

Rudolph Valentino is quoted as saying that 'no woman, however beautiful, is worth fighting for'. Mr. Valentino puts the emphasis on 'for' as the court records indicate that he doesn't believe the same rule applies to 'with'.

Mrs. Smith Leads Mary Helm Lesson

Mrs. C. H. Smith led the mission study lesson on "Looking Ahead in Latin America," at a meeting of the Mary Helm Auxiliary of the First M. E. Church Monday afternoon. Mrs. Allen T. Stewart led the devotional lesson. Others who took part in the program were Mrs. Schockman, Mrs. Vernon Brown and Mrs. M. O. Sullivan. Mrs. Hub Jones presided in the absence of the president. The meeting next Monday is to be with one of the members.

Conference Reports To W. M. S. Members

Reports of delegates to the Missionary Conference held in Lubbock were made at a business meeting of the Women's Missionary society of the First Methodist church Monday afternoon. Mrs. Kimbrell led in making the reports on the conference. She was assisted by Mrs. J. C. Granberry, Mrs. W. O. Stevens and Mrs. G. C. Wolfarth. Mrs. A. W. Evans, who was general arrangements chairman, reported on her work during the conference. Votes of thanks were given for those who had assisted in entertaining the conference.

Mrs. Stewart Elected Secretary S. S. Class

About 25 members of the Builders Club of the First Methodist church attended a monthly business and social meeting at the church Monday evening. Mrs. Allen T. Stewart was elected secretary of the group upon the resignation of Miss Steele. Thurman, committee reported that 194 visits had been made during the last month, that invitations had been sent to 11 prospective new members and that there are $74.44 in the treasury at present.

A committee was appointed to bring mothers to church next Sunday who have no other way of going and Mrs. Joe Baldridge and Mrs. Herman Bond were appointed on a flower committee. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. E. L. Alford, Mrs. M. K. Foster, Mrs. Tom Foster, Mrs. R. A. Short, Mrs. N. A. Payne and Mrs. R. B. Hutchinson.

Menus for the Family

(By SISTER MARY)
Breakfast—Stewed rhubarb, crisp broiled bacon, creamed potatoes, bran muffins, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Spinach soufflé, rice bread, dried fruit conserve, milk tea.
Dinner—Roast shoulder of lamb, new potatoes in parsley butter, new carrots in orange cream sauce, pineapple bavarian cream, bran bread, milk, coffee.
No dessert is planned in the luncheon menu. The conserve with bread and butter is planned to furnish the "sweet." This substitute can often be used and the housewife who would make the most of her food allowance will do this. Preserves and jellies with bread and butter, provided a fruit dessert is not needed to balance the meal, preclude the need of pie and cake.
Be untiring in your use of spinach. The family will learn to like it in time regardless of their smothering remarks.

Spinach Soufflé.
One pound spinach, 1 tablespoon butter, 1/4 tablespoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 4 tablespoons grated cheese, 5 eggs.
Wash spinach through many waters, drain and chop. Melt butter, add minced onion and cook over a low fire for five minutes. Add spinach and stir with a fork until well coated with butter. Cover and cook five minutes. Sift over flour, stirring with fork until perfectly blended. Add milk and cook until mixture thickens. Season with salt and pepper and add grated cheese. Bring to the boiling point and remove from fire. Add the yolks of the eggs well beaten and fold in the whites of the eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a well-buttered baking dish and bake twenty-five minutes in a moderately hot oven. Serve at once.

I. C. C. BRIEF IS OPPOSED TO WOODLOCK

22 EXCEPTIONS MADE IN REPORT FILED ON SO. TEXAS RAILWAY

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, May 4.—A brief filed yesterday with the Interstate Commerce Commission by the San Antonio and Aransas Pass Railway Company contributed twenty-two exceptions to the adverse proposed report of Commissioners Woodlock on the company's application to extend its line from Palfurrias to the Rio Grande, and to build from a point near Edinburg to Herington.
The commission is yet to pass on the application. The brief contends Woodlock's report considered the application "almost wholly from the standpoint of the Missouri Pacific Railroad company and its subsidiaries."

Say Move Not Profitable.
In a supplemental brief, the Missouri Pacific, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico and St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico Railway companies declared the proposed extension, about 65 miles from Palfurrias south, would not give access to the productive Rio Grande area and would not be profitable.

Objecting to the Woodlock report also were the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, San Antonio Freight Bureau, the communities of Alamo, Donna, Edinburg, McAllen, Pharr, San Juan, Weslaco, Hidalgo county, Chambers of Commerce of Brownsville, Dallas, LaPorta, Mercedes and others.
George B. Terrell, Texas Commissioner of Agriculture, asked approval of the application, holding that "quicker transportation and shorter hauls to Central and North Texas would be facilitated."

Brownsville Man Is Dead In San Antonio

BROWNSVILLE, May 4. (AP)—Charles Champion, leading merchant and owner of a fishing fleet at Point Isabel, died early Monday in a sanitarium at San Antonio. He was born in Point Isabel 56 years ago.
Champion's store front carried painted reproductions of every variety of fish found in Gulf of Mexico waters, and attracted the attention of the late President Harding when he visited Point Isabel just after his election in 1920.

ENGLAND AND MEXICO AGREE

This is taken to mean that the British will accept the petroleum regulations.

INDIAN CASE NOT TO BE HEARD IN U. S. COURTS

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—The Supreme Court today dismissed for want of jurisdiction an appeal of Isabella Samuels and associated claimants to land in the Creek Nation of Oklahoma in a suit against Joseph H. Childers.

The claimants maintain that Isabella Samuels, formerly Isabella Osborne, was entitled under Kansas laws to the lands as a daughter of the allottee. The lower court held that James Smith husband of the allottee, was entitled to the land under the tribal laws of the Creeks.

Mother Raids Booze Joint, Single Handed

SAN ANTONIO, May 4. (AP)—Prohibition enforcement took on a new angle today when a mother appeared at the detective bureau here and told of having made a successful raid against an alleged bootlegging headquarters near her home.

The woman's anger toward the place became so great after three "jolly beans" took her 14 year old daughter there and got her intoxicated on beer that she took the law into her own hands and single-handed, with the daughter as a guide, literally wrecked things. She destroyed several dozen bottles of beer and large quantities of beer making equipment. Two operators of the place fled.

Big Fair Planned In Crosby County September 15 to 18

Special to The Journal.
CROSBYTON, Texas, May 4.—Crosby County Fair dates have been set for September 15th to 18th, inclusive. Committees will be active this month to complete the subscription to capital stock and a meeting will be held as early as possible thereafter for completing the organization for this year's fair. Grounds will be purchased in time for the fair management to have permanent buildings constructed.

A number of farmers were represented in the meeting held last week and special request made to make special provision for live stock—especially for the dairy and hog industry. On account of limited space and not having adequate buildings the livestock department has been eliminated heretofore. However, provisions will be made in time for the fair next fall and an excellent showing along this line is expected.

Supreme Court Turns Down Iowa's Appeal

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—W. J. Hughes, of Iowa, wanted at Cleveland, Ohio, for trial with others in charge of conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust law in the malibu-iron casting industry, lost in the Supreme Court today in his fight against removal to Ohio for trial. The case was regarded by the court as a test of its rights in a number of similar cases throughout the country.

16 Year Old Plainview High School Boy Gets Five Letters In Athletics And Is Exempt In Studies; Claims Record

(Special to the Journal)
PLAINVIEW, May 4.—To have letters in five forms of athletics and yet possess such excellent grades as to be exempt in all of his courses, sound almost impossible for a sixteen year old high school student. However, that is the record of John Craig of Plainview high school who has rightfully gained the title of "Super Athlete of the Panhandle" and for that matter the State of Texas, so far as scholastic athletics are concerned. Craig has not only lettered but has been an outstanding star in the following: football, basketball, track, and tennis; a record believed unequalled in Texas.

First Unusual Record
The first unusual record made was early in the season when he had the honor of being the youngest captain in Class A football of the Interstate Athletic League as well as one of the highest scoring backfield men in West Texas football. Craig was only fifteen years of age during the football season. He was also captain in basketball on which team he played center and was without a doubt the highest scoring player in the Panhandle. He is captain of next year's team. Craig lettered on the undefeated high school basketball team and is making a reputation of not letting an opponent steal a game while he is behind the bat. His record in track is equally remarkable and out of fourteen and one-half points made by Plainview high school at the district meet in Lubbock, seven and one-half were made by Craig. He won the county championship in tennis singles and might have won the district title if he had competed in so many events which kept on the run from one event to another and naturally he was almost exhausted when he entered his last match. This is the first year in the history of Plainview high school that anyone has even lettered in as many as four events.

Plays Saxophone in Band
On top of all this Craig plays a saxophone in the prize-winning Plainview Chamber of Commerce band, and still finds time to work around home, walking cows and doing anything else that needs to be done.

Craig is five feet, ten inches tall, weighs 152 pounds and has yet another year in Plainview high school to repeat or even exceed his present record.

Good Track Men
He and Craig formed the backbone of Plainview's track team and both won trips to the State Meet at Austin on account of their victories in track events. Willey played end on the football team and his excellent receiving prowess was instrumental in several

American League Players Leading In Hitting But National League Pitchers Showing Best To Present

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)—The hitting in the majors is being done by American League players and the best perfect pitching records so far this season belong to flingers in the National circuit.

What the connection is, if any, the league records don't show but they do reveal that individuals and teams are pounding them out with considerably more success in the American and that there are more pitchers with perfect records to date in the National than in the junior league.

The New York Yankees lead the American club batting standing with the only above .300 percentage in the big leagues. .326, Cleveland is next with .283 and five other teams in the circuit are averaging .250 or better. In the National, the 283 of the Phillies top the averages. New York is second with .282 and two other clubs are above .250.

"Goose" Goslin, Washington's centerfielder, has popped into the picture with a hit percentage of .440 to lead all the players who have been in 10 or more games. Four other American players in that many contests are hitting .400 or better and 22 others have percentages of .300 or above, records for the season through last Wednesday's games show.

"The National's individual batting honors continue in the possession of Rogers Hornsby, the St. Louis manager having slipped a bit from his starting average for a present one of .436. Sand of Philadelphia is hitting .404 and 14 National players in 10 or more games have percentages of .300 and better.

The slugging became heavier during the second week of the season, more of the bingles going for extra bases. To date, 1,532 hits have been made in the American, 296 of them for extra bases including 44 circuit drives. National players have hit safely 926 times, including 259 extra base hits, of which 29 have been homers. Babe Ruth and Pat Collins of the New York Americans each had three four-baggers at the end of the second week of the season and Williams and Fournier, the former of the Phillies and Fournier of Brooklyn in the National, had equal records. Seven men in each league made made as many as two home runs.

Prich of the Giants led the canvas thieves, with five stolen bases in the first two weeks. Mueller of the St. Louis Nationals and Rice of the Senators trailing with four pilfered sacks each.

Among pitchers, Petty of Brooklyn, "Red" Quisenberry of Cincinnati, Ken of St. Louis and Rhem of St. Louis finished the opening week with three games won and none lost in the National play. Thirteen other flingers had perfect records, although in fewer games. Reuther of Washington was the only American pitcher with three won games and none lost, 12 other league hurlers in fewer tilts having perfect records. The veteran Walter Johnson had a percentage of .750 and the record on strike outs with 21 to his credit.

Leading American batters in 10 or more games: Goslin of Washington, .440; Gehrig of New York, .413; Carlisle of Boston, .405; Dugan of New York, .400; Ruth of New York, .400; Burns of Cleveland, .385; Glavstead of Boston, .382; Bluge, Washington, .377; Spurgeon of Cleveland, .367; Menzel of New York, .359.

Leading National flingers in 10 or more games: Hornsby, St. Louis, .436; Sand of Philadelphia, .404; Bressler of St. Louis, .380.

Billy Evans Says

Major league pitchers seem agreed that the baseball in use this year has been slowed down considerably.

It is such a case and it appears to be true, then the poor start of the Philadelphia Athletics is partly explained.

The Athletics of last year played a cut and slash game. A club, boasting many free swinging hitters, it didn't pay much attention to the set-up.

It is a lot of fly balls that would have cleared the various fences or struck the concrete walls last season are just plain outs this year. That hits.

The new ball may force a change in style in a number of major league clubs, the free swinging aggregations in particular.

Urge a Hobby
It is really strange what a hobby baseball is, with men very successful in other branches of business.

I have in mind a prominent New Yorker, Jess Hirsch, a wealthy importer of baseballs. Mr. Hirsch's hobby, his recreation from business.

While he played some baseball as a youngster, he never gave signs of becoming a big league star. So his hobby is the managerial or owner end of it.

A rule he is strong in defense of the managers but when he does differ is a some bit of strategy used, there is always much logic to his reasoning.

While Mr. Hirsch looks more like a movie star than a baseball manager, he insists that some day he will own a major league ball club and he has promised me a job as manager.

I have already respectfully declined the proposition as it is never good policy to work for some fellow who understands your business too well for your own good.

Regulating Fields
Baseball records of late years show that a large percentage of the home runs made have been recorded at certain parks.

These parks have a smaller playing field and of course, in the days of the lively baseball made home runs out of fly balls that would under ordinary circumstances been easy outs.

Such figures argue for regulation ball fields. The time is coming when the playing territory of each field will be identical.

When such a time comes there will be no advantage as now exists, a home club with a short field gets 77 games in which to shoot at the not far distant stands, while each of the other seven clubs plays only 11 games on the same field.

Baseball needs regulation fields and sooner or later will get them.

Stars Missed
One star player makes considerable difference in the work of a major league ball club.

Last year the Chicago White Sox were pennant contenders with Manager Eddie Collins in the game. When an injury forced him out, the club went to pieces.

This season the White Sox started without Johnny Mostil, star outfielder, speed merchant of the American League. He was missed, the club lacked some of its customary punch.

The Pittsburgh Pirates had the same experience in starting without Max Carey.

FRANK HUDSPETH TO REPORT HERE ABOUT MAY 12

Frank Hudspeeth, of Ellenville, Texas, a pitcher who was with the Hubbers baseball machine that swept victory last year at the Denver tournament, has advised Skipper Allen that he will report here ready for work about May 12. The Skipper said Tuesday, Hudspeeth will leave home May 10, his letter states.

The Hubbers also will figure prominently in the entertainment program at the West Texas chamber of commerce convention at Amarillo June 22, 23 and 24, when they meet the Amarillo Metropolitan in a contest each afternoon of the convention.

One or two more pitchers will be

The New and Better—

TEXACO GASOLINE

What it Does

(1) IT GIVES YOU A QUICKER START
On account of the low initial boiling point, and high percentage of the volatile fractions which vaporize quickly in a cold engine.

(2) IT GIVES YOU A QUICKER PICKUP
Because of its higher volatility and low end point, it forms a dry gas in the manifold which feeds evenly to the cylinders and avoids flooding.

(3) IT GIVES YOU MORE MILES PER GALLON
Because it works best on a leaner mixture—more air, less gas. This insures fuel economy that shows itself in more miles per gallon.

(4) IT GIVES YOU RELIEF FROM CARBON OR SPARK KNOCK
Because it has anti-knock qualities and smooth combustion characteristics tempered to engine needs.

(5) IT GIVES YOU BETTER LUBRICATION
Gasolines with heavy ends do not vaporize and burn completely. They dilute the crankcase oil because the liquid gasoline cuts the oil film and seeps past the piston rings.

The new Texaco Gasoline leaves no heavy ends. It forms a dry gas. It burns completely. It does not flood the cylinders. All this means less crankcase dilution, hence better lubrication.

MR. LEWIS AND OTHERS

Two churches break into the day's news. They are both in Kansas City.
They offer two messages to the world. And what different messages they are!

In one church Sinclair Lewis, the novelist, takes the pulpit. He "conducts an experiment" by taking out his watch and defying God to strike him dead in ten minutes.

"Here's a lovely chance for God to show what He can do," declared the author. Well, we cannot disagree with him there. It was.

But do not imagine Mr. Lewis has done something new or original.
George Bernard Shaw did it much better, much more dramatically.

"I give God three minutes to strike me dead," Mr. Shaw once said. "I am a very busy man."

While Lewis, in one church was showing God what a fine opportunity He would make for a bolt from the Heavens, in another church there was quite a different form of worship.

Grandma and grandpa sat in the choir box as of old—about thirty old people who had been married for 45 years — and sang: "Yes, we shall gather at the river."

There were tears in the eyes of many when one of the golden wedding choristers, a man of 83 years old, sang in a soft, plaintive baritone five verses of "The Beautiful Land."

Applause is not regular in that church, but when the old man sat down, his chin high, his eyes steady, the din of handclapping swept up to the choir box.

There are many kinds of people in the world, the cheap and the sincere, and many are the kinds of gods we worship. We are free to choose our own.

CHICAGO

Chicago is making a drive against criminals, following the murder of an assistant state's attorney.

Pretty much like locking the door
after the horse is stolen. Or building a hospital at the foot of the precipice.

Chicago has been sowing the wind,
and now she is reaping the whirlwind.
No city or state can wink at major and minor law violations and expect to be free from the turmoil and strife of civil warfare.

Chicago is an average American city, as far as citizenship is concerned; but she is worse than the average American city in the matter of producing and liberating criminals.
She has a bloody record in homicides and an unenviable reputation with respect to criminal rings.

Here's hoping she comes to her senses and cleans up.

THESE MORTALS

Bobbed hair on women is an abomination in the sight of God!

Believing this deeply and fervently,
one doughty barber of the Tennessee hills, bows his doors to iniquitous women asking hair cuts.

The tonsorial artist puts a sign in his window which reads:
"I run my shop on a Christian basis and I cut women's hair for two years till I got sick of it and its un-Christianity."

Was it not one William Shakespeare who once cried from the murky depths of his upset soul:

"Oh, Lord, what fools these mortals be!"

So do we exclaim now. And we do not mean the women!

There's Always Something Doing in His Line

STEWART'S
WASHINGTON
LETTERBy CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON. — One hears the question raised, down in the Senate lobby, in the last few days, if President Coolidge's blood hasn't been turning a little too cool recently for his own good.

The talk began with the case of Senator McKinley of Illinois. McKinley was very loyal to the administration. When it came time for the Senate to vote on American entrance into the world court, the indications were that he ought to cast a negative ballot, if he had a proper regard for his own political good health.

The President, however, wanted an affirmative result, so McKinley obediently voted affirmatively.
Shortly afterward the moment arrived for him to seek a renomination for the Senate, from the Illinois republican electorate. Backed by the administration, he probably would have won it, but the administration kept strictly out of the fight and McKinley lost, mainly because he had voted for the world court to please the President, who wouldn't help him
when it came his turn.

Then came the Brookhart-Stock contest.

If Senator Brookhart, an insurgent republican won, then the field was clear for Senator Cummins, a faithful administration man, to get a republican renomination in Iowa, for the coming autumn election. He said he wanted the contest decided on its merits but he undoubtedly hoped Brookhart would be allowed to keep his seat.

But the administration seems to have preferred Stock's conservative democracy to Brookhart's insurgency.
True, the President said he didn't care, either way. Nevertheless, the senatorial quartet who are recognized as preeminently the Coolidge members of the upper house—Butler and Gillett of Massachusetts and Dale and Green of Vermont—were for Stock.

THESE WOMEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

AUDREY MORTON suspects NONA, a Chicago stage girl, of trying to vamp JOHN PARRISH.
Audrey is the adopted daughter of HARRY MORTON (a rich, unmarried, middle-aged man, much pursued by women). Audrey herself loves Morton. So does Nona.
Parrish loves Audrey. The latter has been rude to the young man, until Nona intervenes. As this chapter opens, Parrish has just come to dinner in the Morton apartment in Peoria.

Morton and Audrey live in Peoria, where Morton has been more or less of a mystery for 15 years, but he also maintains this costly duplex apartment in Chicago.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XXXII

Audrey's hand was outstretched as he crossed to where Parrish was standing.
"Oh Mr. Parrish," she said, sweetly, "I've been waiting for you!"
He looked astonished. "I said I'd be here at seven," he said. "It isn't quite seven yet."

"I didn't mean that," she told him.
"It just occurred to me that instead of eating dinner here, it would be nice if you and I went out some place to eat, so we could dance a little."

"But aren't you tired?" he protested.
"The last I saw of you this afternoon you looked as if you were going to sift."

She dimpled again at him. It was the first time that she had tread-ed him with such cordiality, and his face was beaming.

"But I'm all rested now," she said,
"and I've been home so much in the

you to sell your jewels—and it was my fault, anyway. I made you leave your place with the show, to rehearse with Audrey, and never did a thing to make up to you."

She lifted one of his hands, and kissed it. "I'd starve any time, for you," she said, gaily, "but I CAN'T do without new clothes!"

She thrust her voice as she continued: "You know, Harry dear, I haven't been around with any other men, for more than six months—since I got to know you well."

He drew her hands together, patted them, and dropped them.

"How about that dinner engagement of yours this evening?" he asked her.
"Oh, I have to eat, sometimes," she told him. "But I mean I haven't been out on any parties. Really I haven't!"

Morton rang for Audrey's maid, and Nona followed the girl up to the pretty dressing room at the head of the stairs. She reappeared in a few minutes, and Morton led her out to dinner.

"Some cocktails," Morton told the butler, as they sat down, "and let's have some of that wine that just came in. Has it been chilled?"

The butler bowed.
"We'll have a little port, pretty soon,
too."

The man bowed again, and went after the cocktails.

"This is a beautiful room," Nona said, looking at the heavy tapestry that draped the walls. "Harry, I never realized until lately that you were such a rich man."

Morton did not follow her conversational lead. Instead, placing his hand over hers as it lay upon the cloth, he asked her: "Have you been vamping young Parrish?"

She threw back her head and laughed merrily. "You knew I was going to!" she accused.

"I rather suspected it," he said. "Do

"I don't like that," he said, slowly.
"It's a shame that a girl like you should have to sponge off a greasy old pirate. I've seen him, with a lot of little girls around him, snickering
at them, while they eat his dinner."

"Ooh," said Nona, "he's not dangerous. I think he's just lonesome."

"Like most of us," Morton commented.

There was a pause, while the next course was served. When they were alone again, Morton said: "Nona, I want you to have that pin back again.
I really wanted you to have it."

"There was something funny about that pin," Nona said. "Why did you buy it for me, Harry?"

He thoughtfully considered his spoon, as he held it poised half way to his lips. "I'll tell you frankly, Nona," he said, putting down the spoon.

"Audrey thought she was in love with me. I suppose she WAS in love with me. She is a young thing, just at the age when girls and boys are ready to find their mates. I was the only man at hand, and she fell in love with me. That wouldn't do. I simply couldn't permit it. And so I hired Parrish, and threw her into his company, and I let her see me with you, and with some other girls, in the hope that she might become disgusted with me—at least as a matrimonial prospect. I bought the pin partly so you could show it to her."

His voice dropped, and he touched the table softly. "I don't know just how it's going to work. She went wild, and said she was going on the stage, to learn how other girls attract men. That is, how they managed to attract me. I never have forbidden her to do anything, and I didn't forbid her to do that. But Nona, I'm worried."

Nona laid her hand on his arm.
"Harry," she said, earnestly, "if I had evenings that I'd like to go someplace with him this evening? It's because she thinks you're a dangerous influence upon the young man."

The butler appeared with the cocktails, and the conversation ceased as they stared at the cold, peckily
The butler withdrew.

"He keeps these cocktails on ice," Morton explained. "Makes them up one day, for use the next. This gives them a chance to ripen."

The girl nodded approvingly. "It's the nicest I ever tasted," she agreed.
Returning to the subject of Audrey and Parrish, she went on: "There was just one way to interest that girl in him, too. And look how it worked!
She takes him out to dance with her,
when she's so tired, and her feet hurt
so, that she can hardly stand!"

Morton smiled. "She dropped in a chair when she came home, as if she had been shot," he said. "When they went out together she was tripping along as if she had just awakened in the morning."

"He's here," Nona said, "so of course she'll fight to keep him—even if she doesn't really want him. She just wants to keep some other woman from getting him."

The butler brought in the hors d'oeuvres.

After they were served, he brought a bottle of wine and a napkin, and held it for Morton's inspection. The latter nodded. When the cork was drawn, the servant filled the hollow stemmed glasses that stood at the two plates.

"I like this," Nona said, tasting the wine.

"I think it's good," agreed Morton.
"No, I don't mean that," said the girl. "I mean living like this—living as if you WERE somebody, and being waited on by people that you hire.
Instead of eating around at restaurants, or munching a loaf of bread up in your room because you have no invitation to dine."

"You mean you don't eat unless somebody invites you out?" Morton asked.

"Not exactly," Nona said, dipping into the hors d'oeuvres with her fork.
"But there are lots of days when we have no money—girls like me." She laughed. "There's an old fellow around town, about seventy, that is a sort of standby to us—to lots of us. He isn't very clean, and he's uncommonly ugly, but he has lots of girls who are hungry, and haven't any other invitations, wish themselves on him. He'll eat dinner with us as high as ten of them at a time, some nights."

She laughed again, but Morton did not join her.

keep her walled up in a convent, or in my own house, until she, marched out on the arm of her bridegroom, Harry.
I tell you she's dangerous!"

"But I've tried to look out for her,"
he argued.

"I know," she said. "But I know this, too—she's already picked up some stuff around with the girls that I wish she didn't know," she paused,
and then with a bitter note in her voice, went on: "I went on the stage
when I was only sixteen, and I know what happened to me!"

They continued to eat, in silence for a time. When they resumed their conversation, it was on other topics. They were finishing the last of their after-dinner coffee, when there came a ring at the hall bell. The butler ran to the door and opened it. Audrey flounced in.

"Why are you mixing in my affairs with Mr. Parrish?" she cried, as she caught sight of Nona. "And what are you doing here?"

CARBON MONOXIDE

How to die quickly:
Take one reasonably small private garage; close all windows and doors;
start the engine of your car; draw a long breath. Crepe, flowers and other funeral trimmings will follow in natural sequence.

Carbon monoxide, the deadly gas known, comes from the exhaust pipe of your motor car. It is insidious, odorless and colorless, and it's deadlier than the cobra. It kills like stroke of lightning.

Yet, every day almost, you read the papers where some careless motorist has started his engine in a closed garage. The consequence is a certain as the day of doom.

SECOND ROUND-UP OF A. & M. SET FOR AUG. 18-19

The Agricultural Experiment Station of the A. & M. college of Texas, announces the Second Annual Ranchmen's Round-up to be held at the ranch experiment station, located in Sutton and Edwards counties and approximately 24 miles from Boronia, on the Sonora-Rock Springs highway, on August 17 and 18.

The purpose of this meeting is to bring together the ranchmen and citizens interested in the sheep and Angora goat and cattle industries.

A brief, concise report of each project carried out at the ranch experiment station will be made giving the latest results in each case, so that ranchmen may have the benefit of the most recent knowledge in these several lines.

Texas leads all other states in the Union in the production of wool, and as well in the production of mohair. The ranch station is located in the heart of the wool producing region of Texas, seven counties surrounding the Sonora station producing one-fourth of all the Angora goats produced in the United States.

The ranch station is studying animal diseases, particularly the diseases of sheep and goats, including the so-called "deficiency diseases," which require a full understanding of the growth and development of the animal, and the carrying capacity of the range when properly stocked. Range feeding problems and problems and methods of breeding for increased quantity and quality livestock products are being studied, including grades and shrinkage, on wool and mohair fleeces, the results being recorded and digested, with a view of better utilizing our ranges in the production of livestock and livestock products.

CANYON TO PARADE IN CELEBRATION AT AMARILLO

CANYON, Texas, May 4.—The West Texas State Teachers college will stage a giant demonstration in connection with the meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Amarillo, June 21, 22, 23. The third day of the meeting has been designated as Education Day and the officers of the commercial organization expressed a desire to have every college in the territory served by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce represented in some way.

The West Texas State Teachers college, assisted by the commercial organizations of Canyon, will stage a great parade in which more than two thousand students are expected to participate. A special train will be run from Canyon to Amarillo and W. J. Lockhart will have general charge of the demonstration there.

Arrangements are being made by the Teachers college to maintain their headquarters at a convenient point in Amarillo where prospective college students, ex-students of the college, and friends may meet, rest and discuss college days and problems. The location of the headquarters has not yet been definitely determined.

Exhibition of work done at the Teachers college will probably be on display at the official headquarters. This exhibit will be in charge of Professor Robert Smith, of the Manual Training department.

"Through arrangements made by some, Wade and Porter Whaley, all of the officers and directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be banqueted in Canyon the evening of June 21. Following the banquet, which will be served at Cousins Hall, there will be given a short entertaining program in the auditorium of the West Texas State Teachers college.

Mr. LaGuardia announced his decision on the House floor, saying he doubted whether he had authority to accept the subpoena unless consent were given by the House. His statement led to a debate on the constitutional question involved.

His testimony had been asked for by New York member said, in regard to charges recently made by him in the House, involving the disappearance of 350 cases of liquor from the federal building at Indianapolis, held in custody of the court. ## Thugs Slay Wife Of French Leader During Burglary

PARIS, May 4. (P)—Police Monday were making a vigorous search for the person or persons who early Sunday shot to death in her apartment Mme. Eugene Regnault, wife of the former French delegate to the League of Nations and at one time Ambassador to Japan.

Many thousands of francs were stolen from the walls by the robbers. Search was being made for a mysterious man, who for several weeks past had made inquiries of the janitor concerning the occupants of the building.

Mme. Regnault was sleeping with her 18 year old daughter. Apparently she heard a noise in the salon and rushed there, to be met by three shots from the revolvers of the invaders. The daughter did not awaken until several hours after the murder. Other members of the family heard no shots, and the tragedy was discovered only when a maid brought up breakfast.

Mme. Regnault was 58 years old and besides her husband, leaves seven children.

M. Regnault, who was out of the city, hurried home immediately after hearing of the tragedy.

BANKRUPT RULING MADE BY COURT

WASHINGTON, May 4. (P)—When a man becomes a bankrupt the status of his property interest of his wife becomes vested in her, the Supreme Court declared today in a case from Tennessee, Ind., brought by the estate under the will of Mary E. Jones.

Bar Erskine was adjudicated a bankrupt. Shortly thereafter, his wife died, leaving a will disposing of her estate. The circuit court of appeals held that the wife's interest in her husband's real estate was conditional under the laws of Indiana and did not vest in her until the death of her husband.

The Supreme Court today reversed that ruling.

EASTERN BANKER IMPRESSED BY OIL FIELDS

Wm. C. POTTER, HEAD OF BIG NEW YORK BANK, VISITS ANGELO

(By the Associated Press)
SAN ANGELO, May 4.—William C. Potter, president of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, one of the nation's largest banks, has returned from the Reagan-Crockett-Upton-Crane oil field as an enthusiastic and optimistic about the potential oil production of this section of the newest frontier wilderness. On the platform of his private car on the Orient special which was carrying the officials of the Marland Oil Company back to Sweetwater Saturday night, Mr. Potter made the significant opinion that it did not take an oil man to form a definite opinion that there were many oil fields that would soon be brought into being in this enormous section.

Was Greatly Impressed
"I could not help but be impressed with the development here," he said, "and the plans that are being made for more intensive development."

"There is too much oil in too many places, not to make me believe that great pools will be found throughout this territory."

"The Marland is already in this section very strong. I believe it will take a very prominent part in the exploration work out here."

"Of course, you know, I am not an oil man. But a layman can see with such numerous indications in so many different places that the real oil will be found some where. And this country out here is immense."

Oil Fields Inspected
Mr. Potter, with E. W. Marland, president of the Marland Oil Company and sixteen other directors and officials of the Marland, spent Friday and Saturday looking over the oil fields and considerable time at Kemper, the headquarters of the Reagan county purchasing company, a gathering company controlled by the Marland. In the party, besides operating officials of the Marland Company and Mr. Potter, were George Whitney, a partner in J. P. Morgan and Company, and Charles Smithers, of the F. S. Smithers and Company, investment bankers of New York. Mr. Potter, Mr. Smithers and Mr. Whitney are directors in the Marland Company.

E. P. Geyer, president of the Marland Oil Company of Texas, who on his way through San Angelo on Friday, said that the Marland would drill within the next ninety days thirty to forty wells, Saturday night predicted that as a result of this inspection trip, the Marland would probably drill even more wells.

CROP CONDITIONS IN TEXAS LOOK VERY BRIGHT

General sunshine and fair weather throughout the State have greatly improved crop conditions in Texas, according to reports compiled by the Department of Public Relations of the Southland Life Insurance company. The compilation represents reports sent in by agents of the company from practically every county in the State.

The same conditions which have kept the planting of the chief crop—cotton—appears to have helped the auxiliary crops of grains and this coupled with the fact that a much larger acreage of grains is in the ground, would indicate unusually prosperous conditions in Texas.

In prosperity and prospects the Panhandle counties lead the State. With eleven counties reporting conditions excellent and practically every one above normal, a bumper wheat crop is expected and the condition of grain is above what it has been for years.

A good second is a belt through East Texas where conditions are reported unusually good. Above normal to excellent conditions are reported in the Rio Grande Valley where the late season has not had so much effect.

Central Texas appears to be slow and somewhat unpromising although conditions have improved during the past week. There is also a bad spot through that section of South Central Texas which was so badly hit by the drought of last year.

Business conditions are almost without exception reported to be normal or slightly above normal except in sections where no crop was had last fall. Fruit was killed in many places but, in the main, East Texas appears to have survived.

The harvesting of every crop, outside the irrigated districts, will be from two to four weeks late, according to the reports. This, however, does not prevent an optimistic tendency in the reports.

Business conditions reported from 95 to 100 per cent normal except in sections where no crop was had last year. Cattle raising country reports prospects booming.

Conditions in Lubbock county were reported as follows: Crops late; extremely good crops in prospect.

LEGION MEN ENJOY GOOD MEETING MONDAY NITE

Approximately 75 ex-service men were in attendance Monday night at the regular meeting of the local Post of the American Legion when an excellent program was given under direction of J. A. (Judge) Raley, chairman of the program committee.

Five boys from Troop 1, Boy Scouts, entertained the gathering with a few stunts in which they drafted members of the Post in such feats as pie and cracker eating contests, punch bag and others that brought merry laughter from the former service buddies.

"Daddy" Dickinson, in the role of Private Bill Spence, who was charged A. W. O. L. from the army in a wild spree in France, brought much laughter to the crowd when called before the captain of his company for questioning. Another bright feature of the program was several selections from "Colliers' Barber Shop Quartet."

Several good talks were made by members of the Post, including Vaughn E. Wilson and W. T. (Tangle) Strange, the latter of whom brought a paper on the house with his oratorical outburst on the subject from which he drew his nickname.

It was announced by Post Commander H. D. Woods that plans have been laid for observance of Decoration Day May 30, and that a poppy sale will be conducted during the day. Harold Griffith has been placed in charge of the poppy sale.

It was also announced that Post officials are planning to have a baseball game between now and the time of the next meeting, the date of which has not yet been set. The Post team probably will play the Tech College in an exhibition game.

Many To Attend
Army officers, aviation heads and Chicago business men have been invited to attend the christening.

Although mail deliveries over the Chicago-Dallas route will not begin until May 12, complete machinery for operation will be started for the National Air Transport Company, next Saturday, in order to maintain a regular schedule.

The Chicago-Dallas equipment will consist of ten flying trucks, carrying one thousand pounds of mail and express packages each in five proof enclosures. Each plane weighs about three tons and has a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour.

South bound planes will leave Chicago at 5:45 A. M. and North bound will arrive at 1:30 P. M. making connection with both West bound and East bound over night New York planes to Chicago.

The new air mail route will be the third in regular operation from Chicago. Daily services has been operating to and from the East for some time, and only recently service was established between Chicago and St. Louis, Mo., and intermediate points.

The new service will connect Kansas City, Mo., St. Joseph, Mo., Wichita, Kans., Oklahoma City, Okla., Fort Worth and Dallas, Texas, and intervening points.

Officials of the air transport company left Chicago tonight to inspect flying fields to be used in the service lines of the Texas Power and Light company.

Christening Of 'The Chicago' On Saturday Will Pave Way For Air Mail Between Chicago And Dallas

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, May 4.—Chicago will become one of the chief centers of air mail and express service in the United States next Saturday with a celebration opening the new municipal airport and christening the "Chicago," one of the new Chicago-Dallas mail planes.

The Chicago air port is being opened two months ahead of schedule to couple the event with the opening of the one thousand mile Chicago-Dallas air mail route. The christening of the "Chicago," after it flies into the new port, will include the release of ten carrier pigeons carrying greeting from Chicago to President Coolidge and Postmaster General New.

"Give More Thought To Music"

Wanted--Musical Artists

Do you know that the professional and commercial opportunities for musically trained people are increasing? Life in a garret is not the portion of the musical devotee who is adaptable to modern tendencies.

The theatre, radio broadcasting, the schools, concert work, the opera, selling and other activities all provide pleasant work. For those who combine individuality and versatility with training, the opportunities for happy connections and profitable advancement are becoming more numerous.

The basis of musical training is the piano, the universal musical instrument. From the practical training and musical understanding gained by the mastery of its keys, it is more easily possible to specialize and develop into lucrative and pleasant employment. The world of tomorrow will want musical artists even more than the world of today.

NOTICES

NOTICE TAXPAYERS

This is to notify all people in Lubbock county that the tax rolls will close on May 10th and those of you who have not rendered your property by that time will have same listed on the unknown roll.

It is to your advantage to have your taxes rendered and I have tried in every way that I could to get these renditions. But so many people have been away from home when I called that it leaves the work incomplete at this time, with only a few more days in which to do the work.

Please keep this matter in mind and come to my office at the court house at once. It will be an accommodation to all parties concerned.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Cotton Markets

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—The unsettled influence of the British labor situation was reflected in a restricted volume of business, rather than any price movement of importance in the cotton market early today. Cables were lower than yesterday, but the decline in Liverpool was comparatively moderate. After opening steady, unchanged to a decline of three points, the market held fairly steady. May sold off to 18.62c and there was scattered liquidation due to the circulation of a few additional notices. On the whole, the market showed no particular tendency during the first hour, prices ruling about two to four points net lower.

Except for switching from near to late months, trading showed no particular feature in the morning. The weather outlook was considered favorable but there was very little selling of new crop months while there was some buying of December against sales of May which gave the late deliveries a relatively steady tone. At mid-day May was ruling around 18.63 or net 3 points lower, while later deliveries were not unchanged to seven points higher with October selling at 17.25c.

The afternoon market was easier under New Orleans, Southern and local selling, which was supposed to include commission house liquidation of old and early new crop positions. No fresh news factor was mentioned in connection with the decline, but May sold off to 18.54c and October was ruling around 17.15c at 2 o'clock with a active months about 2 to 12 points net lower.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 4. (AP)—The cotton market opened steady considering the seriousness of the British labor trouble. Liverpool was better than day which was surprising. First trades showed losses of two to three points on old crop months and gains of one to two points on new crop positions. The market rallied in the early trading on unsatisfactory weather conditions, reaching levels three points above yesterday's close. Prices eased off during the first hour to 17.47c for July and 16.55c for October and December, or five to six points down from the early highs. At the end of the first hour the market was steady.

The market, after a period of steadiness, during which October traded up to 16.55c and December to 16.66c, eased off moderately and July made a new low at 17.44c. New crop months duplicated their earlier lows, declining 1 to 4 points from the highs. The market was supported by fears of bad weather but was prevented from holding any improvement by anxiety over the British labor troubles. Around mid-season, prices were 1 to 5 points above the lows and the market quiet.

The market continued to fluctuate narrowly during the afternoon, but made new lows around the beginning of the last hour with July at 17.41c, October at 16.55c and December at 16.57c or 9 to 12 points down from the highs and 3 to 9 points under the previous close. Later prices rallied 4 to 5 points on rumors that fresh conferences were being held in London looking to settlement of the strike.

Stocks And Money

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Stock prices worked sharply lower at the opening of trading today as heavy selling was inspired by the beginning of the general strike in Great Britain. Bear traders took advantage of the situation to exert pressure against valuable issues and growing nervousness led to a general liquidation of long accounts. Initial declines of 1 to 3 points were recorded by General Electric, American Woolen, Allied Chemical, Hudson Motors and Foundation Company.

Losses were quickly extended in the subsequent dealings with commission house selling increasing in volume. Domestic trade news was mainly favorable, however, acting as an offset.

SUPREME COURT'S RULING GIVEN

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—Profits by American firms in settlement of German loans, due to the depreciation of the German marks, did not constitute taxable income, said a decision today by the Supreme Court in a government appeal against the Kerhaugh-Empire Company of New York City.

A loan negotiated with the Deutsche Bank of Berlin, payable in marks, netted the Kerhaugh-Empire Company $764,867 in American currency. In 1919 the alien property custodian called upon the borrowers to repay the loan.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)—New set-backs in the value of wheat took place early today on account of selling due to British labor troubles. On the declines, however, there was fairly active buying on the part of yesterday's sellers and this tended to check weakness. The opening, ¼ to ½c lower, May (p.w.) $1.61 to $1.61½ and July $1.39½ to $1.40, was followed by a slight rally and then by an irregular decline that carried May down to $1.58 and July to $1.38½.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat. After opening ¼ to ½c off, July 76 to 76½c, corn underwent a material further set.

Oats started unchanged to ¼c lower, July 41½c. Later all months showed a loss.

Provisions reflected grain weakness, despite an upward trend in hog values.

ENGLISH STRIKE GETS UNDER WAY

trades union council.

Virtually all forms of industry were at a standstill in the first general strike in the history of the British Isles.

Millions of workers have their first day without wages. Just how many, it was impossible to estimate, for beside the actual strikers called out by the trades union congress, thousands of non-strikers were thrown out of work through the inability of their concerns to function.

The general strike was called in support of approximately one million coal miners who went on strike at midnight Friday.

Food Service Continues
Health and food services continued partly because of the provisions made by the trades union congress and partly through the great government organization, formed for the transportation of foodstuffs and other necessities of life so that there might be a minimum of suffering.

Apart from emergency trains, scarcely a wheel turned on the great network of railways. Trams, buses and other normal forms of transport ceased operations. Coal, iron and allied industries closed down. Workers supplying gas and electricity for power purposes, were idle. All buildings, other than for hospital and housing purposes, were closed. Tradesmen, the banks and the various professions were continuing business as well as was possible under the circumstances.

Traffic Is Congested
When London awoke this morning it found itself faced with an anomaly. It had been expected that, with the cessation of traffic, the metropolis would be fairly quiet. But in ten years there was such congestion of vehicles that not only thousands of strikers were abroad, but non-striking workers came pouring into the city in every available conveyance, and many on foot.

All the roads leading into London were filled with solid streams of motor cars of every description and of every vintage, including pre-war machines. Thousands of persons pedaled along amid the motor traffic on bicycles and tandems. Motor lorries joined the procession, and with all came a great army of workers getting to their jobs on Spenser Mare. Old and young, many of them women and girls, trudged toward their offices and shops. Some of the pedestrians had covered many miles. The star turn in this madly was taken by an energetic man who made his way through one of the main thoroughfares on roller skates amid cheering from the onlookers. The reinforced police squads worked as they rarely had worked before to keep traffic unobstructed and crawling. And travel was the best it could do.

Idlers Line Streets
Scores of thousands of idlers lined the streets, watching traffic jams and gathered in groups to discuss the strike situation.

One sight of especial interest was soldiers parading at Wellington Barracks, near Buckingham Palace. Long lines of people with their noses between the iron railings of the fence watching the maneuvers. Strike pickets began to operate in various sections of London, during the morning.

The largest government ammunition factory in Great Britain Woolwich arsenal became involved in the strike when the workers failed to report for duty. Pickets were thrown about the arsenal and as a precaution the government placed troops inside it.

Disorder Prevented
Before the adjournment of Parliament last night, during debate on the strike situation, large crowds gathered outside. One section cheered the striking miners and sang "The Red Flag"; another section replied vigorously with "God Save the King." The police were vigilant and managed to prevent disorder.

In the House Premier Baldwin charged that the labor leaders were near to proclaiming a civil war by ordering a general strike than Great Britain has been faced with for centuries. Ramsey MacDonald, the former labor premier, admitted that the country faced a situation, the end and evolution of which the keenest observers could not visualize. Chancellor of the Exchequer, Churchill declared that if the battle would fight to an end it would mean the end of Parliamentary government or a decisive victory for it.

Try To Keep Peace
It is the announced purpose both of the government officials and the labor leaders to do nothing of a provocative nature which would bring about untoward acts. In the coal mines, which have been deserted by the colliers, sufficient men will remain at the pumps to keep them from flooding. Skeleton services will be run on railways. The big steamship companies have promised to maintain their sailings if this possibly can be done. The laborites have asserted that they will aid in transporting food supplies; that their fight is not against the people, but against the attitude of the government in siding with the mine owners against the miners in the wage dispute.

Under the Proclamation
Under the proclamation issued by King George the authorities are given the right to use troops and to commandeer houses, autos, foodstuffs and other necessities.

Prices May Rise
Although the government has invoked the public not to hoard food, it is said there already have been cases of persons laying in stocks of canned goods above their immediate requirements. It is asserted also that there is likelihood that milk and meat prices will rise.

Violence Is Hinted.
LONDON, May 4. (AP)—The first approach to violence in the general strike came this morning at the East and West India Cargo docks in the heart of the Communist district of London.

Large bodies of men compelled scores of vehicles to turn back and some of the lighter vehicles were overturned. The attitude adopted toward those proceeding to work, even women and girls, was far from friendly. All work ceased on the docks.

Strike Success So Far.
LONDON, May 4. (AP) (2:30 p. m.)—Labor's first attempt to tie up all the industrial life has been mainly successful, since the inception of the general strike at midnight. Up to this hour no disorders of moment had been reported. The government's emergency services for supplying the necessities of the population are working, and volunteers are running a few trains, trams and buses, but beyond this scarcely a wheel is turning throughout the country.

High School Winners Leaving For Austin
Nine public school students, winners in the district interscholastic league meeting here recently, will represent Lubbock at the State Interscholastic meet the latter part of this week.

Three boys, Emory and Charlie Ing and Harold Bowen, left last night in a car to drive through to Austin. The others, five boys and one girl, are leaving tonight. They will be accompanied by Ernest Lowrey. Those leaving tonight are Cyrus Leland, Hubert Freedland, Leon Thomas, Leslie Smith, Hubert Hopper and Miss Vivian Keaster.

Doctors To Banquet At 8 This Evening
A dinner will be served at the Tech cafe at 8 o'clock this evening to members of the County Medical society. Plans will be made for a dinner and other entertainment for Dr. C. M. Rosser, president of the State Medical association, who is to be here May 15. Dr. Frew W. Standifer is to make a talk on Vincent's Angina.

Presbyterian Women Study Bible Lesson
Mrs. C. J. Wagner taught the Bible lesson at a meeting of the Presbyterian Ladies Auxiliary Monday afternoon at the church. This was the regular Bible study meeting of the society.

C.C. FARM PROGRAM PLANS NEARING COMPLETION

The Lubbock chamber of commerce committee that was named some time ago to draw up rules and regulations and apportion the prize money for the "Better Farm" program announced here the first of the year met Monday night and made apportionments of the prize money, but did not complete their work of drafting the rules and regulations.

The committee is to meet again tonight with County Farm Agent David F. Eaton, when it is hoped that final details of the contests will be worked out. The contest will be carried on in three divisions, as follows:

A cotton project, which will encourage more cotton, on fewer acres; a grain and forage crop project, which will seek to impress upon farmers the importance of raising feed and diversifying their crops; and a home improvement and home project that will more particularly affect housewives of the county.

The first two divisions will be open to both juniors and seniors, male or female, and every farmer, whether young or old, in the county will be urged to enter one or both of the contests. The second is open to all homes in the county, either tenant or owner, and will center around work being carried through the women's clubs, such as canning of various products, the production of milk, butter and eggs on the farm, and similar projects.

MY HOME CONTEST TO CLOSE HERE MAY 20

Six or seven boys and three or four girls are expected to enter the "My Town" speaking contest which will be held at the high school auditorium, May 20, the winner to receive a twenty dollar gold piece offered by J. B. Maxey, and to represent Lubbock in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce contest to be held at Amarillo during the annual convention, June 21 and 22, according to Miss Eula J. Hurst, in charge of the local contest.

The students are busy writing their addresses at this time according to Miss Hurst and all expect to make a strong bid for local honors. Subjects of each of the addresses will be "My Town," each giving facts and figures about Lubbock to show that Lubbock is the best town in which to live in the entire nation.

The winner of the local contest will enter the contest at Amarillo where representatives from all parts of Texas will compete. Winner of first place at the Amarillo contest will be awarded a hundred dollars in cash, a silver loving cup, and a scholarship to the Texas Technological College.

The speech will give Lubbock valuable publicity at the convention with West Texas will be gathered for the annual Chamber of Commerce meet.

ONE COP KILLED AS GUNMEN RAID POLICE MACHINE

POLICE AND ROBBERS IN PHILADELPHIA STAGE STREET BATTLE

(By The Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 4.—One policeman was killed and another fatally injured in a pistol fight today with five men who tried to hold up a bank runner. Four of the men were caught by police after one had been wounded in the leg. They failed to obtain any money.

Attack Police Car
The bandits made the attack upon a police handit-chasing car in which William Miller, the bank runner, had been taking funds under police escort from the main office of the Olney Bank and Trust Company to a branch office. Miller had the money in the branch when he heard pistol shots. The police believe the robbers had trailed the car and been held up in traffic and did not see the runner leave the automobile.

Wounded Cop Returns Fire
Joseph Kaelin, one of the policemen in the car was wounded by the firing and was lying in the street shooting back at the retreating bandits when Miller ran out. Another policeman was also firing at the robbers, whose car was crippled by the police bullets and the bandits abandoned it and fled.

The policeman killed was Harry Cooper. While standing on a street corner he heard shooting and saw a man running toward him. He ordered the man to stop but instead he fired at Cooper who fell dead. The slayer jumped on a passing truck and escaped.

The robbers scattered but four of them were picked up by police.
