, the U. S. from the beginning of its production program has paid out a total of only $4 billions. Our entire output, then, from beginning to now, is less than two months' production in and for the use of the Reich.

With much to-do FDR has asked for and been voted $40 billions for defense and aid-to-Britain. Very efficiently Mr. Nelson has placed orders for about half of that. But soldiers cannot shoot, or aviators fly, or sailors navigate contracts. They need guns and ammunition, planes and ships, and however big the appropriations and the orders may seem, the actual output aggregates only $4 billions.

These figures bear upon the insistence of real experts who occupy no official position, and therefore can go much further than those who do, that it would be national suicide for the U. S. to jump into the war until we are armed for it.

That Girl on Broadway says man criticizes woman for her extravagances, but she never spends $18.40 on a three-day trip that nets two 45 cent fish.

O. S. Marden:
We grumble because God put thorns on roses; wouldn't it be better to thank God that He put roses with thorns?

THIS being the jolly springtime, and all that sort of thing, The Plainsman takes great pleasure in passing along to both readers of this stint a bit of off-the-elbow whimsy which some anonymous, yet never-the-less thoughtful, citizen sent us in the mail.

In the hope it will take your mind at least momentarily off of the unpleasant things with which our world is currently fraught, here goes:

WHAT IS DOUBLE PETUNIA?

Well, a petunia is a flower, like begonia;
A begonia is a meat like sausage;
A sausage and battery is a crime;
Monkeys crime trees;
Trees a crowd;
A rooster crowd in the morning and made a noise;
A noise is on your face like an eye;
The eyes is the opposite of the nays.
A horse nays and has a colt;
You get a colt and go to bed, and:
Wake up in the morning with double petunia!
Heh heh.

Not only because this simple verse came in the same envelope with the discourse on "Double Petunia," but also because it expresses a truth, we all should know, we offer for your consideration a poem, "It Shows On Your Face."

We wish we knew the name of its author. It would be a pleasure to give him or her credit for the work.

You don't have to say how you live each day,
You don't have to say if you work or play,
For a tried, true barometer stands on your face,
However you live will show on your face.

The false, the deceit, that you bear in your heart,
Doesn't stay inside where it first got its start,
For sinews and blood are a thin veil of lace,
What you bear in your heart will show on your face.

If you've gambled and won in this great game of life,
If you've felt you've conquered the sorrows and strife,
If you've played the game fair, and stand safe on first base,
You don't have to tell it, it shows on your face.

If you dissipate nights till the morn in most nigh
There is one tattler, and one that won't lie,
For since your barometer still stands in its place
You don't have to tell it, it shows on your face.

If your life is unselfish, for others you live;
Not what you get, but what you can give,
If you've lived close to God in his infinite grace,
You don't have to tell it, it shows on your face

Although the verse above may not be a poetic classic, if you ask The Plainsman it's well worth reading.

FOR some reason or another, although neither of us would give you a plugged quarter for exclusive fishing privileges in the finest fishing grounds in the world, The Plainsman and that redoubtable reporter, Halbert Irvin Kiefer, the other day fell to discussing subjects piscatorial.

One word led to another then Mr. Kiefer removed his battered old pipe from between his brand, new china chompers—adjusted the upper plate more firmly—and began as follows:

"You know," he said, "a catfish can be a very, very dangerous thing. When they are big they are a foeman worthy of anybody's steel.

"I remember when I was working at Muskogee, Okla., on the Daily Phoenix, that every once-in-awhile we'd get a story about someone being badly hurt by a big catfish. Muskogee, you know, is adjacent to many fishing grounds and among the fish easily caught up there are catfish weighing all the way from 40 to 80 pounds.

"Some people up that way, especially Indians, catch the big 'cats' by a method known as 'noodling.' That is where they wade in the catfish infested waters until they find a big 'cat,' then reach down with their hands and try to pick the thing up. A catfish's fin is sharp as a razor and notched like a saw and the big 'cats' will cut the waddin' out of a person if they can.

"I remember one time we had a story on the Daily Phoenix about a fellow being killed while trying to 'noodle' a catfish.

"This particular fisherman had grabbed hold of a big 'cat,' and in some way or another the horn, or spike, on the fish's head was rammed through the fisherman's eye and into his brain. Friends of the victim told our reporters they had a terrible time getting the fish and his victim separated. Yes, sir. That's a fact!"

The Plainsman, personally, declines to take any responsibility for the truth of this story. Mr. Kiefer, himself, will have to carry the load.

But the writer has seen painful cuts on fishermen who have fooled with catfish; and he has seen the big 'uns brought back here from Devil's River by such piscatorial experts as Wiley Puckett.

Therefore, he's willing to believe almost anything about big "cats."

One of the local gendarmes turned a speeder into the curb and sauntered up to the offender's car, his book of "tickets" and pencil in hand. Sensing what was coming, the motorist, a young squirt, became very domineering.

"Look here, my man," he said to the cop, "you can't arrest me. Why I come from one of the best and richest families in town."

"Take it easy, son, take it easy," said the unruffled cop. "I'm arresting you for speeding, not for social purposes!"

Mrs. George M. Boles Is Guest At ABC Meeting

One of the few Lubbock county women who married in this county and lived to celebrate her golden wedding anniversary here was the guest speaker Friday noon at an annual Mother's day observance by the American Business club at its weekly luncheon in Hilton hotel.

She was Mrs. George M. Boles, who with Mr. Boles celebrated her 50th wedding anniversary April 20. She and her husband were married at Estacado April 20, 1891, one of the last couples to be married with a license issued at Estacado, which was then believed to be in Crosby county.

Tells Of Experiences

Mrs. Boles told of her experiences in response to a series of questions by W. L. Hester, program chairman with T. Bruce Craig. There were nearly 90 persons attending, many of the members bringing their wives or mothers and several brought both.

Co-Chairman Craig on behalf of the club, presented a gift to Mrs. A. C. Sanders, the youngest mother present and to Mrs. H. W. Hester, 77, "the mother who has been here the longest." Mrs. Boles was also presented a gift by the club.

Collard Presides

Bert Collard, vice president, presided over the session. Each member introduced his guest. Mrs. Raymond Marshall sang two solos, with Mrs. Sanders accompanying her on the piano. Mrs. Sanders played a solo. Their appearance was in observance of National Music week.

Mrs. Boles said she came with her father to Crosby county in 1884 and that they lived on a ranch there until she married a young 10A ranch employe, George Boles. The couple drove in a buggy to Estacado, eight miles north and west of Lorenzo, the Crosby county seat, and the only town, except Plainview, between Colorado City and Amarillo.

The couple returned to the ranch to live. A house they had built before their marriage was burned in March and for a wedding trip they drove to Colorado City to buy furniture for a four-room box house in which they lived. Estacado, she said, was a Quaker settlement, with a school and a church. "It was there before Amarillo," she added.

Still Has Piano

"My father freighted posts out of Double Mountain, down near Snyder, when I was a girl," she recalled. "I remember when there was not a single fence between here and Amarillo or here and Colorado City. My father built the first wire fence in this section."

Emma was chosen as the county seat when Crosby county residents found Estacado was actually in Lubbock instead of Crosby county. It was south of where Ralls now is.

There were few amusements, she explained, horseback riding, dances at ranch houses, and picnics in the canyons, besides roundups. The Boles home was the center of interest for the children for many years. She had a piano, given her as a girl, and for years it was the only one in this whole section. She recalled driving a team and wagon in which the piano was loaded, from her Crosby county home to her own new home in Yellowhouse canyon. She still owns the piano.

Boy Scouts of India sent $450 to the Red Cross as a first installment.

Rotarians Urged To Register

Lubbock Rotarians today are to register for the coming fourth annual district convention which opens Sunday night, Overton W. Ribble, president, said Friday night.

Registration will be in the lobby of the Hilton hotel. W. O. Daniels, club secretary, has arranged for a committee to handle the taking of names, etc.

Governor Expected

"Admission to all events during the convention will be by badge and ticket only," Homer D. Grant, convention chairman, pointed out. "Rotarians and their ladies' will be given tickets and badges of admission to all sessions. We urge every Lubbock Rotarian to register before the general registration opens Sunday afternoon."

District Governor Frank S. Roberts is expected from Breckenridge either late today or Sunday morning. He is to preside at all business sessions. Other speakers are due Sunday.

The program is complete and copies of the official booklet have been received for distribution with badges.

Reports indicate that nearby clubs will be represented practically 100 per cent. Many of the Rotarians nearby plan to drive home at night.
