Kitchen Jazzbos Fried Crispy Tones

WITH apologies to no one, The Record News this morning prints the hitherto unpublished photograph of the Wichita Falls-Mineral Wells West Texas C-C Jazz-Bo Kitchen band. To contrary expressions notwithstanding, this newspaper believes the value of its Sunday morning edition is improved rather than lowered by publication of this picture. And in this sentiment hearty concurrence from such esteemed citizens as District Attorney James V. Allred, Gene Leopold and Judge Sartin, has been received in advance. Every effort was made to erase from this picture the physiognomy of one E. F. Fruechte, who though he played a powerful cornet (in parenthesis) is nevertheless an esteemed contemporary of the writer. However, so striking are his features that complete erasure is impossible—so why worry, anyway. No attempt is made to identify the individuals in the picture. Merged as they were with 30,000 others, however, they were easily distinguishable at Mineral Wells. The beautiful lyrics as expostulated by Pestoco, Friberg, Irs Brown, Stokes, Jr., Julian Montgomery, Joe Huckins and Clyde Bartlett were the striking chords (not discords) of the convention, and it was because of the Kitchen Jazzbos' superiority that they were barred from competition with the 51 other West Texas musical organizations.

BUILD MARKET AS AUDITORIUM AID--HASKETT

C-C Man Proposes New Plan for Securing Big Building.

A new possibility was suggested Saturday for a municipal auditorium for Wichita Falls when Fred L. Haskett, assistant manager of the chamber of commerce outlined to members of the Wichita Falls realty board a plan that has been found feasible in other sections of the country. It was given unofficial endorsement by the board when the majority of its members commented favorably on the idea.

He Makes Investigations

Mr. Haskett said he had made a number of investigations of the municipal auditorium question and had found many communities erecting such buildings in connection with their city hall and public market. The city hall feature is nothing new, since plans more or less definite have been mapped out here to include an auditorium, hall and general civic center.

The speaker declared that the public market angle was a little known and little-developed factor that could be made into a paying proposition. It has been demonstrated elsewhere, he said, that rentals of the stalls could be relied on to bring in substantial revenues.

Is a Need Here

Mr. Haskett said that before Wichita Falls could hope to attract large conventions it must provide an auditorium capable of meeting the demands of a big organization. For that reason, he reiterated, the city should stir itself to make an auditorium a reality instead of a dream.

Fireman's Foot Is Bruised at Blaze

Ray Counts, fireman at the central station, is confined to his home with a badly bruised foot sustained at 2 o'clock Saturday morning when the heavy pumper he was connecting to a fire hydrant in the negro district of town rolled back and pinned him against a bank. His foot was feared to have been crushed but later examination revealed he was not seriously hurt.

The blaze destroyed two stores and damaged a house before it was brought under control.

THINGS WARM UP SATURDAY

Sun Comes Out Again to Drive Thermometer to Higher Levels.

Mr. Sol, sometimes referred to as elderly, straightened his rheumatic shin(e)s Saturday and for the first time in a week gave his arch enemy, Near Zero, a run for his money.

It was a warm day, somewhat. Instead of cloudy skies, a chill wind and sinking thermometers, sunshine, lack of a breeze and mounting temperatures greeted the big Saturday crowds that flocked to the business district during the afternoon and night.

Saturday night was partly cloudy, but weather bureau reports for Sunday indicated fair and warm.

THE WEATHER

EAST TEXAS: Sunday and Monday partly cloudy, probably scattered showers.

FOR THE WEEK

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Weather outlook for the week beginning Monday:

West Gulf States: Showers and cool at beginning, followed by fair and warmer remainder of week.

Small Homes A Big Need Here

If Your Wandering Boy Keeps Roaming Phone Record News

Real Estate Report Shows 400 Single-Family Houses Required.

RENTS ARE HIGH

More Apartment and New Hotel Also Should Be Provided.

Four hundred single-family dwellings, twice the number of apartments now available here and a new hotel are needed to give Wichita Falls the housing facilities it should have.

These are the view of members of the real estate commission which has just completed a comprehensive survey of local conditions at the request of the national real estate board. The results of the investigation, conducted over a period of several weeks, were made known Saturday.

The committee has compiled an illuminating report on housing problems, real estate financing, rentals and other kindred matters.

Need Residences.

It appears that the most pressing need just now is for medium priced residence to accommodate single families. The board found that at least 400 of these could be used here to advantage despite the vast amount of residential construction going on. Apartment houses, something the city has been woefully short of, could be doubled in number and find a ready market, it was found.

Regarding rents, the committee found that the average rental per month for one room, unfurnished and unheated, was $15 and up. This means, of course, that the best rent houses in suitable locations, come at $75 per month for five rooms. Middle class residences rent at from $12 to $15 per room per month, and the cheaper ones at from $5 to $7 per room.

First class duplex houses in the best localities cost on an average of $25 per room per month, the board reported. The middle class houses go at $20 and the cheaper ones at $15. In heated apartments, the prices range from $25 to $30, while kitchenett apartments may be obtained at $25, $20 and $15 for good, medium and cheap class, respectively.

Enough Office Space.

A keen shortage in office buildings and business structures exists here at present, but the board believed the supply would be equal to the demand when construction work now under way is finished.

A bare statement that considerable

A. B. Forrest Jury Unable to Agree At Walters; Dismissed

WALTERS, Okla., May 9.—The jury in the trial of A. B. Forrest of this place, indicted for the murder of his 19-year-old son-in-law, George Hicks, here last February, reported at 5 o'clock this afternoon they were unable to agree and were dismissed by District Judge Wells. The foreman stated that the count at the time of dismissal stoop eight for conviction and four for acquittal. The jury was dismissed after being out eighteen hours and a half.

Forrest was sent back to jail in default of a $15,000 bond granted him on an appeal to the state court last month, to await the setting of a new trial which probably will not be held until next fall.

Nothing was heard from the jurors from 10:35 Friday morning when they took the case under deliberation until they retired after 10 o'clock that night. Saturday morning they requested that some of the evidence be re-read to them. At that time Judge Wells cautioned them regarding the "beyond a reasonable doubt" clause in his charge to them.

The state was asking for either life imprisonment or death and the defense was asking for acquittal.

Mrs. Miller Named President of Clerks

Mrs. Alma Y. Miller, county clerk of Wichita county, was elected Friday night to the presidency of the Texas Association of County and District Clerks which closed its annual convention in the Texas hotel, Fort Worth. She is the first woman ever to head the association in the state.

The Wichita Falls woman succeeds Jack R. Burke of San Antonio, as president.

Other officers elected included: Albert Townsend, Houston; G. Sam Williams, Fort Worth, and Mrs. George C. Sweat, Waxahachie, first, second and third vice-presidents, respectively; Miss Lottie Lane, Clarendon, secretary-treasurer.

FEW SENIORS FAIL TO MAKE EXAMS GRADE

NEAR THE END

College Class Has 29; High School Has 110 Pupils

Results of senior final examinations at the Junior college and high school show that three college seniors and seven high school seniors failed to make the required grades for graduation, according to announcement by S. H. Rider, principal, Saturday. A final rechecking shows 29 college graduates and 110 high school graduates who will don the time-honored cap and gown, revel in the commencement festivities of the coming week, and finally be presented with the coveted diploma.

Race For Honors Close

The race for class honors in both the high school and college classes is close, according to A. K. Presson, assistant principal, who is averaging grades to determine who shall be valedictorian by virtue of the highest grades, and who shall be salutatorian with the second highest average. All pupils making an average of 90 or above will be mentioned on the honor roll, and indications at this time are that the list will be long, according to teachers. The final and determining averages will not be completed until Tuesday, when the honor students will be announced, it is stated. Work only during the senior year is considered for class honors, and grades in "light" subjects such as glee club, orchestra and the like, are couned according to their value in the curriculum and the credit system, according to Mr. Presson.

Lake Kemp Engineer Saw Aged Mother Drown In Mississippi Disaster

SCORES of Wichitans who were closely associated with L. L. Hidinger, Memphis engineer, during the building of Lake Kemp dam, read with sorrowful interest Saturday the story of the tragedy which came to him in the capsize of the Norman excursion boat on the Mississippi river near Memphis Friday afternoon. Although he saved his 5-year-old son, Mrs. Hidinger, according to Associated Press dispatches, he saw his aged mother go down for the last time in the swirling current.

For Bonding Company.

Mr. Hidinger at time of building Lake Kemp dam was here in capacity of consulting engineer with the Morgan construction company builders of the Miami flood control project. Mr. Hidinger, according to T. B. Noble, was president of the Morgan company. This concern acted for the bonding companies, W. R. Compton and company, St. Louis, and Kauffman, Smith and Emert, St. Louis.

"He was a fine man," declared Mr. Noble last night, "and I have heard from him only recently. P. A. Welty also stated he received letters occasionally from Mr. Hidinger inquiring about Lake Kemp. The Associated Press dispatch relative to the horror through which Mr. Hidinger passed follows:

Saw Mother Drown.

L. L. Hidinger, Memphis engineer, saved his 5-year-old son Leroy Jr., but his aged mother, Mrs. Lydia Hidinger, went down before his eyes. When the steamer started to sink Mr. Hidinger started to search for his mother and son. He could not find them.

"As the boat continued to list the starboard hull became completely submerged and the passengers all grouped on top of the port hull," said Mr. Hidinger. "I was about to jump into the water when I saw my boy standing quietly by my side. How he got there through the jam of people I do not know—it was a miracle.

"We jumped together and Leroy held his arms around my neck while I drifted for about a mile with the current. It was entirely too swift and powerful for me to attempt to swim against it.

"As we floated along Leroy suddenly cried: "Daddy, daddy, there's grandma sinking. Let's save her." She was a few yards to our right. I swam over to her and reached her just as she sank for the last time. I was about to dive after her when the realization came to me it would mean the death of my boy.

"I knew what action my dear old mother would have wanted me to take.

"A few minutes later we were picked up by a motor boat."

WICHITA STAR LOSES IN NET MEET FINALS

AUSTIN, May 9.—Jimmie Quick of Oak Cliff high school, Dallas, repeated his brilliant performance of a year ago and walked away with premier tennis honors in the finals of the Interscholastic league meet Saturday afternoon. Berkely Bell, Austin flash, fell out in the semi-finals when he was beaten by Charles Sloan of Houston. Sloan, in turn, was defeated by Quick in one of the prettiest matches seen in Austin for some time.

Brilliant Match.

Mary Zita McHale, a schoolmate of Quick, took first place in the girls' singles by a brilliant victory over Marjorie Bright of Wichita Falls, winning in straight sets, 6—3, 8—6.

The Taft team, composed of Willella Boykin and Villa Mae Brittain, rallied deperately after a defeat in the game of their championship match and wrested girls' doubles honors from the Calvert team of Euna Belle McBride and Myrtle McBride. After the sisters had defeated them 6—1 in the opening game, the Taft team came back and took the next two games and the chamionship with scores of 6—3 and 7—5.

Houston, one of the members of whoe team eliminated Berkely Bell in the singles, also spilled the hopes of the local team, when Bell and Leon Ammann lost to Sloan and Mitchell Darby in the final round.

Menton Murray, Mercedes, was selected as the best high school news writer in Texas high schools, and Sarah Arlosorof, Breckenridge, was judged the best high school editorial writer in the final journalistic contests conducted by university journalism fraternities, and the school of journalism in the Interscholastic league meet today. Winners were awarded gold, silver and bronze medals.

Rural Declamation.

Edgar Pfiel of Cibolo won the state championship of boys and Theo Weatherly of Whitzitt was declared winner of the girls' senior rural declamation finals contest.

Perry Barber of Conway high school, Colorado, won second place and Wade Collins, Wallisville, third, in the boys contest.

Vera Smith, Carroll school, Mount Sylvian and Angeline Trachta of Muenster were placed second and third, respectively, in the girls' division.

Pauline Douglas, Leonard, and Robbie Archer, Crosbyton, were given second and third places in the girls' contest. Gardner Owen, Weatherford, was second, and Erwin Roberson, McKinney, was third in the boys' division.

Ma Avers There Is Little Chance of a Special Legislature

BEAUMONT, May 9.—A special session of the state legislature anticipated from many quarters, is not at all likely, according to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson in a statement here today. The chief executive, here to officially dedicate the new Neches river bridge, said that unless something came up at a future date that seemed to justify a special session it would not be held.

"Does that mean that a special session is not contemplated for disposing of matters that came up during the recent term?" Mrs. Ferguson was asked.

"Yes. I do not think there is need for one, and it is probable that one won't be called unless important matters arise."

Electra Man Is Killed; One Hurt

THROWN FROM CAR

Ford Said to Have Crashed Into Peerless and Overturned.

ELECTRA, May 9.—Charles Seals of Electra was instantly killed and O. E. Richardson, also of this place was seriously hurt this afternoon when they were thrown from a Ford car that ran into a Peerless sedan, driven by Mrs. W. T. Waggoner, prominent resident of Electra. Richardson was reported at a late hour tonight to be in a serious condition, with little hope of recovery.

The accident occurred, according to Mrs. Waggoner, when Seals and Richardson, accompanied by two other men in a Ford roadster, were driving along behind her on an Electra street. The car suddenly sped forward and crashed into the back of the Peerless, throwing the two men out of the car and onto the pavement. Seals fell on his head and was dead when help arrived. Richardson, who was in the back seat with Seals also fell on his head but was not fatally hurt. The other two men, a brother of Seals and Paul Smith, sitting in the front of the Ford were not injured beyond minor bruises, though the car turned over twice.

The Peerless was not damaged and neither Mrs. Waggoner nor her companion, Mrs. C. S. Kala were injured. They stated the impact of the car hardly shook the machine and were at loss to account for the manner in which the small auto turned over.

The four men were returning from an oil lease near Electra at the time of the accident. Seals is survived by his widow and several small children. The body is being held at a local undertaking company, pending completion of funeral arrangements by relatives.

Shep Proposes an Ordinance Barring Mumps from City

"UMPH! Ugh! Ou—! Pop! Oomps! Oof! Whee—oo!"

With assorted and sundry clatters and clashes a bent figure stumbled uncertainly down the steps and sank with an air of evident relish into a chair at the head of the table. He, for it was a he, looked around benignly and with an expression of the star in that little drama, "My Papa's Been Away, You Know, But Now He's Back at Home."

* * *

SOMEBODY GOT OFF WISE CRACK FINALLY.

An infectious smile that seemingly was nothing new to them was lavished on half a dozen men who crowded about the beaming prodigal. They shook hands all around. They offered felicitations and congratulations. Then some one made a wise crack.

Several grinned. So did the figure at the head of the table, though it was a rather forlorn expression of mirth.

"M-hm."

* * *

ONCE HE ALMOST STRAVED TO DEATH.

"Mumps! Why when I had those I nearly starved to death because my jaws were so sore I couldn't hol dthe bottle, and one night when I bumped my head on the side of the cradle I though I'd die."

"M-hm."

More comments were passed, to all of which that "m-hm" came as answer. The object of the banter deigned no other reply. He held his counsel.

Persons in high and mighty places are not used to being "kidded."

And in this case it was Hizzooner the mayor, R. E. Shepherd, out for the first time in three weeks. And inopportunely he had chosen a city council meeting as the time for his debut.

* * *

SEEKS ORDINANCE TO PROTECT CITY.

The session was a short one, but consideration was given a proposal by Hizzoner that more stringent regulations governing mumps and mumps activities be promulgated.

"The situation is becoming serious," declared Hizzoner. "Surely we should do something about it. Mumps have no place in our community. They should be ostracized. I favor an ordinance barring them from this municipality. All in favor say 'aye.' The ayes have it."

One Killed and Four Injured in Accident

ALBANY, Ga., May 9.—Wright Galloway, 55, of Mitchell county, Georgia, was killed and four others were injured, one probably fatally, when a fire department truck struck an automobile in which they were riding here this afternoon.

$25,000 POLICIES

Boy Once Before Held in Connection With Killing of a Youth.

ST. LOUIS, May 9.—City detectives investigating the mysterious slaying of Dr. William A. Dillon went to the St. Louis county jail at Clayton tonight to renew the questioning of the physician's 19-year-old son, Edward G. Dillon, who was held by the county authorities as a suspect.

Dr. Dillon's accident insurance of $25,000, payable to his son in the event of "loss of life by external and violent means," has become an important factor in the inquiry, detectives said. Two of the three policies were issued within the last three weeks. Dr. Dillon was shot in the back of the head and in the right knee the night of April 30, supposedly about 11 o'clock and his body was found on the cinder track of Francis Field, Washington university the next morning.

Says "Silence Golden."

Questioned for hours last night and again today, young Dillon refused to say where he was on the night of the killing. "Silence is golden," he remarked to detectives.

Dillon was arrested at the home of his mother here last night in connection with the slaying.

Police this morning would make no statement regarding the outcome of a night of questioning. They said the youth was cool, self possessed and showed no nervousness. His refusal to answer questions was steadfast.

Would Get $25,000.

Young Dillon is the beneficiary of three health and accident insurance policies carried by his father, totalling $25,000. The last one was taken out April 22, eight days before Dr. Dillon was slain. The son has been attending Kansas university, Lawrence, Kan.

The youth was transferred from a downtown police station to Clayton jail in St. Louis county, police saying that the finding of Dr. Dillon's body in St. Louis county gives the county authorities jurisdiction.

Dillon was arrested April 4, 1924, and charged with robbery in the first degree following the death of George Barnett, high school boy, who who was killed by a city detective after he had committed four highway robberies.

Dillon, however, denied the charge, saying he had left Barnett and had attended a fraternity party at an exclusive hotel. The charge was subsequently dismissed.

The arrest last night followed an investigation of alleged threats made against the physician and the tracing by city and county authorities of numerous telephone and professional calls.

Three Mabank Girls Killed When Train Crashes Into Auto

MABANK, May 9.—Three Mabank girls, Evadina and Helen Chappell and Ollie Mae Olson, were killed in a collision between an automobile in which they were riding and a Texas and New Orleans railroad passenger train one and one-half miles east of here today.

Two of the young women were killed outright, while the third was brought to Mabank on the train which struck the car, living only 20 minutes after arrival.

The Chappell girls were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Chappell. Miss Olson was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Olson.

PILOT AND PASSENGERS REPORTED LOST, IS SAFE

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, May 9.—Noel Wein, aviator, who was reported lost near Rampart Wednesday with two passengers, telephoned today from Nenana that he and the passengers were safe after having made the fastest north flight recorded. He said a storm forced him to land and he walked three days and nights to Nenana.

Widow Is Left At Altar As Groom-To-Have-Been Leaves With $1500 Ring

BEAUMONT, May 9.—A Lake Charles widow virtually was "left at the altar," yesterday at Orange, and with the groom-to-be, also disappeared a diamond ring valued at $1,500.

The man, who came to Orange at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, represented himself to be a financier and told the woman after registering at an Orange hotel that he had made arrangements to buy a diamond wedding ring to match a $1,500 diamond she already had, according to her story. He asked for the ring she had so he could "match it" police were told. When he failed to show up at 7 o'clock, the hour set for the wedding, the woman became alarmed and reported to police.

It was learned that a man tallying with the description given to police had hired a service car and gone to Beaumont and on arrival here told the driver he was to return to Orange in time to get a return train to Lake Charles with his bride. When he failed to show up the driver returned to Orange and gave his story to the police. The woman was returned to her home in Lake Charl

BLOODSHED SURE WHEN KAISER'S CATSPAW HOISTS MONARCHY RAG

HINDENBURG, Berlin, May 9.—(AP)—Even if the most rigid police control is exercised on Monday, when President-elect Von Hindenburg returns to Berlin for his inauguration the next day more than one violent partisan clash would seem to be inevitable.

The latest official announcement says, "it is known that a number of organizations intend to line the route of the reich president's entry on May 11, armed with weapons," and the police consequently has issued instructions that all clubs, fraternities or associations gathering on the line of march with either displaied or concealed weapons, immediately are to be barred from participation in the welcoming ceremonies.

When the field marshal arrives in Berlin he will be engulfed in a veritable ocean of monarchist colors. Large streamers in the conservative journals today urged the display of flags on Monday and Tuesday, stating, "it is self evident that all who in his honor displayed flags during the campaign and after the victory of the election should now greet him anew with the glorious black, white and red banne—"

20 KNOWN DEAD

Mystery Surrounds Cause For Disaster of Mississippi River Packet

MEMPHIS, May 9.—(AP)—Caught in the swirling muddy current of the Mississippi as she attempted to steam ashore, the government steamer Norman, newest of the engineering corps fleet here, today lies in 35 feet of water just below Coahuma Landing, Tenn. With her in her watery grave lie 18 of a gray excursion party that yesterday went for an outing on the broad expanses of the Big Muddy.

Among the men, women and children who were catapulted into the turbid stream and who remained there or were fished out with life extinct were some of the best known men in the engineering profession in the south.

The trip had been taken as a side issue to the first annual convention of the Mid-South Association of Engineers just formed here.

Tom Lee the Hero.

From out of the swamps of Arkansas came the hero of the occasion—a big black negro—Tom Lee. On his broad shoulders and the motor boat of his employers at Helena, Ark., fell the burden of life saving.

Lee, slow methodical man, went about his work as methodically as and any of the silent, methodical men who made up the bulk of the party. He loaded his boat with victims of the disaster. He took them ashore. He went back and got another load. When the final count was taken he had rescued 30 of the 60 or more persons on board the steamer, including Captain Howard T. Fenton, grizzled veteran of the river, who commanded the vessel.

But there were other heroes. Some of them survived; some are missing. Their stories are told by other survivors. None had anything to say of his own efforts but all had much to say what the other fellow did.

Dramatic stories were told of the wild staggering of the steamer just before she went down. She listed heavily and Captain Fenton ordered the passengers scattered, thinking too many were on one side of the boat. Sitting in the cabin was a group of Memphis engineers bent on organization of a local chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Careens Wildly.

"Trim the ship" came the order. There was no excitement. The engineers as a man rose and without haste left the cabin. Hardly had they reached the deck before the ship wildly careened to the starboard. She refused to answer her helm. Three minutes later she was a hulk lying upside down in the stream, her passengers and crew struggling in the swift water.

Clarence Miller, 20 years old, noted throughout the south as a swimmer, leaped into the stream and swam ashore. Exhausted, he lay panting on the bank. Mrs. Charles E. Shearer was struggling in the water with her four-year-old son. Miller leaped in again. Breasting the heavy current he reached the woman, tied a life preserver about her and took the boy ashore. It took two men to pull him and the boy ashore.

Charles E. Shearer probably gave his life to save others. Mill Lillian Weyl of Indianapolis, who was visiting at the Shearer home, tells the story:

"Mr. Shearer tied a life preserver around me just before I was thrown into the swift current," she said. "That was the last I saw of him."

Governor Conducts Ceremonies Before Crowd of 20,000 People.

BEAUMONT, May 9. — Governor Miriam A. Ferguson opened the new Neches river bridge here today and apparently had a pleasant time doing it. A crowd of more than 20,000 turned out from one of the few communities that did not give her an election majority, but from all appearances it mattered nothing much to anybody.

The chief executive, Mrs. George H. Nalle and Miss Dorrace Ferguson, her daughters, occupied the first car to drive across the bridge. A white ribbon barrier was broken in the process and the Neches was officially and modernly spanned.

SARTI NWORKING ON ROAD.

Will Go to Austin to Get Easment for Highway to Lake.

County Judge B. D. Sartin will leave for Austin early next week, probably Monday night, to secure from the state board of control an easment for the proposed new paved road through the North Texas Insane Asylum grounds at Lake Wichita. Members of the board were up here ten days ago looking over the route of the road and indicated at that itme they would have no objections to its going through one corner of the state grounds.

This is taken as another step toward securing the highway which will give the city a shorter cut to the lake by running out Hoolliday street and then swinging through the new municipal park and golf grounds.

RUM FLEET BREAKING UP

Wireless Reports Say That Several Vessels Have Departed.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Wireless reports from the rum row blockade zone to Captain W. V. E. Jacobs, commandant of the coast guard at New York, today told of signs of the disintegration of the whiskey armada that has been off the mid-Atlantic coast on and off, ever since the prohibition law went into effect.

The messages coincide with reports received at the New York dry fleet headquarters stating that several of the largest vessels had pulled up their anchors and departed because of their enforced holiday since the blockade went into effect last Tuesday.

SMALL HOMES

more hotel accommodations should be provided covered this feature of the report.

In dealing with home financing, the report assailed the rates and "rake-offs" charged to handle paper. Without explaining what a "rake-off" was, it said these and interest rates combined made home financing in Wichita Falls more expensive than in Oklahoma City, Dallas, Fort Worth and many other points. A crying demand exists here, it was said, for "more and cheaper money." In this connection it was pointed out that the demands for loans on dwellings was greater than could be supplied by capital available for such purposes. This demand is constantly increasing, it was declared.

The report was hailed by the realtors as informative as well as interesting, in that it gave an accurate insight to a problem that has become one of tremendous importance. The realtors, also, found food for consideration in the belief of the committee that rea lestate business generally here was mre active than at this time last year and gave indication of continuing so.

May Build Refinery For Alaskan Field

NOME, Alaska, May 9.—Should petroleum in sufficient quantities be discovered in Alaska, it is stated that the Standard Oil company of Californit and the Associated Oil company will probably build a large refinery at Seattle or some other point on the Pacific coast. Both of these companies are now drilling for oil in the Colf Bay district in Alaska.

STANDARD BUYS WYOMING GAS

Loads Twelve Train-Loads of Gasoline Out of Casper.

CASPER, Wyo., May 9.—The Standard Oil company of Indiana loaded 12 solid train loads of gasoline out of Casper in April for the export trade. Each train load consisted of 60 cars and each car had a capacity of 10,000 gallons making a total shipment for the month of 7,200,000 gallons. This gasoline is shipped by through freight direct to Baton Rouge, La., where it is loaded into ocean-going steamers at the docks of the Standard Oil company of Louisiana. The gasoline is then shipped to European points for distribution.

Two More Wells Handed Urania

SHREVEPORT, May 9.—Permits for two more wells in the Urania district of LaSalle and Winn parishes, issued during the week, bring the number of well on which work is, or soon will be, under way to ten. Both tests for which permits were issued this week are southwest of the discovery well and a mile and a half distant, on the east side of Castor creek which forms the boundary between the two parishes. Ford and Banner will drill No. 1 Tullos in the northeast corner of 14-10-1E and D. C. Davis, trustee, will drill No 1 Russell in the southwest of the southwest of 24-10-1E.

More Industries For Texas Cities

Knitting Mills Offer Wonderful Opportunity Here.

TIME OPPORTUNE

Effort to Reach Knitting Industry at Mineral Wells.

The keynote of every major address made before the West Texas chamber of commerce convention at Mineral Wells last week was securing of more industrial plants for Texas cities. Most of the progressive chambers of commerce of the state are centering their activities along industrial lines and the city that is not awake to the situation is going to pay a penalty in future growth and prosperity.

Wichita Falls is ideally situated as an industrial center but to secure more industries will require constant watch and a united effort by the business interests of the city.

Cotton Mill Questionable.

Many Texas cities, and even small towns, are centering their efforts in locating cotton mills. Among the big industrial leaders of the state there is an opinion that other industries should prove more profitable and perhaps more easily secured. The one industry that is being overlooked in Texas is the establishment of knitting mills. For the past four years the knitting industry has been give na set-back due to market conditions being poor and the flooding of America of cheap products from Eprope. Conditions are now brighter for the knitting trade and it is believed by some of the best informed that it will be possible to interest Eastern mills to enter this and other southern states. Texas textile mills are now producing an excess of thread and yarn. The excess is being sent into the eastern states and made into the finished product, thence returned to the south where it is marketed.

Plenty of Water Here.

The one difficult matter in securing a knitting mill of magnitude is the lack of water in most cities of Texas. Before cotton thread or yarn can be put into the manufactured product it must be pleased and in bleaching an enormous amount of water is required. Wichita Falls is fortunate in having one of the greatest, if not the greatest, supply of water of any city in Texas. The water is also cheap, due to no pumping being required, except into the distribution mains.

Due to the wonderful supply of water Wichita Falls should begin to exert more effort in securing knitting mills. It is not only possible to manufacture garments from cotton but there is a great supply of wool. Southwest Texas, New Mexico and Colorado produce an enormous amount of wool, which could be marketed in Wichita Falls with a far less freight charge than when shipped into the eastern states.

May Bear Fruit.

The address made at the West Texas chamber of commerce convention will bear fruit. Chambers of commerces over Texas are going to take up and work for knitting mills. Wichita Falls should take the lead and endeavor to make this city the center of the knitting industry in Texas. With an aboundant supply of water, competient American labor and a ready market, not only in the southwest but into Mexico and South American nations, there is every reason to believe the industry would find Wichita Falls an ideal manufacturing center.

Hope for Speedy Acton on Plans For River Bridge

Belief that plans for the new free Red river bridge would be approved by officials of both Texas and Oklahoma before the end of this month was expressed Saturday by County Judge B. D. Sartin. Approval of plans for the huge structure must come as the next step in the move to make a free route between Oklahoma and Texas a reality.

Assuming the plans are approved by the first of June, Judge Sartin says, bids for the work will be called for at once. By the first of July, therefore, it may be possible to award a contract for actual construction work. Within another 30 days, then, a start may be made on flinging the long span across the river.

RIVER NO BATHING POOL.

Police Warn Youngsters to Quit Swimming Near Bridges.

A warning that the Wichita river, at least in the vicinity of bridges used for public travel, was not a public swimming pool was issued Saturday by the police department after a number of complaints were received that small boys and some not so small were taking daily dips. The swimming parties, it seems, have been conducted without the saving grace of bathing suits. Hence the kicks.

The river, swollen by the recent rains, has developed a number of "holes' that serve as satisfactory, albeit muddy points for plunges.

Prosecutions will follow failure to heed the warning.

BRIEF COUNCIL MEETING.

Authorize McClure to Go to Convention at Cisco This Week.

A very brief meeting of the city council Saturday afternoon resulted in transacting of only a few items of minor business importance. Authorization was given for Fire Chief J. L. McClure to attend a fire marshals' convention in Cisco the forepart of this week.

Mayor R. E. Shepherd presided, making his first appearance in three weeks. He has been confined to his home with a severe attack of mumps.

Rural Schools To Close This Week

Approximately 2,000 students of Wichita county's rural schools will start this week on the short final lap of the current school year. With their urban brethren and sisters, they will be liberated next Friday for the annual summer vacation.

Special observance of some kind will be made by practically all the schools in the county, according to Superintendent Burl Bryant. All day pinics will afford an outlet for whatever steam many of the youngsters have left after the long months of study just closing. Special exercises may be held by a few of the classes.

"Truth" Is Slogan At Big Ad Meeting

World's Advertisers Meet at Houston for Convention.

Lynch Davidson Is Scheduled for Talk Today.

HOUSTON, May 9. — (AP) — More than 1,000 delegates, disciples of "truth in advertising," many from overseas were on the ground for the opening of the twenty-first convention of the Associated Advertising clubs of the world here tonight.

The first session of the five-day meeting was in the nature of a welcome. Its preliminaries was marked by a wealth of color and considerable ceremony.

Early in the evening Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson was escorted from her train to a hotel by a detachment of cavalry, a colored guard of marines and a squad of Houston police. She moved through streets thickly hung with flags of many natoins. Banners designed for the convention sprinkled with flags, flew on their halyards from the tops of all buildings almost to the pavement. The banners bore the word "truth" the slogan of the advertising men over the imprint of two continents in a circle with the name of the organization around the rim. The circle was within the five pointed star of the republic of Texas while the border of the banner was composed of the flags of most nations, including the Chinese dragon.

Mrs. Ferguson Welcomes.

At the municipal auditorium Governor Ferguson welcomed the gathering. She told them that Texas and Houston felt honored by their presence and hoped they would carry away an impression of the state, its resources and its opportunities in keeping with the largest member of the family in the American union.

Other welcoming addresses were made by Mayor Oscar F. Holcombe, Amon G. Carter, of Fort Worth, chairman of the tenth district; William S. Patton of Houston, president of the Advertising association, and Samuel R. Bertron, president of the Houston chamber of commerce.

Tomorrow forenoon services have been planned for the delegates at 14 churches. The program calls for addresses by delegates to the convention, including Rev. Kerrison Juniper, St. Petersburg, Fla.; W. Frank McClure, Chicago; Mr. Holland, Homer J. Buckly, Chicago; Rev. Maurice A. Levy, Pittsfield, Mass.; Claud A. Tupper, Chicago; Sidney J. Fox, London, England; George W. Hopkins, New York; Edward F. Trefz, Lansing, Mich.; Joe Mitchell Chapple, magazine editor, Boston; Rev. P. B. Hill, San Antonio; Edward F. McClay, Oklahoma City; Albert Gale, Chicago, and William N. Bayless, Cleveland, Ohio.

Davidson Will Talk.

In the afternoon an inspirational meeting is scheduled with Lynch Davidson, of Houston, former lieutenant governor, presiding. Congressman Charles A. Eaton of New Jersey is down for the principal address on advertising as a means to world progress and at the night meeting United States Senator Morris Sheppard is to talk on "the economic influence of world peace."

At the session on Monday Miss L. Macklbbin, member of the national committee, near east relief and a member of the advertising women of New York will present to the convention a gavel of olive wood made in a carpenter shop in Nazareth, near the spot where Jesus was born. It was made by an orphan boy, a ward of America. The gift is in recognition of the services of advertising men everywhere in forwarding near east relief work.

Scores of addresses are on the program for the week day meetings. Widely known figures include Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce; L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific railway; Renewick Dunlap, assistant secretary of agriculture; Major Wynne Williams, advertising manager of the Times, London, and Martin J. Insull, Chicago.

CHARLES D. HILLES.

THAT Charles D. Hilles, republican national committeeman from New York and long a leading figure in national G. O. P. circles, will be the Coolidge cabinet is the general belief in official circles in Washington these days. The expected resignation of Secretary of War Weeks because of ill health has already caused much speculation as to who his successor would be. Hillis' name is one of the three most prominently mentioned. Dwight F. F. Davis of Missouri, General Pershing and Charles B. Warren are others considered.

CHARLES D. HILLES

One rumor is that Postmaster General New will be made secretary of war and Hilles made postmaster general.

Charles Dewey Hilles was born in Belmont county, Ohio, June 23, 1867. He was graduated from the student academy at Oxford, Maryland, in 1887. Hilles has long been interested in the care of delinquent children. He was superintendent of the boys' industrial school at Lancaster, Ohio; superintendent of the New York juvenile asylum, treasurer of the New York juvenile asylum and treasurer of the New York child labor commission.

In 1909 Hilles was assistant secretary of the U. S. treasury. He was secretary to President Taft in 1911.

He was chairman of the republican national committee from 1912 to 1916.

San Antonio Tour Is Offered World Ad Meet Delegates

SAN ANTONIO, May 9.—A southern breakfast, a Dutch lunch, and a Mexican dinner with intermissions of sightseeing in store for delegates from the World Advertising convention now in session in Houston when they spend the day in San Antonio on Friday. The convention is over on Thursday night, after which the San Antonio tour will leave by special train.

Leaving San Antonio Friday night the delegation will go to Laredo for a spend-the-day party there on Saturday, accompanied by enough local hosts to show them around. They will return to Houston via San Antonio on Sunday.

As yet the number of world delegates to San Antonio is not known, since the visitors are to sign up for the various tours offered after they assemble in convention. San Antonio Ad club members will work the convention, seeking recruits for the local trip, which is expected to be one of the most popular tours offered. The other tours include North Texas and the oil fields, East Texa sand the Rio Grande valley.

Third Hague Session For Internation Law Discussion Proposed

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Proposals for a third Hague conference to discuss the attitude of the articipating nations toward war with a view of framing a new code of international law wil ble advanced for adoption at the international preliminary union meeting here October 1.

The belief is strongly entertained in congressional and administration circles it developed today that should the nations find they can agree upon a code of international law to be applied by a world court, as the supreme court construes laws of this country and imposing conditions making war unprofitable by prohibiting the annexation of territory and the imposition of indemnities, the United States would then join a world court without reservation.

The Countess Gizycka, granddaughter of Joseph Medill, and her daughter, the Countess Felicia, found romance at the same time. News of the unexpected marriage of her mother to Elmer Schlesinger, New York attorney, reached the Countess Felicia (above), now Mrs. Drew Pearson, on her honeymoon. Pearson is a writer.

Death-Ray Inventor to Wed

H. Grindell-Matthews (inset) famed inventor of a "death ray," is to become the third husband of Mrs. Oliver Waite, former opera singer. Her first husband was Archibald White, Cincinnati financier. Her second spouse, Malcolm Waite, from whom she has just been divorced, is now acting in the movies in Hollywood.

FLEET HEADS FOR MIAMI

Spectacular Maneuvers Occupy Last Two Days.

ABOARD THE U. S. S. SEATTLE AT SEA, EN ROUTE TO LAHAINA, ISLAND OF MAUI, May 9.—After two days of intricate battle maneuvers which took the United States fleet far out to sea, the naval cavalcade was headed for Maui tonight. Lahaina, Roadstead, probably will be reached tomorrow.

To turn back, the fleet's position again was shifted, this time on a 90 degree angle. This is considered one of the most complicated of naval exercises. A more important and more spectacular maneuver, however, was the entire reversing of the fleet's course which occupied the entire morning.

WOMAN GIVEN MEDAL.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general of the United States whose department controls federal prisons, has been awarded a medal by the national committee on prisons, and prison labor for outstanding service in prison work during 1924, it was announced tonight.

Medals were awarded to Burdette G. Lewis, commissioner of the institutions and agencies of New York; Major Leroy Hodges, chairman of the

BELIEVE WOMAN ASSAULTED

TEXAS CITY, May 9.—Believed to have been assaulted by a negro who feigned purchase of lard, Mrs. N. Goldman, 54-year-old white woman, was found early this morning beside a can of lard in her store here, suffering from a bad gash in the back of her head.

A Trained Nurse

TRAINED nurses have many experiences, the results of which often are of interest and value to others. Mrs. Walter L. Trevathan, of Hopewell, Va., whose picture is printed above, is a trained nurse, serving in that profession until her marriage and taking up nursing again for a while during the war. What she has to say about her experience in the use of Cardui should be of vital interest to every woman who is afflicted with any of the symptoms she tells of.

"At times I have had such severe pains in my sides I did not know what to do," says Mrs. Trevathan. "I am a trained nurse by profession. I was on my feet a great deal and this seemed to aggravate my trouble.

"One day I read about Cardui in the paper at my home in Vermont. I got a bottle and tried it. It has done me a great deal of good. . . . The pains in my sides used to grow very intense. I would take Cardui by the directions and it helped me wonderfully.

"My appetite grew very poor. I did not care for anything to eat, but when I took a few doses of Cardui my appetite picked up. I wouldn't be without it."

Mrs. Trevathan says that she has recommended Cardui to a great many women whom she has nursed—"and always with beneficial results." "I am glad to make this statement," she adds, "so that other women may know about the wonderful benefits of Cardui."

Cardui is absolutely safe to take. It is made of pure, mild-acting vegetable ingredients and is prepared under sanitary conditions in up-to-date, scientific laboratories.

Take Cardui for your troubles.

Vernon High Racers Set New Relay Record In State Meet

HAMMOND OF ELECTRA IS ALSO WINNER

SEVEN RECORDS FALL

Fort Worth Student Leads Field With Two New Records in Dashes.

AUSTIN, May 9.—Abilene high school won the interscholastic league track and field meet here today, when through the efforts of Roy Stevens, their ace athlete, they registered 13½ points. Forest Avenue high school of Dallas was second with 12 points. Fort Worth Central and Beaumont tied for third place with ten points each. Eliminate reference to Houston Central.

Sweetwater was fourth with 9 and three-fourths points, and Houston Central was fifth with 9 points.

Seven interscholastic league records were set. They include the 100-yard dash in which Draper of Fort Worth Central broke the tape at 9.9 seconds. Stevens of Abilene set a new record in the 220-yard dash, making the distance in 22 seconds flat, this victory, the second for Draper, giving Fort Worth a tie for third place.

Bagwell of Claude broke the record for the 220-yard run, racing in ahead of Stout of Cleburne, Crouch of Vernon and Cates of Rochelle.

His time was 2.2.7. Vernon's fast mile relay team set a record when it brought the baton across the finish line in 3:30.5.

Bartlett of Marlin took the lead in the weight division when he put the 12 pound shot 49 feet 1½ inches for a new record. Stewart of Breckenridge broke the running high jump record with his leap of six feet 2 1-8 inches.

Hammond of Electra, while not breaking a record in the javelin throw, set a high mark for future contestants when he threw the clender wand 147 feet 10 inches. This is the first time in the history of the meet the javelin throw has been included.

Stevens of Abilene was high individual point winner. He finished first in the low hurdles and the broad jump and fourth in the 220-yard dash, bringing up 11 points. Draper of Fort Worth Central and Bailliew of Beaumont, tied up for second place with 10 points each. Summary:

SISLER HAS COURAGE

Despite the fears that he might be forced to quit the game this year after a mediocre one last season due to his eye trouble, George Sisler is in there every day.

Not only that but he has been on a hitting streak lately in which he has collected his share of the blows every game.

The interesting part of this old-time batting spree is that it comes when his fielding has indicated on several occasions that he was not in his best form—that his eyes might be giving him trouble. Sisler has turned in a couple of mighty poor games at first, making three or four errorsi.

His spirit and success at the bat despite these off days afield attest once more to his courage—a necessary attribute of a great man in any walk of life.

Texas Ass'n Will Dispose of Marlin

WACO, May 9.—A meeting of the Texas association Sunday at Mexia will decide the fate of the Marlin club, which has bee ntaken over by the league officials. Efforts are being made to keep the club at Marlin, but should these efforts fail, the franchise will be moved to some other city. Palestine and Cleburne are locations under consideration, should the club be moved.

Cutting clubs down to a 14-player limit and a $2,400 salary limit also will be brought up at the meeting.

RED SOX RELEASE HURLER.

BOSTON, May 9.—Curtis Fullerton, a Red Sox pitcher for the last five years, was released today to the St. Paul club of the American association.

GREAT SCOTT!!

Can You Imagine Who's Giant Stars These Days?

While the National league is holding its golden jubilee in celebration of its 50 years of existence, John William Scott, pitcher extraordinary, is holding his own little jubilee, celebrating his third comeback in the big show.

Scott is with the Giants again after a period of service in the minors—a period that was scheduled to be permanent when John made his exodus under a misunderstanding two winters ago.

Scott broke into the second game the Giants played this season. He faced the Braves and turned them back with one little run and four hits.

"That's in honor of my first comeback in the big show, back in 1917," remarked Jack as he walked to the clubhouse.

When the Braves and Giants renewed their war in the first home series of the Giants Art Nehf was selected to pitch for McGraw's men. Art was taken out in the sixth inning and a pinch hitter, Emil Meusel, sent in in an effort to break the tie that existed. The score was still tied when Scott was sent in to finish the game. He pitched superb ball, allowing the Braves but one hit the remainder of the contest. He walked one man. The Giants shoved over the winning run in the ninth when the Braves' infield went blooie.

"That's for my second come back in 1922, when the Cinci Reds said my arm was done," remarked Scott as he ambled into the dressing room.

A few days later, April 27, he was sent in against the Phillies at New York and won again. He held Fletcher's Fighting Phils to eight hits and three runs. Those runs were dished up in one inning.

He fanned eight men and walked but two. In the fourth inning, after he had fanned Harper, the Messrs. Holke, Henline and Sand filled the bases with their singles. Things looked black for Scott. When he fanned Huber for the second out the crowd gave him a big cheer. Then he ended the inning by forcing Carlson to pop a high foul to Lindstrom, and the crowd went wild

"And that's for my present comeback," remarked Scott when the final applause for his benefit had died away that afternoon.

Pirates Let Him Slip.

Scott broke into the big show for the first time back in the fall of 1916 with the Pirates. They grabbed him from Macon, Ga., for a trial that August, but sent him back in September after he had broken into eight games for various lengths of time. He was credited with losing one game.

"I'll be back," muttered Scott, with the determination of youth.

The next season Macon sent him to Columbia in the Sally league and from that town he went to Nashville. The Braves paid that club the astounding price of $750 for him at the end of August, 1917.

Cinci Cleb Yells.

The Braves traded him to Cincinnati during the winter of 1921-22 for Rube Marquard and Larry Kopf. When Scott reported his arm was lame and Garry Hermann set up a howl that was heard in the national commission's offices. No evidence was forthcoming, however, that the Reds had been David-Harumed. The Ohio club gave Scott his unconditional release in May that year and Scott was homeless until McGraw offered to give him a chance to come back. McGraw was fighting for the pennant with a wobbling pitching staff. Scott rounded into form and in the closing weeks of the season played a prominent part in the winning of the National league pennant. He shut out the Yanks in one game of the world's series that fall.

The following year Scott pitched with the Giants, but a year ago last winter decided that he should have more money. Far be it from McGraw to remind the hurler that he (McGraw) had come to the rescue when Scott's baseball days seem numbered. McGraw simply let Scott drift to the minors.

Last year, with Toledo, he won 20 and lost 20 games. McGraw, seeking to strengthen his hurling staff immediately for the drive for what he hopes will be his fifth straight flag, arranged a deal with the A. A. team for Scott's services.

In addition to pitching in rare form to date, Scott seems to have his eye on the ball when at bat. He cracked out a home run while turning back the Phils in the game mentioned above.

Cowtown Scribe Waxes Voluble Over Wichita Falls Muny Golluf Club and Some of Its Players

Pop Likes Links, General Plan of Affairs, and Talks About Sheldon, Hale and Fisk.

Pop Boone, Fort Worth sports writer, under the caption of "Golluf," by Adam Dubb, tells in the Fort Worth Record of a recent visit to Wichita Falls and his play with Muny club golfers out at the city links. The narration praises the Municipal club, its directors and players, and in a way hits the nail squarely on the head. His article follows:

Eutopian golf schemes are not unique. Many different model courses have been put in from one end of the country to the other. Not a few of these have been muny clubs that started well and blew up after a time. But up in Wichita Falls they really have a muny golf club that promises to get away with it.

Instigators of this club—or, perhaps, organizers would be a better word—started from the bottom and looked a long way forward. Having inherited 260 acres of land that gave promise of making a good site for a course, a group of muny players took up with the city government to build a nice clubhouse and put in a real plant.

"All right," said the city, "you show us 200 members a year at $25 each and guarantee the 200 memberships for five years and we'll build you a $25,000 clubhouse and put in a real course." So the muny players accepted the proposition and got almost 300 members at $25 a year who agreed to pay in that amount each year.

Eighteen sporty holes are open now, using sand greens, but the greens committee is going along and putting in grass greens as fast as they can. At least five or six grass greens are laid now. No hurry for these but it's only a question of time until they'll have eighteen of them.

Finishing touches are being put on the clubhouse, which would be a credit to any country club. Included in its features are a locker room that will accommodate 300 lockers, showers, grill and everything. Upstairs is a large ball room and lounging room for women members. In other words, it is very well appointed club room.

Of course, anybody can play on the course, for it is strictly a municipal proposition. Green fees are 50 cents. Only one difference exists between the casual player and the ones who pay the $25 a year. These latter members govern the club's affairs. They have an organization exactly like all country clubs—a president, secretary, executive committee and a full list of committees to conduct the affairs of the club.

Not only do these committees attend to the golfing facilities and handicap the members, superintend the grounds and all that, but a social committee is very active in arranging entertainment features. Regular dances, bridge parties, putting contests and other features are conducted with possibly more success than the average country club meets.

Match battles are attended to by a tournament committee, which is now planning many affairs to keep the golfers busy. Several real golfers have been developed, who play a sound game and therefore consistent.

It was my pleasure to play with three of these golfers Thursday. We found a very sporty course with so many water holes on it that we forget to keep count of 'em. No lakes to speak of, but a creek that winds and twists and bobs up in many unexpected places. One of the foursome was President Sheldon of the Muny club, who hits a long ball and is a real wizard with an iron.

Another member of the foursome was Jack Hale, muny champion, who was almost good enough to carry me on his back—almost but not quite. Lies and distances fooled old Adam and the best he could get was a 48 and a 44 for a 92. Hale shot about a 78, but it was no test of his golf playing with me, missing as many shots as I did.

The other member of the foursome was R. R. Fisk, who has read just about everything ever written about golf and is just about such a player as Adam Dubb—very sound in theory but somewhat doubtful in execution. We dont' ever remember ever playing with three better fellows and that was one game I could truthfully say: "Sure enjoyed the game."

Nurmi and Manager Break Partnership

FITCHBURG, Mass, May 9.—Paavo Nurmi and his manager, Hugo Quist, have parted the Finnish middle distance runner said today prior to a race at the R. E. I. P. A. S. Athletic club.

Nurmi has been asked to explain why Quist had not a ecompanied him to Fitchburg for his appearance here and also about a report that the two had severed relations.

"No, he isn't with me," he replied. "We have parted. I will be in this country only two weeks more and I will no longer need any interpreter or manager."

Asked whether he and Quist had parted as friends Nurmi evaded a direct answer, but said his relations with his manager had not been altogether pleasant for the last two weeks.

Winner of Preakness May Not Race Again

BALTIMORE, May 9.—Coventry, winner of yesterdya's Preakness at Pimlico, may never race again, Gifford A. Cochran, the colt's owner, said otday. A bowed tendon developed in his two previous races may cause his retirement. He was sent to New York today by Van and may be retired to the stud.

"It is possible he may not run again this season; that he may not run at all in the future," Mr. Cochran said.

Littlejohn Blanks Bludgeoning Spuds and Buffs Win, 6-0

TOP O' MORN STUFF

By BLONDY CROSS.

DICK ON DECK.

IT'S DICK MORGAN'S TURN TO TWIST AND TWIRL 'EM THIS AFTERNOON. SKIPPER HAD INTENDED TO SEND HIM TO THE HILLOCK SATURDAY, BUT SUDDENLY VEERED IN ANOTHER DIRECTION.

* * *

Dell Pratt's larruping lummoxes, the Waco Cubs, will be on hand this afternoon. These boys are several rungs down the percentage ladder, but they're a ball wrecking crew.

* * *

MAY BE EXCITING.

If Dick's in form the festivities should prove highly intriguing, otherwise very enthusiastic, for the Cublets have associated so much with R. Hunter Coleman's bruising Bruins that they have developed an almost similar home run complex.

* * *

Opening round of the scrap is billed for 3 o'clock in R. O. Harvey's diamond shaped arena. It's the first of a series of three entanglements.

* * *

Gee! Who's Scored?

Coleman's cohorts invade local terrain Wednesday, and then we'll see if our growling Grizzly's growl, after all, isn't anything more than an exaggerated whimper, mistaken by South Texas scribes in their short-fence ball parks as indications of undue ferocity.

* * *

Judging by the home run epidemic this year's baseball covers must have been made of antelope hide. That is, balls used everywhere but in Wichita Falls.

* * *

Littlejohn, the Buff, had Spudder guns whispering hoarsely Saturday But the bunch'll come out of it soon with a broadside that can be heard clear down in Panhertown, no doubt.

* * *

Hadn't Oughta Done It.

Hope they save the bulk of the bombardment until Santone arrives. What a pleasure it would be to overwhelm the Alamo City tribe in the same fashion they roughed up the weak sisters of South Texas.

* * *

YESTERDAY'S AFFAIR WAS JUST ANOTHER ONE OF THOSE THINGS, GANG PLAYED GREAT BALL. HAD TOUGH LUCK ON THE MOUND, BUT COULDN'T HIT ABOVE A MONOTONE ANYHOW.

* * *

The Old Battle Ire.

They're still in there fightin'. That's what Skipper Bud wants, and he's getting it. When Golvin can show the grit and determination to stay out there and battle 'em on one foot day in and day, and play the greatest game in the league around first base, and when the rest of the crew has the same determination you're almost bound to have a winning ball club.

* * *

Golvin's spirit is typical of that of every individual on the Spud roster.

* * *

The Spudders are doing great, but something must be done about San Antonio and Fort Worth.

* * *

Just Like the Rest.

Babe Ruth, says our oil and gas editor, turns out to be a real baseball fan. He is worrying about the Yanks, just like everybody else.

* * *

Personally, we're bothered over Bob Osborn's hurling limb. Robert's been chunking great ball, but he had a tough time of it against the Shippers the other day. Developed a sudden kink in the old souper, and every time he starts to hook one, in his own words, "She hurts like the devil."

* * *

GOTTA BURY POP SOON.

We're going to bury Pop Boone before the season's over. Former brilliant Cowtown author's slipping speedily. When Carl Williams won his fourth game, Pop averred he was lucky. The other day when he beat the Cats, the venerable Boone in all his age and sagacity solemnly informed us that Carl has a pretty good pitching head all right but little else.

* * *

"He hasn't got much. Just getting by," quoth Pop.

* * *

Day before yesterday, Carl went on "getting by" enough to win his sixth straight. "He hasn't got much stuff," but he held the Exporters to a pair of bingles in nine frames.

* * *

* * *

Spudders have a highly effective mound corps in the making, that is, if the cripples ever manage to get well, but Spud powers are still angling for one or two more hearers. Dave Keefe is out like a flapper at night. He doesn't want to come to Wichita Falls, and a player in that mental condition would not make a good man if brought anyhow.

* * *

THE AXE! THE AXE!

There should be an announcement or so soon of new hurling talent heading this way. Wouldn't be a bit surprising, too, to see some of the lads now on the payroll migrating to other regions tonight or Monday. Tanner's getting set to swing the axe.

RIGHT HANDER GIVES TANNER CREW 6 HITS

WHITE CRACKS TRIPLE

Walks And Bunched Blows Story of Spudder Demise

By BLONDY CROSS.

Tanner's merry mace men rushed out the irons to brand Houston's Buffaloes in the second straight and final of the series Saturday, but one Carlisle Littlejohn, bayou region right hander, obstructed passage with the firmness and adroitness of a Fort Worth and Denver freight train languishing across Athletic Park highway usually right at game time, foiling all advances going or coming. The enemy hurler withstood the attack of Bud's pellet punishers in form that can be likened only to that of a Nick Carter hero turning back the ferocious onslaught of nine bloody desperados with one fell swipe.

The Buff pitcher was liberal to the extent of six unmated hits, and the Herd put our Spudders to rout, 6 to 0.

Ripper Wheeler essayed his first turn on the slab for the 1925 season, but with two away in the opening canto Happy Hollohan biffed a two-baser down the first-base line, and the Ripper became wilder than a saxophone player. He passed Gainer and Compton, and then with the cushions crammed shoved Hollohan over the medallion with a four-balls donation to Peel. McCurdy lined out to the box. It was a smoking catch.

Jackie to Rescue

Fuller fluked an infield safety in the second when Query and Rip each left the other to pick up his slow roller in the general direction of third. Littlejohn laid down a sacrifice bunt, sending Fuller to the keystone. Kane singled through the mound, tabulating Fuller. Powell whipped a bingle past the midway terminal. Kane went to third. The play was made from center field to that sector a wee bit too late. On the throw, Powell scampered for second, but was cut away, White to Turgeon. During the maneuver, Kane picked 'em up and laid 'em down in rapid order, crossing the platter for the third counter. Ripper walked Hollahan, and then Jackie Reid inherited the chunking chores. Hollahan was picked off trying to abscond with second. Jackie to Golvin to Distel.

They jumped on Jackie in the third, kicked the small one rather rudely. Gainer led away with a bussing bust to port for a doubtful two cushions. We say doubtful for the ball apparently hit the terrain three feet foul. Exceedingly tumultous turmeil ensued for a period among the roaring rooters who became more excited than a cotton tail after an oil of mustard bath when Umpire Estill semaphored "fair ball" to the runner on the path and other interested doubters. Compton followed with a two-ply lacer down first base way, and Gainer checked in. Peel punched a pungent pinch poke to port for a base, scoring Compton. McCurdy aviated to Fitz in center. Fuller lined out to Distel, and Littlejohn expired at the plate.

Jackie Airs 'Em.

That strike out evidently inspired Jackie for in the next couplet he whiffed Kane, Powell, and Hollohan in order, and the sadly miffed Spud fans who had come out hoping to witness another Spudder victory took advantage of the occasion and shrieked in maniacal glee.

They bruised Jackie for a quartet of safe busts in the sixth, but could tabulate only once. McCurdy slapped the left field rampart with a two-cushioner. Fuller fouled to Query. Littlejohn singled to right center, scoring Mac. Powell dished a hair-raiser between first and second swift and accurate enough to put Littlejohn on the sliding par. That was a fortunate putout Dame Fortune handed our noble athletes because Powell followed immediately with a single to right center. No damage was done. Hollohan bounced out to the hilltop.

Jackie rocked through the seventh and eighth in great form. The third putout of that eighth round was a play that had ruffles on it. White stretched out and scooped up a torrid swat down the third base line by Littlejohn and heaved laterally and low to first, but Golvin co-starred by stabbing the bounding sphere with one hand a split second before the stampeding runner bore down on him.

There isn't much to say about the Spudder attack. The Buff right hander was far too right for the Tanner force. He walked Turgeon in the second with one away, but the Buff infield manufactured a twin killing on the crippled Golvin's blow to second.

Fitz got on when Fuller bobbled a comparatively easy chance in the fourth. There was one out, and again did the alien inner works come to the rescue with a double murder, taking Ping to second by Bodie for obliteration of Spuds on the paths.

White bammed a triple to right in the fifth after two had gone, but Query bounced out to second. Dorman, hitting for Reid in the eighth with two down, singled past second. Buff infield took care of Cal.

With two out in the ninth and Bodie at bat, some bright yap yelped: "Get a hitter." The rotund one promptly singled through short. Turge duplicated and the Spudders had two men on the runways at the same time, but that was all. Couldn't punch Littlejohn for three in a row.

100-YARD RECORD LOWERED.

Jackson Scholz Said to Run Distance In 9.5 Saturday.

GREENSBORO, N. C., May 9.—Jackson Scholz, Olympic runner participating in the annual Greensboro high school track meet with Currie, of Davidson college and Emerson of North Carolina university is said to have lowered the world's record for the 100-yard dash here this afternoon by one-sixth of a second, covering the distance in 9½ seconds. He ran on a hard clay track.

Classy Leather Card Arranged For This Week

Fightin' Joe Denton Mingles Mittens With Clyde Hull

SCRAPS FRIDAY NIGHT

Bat Jennings Squares Off With Kurkburnett Kid Snyder.

That the American Legion is bent on starting the Wichita Falls summer boxing season with a flourish next Friday in the new open air arena now under construction at Eleventh and Ohio seems more than assured by the aspects of the powerful lineup for the card Promoter Don Wofford announced Saturday.

As was carried in the Tecord News the past week, Joe Denton, the stepping Amarillo welter, has been matched for a ten-round affair with the clever Clyde Hull of St. Paul.

This is Denton's comeback bout after an absence from Wichita Falls rings for more than six months. It is Hull's farewell bout here. Both are well known to Wichita Falls fans, and each has a heavy backing among the ring bugs. The scuffle is expected to prove the biggest drawing card of the year to date.

Battling Jennings, the Henrietta walloper, comes back again for a set-to with Kid Snyder, the Burkburnett mauler. The scrap is to be either a six or eight-rounder. It has not been decided yet.

Two heavyweights are billed for a six-round affair. Sailor Ladell mixes with Homer Nolen. Nolen has fought here before.

There are to be other prelims arranged during the week.

Southwestern Delays Centenary Entrance

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, May 9.—Action on the application of Centenary college for a place in the Southwest Athletic conference was postponed today until the December meeting of the executive council of the cfonerence. The coaches and managers of the conference meeting here made up a schedule, without including this school.

ELIMINATION PAIRINGS SOON.

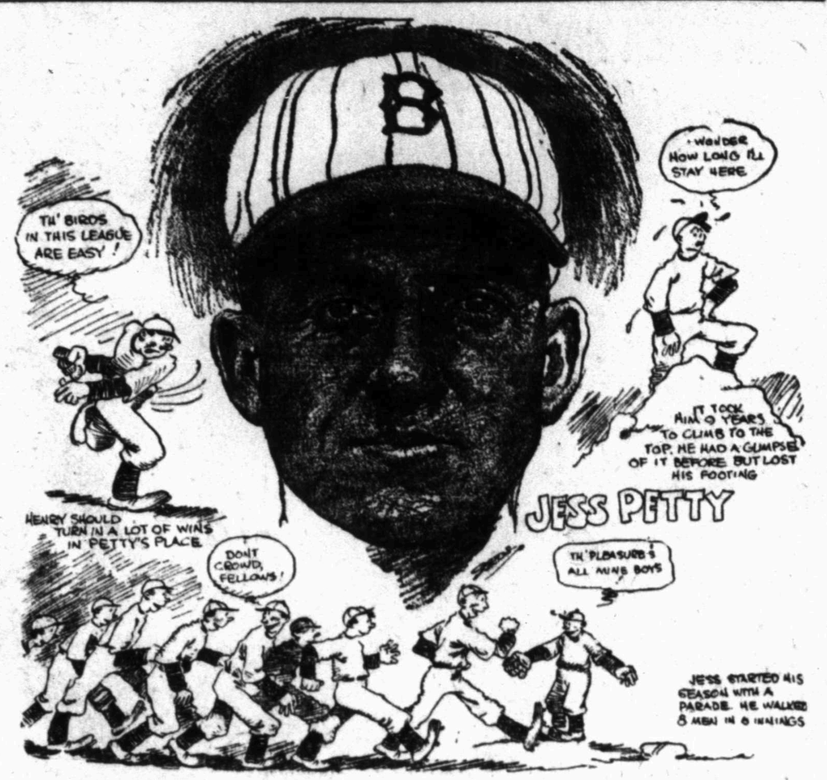

Midwest Matches for National Meet to Start June 3.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Pairing for the midwest elimination rounds of the national open air golf championship to be held at Onwentsia club on May 27-28, issued tonight by Robert A. Gardner, vice president of the United States Golf association, show that 44 starters are carded for this region, including 16 amateurs.

Only 27 of these will survive for the tournament to be played on June 3-6 at Worcester, Mass., where they will meet the survivors of the eastern and the Pacific eliminating meets. Among the amateurs entered are Bob Gardner, twice national amateur title holder; Chick Evans, formerly national open and amateur champion; Captain E. F. Carter, once Irish champion; Eddie Held of St. Louis, trans Mississippi title holder, and Ira Couch, formerly western junior champion.

'A PETTY MATTER

But Important One, Is Jess' Situation With Dodgers

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

Is Jess Petty, southpaw star of the American association last year, going to prove a big winner or a bloomer for the Brooklyn Dodgers?

Any one who can answer this question authoritatively should get in touch with Uncle Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Dodgers. For right now Uncle Robbie is at sea regarding the lefthander.

Petty led the American association with 29 victories and eight defeats for the Indianapolis club last season. He had had some big league experience three or four years ago. Brooklyn scouts figured he could step right into the box and deliver. He appeared to be ready when the Dodgers left Florida.

Robbie sent him in against the New York Giants in the first game with the champs. The Giants promptly hammered him out of the box in six innings. He allowed eight hits and walked a man for every hit.

The next time he started the Phillies hammered him out of the box.

Then, the other day, Robbie sent Petty in against the Braves. Now Bancroft's team has been playing some fairly good ball although they have had trouble winning games. Petty wound his lefthanded shoots around the necks and belts of the Brave batters with the wizardry that he had shown in the A. A. When the game ended he had allowed just four hits. He walked but four men and fanned five batters.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, had been having a field day at the expense of four Brave pitchers and collected a total of 15 runs. Petty could have eased off conscientiously in the later innings of the game but he seemed determined to show Uncle Robbie that he had the stuff. The Braves were forced to inject a pinch hitter in the ninth in their efforts to shove over the second of two runs they managed to score on him.

Half a dozen big league clubs were after Petty last winter. None of them wanted to meet the terms Owner Smith and Manager Bush asked for the big gent. When I talked with Smith at Plant City, Fla., early in the spring, he explained his side of the matter.

"Petty was the greatest pitcher in the A. A. last year," said Smith. "It is an old saying that a good southpaw can make a ball club. Petty has proved it with us. We figured that he could prove it in the big show. We asked a price in keeping with that estimation."

The Dodgers finally won out in the race for Petty because they could offer the Indianapolis bosses a good minor league southpaw in addition to cash. Dutch Henry was the man. Henry, with New Orleans last season, ranked second in earned runs allowed per game. He won 10 and lost two games after joining them from the Dodgers. He has had big league experience. He should be able to turn in a fair list of victories in Petty's place.

Petty has been nine years climbing to the top. He started with San Antonio in 1916. As related before, he was up three or four years ago, with the Cleveland Indians, but couldn't get the right slant at the game. He proved a hard man to handle. He is now 30 years old, however, and has settled down to serious business of pitching.

Englishers Halve A Match Hole in One

LONDON, May 9.—Halving a hole in one was the extraordinary experience fo two women golfers at Ramsgate yesterday.

The feat was performed by Mrs. Robinson and Miss Glutterbuck, contestants in an inter-club match, who sank their tee shots on the 110-yard fifteenth hole.

It is believed to be the first instance of the kind in which the players were women.

Coyote Pups Disband Fast Baseball Club

Players Join Twilight and Sunday School Loop Teams.

Disbandment of the baseball team at the junior high school was announced the past week by Coach Montgomery. Monty turned out the best team junior high has ever had.

This was the first year that the Pups had entered in track and this offered them something to strive for. During the week of track final runnings the baseball squad laid off.

Now with the close of the school numbered in days the final disbanding was announced when Montgomery saw that the Sunday school and Twilight loop offered the boys at least one game a week.

Possibly the best turned out this year by the Pups is their battery of Parker and Horton. These two lads are together in both the Twilight and Sunday school league.

Another product that is going good in the Sunday school league is shortstop Maurice Bullard. Bullard is putting up a fine game with the Floral Heights Methodist team.

First baseman Frits Taylor is making a great start with the First Presbyterians in the Sunday school loop. "Big Boy" Munday is going nicely with the First Christians in both the outfield and at first base.

Security Hooks With Americans In Twilight Play

Game Called 3 o'Clock On Twilight Diamond Today

The Security National bank club is slated to hook up today with the American Refinery nine of the Twilight loop at 3 o'clock. The two have both been going well and a good game can be expected.

SELF MADE ATHLETES AND SOME OTHERS.

Notice that the modest, and therefore popular Tad Jones, is under the impression that athletes themselves and not the coaches, are responsible for sportive successes. It is like the self-effacing Jones to say that. No doubt, too, he believes it, for Jones never plays hypocritical roles.

Quoth Jones: "Men and teams are what they make themselves in the final reckoning the coach really has very little to do with their success or failure. The reason Yale teams have been so successful in past years, isn't due to me but to the men on the teams. During that entire march of 80 yards down the field against Harvard last fall I could do nothing but sit absolutely still on the bench, entirely out of it. These men lived clean and played clean, and if they hadn't done that they couldn't possibly have won."

That is a generous, big-hearted fashion of estimating things, and it will win more friends for Jones. But not all calculating, matter-of-fact folk are going to wholly agree with Tad. The writer, who has his romantic spells, too, does not.

For one thing Yale football successes are in quite a measure due to the personal efforts and influence of Tad Jones. Tad not only equipped most of the players with their football knowledge, devised the plays and drilled them in executing them. He was loved and respected by his men as well.

These things are mighty big somethings in the final analysis of victory. Willing and talented material are strong contributions, too, of course. But if they are not properly coached and commanded of what use is their ability? One could note scores of failures even with the advantages of formidable material.

The coach, his football knowledge and his personality, are pretty much to a team what the piston rods are to a locomotive. They are in reality the driving force of the layout. This writer can sincerely state this in respect to the wonder team of Notre Dame last year. Each man on that team became a part of his coach, Rockne, through almost constant contact with him during the football season. And Rockne has a gripping, masterful personality. It isn't the kind that will take a defeat without a stubborn battle. As matter of fact it rarely conjures up vision of failure.

The same may be said of practically all the successful gridiron coaches—Yost, Stagg, Roper, Warner, Bezdek, Cavanaugh. Even Cornelians have long since learned to reverse Dobies dour visage and phony gloom. The late Percy Haughton practically manufactured teams out of his iron, unyielding personality.

His men at once feared and loved him as the awed grenadiers of apolean did "The Little Corporal". They reflected this sovereign character of their leader in the crash of conflict on the gridiron.

MURPHY'S SOAP BOX ORATION

Mike Murphy's famous soap box oration, to his Pennsylvania players between halves will never be forgotten by followers of football. It revived a heart-weary, three-quarters beaten team and returned them conquerors. Simply because Mike Murphy begged for the triumph with tears streaming down his cheeks and an agonizing moan "that he wouln'd be with them much longer.

Of course there are geniuses, to the manor born, who are not amenable to rules, in fact who do not need them. The Hinkeys, Poes, Heffelfingers, Weekes, Thorpes, Barrets, Brickleys, Hardwicks and the like. But these are not the sort Jones has reference to we take it. The average gridiron star who does not happen to be a genius is, in the writer's opinion, quite largely a product of a great coach.

Along other boulevards of sport the case is often somewhat different. Bill Tilden is a tenis genius. He practically developed his own latent talents at the start. Most tennis stars do, although some of them have accepted coaching from masters of the game. However, usually the knowledge gained in this manner is almost wholly negligible—a mere spit in the gale when final summarizing is done on the case of greatness. Tilden used to practice shots for hours at a clip, batting the ball back and forth on the side of a barn.

Suzanne Lenglen is another court artist of her own making. In order to gain judgment of distance and control she was wont to practice shooting balls at handkerchiefs placed on the court by her father.

RUNNERS SOMEWHAT DIFFERENT

Most great runners owe very little to the teaching of others. They, usually, are exponents of natural styles. Nurmi's smooth-working "phantom" action for instance. We once querried Paavo about where he learned the art of running, from whom he picked up valuable pointers. Was it from the American athletes at the Olympics? Or was it from his own Hannes Kolehainan?

"I am myself", snapped Paavo. "I didn't learn anything from anybody, not even from Kolehmainen. I've never had any time to watch the American athletes at Olympic games. I was too busy winning my own races in my own way". However if Tad Jones had been referring to ballplayers he would have been almost completely wrong, generally speaking. The average major league performer can attribute most of his success to the coaching of some experienced manager.

There are a few exceptions, of course. Ty Cobb, when a comparative tyro practiced batting for hours daily with a companion. He is a self made genius, so to speak. As a matter of fact Cobb was a weak member with the stick when he started his diamond career. Most of the players under John McGraw are genuine products of his diamond genius. Jawn really is considerable of a master-mind. He does practically all the thinking for the team during the pennant season. His signals for this and that play are flashed almost every minute from the bench.

THOSE FIGHT CHAMPS

Dempsey, of course, is a natural fighter. Yet Jack Kearns maintains that in order to teach him knockout hitting with the left he was obliged to employ a neat scheme. Kearns claims that he ties Jack's right to his side in order to force him to use the left. Jimmy De Forrest also puts in a bid for some of Jack's success. He avers that he forced Dempsey to practice punching with light dumb-bells while doing road work.

Tommy Ryan taught Jim Jeffries the famous "crouch" which the boiler-maker adopted to successfully wrest the championship from Fitzsimmons. Willie Lewis, who practically introduced boxing in France was responsible for much of Carpentier's ring craft.

"There have been some marvelous natural fighters—geniuses like Fitzsimmons and Ketchel who never needed a lesson to win fights. But most of them owe much to veteran handlers who teach them accurate hitting and the principles of ring craft.

By ROBERT EDGREN

Stanislaus Zebyszko, the Pole, was considered too aged to be of use to the wrestling trust—the mysterious organization that "arranges" most of the big wrestling matches and schedules the results. Zbyszko was supposed to have reached fifty-eight, an age which most athletes are too stiff in the joints to compete any more. Sbyszko had shriveled away to almost normal proportions—normal, that is, in comparison to what he used to look like as world's Graeco-Roman champion 25 years or so ago when he was a human hippopotamus. Consequently Zbyscko was hovering arond the tank towns, taking on matches where he could find them.

Big Munn, Nebraska football player and ex-boxer, threw Strangler Lewis and unexpectedly became world's champion wrestler. Big Munn was an independent worker, not under trust control. His succession to the championship produced much indignation and many violent protests. Unless he came in he was likely to cause a mixup in the smooth running wrestling machine. Big Munn began laying out his own wrestling programme. He wrestled a few perfectly safe opponents and threw them. He threw the aged Zbyszko who looked rather fat and soft and who didn't offer much resistance. A few weeks later Munn said he was going on a long trip to Europe.

To get a little traveling money Big Munn took on Zbyszko again, in an eastern bout in Philadelphia. Zbyszko, champion years ago, still had a reputation and could help draw a good gate. Beside which Zbyszko was undoubtedly growing softer and fatter. Munn had that impression, and Zbyszko didn't contradict it.

Zbyszko threw big Munn in eight minutes, eleven seconds, picking the cornhusker giant up and throwing him to the floor much as Munn threw Strangler Lewis a few months ago.

In the intermission Munn's backers sent out word that Munn had tonsilitis and wasn't feeling very well, and would the obliging Mr. Zbyszko kindly take on one of Munn's wrestling partners for the second bout and excuse the champion for the rest of the evening.

Mr. Zbyszko refused, and Munn had to come out and wrestle again, only to be thrown a second time in four minutes. That made Zbyszko world's champion again, age 58. The inside story of this event is that Zbyszko fooled Munn. He learned all about him in the first match, then trained into shape and beat him.

When Stanislaus Cyganiewicz Zbyszko was a young fellow of about 25 few wrestlers cared to meet him.

The Zbyszko vs. George Hackenschmidt Match

At that time George Hackenschmidt was king of the grapplers, and Zbyszko challenged him without result. Georges was interested just then in learning the American style of wrestling—catch as catch can. Zbyszko followed Hack to America on one of his trips, and a match was arranged in New York. It was a handicap match, Hackenschmidt to throw Zbyszko twice in two hours or lose the match and the purse. Hackenschmidt tried every trick he knew for two hours, but he didn't throw Zbyszko. I went down to Hack's dressing room after the match to see what his alibi would be.

"Ah, but no", said Hackenschmidt, "I did not have hard luck. I did the best I could. He was too strong for me. I had no idea he was so strong. I could not throw him. I could do nothing with him. I am very tired. He is better than I am. I am fortunate that he did not throw me."

At that time Zbyszko weighed 245 pounds. His height was 5 feet 10 inches. His neck was 22 inches, chest 55 inches, waist 42 inches. He had a 23 inch biceps and a 13 inch forearm—the biggest ever recorded among athletes. His wrist was 13 inches, thigh 32 inches, calf 19 inches. He was almost hideously out of proportion, dwarfted by monstrously broad shoulders and huge masses of muscles. His neck was so short and thick that ordinary wrestling holds slipped right over his head.

Stanislaus was thrown once, by Frank Gotch, the American champion. Frank was a clever wrestler and trickiest and most guileful of all mat men. He never gave Zbyszko another chance. At that time Zbyszko knew nothing about catch as catch can wrestling, and Frank's favorite invention was the toe hold.

A Life or Death Wrestling Match

During the war Zbyszko was in Russia. In 1817 he was grabbed by the Bolsheviki, who demanded to know what the Pole was doing in Russia, and proposed executing Zbyszko off hand on the chance that he might be a spy or a capitalist.

"I am a wrestler", pleaded Zbyszko. "I know nothing of politics or money, I know nothing but wrestling".

"So?, you are a wrestler", said Zbyszko's captors, laughing uproariously. "Well, we have a wrestler. He is Aberg. You have heard of him, yes? You shall wrestle Aberg to amuse the soldiers. If you can throw Aberg you are a wrestler and you can go, if you lose the match you are a spy and we shoot you immediately".

Aberg was a Russian heavyweight wrestler—one of the best that ever visited America. Zbyszko says that match was the great thrill of his life. Soldiers, waiting to shoot him, sat around the ring, laughing and jeering. They knew Aberg and they didn't know Zbyszko. There was a referee, who stepped on Zbyszko's fingers and slyly kicked him as the wrestlers rolled about. But Zbyszko managed to get a fall, and in the excitement following slipped back of the stage and bribed some of the soldiers to help him escape, with money he had hidden in his trunks.

Returning to America after a series of adventures escaping from Russia, Zbyszko trained for eight months to learn the new style of "rolling falls" ordered by the New York commission to make wrestling pure and honest, and lost a sensational match to Lewis, who refused to meet him again. Now being champion, Zbyszko can reciprocate by refusing to give Lewis another chance.

Zbyszko Well Educated

Stanislaus Zbyszko has an interesting history. Like Hackenschmidt, he speaks eight languages and has a university education. He was born in the Russion Baltic region. He studied law, but because of his tremendous natural strength took up wrestling professionally and never went back to the legal grips and strangle holds. Zbyszko never developed any feature holds, like the Gotch toe hold, the Stecher leg scissors or the Lewis headlock. He always depended upon his unlimited strength and endurance to wear opponents down. He has wrestled in over two thousand matches.

Zbyszko says he has rules of life that make success sure. Nothing that can happen in a match worries him if he has done his best. He counts self-denial, determination, and never fails to practice them. He lives in the summer time on the beach near Portland, Maine, staying in the sun all day, wearing only a bathing suit. He does not smoke, dissipate, or eat as much as his appetite demands. He trains four hours a day to keep his weight down and his muscles lean.

"When I am over sixty", says Zbyszko, "I will do my best wrestling".

He has a lot of ambition for a young fellow.

Centenary to Be Given Games In The Conference

Decision of Colleges is Practical Admittance To Conference

COLLEGE STATION, May 9.—(AP)—Participation of Centenary college, Louisiana, in basketball and baseball schedules of the southwest conference on a non-conference basis, seemed assured today. Coaches and managers of the conference appeared on the point of accepting the edict of the executive council of the Southwest Athletic conference that Centenary be accepted on this basis.

This would amount to accepting the Louisiana school in place of Oklahoma A. and M. whose resignation from the conference was accepted this morning.

The council refused to consider Centenary for membership in the conference at this time but wanted to let the school in on a virtual percentage basis for one year, which means that it would play in the conference but its percentage could not be included in the winnings of the conference teams.

Much opposition developed among the coaches and managers to the attitude of the council. When adjournment came at noon, however, it practically was decided that the council would not recede and that the coaches and managers would make a schedule including Centenary. This schedule was not to be completed before midnight and the coaches adjourned the meeting for the Southwest conference track meet here this afternoon. The executive council expected to continue its meetings during the afternoon and tonight.

The coaches agree dto eliminate basketball playing during the Christmas holiday and making a rule preventing a team from training within two days prior to Christmas or resembling them within three days after Christmas. This will have to be considered by the council.

Penn Beats Cornell In Dual Track Meet

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—The University of Pennsylvania defeated Cornell in their annual track meet today, 70 to 65. The winner was decided on the last event, the hammer throw.

CIGARRETTES HELD ILLEGAL.

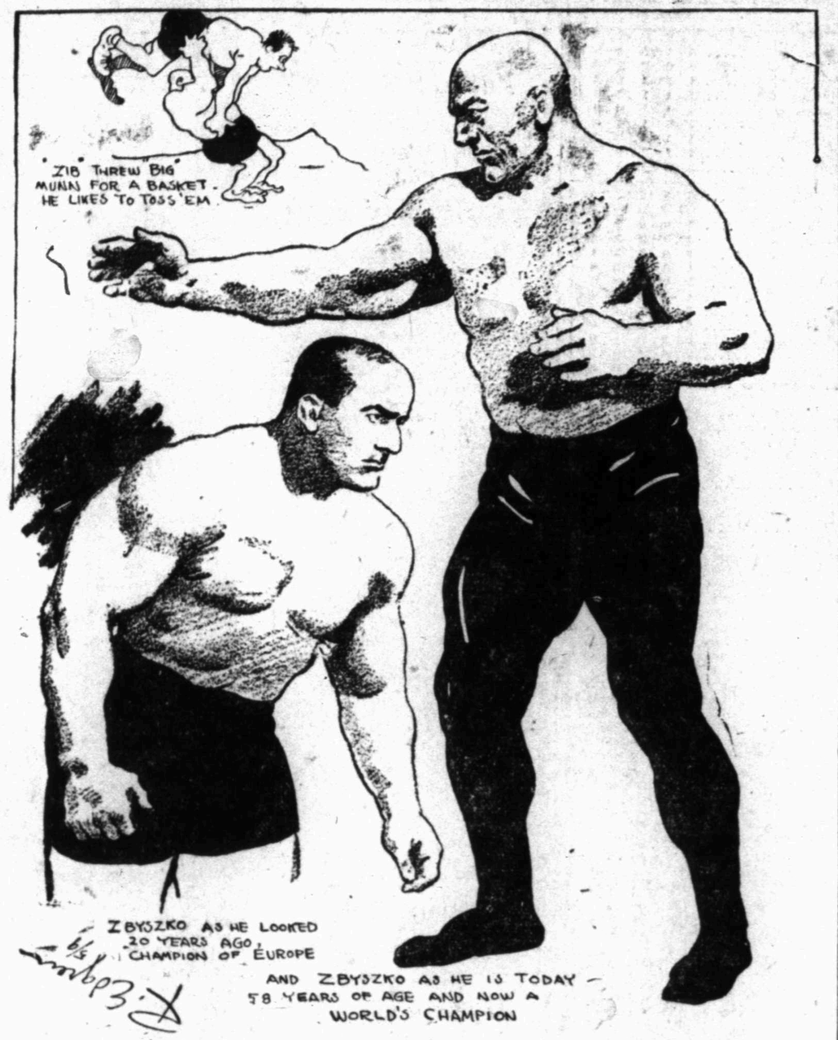

Manufacturers Denied Protection of Courts in Kansas.

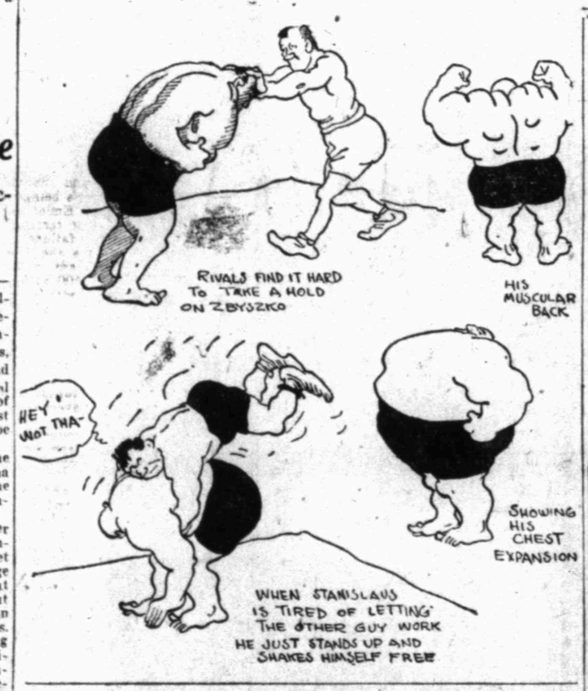

TOPEKA, Kan., May 9.—A wholesale tobacco company which sells cigarettes and cigarette papers to a Kansas dealer must rely on his honesty and can not use the courts to collect for the cigarrettes, the supreme court decided today. Both the district and the supreme courts held that cigarettes being an illegal article of commerce in Kansas, did not have the protection of the court.

ENDORSE GOLF RULES.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Endorsement of the new rules governing play of the national amateur golf championship the most drastic of which is the reduction of the qualification field from 32 to 16 players, is contained in a letter to the United States Golf Association by Bobby Jones, present amateur title holder made public today.

Pre-Derby Dope Means Nothing If Sande Rides

Intrepid Jockey Makes His Horse a Favorite In Betting

If Earl Sande, intrepid jockey rides in the Kentucky derby, all winter and early season dope o nthe entries in that historic event may just as well be thrown into the junk heap. For Sande's presence in the jocky list will have more influence among the close followers of the game than time trials, rail tips and whatnot.

Sande rides winners. He is still America's premier jockey on the merits of his riding as well as his personal popularity. For that reason a horse becomes a favorite when Sande mounts his back.

Considering Two.

At the writing Sande is expected to ride for either Ham Keene, the man who has first call on his services, or Bud Fisher. Sande rode Nellie Morse to victory in the Preakness for Fisher last year and has ridden several other Fisher mounts with success. Fisher has asked Keene to let Sande ride Swope in the Churchill Downs event.

Sande's victory with "Worthmore" in the Paumonok handicap for three-year-olds at Jamaica the other day merely verified the general belief that the little jockey, though he may not be entirely recovered from his injuries, has not lost a whit of the courage he had before his almost fatal spill.

First Victory.

Sande's first victory on his return to the saddle this spring was on the famous Sarazen. Riding for Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt 11, Sande carried his illustrious mount to a new track record at Havre de Grace. Sande accepted Sarazen for his "comeback" believing that the horse would bring him luck. He had ridden Sarazen before with marked success.

Sarazen ran his first race at Long Island two years ago and Sande was atop him. Five days later Sande won the Champagne stakes with him. At the 1923 fall meeting at Harve de Grace Sande again rode him to victory.

Only Few Fans Hooted at Sand For Bribe Case

Philadelphia Shortstop Is Praised by Most of The Fans

A portion of the fans attending a recent game between the New York Giants and the Phillies jeered and hooted Heinie Sand, Philadelphia shortstop, during the progress of the game. As there was no reason for such action in his play, but one conclusion can be drawn—that is that they are hooting him for his manly act in exposing the O'Connell-Dolan bribery attempt last year.

This action of the fans should be food for long and serious thought.

It is a sad commentary on the sportsmanship and principles of the fans who took part in the outbursts. And the question is: What percentage of American baseball fandom does this type represent?

Here we have the spectacle of a man brave enough to "come clean" for the honor of the game he plays, being made the target of expressions intended only to humiliate and ridicule.

These expressions made it clear to that man that his action, instead of being applauded, was being censured.

Any man who belittles the action of Sand must condone crookedness in the game. And this knowing that crookedness has threatened to kill the game before and still gnaws at its vitals.

What manner of fan is this then, who implies loyalty to the sport through his attendance at the games and at the same time places his o. k. on the efforts of gamblers, fixers, etc., the men who are constantly attacking the game?

The only hope to be expressed is that the spirit shown that day was not a representative one—that many of the fans were misguided and drawn into the "riding" unwittingly.

Heinie Sand not only showed what an honest player can do to protect the game but he threw the fear into those men higher up in the game who close their eyes to shady practices and smother efforts to uncover the festering sports in the game.

FIVE T. I. A. A. SCHOOLS DROP OUT OF ASS'N

Founders of Athletic Union For New Conference

GEORGETOWN, May 9. — Five schools of the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic association withdrew from the organization at a meeting here today and formed a new association to be known as the Texas conference.

The five schools are: Austin college, Sherman; Howard Payne, Brownwood; Simmons college, Abilene; Trinity college, Waxahachie, and Southwestern college, Georgetown.

The reason assigned for the withdrawal and organization of the Texas conference was that T. I. A. A. had become too large, and that the smaller organization would give better control and better schedules than was possible under the larger. Southwestern, Austin and Trinity colleges were the original organizers of T. I. A. A.

The officers of the new organization are: M. L. Cashion, Sherman, president; A. E. Chandler, Abilene, vice-president; J. C. Goddey, Georgetown, secretary-treasurer. A committee was named to prepare a constitution and by-laws. The regular annual meeting was set for December 1 in Dallas.

Nurmi Races to An Easy Handicap Win

FITTSBURG, Mass., May 9.—Paavo Nurmi, Finnish distance runner, raced to an easy victory over a handicap field in a special mile and a half event at the Reipas Athletic club meet here today. His time was 6 minutes 52 1-2 seconds, ten seconds slower than the record he established at Los Angeles, Cal., on April 20.

Brothers of Sock— Babe and Jack Meet

NEW YORK,—Brothers of sock—Jack Dempsey, and Babe Ruth—met here at St. Vincent's hospital before the heavyweight boxing champion sailed for Europe a few days ago.

Ruth, who punishes a baseball rather than a ring opponent, recalled that he had seen Dempsey "sock one" at the Polo Grounds—Luis Angel Firpo.

"Last time I saw you sock one was also at the Polo Grounds," Dempsey said. "It was in the world's series against the Giants."

For an hour they talked, then the Babe produced a book of poetry and Jack cut short the visit.

SPIC AND SPAN WINS.

Clark Handicap Winner Gets $12,000 for Race.

LOUISVILLE, May 9.—The Clark handicap, worth $12,000 net to the winner was won by Spic and Span here today. Son of John finished second and Little Celt third. The time was 1:47 3-5.

Balcones-Woodbine Pools Have Yielded 159,185,415 Barrels of Oil

100 Wildcats Finished Over Sixteen Months

Wortham And Richland Fields Are Net Results

30 DRILLING NOW

Bazette And Mebank Failures Discourage Lease Buying on Fault

The total crude yield of the five separate fields comprising the Mexia-Corsicana district in East Central Texas amounted to 159,185,415 barrels at the close of April, and save for a few hundred thousand barrels of crude from the Corsicana-Powell shallow sands, the entire amount has been extracted from the Woodbine sand formation since the completion of the Humphreys-Rogers discovery well in Mexia in November, 1920, says the Oil Weekly (Houston) in its current issue.

Much Wildcatting

The flush and high yield per acre has been the incentive for the wildcat exploration work which has resulted in 100 wildcats being completed in this faulted region within the last 16 months, with Richland and Wortham the net results. About 30 wildcats are now drilling, but not one of thes locations offer encouragement of a new field discovery, which failures at Bazette and Mabank recently have diminished interest in lease buying.

The Corsicana-Powell fiel'd will eclipse the Mexia field in total crude yield during May by a wide margin, though the former was not discovered until January, 1923. Through April, 1925, Mexia has produced 69,823,500 barrels and Corsicana-Powell 69,526,500 barrels.

The spectacular performance of these two fields has placed the East Central Texas fault zone in a dominating position as a market factor, and threats of a new wildcat strike commands attention in market circles throughout the country.

Wortham 10,000,000

The youngest of the Paul fields, Wortham, has produced 10,685,000 barrels and is declining more than 1,000 barrels daily average each week, with 310 wells doing about 52,000. Corsicana-Powell has 750 pumpers including about 200 shallow wells drilled since the Woodbine development, the combined output amounting to about 53,000 barrels. Mexia has been holding around 20,000 barrels for several months, with 467 pumpers. Richland has 94 wells doing about 6,100 barrels and Currie is making 1,520 barrels from 66 wells, with several flowing with the aid of air compressors.

The possibility of a deeper oil producing horizon underlying the regular Woodbine pay has not been definitely eliminated, although some effort has been made in each of the fields to pick up a lower pay.

Tonkawa Activity Boosted in New Extension West

By PAUL HEDRICK.

TULSA, Okla., May 9.—The Tonkawa deep sand operators are not allowing their surprise over the west and northwest extension to the field to interfere with their activities and announcement was made yesterday of four offses and near-offsets to the Marland Oil company-Mid-Continent (Cosden) Petroleum corporation No. 3-B school, in the northeast of the southeast of the northeast of 33-25-1w, Kay county. This well which had sand at 4,277 feet, with first pay at 4,280 feet did 1,565 barrels the first 24 hours, made 1,556 barrels the second 24 hours. It is now in the pay to 4,295 feet.

Locations are Wentz Oil corporation No. 51 McKee, Comar Oil company No. 6 . Beverlin, Comar's No. 9 W. Beverlin, Comar's No. 10 W. Beverlin, Comar's No. 17 W. Beverlin.

Louie Friedman No. 1 Slier, in the southeast of the southeast of the northwest of 28-25-1w, is a hole full of green oil at 4,267 feet, and shut down still in sand, topped at 4,248 feet: If this well comes in a producer i will require 14 or 15 deep sand locaions around i.

The silicious lime, or he eighth deep sand at Tonkawa, is to be tested by several of the deep Tonkawa operators. The Comar is swabbing 100 barrels a day from No. 1 W. Blubaugh, in the northwest corner of the southwest of 2-24-1w, in the deepest pay at 4,385 feet. It previously produced from a sand at 4,268. The Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 40 Goltry, in the northeast of the northeast of the west half of the northeast of 34-25-1w, is in white lime at 4,532 feet.

Production Report.

The Tonkawa field for the fiscal week ended Wednesday did 61,270 barrels a day from 762 wells, a decline of 5,653 barrels in daily output and from two new wells. The 99 deep sand wells did 42,296 barrels a day.

On Friday morning the 101 deep sand wells were estimated as making 40,500 barrels a day.

Burbank Falls Off Again.

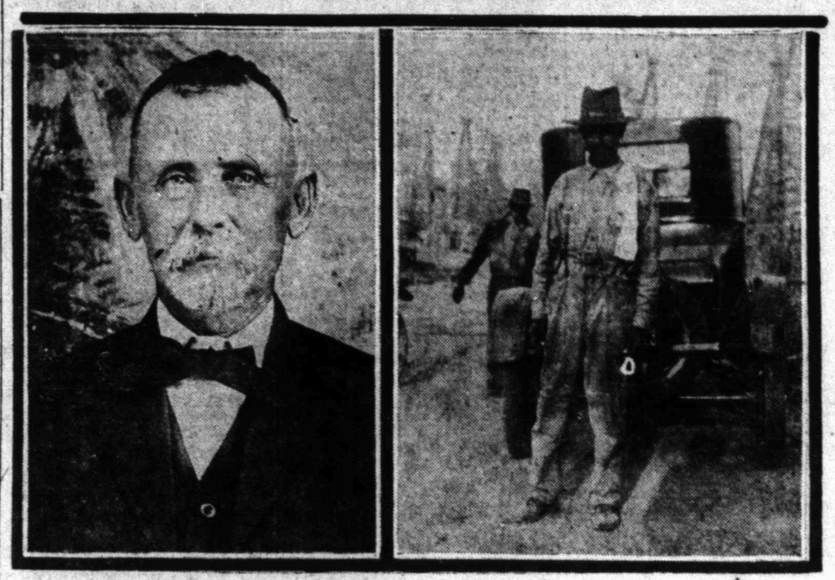

The Burbank field is still slippnig. The weekly repor shows i made 55,867 barrels a day from 1,722 wells, a decline of 2,227 barrels a day and with four new wells. The Osage area did 44,581 barrels a day from 195 wells.

Estimates indicate the Burbank storage for the period was 12,655,490 barrels.

Holdenville Is Played.

Twenty locations have been made around the Gypsy Oil company No. 1 Proctor, in the southwest corner of the northeast of 35-8-8, the first oil well in the Holdenville pool of Hughes county, and which is doing 1,187 barrels a day from 3,257 to 3,290 feet. When pipe line facilities are improved the well is to be deepened a little more.

Pioneers of South Liberty

Texas Fields Quiet With Some Activity Pervading Old Areas

FORT WORTH, May 9.—Continued rains throughout Texas made country roads almost impassable and as a consequence those leases not having a large supply of fuel were forced to shut down last week. Also, news gatherers made not attempt to get to the fields and big stuff is scarce at present.

A general pessimism still prevails in many spots of Texas that oil is not all it should be at present; the Smackover increases have shoved grand totals way up and many oil men cannot, or do not, understand that light oil production is down. So there are many inactive operators in all Texas districts.

Balcones Fault Zone Rather Quiet Now.

The Balcones fault zone in East Central Texas is rather quiet. Skinner and Atlantic Oil Producing company No. 1 Decker, Eaton survey, Kaufman county, resumed Friday after a three-day shut down and was 2,867 feet in shale. It had the Austin chalk at 2,171 to 2,677 feet. Atlantic has made still another location in Kaufman county, five miles southeast of Terral, for No. 1 Mrs. J. Massengill, P. Walter survey. The derrick patterns is moving out but the well will not be started until No. 1 Decker is finished, and if the latter is a dry hole. Atlantic has done extensive core drilling in Kaufman county.

Several miles south of Mexio, Reiter-Foster Oil corporation is diamond core drilling in north Roberson and Falls counties preparatory to giving the Woodbine formations a deep test. Foster-Reiter officials and principal stockholders visited Texas properties of the company last week and spent two days surveying the 42 miles of leases extending from Kosse, Limestone county, south to Calvert, Roberson county. About 28,500 acres are held by the company, which will drill two tests there, one in Falls and another in Roberson county.

Reiter Discusses Chances In Throckmorton County.

W. A. Reiter, president, and W. H. Foster, vice president, were high in their praise of Throckmorton county when they visited their holdings in the southeastern part of the county, between Woodson and Masters. Reiter-Foster will drill two wells on their block on the Masters anticline near their present oil well which is producing 85 barrels daily at 2,974 to 2,987 feet in block 991, TE&LCO survey. The two officials, both geologists, forecast big development for the county. Reiter-Foster owns three different blocks in the county and holds protection on several other structures.

"There are chances from the grass roots down to 4,500 and 4,800 feet for production, and the Pennsylvanian formations which yield oil rae noted for longevity," said W. A. Reiter in commenting on the county.

Old Districts Show Renewed Activity.

The old districts have shown more activity in the last week than at any time since their settled stage. Stephens county was particularly in the forefront. There, Art Cox and others No. 1 Cunningham, which opened a new producing territory near the north line of Stephens county just south of Eliasville, is flowing 400 barrels at 3,186 and in to 3,200 feet.

About 20 rigs and locations are spotted around Barkley, George et al. No. 1 Pritchard, eight miles north of Ranger, but in Stephens county. That well was completed two weeks ago and flowed 100 barral an hour with the tools in the hole from a sand at 3,535 to 3,550 feet. With the tools removed last week it did better than 150 barrels an hour.

Shackelford county's 2,000-foot Moran sand is yielding the Phillips Petroleum company some nice wells. No. 2 Parrish, northeast quarter of section 47, Blind Asylum lands, at 2,190 feet, did 682 barrels and No. 1 Parrish is to be deepened. Wilson and Gordon No. 1 Elliott in the same territory is doing 500 barrels at 2,083 to 2,093 feet.

Second Pipeline For Big Lake Rumored.

Two oil showings in Sterling county, West Texas, wildcats, and two more Big Lake field, Reagan county, wells which sent the production of that monopolized field to about 32,000 barrels flush. Humble Pipeline company has increased its pipeline runs to about 18,000 barrels daly, while Texon Oil & Land company and Big Lake Oil company are shipping 7,500 barrels each over the Orient to Humble at Webster and other Gulf ports. The production of the field, therefore, now amounts to about the same as the shipments, the 1,000,000 barrels of storage not dented materially.

There is admittedly discussion of another pipe line to the field but whether it has been in official circles or not has not been admitted, and at any rate has not gotten further than the discussion stage.

Texon No. 1 Oil corporation No. 6, center of the northwest of the northwest of section 36, block 9, two miles northwest of Best, had the sand at 2,884 feet, went in to 2,920 feet and lost the tools but is estimated at 3,000 barrels at least. Big Lake Oil company No. 23, northeast quarter of the northeast of section 1, block 2, is flowing 150 barrels an hour at 2,914 feet to 2,934 feet.

Two Oil Showings Pep Up Sterling County.

In Sterling county the Kanawha-Angelo Oil company No. 1 L. T. Clark and Son ranch, center of the west half of the northeast quarter of section 21, block "A," GC&SF survey, 12 miles due south of Sterling City, resumed straight reaming of 12 1-2 inch pipe to 1,150 feet after two oil showings at 1,110 and 1,140 feet.

Elsewhere in Sterling county, Chicago-Texas No. 1 Durham, center of the northwest of the southwest of section 18, block 12 SPRR survey, one and a half miles southwest of Sterling City, is drilling at 2,165 feet. Adkisson & Pettitt No. 1 Reynolds, 11 miles west of Sterling City, southwest of the northeast of section 9, block 22, is drilling below 650 feet after landing 15-inch. Cogsdell & Ford No. 1 Foster, center of the northeast of section 34, block 13, SPRR survey, is shut down for pipe at 1,782 feet. Fidelity Oil company No. 1 Hull, southwest corner of the northwest of the southwest of subdivision 4, Moses Herrin survey 6, old Spanish land grant, is preparing to start up at 1,768 feet. Pipe is on ground.

Co-operative Lease & Development company No. 1 Douthitt, southeast corner of section 173, block 29, W&M NWRR survey, is 1,750 feet deep on a new hole 20 miles northwest of Sterling City after losing the first at 2,000 feet..

Just east of Sterling City in Coke county, W. E. Weidler No. 1 Sims, southwest of section 39, T&PRR survey block "W," has run six-inch pipe to 2,865 feet.

In Reagan county, a summary of Big Lake Oil company drilling wells follows: No. 24, drilling in gray lime at 2,483 feet; No. 19, drilling in red rock at 2,720 feet; No. 20, fishing at 2,500 feet; No. 23, drilling at 2,580; No. 26, drilling at 535; No. 27, drilling at 835; No. 28, drilling at 90 feet; No. 29, drilling at 320.

Continued Rain Offers Serious Field Condition

WEEK IS QUIET

Wichita County is More Active Than In Months

Incessant rains that continue to fall in north Texas are offering a serious hamper to operations in the field in Wichita, Archer, Young, and Wilbarger counties. There is drilling water aplenty in every locality now and the sole effects of the continued downpours are mudding up of roads so as to make them almost impassable for fuel oil, rig moving and other supplies.

The past week was minus any completions of note in any of the four counties mentioned. Wichita county is showing a centering of new locations and rigs starting up around the new pools opened on the Mitchell land by the Howell well and one on the Pace land by the Underwood well, and around the new extension to the Kemp and Allen area around the O'Donohoe-Gates well.

A failure north of the new Waite Phillips pool on the Wolfe land in southwest Archer is seen in the Maer-Staniforth-Waite Phillips No. 1, Keys, Wisher survey, drilling past 1,375 feet after apparently missing the sand from which production was expected. Three new tests for the third Waite Phillips Archer pool should get under way at once in two Parkey locations, east and southeast of the single well by Roy I. Carter and a rig of Kentucky Oil corporation's running about half a mile southwest of the well.

As the week ends the pasture in Wilbarger county shows only one item of importance.—a reported sand in the Root et al No. 1, McCary, section 52, block 14, H&TCRRCO survey, three-quarters of a mile northeast of the Levy pool, eastern Wilbarger county. The sand was topped at about 1,870 feet at the end of a screw and has only been touched. A test is being made. The well is west of the Gulf's Waggoner well producing from about the sace level.

Big Well Flush Falls Off Over Heavy Oil Area

GAS LESSENING

Price Changes Feature Week at Arkansas Pool

By D. H. BANCROFT.

SHREVEPORT, La., May 9.—With the spectacular missing from the records, Smackover continues its upward climb in number of completions, but this week it is noted htat the average initial production of its new wells is smaller than last week and also while there were more new wells new production was 7,886 barrels short of last week's. Urania, the most promising new territory in the Shreveport district made heavy inroads on the amount of attention given Smakover through performance of the first offset to the discovery well. This test, George Zeigen No. 1 Urania, went to salt water 12 hours after completion a week ago, but came back with an estimated 75 barrels of oil and a small amount of water after setting screen with packer.

Pine Island came to the fore with a twin of the Dixie Oil company's 43 Robertshaw, Nevada county, and Stephens came back into completions column after an absence of several weeks; Smackover light crude was cut a dime and a new grade was created by the Louisiana Oil Refining corporation, and Standard boosted heavy oil to $.60. These, with a 25-barrel completion in Homer, and a new producer and a failure in the old Caddo lake district 20 miles north of Shreveport, about sum up the major developments of the week in this district.

45 Wells Out of 52 At Smackover.

Smackover completions totaled 52 of which seven were failures and 45 were producers with a total initial production of 69,184 barrels compared with 48 completions last week with 40 producers running 77,070 barrels initial, one gasser and seven failures. Average initial production this week was 1,538 barrels compared to 1,927 barrels last week. Cotton valley had three completions, averaging 107 barrels initial compared to 154 barrels for five new wells last week.

Large percentage of salt water in two of the three counted heavily against the average, one of the two making 50 per cent water, and the other 40 per cent while the third made 10 per cent. Description of these wells will be found in the completions record following:

Louisiana wildcat territory is more prominent this week than for some time past. Natchitoches and Sabine reporting failures, the latter's being in the vicinity of the recent Emlet excitement, while semi-wildcat territory in DeSoto parish also has a failure.

Caddo's completions were the Fortuna Oil Co., 10 Robertshaw in 23-21-15, 10 million gas and 100 gallons of gasoline from the drips with about 50 feet difference in surface elevation in favor of the Fortuna.

Louann Sector Gets New Wells.

Prominent among Smackover completions, in addition to the usual proportion of wells with an initial output of 2,000 barrels and over and a half dozen of 5,000 and larger, is the long succession of new producers in the shallow pay in the Louann sector. Of the 52 completions 41 were in the deep sand and of these 14 were brought in from 2,400 feet and below and six others at 2,500 feet and below.

Activity in Louann will probably be more marked during the next few weeks than for the last two months, resulting from Louisiana Oil Refining corporations creation of a new grade, intermediate between the 21.9 heavy oil and the arbitrary 25 gravity established as the dividing line between Smackover light and heavy oil.

The new grade, 23 to 23.9, was created as a bid for Louann crude against other buyers, market for that oil being highly competitive, but why the same buyer, followed in both instances by Atlantic Oil Producing and Shreveport-Eldorado Pipeline companies, cut Smakover 28 and above ten cents to $1.35 hasn't been explained. Explanation for the new grade is as stated with the addition that when the Standard established 25 gravity as the dividing line, Louann operators kicked, but to no avail, and have been suffering the lower price and, for the last two weeks, the further penalty of obliteration of the 20 cent differential between oil for shipment and oil for storage posted on all stuff below 25 gravity, making a uniform price of 40 cents for all oil 25 gravity and below.

Heavy Oil Area Goes Northeast.

Heavy oil production was extended a mile northeast by the Standard Oil companys No. 2 Powell in 34-15-15 making 1,000 barrels at 2,385 feet and not quite the same distance northwest by their No. 7 Umstead in the northeast corner of the southeast of 32-15-15 making 2,500 barrels from 2,400 feet with a surface elevation of 90 feet. Dashko et al. No. 2 Joyce a quarter mile west and north from the Standard's 2 Powell was reported during the week as a 25,000-barrel producer from around 2,400 feet, but if it turns out like the usual half-baked estimate it will be considerably less. Location, depth and performance of other wells in the vicinity are against such production, for other wells in this locality, in which direction the sand thins out, at the same depth are nowhere near that size.

Kentucky-Burns-Maxson on Sand

Burns-Maxson and the Kentucky Oil corporation have taken three feet of a good looking oil sand topped at 1,480 feet in their No. 1, L. F. Wilson, in the west half of the block 75, ATNCL, about six miles due north of Archer City and just west of the highway. The hole will be reamed down and casing set to test Monday. The sand in the well shows plenty of oil.

Alaska Pays 75 Cents For Its Gasoline

NOME, Alaska, May 9.—Inhabitants of the settled regions of the United States who are in the habit of complaining of the high cost of gasoline should thank their lucky stars that they do not live at Tocotna, Alaska, where it retails for 75 cents per gallon. Other necessities are quoted as follows by the Alaska Weekly: Bacon 60c, ham 50c, reindeer meat 30c with beef, veal and mutton kept in stock. Considering that all commodities have to be shipped in by boat that the same only makes two trips through the summer, prices are very low.

Archer Pipeline Runs Show Near 4,000 Bbl. Rise

County Once More Forges Ahead of 40,000 a Day Mark

Archer county pipe line runs, on which production figures are based, were boosted nearly 4,000 barrels in daily average during the past week, according to a compilliation of a major pipe line ecompany. Burkburnett showed nearly a thousand barrel increase, as did Young county. Other areas varied little.

The pipe line week, which ended last Monday at 7 a. m. included a large amount of storage that is always run toward the end of the month, this accounting for most of the increases.

Detailed figures follow:

District—	Last Week	Week before
Electra	17,025	17,300
Burkburnett	14,570	13,625
Iowa Park	020	4,020
Archer county	41,065	37,415
Young county	12,145	11,165
South Vernon	7,580	7,560
Clay county	500	510
Montague county	125	140
Jack county	25	30
Total	97,055	92,290

Increase—4,765 barrels.

Great Plains Test

The Great Plains Petroleum company is reported seven feet in a sand topped at 1,640 feet in their test in section 13, south of Fowlkes Station and to be setting 5 3-16-inch casing at that depth to test. The 6 5-8 is frozen at 1,320 feet.

Olney Rain

A rain that approximated two inches in a few hours is reported have covered north Young and south Archer pretty thoroughly Friday night, making roads almost impassible in that area and further replenishing drilling water supplies.

Texas Company Beats Magnolia In Wichita Daily Crude Output

News Of The Fields

Muse-Cranfill, Lowe

Muse and Cranfill bailed their No. 2 Lowe, 300 feet west of the No. 1, block 3, Crawford pasture sub-division, Holman survey, and have a 50 or 60-barrel well from sand topped at 1,259 feet and drilled about three feet, some two or three feet lower than in the No. 1. The well is the second producer in the new pool northwest of the Gambrell area. The No. 3, 300 feet north of the No. 1, is down 800 feet. The No. 1, is pumping about 60 barrels of oil and 15 barrels of water a day.

Moores, Routin

Strong, Wright

A. T. Strong's No. 1, Wright, northwest quarter of block 2435, TE&LCO survey, is a dry hole having swabbed dry yesterday in sand at 1,428-35 feet, north of the Barclay-Hobbs well and east of Megargel.

Texhoma, Montague

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company was drilling deeper yesterday in sandy shale at 1,625 feet after passing up a sand at 1,599-1,613 feet which showed plenty of oil in their No. 4, Howard, midway between 2 and 3, both wells, Finis Robertson survey, north Montague county.

Adjoining acreage here the other day brought $1,000 an acre from Texhoma Oil and Refining company.

Atlantic, Parrish

The Atlantic Oil Producing company is on the sand and will set casing to test in its No. 8-A, Parrish, in the southwest 40 of the southeast quarter of section 26, H&TCRRCO survey, abstract 1197, north Archer county, sand topped at 1,560 feet.

Texhoma, Burnett

Texhoma Oil and Refining company was on the sand yesterday and coring at 1,787 feet in its Burnett C-4, south of Fowlkes Station, Wichita county, while the E-4 had swabbed 80 barrels and was filling up at the rate of 450 feet an hour.

Texhoma, Wilson

Texhoma Oil and Refining company has an oil sand at 1,412 1-2 feet in its No. C-7, Wilson, section 31, ATNCL, north Archer county, and has set casing to test at a depth of 1,406 feet.

Recent Purchases And Development Give Them 4,000 Lead

Continued purchase of production in south Archer and development of a good Gambrell pool lease in north Young county have forced the Texas company from second place in production in the Wichita Falls district, north Texas, to first, topping the Magnolia by nearly 4,000 barrels a day where a month or so ago the Magnolia ranked first.

Gulf Production company is third, Texhoma Oil and Refining company fourth and Prairie, its new purchases included fifth. Humble is sixth.

The Texas company averaged 2,300 from 23 wells on their Gambrell lease a week ago in north Young county.

Lemons Bleach the Skin White

The nly harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, sofetener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Adv.

Suitability In Furnishing Home Biggest Factor

Interior Decorations Should Be Tasteful, Says Woman

SIMPLICITY FIRST

Efforts Should be Made To Get Away From Extravagance

By MRS. HENRY LANDRY

Written Especially for The Record News.

When we consider the time that we spend in the home and too, the influence the home has upon us and our children, certainly we should give time and though to the sort of one we make. There has been a tremendous change in this country within the last few years. The woman of today has a keener desire for the finer and better things—better clothes, better constructed houses, better labor saving household conveniences, better music, books and magazines, better furniture and lovelier homes. It is the ambition of every woman to be the mistress of an attractive home and this does not necessarily mean an expensive one. In fact some of the most livable and attractive homes I know are very modest ones. President Coolidge in his inaugural address laid out a program of economy. He explained that he did not mean to quit spending, but spend more wisely. This is applicable to the buying or building and furnishing of homes. A woman's education is not complete without a fair knowledge of quality of materials and values used in building and furnishing her home as this is often her responsibility.

First to Consider.

If one is planning to build, the first thing to consider is the lot. Select one that will give the proper setting for the house you expect to build. How often do we see large and would-be beautiful homes but for the small lot on which they are built. After the selection of the lot, the next step is the placing of the house and the garage, the planning of convenient walks and driveways and the placing of trees and shrubbery. In planning the house itself, choose a style of archtiecture that is suited to this climate. The inside arrangements should have careful consideration. Too many houses have been built without an idea of furnishing them practically and comfortably. The openings for instance, placed so as to leave no room for necessary furniture, doors hung awkwardly, electric light switches placed so as to spoil needed wall space and many other common mistakes. Fortunately the architects recently got together and formed an architectural bureau, where the best information on building houses is furnished at a nominal cost.

In furnishing the home there is one thought to be kept in mind, first, last and always, and that is SUITABILITY. Regardless of how beautiful an article is, or how much it is being used, if it does not fit into your home, it is better not to use it. We must remember that the keynote of a well appointed home, is simplicity. The floors, walls, and ceiling form the background of a room. Always the floors should be darker than the walls and the ceiling lighter. Ih small rooms a more spacious appearance can be obtained if the background colors are of the same family, as brown floors, buff walls and a tint of buff for ceiling.

Also plain walls tend to spaciousness. Blues, greens and grays are best used in rooms on the west, and the warm colors in north rooms. It is surprising how in a cold dark room, yellow or orange at the windows will produce a warmth and coziness. So let the predominating colors in a room be governed by the exposures. In furnishing the room, it is well to start with the floor coverings since they form a part of the background for the furniture. There are domestic carpetings that are both practical and beautiful. The chenielle, having a wool back, comes in a variety of colors and can be bought by the square yard as can also the de luxe, a long pie carpet with a jute back. This is an advantage as you can get any size you wish. The Anglo Persian, Wiltons, Velvets and Brussels are other domestic carpets commonly used. A plain carpet is always better than one of poor design. If one is forfunate enough to be able to purchase oriental rugs, great care should be used in the selection. The Kashan and Schrouk are two of the best rugs used in this country, being closely woven. The Kashan has from 300 to 400 knots to the square inch. The luscious dark reds and blues in these rugs are best used with oak, walnut or gum wood or possibly panelled walls. With painted wood work, light walls and lighter type furniture the Kirmen is by far the preferable as the colors are much lighter in tone. The Meshed, Kirmenshaw, Laraestan, Lillihan, Dozar, Bakarra and Ispahan are also commonly used. The Chinese rug is less expensive and comes in pleasing colors and designs.

Furniture Don't Change

Most every piece of furniture on the market is copied from some piece made from 75 years to several hundred years back. It is a mistaken idea that styles in architecture and furniture change. The good lives. It is true that a few years back English houses sprung up every where, the Spanish now has preference and the colonial is fast coming, due to the opening of the new American wing in the Metropolitan Museum. This does not mean that other styles are not in just as good taste. The same is true of furniture. You remember the mission furniture which was clumsy and bulky, uncomfortable and lacking in grace and beauty, consequently it was short lived. But the best furniture of today is copied from the Gothic, the Renaissance of the different European countries, the early English of the Tudor and early Stuart days, the elaborate Louis XIV, heavily carved Florentine, Spanish which is similar to [illegible] but a little more simple, and then changing gradually, getting lighter in weight until the classic lines and designs of the late eighteenth century. Also it is copied from early American furniture, the cabinet-makers of that day being influenced by the English, Dutch and French. So since our modern furniture is copied from the older pieces we had as well get good copies as bad ones. One has such choice of fabrics for upholstering and draperies that it is a joy to work out beautiful harmonies with them. We are learning that velours and velvets should be used sparingly in this climate, where we have about six months summer. There are so many chintz, linens, cretonnes and lighter damasks with beautiful designs and colors. Your dealer will be glad to send some one to your home with samples so as to try them with your walls and your rugs.

This is "Beter Homes Week." Can't we do at least one thing to make our home more comfortable, more beautiful and more inviting. A little paint, a few shrubs, a few good books, a good picture, a comfortable chair, a lamp or one of the many things that add charm and beauty to the home.

Slayer of Officer Gets Life Sentence

BRADY, Texas, May 9.—Dave Rutherford, charged with the murder of Joe Griffith, deputy sheriff at Santa Anna, on the night of February 16, 1924, was found guilty and given a life sentence in the penitentiary.

The jury reached its verdict after about two hours' deliberation Friday.

North Wilbarger

Texhoma was fishing yesterday for a bailer at 1,560 feet in their No. 1, Covert, located in section 8, block 15, H&TCRRCO survey, northeast of Tolbert, north Wilbarger county.

Texhoma-Holmes were drilling past 1,578 feet in their No. 1, Flanicken, northeast of the southwest of section 5, block 16, H&TCRRCO survey, northeast of Tolbert a mile, north Wilbarger county.

CONTINENTAL

Gas and Fuel company had a hole full of water at 1,985 feet after missing the Gulf's horizon altogether. It was this well that $50,000 was paid for a half interest in by the Empire, formations checking closely until the Gulf level was reached.

Consolidated spudded its second test, a little more than 300 feet east of the No. 1, a small producer, H&GNRRCO survey, abstroct 907.

Atlantic has a good well in its No. 4, Zipperle, the hole filling 1,000 feet in 30 minutes from sand drilled at 1,299-1,310 feet. Two wells on the extreme southeast end of this area may be taken as definite southeast enclosures for South Vernon. Atlantic's 1, Zipperle, and Gulf's 2, Zipperle, the first in the southwest of the northwest of the southwest of section 80, block 14, and the second its south offset, the first shut down at 2,120 feet, dry, and the second shut down at 1,410 feet, dry thus far.

Southeast End of Pool Defined Now.

The first two wells are the first defining tests drilled in this end of South Vernon, production heretofore having progressed steadily southeast. Winnipeg's No. B. Bond-Hawkins-Williams, section 100, is on the 2,200-foot sand.

In Wichita county Silkwood and Brasheer have a failure int heir No. 1, Fasset and Tuttle, drilling past 1,910 feet after coring a dry sand at 1,996-99 feet. Consolidated Oil company is starting a well just west of this failure a mile or so on the Smythe land.

Petroleum Producers' wildcat south of Fowlkes Station should reach an interesting depth during the week, drilling now past a last reported 1,-407 feet.

Refiners Enjoy A Better Week.

The refiners enjoyed a better week than the last four days of the preceding seven day period had led them to look forward to. Carter buying for Standard of Indiana took more than 200 cars from North Texas of 58-60 gasoline, paying from 10½ to 10 3-4. They are understood to be in the market for still more with quotations bettering 11 cents.

Fuel oil is weak at 85 to 90 cents.

TEXAS CO. AGAIN EXPIRES

Colorado Oil Will Be Shipped to Wyoming for Refining.

The Prairie Oil and Gas company option on the Texas Production company's production on the Moffat dome in northwestern Colorado has expired and the crude from that field will be shipped to Casper for running in The Texas refinery. A temporary arrangement has been made by the Texas company with the Prairie for the use of its pipe line facilities for handling the oil from the field to the Denver & Salt Lake railroad which will transport it to Denver from which point it will be handled to Casper by the Colorado & Southern. The last shipment to the Producers & Refiners plant at Parco under the provisions of this contract was made on April 23.

USE MUCH FUEL OIL.

Electric Railways Consume 1,500,000 Barrels a Year.

J. A. Frates, vice president and general manager of the Oklahoma Union railway and Oklahoma Southwestern railroad and other T. B. Slick transportation lines, says that the electric railway industry annually consumes 1,500,000 barrels of fuel oil; 5,000,000 gallons of lubricating oil; 7,000,000 pounds of grease; $3,000,000 of paint and varnish; 16,000,000 tons of coal; 2,500,-500,000 pounds of babbit and quantities of 4,000 other items.

BETTER FURNITURE MAKES BETTER HOMES

The Well-Kept Home

—Too often the furnishings of a home are allowed to become shabby, and the character of the home itself made to suffer, simply because of the mistaken belief that only complete refurnishing can re-establish its comfort and good appearance.

Gradual Replacement

—Many people do not realize what a delightful transformation may be made in a commonplace home by gradual replacement of worn out or inharmonious pieces with new and attractive ones.

Furnishing Plan Important

Whether you are furnishing a new home or modernizing the old, a definite plan is important. A well thought out buying plan is just as necessary as the most carefully prepared decorating scheme.

The eagerness of the new home furnisher, frequently leads to overhasty ill-advised purchases. While on the other hand, lack of enthusiasm is accountable for the shabbiness into which the householder of years sometimes allows his furnishings to deteriorate.

President and Governors Endorse Plan

So fundamental are the principles underlying the Better Homes movement, that our chief executive, President Coolidge, and the Governors of practically every state have personally endorsed it. They are agreed that upon the influence of good homes, spiritually and physically, depends, more than upon any other one thing, the future well-being of its citizens. Self-respect, self-government, and all attributes of good citizenship emanate from good homes.

REMOVAL SALE

Right now is the time to furnish that home or replace some old for the new. We are vacating our room at 911 Scott Avenue. We are selling the entire stock at a big discount that will mean the saving of many hundred dollars to home lovers of this community.

LIBERAL CREDIT TERMS

This sale doesn't mean that everything must go to raise a little ready cash. Terms can be arranged to buy just as much furniture as you desire at removal sale prices. It means the landlord has said to vacate and we havn't any place to move the furniture except into homes—It is yours—come and get it.

Better Homes Week' Featured in Books At the Kemp Library

"Better Homes Week" from May 10 to 17, has prompted the local library to collect all books on house building and interior decorating and place them on a special display shelf for the week. Listed below are some of the books which will be helpful not only to the new home builder but to the person who wishes to remodel or redecorate the old house.

"Principles of Interior Decorating," by Bernard Jakway. This book by a university extension lecturer presents in simple orderly fashion the accepted cannons of decorative art in their application to household belongings, will prove extremely helpful to a host of seekers after light in the problem of house decoration.

"Art of Home Decoration," by M. H. Northend. Provides pleasant reading for the not too literary layman. A separate chapter is given to each room in the house, its furnishings and decorations with a chapter to the entrances, hallways and authors collection of photographs of Colonial attic. Numerous illustrations from the real homes in this country.

"Furnishing the House," by Randal Phillips. A book that will be of service to all who have an interest in furnishing and desire that their home shall be a home and its rooms possess that lived in appearance, which is the evidence of reality.

"Hodgson's Low Cost American Homes." It would be impossible for any book to give even an estimate of building costs today and have it of any value tomorrow, but this book does give floor plans and exterior views of one hundred and fifty low priced houses.

"Be Your Own Decorator," by Emily Burbank. Some general advice about the main points to be considered in house furnishing is followed by chapters on the treatment of the different rooms and such details as lamp shades, window curtains and selection of colors. A long chapter is devoted to "don'ts" in decorating. Useful also to the professional.

"Furnishing the Little House," by E. D. Seal. Small houses have become so necessary and so popular that they in some form or another seem to constitute the chief decorating problem of the day. The principles contined in this book apply to all sorts of small houses—whether it be the small house that makes no pretence at all; except that of shelter and comfort; or the small house that prides itself in bringing a gem of the architect's ingenuity—for all homes are capable of achieving decorative perfection.

"Historic Styles in Furniture," by Virginia Robie. The history of furniture is so throughly a part of the history of the manners and customs of different people that we can understand and appreciate the changes in style, only by reference to certain historical events—by which such changes were effected.

"Home Beautiful Building Annual for 1925." A comprehensive and practical manual of procedure, materials and methods of construction prepared as a source of useful information for the home builder. With this help he can discuss his problems intelligently with architect-contractor and by applying its informaton, he will it is hoped, save with mistakes and money.

"House in Good Taste," by Elsie de Wolfe. Miscellaneous chapters describing the authors experience in decorating many beautiful homes. Discussion of the problem of artificial light—the effective use of color and the treatment of walls make it applicable and instructive for any home maker.

"Next to Nothing House," by Alice Van-Cleve Carrick. The house is a low eighteen century cottage, which owes its reputation to the fact that Daniel Webster occupied the south bedroom when he was a sophomore at Dartmouth, and its charm to the zeal of its present owner. Mrs. Carrick, a collector of antiques, tells with enthusiasm of the old fashioned furnishings she has collected, often at bargain prices, and fitted into the setting of her home.

Home Improvement Plans Win Praise of Organization Heads; Better Homes Week in Mid May

The aims of Better Homes in America are broad ones. They include everything from the encouragement of home ownership to the highest realization of ideal home life. The movement has the support and co-operation of many organizations of national scope and influence. One of the members of the Advisory Council is Mr. Edwin H. Brown, president of the Architects' Small House Service Bureau. Speaking of the value of home improvement, Mr. Brown says:

"I would like to touch upon one part of it that interests me very much. This is an age of selling, of salesmanship. The entire tendency of the times is toward finding a market, through advertising and sales ability, for the products of manufacture. The natural result is a pandering to extravagance.

"Better Homes in America, by its attention to the small home, to the limitations of the pocket book of the family of small means, showing how good, simple, attractive houses (which help to maintain the standard of family life and so of American citizenship) can be built well, without waste of money, is ably performing a great service to the nation."

Mrs. Francis King, another member of the Advisory Council of Better Homes in America, who is honorary president of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, is keenly interested in the progress of this country-wide educational movement.

"My special interest in this fine movement is outside of the house, not in," she says, "for I believe that the little garden will save families to the right kind of life; will keep them happily in the home, and give them the kind of happiness that comes from something real. I wish we might have everywhere with the little houses that are shown, model gardens, after patterns by fine landscape architects. Such things would be copied everywhere."

The demonstrations of "better homes" referred to by Mrs. King will occur throughout the country during Better Homes Week, set this year for the period from May 11th to May 17th inclusive. Secretary Hoover is the president of Better Homes in America and Dr. James Ford of Washington. D. C. is its executive director

Electric Cookery is Better Cookery

A Message from Mrs. Chitwood
Wichita Falls Electric Company,
Wichita Falls, Texas.
Gentlemen:
I understand that you are launching a sale of Electric Ranges similar to the one I used in my Cooking School there recently. I would consider it a pleasure for you to use me as a reference for the Hotpoint Electric Range as I believe it to be one of the best Electric Ranges in America. I am satisfied that any housewife who purchases it will always be delighted with her choice.
Very truly yours,
MRS. IDA L. CHITWOOD.

Remember Thy Mother

—All of us are born with a debt we never can pay. But on Mother's Day we can at least acknowledge our gratitude. There are so many tender, beautiful ways in which to do it.

"God Could Not Be Everywhere, Therefore He Made Mothers"

—This tribute by General Lew Wallace finds a ready response in the heart of every man, woman and child who remembers a mother's infinitely tender care.

—There is an old Spanish proverb to the effect that "an ounce of mother is worth a pound of clergy" and every man knows that the greatest influence of his life is that which came through the lessons that he learned at his mother's knee when a child.

—Let us then pay tribute to them, living or dead, who gave in sacrifice, always unstintingly and unselfishly, that they might make our pathways smoother and evener as we journey through life. All that wealth and fame and power can bring is small indeed when compared to a mother's love.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 9.—The short session of the cotton market today was generally quiet although there was a fair spurt of activity near the close due to the customary evening up of commitments for over the week-end. Prices developed no definite trend. October opened 2 points up at 22.46 and after some slight recession advanced to 22.49 or 3 points over the close of yesterday, but reacted later to 22.34. After fluctuating in the final trading that month passed to 22.39 or 5 points net down for the day. The other active positions closed 2 to 4 points net lower and May closed unchanged.

The start Liverpool was about as due as the local market opened 4 points down to 2 up. The early advance was due to the map showing practically no rain in the central eastern portions of the belt and rather too much rain in the west. On this bulge December advanced to 22.61 or 7 points above the previous close.

Later on the market turned easier on the local forecast for rain in the eastern half of the belt over Sunday which traders thought would relieve that section's shortage of moisture. This decline carried July down to 23.17 and December to 22.47 or 7 points below the previous close for both months. The irregular fluctuations near the end were due to evening up for over the week-end.

Exports today, 14,900 bales.

DALLAS SPOT COTTON

DALLAS, May 9. — Spots steady, unchanged; sales, 23 bales. Middling fair, 25.20; strict good middling, 24.05; good middling, 23.95; strict middling, 23.68; middling, 23.30; strict low middling, 22.92; low middling, 21.70; strict good ordinary, 20.55; good ordinary, 19.50.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 9.—Strength of the motor and tire stocks, several of which attained new peak prices for the year, was the distinguishing feature of day's brief session of the stock market. The general list disclosed considerable irregularity as a result of the usual week-end readjustment of speculative accounts.

Further accumulation of the automotive issues was based on reports of high current earnings, due to the unusually heavy spring demand for cars and the relatively low production costs as a result of the recent softening of basic commodity prices. Willys-Overland common and preferred, Mack Truck, Continental Motors, Pierce-Arrow and Packard preferred all sold at new high prices for the year.

Predictions of higher tire prices as a result of the recent increase in the price of crude rubber, brought fresh buying into the rubber group. U. S. Rubber common and preferred and Kelly Springfield, all mounting to new high ground.

Trading in the steel shares was rather quiet. U. S. Steel common closing fractionally lower at 115.

Heavy buying of Transcontinental Oil, which touched a new high level for the year was the only feature in the petroleum group. American Sumatra Tobacco preferred opened 3¼ points lower, but soon made up its loss and advanced a point above last night's close.

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION VANISH IF YOU TAKE THIS ADVICE

Fort Worth, Texas.—"I was troubled with biliousness and constipation and was miserable. It appeared that I could find nothing to relieve me. Finally a very dear friend urged me to take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, so I begun taking them and in a very short time I had regained my health and I have had no trouble of this kind since".—Mrs. Mabel Humphries, 959 Julian st.

Buy these "Pellets" now of your druggist and you'll find that restored health brings good looks. Write Dr. Pierce's Invalid's Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice, or send 10c for trial pkg. of Pellets.

LEGAL NOTICE

No. 1159
STATE OF TEXAS,
County of Wichita. ss.
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to cause to be published once a week for twenty (20) days exclusive of the day of publication before the return day hereof in some newspaper of general circulation published in said county, which has been continuously and regularly published in said county for a period of not less than one year, the following notice:

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To all persons interested in the estate of Mrs. A. H. Docker, deceased: Know ye that J. O. Bentley, administrator of the estate of Mrs. A. H. Docker, deceased, having on the 25th day of April, 1925, filed in the county court of Wichita county, Texas, his application to sell the following described land belonging to said estate:

All of lot 34, west 1-2 lot 2 in block No. 233 in the original townsite of Wichita Falls, Texas, situated at 1305 Eleventh street in said city.

Now therefore, these are to notify all persons interested in said estate to be and personally appear at the next regular term of the honorable county court to be holden at the court house in Wichita Falls, Texas, on the first Monday in June, A. D., 1925, same being the first day of said month, and then and there to show cause why such sale should not be made, should they choose to do so.

Given under my hand and seal of office this the 25th day of April, A D., 1925.

By M. F. YEAGER, Deputy.

I hereby certify that the above and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the original citation now in my hands.

FRED SMITH, Sheriff,
Wichita County, Texas.
By W. F. JOURDAN, Deputy.

SHERIFF'S SALE

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a certain order of sale issued by the clerk of the county court at law of Wichita county, on the 30th day of April, 1925, in a certain cause wherein Joseph T. Ryerson and Son, a corporation, is plaintiff, and H. D. Andrus is defendant, in which cause a judgment was rendered on the 7th day of April 1925, in favor of the said plaintiff Joseph T. Ryerson and Son, a corporation against H. D. Andrus for the sum of one hundred ninety-four and 26-100 dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from date of judgment, together with all costs of suit, I have levied upon, and will, on the 15th day of May, 1925 at Burkburnett, Texas, within legal hours, proceed to sell for cash to the highest bidder, all the right, title and interest of H. D. Andrus, in and to the following described personal property, levied upon as the property of H. D. Andrus, to-wit:

1 new step toe 24 inches, back geared chank shaper, cone drive. Fitted with table support, to be complete with vise countershaft and wrenches; Wt. about 3,800 Lbs. Stock No. 1077-C Serial No. 1074.

1 second hand Atkins No. 7 hack saw, capacity 8 inches by 8 inches.

The above sale to be made by me to satisfy the above described judgment for one hundred ninety-four and 26-100 dollars in favor of Joseph T. Ryerson and Son, a corporation together with the costs of said suit, and the proceeds applied to the satisfaction thereof.

FRED K. SMITH,
Sheriff of Wichita County, Texas.
BY W. F. JOURDAN, Deputy.
Wichita Falls, Texas, May 2, 1925.

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the Sheriff or Any Constable of Wichita County, Greeting:

Rev. Leslie Miller To Preach Sermon For '25 Graduates

Twenty-nine graduates of the Wichita Falls Junior college and 119 graduates of the high school will attend the baccalaureate sermon Sunday Sunday morning, May 10, at eleven o'clock in the auditorium of the college, which ushers in a busy week of commencement activity. The sermon for the occasion will be delivered by the Rev. Leslie Miller, pastor of the Gace Methodist church, with the subject, "The Conquest of Service."

College graduates will wear the traditional black cap and gown, and high school graduates will wear similar garb in gray. To a processional, sung by the high school glee club, accompanied by the high school orchestra, the seniors will file down the aisles of the auditorium to take their seats in the reserved section at the center front. The complete program follows:

Processional, "Onward, Christian Soldiers"—High school orchestra and chorus.

Invocation—Rev. J. M. Sweeton.

Scripture reading—S. H. Rider.

"Faith of Our Fathers" (Walton)—Congregation.

Announcements—Dr. J. W. Cantwell.

—to have a good APPETITE!

"Yes! thank you."

A GOOD appetite means a cheerful disposition.

You may have a good appetite if the blood that goes constantly to your vital organs is pure. S.S.S. purifies the blood—a good appetite follows and you will have a clear complexion and will be strong, cheerful and healthy.

Don't go on feeling up one day and down the next—hardly sick but never well—losing "pep," punch and ambition. Hearty eaters are the red-blooded men and women. Enjoy your food! Get back your strength and energy! Reclaim yourself before it is too late! People in a physically run-down condition are an easy prey to disease.

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood-cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new red-blood-cells,—the spark that rejogs your system. Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand.

Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality, the keen, sparkling eyes, that look of determination. S.S.S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Home Ownership Defended By Woman Realtor In Talk Before Real Estate Board

"Home ownership" is a question that has only one side, Mrs. F. C. Lyon, a local real estate operator, told members of the Wichita Falls realty board Saturday when she discussed various factors of owning and renting a residence.

Mrs. Lyon was emphatic in her insistence that owning a home was one of the most important factors in the life of any family. She pointed out that the feeling of security, the sense of independence and the air of prestige owning a home imparted were elements of importance themselves, aside from the matter of paying rents to some one else.

Interest in Home.

"Neither a man or a woman can possibly take as much interest in a rented house as they would in one they could call their own," she declared. "The children in the home take pride in feeling that 'we own our place.' When a man applies for credit one of the first questions asked is 'do you own your home?' If he must answer 'no' the questioner's opinion of the applicant is lowered slightly, and even though he has a good credit rating and pays all his bills promptly, he feels more or less like a transient until he is anchored by a home of his own."

The speaker scouted the idea that high taxes, insurance, upkeep and other expenses more than overbalanced rent charges.

She asserted that many able to pay rent could, by careful management, buy and own a home. She quoted one example to show how a $4,100 residence she knows of could be purchased for $500 down and monthly payments of about $64.

Committees Named.

In addition to listening to Mrs. Lyon's address and attending to business matters the relators appointed the following committees for the year: Valuations, membership and municipal affairs, Roscoe Staton, chairman, Paul Cotner, J. M. Prothro; entertainment and publicity, A. M. McPherson, chairman, N. O. Monroe, A. L. Huey; reference and arbitration, J. N. Bland, chairman, Homer Warrenbrock, J. M. Baber.

It was reported that real estate sales in Wichita Falls during the past week amounted to $144,420, or a decline of close to $100,000 over the figures for the preceding week. The largest single day was Thursday when sales of $16,715 were made.

A delivery truck and a touring car picked a bad place to collide late Saturday afternoon. They locked fenders at Ninth and Ohio, directly in front of the city hall. One machine sustained considerable damage, while the other was less gravely hurt.

Hub Clothing Co. Officers to Hold Big Meeting Here

Officers, directors and store managers of the Hub Clothing Co., which operates a chain of stores in six cities of which Wichita Falls is one, will meet here all next week in the semi-annual convention of the firm, when 30 or more representatives of manufacturing firms that produce goods exclusively for the Hub stores will meet the officials in a buyers meet, an innovation in chain store systems.

Beginning Sunday and continuing for five days, the convention will hold sessions at the Hub store at Seventh and Indiana and at the Kemp hotel, discussing fall and winter goods, according to Sam Scheinberg of the local store, vice president of the Hub company.

Officials of the Hub company who will be present are Sol Lasky of Wichita Falls, president; Sam Scheinberg of Wichita Falls, vice president; Ed Quicksilver of St. Louis, secretary; Harry Scheinberg of Ada, Okla., treasurer Wayne Evans of Chickasha, director, and Sam Quicksilver of Wichita Falls, director.

The following store managers will be here to confer with the manufacturing representatives: Chas. Bainbridge of Henrietta; Harry Scheinberg of Ada, Okla., Wayne Evans of the Chickasha store; Same Welenzick of Chiskasha; Will Quicksilver of Breckenridge; Sol Lasky of Wichita Falls and P. F. Gwynn of Wichita Falls.

FIRE DESTROYS MILL

Lumber Mill Blaze Causes Damage of Over Million Dollars.

GROVELAND, Fla., May 9.—Fire that started in the planing mill of the J. Ray Arnold lumber mill tonight completely destroyed the plant, causing a loss estimated by the owner at $1,000,000. No lives were lost in the fire, but it was reported that a boy was killed by an automobile and carried off by the driver, this report was not confirmed.

Mrs. L. W. Black is visiting her old home in Memphis, Tenn., for a few weeks.

S. E. Engleman and Mrs. Engleman left Saturday for a short vacation trip to Corpus Christi.

Automobile Show Is Voted Best in Years As Exhibition Ends

The 1925 annual spring automobile show ended last night after three days of what is claimed by dealers to be the biggest exhibition of the kind ever held in Wichita Falls.

At a late hour last night the W. J. Nolen garage, where the exhibition is being held, was filled to capacity, but the crowd finally thinned out and auto dealers set about moving their cars from the building.

The show was a success from every angle, according to men in charge, and represented not only the biggest and best display of autos ever made here but also attracted more attention than ever before. Over sixty cars were on the floor for inspection, representing the pride of twenty-eight different makes of cars.

Miss Jessie Moore of Kerrville, is in the city visiting her mother, Mrs. S. A. Moore, who has been ill for several days.

Mrs. Faye E. Weimer of Okmulgee, has returned home after a visit with Miss Edna Black.

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, SUNDAY, MAY 10, 1925.

Peggy Piedmont's Letter

"Today is Mothers' day
And I, your daughter, write to say
I love you,
But can the love of all my heart compare
With that which long has held me free from care?
Can I, as long as ever I shall live,
Appreciate the sacrifice you give?
God, make my heart with greater love to grow,
And half reciprocate the love you show."

* * * *

YES, today is Mothers' day, and flowers have become the accepted symbol when all mothers in the land will be remembered either with flowers or with some dainty suitable gift. Today when we go to services at the various churches, we will either wear a colorful blossom for the living mother or one of pure white for the one who has passed away. And at this season flowers in this clime are at their loviest and well they should be as they play so important a part today.

And this is the season for the sweet girl graduate for this month she comes into her own. The world is hers—the flowers bloom for her—the band plays for her and they tread on roses, gazing at the stars and walk on unmindful of the future, just enjoying the present with an ecstacy such as only youth knows and appreciates. The graduation gown is at present one of the most important ceremonial garments in the life of every young woman. It is white. All our ceremonial clothes are, for some reason or the other. The baby is baptized in white, her first party dress is white, she graduates in white, she is married in white—mayhap is presented at court in white. And this despite the fact that she may have no especial fondness for white and that it may not be becoming to her.

* * * *

WITH us there seems to be a sort of timidity about placing any sort of symbolic significance on any other color. In China white is worn for mourning, while purple, reds, rose color, blues, yellow and green appear in gowns worn on joyous occasions. Perhaps our plan is better—at least for us.

Among the most enjoyable affairs for the Junior college class of 1924-25 was the banquet given by the freshmen at the college cafeteria on Friday evening. The committee on arrangements for the delightful affair were Eddie Kadane, Donna Mitcham, Edna Preckle, Gladys Fay Johnson, Theodore Allen and Jerry Vinson.

The high school seniors were guests of Sam Bashara at a sunrise breakfast given at the Country club and the week was concluded with the senior play given for the benefit of the school.

And springtime is the time for mating and what could be more fitting than a wedding tour abroad for an interesting couple who married a few months ago but on account of business were unable to take their trip at that time. The bride was before her marriage, Louis Hamlin, daughter of Mrs. Ola Hamlin of this city and one of the popular members of the younger set, and her husband, Fletcher B. Pope, one of McKinny's prominent business men and capitalist, have recently returned from a trip around the world. Europe, China, Japan and th Holy Land were visited by the couple and carrying out a bit of sentiment, one of the interesting side trips was in India when they went to see the Temple of Love at Agra. This is a wonderful bit of architecture erected by one of the ancient kings in memory of his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Fitcher were met in Dallas by Mrs. Hamlin on their return to this country.

* * * *

BUT going back to the graduates reminds me that every girl at this time expects a present. This year they are taking a great interest in shawls as they are quite the smartest summer evening wrap. A vogue developed without question by the colorfulness found in the richly embroidered and fringed shawls of Spanish origin, even though at this time shawls of one color are almost as frequently seen as the earlier ones introduced in many colors.

Color and ensemble trend are likewise aided by such conceits as hat-and-parasol sets matching in color and decoration. Scarf, hat and bag sets, while not a recent conception to aid the ensemble idea, are nevertheless, as interesting and acceptable as ever as are scarf-and-bag sets for evening use; and all manner of decorations on a satisfying variety of materials contribute to these delightful accessories.

At the moment hand-painting and stenciling on silk, georgette and chiffon are much in evidence, but beading, hand-embroidery and lace, often dyed to match the silk, are all in vogue and are means which the clever needlewoman can call upon and use to advantage in providing not alone pretty and desired accessories, but an outlet for self expression that every woman craves and should enjoy.

And then there are the dainty handkerchiefs, of which there are seemingly an endless variety in the shops—white and delicately tinted centers with delicately colored borders; imprinted, plaid and striped effects—it matters not what the choice may be, the style is to be found.

Hemmed, scalloped and lace trimmed are the edges, as you like, for all these finishes are to be found in vogue, the selection, of course, depending upon the character of the attire of which the decorative handkerchief is at present so much a component part.

And the neckwear in white, ecru and color combination of two of these is a smart accessory of dress for the young—broad, flat collar-and-cuff sets for the youthful. Vestees, chemisettes and guimpes have also a definite place in the season's modes, since these are essentials of many frocks.

I MUST tell you about an event of next week that all music lovers whether their taste calls for the classical compositions or the lovely old ballads will be interested in. On Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, Mrs. Lois Parker has arranged a delightful program which will be open to the public, and in which anyone interested in good music and in the local artists will love to hear. It will consist of arias of the most difficult construction from operas by well-known composers, intermingled with old ballads, favorites of audiences of many years, such as "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny," "In the Glooming" and many more of equal popularity.

The artists Mrs. Parker will present will include Misses Elizabeth Hamilton, Leota Tucker, Evelyn Cushman and Mesdames Newman Hill, Virginia Estehkiss and Carlton Bowman and Baldwin Montgomery.

Most of these are familiar with local audiences who appreciate their unusual voices and the class of music they present.

The entire program is said to be exceedingly tuneful and many of the arias, very dramatic. It is arranged to please every class of music lover, Mrs. Parker said.

But this is positively the last word brides, trips, musicals and events for this week and if you haven't your fill after reading this just kindly address an epistle to——

Nan Scott Is Year Honoree At '25 Dinner

MISS NAN MAE SCOTT was the honoree Thursday evening at the banquet and business meeting of the Business Woman's club of the Central Presbyterian church held at the home of Mrs. E. S. Goodner.

As the girls of the class reach their third year of membership they are the honoree of the affair which is held annually in the form of a banquet. Last year Miss Judith Mann was the honoree.

Comes As Surprise.

The honor came as a total surprise to Miss Scott. When she went to her usual place at the table she found that the place card had some one else's name on it. After every one else was at their place she found that the large chair at the head of the table which was draped in the pretty pink and green ribbons was her place and that the occasion was honoring her.

The table was prettily decorated. A large basket of Dorothy Perkins roses was used as a center piece. The birthday cake was pink and had green candles on it. The favors and place cards were used to further the scheme.

Hold Business Session.

After the luncheon the regular business meeting was held, which closed the year's work. The study book "Ming Guong," was finished at this meeting. The girls have studied the woman in the Bible this year and at this meeting each told of her favorite character and why.

Those present were Misses Nan Mae Scott, Judith Mann, Mary Denny, Sarah Denny, Glenn Miles, Ruth McBee; Mesdames Ed Grey and E. S. Goodner.

After a week's visit with the family of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Brown of 1621 Tenth, Mrs. Minnie Hunt returned to her home in Dallas Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Wilson are leaving soon for an extended visit with their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Bronson, who live in California.

Miss Helen Potts of 2015 Grant is spending the week-end in Dallas.

Music Is Society's Stage Favorite For May

Mrs. Newman Hill whose lovely soprano voice will be heard Tuesday evening, May 12, when Mrs. Lois Parker presents a group of popular local soloists in a concert of arios and old ballads at the Wichita club.

In Concert

MISS LEOTA TUCKER

WOMAN'S SOCIETY TO GIVE UNIQUE PARTY.

Circle number four of the Woman's Missionary society of the Floral Heights Methodist church will entertain Tuesday evening at the church with a party for every one. According to announcement plans are being made for a good time, and there will be the old maids convention and the Arkansaw Travelers, games contests any many other things that will assure a good time. At the close of the evening refreshments will be served. Admission will be twenty-five cents and everybody is cordially invited.

SAM BASHARA TO ENTERTAIN SENIORS.

The annual Junior-Senior breakfast will be given by the Junior class for the Seniors Thursday morning, May 14, at the Rod and Gun club. On that evening, the Seniors play, "In the Spring a Young Man's Fancy," starring Clifton Clay, will be presented at the Junior college auditorium.

Child Welfare Interest Is Shown In Year's Work of Wichita Falls Parent and Teachers' Association

All School Clubs Disband for Year Except the Barwise Club

IF child welfare is not considered the most important problem by Wichita Falls' women it certainly ranks first on the calendar of work if a review of what the Mothers' clubs of the various public schools have accomplished this year and what they have planned to do next year is an indication.

Each and every organization of this nature is divided into committees and these groups of women are responsible for some certain phase of the work being done by the club. From reports given at the closing meetings, the work has been well done, and that every Mothers' club in Wichita Falls has been unusually busy attending to the comforts and welfare of the child is not questioned by those who have kept up with what has been accomplished by them.

New Books in Schools.

At almost, if not at every school, books have been added to the libraries and playground equipment bought, while at the Sam Houston school, a cafeteria building has been constructed and completely fitted out where meals have been served to the children since the first of November. This progressive hard working group of women have handled more than $4,300 during the school year, and while they consider the building and equiping of their cafeteria their greatest accomplishment, they have also added books to the school library and bought articles for the playground. The work for next year will center around buying more books for the library, according to the Mother's club president, Mrs. C. H. Karr.

The San Jacinto mothers have also been a busy and ambitious bunch of women working with enthusiasm all the year and buying many useful things for the school. During the past nine months they have furnished the girl's room; bought swings for the playground and pictures for the rooms and books for the library.

"We have done a little of everything to raise money, have even sold eggs, are now planning a banquet as a closing courtesy to the teachers. Next year the outstanding job for the club will be the equipment of a cafeteria, so far only a lunch room is provided at this school," Mrs. M. C. L. Blakely, who has recently been elected president for the third successive year, said.

Charity Work.

Charity work, providing clothing and food for families whose children attend the Alamo school, and lunches for some of the pupils who are unable to buy suitable food, has been an outstanding work for the Alamo Mother's club the past nine months. More than $700 has been handled by the club this year a part of which has been used for buying books for the school library, and part for art. Cafeteria equipment has been bought by the club, which has also kept up the first aid medical kit and supplies. Cots have also been purchased for the rest

No Public Commemoration For Mothers Is To He Held

ALL WEAR ROSES

White Rose Means Mother Is Dead; Red Means She Is Alive

"If you were hanged on the highest hill,
Mother O'mine, O mother O'mine,
I know whose love would follow me still,
Mother O'mine, O mother mine."

AGAIN we observe Mothers' Day. Since the signing of the proclamation in the year 1914 by the beloved war president, Woodrow Wilson, the beautiful custom of honoring the mothers of our country has been an annual event, on this the second Sunday of May. Memorial services at the churches, and a display of flags on public buildings are called for in this proclamation, in honor of the worthy occasion.

Many do not know that the idea was conceived by a woman, Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, president and founder of Mother's Day International association, who realized the growing lack of consideration for absent mothers among worldly minded, busy people.

Another custom which is as impressive as it is beautiful, in observance of the day, is the wearing of a pink carnation or a rose for the living mother and the white one for the mother who has passed away.

Today Wichita Falls sons and daughters, whether they be of tender years or have reached the dignity of graying heads, with sons and daughters of their own, are recognizing Mother's Day, in common with the millions that make up the citizenship of the United States, where this beautiful custom prevails.

There will be public commeration of mother, after the custom of a number of years. Ministers in their pulpits will speak of the greatness of mother, of her kinship and nearness to God Himself. Sweet-voiced singers will sing of mother love, in words and tones that will carry a tear, for the mothers gone before, or perhaps for the mother who is far away on this—her day.

But best of all will be the heart tribute to mother—your mother, my mother—the little gift, the spoken word and kiss, the letter or telegram. Better than all the tributes of silver tongue and brilliant pen will be the individual love expression from son and daughter to the one mother.

Programs at the various churches will be given as follows:

Child Welfare Interest Shown

Special programs this season have included one on child hygene, Texas school laws, music, art and literature. The club also sponsored a carnival which was both a delightful social affair as well as a financial success.

This PTA boasts the largest membership of any in the state, with more than 800 paid up members. Mrs. T. M. Conrey served in the office of president last year, while Mrs. T. H. Lawson is the newly elected president for the coming year.

Members of the Barwise Parent-Teachers association lent their efforts to the installation of a modern cafeteria in the Barwise school this year which is completely equiped and clear of debt, according to the president, Mrs. W. Roberts. The organization has also purchased a set of "The Books of Knowledge" for the school library; some playground equipment; several pictures for the rooms; an electric clock and various kinds of shrubbery. So enthused are the members over their work, that they announce that meetings will be held during the summer.

Austin P-T-A Does Well.

Splendid work has also been accomplished by the Austin Mother's club of which Mrs. W. D. Cline is the past president and Mrs. Fred Barron, the newly elected president. This club has a membership of 442 enthusiastic workers who have done wonderful work this year according to the report given at the last meeting. A piano was bought and paid for, for the third floor of the school; a stove for the cafeteria; books were bought for the library; $110.75 paid the State Mother's Congress in dues; $15 donated for child welfare work and food given pupils in the nutrition class who were unable to purchase it. Musical records were furnished for gymnasium work and music memory contests and some school ground equipment. This list are only a few of the many things accomplished by this band of women.

The Junior college and high school mother's club have completely furnished the dining room of the domestic science suite of rooms at the Junior college with a handsome suit of furniture and lovely rug. Next year the club plans to furnish the living room among the other work scheduled. Mrs. J. W. Akin is the past president of the organization, and Mrs. E. S. Goodner will preside next year.

Carrigan Gets Pictures.

Among the many accomplishments of the Carrigan Parent-Teachers association probably none stand out more prominently than the purchasing of a Keystone View company set which includes 600 instructive picture slides. The club has also completely paid out the school piano and victrola purchased by them and installed a hot water heater for shower baths. A set of Comptons Picture Encyclopedias was bought for the library and pictures for the various rooms. They finished paying for the program clock purchased and added much cafeteria equipment besides buying two flags for the building. A gift much appreciated by the school was the picture of Lieutenant Pat Carrigan who was killed in action during the World War, and in memory of whom the school was named. The gift was presented by Lieutenant Carrigan's mother, Mrs. A. H. Carrigan. The picture hangs in the school auditorium and is considered one of the most appreciated works of art in the building.

The past week, all mother's clubs in the city disbanded for the summer with the exception of the Barwise, which plans to hold meetings and plan work for fall. Work for the coming season was discussed at some of the last meetings, while many of the clubs will rest during the summer and will plan their work for the year at the first fall meetings.

Mrs. O. B. Keil Is Awarded A Silver Loving Cup For Best Musical Composition

MRS. O. B. KEIL won the silver loving cup, given by Mrs. Jouette Bonner, for having the best original composition at the last luncheon held Friday of the Wichita Falls Music Study club at the Wichita club.

Mrs. Jouette Bonner had charge of the program for the luncheon and she had offered the loving cup to the one who had the best original composition. Meadames C. W. Wallace, Lois Parker and Stanley Raub were the judges. First they took the best four from every one turned in. The four taken belonged to Mesdames O. B. Keil, Harwood Stacey, C. Y. Tully and O. J. McKnight. The judges had the four to play their compositions over again and they eliminated them down until Mesdames Keil and Stacey's. They couldn't come to a conclusion about them so the two members drew and Mrs. Keil won the distinction.

Other Numbers.

Other numbers on the program were:

Two piano numbers, "Turkish March" by Beethoven and "Jazz Study" by E. B. Hill, Mesdames O. B. Keil and Harwood Stacey; vocal trio, "When Twilight Weeves," Beethoven, Mesdames W. L. Parker, C. Y. Tully and N. M. Clifford, with Mrs. O. B. Keil at the piano; "Concretante," by Maurer, ensemble players including Mesdames Jouette Bonner, O. E. Nichols and A. M. Miller, with Mrs. Stacey at the piano.

Following the program luncheon was served. The table was attractively decorated in the Dorothy Perkins roses. Minature loving cups were given each as a favor.

Mrs. F. C. Barron acted as toastmistress; Mrs. O. B. Keil toasted Mrs. O. E. Nichols, the outgoing president and presented her with a picture from the club. Mrs. T. B. Greenwood gave a toast to the new president, Mrs. O. J. McKnight, and different members of the club made short speeches.

Gives Piano Prize.

At the close of the luncheon Mrs. C. W. Wallace announced that she wanted to give a prize to the member who had the best original piano number at the close of next year; Mrs. F. E. Van Warmer, for the best vocal number; Mrs. O. B. Keil, best violin composition and Mrs. O. J. McKnight, best ensemble composition.

Covers were laid for Mesdames F. C. Barron, A. Underwood, Electra; Ben Bell, Jouette Bonner, J. L. Jackson, A. H. Britian, Lois Parker, N. M. Clifford, B. L. Fain, C. R. Egssen, O. J. McKnight, Peters, A. M. Miller, O. E. Maer, P. W. Maer, O. E. Nichols, C. E. Wallace, W. L. Parker, John Thomas, Walter Robbins, Horace Robbins, Harwood Stacey, Lucille Brooks Huff, Mark Moore, Joe Kell, Owens, S. M. Gose, M. M. Adickes, T. B. Greenwood, A. D. Anderson, O. B. Keil, C. Y. Tully, Gibbins, F. E. Van Warmer, Biebenharn; Miss Irene Davidson and Stanley Raub.

WICHITA FALLS WOMAN PRAISES CONVENTION.

Mrs. Reese Allen who with a number of other Wichitans visited the West Texas chamber of commerce convention recently held in Mineral Wells, has returned home loud in her praise of the hostess city. Chief among her remarks on the way the visitors were entertained, was the information she brought concerning the spacious auditorium which she said made the convention possible in that city. This auditorium which seats several thousand people, Mrs. Allen said, was promoted by one of the leading citizens of Mineral Wells, Sidney Webb, and cost $50,000 including the building site and furnishings. Only one man was hired to carry out the plans of the people, and he was not even an architect, Mrs. Allen said. The building she described as a splendid brick, stone and steel structure with a basement large enough for huge banquets. "It is a credit to any city, and justifies Mineral Wells' aspiration for the next democratic state convention," Mrs. Allen said.

Another feature of the convention which proved very pleasing to the visitors were the large number of bands, (65 in all) and the hundreds of splendidly dressed young men and women, and the able speakers, according to the visitors present. Walter D. Cline, Wichita Falls' new vice-president of the chamber of commerce, received the signal honor of having his entire speech published in the Mineral Wells paper, he being one of many good speakers present who addressed capacity houses. This feature of the convention proved very pleasing to Wichita Falls' people, according to Mrs. Allen.

Miss Elsie Lansky of Dallas is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Philip Pink and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Markowitz.

C. W. Stephenson has returned after a short stay in Dallas and also in Austin, where he attended the state Medical convention. Mrs. Stephenson is visiting relatives and friends in Waco.

MRS. J. F. VINCENT HONORS MOTHER WITH LUNCHEON.

Mrs. J. F. Vincent entertained Saturday with a one o'clock luncheon, honoring her mother, Mrs. Matilda Swanson, at her home, 1308 Austin.

A color scheme of pink and green was carried out in the decorations. Baskets of Dorothy Perkins roses were used here and there to add to the attraction of the decorations.

MRS. WHITE HOSTESS TO STITCH AND CHATTER.

Members of the Stitch and Chatter club were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Felix White Friday afternoon when an interesting contest furnished the diversion. Mrs. K. C. Spell was presented the favor at the close of the contest, a dainty flower vase. Victrola music was played throughout the afternoon and refreshments were served to Mesdames F. J. White, O. O. Adkins, Roy White, M. H. Seale, J. L. Tate, C. E. Fowers, K. C. Spell, David Erickson, Felix White, L. W. Proctor and A. G. Deatherage.

WOMEN MEET TO PLAN YEAR'S WORK.

Members of the Woman's Benefit association met in a called session at the home of Mrs. D. Dellis Thursday afternoon with the state commander, Mrs. Sally Betzler of Dallas present.

The meeting was called for the purpose of outlining plans for next year's work and Mrs. Botzler announced that she was sending Mrs. Mame Vaughn of Dallas here to remain awhile to help work out the plans as outlined.

Those present were Mesdames J. F. Hickman of Pittsburgh, Pa., Walter Ham, W. M. Lewis, J. A. Cavanough, S. R. Ward, F. G. Wass, O. N. Maples, Fred Morris, A. J. Sims, C. A. Kauffman, T. A. Ulrich and Miss Maude eSoule.

Wichita Falls Woman's Forum Lays Plans For Next Year; Start Membership Drive This Week

"HAVE you joined the Wichita Falls Woman's Forum" will be the words which will pass by telephone and directly to the women of Wichita Falls this week.

"If you are a woman interested in the development of a great club for our city and have not already joined the Forum, you had better join or have a good reason why not for the Forum is going to know why," announces Mrs. G. D. Anderson, chairman of membership in the club.

"With its organization now complete; with a highly interesting and instructive series of lectures just concluded, the Forum has shown to the worth while women of our town that it is going to be a great determining factor in club life" it is stated.

• • •

Seventy Next Year.

PLANS and activities are now turning to next year's work. The present 150 Forum members are going to personally give the opportunity to the women of Wichita Falls to become members now of the Forum.

The various department chairmen are now busy preparing their programs for next year. Many interesting and instructive numbers will be offered through the departments.

The general Forum has announced three numbers of their seven which promise a rare and unusual treat to the members. Chief of these is a lecture "Along the By-Paths" by Fannie Hurst, novelist and magazine writer whose stories have struck a responsive chord with the American reading public. Her "Lummox" was one of the most popular novels of the past year, outstanding in the fiction world. She also enjoys the distinction of being America's highest paid short story writer.

• • •

Offers Lectures.

WORKING in conjunction with the teachers' organization the Forum will be able to offer to its members a lecture illustrated with films by Wilfred T. Grenfell on "Midst Ice and Snow and Labrador." Dr. Grenfell was a pioneer in aiding the Northlander, has written numerous books on the subject and unfolds in his lecture epic stories of work and service in wild and inaccessible lands.

A third offering will be a lecture by the humorist-satirist-funster de luxe, George Creel, who has created a national chuckle writing his "Uncle Henry" stories now running in Collier's Weekly.

In addition the program committee has assured a return of Miss Irene Berley, reader who entertained so pleasingly this year; also Dr. De Bow of Oklahoma City will be back to give one of his able lectures, according to announcement.

There will be another nationally known speaker brought to the Forum, it has not been definitely announced as to who this will be but it is whispered that it might be Henry Van Dyke.

Methodist Young People To Lay Plans Today For Young People's Program

DEFINITE plans will be formulated for young people's week May 25 to 31 and committees will be appointed at the mass meeting of all Methodist young people to be held this afternoon at 3 p. m. at the First Methodist church.

The meeting was called by the executive committee of the young people's council, and the speakers for the afternoon include Raybon Porter, educational director for the church, C. E. Donaldson, president of the young people's department, Murrell Hooper, supervisor of the queen of the circus contest, and Harold White, chairman of the young people's week.

Picnic on Monday.

The young people's week begins with a picnic on Monday May 25 at Scotland park, Tuesday May 26 "The Rock" will be presented at the Wichita theatre. Mr. White announced that three beautiful drops were being painted for the play and that two complete sets would be constructed. The play is in three acts and the cast comprises the best dramatic talent of the city including Mrs. J. S. Pitman, Misses Marguerite Fisher and Thelma Cain; Messrs. Baldwin Montgomery, Gordon Harris, and Harold White.

Friday May 29 the young people will open their first annual circus on the lat south of the church with the coronation of their queen to be elected by popular vote. A number of feature acts have been signed and one of the rarest collections of freaks obtainable will be exhibited in the side shows. The circus closes Saturday night with a beautiful pageant "Will O'Wisp," the fairy that loved the mortal with a cast of 150 children and young people.

"Will O'Wisp."

"Will O'Wisp," the fairy that loved a mortal, will be the elaborate pageant to be produced by the Methodist young people at their first annual circus Saturday May 29. Mrs. R. A. Faver, well known Wichitan is the author of the story and the director of the pageant.

A cast of more than 150 young people and children will be used in the pageant according to H. B. White, chairman of the young people's week. The story will be enacted before the Queen's royal court on the last night of the Methodist young people's circus.

Colaborating with Mrs. Faver in the production of the pageant is Mrs. J. Truman Stevens, Misses Glenore Fisk, camp fire executive, and Ora Lee Smith. All the chilren in the pageant are called to meet at the First Methodist church, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30.

The principals in the cast will be announced at a later date.

IOWA PARK

TEACHERS ELECTED.

There have been many more applications than ever before for positions in the local school next year, however, seventy-five per cent of them have never had any experience and having only first grade elementary certificates. The requirements for teachers to teach in the local school are: Have a first grade certificate and a year's teaching experience; in the high school, must have the A. B. degree and one year of teaching experience. The local board has lost a good many of the old teachers this year but have found teachers for all places in the grades and only like three in high school. A vacational domestic science teacher and two young men to teach in the high school. Those who have been elected and accepted are: B. L. Bradford, principal; Miss Jessie Mae George, Miss Susie Wills Sanders, Mrs. Grace Reanes, Miss Ethel Kidwell, Miss Virgie Bruce, Miss Nillie Bruce, Mrs. Dane Harbour, Miss Ima Joda Morrison, Miss Ola Kuntz, Miss Myrtice Williams, Miss Flossie Hobson, Miss Maurine McDonald, Miss Phlorine Sue, Miss Jewell Winkle, Miss Dixie Cathran and Mrs. Chester Zinc, music.

RAINS HELP FARMING.

Farming has been on the stand still since the middle of the week. The rdain which came Wednesday has been of untold value to young stuff, pastures and small grain but the farmers are now ready for sunny weather in order to have time to finish planting cotton. The cotton crop is about half planted and most of it will be planted with one week's pretty weather. The wheat is better than thought it could be six weeks ago but there will be many acres that a binder will not enter this year. The oat crop is better by far than one could have thought or expected them to be.

EIGHT CARS OF IMPLEMENTS SOLD.

To indicate to those people who know little about the Wichita irrigated valley the following will give them some idea as to the faith that old timers as well as new comers have in the valley. There will be some ten or twelve thousand acres of cotton irrigated in this valley this year and in order to cultivate this land the Lawrence Implement house and G. H. Golden Hardware company have sold eight car loads of impliments, such as cultivators, planters, harrows, disks, etc. All of the impliments sold have been shipped in since the first of the year and sold to farmers in the Iowa Park trade territory.

MUSICAL PROGRAM.

The pupils of Mesdames Paul and Chester Zinc appeared before the citizens of Iowa Park Friday and Saturday nights in their annual recital. Large crowds were present both nights and much good has been accomplished by these pupils with this work the past year. Mesdames Chester and Paul Zinc have done excellent work in this department this year.

Those that appeared in recital are: Elsie Mae Golden, Fenton Lenore Clark, Thelma Morgan, Betsy Zink, Winona Penelier, Kathleen Sue Reaves, Charlotte Noble, Anna May Bevill, Bonnie Dorris, Anna Mae Hobson, Roger Golden, Glenda Bevill, Lounette Hand, Lorene Jackson, Hazel George, Jewell Belle Husack, Dorothy Arnold, Frank Young, Pearl Sherley Smyth.

A ONE-SIDED DEBATE.

The radio debate between former chiefs of the army and navy general staffs on the nation's chief reliance for peace, was distinctly a one-sided affair. Major General Tasker H. Bliss, who spoke for "co-operation," as opposed to military preparation, which was supported by Admiral William L. Rogers, did not at all overthrow his opponent's sound arguments but seemed on the contrary to indirectly give them his endorsement. The general's proposition was that: "If all armaments could be held at a reasonable minimum, sufficient for the maintenance of peace and order within the state, but insufficient to tempt the state almost without warning to attack a similarly placed neighbor, such armaments might play a real part in the maintenance of peace."

Now this proposition is not actually opposed to preparation; it is merely opposed to large military establishments. If it were really possible to bring about such a general reduction of armaments, and equally possible to hold the nations to the compact once it was made, there would be no serious objection from the advocates of military preparation. But, until this is effected, preparation remains a necessity, not only to national security but to world peace as well. Even if there were a reduction of armaments to mere police requirements, there would still be need for preparation up to the limit allowed.

Admiral Rogers kept very closely to his subject. He was for preparation and for nothing else. As a navy man he realised the difficulty of putting a nation's defenses in order. A navy is ten years in building, while an army can be gotten together under extreme need within two years at least. If a nation is not prepared to fight on the water when a war begins, it can hardly put itself in a state of preparation during the progress of the conflict. It must accept a tremendous initial disadvantage by assuming the defensive instead of the offensive position. On the other hand, an adequate navy exerts an immense influence for peace. Its mere mass is impressive. Its potential power cannot be denied. Yet it is in no sense an invitation to war, as a large army may be. It cannot directly menace a people, for actual invasion must be undertaken by armies. Nor can it raise the martial spirit of a country whose coasts it defends, since it remains on the outer edge of the country and cannot enter into its internal politics.

Too much thoughtless devotion to unsound pacifist theories can do this country a great deal of harm by impairing its first line of defense. We are a people eminently practical yet highly sensitive to the aspirations of idealism. The idea of ending war over night by disarmament or some other arrangement appeals to us, while it has never taken deep root among European peoples. It is at once too coarse and too fine to stir them. Its practicality leaves them cold, and the means to the end in view appear to them too flimsy to be seriously considered. They would merely dally with it in a spirit of lightness where we might be in deadly earnest.

Admiral Rogers uttered a warning on this score, reminding us that the peoples of Europe have had a very different national and racial experience from our own. Over there, they have won their places by a warfare of man upon man, while we have prospered through a struggle against Nature. Helpfulness, co-operaiton and kindliness have become a part of our constitution while in Europe suspicion and hostility have acquired a distinct protective value. In a clash of such different temperaments over some world peace plan we are almost certain to be deceived, and upon our realization that we have been cheated our high sense of honor may force us into a war unprepared.

THE WHEELER CASE.

It did not take long for a Montana jury to return a verdict of not guilty in the government's case against Senator Burton K. Wheeler. The whole time elapsing between the jury's retirement and the announcement of its decision was two hours and thirteen minutes, of which one hour was devoted to luncheon. The jury's speed was in line with the whole progress of the case. Prosecution and defense exhausted their testimony and finished their arguments in the short space of eight days.

As a matter of fact, the government's meager case against Wheeler collapsed before it was brought to a decision. The trial did not produce enough real evidence to justify its holding. The government put its whole dependence in a "mystery witness," introduced without warning to the defense, whose voluntary testimony was offered without corroboration. This witness, a New York attorney, performed a distinct service for the man he sought to incriminate. He indicated that Wheeler had determined, upon his election to the United States senate, to cease prosecution of oil claims before the interior department.

Tom Stout, a former Montana congressman, testified that Wheeler had declined to handle any more oil claims because of his election to the senate. W. G. Feeley, a Washington lawyer, claimed to have appeared in such matters in Wheeler's place, and William Spry, former commissioner of the general land office, stated that Wheeler's name was not on record in connection with the case before the interior departmenet on which the indictment against him was based. Wheeler, in his testimony, declared that he had spoken to several officials of the department of one phase of the oil claims affairs, but only as a senator might speak for citizens of his state in his normal political capacity, and that this did not constitute an official appearance before the departpartment. The testimony favorable to the senator was thus made complete and no detail of the matter in question was left in doubt.

But, after all, a defense of Wheeler was hardly necessary. The government was simply pressing a technical point. It sought to prove that Wheeler had misused an influence which he could hardly have possessed. Its whole argument was based upon far-fetched conclusions. Senator Walsh of Montana aptly characterized the case against his colleague as an administration move for revenge on account of the senate oil investigation.

MORAL AND TRUTH.

If one who loves to read Shakespeare for the pure joy of it were asked to point out the special features in which Shakespeare's plays are transcendently excellent, he probably would mention, among others, this—that his stories are not put together, and his characters are not conceived, to illustrate any particular law or principle.

They teach many lessons, but not any one prominent above another; and when they have drawn them all the direct instruction they contain, there remains something unresolved—something which the artist gives, and the philosopher and the moralist cannot give.

It is in this characteristic that persons who really know Shakespeare are accustomed to say Shakespeare's supreme truth lies. He represents real life.

"Shakespeare's drama teaches as life teaches—neither less nor more," comments James Anthony Froude.

"He builds his fabrics, as Nature does, on right and wrong; but he does not struggle to make Nature more systematic than she is.

"In the subtle flow of good and evil; in the unmerited sufferings of innocence; in the disproportion of penalties to desert; in the seeming blindness with which justice, in attempting to assert itself, overwhelms innocent and guilty in a common ruin—Shakespeare is true to real experience.

"The mystery of life he leaves as he finds it; and, in his most tremendous positions, he is addressing rather the intellectual emotions than the understanding—knowing well that the understanding in such things is at fault and the sage as ignorant as the child."

Only the highest order of genius can represent Nature thus.

An inferior artist produces something either entirely immoral, where good and evil are names, and nobility of disposition is supposed to show itself in the absolute disregard of them, or else, if he is a better kind of man, he will force on nature a didactic purpose; he composes what are called moral tales, which may edify the conscience, but only mislead the intellect.

Here you have the difference between good literature and poor writing.

Along about the middle fo the nineteenth century Froude advanced the opinion that the finest "moral tale" of "modern times" is Lessing's play, "Nathan the Wise."

"The object of it is to teach religious toleration. The doctrine is admirable, the mode in which it is enforced is interesting; but it has the fatal fault that it is not true.

"Nature does not teach religious toleration by such direct method; and the result is that the play is not poetry, only splendid manufacture.

"Shakespeare is eternal; Lessing's 'Nathan' will pass away with the mode of thought which gave it birth. One is based on fact; the other on human theory about fact. The theory seems at first sight to contain the most immediate instruction; but it is not really so."

WAR.

Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, tells the organization there is no cure for war; that preparedness is necessary.

There doubtless will be further wars.

The savage instincts of man, coupled with the natural desires, pride and hunger, which have embroiled the world for so many centuries, will again disturb it.

The late Anatole France, pacifist, admitted this. He said that—"The human masses have so far not found their equilibrium. The sagacity of the nations is not yet sufficiently methodical to secure the common welfare by means of the freedom and the facility of exchanges.

"Man has so far not come to be looked up to with respect everywhere by man.

"The several portions of humanity are not yet about to associate harmoniously for the purpose of building the cells and organs of one and the same body."

It is to be doubted that nations will ever cease to hate and fear one another.

If war ceases, what would become of patriotism and love of country.

To have forced men to kill each other is the disgrace of emperors and republics alike, the crime of crimes.

In the so-called barbarous ages, cities and princes entrusted their defence to mercenaries who made war deliberately and prudently; in some great battles there were only five or six slain.

And when the knights engaged in war they were not forced to it; they were killed of their own free will. It is true they were good for nothing else.

Anatole France observes that in the days of Louis the First of France, no one, even a king, would have dreamed of sending a man of learning and intelligence into battle.

"Neither was the laborer dragged from his plough and forced to join the army.

"Now it is considered the duty of every peasant to serve as a soldier.

"Now he is driven from his home. In some miserable barracks he is taught how to kill men methodically; he is threatened, insulted, imprisoned; he is told that it is an honor, and if he desires no such honor, he is shot.

"He obeys, because, like all the gentlest, gayest, and most docile domestic animals, he is afraid."

Anatole France spoke these words while France was at war; yet he was not imprisoned. Men are in Leavenworth or Atlanta for less.

OFFICE-HOLDING IN A NEW LIGHT.

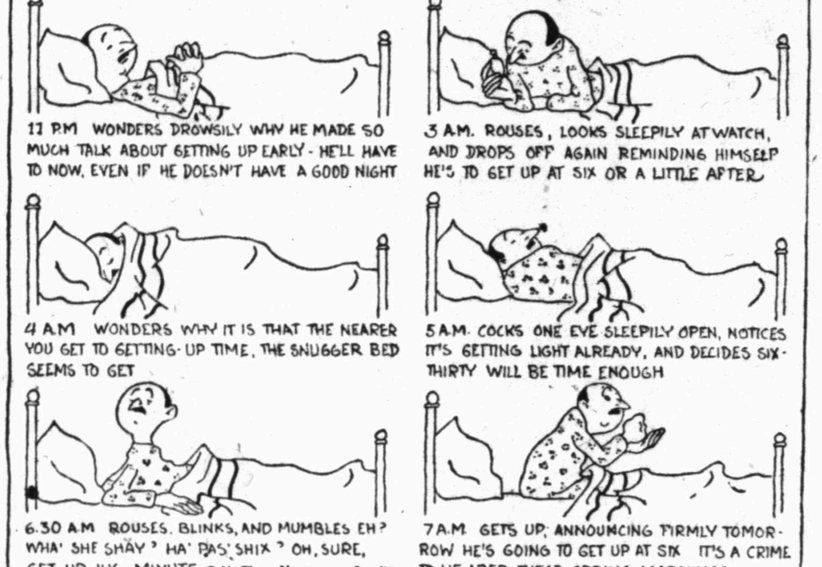

Addressing Senator Capper of Kansas at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press in New Cork, Vice President Dawes shouted: "You look out for a man that has not go office on his mind, either to keep in office or to get another one. Look out for him when he comes to the matter of bringing public sentiment to bear upon senators in their individual constituencies." It was a warning which might well have been addressed to the country. In voicing it, the vice president, without intending to do so, put the much-abused profession of office-holding in a new and decidedly favorable light.

Dawes himself is a man "that has not got office on his mind," and Dawes goes rampaging about the country demonstrating an utter lack of restraint. He says and does what pleases himself and seems to relish disapproval and opposition. He feels himself above the professional office-holder, yet, by his own confession, his independence has no nobler foundation than the consideration that he has nothing to lose.

Despite much preaching to the contrary, the people do not desire officials who disregard their wishes and scorn their good opinion. And the people are right. If fear of popular disfavor dulls the initiative of office-holders, it at least prevents them from becoming tyrants. If forced to choose between individual greatness in their representatives and security for themselves the people would do well to choose the latter. But, in fact, they face no such choice, for the desire to hold the favor of the people is a powerful incentive to great achievements.

Bedtime Stories Good Intentions.

By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

Who's Who in the Story.

Rosilyn Page, hard-worked daughter of a Long Island inkeeper, finds herself on his death, heiress of a huge fortune. In her hour of need she turns to Landis Ridgway, a charming young society man who in his visits to the inn had always been kind to her. His mother,

Florence Ridgeway, who sees poverty staring her and her son in the face, induces Landis to propose to Rosilyn, although he loathes himself for so doing. Rosilyn is radiant at the wedding, but as she prepares to go on the wedding journey, she overhears gossip that Landis is marrying her for her money; she hears herself referred to as the Gilded Rose. Landis is still in love with

One the night of the wedding, Rosilyn, her eyes opened now to the fact that she has been married for her money, tells Landis that theirs will be a marriage in name only. He is secretly relieved at her "common sense" attitude.

Rosilyn comes upon Landis suddenly and finds him gazing forlornly at a picture of Lydia—whom he loves more than ever.

Hearing that Landis and Rosilyn are in New York, Briscoe and Lydia cook up a plot. Briscoe phones Landis to bring Rosilyn to have dinner with him and "a Friend"—not mentioning Lydia's name. Landis replies that he will come immediately leaving word for Rosilyn where she is to join them. Briscoe arranges matters so that Lydia will be alone with Ridgeway, and he with Rosilyn.

Lydia got into a taxi and gave the driver an address. She leant out of the window for a last word with Briscoe.

"You'll be very careful not to give the show away? Landis can be difficult—"

"Oh, I'll take all the blame. I don't care how mad he gets with me." Then, with a grin: "He can't afford to get too mad, you know, because he's rather deeply in my debt. And he can't afford to criticize the conduct of that little wife of his, because it's she who's going to pay these debts!"

("In what way," Lydia wondered, compunction for a second touching that flinty heart of hers. Briscoe was a dangerous friend for a young girl. Well, let her take care of herself! It was none fo her—Lydia's—business! And serve the upstart right, whatever happened to her!)

"Remember not to come within a mile of Claridge's," she called to Briscoe as the taxi rolled away.

"Not on your life!" Hat in hand, he nodded a gay acquiescence. There was a curiously bright light in those sombre eyes of his—a look that would have frightened Rosilyn Ridgeway, had she understood its meaning.

CHAPTER 24.

Landis Is Amazed.

In the lounge of Claridge's, at eight o'clock, amid softly-shaded lights that knocked at least five years from off her age, stood Lydia Harbrook, looking—in her straight white gown of exquisite silk marocain—exactly like a calla lily on its slender stalk.

Women cast envious eyes upon that frock of hers. It was a veritable triumph of Parision art. Fashioned on slimmest lines, and cut in tunic style, with an inch or two of plaited chiffon underskirt just peeping from its base, there was a delicate Chinese design immediately above the hem, wrought in gold thread and pearl beads.

The long white arms were bare, save for a golden bracelet just above the elbow.

Dangling down the back of Lydia's white neck—according to the very newest mode—there was a string of heavy pearls, absurdly large, and yet absurdly like the real thing.

That boyish little head of hers was shingled cleverly. Her golden locks, close cropped behind, displayed an entrancing curve that ended in the nape of her slim neck.

Gold earrings struck an outer note, but they became her.

Indeed, not for a long time had Lydia looked so lovely!

A little pulse was beating in her throat as her eyes—made up so naturally, according to the Irish style, with faint blue shadows round them—incessantly turned to the glass doors at the entrance.

Would Landis come?

He must!

She wanted so to see him!

It was a new sensation for the usually adamantine charmer—this queer fluttering at the heart!

Could it be possible she really was in love with Landis?

"Dog in the manger," was she?

She had utterly refused to marry him, these many times.

Now—when he was the property of another—she desired him!

The kinks of femininity!

With all the force of her highly determined nature, she willed that he should come.

Suppose his wife were with him? Suppose she had returned to their rooms before he'd left, thus frustrating the scheme to which Briscoe had agreed so easily?

But fate surely wouldn't let that happen, when she—Lydia Harbrook—so ardently desired a tete-atete with her old lover!

Landis had loved her, madly and despairingly. Together, the pair of them had run through the whole gamut of emotion.

Well, she'd have them back again, she vowed, standing straight and slim in the becoming lamp light setting of this fashionable rendezvous.

How he had trembled to her touch, in times gone by! How his young face had worked.

In the mirror opposite, she caught the enchanting vision of herself. Her face was pale, but with a luminous quality, as though a lamp were burning inwardly.

Her eyes shone like two stars, and the fluttering at her heart continued.

Was Landis never going to come? And then—

Through the glass doors she saw him, tall and debonair. He was paying off the taxi driver, and when he strode into the lounge, the smile of the young bronze Greek came to her forcefully, as, with possessive thrill, her heart was whispering:

"He is mine, mine, mine!"

Yes, he was handsome. Such a clean-cut, lean, brown face! Extraordinarily vivid eyes! The questing look was back in them again, as though he were searching, vainly, for his heart's desire.

She watched him hand his hat and coat to an attendant.

"Landis!"

He wheeled around.

Forget-me-not eyes gazed into brown.

"You Here?" The tone was utterly remote, and yet that beautifully modulated voice of his struck chords of memory that were actually painful, in their dead-and-gone delight.

"Oh, Landis! Rupert Briscoe told me to come on—I'm in your party—"

"You?" Again that cool, almost spurning note. Then:

"Why am I so honored?"

"Landis, dont!" Her voice fell to an imploring whisper. "Let bygones be bygones! I—I want to congratulate you—on your wedding! I—I only heard of it—in Paris! Please—be friends again!"

His lip curled a little.

"Friends? Could any man on God's earth be—friends with a woman like you, Lydia? Tell me that!"

Lydia Refuses to Wait.

She drew him into a corner that was dimly lit by a great ornamental lamp of gold.

"Wait here till the others come. They'll be arriving any minute!

"Please sit by me, Landis."

Curious eyes were watching them, so he obeyed. He had the average man's usual dislike of anything that savored of a "scene" or "melodrama."

"Well, what have you to say"

The tone was not encouraging.

"Nothing, except that I—I've worried frightfully—over our last meeting. It seemed so awful—knowing I have an enemy in the world—especially when it's someone who was once—awfully dear—and close to one—"

"But that's all over and done with, Lydia." He bit his lip and stared straight ahead of him, unseeingly. "Don't pile on the agony! It's over I tell you!"

Then he added, nonchalantly:

"D'you mind if I emoke"

Lydia leant a little nearer him. He could feel the fragrant and familiar odor of some scenty stuff she washed her hair with. God! it did arouse old memories!

This would never do!

"Gay as ever, I suppose? Is Briscoe your latest capture? He moved definitely farther from her. Never again would he fall beneath her spell.

"Oh, we happened to cross over from Paris together. That was all. And then the idea got him that he'd call you up—and your wife—" her voice dropped at the latter word—"to ask you both out to dinner. He included me in the party, not in the least realizing how you—you hate—and despise me!" And Lydia's pretty voice, low and with a little break in it, trailed off into silence.

"I don't hate you, Lydia." She saw that his hand—the sensitive, long-fingered nervous hand that denotes a high strung temperament—was trembling as he lit his cigarette. "I suppose I ought to be grateful to you, really, for teaching me—so much!"

"So much?"

The answer came, slowly and reluctantly, as though torn from him against his better judgment.

"All that I've known of heaven—and almost all—of hell!"

"I taught you that, Landis?"

"Yes. Do you deny it?"

She turned towards him with a litheness and a supleness that suggested the lovely motion of a panther.

"I don't deny that that time was the happiest of my life. And now—" she hesitated. "I just want to ask you one question, Landis. It's for the sake of old times. Are you happy?"

A muscle in his lean face twitched.

"Are you?" she persisted, feeling that just a little ground was being gained.

"And if I weren't—" he half turned towards her, with a cyniel little smile about his handsome mouth—"and if I weren't, it wouldn't make the the slightest difference to you. So why bother to start such a conversation?"

Her reply came, low and whispering as the spring breeze that stirred the tall flowers in their vases.

"Your happiness—does—matter vitally—to me!"

The man beside her yielded to sudden laughter, though his eyes were unamused, and brooding.

"—Rose? Or a Bernardt? Which incarnation are you"

"I'll see her right NOW! Tough on Clinton — but if she's up to shady stunts like this, he ought to know. Now don't you butt in—I'll settle this!"

Shutting the door, he strode down the corridor.

She reached the Clinton's suite just as he entered. Grimly intent on his unpleasant errands, he seemed not to notice her.

"Mrs. Clinton here?" was his brusque demand, when her husband opened the door.

"Yes, come in, Curtis. Ethel!" he called. Then, at Warren's stern expression. "What is it? Anything wrong?"

"I'm afraid there is," bluntly. "Dead wrong!"

Mrs. Clinton now appeared from the bedroom, her face chalky white.

"Clinton, did you know your wife bought three large diamonds in Europe?"

"Why, what do you mean?" stiffly. "I don't see that it's—"

"Any business of mine?"

"Exactly!"

"You will see in a moment."

From his cupped hand, the three gleaming stones rolled to the table.

"Inside the lining of this bag—that Mrs. Curtis was asked to take in. Draw your own conclusions! I'm putting it pretty raw, Clinton, but I think you ought to know. And I'm mighty sore!"

An excruciating silence. Mr. Clinton, his face brick red, was looking down at his wife, now sobbing on the couch.

"I thought we'd had that all out, Ethel. I told you I'd pay duty on anything you bought. Pay it ten times over rather than have any smuggling!"

Then turning to Warren.

"Curtis, I'd give ten thousand dollars if this hadn't happened. Mrs. Clinton leans backwards in honesty in everything else. But when it comes to customs—well, it's a curious feminine complex."

"Sorry if I put it to you rough," relented Warren. "But I was darn sore."

"I don't blame you. But I'm sure Mrs. Clinton didn't realize in what a serious position she was putting Mrs. Curtis."

"Well, we'll all forget it," abruptly ending the awkward interview.

"Oh, I felt so sorry for him—for them both," faltered Helen, on the bed, her feet tucked under her to give more room for his belligerent strides.

"Damned awkward! She got what was coming to her—but he's square!"

"He tried to excuse her. He said—"

"What'd he call it? 'Feminine complex?' That's the highfalution' term for plain dishonesty! Get that?" turning on her menacingly. "Cheatin' the government's just as dishonest as cheatin' an individual! Same lack of principle!"

"You needn't roar out at me! They weren't my diamonds. I didn't—"

"No, but you got a leanin' that way. If I weren't on to you, you'd sneak through a lot of things. Not diamonds — you wouldn't have the nerve. But you'd shave down your declaration to a mighty few items."

"Dear, I think that's MOST unfair!" flaminly. "U had absolutely nothing to do with this—and now you—"

"Yes, I WANT to rub it in! I want this to be a blamed good lesson for you. And on our next trip—you're to keep every bill and come across with everything you buy. Savvy? We'll have on 'feminine complex' along that line in THIS family! Now come on up and let's get a drink 'fore dinner! Need it after that session!"

The Married Life of Helen And Warren

"What 'bout that suit you bought in Vienna?" Warren was scowling over their declaration. "Got that down here?"

"Why, I've almost worn it out! We don't have to declare that", protested Helen, on her knees before the steamer trunk.

"Have to declare everything! Ought to know that by this time. They make allowances for wear. What'd you pay for it? Got the bill?"

"No, but it was awfully cheap. Not quite two million kronen".

"Why in blazes don't you keep your bills? Tell you that every trip. 'Bout thirty dollars then?" writing it in.

"Yes, but say worn—much worn".

"Now I'll go down to the lounge and figure this out", gathering up the custom blanks. "You hustle and get this stuff packed 'fore dinner. Five now".

It had been an ideal voyage. A stateroom and bath with all the luxuries of the huge Olympic. But the day-before-landing was always clouded by the dreaded customs.

If Warren would only let her make out her own declaration! He always insisted upon declaring everything — even her antiques!

"Tea, ma'am?" the stewardess entered with a tray. "I thought if you were packing—you'd like it in here".

"Thank you. Where'll you put it? Oh, you can close that trunk."

"I brought you some wafers and Dundee cake. Would you like anything else, ma'am?" with the tip-expectant solicitude of the voyage-end.

As Helen sipped her lemoned tea—another knock at the door.

Mrs. Clinton, wife of the wealthy cotton manufacturer, who had the de luxe suite at the end of the corrider.

"May I come in?" wedging her "stylish stout" through the half-open door.

"Oh, don't you loathe this packing? No, don't bother, I can't stay a moment", as Helen cleared a chair. "I just came to ask a favor".

Then unwrapping a gold-mounted bead bag.

"I bought this in London for my sister—she's to be married next month. She'll be at the dock and she always hangs over my trunks when they're examined. So I wondered if you'd take it for me?"

"Why I'd like to", Helen was plainly surprised. "But Mr. Curtis is so strict about the customs—he makes me declare EVERYthing!"

"Oh, I'm not asking you to smuggle it! Here's the bill. Ten ponds—about fifty dollars. I think the duty's 35 per cent on bags—that's seventeen fifty", counting out the money. "If it's more—let me know."

"But if Mr. Curtis has handed in our declaration? He just took it down".

"Then you can declare it at the dock—say you forgot it. Irene always snoops around my trunks—it won't seem like a wedding present if she sees it'.

"How will I get it to you afterwards?" Helen still demurred.

"Oh, we're under the same letter—C. I'll take it as we leave the dock. You don't mind, do you? Thank you SO much!" fluttering out.

Wondering over the incident, Helen proceeded with the packing.

Though they had played bridge with the Clintons almost every evening of the voyage, she had never quite liked Mrs. Clinton, whose effusiveness seemed a little artificial. But her husband was most likable—fine and direct.

"Still at it?" Warren swung in. "Jove, you're slow!"

"I'm almost through now. You can put those trays in—and shove back that trunk".

"Just passing the Majectic. No, you can't see her from here", peering out the porthole. "Come upon deck—you stuck in here all afternoon".

"Wait, I must put this bag away", opening a suitcase.

"Eh? What've got there?" sharply. "Let's see it!"

"Now it's nothing I'm trying to smuggle through", resentfully. "It's Mrs. Clinton's! Here's the bill—and the duty. I can say I forgot to declare it."

"What's the big idea? What you got to do with it?"

"Isn't that someone knocking?" Helen turned to the door.

Mrs. Clinton again.

"Oh, I forgot to say—if I shoudn't see you as you leave the dock, I'll send for that tomorrow".

Helen's murmured acquiescence concealed her increased surprise.

"Dear, did you notice how she flushed when she saw you. She thought you wouldn't want me to take it. But isn't it all right, if she's paying the duty"

"Let's see that bag!" curtly. Somethin' darn queer 'bout this".

"Queer How, dear?" watching him examine it.

"Give me the scissors!"

"The scissors!"

"Warren, what ARE you doing? Why, what—"

Elbowing her away, he grimly proceeded to rip the satin lining.

"Thought so! Good hunch!" working out a bit of padding.

"DIAMONDS!" amazed Helen.

"Fine frame-up for you!" he exploded.

"I don't believe it! There's some mistake. She didn't put them there!"

"Who did? The manufacturer? Think they're slippin' you a thousand pounds' worth of diamonds with a ten-pound bag?"

"Wait, where're you going?" clutching his arm.

"Oh, don't make a scene! I'll take it back to her. Let me—"

"Now I'll handle this!" savagely. "Too darn serious! Where'd you be—if the inspectors found these?"

"Why, I'd tell them it wasn't my bag".

"Think they'd believe you? No name on that bill. She'd lie out of it. You'd be the goat. Thousand dollar fine—or a couple of months in jail!"

Helen shrank back in shocked dismay.

"And there's more to it than that! The Customs know every valuable stone bought in Europe. Jewelers have to register all sales. Her luggage'll be gone over with a fine-toothed comb. That's why she passed 'em on to you."

"But, dear, he'll be there now! Wait and see her after dinner."

What Today Means To You

Taurus.

Today's planetary aspects are quite benign, although after sunset there is a slight variation, causing a tendency to find fault or creating a sense of annoyance and disappointment. The signs, during the first period, denote a favorable condition for all Sunday observances, and harmless, but not too strenuous, recreation. In the evening, a considerable amount of self-control must be exercised especially in the family circle, where liberty is sometimes converted into license, in order to avoid a carpin gattitude, and to prevent speech or action which will leave a nasty aftermath—always regretted, but rarely forgotten.

Fairly good health will be the lot of a child born today, although it will be subject to the usual "ups and downs" nearly always associated with the period of infancy. Well regulated nourishment will do more than doctors to start this child on a normally healthy course. Its disposition will, like its character, be complex, and frequently furnish cause for wonderment. At times, it will be bright, cheerful and attractive. Without warning, it will become morose, reserved and almost repellent. Its character will be variable, as a result of excessive temperamentality. Little worries will disturb it more than the big happenings of its life. When the latter arise, it will display both courage and clearness sof vision, whereas, in face of the former, it will reveal irritation and a pettiness unworthy of its average ideals.

If today is your birthday, you are very level headed, and maintain, at all times, an even keel. Adversity never disturbs your equilibrium, and success never produces a swollen head—the precursor of so many failures. You possess a judicial outlook, and can see affairs not only from your own point of view, but also from that of others. You, of coursé, commit errors of judgment—who doesn't?—but you are ever ready to acknowledge them and do your utmost to remedy them.

Your personality is very attractive, and you have an inherent affable charm, that leaves an impression on all those with whom you have dealings. You do not, however, capitalize this asset to an undue extent, but rather rely for your success on your ability, perspicacity and intelligence.

Successful people born on this date are:

WALNUT STREET BAPTIST

"Mother" will be the subject of the pastor at the morning hour. This subject will be discussed under three heads: "The Office of Mother, Qualifications for the Office of Mother, and Reward for the Service of Mother." Efforts are being made to get every mother in our section to attend. Every one is invited. Let no one miss this great service. The subject of the evening hour will be "God's Love." Don't let any of the kiddies miss Sunday school.

W. B. O'NEAL, Pastor.

SOUTH SIDE BAPTIST CHURCH
(2208 Holliday Drive.)
A. C. Turner.

Special Mother's Day Service. Sunday school begins at 9:45. The sermon theme at 11 o'clock will be: "Mother." Let us all be at church and bring our mothers and fathers, also our neighbors. We are expecting a great day, so let us make it so and honor God and mother.

Sunbeams will meet at 3 o'clock with Mr. Hull leading. B. Y. P. U. at 7 o'clock. The theme for the evening sermon (8 o'clock), will be: "The Non-sectarian Sects." This is a live subject and one on which the scriptures speak plainly. Everyone is welcome to any and all of these services.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
(Tenth and Travis.)

Milo Atkinson, pastor; W. J. Spreen, educational director.

Church school 9:30; a young men's class will be organized under the leadership of Mr. J. S. Dickey. Come on young fellows, let's make this one of the best in the city.

Morning worship and communion at 10:45. Brother Atkinson has returned from Mineral Wells and will preach a pecial Mothers' Day sermon. "Mothers We Delight to Honor."

The Intermediate and Senior C. E. meets at 7 o'clock. A good program has been planned. Come and enjoy it with us. All are cordially invited.

The young people of the church will have charge of the evening worship hour. This will be a program in honor of Mothers' Day. There will be three special talks given by three young people: "The Resourceful Mother—the Mother of Moses," Janice Mashburn; "The Beloved Mother — the Mother Naomi," Lester Prothro; "An Ideal Mother—the Mother of Jesus," Commodore Cumley; Miss Katherine Hopper will give a reading "The Mother Watch," by Edgar A. Guest; Mr. Paul Rutledge will give a special solo.

The vacation is all ready to go. Enroll now. Mothers, call the secretary and give the name of your boys and girls. This is one of the greatest opportunities the church has given the young people of the church. The official board is back of the school. This is free to all the boys and girls and their chums.

CHURCH OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD.
(Episcopal)
Fred T. Datson, Rector.

Holy communion 7:30. A service of quietness and beauty in the early hours of the day, free from the noise and bustle of the later hours.

Church school, 9:30. We invite you to send your children to our school and to come yourself. Classes for all ages and a hearty welcome.

Morning prayer 11:00. The record's sermon subject will be "The Homes of Our Republic," a sermon for Mother's Day. Special music by the choir including the "Recessional," the musical setting by Schnecker.

Captain and Mrs. Holley in charge.

Holiness meeting Saturday night. Special Mothers' Day sermon Sunday night; Sunday school 2:30 p. m., all are invited to attend. The Bible class is increasing in interest and numbers. Special Bible and object lessons by Mrs. Captain Holley with a special treat for the children at the Sunday school.

YALE AVENUE EVANGELICAL
(Cor. Yale and Twenty-second Sts.)
W. D. Cook, pastor; J. L. Arnold, superintendent.

Another Mother's Day is here and I am sure each of us hold sacred to the memories of our own dear sweet mother. And perhaps some of us will remember how mother used to work and sacrifice that we may have the advantages offered by our regular attendance at the house of God. Both in the Sunday school and the church services. Are we doing the same with our own children, this sacred holy day? May God help each of us.

Sunday school will begin promptly at 9:45 and instead of having the regular lesson for the day; after a short assembly of the classes for the purpose of a record, we will have a special Mother's Day service. This will be followed by a Mother's Day message, in which we trust the Lord will greatly bless. The subject for the morning hour will be, "Results of Following God's Instructions for a Revival," and will attempt to show how our fathers and mothers received the old time power by following these instructionsc. Again in the evening we will have another Mother's Day service, by the intermediates and seniors and this followed by another Mother's Day message. Subject: "The Confidence a Real Mother Has in Her Child."

The services for the week will be as usual, not forgetting to ask God to help us in each undertaking. Let each of us come into the house of the Lord with joy and thanksgiving.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST
(Corner Tenth and Austin)
L. S. White, Local Minister.

Sunday school 9:45 a. m. Preaching 11 a. m., and 8 p. m. Young peoples meeting 7 p. m. The public cordially invited.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH, SOUTH.

Mother's love will be the theme of the morning service of the First Methodist church, south, Tenth and Lamar streets. A flower in memory of mother will be pinned on every person who enters the church. A beautiful bouquet will be given to the oldest mother present. Dr. Walter J. Johnson will speak on "Mother Dear, Our Friend Sincere." The pastor's subject at night will be "Co-operation With God."

The special music at the morning service will be an anthem by the choir, "Hark, Hark, My Soul" (Shelly); a violin solo by Mr. Jarrell Gose; a quartet by Misses Marguerite Kaye and Glenore Fisk and Messrs. R. B. Ross and F. M. Hansen; a vocal solo by Mr. W. R. Porter. At night the Shrine quartet will sing. Mrs. J. W. Akin, Jr., will play "Grand Chorus" (Angela Becker) and "Vespers" (Roland Diggle) in a fifteen minute organ concert as a prelude to the night service.

The Sunday school opens promptly at 9:30 a. m. The Kay Bible class has planned a special Mothers' Day program that will be of interest to all men who attend their class at the Strand theatre. Mr. W. B. Hamilton's class for young men meets at the Olympic theatre. All other classes meet in and near the church. Every member of the family can find a suitable class in this Sunday school.

The Young People's Council will meet at 3 p. m. Senior League No. 2 will be led in a special "Mothers' Day Program" by Miss Valle Fern Lowry. The Perunas of Senior League No. 1 will have charge of the program Sunday evening. A very interesting program is promised by their leader, Dr. W. R. McClure. The Junior High League has also planned a Mothers' Day program.

A large attendance at the weekly prayer service at eight o'clock on Wednesday is urged. Dr. Johnson is planning a service of special interest.

Mother

They say man rules the universe,
That subject shore and main
Kneel down and bless the empery
Of his majestic reign;
But a sovereign, gentler, mightier,
Man from his throne has hurled
For the hand that rocks the cradle
Is the hand that rules the world.

HAS SALE OF COFFINS

Unprofitable Merchandise Goes At Reduced Rates In Little River

LITTL ERIVER, Texas, May 9. A sale of coffins here yesterday by George W. Evans, proprietor of a general store, cleaned out his entire line which he considered "dead stock" he reported today. He found the coffin business unprofitable as most of the residents, he said, were "live wires," so he advertised the boxes for sale at reduced prices. A dozen coffins, carried in stock for years, were disposed of.

Drunks Increase But Dallas Arrests Fall

DALLAS, May 9.—Drunkenness has increased, no arrests in general having decreased in the last year in Dallas, the annual report of the Dallas police department shows. Arrests up to April 30, totalled 2,104, which is 4,000 less than last year. The number of arrests for drunkenness was 3,956, about 1,000 more than the previous year. Eleven per cent of those arrested were women, the charges ranging from murder to vagrancy. Fines assessed totalled $90,919.

Potash and Perlmutter Discuss Oratory—Why Encourage It With Medals When Dawes Is Trying to Stampe it Out?

By Montague Glass

"I believe in free speech—sittin g down," Abe concluded. "But nobody should ought to be allowed to s tand up to it."

"Well, Mawruss, it's an old saying and a true one that what some considers meat, others call poisin," Abe Potash observed the other day, "and no sooner does Mr. Dawes tell the werld and the United States senate that oratory should ought to be put in a class with fraudulent bankruptcy or forgery in the second degree, y'understand, than a bunch of millionaires get together and offer prizes of a trip to Europe downwards to a gold filled medal for the best high school oratory and practically undo all the good that Mr. Dawes has accomplished in the United States senate between naps."

The Two Forms of Speech.

"Certain ideas die very hard, Abe," Morris Perlmutter declared, "and one of them is that the English language is divided into two sections which is sitting-down language, or conversation, and standing up language, or oratory.

"Take for instance a loud mouthed feller like Eddie Noblestone, and there are times if you meet him sitting down in a restaurant at lunch time when he actually talks like a human being, y'understand, and yet that very evening if you was to hear him standing up at the second annual dinner of the National Brassiere and Girdle Manufacturers of North America, you appreciate at once that oratory don't come natural to a person like breathing or stomach trouble.

"It's got to be learned and practiced like saxophone playing, coloratura soprano singing or any of them other accomplishments which are so difficult for the performer that for the sake of the audience, it's too bad that they ain't impossible."

'But do you think that a feller like Eddie Noblestone needed to be encouraged to become an orator by getting trips to Europe and gold medals in his high school days, if he ever had any?" Abe inquired. "Because in my opinion, Mawruss, the average orator like Eddie Noblestone, William J. Bryan and any standard gauge United States senator would have committed oratory at the first opportunity without so much as a trip to Long Island City to encourage him. In fact if in his high school days the Board of Trustees would have handed to William J. Bryan a diamond studded platinum medal inscribed:

Offered to William J. Bryan as an Inducement to Pledge Himself not to let a Drop of Oratory pass his Lips y'understand, it is no reflection on Mr. Bryan to say that the most the donors could expect is that they would be out a diamond-studded plotinum medal, because with born orators like Mr. Bryan or Eddie Noblestone, Mawruss, oratory ain't a gift. It's a craving. A born orator nebich can't help himself, and offering him a trip to Europe in his high school days to encourage him to become what his mother's tears and the probable sufferings of thousands can't prevent him from becoming, is a terrible waste of steamboat accommodations and passport vise fees."

"Another thing about oratory, Mawruss," Abe continued, "is that it ain't so difficult as it seems to a person who ain't become accustomed to the use of oratory, like you and me.

"The first thing about getting used to using oratory is that the orator should be able to control his perspiration, and right away that bars me, Mawruss, because if I get on my feet at a meeting of creditors and try to ask the chairman whether the bankrupt can pay even as little as five cents on the dollar, y'understand, the effect of so much oratory on me is the same like I would have wrapped myself in blankets with a hot water bag at my feet and taken ten grains of aspirin followed by a steaming glass of hot lemonade with just a dash of pre-war Scotch in it."

"It also seems to me, Abe," Morris interrupted, "that if you had to even make so much of a public speech as to call your floor in a crowded elevator, you got an awful bad attack of weakening of the voice."

"Sure I know," Abe admitted, "but if I had more voice and less perspiration, Mawruss, I wouldn't find it so difficult to become already quite an orator. Which I've got no grudge against manufacturing jewelers, Mawruss, particularly the makers of medals, badges, class pins and athletic prizes, y'understand, but it does seem to me quite unnecessary that gold medals should be handed to high school students merely because they're got naturally strong voices and normally dry skins."

"Then you don't consider that the flow of language has got anything to do with oratory," Morris asked.

"Not for medal purposes, I don't," Abe said. "If somebody has got the habit that when he stands on his feet before a lot of people and opens his mouth, y'understand, language flows from him instead of perspiration, Mawruss, some people might consider that he should get admiration, and others that he should get sympathy but no reasonable person ought to be in favor that he should get medals.

"Medals are something which you should give a man for doing something that he's got to make sacrifices to do or some big effort coming across with a wonderful chill followed by a rise in temperature, as give a medal to a high school student who is coming down with chronic and life-long oratory and as a symptom of it has periodic fits of language."

"Then what would you give to a young high school student who shows he is going to be an orator?" Morris inquired.

"That depends on how young he is, because I wouldn't want to get into trouble with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, y'understand," Abe replied, "but there's been a big scandal in the New York papers lately where a number of high school students was found to be drinking, Mawruss, and what they got for drinking, I would give the other high school students for oratory.

On Speaking and Drinking.

"In fact, Mawruss, I wouldn't be so hard on the drinkers as I would on the roators, because, after all, a confirmed drunkard can cause a lot of harm to himself and his family, and to one or two friends if they happen to be close enough to him when he's in liquor, but you don't have to be close to a confirmed orator when he is in a fit of language.

"A chronic and confirmed orator when he is really and truly in a fit of language, Mawruss, can throw a speech three hundred yards and hit a whole armory full of people. He can stand on the steps of the capital at Washington, and, by means of a loud speaker, make people suffer terribly as far away as the Union Station."

"For that matter, Abe," Morris said, "nowadays an orator can spray his language by radio and cause a painful half hour or so in a radius of a thousand miles, but at the same time, Abe, I ain't in favor that oratory should be discouraged among high school students when it is allowed to grow wild among soap boxers and communists."

"Among such people," Abe declared, "I would punish it severely."

"But you believe in free speech, don't you?" Morris asked.

"I believe in free speech, sitting down," Abe concluded, "but nobody should ought to be allowed to stand up to it."

There Was a Sudden Migration Thither.

I remember reading, a great many years ago a speculation as to whether vegetables can think. I regarded that as an astonishing piece of foolishness. But since I have been trying to raise a lawn I have changed my mind. I have discovered that not only can vegetables thing, but that they can outthink any amateur gardener who ever sought to cope with them.

What we call the instinct of self-preservation in animals and human beings is but a fleeting and futile impulse compared to the same instinct in vegetables. And not only has a vegetable a regard for its own worthless life which amounts to a passion, but it devotes an amount of brain power which would move mountains, to insuring a long life and a happy one to its offspring even to the fourth and fifth generation.

I do not pretend to say what a vegetable thinks with. The seat of its intellect may be in its leaves or its roots—more probably in its roots, for after the leaves have been cropped it continues to function.

In my effort to rear a lawn I came into contact with several sorts of vegetables of the general variety known aas weeds, among them being dandelions, buttercups, thistles and burdocks. All of them had alert minds and sharp wits, but the dandelion had the intellect of a Spinoza combined with the craft of a Machiavelli and the persistence of a Christopher Columbus.

Every afternoon on my return from my work I would battle with the dandelions, employing knives, poison and other lethal agencies, but all to no purpose. I would go over the yard digging out every vestige of root and fibre. Then rising from my knees with that difficulty which the Man With the Hoe was never able to overcome I would survey my work and call it good.

Not a spear of dandelion leaf or bloom would be in sight. But the next morning I would glance out of the window on a field of bright yellow interspersed here and there with a few pathetice and feeble patches of greensward, upon th borders of which the dandelions were rapidly encroaching.

And before I could seize my knife and rush out to begin the work of destruction the yellow blossoms would have turned white and spilled the seeds of untold more of their kind over the grass.

I thought at one time that dandelions grew from the seed to full fruition in the space of about 10 minutes. But I have learned better than that. What they do is to flatten down in the grass like foxes when they see you coming, and remain hidden there by their protective coloring while you are busy on those which have bloomed too soon, and in consequence cannot conceal themselves.

In the Spring, when dandelions have attended the school of experience but a short time they grow tall and straight, and flaunt their golden hair in every breeze that blows. It is then possible to go over them with a lawn mower and nip them to the level of the grass. But soon they observe the danger of being too conspicuous, and day by day reduce their stature till at last they lie barely above the level of the ground, the blooms being kept even lower than the leaves. In this way they not only manage to defy the mower, but by spreading out starfish wise in all directions succeed in killing more grass, which is of course their malevolent object in life.

I have cut up a particularly large dandelion, whose root was so thick that a hole an inch in diameter was left when it was removed. The next morning I found a thrifty plant blossoming in the cavity, a half an nich below the surface of the ground. No war-wise veteran hiding in a shell hole till a barrage had expended its force ever used more judgment than that.

It is a curious thing how soon struggling and outlaw dandelions, blossoming in vacant lots near by will discover that you are about to raise a lawn, and move into it in order to feed on the fertilizer which you fondly imagined would help your grass to become the velvet carpet which you often read about but seldom see.

Before I planted my lawn there were few dandelions in the yard, the quality of the soil not being such as to tempt the appetites. But when it had all been spaded and supplied with nitrates, there was a sudden migration thither, in which the seeds from a hundred thousand plants took part.

They employed every means of transportation that their agile minds could think of. Some of them sailed over on the breeze, but instead of going on to the next yard which they could easily have done, they came down into my yard with nose dives and tail spins as soon they were fairly over it. Some of the more cautious ones, fearing that violent collision with the ground might so injure them that they would be slow in growing, volplaned down in spirale, but not one of them passed over the further fence.

Others attached themselves to the feet of passing dogs and cats and grocery men and milk men, to which they clung tenaciously till either by sight or scent or some sense unknown to science they found that they were on my property. Then they let go and dug in, and the next day I had a new crop to dig up.

When I found that neither by mowing nor digging was it possible to make any headway I tried certain poisons of which I had read in a book of the suburban garden. These poisons were fatal to the grass, which is one of the dullest of vegetables, and had no better sense than to draw it up through its roots.

But the dandelions ted their roots into soil which not been permeated by the pois And when I went into the yard the next day to see what had happened, I found that they had grown either to the right or to the left of the places where the mixture had been deposited, so that it would not contaminate their tender cuticle.

I might of course, have killed them all by putting a film of poison over the entire surface of that yard, but that would have killed all the grass first, and I had at that time still a little hope left of raising a lawn.

But I believe that had I done even this, the plants would in a little time have so modified their digestive apparatus as to assimilate the stuff without harm to them, and have continued to wave triumphantly o'er the grave of the grass.

I was slow to concede that a vegetable was smarter than I am, but at last I was forced to admit that I must resort to brute force if I was to conquer the things. This I have now done, and the dandelions have ceased from troubling. It was an expensive thing to do, and it entailed the sacrifice of all my luxuries, but I am not one to surrender to a weed.

I have paved my entire yard with cement, and painted it green so that to people from a distance it resembles grass. But it looks cold and formidable from my windows, and excites all manner of derisive curiocity from my neighbors.

Still I have conquered temporarily at least. But I am afraid it is only temporarily. As I look from my windows as I write this contribution to the liaterature of agriculture I see that my concrete pavement is seamed with cracks torn in it by the frosts of last winter. In each of these cracks is a streak of dirt, and each streak of dirt is starred, with a ragged row of dandelion plants.

Great Makwar Dam In Sudan Finished Ahead of Contract

LONDON, May 9.—The Morning Post states that the great Makwar dam on the Blue Nile in the heart of the Sudan, was completed yesterday in advance of the contract date of June 30.

Completion of the work opens up 300,000 acres for cotton growing and it is estimated 500,000 kantars will be grown on this land in the present year. (The Egyptian kantar is equivalent to about 99 1-2 pounds.)

Houston Railroad Stockholder Denies Merger Opposition

HOUSTON, May 9.—W. T. Eldridge of Sugarland, who arrived home last night from St. Louis, expressed surprise at an Associated Press dispatch from San Antonio, which dealt with the transportation affairs of San Antonio and the Rio Grande Valley section. The item intimated that Mr. Eldridge was not in line with recent events having to do with transportation in that section. It indicated hostility on his part to the programs which are being worked out by the Missouri Pacific officers and the Southern Pacific interests, territory.

Without Knowledge.

In a formal statement Mr. Eldridge declared that the San Antonio item was entirely without his knowledge or procurement. He said he had not opposed the acquirement by the Missouri Pacific of 52 per cent of the stock of the San Antonio, Uvalde & Gulf, and that he fel tthat his minority interest of 48 per cent ought to be benefitted by the carrying out of the contract of sale.

Instead of being opposed to the Missouri Pacific, Mr. Eldridge called attention to the fact that he had helped secure a 100 per cent endorsement of the Missouri Pacific program in the valley.

Instead of being opposed to the Southern Pacific, program Mr. Eldridge said he had favored the merger by which the San Antonio and Aransas Pass became a part of the Southern Pacific.

Referring to the Santa Fe, Mr. Eldridge said that neither himself nor any one else had a right to connect his operation with the Santa Fe, or vice versa. He said he would be very much pleased if the Santa Fe would arrange to enter San Antonio and the Rio Grande Valley.

New Plans Independent.

Mr. Eldridge indicated that his recent purchase of the control of the Rio Grande railroad and his acquirement of the franchise of the Rio Grande city, which he is now building, were entirely independent and not related in any way to any other transportation unit.

"There has been much speculation for several months by the interested public on the valley transportation question," said Mr. Eldridge. "Especially has this been the case in San Antonio and Brownsville, where newspapers and other medium of publicity have featured the potentialities of the situation. I have not felt heretofore that a definite statement was desirable or necessary. However, the Associated Press item referred to might have the tendency to create antagonism, hurtful to the transportation interests and to the public in the San Antonio-Brownsville section, and I want to clear up the situation in this formal fashion."

Texas Letter Is Scoffed At By Shepherd

CHICAGO, May 9.—A contention that William D. Shepherd, charged with the killing by typhoid germs of his foster son, William Nelson McClintock, orphan millionaire, is the victim of a $1,000,000 will contest, will be part of his defense when he goes to trial May 18, his attorneys have outlined.

Much of the defense cases, according to William Scott Stewart, chief counsel, will depend on the rebuttal of state testimony. Prosecutors, preferring briefs of the testimony of 75 witnesses before the coroner's jury, said much of it would be inadmissable at the trial under the rules of criminal procedure.

Scoff at Letter.

Shepherd's attorneys scoffed at a letter received yesterday by Judge Harry Olson, instigator of the investigation into McClintock's death, from Mrs. Myrtle Osborn, Houston, Texas. The letter's import was that the writer had been told by McClintock that he believed his mother had been poisoned and he expected a similar death.

Denial that they had ever heard of Mrs. Osborn was made by Shepherd and his wife, who was named as an accessory to the slaying of McClintock and his mother, their attorneys said.

Chief Justice Harry Olsen of the municipal court said in the closing statement at the McClintock inquest that his connection with the case was at an end and that he was "flinging the torch to other hands." Today he said the torch was sticking to his fingers in spite of him.

"I thought I was through with the case," said the jurist. "But no, people are still sending information to me and it will have to be investigated. I will have to ask the cheif of police to augment the squad of men which has been working with me on the case. A man ought ot be sent to Texas.

Country Seething.

"I am informed that the country about Bayview is seething and that there is talk that Mrs. McClintock's cottage there, built by William D. Shepherd, but never revisited, is haunted."

Judge Olson said that a statement received yesterday by mail from Mrs. Myrtle Osborn of Houston, Texas, to the effect that Billy McClintock, believing his mother poisoned, was himself apprehensive, might be corroborated in part by testimony expected from Miss Isabelle Pope, McClintock's fiance. In a statement made to Judge Olson which has been kept secret for months and not before been made public Miss Pope said Shepherd told her Billy while sick scowled at Mrs. Shepherd, his guardian, as she bent over him and pushed her away, causing Mrs. Shepherd to weep and Shepherd to propose his and Mrs. Shepherd's departure.

According to the statement, Shepherd, who is charged with the murder of Billy, later said Billy explained his action as anxiety lest Mrs. Shepherd catch his disease.

Shepherd's attorneys discounted the letter from Mrs. Osborn and the Shepherds both said they did not know her.

Texas "Poison Book."

HOUSTON, Texas, May 9.—A "memoranda on poison" by Thomas Hawkes Tanner, printed in the Philadelphia shop of Lindsay and Blakiston in 1879, has become the center of interest in the investigation by Chicago authorities of the death of illiam Nelson "Billy" McClintock and his brother, Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock. The book is in the possession of Mrs. Myrta Osborn of this city, who formerly was a close friend of the McClintocks, and Dr. Oscar Olson, brother of Judge Harry Olson, through whose efforts an indictment charging murder has been returned against illiam D. Shepherd, foster father of "Billy" McClintock.

Mrs. Osborn volnteered the information regarding the book on poisons in a letter to Judge Olson. When interviewed here yesterday she left a sick bed to tell of her friendship for Mrs. McClintock and little "Billy." Throughout the story Mrs. Osborn stressed the fear in which she said Shepherd was held both by Mrs. McClintock and after her death by the boy.

The boy following his mother's death once remarked to Mrs. Osborn, who then was the wife of H. H. Nichols, an nisurance man of Chicago, that he was being treated with cruelty by Shepherd and wished he could live with the Nichols family. The lad was asked why he did not run away from the Shepherd home and replied, "I'm sure that mother was killed. I can't get away from them. It's no use. If I did get away they would get me."

Observance of Mothers' Day annually all over the United States is due to Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia. She inaugurated the custom, and she also chose the carnation as the Mothers' Day flower. She now is president of the Mothers' Day association.

Official distinction has been given to the observance of this holiday by the cooperation of government officials, and the second Sunday in May is now designated in the calendars as Mothers' Day.

A feature of the work of the Mothers' Day association and its many branches are the programs in the penitentiaries, where the golden light of material affection seldom penetrates.

Nearly all churches will have Mothers' Day programs.

Crawford Will That Led to Killing Is Sustained in Court

DALLAS, May 9.—The will of the late Col. W. L. Crawford, whose son, William Lester Crawford, recently was convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of Attorney Paul O'Day, was upheld in the fifth district court of civil appeals here today.

Mrs. Lucy Craycroft, daughter of Colonel Crawford by his first wife and others attempted to break the will which left the entire $200,000 estate to Mrs. Kate Lester Crawford, second wife, and her son William Lester Crawford.

The court of civil appeals today sustained the trial court in its judgment that there was no grounds for breaking the well.

Paul O'Day was one of the attorneys for the contestants. Statements concerning Mrs. Crawford, which he is alleged to have made in a legal brief in connection with appeal of the case, are said to have led to the shooting of O'Day by young Crawford, which occurred in a downtown office building last fall. Crawford is free on bond pending appeal of his five-year sentence.

Oklahoma Editors Denounce Judges Who Barred Legals

SULPHUR, Okla., May 9.—A resolution expressing opposition of Oklahoma editors to district judges of the state who attempt to prevent newspapers from carrying legal notices was to be reported today at the closing session of the 35th annual meeting of the Oklahoma Press association.

The resolution carried forth a suggestion made yesterday by A. E. Caston of Okemah, retiring president of the association, urging the members to look into the action of District Judge C. Crump, in placing an alleged ban on the publication of legal notices in a Wewoka newspaper published by Grady Webster. Mr. Gaston's suggestion of grand jury action directed by the state attorney general was not incorporated in the resolution, however.

Clyde E. Muchmore, editor of the Ponca City News, was assured of election as president of the association. Mr. Muchmore already is president of the Oklahoma Associated Press Editorial association, an organization of newspapers represented by membership in the Associated Press.

Big Damage Case Will Not Effect Autos in Mississippi.

JACKSON, Miss., May 9.—Mississippi's suit against the Ford Motor company to collect $12,000,000 in penaltie salleged due under violations of the state's anti-trust laws will not retard the business within the state in Ford automobiles, it was indicated here today.

Dealers will pay cash at the factory branches in Memphis or New Orleans and consign the cars from themselves to themselves or else drive them to their respective towns, it was said.

Dodge Combine

E. G. Wilmer, executive in the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., is expected to be named chairman of the board of the new $175,000,000 corporation formed by the purchasers of the Dodge Motor company.

Amarillo Union Meet Not to Consider The Open Shop Situation

DALLAS, May 9.—The Open Shop association, now operating in Texas, will receive "no" attention from the State Federation of Labor at its annual convention in Amarillo starting May 25, George Slater, secretary, announced here today. The union situation, he said, was in general satisfactory and there will be no dealings with the open shop people.

The convention will draw perhaps 350 delegates, Mr. Slater predicted. At present there are no outstanding problems before union labor in Texas, but he explained every delegate was privilledged to bring up almost any subject by resolution and there was no way to predict what might come on the floor for discussion.

The enormous building program throughout the state, especially in the cities, and the recent rains which have encouraged all business, are taken as signs of prosperity for both employer and employee, and plenty of work for all kinds of labor is at hand, the leaders state.

Texas Has Never Sent A Millionaire To Congress- Will It Happen In 1926?

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Record News Staff.

AUSTIN, Texas, May—In the words of the war time song writer, "It Is A Long Roadto Tipperary," but the traveler gets there some day. It is a long road to the senatorial campaign of 1926, but the political warriors are buzzing around in the haunts of men.

In the year 1926 the democrats of Texas will find themselves involved in a campaign to name a successor to Earle B. Mayfield. Those who know say that gentlemen will be a candidate for re-election. Those who suspect say that James E. Ferguson will be a candidate fo rthe senatorial toga. Those who are guessers say that Attorney General Dan Moody may be a candidate for a seat in the American senate. There are others.

Texas never sent a millionaire to the senate. Texas never had a man of millions in the upper house of the American congress. Texas never had a man in the upper house who could sit in with the men of millions in the great centers of finance and population and talk either business or legislation.

Civil Lawyers.

Since the close ofthe civil war lawyers have had the call on senatorial togas with the exception of the junior senator,, and he may be a lawyer for ought that the writer knows. Norris Sheppard is a lawyer and a long line of predecessors were lawyers. This regardless of the fact that until recent years Texas has been an industral state.

Now Texas is one of the great petroleum states of the union. Now Texas makes boasts of being a manufacturing state. Texas has vast financial interests. Texas some day will have vast shipping interests. All the big business states have been business representatives either in the huose or the senate at the capitol of the nation.

There is a rumor and it is well defined in the haunts of the politicans of at least four important Texas cities,that there is a dark horse being groomed by his trainers for the senatorial campaign for 1926. As a matter of fact the writer knows whereof he speaks.

There are men close to the Hon. Jecce Jones of Houston, who say that he will make an ideal candidate for the democrats to enter in the race at the proper time. Jesse Jones may not know it. He may not know that he is a candidate, but there ar emen who are close to him who say that he would make an ideal candidate and they are going to make his campaign for him.

This is not hearsay. Jesse Jones, these friends who are nursing his senatorial candidacy assert, has all the money that any one man needs to be happy. They say that Texas needs a man who knows all about business and all about business legislation. They say that he is the builder of his own fortune and that it is a vast one. They say that after an American has accumulated a fortune he should give all his time to the service of his people and his state.

They say that Jones was a dollar a year man and close to Woodrow Wilson when the World war was on. They say that when John W. Davis was made the leader of a forlorn hope in 1924 and the big financiers of the democratic party neatly side stepped that forlorn hope and the financial coat thereof, Jesse Jones of Texas stepped into the breech, knowing that defeat awaited the chivilarous Davis and his cause and directed the financial end of the campaign.

And when the deficit was announced after Davis had been slaughtered, it was Jesse Jones and others of his kind who rallied to the aid of national chairman Clem Shaver of West Virginia, and made it possible for the national organization to avoid bankruptcy. This is their line of talk. This also is their line of thought.

Jesse Jones came to Texas from Tennessee. He did not have a fortune when he landed in Texas. He has builded his fortune in the years of his residence under Texas skies. He has large interests in Houston and Dallas and other Texas cities. He has large interests in New York. His brother, John Jones, has been a resident of Dallas for many years and he is in the millionaire class.

John Jones has ever been an active democrat. He knows all the cow paths in the upper country. It is a long road to Tipperary. Texas never had a millionaire or a multi-millionaire in the upper house of the American congress. Will it ever happen?

Okla. Outlaw Found Tilling On Ten Acres

Jeff Duree, Last of Desperado Gang, is Captured Without a Struggle

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 9.—Jeff Duree, the last of a string of notorious Oklahoma robbers, was ensnared in the law's net yesterday—but not as the dangerous, ruthless outlaw whose reputation caused him to be both feared and sought throughout the southwest.

Found as a tiller of the soil on a small ranch at Roosevelt, near Phoenix, Duree, who was sought on suspicion of robbing several Oklahoma and Kansas banks, meekly submitted to the law and today is a prisoner in the Maricopa county jail.

The former bandit had found refuge since last December in the seclusion of his ten-acre tract where his ranch neighbors knew his as "Joe Wilson, farmer." There, it is said, he lived peacefully with his wife and two children until yesterday when the law called for the reckoning. Duree faces a 25-year sentence in Oklahoma for alleged participation in a robbery at Edmonton Sept. 28, 1921. He jumped a $10,000 bond last November after his sentence had been appealed and affirmed. He also is wanted in Kansas in connection with the robbery of a bank at Whitewater.

BULLETIN.

ASHBURY PARK, N. J., May 9.—Coast guardsmen today seized 100 cases of liquor thrown overboard by a rum boat during a chase in which 400 rounds of ammunition was fired near Cedarville, 30 miles from Cape May, coast guards headquarters here announced.. The rum boat escaped.

BULLETIN.

NORFOLK, Va., May 9.—The gasoline launch Dank Eloise with 300 cases of whiskey abroad, was towed into port here today by the coast guard cutter Mascoutin. Three men found on the launch are held.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The endurance contest between the Atlantic rum fleet and the coast guard's dry navy continued today with every indication that it will be a war to the finish, with land and sea attacks, reprisals and a "death list" as important features.

Challenge Accepted.

The smugglers have accepted the challenge of battle with a counter offensive designed to drive a wedge through the opposing lines which they hope to follow with a shore bound flood of liquor. Ambuscades, kidnaping, threats and attempted bribery have been resorted to in an effort to frustrate the coast guardsmen, it was disclosed by officials here.

One guardsman has been killed from ambush, two others wounded and another kidnaped. Guard officers have been threatened by land agents of the smugglers who are known to have prepared a list of officials marked for extermination. The counter attack took a new course, it was revealed, when rum agents boarded the Jewett, a destroyer taken over by the coast guard, and severely damaged her machinery while she was docked at night.

Row Is Blockaded.

The crews manning the speed boats and mother ships of the dry fleet now blockading rum row were advised yesterday by Rear Admiral Billard, commandant of the coast guard, to exercise every precaution. He told them, too, that he intends to do the best job possible and that he will back them up to the limit.

Confidence in the guardsmen was voiced by Assistant Secretary Andrews, field marshal of the prohibition forces.

"They wont be frightened by threats," he said. "And we mean business."

Meanwhile the rum agents ashore continue their efforts to establish contact with the smugglers, spurred on by the knowledge that they have paid for the liquor cargoes, even though they can not be landed. Investigation has disclosed, it was said, that before the rum ships leave their home ports the purchase price of the liquor must be deposited in banks abroad.

RAINS HELP CATTLEMEN

DEL RIO, Texas, May 9.—Almost daily rains falling throughout the ranch section of west Texas are causing grass and forage to grow rapidly much to the relief of ranchmen. Three-fourths of an inch fell here last night and a downpour is reported in the northern part of the county. Heavy rains also are falling in Mexico opposite here.

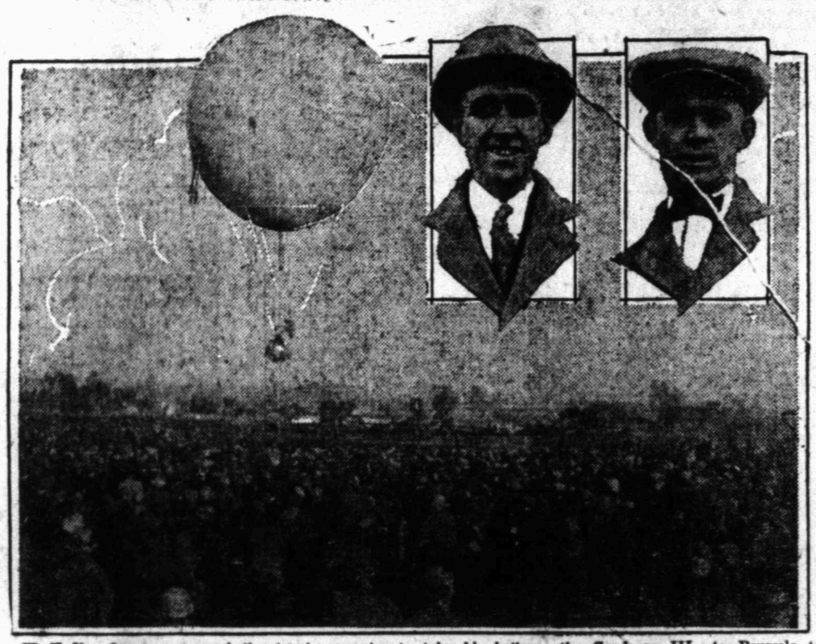

GAINSVILLE HAS RAIN

Alabama Boy Orator Wins From 1,400,000

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The distinction of having delivered an oration on the federal constitution judge the best of 1,400,000 entered by students in the national oratorical consions, 15, of Birmingham, Ala. He test rested today with Robert Z. Sesson the honor here last night over six others who were chosen in regional competition to enter the finals.

U. S. Balloon Race Winner Seeks International Title

W. T. Van Orman, veteran balloonist, is preparing to take his balloon, the Goodyear III., to Brussels to represent the United States in the annual race for the international cup, now held by Belgium. He is hopeful of bringing the trophy back to this country, where it resided many years. Van Orman won the right to be the American representative by winning the national elimination race, which began at St. Joseph, Mo. He landed at Reform, Ala., close to 600 miles away. He is seen (left) with his aide, C. K. Wollan. His balloon is shown in the air.

Death Ray, More Terrible Than Ever, Dreamed, Claimed By German Expert

WASHINGTON, May 9.—A new kind of death ray, exceeding in its destructive capacity any previous device, rumored or realized, was reported to the commerce department today as the claimed accomplishment of a German inventor.

William T. Daugherty, trade commissioner at Berlin, forwarded a summary of a publication describing the invention which is called "heliotaueb" with the startling claim that its mysterious waves are capable of paralyzing life for six hours over a distance of 40 miles and to an altitude of more than 45,000 feet.

Methods of operation and the source of the energy used were lacking.

War department experts pointed out that the highest elevation reached by an airplane as yet is about 39,000 feet so that the new device—if it works—would effectively clear the air in any battle.

What's Doing Here and There In West Texas

In Vernon,

MUSICALE IN NEW HOME

The new home of Mrs. W. N. Stokes was the scene of a delightful musicale Wednesday afternoon when the Delphian and Musicians' clubs in joint session observed music week. Mrs. Stokes a president of the Musicians' club and not only was the affair an observance of National Music week but the guests enjoyed going through the new home of the hostess, which is one of the loveliest and most modern residences in the city.

The guests were met at the door by Mrs. E. C. Christian and Miss McCarroll, where they passed to the receiving line composed of the presidents of the two clubs, Mrs. Stokes and Mrs. Y. H. Babsin and the first vice-presidents, Mrs. C. J. Farrell and Mrs. R. G. Hughes. They then were directed through the rose bedroom by Mrs. W. W. Bennett and Miss Verna Lucky to the dining room where they passed upstairs where wraps were removed. Here Mrs. A. H. Murchison and Mrs. R. S. McConihe presided. They returned by the way of the library to the punch bowl, where Mrs. L. C. Cooper, Mrs. Leon Brown and Miss Ethel Haney and Miss Erma Rhoads served. They were then ushered to places where they were seated for the program by Misses Johnnie Mallow, Thelma Sherrill, Minnie King and Georgia Castlebury. Mrs. Babsin introduced Mr. and Mrs. Scowgaw, Danish artists, who are making a tour of the United States. Mrs. Babsin emphasized in her remarks the value of National Music week, from May 3 to 9 to all people, and then the music master and his wife delighted the audience with 26 numbers, ranging from the classic down through the music of the day. Mrs. Scogaw is a violinist of national reputation and his wife is one of the leading pianists of the day. They responded with encores and the audience was greatly pleased when the violinist, as a complimentary number gave "Old Black Joe," the haunting melody of the Southland. Mrs. Luther Webb and Mrs. Cy Long met the distinguished musicians at the station.

Mesdames R. D. L. Kilough, C. E. Warren, John Brown, Howard Reger, W. C. Casper, O. A. Brunson, Will Colley and L. D. Terrell served the delicious ice course which were in the club colors, the cake was in white and gold, the Musicians' colors and the ice cream was in pink and white, the Delphian for the Delphians. Roses were given as favors. Flowers in profusion were used as decoration for all the rooms, coupled with the softly shaded lights of the new home made a lovely setting for the delightful affair. About 125 guests were present.

HOSTESS TO AVALON CLUB

Mrs. C. V. King of Cumberland street, was hostess Tuesday afternoon to members of the Avalon club and other guests. Mrs. Joe Parker who won high for guests was presented with embroidered pillow slips. Miss Lillie Castlebury won high for club members and was given a buffet set. Mrs. S. R. Crim was consoled with lemonade sippers. The hostess served a salad course to Mrs. Roy Abbott, A. Bailey, J. T. Glover, M. L. Lovelace, R. S. McConihe, H. E. Rogers, J G Sherman, P. W. Hendrix, R. E. Noted Star Appears At Strand In Picture Of Revolutionary Battles

Acclaimed by New York critics as the finest achievement in motion picture history, "Janice Meredith," the new Marion Davies photoplay, will come to the Strand theatre otday for a run of four days. "Janice Meredith" is the screen version of Paul Leicester Ford's romance of the American revolution. It is a Cosmopolitan production, distributed by Metro-Goldwyn.

Miss Davies, acting in the title role, has been greeted with acclaim, displaying a charm, a versatility, a captivating sense of comedy and an emotional force that stamp her as one of the most distinguished actresses on the screen.

She plays the role of the charming and spirited daughter of Squire Meredith, a staunch old Tody landowner. Her love for Jack Brereton, a young officer in Washington's army, wins her over to the cause of the American Colonies and carries her through many thrilling adventures during the turbulent days of the revolution.

Has Urban Settings.

In keeping with the sterling excellence of production, the characters of "Janice Meredith" are enacted by probably the greatest cast ever assembled on either stage or screen. In the supporting roles, chief prominence is given to Holbrook Blinn, who portrays the suave and villainous British officer, Lord Clowes.

Other celebrated players in the cast include George Nash as Lord Howe, Tyrone Power as Lord Cornwallis, W. C. Fields as a British sergeant, George Siegmann as Colonel Rahl, Olin Howland as Philemon Hennion, May Vokes as Susie the maid; Douglas Stevenson as Sir Frederick Mobray and Helen Lee Worthing as the dashing Mrs. Loring.

Many Tense Scenes.

The extensive cast also includes Spencer Chagters, Harlan Knight, Princess de Bourbon, Lee Beggs, Kenneth Maynard, Mrs. Maclyn Arbuckle, Mildred Arden, Hattie Delaro, Robert Thorne and Edwin Argus.

Tense and dramatic scenes are enacted throughout the film, notably the one in which Miss Davies escapes from Colonel Rahl's headquarters, at Trenton, and wildly rides through a blinding snow storm to inform General Washington that the moment is opportune to attack the Hessians.

More than 2,000 soldiers were required for the crossing of the Delaware, the Battle of Yorktown, Valley Forge, the bombardment of Yorktown and the surrender of the British.

What Some Celebrities Have To Say Concerning Famed Davies Picture

"'Janice Meredith' appealed to me as being a picture not only of excellent dramatic value but one which should tend to arouse the patriotic instincts of Americans. I thoroughly enjoyed it."

JACK DEMPSEY

"I can truthfully say that Marion Davies, the star of this big picture, has scored another knock-out. Great fighters are said to 'have everything;' and 'Janice Meredith' is just that kind of a picture. Above all, it has what every real champion needs—a punch!"

BRANDON TYNAN

"The suspense is so real that I am thrilled. Thrilled? There is a continuous tingle through the veins. I have become part of the picture, I am weeping, shouting, cheering, with the enthusiasm of the Russians for their Art Theatre, the French for their Bernhardt, the Italians for their Duse; because I am witnessnig a great American picture perfectly played by American artists. It is a masterpiece of the screen."

COL. JAMES M. GRAHAM

"The early struggles of the continental army were portrayed in a manner so true to fact that those of us in the military service today feel proud of being their successors."

EDDIE CANTOR
Famous Star of "Kid Boots."

"'Janice Meredith' is a never-to-be-forgotten entertainment. What a thrill I got! What an inspiration! I have never seen Marion Davies so lovely or act better. And what a company! I'll tell the World and Mars, who is so near now, it's a perfect cast."

FREDERICK W. DONNELLY
Mayor of Trenton.

"'Janice Meredith' is a wonderful entertainment. It is the most realistic picture I ever saw. It held me as I have seldom been held. Trenton sent 375 persons by special train to see it and they were given a thrill they will never forget. Never have I seen a motion picture entailing such dramatic sweep, sheer splendor, magnificence of settings, and, above all, historical accuracy as 'Janice Meredith.'"

WILLIAM E. CROSS.
Mayor of Plattsburgh.

"A copy of the film 'Janice Meredith' should be placed in the sacred archives where are kept the records of this great nation, so that it may be brought forth to inspire and thrill posterity as it inspired and thrilled me."

Animals in Janice Meredith Gave The Director Trouble

E. Mason Hopper found a more difficult task than directing actors and actresses, when he started to direct the animals which appear in some of the scenes of "Janice Meredith," Cosmopolitan's magnificent Marion Davies picture, which comes to the Strand theatre, starting Sunday for four days.

Thirty-five horses, several cows and a calf, a number of donkeys, rabbits, ducks, hens, a rooster, a rat, a Persian kitten and Jean, a collie dog, are included in the cast, and many of them were decidedely temperamental. Although Jean, the collie, was a veteran of the movies and showed real intelligence and co-operation, the rooster proved a different proposition. He showed more temperament than a prima donna and in spit of his scene calling for a close-up of the rooster crowing, he refused to crow. For three days the cameramen kept watch and suddenly he stretched himself, flapped his wings and gave the desired close-up of his own free will.

Then the Persian kitten, which was supposed to wash its face, was too playful to be bothered with its appointed task, and it took hours of patient waiting and coaxing before the result was finally accomplished.

"Janice Meredith," based on Paul Leicester Ford's stirring romance of Revolutionary days, was adapted to the screen by Lillie Hayward and is distributed by Metro-Goldwyn.

Cop Reserves Needed To Hold in Reserves

When "Janice Meredith," Marion Davies' new Cosmopolitan production of Paul Leicester Ford's romance, which comes to the Strand theatre Sunday, needed extras, it was the police reserves who answered the call. Reilly & Reilly, New York actors, agents, called for 200 extras for the picture, which Metro-Goldwyn is distributing, and over 7,000 persons responded, blocking traffic in Forty-sixth street between the hours of 3 and 6 p. m. and necessitating calling out the reserves. Lillie Hayward adapted the novel to the screen, and E. Mason Hopper directed "Janice Meredith." It is a Cosmopolitan production.

Marion Davies Tulip Wins Flower Prizes

The Marion Davies Tulip, named after the beautiful star of "Janice Meredith," the Cosmopolitan production which comes to the Strand theatre Sunday, won highest honors and two gold medals at the National Flower Show in Cleveland, where it was exhibited by John Sheepers, a famous Ohio horticulturist.

"Janice Meredith," the romance of the American Revolution, written by Paul Leicester Ford, was adapted to the screen by Lillie Hayward. E. Mason Hopper directed this thrilling photoplay which Metro-Goldwyn is distributing.

Stupendous productions such as "Janice Meredith," the new Marion Davies picture coming to the Strand theatre Sunday, require a large amount of space for their filming, and the Cosmopolitan corporation say that this Paul Leicester Ford romance of the American Revolution had plenty of room. Five studios were used, and director E. Mason Hopper kept busy going from the Cosmopolitan studio to the Pathe, Jackson, Biograph and the Tilford studios, all in New York, to complete this thrilling photoplay. It was adapted to the screen by Lillie Hayward and distributed by Metro-Goldwyn.

STAR MADE BEAUTY QUEEN

Marion Davies, star of "Janice Meredith," the Cosmopolitan production which comes to the Strand theatre on Sunday, was crowned Queen of Beauty by the New York Federation of Women's clubs, held at the Hotel Astor in New York. She wore a specially made crown of diamonds and gems and was a beautiful figure in an assemblage of beautiful women.

"Janice Meredith" is the thrilling romance of revolutionary days, which Lillie Hayward adapted from the story of Paul Leicester Ford. E. Mason Hopper directed this photoplay, which Metro-Goldwyn distributes.

French Mannikins Appear in Scenes Of Revolution Ball

Beautiful French mannikens, famed for their loveliness as well as their leadership in style, appear in the elaborate ballroom scene in the new Marion Davies picture, "Janice Meredith", which comes to the Strand on Sunday.

Arrangements were made by production manager Daniel Carlson Goodman to have these models who had come here for the French Exposition at Grand Central Palace, appear in the picture depicting the aid given by France to America in the Revolutionary War. It is the first time that any French mannikens have appeared in an American motion picture.

Paul Leicester Ford wrote "Janice Meredith", which Lillie Hayward adapted to the screen and which E. Mason Hopper directed. It is a Cosmopolitan production distributed by Metro-Goldwyn.

RESEMBLES WASHINGTON

Striking Resemblance Seen in Actor In Big Film.

Joseph Kilgour played George Washington years ago in a stage production called "Captain Barrington," and bears a striking resemblance to that famous general, which accounts for his bein intrusted with the same role in "Janice Meredith," the Marion Davies-Cosmopolitan production which starts a 4-day run at the Strand theatre on Sunday.

SON OF SAILOR SEEN

He's young and he's handsome, the son of an admiral in the old Russian navy and a godson of the late czar; is Captain Nikolai Alexandrovitch von Kaesborg, who makes his film debut as the Marquis de Lafayette in "Janice Meredith," Marion Davies's new picture which comes to the Strand theatre, starting Sunday. It is a Cosmopolitan picture released through Metro-Goldwyn.

Marion Davies Gives Aid to Poor Family Evicted From Home

During the filming of Marion Davies's new picture, "Janice Meredith" at the Cosmopolitan Studio, New York, several of the stage crew noticed a heap of shabby furniture huddled on the sidewalk near the studio, guarded by a worn woman, six forlorn children and a sick and crippled man—the old story of an eviction. Inquiry disclosed the fact that the man had been crippled by rheumatism for six months, and had not been able to work, so the landlord had grown tired of waiting for the rent and had put them out. A fund was immediately started, and soon enough was raised to pay the rent and food for some time to come.

Then Marion Davies heard the story, and dispatched further aid and sympathy, with the promise of a carpenter job at the studio for the victim as soon as he was able to work.

Lillie Hayward adapted Paul Leicester Ford's romance of Colonial days to the screen, and E. Mason Hopper directed. "Janice Meredith" is coming to the Strand Theater on Sunday.

New York Theatre Decorated for Film

"Janice Meredith," Marion Davies' thrilling, romantic production which comes to the Strand theatre Sunday for four days, had the home of Cosmopolitan pictures, the Cosmopolitan theatre in New York, entirely redecorated for its opening, and in its new dress it carried out the colonial note already emphasized in its architecture.

Colonial wall brackets of a special design of silver and crystal held soft lamps which illuminated the staircase to the balcony. The walls were handdecorated in a subdued design of twined flowers and foliage, and the upholstery was of gold silk damask, in frames of mahogany. A beautiful new curtain was designed and painted by Joseph Urban, who was responsible for the gorgeous settings of the picture; and a new floor designed to improve the acoustics of the theatre. The Cosmopolitan theatre was a lovely back-ground for the love story of a Colonial maid against the rumble of the Revolutionary War.

Real Royalty In Cast of Big Film

"Janice Meredith," Marion Davies' picturization of Paul Leicester Ford's romance of the Revolution, starring Marion Davies, comes to the Strand theatre, starting Sunday with real royalty in the cast. Pretty Princess Marie de Bourbon, cousin to the king of Spain, and thoroughly familiar with court functions, makes her debut as Marie Antoinette in this thrilling Cosmopolitan production, directed by E. Mason Hopper and distributed by Metro-Goldwyn. Lillie Hayward adapted the novel to the screen, and Joseph Urban designed the settings.

Actress in Film Is A Popular Beauty

THE HOPELESSNESS SHE FINDS ANEW —By Segar

Here Are Some Facts Concerning Featured Players In Big Picture

Harrison Ford, who plays the role of Charles Fownes in Marion Davies, "Janice Meredith" has won the greater part of his fame as leading man in Marion Davies pictures. His best-known previous role was in "Little Old New York". Other films in which he has appeared include "Maytime," The Fool's Awakening," "Smilin' Through," "Her Gilded Cage," "The Old Homestead," Shadows," "When Love Comes," "The Price of a Party," Vanity Fair," and a long list of Constance Talmadge pictures.

Holbrook Blinn, who plays the villain in Marion Davies' "Janice Meredith," is a star of stags as well as the screen. Among his stage hits was "The Bad Man," which he did on the screen. Other pictures include, "Rosita," with Mary Pickford, "The Madonna of the Slums," and "The Prima Donna's Husband."

Maclyn Arbuckle, the Squire Meredith in Marion Davies' "Janice Meredith," is a stage and screen star of note. One of his famous stage plays was "The Round Up," in which he had the unique distinction of being the first person to roll a cigarette in one hand. Others of his plays include "The County Chairman." "Wild Oats Lane" and "Why Smith Left Home." His film career includes such pictures as "The Young Diana," "Welcome to Our City," "The Prodigal Judge," and "Yolanda."

W. C. Fields, who has the droll part of the British sergeant in Marion Davies's "Janice Meredith," is a new recruit to the screen, but an old favorite on the stage. He was the star of "Poppy," the musical comedy that played a year on Broadway, and has appeared in a number of editions of the Ziegfield "Follies."

Joseph Kilgour, who plays the role of George Washington in Marion Davies's "Janice Meredith," has appeared before as the immortan general. It happened years ago in a stage production called "Captain Barrington." Other stage plays in which he won fame include "The Easiest Way" and "Arizona."

Among his pictures are "Hearts Are Trumps," "The Leopard Woman," "The Broken Gate," and "At the End of the World."

George Nash, who appears as Lord Howe in Marion Davies' "Janice Meredith" is a stage player of note. He was the star of "The Harvest Moon" by Augustus Thomas, and has appeared in such plays as "The Gamblers," with Jane Cowl, and many others. Among his pictures are "When Knighthood Was in Flower," "The Valley of Silent Men," and "The Face in the Fog."

George Seigmann, who appears as Colonel Rahl, the Hessian officer, in Marion Davies's "Janice Meredith" first won film fame in "The Birth of a Nation," and since then has had a long series of outstanding roles. His best known pictures include "Hearts of the World," "The Three Muskateers," Oliver Twist, "Fools First," "Merry-Go-Round," "Revelation" and "Scaramouche."

Tyrone Power, who plays the role of General Cornwallis in Marion Davies' "Janice Meredith," is a Shakespearian actor of fame. He also has appeared in Steven Phillip's "Ulysses," and played the part of Judas in "Mary of Magdala," with Mrs. Fisk. On the screen his work include "Dream Street," "Footfalls," "Fury," and "The Truth About Wives."

MARION DAVIES in JANICE MEREDITH

Nobility to Be Seen In Janice Meredith

Nobility takes to the motion pictures as easily as the proverbial duck to water, and "Janice Meredth" Marion Davies' new production which comes to the Strand Sunday is no exception, for Countess Marie Anne de Tiesenhausen, daughter of the late Count Paul Charles de Tiesenhausen, makes her debut in this magnificent photoplay of the days of the American Revolution. Although born in this country, Countess de Tiesenhausen is a member of the old time Russian nobilty and her father was well known in diplomatic circles in this country and Russia and a trusted representative of the late Czar Nicholas.

"Janice Meredith", written by Pau Leicester Ford, was adapted to the screen by Lilly Hayward, and directed by E. Mason Hopper, Metro-Goldwyn is distributing this thrilling romance of Colonial days.

EX-GENERAL IN FILM

Former Russian Soldier Makes Scenes More Realistic.

"Janice Meredith," the magnificent Marion Davies Cosmopolitan production of Paul Leicester Ford's romance of the revolution, brings to the Strand theatre on Sunday George Y. d'Hedburg, formerly a major-general in the Russian army. General d'Hedburg who makes his film debut in this thrilling photoplay, distributed by Metro-Goldwyn and directed by E. Mason Hopper, was an outstanding heroic figure in the World War and famous more recently for his chemical research.

Lillie Hayward adapted "Janice Meredith" to the screen and Joseph Urban designed the beautiful settings.

Marion Davies Is Made an Honorary Colonel in Infantry

Marion Davies, star of "Janice Meredith," the Cosmopolitan production distributed by Metro-Goldwyn, which comes to the Strand theatre on Sunday, was the recipient of an unusual honor during the filming of this picture.

Honorary Colonel of the Twenty-sixth United States Infantry is the new title she now bears, given her on the parade grounds at the Plattsburgh Barracks where many of the battle scenes were filmed. Colonel Malcolm Graham presented Miss Davies with the silver eagle, emblem of her rank, and the arrow insignia of the regiment in appreciation of her interest in the unit.

Howe About Big Man Plato, Natural Dishonesty, A Good Word for Scrooge, By Ed. W. Howe

In the beginning, a philosopher was a student of the known, trying to improve conditions by natural means.

Then the foolish habit of saying maybe was so generally introduced that Cicero said "there is nothing so absurd it may not be found in the books of philosophers."

Men demanded answers to their questions; they quit considering the simple truth, and indulged in argument, speculation, lying, meanness, fighting and destruction; they gave up sense, and plunged into nonsense. Philosophy now stands still, whereas it might have advanced, as has learning.

Man made a good start in philosophy, but as early as Plato the trouble began. We do not know whether he is literal or speaks in metaphor. He inveighs against poets and their myths, and proceeds to add one to the number of poets-hundreds to the number of myths (as one writer says of him.)

He complains of priests who go about preaching hell, and offering redemption from it for a consideration, but is himself a mystic and priest.

He acknowledges that comparisons are slippery, but slips out of one into another and another; he condemns phrase-mongering Sophists, and is himself one.

With the result that in what is called Philosophy there is as much to say on one side as another: we do not accept simple truth, and act upon it, but argue about everything and nothing until there is no truth for the simple man who depends upon teachers.

He rebels against what we call civilization, and recommends a different plan of living; Plato recommended promiscuous mingling of the sexes of certain ages, providing they destroyed their offspring: that a well-favored man have several women, and that such a man be not troubled with the care of his children.

This is precisely the talk of all radicals in country towns as well as in cities.

Plato had tremendous intelligence, but used it, apparently, to make fun of those who have less; his writings appear to be keen, abusive fable. But he says nothing I have not heard smart radicals express all my life: and I was brought up in the country.

The most despised government in the world is that of Russia. Much of it is founded on Plato's "Republic," and experience proves it is unjust, nonsensical, brutish, destructive.

"Mean readily listen to such propositals," he said, "and are easily induced to believe that in some wonderful manner everybody will become everybody's friend. When everything belongs to everybody, nobody will take care of anything. We must have regard to life which the majority may share, and to forms of government to which states in general may attain."

And be sure you make it fair, reasonable, or someone will say of your philosophy, as Aristotle said of Plato's: "These things have been invented times over in the course of ages."

To lie is a natural instinct: the truthful are those who learn that lying is foolish. There is a natural instinct in every living thing to be dishonest: the honest are those who learn that honest is the best policy. There is a strong natural instinct to be idle: the industrious are those who learn that idleness is a bad habit. Everyone is a natural glutton: the temperate are those who learn that temperance is best.

I often think of the difference in a man and woman in society. In the first place, the man didn't want to go. In the second, his clothes do not fit him. He is sure he looks like a guy, as he feels. He doesn't care for what is going on, and doesn't know how to act. But behold his wife, or his daughter. She wanted to go. She adores society. She looks well. She is generally admired. She likes what is going on, and knows how to act. She bows as graciously and beautifully as her escort bows awkwardly. Therefore, early in the evening, when her escort begins saying, "Come on," she begins saying: "Wait a minute," and they do not get away until long after midnight.

I lately spent the evening with two Valued Subscribers who live in New York City, and have a good deal to do with its most important affairs.

It was an experience similar to going to China, being miraculously able to understand Chinese, and hearing two prominent citizens talk freely of Chinese affairs.

For I know no more about New York than I know about China: New York ways are as strange to me as Chinese ways.

There are quite a number of men in New York I should like to meet, having heard much of them. These two men know them intimately, and call them Sully, and Joe, and Mart.

An interesting evening. Still, I thought afterwards it was all only country town gossip dignified with better-known names; and a little larger and more reckless devilishness.

In a big town it is possible to point out a great crowd of humans and say they are tough; but in the small town names, dates, are given, and this hurts.

Certain famous things that have persisted many years have always been amazing nonsense; nonsense so palpable that a school boy should be able to figure it out, and come to a better conclusion. Some of our famous things thousands of years old, are so foolish, improbable, so completely disposed of by human experience, that the wonder is we do not all sneer instead of cheer when they are mentioned. I think the people generally know this, but ar brow beaten and scolded into showing pretended respect for famous things they really despise as silly. There are millions of fairly sensible men who are controlled by foolish public sentiment, foolish wives, and are thus lost to common sense. With the assistance of these men, the race might be saved.

Charles Dickens once abused a man he called Old Scrooge. Later Scrooge printed a card in the papers, in which he said: "My meanness is better than the goodness of my critics." The offending of Old Scrooge, so far as I have been able to make out, was that he attended to his own business, and believed others should attend to theirs.

Unusual Slants

PITTSBURGH, Kan., May 9.—It's about 1,200 miles from here to the Statue of Liberty and about 1,500 miles to the Golden Gate. But this hasn't kept Nick Simion from operating a thriving steamship office in Pittsburg, a city of 18,000.

NICK SIMON

Nick represents 27 lines. In 17 years he has sold more than 3,500 tickets from America to Europe; and 2,700 from Europe to America. Probably no agent in any inland town in the country can equal that record.

Nick has made it his business to become acquainted personally with every person of foreign birth in the whole of Kansas. Many of them came over on tickets purchased through him. He keeps a friendly eye on them and helps them in their troubles. When their friends are ready to come over they buy tickets for them through Nick.

Nick, now 58, came to America from Austria 40 years ago. He was a mine-worker until an explosion incapacitated him so that he had to seek less strenuous employment.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

Government's "Gag" Assailed

Samuel Untermyer, famous democratic leader and New York attorney, in a recent speech, attacking the governmental policy which carried out in the recent gagging of Count Karolyi of Hungary and sentencing Roger N. Baldwin to 6 months imprisonment for "peacefully insisting on making a speech."

SAMUEL UNTERMYER

"The events of the last few weeks have disclosed two incidents that are discouraging and humiliating to those who would like to believe this land of liberty that was bequeathed to us by our fathers, and that was supposed to be buttressed by a constitution that assured freedom of speech and peaceful assemblage, has not lost that sacred heritage," declared Mr. Untermeyer.

The War Said to Be Over.

"I refer, of course, to the cases of Count Karolyi and Roger N. Baldwin. The vicious precedent of the gagging of Count Karolyi by our state department presents a question of national importance. Assuming that he would have assailed the present monarchial government of this country, where and since when has our state department secured the right to deny this attribute of political refuge to a distinguished foreigner unless it be by resort to the emergency war legislation abridging freedom of speech which was supposed to have died with the termination of the war?

"What a travesty upon our vaunted freedom that Count Karolyi should be able to cross our border into a monarchial government and there, with impunity and without offending against its laws, exercise the privilege of free speech that has been denied him here!

"The truth is that, while the trend of governments that makes no claim to our vaunted liberty has been ever since the war toward the priceless boon and symbol of liberty typified by freedom of speech, the attitudes of our courts and legislative bodies have been steadily drifting toward the destruction of that priceless heritage.

"The apathy and callousness of our people in the face of this peril is the most regrettable and astounding feature of the situation.

Jersey Courts Rapped.

"A court of New Jersey," he told his audience, "has dug up out of the oblivion of the distant past a forgotten state statute of 1796 as the basis on which it has sentenced Mr. Baldwin to six months' imprisonment for peacefully insisting upon making a speech (which he was not permitted to deliver or even to begin) in connection with the silk workers' strike in Paterson.

"I have no doubt this action will be reversed on appeal, but the mere fact such a thing could happen in the administration of our laws is ominous.

Every Sixth Employe In Chevrolet Shop Checks Up on Parts

One employe in every six in the motor assembly plant of the Chevrolet Motor company plant at Flint, Mich., does nothing but check the rigid standards required in the motor parts and the accuracy with which they are fitted together.

There are 2,776 employes in the motor plant. Of these, 463 are inspectors who demand a precision too minute for detection by the unaided eye.

Triple Inspection.

Before the engine block starts down one of the assembly lines it is given a triple inspection for possible irregularities or defects, each inspector checking his predecessor. Next it is washed, dried under compressed air and again inspected for cleanliness. If a dirt spot is discovered, the casting is sent back to the washer.

Almost endless tests mark its progress down the assembly line, precisions being gauged down to one-thousandth of an inch. The moment an inspector detects any variations from standard, the motor is taken from the line. If the defect is only minor, the motor is sent back on the line for adjustments or replacements subject to subsequent re-inspection. If the variations from standard is fundamental, the motor is dis-assembled.

As the motor is built up, all parts and fittings are subjected to constant examination and re-examination. For instance, the fit of piston pins into the piston must be so exact that the pin may be pushed into the piston hole by the mechanic's thumb but will not fall out of its own weight. The clearance at this point is about one-twentieth of the diameter of the finest human hair. This is called a "push in" fit.

Motor "Run In."

After being built up, the motor is "run in" by electric motors at 1,200 revolutions per minute for about two hours to work in the bearings and piston rings.

The motor is then "taken down" for inspection of the bearings, cylinder walls and all moving parts. When it passes the inspectors, it is reassembled and operated under its own power while experts listen for any possible noise, their methods being comparable to a doctor's use of a stethoscope.

If the motor sounds "sweet," it is returned to the assembly line for final equipment and painting. The last man on the line is an inspector. From his hands the motor goes to the various car assembly plants.

Overland President Stresses Road Need

Importance of the rose highways have played in the development and prosperity of the United States was stressed by John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company, who acted as toastmaster at a banquet tendered to General Gerardo Machado, by the National Automobile chamber of commerce at the Hotel Commodore, New York City, on Tuesday evening, April 28. Mr. Willys is chairman of the foreign trades committee of this organization.

Mr. Willys dwelt upon the expansion and prosperity that invariably accompanies the opening up of new motor highways, pointing particularly to the expansion and development of the United States as a result of the network of improved roads which motor transportation in this country has made necessary. He predicted further proportionate increased prosperity in Cuba would follow the materialization of General Machado's desire to build more and better Cuban highways.

The purpose of General Machado's mission in the United States is to gain first hand knowledge of highway construction and improvement in this country, and to utilize this information to aid in the building of the Santiago-Havana highway, which was the basic plank in the new president's campaign platform.

Included in the group at the dinner were Rafael Sanchez Aballi, Cuban ambassador to the United States; Rafael Martinez Oritz, Cuban ambassador to France; Major Shuttan, military attache to the American embassy at Havana; Gustavo G. Beauville, congressman from Havana; Alberto Barrers, senator for Havana; Albert Herrera, chief of staff of the Cuban army; Carol Manuel de Cespedes, secretary of foreign affairs, and Nestor G. Mendoza, prominent Cuban attorney.

Motor Car Manufacturer Takes Holiday

Here we find C. W. Nash, automobile manufacturer, in the role of chef, frying a mess of trout out beyond Redlands, Cal. After the fish had been caught nobody in the party had the courage to tackle the job as cook, so Mr. Nash himself, who has had much experience in the woods, donned an apron and manipulated the frying pans and skillets after the fashion of a veteran. The fishing expedition was held just before Mr. Nash returned from California.

Studebaker Claims There Is Less "Bone" Paid For In Its Cars Than Others

Buyers of cars on which the builders have had to pay many profits to parts makers, or which are assembled under a heavy overhead, are paying for the "bone", though it represents no more intrinsic value than the bone in the beefsteak—not as much, in fact, because the family dog can get a meal out of that.

The automobile builder who hasn't the facilities to make his own bodies, motors and chassis parts must depend on parts makers.

These parts makers must make a profit to stay in business, and they have to add in their own overhead costs, too. After paying all these profits to middlemen, and their overhead expenses, then the assembler must add his own profit to those already figured in the costs. This is elemental, but not often considered.

It is necessary to pay the butcher for the bone in order ot get the meat, but it isn't necessary to pay for the "bone" in buying a motor car.

Studebaker First

So far as is known, Studebaker manufactures more of the parts that go into its motor cars than any other large manufacturer in the country, with the possible exception of the Ford Motor company. This not only gives hte company control over the quality of materials and workmanship, but effects savings that can be reflected in better quality and lower pricesh than it otherwise could give.

Sum up the following list, a part of the things made by Studebaker for its own cars, and figure how much "bone" in the beefsteak would be represented by profits paid other manufacturers if these several parts had to be bought outside the company's plants:

But, points out the South Bend company, suppose it had to pay a profit to and share in the overhead of one company to make its motors; another company to make its bodies, another its axles and so on, down the line; what a tremendous lot of "bone" there would be in the "beefsteak" of the car as it was sold to the buyer.

Moreover, making all its own parts, they can built for each other, and need not be "adjusted", "trimmed" or made the most of to fit them into the whole car.

Pay for "Bone"

Thousands of automobile buyers pay for the "bone" in the prices of cars they purchase, simply because they do not understand the situation. These extra middlemens profits amount to as much as 25 per cent and more, in the prices of some cars. Thus the dollar paid buys only 75 per cent of the automobile; the rest is the "bone in the beefsteak".

It is unfortunate that all car makers do not have all the facilities needed to make their cars complete; but it is more unfortunate that the necessity for adding this bone passes on to buyers the necessity for the consequent waste of part of the dollar with which they buy cars.

Any kind of Hat can be made to suit your individual taste. Mrs. Mary Gross, millinery, balcony, Kimberlin-Smith Co.—Adv.

German Ex-Royalty Visits Nash Shops

A prince of royal blood, Dietrich Zu Wied, was the guest of The Nash Motors company last week, slipping into Kenosha and out again as quietly and as unceremoniously as though he were a plain American business man. As a matter of fact Prince Dietrich, a Wurttemberger of Stuttgart, Germany, is a business man and his visit to this country is for the purpose of making a first-hand study of volume production methods in several of the larger automobile plants, he being actively interested in one of the greatest motor car factories in Germany. The visit of Prince Dietrich came at a time when the Nash factories are breaking all previous sales and production records and he beheld a scene of typical American activity.

Accompanied by a party of prominent Chicogans of German descent Prince Dietrich was greeted by C. W. Nash and other officials of the company. After a tour of inspection of the factory buildings the prince declared that in his opinion the Nash was the finest automobile factory with reference to production efficiency he ever had visited.

"This is one of the two American automobile factories in which I am particularly interested," said Dietrich. "In Germany our methods are different. There five cars a day will be produced by the same number of men that would build 300 cars a day here with your wonderful machinery and methods of production equally as wonderful."

Prince Dietrich, with his ready smile and engaging personality, is thorough in his study of American methods of motor car production. Questions asked while going through the Nash plant made apparent his intimate knowledge of machinery and mechanics. He feels that a car combining modifications of European appearance and American methods of production would win immediate recognition in Europe; hence his particular interest in the production methods of Nash Motors.

Jones was 64 years old and resided here for 44 years. For many years he was principal of the public school, later becoming city supervisor and since his election as mayor six years ago he had held both offices.

Jones was a graduate of Oberlin college at Urbana, Ohio.

Brooklyn has a population of about 3,000 persons, all of whom are negroes, with the exception of four white families.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

DISREGARD OF TRAFFIC SIGNALS UNIVERSAL

Paris has introduced the use of red and green lights to control—at least, such is the purpose—traffic from the Rue de la Paix onto the boulevards.

To date it has not been reported that the use of colored lights has been any too successful. Taxicab drivers and pedestrians, even the French traffic officers, have not yet gotten around to the point where they take the lights seriously.

This cannot be explained by exclaiming: "French temperament." Not at all. Go to 42nd Street and Broadway or 42nd Street and Fifth Avenue, in New York, or Michigan Boulevard in Chicago—each city in the United States of any size seems to have one such street—and you will find pedestrians determined to walk or run against traffic signals. When they do that they risk the lives of themselves and of others as well.

Just how to get the pedestrian to realize that traffic signals are for his safety and protection is a problem.

The pedestrian has rights on the streets as well as on the sidewalk. The burden of responsibility rests upon the motorist to see that the pedestrian is unharmed. The man or women who walks must be permitted to cross streets—when the signal permits—before cars making turns are permitted to move.

A pedestrian will wait on the corner to cross the street. When he gets the signal to go he is menaced by a car coming around the corner. That is wrong. The pedestrian must be allowed to pass first.

Thoughtfulness on the part of motorist and pedestrian, each respectful of the rights of the other, will work out this problem. But it seems evident that it is going to take time.

Two Frenchmen Will Try In July To Cross From France To North America

PARIS, May —.—Sometime in July two daring French fliers, Lieutenants Paul Tarascon and Rene Coli, will take off from Paris on what is planned to be the first non-stop airplane flight from Europe to the United States. Their objective is New York.

Experts figure that the 5,000-mile flight can be made successfully. The trail has already been blazed for the Frenchmen by the American round-the-world fliers, who, however, took a much more northerly course; and by the ZR-3 (now the U. S. S. Los Angeles), the earlier flights of the American navy fliers and the British dirigible which made a round-trip. Weather and flying conditions in that part of the ocean the fliers will traverse are now fairly well known.

The flight will not be attempted solely for whatever glory is attached; there is a financial incentive attached. Raymond Orteig, owner of the Brevoort and LaFayette hotels in New York, has offered a prize of $25,000 for the adventure.

Lieutenant Tarascon is a noted French ace. He served in the World War with a wooden leg.

A special hydroairplane is being constructed for the journey, which it is estimated will require from 20 to 24 hours to complete. They would leave the coast of France before dawn with the expectation of seeing the lights of the Maine or Massachusetts coast before 10 o'clock at night. This would keep traveling continuously at many more than 200 miles an hour.

While ships in the North Atlantic will be asked by wireless to keep a lookout for the fliers, it is not planned to throw around the flight any of the safeguards which protected the Americans in their jump across the oceans; that is, destroyer patrols.

Orteig, sponsor of the $25,000 flight will come to France to see the start of the adventure. If the aviators are successful, his son will greet them in New York.

Midget Bandit Confesses Leading Robbery of $105,000.

CHICAGO,—Henry Fernekes, his stature giving him the name of the midget bandit, admitted to the police today that he bossed the Argo State bank holdup on September 20, 1918 when five robbers looted the institution and escaped with $105,000. Fernekes was arrested here in the John Crerar library as he poured over books in the hope of escaping detection. Fernekes indicted in New York City, N. Y., for the murder of two bank clerks in Pearl River in 1921, is under arrest charged with having committed several robberies.

No Increase in the Price of Firestone

FULL-SIZE GUM-DIPPED BALLOONS

The extra quality built in by the extra process of Gum-Dipping, the economy of these wonderful tires and the added mileage obtained from them during the past two years, has created such a large demand that over 75% of Firestone's mammoth production is now Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords.

This naturally has greatly increased the total sales volume and the huge Firestone factories are now taxed to capacity, on a 24-hour schedule to supply the demand.

This large volume, produced under the most economical tire manufacturing methods, permits Firestone to sell these extra-process Full-Size Balloons at no extra cost to car owners. And this is in the face of the greatly advanced cost for crude rubber brought about by the operation of the British Rubber Restriction Act.

Bear in mind that Gum-Dipping means longer mileage—greater economy. But there is no extra cost to the buyer!

Enjoy the safety, economy and comfort of Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords this summer. Any one of the Firestone Dealers listed below is prepared to equip your car now at low cost — with liberal allowance for your old tires.

Oakland Claimed To Be Real Economist In Use of Gasoline

Decided emphasis has been given to gasoline economy in motor car operation through the increasing number of states that are adopting a gasoline tax in the opinion of W. R. Tracy, assistant director of sales of the Oakland Motor Car company, who recently returned from a two months' tour of the western states.

Keen Interest.

On the Pacific coast particularly there always has been a keen interest in economical motor car operation, he states, as attested by the fact that two of the most popular annual automobile contests there feature gasoline economy.

"A motor can b eboth powerful and economical at the same time," he states. "A motor that is powerful alone, without economy, is watesful. It is just as sensible to wear rubber boots all the time to be prepared in case of rain as it is to have an over powerful motor with consequent waste for the occasional hill climbing that the average person requires in the daily use of his motor car.

The trend in automobile design for the past three or four years has been towards motors with smaller bore and longer stroke—somewhat similar to the type that has been so successful in the great motor car speed contests."

Great Offering

"Our Oakland high speed L-head engine has been developed along this line—small bore, long stroke and high efficiency, yet producing more power for a given weight of the engine than the old large bore engine because it is using its "piston displacement" more times per minute and converting into power more of the latent energy of each exploded charge.

"The great American motor car racing classic at Indianapolis to be held Memorial Day will again prove, as it has in the past few years, that the small bore, long stroke engine is both powerful and econmoical."

RIOTING CHARGES EXPECTED

ELDORADO, Ark., May 7.—Charges of Rioting against several men alleged to have been members of the oil field workers who attacked the Standard Oil company camp here Wednesday night are expected to develop from investigation being conducted by the prosecuting attorney's office.

Information has been filed in that office charging one man with conspiracy to incite to riot.

Fable of Whipple's Dress Suit —By George Ae

Once there was a Kid who lived in a tall-grass Settlement just wto miles this side of the Jumping-Off Place. There was a Railway through the Town but no Fast Train ever stopped at Wimpusville unless it had a Hot Box. Sherman Whipple spent his early Youth in this benighted Burg where the Leader of the most exclusive Set worked at the Hardware and Implement Store, put Goose-Oil on his Curls and though he was dressed up if he had on his White Muffler. The most popular Belle in the place had Coral Ear-Rings and would sing "In the Gloaming" at the slightest Provocation, unless requested not to do so.

When only three years old Sherman sized up his Environment and knew that he was in Dutch. After that he wasn't interested in anything except Time-Tables. It may be true that the Sharks on Sociology, who cannot understand why Lads leave the Villages and flock to the Bright Lights, never served a Term in one of these out-of-the-way Hamlets where the only regular Visitors, in the old Days, were English Sparrows and Drummers. Now a Picture Palace smiles where once the Feed Store was. The Sky is full of Antennae and the Honk of the Henry is heard at 2 a. m.

Not so, however, when the Earthly Career of Sherman Whipple was still in its Springtime. The Town of Wimpusville had a complicated Case of Mopes and Chidders. It had been stung by a Hook-Worm. It was Headquarters for the Not-so-muches. It was a Dump.

It happened that when Our Hero was about 8 years of Age he saw in a Story Paper, which his Ma read with great Regularity, a beautiful Wood-Cut depicting a Scene in High Life.

It was a Conservatory with Palms all over the Place. There was a Lady who was very Slender at the Waist and much less slender just Below, and she was in complete Low-Neck and wore Diamond Ear-Bobs and had two Cubic Feet of Hair and was, according to the Standards of Pre-Golf Days, a raving Beauty of the Statuesque Type. Her name was Alys. It was Alys Montague. Up to the time that our Producing Managers moved the Drama one Flight up from the Drawing Room, it was impossible to put on a Play without having at least one Montague in it.

The Correct Soup and Fish

In the Picture it seemed that Alys was peeved over some Pproposition that had been put up to her by the Gentleman in the Long Tall, who was none other than Geoffrey Durante. Whatever may have been the Private Morale of Geoffrey, he was certainly The Class so far as Looks and Get-Up were concerned. He had a wavy mop and a spiral Moustache, and his Regella was the Correct Soup and Fish including three Studs of Bows on his dancing Pumps. He was the Cat's Goatee, the Elephant's Eye-Lashes, The Eel's Elbows, The Panther's Pajamas, or any other Words to the same Effect so long as they don't mean anything.

Although it showed in the Picture that Alys was shrinking away from illustration could prevent her from doing a Flop and although the Reading Matter indicated that Geoffrey hissed "Have a care"! when Alys hinted that she had learned of his Secret Marriage to Gladys Martson—even though the Circumstantial Evidence indicated that Geoffrey was a terrible Pup, his Ward robe saved him. Evidently he was a Villain, but still a Gentleman.

Sherman Whipple was fascinated by the First Part Costume. It was his first Meeting with the John Drew Habiliments. Never in Real Life, had he seen any one all diked out in Thirteen and the Odd.

A Tall Trek From the Home-Town.

The Wood-Cut practically determined his whole Career. He made a secret Vow that some Day he would wear the whole Smear, including Silk Underwear and a Monogram on his Shirt-Sleeve. You might say that a Dress Suit was the Lodge Star of his Existence. He steered his whole subsequent Course in Life toward a Conservatory in which he might have a bantering Flirtation with some Heiress who carried a Fan and used good Perfumery. The Fast that the Distance from Wimpusville to Social Eminence seemed to be at least Five Million Miles did not dishearten little Sherman. He had learned that any One with plenty of Jack and a sunny Nature can bust into the Inner Circle of the Upper Ten.

When he packed his Wicker Suit Case and did a tall Trek from the Corn Fields, it was not suspected by the Oats and Bumpkins of his native Township that he nursed this Ambition to write his Name in Letters of Fire on the Society Page of some Daily Paper.

We need not follow him through his early Struggles of tell of the weary Years during which, if he had lost one of his two Collar Buttons, he would have been practically Destitute. Suffice to say that at last the Sun of Prosperity jammed its Way through the Clouds, and Sherman found himself with an Apartment of his own and a sweet Ealance at the Bank. The Dream of a Life Time was to become a joyous Reality. He felt that the Time had arrived for him to break out of the Shell and Crow three times and let the World know that he had arrived.

So he went to a real Tailor and said he wanted a Dress Suit with more Satin Lining than ever had been seen on any Vaudeville Stage. He wanted at least one Velvet Callor and he wanted a little Dewflicker to connect the Buttons in front and he wanted much Braid down the Trousers. The Tailor tried to tell Sherman that Evening Dress, or Full Dress, or Formal Dress or whatever one may choose to designate the fantaistic Garb, should be characterized by an unobtrusive Elegance and not Complicated by those Innovations which seem to be favored by Song-and-Dance Hicks and former Soda Clerks who have lately begun to impersonate European Aristrocrats on the Screen.

All that Stuff about cutting out the Decorative Effects went for Sweeney Mr. Whipple had waited nearly 16 years for arrival of The Day and now that he was about to buck into a real Set of Nifties and carry his own Scenery, he didn't want any Vestments that were quiet and sedate. He wanted a Dress Suit that would sound like a Saxophone.

He had his Wish. After the Hot Railment was delivered he spent many an Hour in front of the Mirror, and had a great many imaginary Chats with Members of the Opposite Sex who were not unknown to the Haute Monde, whatever that is.

He could hardly wait to flash the proud Apparel His first Chance came when he was invited to attend a Smoker given by Members of the Twelfth Ward Bowling Club. When he showed up at the Fountain he had on everything except Lip Rouge. There were 400 Stage present and 339 of them had committed Social Errors by appearing in Sack Suits although it is only fair to add that one of them wore a Sweater also. Mr. Whipple had to pull the Old One about going to a Party later in the Evening. Some one asked him if it was going to be a Fancy Dress Party and he said it wasn't, whereupon several of the Boys shook their Heads and couldn't seem to understand it.

He thought he was safe when he attended a Banquet given by the Alumni of his Alma Mater, which happened to be a Short-Hand College. The Ladies were present and the Toastmaster had the names of 20 tongue-tied Morons who were to be called upon to speak. It was that Kind. Sherman did not feel so lonesome at this Affair as all the Walters had Spike-Tails, but the Toastmaster wore the only double-breasted Prince Albert Frock Coat to be found on Earth outside of the Embalming Profession.

One Day, after the beautiful Raiment had been in the Chamber for a Month, Mr. Whipple found something in a Magazine which almost froze his Blood. The Piece went on to say that the Man of Fashion who wished to be En Rapport with all the late Wrinkles, could now be de Rigueur, a la Mode and absolutely Razmagash even if he wore a Dinner Coat at Gatherings attended by Ladies. It is said that the snowy Weskit, the expensive Pearls, the tall Dicer and the White Mittens which can seldom be buttoned would continue to be Au Fait at the Metropolitan Opera House or at Weddings, but for Dinner Parties which were more or less En Famille the Dinner Jacket Combination was to the Mustard, because the Prince of Wales was doing it and what more was there to say

It was just like sticking a Knife into the Heart of Sherman Whipple. He couldn't scoop up all of the French but he surmised that the Money which he had tied up in the Swell Harness was going to be a Total Loss. He had no Chance to be among those present at the Metropolitan Opera House, and the Weddings were out because the only Friends he had in the World had been married for years.

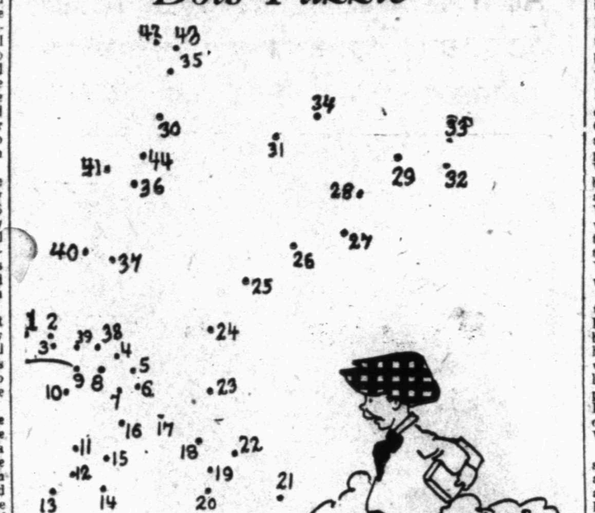

Little remains to be told. Sherman still has the Dress Suit but it binds across the Shoulders and the Pants are so tight in the Legs that they no longer conform to the Rules laid down in that sparkling Department headed "Styles for Men."

Often, as he sits by the Radiator, waiting for Spring to show up Sherman wishes that he had saved his Coin and bought a Radio Set with a Loud Speaker.

Report Shows That Autos Cost 29 Percent Less Than They Did Before The War

Motor cars on the average cost 29 per cent less today than they did before the war, while commodities in general cost 67 per cent more, according to "Facts and Figures of the Automobile Industry", 1925 edition, which is now coming off the presses.

This 96-page booklet is published annually by the National Automobile chamber of commerce. It summarizes, from government sources and its own researches, the main facts, historical and current, dealing with motor transportation.

Production, registration, exports, service, commercial vehicles, highways, and taxation are among the topics covered. While the re-checking of production and registration figures shows little change from the advance data published earlier in the year, the booklet contains many new studies along taxation, highway, and other lines not previously printed.

Cars Cost Less In Terms of Farm Products

With the average retail price of a car now listing at 825, automobiles cost 29 per cent less today than before the war. Stated in agricultural terms, the farmer today needs only one-third as much wheat, les sthan one-third the amount of cotton, or one-half the number of hogs to buy an automobile today, compared with the relative cost of cars and farm products ni 1913.

Railroads Gain from Motor Transport

The profit of the railroads from the automobile business is brought out. The total freight receipts of the steam roads from motor products for one year were $400,982,000 while the taxes which they paid toward highways during that period were $34,163,692.

This money paid by the railroads in highway taxation is 3.6 per cent of the total highway bill. Motor vehicles pay more than 40 per cent of this bill in special fees and levies; and the remainder is raised by general taxation.

Exports of motor vehicles in 1924 totaled 386,580 including cars and trucks assembled abroad. This is 17½ per cent larger than the 1923 figure and is the largest export business ever done by the industry in one year. The total foreign consumption of American motor vehicles, including machines of United States design both produced and consumed in Canada, was 464,211.

Federal motor vehicle excise taxes 1917-1925 totaled $799,385,399, or more than twice as much as the amount of federal money paid out toward highways in that period, which was $380,528,813.

48 per cent of the motor cars in the U. S. are owned in communities having under 5,000 population. 65 per cent are in communities under 25,000 population.

The automobile industry ranks first rating being on the basis of wholesale value of products. The steel industry is second and meat packing third.

Credits on automobile time payments have proved sound. Average losses of 50 leading finance companies in one year were but 1-5 of 1 per cent. among the country's manufacturers, according to the bureau of census, the

Maxwell Increases Horsepower Without Increase of Bore

A statement of the Maxwell-Chrysler engineers that a 15 per cent increase in horsepower has been accomplished in the new Maxwell without increasing bore or stroke, apparently has considerable to do with the new engineering achievements of combining into the new Maxwell models, for the first time in low priced motor cars, the three assets of economy, speed and flexibility. These sweeping improvements are said to have been made possibl through redesigning the cylinder block, changing valves and valve seats, improving the cooling system and lengthening the pistons. Automotive engineers are authority for the statement that with a proper basic design a combination of two of these assets of economy, speed and flexibility is relatively easy to obtain. The trick seems to be group the third with the other two.

"These same engineers," says Lloyd Weaver of the Lloyd Weaver Motor company, local Maxwell-Chrysler dealers, "declare that obtaining the third is a most difficult engineer problem, even with the proper design. An engineer can get speed and acceleration, but that almost invariably means loss of economy. He can have economy and also speed, but that meaqs slow acceleration because of the very high gear ratio. He may secure economy and acceleration through the use of a small engine and low grea ratio, but he will lose in speed. Maxwell, for the first time in all motor car history, is giving speed, acceleration and economy in a four cylinder car to a degree far higher than practically any one, except actual owners of the new cars, really suspects.

"Those acquainted with the car's performance capabilties assert that it will outrun and outperform any other four cylinder car yet built."

Pure's Earnings Increase 19 Per Cent Over Last Year

Pure Oil company's eleventh annual report for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1925, just issued, shows 19 per cent increase in gross earnings over the previous year. Its balance sheet reflects a particularly strong financial condition.

After charging off all interest and discounts, depreciation and depletion and after the payment of preferred and common dividends there is a balance left for addition to surplus of $3,848,802.17. After payment of preferred dividends surplus equaled $2.84 earned on the common.

President H. M. Dawes in a letter to stockholders says: "The properties of the company are particularly well balanced for the operation of a complete cycle in the oil industry, from well to the consumer. While there has been a condition of overproduction of crude oil during a good portion of the past year, the Pure Oil company, owing to the fact that it is well fortified in all its departments, did not suffer from any temporary disturbance of the proper balance in the margin between the producing, refining or marketing phases of the business. Its margin for operations is dependent upon the one factor of difference between cost of production and the price to the ultimate consumer."

Mr. Dawes points out that all of the properties of the company are in satisfactory operating condition and no unusual or major developments or construction seem, at the present time, to be required.

Short lyafter the close of the fiscal year the company purchased the producing properties of the Humphreys-Boyd Oil company in the Wortham field in Texas, almost directly adjoining other production which the company owned at Mexia and Powell. The purchase of this property is not reflected in the report.

Urania Pool May Get Mile Extension

SHREVEPORT, La., May 9.—George eZigen's No. 1 Urania in 18-10-2E La Salle parish, first offset to the discovery well in the Urania district, accomplished a "come back" today after sanding up and then going to salt water a week ago soon after completion in four feet of sand at 1,509 feet. After setting screen with packer in place of the perforated liner with which the well was originally finished, it came in flowing oil and a small amount of water, made 50 to 100 barrels and was closed in until Saturday when three-inch tubing will be run in an attempt to increase the flow.

Rowe and Wallace drilled plug today in their No. 1 Urania in the southeast corner of 7-18-2E, a mile north of the discovery and Ziegen wells and plan to test Saturday after setting liner.

Completion of this well as aproducer would be followed by immediate development of the territory north of the discovery well on a large scale.

All New Dope on Approaching Customers Given by Ring — Tells How to Sell Nail Clippers to the President, J. W. Davis, Dave Belasco and Magnus Johnson—Great Help for Salesmen. —By Ring Lardner

Good morning .... Coolidge. How is your horse?

To the editor:

Many books and articles has been written on what is known as the "proper approach" in business and how the nag of always saying the right thing when you first meet people is of supreme importance whether you want to sell them something or merely make a favorable impression on them in a social way. It is a whole lot easier to worm your way into a man's good gracious if you show him right off the reel that you know who he is and talk on some subject which they are interested in.

Like for inst. suppose you was going to try and sell a farm to a man named Mr. Estes who is a bond salesman. If you went up to him and said "Good-morning Mr. Estes how is bonds this morning?" you would have a good real better chance of doing business with him than as if you was to say "Hellow there Mr. What's his Name, I forget what business you are in but now about buying a little farm this morning?"

Michigan Sour Milk.

As I say many books and articles has been written on this subject and there is even some books on the market that tells you just what to say to parties in different walks of life like nisurance men or carpenters or haberdashers or in fact most any walk of life. However it has been called to my tension by a friend of mine that is on the road for a wholesale sour milk concern that they's a big difference amongst individuals even in the same line of business and a conversation which might interest one undertaker and make him feel friendly towards you might maybe bore another undertaker stiff and spoil whatever chance you have of selling him sour milk or whatever it is you are selling.

This friend recites a personal experience of his own which illustrates the point in question. It seems like he was traveling in the northern peninsula of Michigan where sour milk is one of the stables of life as they use it to clean the dust off their tricycles. Well my friend had a tip that a certain butcher in Houghton was in the market for a large quantity of choice sour milk. This man's name was Black but it was pronounced like the a was left out. He was sick in tired of the butcher business and his ambition was to sell out his butcher shop and devote all his time to marking tennis courts. My friend did not know this, or did he know about the peculiar pronunciation of the name Black. So he approached the butcher in the following words, "Good morning Mr. Black. How is meat this morning?" To his astonishment Mr. Black give him a dirty look and had him chased out of the shop. If my friend had said, "Good morning Mr. Blck. How is tennis courts this morning?" They's no question in anybody's mind but what he could of sold him a plethora of sour milk.

So my friend says the only real serviceable book or article of instructions along these lines would be one that told the name, habits and eccentricities of everybody that a person was libel to meet, but inasmuch as the author of such a book would half to be personally acquainted with practally everybody in the world it ain't likely that such a article or book will be written during our time.

I would probably be the man best fitted to write such a thing as I know most of the people that is worth knowing, but am sorry to say that myother interests such as getting the rats out of our home and seeing that the madam don't light the fireplace fire in the middle of August keeps me too busy. However I will take time to give a few hints in regards to some of the more prominent of my friends in the hopes that some of my readers may be going to have dealing with same and is at a loss in regards to the right entree.

"How Is Your Horse?"

For the sake of clearness and simplicity we will pretend like we have in mind a man named Haffle who is selling finger nail clippers and amongst his prospective clients is President Coolidge. (Any other article may be substituted for finger nail clippers at the discretion of the reader.)

... Dick Dorgan and chased him out of the shop.

Well, if a person went up to President Coolidge and throwed finesse to the winds and said "Listen Mr. Coolidge your finger nails is too long but here is a litt.e article that will remedy that defect," why you would probably be escorted to the nearest exit by the entire secret service. The proper method which would undoubtedly entrance the president and insure a sale would be as follows: "Good-morning Mr. Coolidge. How is your horse? And speaking about horses reminds me of a man that was very wealthy and had a great many horses but the woman he loved would not have nothing to do with him on acct. of him never cutting his finger nails. Now I am selling a little article, etc."

Or suppose it was J. W. Davis.

"Well Mr. Davis I guess after what happened to you last fall you probably ain't got on presidential bee buzzing in your head no more and speaking about bees that reminds me that I once shook hands with a man that was running for office and his finger nails was so long that I thought a bee had stung me and I would not be surprised but what that was what caused him being defeated. Now I am selling a little article, etc.

Or suppose it was Mr. Belasco.

"Well Mr. Belasco I see they been accusing you of putting on plays that ain't clean. That reminds me of a story about a fella that his finger nails was never clean. Now if he had of kept them short they would not of been so noticeable. I have a little article, etc."

Or Magnus Johnson.

Jazz Is Contribution Of America to Art, Argues Texas U. Prof

AUSTIN, May 9—(AP)—Jazz, the popular "modus operandi" of modern song, came in for epithets an denconiums today at the first day's session of the sixth annual convention of the Texas Music Merchants association.

The attack and the defense were each marshalled by faculty members of the University of Texas, which the Texas Music Merchants that hied themselves to the capital city, listened to the discussion with intense interest.

Dr. William J. Battle, who spoke on "The Place of Music in Education," substituted for Dr. Walter Splawn of the university, who was called out of town, and took the offense. Dr. Battle first traced the effect of music in education from the time of the ancient Greeks to the present time, and then decried the effect of the modern jazz.

Dr. Max S. Hand, professor of sociology at the University of Texas, in speaking on "the function of music in society" took the defense for syncopation.

"Jazz has its faults," he admitted, "but good jazz is good music. In condemning it one will do well to remember that out of the folk-music age grows the classical music of the next. Because composers and publishers today treat it as it were bootleg and only something to be enjoyed in private and surreptitious moments, not many composers are turning their real attention to jazz composition.

"Jazz is the only American contribution to music. It is the one kind of music originating in America that Europeans care for. Jazz is conquering the world, and music dealers should encourage it as our country's contribution to the art of music."

Radio will come in for discussion tomorrow.

MAUD ADAMS, 1900—BETTY BRONSON, 1925—STARS OF PETER PAN

Time brings many changes, and how great these are within the short span of a quarter of a century is shown by two large but unrelated industries—the automobile and the theatre. In 1900 Maude Adams was acclaimed the brightest star on the speaking stage through her wonderful presentation of Barrie's "Peter Pan." This year one of the hits of the silent drama is being made by Betty Bronson in the same role in the Paramount motion picture production. When Miss Adams made her successes she drove one of the one-cylinder, curved dash Oldsmobiles. Miss Bronson also favors the Oldsmobile, as the above illustration shows. And there is as much difference in the Oldsmobiles of the two epochs as there is between the spoken drama and its newer sister, the movies

"Seems to me it was driver as much as car," exclaimed an envious rival in discussing the several record smashing feats of Rickenbacker Six with "Cannon Ball Baker" at the wheel.

"Could any other than this Man of Iron, endure a drive of 1558 miles—Canada to Mexico—over three mountain ranges—Cascade, Siskiyou and Tehachapi—with the steep climbs and hair-raising plunges down the mountains and around hair pin turns?

"Could any other thing of flesh and blood and muscle, make that continuous drive of 40 hours 57 minutes without relief, rest or sleep!

"Absolutely!"—replied another—"but could any other car stand the merciless driving—accelerator down to the floor boards all the time—save when, to slow down for a turn, the brake pedals are in that position."

That's why "Cannon Ball Baker" was made Chief Test Pilot of Rickenbacker Motor Company.

Baker drives for the record—and the car must stand all the grief he can give it, if it is to get that record.

Its stamina—its power, its oiling system—its brakes—must be equal to his amazing physical endurance.

That this new Rickenbacker Six, has in every test been equal to Baker's demands for speed, and has smashed every record this great pair have gone after, is proof that it is a wonderfully good automobile.

Drive this Rickenbacker Six yourself—it will be a revelation to you.

A Certain Little Movie Actress

By Rupert Hughes

In spite of all the care of a mother who had hardly left her for an hour, Lucille was struck down.

I saw her first on the screen as a little girl of six or seven playing in the Edgar comedies based on the delicious stories of Booth Tarkington. She was as pretty as a child could be, but she illuminated the role of a tattle-tale, a spoil-sport, a selfish little wheedler of gifts out of the infatuated Edgar, and was the cause of feuds among the boys.

It was a genuine character study of a type familiar among children, a type that decelops into a heart-breaker and a world-wrecker later.

The tiny actress, Lucille Ricksen, who played the part, was so marvellously true and so convincing that I assumed her success to be no triumph of her own but the proof of some casting-director who had selected just the little imp who was what she played. After all my acquaintance with actresses and actors I should have known better than to confuse the artist with the art, but I supposed that Lucille Ricksen must actually be a vicious little kitten with a catty future.

A year or two later I went to California and I saw her playing about a studio lot. I had the honor of being presented and found her a child of extraordinary sweetness and simplicity. When I came to know her better, she poured out a secret grievance.

With all the earnestness of a 7-year-old girl and with the intensity that few but Lucille Ricksen ever knew, she pleaded:

"I have always been cast to play a mean little snip. Of course, I am proud to have been given the part and I have enjoyed it immensely, but would you believe it?, people actually think I am myself just what I play. And it hurts me. I don't like to be despised and hated And millions of people hate me just because of what I play.

"A few months ago they sent me on a tour of personal appearances with mother, and everywhere I went I found that the audiences had a grudge against me. In one city, one manager asked the theatre manager if he would take me from the hotel to the theatre, and the theatre manager—never dreaming that I could hear him—actually said, 'No, I won't! She's such a nasty little cat, I wouldn't be seen on the street with her!'

"Think of it! he didn't know me at all, but he had seen the pictures and he just hated me. Now if I do say it myself, I'm not a nasty little cat. I have my faults but I haven't got a mean streak in me. You ask anybody.

"And so I want to know if you won't be an angel and let me play a part where I can be a nice little girl? It will save my reputation and if I go on like this I'll be doomed to play mean hateful people all my life."

I confessed humbly that I had been quite as idiotic as the theatre manager, who took her skill for the truth, and I promised to do my best to atone and to redeem her in the public eye.

In a later picture called "Remembrance" she had a larger part to play and she was as delighted as she was delightful. But, her ambitions were never satisfied; there was one more yearning unfulfilled. The 8-year-old climbed in my lap while we were waiting for a shift of lights and poured out her next demand:

"There's one more thing you could do for me. If you could write in one terribly sad scene where I cry my eyes out, I'd be the happiest girl on earth. Could you? I've never been allowed to play a crying scene or anything emotional and I'm just dying to shed tears——just dying! Couldn't you write in a big scene like that? Couldn't you? Please!"

This was the true soul of the actor; the longing to portray grief. No comedian ever lived, I suppose, who would not rather make an audience shed a reluctant tear than shake a throng to pieces with uproarious laughter. I have a tremendous respect for the soul and the art of the actor and actress and have never been one of those who heap cheap scorn upon them.

So I solemnly promised Lucille to do my best for her. The opportunity came at a point where her grandfather ((played by Claude Gillingwater) was supposed to be dying, is wife, his children and grandchildren wait in the hall outside his door for the doctor's verdict. The doctor comes out in despair: there is no hope. The panic-stricken family rush in for a last word with the dying man.

I told Lucille to run on ahead of the rest, fling her arms around her grandfather and beg him not to leave her. Mr. Gillingwater lay stretched on the bed in a state of coma, which he was supposed to maintain. With the deference due an artist of her resources, I asked Lucille to rehearse the scene first as she felt it in her own way.

She dashed into the room in such a frenzy of grief and poured out such pitiful appeals that Mr. Gillingwater was speedily shaken with sobs and drenched with his own tears as well as her own.

When she realized her success, Lucille's eyes gleamed like sunshine breaking through an April rain.

There is much talk about the cruel wrong done to children who are permitted to act on stage or screen, but from a wide observation I would say that the cruelty resembles that inflicted on a cat by putting it on a bed of catnip.

One of the first instincts of childhood is make-believe and the playing of parts in self-concocted dramas. Studio children are in a paradise of endless toys. The cars they receive is the best conceivable. Their mothers are always with them. The directors treat them with the utmost gentleness.

It would be madness to do anything else, for a frightened or browbeaten child cannot act and is a most expensive luxury in wasted time. The schooling of the children is provided for by strict laws and we had a private tutor in the studio for Lucille and the other children when they were required to be on the lot.

A year or two after "Remembrance" I asked for Lucille to play a tenement waif. She had grown so fast in the interim that I hardly knew her. She grew so fast that between the first scenes and the last it seemed that the camera could hardly keep pace with her. In the final close-up, she begged to have her hair up and her skirts long.

I laughed at the thought, but when she was so dressed, she looked to be a porcelain figure of a marchioness.

Her artistic development went on at a tremendous rate and last year she was selected as one of the "baby stars" by the Western Association of Motion Picture Advertisers. She played an important part in a picture of Hobart Henley's.

And then she vanished.

A few weeks ago, in casting about for someone to play the leading role in a new picture, I said to Irving Thalberg:

"What about Lucille Ricksen? She's as clever as can be, and she has a national reputation."

He shocked me by his answer:

"The poor child is dying!"

She had been suddenly stricken with the grim disease that finds its victims everywhere—tuberculosis. In spite of all her life in the open air; in spite of all the care of a mother who had hardly left her for an hour, Lucille was struck down. Her mother had taken her into the desert, but she showed no improvement and the loneliness fretted her restless spirit dangerously. She and her mother and her brother had crept back to town and taken a little flat. They told the physician they called, Dr. McKittrick:

"We have only a hundred and fifty dollars on earth."

"I don't want any money," he said He gave her the most incessant care, often visiting her five times a day, but even afterwards when there was money enough he refused it.

Returning to Los Angeles one Sunday morning from a railroad journey, I saw in the paper headlines describing the sudden death of her mother. That afternoon I called and found the radiant youth I had last seen a pitiful shred of herself, emaciated, prostrate with weakness and grief. Her eyes alone were alight with that old fire.

"I must get well! I've got to get well!" she whispered. "We've got no money at all."

The long idleness and the long illness had exhausted the earnings that had just begun to grow important and had had to be expended on the support of her mother and a young brother. Before her health broke she had taken out a life insurance policy for fifty thousand dollars, but that could only be touched by the hand of death.

I told her I thought of her as a daughter and she need have no thought of finance. Other and better friends of hers, such as the actress, Lois Wilson, and the directors Paul Bern and Marshall Neilan, had already sent out appeals, and in a few days more than three thousand dollars had been subscribed by moving picture people, many of whom had never seen her.

She insisted upon telling me how her mother had died and a more touching picture was never drawn than in the faint voice of that frail wraith of shattered youth and beauty.

After her mother's death Lucille's brave and young soul responded to the whip of necessity and she seemed to grow strong and resolute. We talked of her great future. She begged only not to be sent into the desert again.

A pleasanter place was found with a sleeping porch. A trained nurse was provided and Marshall Neilan sent his own cook over to prepare her meals till a servant could be engaged, for there was no lack of money now.

Actors are actors because their hearts are peculiarly sensitive, peculiarly alive with sympathy; and the funds came rolling in. But she could not be moved, since the first rally against the shock of her mother's death had exhausted her. She had seen her own fate acted out before her with ghastly vividness. And the fear of death, the greater horror of all her unfulfilled ambitions, lashed her into her grave.

Late one night while her brother and Lois Wilson and Paul Bern and the doctor sat in her little room to keep her company in her final terrors, her last breath came. And so she died, and with her what incomputable dreams, what brilliant creations of character, what visions of loveliness for the delight of billions!

A great throng overcrowded the church where the funeral was held and filed past the flower-imbedded coffin to take a final glance at the face of this 14-year-old child already world-famous, already sealed in the last of her expressive masks.

I had no wish to see her then, having been grieved enough by the last good-bye she called out to me on my last visit. But Lois Wilson, shivering with emotion, pleaded:

"Go see her. I fixed her up!"

And I saw an image of such beauty as fairly blinded me. A shaft of light struck down through the glass and blazed about her. She was more beautiful than she had ever been, serene, radiant, asleep in the sun.

Not long ago an old man, a very pious old man, made a pitiful confession—though he thought he boasted: "I have never been inside a theatre or in a moving picture house, thank God!"

I answered him from a pulpit: "He knows only one world, and doubtless little of that. But I have been in many churches and in many theatres and motion picture studios. I know the people of both worlds and I know that the people of the theatre and the screen are as good, as noble, and as worthy of respect—and far, far kindlier—than most of the people outside."

As for those loud-shouting fierce-hearted fanatics who account every human felicity a sin, who denounce all forms of art as a wantonness and all diversions as deviltries and who fill their lives with frenzy over doctrines, rituals and austerities, I do not call them good at all, but only peculiar, perverse and most depraved when they think themselves most divine.

What saint, fleeing to the wilderness to escape from the world or hiding behind thick walls for her personal salvation, or facing persecution and martyrdom, has done better with her soul than this Lucille Ricksen who devoted her life to the presentation of human life, to stirring the sympathies, to evoking the laughter and the tears of millions on millions of people of all nations; to the solacing of their griefs and their weariness by the beautiful fruits of her own toil?

First among our benefactors are the doctors who fight our bitterest enemies, pain and death. But who has a better right to come next than the glorious company of those who fight our next bitterest enemies, tedium and loneliness; who make us forget ourselves by showing us ourselves?

If the actors and actresses have been spoken of with scorn, have been abused and spat upon by bigotry, and have suffered persecution and contempt even from those they came to comfort—why, they have but shared the fate of the other saints.

Actresses were the first of all women to be free. Now that all other women seek freedom, the actress is coming to be recognized at last as the great-hearted soul she has always been.

In the pantheon of stage and screen, Lucille Ricksen deserves a niche of her own as a perfect artist, a thwarted genius and a pitiful beautiful child.

Let some of the sympathy her fate inspires be visited upon the other little actresses who are making a brave and anxious fight for their ideals and for the privilege of service to the cause of are and humanity.

Progressing Toward Time and Labor Saving

Mankind progresses toward time and labor saving. Our forefathers spent a large part of their days in providing what we obtain today instantly. There is the matter of light. Tallow dips and sperm oil lamps were all George Washington enjoyed.

To have them ready meant the labor of a large number of household servants in the establishment of the well-to-do, and an hour or so's attention every day on the part of the poorer folk. Now, both poor and rich have better light instantly at the turn of a button.

This Section Favored

Sections favored with natural gas have the same advantages in respect to fuel. Instead of long hours spent by some one in handling coal, wood and ashes, a simple turn of a valve and the application of a match furnishes heat just in the quantity desired at any time of the day or night. Just look what that means in the saving of time that may be devoted to greater earning or greater happiness, and count that among your present day blessings.
