LIST COMPOSED OF INSPECTORS AND ENGINEERS

Scores of Witnesses Heard During Coroner's Inquiry Before Jury Began Its Deliberations.

Verdict Was in Connection With Collapse of Theater Roof Resulting in Deaths of 98 Persons.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Nine men were ordered held for the grand jury by the coroners jury which brought a verdict tonight in connection with the collapse of the roof of the Knickerbocker motion picture theater January 28, resulting in the death of 98 persons.

The nine men, all of Washington, were R. G. Geare, the architect of the building; J. H. Ford, the engineer who designed the roof structure, Morris Hackner, building inspector when the theater was constructed; Frank L. Wagner, the builder; Donald Wallace, general superintendent of construction; R. G. Fletcher superintendent of the Hammett Fire Proofing company which built the walls; John L. McDonald, the contractor who erected the steel; Thomas L. Gestigan, engineer and computer for the District of Columbia building department who passed on the plans and Julian R. Dowman, the assistant building inspector when the building was constructed.

The inquiry was begun last Tuesday and scores of witnesses were heard before the jury began its deliberations behind closed doors. It was out seven hours before it returned its findings.

The coroner's jury declared the "Collapse of the roof was due to faulty designing and construction and inadequate supervision and inspection."

District Attorney Peyton Gordon said tonight that the case would be submitted to the grand jury "as soon as possible." Those who were recommended held for the jury were not taken into custody tonight, but it was said they would be given an opportunity to appear at the district attorney'g office, the first thing in the morning. Their bond, Mr. Gordon said, would be $5,000 each.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. F.

Public opinion. Hon. Joseph Gurnsey Cannon of Illinois will not be a candidate for election to the sixty-eighth congress. He is the oldest member of the house, the most picturesque and widely known figure and will be eighty-six next May. He is serving his forty-sixth year as a representative and was speaker for eight years. A marvelous man is Uncle Joe, the father of the house. A fearless man is Uncle Joe. An honest man is Uncle Joe. Ever a stalwart reactionery Republican is Uncle Joe. A statesman of the old school is Uncle Joe. Even his political enemies love him because he isn't a Pharisee, a canting Uriah Keep, a smug hypocrite—all things to all men. He has consumed more cigars in his time than any living man; when circumstances forced it he has exploded chunks of profanity of a rotund and scientific variety. He never disguised the fact that he loved "a long toddy" in the good old days. His constituents trusted him, venerated him, fought for him and idolized him. There came a Democratic avalanche one day and Uncle Joe was buried, A political nondescript, O'Hare by name, had won his seat. Uncle Joe continued to smile and smoke. O'Hare was an inventor of political nostrums. He had a panacea for every political, physical and mental ill of Vox Populi. He recommended his nostrums highly. He exhibited them brazenly. He rattled around like a shriveled pea in a large pod. Another election day rolled around. Organized labor declared for O'Hare's re-election; prohibitionists declared for O'Hare's re-election; most of the preachers declared for O'Hare's re-election; all those who favored the ballots for women declared for O'Hare's re-election; Most of the newspapers declared for O'Hare's re-election. Well, they counted the ballots and Uncle Joe had triumphed. He had won by a large majority over the combination. He had buried all the reformers, all the faddists, all the inventors or manufacturers of political nostrums, all the parlor socialists, in fact all the nondescripts in his political district. O'Hare disappeared from public view. He never materialized thereafter. Uncle Joe has held the fort ever since. H. N. F. is an organization Democrat. He lifts his hat to Uncle Joe, the most picturesque and widely known figure in congress. Uncle Joe is a grand old fighting man. He isn't a liar, a coward nor a hypocrite. He has fought for his convictions for almost two-thirds of a century. He goes out of congress because he wishes to go and he will carry with him the love of all Americans, irrespective of political affiliations who admire the statesman who is great in defeat and magnanimous in victory.

MOVE FOR BATHING SUIT PARADE MEETS STRONG OPPOSITION

By Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 14.—St. Petersburg's bathing suit factions have clashed over the propriety of holding a bathing suit parade as a feature of gala week next month. Three women's organizations have filed protests with Mayor Pulver declaring that such a display of bathing apparel will be indecent "unless exhibited on lay figures." The Purity League recently urged the mayor to appoint a bathing suit inspector "to protect married men from the wiles of the sea vamp." No action has been taken on this request.

PRESENT SCALE OR STRIKE, SAY MINE WORKERS

By Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 14.—Continuance of present wages for soft coal miners and an increase of 20 per cent for the anthracite workers, backed up with a threat of a general strike in all fields on April 1, was the wage policy recommended today to the special convention of the United Mine Workers of America by its scale committee, composed of the 27 district presidents.

Action by the convention on the committee report, which was received with cheers from the 2,000 delegates, was deferred until tomorrow. The threatened convention fight over the seating as delegates of the followers of Alexander Howat, the deposed Kansas leader, also failed to break on the convention floor. Howat's partisans, however, predicted it would come later, but administration leaders, who were non-committal, said the scale report had the right of way before the convention.

The strike threat, made by the scale committee, was contained in an addendum to the report of formal wage scale demands, being stated under the title of "policy."

"The present contract between the coal operators and the United Mine Workers of America in both the anthracite and bituminous coal fields terminate on March 31, 1922," said the report.

"In event no agreement is reached by April 1, we declare in favor of a general suspension of mining operations, such action being subject to a referendum vote of the membership of the United Mine Workers of America such referendum vote to be held prior to March 31."

ATTACK MADE ON SPEED LAW IN HIGH COURT

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Feb. 14.—The state law regulating speeding of motor vehicles on state highways and city streets is attacked in an application for a writ of habeas corpus filed in the court of criminal appeals today. The case is that of L. L. Slaughter, fined one dollar in Tyler, Smith county, for alleged violation of the law.

Slaughter contends that he is illegally restrained because the law is invalid, inoperative and void. He claims that it violates the constitution of Texas in that it is so indefinitely framed and of such doubtful construction, that it cannot be understood either from the language in which it is written or from any other law of the state.

AIRPLANE FALL LIKELY COSTS LIVES OF TWO

By Associated Press.

FORMER JUDGE AT OKMULGEE STILL MISSING

Whereabouts of Court Official Whose Resignation Was Asked for and Obtained, Is Mystery.

By Associated Press.

OKMULGEE, Okla., Feb. 14.—The resignation of Judge H. R. Christopher, of the Okmulgee county superior court, requested in resolutions adopted at the citizens mass meeting here following his summary dismissal last Thursday of a grand jury which was about to complete an investigation into affairs of the defunct Bank of Commerce, was received late today by E. J. Dick, chairman of the committee which drafted the resolutions. Judge Christopher asked that the resignation take effect March 1.

Accompanying the resignation was a letter addressed to Mr. Dick saying:

"I have followed your advice—enclosed find resignation—am sick at heart over the unfortunate affair although I still contend that my decision was correct, but must admit it showed poor diplomacy at this peculiar time of affairs in our country. Hope that time will clear my present standing with the good people."

The resignation was addressed to the Governor of Oklahoma and Mr. Dick said he would leave here tomorrow night to present it Thursday morning in person to Lieut.-Gov. M. E. Trapp, who is acting executive in the absence of Gov. J. B. A. Robertson, now in Mexico, on a trade tour.

With the receipt of the resignation interest here centered in the whereabouts of Judge Christopher, which, in the face of conflicting reports, has been a mystery since late yesterday when he failed to appear before a committee of the local bar association, appointed to investigate his discharge of the grand jury. He had previously announced his intention of meeting the barristers and "presenting his side of the case."

Early this morning Mrs. Ralph Porter, Judge Christopher's daughter, here, said she had received a long distance telephone call from Coyle where Judge Christopher went thursday with his wife and young son, that all three were ill. She left here on a train shortly after 10 o'clock presumably for Coyle. Later in the day, however, newspaper men who talked to Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Thompson at whose home the judge and his family were reported to have been staying, were told over the long distance telephone that Judge Christophr, left Coyle yesterday at 3 o'clock presumably for Okmulgee and that he had not been heard from since, although his wife and son were still in Coyle, Ill. So far as known, he has not been here.

FISHER MOTICN CONDEMNED BY FEDERAL JUDGE

Presiding Court Officer Declares Language of Counter Charges Is in Itself Contemptuous.

Judge Jack Takes Stand to Defend Impugned Motives for Bringing Charges Against Fisher.

By Associated Press.

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 14.—An incident rarely seen in the history of the United States courts was witnessed in the federal court here Tuesday when Judge Jack took the stand and read correspondence between himself, the attorney general of the United States and Senator Broussard showing his motives in opposing the appointment of Hugh C. Fisher, United States district attorney. Those motives have been impugned by the district attorney in a motion charging Judge Jack of the federal court here with being a "bench politician" and and maliciously and illegally personally and politically prejudiced against him, which motion led to the contempt of court and disbarment proceedings pending against Mr. Fisher.

In the course of a ruling on the admissability of certain testimony concerning the alleged contempt contained within this motion by Fisher, Judge Hutcheson declared that the language of the filing was in itself contemptuous and far beyond the limit.

Hearings so far have been on the general quiz of the alleged contempt of court charges but the group of cases are so closely interwoven, facts in one having bearing on the others that much of the evidence bears on the other charges.

Judge Jack read into the record letters between himself and the attorney general and Senator E. S. Broussard showing that his sole motive in opposing the appointment of Mr. Fisher was to maintain the efficiency of the court and to assist in any way he might in the selection of a man fully competent and qualified to discharge the responsibilities of the district attorney's office. This, his letters stated, Mr. Fisher's qualifications did not measure up to.

OFFICERS YET WORK IN DARK IN MOVIE CASE

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in whose studios Taylor was director-in-chief, announced through the district attorney late today it would pay a reward of $2,500 to the person or persons furnishing information resulting in the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Taylor. It was requested that all communications and all information on this subject be sent to the district attorney.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—Questioning of possible witnesses in matters connected with the slaying of William Desmond Taylor, motion picture director, was continued today at the office of District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolvine, with no definite announced results.

One of those questioned was a man who reported to have said he was near the Taylor house on the evening of February 1, and heard a shot; shortly after which a woman left the Taylor place. The man, according to the report, said he was handling illicit whiskey and decided he had better get away from the neighborhood.

When questioned, however, the man said this was only the story told him by another party and that he did not hear the shot himself or see any one leave the Taylor place, the district attorney said. He promised to help detectives locate the person he said told the story.

CHARGE PRIEST WITH SLAYING HALF BROTHER

By Associated Press.

MONTREAL, Feb. 14.—The Rev. Adelard De Lorme, a Catholic priest, was arrested tonight on a charge of having murdered his half brother, Raoul DeLorme, an Ottowa university student whose body was found in a suburb of the city, January 6, with six bullets in the head.

Father DeLorme was taken into custody after a coroner's jury had found him criminally responsible for his brother's death.

The missing will of the student, who took out $25,000 insurance at the alleged direction of the clergyman was found today in the office of a notary, and disclosed that the Rev. DeLorme was chief heir.

UNIVERSITY HAS MANY "FLOSSIES," ASSERTS VINSON

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 14.—There are about 200 male and female "Flossies" that come to the University of Texas solely for a good time Dr. Robert E. Vinson, president of the University, declared last night in an address to a general convocation of the women students.

He declared that the actions of these few students hinders appropriations by the legislature for the university.

"News of the actions of these few students goes all over the state and impresses the people that their kind is the prevalent type represented at this school, so that the average person and legislator does not understand the pure and true type we have."

MOTIVE SOUGHT FOR MURDER OF THREE PERSONS

Circumstances Indicate McLennan County Tragedy Not Actuated by Either Robbery or Revenge.

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 14.—A reward of $250 for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who killed Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barker and seriously injured 13-year-old Homer Turk, at Concord, McLennan county, Saturday night, was offered by Governor Neff late today.

This is the governor's second offer of a reward. He made the offer after receiving a telegram from a "Waco citizens committee" insisting that he offer a $500 reward for the murderers. The telegram reminded him that it occurred in his "home county."

By Associated Press.

WACO, Feb. 14.—The death of Homer Turk, the thirteen year old boy who was struck down by the assassins of W. H. Barker and his wife at Concord, this county, Saturday night eliminates the possibility of obtaining any direct evidence as to the guilty parties except that of the little girl four years old, the only living member of the family. The boy died about 2 o'clock this morning in a sanitarium.

No clew has been discovered and detectives who have been chasing every phantom that suggested the possibility of a clew have failed. They cannot find the motive. If it was robbery, why leave the keys to the store undisturbed in Barker's pocket? why fail to take the dollar bill gripped in the hand of the dead woman? why leave the more than one hundred dollars in the house? If the murderers were actuated by revenge, why murder the boy who was a visitor If the boy was killed to still the voice of a witness, why leave the little girl unhurt?

These are questions that puzzle the officers working on the case and make of this tragedy one of the most mysterious in the annals of the county, five of the nine negroes arrested are still being held. A number of Mexicans who were being watched by the officers have established their innocence to the satisfaction of the detectives and the surveillance has been lifted.

A double funeral was to be held at Concord this afternoon when the bodies of W. H. Barker and his wife will be buried side by side.

THIRD VERDICT GOES AGAINST ABNER DAVIS

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—After deliberating five minutes a jury here today returned a verdict of $50,000 damages against Abner Davis, banker and oil man of Wichita Falls, Texas, in a suit brought by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Isabel Davis, allegeing alienation of her husband's affections.

Today's decision was the outcome of the third suit brought by Mrs. Davis. The jury awarded Mrs. Davis $50,000 in the first trial, then the judgment was appealed and the case remanded and reversed. The second trial resulted in a verdict of $25,000 damages and this decision was set aside. Mrs. Davis first sued her husband for separate maintenance, claiming he had an income of $30,000 a year. Davis denied this, asserting he was dependent on his father. The suit is still pending.

PLAN VIEWED IMPRACTICAL BY EXECUTIVE

President's Position Is That Both Country's Stability and Campaign Promises Must Be Cared For.

Senator King in Discussing Bonus Declares "Rubber Stamp" Appellation Applies to Republicans.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—President Harding think it is impracticable to raise by a bond issue at this time a large sum of money to finance the soldiers bonus, it was stated today at the White House, and he is unalterably opposed to the suggested eight point tax program or to a return to any of the taxes that have been repealed.

The executive was represented as being favorably disposed toward the bonus legislation and it was emphasized that when he appeared before the senate last July to ask its enactment be deferred he had not taken a position of hostility. It also was stated that promises made by republicans in the 1920 primaries had not been lost sight of, but it was pointed out that no exact time had been fixed for the passage of an adjusted compensation bill.

The attitude of the executive, it was added, had to be that of finding a sane and defensible condition of the fulfillment of the promises made on the one hand and having regard for restored stability on the other hand.

Holding that there was a question whether there was the same sweeping determination at this time that there was during war's responsibility when the government could have raised almost any sum, the president was said to doubt the possibility of obtaining now through a bond issue the sum required for the soldier's bonus without an advance in interest rates and the disturbing of the financial tranquility of the country.

The position of the president was explained at the White House while the senate was in the midst of a discussion of the bonus question and while Senator King, democrat, Utah, was charging that republican leaders in congress had put the whole bonus matter up to the president.

"Not long ago," said Senator King, "the republicans were denouncing the democrats for subservience to President Wilson. It was charged that we were rubber stamps when the president submitted the Versailles treaty. We are rubber stamps but heroes now when we are told to stand still until President Harding acts."

The bonus situation, Senator King declared, was a "pitiable, pitiful, lamentable spectacle." He predicted that the republicans could authorize the bonus and order bonds issued to meet the cost while it should be met, he said, by taxes.

"The brave and courageous republican majority is afraid to act" he said. "They're afraid of the farmers' vote, of the business vote, and of the soldier's vote."

CHARGE THREE WITH 'PONZIED' FINANCE DEALS

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—While Raymond Bischoff, the boy speculator, whose transactions with residents of the stock yards district were said to have netted him millions, was being examined today by a referee in bankruptcy, appointed by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, police warrants charging operation of a confidence game were issued for him, for his brother-in-law, E. J. Geer, and his clerk, Joseph Florek.

The warrants were issued at the request of a dozen persons who said Bischoff had obtained money from them under false pretenses.

Sidney Eastmen, bankruptcy referee, opened his hearing by questioning a number of Bischoff's customers in the get-rich schemes he is alleged to have promoted, and at the same time arrangements were being made to open several bank safe deposit vaults to find out just what assets the 25-year-old speculator has to meet his five of more millions in liabilities.

Hundreds of persons flocked to the offices of Leslie Harrington to tell of their dealings with him. Harrington, who has disappeared, was said to have obtained more than $1,000,000 in allegedly illegitimate transactions.

At the same time Judge K. M. Landis appointed a receiver for the Western Land Operators Company. Judge Landis said it was indicated that Bischoff, Harrington, the land company and others were working along similar lines and that they might have been working together.

WALLACE HAS GOOD OPINION OF FORD OFFER

Secretary of Agriculture Thinks Acceptance Would Assure Plentiful Fertilizer or Explosives.

Ford's Representative Asserts Congress Can "Take It or Leave It" in Exchange of Views.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, "looks with favor" upon Henry Ford's offer for purchase and use of the government's nitrate and water power projects at Muscle Shoals, Alabama.

Dr. Richard C. Tolman, director of the fixed nitrogen research laboratory of the department, announced the secretary's position with regard to the Ford offer in an authorized statement, which he read today before the house military committee. The secretary's views as expressed by the witness were as he had outlined, the proposal would "result in making available a considerably increased supply of fertilizer in time of peace and give us assurance of adequate supplies of explosives in case of need."

The statement was read by Mr. Tolman after the committee had completed an examination lasting more than five hours of W. B. Mayo, chief engineer and personal representative of Henry Ford. Mr. Mayo's testimony, included repeated statements that Mr. Ford intended to manufacture fertilizers in their completed forms at the maximum production capacity of the Muscle Shoals plants and would make every effort to manufacture them at a minimum cost to the farmers, using every known formula and working his chemists meanwhile to discover improved methods.

Mr. Mayo took issue several times with committee members who called attention to the section of the offer regarding fertilizer manufacture, saying there was no provision in the offer to compel the manufacture of the fertilizers but only of some necessary ingredients.

In each instance the witness declared it was Mr. Ford's intention to execute the contract in the event congress accepted it, in good faith and that included the production of fertilizers.

At one point, Mr. Mayo said the Detroit manufacturer had been invited by the government to make the offer and congress could "take it or leave it at its face value." This announcement followed a heated exchange between the witness and Representative Miller, republican, Washington, regarding the financial obligations the government would assume under the agreement. The Washington member insisted that the financial burden on the country would exceed by several millions that assumed by Mr. Ford while Mr. Mayo submitted estimated expenditures, Mr. Ford would make which totalled more than $8,000,000 in excess of Mr. Miller's figures. The colloquy ended without an agreement between the two.

Chairman Kahn announced at the conclusion of the hearing today that J. W. Worthington, another of Mr. Ford's advisors, in the Muscle Shoals transaction would be asked to testify tomorrow. Milton Whitney, soil physicist and chief of the bureau of soils of the agricultural department, also was requested to appear at tomorrow's session.

The bureau predicted that the Louisiana disturbance would move rapidly northeastward, increasing in intensity and attended by strong northwest winds along the section of gulf coast affected.

WILL CONTRACT FOR REPAIRS ON THE LEVIATHAN

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Chairman Lasker of the shipping board has decided to award the contract for reconditioning the liner Levinthan to the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company, tomorrow, it was said today on high authority and the board will meet at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning to ratify formally this decision. The Newport News company was the lowest bidder for the repair work.

Under plans now being worked out by the shipping board, the Leviathan when it is reconditioned will form the nucleus of a trans-Atlantic passenger line under the American flag to compete with the largest liner under foreign flags.

Chairman Lasker lunched with President Harding today and it is understood left with the impression that he had the president's support in the stand he has taken to award the contract to the lowest bidder instead of permitting navy yards to do the work.

Under a ship subsidy plan which is now in the hands of President Harding and probably will be transmitted to congress by the end of next week, it was said the Leviathan and other former German trans-Atlantic liners, the George Washington, America and Princess Matoika will be sold to one of the three or four recently organized American steamship companies which have already expressed a willingness to bid for the ships, to provide a trans-Atlantic steamship service under the American flag, comparable with that given by some of the foreign companies now in the trans-Atlantic passenger trade.

TWO INSURANCE FIRMS SUE FOR 275 MILLIONS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The filing of a $275,000,000 suit against the New York stock exchange, the estate of Jacob H. Schiff and others, named as managers of the reorganization of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad company for alleged failure "to account for profits derived from coal lands owned by the company," became known today when supreme court Justice Giegerich granted a motion to eliminate Seymour L. Cromwell from the list of defendants. The suit was brought by the Mercantile Fire Insurance Company and the Narragansett Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Providence, R. I.

In the complaint, a copy of which was filed with the order to dismiss, it is alleged that the railroad company purchased a large coal acreage having a mining tonnage estimated at 508,000,000 tons, and that the United States steel corporation, which is made a co-defendant in an effort to attach funds believed to be due the railroad, agreed to purchase 1,000,000 tons there a year.

It is alleged further that neither the railroad nor the defendants have accounted to the plaintiffs for the profits derived from the coal land and that the plaintiffs sold their stockholdings at low prices because they believed it the wisest course to pursue under the circumstances, thus becoming "entitled to damages."

The New York stock exchange is named as a defendant, it is set forth, because of its "winking" at an alleged violation of the state law, thus becoming guilty of "connivance, at least, in a constructive fraud."

DECLARES OIL PRODUCTION IS NOW AT PEAK

By Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 14.—Petroleum production in the United States has reached its peak and probably will begin to decline within three years, Dr. Ralph McKee, professor of chemical engineering at Columbia University, declared in an address tonight before the Buffalo Engineering society.

There is no likelihood of the discovery of new petroleum fields in this country, Dr. McKee asserted. But he declared, rich oil shale deposits, as yet practically untouched, are capable of supplying the nation's petroleum needs for hundreds of years.

"The demands for petroleum are increasing in the country at the rate of about 50,000,000 barrels a year," he said. "If this continues, it will require each year 75 new plants, each handling 2,000 tons of oil shale a day, and representing an investment of close to a million dollars each to give sufficient oil to meet simply this yearly increase in demands for petroleum. We have no other source of fuel oil or gasoline substitute in prospect which promises to furnish even a minor part of this demand. In other words, we have reason to look forward to utilization of oil shale as a very profitable chemical manufacturing industry which will rank with our largest industries in its labor and capital requirements and in value of output."

TEXARKANA, Texas, Feb. 14.—On advice of counsel, J. O. Booker, twice the victim of masked floggers, has left the city. A police officer accompanied him to the outskirts of the county, it is alleged he was threatened by masked men who whipped him January 20 and last Saturday night.

In a statement issued through his lawyer, Booker asserted the men seized him in a drug store last Saturday night, drove him into the country in an automobile, lashed him to a tree and beat him with a tree limb until blood flowed.

The flogging, the statement continued, was because he had threatened suit against two men alleged to have been in the party which administered the previous whipping. The January 20 whipping was for alleged maltreatment of his wife, a charge which Booker denied.

JUDGE OPPOSES WOMEN KISSING MRS. OBENCHAIN

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—Resumption of the trial of Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain, charged with the murder here last August of J. Belton Kennedy, was delayed today because of the temporary misplacement of a needed court record. When it was finally resumd, after a recess from last Friday, the first witness was William Laughlin, commercial agent for the Western Union Telegraph company here, who began to identify 30 or more telegrams. There were messages exchanged between Mrs. Obenchain and Arthur G. Burch, her co-defendant, while she was in Los Angeles and Burch was in Chicago last summer before the shooting, and other messages interchanged between Mrs. Obenchain and Kennedy.

These telegrams were not being read in evidence as they were offered but were being marked for identification over the objections of counsel for the defendant.

A sample of the handwriting of Burch was also introduced.

Mrs. Obenchain, who had been permited to enter the courtroom before the sessions were called, and who had been greeted and kissed there daily by a bevy of feminine friends, was held on the "bridge of sighs" connecting the jail and the courtroom until time for court to convene today. This was pursuant to orders of Judge Sidney N. Reave, the state having objected to Mrs. Obenchain's "receptions" as possibly prejudicial before the jurors.

IOWA RABBITS FOUND TO BE GROWING HORNS

(By International News Service)

RED OAK, Iowa, Feb. 14.—Iowa rabbits are growing horns. John Perry, a farmer of this community, recently killed a "cotton tail" carrying two well-developed prongs on its scalp. The horns were fully as long as the ears of the rabbit, and closely resembled those of a goat.

TAMPERING IS PROHIBITED BY NATIONAL LOOP

League Owners Adopt Resolution Enjoining Clubs From Meddling With Each Other's Players.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—All clubs, their agents and managers were enjoined, in a resolution adopted today by owners of the National league, from tampering or meddling with one another's players after a four-hour discussion of tampering charges, preferred against the Brooklyn and St. Louis clubs by Wm. F. Baker of the Phillies.

Wilbert Robinson and Branch Rickey, managers of the two clubs named, as the offenders, were absent but explained their conduct through their club presidents, Charles H. Ebbets and Sam Breadon. Both Robinson and Rickey are accused of having sought, directly, the services of Shortstop Fletcher, of Philadelphia.

The owners adopted the 154-game schedule and approved President Heydler's announcement of the 1922 umpiring staff. The umpires are Robert Emslie, Henry O'Day, William J. Klem, Charles Rigler, Ernest C. Quigley, Barry McCormick, Charles Moran, Bob Hart, Paul Sentell and Charles Pfirman.

Sentell, whose home is in New Orleans, is a new arbiter for the league. He started his baseball career as a player for the Baton Rouge, La. club, later played with Atlanta and Chattanooga, clubs of the Southern Association and the Philadelphia and Brooklyn National league clubs. He was manager of the Galveston, Texas league club for four years and since 1918 has been an umpire in the Texas circuit.

Pfirman, whose home is in Terre Haute, Indiana, has umpired in Central, Ohio State, New York State, Texas, International and Southern leagues.

MAN SEVERELY INJURED WITH BLOW ON HEAD

Said to have been struck over the head with a stick when he attempted to enter a house on Wichita street Tuesday night, a man whose name police and physicians were unable to determine was taken to the Call Field hospital where he was still in an unconscious condition at an early hour this morning. Following an investigation by police officers it was stated that the man who was apparently drunk had been struck by the owner of the house when he attempted to enter.

After his removal to the hospital, physicians said that the blow on the head had resulted in a slight fracture. His condition was not considered serious.

The case was brought to the attention of the police by the man who is alleged to have struck him. The man came to the police station and accompanied the officers to where the injured man was lying.

"K-9 HOT DOG RANCH" DOES THRIVING TRADE

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Unique are the names and titles of many small shops doing business in the less important business sections of the national capital, but the prize goes to a two-by-four hole-in-the-wall of a shack on Fourteenth street, in the northwest section of the city.

"The K-9 Ranch—Hot Dogs" is the peculiarly appropriate name stenciled in black, startling letters on a decrepit signboard above the entrance. And the vendors of the old-reliable hot-dog sandwich do a thriving business in their little "ranch."

A WIFE OR A PROFESSION?

By CAROLYN BEECHER

(Author of "The Revolt of Susan Hyde," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "A Successful Failure," "Maid and Wife," "The Only Thing that Counts," "The Prop," etc.)

Can an ambitious young surgeon who has not yet established himself in his profession succeed unless his pretty, pampered wife has a sympathetic interest in his life's work?

That is the question Carolyn Beecher poses in her absorbing new serial, "A Wife or a Profession?"

Howard Blake and Annette Gilbert fall so deeply in love that their courtship was brief. Annette, a born New Yorker, went with Howard almost immediately after the wedding to a middle west town. She was lonely and discontented and what distressed Howard most of all was that she was jealous of the time his work kept him from her. They were still deeply in love, but she did not understand his enthusiastic devotion to his profession. She wanted to come first.

To Annette, Howard's success meant only money and social position, and that they could go back to New York. The death of her father made her independently wealthy. Reluctantly Howard left his hospital work to return to the city and by degrees the adroit Annette weaned him from his boyhood dreams of being a great surgeon. He fought against living the almost useless life of a society doctor but finally succumbed.

What means Fate employed to Make Annette see her error and enabled Howard to realize his ambitions makes "A Wife or a Profession?" an unusually gripping story.

Arrange For Test North of Archer City

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Feb. 14.—Stewart & Jones, of Dallas, have closed a deal with T. G. Markley, of Wichita Falls, and are now putting down a cable tool test on Block 121 American Tribune New Colony Co. lands, about 3 1-2 miles north of Archer City. The well is being put down about 300 feet southeast of a test drilled by Markley a few months ago, in which good showings were found at two different depths. The new well is known as the Stewart, Markley & Jones Luke Wilson No. 3, and it is expected will reach the 1200-foot sand they wish to investigate in about 30 days. There is considerable scrimmaging for leases close in to this test, and all close in stuff was snapped up by the scouts at $20 to $50 per acre. The big companies are aparently interested, as the following have bought surrounding lease acreage: Texas, Texloma, Humble, Atlantic Oil & Producing company, and possibly others.

READ LETTERS OF KENNEDY TO MRS. OBENCHAIN

State Springs Surprise When Letters From Victim to Accused Woman Are Offered in Evidence.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—The prosecution began today reading into the court record the love story of Madalynne Obenchain and J. Belton Kennedy, the man she is charged with having murdered.

The state offered the first surprise of the trial when it produced Kennedy's letters to the woman. Defense counsel had expected her letters but were not prepared for his.

Dating back to March 4, 1917, the letters exchanged by the two provided, according to the prosecution, a complete record of the development and decline of the romance.

In letters written to the woman while she was in the east Kennedy told her, "I think of you every day, dear Madalynne, and when I have the glooms I wonder if you have them too. We soon will be eating our S. W. B. (Shreaded wheat biscuit) tgether; do not relinquish your sentiments," and "I hope you have a good time and think of me often, much love."

Repeatedly in her letters Mrs. Obenchain wrote Kennedy that "his friendship means more to me than anything else in the world."

From Rochester, Minnesota, in 1917, she wrote:

"Belton Dear: I went motoring tonight with my uncle's doctor. I didn't like him because I was thinking all the time how much happier I would have been alone in my room writing to you. Now that I am back my hands are so cold I can hardly write You feel so near to me that I can hear the things you say and feel your hand reach out and touch me ever so gently. It is hard to say good night though we're thousands of miles apart."

From Fessenden, N. D., she wrote: "Belton—My heart feels so good when I talk to you even in cold pen and ink."

And the date of the letters advanced the state claimed it would show by them that when Madalynne realized Kennedy's regard had failed and that he did not intend to marry her, she then grew to hate him.

Telegrams exchanged between Mrs. Obenchain and Arthur Burch, her co-defendant, while she was in Los Angeles, and he was in Chicago, were offered for identification during the early session of the trial through testimony of Wm. Laughlin, commercial agent here for a telegraph company. These messages were not read into the record nor admitted in evidence.

According to the prosecution these messages were used as evidence at the recent trial of Burch, which terminated in a disagreement of the jury and included among others, a telegram in which Mrs. Obenchain urged Burch to hurry to Los Angeles.

Expect to Cut Tourists Rates To California

By Associated Press.

GALVESTON, Feb. 14.—A material reduction in summer tourist fares to California for the season of 1922 will undoubtedly be put into effect by the Santa Fe railway with the opening of the season, W. S. Keenan, general passenger agent for the Gulf Colorado and Santa Fe railway, announced today. A similar reduction will no doubt be made in summer tourists rates to Galveston, Mr. Keenan said.

OBREGON USING 'IRON HAND' ON REBEL FORCES

Revolutionists Are Being "Caught in Afternoon, Tried at Night and Executed in Morning."

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 14.—The iron hand of President Obregon now is effectively gripping the incipient revolutions in Mexico, which in the past month have been more frequent than at any time since the last change in government.

This morning General Antonio Pruneda, former commander of the federal troops in the state of Chihuahua, was put to death. He had been convicted by court martial on charges of rebellion in connection with the activities of General Francisco Murguia, former minister of war.

Eight of Pruneda's officers, who were taken into custody with him are being held for court martial. The trial of Pruneda lasted throughout Monday night and the verdict calling for death at the hands of a firing squad was announced at 6 o'clock this morning. He met death calmly. He pleaded innocence and influential friends sought ineffectually to delay his trial and the execution of sentence. Pruneda, once held high military commands in the states of Coahuila, Chihuahua and Tamaulipas.

The courts maritla are meting out summary justice to rebels. The usual program being followed is to catch rebels in the afternoon, hold a trial for them at night and put them to death in the morning. The incipient uprisings are said to be born of discontent over economic conditions or disgruntlement with the central government. They are being reported in widely scattered regions of the republic, but high officials here declare that they do not constitute a serious threat, and that the government is prepared to meet all emergencies.

It is reported here that in the states of Chihuahua, Jalisco, Vera Cruz, Coahuila, Oxaca, Michoacan and Durango there are small bands which are attempting to intimidate the inhabitants. In some instances, they have sacked and burned haciendas and small villages. It is declared that federal troops are being liberally supplied to the effected regions and that nowhere are the uprisings meeting with success.

Tigers are said to suffer more from seasickness than any other animal.

CALOMEL IS A DANGEROUS DRUG
Next Dose May Salivate You, Loosen Teeth or Start Rheumatism.

Calomel is mercury; quicksilver. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.

DEALERS LOSE FIGHT AGAINST CITY COAL BIN

Commissioner Bryan, Brother of William J., Sells Coal in Lincoln, Nebraska at Big Saving.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 14.—Lincoln's municipal coal yard must fight for its life in the highest court in the state. This pet of "Charlie" Bryan, city commissioner and brother of William Jennings Bryan, has just emerged victor in a series of legal battles in the lower courts. Heads of fourteen Lincoln coal companies challenged the right of the municipal baby. They attacked the legality of the law creating a city coal yard to life almost immediately upon the birth of Mr. Bryan's industrial yard; they challenged the right of the city to enter into competitive occupations with taxpayers and when beaten in the lower courts on these issues they tried to tie up by injunction the city funds with which Mr. Bryan operates the city's fuel mart.

On the eve of the injunction hearing Commissioner Bryan handed the coal men a solar plexus blow by turning back into the city treasury a sum equal to the appropriation originally made for starting the coal yard. Incidentally, he announced this money was part of the earnings of the yard during its first six months of operation. The yard, Mr. Bryan said, had a comfortable surplus on which to operate until the end of the winter, despite the sale of coal at 10 to 20 per cent less than the same fuel could be had at privately-owned yards. Meanwhile, Lincoln householders who patronized private yards are buying their coal at a big saving over prices that prevailed at the beginning of the winter.

Appeal bonds have been filed to carry the case to the state supreme court on the contention that the city has no legal right to conduct a business with monies derived from public taxation. The dealers also allege "unfair and discriminatory competition." Meanwhile, Mr. Bryan is bringing trainloads of fuel into Lincoln weekly.

OBEDIENCE

BY JOHN BRECK.

This is a moral tale for those who still believe that implicit obedience is the first thing to teach the young. Nature does it, because 'tis the easiest way, but is it always the most expedient?

"I almost brought you a fawn!" So burst upon me an ardent huntsman who trails with a camera out of gun season. "I almost did. If it had followed me another hundred yards I'd have had a rope on it.

"You know where those tunnels run through the willow bottoms at Dove Creek? This doe was just above them. (He held out a print). She had both knees over a branch to hold it down and was nipping the buds off. You can see where it whipped back as she looked around. I thought that was the last I'd see of her, but she circled back and came sneaking down the creek bottom. Still I didn't catch on. But I thought she'd make another break for the open when she found me still there, so I waited round till the light got too poor. Then I started home.

"First thing I knew I heard something pattering behind me; I looked around, and there it was—that fawn! Little bit of a thing, all stilty legs and big black eyes, spotted as a ground squirrel, and colored just right to match the willow stems. When I stopped, it stopped, too; but when I went on, it would still be following."

I could imagine the scene. The poor baby had been left in some stem-hedged snuggery with orders to stay there until it heard her trip past. Lonely, hungry, too, no doubt, it gratefully tagged the first footsteps which happened along. It would stretch out its wet black nose, scenting something wrong, but now that its hiding-place was abandoned, it knew nothing else to do but follow. A poor guide seemed better than none. Anxiously it listened for the denouement.

"The fawn bleated some," said my adventurer. "But outside of a troubled sort of sigh I couldn't hear its mother make a sound. I saw her plenty of times. She was running alongside; sometimes she'd be out ahead with her tail wagging like a goat's and then again she'd sneak up from behind. The fawn would just act scared when it heard her moving. But when we came out on the road she screwed up her nerve to dash between us. Then it turned and took after her exactly as if we'd been playing cross-tag, and it knew the rules of the game."

So it got its dinner, and doubtless a good licking—but not the kind to teach it more discretion. He got his print and his experience, and I got no fawn, but having had one spiked I practise his baby horns on me, I'm probably quite as content as any of them.

PUBLISHER OF HOTEL ORGAN VISITOR HERE

John Willey, publisher of the Hotel Monthly, a national publication dealing with the trials and tribulations of hotel men, was a visitor in this city yesterday. Mr. Willey, who has been interested in hotel management for more than a quarter of a century, is here on a general tour of Texas, visiting new hotels and old friends.

Accompanied by G. M. Holt, manager of the Kemp hotel, "Bud" Foerster, cafe manager of that hostelry, Judge W. N. Bonner, and other Wichitans, Mr. Willey visited the oil fields of this section yesterday, and last evening was a guest of honor at a dinner served in the main dining room of the Kemp hotel.

Mr. Willey expressed himself as surprised and delighted with the growth and general prosperity of Wichita Falls and stated that the hotel service of this city is on a par with that of any city in the state of Texas. An article on the Kemp will appear in an early issue of the Hotel Monthly.

GIRL, 18, OFFERS TO MARRY FOR $1,000 TO HELP FAMILY

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—"I think my daughter is doing a very serious thing, but there is no other alternative."

This was the comment of the mother of eighteen-year-old Theresa Katona, who has offered to marry on her next birthday, November 28, any man, providing he is a Christian and is healthy, who will now contribute $1,000 to the support of her mother, father and younger brothers and sisters. They are poverty-stricken in their home in the rear of No. 195 Green street, Greenpoint, Brooklyn.

Speaking with the aid of her younger daughter, Anna, aged fifteen, Mrs. Katona, who is Polish and speaks no English, added:

"We have no money for rent, my husband is out of work and sick; I myself am feeble, and we need food for the children."

Theresa refused to talk, though she occasionally pushed her head into view long enough to listen and to confirm the report that she had made the offer.

She is auburn haired, with dark hazel eyes, fine teeth and strong regular features.

It was learned that Katona has been ill for some time and that the girl also had been unable to get work. The couple have been in this country for nineteen years. The other children in the family are Anna, fifteen; John, fourteen; Julia, twelve; Michael, seven; Theodore, five, and Mary, three.

Listening in on Eve

BLIGHTING A MASTERPIECE.

"Let's go to the movies," suggested the restless husband after dinner.

"Impossible," stated the restless husband's frivolous wife, seating herself in a businesslike way before her spinet desk and spreading out reams of paper and bundles of pencils. "You see, I have to write a paper on 'The Influence of the Stellar System on Cooking Meals on Wednesdays' to read at our study club and I've put it off till I have only three days to do it and it must be done! Run along by your ownself!"

"Har, har!" the restless husband exploded. "What nonsense! You don't know a thing about the stellar system and you know less about cooking, heaven help us—and I'll bet that not a living soul but Einstein knows the slightest thing about the connection between the two, if there is any—which there isn't—so why waste time? It's Flossy Frilly tonight, too, in 'Shrieking Sinners,' and we must start right away!"

"Adelbert," his frivolous wife, reproved him, frowning. "You don't seem to think there are times when I wish to be serious and join great world movements and leave my mark on the shores of time and—and things like that! The movies are all right in their place, but other things are occupying my mind this evening! You seem to consider me a perfectly ignorant person, and when I get through I shall read my paper to you to show you."

"Oh, have a heart!" implored the restless husband, pausing aghast in his tracks. "I love beefsteak, but it would annoy me extremely to be informed that the steak was tough because Mars felt uppish that evening or something like that. I dislike cold facts—I prefer to dream out my own reasons. For instance, I would be far more satisfied in those circumstances to tell myself that the steak was tough because you cooked it half an hour instead of fifteen minutes——"

"No matter what the subject is," the frivolous wife said with some temper, a man invariably gets around to eating! I should think you would think of something else once in a while! I am awfully anxious to write a thoughtful paper because that horrid Mrs. Bipp laughed when they assigned a subject to me. I'm going to stun her——"

"I'll bet you do," agreed the restless husband. "When you get through reading that paper the whole club will be laid out cold! Oh, you can get away with your subject, Miranda, because it is a lucky one. Not a woman there will know any more about it than you do, and so they won't dare question any statement that you may, in your innocent, girlish way, make.

"You will occupy the same secure niche that Arcturus Gramps did back home. Somebody had tacked the reputation of a wise man onto Arcturus and the populace, young and old, contracted the habit of referring all knotty questions to him. Arcturus always was there with the goods. He handed out information briskly and firmly, with an air which permitted no questioning or doubt. And he got away with it till he became filled with reckless pride and advised old Bill Jones how to make homemade hootch and Bill was buried shortly after in consequence—and thereupon Arcturus's aura was torn to shreds and nobody would have believed him if he had piteously insisted that two and two make four.

"So you'd better look out. You may write this foolish paper, Miranda, and read it and wear a brand new hat and thereby distract and critical comment, but your success will make you go right on dealing out information and something terrible will happen to you, sure as fate. Whereas, if you would spend your evening in pleasant recreation seeing 'Shrieking Sinners' with me, you would show a broader, wiser mind. Honest, now, what do you know about the stellar system?"

"Well," the frivolous wife told him defiantly, "I guess I know the big dipper when I see it, and most always I can pick out the north star unless somebody moves it or something—but you are awfully discouraging, Adelbert! You've just ruined all my inspiration, so I might as well go with you to see Flossy Frilly and write my paper some other time. Anyhow, they say she wears wonderful costumes in this play, and I'm dying to see them!"

"Now you sound more natural," said the restless husband joyfully. "Get your hat and c'mon!"

GUN CLUB TO HOLD ANNUAL MEET TONIGHT

The anual meeting of the Wichita Gun Club will be held tonight at the Little Sporting Goods Company located on Seventh street. The meeting is for the purpose of electing officers and outlining activities of the club for the coming year.

It was announced Tuesday that the club will shortly start a campaign for new members. The dues of the club have been reduced from $10 to $5 a year and it is expected that a large membership will be enrolled for the coming year.

The meeting tonight will be called at 8 o'clock.

Varsity Club Entertained by Interpretations

Stories told by Mrs. Beulah B. Fogleman; stories which touched both the hearts and the senses of humor of her hearers featured the weekly luncheon of the University club yesterday. Mrs. Fogleman, who is here on a visit to her brother, R. P. Ray, and who is a member of the Redpath-Horner chautauqua circuit, gave as her serious offering "The Man in the Shadow," an interpretive reading which presented some of the difficulties which beset the path of the man of modern means who is unable to attain success because of his unselfish acceptance of family duties.

The reading made a deep impression upon members of the University club and in response to continued applause Mrs. Fogleman gave here interpretation of the widely-read verse "Hello," and followed this with a number of extremely interesting stories recited in Swedish dialect and in the dialect of old men who have lived their lives for the most part in rural districts.

President Norris Ewing announced that the club would hold a testimonial concert to Frank Loew next Tuesday night at the Kemp hotel at 8:15 o'clock. On that date the weekly luncheon of the club will not be held but every member of the club will be expected to attend the testimonial concert. Each member of the club will receive two tickets to the concert and these tickets will be sold for one dollar each.

The announcement also was made that Paul Von Allmen had captained the team that had won the University club's recent membership campaign and that the losing team must now feed Paul's crew on hamburgers.

Prior to the reading by Mrs. Fogleman, members of the club were entertained by two violin solos by Mrs. Bruce Greenwood and by vocal solos by Mrs. J. W. King. Miss Annette Walsh furnished the piano accompaniments.

HAS "DAPPER DON" KEY TO MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF TAYLOR?

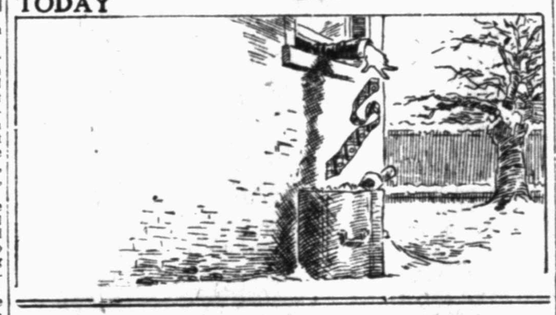

"Dapper Don" Collins.

A search for "Dapper Don" Collins, notorious character in the east, is now on in the hope that through his capture important facts regarding the slaying of William Desmond Taylor, movie director, may be cleared up. Collins is said to have been in Los Angeles about the time of the murder. He is now under indictment in New York on a charge of felonious assault. The charge is the result of the shooting of John H. Reid in the home of Mrs. Hazel Warner in New York.

dismissed a grand jury that was probing a bank failure. His action infuriated the citizens of his district. They assembled in mass meeting and they demanded his resignation instanter. After he had dissolved his grand jury, the judge, foreseeing the storm, departed for another city to visit his sick wife. He was wired the demand of his indignant constituents. First he refused to accede to the request. After prayerful consideration he reconsidered and then mailed his resignation to the chairman of the vigilantes. He protested his innocence of his intent of wrong doing and yet he resigned under fire. This is a free country. The public official has the right to follow the bend of his own mind when it comes to a matter of retiring from public life. Regardless of this an official blunders when he resigns or retires under fire. He should face the music. He should assume responsibility for his official acts or actions and submit his cause to his fellow men and constituents. Public opinion compelled this Oklahoma judge to lynch himself and all the while he was protesting his innocence or intent to wrong doing.

Many years ago an American prize fighter said, "There is a sucker born every minute." This was many years ago, mind you. Now there are a dozen suckers born every minute. Raymond Bischoff, known in the Windy City as the boy speculator, has been placed behind the bars. He had dissipated approximately seven million dollars entrusted to him by thousands of families in the stock yards districts of Chicago. Raymond is only 25. He did not run a bank. He did not operate a trust company. He was not the director of a loan agency. He was an employe of a packing concern. He won the confidence of his fellow employes. He became known as the youthful Napoleon of finance. Thousands of those who had sweat blood to accumulate small savings gave their money to Raymond for investment. He gave his sister $500,000 worth of Liberty bonds. He gave his mother a $60,000 building. He lived like a nabob. He said he invested all their money in various oil speculations. He rode in three luxurious limousines. He dabbled in the stock market. He gambled in stock. He put hundreds of thousands in the hand of bucket shop brokers who are dealing in Louisiana oil wells. It is the old story of the sucker and his money soon parted. Raymond found that the suckers were numerous. He cultivated a large crop. They swallowed the bait. Now there are thousands of poor devils who have been separated from their seven million dollars. At the most a short term in the penitentiary will be the penalty for Raymond, the 25-year old Napoleon of finance who robbed the ignorant toilers of the stock yard districts of Chicago. Some day all the people will place their savings in banks. Some day all the people who dig and toil will have sense enough to get along without guardians. This will happen about the time the Angel Gabriel blows his trumphet and proclaims the coming of the great event.

Senator King of Utah is a Democrat. Whenever Mexico is mentioned, Senator King froths at the mouth and exhibits a disgusting form or species of rabies. His latest is that hundreds of Americans have been slain by Mexicans; that more than half a billion dollars worth of property belonging to Americans has been destroyed by Mexicans; that more than 50 thousand Americans have been driven out of Mexico because their lives were endangered and that Mexicans are seizing property owned by Americans and dividing it among themselves. Senator King of Utah rants without reason and indicts without evidence. There are more Americans slain in the city of Chicago in a year than have been slain in Mexico in fifty years and life and property is as safe today in Mexico as in the home state of the Mormon saint. But why lather a senatorial ass?

Forty-five thousand cotton mill operatives are on strike in New Hampshire and Massachusetts and Rhode Island against the general wage reduction of 20 per cent and a return from the modern working week of 48 hours to the old schedule of 54. Thousands of textile workers are on strike in the states of Maine and Vermont where the manufacturers have made the same demand. There is a vast army of unemployed in the United States. Now what will happen to the textile strikers of New England? There is an army of employes in the packing industries of the West and South who went on a strike against wage reduction. They shivered and starved and then they surrendered. Gone are the war time wage scales. Gone are the war time 48-hour programs. This may be a brutal fact, but it is the truth and the truth must be told.

POOR HUMAN NATURE.

It's human nature, I suppose, to comfort find in others' woes. When rheumatiz, with tireless vim, assails my shelf-worn larboard limb, and I am rubbing dope thereon, and raising Ned from dark till dawn, I'm cheered by hearing news from Gregg's—he has the ill in both his legs. No more I murmur and repine; he has a fiercer dose than mine. This Gregg's a good and loyal friend; he's done me favors without end; and gladly, gayly I'd respond; of old Pete Gregg I'm very fond. Then why do I rejoice to know that Gregg can duplicate my woe, and show a surplus of disease in both his ankles and his knees? And Gregg confessed to me, one time, the details of a kindred crime. He had lumbago in his back, and sat complaining in his shack, consuming pills and other dope, all shorn of confidence and hope. His grief obsessed him till he knew I had lumbago and the flu; two fell diseases in my frame, and ready to give up the game. The tidings braced him for a while; he gave three cheers and heaved a smile. I wonder why this thing is so, that we can better bear our woe if told some neighbor, in his lair, has twice our grief and some to spare. Our human nature's a surprise, and hard to parse and analyze.

REDDY FOX HIDES

Reddy Fox stole swiftly through the Green Forest in the direction of the pond of Paddy the Beaver. Reddy took the greatest care to keep out of sight of all the other little forest and meadow people. It would not do to let one of them see him because—well, because, you know, he was supposed to be down on the Green Meadows. He had said that he had a very important errand down there, which prevented him going to look for Buster Bear as Prickly Porky had asked him to. Of course he hadn't had any errand down on the Green Meadows. It was just an excuse. The truth is he was afraid to look for Buster Bear. And so he had made up that excuse.

Then Jumper the Hare, who, you know, is one of the most timid of all the little people who live in the Green Forest, had offered to go look for Buster Bear. Reddy Fox didn't believe that Jumper really would dare do it, but if he should why Reddy knew that everybody would say that he was a greater coward than Jumper, and would laugh at him ever after. There was just one thing to do and that was to give Jumper such a fright that he would forget all about Buster Bear. So as soon as he was out of sight of the other little people Reddy had turned into the Green Forest and run as fast as ever he could to head off Jumper the Hare.

Now, Reddy couldn't have done this had Jumper started in a great hurry to look for Buster Bear, because fast as Reddy can run Jumper can run faster. But Jumper had not been in a hurry and so it happened that Reddy was nicely hidden behind a big pile of brush when Jumper came hopping along. When Reddy saw him coming he smiled and it was a wicked, hungry smile. He had started out to scare Jumper. Now he meant to catch Jumper, if he could. Jumper would make a very good dinner. Yes, indeed, he would make a splendid dinner. Reddy's mouth watered at the thought.

Now it isn't for nothing that Old Mother Nature gives things to her children and so, of course, there is a reason for the long ears of Jumper the Hare. It is that he may be able to hear the slightest noise so that he can run away from danger, for you know he cannot fight. So as he came through the Green Forest he kept stopping every few jumps to look and listen. He had almost reached the pile of brush behind which Reddy was hiding when his long ears caught just the teeniest weeniest sound. Perhaps in his eagerness Reddy rustled a tiny dead leaf. Anyway, Jumper stopped short and looked very hard at the pile of brush. Reddy held his breath and his yellow eyes looked very fierce and hungry. Still Jumper sat there looking and looking and looking. It seemed to Reddy as if he never would move.

Just as Reddy had about made up his mind to rush out and try to catch Jumper where he sat a heavy step sounded behind him. Reddy turned his head hastily. There was the big black stranger who had come to live in the Green Forest. Reddy didn't need to be told that it was Buster Bear. He gave one hasty look at the great claws on Buster's feet and then with a yelp of fright he tucked his tail between his legs and started for home as fast as he could run, the most frightened Fox who ever ran through the Green Forest.

Aids to Digestion

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

It is a real aid to digestion to take one's meals in a bright, attractive-looking room, and at a table neatly set with clean eating utensils and linen.

The effect of this is to create a pleasant mood, and pleasant moods have experimentally been proved to promote the flow of the salivary and gastric juices, so essential to digestion. For the same reason it is important, not merely to exclude all angry or worrying thoughts during a meal, but also to keep the table conversation as light and agreeable as possible.

Even to talk over business matters while one is eating may be detrimental to the digestion of the food eaten. This because a business talk may involve such hard thinking as to draw to the brain blood required by the stomach for the purposes of digestion.

And because the stomach, especially while digestion is in its early stages, does require an extra supply of blood, it is a good rule not to set one's self to any strenuous work, physical or mental, for at least half an hour after a meal.

The intervening period should be spent either in complete rest or in light recreation, such as the taking of a leisurely stroll. On the other hand, one should never, when relaxing after a meal, do so with the thought insistently present in the mind:

"I am doing this for my digestion's sake."

Thus to think is to keep the mind's eye intently turned, so to speak, on the digestive process. And digestion, like all other bodily processes, does best when not too closely watched. To think about digestion too much may be, and often is, productive of chronic indigestion.

And, just as one should avoid too strenuous exertion immediately after a meal, so should one endeavor to avoid eating too soon after strenuous exertion. In any case, when one is greatly fatigued there should not be such indulgence.

It is thus that indigestion often develops in people who, albeit they have not been working hard, may have exhausted themselves by taking too little sleep, seeking amusement too strenuously, etc. Fatigue from whatever source, if present in any great amount, always interferes more or less with the workings of the apparatus of digestion.

If, however, care be taken not to overdo, pleasurable recreation, indoors or out, is itself a positive aid to digestion. There are not a few victims of dyspepsia whose persistent digestive discomfort is due more than anything else to the fact that they have never learned to play.

Finally, to mention one more aid to digestion, it is of real importance to take sufficient time at one's meals, and to endeavor to eat one's meals at about the same hour every day.

Hasty eating and irregular eating, so much in evidence in our strenuous twentieth century existence, must be accounted among the principal causes of the indigestion so prevalent that some have termed it the disease of the age.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

RESULTS OF THE DISARMAMENT "CON"FERENCE

The disarmament conference is over and a good time was had by all.

o o o

The list of injured was remarkably small and the official interpreter alone shows any signs of great suffering.

o o o

Washington's silk hat ironers did a record business, and at a mass meeting held last night voted to petition the Washington Business Men's association to make it a semi-annual event.

o o o

The various delegates are now on the way back to their home countries with itemized expense accounts more staggering than the war bills. Now for a series of notes from England, Japan, France, and Italy, demanding that the United States cancel all hotel bills.

All things considered, the conference was a success; the group flashlights came out well, the moving pictures were exceptionally clear, and the cases of indigestion due to American cooking were not excessive. What more could be expected?

o o o

The official summaries show there were no fist fights during the session, and that, so far as is known, each and every delegate showed his respect for the spirit of disarmament by checking his brass knuckles and side arms at the door before entering the executive sessions.

o o o

Many were the accomplishments at the session, but perhaps the most outstanding was the passing of resolutions throwing thousands of sailors out of work and making four years' study at Annapolis about as useful under modern conditions as a post-graduate course in applied bartending.

o o o

Cuts in the land forces are promised, too. Only enough soldiers and sailors will be kept to afford a reasonable excuse for the annual Army and Navy football game. Armies may come and navies may go, but gridiron rivalry runs on forever.

o o o

Junking battleships will be one of the few lines of business in which there will be much activity the coming year. Of course, when it's all over our navy won't look so impressive head-on, but a profile view may still be sufficient to scare Mexico.

o o o

From now on each nation promises to maintain only a peace navy....in fact, one might call it a one-piece navy.

o o o

Another accomplishment is the Four-Power Pacific Treaty. Each of the four major powers agrees to bring the next war before the regular Tuesday business meeting and take a vote before going ahead with the contracts for more shells. Excellent!

o o o

China did well. Her delegates were allowed to remain throughout the conference. Twice a week a Chinese diplomat was allowed to say a few words, and did so, despite a rattling of newspapers by the Japanese delegates.

o o o

However, China got a guarantee of an open door, Yale locks, Sargent knobs, Smith & Shattuck weather strips, and everything. Japan agrees to close it as she goes out.

o o o

The Chinese will get Shantung back if a plebiscite of the Shantung silk worms favor it.

o o o

She also gets the right to run her own postoffice and pick any colors she chooses for her letter carriers' uniforms. That's that.

o o o

Japan agrees to leave Siberia, there being no way to move it with her, and not to feed the Siberian bloodhounds any more Japanese ping pong balls unless there is meat on them.

o o o

France is still trying to figure just what she got outside of a moratorium over French pastry and the exclusive shaving rights to Bluebeard Landru.

o o o

Just what Italy gained is also a mystery, but it is understood she has agreed to take the whistles off peanut roasters and not to sell any more green bananas.

o o o

So everybody's happy and all danger of another war is most remote.

o o o

What's that hammering noise? Is some country junking a battleship or building one? You can't tell? Neither can we!

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

By M. JESSIE LEITCH

BITS OF GREEN MUSLIN

Bits of green muslin may not be essential to one's health, but it has been proved that they are essential sometimes to one's peace of mind. And, since peace of mind and health are so closely allied, the story of the green muslin must be told.

Willa Jones was sick in bed, and she was afraid to be alone in the dark. This nervousness was not, her mother wisely decided, a matter to be ridiculed and discussed while the girl was ill.

Willa's mother had discovered, as most mothers do, that the time to discuss things with one's sons and daughters is not while they are ill. Not that discussions ever took place in the happy little home. Talks, perhaps, but never discussions.

But the matter of the dark.

Could Regulate the Light.

It was solved with a strip of dark green muslin which Willa's mother found in her work basket. Across the top of the muslin she made a casing, running a ribbon through it and tying the cool, grass-colored strip of fabric around the light in the sick-room.

A grateful, engulfing dimness resulted, and by simply raising the corner of the muslin Willa's mother could regulate the light in the room to her liking. Green was a color that seemed peculiarly fitted to the occasion. It is so restful.

The next problem was that of light—of daylight.

Willa's mother, knowing the importance of sunshine as well as fresh air in a sick-room, had put the sick girl in the balcony bedroom, into which for the greater part of the day the sunshine streamed.

The curative properties of fresh air and sunlight being so impressed upon the kindly woman's mind, the sick-room became almost a sun-room, and Willa, trying to do as the doctor advised and sleep for several hours during the day, found it impossible to get into any position which was comfortable without being kept awake by the brightness of the winter sunlight which streamed into the room.

Another Piece of Green Muslin.

So again green muslin was utilized, only it was a different piece from the one that was taken off the light each morning and folded away until night came.

Folded into a strip and pinned bandagewise around the girl's head, several thicknesses of the green muslin proved an excellent shield from the strong sunlight, and when the small safety pin used to anchor the bandage was pinned at the side, so that in turning her head Willa was not annoyed by the presence of the pin, the question of sleeping in the daytime was also solved.

"It's just like being in a dark room, mother," Willa said, after the first attempt to bandage her eyes from the sunlight, "and I can still feel the warmth of the sunlight on the bed and know that we are not shutting out any of its glory. And the green feeling is so much nicer than I imagine a black or white bandage would be."

It may have been Willa's imagination. But the green muslin had come to stay, because comfort is the most important thing when one is ill and the little muslin strips made for comfort.

OLD PEOPLE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

(Copyright, 1921, by Frank Crane.)

A gentleman from Turkey, by the name of Djouro Chemdine, has been knocking about Paris recently trying to get a job in a dime museum, or other place of entertainment. His qualification is that he is 164 years old. At least he says he is, and nobody seems to be old enough to deny it.

Just being old is one way to attain distinction. It is hard work, but it can be done if we stick to it long enough.

For instance, there was Thomas Parr, who died in London in 1635 at the age of 152 years, and there was also Countess of Desmond, who preceded him to the tomb, having attained the age of 140.

In 1603 there was born in Scotland a certain Margaret Patten, who married in her twentieth year a gentleman named Gibson. Gibson died, and Margaret's grief did not prevent her from living to the 26th of June, 1789; that is, 136 years altogether.

We find in our reading another example of longevity, Humboldt, in the course of his travels, was present in Lima at the funeral of a Peruvian called Hilario Pari, who had passed the age of 143 years. Up to his 139th year this vigorous old boy walked every day some three or four leagues at a lively pace, which worried the younger men to keep up with him.

A Parisian named Tourniquet died in 1877 at the age of 102.

In September, 1875, a worthy couple named Ballat gave themselves the pleasure of climbing to the top of the Column Vendome. The husband was 110 years old and the wife 106.

We may terminate these somewhat literary investigations by noting that Sainte-Beuve, in one of his articles upon Mme. Desbordes-Valmore, speaks of two of her ancestors, Antoine and Jacques Desbordes, who were expelled from France by the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, went into Holland, set up as book dealers, and were the publishers of Voltaire's works. One of these Desbordes brothers died at the age of 124 and the other at the age of 125.

And then, of course, there is Methuselah—but that is another story.

THE MEDDLER

(Copyright, 1922, by W. Werner.)

It was going to be a happy day. Irene Kellam had known it from the moment she arose. This feeling was augmented when she looked from her window and saw the fairyland which the snow had prepared for her surprise over night. Everything dark and ugly and mean in the street was hidden. Then, too, her mauve hyacinth had burst into sudden bloom. Its sweetness scented the room. She would have hung over it longer only that Mark must have his breakfast, so that he could be at work by 8.

Mark was so good-natured that morning. She felt that her lover had come back. The Mark of their courting days sat opposite her at the table, praising her hair, her color, the bacon and coffee. He kissed her half a dozen times instead of once in parting, and tucked something into the pocket of her apron—"to spend for anything you want that isn't necessary," he said. It was a $5 bill.

By 10 o'clock Irene had the house in order and sat down with her sewing. "I wonder what makes Mark and me so joyous today," Irene thought as she stitched Mark's shirts. "It can't be that it's just because Mother Kellam is out of the house." The thought, startling as it was, brought its own conviction. It was because Mother Kellam was out of the house!

Mark's mother had come for a visit almost as soon as they were married, and had stayed on until it seemed she was likely to make her home with them permanently. Then, without any reason, she had packed her trunk and gone to visit a cousin of hers in Medway. Irene had not realized until she was gone what an inexpressible relief it was going to prove. Mother Kellam was the great original dictator, and nothing escaped her suggestion, advice and command, from the darning of Mark's socks to the gown Irene should put on. Only the greatest tolerance and sweetness of disposition could cope with such a condition. Irene had succeeded where Mark had sometimes failed.

At ten minutes past ten Irene heard the doorbell ring. She laid aside her sewing and went, rather eagerly, to the door. When she opened the door she felt instant disappointment. "Oh! Mrs. Palmatier!" she murmured.

Mrs. Palmatier was a woman whom Irene knew slightly. She never had been in the house before, but Irene believed that Mother Kellam went occasionally to see her. She was a small woman, with a sharp, wrinkled face and flickering gray eyes. No one had been able to catch Minerva Palmatier's glance and hold it.

Mrs. Palmatier sat down. She opened her coat, but would not remove it. Her thin lips, her rocky old jaw were full of her mission. Irene felt a sudden creepiness up her back.

"I've come on an important errand," said Mrs. Palmatier. "And I may as well start in without any preliminaries. But first I want to say that what I am doing is in the interest of the family entirely. Georgie Kellam has always been a particular friend of mine, and anything that touches her touches me. I can't help it, I'm made that way."

"My goodness!" murmured Irene. "What is it?"

"People," said Mrs. Palmatier, "are saying very hard things about the way Mark has allowed his mother to leave his home." As Irene opened her lips Mrs. Palmatier hastened on, forestalling her. "I understand that it was not an easy thing to do, but I'm sure that there has been nothing wrong in Georgie's conduct. She has a very sensitive nature. Probably when she went she went advisedly. But it's too bad that Mark didn't stop her before all this talk started."

Irene stared hard at those restless eyes and said:

"But I don't understand. Mother Kellam merely went to visit Mrs. Pike at Medway. How can people talk about such a simple matter as that?"

Mrs. Palmatier's seely glance entangled itself in Irene's overflowing work basket, then darted to a small picture of Mark on the wall near by. "She would never have gone if she didn't feel she had to," retorted the visitor. 'Georgie Kellam is no transient. She grows fast to a place just the way I do. It must have torn her asunder to leave this pleasant home which her son made for her to enjoy in her old age. But it's the way with life. The old must sacrifice, the young won't."

Irene was scarlet. "You mean," she gasped, "that I made it so unpleasant for her here she had to leave?" For a flash she thought she had Minerva's glance.

"People will talk. They will take sides. You can't stop 'em. Minerva arose and buttoned her coat. "I've done it unbeknownst to George, but it is what she would do for me under the same circumstances. It's a very unpleasant duty, but friendship is friendship. I can't see a person I love the way I do Georgie turned out of her home without making some protest." She turned to the door. Stupid with astonishment, Irene saw her go out. She could not move. Then suddenly astonishment gave way to a certain wildness of misery and she burst into tears.

Mark found her tear-stained when he came home to lunch. "What's the matter?" he demanded.

"I can't tell you, Mark," Irene protested.

He took her in his arms. "You must. That's what I'm here for—to smooth away the rough places under your darling feet. Some old cat has been here trying to make you jealous of me, eh?" He laughed teasingly.

Irene laughed back. The idea! Then she told him what had happened.

"Minerva Palmatier, eh?" said Mark. "And she made you cry. Foolish child! You shouldn't have paid any attention to her." That was all he said and he went away at 1 o'clock, leaving Irene to a miserable afternoon. The story had gone out that she was mean to Mark's mother. She could never live it down, though it was.

Mark did not come home until 7 o'clock. He had never been so late before, but he entered jubilantly. "I had a little business to see to," he said. He waited, a moment. "I telephoned mother to get the facts in the case."

"Oh, Mark! You didn't!" Irene lifted startled eyes.

"Mother said Mrs. Pike needed her. There's something serious the matter with Mrs. Pike which they don't want talked about. In fact, the doctor has ordered mother to take her to California for a year to see what the change will do for her. Mother said she'd write to Minerva. She sent you her dear love and said for you not to heed anything Minerva said or did. I fancy that'll be some letter. How I'd like to see Minerva P. when she gets it!"

Next day at about that hour Minerva Palamtier received her letter. She read it thoughtfully. "That's always the way," she sighed. "Meddler and mischief maker, indeed! I might have known I'd get the worst of it. I ought to have known better."

Watching the Parade

By JOHN PILGRIM

We had a sobbing party at our house last night. Every one was in it but me. The sobbers carried so many guns that I played the part of a coward and yessed them whenever they looked my way, and when they compelled me to express an opinion I emitted:

"Ah, yes. That is very true."

But I didn't believe a word of it. I was merely afraid. The sobbers were a bishop and a banker and a college professor. Get that combination, if you will—all thinking the same way and sobbing, so to speak, through the same straw. All men who had been accustomed to express themselves authoritatively. All men who were conceded a respectful silence whenever they deigned to speak. All men who could wither a poor fish like myself with a single glance. Even without a glance. They didn't have to look my way. I could feel myself wither automatically.

"The world has gone wrong," was the theme of the evening sobbing. "It has no respect for age."

Pish, tush, fidge and nonsense. The world never did have any respect for age. That is, it never had any respect for mere age—for age that lacked a club. The only age this baily old world has ever respected has been the age that kept its hand on the throttle. I was the most respectful son you ever knew until my respected dad horned into one of my early business affairs with a lot of punk advice.

"You are doing that wrong," he said, with a heavy bend of his thick gray eyebrows.

"Anyhow, Dad," I said, "I'm doing it—and I trust you get me."

And I did. And I came out a winner. If I had followed the old gentleman's advice I would have been ruined before I even got started. My father used to tell of how he defied his father when he was a kid. As long as the old man had the bigger muscle he stayed home and ploughed corn. When he felt himself able he defied grandfather and struck out for himself. My wife thinks she respects her mother. But when she happens not to agree with her old lady is escorted to a metaphorical back seat.

It has always been that way. Age is boss just so long as age can be boss. When age begins to lose its grip——

Well, we love the old folks. And, of course, we respect 'em. But we keep them in their place.

DELIGHTFUL RECEPTION AT KEMP KORT TUESDAY.

Three hostesses, Mrs. W. P. Hood, Mrs. D. J. White and Mrs. J. C. Humphreys, entertaining at Kemp Kort, made Valentine afternoon an exceedingly pleasant time for some two hundred and fifty of their friends. One of the largest afternoon affairs of the season, it was also one of the most attractive in arrangements, the Valentine season's suggestion being carried out with delightful effect. A number of the more intimate friends assisted in the entertainment, the setting of crimson blossoms, ferns and the Valentine symbols being most effective for the handsomely gowned party.

Red carnations and American Beauty roses were used with a profusion of crimson hearts, on ribbon festoons, for decorating. An attractive centerpiece for the reception room table was formed of a large pot of red tulips, with red wax candles, burning in silver candlesticks on either side of the flowers.

The dining room was festooned with crimson hearts. The central light, over the lace-covered table was shaded in crimson, with tiny hearts pendant on red ribbons. Red carnations and fern, in a cut crystal vase, centered the table, and silver and crystal containers held red and white mints. The refreshment plates resembles dainty valentines, with the ice cream moulds of white centered with red hearts, the valentine favors and the squares of angel food cake.

Punch was served, before the callers took their departure, from a punch table embroidered in hearts.

Master Dan White, Jr., and little Miss Belle Britain, presented the silver trays to the callers, to receive the cards.

Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, Mrs. T. B. Smith and Mrs. C. R. Hartsook greeted the guests at the door, presenting them to three hostesses and the receiving line.

Mrs. Hood wore pink crepe, brocaded in silver, with silver ribbon trimming. Her corsage was of sweet peas in orchid tones.

Mrs. Humphrey wore a black lace gown, with ostrich trim, and her flowers were orchids, en corsage.

Mrs. White's gown was of black lace, trimmed in gold cloth, and she wore a corsage of jonquils and narcissus.

Mrs. R. P. Webb of Vernon, mother of Mrs. White, was an out-of-town member of the house party, whose presence added much to the pleasure of the occasion for former friends and neighbors.

Mesdames John O'Donohoe, C. Y. Tully, C. N. Alexander, James Elliott, Dudley Golding and Leonard French, were in the dining room.

Misses Agnes Reid, Annette Walsh and Ruble Rush served punch.

In the receiving line were: Mesdames A. H. Britain, Abe Marcus, J. E. Daniel, Gibbons of Clinton, Mo.; Merrill Blair, E. R. Carver, Ben G. Oneal, W. P. Danforth, F. P. Timberlake, J. J. Perkins, H. Wool Fringe Trims This Cotton Fabric Frock.

One of the interesting novelty cotton fabrics featured this season is used for the child's dress shown in the sketch. The background is a pale tan with stripes in black and orange. The trimming is inch-wide black wool fringe, wool balls, and a narrow crocheted wool girdle or belt. The dress is perfectly simple as to line, and made out of the ordinary solely by its coloring and the unusual trimming. The fabric is rather heavy, so that the wool fringe is very smart on it.

Among the practical wash materials featured for children's dresses for the coming warm weather season is crinked seersucker, known by several other names, according to the manufacturers who have placed the material on the market, but seersucker nevertheless. This fabric might be trimmed with wool fringe or wool embroidery with very good effect, as it is of good body, and comes in all sorts of interesting colors and color combinations.

Plain brown chambray is used to make some smart little frocks, trimmed in ruffles of organdy in contrasting color, and often with wool embroidery matching the ruffles. Chambray in various colors is combined with narrow striped gingham with very good effect.

A dainty party dress for a very small girl is fashioned of white and pale blue voile. The cut of the dress is interesting, in that two perfectly straight sections are used, pintucked at the top to form a sort of yoke, banded all around with the blue voile (the dress proper is in white), and with fagoting holding the two panels together on each side from skirt hem to arm's eye. The dress is caught on the shoulders with bows of blue ribbon, so that a wide neck line is effected.

A Wife or A Profession?

By CAROLYN BEECHER

(Author of "The Revolt of Susan Hyde," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "A Successful Failure," "Maid and Wife," "The Only Thing That Counts," "The Prop," etc.)

Can an ambitious young surgeon who has not yet established himself in his profession succeed unless his pretty, pampered wife has a sympathetic interest in his life's work?

That is the question Carolyn Beecher poses in her absorbing new serial, "A Wife or a Profession?"

Howard Blake and Annette Gilbert fell so deeply in love that their courtship was brief. Annette, a born New Yorker, went with Howard almost immediately after the wedding to a middle west town. She was lonely and discountented and what distressed Howard most of all was that she was jealous of the time his work kept him from her. They were still deeply in love, but she did not understand his enthusiastic devotion to his profession. She wanted to come first.

To Annette, Howard's success meant only money and social position, and that they could go back to New York. The death of her father made her independently wealthy. Reluctantly Howard left his hospital work to return to the city and by degrees the adroit Annette weaned him from his boyhood dreams of being a great surgeon. He fought against living the almost useless life of a society doctor but finally succumbed.

What means Fate employed to make Annette see her error and enabled Howard to realize his ambitions makes "A Wife or a Profession?" an unusually gripping story.

Hypnotic Eyes of "Svengali" Held Her Powerless, She Says

BROCKTON, Mass., Feb. 14.—"He lulled me to sleep with Svengali eyes!"

That is the charge made by Clair Beauclair, pretty eighteen-year-old girl, against a strange man who, she says, is holding her under a weird, psychic influence.

Perfectly normal most of the time, Miss Beauclair, according to physicians, has developed a dual personality as a result of this influence.

When under the strange "spell" she lapses into sleep for extraordinarily long periods. Once she slept continuously for 128 hours, all efforts to awaken her failing.

She says, however, that when in the trces of her weird slumber, she is not unconscious, but is aware of everything that goes on about her. Yet she is unable to rouse herself.

Eyes Haunt Her.

Occasionally in her sleep, it is said, Miss Beauclair cries out incoherently:

"Those eyes! Oh, those eyes! Take them away!"

The girl's story of how she fell under the supposed psychic influence of the mysterious, Svengali-eyed stranger, follows:

"One morning (two years ago, I entered the office where I was employed to find a strange man of about forty-five trying to embrace one of the women who worked with me. He was big and dark and strong.

"There was no one else in the office at the time, as it was before starting time. Just as I entered I heard the woman, who was struggling to free herself, cry:

"'Let me alone—I'm a married woman!'

"At that he let her go. Turning around he spied me. I felt myself suddenly fixed to the spot by his terrible, big, black eyes and remembered nothing until he came over and grabbed me up in his arms.

"Then I regained possession of myself and with a wrench freed myself. Then, I slapped him as hard as I could right across the face.

"I knew it hurt him and I thought it would end the matter. But the next instant he struck me a stunning slap in return. Then, leaning toward me in a threatening manner, he muttered:

"'You will regret this! I shall put you to sleep and make you walk long distances without being able to stop yourself.

"'You will regret this! I shall haunt you in your sleep with my eyes until you wish you did not live!'"

Clair Beauclair.

With this threat, Miss Beauclair says, the mysterious man left the place.

Man Followed Her.

"He looked back once at me as he was going out of the door. It was a terrifying stare. I could not forget it nor drive it from my mind. It haunted me at my work and in my sleep.

"I quit my position and went to another town. But I could not rid myself of those terrible eyes. Then, gradually, I became aware of the new daul personality in me."

Police of Brockton and neighboring communities are searching for the man with the Svengali eyes.

Doctors think he has placed her under a hypnotic influence.

A violin made for Henry IV. in 1595 still exists.

THE PROP

By CAROLYN BEECHER

(Copyright, 1921, by Carolyn Beecher.)

Carolyn Beecher, author of "The Prop," "The Revolt of Susan Hyde," "Maid and Wife," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," etc., has written another gripping serial, "A Wife or a Profession?" the first instalment of which appears tomorrow in the Record News.

CHAPTER LXXVIII.

"I capitulate, Ruth. Come to me on your own terms, any terms, but come."

Robert Turnbull was now convinced that Ruth never would consent to give up the business life she loved to become his wife. He knew she loved him deeply. He also knew her unusually sweet nature. She should have her way. Perhaps in the years to come she would tire and be willing to resign and be all his.

Robert Turnbull acknowledged to himself that it was selfishness that caused him to long for Ruth to give up her business career, a jealousy of her time that necessarily must be given to it, of her thoughts that would always persist in dwelling upon it. He knew that his home would be run as well as if she remained in it all day, that he would be just as comfortable. It was the unreasoning desire of the male to have the female beiong entirely to him.

But his longing for Ruth would no longer be stayed. So he had gone to her, hungry for her, and had made her promise to marry him immediately.

"We have waited long enough! I shall be an old man soon."

How gayly Ruth laughed at him—how young she looked.

"Old! Why, Robert, you are just beginning to be sensible. Call yourself 'old' at 45. If you were any younger I should be ashamed to marry you.

Ruth did not keep him waiting. They were quietly married in the Riverside Drive apartment with only the family, old Mammy, Orlando and Mr. and Mrs. Carr as guests. They would go away for two weeks, then old Mammy and Orlando would have the new home Robert had bought for his bride ready for their occupancy.

"To think that Ruth insists upon going back to work! I feel so distressed over it," Mrs. Browning said to Mrs. Carr after the bride and groom had departed.

"Don't talk treason to my wife," Mr. Carr interposed. "I shall feel like strangling Turnbull if he ever persuades her to leave us."

"But her position in society—a working woman."

"A woman whose life is so full that society can mean nothing to her—ever. And now, with love added, she will be less likely to care for it."

"I never shall be reconciled to it, never," bewailed Mary Browning.

Susan had been graduated just a week before the wedding. She was delighted and had been the life of the party.

"I saw long ago which way the wind was blowing. I knew he'd get you in the end," she declared to Ruth. "He's a peach, Ruth! But he isn't any too good for you—no one could be. And Ruth! I am going around the world. Ted says I may start at once. One of the girls who graduated with me is going, her mother will be with us, and Ted thinks it a great chance for me. I rather suspect he thinks I need a chaperon."

"I am so glad for you, Susan. And when you come back?"

"A studio, and hard work."

"That's right, Susan. Stick to your ideals. You will be happier in the end than if you are weaned from them."

Sam and his mother would stay on in the apartment. He was stronger, but never would be well, never would marry. Yet he was not unhappy, the old bitterness was gone never to return. He could even speak of the government now without grouching.

A year passed.

Ruth Browning is the mother of a month old boy. Her husband is very fond and very proud. She has realized his ideal of what a wife should be in every particular.

Yet the woman's investment department of Carr and company still has Ruth Browning at the head of it. Her customers still call her "Miss Browning," her department continues to grow.

Ruth is very happy in her home. Nothing there is neglected. She has a dear old nurse for little Sam, named after the invalid soldier; Mammy keeps the domestic wheels running smoothly, while Orlando is her devoted slave.

Robert's only complaint is that Ruth does too much. Business over, she devotes every moment to him and her boy. She is always ready for theaters or other forms of amusement or relaxation her husband suggests. She plays golf with him on Saturday afternoon. She is his pal in all he undertakes. When he speaks of it she replies:

"You see I have the time to be dear. When your day's work is finished mine is also. Martha gives the baby far better care than I could because she has been trained to care for babies. Mammy and Orlando run the house far more smoothly than I could because they have been trained to just that. And——"

"You were not trained to be a wife dear, yet you are a good one. How do you account for that?"

"A woman cannot help being a good wife to a man she loves and who loves her. It is the only business for which she needs no training."

(The End.)

Like Clouds Across a Summer Sky

foretelling the dreaded storm are the symptoms of women's diseases which point the way to physical and mental breakdown. The nervous irritability, the backache, the dragging pains, are not only hard to endure, but they bring certain knowledge of collapse unless something is done to relieve the sufferer. There is one standard remedy which has shown the way out for nearly fifty years. The women who have "come back" through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound present an argument stronger than words ever could be.

"Mudder, I always wins the race when I carry home Kellogg's Corn Flakes. I can't hardly wait till I have some quick, mudder!"

Watch the little folks speed home for Kellogg's Corn Flakes

It's great to see child-enthusiasm for Kellogg's; great to see every one in the family enjoy their crisp crunchiness and wonderful flavor! To sit down before a heaping bowlful of these cheery, oven-browned "sweet-hearts-of-the-corn" and some milk or cream—and fresh fruit, if it's handy—is just about the very last word in appetizing appeal! And, your good taste will prove that!

Kellogg's Corn Flakes ought to be superior—they are the original Corn Flakes! Kellogg's are never tough or leathery; never hard to eat; never a disappointment!

Be certain to get Kellogg's—the kind in the RED and GREEN package—because none are genuine without the signature of W. K. Kellogg, originator of Toasted Corn Flakes!

Don't forget, KELLOGG'S Corn Flakes are made by the folks who gave you the JUNGLELAND Moving Pictures. Coupon inside every package of KELLOGG'S Corn Flakes explains how you can obtain another copy of JUNGLELAND.

COURT DOCKETS SWAMPED WITH SWINDLE CASES

"It Would Take One Judge a Million Years to Dispose of Cases," Declares Attorney General.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Dockets of the federal courts throughout the country are swamped with fake stock swindling cases in which more than $140,000,000 has been taken from incautious investors, Attorney General Daugherty said tonight. They are, he added, 480 of these cases in the federal courts, in which 874 persons have been arrested or indicted.

"It would take one judge, working twelve months a year, one million years to clean up the docket," Mr. Daugherty said.

Most of the cases, he explained, were fake oil stock companies, although the swindling schemes ranged from bucket shops and mining stocks to patent "elephant catcher" promotions. Rich harvests are reaped by swindlers, he asserted, because people do not take pains to investigate what they put their money into.

Quoting from his reports, Mr. Daugherty said that "the northern district of Missouri led in the amount involved in pending fake stock cases with a total of $31,792,000 while the northern district of Illinois had the greatest number of cases with 43, the northern district of Texas stood second with 42 cases and the southern district of New York had 38 cases.

As an instance of schemes appealing to credulous investors, Mr. Daugherty cited the famous "Everglades case" in which $750,000 had been obtained on the stock of a company formed to drain and farm rich Florida lands and sold on the argument that there was no frost in Florida. After the stock had been disposed of, he added, the frost came. This case, he said, had been pending Chicago several years and had already cost the government about $200,000 but he was studying the advisability of pressing it.

Sections of the country, in which the blue sky schemes were particularly prevalent, he declared, were Kansas City, Chicago, New York and Texas.

Sport Briefs

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Waite Hoyt, Yankee pitcher, who starred in the world series last fall, visited the club offices with his bride today and signed a contract for the coming season. The youngster, who received $5,000 for his work last season, was granted an increase of "more than 100 per cent" in his new contract.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14.—Jake Schaefer, world champion, won two games from Roger Conti, 18-2 billiard champion of Europe, in a tournament play today. Schaefer won the first game 300 to 196 in 7 innings and tonight's contest 300 to 5 in 3 innings. The tournament, which ends tomorrow night, now stands three games to one in favor of Schaefer.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, easily defeated Whitey Wenzel of Pittsburgh tonight, the referee stopping the bout in the fourth round of their eight-round match to save Wenzel further punishment. Tunney outclassed his opponent and landed blows almost at will.

Doug and Mary Defend Motion Picture Stars

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Real motion picture stars know no more of dope fings and drug parties than they do of eight hour law and unless the public sticks to facts and rather than fancies there soon will be no motion picture industry in this country, Douglas Fairbanks said here today.

The real stars are so busy working—twelve or more hours a day in some cases—that if any one mentioned a drug party at night they'd be so tired they wouldn't even hear the remark," he said.

"Of course there are some undesirables—but they are few in number. The public should consider the facts and not the fancies. Nine-tenths of the revelers at Hollywood—the ones who cause the scandals—are visitors and have no connection with the movies."

As proof of his statement that's not all play in the movies Fairbanks and Mary Pickford held forth their hands to show newspaper reporters blisters.

"From real work," explained Doug.

"From hard work," said Mary.

Heres are two photographs of William Desmond Taylor, the well known Los Angeles motion picture director, who was mysteriously murdered in his home. At the left is one of the most recent photographs of Taylor. The other was made shortly before his disappearance from New York in 1908. He was then known as William Cunningham Deane-Tanner, which was his real name. He came of a family famous in Ireland.

Pershing, Mellon and "Babe" Ruth Are Strange Names to Large Part Of School and College Students

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Supposedly national heroes of the diamond, the gridiron and the silver sheet do not stand so high as might be supposed with the high school and college students. This was learned today when the institute for public services made public some results of a national current historic test taken by more than 200,000 pupils.

Twenty thousand of the students averaged only 46 per cent on ten questions about baseball, football and the movies. Of 300 seniors more of them knew about De Valera, Lloyd-George, Briand and General Leonard Wood than about which team won the world's series or what shining light of the screen is starred in a current popular picture.

A majority of 500 girl seniors knew more about Sinn Feiners than about Mlle. Lenglen and Ruth Law.

One of the most interesting results being analyzed are the answers of 61 New York seniors. Forty-three of them could not identify Charles G. Dawes, national budget director; 38 had no idea as to Myron T. Herrick's identity; 20 were all at sea as concerns the identity of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon; 10 were unable to identify a photograph of Elihu Root and 21 missed Henry Ford. Some of them thought Mlle. Lenglen was a French chemist and others identified her as Japan's representative at the armament conference.

Thirty-five per cent of the boys did not know who won the last world's series; 50 per cent did not know Babe Ruth's home run record and 70 per cent of the girl seniors did not know the name of the only woman member of congress. Three of the hundred high school seniors could not identify Pershing and four out of the same 100 did not recognize the picture of President Harding.

After declaring it has cost between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 in money and time to educate 1,000 high school seniors, the report laments that "630 of them did not know the meaning of 'open shop'; 690 of them could not recognize a picture of Elihu Root, 400 did not know anything about H. G. Wells."

The Cradle of Stars!

That's what Holy Cross college might well be called. It was that college that produced Jack Barry, Athletic and world's series veteran; Joe Dugan, young Macklan star, and a flock of others.

And now it has two more baseball prospects who are slated to break into the majors—Freddy Maguire, second baseman, and Chick Gagnon, shortstop.

Maguire is expected to land with the Giants or Dodgers, having received overtures from both clubs. Gagnon is being looked over by big league scouts.

Both these lads are said to be ripe. Both have played spectacular ball for Holy Cross, Maguire handling second like Eddie Collins—which is considerable playing. Both are good batters.

Whether or not they can take the great step that Sisler, Pratt, Frisch and a score of others took and deliver, remains to be seen.

FOUR ADDED TO DEATH LIST IN BELFAST RIOTS

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Shooting continued throughout Tuesday in Belfast. Four persons were killed and many were wounded. The total casualties since last Saturday up to tonight were 22 persons killed and more than sixty wounded.

British troops were brought into Belfast today. They hardly had assumed their duties before a soldier was shot and wounded.

In the political sphere the principal news of the day was an announcement by Michael Collins, head of the provisional government, to Winston Spencer Churchill, British secretary for the colonies, that Mr. Collins was in a position immediately to secure the release of a number of the kidnaped Ulsterites. Mr. Collins started from Dublin for London tonight in order to consult with the British government on the situation.

The general convention of the Sinn Fein has been set for February 21.

Lord Birkenhead, the high chancellor, told the House of Lords today that although the government had authorized a suspension of the military evacuation of Ireland, it would continue the policy of holding the scales even between the north and the south, making full allowance for the difficulties of the provisional government.

CHINA GLOOMY DESPITE ARMS MEET RESULTS

Conference Loomed as Star Hope but People Do Not Believe Foreign Interference Is Over.

By Edna Lee Booker
(By International News Service)

SHANGHAI, Feb. 14.—The Chinese are not overjoyed at the accomplishment of the Washington conference relative to Far Eastern affairs, though thankful for what was done to lessen the pressure of the Japanese heel on the neck of their prostrate land.

The year 1921 was a gloomy one for patriotic Chinese statesmen, they admit. Torn by civil dissension, the Washington conference in the fall of 1921 loomed as the star of hope for solution of Chinese problems and ridding the land of foreign interference. The conference has ended, but there is still civil dissension, two governments—one at Peking and one at Canton—and China still is not able to regulate all her own internal affairs without the o. k. of leading foreign nations.

Comment in the street is that the Chinese delegates at the Washington conference did not come within a thousand miles of discussing the real Chinese questions. And Chinese students, members of labor unions, educational associations and chambers of commerce declare that in the great test of friendship the Washington conference—failed.

Because of this feeling an anti-foreign movement is sweeping all China. A national citizen's association has been formed to deal with diplomatic affairs.

Wish for Riddance

While the Chinese are enthusiastic over prospects of soon ousting foreign operated postal systems—chiefly Japanese—the Chinese are clearly outspoken in their desire and aim to get rid of international settlements, extra-territoriality, restriction on her customs tariff and foreign shipping on her rivers.

Most foreigners in China assert that while China's government remains in its present divided and chaotic condition foreign nations will not jeopardize their interests and the lives of their subjects "by handing them over to the money-grabbing politicians and mandarins."

Dispatches telling of the demonstrations of the Chinese residents in Washington in connection with the Shantung question fanned the enthusiasm of the Chinese, and larger and more important mass meetings and parades were held throughout China.

Then the powerful war-lord Chang Tso-ling decided to deal the cards and made a surprise trip to Peking. In his first deal he threw out the old cabinet, which was very unpopular and put in a new cabinet, with Liang Shih-i at the head, and it was reported that Liang Shih-yi was acceptable to South China and that the star of peace was rising.

Fact Is Denounced

But Dr. Sun Yat-Sen at once denounced the reports of a pact with the new premier or any other Peking leaders, declaring them to be "entire fabrications;" and General Wu Pei-fu, leader of still another faction in China, failed to dispatch a congratulatory message to Liang Shih-yi, and rumors of his preparations to move his troops against Peking were circulated.

What will happen next in kaleidoscopic China?

Foreign residents refuse to speculate. But they say these questions are pertinent.

Will the masses, led by the students, organized labor and merchants, rise up and overthrow the Peking government and perhaps in the revolution strive to drive out the foreigners? Will Japan keep on encroaching and forcing her will bit by bit on China? Will China work out her own salvation — establish a strong central government, set her own house in order by settling her internal differences and enforce laws which will enable her people to develop the national resources and trade?

But, with the country financially bankrupt, restless and bitter because of her treatment at the Washington conference and politically torn into factions which show no sign of "getting together," the New Year is met with misgivings in China, and gloom envelops the nation.

OPERA STAR WEDS COFFEE KING'S WIDOW

Joseph Schwartz, Russian baritone with the Chicago Opera Association, has given the operatic world its latest thrill. Mrs. Sielcken inherited $4,000,000 from her late husband and has devoted much of her life to charitable work.

SEVERAL MORE SEEK PLACE OF DISTRICT ATTY.

Definite announcement that John Martin, local attorney, was a candidate for the appointment and that E. H. Gipson, also a local attorney and Elmer Graham, an attorney of Graham, were about to cast their hats into the ring, as the developments Tuesday in matter of appointment of a district attorney to succeed H. R. Wilson, appointed judge of the 30th district court.

Mr. Martin was former assistant county attorney here and has continued in private practice here since his resignation from that office over a year ago. Mr. Gipson has been a practicing attorney here for the last three years. Mr. Graham has practiced law at Graham for several years and was candidate for the nomination against Fletcher Jones in 1920.

"Hands off" is apparently the policy of local attorneys and others known to be close to Governor Neff in regard to the appointment. Several asked Tuesday regarding their recommendations for the appointment all declared that they had made none to the governor and had no intentions of doing so.

B. W. King of Graham, brother of Bert King, local attorney, had not received the appointment Tuesday night although rumors continued here that it was to be offered him following the refusal of his brother to accept it.

KID PANCHO WINS.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 14.—Kid Pancho, local bantamweight tonight was awarded the judge's decision over Bobby Hughes of Memphis at the end of the tame ten-round bout here. Hughes was the aggressor during most of the fight. Few hard blows were landed with Pancho getting almost two to one.

WILSON ELECTED COMMANDER LOCAL AMERICAN LEGION POST IN ANNUAL ELECTION TUESDAY

Dr. O. W. Wilson was elected post commander of the Pat Carrigan post, American Legion, for 1922, defeating Dr. John Fletcher in a close vote at the meeting Tuesday night.

C. R. Funderburg was elected vice commander, Dr. L. I. Lucey post adjutant and H. E. Taylor finance officer, the last two by acclimation.

Rabbi David Goldberg was chosen as chaplain and Dr. Fletcher and Dr. T. J. Strong were named as members of the executive committee.

Luther Hoffman, the retiring post commander, was accorded a rising vote of thanks for his efficient and faithful services during the past year, as was the retiring adjutant, Zeb V. Nixon, and H. E. Taylor, who was also finance officer during the year past.

A membership campaign to secure the renewal of memberships for 1922 among the several hundred old members and to secure the membership of former service men who have not herefore been members of the organization will be planned by the executive committee in the near future.

The post at the Tuesday night meeting expressed their appreciation of the social meetings with members of the auxiliary and expressed the hope that there would be more in the future.

A pompous man entered a restaurant and beckoned the waiter. "I want a chop," he said, importantly. "Yessir," said the waiter. "A lean mutton chop, waiter." "Yessir," said the waiter. "See that it is grilled over a quick fire. Tell them to have a piece of garlic placed on it for a few seconds." "Yessir," said the waiter. "And—waiter, I don't want any sauce or gravy with it, just half a grilled tomato. You understand." "Yessir," said the waiter. "Perfectly?" "Perfectly, sir," said the waiter, and moved away. A moment later he reached the speaking tube. "One mutt!" he bawled.

Willie, at a Christmas party, was allowed to participate in the game of snap-dragon. He sat amid a group of beautiful girls. The lights went out, the usual grabbing for favors began, and then when the lights went up again, Willie was to be seen crying bitterly. "What's the matter, Willie? Didn't you get anything?" he was asked. "No," sobbed Willie, spitefully, "As soon as it got dark that man with the brown whiskers—boo-hoo!—he grabbed me hands and didn't stop—boo-hoo-hoo!—he didn't stop kissing them till the lights went up again!"

A certain English judge was trying a case where a dealer sued a steamship company for the loss of some pigs in a fire on board a cross-channel boat. It came out in the evidence that the steamer had a large deck load and it was this that suffered the greatest damage. The judge began his charge to the jury, commencing as follows: "Gentlemen, to put those pigs on deck was a rash act, but to fry them was rasher!"

"A great many titles if they are sounded ring false," said Cortland Bleeker at a Newport tea. "Since the World war especially there has been a lot of queer titles floating about. COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The market for coffee futures developed greater activity and strength today on the continued bullish advances from Brazil and a better demand for spots. Opening prices were 1 to 2 points higher and the list advanced steadily throughout the day until the last hour May reaching 8.54 and July 8.60. The close was firm and at about best prices of the day or 10 to 23 points net higher. Sales were estimated at about 43,000 bags. March 8.43; May 8.53; July 8.60; September 4's 12 1-3 to 12 1-2.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Several printers of percales today reduced prices from 13 1-2c to a basis of 11 3-4c for 4-4, 64x60's. Business in printed and gray goods quickened under the reduction. Raw silk weakened 50c a pound and some of the large mills announced curtailment in production until prices dropped still further. Wool goods were quiet with price resistance very noticeable, especially on worsteds.

Stocks

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Pronounced strength was displayed by today's stock market almost from the outset. Accumulation of buyers orders over the double holiday, further settlement of short contracts and relaxed money rates were the propelling factors.

Highest prices were registered in the final hour, that period being concurred with the decline of call loans from 5 to 4 per cent. Dividend-paying rails and standard industrials of the steel, equipment, oil and miscellaneous divisions made net gains of 2 to almost 5 points.

Sentiment among traders respecting federal tax legislation seemed to be more hopeful. Advices from Washington suggested that the administration may resort to a bond issue to meet soldier bonus requirements. Reports from mid-western business and industrial sections were of an encouraging tenor, but railroad tonnage showed little expansion. Moderate rail increase of production by independent steel manufacturers in that territory accompanied intimations that the proposed steel mergers were progressing towards consummation.

Exchange on London made a vigorous recovery from last Saturday's reaction. The rally reflected the buoyant tone of the markets at that center, despite fresh complications in the Irish and Indian situations.

Demand bills on London at 4.36 were 3 1-4 cents over the recent low and advances of 4 to 11 points in the allied exchanges were overshadowed by gains of 8 to 22 points in other continental quotations, notably those on Holland and Denmark, Norway and Sweden.

The German rate alone held back, marks making only the slightest gain.

Time money rates were more rigid than demand quotations, few loans other than those of 30 to 90 days being made at less than 5 per cent, the latter rate prevailing for all long time maturities. High grade merchants paper was quoted at 4 3-4 per cent but no acceptances were reported.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—A covering movement developed in the cotton market today which at one time ran prices up 49 to 55 points above the previous close and kept the market in a state of activity and strength throughout practically the entire session.

At the opening there was an advance of 15 to 4 points, following a strong upturn in the Liverpool market and firmness in financial circles, including foreign exchange. Under moderate profit taking prices reacted a few points, May declining to 17.08 and July to 16.63, from which there was an almost perpendicular advance thereafter 17.55 and 16.99 respectively, for these two positions. The greatest upturn came just before the close when renewed commission house buying impelled covering among a lot of traders who had sold earlier in the day on the action theory and final prices were 48 to 53 points net higher, with the undertone firm. Coming in the fact of unfavorable news on the Irish question and an extension of the strike situation in New England, the advance found traders somewhat unprepared.

Early in the day, late positions received most of the support but after midday the buying was transferred to near months and covering by March shorts was an important factor in the advance. The strength of grain and the presence of numerous buying orders from interests which have been credited with actively supporting the wheat market, added to the bullish feeling among cotton traders, as did also the absence of a pressure from the south and some improvement in advices from the local cotton goods market.

Confirmation was had of the report that a Texas spot firm is shipping 6,000 bales of cotton to New York for delivery on March contracts, in addition to which it was reported that the owner of about 40,000 bales of the local stock is also preparing to tender his cotton on March contracts. It was also stated that several old established storage companies at this port are making concessions in their rates in order to attract cotton here. Exports today 31,020, making 3,577,000 so far this season. Port receipts 31,317. U. S. port stocks, 1,139,061.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 14.—Strong advances were made in the cotton market today, prices rising from the opening, maintaining their gains well throughout the session and reaching their highest in the late trading when the rise was 51 to 55 points over the level of last week's close, March rising to 16.72 cents a pound. The close was 49 to 54 points up with March 16.70.

The market opened higher in response to a better Liverpool than expected and on the census bureau report of 526,552 bales consumed by American mills during January against 511,800 in December. The decrease in mill stocks to 1,675,033 bales at the end of January against 1,737,771 bales at the end of December also was regarded as highly favorable.

The wet and cold weather over the greater part of the belt made the droughty conditions in portions of north and western Texas, show the more conspicuously, especially as sand storms were reported in some parts of west Texas. The weather over the entire belt was looked upon as against new crop preparations and increased the desire to buy. Strength in the wheat and stock market unquestionably had much to do with lifting the market to its highest levels and the large textile exports for January from Great Britain, as reported by the British board of trade, caused buying for both accounts. According to these reports brokers here, exports of yarns amounted to 14,800,000 pounds against 7,200,000 pounds in January of last year, while exports of cloths were 339,000,000 yards against 249,000,000.

CHANGES SHOWN IN U. S. VISIBLE GRAIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The visible supply of American grains shows the following changes:

Wheat decreased 163,000 bushels.
Corn increased 4,098,000 bushels.
Oats increased 157,000 bushels.
Rye increased 13,000 bushels.
Barley decreased 212,000 bushels.

LIVERPOOL SPOT COTTON

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 14.—Cotton quiet, price steady. Good middling 10.45; fully middling 10.05; middling 9.70; low middling 8.76; good ordinary 7.50; ordinary 6.75. Sales 10,000 bales, including 5,500 American.

Grain

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Rushes to buy wheat today lifted the price of that commodity six and one-half cents a bushel at one stage of the day's transactions. The urgency of traders was generally explained as the result of a preceding big rise of values in European markets. The finish here was strong, 3⅝c to 5⅝c net higher, with May $1.38½ to $1.38⅝ and July $1.21¾ to 1.21⅞. Corn gained 1½ to 1¾c, oats ½c to ⅝@¾c and provisions 17@20c to 30c.

With the knowledge that wheat in Liverpool was being quoted today at equal to more than $1.50 a bushel, American money, whereas wheat in Chicago was recently selling at less than $1.00, the majority traders here took at once to the buying side of the market. In a twinkling, the price jumped to the highest point yet achieved by the July delivery and to new high figures for May since the recent upward movement of values began. News of disappointing threshing returns in Argentina added to prevailing anxiety about the apparent scarcity of world supplies, and so too did continued adverse crop advices from the southwestern portion of the domestic winter wheat belt. Selling to take profits brought stout setbacks in prices later, but before the day was ended, the market resumed its upward swing, with fresh impetus coming from reports of an enlarged demand for flour and from announcement of a decrease in the United States visible supply of wheat. There was also talk of a big export business in wheat having been put through at the seaboard.

Corn and oats prices reflected to some extent the action of the wheat market, and were also helped upward by anticipation that 25,000 tons of corn grits would be bought tomorrow, for Russian famine relief.

Provisions ascended in price with grain and hogs.

COTTONSEED OIL

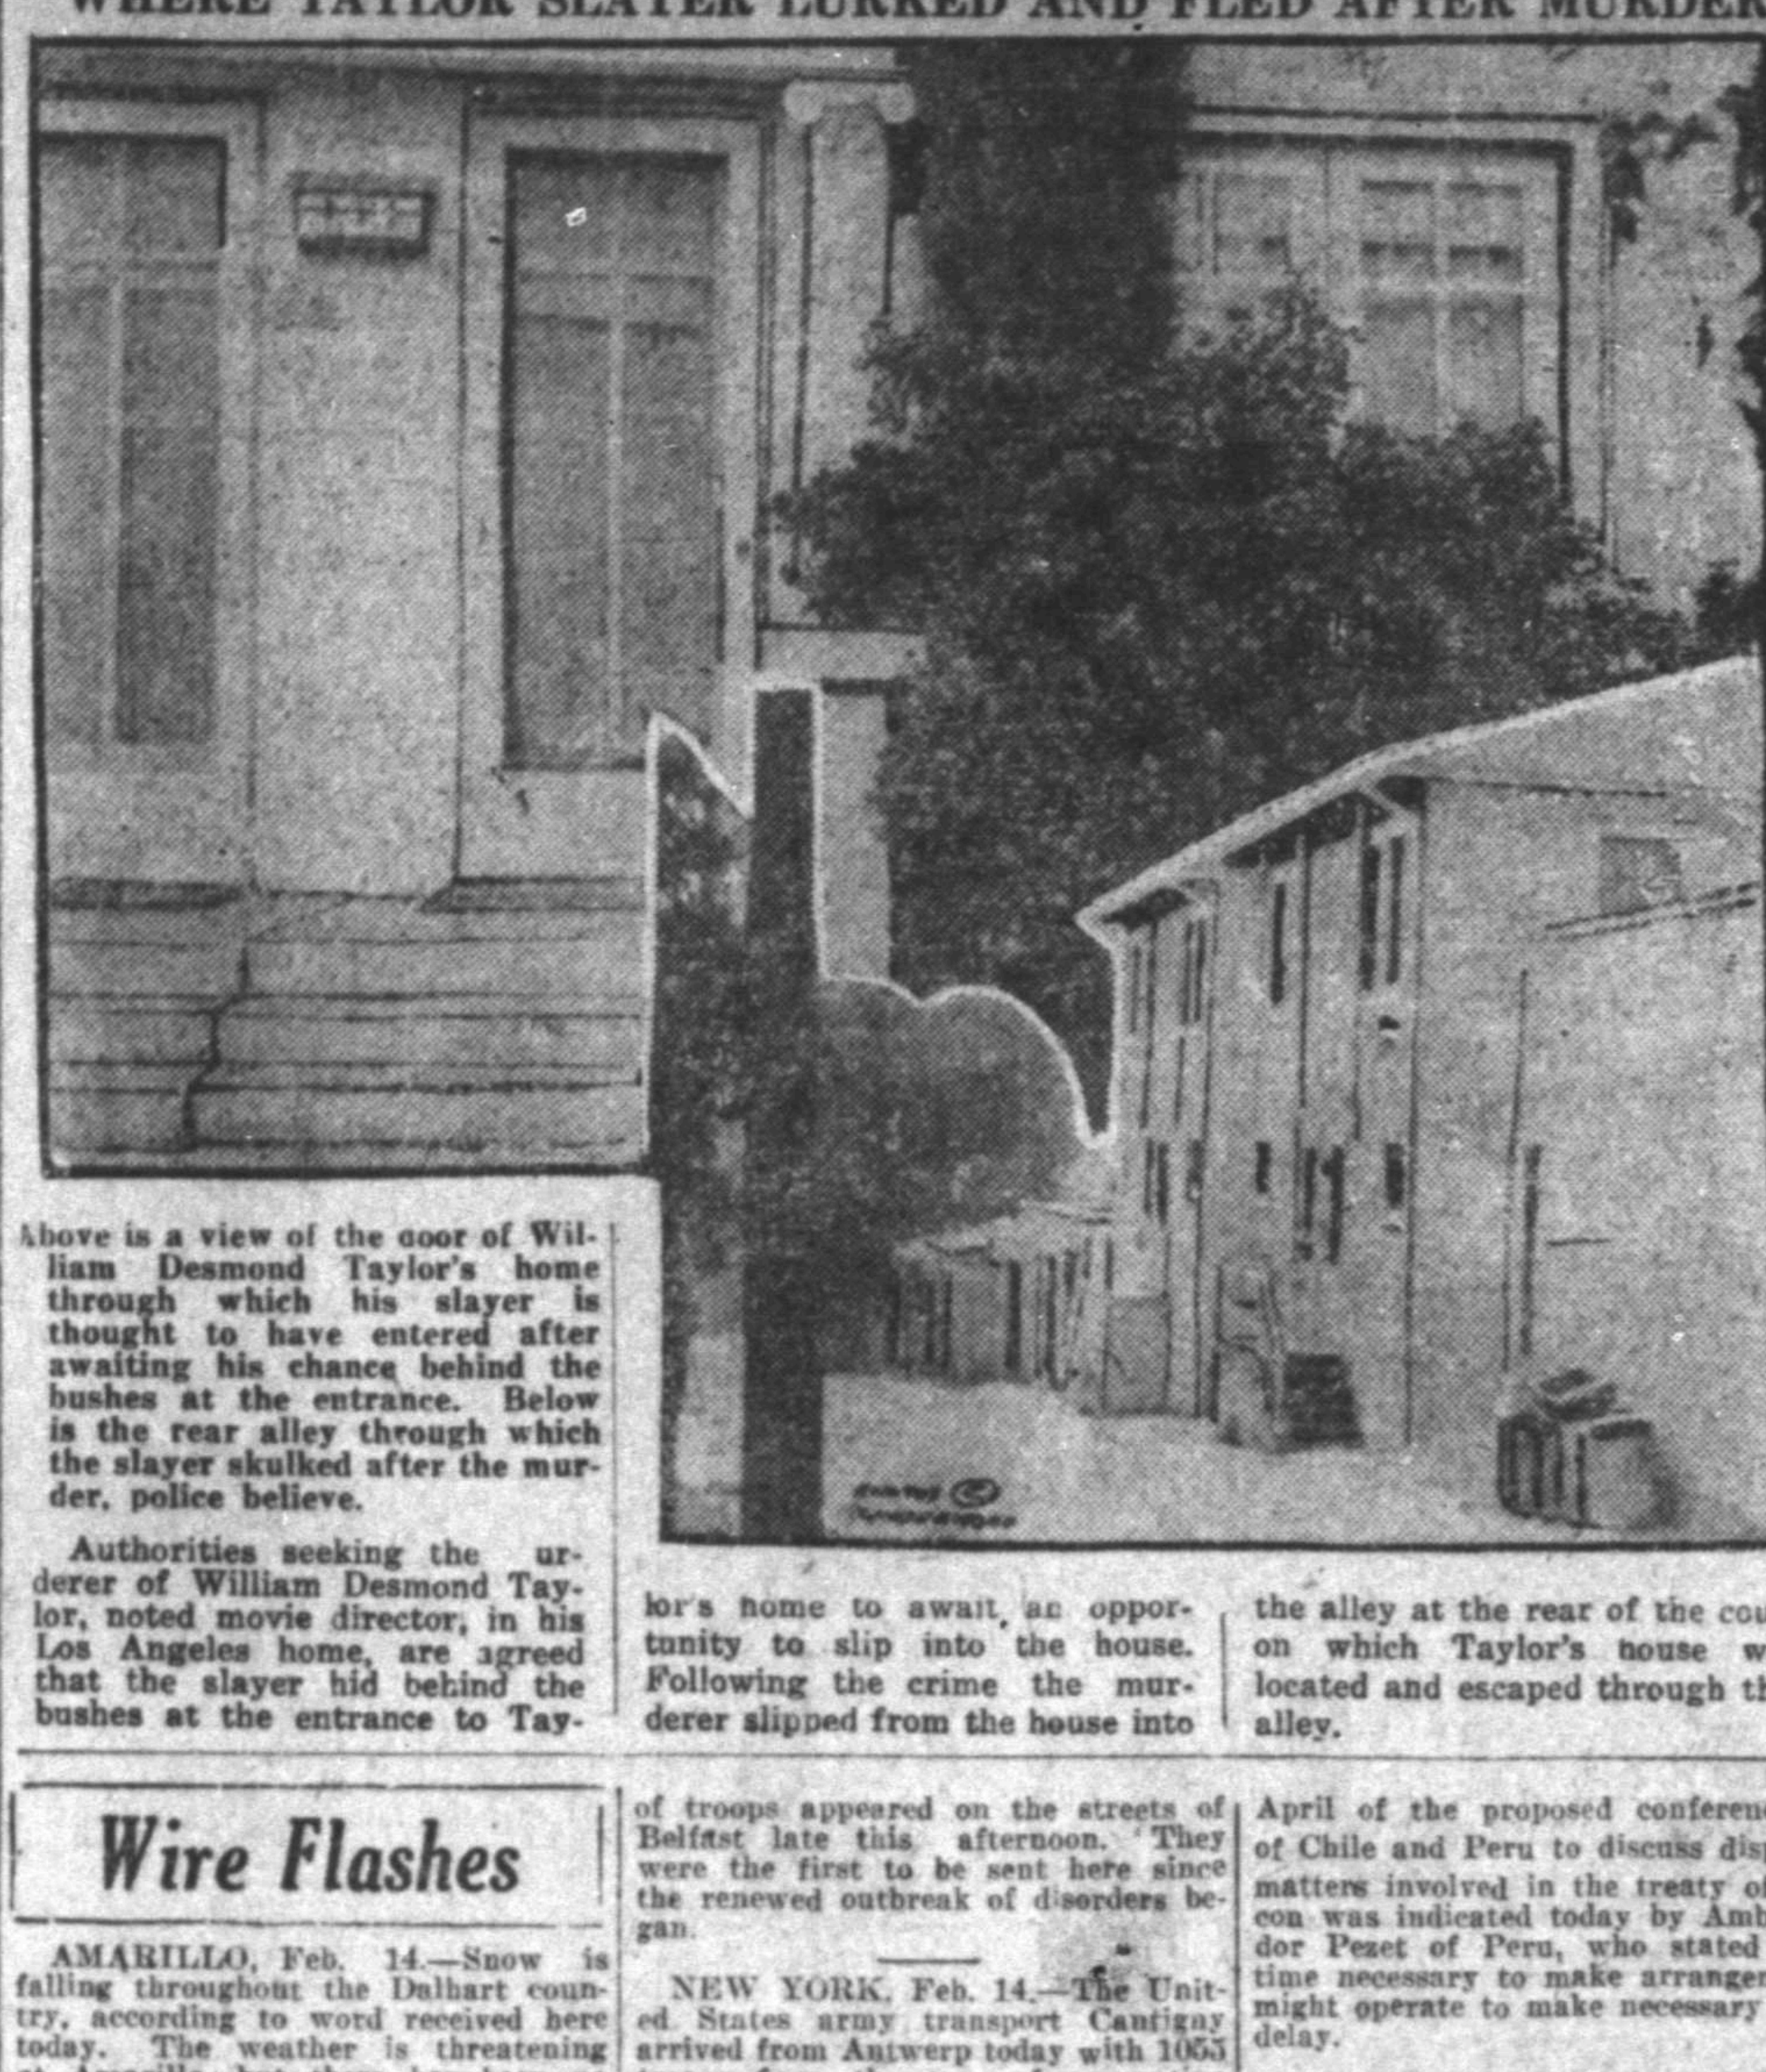

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Cottonseed oil was firm with a mixed commission house trade. The higher trend was more a reflection of the bullish showing in other markets than any betterment in trade demand. WHERE TAYLOR SLAYER LURKED AND FLED AFTER MURDER

Above is a view of the door of William Desmond Taylor's home through which his slayer is thought to have entered after awaiting his chance behind the bushes at the entrance. Below is the rear alley through which the slayer skulked after the murder, police believe.

Authorities seeking the murderer of William Desmond Taylor, noted movie director, in his Los Angeles home, are agreed that the slayer hid behind the bushes at the entrance to Taylor's home to await an opportunity to slip into the house. Following the crime the murderer slipped from the house into the alley at the rear of the court on which Taylor's house was located and escaped through this alley.

JUDGE WARNS COP TO BE POLITE TO AUTOISTS

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—"Ah, madame, it grieves me so to ask you to report at headquarters! But the law, it must be enforced; and you, madame, have released too much fuel with that exquisite foot of yours; your motor is traveling at a speed greater than that permitted by the laws of our fair city."

This may be the way Chicago traffic policemen will address violators of city traffic regulations hereafter. An order has been issued from the court wherein speeders and other violators of traffic laws are reprimanded and fined, instructing the policemen to "lay off the rough stuff" and treat violators "decently."

"Cursing by officers is a common complaint," declared Judge John R. Newcomer, who released Sylvester Brennan, who resisted arrest because the police used profane langauge.

"Arrests should be made decently and those arrested brought into court in a gentlemanly manner."

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The raw sugar market was quiet today and as no sales were reported, prices were nominal at two cents for Cubas cost and freight, equal to 3.61 for centrifugal with Porto Ricos at 3.54. The undertone, however, was firmer but buyers and sellers were apart with a moderate quantity of both old and new crop Cubas offered at 2 1-8 cents cost and freight while refiners did not appear willing to pay above 2 1-16c.

There was a moderate trade in raw sugar futures and prices were firmer owing to the strength in the spot market. At one time values showed gains of 5 to 8 points on covering and scattered buying by commission houses, although there was a partial setback near the close under realizing and selling net higher. March closed at 2.15 May, 2.35; July 2.53; September with final prices one to five points 2.65. There was only a moderate inquiry for refined sugar and prices were unchanged at 5.00 to 5.10 for fine granulated.

Refined futures were nominal and changed with March and May at without transactions, closing net un- 5.50; July 5.65.

MANY TESTIFY IN DEFENSE OF BUCK GARRETT

ARDMORE, Feb. 14.—The Western portion of Carter county produced the majority of witnesses today to testify for the defense in the trial of Buck Garrett, temporarily suspended sheriff, before Judge E. D. Oldfield, of district court here. The state seeks to remove Garrett from office for alleged misconduct. The defense has still a number of witnesses to call and it was indicated by attorneys that two or three days more will be required to complete its work. The state has rested its case.

The subject of law enforcement in Wirt, Rexroat, Wilson, Healdton and surrounding oil field districts occupied most of the day in court, each witness testifying as to his knowledge of conditions existing during the past year in those places.

During the afternoon Assistant Attorney General Fulton told the court that he was satisfied that the law had been enforced around Wirt during the past year. This statement was made during the testimony of a Wirt citizen.

OFFICERS ARREST MAN WHO POSES AS DEPUTY SHERIFF

Said to have been posing as a deputy sheriff under the deposed Sheriff Buck Garrett of Ardmorek, Okla., a man was arrested Tuesday afternoon by police officers. After lengthy questioning he was turned over to federal officers. A charge of wearing the insignia of the United States army, was filed against the man. He was wearing part of a soldier's uniform when arrested.

In communication with Ardmore Tuesday, Garrett said that the man had never held a commission under him. Mr. Garrett's successor said that he had given him a special commission through a misunderstanding and had been looking for him for several days to cancel it.

According to officers, they had some information which would indicate that the man was an escaped convict. He will be held pending further investigation.

START WORK ON STORAGE DAM IN FEW DAYS TIME

Irrigation Construction Getting Good Start; Will Use Foreign Cement on Job, Says Contractor.

Ground will be broken for the start of construction on the big storage dam for the irrigation project within the next day of two, according to information obtained Tuesday. The big steam shovel, which has been employed for the past two weeks in cutting a road from Mabeile to the dam site, has finished the road to the dam and has about two days more work on the far side of the river continuing the road from the proposed bridge and to the scene of work on the other side.

Following the completion of this it will immediately begin excavation at the dam site. A power drag line will also be put in service here within a few days trenching the embankment for the driving of sheet steel piling.

Erection of camps for the Callahan Construction company and the Davis Construction company at this place will be under way within a few days time, as will the building of a bridge across the river at this point.

At the diversion dam, where actual construction on the dam started Saturday, considerable progress on preliminary work is reported. The bridge constructed by McCabe Brothers, sub-contractors, which was held up for a time due to failure to receive stringers of the proper length, has been completed.

Considerable progress is reported on the trench across the 3,000 foot embankment which a drag line started excavating Saturday morning. McCabe Brothers have assembled equipment in readiness for the driving of the sheet piling, part of which is now en route.

Chas. Yandell, the only teaming contractor to date to start the canal work, has made his usual progress, according to reports from the dam, and now has about 3,000 feet of the south side canal, excluding stretches passed up for various reasons, about shaped up.

Foreign cement, probably English, will be used for the concrete work on the two dams and on the canal structures, according to information received from a contractor. This contractor, who declares that the price of American cement is artificially maintained by a "trust," says that the foreign cement makers are able to lay their product down in this country at a price below that charged for American cement which enables a material saving in the cost of structures. Cement work is expected to start within a few weeks.

KNICKERBOCKER FAMILY BILLED HERE TONIGHT

Mrs. H. W. Knickerbocker, mother of Rev. Hubert D. Knickerbocker, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, South, this city, is visiting her son. Tonight she will be present at the midweek services and take part in the program, which according to the announcement of Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker, is to be a "Knickerbocker Family Affair." Miss Alnada Knickerbocker, well known and talented expressionist, will give a reading. Miss Beryl Knickerbocker, pianist, will play an instrumental solo. Ronald Knickerbocker, amateur saxaphonist, will play a saxophone sole, accompanied by Miss Beryl Knickerbocker on the piano. H. D. Knickerbocker will deliver a lecture and Mrs. H. D. Knickerbocker will play the part of one of the patient audience. According to Dr. Knickerbocker, this is the whole family now at home except the dog and the chickens. The dog herself is so talented that she took a prominent part in a recent Sunday night service and it may be that a place will be found for her on the program. It is certain that chickens of the literal sort took part in the big affair that was held last night at this church where one hundred and fifty pounds of yellow-legged, Methodist variety of chicken were consumed. Whether the doctor's flock furnished any of these, deponent sayeth not.
