Red Belligerence Rebuked By Adlai

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Soviet Union accused President Johnson Saturday of distorting the facts about Viet Nam in "an odd sermon." The statement drew a prompt rebuke from U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson.

Speaking at the conclusion of a two-day special session commemorating the 20th anniversary of the United Nations, Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko charged that the United States was trying to undermine the United Nations.

BELLIGERENT

In the only belligerent words heard in the marathon speechmaking, Fedorenko assailed President Johnson's Friday talk.

He asserted that American actions in Southeast Asia and in the Dominican Republic violated the U.N. Charter.

He said Johnson's appeal to the United Nations to aid in solving the Vietnamese conflict was a distortion of the situation.

Fedorenko's attack, sparking an otherwise quiet ceremonial affair, alleged that the U.N. financial crisis was artifically created by the United States.

Stevenson, the concluding speaker, departed from his prepared text to make a brief but biting response to the Russian.

"This is a commemorative session," Stevenson said, "though for a moment this morning I was not sure whether we were commemorating the birth of the United Nations or the birth of the Cold War."

PREFERS SPIRIT

"I, for one, prefer the spirit of the charter, and I suspect that most of you do, too," the ambassador said.

"I must say that the Soviet Union might do more good by supporting peaceful settlement than by attacking my country for defending small countries from aggression and, indeed, by aiding the aggressor."

Secretary-General U Thant declared that the great danger at present is not that the U.N. Charter will prove inadequate but that policies of individual members may be inimical to the United Nations' purposes.

Thant saw a trend towards a renewal of the Cold War and urged that this be reversed.

"The concept of power politics, whether as the instrument of nationalist or of ideological extremism, is the natural enemy of the international order as envisaged in the charter."

BREATHING SPELL

Stevenson, who was the last to talk, declared, "We need a moratorium — a breathing spell free from acts of international violence.

"If we could somehow bring about a truce to terror we would soon discover that world order will come, not through the purity of the human heart nor the purge of the human soul, but will be wrought from a thousand common ventures that are at once possible and imperative."

Stevenson said it is too dangerous to let the General Assembly remain deadlocked over Soviet voting rights and that this stalemate "must be broken before we sit down again in the General Assembly nine weeks hence."

The U.S. ambassador had been expected by many to make some suggestion for settlement of the U.N. financial crisis.

His reference to Soviet voting rights was the only approach to this problem, however.

DEFICIT

The U.N. deficit has been estimated by U Thant at $108,000,000.

Last Monday, Britain, Canada and four Nordic countries launched a voluntary solvency fund by pledging contributions totalling $17,780,000.

Article 19 of the U.N. Charter provides that members two years in arrears in paying assessments must lose voting rights in the General Assembly. The Soviet Union has refused to contribute for such peace-making missions as the Congo.

State Weather Settles Down

By The Associated Press

The weather in Texas Saturday settled down into its usual summer time groove of mostly clear skies and temperatures around the 100 degree mark.

A severe thunderstorm forecast for the Panhandle-Plains area was cancelled by the U.S. Weather Bureau after expected turbulence failed to develop.

IN many sections the bright sunshine was welcomed after cloudbursts of up to 11 inches Thursday and Friday.

Floodwaters of up to four feet across five crossings of the Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red River kept 153 persons stranded in Palo Duro Canyon, southeast of Amarillo.

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

School officials and all others interested in the expansion of the school system breathed easier Saturday after awarding of a contract for the high school enlargement. J. W. Cooper of Odessa got the job on a $3,434,900 proposal, which was 4.15 per cent within estimates. Bids ran about four times this percentage over the field house unit a week ago and had everyone crossing fingers for the big bid.

What the verdict was in Saturday's legislative election we have no way of knowing at the time this was written. However, there were indications that the turnout would be much better than in Tuesday's bond vote when a comparatively light turnout gave overwhelming approval to the $600,000 roadway bonds. The percentage favoring was 84.76. Estimates are that this will open up about $2,000,000 in work in the next couple of years.

Another bright spot came Friday with word that the Apache No. 1 P. B. Adams in northwest Howard County looked like a sure shot for a Canyon reef discovery. It flowed at the rate of about six barrels per hour through a small choke from perforations at 8936-44.

• • •

Heavy showers arched across the county from a few miles north of Big Spring over Vincent and into Scurry County. Luther got over two inches, Vincent 4½. There was surprisingly little washing for so heavy a rain. Elsewhere there were light to good showers with the result that cotton is growing like Jack's beanstalk. All over the area it is standing up like streamers of green ribbon between furrows.

Brown In Squeaker Wins Legislative Seat

Hardesty Carries Howard, Hall Captures 3 Others

A nip-and-tuck race Saturday saw Roger Brown, young Big Spring attorney, emerge as apparent winner in a special election to become interim legislator in the Texas House of Representatives from the 78th district.

In a three-man contest, with top man victor without a runoff, Brown tallied 1,376 votes to 1,276 for Frank Hardesty and 925 for Harold Hall.

CARRIED LARGEST

The district is composed of seven counties. Hardesty carried the largest, Howard, but his margin over Brown there was only 24 votes. Brown won in three others, while Hall was top man in three.

The returns were complete, but of course unofficial until formal canvassing is done in each of the counties.

Brown chalked up top votes in Coke, Irion and Martin counties, while Hall was leading candidate in Glasscock, Reagan and Sterling.

In Howard, Hardesty had the plurality in 10 of 20 boxes, plus those votes cast absentee. Brown was the leader in the other 10 boxes.

NO MAJOR ISSUES

While all three candidates had been active in past weeks, the campaign largely was without major issues, since no legislative program was up for discussion. The vote was considered light, but not out of line with forecasts, since little interest had been indicated on the part of the electorate. There were some 3,600 ballots cast throughout the district, about 2,800 of these in Howard County.

ROGER BROWN

It was Brown's first venture as a candidate, although he had been fairly active in Democratic party affairs and was the local campaign manager for Governor John Connally in 1960.

He will be serving out the current term of office left vacant by the death of Rep. Ed J. Carpenter. Unless there is a special session of the Legislature, he will not be called upon to take any active part in Austin law-making.

Hardesty, drug store proprietor who resigned as Howard County Democratic chairman to make the race, has long been identified in party affairs, has worked in various campaign years for President Johnson, Senator Ralph Yarborough and other prominent Democrats.

ENDORSEMENT

Hardesty had the formal endorsement of the Howard County Democratic Club, generally carrying the label as the more liberal element of the local party.

Hall, given strong backing from the local and state Republican organizations, mustered more strength than many observers had at first predicted. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the Precinct 3 county commissionership in the 1964 election. He has an auto parts business.

The legislative district is due to change complexion next year, under the state redistricting program. Howard County will be placed in a district with Mitchell and Nolan, so that candidates who may announce from this county for a full term will be working in an entirely new area.

Grandmother Votes

Mrs. Florence Joses, an 83-year old grandmother, 1501 Tucson, cast her ballot in the special legislative election Saturday. She voted at Box 4, Central Fire Station, as Billy T. Smith, election judge, looked on.

Rebel Snipers Fire On U.S. Positions

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Rebel snipers attacked U.S. troops in Santo Domingo four times in darkness but the American forces did not fire back, U.S. military sources charged Saturday. They said there were no casualties.

DENIED

The rebels denied they fired on any Americans.

The U.S. officials said the shooting erupted Friday night. The biggest flurry was a volley of 20 rounds fired at a U.S. patrol in the vicinity of the east-west corridor, the U.S. informants said.

The corridor cuts across the top of the rebel-held Ciudad Nueva in downtown Santo Domingo.

Rebel officials claim their troops are under orders not to shoot unless fired upon.

Reports from San Francisco de Macoris reported that area tense but quiet after Friday's battle between armed civilians and the Dominican military loyal to the civilian-military junta. An investigating team sent by the inter-American peace force reported at least 16 persons dead, four of them belonging to the junta forces.

A two-man mission from the Inter-American Human Rights Commission flew to San Francisco de Macoris to look into the situation. Making the trip were Carlos A. Dunshee de Abranches of Brazil and Enrique Ferrer Vieyra of Argentina.

U.S. military sources denied reports that any American troops had been sent into the San Francisco de Macoris area except for a few guards that accompanied the inter-American peace force inquiry team.

PEACE FORCE

The peace force was strengthened early Saturday by the arrival of 183 officers and men from the Paraguayan army. The Paraguayans are under the command of Maj. Roberto Cubas Barbosa. This raises peace force strength in the Dominican Republic to 14,131 men from seven hemisphere countries with the U.S. providing the most, 12,419.

Summit Meeting Delay Approved

ALGIERS (AP) — The preparatory committee for the Asian-African summit meeting decided Saturday to postpone the gathering from June 29 to Nov. 5.

The session will still be held in Algiers.

ALGERIA SPARED

The decision spared Algeria the humiliation of having the session taken to another country.

But the postponement was a reflection on the violence and unrest which have swept this country since Col. Houari Boumedienne swept President Ben Bella out of office a week ago Saturday.

Eleven countries, including Algeria, had proposed the postponement.

This was a switch for Algeria. It previously had been determined, along with Red China and some other nations, to go ahead with the summit meeting despite the political turbulence in Algiers.

The proposal was submitted to a meeting of the 15-nation preparatory committee of ambassadors meeting behind closed doors in the Algerian National Assembly. The summit meeting was scheduled to open next Tuesday.

MINISTERS DELAY

Only a short time before, the Foreign Ministry announced that a foreign ministers meeting, which was to decide whether to go ahead with the summit meeting, had been postponed indefinitely.

Up until the new move for postponement, most of the ambassadors on the committee were said to have been in favor of the summit conference meeting on schedule.

The 11-nation group met separately in an effort to find a way out of the confusion surrounding the big summit gathering.

With Algeria reluctantly bowing to the will of the other 10, the group agreed that postponement of the summit was the only solution.

The 11 nations are Morocco, Libya, Algeria, Tunisia, Sudan, the United Arab Republic, Ethiopia, Mauritania, Cameroons, Mali and Somalia.

A six-nation group of Asian nations — India, the Philippines, Thailand, Ceylon, Japan and the Moscow-oriented Mongolian Peoples Republic — had urged postponement for the past two days.

PRESS AHEAD

Only Red China, Indonesia, North Viet Nam and North Korea seemed to be still determined to press ahead with the summit.

Algiers has been swept by frequent riots against the military regime of strong man Col. Houari Boumedienne, and the conference building was severely damaged Friday, apparently through sabotage.

Cong Guerrillas Run Over Government Posts

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas overran two widely separated Vietnamese positions Saturday — one close to teeming Saigon.

In one of the attacks, retreating South Vietnamese units turned and launched a counter-attack, a U.S. spokesman said.

MAJOR STRIKES

The Communist forces aimed their first major strikes since the battle of Dong Xoai two weeks ago on the district town of Tou Marong, 45 miles north of Kontum, near the Laotian border; and on a battalion command post near Duc Hoa, 20 miles west of Saigon.

Military spokesmen said radio contact was lost with the 200 defenders at Tou Marong, in the central highlands. A low cloud ceiling prevented fighter-bombers from providing air support for the defenders.

The spokesmen said 44 Vietnamese infantrymen were killed and another 40 wounded at the command post near Duc Hoa. Viet Cong dead were given as 34.

Sgt. George D. Vanlandingham, Alexandria, Va., one of two U.S. advisers with the battalion, said the guerrillas swarmed across the Vaico Oriental River and hit the command post at a group of buildings near a bend in the river.

DIDN'T STOP

"We heard them and fired artillery on their positions, but it didn't stop them," Vanlandingham said.

One hour after the initial attack, Vietnamese officers decided to retreat from the battalion command post. The Viet Cong had moved right up behind the main command post building, the sergeant said. 'We were firing at them almost point blank through the house."

At the time of the attack, the Viet Cong also fired 20 to 30 mortar shells at the U.S. compound at Duc Hoa, headquarters of the 25th Division. No Americans were injured, a spokesman said.

Vanlandingham called in armed helicopters and A1 Skyraider fighter-bombers. F100 jets joined in the attack later.

The sergeant said the two Vietnamese companies that had evacuated the command post moved back just before daylight.

BIGGEST KILLS

"We caught them there policing up their dead and wounded. That is where we scored our biggest kills," Vanlandingham said.

Reinforcements moved in after daylight and the Viet Cong broke off the engagement.

Six Americans and two Australians were killed in two separate incidents listed as accidents.

Five U.S. Marines drowned when the M48 tank in which they were riding plunged into a 12-foot dropoff in a stream bed. Three other Marines escaped.

The other deaths resulted from an explosion in a crowded truckload of American and Australian servicemen at Bien Hoa airbase, just north of Saigon. Ten other Australians were wounded. A spokesman said a grenade may have exploded.

Head Start Program Will Begin July 5

Operation Head Start, a designation given to a nationwide program for children of low-income backgrounds who will begin school in September, will get under way in over 2,300 U. S. communities July 5. Big Spring will be included, with an estimated enrollment of around 212 children, and units set up at Airport, Bauer, Boydstun, Cedar Crest, and Lakeview Elementary Schools.

Thirteen classes are planned for the five centers in Big Spring. A teacher may be provided for each 15 pupils, according to Dr. C. L. Ainsworth, director of educational services for the Big Spring schools. Additional assistance in the form of teacher aids and community volunteers will be available.

ATTEND SCHOOL

Thirteen teachers, who will be assigned to the Head Start program, attended a training program at SMU June 7-12. Going from Big Spring were: Jim Holmes, principal; Dolly Wilkins, counselor: Cecile Banks, Gladys Burns, Margaret Cooper, Lena Davis, Mamie Lee Dodds, Lottie B. Morgan, Essie L. Person, Doris Peters, Ola Mae Robertson, Madelene Speegle, and Athelda Watts. Two other teachers assigned are Thelma Kloven and Thelma Williams.

"The children will be involved in many of the readiness type activities of kindergarten," Dr. Ainsworth said. "Included will be trips into the community, development of social skills and manners, and other features. Various media from picture books to sound films will be used to acquaint them with a broader environment than their background would be expected to provide. Muscular, rhythmic, and recreational activities are also planned. Materials for these purposes are available and have been included in the school budget. It will primarily be a kindergarten and experience-broadening situation planned to operate from July 5 through Aug. 27."

FEDERAL GRANT

The program is financed by a grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity, based upon an application and description of the proposed program. Local participation is to be at least 10 per cent (which may be in kind rather than actual cash outlay) of the cost. The federal grant for Big Spring has been approved for $27,716 of the budgeted $32,825 for the program. Of the $5,109 local share it is estimated that more than $4,400 will include use of facilities, materials, and other items. The remaining $600 will be largely for teaching aids, such as books, which can be used in the regular school program.

"The schedule is aimed at improving health and nutritional aspects as well as cultural and academic backgrounds," Dr. Ainsworth continued. "Lunches will be provided. Physical examinations and followups are included as part of the project. Forty cents per child per day has been allocated for meals with preparation at a central kitchen, and delivery in throw-away trays, and by use of surplus commodities, it is estimated that this amount will be sufficient to provide cafeteria meals even though the schools to be used do not have proper facilities."

NO COST

Physicians, dentists and optometrists will be available for checking children at no cost to parents. This will include eyes, teeth and general health.

Volunteers will be on hand for registration of the youngsters, and the questionnaires contain some 98 questions to be answered. These questions will give a complete family background, medical and dental history, immunization history, examination results and diagnosis and impressions of examining specialists.

Cornerstone Has Been Lost

POTTSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—According to records, the cornerstone of Trinity United Church of Christ was laid June 11, 1865.

To mark the beginning of its 100th year, church leaders thought they'd like to examine the old documents and coins inside the cornerstone.

There's one problem. No one can find it.

"I just can't find the cornerstone," said the Rev. Dr. John B. Frantz, pastor. "I don't have any idea where it could be." He said he looked at the corners of the building and elsewhere.

"I'm sure there's a cornerstone somewhere," he said.

Fifteen Are Graduated In Mechanics Class

Fifteen men graduated from the auto mechanics school Friday evening at Howard County Junior College, and James Banks, instructor, cited them for effort and achievement.

Billy R. Fletcher was announced as the honor graduate who had been most outstanding in his work, while Adan C. Urias was named as the student who had made the most progress.

Joe Pickle, member of the Manpower Development and Training Act committee, praised the mechanics for their tenacity in sticking to a program that involved six hours a day for 52 weeks, and thus showing appreciation for an opportunity to upgrade their talents. Because of this background, he said, they should have confidence in themselves and the future of their new vocation. He urged them to apply their knowledge, to exercise initiative in their work and always continue training to meet ever changing needs.

The mechanics course, under the MDTA course, is a part of the college that HCJC is proud of, said Dr. W. A. Hunt, in congratulating the men on their achievement. Banks announced the certificates and honors, and Dr. Hunt presented the awards. Richard Williams, minister of the 11th Place and Birdwell Church of Christ, worded the invocation and pronounced the benediction. After the ceremonies in the college auditorium, the men and their families attended a graduation banquet.

Another course—the third in auto mechanics, is due to begin soon and run for a year, Banks said. Seven of the graduating class already are on the job and the three others will report Monday. Banks anticipated placement of all in a short time.

Police Training School To Cover City Ordinances

A training school designed to brief all Big Spring police department employes on the city ordinance code will begin Monday.

The classes will be conducted in two two-hour periods each day, with different shifts of the department attending each period. The school will conclude Friday.

"The instruction is to familiarize each employe of the department with the code, the structure of our city government, and the general powers of the city," Police Chief Jay Banks said.

Both patrol officers and departmental employes will attend the classes.

"This is the first complete school we have conducted on the ordinances," Assistant Chief Leo Hull said. Previously officers have been briefed by the department on new ordinances, particularly those involving police action. However, no instruction had been given on the entire code. Last year the city ordinances were brought up to date for the first time in many years, with the ordinances codified and in some cases revised. One volume containing all city ordinances was printed.

The first classes Monday will concern traffic ordinances, with City Attorney John Burgess as instructor.

Tuesday sessions will be conducted on a series of city departments, including public works, by Ernest Lillard, public works director; the fire department, by Fire Marshal A. D. Meador; city-county health unit, by Lige Fox, health officer; electrical department, Roy Rogan; building inspection, Tom Newton; and electrical inspections, Homer Ward. City Manager Larry Crow will conduct a class on the city charter, city powers, structure of the government and appointment of officers.

Assistant Chief Hull will instruct Wednesday on ordinances concerning animals, food and food establishments, garbage and trash, health and sanitation and unsafe buildings. Chief Banks is to discuss Moss Creek Lake, parks and recreation, carnivals, pool halls and shooting galleries.

Thursday Capt. Stanley Bogard will instruct on street, sidewalk and alley ordinances and those concerning taxicabs. Sgt. Sherrill Farmer is to discuss movement of buildings and the wrecker ordinance.

Friday, Detective Wayne Tollett is to discuss alcoholic beverage and dance hall ordinances, Detective A. P. Hurley ordinances on junk and second hand dealers and Chief Banks miscellaneous offenses.

Cemetery Improvement

Volunteers Provide Markers For Cemetery At Hospital

Permanent concrete markers will soon replace the simple, temporary placards that now designate the graves of the forgotten or desperately poor who are buried in the Big Spring State Hospital graveyard.

Tuesday, members of the Jaycees and the Big Spring Volunteer Council trucked 200 small head stones to the graveyard, located off a dirt trail in a cotton field south of the hospital.

The markers were poured by the Clyde McMahon Concrete Co. in a mold made by council members. Charles Butts, council president, said copper plates with the vital statistics of the dead will be attached to the markers in the near future.

A program to improve the appearance of the burial grounds was initiated more than a year ago. The council decided to make the grounds more level, lay 1,000 feet of two-inch plastic water pipe from the hospital to the cemetery, plant grass, and replace the paper nameplates on metal stands, that now serve as gravestones, with the permanent markers. The grounds project, except for the markers, was completed last spring.

Some grass now grows around the graves. The small placards, weathered to illegibility, and a lone marble headstone are all that presently identify the place as a cemetery.

The graveyard is the resting place for patients who have no families, are forgotten, or whose families cannot afford burial elsewhere, according to Charles McQuaid, personnel director of the hospital.

"Perhaps some other hospitals have started a similar improvement program," he said, "but I don't think any have accomplished this much."

A hospital chaplain performs services for those who are to be buried on the hospital grounds, and, McQuaid emphasized, the simple rites are Christian.

The improvement program, including the markers, is a permanent, volunteer project, Butts said. "We always will have an adequate supply of markers on hand," he added. "All the present graves will have the permanent markers as soon as engraving of the plates is finished."

Six Jaycees loaded the finished markers on a truck at McMahon's Tuesday at 10 a.m., took them to the graveyard and piled them in a corner of the grounds. When the name-plates are finished, they will be placed at the heads of the graves.

Joins Sheep Study Series

A dynamic, young animal scientist has been picked to represent Texas Tech in an elite group which will perform a series of reproduction studies on sheep.

Dr. Sam E. Curl, a Tech assistant professor of animal husbandry, has recently received a $3,600 grant from the G. D. Searle Co., a Chicago - based pharmaceutical firm, to study the synchronization of the estrus cycle in ewes.

Dr. Curl was selected as one of five researchers at universities in various parts of the nation to work on these studies, which are the first of their kind in the United States. Similar tests have been run on Australian sheep but never before in the United States.

"We will attempt to bring a large group of ewes into estrus at the same time," he explained, "thereby controlling the lamb crop."

One hundred and fifty Rambouillet ewes have been randomly divided into three groups of 50 each. The Tech researcher added that Group I will serve as the experimental control, while groups II and III will receive applications of a hormone called Progesterone.

"The hormone will keep these ewes out of estrus as long as it is applied," Dr. Curl said. "They should go into estrus two days after the hormone is withdrawn."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Family Offers Thanks For Blood Donations

To The Editor:

The citizens of our city have always responded so well whenever a need was made known to them; we had observed this display of kindness in so many ways through the years. These acts of love and concern have come very close to us many times, particularly whenever a call went out for help for the patients at the Big Spring State Hospital.

The large number of volunteers from our community is living proof of such devotion; equally impressive always has been the dedication of all employes of the state hospital to our patients as well as to needs of our community. We never cease to be awed by all these acts of kindness by so many of our citizens, employes of the hospital, Webb personnel and people of the community at large alike.

At a time of personal need, June 23, when we needed blood for our son, Robert, the hospital employes and citizens of our community astonished us with their immediate response. We are deeply touched and affected by such outpouring of care and concern. Equally important almost as the blood, is the knowledge of this concern. Robert now knows that blood will be available again when needed. Mrs. Harrison and I want to express on behalf of Robert and ourselves our sincere appreciation and thanks to all the wonderful people of Big Spring.

Gratefully,

DR. AND MRS. PRESTON HARRISON

Credit Unions Report Gains

Federal credit unions in the state of Texas showed a 14 per cent gain in assets last year, reaching a new high of $310,343,000, according to figures released by HEW Regional Director James H. Bond.

Members savings (shares) reached a new high of $269,180,000 which is an average of $481 each for the 559,505 members of the federal credit unions in the state. Loans outstanding at the end of the year to FCU members in the state totaled $245,193,000.

Nationally, there was an increase of over $560 million in savings, representing an increase of 16.4 per cent, passing $4 billion for the first time. Membership in the 50 states, the District of Columbia, the territories and possessions reached 8,092,000 and total assets $4,559 million. Loans outstanding to members totaled $3,351 million. During their 30-year history currently operating federal credit unions have made loans to their members totaling more than $34 billion. There were 11,278 FCU as of the end of 1964.

City Will Mark Fourth On Fifth

Independence Day this year falls on Sunday — so Big Spring generally will celebrate the Fourth on the Fifth.

All downtown stores are expected to be closed. The retail merchant's committee of the chamber of commerce has officially approved the July 5 holiday, and a check indicated it would be generally followed.

The post office, according to E. C. Boatler, postmaster, will be closed. All windows will be shut down; there will be no route deliveries and only a skeleton crew will be on hand to keep up with incoming and outgoing mail.

The Howard County Courthouse will be shut down, and only a part of the sheriff's force will be on duty. The City Hall will likewise present closed doors and the emergency services will be kept operating with a minimum number of workers. The police, of course, will continue on the job.

All state and federal offices and agencies will observe the holiday.

The day is not a holiday for the banks, however. These establishments will be operating as usual.

For Cosden Oil and Chemical Company, it is a general holiday. All of the downtown offices will be closed. The maintenance men and others in that group will be off duty at the refinery. The operations, naturally, will go on as usual, but the workers will be on holiday pay.

Highway patrol officers get no holiday. The Fourth creates one of the deadly long weekends which are the bane of the officers charged with keeping the highways and roads safe.

Thousands of cars will be on the highways as drivers go on holiday trips.

Resort areas in the district are likely to be teeming with celebrants. Lakes expect a record turnout and the lake keepers are girding themselves this far ahead to be ready for the rush.

Myers Still Awaits Final Judgment

HAGGARD PAIR SOON AFTER ARREST
Donna Marie Stone, below, and John Edwin Myers

By SAM BLACKBURN

Remember John Edwin Myers?

Ever wonder what happened to the Chicago transient who admitted killing four persons in three bloodstained days in the fall of 1961?

John Edwin Myers should now have been dead one year and one day.

FOUND GUILTY

A district court jury in Belleville, Ill., which found Myers guilty of murdering an 11-year-old girl, decreed his punishment at death. A stern-faced Illinois judge solemnly sentenced Myers to die. That was April 9, 1964, and the judge declared that Myers should pay with his life June 26, 1964.

Myers had heard these same grim words once before. On that occasion, a judge, just as stern-faced and deeply moved as the one in Illinois, had doomed him to die in the Texas electric chair. That was in Rush, Tex., where he had been tried and found guilty of his admitted fourth and final murder.

But today, a year and a day after a court decreed he should die, and nearly four years since he and his chubby, round-faced 13-year-old girlfriend, Donna Marie Stone, launched their brief but bloody career in murder, Myers is still much alive and in good health.

HEALTHY APPETITE

Today, in the Menard Branch of the Illinois State Penitentiary, Chester, Ill., he will probably eat his Sunday prison dinner with the same healthy appetite he displayed in his two-year stay in the Howard County jail.

A month, two months, perhaps even a year from now, it is expected the Illinois Supreme Court will decide if the verdict of the Belleville jury and the sentence of the St. Clair County judge are valid. If the high court holds the trial of Myers for the slaying of little Carole Ballard to have been a legal proceeding, it may be the one-time restaurant cook may at long last have to make that lonely walk to the death chamber.

NOT WORRIED

But Myers is probably not worried.

Once before he was doomed to die for his crimes; the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals studied the minutes of his trial in Rusk and decided that the proceedings were not proper. So Myers evaded the electric chair. He has good reason, doubtless, to expect the same fortune to follow him now.

Maurice F. Joseph, sheriff of St. Clair County, Ill., said Friday that when Myers was found guilty in April, 1964, the attorneys who had been appointed to represent him asked to be relieved of their responsibilities. The court appointed two new lawyers.

Illinois law makes it mandatory that a death sentence be reviewed by the Illinois Supreme Court. The two new attorneys pleaded they needed time to prepare their appeal. Eight weeks ago, they finally placed their case before the high court. Joseph said that nothing has been heard from the tribunal since.

AUGUST, 1961

Myers' saga of murder began in Chicago Aug. 22, 1961. It ended in Midland shortly after midnight, Sept. 1, 1961. The first homicide he admitted occurred on the lonely shores of a resort lake near Bellville, Ill., Aug. 30; fourth and final killing was perpetrated a mile or two west of Big Spring around 11:30 p.m. Aug. 31.

The story begins when Myers, accompanied by Donna Marine Stone, set out from Chicago on foot for East St. Louis, Ill. They left East St. Louis and made their way to a small lake near Belleville. There the pair lived in an empty farmhouse. For several days they said they sustained themselves by burglarizing summer cottages for food and clothing.

It was on the lake shore they encountered George Ballard, 45, of Belleville, and his little daughter, Carole. The Ballards had come to the lake in an old car to fish.

Armed with a pistol, which Donna Marie had stolen from an uncle before the pair began their travels, they held up the father and daughter. They tied them with rope and, while they were helpless, shot them to death. Purpose of the crime, Myers said, was to get possession of the Ballard automobile.

WOULD NOT START

This proved a fiasco as the car would not start. So Myers and his cold-eyed sweetheart again set out afoot.

Later that day, they came upon another farmhouse and terrorized a man and his wife, and their 39-year-old niece, Miss Margaret Wernicker. They forced Miss Wernicker to accompany them as they drove southward in her car.

Near Thayer, Mo., they bound Miss Wernicker, took her into a lonely wooded glade and shot her to death. Donna Marie stripped off the victim's slacks from her still warm body.

Driving south, Myers and Donna Marie reached Fort Worth. Near that city, they encountered a hitchhiker plodding westward along the road and offered him a ride.

He was Arthur DeKraai, a 33-year-old jobless plumber who had hit the road in search of work. His home was in Ottumwa, Iowa.

About midnight Aug. 31, the car reached Big Spring. En route, while drinking coffee in a Sweetwater cafe, Myers and Donna Marie decided to kill DeKraai for what money he might have. At the time the death plot was concocted, DeKraai, who had said he wanted no coffee, was sitting in the car outside the cafe.

IMPATIENT

The car rolled through Big Spring and out on IS 20 west. Donna Marie was impatient to get on with the plan. DeKraai, weary with his long day, had dropped off to sleep. He was sitting on the right hand side of the front seat. Donna Marie was in the middle; Myers was driving.

Donna Marie leaned forward. Myers said he pulled the pistol which had served in the execution of the Ballards and Miss Wernicker. He reached across the back of the seat, placing the muzzle of the pistol within an inch of the sleeping plumber's head, and fired several shots. DeKraai slumped forward. Myers drove on west on IS 20. He came to a farm road which turned south off the highway. He drove down this road a mile and spotted a dim ranch road leading east into a pasture.

Half a mile along this road, he opened the car door and shoved DeKraai's body out of the seat into a mesquite thicket. Then he and Donna Marie searched DeKraai's pockets.

DeKraai did not have a penny.

STOPPED

A short time later, as the car drove through the quiet streets of Midland, an alert highway patrolman spotted it and the license plate recalled a report of a stolen Illinois car. He halted the vehicle.

Myers and Donna Marie stepped out of the car. Donna Marie, still wearing the slacks from the body of Margaret Wernicker, was asked how it happened she had fresh bloodstains on the garment.

In a few minutes, the two had told the officer they had just killed a man half an hour or so earlier near Big Spring.

Returned to Big Spring they were kept in jail here for nearly two years. An attempt to try Myers here for the DeKraai murder failed when a jury could not be found. Judge Ralph Caton ordered a change of venue and the case was transferred to Rusk. A jury there found him guilty and fixed his punishment at death. The Texas Court of Criminal appeals reversed the case; the jury, it said, had been guilty of misconduct. It ordered Myers retired.

SECOND ATTEMPT

Another attempt was made to try him in Tahoka. A new delay arose, and Gil Jones, who was district attorney of Howard County at the time, decided to ask Illinois if they wanted to take the man and try him for the Ballard killings.

Sheriff Joseph came for Myers. He was found guilty of the murder of little Carole Ballard and for a second time, a jury decreed he should die. That was 16 months ago.

Meantime, after the Rusk trial, Donna Marie who could not be prosecuted for her part in the murder of DeKraai in Texas because she was a juvenile, had been surrendered to Illinois authorities.

Brought before the court in Belleville, she pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the death of Carole Ballard. She was remanded to the Illinois Youth Commission and committed to the Youth Institution at Geneva to remain until she is 18 years of age.

Donna was 13 when she and Myers set out on the wild ride south. She is now 17 and has less than a year to serve at the Geneva reformatory.

STILL ON DOCKET

Meantime, the DeKraai murder indictment is still on the docket of the 118th District Court here. An indictment pends against Myers in Thayer, Mo., for Miss Wernicker's death. And, of course, the Illinois indictment charging him with the death of George Ballard is still on the books in Belleville.

If he eludes punishment for the killing of Carole Ballard, he could be tried for any of the other crimes pending.

But will he be tried again?

Nearly four years have passed since that bloody three day junket. Witnesses have disappeared. Much of the physicial evidence is scattered. Officials have changed. Memories of those who worked on the case have become less sharp.

Each month that passes, Myers creeps further away from the menacing shadow of the death house.

FLOURISHED

In the Howard County jail, Myers flourished during his two years here. He gained weight. The hunted look which marked him, when he was first arrested, vanished. He took up painting. There was even a local woman who became infatuated with him and sent him cigarettes, candy and wrote him long impassioned love letters.

If he had a conscience, it did not make itself evident here. Now that so many months have passed, it seems quite possible he no longer feels even the faintest twinge of remorse for his misdeeds.

Meantime, the words of a psychiatrist who testified for the state in the Rusk trial still echo in the ears of those who heard him at the trial:

NEVER ALONE

There is only one way to keep John Edwin Myers from killing — never let him walk alone; always see that an armed policeman walks at his side."

Bond Posted In Murder Charge

Mrs. Ruthie Mae Miller, 44, of 1107½ NW 4th, was arrested shortly before noon Saturday and charged with murder, following the death of Elijah Brown, 68, in a Big Spring hospital at 9:49 p.m. Friday.

Brown had been stabbed in the upper left chest with a screwdriver, and the weapon pierced his heart, according to medical reports. His body was first taken to River-Welch Funeral Home, later to the Hubbard-Kelley Funeral Home in Odessa by Big Spring Ambulance Service for a post mortem, and then returned to River-Welch where his body was prepared for shipment to Seguin for services.

Mrs. Miller, who was arrested by Howard County Sheriff's officers following a call from her family, was turned over to Big Spring police. Justice of the Peace Walter Grice set her bond at $2,500, which she posted, and was released.

She made a statement concerning the stabbing to Detective Wayne Tollett. Witnesses at the scene Friday night also made statements.

Brown allegedly went to the Miller home and attacked Mrs. Miller, who said she picked up the screwdriver and struck him. She said he went outside and later returned, but she refused to see him.

Two men, working on a car at the rear of 1007 NW 4th, said Brown walked up to them and asked to be taken to a hospital. Before they could get him in the car, he fell, and was pronounced dead after reaching the hospital.

Glickman Tours Africa

Julius Glickman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Glickman, will be in Africa for the next three weeks to direct a press seminar for student editors and future editors of East African university newspapers.

He left about 10 days ago for this assignment, stopping in London, Paris, Athens and Brussels. He is due to visit in Cairo before going to Nairobi for the seminar. If he has time, he will visit in West Africa before returning.

For the past year he has been a field representative with the United States National Student Association, working in connection with students in this country under the International Union of Students exchange program. Some college journalists, including the editor of the Daily Texan, the University of Texas newspaper, also are participating in the seminar of East African collegiate journalists, including those from Uganda, Zambia, Tanzania, Kenya and Ethiopia.

The seminar will start Monday and continue through July 18. In the autumn Glickman is due to enter school again to complete the final year of work toward his law degree.

Y Youth To Attend Meet

Five Big Spring youths will be among 1,000 teenagers from across the country attending a six-day conference at the 11th National Hi-Y Assembly beginning July 1, according to Curtis Mullins, general secretary of the Big Spring YMCA.

Mullins said 38 youngsters from the area would attend the conference at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn. The Big Spring youths who will attend the assembly, held each three years, are Cheryl Kasch, 518 Edwards Circle; Harvelyn Adams, 1709 Harvard; Robert Gossett, 545 Hillside Drive; Randy French, 714 Hillside Drive; and Patty Haralson, 701 West 17th.

Civil rights, national and foreign affairs, religion, sex, education, and job opportunity will be among the subjects discussed by the representatives. Principal speaker will be Dr. Samuel Proctor, formerly Associate Director of the Peace Corps, now Associate General Secretary of the National Council of Churches.

Syrup Plant Lost In Fire

JEFFERSON, Tex. (AP) — Fire Friday night destroyed the Blackburn syrup works, one of the largest industries in this East Texas town. The loss was estimated at $500,000.

Flames were out of control when firemen arrived. Firemen from nearby Marshall helped fight the fire.

Company officials said welding work was done at the plant Friday and sparks from a welding machine may have started the fire.

The plant will be rebuilt.

Equalization Board Meets This Week

More than 1,100 property owners in Howard County have received notices in the past week advising them of a change in the tax valuation of their real estate.

Some of these changes announce a reduction in value; others an increase and some are adjustments brought about by construction or other improvements.

Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, mailed the notices to the property owners advising them they can come before the scheduled equalization board meetings Tuesday and Wednesday if they want to discuss the changes with the officials.

The county commissioners, acting as a board of equalization, will be on hand both days to deal with any debates over county property.

The city and schools will be represented by George Elliott, Lawrence Robinson and Bill Sheppard who have been named as a tax equalization board for those agencies. They will be in session at the courthouse and all city and school assessments which seem to need adjustment, can be discussed with them.

Last year, the session was extremely quiet. Possibly less than 100 property owners asked for conferences. Some of these, it was said, were not protests but were cases where the property owner was confused and needed information.

WINGS OVER BIG SPRING

New Hangar Rising For Base Program

By M. A. WEBB

The new hangar-office building at Howard County Airport is fast taking shape. Interior walls, fixtures, and finishing is being done, with the suspended accoustical ceilings yet to be installed and painting done.

The front, or east section, of the building will provide hangar space for aircraft being serviced. The west half will be taken up by five offices, rest rooms, a large briefing room, and a conference room. A hallway will divide the offices from the briefing and conference rooms. Ray Dunlap, contractor, said Friday that the floors would be of concrete, with no covering. The offices and other rooms will be cooled with evaporative - type air-conditioning.

The grass "island," about 200 feet long and some 40 feet wide, which formerly separated the parking area, now being used for the hangar, from the tie-down apron, is being blacktopped for more tie-down space and access to the hangar.

According to "shirt tails" on the bulletin board at Howard County Airport, two men have done solos in the past 10 days. They are Ed Eaton and Bill Johns.

Club flying remained low during the week. Some cross country flights, from two- to five-day and longer, have kept three airplanes tied up.

* * *

Webb Aero Club members flying were: Cessna 150 — Green (6), Jamerson (2), Henry, Morrell (5), Davison (2), Cardiff, Thomas; Cessna 172 — Kunkel (2), Warren (cross country June 24-July 8).

Big Spring Flying Club members checking out the Colt and Skyhawk were: Colt — Johnson (5), Merrick, Bartlett (cross country), Hopkins (cross country); Skyhawk — Stewart (2-day cross country), Johnson.

Howard County Flying Club's Colt and Cherokee were flown by: Colt — White (4), Hatch, Eaton, Fort, Rainwater, Reed, Heartsill (5-day cross country); Cherokee — Dodson (cross country).

Trans-Texas Airways has a new director of public relations. He is James A. Cassady, a 10-year employe who rose from ticket agent to manager of conventions and tours, and now to the public relations office.

Incidentally, don't forget the new flight to Dallas beginning July 1 when the departure times goes back to 6:07 a.m. from the present 8:33 a.m. to give business commuters a full day in Dallas or Fort Worth.

Hams To Set Up Field Day Center

Big Spring ham radio operators will establish an emergency communications center on Scenic Mountain this weekend, joining amateur radio operators through the U. S. and possessions in a field day program.

Visitors have been invited to view the radio center Sunday afternoon. The Big Spring Amateur Radio Club will participate during the weekend in exchanging messages in the American Radio Relay League's program. A portion of the field day activities will be designed to test amateur radio capabilities during emergency situations.

Pins May Be Given Police Academy Grads

The third session of the Southwest Academy for Law Enforcement concluded Friday as 11 officers, including three from Big Spring, were presented diplomas at a noon luncheon. A capacity audience attended the program at the Downtown Tea Room.

Speaker for the program was Lewis E. Berry, editor of the "Texas Lawman" manazine, who discussed the revised code of criminal procedure adopted this year and reviewed new laws involving law enforcement.

The graduates included officers from San Angelo, Brownfield, Snyder and Andrews. The Big Spring officers were John Minnick, Lee Justice and Charles Chamberlain.

Prior to the noon luncheon, the academy's advisory board met in the Tea Room. Plans were begun for the next session, tentatively scheduled for Oct. 4. Included in the instruction at the fourth session will be the revised code of criminal procedure.

The board also discussed adoption of a pin for civilian clothes and a uniform patch designating graduates of the academy.

The academy includes about 160 hours of instruction, 40 more than that recommended by the Texas Police Association as a minimum standard of training for police officers. The Texas Legislature this year passed a bill creating a board to recommend a program of police training centers. Three other such schools are now maintained, all under assistance of the Texas A&M University police training division. The academy here is conducted at Howard County Junior College, with the A&M division and the Big Spring Police Department joining in sponsorship.

Cowboy Hall Of Fame

This is an aerial view of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center dedicated Saturday in Oklahoma City. Seventeen states are represented in the shrine and contributed to its $2.5 million cost. Cowboy Hall Of Fame Dedicated Saturday

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Most of the wagons were rubber-tired, and many of the Indians pale-faced — but the spirit of the West was there for the dedication Saturday of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame.

A two-mile-long parade, led by Western movie actor John Wayne and representatives of 17 Western states, kicked off the day-long festivities.

Cowboys and Indians, covered wagons and Cadillacs mingled in the parade through downtown Oklahoma City.

The dignitaries and guests gathered at the northeast edge of the city atop Persimmon Hill for the formal opening and dedication of the $2.5-million museum memorializing the frontiersmen who settled the West.

The dedication marked the end of a 13-year drive to build the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western heritage center.

It began when the late Chester A. Reynolds, Kansas City garment manufacturer, visited the Will Rogers Memorial in Claremore, Okla. He thought other great Westerners should be honored, too.

Reynolds, who died in 1958, contacted the governors of 17 Western states and persuaded them to appoint trustees of an interstate commission to build the museum. At the first meeting of the trustees, five honorees were picked. There now are more than 150.

Money problems plagued the museum builders from the start and several times work had to be stopped when funds ran out.

The structure finally was completed under a self-liquidating bond issue promoted by the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce.

The shrine, on a hill overlooking Oklahoma City's US 66 bypass, is expected to attract more than a million persons during the next year.

The three-sided structure is composed of a series of high, peaked concrete roofs, soaring 80 feet. Glass walls add to the feeling of "wide open spaces" the designers sought.

Dean Krakel, director of the museum, describes a 45-by-40 foot relief map of the United States as the "hub of the institution." Its displays also include paintings and statues, stereo-recreated sounds of the West and a hall of fame for Western movies.

In the open area in front of the museum wave the flags of the 17 participating states.

Soviet Paper Complains Rocket Units Unprepared

MOSCOW (AP) — The military paper Red Star Saturday complained about shortcomings in the Soviet rocket forces. It said many units were unprepared for the next war.

The sharply critical article was the latest in a rash of complaints about the rocket troops' preparedness published in the Defense Ministry organ.

The tone of the criticism suggested that a thorough inspection of rocket units had turned up widespread shortcomings.

The paper warned: "The next war will demand the greatest stress on moral and physical resources and will take place in unusually complicated circumstances."

Some commanders were conducting rocket training exercises "as though combat moves will be made only by one side and the 'enemy' will either be idle or will display a passivity that will be to the trainee's advantage," the paper complained.

Among the shortcomings the paper has discussed in articles published recently were:

Excessive paper work in target tracking centers that hampers the efficient handling of combat missions.

Duplication of effort by various control centers and lack of coordination among them.

Misuse of the latest electronic computing equipment by officers who "try to work in the old-fashioned way."

The paper said that in addition to simplifying training problems, some officers were giving their units undeservedly high ratings in training exercises.

It said observations with cameras and tape recorders in some tracking centers showed that targets would in reality have gotten through because of slight errors that went unnoticed.

The paper also accused some commanders of assigning incompetent officers to the rocket control centers because they didn't have any other jobs for them.

It demanded tighter training and drill for rocket units under realistic and complicated combat conditions and severe punishment for officers who make mistakes.

Every Conventional Type Of Weapon In Viet Nam

By Elton C. Fay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has drawn on almost every type of arms in its arsenal of conventional weapons to cope with the mounting ferocity of Communist attack in Viet Nam.

This proliferation of weaponry ranges from carbines for foot soldiers to the recently used B52 strategic bombers.

AGREEMENTS

Four years ago when this country began to send equipment and small numbers of military advisers to help South Viet Nam fight the Viet Cong questions were raised about restrictions imposed by international agreements.

The 1954 Geneva accords, which the United States promised to adhere to although not a signatory, specified that no types of weapons not in use by North or South Viet Nam forces at the time of the agreement should be introduced. It permitted only replacement with the same or similar type weapons.

That document soon became a scrap of paper.

The State Department, basing its action on reports of members of the International Control Commission, held that the introduction of new weapons for the assistance of South Vietnamese defense was justified by what it termed flagrant North Vietnamese violations in the weapons provided the Viet Cong.

NO EVIDENCE

The Pentagon took occasion Saturday to say it knows of no evidence that medium range ground-to-ground nuclear missile sites are being built in the Communist North.

Asked about a story published by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and the Harrisburg (Pa.) Patriot and distributed by the Newhouse National News Service which said U.S. authorities have evidence that such sites are being built to handle Soviet-made missiles, a Pentagon spokesman said:

"There is no evidence of any surface-to-surface missile sites in North Viet Nam."

He added that the report may have stemmed from confusion over announcement recently that construction of antiaircraft missile sites in North Viet Nam has been spotted.

The State Department also officially discounted the report of ground-to-ground missile bases.

LIGHT WEAPONS

When the first U.S. advisers to South Viet Nam units began going into the jungle to meet Viet Cong their own equipment was rudimentary—sidearms, rifles, light automatic weapons.

The war worsened. By early this year, units of the regular army of North Viet Nam, with modern arms, were showing up in South Viet Nam. The United States began sending in more and more military men. The total will be between 70,000 and 75,000 in the next few months, with increasing firepower.

What are the weapons used by the U.S. and South Viet Nam today?

The categories not used should be mentioned—nuclear, long-range ballistic missiles and toxic gases.

South Vietnamese were provided with some nontoxic, nauseating gases, used by them on a few occasions with limited success.

In aircraft, more than 30 types of fixed-wing or rotary aircraft are used. At one end are the workhorse helicopters and light observation planes.

Transports of the C123 and C130 classes are used for airlifting supplies and troops. Then come the tactical aircraft as well as light jet bombers and supersonic jet attack planes of the Air Force, Navy and Marines.

Investigators Check Wreckage

EL TORO, Calif. (AP) — Investigators searched through charred wreckage, studied a flight transcript and impounded a tape recording Saturday as they sought the cause of a military plane crash that killed 84 men.

Flaming fragments of the giant C135 four-jet transport were scattered over a wide area after it smashed into a brush-covered hill Friday less than a minute after taking off from El Toro Marine Air Station.

Splinter Groups May Hurt GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders are generally apprehensive that a profusion of independent research and campaign groups will cloud party policy and splinter financing in the 1966 election.

A cross-section survey by The Associated Press turned up mixed emotions among officeholders, state chairmen and potential candidates about the effect of such groups as Barry Goldwater's Free Society Association on efforts to unify the GOP for a comeback attempt.

OUT OF HAND

But in answers to an inquiry as to whether these groups would have a favorable or adverse affect on party fortunes, there was a strong current of fear that they may get out of hand.

While it isn't on the agenda, the issue is almost certain to crop up in one form or another at a two-day meeting of the GOP National Committee opening here Monday.

National Chairman Ray C. Bliss, who has said the conservative Goldwater group would be harmful to the regular organization, is reported to take a dim view also of activities of such groups as the moderate-to-liberal Republicans for Progress.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, a member of the Republican Policy Coordinating Committee, said he thinks the affect of any proliferation of policy pronouncements by independent groups would be bad.

ADVERSE EFFECT

"There will be an adverse effect on the Republican party organization unless such research they do is reported to Ray Bliss for national committee use and not put in separate reports," Saltonstall said.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who is booming GOP Rep. John V. Lindsay for mayor of New York City, said he thinks it is a good thing for citizens to organize for political work. But he said independent organizations are likely to drain off finances from the party campaign chest.

"All these groups should be made subject to the national committee's budget," he said.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, a prospective candidate for the 1968 presidential nomination, said in a speech last week he disapproves of recruiting party members into organizations not connected with the regular Republican organization.

SPECIFICALLY

He added, however, that he was not referring specifically to the Free Society Association, saying he doesn't know enough about it to comment.

But the Michigan Republican State Central Committee charged specifically that the association is soliciting funds illegitimately from state GOP members.

Elly Peterson, committee chairman and former assistant to the national chairman, issued a statement Friday advising all Michigan Republicans not to contribute.

Peter O'Donnell Jr., Texas state chairman who was one of Goldwater's campaign directors, said it remains to be seen what effect the groups will have.

HOW HANDLED

"It will depend on how their affairs are handled," O'Donnell said. "If they conduct themselves in such a way as to merit support, they will get support. If they do not, they will wither and die."

Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., who lists himself as a conservative, said the best thing the party can do is ignore the independent groups.

"The division between the Republican and Democratic parties never was sharper," he said. "As Republicans all we have to do is stick to our constitutional way of doing things."

Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, who fought Goldwater for the 1964 nomination, said he doesn't approve of "breaking up or proliferating the Republican party's cause."

NEEDS UNITY

"I've never joined any of the moderate groups that started up," he said. "I've never been a participant in them because I believe the party needs unity and needs everybody in it."

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House minority leader, said: "It would be better if all such organizations were within the framework of the regular Republican organization. But if they are not, we will utilize their assistance and support."

Former Rep. Robert A. Taft Jr., of Ohio, said the course followed by the independents will determine whether they aid or damage the party.

C. Montgomery Johnson, Washington State chairman, said he doesn't see how the formation of these groups "is going to contribute directly in a beneficial way to the party's chances to improve its position politically."

MORE TO DO

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, senior Republican in Senate service, said he thinks the Republicans have something more to do than to bother with splinter groups.

"Until we can change the national attitude toward our party I'm afraid we're going to continue to have one-party government," he said.

ED CLARK PROUD OF HIS EAST TEXAS HERITAGE

Australian Ambassador Man Of Many Interests

By JON FORD
San Antonio Express Staff Writer

AUSTIN — Edward Aubrey Clark, new ambassador - nominate to Australia, may come as a surprise in the halls of Canberra and to the plain folks in the flatlands down under.

A reputation as a kind of homespun philosopher (which he has carefully cultivated) and master political manipulator (which he has been widely and accurately tagged) inevitably precede him.

But there is a lot more than that to Ed Clark, attorney, banker, philanthropist, rare book collector, historical buff and pal of presidents, governors and lawmakers in Washington and Austin.

President Johnson June 12 announced his intention to designate old-friend Clark to the post vacated late last year by resignation of Virginian William C. Battle. The Australian government already has agreed to accept Clark, although the appointment is still subject to confirmation by the U.S. Senate.

ON HIS BIRTHDAY

Clark, who has practiced a dynamic brand of personal diplomacy through a long and highly - successful career, is looking forward with almost-boyish enthusiasm, to trying his considerable talents in the field of foreign service. He says he did not ask for the job and did not expect it, but now that it has been offered him, he can't wait to get started.

"I hope to get there in time to celebrate my 59th birthday July 15," Clark said.

Clark was born in San Augustine, Texas, July 15, 1906, and is proud of his deep East Texas heritage.

He and his mother, now over 80, still own the Clark-Downs general store, and he is president of the First National Bank of San Augustine founded by his grandfather, Edward D. Downs. Grandfather William M. Clark operated a steamboat on the Sabine river and later invested in land and cattle.

His great-grandparents settled in East Texas long before the civil war.

EAST TEXAS FARM

Although they have lived in Austin for more than 30 years, Clark and Mrs. Clark (the former Anne Metcalfe of Greenville, Miss.) have a second home at Straddleford farm near San Augustine. Clark has been known to distribute "business cards" identifying himself as a "tree farmer" from Straddleford farm on FM road 705.

He has quoted Grandfather Downs as an authority on almost everything, and when pressed for comment on a controversial issue has been known to take refuge in unexpected reticence on the part of the old gentleman:

"My grandfather Downs," recalls Clark on such occasions, "said he knew a fellow who minded his own business and got along just fine."

According to an often-repeated story, he once saw his only daughter, Leila, off on a trip to Europe with a warning against letting "fancy capitals" turn her head.

"Remember," he is supposed to have advised, "San Augustine is the most important place in the world."

Actually, Clark is not the first son of San Augustine to serve in high places abroad. James Pinckney Henderson was minister from the Republic of Texas to France and England 1837-39.

TULANE, TEXAS U.

But San Augustine didn't really hold Ed Clark long after he graduated from Tulane University and the University of Texas law school. (He started out to become a doctor, but changed his mind after initial brushes with biology and anatomy).

Clark served as county attorney of San Augustine County from 1928 to 1932. After he worked in James V. Allred's successful campaign for attorney general, Allred called him to Austin in 1932 as an assistant.

Four years later, when Allred was elected governor, Clark became his first assistant and in 1937 was named Secretary of State. He served in the latter post until 1939.

At that point, he made the decision he has never regretted. Invited to join the legal staffs of several large corporations, he decided instead on advice of Allred and multimillionaire contractor-oilman Herman Brown, to open a private law office in Austin. He entered a partnership with the late Everett L. Looney (who died in 1962).

BIG LAW FIRM

The two-man firm prospered and grew rapidly. Today, Clark's firm, Clark, Thomas, Harris, Denius and Winters, has 15 attorneys, occupying tastefully - decorated, paneled offices over the entire 12th floor and part of the 11th floor of the Capital National Bank building. Its professional and financial rating is at the top of the scale.

The firm's practice includes oil and gas matters, corporation law, banking, investments, finance and insurance, federal and state securities registration, public utilities, state and federal taxation, real estate law, title examination, transportation, labor relations and estate and trust matters.

Among its clients are the Capital National Bank, Central Power and Light Company, Southern Union Gas Company, the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, the Trinity Improvement Association and American General Insurance Company.

Clark himself still maintains general supervision over CTHD and W's vast activities, despite his widespread business investments.

BANK INTERESTS

He is chairman of the board of the Capital National Bank here (which has total resources of more than $122 million), president of the San Augustine Bank; is a member of the boards of directors of San Benito Bank and Trust Company and the Texas Capital Corporation of Georgetown and is chairman of the board of the First National Bank of Center. His personal investments in the Austin bank are said to total well over $1 million.

He also points to "substantial" investments in farm land, ranching, timber and stocks.

So substantial indeed are his investments that he shrugs off questions about the income and allowances of an ambassador.

"I'm not sure," said Clark of the latter. "I think the salary is about $28,500 a year and the allowances may bring it to $40,000 . . . but if it doesn't cost me over $50,000 a year I will be happy . . . It may cost closer to $100,000 a year."

POLITICS

Clark's influence on Texas politics obviously has been sizable. In the 1950's when his old friend Ben Ramsey of San Augustine was lieutenant governor, a Reader's Digest article tabbed him as "boss" of Texas lawmakers and the man who virtually decided who could run for the legislature.

Clark, who preferred to use his powers of persuasion at the top level, was never the kind of lobbyist who hung around outside the House and Senate chambers or lurked in the galleries. Seldom seen at the Capitol in his most-active years, he has been totally absent from there in recent years and is not even registered under the lobbyist control act. Other members of his firm have taken on the job of representing clients before legislative committees.

Clark interrupted his legal career for wartime military service as an Army captain. After he was discharged from the service, he was a special assistant to the U.S. Attorney General 1943-48.

FRIEND OF LBJ

His friendship with the President goes back nearly 30 years to before Johnson made his first race for Congress in 1937. He helped elect Johnson to Congress and the U.S. Senate. His law firm has represented the Johnson broadcasting company and other interests of the first family.

A delegate to every Democratic national convention from 1936 through 1960, he skipped the 1964 session at Atlantic City.

"Like any boss, he gets upset about some things, but he is a fine man with a wonderful sense of humor," says a longtime associate. "He is free with his time. He is accessible . . . and he is certainly a man of many talents, tremendous mentality and ability . . . a very complex personality."

Clark's interests are certainly sweeping. A big, powerfully-built man, he has gone in heavily for the outdoor pastimes of golfing and hunting.

COLLECTOR

Since 1929, his favorite hobby, however, has been the collecting of rare historical materials about Texas. He now has over 50,000 Texana items, one of the finest private collections in the state. It includes books, manuscripts, letters and other papers — "almost everything ever written by Texans about Texas."

Clark beams when he discusses the collection, and is likely to load down a visitor with expensively - bound volumes from the nearest bookshelf at home or in the office (for inspection only, of course).

His papers represent the authentic Texas heroes, the secondary figures of history, the cowboys and the badmen.

He has a large number of documents on Sam Houston. Former Governor and Judge Oran M. Roberts (of San Augustine) and former U.S. Senator and Railroad Commissioner John H. Reagan (of Palestine) are among his favorite figures.

"I just got a background for that old-timey stuff in East Texas," explains Clark who was also a serious history student as an undergraduate.

He and Mrs. Clark send prints of rare maps and documents to friends at Christmas time.

INTEREST IN SCHOOLS

For the last three years, Clark has served on the board of directors of Texas Southern University in Houston. He is also a member of the board of Allan Military Academy, Bryan, which he attended as a teenager, and the University of Texas Law School Foundation.

He has established special tuition scholarships for "worthy and needy" students at TSU. Last January, his firm also set up a $6,000 scholarship at the University of Texas law school in memory of Looney.

Clark's firm was named special counsel to the University of Texas board of regents in 1961 and was instrumental in settling an integration lawsuit. University regents May, 1964, announced final steps to integrate all units and facilities.

He was a founder and a member of the first board of directors of St. Stephens Episcopal School here. Originally a Methodist, he "got to be an Episcopalian through my wife and daughter." He is chairman of St. David's Episcopal Church endowment fund.

Since it was founded in 1952, Clark has served actively on the board of directors of Texas Research League, privately financed research group which has surveyed nearly every phase of state government and finance.

He has also served as president and chairman of the board of the United Fund of Austin.

DARK SUITS

Clark is somewhat embarrassed by recent references to the sports attire he once draped himself in.

"I haven't bought a sports coat for 17 years," he grumbles. "That last green one I had was given to me by (the late) Mayor Tom Miller (of Austin). I wear dark suits with vests, summer and winter. I even have vests for my summer seersuckers."

On a gold watch chain across his ample vest - front, Clark wears the key of Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity and Kappa Sigma, his old college fraternity.

On the end of the chain are a religious medal given him by a friend and a disk presented him by Mrs. Clark on their 25th wedding anniversary. The latter is engraved "with and for devotion above and beyond the call of duty, 1927-1952."

"My best asset is my wife," said Clark. "She is the best dividend I ever got."

He is also fiercely proud of his daughter, now Mrs. Douglas Wynn of Greenville, Miss., and three granddaughters, Anne, 9, Margaret, 8, and Martha, 7.

STUDYING

In the last few weeks, Clark has been wearing a gold kangaroo lapel pin, symbol of his new assignment. He is also reading everything he can lay hands on about Australia, including books checked out of the local library, gift volumes and State Department reports. He is already full of facts and figures about the land down under and has even started a file of recipes for favorite Australian drinks.

Known as an after-dinner humorous speaker and a master of ceremonies who can introduce hundreds of people in a crowded room by name and title, Clark also speaks on heavier themes. He is a member of Texas Philosophical Society, the Sons of the Republic of Texas and the Texas State Historical Association.

Two months ago in an address at Texas Southern University Law School, he said:

A SCHOLAR

"A scholar is one not necessarily or even best typified by the academician in an ivory tower. The scholar is one who is skilled in the pursuit of truth, courageous in its acceptance and adequate in persuasive power in whatever area he works. The brightest pages of human history are those written by the scholar in politics. By politics is not meant vulgar pursuit of position in power but that greatest of all sciences—the government of men—the upbuilding of the nation."

He once startled the judicial section of the State Bar of Texas by declaring at a judges conference:

"A decision of the Supreme Court of the United States interpreting the federal Constitution is not the supreme law of the land . . . (It) is just the law of the case in that particular decision and nothing more . . . The decision of the court of last resort binds the parties in that case not because the decision is the supreme law of the land, but because the law of the land provides that such decisions shall bind the parties to that case . . . In 1940 alone (the Supreme Court) overruled 11 of its own decisions, and this trend continues."

Speaking of his beloved East Texas but perhaps with wider horizons in mind, he once told a Rotary Club audience:

LOOK FORWARD

"There are too many people who like to sit in the shade of the old family tree and listen to the hardening of their arteries . . . If the future is to be all that the resources of the area will support, East Texans must look upon the past as an origin, not as a goal. They must look forward to an ideal which may never be reached, but the region will gain from an effort to reach it."

Money, Clark acknowledged in a speech to a group of lawyers several months ago "won't buy happiness . . . It just enables you to look for it in a lot of nice places."

He speaks in a booming, heavy East Texas drawl with the faint trace of a lisp.

READY TO WORK

Clark is dead serious about his forthcoming assignment.

"I want to do a good job," he said. "I will work hard to represent my country well and to be a credit to our President. I hope I can help him carry the heavy burden he has on his shoulders in our program of peace and prosperity for all people everywhere.

"I am looking forward with high hopes and much anticipation to the work ahead. I am a great admirer of the Australian people. They are great and dependable friends of this country in good times and bad. They have the same goals we have . . . and they have so many of the best traits of my native state of Texas."

RAYMOND OLIVER

Man Charged In Shooting

Lorenzo Jackson, a Big Spring Negro, was in Cowper Clinic-Hospital in critical condition Saturday night following a shooting on North West Fourth Street at 3:45 p.m. A .25-caliber bullet entered his chest.

Raymond Oliver, 46, who lives on a ranch near Garden City, was being held by Big Spring police on a charge of assault with intent to murder. Officers said the charge will be changed to murder if Jackson dies.

Oliver told Police Detective Wayne Tollett that he had come to Big Spring to do some shopping, and to look over some property he owned on the North Side. He had been in a tavern, and as he left he walked down the street in front of J. P.'s place in the 500 block of Northwest Fourth street. He said as he passed the place, Jackson was sitting in front and the two became involved in an argument. He said he took the automatic pistol from his pocket and Jackson was shot once.

Jackson got up from an old couch on which he was sitting and staggered to the intersection of Northwest Fourth and North Aylford, where he fell. Big Spring Ambulance Service took Jackson to the hospital. He was given blood transfusions, and was taken into the emergency operating room at 7:10 p.m. for surgery.

Increase For Kid's Program

Enrollment continues to climb in the Citywide Summer Recreation program, and if the trend continues, the cumulative total will show a 25 per cent increase for the season.

During the second week of the Fun Clubs and the playground programs, 764 participated in activities at the YMCA and 374 at the Lakeview YMCA. In addition, 113 took part in the playground program featuring use of the trampoline, games, swimming, etc.

An encouraging development was the increased participation at Bauer where the playground schedule was stepped up to three days a week.

During the first two weeks of the program, the cumulative attendance has been 2,451 as compared with 6,466 for seven weeks of last summer.

Enrollment at the YMCA and Lakeview Y increased last week for the Fun Clubs as more youngsters completed their Vacation Bible Schools. Jim Gilbert, director, urged other youngsters of school age to enroll at the Y this week.

Knott Exes To Meet Saturday

KNOTT (SC) — Exes of Knott High School will arrive here Saturday for the 13th annual school reunion, planned for the afternoon and evening at the school gymnasium.

A registration and visitation will begin at 4 p.m. for the exes. Larry Shaw, Knott, is president for this year's homecoming activities.

A program and business meeting will begin at 5 p.m., followed by supper at 6:30 p.m. Exes within the 50-mile radius are bringing food for the supper, with the homecoming committee providing coffee, tea, plates and spoons.

Threats Only Strengthen American Determination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States declared Saturday night that Red terrorist acts and threats in South Viet Nam will only strengthen American determination to help prevent a Communist takeover there.

The U.S. statement was issued by the State Department following the reprisal execution of an American GI prisoner by the Communists, a bloody terrorist bombing of a Saigon restaurant and a threat by Hanoi to kill Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and others.

"These Communist threats to intimidate of course will not succeed," the U.S. statement said. "Our determination to help the embattled people of South Viet Nam to avoid falling under a regime which is capable of such brutality will only be strengthened."

Friday the Reds said that captured U.S. Army Sgt. Harold G. Bennett had been executed in reprisal for the South Vietnamese government's execution of a rebel terrorist.

Then two terrorist bombs killed two score persons at a restaurant on the Saigon River.

The State Department said Communist North Viet Nam and its "puppet" National Liberation Front in South Viet Nam had acknowledged their responsibility.

"The regime in Hanoi and their puppet liberation front in South Viet Nam have acknowledged their responsibility for the execution of Sgt. Bennett," the statement said, "and for the bombing of the My Canh restaurant in Saigon in which 44 persons — Vietnamese, Americans, French, Swiss and Filipinos — were killed and many more persons were injured.

"They have compounded their brutal conduct by publicly bragging about their action and making threats to carry out even more outrageous acts," it continued.

"Hanoi's recent statements have surely also made it clear to anyone who may have had any doubt that it is the power directing the policies and actions of the Viet Cong, its instrument in South Viet Nam, and must bear full responsibility for these acts."

RESPONSE

U.S. officials said the American statement was in response to the Bennett execution and restaurant bombing episodes rather than the latest Hanoi radio broadcast, which declared Taylor, U.S. commander William C. Westmoreland and the new South Vietnamese military junta leadership will share the same fate as Bennett.

Earlier Rep. Gerald R. Ford, of Michigan, the House Republican leader, had urged President Johnson to "harden the U.S. attitude toward North Viet Nam," blockading her ports and stepping up air attacks.

He said in a statement the Johnson administration should order "full-scale air attacks on all significant Viet Cong military targets and a naval quarantine to cut off delivery of arms and supplies by sea."

In Texas, presidential press secretary George E. Reedy said the White House would have no comment.

MAKE IT COSTLY

Ford said it is the duty of the United States to make "aggression" in South Viet Nam so costly that the Communist regime in North Viet Nam will agree to peace talk proposals which it has so far spurned.

But he added: "For the United States to fight a massive land war in the swamps and jungles on the terms of the enemy is illogical."

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the majority Senate leader, renewed his appeal to French President Charles de Gaulle to seek a peaceful solution in Southeast Asia and deplored the diplomatic break with France by the new Saigon government of Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky.

The diplomatic break, the senator said, "is not only disheartening but a sign of extreme rashness."

"Insofar as restoration of peace in Viet Nam is concerned," he said, "there is likely to be a far better prospect to bring it about with the French in this effort than without them."

THE WEEK

1888, died on Tuesday, and Mrs. A. M. Ripps, who moved here in 1912, died on Wednesday. Think of it—a total of 130 years they had invested in Big Spring and Howard County.

Webb AFB has been chosen as the site for a documentary film on the Air Forces light plane training program. New student pilots will be given this training under contract at Howard County Airport before they launch upon jet training at Webb AFB. Central Airways is setting up to handle the T-41A project.

That the post office project is still alive is evidenced by the presence of test hole drillers on the property of the First Baptist Church, which several weeks ago voted to contract its half block on Main between Fifth and Sixth for sale to the General Services Administration. Negotiations are under way for the east half of the block.

* * *

The city is stepping up its efforts to control mosquito infestation. No doubt about it, the pests have been pretty bad, but then this results from having had rain. We'll swap a few mosquitoes for rain anyday in this area.

Two former residents won honors last week. James M. (Bobo) Hardy, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Hardy, and a former general secretary of the Big Spring YMCA, was made director of research for the National Council of YMCAs. Mrs. Zelma Marhefka, daughter of Mrs. Lola Fletcher, was valedictorian of her class when she got her law degree (after 12 years of work) from Lincoln University in San Francisco, Calif.

* * *

The Senate Armed Forces committee lopped off about half a million dollars of work for Webb AFB in its version of the military appropriations bill last week. The $832,000 apparently leaves out the bachelor officer quarters provision which was in the House approved bill for $1,342,000.

A well deserved honor went to Clyde McMahon Sr. last week when the Rotary Club named him as outstanding citizen during the past year. He could just about have qualified for this honor for several years.

Two vocational schools added 26 graduates during the past week. Eleven completed the law enforcement academy at HCJC and 15 the year-long auto mechanics course at HCJC. This is a service of the college helping to upgrade adult job skills.

The rehabilitation center still needs your help in furnishing the new center with equipment, etc., prior to its opening in August. Around $2,000 more was added to the list during the past week, but the total is less than half the goal.

Negro Methodists Vote Down Union

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Integration in the Methodist Church has been slowed by a vote of Negro Methodists in the Deep South against joining the white Methodist geographical jurisdiction at this time, the Wichita Beacon reported Saturday.

The Beacon's church editor said the paper was informed of the vote — in southeast Negro conferences of the Methodist Negro Central Jurisdiction—by Mrs. Paul Matthaei, Wichita, director of Kansas Methodist information.

She said the vote means that national integration of the Methodist Church will be delayed and that any acceptance of Negro churches into previously white conferences will be based on individual conference actions.

The deep south action will have no effect on a 1964 merger of 11 Kansas Negro churches with the Methodist Kansas and Central Kansas Conferences.

Mrs. Matthaei said white churches of the Southeast Jurisdiction have not voted on the racial unity proposal pending a decision of the Methodist Judicial Council on the authority of the General Conference — legislative body for the entire church —to determine conference and jurisdictional boundary lines.

She said interracial merger already is well under way in the South Central Jurisdiction which includes Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and New Mexico, whose members have voted 93 per cent in favor of accepting Negro churches.

President Relaxing

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson relaxed in the rolling hill country of central Texas Saturday.

The LBJ Ranch, the LBJ Lake and the countryside for miles around allow Johnson to work with fewer interruptions, to ride the range at the wheel of a plush car, to run around the lake in a speedboat.

White House Press Secretary George E. Reedy—at his ranch desk Saturday—said the President was working on some appointments, then Reedy announced several of them.

He said Rear Adm. John Harllee and James V. Day have been reappointed to the Federal Maritime Commission. Harllee has been redesignated chairman, Reedy announced.

Johnson also signed a proclamation setting the period beginning Sept. 17 as Constitution Week, in honor of the document signed 187 years ago. He said: "We owe it our freedom — past, present and future."

Surrenders In Arson Charge

FORT WORTH (AP) — Amos James Fowler, 60, charged with arson in the fatal burning of his brother last week, surrendered Saturday to Tarrant County Sheriff Lon Evans.

Fowler was hospitalized under guard for burns received in a fire which destroyed a small frame house last week and killed his brother, Dempsey Fowler, 51.

The owner of the house, Mrs. Alpha Louis Greenfield, 56, has also been charged with arson.

Investigators found three cans thought to have contained gasoline in the charred ruins of the home. A neighbor told police she heard an explosion and saw a man running away from the blazing home with his shirt on fire.

Citizen Soldiers Arrive At Camp

NORTH FT. HOOD (AP) — Members of the 90th Infantry Division, some 6,500 strong plus attached units, swarmed into this Central Texas training area Saturday and started preparations for field training Monday.

The influx of citizen-soldiers began Thursday with key personnel and much of the division's vehicular and operational equipment.

Large contingents from Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Fort Worth and the Amarillo-Lubbock area joined with smaller units from more than 35 other Texas cities and towns arrived Saturday.

Since the Army reserve division was reactivated in 1947, the 9th has also trained at Ft. Polk, La., and once at Fort Chaffee, Ark.

Lieutenant Drummed Out

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — A court-martial Saturday dismissed Lt. Richard B. Steinke from the service for refusing to go with a counter-guerrilla unit in South Viet Nam.

Also stripped of all pay and allowances, the 27-year-old Milwaukee, Wis., Army officer was spared a prison sentence. He could have been given up to five years in prison.

The lieutenant took the verdict and sentence without visible emotion. The sentence is subject to reveiew by higher military courts.

Steinke was formally charged with refusing to obey a written order and "willful disobedience to expose himself to hostile elements and hazardous conditions."

He had been serving in Viet Nam for almost six months when, last January, he refused to accept a transfer to a Special Forces detachment.

Steinke said at the time he disagreed with U.S. policy there and that the Vietnamese war was "not worth one American life."

Red Germany Ignores Pact

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany made good Saturday a threat to ignore a four-power agreement on barge traffic to isolated West Berlin. It began selling its own travel permits to barges plying the canals.

The permits replace the free documents issued under long-standing agreements the United States, France and Britain made with the Soviet Union for barges. The barges account for 36 per cent of West Berlin's imports.

Bring On The Hare, Tortoise Has Wheels

Dr. Clinton Gray, Washington Zoo veterinarian, shows Lee Schmeltz, right, how he keeps a 350-pound Galapagoa tortoise rolling despite a broken leg. Gray placed the leg in a cast and then strapped the tortoise to a caster-wheel dolly with an extension supporting the protected leg. The tortoise moves around, propelled by its three good legs. Taylor Among First Targets On Viet Cong's Death List

TOKYO (AP) — The Viet Cong guerrillas have put U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and four other American and South Vietnamese leaders as their first target in their death list, Hanoi radio said Saturday night.

The threat was made by the South Viet Nam Liberation radio (Viet Cong) in a commentary Friday night, Hanoi radio said.

The commentary warned that "They will share the same fate as the American aggressor Harold G. Bennett."

Bennett, 25, Perryville, Ark., was executed by the Viet Cong Thursday in reprisal for the execution of Tran Van Dang and other Communist terrorists.

"Harold G. Bennett who had just paid for his crimes was but a leaf falling in a revolutionary storm. Again, this storm will sweep away all the aggressive castles built by the U.S. puppets in their nightmare.

"Bennett has paid for his crimes. Tomorrow will be the turn of all the bloodthirsty devils of whom Maxwell Taylor, Alexis Johnson, Westmoreland, and Thieu and Ky will come first in the death list," the commentary said.

U. Alexis Johnson is U.S. deputy ambassador to South Viet Nam; Gen. William C. Westmoreland is commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam; Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu is the leader of the new Vietnamese military junta and Brig. Gen Nguyen Cao Ky is the new premier.

"For us Vietnamese people, all the U.S. aggressors, from (President) Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, (Defense Secretary Robert S.) McNamara, Taylor, Alexis Johnson and W. Westmoreland to the U.S. expeditionary troops, the piratical aggressors who have raped our sisters, plundered, jailed, killed, disemboweled, plucked off livers of our dear compatriots, deserve thousands of times to be executed. Both the dead and the living have claimed for vengeance. We have full authority and duty to compel the aggressors and their stooges to pay for their crimes.

"We do what we say. We have enough strength to compel the U.S. imperialists and the Thieu-Ky clique to pay for their crimes after they shot Tran Van Dang in cold blood," the broadcast said.

20,000 EXPECTED

Multitudes Welcome To Old-Time Religion

LINVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Uncle Joe Hartley, a grizzled old mountaineer who looks with disdain on the modern church, welcomes the multitudes Sunday to his 41st annual Singing on the Mountain for a day of old-time religion.

Hartley founded the gathering in 1925 and has served as chairman every year since. At 94, he carries a cane and his walk has slowed. But his wit and memory are sharp and his comments are cutting.

More than 20,000 persons are expected for the day-long session of preaching and hymns on the slopes of 6,000-foot Grandfather Mountain.

"The churches just don't have the spirit and power they used to," Hartley said while watching preparations. "The churches in the cities have lost the power of God. They just don't know anything about it.

"The preachers around here used to really peeach. Now they just whisper a little and take up a collection."

But there's one modern preacher Uncle Joe likes.

"You take Billy Graham," he said, "He's about as fine as Abraham and Moses.

"The year before last, it was just pouring," he recalled. "When Billy got up to speak, God just drove the rain clouds away."

Hartley pointed his cane to a grove of trees bordering the meadow and said:

"There's where they do the real preaching. And some of those Holy Rollers really cut shins. And I can remember when these old black bonneted women used to shout."

Armed Man Killed In Police Seige

DALLAS (AP)—A man armed with a shotgun was killed by Mesquite police Saturday during an exchange of gunfire after a two-hour siege at a home in Mesquite.

William Herron, 52, had barricaded himself in the carport at the home of his estranged wife, Naomi, 44, after police were called to the home.

A single rifle shot of police Sgt. J. D. Fulton mortally wounded the man.

Police were called to the residence about 5 a.m. when Sgt. C. F. Sheppard got out of his car, two blasts from a shotgun inside the open carport blew out a tire and shattered the radio of his police car.

Patrolmen Paul Ingram and Howard Bale slipped into the house and rescued Mrs. Herron and her granddaughter, Shirl Ann Brim, 2.

Caught After He Panicked

HOUSTON (AP)—Police say a man panicked after shooting a service station attendant he had held up, abandoning his car moments later and leaving the lights on.

Officers arrested Jimmy Waller Jr., a waiter, and said Saturday he signed a statement admitting 25 to 30 armed robberies.

Waller allegedly shot Dewayne Roberts, 61, in the right leg in a $16.86 holdup Friday night. The wound was not serious.

In the car with burning lights, officers found a bag with the money.

Lot Of Girls Would Be Aggies

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — A survey of Central Texas girls indicated Saturday that at least 829 of them might enroll in Texas A&M if coeds were admitted without restriction.

The study, conducted for A&M's directors, was made from 12,359 questionnaires distributed in a 25-mile radius of A&M campus.

Krueger Wins Release Bid

AUSTIN (AP) — Paul Eric Krueger, 17, a Californian accused in the April 12 slaying of three Corpus Christi fishermen, was ordered released on bail Saturday by the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Krueger's lawyers said no action will be taken before next week in freeing the youth on a total of $45,000 bond.

The court said it would consider no more motions for rehearings on the bond matter.

The court then went into recess until October.

The court said it was not ruling on the merits of murder charges filed against Krueger and a teenage companion in the triple slaying.

The 2-1 decision Saturday was made only on sufficiency of evidence presented in arguments over Krueger's bail, the majority opinion said.

The companion, John Angles, 16, of Hollywood, Calif., was sent to the Gatesville reformatory as a delinquent. Under Texas law a youth cannot be tried on murder charges unless he is 17.

The youth is charged with slaying Noel Little, 51; John Fox, 38, and Van Carson, 40.

CONSIDERABLY ABOVE ESTIMATES

High School Contract Awarded

J. W. Cooper, Odessa, was awarded a contract Friday night for building additions and remodeling of the Big Spring High School, at a bid cost of $3,434,900. Architect fees, engineering, contingencies, furniture and fixtures, will run the total cost to $3,771,145.

Six bids were opened and read at the meeting of the school board and over 100 interested persons Friday in the high school cafeteria, with Cooper submitting the low base bid of $3,515,000. Three alternates totaling $80,100 were deducted by the board to reduce the base cost.

OVER ESTIMATES

The bid ran above the original estimate — $3,374,000 base —by $60,900 on the total project.

Cooper said he would start work immediately and the project completion date was set for Aug. 15, 1967.

Other base bids were submitted by O. J. Beck & Sons, Corpus Christi, $3,558,000; Butcher & Sweeney, Fort Worth, $3,795,000; R. G. Farrell, Odessa, $3,779,600; J. J. Fritch, Dallas, $3,623,000 and A. P. Kasch & Sons, Big Spring, $3,633,000.

Alternates approved under the Cooper bid included: Substituting steel pipe for copper in the air conditioning coolant circuit, saving $57,500; changing plumbing under bleachers in the gymnasium, $12,000; changing from terrazzo tile to asphalt tile in rear halls and upper hallways, saving $10,600. A total of 17 alternates were included in bids.

Following nearly three hours of discussion, board members voted to accept the Cooper bid, minus the three alternates, and to delete some possible future expansion plans, including an administration building estimated at $215,000. The motion was made by Jack Haralson and seconded by Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper.

SUGGESTED CUTS

Discussion included the question of cutting out a part of the plans, including a speech laboratory and journalism room, auditorium extension, new band area, and a few other less costly items. The board members felt that since the high school plant will handle all students going through the Big Spring schools in the future, the elimination of functional and needed facilities now would result in a much greater cost in the future. Some felt that the board should stay within the original total estimate of $3,500,000, but agreed that rejecting bids and calling for new estimates would not only delay the needed expansion under the Master Plan bond program, but, with rising prices and a look at neighboring bids on buildings, might also mean higher prices in the future.

Architect Atmar Atkinson, who told the board members several months ago that material costs and labor prices were moving upward, said Friday that bids were much closer to his estimate than he believed they would be.

CONTRACT

Cooper's contract covers the total construction of new building and remodeling, site development, drainage structures, physical education and athletic practice fields, track, and bleacher relocation from the present practice field to the new site east of the present gymnasium. The small creek running through the campus between the high school and State Street, will be eliminated through the use of underground drainage and site leveling.

Since the start of the Master Plan bond program, the high school has been approved for eight vocational training departments, with matching federal funds for construction, site development, architects' fees, and standard furniture and fixtures. The school board approved construction of the additional space, with a separate bid for all items for which funds spent would be reimbursed.

Trustees feel that Big Spring's designation as a vocational training center for Howard County warranted the additional space included in the contract, and the architect was instructed to make these additions a part of the overall plan.

PARKING

When the construction is completed, all parking will enter the campus from East Tenth Street on the north side of the building. Covered entrances and walkways will be provided for bus students and those brought to school in private cars. Enlarged cafeteria facilities, along with a snack bar, will enable compliance with the board's decision for a closed campus to eliminate a traffic hazard, and to provide better control over students leaving the campus at all hours.

Teamsters End Wildcat Strike

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Striking teamsters, their officers and union threatened with contempt-of-court fines totaling $60,500 a day, shouted overwhelming approval Saturday of a union order ending a six-day wildcat walkout.

The strike had halted most deliveries in the nation's fourth largest city and caused daily losses estimated at $4.5 million.

Nearly half of the 13,000 members of Teamsters Local 107, attending a special membership meeting in Convention Hall, supported with shouts and applause the order of Secretary Treasurer Michael Hession that "the holiday is over."

"Anyone that don't return to work is acting on his own," said Hession. There were some boos.

"You mean it, Mike?" asked a voice deep in the shirt-sleeve crowd that joked and drank sodas.

"Yes, I mean it," Hession replied. "I'm telling everybody to go back immediately."

And back they went — to the garages and freight platforms all over the city where merchandise had piled up since the unauthorized strike began Monday morning in support of four Teamsters fired by Roadway Express, Inc.

"When you go back to work we will sit down with Roadway and settle that grievance," said Hession.

Actually, the strike began breaking up Friday when drivers for food and grocery chains, faced with discharges, began making deliveries in the three-state area around Philadelphia.

Judge Leo Weinrott, whose back-to-work injunction went unheeded since Monday, Friday found 17 Teamsters leaders guilty of contempt. He said each would have to pay a daily fine of $1,500, and the union $35,000 if the walkout didn't end Saturday.

Hession mentioned that at the meeting, and noted that the union — with only $100,000 in its treasury now — couldn't afford that kind of expense. Nor, he said, could the officers.

International President James R. Hoffa had called on the local — fifth largest in the Teamsters — to end the walkout as soon as it began. But the men in 107, battling Hoffa over grievance procedures in their national truck contract, turned him down.

Weldon Bryant won medalist honors and then advanced in the first round of the Big Spring Country Club golf tournament Saturday.

The event drew 62 entries in the men's division. Deadline for the women is Tuesday and play will start for them on Wednesday.

Second round matches get underway today, followed by semi-finals next Saturday and the finals a week from today.

While Bryant was copping medalist honors with a nifty 74, Daryle Hohertz and Dr. B. Broadrick were breathing down his back with 75 each. There was scarcely any daylight between them and Frank Powell and Don Lovelady, who followed with 76s.

McClendon 2-1; Frank Powell carried out Jack Cook 1 up; The remaining matches between Bob Suggs and Marvin Wright and between Red Terry and Jack Wallace were to be played this morning.

Great Day For The Irish

Bing Crosby, who bought one-third interest in Meadow Court just hours before the Irish Derby, poses with the American-bred colt in Doblin today after the horse won the $155,820 first place money by two lengths in the race. The horse, Meadow Court, is a grandson of Tom Fool on his maternal side. Other owners are Frank McJahon, Vancouver, B. C., and Max Bell, a Canadian millionaire. (AP WIREPHOTO via cable from London)

Bing Buys Piece Of Derby Champ Just Before Race

DUBLIN (AP) — Meadow Court, the favorite carrying the silks of Max Bell of Vancouver, Canada, staved off the stretch bid of Convamore today and won the Irish Derby.

Wedding present was third in the field of 21 3-year olds.

Meadow Court, ridden by Lester Piggott, had finished second in the recent Empsom Derby.

The derby, televised to the United States on the satellite Early Bird, also carried the hopes of holders of Irish Sweepstakes tickets.

The victory was worth $155,820 to the three owners and was watched by a crowd estimated at 150,000.

Oilers Go To Angelo

The Gage Oilers, having lost two games to weak teams due to squad shortages in the past two weeks, will try to upset San Antonio's top team, the Angels, today.

The Angels have defeated all the semi-pro teams in that area, including the San Angelo Oilers, who have several SAC baseball stars on their roster. Heading the Angel stick attack are Marshall White and Julio Guerro. Their pitcher, Jesse Alaco, has whipped all San Angelo area teams, and hurled shutout, 7-0, over a Mexican team.

Chubby Moser and Bobby Suggs are slated to pitch for the Oilers in today's doubleheader.

Kirkland Homer Propels Bossox

BOSTON (AP) — Willie Kirkland socked a three-run homer and Don Zimmer belted a three-run double, powering Washington past Boston 12-7 Saturday.

Zimmer's bases-loaded double highlighted a five-run explosion in the eighth inning that broke open a tight game.

The Senators had snapped a 6-6 tie in the previous inning against reliever Dick Radatz, now 4-6.

Crooner Gets Third Share

DUBLIN (AP) — Bing Crosby bought a one-third interest in Meadow Court just hours before the Irish Derby and then watched Saturday as the American-bred colt won the $155,820 first place money by two lengths.

Meadow Court, a grandson of Tom Fool on his maternal side, was owned solely by Max Bell, a Canadian millionaire, on the eve of the race. Then he sold a one-third share to Crosby and another one-third to Frank McMahon, a Vancouver, B.C., industrialist and part owner of Alberta Rancher with veteran jockey Johnny Longden.

Crosby, watching the race, said afterwards that "it was a great day for all three of us Irishmen." The price he and McMahon paid for their shares was not announced.

The race's result determined the winners in the second Irish Hospital Sweepstakes of 1965 with the holders of tickets on Meadow Court geting $440,000. Convamore was second and Wedding Present third. Ticket holders on the second place horse received $56,000 and those with tickets on Wedding Present received $28,000.

WICHITA FALLS — Big Spring's Morton Foods softball team won two fantastic victories here Saturday in the Wichita Falls Invitational Tourney, both by home runs by the same man and both 1-0.

Ted Tedford's 16th-inning homer beat Oklahoma City in a game that began at 6 a.m. Ed Dunn went all the way at the mound for the Morton Foods team. Fans said it was the tourney's best game so far.

Mortons was to play another game Saturday at 9:30 p.m., against the Maxwell AFB world champions. The Air Force champs pitched Lopez, reputed to be one of the best softball pitchers in the nation. Curry, Caveness Get Davis Award

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Bill Curry of Georgia Tech and Ron Caveness of Arkansas, opponents in the All-America football game, were picked Saturday night as co-winners of the Ernie Davis memorial award.

Davis, an All-America halfback at Syracuse, played his last football game in the 1962 All-America game. He died of leukemia before he had a chance to play professionally with the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League.

Rockets Drop A Heartbreaker

The International Little League Rockets lost a heart-breaker Saturday night, 3-4, to the Sabres, putting them firmly in last place. They are now 1-7 on the season, the Sabres 3-5.

Steve Ames went all the way for the Sabres, giving up four hits. But the Rocket hurler, Bill Mimms, gave up only one hit in the six-inning contest. The Sabres won on that single hit, however, as they crossed home on balls and errors.

The Rockets, down 1-4 in the fourth, nearly pulled even in the fifth, scoring two runs, but couldn't put across anything else.

Last Half Explosion Gives East 34-14 Win

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — John Huarte, Notre Dame's fine quarterback, threw two touchdown passes, scored once and kicked four conversions Saturday night in leading the East to a 34-14 victory over the West in the All-America football game before 25,503 fans.

Ken Willard, a driving halfback from North Carolina, crashed through the West line with explosive runs in an impressive performance that won him the most valuable player award.

Willard gained 133 yards in 18 carries.

Huarte hit Jim Nance of Syracuse with a 13-yard scoring pass in the first period, sneaked home on a 3-yard keeper play in the third and connected with his former Notre Dame partner, Jack Snow for a 9-yard touchdown in the final period.

Tom Nowatzke, the Indiana fullback, smashed over from the one for the other East touchdown, a score that tied the game at 14-14 midway in the third period.

Rick Redman of Washington intercepted a Huarte pass and ran 15 yards for a West score in the first period and Gale Sayers, a shifty runner from Kansas, squirmed over from the one in the second, giving the West a 14-7 halftime lead.

Czech Discus Master Sets New Meet Record

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Ludvik Danek of Czechoslovakia, who holds the world's record in the discus throw, set a meet record of 205 feet, 7 inches as the National AAU Track and Field Championships got under way Saturday night.

Danek, whose world record is 211-9½, threw the discus over 200 feet in each of his six trips to the ring. The 205-7 mark came in the second round of the preliminaries.

Al Oerter of the New York Athletic Club set the old mark of 202-2 in 1962.

Jay Sylvester of Tremonton, Utah, was second Saturday night at 202-7 and Dave Weill of the Indian Track Club of Palo Alto, Calif., was third at 191-0. Both U.S. athletes qualified for the American team which will meet Russia July 31-Aug. 31.

Distance runner Gerry Lindgren, in another about face, arrived here and said he would run in the six-mile race Sunday night.

Barring another reversal, Lindgren will co-star with Peter Snell of New Zealand Sunday in the final night of the 77th annual event.

Snell is entered in the mile and hopes to regain the world record which Michel Jazy of France took from him June 9.

Jazy ran the distance in 3:53.6. Snell holds the listed mark of 3:54.1, which he set Nov. 17, 1964, in Auckland, New Zealand.

Vernon Law Still Red Hot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pittsburgh's Vernon Law pitched a three-hitter, won his eighth straight game and collected three hits himself as the Pirates whipped the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers 6-1 Saturday.

Law, who hasn't lost since dropping his first five decisions, triggered rallies in the eighth and ninth innings with two of his singles. He hit a three-run homer in his last victory.

Two of the hits off the veteran right-hander came in the sixth inning when the Dodgers tied the score 1-1 on singles by pitcher Claude Osteen and Wes Parker sandwiched around a sacrifice bunt.

Law led off the eighth with a single, and Bob Miller relieved Osteen. Law moved to second on a sacrifice and raced home with the tie-breaking run as pinch hitter Bill Virdon doubled. Bill Mazeroski closed out the rally with a two-run single.

Law led off the ninth by beating out an infield single and scored on Donn Clendenon's fourth hit, a two-run single.

Ralston Leads Yanks In Wimbledon Advance

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Dennis Ralston, America's No. 1 tennis ace, played a strong, assured game against an outclassed opponent Saturday and led a three-man American contingent into the quarterfinals of the Wimbledon Championships.

The 22-year-old Bakersfield, Calif., player defeated Thomas Koch of Brazil 6-3, 6-3, 6-1 and became the only entry in the men's singles field who has not dropped a set in four rounds.

Ralston was joined in the last eight by Allen Fox, a 26-year-old psychology student from Los Angeles who is ranked No. 8 in the U.S., and Marty Riessen, the No. 10 player from Evanston, Ill.

TWO FALTER

Two other U.S. challengers cracked against high class opposition and were eliminated. They were Arthur Ashe Jr., No. 3 U.S. player from Richmond, Va., and Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif.

Defending champion Roy Emerson of Australia lost his first singles set of the tournament Saturday, and he and second-seeded Fred Stolle were the only Aussies who made it into the last eight out of 18 who started and six who survived to the fourth round.

Sixth-seeded John Newcombe was the day's principal upset victim, losing a marathon match to the young South African Davis Cup player, Cliff Drysdale, 9-7, 6-4, 11-13, 11-9.

Ken Fletcher and Bob Hewitt were eliminated by their countrymen, Emerson and Stolle, and 39-year-old Bob Howe was knocked out by Riessen.

THREE OF EIGHT

Thus the last eight men included three Americans, two Australians, two South Africans — Drysdale and Keith Diepraam — and eighth-seeded Rafael Osuna of Mexico, who seems to have regained the stylish form that took him to the U.S. singles title in 1963.

Ralston's victory was the most convincing. He let his concentration slip a bit while serving in the seventh game of the first set and gave it away with three double faults. But from there on he made few mistakes and he ran off seven straight games from 4-3 in the second set to 5-0 in the third.

Maria Bueno, the defending women's champion, led her field into the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 7-5 victory over Britain's Mrs. Ann Jones.

Nancy Richey of Dallas, seeded fourth, led five American girls into the round of 16. She overpowered Mrs. Rosemary Deloford of Britain 6-0, 6-0.

Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., No. 5, outlasted Jill Blackman of Australia 7-5, 12-10; Jane Albert of Pebble Beach, Calif., defeated Helga Schultze of Germany 6-4, 6-3; Julie Heldman of New York beat Mrs. Robin Lloyd of Britain 6-2, 6-2, and Justina Bricka of St. Louis defeated Monique Salfati of France 6-2, 3-6, 7-5.

Cards Plaster Chicago, 8-1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Home runs by Tim McCarver, Phil Gagliano and Mike Shannon powered the St. Louis Cardinals to an 8-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

The Cardinals, who had lost all four of their previous meetings with the Cubs, shelled starting pitcher Cal Koonce for all of their homers.

Gagliano hit his sixth of the season in the first inning. Then, in the Cardinals' four-run fourth, Bill White doubled and scored on Bob Skinner's single before McCarver and Shannon delivered consecutive homers.

Giants Nip Phils, 6-5

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gary Wagner walked Jim Hart with the bases loaded in the ninth inning, forcing in Jim Davenport with the winning run in San Francisco's 6-5 victory over Philadelphia Saturday.

Wagner retired the first batter in the inning but walked Davenport, gave up a single to Jesus Alou and passed Willie Mays intentionally. He then walked Hart, ending the game.

Masanori Murakami stopped the Phillies on one hit in the final two innings, picking up the second victory of his major league career and evening his record this season at 1-1.

The Giants, who scored their first four runs in the first inning, had to battle back to tie the score 5-5 in the eighth on Willie McCovey's 16th homer.

Jets Double Hit Output, Yet Lose

The Jets received a shock Friday when they got twice the hits — including a homer — of the Stars, yet were beaten, 5-3, in an American Little League game.

Louis Dunham, Jet center fielder, slammed a homer with no one on in the fifth, and pitcher Paul Deshea was two for three (a double and single) and scored twice — and pitched a two-hitter but was still the losing pitcher.

David Englert gave up four hits to the Jets (he and right fielder Ray got the only two hits for their team) but the Stars managed to win on Jet bobbles and bases on balls.

The Stars scored quickly, getting three runs in the first and one each in the second and third. The Jets scored in the second, fifth and sixth stanzas.

Dick Ferrell's Five Hitter Beats Stumbling Mets, 2-0

HOUSTON (AP) — Dick Farrell pitched a five-hitter and Joe Morgan scored both runs as the Houston Astros hung another loss on the New York Mets Saturday night, 2-0.

Charlie Smith collected three of the hits off Farrell, including the first — a double with one out in the fifth.

Morgan opened the Astros' first inning with a single off Frank Lary, stole second, took third on a ground out and scored on Jim Gentile's single. Houston's other run came in the sixth when Morgan walked and came around on Lee Maye's double.

The Mets now have lost all five games in the Astrodome. They also have dropped their last four in a row, and 19 of their last 22 games.

Orioles Use Error, Double To Beat Chicago In 14th

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Johnson rapped a two-run double in the 14th inning, following Ron Hansen's third error of the game, and brought the Baltimore Orioles a 2-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

Held hitless since the eighth inning, the Orioles got started in the 14th when Luis Aparicio singled with one out off relief ace Eddie Fisher. Jerry Adair then reached first when Hansen fumbled his grounder.

Brooks Robinson hit into a force out, but Johnson followed with a long, high drive to left field that kicked off the glove of Tom McCraw as he backed up to the wall.

The loss went to Fisher, only his second against eight victories. Dick Hall, who held the White Sox to one hit over the final five innings, got the victory for a 6-2 record.

Fisher came on in relief for the White Sox in the 10th when the Orioles, who had collected only four hits, threatened against starter Gary Peters after Johnson was hit by a pitch leading off the inning.

Horton Is Key Figure As Detroit Whips Twins

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Willie Horton drove in three runs with a single and bases-loaded walk, and Mickey Lolich tamed Minnesota with help from a trio of relievers as Detroit beat the Twins 5-2 Saturday.

Horton delivered a bases-full, two-out single in the fifth inning for the game's first two runs. He also walked with the bases jammed in the seventh. Another Tiger run came home in the seventh on George Thomas' sacrifice fly, which left fielder Bob Allison caught in foul territory.

Lolich went six innings before tiring. He yielded a Minnesota run in the sixth when Zoilo Versalles, Joe Nossek and Tony Oliva singled in succession.

Until that burst, Lolich had yielded only Versalles' first-inning, leadoff double. He struck out 10 and permitted only four hits.

Larry Sherry relieved Lolich. Billy Pleis, making his first start for the Twins in two years, took the loss and is 3-1.

Yanks Revive, Clobber Angels

NEW YORK (AP) — Cleon Boyer and Phil Linz each drove in two runs and scored two as the New York Yankees trampled the Los Angeles Angels 10-3 Saturday.

New York's Jim Bouton, seeking his first victory since May 8, had to leave the game in the fourth inning after pulling a muscle in the upper part of his left leg. He had a 3-1 lead at the time.

Linz led off the first inning with a walk from Marcellino Lopez, and the Yankees scored three runs. Elston Howard and Joe Pepitone each singled across a run in the inning.

Boyer highlighted another three-run burst in the fourth inning, slamming a homer after Pepitone led off with a double.

Vic Power, who had all three Los Angeles hits Friday night, extended his streak to five straight hits before grounding into a double play in the sixth.

Tribe Loses To KC, 4-2

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fred Talbot and Don Mossi pitched the Kansas City Athletics to a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday for the Indians' second loss in 14 games.

Talbot, who shut out the Indians in Kansas City two weeks ago, hurled the first seven innings and got credit for his fifth victory in nine decisions.

The Indians were blanked by Talbot through the first five innings during which they didn't get a runner past second base.

Leon Wagner's 10th homer of the season capped a two-run Cleveland rally in the sixth.

Figalan Tosses No-Hitter In American Softball Tilt

Vic Figalan threw a no-hitter Friday, shutting out Forsan as his 3560th players ran up a 12 run score in the first game of two American Softball League games.

T. J. Wall, Forsan pitcher, was tagged for 10 hits as the 3560th racked up three runs in the third inning, five in the fourth and four more in the fifth.

Don Paige did nearly as well in the second game, giving up only one hit to Pioneer as Skateland shut them out, 3-0.

Pioneer catcher Carter got the lone hit for his team, a fifth - inning single. Donnie Gooch had a fine day for Skateland, going three for three at the plate and stealing a base in the fourth inning. Shortstop Bill Harmon tripled for Skateland, and later scored from third. The other two runs came in the fifth, when Eddie McHugh scored after doubling, and Gooch scored in the sixth after singling. Both runs came on Pioneer errors.

Frank Long took the loss, giving up six hits and striking out only one batter. Paige fanned 13.

Mickey Wright Going After Fifth Open Title

NORTHFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Power-hitting Mickey Wright, who has dominated ladies' golf for years and is making her final swing as a full-time member of the tour, goes after an unprecedented fifth championship this week in the U.S. Golf Association's Women's Open.

Some 47 professionals and 39 amateurs will tee off Thursday in the richest women's golf tournament ever, with the winner getting $4,000. Last year's prize money of $9,900 has been more than doubled to $20,000.

For the first time, the Open is a four-day event. Like last weekend's men's Open at St. Louis, the accustomed 36-hole final day has been changed to two days of 18 holes each.

TELEVISED

The final hour of the tournament next Sunday will be televised nationally over NBC-TV.

After Friday's second round, the field will be cut to the low 40 and ties.

The Atlantic City Country Club course, in Northfield a few miles west of Atlantic City, stretches 6,220 yards and plays to a par 37-35—72 for the ladies.

Miss Wright, a 30-year-old long ball hitter from Dallas, won the Open in 1958, 1959, 1961 and last year, when she defeated Ruth Jessen in a playoff. She announced her retirement from the full tour two months ago, saying that, "There just isn't anything left to accomplish in golf."

If she wins this Open, she will add another to her long list of records, which include earnings of nearly $180,000, $31,600 in one year and winning 64 tournaments, including 13 in one year.

Last-Round Clout In Vain

The Kiwanis slipped by Big Spring Hardware, 5-4, surviving a last-minute homer by Gary Rogers, in a Hi-Junior League baseball game Friday evening.

Rogers' homer scored two runs in the seventh, but after Wesley Ballou doubled the next two men were put out to end the game.

Rod Roberts went all the way for the Kiwanis, giving up four hits and striking out six batters. Johnny Ramirez was the only hurler for the Hardware club. He gave up eight hits, also fanned six.

The Kiwanis scored two runs in the fourth on a left field error and a couple of singles, scored two more the next inning on a third base error, and got the winning run in the top of the seventh when Dean Gilstrap, on first via a single, scored bon Kirby Horton's double.

PLAYER'S OPEN VICTORY

Brakes On The Power Game

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The victory of singles hitter Gary Player and the collapse of muscle men Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus in the National Open Golf Tournament last week may have put some brakes on the wild stampede toward power golf.

"I learned to hit the ball straight before I learned to hit it far," said Player, the 150-pound little giant from South Africa who whipped another soft-baller, Kel Nagle, in a playoff.

"If I had to give one piece of advice to the week-end golfer it would be this: 'Take it easy — don't try to kill the ball,'" Player said.

Killing the ball — hitting it so hard you can hear it whine — has been the growing tendency in the sport for the last several years, producing what Byron Nelson calls "a new breed of home run hitters."

"It's a different game," said Lord Byron, the pro king of the 1940s. "Nobody worries about style any more. They just get up there and bang the ball. They don't worry about trouble. They don't play for pars. They're always going for birdies."

"Big" is the new word for golf. The courses are bigger. The greens are bigger. The checks are bigger. So, reason the tournament players, the drive must be bigger.

Palmer attacks the ball with such viciousness that he almost falls off the tee from the force of his follow-through. The 210-pound Nicklaus seems to leave the ground when he tears into one of his 300-yard-plus drives. Chi Chi Rodriguez, the 126-pound bomber, digs his toes into the turf and unwinds like a steel spring.

"There has been an evolution in the swing," said Robert Trent Jones, the famous golf course architect out of whose head came the terrifying Bellerive course at St. Louis where the 1965 Open was played.

"Bob Jones turned his hips on his back swing and hit the ball crisply," Jones continued." Fellows such as Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson played well within themselves. The swing has become fuller and freer. Today players hold their right elbow against their sides and reverse their shoulders and hips until they do almost a complete turn.

GARY PLAYER
"Take it easy"

Bellerive County Club was both big and treacherous and made to order, the experts said, for sluggers such as Nicklaus and Palmer.

Palmer started with two 76s and failed to survive the halfway cut for the first time in 51 tournaments. Nicklaus shot 299, 19 over par, and finished 17 shots back of the lead. Other power hitters floundered.

"I have never felt it was wise to attack a golf course and I knew that to do so at Bellerive would have been suicidal," said Player.

"One of my idols in golf always has been Ben Hogan. I admired the way he was able to take a golf course apart mechanically, whether it was long or short.

"Hogan always said he played management golf. Like a talented billiard player, he put every shot in position for the next shot. I knew from playing Bellerive in practice that it was a course that you couldn't overpower.

"You had to out-think it. You had to keep the ball in play. That's exactly what I concentrated on doing."

Player said there was a big difference between the Bellerive course and famed Augusta National, where Nicklaus won the Masters title in April by a record score.

"Augusta is a magnificent layout but has broad, beautiful fairways," he explained. "The long hitter can swing away without risking too much disaster.

"Also, it is an elevation course, built so that the average player is unable to see his second shot. Nicklaus has a big advantage. He can hit the ball so high and far that he can put it on the shelf, so to speak. He, almost alone, doesn't have to play some second shots blind."

Player said that in his preliminary preparations for the Open he explored Bellerive thoroughly and, in the fashion of Hogan in the latter's prime, mapped out his strategy.

"I knew where the trouble was — the ravine alongside No. 2, the ponds at the short No. 3 and No. 6, the sloping fairway at No. 6," he added. "I determined to pin-point my shots so to avoid these trouble spots with their certain penalties. I played it soft. I never cut loose.

"Not all of us are gifted with the strength and power of Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer.

"I must admit I envy them. I have exercised and worked to get all the length possible out of my game. There's no doubt that power is a big asset on some courses, such as Augusta.

"Bellerive was a course that couldn't be badgered. It had to be coddled. That's what I did. I went for the safe spots. I never took a gamble. I let birdies come where they might, which wasn't often. And it paid off."

Giant Windmills Search Out Oil

By TOM BARRY

A maze of lines, pipes, butane engines, steel girders and sweating men, all busily doing mysterious things, sits whirling amidst an incredible din, seven miles north of Ackerly, just off US 87. It is an oil drilling derrick.

Standing about 100 feet high, it juts out over the flat cotton field looking like an overgrown, but decapitated, windmill.

ROARING

It is somewhat of a shock, seeing all the heavy-looking machinery, hearing its deafening roar and feeling the platform shake. All this seems a great deal to do, just to bore a hole in the ground. But that is just what is done.

A great deal of energy must be expended to drill a hole down to the oily sand that is the goal. This particular derrick, the Cactus Oil Corp. Rig No. 16, is to puncture a six-inch hole nearly 9,000 feet into West Texas, and, said tool-pusher Tommy Lewis, it will be done in only 18 days.

Lewis, who is the supervisor, and 15 men who work in three shifts of eight hours each, have been averaging more than 450 feet drilled per day for the 10 days the derrick has been at the site. This drilling is not cheap. The per diem cost is about $1,300.

But before Cactus Oil Corp. moved the $150,000 rig to the cotton field, much time went into the selection of the place for the hole.

FIND SITES

Field men for the large oil companies look at records in county courthouses, finding likely places for oil that are not already claimed. Once this is done, geologists check out the sites, trying to find the best possibility for oil. In a proven field, such as the Ackerly (Dean) area, the probability that a producing well can be made is very good. Then the company leases the land, usually for 10 years, and informs drilling companies that they can send in their bids on the proposed well. The low bidder then moves in.

Lewis and crew were down to 5,925 feet at the middle of last week. Rather, their rotary drill and bit were. The drill bit looks something like the gears in an automobile transmission—three conical, circular things with teeth, angled from a central pipe, or casing. Water, or sometimes gas or air, is pushed down in the hole with the bit. Then it is pumped out, carrying with it the chewed up earth, and taken by pipes to a large mud puddle, called a "slush pit" in oil parlance. The drilling is accomplished by two 350-horsepower butane engines, which work like diesels. The muck is pumped out of the hole by another, 700-horsepower, engine.

COMPLICATIONS

When, finally, the hole is deep enough to have reached an oil-bearing formation, more complications set in.

Sometimes a great deal of pressure is encountered in the formation, and, were it not for a valve-device up on the ground, the rig would be destroyed by the rush of oil, air, gas and earth. This apocalypse being prevented by the "blow-off preventer," there remains the problem of getting the oil out.

The oil, at times, merely sits in its hole, obeying the law of gravity. To induce it to come forth, oil and sand, or acid is forced down the well under great pressure, causing the oil stratum to become more porous; then it may flow of its own accord.

At other times it is pumped up.

OVER-SIMPLIFIED

This description is over-simplified at best. The actual getting of oil is an extremely involved process, requiring advanced scientific activities, especially in turning the gunk that comes out of the hole into usable, valuable things like gasoline, lubricants and the thousand other petroleum by-products.

The important thing is that the whole industry depends on those headless windmills, and the men who operate them.

Turning Bits Holds Steady

The Reed Roller Bit Co. survey of rotary rigs operating in the Permian Basin Empire Friday showed 198 bits turning. This was the same figure shown last week.

The 198 is fewer than the 227 listed for the comparable survey in 1964. Lea County, N.M., is first on the list with 34, up four during the week. Pecos County, with 30, was up one for second place, and Andrews with 14 was down one for third place.

Bits turning in the area, with last week's figures in parentheses, were:

Andrews 14 (15), BORDEN 1 (1), Cochran 1 (0), Coke 4 (2), Crane 2 (3), Crockett 2 (2), DAWSON 3 (5), Ector 4 (7), Eddy 12 (13), Fisher 2 (2), Gaines 5 (9), Hockley 9 (6), HOWARD 2 (3), Irion 1 (2), Kent 2 (5), Lamb 1 (0), Lea 34 (30), Loving 2 (0), Midland 2 (1), MITCHELL 2 (1), Nolan 2 (1), Pecos 30 (29), Reagan 7 7), Reeves 2 (6), Runnels 3 (1), Schleicher 5 (6), Scurry 1 (1), STERLING 2 (3), Stonewall 5 (6), Sutton 3 (2), Terrell 3 (3), Terry 2 1), Tom Green 3 (5), Upton 6 (5), Ward 6 (3), Winkler 4 (4), Yoakum 9 (5), Total 198 (198).

Hunt Exec Takes Landmen's Post

DENVER (AP)—The American Association of Petroleum Landmen installed James Beavers Jr., of the Hunt Oil Co. of Dallas as president Friday.

Sen. Gordon Allott told the landmen the petroleum industry was hampered by uncertainties and inconsistencies in federal oil and gas leasing practices.

Allott said he had introduced three bills in the past three sessions of Congress in an effort to clear up the uncertainties. He said his latest attempt, Senate Bill 1779, was presently before the Senate interior committee.

New vice presidents include W. G. Rogers of Corpus Christi. James Bexley of Houston was installed as treasurer and B. M. Rankin Jr. of Dallas as secretary.

Danger Is Also On The Job With Drilling Rig Workers

By PRESTON MAYNARD

A hot sun, icy winter winds, machinery that must be kept in 24-hour-a-day operation against a tight time deadline — these are the problems faced by men who work on West Texas oil rigs. Plus one additional element — danger.

The latter is with the men each of the 24 hours, even though today's oil field worker takes advantage of such safety precautions as aluminum safety hats and hard-toed boots.

OVERSEE WORK

Supervisors who oversee work at the rigs are aware of measures to increase safety, watching men for hazards and reminding them of means to eliminate them. Drilling companies today employ safety engineers, specialists trained to look for conditions which may lead to accidents.

Yet, a casing pipe may fall. Machinery may get out of a man's control. Or a derrick man may lose his footing.

So despite all that can be done to prevent injuries or loss of life on the rigs, danger remains a companion to the oil field worker today.

Coupled with the dangers of the job, the 16 men who today are working seven miles north of Ackerly on a Cactus Drilling Corp. rig are attempting to keep a deadline of 18 days to complete the well.

HARDEST PART

The hardest part of the job is either at the beginning or the end of a well, pointed out Tommy Lewis, tool pusher for the rig who oversees the operation. Equipment and piping has to be moved in and out at the beginning and end.

"It's a 24-hour a day job," Lewis said of his work. He has been working on oil rigs 18 years. His experience ranges through Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, New Mexico, the Dakotas and Colorado. Now of Lamesa, he is a native of Oklahoma.

"My job is to get the well drilled in the shortest time possible," Lewis said.

From the first time he worked on a rig at Pampa, Tex., Lewis has seen thousands of wells drilled.

NOT EASY

"It's never an easy job," he said, recounting the work of the 15-man crew which he directs. Three shifts work at the rig, five men for each for eight hours of a day.

And for Lewis, his job has no exact time of day to begin or end.

"They may call for me before I get home," he said. Lewis has worked with drilling operations using air or gas in place of water, but prefers the latter as less difficult to use and less dangerous.

Each crew at the rig is headed by a driller, who supervises the work of two floormen, a derrick man and a motor man. The three drillers for the rig near Ackerly are A. A. Parnell, Andrews; M. D. Mosley, Lamesa; and K. L. Love, Kermit.

The crew has experience in oil field work ranging from one year to several. Two college students, K. C. Stephens, Kermit and K. O. Collick, Andrews, are working during the summer to pay for college expenses.

The crew's ages range from 21 to 45, with two of the men having come with Lewis from other drilling jobs.

MOVE ON

Oil field workers, Lewis pointed out, usually stay with a job as long as it is steady employment, but move on when work slows.

The drillers are men with usually five years or more of experience in rig work.

"Some men stay in oil field work all their lives and never make drillers, others will make it in a few years," Lewis said.

Stevenson Gets Analyst Position

Dewie O. Stevenson, formerly of Big Spring, has been promoted to economic analyst for Northwestern Refining Company in St. Paul Park, Minn.

Stevenson was on the staff of Cosden Oil and Chemical Company before joining Northwestern. He is a graduate of Big Spring High School and of Texas A&M University, the latter under the Cosden special scholarship program.

He is married to the former Doris Glenn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Granville Glenn.

Dawson Wildcat, Borden Stepouts Are Staked

A Dawson County wildcat location has been staked, two stepout locations spotted in Sterling County, and one stepout location set in Martin County.

Phillips Petroleum Co. has staked No. 1-A Beaird, nine miles southeast of Lamesa as a Pennsylvanian probe to 8,400 feet. It is 3½ miles east of the Canyon discovery in the Sparenburg field, spotted 1,980 feet from the north and east lines of section 5-34-4n, T&P survey.

HMH Operators of Midland will drill two stepout locations to 1,450 feet, in the Parochial-Bade, West (Queen) sand pool. They are both 13 miles west of Sterling City. No. 2 Jennie Ray, one location west of the recently completed discovery pool, is 330 feet from the south and 1,120 feet from the east lines of section 19-22, H&TC survey.

The No. 2-A Jennie Ray is 330 feet from the south and 1,787 feet from the east lines of the same section and is one step-out west of the No. 2 Ray.

Connally Oil Co., Inc. of Abilene has spotted No. 3-3 Jim Tom as a one location west stepout to the Gordon Street, South (lower Wolfcamp) pool five miles southeast of Stanton. The test will go to 9,900 feet.

Location was staked 1,000 feet from the south, and 1,640 feet from the west lines of section 31-35-1s, T&P survey.

'SENIORS'

ROBERT GLENN LEPARD

The catalytic cracker at Cosden's refinery has special significance for R. Glenn Lepard, who hails from Merkel. He helped the contractor build this unit and a few months later, on Feb. 14, 1950, went to work for Cosden. He was only 18, and just a few months out of Coahoma High School. It was also at the "cat" that he first became an operator.

From yardman, Lepard had advanced to gauger and/or helper at the Dubbs, crude unit and poly plant. He was a stillman at the alkylation unit. From the catcracker he transferred to the ammonia plant adjacent to the refinery in October, 1961, for its debut. He remains there as an operator. There was time out beginning in 1953 for two years of service as a staff sergeant in the Army.

East of town in the Midway community is the neighborhood of Lepard and his wife, the former Cheryl Grimm of Midland, whom he married Jan. 26, 1957. Their youngsters are Bobby Glenn, 7, a second grader at Midway; Diana, 4; and 11-months-old Julia.

By shrewd planning and determination, this busy couple has managed to study at Howard County Junior College. She graduated there last year. Lepard, who is a shift worker, has accumulated 30 hours of credits over the past three years by attending class at night and doing some makeup work in the daytime.

Gardening is a special interest of Mrs. Lepard, who is a member and past president of the Four O'Clock Garden Club. Her husband cites spectator sports and deer hunting in Colorado as his diversions. The Lepards are members of the 11th Place and Birdwell Church of Christ.

Market Resumes Downward Trend, Averages Falling

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market resumed its downtrend last week and finished a half year that began with an impressive advance and ended with a sharp plunge, erasing all gains on average.

The latest week was one of groping for support — and not finding it. The news background was mixed. No Wall Streeter could quibble with enactment of the $4.7 billion in tax cuts; auto sales were glowing; but the headlines about Viet Nam got blacker and blacker.

In the latest week the Dow Jones industrial average fell 24.81 to 854.36, plunging through the theoretical support level of 857.45 which stemmed a long-ish downtrend last Dec. 15.

The next "support" was anybody's guess and it was beginning to look rather silly to talk about them as the averages have cracked through one after another since they made historic peaks in mid-May.

The Associated Press average last week fell 8.6 to 312.8, it's sharpest decline since the week ended Nov. 23, 1963, the week of the Kennedy assassination. The AP average was now at its lowest reading since last August.

The total was 21,844,200 shares compared with 30,253,691 the previous week. Reluctance of big institutional investors to buy stocks was one reason cited both for the price decline and the slackness in volume.

Of 1,512 issues traded this week, 1,242 issues fell and 161 rose.

Since the leading stock averages made their records peaks in mid-May the market has lost approximately 9 per cent. The Dow industrials have plunged 85.26 since they made their record close of 939.62 on May 14.

This compares with a plunge of almost 200 points in the spring of 1962 and a recovery of more than 400 points from June 1962 to the latest peak in May 1965.

With early 1965 rise counterbalancing the later decline, the loss for the Dow industrials in the past six months has only been 19.77.

The AP average has fallen 21.9 since its record on May 6 but its net loss on the half year has been only 11.3.

The market began to rise last December. After reaching its peak in mid-May the market began its dramatic slide.

Activity in the nation's bond markets was heavy during the first half of 1965 as the federal government, corporations and municipal and state governments floated more and more debts.

During the past week the whole U.S. Treasury bond list advanced strongly on moderately heavy volume sparked by purchases by the Federal Reserve System.

During the past week corporate bond volume totaled a par value of $41.65 million, compared to the previous week's $66.89 million.

Death Toll Down

AUSTIN (AP) — State police said 1,202 persons had died in Texas traffic to noon Friday, compared to 1,236 last year.

Houston Paper Names Moon-Bound Scientists

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Houston Chronicle identified in an early edition of Sunday's paper the names of the men it says have been chosen as scientist-astronauts for trips to the moon.

The paper declined to name its source. Officials at the Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston had no comment.

The selections are scheduled to be announced by the National Aeronautic and Space Administration on Tuesday.

Six men have been chosen, the Chronicle said. They are:

Dr. F. Curtis Michel, 31, a physicist doing research and teaching in the space science field at Rice University.

Dr. Owen K. Garriott, 34, an electronics engineer and instructor at Stanford University.

Dr. Edward G. Gibson, 28, a physicist at the Applied Research Laboratories, Newport Beach, Calif.

Dr. Duane E. Graveline, 34, a doctor in the medical programs office at the Manned Spacecraft Center.

Dr. Harrison H. Schmitt, 29, a geologist with the U.S. Geological Survey in Flagstaff, Ariz., and the only bachelor among those selected.

Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin, 33, a flight surgeon and pilot for the Navy, stationed in Jacksonville, Fla.

NASA officials had hoped for 10 to 20 scientist-astronauts, but qualifications were so demanding that most scientists couldn't meet them, the Chronicle said. The total number of applicants was not revealed.

None of the scientist-astronauts will go to the moon until after the first flight late in this decade.

Baptists Protest Commie Delegates

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A manifesto demanding that the Baptist World Congress repudiate its Iron Curtain countries delegates as "the agents of communism and the betrayers of Christianity" will be presented to the congress during its meetings here.

Some 2,000 persons attended a rally Friday night at Dinner Key Auditorium in Miami at which the manifesto was adopted. The protest meeting was held simultaneously with a congress gathering of 30,000 persons in the Orange Bowl.

Evangelist Carl McIntire announced at the meeting that he would present the manifesto to the congress, but did not say when. The congress will adjourn Wednesday.

The protest meeting was staged by the International Council of Christian Churches, headed by the Rev. Mr. McIntire, and related interdenominational organizations.

The manifesto reads in part:

1. Faith demands of us a complete repudiation of communism, its atheism, materialism, socialism and tyranny.

2. The Communist powers in Russia and throughout the world are destroying religion, persecuting the church, and seeking to establish a godless world.

3. The Russian Baptists and other Iron Curtain churchmen present in the Baptist World Alliance are the agents of communism and the betrayers of Christianity. We call upon the Baptist World Alliance to repudiate these propagandists for communism.

4. Christianity can never make common cause with communism, nor can it permit its churches to furnish a platform for Communist spokesmen. We hereby call upon the Baptist World Alliance to sever all ties with the Communist-controlled churches.

Farm Work Again Slowed By Widespread Rains

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Widespread rains, ranging from light showers to deluges, have again slowed or stopped Texas farm work.

The overall moisture situation is good, John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said at midweek.

Farmers made good progress during clear weather with hay, weeds and grass in row crops, planting and replanting. Grain harvesting was also pushed. Combining has started in the Panhandle. Ranges produced an abundance of grazing and prospects will be improved by rain, the director said.

Moisture is now adequate to surplus in the Panhandle. Some dryland wheat has been harvested. Cotton and grain sorghum are being replanted. Ranges are excellent. Torrential downpours posed new problems.

Moisture is adequate in all the South Plains. Crop conditions in general are good. Widespread replanting is necessary in Bailey and Cochran counties. Hot, dry weather is needed now so cotton can recover from damage caused by seedling disease, hail and sand. Cucumber and potato harvests have started. Onions are making good progress. Ranges and livestock are improving.

ROLLING PLAINS

In the Rolling Plains 6 of the 16 counties need moisture. Except for replanting, cotton is in the ground. Most cotton is up to a good stand and growing well. Some insect trouble is reported. The wheat harvest is over.

Showers to heavy rains hit 16 of the 19 counties in North Central Texas. Rains delayed the grain harvest, cultivation and application of insecticides on cotton. Some cotton is being replanted. Hay baling is active. Ranges and livestock conditions benefitted from the rains.

Farmers and stockmen in Northeast Texas made hay between rains and have stored a big tonnage of quality forage. Tomatoes and cucumbers are being harvested. Pastures, corn, sweet potatoes and watermelons look good. Cotton prospects are not so bright due to the late crop, grass and insects. Livestock conditions are above average.

WEST TEXAS

Winds dried moisture in most of far West Texas but heavy rains at mid-week fell from Del Rio and Brackettville northward. Irrigated crops made good growth. Dryland crops and most ranges need rain. Livestock conditions range from poor to excellent. Labor was short.

Moisture in West Central Texas generally is adequate. Most grain has now been harvested. Yields were cut in some areas by bad weather. Cotton and sorghums look good. Hay baling is active. Ranges generally are above average and livestock are in good condition. Four confirmed cases of screwworms have been reported in Sterling, Real and Irion counties. Sheep and goats are being drenched for intestinal parasites. Labor was adequate.

The Central Texas grain harvest is complete with yields poor to fair. Cotton is making rapid growth; corn is in the roasting ear stage; grass is plentiful; and stock tanks are full. Over 70 per cent of the peanut crop is planted. Hay baling is active. Grasshoppers are damaging Brown and Comanche county crops.

Moisture is adequate in all East Texas counties except Jasper, Polk and Madison. The hay harvest is active; cotton is fair; corn is fair to good; pastures are average to above. Livestock are in good condition with marketing normal.

Showers fell over most of Southeast Texas but rain is needed to restore surface moisture. The hay harvest is at the peak; most fields are in excellent condition; and that rice was beginning to head. Rice prospects are good.

Rains fell in much of South Central Texas and the overall situation is very good. Cotton is squaring; hay is being harvested; ranges are good; vegetables are producing abundantly; and sorghum prospects are very good.

Moisture is spotted in South Texas. Cotton is fruiting heavily and sorghum is maturing. Tomatoes, okra and peppers are moving in volume from the Valley. Ranges vary from below to above average. Livestock are in fair to good condition. Some labor shortages are reported.

Plaudits Meted Out For One Price Cotton Law

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The present one-price cotton law has not only increased domestic cotton consumption by 800,000 bales, but also has prevented an estimated decline in consumption of another 750,000 bales, the Senate Agriculture Committee heard last week.

Testifying as representative of the American Textile Manufacturers Institute, central trade organization for the textile industry, J. M. Cheatham, chairman of the institute's cotton policy committee and president of Dundee Mills, Griffin, Ga., declared that "compared with what the consumption figure might have been if the two-price system had remained in effect, in my judgment, it represents an increase of 1.5 million bales."

"The objective of the new cotton law," Cheatham said, "was to turn around the declining cotton economy and head it in the right direction of increased consumption and restored confidence. This is being accomplished."

Cheatham quoted Department of Agriculture figures of U. S. consumption of 9.4 million bales for the present crop year. "The last time cotton consumption increased as much as 800,000 bales from the previous year," he said, "was in 1950-51 — the period of Korea."

Among the benefits to the cotton economy and the textile industry cited by Cheatham were an "all-time high operating rate for weaving equipment during the first quarter of 1965, a rise in textile employment of 29,000 to a total of 924,000 since April of 1964, an increase in textile wages of $500 million in 18 months, and a narrowing of the gap between the earnings of the textile industry, 3.1 per cent in 1964, and other manufacturing industries, 5.2 per cent in 1964. He pointed out that despite the increase, textile profits still rank 16th among the 20 major manufacturing industries and credited a substanial share of the improvement to increased sales of fabrics made from synthetic fibers.

Expenditures for new plant and equipment this year are estimated by the Department of Commerce at $990 million — the highest rate of capital improvement of any industry, he said.

Fancy New Roses Named

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

You won't be able to get them before fall, but if you fancy the newest of the fine roses you can be thinking about the 1966 All-America Rose Selections recently announced.

Here they are, after two years of intensive tests in 23 official trial gardens across the nation:

Matterhorn, a tall, vigorous, hybrid white tea.

American Heritage, ivory-yellow hybrid tea, with tall growth.

Apricot Nectar, an apricot-color, fragrant floribunda.

Matterhorn is the first white hybrid tea to win the honor in six years. It has five-inch blooms on long stems.

American Heritage ranges from ivory - yellow buds to long - stemmed, pale-canary-yellow blooms with scarlet tints at maturity.

Apricot Nectar is a direct descendant of the lovely Spartan. It is free-flowering and has an old rose fragrance. The plant is about three feet tall and bushy.

The judges, faced with a tough decision, selected all three roses for the awards.

An important consideration is foliage, which in Matterhorn is bright green, in Apricot Nectar a striking dark green, and in American Heritage a two-tone bronze-green.

Hybridist E. S. Boerner of Jackson & Perkins, who developed Apricot Nectar, deserves special mention. It is his 11th AAS success — of the 18 J&P roses to win this coveted honor since 1940. Nine of Boerner's winners have been floribundas.

Gives Clues For Watering

LUBBOCK—Cotton irrigation research at the South Plains Research and Extension Center here gives clues to the most effective use of limited irrigation water.

Shelby Newman, who heads cotton irrigation studies at the center, says their work substantiates the theory that "timing is more important than total amount of water."

"Wait until the first white blooms appear before making the first irrigation," Newman says. "The only exception to this rule is with early maturing cotton. It sometimes pays to water early maturing cotton slightly before the first white bloom stage."

Research shows that the most profitable irrigation schedule for the High Plains is a combination of one four-to-six-inch preplant application, one four-inch application when the first white blooms appear and another four-inch application about the time of peak blooming.

If one summer irrigation is all that can be applied, Newman says it is best to put it on at the peak bloom stage. Peak bloom usually occurs 20 to 30 days after the first white blooms appear.

However, Newman says water applied down alternate rows in two irrigations is more efficient than an equal amount of water applied down each row in one irrigation.

Irrigations of more than four-inches are a waste for first irrigation, he said. Heavier irrigations supply more water than the plants can profitably use.

'It's All In The Game'

WHAT BETTER way to spend a hot summer afternoon than in friendly competition with friends for a duplicate bridge game? While the sun sizzles, and the family is occupied with other activities, approximately 150 local members of the American Contract Bridge League gather in cool club rooms to test their luck at catching the cards that count—and playing them well. Series competition is in full swing now at Big Spring Country Club, Cosden Country Club and the Officers Open Mess at Webb AFB.

Need Help With 'Headstart'

A plea for assistance with the Headstart Program operated by the local schools has come from Dr. C. L. Ainsworth, shown here with Mrs. Bob Priddy, Mrs. Simon Correa and Mrs. W. K. Edwards. The women are among the first to volunteer their services with the kindergarten-type program for educationally deprived children of pre-school age. More help is needed. The main function of the volunteers will be to help register the children and accompany the children and teachers on field trips. Classes are planned for Airport, Bauer, Boydston, Cedar Crest and Lakeview schools, and pupils may attend from July 5 through Aug. 27. Volunteers should call the school administration office, AM 4-8245.

Do camper's still take a 'hot roll' to sleep on, and do they roll out their bed on the bare ground and cook over a campfire made from wood gathered from the surrounding area and hope the water is fit to drink where they stop?

As any one can plainly read, it's been a long time since I camped out. And I wouldn't have done so then if my father hadn't been such an avid 'camper-out-on-the-hill' as he used to say.

One summer we were gone six weeks, vacationing. Some of the time we lived it up, staying in an apartment when we were going to spend more than several days in a city . . . but then there were those dark days, for me, at least. These were the times when the travel schedule didn't coincide with the fall of darkness and we had to go so far into the night that we didn't know exactly where we were pitching our camp. One time we just drove off the road and rolled out the bed rolls: We were too tired to argue. Some time during the night a train passed, barely rousing us. The next morning we had taken on the appearance of a family of dalmatians. Those old engines went on steam in those days and the steam was made in the boiler that was heated by coal . . . that coal made soot which sprayed us liberally . . . Once we stayed in a laundry in Cheyenne, Wyo., with a host of other travelers who were as unfortunate as we in arriving just as the Cheyenne Rodeo was getting under way . . . and the rains came at the same time.

There must have been some times when the going wasn't so bad but I can't think of camping without thinking of unpleasant things that happened. Most of the people I know have more conveniences when they go out 'roughing' it than we did . . . but then just about everything has improved, hasn't it?

NSA Initiates Two In Candelight Ceremony

Mrs. Vic Ames and Mrs. George Thorburn were initiated in the "Candlelight and Rose" ceremony of the National Secretaries Association (International) by Mrs. Bill Stone, local chapter president, at the chapter's monthly dinner meeting Tuesday at Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Ames is secretary to Maj. Cletus T. Pajot, chief, administrative services, Webb AFB, and Mrs. Thorburn is employed as secretary to D. G. Whitten, district production manager of American Petrofina Company of Texas. A guest at the meeting was Mrs. Rae Miller, also employed at Webb AFB.

During the business meetigg committee chairmen for the coming year were announced. Mrs. Bill Flynn has been chosen to head ways and means; Mrs. Jerry Callihan, bulletin and yearbook; Mrs. Winifred Greenlees, social; Mrs. Herbert Heath, program and chapter reporter; Miss Margueritte Cooper, membership; Mrs. Ames, scrapbook; Mrs. Aubry Bryans, education; Mrs. S. Gorman, by-laws and standing rules; and Mrs. Bob Asbury, civic.

As the evening's speaker, Mrs. Heath briefly discussed the meaning of NSA and the advantages of belonging to a professional organization. She emphasized that NSA is not a club and is not primarily a social organization. Instead, NSA is an association of business women who have joined forces to raise the standards of the secretary so that she may be recognized and accepted as a professional. The certified professional secretary program is NSA's tool for this purpose.

The advantages to membership in a professional organization are many, she continued. Local NSA members have an opportunity to improve themselves personally and professionally through trying to meet the standards encouraged by NSA, through identifying with other secretaries with the same goal, through participating in the formal and informal education program sponsored by the chapter, through attending seminars and workshops and monthly chapter meetings, and through reading the Secretary magazine provided by NSA membership.

Members were also reminded that in accepting NSA standards the NSA member accepts the responsibility to maintain the ethics of the profession, the responsibility to up-grade herself and her profession, the responsibility of being a representative of NSA on the job and in social contacts.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal sheath gown of imported organza over peau de soie. Appliques of hand-beaded reembroidered Alencon lace formed the bodice and cascaded the skirt front and the attached chapel train. A pearl-trimmed fabric rose of organza formed a headpiece which anchored a bouffant veil of illusion.

The bride carried a white Bible which held a white orchid nestled in Frenched carnations, backed with pearlized leaves and showered with satin picot.

Wedding Rites Unite Miss Ware, E. Smith

Miss Leta Pearl Ware became the bride of Ernest C. Smith in an afternoon ceremony performed Saturday at the Normandy Avenue Church of Christ in Sweetwater. H. L. Lewis of Eastland officiated at the wedding rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard L. Ware, Clovis, N. M., former local residents. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Smith of Cisco.

The altar was decorated with an arch covered with white flowers. A background was formed by a seven-branched candelabrum with white cathedral tapers in crystal votive cups on each side of the altar.

Traditional wedding music was presented as the bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage. Her dress was a formal gown of imported Chantilly lace over taffeta. Scalloped lace framed the scooped neckline and matched that of the fitted bodice, which was tapered to a point at the waistline. Roses accented the lace, and the long pointed sleeves reflected the lace patterns.

The dress had four large ruffles of contrasting plain net with scalloped lace edging dropped in waterfall fashion to the floor. Iridescent sequins accented the neckline and ruffles of the gown. The bride's veil of tulle illusion was edged with lace matching her gown and was caught by a crown of cut crystals.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white roses and blue feathered carnations carried atop a white Bible, a gift from her parents.

ATTENDANTS

Maid of honor was Miss Velma Ware, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Laverne Smith and Miss Charlotte Smith, sisters of the bridegroom.

New Price Aids Wigs

A wig for under $5 is what a huge chemical company promises the American woman soon.

At that price she can afford to be several of the seven shades from gray to redhead within a single day.

Naturally, at this price the hair isn't natural. But the makers claim it has certain advantages nature never thought of.

The swimmer can wear the so called wonder wig over a wet head, or she can risk it to a rainy day.

Models at a press show demonstrated the bubble and the beehive, the two styles in which the wig is sold.

Then they brushed these out, restyled them and lacquered the hair down. Maybe not much to touch, but the look is effective anyway.

Circle Members Welcome Guests

Mrs. Marshall V. Day, Rt. 1, was hostess Tuesday morning to eight members of the Martha Foster Circle of Wesley Methodist Church and two guests, Mrs. C. M. Condray and Mrs. O. B. Gray, Odessa.

Mrs. E. A. Guinn conducted the business, and Mrs. J. C. Ray, led the program, "The Disciplined Life." Taking part were Mrs. Alta King, Mrs. Guinn and Mrs. Jerry R. Allen.

The devotion was by Mrs. E. R. Cawthron, and the closing prayer was worded by Mrs. Ray. Refreshments were served.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Pork Chop Stuffing Includes Meat Tips

Dear Heloise:

For health reasons, I have to trim off every bit of fat from all meats.

In certain cuts of meat like lamb, pork or veal chops, that means completely severing the little tip which sometimes has several bites of meat.

After cutting off all the fat, I slit the chop to the bone (as one does to stuff them), stuff in the little lean bits of meat, and secure with a toothpick—slantwise so as not to interfere with cooking.

The chop is thicker, and there is absolutely no waste . . . Mrs. Roy C. Jeflebower

Dear Heloise:

Here is a hint for mothers when washing baby's booties or small stockings:

I keep a box of safety pins next to the bassinet, and when I undress baby, I take the socks or booties and pin them together at the toe, then pin them to the baby's kimona, blanket or terry outfit.

It may seem a little troublesome at first to pin the stockings in this way, but when you think of the time saved in trying to find those little objects after washing, I think it is well worth a few extra seconds . . . Karen

Webb Adopts City's Way Of Hauling Off Garbage

By ROY WILLIAMS

Webb Air Force Base has 638 trash cans that cost $4,606.36. The life expectancy of a trash can is three years, making the cans cost $1,535.45 per year.

This is quite a lot of money to spend to keep something you really want to throw away.

And, as trash cans fill up, they must be emptied. And so they are, frequently and expensively. The trash collection contract at Webb presently comes to $725 a month, which is $8,700 a year.

Add the can cost of $1,535.45 to the collection cost of $8,700 and Webb's trash cost for one year comes to a total of $10,235.45.

SPENDS A LOT

To Maj. Charles H. Penn, $10,000 is but a drop in the bucket (or trash can) because he is the Base Civil Engineer. His Civil Engineering Division maintains or protects, expands or improves a $28.5 million investment, and deals annually with $3 million.

Maj. Penn recently called Big Spring city manager, Larry Crow, to find out how the city's new trash system has worked out. They made an appointment to allow the major to observe Big Spring's system in action.

Convinced, Maj. Penn put together his case and pushed it through channels to Air Training Command. Money-saving suggestions travel fast in ATC. A string around everybody's finger is the Cost Reduction Program, and the recommendation came back approved.

KICKS OUT

Maj. Penn's new trash plan for the base is to kick out the trash can. Instead of row upon row of unsightly trash cans, there will be, here and there, one hold-more box.

It is a big, though, sheet-metal box, with special fittings, allowing a special truck to take its contents in a special way. Each box costs a mite more than $260, which is more than the $7.22 per can cost. But, it only takes 68 boxes to replace 638 cans, with the boxes lasting 10 years, and the cans only three years.

But the real savings is in the contract for collection. Instead of the old way, with three or four men playing catch with 638 cans, and lots of trips, the special truck, with fittings to work the boxes, is an automatic loader, and only the driver is needed. Also, because one box will hold up to 32 cans full, fewer trips are required.

BIG SAVINGS

Therefore, instead of a $8,700 collection contract, it will be but $2,687 a year.

The present can cost is $10,235.45 per year; the proposed box-way cost will be $4,465 per year, which amounts to a yearly savings of $5,770.45. In 10 years, that amounts to a savings of $57,704.50. And that ain't trash.

Webb Adapts City Method

Bigger containers in use for trash in Big Spring, will be used at Webb AFB. Above is a one-man city truck loaned to the base to show how the big boxes are used.

Budget Hearings For United Fund

Budget hearings looking toward the amount required for this fall's fund-raising campaign will be conducted by the United Fund this week.

Champ Rainwater has been named chairman of the screening and budget committee, and announced that a series of conferences with participating agencies will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Sessions will be held at the Chamber of Commerce offices, and will begin at 6:30 each evening.

His group will meet with representatives of the organizations, who will lay out their operating requirements for 1965-66. The UF group then establishes the necessary goal for the UF solicitation, which normally occurs in October.

Serving with Rainwater will be Jack Davis, John Currie, Bill Crooker, R. H. Weaver, Truman Jones and Mrs. Helen Hendricks.

Rainwater said the discussions on agency financial requests will follow this schedule:

Tuesday—Salvation Army, Air Force Aid Society, Milk and Ice Fund, Westside Youth Center and Summer Recreation Program.

Wednesday—Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, American Red Cross, Howard County Rehabilitation Center, Texas United Fund.

Thursday—Central YMCA, Lakeview YMCA, Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation, Halfway House.

Lamesa Set For Jubilee

LAMESA (SC) — Plans are near completion for the homecoming in Lamesa July 2-4. Approximately 5,000 ex-students and teachers are expected to be on hand for the three day event.

Bob Crawley is chairman of the jubilee committee. Plans call for the largest extravaganza in Lamesa's history. All facilities, including schools, club houses, churches and homes, will be available to guests.

Class meetings will be held for each graduating class and an ex-teachers tea will be held Saturday afternoon. A hootenanny is being planned for children of all exes at the local swimming pool, and a giant extravaganza headed by Richard Crawley will be staged Saturday night in the Lamesa High School auditorium.

Spud Stuart, chairman of the housing committee for the guests, has issued an SOS for bed rolls, roll-a-ways, cots or any other available facilities to help take care of the visitors.

Some families are expecting three or four children home with their families. One family will have six children home with a total of 30 guests in their home for the three-day affair.

A barbecue will be served Saturday night preceding the extravaganza in the football stadium. Tickets are being sold through local civic clubs.

Pat Ryan, local manager of the chamber of commerce, said everything possible was being done to make this one of the greatest events staged in Lamesa in many years.

The program will be rounded out Sunday morning with services in the football stadium with coffee and doughnuts being served by the class of '29.

One of the guests expected for the occasion will be the valedictorian of the graduating class of 1910. Lt. Gov. Preston Smith is also expected to be here for part of the activities. Attorney Gen. Waggoner Carr and Mrs. Carr also are expected to attend.

Grand Jury Has 26 Case Docket

Twenty-six felony matters are on the list of cases which Wayne Burns, district attorney, proposes to lay before the Howard County Grand Jury Tuesday morning.

With the exception of one complaint alleging assault with intent to murder, three of robbery by assault and one of embezzlement, the bulk of the cases are mill-run matters.

Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, has summoned a panel of 16 to report to him Tuesday. From these, he will select the 12 to serve as grand jurors for the June term of court.

Immediately after the jury is elected, the members will file to their jury room and the first of the cases on tap will be taken before them.

The list of cases as released by Burns may be augmented by Tuesday, he said.

The cases listed for presentation are:

Clifford Fountain, disposing of mortgaged property; Mrs. J. J. Williams, worthless check; C. L. Murphy, worthless check; Marshall E. Byerley, worthless check; Eusebio Ramirez, DWI second offense; Anita Jackson, forgery and passing; Richard Bowden, forgery and passing; Charles Meacham, worthless check; John Lee Mitchell, forgery and passing; Willie Roy English, burglary; Morris Lester Madden, burglary; Shelton Lain, DWI second; Clarence Yanez Jr., assault with intent to murder; Theodore Moya, theft by bailee; Juan Q. Rivas, DWI second; Jesse Leroy Collins, theft; L. D. Mings, theft; Garland Leon Burnett, DWI second;

Armstrong Blansit, DWI second; Samuel Earl Minton, DWI second; Eva Diona Mayhall, robbery by assault; Mike Martin Valensuela, robbery by assault; Santiago Ruiz Contreras, robbery by assault; Will E. Pharr, embezzlement; Abraham Martinez Jr., failure to stop and render aid; and Robert Orosco, burglary.

Fisher Announces Dates For Social Security Visits

Erven Fisher, manager of the Big Spring District Social Security Office, has announced the schedule of visits his men will make in the new quarters to the several communities in the district served by the local office.

The new schedule becomes effective July 1 and will run through September.

Fisher said that on the dates scheduled and during the hours listed, a representative of the office here will be available to assist any clients of the office who may need help.

He will help older or disabled workers and the survivors of those who have died to complete their applications for retirement, disability, and family insurance benefits. He will also take applications for Social Security numbers and furnish information about the program.

Meantime, Fisher points out, the office at 1009 Gregg in Big Spring is open five days a week and any person in need of help is invited to come to the office at any time.

Fisher said the schedule for Colorado City calls for visits each Tuesday from 10 a.m. to noon. The place is the chamber of commerce building. The office representative will be in Colorado City, July 6, 13, 20 and 27; Aug. 3, 10, 17, 24 and 31; Sept. 7, 14, 21 and 28.

The schedule for Lamesa calls for visits on each Wednesday from 10 a.m. to noon in the Post Office basement. The dates are July 7, 14, 21 and 28; Aug. 4, 11, 18 and 25; Sept. 1, 8, 15, 22 and 29.

Snyder visits are set for Thursdays from 10 a.m. to noon. The place is the second floor of the courthouse. The dates: July 1, 8, 15, 22 and 29; Aug. 5, 12, 19 and 26; Sept. 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30.

The Stanton schedule calls for a visit on July 26, another Aug. 23 and a third on Sept. 27. The place is the Martin County Courthouse.

Youth Corps To Fill Jobs

AUSTIN (AP)—Neighborhood Youth Corps projects in six small and medium sized Texas cities will employ 395 young people in schools, community parks and offices, hospitals and libraries.

Gov. John Connally approved the grants Thursday for Paducah, Rusk, Mercedes, Port Isabel, Hebbronville and Goliad. Federal funds total $159,183 and local money $27,095.

The Rusk project will pay hourly wages of $1.15 an hour, all others $1 an hour.

The federal government still must approve the Mercedes and Paducah projects.

Burns Suffered On Butane Tractor

BILLINGS, Okla. (AP) — George Bellmon, 41, a brother of Gov. Henry Bellmon, was burned Wednesday night, apparently when a butane tank on his tractor exploded. An Enid General Hospital spokesman said he was not too seriously injured.

Puckett Going To Navy School

Richard Puckett, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Puckett, 2604 Apache Drive, will be one of three graduates of Midland's Lee High School leaving for Washington, D. C. Monday. They will report to the Naval Academy at Annapolis Wednesday morning.

His father, Roy H. Puckett, has been transferred from Midland to Big Spring as field superintendent for Humble Oil & Refining Co. The family lived in Midland for 15 years. Another son, Don Puckett, 20, completed his three years of training at the academy and is now on a submarine training cruise out of Pearl Harbor. He will be at home for the month of August.

Richard, who was a tackle on the Lee High School football team last season, plans to play football at the academy. He was qualified by Naval Academy personnel, and appointment recommended by U. S. Senator Ralph Yarborough.

Hot Rod
"On tight corners . . . will hold its own with anything on the road."

Sports Illustrated
"On test runs at GM's Michigan proving grounds the Corsa started and stopped with no dipping, and it cornered—even at wild speeds—with smooth intent and no sign of sway."

Car Life
"We'd feed the Corvair into the turn with increasing force on the steering wheel, applying as much power as was available, and come scorching out the other end of the curve without so much as a tailwag."

Motor Trend
"Not counting the Corvette, Corvair has the closest thing to performance handling characteristics you'll find on this side of the ocean, with no sacrifice in ride qualities."

Sports Illustrated
"... a new American sports car that will be eminently acceptable at rallies but that can, in the American manner, double at church picnics."

Car and Driver
"We have to go on record and say that the Corvair is —in our opinion—the most important new car of the entire crop . . . and the most beautiful car to appear in this country since before World War II."

Car and Driver
"... the superfluous has been stripped away from a classic form and the result is a clean, beautiful car. The new Corvair's styling is going to attract most people—it's an obvious selling point. Its hidden virtue, handling, will soon become apparent to—and much appreciated by—the enthusiast driver."

A Devotional For The Day

The soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul. (I Samuel 18:1)

PRAYER: Eternal Lord of all life, show us that there is only one loyalty worth pursuing at all times and in all places. Help us to be willing to give up cherished things if they stand in the way of perfect fellowship with Thee. In the name of Christ, who makes possible this fellowship, now and forever. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Service For The People

For well over a year the public health and safety committee of the Chamber of Commerce has been exploring the possibility of securing designation as a mental health clinic. The road has had its ups and downs, but at last the criteria have been established. Now it is clear that if communities within 40-50 mile radius will join in support of such an effort, a clinic is possible.

It does not have to be located here, but the availability of staff at the Big Spring State Hospital, together with proximity of the hospital for referrals, does make this a logical location.

The important thing is to secure this service for the people of this area. A clinic of this sort can yield great dividends in getting to people before their mental problems reach the stage of complete breakdown or withdrawal. Besides, emphasis here is upon help of a nature that can be carried on at home with the aid of the family. More and more, those charged with the direction of treatment for mental illness are stressing the importance of coming to grips with the patient's problem where he is and in familiar circumstances.

An institution of this type, working in close cooperation with the state hospital, would help fill a great gap in our facilities for administering to the well-being of our people.

Encouraging Development

One good showing and even one good well does not mean an oilfield, but these are the start of an oilfield. And it is on this basis, that the initial tests of Apache No. 1 P. B. Adams are encouraging.

This venture, four miles southwest of the Oceanic field, that small but fabulously productive field just west of the grand-daddy Vealmoor pool, has shown strong indication of good production from the Canyon reef. Both the Oceanic and Vealmoor pools produce from this prolific zone. Thus, further developments of the No. 1 Adams, plus subsequent tests will be awaited in this area with more than passing interest.

Art That Gets Under Your Skin

They're not making many whip sockets any more, and for that matter other things are disappearing from the American scene. If you want to think about something trivial, consider tattooing.

An old time expert in Philadelphia says his art is on its way out. Back before World War I, he is quoted, men used to get drunk, get married and get tattooed, not necessarily in that order. Today, there are few tattoo parlors left and fewer customers.

SOME PEOPLE might observe that the decrease in the size of the U. S. Navy could be a factor, since tattooing seems universally to be associated with sailors. As an old Navy man, I must say that some fantastic examples of the tattooist's art may be seen on the arms or chests of seamen, but these generally are of the old breed. The new Navy is clean — all over.

As a country boy, I never was subjected to the temptation of having something colorful scribbled under my skin. I think the artists — they were invaribly artists — used to travel with some of the carnivals, but by the time I got to their booths I had already spent all my pocket money.

LOWER BROADWAY in San Diego used to have some of the "parlors"— there again, that's where much of the fleet always came in. During my stay in San Diego, I may have had the money for a bit of a pattern done in red and blue, but by that time cowardice had overtaken me.

I would say that you'd have to be young and brash to go for tattooing.

THE THING about this process is that it is so permanent, or at least I never heard of a way to erase the embellishment. It always struck me that there were two kinds of men (and we are not going to say anything here about tattooed ladies) who acted on impulse. A guy in one category was, within 24 hours, miserably regretful that he ever fell for the artist's pitch. In the other category was the fellow who was unashamedly proud of his design, and would show it at every opportunity.

THE CHAP IN the worst trouble would be the one who had a design of a heart and arrow, with the words, "Troy and Irvella," he being Troy, of course, and the lady of the moment being Irvella. His trouble came when Irvella ran off with another bloke, and he was left with only his tattoo.

The proud ones are those who went all the way. Not just itty bitty initials on the forearm, mind you, but a complete American flag waving from one side of the chest to the other. Or pherhaps a heraldic design that, with a little motion of the muscles, could be made to do its own colorful convolutions.

I SUPPOSE SUCH artistry really is done, but if the country keeps on populating, we'd better watch out. There could come legislation requiring that your Social Security number be tattooed on a specified member of the body. This wouldn't be as radiant as a full-blown rose, but you would at least know who you are. Devotees of tattooing might want to think about this.

Excesses In The Field Of Credit

WASHINGTON—Amid the glowing statements now being broadcast by administration spokesmen predicting a continuing expansion of business, there is a conspicuous indifference to the trouble that can come from excesses in the field of credit.

The average person isn't aware of the sensational rise in debts, private as well as public. In the last 20 years the total debt in America has gone from $434 billion to $1.3 trillion. That word "trillion" is soon going to describe private debt, too, which is already $882 billion—up 530 per cent since 1945.

IT IS UNQUESTIONABLY the rapid increase in borrowing by individuals and by business that has stimulated a postwar boom, which is now being described exultantly as an unending prosperity.

Ten years ago, personal debts were 41 per cent of the total income of individuals after taxes. But today these debts are 61 per cent of all individual incomes after taxes.

Walter E. Hoadley, a well-known economist and vice president of Armstrong Cork Company, said in a recent speech that consumer credit has been "advancing at approximately twice the rate of income gains—a situation which cannot really be expected to persist too much longer without some temporary slowdown." He added:

"IN FACT, in bank loans and consumer credit are now to be found some definite signs of excessive, and hence unsustainable, activity which portends some periods of correction and adjustment ahead."

Some unpalatable facts need to be stressed in order that corrective measures can be put into effect. Frankness is more than ever essential, and there was a good example of it in an editorial in "The Wall Street Journal" on Wednesday, which said:

"TO PUT IT bluntly, we are witnessing at home and abroad mounting evidence of the dangers of credit excess. When a big New York real-estate firm heads for bankruptcy; when the largest credit union in Minnesota is being placed in receivership; when a number of banks around the country fail and a great many others put out shaky loans; when the pressures build for higher wages and prices—when all that is visible, we think it reasonable to conclude that there is quite a credit spill-over in the domestic economy.

"Even officialdom is beginning to sense it. The government is trying to stick rocks in the stream in the form of lecturing bankers on sound credit practices and talking sternly to employers and unions about the desirability of wage-price stability.

"WHAT THE Washington money managers so far refuse to do is halt the swift creation of credit. The Federal Reserve system, it will be recalled, adds to the credit supply by enlarging member bank accounts in the reserve banks, and it does that chiefly by purchasing federal securities—with perennial federal budget deficits, there's always a growing supply of them around. Member commercial banks then can make loans in amounts six or more times as large as the sums added to their reserve bank accounts . . .

"In fact, businessmen who expand their operations mainly because money is cheap and plentiful are building the foundation for anything but a sound and lasting prosperity, as some of the recent collapses ought to suggest."

IT WOULD BE a mistake to assume that either a recession or a depression is inevitable. But it is by no means impracticable to heed the advice given by Chairman Martin of the Federal Reserve Board and other economists who feel that restraints must be applied. The first restraint, of course, is not to exaggerate the nature of the current prosperity but to emphasize the simple fact that the whole credit system has been permitted to get somewhat out of hand through the granting of credits in many instances without applying sound guidelines. This is why the excess of optimism from official sources can only lead many people to take more chances by expanding loans far beyond the ability of the borrowers to pay.

Economists Not Frightened By Market Decline

America's leading economists are not scared out of their optimism by the 7 per cent crop in stock prices.

Three out of five expect economic expansion to continue all through this year and next—though the growth rate will taper downward.

Another group—20 per cent—expects the expansion to persist through this year. Thus, four out of five are optimistic for six months.

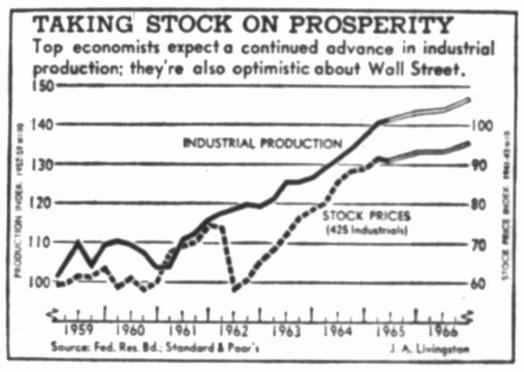
IN ALL, 53 economists associated with banks, industrial corporations, universities, government, labor unions, investment houses and research organizations responded to my mid-year questionnaire.

The longevity of this up-cycle, now in its 53d month and the longest in peacetime history, does not seem to bother the economists. Though two out of five expect some drop in the next 18 months, but one out of five expects the recessionary phase to last as long as 12 months.

The others expect a short, shallow decline — an indication that the "new economics" is catching on. The President and Congress, by an adroit mix of tax, spending, and money and credit policies, can convert declines promptly into upswings, and thus keep prosperity rolling.

ECONOMISTS associated with Wall Street firms are by far the most pessimistic. They dominate those who foresee a decline in industrial production for 12 months. And they are also least optimistic about stock prices. Perhaps this is an occupational disease. When investors and speculators are most exuberant, financial analysts dutifully, apprehensively, "feel for the top."

By far the most optimistic group are economists representing labor, though the sample is small. Next in optimism are academic and government economists; next business and banking.



THE OPTIMISTIC mood is epitomized by Gross National Product. The economists foresee a steady increase from the current annual output of goods and services of $655,000,000,000 to $696,000,000,000 by the end of next year. This is about 6 per cent in 18 months, which equals the administration goal of a 4 per cent annual growth rate.

But it's helped along by "inflation." The cost of living is expected to go up by 2 per cent, wholesale prices by 1 per cent and prices received by farmers about the same amount. So in real growth, it's not 4 per cent.

The industrial production consensus is up 4 per cent—about 1 per cent in the current six months, another 1 per cent in the first half of 1966 and then a pickup in momentum in the last six months.

PLANT AND equipment expenditures are expected to increase 6 per cent in the 18 months ahead, housing starts about 3 per cent and national defense expenditures also only 3 per cent—this last notwithstanding the nation's increased involvement in Viet Nam.

The economists are hopeful that the administration will rein wages within its 3.2 per cent productivity guideline. Weekly wages in manufacturing, now around $107, are expected to rise to $109 by December, $110 by next June and $112 by the end of 1966. This would be an annual increase of about 3 per cent.

NATURALLY, higher wages plus increased production will lead to greater consumer spending. Retail sales in dollars will advance from current levels of $23.5 billion monthly to $25.3 billion, or 8 per cent. Not bad.

Yet employment won't keep pace with job seekers. The unemployment rate, now 4.6 per cent, is expected to exceed 5 per cent.

And that's it—more prosperity — with the stock market creeping upward to a new high by the end of 1966—5 per cent higher than it is today.

BUT I WONDER if the economists give enough weight to the problems which almost daily force themselves upon the Johnson administration: Civil rights disturbances, escalation of the war in Viet Nam, difficulties of state and local governments to increase tax revenues, doubts about the administration's foreign policy and the still unresolved problem of the balance-of-payments deficit.

The message I get from the stock market ticker is this: The parlay on continued prosperity gets more and more chancy. Most economists think otherwise.

The Kennedy Campaign

WASHINGTON—A battery of phones ring constantly. The yellow slips of calls to be returned rain down like leaves in the fall. Secretaries and assistants are crowded together and the buzz of their activity carries out into the small waiting room, almost always filled with hopeful petitioners.

THIS IS operational headquarters in the New Senate Office Building of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York. Anyone interested in historical parallels can remember back to 1957 or '58 when the office of the then Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts was a similar command post with furious, unceasing effort built around the Kennedy goal of the White House.

The driving ambition that activates this entire family is one of the remarkable phenomena of our time. Tragedy and disaster can slow them down. But any interruption means merely a temporary change of pace.

IT TENDS TO become magnified into myth which helps to explain why a lot of the comment about the junior senator from New York casts him in the role of super-builder of a political empire.

With the New York mayoralty race exploding in a dozen different directions Kennedy is faced with a more immediate problem. If the city and the state are to be his principal power base a Kilkenny fight among rival Democrats for city hall may be disastrous. On the other hand, a primary in September that did not spill too much blood could, as Kennedy sees it, be a healthy thing.

BUT SEN. KENNEDY, a realist as all Kennedys are, sees in New York City a shadow that falls across 1966, extending beyond the confines of his own adopted state. If Rep. John Lindsay, a Republican with the clean-cut appeal of the late President Kennedy, should win the mayoralty race, it would be a grievous blow for the Democratic party and not alone in New York.

This would dramatize the weakening hold of the party long in power in the big-city states. California is a question mark next year and particularly if Sen. Thomas Kuchel, a moderate Republican with a wide following in both parties, should decide to run for governor. In Pennsylvania the Democrats have been hurt by a rough intraparty fight. In short, to put the gloomiest possible look on it, from the Democrat viewpoint, if the three biggest states come under Republican control the outlook for 1968 will be dimmed.

AS FOR THE senator from New York he will try to keep out, publicly at least, of the shattering primary fight. He knows from his experience of last fall that New York politics is a jungle, with every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost.

Robert Kennedy will soon be 40 years old, his brother Teddy is 33. Both Kennedys have, therefore, a long lead time looking to 1972 or later, and in characteristic Kennedy fashion they are taking advantage of every moment of it.

Billy Graham

In the Sermon on the Mount, I don't understand what Jesus meant when He spoke of salt losing its savor. Will you please explain" T. C.

In telling His hearers that they are the salt of the earth, Jesus was speaking of salt as the substance which not only gives its zest to food, but also was about the only food preserving agent then known. Christ wanted His followers to live pure and holy lives, be influenced for good and thus help to preserve society from corruption.

The deposits of salt in that day usually were a mixture of fairly soluble sodium chloride (common salt) and more soluble and pungently salty chlorides of magnesium and calcium, and mixed with an insoluble and tasteless substance which was substantially powdered limestone. Upon reacting with water the tasty, preserving parts of the salt were dissolved out, leaving only the tasteless, insoluble limestone powder. This limestone powder is the salt which has lost its savor and therefore worthless as a flavoring, preserving substance. It was cast out to be trodden on. The solution of the tasty parts was allowed to dry thus permitting the good salt to be recovered.

Overweight Child Can Be Quite A Problem

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter is 10, weighs 140 pounds, and has been on and off diets all her life. I put her on a 1,000-calorie diet about two weeks ago and she hasn't even lost an ounce.

We have taken her to doctors and they can't find anything wrong. Can you help me? (I am a diabetic.) — MRS. K.R.

The overweight child who can not seem to lose is quite a problem. I don't know any easy solution, but can offer some suggestions which may help in the struggle.

Since you are diabetic, your daughter most decidedly must learn to be weight - conscious and calorie - conscious. Being overweight is one of the strongest invitations to developing diabetes.

Weighing 140 when she is only 10 years old means that you (and she) must fight together. Yet people — including children — can lose weight if they achieve a balance of eating less than they use up a calories.

One pitfall with an overweight child is eating, or drinking, things which aren't supposed to be in the diet. Youngsters often don't realize that a bottle of pop contains a lot of calories. It's liquid, they argue; it's not like eating solid food. But it is food — the sugar dissolved in the drink.

Or they snatch some cookies as they go through the kitchen, or think you won't notice that they've had a candy bar, or they just feel hungry and find something to eat — and there goes the diet! (This practice is hardly restricted to children, though!)

Another pitfall is in calculating the 1,000 calories. For the sake of simplicity, most diets are indicated in terms of "one normal helping of potato," or "a chop with fat removed," or "one slice of toast." The persons who needs to reduce is usually one to whom these definitions don't at all mean what they should. The "normal serving" may be twice as big as someone else's. And twice the calories. A slice of bread may be from a loaf that is twice as big. The fat on meat, which the thinnies may not even want to touch, may be consumed by the person who, being overweight, is a hearty eater. Fat is highest in calorie content of all foods.

You have to watch the amount of butter used at the table, the amount of jelly that goes on the bread. (Best way is not to put either on the table.) There are calories in the sugar that has gone into "sour" things like relishes, and in the oil in salad dressings. You have to close off all these "leaks" to have an effective diet.

And what can be most important of all? Exercise. Very careful observations have been made on overweight children, with the discovery that they, with few exceptions, don't like to exercise. They learn the least strenuous way of taking part in games, or mostly prefer to sit, or walk and move slowly. The active child burns up thousands of calories which, for the inactive child, become fat. And the fat stays and stays and stays.

So urge exercise. Sometimes, I suspect, fat youngsters get a hopeless "what's the use?" attitude. Your daughter may need a lot of encouragement. Tell her if she'll work at it, and work at the diet, and not give up, she can shed fat and be like the other youngsters.

Finally, little by little teach her which foods are high in calories (sweets, fats, starchy foods, sweetened drinks, etc.) because she's going to need that information all her life.

New Form

SANAA, Yemen (AP)—Yemen's air force is being turned into automobile license plates.

The former royalist regime bought 50 Russian-made fighters seven years ago, but left them exposed to the weather until rain and sun ruined the machines.

After the republican revolution of 1962, the number of cars in the country increased, but there was no suitable material from which to make license plates.

The government dismantled the planes and sent wings, fuselages and fuel tanks into a new foundry where they were melted down and cast into license plates.

The idea is not new in Yemen. The late Iman (king) Ahmed once used the aluminum from a plane which had crashed in Yemen to make coins. The money was withdrawn from circulation a year ago.

The Class Of 1965

WASHINGTON — Viewed from the gymnasium bleachers above, the Class of 1965 looked like a badly shingled roof, with each mortarboard moving independently in response to the breeze of oratory from the dais.

We were there to watch Axel, the West German foreign exchange student who has spent the year with us, join in the commencement of his high school class. There were 680 of them ("the ugliest boys and the prettiest girls in the country," said the earnest young man on the podium), and it was a sight to warm the giblets of the most disenchanted man on earth.

THE GIRLS were pretty, but beyond that they seemed to be serene and poised in a manner that promised well for the long years ahead when the freshness of youth has faded and real beauty must be found in more enduring forms. The girls were wonderful, as I suppose girls standing on the threshold of womanhood have been since the first commencement, and the boys were anything but ugly. They were big and they looked durable enough even to cope with the God-awful hash their elders have made of the world.

These kids were beautiful enough to blur the eyes of the creakiest curmudgeon in the audience, and the reason for it goes beyond any considerations of the sparkling metabolism of youth. These were people who had not yet been compressed into moulds of conformity, or squeezed into strait jackets of orthodoxy.

THEY WERE honest, honest about themselves and honest about the grubby world around them. The witness could read them loud and clear because one thing the Class of 1965 hasn't yet learned is sham and deceit and dissembling. Some of the big boys grinned in self-conscious triumph as they marched slowly into the gym, and one knew they were the ones who had just squeaked by. The studious ones in the glasses were already preoccupied with man-to-man sort of letters that deans of admissions write.

BUT MAKE NO mistake about the owlish ones, for some of them can be as tough as an old boot. Axel, who wears glasses and is an A student (in a language that is not native to him) was also the most-feared forward on the Patriots soccer team, and soccer is a rougher game than football. Axel typically emerged from games a welter of bruises, sprains, broken eyeglasses and frustrations (the Patriots lost more often than they won), but he never quit.

The size of the class imposed brevity on the speakers, which is always a mercy. The earnest young man spoke only a few sentences (good taste is also a characteristic of the Class of 1965), but he said one thing that at least one of the people in his audience won't forget.

"We hope," he said, "that you will remember us."

I THINK THE Class of 1965 will be remembered — remembered long after the riotous slobs and beatnik idlers who are so often identified with American youth have been forgotten. The boys and girls who are trying their wings this June are wonderful, bonny and bright, and a far cry from the minuscule minority of wrongheads that we hear so much about. They deserve all that is good in the future.

Not All Bad

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Green, who has penned historical pageants for a number of summer festivals in the South, deplores the trend to "Freudian, visceral drama."

Speaking at the annual convention of the American National Theater and Academy, the veteran playwright attributed the pessimistic work to a group of writers "congregated in one place—New York."

"America," he added, "is full of healthy, heroic characters, most of whom never get any statement in the literature of drama."

'TOPKAPI'
Maximilian Schell and Melina Mercouri

Ustinov, Mercouri Star In 'Topkapi'

"Topkapi," opening Wednesday at the Jet Theatre, is a comedy about international jewel thieves filmed in Turkey, Greece and Paris, in color. It stars Greek actress Melina Mercouri, who won the best actress award at Cannes for "Never on Sunday," versatile English star Peter Ustinov and Maximilian Schell, who won an Oscar for his performance in "Judgment at Nuremberg." Adapted from a novel by Eric Ambler, the setting for "Topkapi" is Istanbul.

The movie pictures such settings as Topkapi Palace, where a hilarious upside-down robbery of a sultan's jeweled dagger was filmed; the spires of St. Sophia Mosque and the busy Bosphorous—separating Europe from Asia. Following nine weeks in and around Istanbul, the company moved to the beautiful little harbor town of Kavala, Greece, for several days . . . and wound up with 11 weeks of interior shots at the Studio de Boulogne, in Paris.

Turkish tourism officials cooperated including permission to shoot on the domed lead roof of Topkapi Palace, for which the film is named. The tourism people also were helpful in assembling Turkish-style wrestlers who oil themselves ritualistically before their bouts.

Huge Balloon Passes Tests

BEDFORD, England (AP) — What is billed as the world's biggest balloon has passed its first trials.

The balloon is 137 feet long, 52 feet in diameter, and has a capacity of 156,000 cubic feet. Costing $42,000, it was made and had its first test at the Royal Air Force Station at Cardington, near here.

Leslie Speed, 59, designed it with the idea of carrying timber out of otherwise inaccessible forests in Canada's British Columbia. It is designed to lift three-ton logs clear of forests and load them on trucks. It also can drag a log weighing six tons.

Speed said to build roads in the logging area would cost $140,000 a mile — and the roads could be washed away by rain and snow.

Outcome Hailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Jeffery Cohelan, D-Calif., asserted here that termination of the Mexican farm labor importation program has meant "gains in domestic worker employment, without serious impact upon American agriculture."

Parisian's Work Reviewed In Show

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — The major retrospective exhibition of the works of 64-year-old Alberto Giacometti, now at the Museum of Modern Art, drives home the point that this artist is a major painter as well as a world-renowned sculptor.

Many art lovers are thoroughly familiar with those elongated, spindly human figures that he models in rough textures. But not everyone is fully aware of his painted portraits, landscapes and sketches.

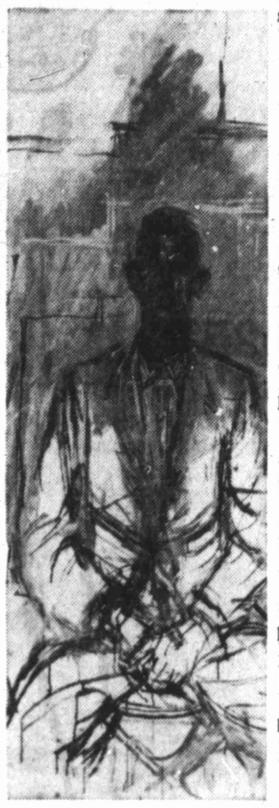
The spotlight was turned on his two - dimensional work last year when the Swiss-born Parisian was awarded the Guggenheim International Prize for painting. (In 1961 he had won the sculpture prize at the Carnegie International in Pittsburgh, and in 1962 the sculpture prize at the Venice Biennialle.)

The Guggenheim award was for a painting of a figure, somewhat resembling his typical sculptured works.

The current show is a complete review of Giacometti's career, well balanced in a presentation of 70 sculptures, 35 paintings and 35 drawings. It will remain here through Oct. 10 and then move on to the Art Institute of Chicago, the Los Angeles County Museum of Art and the San Francisco Museum of Art.

There are representative examples of the artist's experiments in the 1920s, when he was influenced by primitive and Egyptian sculpture, and later by cubism. Another group shows his temporary affiliation with the surrealists in the 1930s.

Then there is a full survey of his final style, developed after the war from tiny standing figures, which grew in size until the last few years they have become monumental.



PORTRAIT
by Giacometti

But it is the paintings that arouse the viewer's particular interest in this show.

Giacometti's portraits nearly always present the subject full-face, head-on. They are limited in color — making use of blacks, grays and a little umber.

The oils have an unfinished, sketchy look, and the subjects seem lonely in their isolation. The most striking thing about these portraits is that each subject's eyes seem to stare out at you with a searching, haunted look.

Peter Selz, head of the MMA's exhibitions department, who directed this show, has called attention to this matter:

"The eye is man's miraculous instrument: It is both the mirror of self and its means of communication. Giacometti stares at people's eyes, hoping thus to understand them. He says that the blind seem to think with their eyes, and that the difference between a living person and a corpse is the gaze. In his painting and his sculpture he concentrates on the eye. 'It should be enough to sculpt the eyes,' he has said. In his painted portraits all the lines converge intensely on the eyes. If he could render a single eye correctly, he maintains, he would have the head, the figure, the world."

The quotation is from Selz' introduction to an excellent 120-page books, containing 112 illustrations, "Alberto Giacometti," published by the museum in connection with the exhibit.

An important feature of the book is the facsimile reproduction of a letter from Giacometti to his friend Pierre Matisse in 1947, describing his own career. With an English translation on the facing pages, it presents the typescript, broken up by small explanatory sketches which the artist used to illustrate his text.

The museum also has published an 80-page soft-cover book by James Lord, "A Giacometti Portrait." Lord, an American writer, sat for the portrait and then described how the artist worked. There are 12 illustrations which show the various stages of the picture's development.

'TICKLE ME'
Stars Elvis Presley

Elvis Presley Starring At Ritz, 'Tickle Me'

Girls, bucking broncos and hidden gold are the chief concerns of Elvis Presley in "Tickle Me," opening Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

In "Tickle Me," he plays a bronc-busting rodeo rider roped by Eastern sophisticate Julie Adams for the job of singing wrangler on her beauty-spa dude ranch, patronized by wealthy glamour girls, with Jocelyn Lane cast opposite him romantically as physical director on the spread.

Dubbed "the British Bardot," the day she arrived in Hollywood, Jocelyn is a new import from England, a product of the Lady Evan's School, operated by the sister-in-law of former Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden.

The plot revolves around a treasure hidden in the Arizona ghost town of Jocelyn's late grandfather, and Elvis' efforts to help her find it while beating off a gang of badmen. Jack Mullaney, as his two-left-footed sidekick; Merry Anders, as a ranch patron trying to beat the starvation diet by hook or crook, and Bill Williams, as the crooked sheriff. Edward Faulkner, Connie Gilchrist, Barbara Werle, John Dennis, Grady Sutton, Allison Hayes, Inez Pedroza, Lilyan Chauvin, Angela Green and a bevy of Bikini bathing beauties are featured in the large cast.

Dear Abby

The Dual Standard!

DEAR ABBY: Our pastor said in a sermon recently that the white wedding gown and veil should be denied the unchaste bride. I know he felt compelled to preach a sermon on this topic because he has been put in the embarrassing position lately of having to baptize the babies of "brides" whom he had married in white bridal costumes only five and six months earlier. He said that our young people should know that there are penalties for unchastity and rewards for purity.

I would like to ask if this applies only to women. How about the men? Should we not expect them to be chaste as well? And what should the penalty be for a man if he is not? We hear so much about the "fallen woman." How about the fallen man? CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: I know it's unfair, but somehow the men seem to escape the stigma. The unchaste woman has "fallen." The unchaste man has merely "slipped."

• • •

DEAR ABBY: A very attractive young woman has come to town from a foreign country. The trouble is — she doesn't speak a word of English. I am very much attracted to her, and if I can read the universal language in her eyes, she seems to be attracted to me, too. How can I communicate with her if she makes no effort whatsoever to learn my language? SMITTEN

DEAR SMITTEN: Learn hers.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: My husband doesn't believe in having any friends except "business friends." He's a junior executive with an ad agency, and almost every night of the week we have to entertain people who might be able to do him some good. Don't young married people ever socialize with people just because they like them? I suggested inviting a very attractive couple across the hall in for dinner, and my husband said, "Don't start up with them. He's only an insurance salesman and he can't do me any good!" Is it a wife's obligation to confine her social life to her husband's business friends? HELPMATE

DEAR HELPMATE: If a woman is married to a man who must entertain for business reasons, she should cooperate, and do it graciously. But for a man to limit his social life to only those who can "do him some good" is both selfish and calculating. And one who goes through life with a "what-can-he-do-for-me" attitude misses one of man's greatest pleasures — friends for friendship's sake. You can help your husband by building his self-confidence. And by telling him that no one succeeds in business without really trying. But some people try too hard.
