Man killed by gunshot

Jamie Lee Green 30, of Colorado City, was charged with murder in Justice of the Peace Charles Watlington's court, Tuesday afternoon, following the early morning shooting death of John Frank Emerson 32 at 720 First Street.

Chief of Police Ed Wheat says that police were called to that address (720 First Street) about 11:58 p.m., then left and were called back at 12:23 a.m. A shot had been fired and Wheat says that Emerson was shot in the forehead. JP Watlington pronounced him dead at the scene.

About an hour later, Wheat says, Green appeared at the police station and surrendered. Wheat says that the cause of the quarrel was not known, but investigation continues.

The body was sent to Big Spring immediately for an autopsy, but will be at the Kiker-Seale

Funeral Home for funeral arrangements.

Bond for Green was set at $25,000 and he remains in the Mitchell County jail in lieu of bond.

Public hearing set for Monday, Aug. 15

The Commissioner's Court of Mitchell County met Monday and set a public hearing for the 1984 budget for 9 a.m., Monday, August 15th.

Commissioners also gave Sheriff Wendell Bryant permission to advertise for bids for two new cars for the Sheriff's Department. The Sheriff will have two 1982 cars to trade in. One has 69,000 miles on the speedometer, the other has 59,000 miles. The Commissioners stipulated that the bill for the two cars are to come in after October 1st.

The commissioners also voted to hire Charley Griggs of Sweetwater to help defend Sheriff Wendell Bryant and Deputy Bobby Calloway against a two and a half million dollar suit filed by a former prisoner in the Mitchell County jail. Attorney Griggs will charge $100 an hour for his time.

Sheriff Bryant also requested and received authority to appoint

Mike Hemphill as a reserve deputy.

About a dozen ranchers, mostly from the southern part of the county, appeared to request additional funds for the government trapper who receives $700 a month for trapping predatory animals. The amount budgeted for the trapper for one year was $6,930 and that amount will run out about the middle of October. County Judge Bill Carter suggested that interested farmers and ranchers make up the difference (two and a half months) from private funds. The group left and will consider this. The trapper will receive $7,276 in 1984.

The commissioner's court also accepted the resignation of Mildred Boyd as County Treasurer. The resignation is effective October 31, 1983. The commissioners court will make an appointment to fill out See HEARING, Page 2

Chamber increases membership dues

The Colorado City Chamber of Commerce board of directors met Monday night to discuss several items, including a membership dues increase.

The board voted to raise the membership fee to a $10 minimum for business and $5 per month for individual members.

The $10 minimum fee is an increase of $4 a month while the increase for individuals amounts to a $2 increase. The new due scale is effective immediately.

The date for the Mitchell County Fair were set for September 29, 30, 31 and October 1. The chairmen of this year's fair will be Ronnie Feaster and Ray Ritchey. The Colorado City RECORD was once again given approval to sponsor the bake-off held in conjunction with the fair.

In other board action, J. O. Dockrey reported on the progress of the Railroad Arts and Crafts Show which will be held October 8-9.

Dockrey stated that 22 booths have been reserved for the event which will be held at the fair grounds.

Tax rate shows 3% increase

The Colorado City Council met in regular session, Tuesday night, and heard a presentation of the annual audit of the city's books from CPA Joe Morren. Morren's comments on the general business practices of the city were approving.

City Manager Rick Crowley said the approved tax rate would show a three percent increase over last year. The new rate is .59626 per hundred dollars of valuation.

Bill Shipp requested a four way stop sign at 22nd and Chestnut Streets to slow traffic. The council approved his request.

Walter Sickles requested a change in the city's ordinances to require the same treatment for cats as for dogs. He suggested that they be penned up, that they be walked on a leash, required to wear a collar and be vaccinated just like dogs.

Mayor Elmer Martin appointed a committee to study the cat problem.

CCVFD answers two car fires

The Colorado City Volunteer Fire Department answered calls on vehicle fires Monday and Tuesday, according to Fire Marshall L. O. Schafer.

On Monday, one unit and six firemen answered a call at Seventeenth and Austin Street on a 1978 Chevrolet pickup owned by Bobby Morris of Colorado City.

The fire department received the call at 2:08 p.m. and had the blaze extinguished in five minutes. Parts of the motor were burned during the fire.

On Tuesday at 3:12 p.m. the CCVFD answered a call of a 1971 Chevrolet El Camino on fire at J&J Gulf Service Station. The vehicle belonged to Jesse Wiggins of 943 East 15th Street.

Four men and one unit answered the call, but the fire had been put out upon their arrival. Paint on the hood and wires were burned. Wiggins was treated for minor burns on his face and arms.

Woodland Activity Center cleans up the highway

Ever notice how litter-free the local highways and service roads have been over the last couple of months?

Thanks can be given to the Woodland Activity Center for tidiness of the roads. For the last month the activity center for mentally retarded and physically handicapped people has been contracted by the State of Texas to pick up litter on the roadsides.

The center received the bid on the job a few months ago and has been busily working since, said Woodland Activity Center Director Janie Garcia.

The Woodland Foundation has been in existence in Mitchell County for approximately ten years. It was started in 1974 as a school age program for youngsters and older adults. But in the recent years since a law has been passed for public schools to have learning facilities for the mentally retarded and the school program has changed to an activity workshop.

Through this workshop which is open to mentally and physically handicapped people 16 and over, various jobs are received for the participants in the center.

"This new job we have is the best one we have had so far," said Mrs. Garcia who has been with the Woodland program for 10 years. Mrs. Garcia is a native of Loraine and graduated from Loraine High School in 1965. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Trindad Chavez of Loraine.

Over the past years the center has mainly done peace rate work, which is performing a job and getting paid on commission. Usually on these type of jobs their pay is based on a ratio of what a normal person See WOODLAND Page 2

Farmers Union criticizes Block, Stockman

The Texas Farmers Union Executive Board meeting in Corpus Christi lashed out against Secretary of Agriculture John Block's announcement that he was considering cutting the Commodity Credit Corporation loan rates by 10 percent. Secretary Block, along with OMB Director David Stockman and President Reagan, were also criticized for urging Congress to freeze the current farm program target prices.

"The real irony in the Block proposal," said Mike Moeller, Texas Farmers Union President from Hays County, "is that for the last 2½ years, the Reagan Administration has been assuring us that their programs will raise market prices for farmers' products so high that the government won't need to spend a dime on price support programs."

"Remember," Moeller continued, "that the loan and target prices are merely 'safety nets' that insure a farmer will recoup some of his losses during periods of low market prices. When prices in the market-place exceed these low safety net levels, the farmer receives no government support and the American taxpayer saves money."

The fact that the Administration is concerned about these safety net devices proves that their farm programs have, by their own admission, been miserable failures. "Now is the time for farm programs to be improved, not weakened as Secretary Block has recommended," Moeller added. "If the Reagan Administration wins out on this one, thousands of family farmers will be driven from their land. The damaging repercussions will be felt throughout the whole economy." The TFU Executive Board contended that reducing price supports would "only compound the present problems in agriculture and the business community service agriculture."

The Texas Farmers Union believes that loan and target price reductions "would inevitably lower participation in supply - management programs, increase the economic jeopardy of many already desperate young farmers and add to the nation's commodity stockpiles. Moeller explained that when combined with administrative problems that are occurring with the payment-in-kind program, price support reductions would further "erode the confidence of producers in the Administration's ability to carry out a meaningful supply-management system."

A request will be made for funds for sewers in the southeast part of town and for elevated storage in the northwest part of town.

Ira Williamson was appointed to the Housing Authority Board.

The council will pay for its new $69,188 pumper for the fire department on the installment plan. The city will pay $35,000 down and $2,000 per month until May 1st, 1984, when the balance will be renegotiated.

could do, and their pay is very low. "A lot of the time they get paid $35 a month. About the most a person made in a month's time is $50," said Mrs. Garcia.

Now with the present job, the participants work five days a week, six hours per day and make $3.35 per hour. Only five clients are allowed to work each day so sometimes the group has to switch out, but they are still making more money than they have ever had.

The big increase in pay has went over well with activity workers. Husband and wife Jack and Rosie McCartney says the added money has been coming in handy. The couple has been married for three years. Rosie has been a member of the activity center off and on since 1979. Jack just recently became active in the center with Tuesday being his first day on the job.

"I am going to like this job. I enjoy keeping the highways clean," explained Jack. "I have been having fun spending my money. It is better than packaging spoons because you make more money," stated Rosie.

Getting the bid on the job was no easy task for the center. At first, officials were leary of awarding them the contract but the activity turned those doubts into high praise with the way they have kept the highways clean.

The group starts every day at 8 a.m. and work until 2 p.m. Thirty minutes for lunch and a 15 minute break is taken in the morning. Their job consists of picking up all litter on the highways, placing it in plastic bags and leaving them on the side of the road for state personnel to pick up.

Working in the hot summer months does not get the workers down. Nina Mendoza who has been with the center since its beginning, says working in the sun is not so bad. "I enjoy working out here and keeping the highway clean. I have been paying all my bills with the extra money. The other jobs paid us too cheap," said Nina.

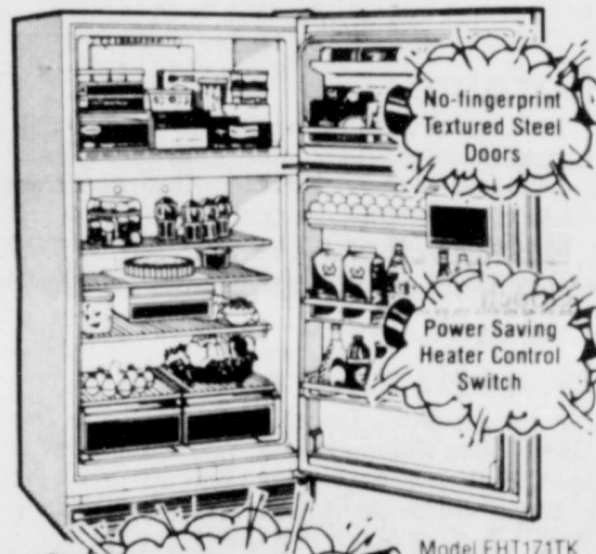

Sixteen-year-old Jake McCartney is the youngest worker in the program. He came to the center from Colorado High School and is the brother of Jack. "Sometimes it's heck out here, but we get the job done. I have more money to spend on snuff and cassettes," explained Jake. Other workers on the crew are Bobby and Bernell Emerson.

Mrs. Garcia feels the work on the present job will help center members get accustomed to working in the "real world." "What we are striving for is normality and have the same benefits as others," said Mrs. Garcia.

And as indicated by the clean highways, that normality is quickly coming around.

GRASS, NOT LIVESTOCK, is the ranchers main resource. When this resource is damaged or destroyed the ranchers profit also suffers.

OVERUSE: It can take several years of planned deferment to restore good vigor and increase the desirable grasses on overused ranges. In some cases, reseeding with desirable grasses may be necessary.

Drought conditions could become worse

Severe drought conditions could be facing Mitchell County farmers and ranchers according to Van Mills, District Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service.

Due to the lack of adequate spring rains, grass production is at a minimum. Moisture stored in the soil from last fall and winter was used up by early spring by winter weeds. During average years 75 percent of total grass production is made by July 20th. Grass production by August 1st was well below average.

Ranchers are hesitant to sell during a drought because of low market prices. Supplemental feeding is another economic factor to be considered during severe drought periods. An important point to remember is, a rancher is in the business of producing grass. He should do the best job possible to produce a good grass crop and then market the grass through his cattle.

A large percentage of the ranching operations that fail are due to poor grass management. The cost of restocking may be high initially but the future cost of poor grass production from overuse and deterioration is much greater.

Farabee protests guidelines for govt. surplus

Mitchell County was one of 25 counties in the 30th District that failed to meet criteria recently set by the Texas Department of Human Resources for the distribution of government surplus commodities. Under the new DHR guidelines, which only 83 of Texas' 254 counties meet, a county must have 8.5 percent unemployment or serve 5,000 food stamp recipients to qualify.

Senator Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls has entered a strong protest with the Department that the guidelines are discriminatory to rural areas saying, "While I realize that federal cut-backs necessitate some changes, I cannot understand why rural areas have been cut out completely. Many children, elderly and disabled persons in these counties need surplus foods to maintain an adequate diet."

"Food bank distribution centers and other groups have been effective in getting surpluses to people in real need. Under the new guidelines, their operations will be hamstrung with additional paperwork and some people will be turned away because of the added restrictions," Farabee added.

Farabee further protested the requirement that food bank centers in counties which fail to meet criteria must return stored food, at state expense, for redistribution to persons in other areas.

The program, enacted by Congress last year, allows states to give away surplus commodities to anyone making up to 85 percent above the federally designated "poverty line," or up to $8,991 a year. However, the new guidelines established by the Texas Department of Human Resources allow food to be distributed only to those whose annual income is at or below the federal poverty definition, which is $4,860 annually.

Statistics show that even at the height of the distribution program, the United States Department of Agriculture was purchasing more items than it was distributing to needy families. The cost of storage is about $400 million each year.

NOW: Get a clean start in '84.

Bindweed and other tough perennial broadleaf weeds keep coming back—getting worse every season. But you can root out bindweed and the rest of these stubborn weeds after harvest or on idle acres with Banvel® herbicide.

When you use Banvel herbicide at recommended rates in a Between Crops Application, you kill perennials clear through the roots—so they can't creep back. Use Banvel herbicide before a killing frost. It penetrates weed leaves. Is absorbed by the roots. Moves through the entire plant—leaf-tip to root-tip. Then rotate back to wheat, corn or milo.

Get the control you need for bindweed... Texas blueweed... woolly leaf bursage... and other tough broadleaf perennials.

Root out your toughest perennial problems with a Banvel herbicide Between Crops Application. Get maximum production from those acres next season. See your ag chem supplier for the full story.

Moeller

urges Block to reconsider

Texas Farmers Union President Mike Moeller urged Secretary of Agriculture John Block to reconsider his decision for emergency disaster aid to 27 drought stricken West Texas counties.

"We are watching this area slowly but surely turning into a new Dust Bowl. If Secretary Block will not make a trip to the area, I suggest he send some of his own Illinois hogs down to pasture here. Maybe after grazing his hogs on prickly pear for a few weeks, he would grasp the seriousness of the situation," Moeller said.

"The western counties in Texas average only about 12 inches of rainfall in normal years. This year, some counties have not yet received one inch of precipitation. The Dust Bowl has returned to West Texas. The area resembles the Chihuahuan Desert more than the grass and range lands native to the area," Moeller stated.

The TFU President pointed out that agricultural production in the area totals $500 million annually. As a result of the 18 month drought, farmers and ranchers are cutting their herds and losing their crops.

Moeller said the USDA should activate the Emergency Feed Grain Program to assist farmers and ranchers in cutting costs to feed the remainder of their herds. Moeller also said that emergency loans should be made available to farmers who have held land out of production.

"It's already too late to save most of the crops this year, but we can still have some of the family farmers and ranchers from going out of business entirely by granting the emergency aid," Moeller said.

"These programs exist for emergencies such as this," Moeller added. "Secretary Block's failure to implement them for West Texas in this crisis amounts to dereliction of duty."

New three-zone alignment approved — set for dove season

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission has approved a new three-zone alignment for dove hunting for the upcoming seasons.

Meeting in Austin last week, the commission established the Panhandle, Central and Rio Grande Zones. The new alignment replaces the two-zone system which had been in effect since 1946 (see map).

Ron George, dove program leader for the Parks and Wildlife Department, told commission members the three-zone system was designed to provide optimum hunting opportunity for hunters when the birds are available, within the context of proper management.

Significant changes brought about by the new alignment include a September 1 opening date for a large portion of Southeast Texas which formerly had the later South Zone opening date; a straight 70-day season for the Panhandle-South Plains and much of North Texas; and allowance for two white-winged doves in the daily bag limit statewide.

The new system also utilizes highways for boundary lines for better delineation of zone boundaries. Under the two-zone system, county boundaries were used.

The Panhandle Zone mourning dove season will be September 1-November 9; the Central Zone season will be September 1-October 30, 1983, and January 7-16, 1984; the Rio Grande zone will be September 17-November 5, 1983 and January 7-22, 1984.

The statewide bag limit will be 12 doves, not to include more than two white-winged doves.

Shooting hours will be one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. During the special four-day white-winged dove season in the Rio Grande Zone, hunting for both mourning and white-winged doves will be allowed September

3-4 and 10-11. In the shaded portion of the zone, the daily bag limit will be 10 whitewings and 12 mourning doves. In the lined portion, the daily limit will be 12 mourning doves and two whitewings, for a total daily limit of 14 birds.

Shooting hours during the four-day white-winged season will be noon to sunset.

One fully-feathered wing must remain attached to the carcass of every dove taken by hunters in the Rio Grande Zone only, while the bird is being transported between the place where taken and one's abode or a commercial processing facility.

As in the past, all persons who hunt white-winged doves will be required to have a White-winged Dove Stamp in their possession in addition to a valid hunting license. The stamp requirement applies to any person taking or hunting whitewings statewide. A hunting license is not required of persons hunting doves in the county of residence.

As in past years, hunters in the shaded portion of the Rio Grande Zone should be aware of the white-winged dove sanctuary system, wherein certain portions of the zone along the Rio Grande are closed on alternating years. This season, Zone A of the sanctuary is open for hunting during the upcoming four-day white-winged season, while Zone B is closed (see map)

Boadle gives book review at Loraine Methodist

Mrs. Ben (Madeline) Boadle of Big Spring, president of the Big Spring District United Methodist Women brought a review on the study book of "People of the Pacific," August 3, at the Loraine Methodist Church from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. This area included the Hawaiian Polynesian, the Caribbean and Melanesian Islands.

A film was first shown so that conditions under which some of the people live could be understood in the review. She highlighted their economy, culture, cargo cults, nuclear controls and Christianity.

She pointed out the importance of helping the indigero's churches grow, because nine out of 10 major evangelist successes result from work of their local christian, not from U.S. or European preachers. Distrust exists toward wealthy countries when their people observe the big lush hotels and playgrounds are established in an area where they have a bare existence themselves. The greatest foreign investments in the Islands are from New Zealand and Australia.

A pot luck luncheon was served and Mrs. Boadle completed the program at 2 p.m. Local women present were Mmes. Rita Richards, Ruth Blair, Elva Smith, Mattie Neely, Syble Walker, Lola Fay Bennett, J. The highlight of last week was unexpected. We asked to have our piano tuned. As it turned out the repairman not only fixed our piano, but he and his wife played and sung old time gospel songs. On Friday, August 5 he and his wife, along with two daughters returned to sing and play.

Lemonade was served as we enjoyed the singing. Apart from the music being so special, was Mr. Bumstead himself who is totally blind. Not only is his music inspirational but he is an inspiration to all who are fortunate enough to meet him. He and his family are from Louisiana and are visiting in Loraine and we hope they will come again.

Another visitor who came to see us was Mrs. Velma Sheppard who also played the piano for our pleasure.

Hubert Saling made a trip to the library and stopped by the Dairy Queen for some ice cream. He was anxious to get home and settle in with "Zane Gray."

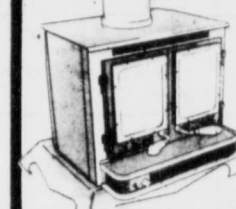

Our monthly birthday party for August will be held August 17 at 2:30 p.m. The August birthday honorees are Mrs. Vinnie Maddin, Mrs. Vanda Martin and Mrs. Lottie Pritchett.

The Canyon Gun Club and co sponsor Snyder Chamber of Commerce enjoyed great success with the first Gun Show last year. The 1983 show is expected to be much larger than last years. Exhibitors all agree that Snyder puts on a first class Gun Show. The Scurry County Coliseum is perfectly suited to host such an event. The coliseum is clean, spacious, air conditioned and affords excellent security for dealers exhibits. RV hook ups are available on the coliseum grounds, and many quality motels are located near by—several within walking distance.

Changes in DWI law to be made

The following article is a public service by the Colorado City RECORD through the corporation of County Attorney Pat Barber and the Prosecutor's Council:

The outcry against driving while intoxicated has grown tremendously, and rightly so. The statistics can be frightening:

—Half of the people in the U.S. will be involved in a D.W.I. collision during their lifetime.

—In 1980 drunk driving was involved in the death of a person in Texas every four hours.

—Drunk driving is the most common form of violent death and the leading cause of death among young people.

Earlier this year this office in cooperation with the Prosecutor Council presented a series of articles examining the problem. Recognizing the need for reform, the Texas Legislature addressed the issue in its last regular session. In June Governor Mark White signed into law Senate Bill 1, which becomes effective January 1, 1984. The bill brings many changes, some of which are highlighted below.

The very definition of D.W.I. has been revised. If a driver has a .1 percent or more alcohol concentration in his blood, he will be by definition guilty of D.W.I.

Evidence of alcohol in the blood is often shown by the results of a breathalyzer test. If a driver refuses to take a breathalyzer test or similar test, that refusal could now have two effects.

First, he will lose his driver's license for 90 days. This will be true even if he is not later charged with or convicted of D.W.I. Second, the fact of his refusal may be introduced at his trial. The jurors will know the defendant refused a breath test and may believe that the defendant knew he was drunk.

Counties of 25,000 population or more will be required to use videotape equipment to preserve for trial how the defendant looked and behaved shortly after arrest. The tape will allow jurors to see for themselves how the defendant looked and acted that night. Upon conviction a first offender could lose his license for 90 days to a year. A repeat offender could lose his license for 180 days to 2 years.

Stiffer fines will also be imposed. The driver can expect to pay from $100 to $2,000, depending on how many times he has been convicted of D.W.I.

Jail time has also been increased. Again, depending on the number of times he has been convicted, a driver could expect to spend from three days to five years in jail.

If the driver has seriously injured another person as a result of his drunk driving, his punishment will be even greater. An additional $500 fine and an additional 60 days in jail could be tacked on to the fines and sentences already mentioned.

The use of deferred adjudication has been eliminated. Under this method of handling cases, the individual pleads guilty before a judge. The judge delays entering judgement pending a period of probation. If the person completes his probation, the offense is removed from his record. This process will no longer be open to D.W.I. defendants.

Probation will also be affected. In the future, if the convicted driver receives probation, he must be evaluated to see if he needs alcohol or drug rehabilitation. Furthermore, a probated sentence will count as a final conviction. If the same driver is convicted again, it will be his second conviction for purposes of figuring his punishment.

Other changes in the law help keep the offender off the streets. Under certain circumstances, a repeat offender will be forced to forfeit his automobile to the state. Some drivers may find themselves unable to afford automobile coverage; insurance companies will be allowed to place a surcharge for up to three years on rates to a D.W.I. offender.

These changes highlight efforts by Texas lawmakers to address the problem of D.W.I. If you have any questions, please feel free to call my office. Pat Barber, County Attorney, (915) 728-5080.
