Fairy Land Of Beauty Revealed

TODAY'S PROGRAM

Home opened from 2 p. m. until 6 p. m.

Hostesses: Mesdames J. C. Thompson, Charles Watson and R. E. Strange.

By PEGGY PIEDMONT.

A FAIRYLAND of beauty lured a mass of humanity to Westmoreland addition Friday night when El Jardin de los Suenos—The Record News Garden of Dreams—first amazed, then delighted and finally left a record opening crowd limp with wonderment at the beauties of a home the like of which Wichita Falls has never seen.

It was a triumphant bow the garden made to some 8,000 or more Wichitans who flocked in from 7:30 until 11. Its exterior bathed by the deep hued blue floods of powerful electric lights and its interior a moving mass of lights and shadows, dotted with the flash of crystal chandeliers, El Jardin de los Suenos was a symphony of color. And it was more—it was a perfect patter of architecural beauty and interior finishing. It defied criticism, the crowd thought; and the same crowd was not backward in giving voice to its expressions of delight.

Beckoned on by the purple shades which tinted the outer walls, the visitors were taken through the main entrance, guarded by a stern grandee, through the bedrooms, on into the big living room and thence to the dining and breakfast rooms and kitchen. As they went they saw the deep, rich tones of lavish walls; the bright relief of tapestries and draperies; the sombre shades of heavy rugs.

THE home was distinguished in a unique manner from those surrounding it with blue lights that reflected over the entire front causing it to be noticeable for a long distance, while the garage was lighted with a red glow. When the door which opens out on the drive was thrown open the crowds came in droves and it was estimated by those in charge that more than 8,000 men, women and children visited the Garden of Dreams during the evening.

The spacious living room reflected an atmosphere of comfort as well as beauty with its luxurious furnishings and huge fireplace, while Wichita Falls women found thrills and more thrills as they inspected more closely the construction of handsome chairs, couches tables and other furnishings which combined to make the room one of perfection in every detail. While some were lond in admiration of a certain feature of the room, others were equally as expressive of another. All agreed that the home was one of unusual beauty.

The room probably bringing forth the most exclamations of admiration, however, was the luxurious guest room with private bath. Furnished in a handsome suite of green, the bed was covered with a spread of taffeta in colors of lavnder and green with the window draperies to harmonize. In the clothes closet was folded a handsom, silk comfort in lavendar and white pure lambs wool blanket in white with lavendar trimmings. The entire furnishings and draperies which were of richest materials, harmonizing to perfection.

"Wouldn't you like to be the guest in this house," was the remark made by almost every person who visited the room. A private bath finished in white title with built in tub and every comfort is another attractive feature of the room.

Another section of the house receiving much favorable comment was the cozy nook in the hall where in front of shelves filled with a well chosen library, was a seat covered with a red velvet cushion. The other two bedrooms on the south of the house were also exquisitely furnished with draperies to harmonize and received their share of admiration.

An elegant suite of period furniture in Spanish design was used in the dining room where the table was set in handsome china with glassware in colors to harmonize. The silver was also in the keeping with the Spanish house plan and furnishings, and was elegant in design.

THE kitchen which is always dear to the woman's heart, proved as attractive as any room in the house and every detail was thoroughly inspected, especially by the feminine guests. The cozy breakfast room was favorably commented upon with its dainty furnishings and draperies. A color scheme of red predominates in this room

Gates To Open On Biggest Of City's Shows

Executives of Fair Association Announce Everything in Readiness; Pageant of Progress to be Featured Tonight

Its exhibit halls packed with the wealth of an empire's harvest, the fifth annual Texas-Oklahoma fair — North Texas and Southern Oklahoma's mirrored story of a year of growth and prosperity—opens its gates to the public today.

Out at the fair grounds Friday night executives of the Texas-Oklahoma fair association announced themselves as ready for the influx of thousands this afternoon and evening. Weeks and months of preparation have had their effect, and the wide-spread reaches of the exposition grounds late yesterday were splashed with color, dotted with multitudinous and multifarious exhibits gathered from the four corners of the Empire of West Texas, packed with the beauty of Southern Oklahoma's bounteous crops and festooned with the trappings of fun and entertainment enterprises.

The fair this year, given an even break on weather, promises to outstrip from every standpoint any of the other four similar expositions staged in Wichita Falls. More time and more money has been spent; more exhibits of better quality are entered; amusement features of greater appeal are ready; educational advantages of greater diversification are provided—in fact, the whole thing has been arranged and is now to be staged on the most elaborate scale in the fair's history.

Opening Day a Big One.

Opening day, always one of the biggest from an attendance standpoint, promises to lure a record-breaking crowd to the fair grounds. An exceptionally appealing program has been made ready. The pageant of progress to be staged in front of the grandstand Saturday night promises to be a gorgeous spectacle, while the crowning of the queen of the Texas-Oklahoma fair will lend a touch of flashing beauty to what has come to be one of the outstanding social events of the season. The crowning of the queen has ever been a great event, and this year its greatness cannot be measured in description.

Gates at the fair grounds will be opened at 7 o'clock this morning, although the real crowd is not expected until later in the day. A band concert on the down town streets will ballyhoo the exposition at 10 o'clock, and at 11 the official opening will take place with the welcoming address to be given by W. B. Hamilton, president of the fair association. J. C. Mytinger, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will also speak.

Motorcycle races in front of the grandstand will feature the afternoon program, while the pageant of progress and crowning of the queen will come in the evening. The Wortham carnival company will have its attractions going all day, while the automobile show and the various exhibition halls, of course, wil lalso be open.

Pageant a Feature.

The stellar attraction of the entire fair program is scheduled tonight when the Pageant of Progress will be staged in the arena in front of the grand stand. The huge spectacle will open promptly at 8 o'clock, and everybody is asked to be in their seats promptly at that hour. The spectacle is a historic series of episodes dealing with the progress of the city of Wichita Falls and every detail should be seen to understand the play.

Hal Worth, who is staging the event, held a final rehearsal last night in which hundreds of children and dozens of grown people went through their parts faultlessly.

There are seven complete episodes, similar in arrangements to acts at a theatre, and each is a story within itself. The entire plan and the gorgeous costumes and settings will make it one of the finest exhibits of pageantry ever staged here.

The entire property and equipment of the Wortham shows arrived in the city Friday night and pitched tents preparatory to opening at the grounds today. The manager stated he is bringing the most complete show ever assembled by his organization and will have everything in readiness for the opening.

The Wichita Falls Tractor company started a regular 15-minute service to the fair ground Friday and will continue this service for the convenience of fair visitors throughout the entire five days.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Oct. 1. (AP)—Clemency Binning, who killed his brother-in-law, William Easley, in a street gun battle here last March, was acquitted of murder charges today in district court here on an instructed verdict.

What The Leaders Of The T-O Fair Say As It Opens

W. B. Hamilton, President.

"People who come to the Texas-Oklahoma Fair this year will be well pleased, W. B. Hamilton, president of the fair association, stated last night as he completed general plans for the big opening day. "We have everything in readiness; the exhibits are practically all in; the entertainment features are the finest ever, and with reasonably fair weather, we ought to register the greatest opening crowd in history. We feel sure of making the fair a financial success this year."

R. E. Shepherd, Manager.

"I am still giving authority for entries in some of the exhibits departments," Manager R. E. Shepherd stated last night, "and it looks like there is no end to the wonderful displays we are going to have this year. Everything is ready for the big opening, and we are staging a rehearsal now for the pageant of progress which opens here Saturday night. I hope everybody will see this spectacle, for it is the biggest attraction we have to offer.

Mr. Shepherd paused only long enough to give a little information and then continued his directing of the late arrivals of exhibits and listening to the hundreds of requests for the many items needed by exhibitors and concession holders.

"I have talked to the manager of the Wortham shows, who just came in this evening," Mr. Shepherd said, "and he complimented the fair association very highly on the wonderful decorations and well arranged exhibit halls. I believe we are showing the best line of entertainment as well as the best array of exhibits ever shown at a fair in Texas."

W. M. Moore, Past President.

"The educational feature of a fair such as the Texas-Oklahoma fair is the biggest thing to be considered," W. M. Moore, former president of the fair association, stated yesterday as he commented on the outlook for the present showing. "I have always looked upon it as an educational medium second only to our public schools," Mr. Moore added, "and the excellent exhibits listed for the fair this year ought to make it the greatest event of its kind ever staged in northwest Texas."

DISCORD IN FLORIDA

Payne Asserts Officials Seek to Minimize Losses.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. (AP) Whispering of discord which has accompanied the effort to raise a $5,000,000 relief fund for Florida storm sufferers culminated today in a flat charge by John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, that Florida officials and real estate men had "practically destroyed" the campaign by repeated attempts to belittle reports of damage and suffering.

Despite these efforts, which were attributed to Gov. John W. Martin, Mayor E. C. Romfh of Miami, and others, Chairman Payne said he felt duty bound to carry on the drive for funds and appealed to the country to continue to help. A little more than $3,000,000 has been collected.

Railway Cordiality Of Southwest Shattered By Loree Ideas, Duff Says

Texas Rail Operator Draws Admission From Whitehead of Katy's Withdrawal of Power When K. C. S. Acquired Its Control

DALLAS, Oct. 1, (AP) — The shifting fortunes of the battle for southwestern transportation supremacy and the struggle of some small lines in the face of huge railroad combinations was shown in the hearing here today on the plan to consolidate the Missouri-Kansas Texas, the Kansas City Southern and the Cotton Belt railroads.

With President C. N. Whitehead of the Katy on the stand, Col. R. C. Duff, president of the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Sabine road attempted to show through cross-questioning how a powerful railroad friend had been turned into a potential enemy by the consolidation plan.

He drew from President Whitehead the admission that the Katy had been very sympathetic to the Duff line, which is a southeast Texas line of 139 miles. He showed that this friendship had been expressed in many kindly acts, such as the transfer of six coal burning locomotives to the W. B. T. and S. and their conversion into oil burners without cost; that the Katy had backed Col. Duff's project to build an extension into Port Arthur; that the Katy, acting in the role of big brother, had supplied engineering date for the extension which cost $27,000 to comjile, and that President Whitehead and Col. Duff, as executive heads of the two roads, had worked in the closest personal harmony.

K. C. S. Breaks It Up

President Whitehead under questioning by Col. Duff, said that attitude had continued until March 1926, or until the Kansas City Southern became a stockholder in the Katy and plans for consolidation were anounced. The Kansas City-Southern is strongly opposed to the W. B. T. and S. extending south of Beaumont, Texas.

With the joint stock control plan proposed, the friendship of the SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 1. (AP) With flames raging in her hold and her deck plates buckling from the intense heat the American freighter New Britain tonight was racing for port at Charleston, S. C., with the coast guard cutter Seneca standing by. She expected to reach there at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning. At 8 p. m., the naval radio station here received a message from the burning vessel saying she was 100 miles from Charleston. Nothing was said of the progress of the flames at that hour, but in response to queries her wireless operator declared none was "badly injured." The cause of the fire, he added, had not been determined.

Despite the fact that the steamer earlier in the afternoon had released all vessels bound to her aid except the coast guard cutter, the Atlantic towing company late today dispatched a fire fighting tug to overhaul her and render all assistance possible.

Passes Pollard Resolution Authorizing Inquiry Of University

AUSTIN, Oct. 1. (AP)—Authorization of an investigation of the University of Texas, passage of a resolution authorizing a recodification of the erroneous criminal and civil statutes of 1925, and refusal to reconsider the Murphy resolution for an investigation into campaign expenses, constituted the major portion of the senate's business Friday before it adjourned until Monday. However, 80 house bills were finally passed, most of them being validation bills affecting road districts.

Without debat ethe senate passed the concurrent resolution by Senator Thomas Pollard of Tyler, ordering an inquiry by a committee of five, three members of the house and two of the senate, into the rules of the University of Texas fees paid by students, discharge of students in connection with the Brackenridge hall litigation and fees paid attorneys by the board of regents. COURT HEARS OF VISITS TO WOMAN'S ROOM

Clerks Identify Her As Frequent Guest With Ex-Radio Expert

HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 1 (AP) That Kenneth G. Ormiston, radio operator at Angelus Temple visited Aimee Semple McPherson at a room in Los Angeles hotel on two occasions just prior to the evangelist's visit to the Holy Land was the sensational testimony given in the hearing of Mrs. McPherson here today.

The testimony was given by Miss Agnes Callahan, chambermaid at hotel. She declared the evangelist had come to the hotel on at least six occasions during the summer and fall of 1925. She saw a man whom she positively identified by a photograph as Ormiston on at least six times on the same floor of the hotel. On two occasions, she said she saw the man enter the room where the evangelist was.

She said the man had a decided limp.

The testimony was given only after a bitter fight by W. I. Gilbert, chief of defense counsel, to prevent it.

Aimee Blushes.

Mrs. McPherson seemed scarcely breathing as she sat loking straight at the witness. A glow of color had mounted to her cheek.

Gilbert took each of Ormiston's six visits separately and asked Miss Callahan if she recalled any other person on that floor of the hotel on each particular day. She said she did not.

Albert L. Denman, assistant manager of the Ambassador hotel testified he had seen Mrs. McPherson at the hotel many times and that she had a preference for room 320. He was shown a photograph of Kenneth G. Ormiston—said it resembled very much a man he had seen on the third floor of the hotel during Christmas week last year.

The man had a decided limp Denman said. He visited Mrs. McPherson's room on one occasion during the week, about 11 in the morning. Denman answered numerous questions about his observations of rooms other than Mrs. McPherson's. When Gilbert asked if Mrs. McPherson did not come in the front door and sign her name "Aimee Semple McPherson," Denman asserted "yes at 12 o'clock at night."

Left In Afternoon.

On redirect examination Denman then said Mrs. McPherson checked out generally about 4 or 5 the next afternoon.

Denman was then excused.

Then began the reading of the transcript of Mrs. Kennedy's testimony before the late grand jury. The little group of spectators settled back in their seats fairly gasping with excitement.

The mother answered several questions regarding the financial condition of Angelus temple which she said was "good." She said that Mrs. McPherson was apparently in good health just prior to her disappearance and never had any mental trouble.

She said she knew Ormistead, who telephoned her shortly after the evangelist failed to return from the beach May 18.

READ THIS FIRST:

MERRY LOCKE, pretty and gay as her name, is the kind of girl who has no ambition beyond having a good time and plenty of beaux. At 20 she falls in her business course because she won't study. To the disappointment of MOMS, her ambitious mother, she takes a job in LILLIE DALE'S beauty shop at a tiny wage.

At that time she is having the first real love affair of her life. The man is TONY GAINES, a young lawyer, who wants to marry her. Their engagement ends when Merry confesses to Tony that she lets other men make love to her. Later a letter comes from him but it is lost around the house before Merry has a chance to read it. Then she hears that Tony has gone to Montana to live.

Her sister, CASSIE, marries her rich employer, MORLEY KAUFMAN, but is not happy with him, despite her soft, easy life. Through Cassie, Merry meets Bill Erskine. She becomes engaged to him. But when Merry gets herself tangled up in the divorce case of LES PURCELL and his wife, Bill drops her and marries another girl.

MOMS marries one of her boarders, a MR. HEFFLINGER. Then JINNY, the youngest sister, elopes with DERRICK JONES — and home no longer seems like home to Merry. She hears that Tony Gaines is going to marry a girl in Montana, and tries not to care. After a long succession of suitors, she drifts into an understanding with GEORGE LEET.

One spring, while she and Moms are house-cleaning, she unearths Tony's long-lost love letter. Cassie carelessly admits that she hid it, to break up the affair between Merry and Tony, because she wanted Merry to marry Bill Erskine. That night Merry tells George Leet she'll never marry anybody. When Merry tells her she ruined her life by hiding the letter, Cassie says, "Nonsense!"

Tony steps into the limelight of fame as a criminal lawyer, during a celebrated murder trial. Realizing that while he has made a name for himself, she has been at a stand-still, Merry leaves the beauty shop and decides to go on with her business course. Les Purcell offers her a job as model in a clothing factory, but she refuses it. The day Tony wins his case, his mother dies, and Merry makes up her mind to go to the funeral in the hope of seeing him again.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER LXIII.

The day was as hot and sultry as the far-away day when Merry had brought Tony's engagement ring back to his mother.

The gardens around the house were just as peaceful and beautiful as they had been that day. The same kind of emerald grass and brilliant flowers. The same hot, sunshiny, dusty smell.

Within the house itself, seemed unchanged in spite of the flowers and the crowd of people and the hushed silence.

Merry and Moms found two chairs against the wall of the wide hall. They had barely seated themselves when the girl saw the person she had come to see—longed to see—and was afraid to see.

A man was coming down the broad stairs, and with a feeling of dizzy shock, Merry saw that it was Tony Gaines, himself!

As if her longing for him drew his eyes, they fell on her face. She could feel his gaze on her for a long moment. She tried to look away, but could not. Then he turned and went up the stairs again.

The whole thing happened so quickly that it was like a dream that we almost remember for an instant, and then forget completely. But it left her shaking and tremulous.

She laid her hand on Mom's arm and got up. "I'm faint," she whispered and started toward the door that led to the porch. Moms rose to follow her, but she waved her back.

She was still shaky and faint when she got out into the open air. A solid lump was in her throat, and she could feel her heart thumping in her breast.

"What a fool I am to be so upset," she said to herself, walking along under the dusty trees of midsummer. "What a fool I was to go to the house at all. I didn't know that seeing him would—hurt like this."

But she knew that nothing could have kept her away from that house that day. Nothing!

She walked all the way home, but afterward she could not remember one step of the journey. Her mind was busy with her thoughts of Tony Gaines.

She thought of his face—of the surprised, almost angry look that blotted the lines of pain from it when his eyes met hers there in the hallway.

He had been haggard with his look of suffering. But that was natural, of course, Merry told herself, at such a time as this.

"Did you see his wife?" she asked Moms when she came home late in the afternoon.

"I may have, but I didn't know it was she, if I did. There were so many women there," Moms answered. "And I saw Jennie Luetkemyer and Daisy Middleton. I didn't know they were friends of the Gaines family—" She launched into a flood of gossip about these old cronies of hers.

"Jinny says that Tony Gaines will sell the house," she said presently, and Merry pricked up her ears. "He'll never live here in this town again."

Her voice went on and on and on, dolefully droning, as she started to get supper.

Cassie drifted into the kitchen, looking the very picture of misery, and dropped down into a chair.

Jinny and the twins were having supper with the Jones family, and the house seemed very gloomy and dismal.

Moms talked about the funeral all during supper, and now and then Cassie dre wa long sighing breath that was almost a groan. The deepening twilight hung over the room like a shroud.

"Jiminy Christmas, I can't stand this!" Merry cried, suddenly spring up from the table. "I've got to get out somewhere, or I'll just die!"

Flinging her arms wide in a movement of utter despair, she dashed out into the hall to the telephone.

She gave the number of the Towers hotel. She would call Les Purcell and ask him to take her out somewhere! She would be a jolly good fellow—a good little pal—the kind of girl that men forget!

What did she care? What else was there for her, anyway? Nothing! Nothing at all, but this gloomy house and a dull job!

Tony Gaines had his wife and his career. He was gone out of her life, for good, and she'd have her fun! All she could have! All of it that was coming to her! Why not? Why not? Who cared what she did?

Hello, Les," Moms heards her say into the telephone. "I want to talk to you again about that job up in Canada. Yes, tonight. All right, in half an hour or so, old-timer."

She peeped in at the dining room door an instant later. Her lips were widened in the ready-made chorus-girl smile that had become second nature to her. But the eyes above that smile were without sparkle or light.

"I'm going out with Les Purcell," she said stonily. "He's coming for me in a cab. Let me know when he gets here, will you?"

Upstairs, in the little gabled room under the roof she snapped on the lights above her dresser—and then stood stock still, with one hand pressed to her throat.

There, on the dresser, beneath her eyes, lay Tony Gaines' picture. It lay on the very top of a mass of newspaper clippings about him. Beside them, the overturned handkerchief box showed that Jinny's twins had been at work here. They were, as Moms said, the liveliest pair for their age that she had ever seen. They were into everything.

For a minute Merry stood looking at the pictured face of the man she had seen that day. Then, with a toss of her head, she crumpled it between her fingers and tossed it back into the old satin box.

She took a pink muslin dress and a big pink hat from her clothes closet and laid them on the bed. She puckered her red mouth up into a whistle, but no sound came from it.

The mirrors gave back a flattering reflection of her lovely face as she leaned toward it to fluff powder on the soft smooth skin.

But Merry did not see her own face as she stared into the glass. She was still seeing Tony Gaines' face. She couldn't get it out of her mind, try as she might.

Why had he looked at her in that startled, angry way that afternoon? What did he think of her, going to his house, as she had gone? He probably thought her forward and brazen.

She was still wondering when Moms' voice, outside her door, brought her back to the present moment.

"Mr. Purcell's come," it said. "He's waiting for you in the taxi-cab."

Merry glanced out into the darkness. All she could see of the cab was its lights gleaming against the night, like the eyes of some jungle animal.

"I'll be right down," she called, and drew a lipstick across the Cupid's bow of her lips.

She reddened her cheeks, and drew a black line under the shadow of her lower lashes. When she had put on the pink dress and the huge pink hat, she looked just the way Tony Gaines told her he hated to see her look — painted and over-dressed.

Les would tell her she was a knock-out, though, when he saw her.

"So what do I care?" Merry asked aloud, as she added one more dab of paint to her lips, and another touch of perfume to the little triangle of snowy skin behind her ears.

Out of doors, the darkness was thick and soft. A little wind was whispering to itself. And as Merry ran down to the front gate, it brushed a low-hanging branch of the old willow tree against her face.

With her hand on the top of the gate, she stood still for a minute. Stood perfectly still, remembering another night as warm and blue-black as this, when she had stood there under the old swaying tree. The night when Tony Gaines had brought her home from the circus, and kissed her—kissed her.

A wave of loneliness and longing so strong that it was like actual bodily pain swept over her, and she shut her eyes as people do who are in great agony.

"Coming, Bright Eyes?" Les Purcell's voice came through the darkness. Loud and coarse it was.

TEXAS DRILLS MORE ACTIVE

Operations Increase South Of Red River, Oklahoma Wells Increase

An increase in Texas operations failed to offset the decline in Oklahoma activity, and the Mid-Continent total oil operations as a result fell to 2,938 active operations, according to the current issue of The Oil Weekly, out today. The decline in the Mid-Continent operations was due nearly entirely to fewer completions. There being only 240 completions compared with 305 for the preceding week, while an increase in shut down wells from 578 to 628 for the 7-day period was noted.

The total Mid-Continent operations were made up of 149 new locations, 146 new rigs, 2,210 drilling wells, 628 shut down wells and 240 completions. Texas led with 1,923 operations, compared with Oklahoma's 1,530 and Kansas with 455. Following is the table of operations as compiled by The Oil Weekly:

Water Famine May Curb Drilling In New Texas Field

Reports from Abilene are to the effect that a water famine has temporarily stopped drilling on the Midwest and Phillips offsets to the Winter discovery well in southwest Jones county. Water wells are being drilled in the field and in event water is not obtained in this manner, hauling will be resorted to, the report says.

Trading has slowed down considerably due to the high prices. Most of the play at present is east and northeast of the producer with some going on to the northwest.

The Hurley's test on the Sears land, northwest of Sweetwater in Nolan county, is the only test drilling at present due to the water shortage.

Auction Brings Wealth To Osages

PAWHUSKA, Okla., Oct. 1.—The elements and a deep seated belief that other major fields are yet to be discovered in Osage county, worked hand in hand Thursday to make the 27th consecutive Osage Indian oil lease auction a success.

While no record breaking sums in bonuses were paid by Mid-Continent oil men for the privilege of developing the tracts of land that they bought, the total of the 97 tracts sold being $2,016,500, of which $1,901,400 was for 35 parcels west of range 8, and $115,100 for the 43 on the east side, or east of range 7.

Small as the grand total was in comparison with past auction sales of Osage Indian leases, it, together with past bonuses, rentals and royalties have given the 2,229 enrolled Osages, more than $350,000,000 since oil and gas was first discovered on the reservation. To June 30, this year, the Indians income was more than $320,000,000.

YELLET, Wyo., Oct. 1.—Ty Cobb and Tr. Sneaker would rather hunt elk than see Hornsby and Ruth in action, but nevertheless they are taking a radio into the wilds with them.

News of The Fields

HEREFOFRD-ALLING

Brownlee and Dyson (Hereford Oil company) No. 4-B, Allingham, section 32, H. & T. C. survey, two miles southwest of Electra, has been completed this week from new sand found at 1,380 feet. The well is making 40 barrels a day.

R. R.-TORREY

The Gulf Production company No. 63, Miller, in section 2, , F. Torrey survey, three miles northeast of Electra is cleaning the hole and swabbing the sand found below 1,900 feet. This well offsets Bywaters No. 30 on the west. The Gulf Production company No. 19, Grace Jennings, in proven field southeast of Electra failed to get production from the 1,600-foot sand at that area. Drilling deeper to 1,800 feet.

PANHANDLE-GRIFFIN

The Panhandle Oil and Refining company No. 2, H. Griffin estate in block 6, Spillers survey, north of Wichita river, sixteen miles south of Electra, is drilling below 1,400 feet.

TEXAS-HINES

The Texas company No. 1, Thom, being drilled by Hines et al of Wichita Falls in the Spillers survey, across the line in Archer county in the same area as the Panhandle and Gulf wells near Wichita Falls will be watched with interest. They have drilled below 1,000 feet.

TEXHOMA, MONTAGUE

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company No. A-5 Bouldin in the Nocona field of Montague county is swabbing at the rate of 350 barrels per day from the sand at 1,050 to 1,062 feet.

BURNS ET AL, TURB

L. T. Burns and the Simms Oil company No. 1 Turbeville in block 142 of the Carson survey of Archer county is swabbing approximately 100 barrels daily from the sand topped at 1,498 feet and penetrated to 1,503 feet. This well extends the American Refining company pool approximately a quarter of a mile eastward.

LYNCH ET AL, COOKE

Lynch, Stahl and Burrell are "alleged" to have hit an oil sand at 842 feet on their No. 2 Dangelmayer north of Muenster in Cooke county and 600 feet northwest of the new producer. A core taken at 822 feet was shale. This test will determine to an extent the boundary of the new pool and is being closely watched.

AMERICAN, TURB

The American Refining company No. 1-B Turbeville in block 150 of the R. Carton survey, Archer county, is looking for the sand at 1,480 feet and drilling. Turbeville No. 6 is drilling at 930 feet.

SHAW ET AL, ROGERS

Shaw and Rathke have completed as a small well their No. 4 Rogers in section 491 of the T. E. & L. survey of south Archer county.

WEST TEXAS

Two new wells are reported in the Crene-Upton area of west Texas. Roxana Petroleum corporation's No. 3 Della Bowen, in section 6, Upton county, topped the sand at 3,075 feet, and penetrated but two feet well is flowing 35 barrels per hour. This well is the farthest test in the Crane-Upton field.

The other ne wwell is in Upton county, being Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 2 University, in the southwest corner of the southeast of the southeast of section 34, block 30. This well made 185 barrels the first 24 hours after a shot of 120 quarts, and is now making 160 barrels daily. It is producing from the sand topped at 2,992 feet, and drilled to a total depth of 3,028 feet.

LANIER, HYMAN

In the T. J. Moss survey of Cooke county and on the Hyman land in the Bulcher field, C. C. Lanier has two new producers and another well on the sand to be drilled in soon. His No. 3 Hyman is making 75 barrels daily from the sand at 1,163 to 1,212 feet. No. 5 is estimated at approximately a 50-barrel well from a total depth of 1,224 feet, the sand being topped at 1,155 1-2 feet. Casing is set and cemented on No. 4 on the sand at 1,182 to 1,212 feet. Location has been made for No. 6, 150 feet from the north line and 200 feet from the west line of the lease. No. 7 is to be drilled 150 feet from the north line and 300 feet from the west line.

RIDGEWAY, FOSTER

G. R. Ridgeway is testing a good looking sand at 1,950 feet on his No. 1 Foster and Allen test one mile north of Sunshine Hill and in block 1, S. A. & M. G. survey, abstract 273, in northwest Wichita county.

TIDAL, TURB

Te Tidal Oil company has made location for well No. 2 on the Turbeville land to offset to the south the Texas company's No. 10 in block 172 of the Robert Carson survey of Archer county.

CARTER ET AL GRAHAM

Boy I. Carter and the Roberts Oil company have completed their No. 5 Graham in the T. E. & L. survey, north Young county, as a 50-barrel well from the usual pay level.

AMERICAN HAS PAY PROSPECTS

Three Wells Near Empire's Record Nearing Pay Dirt In Panhandle

The outlook just now of the American Refining company's operations in the Panhandle field is decidedly bright.

A quarter of a mile east of the Empire Gas and Fuel company's new mammoth well which is flowing natural more than 8,000 barrels of oil daily, the American's No. 1 Deal is running pipe at 2,952 feet, while No. 2 and 3 are nearing the producing horizon at ,835 and 2,-820 feet, respectively. These wells are in the northwest quarter of section 19, block Y, M. & C. survey in Hutchinson county.

Offsetting the Marland's and Gulf's new producers in Carson county, which are making about 400 barrels, the American's No. 8 Burnett is drilling at 2,800 feet and No. 10, same county, has set 6 5-8 at 2,974 feet and is feeling for the pay.

Empire's New Well Approaches Record For The Panhandle

Increasing its production to 8,000 barrels daily, makes Empire Gas and Fuel company's No. 5 Weatherly, in section 19, block Y, Panhandle field of Hutchinson county, one of the field's most interesting. It came in making around 1,400 barrels daily, when an increase of 4,500 barrels was noted, or a total daily output of 5,925 barrels, then jumping to the 8,000 barrel mark.

When the Santa Fe railroad opens its branch line from Amarillo to Borger, Texas, Friday morning, the residents of Borger and surrounding country will hold a big celebration, in honor of this event, which represents a "dream come true."

MARINE BOSS DIES IN SEA

Col. Williams Drowned When Auto Plunges Over Sea Wall

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1. (AP) Colonel Alexander S. Williams, in charge of recruiting for the marine corps in the western district and who figured as the defendant in the famous 'cocktail" court martial at San Diego last April, was drowned here early today when a large closed car he was driving plunged into San Francisco bay.

Colonel Williams' body was taken to the morgue, where it was identified by Mrs. Williams. She said the marine officer left home about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon saying he was going out to some friends for dinner. She said he telephoned her about 9 o'clock last night he was having a wonderful time. Mrs. Williams says she does not know where her husband went or with whom he spent the evening. She said, however, that it was his custom when out driving to go around the Embarcadero (water front).

The car was seen to plunge into the bay by Frank Moore, a steward aboard the steamer Admiral Peary and Joe McFarland, a watchman at Pier 42. The car seemed to swerve from the street, they said, and plunge across the wharf into the water. The depth was 30 feet. Police were called and after considerable effort the automobile was pulled up with grappling hooks.

Aimee's Disciple Turns Accuser In Court Room

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.(AP)—A follower of Aimee Semple McPherson, Thomas Scott Melville, doorman at the Clark hotel in Los Angeles, dropped a bomb into defense ranks at the evangelist's hearing today, but he dropped it with an apology.

Melville withstood a terrific grilling by defense counsel Gilbert and emerged with his testimony unshaken that he had seen the Angelus Temple pastor at the Clark hotel about 10 o'clock in the morning of May 18, last, or about five hours before she disappeared at the Santa Monica beach.

The hotel doorkeeper, a member of the woman leader's temple flock, had previously said that he hoped his statement would not do his pastor any harm.

The significance of his evidence lay in previous declarations that Mrs. McPherson had not gone down town prior to her trip to the beach when she disappeared.

Yesterday Walter B. Lambert swore that he, too, had seen her at the Clark hotel on the morning of May 18 and that at about the same time he had seen her missing radio operator, Kenneth G. Ormiston, at the same place.

Brotherhood Will Be Formed By Class In Childress Church

CHILDRESS, Oct. 1.—As soon as the Methodist District conference is over, which will be held here early in November, Rev. W. M. Merrell and some of the leading laymen of the First Methodist church, plan the organization of a Wesley Brotherhood from the personnel of the men members of the church. The organization would follow the lines of service clubs and tend to promote greater fellowship and greater interest in church activities. The building has a large, well-equipped dining hall in the basement that could be used for the meetings. It is planned to have the Woman's Missionary Society serve the menus at the luncheons.

Pick Bad Place For Motor Failure

NORFOLK, Oct. 1. (AP)—Engine trouble in an airplane hundreds of miles inland above the head-hunting tribes in the jungles of Columbia was among the experiences encountered by naval personnel engaged this summer in obtaining data for United States hydrographic service charts, it was learned today from nine members of the group who returned aboard the U. S. S. Vega.

Hasty work by a mechanic kept nine of the engine's 12 cylinders firing until the pilot was able to return to the base with his two passengers. Two months previous to their experience, said Lieutenant L. A. Pope, aerial photographer in charge of the group, two American engineers had been lost in this unexplored territory and were believed to have been captured by the head hunters. Two years ago, he added, a party of eight had been captured and the heads of four of these, shrunken and "cured," were found and returned to the remainder of the expedition.

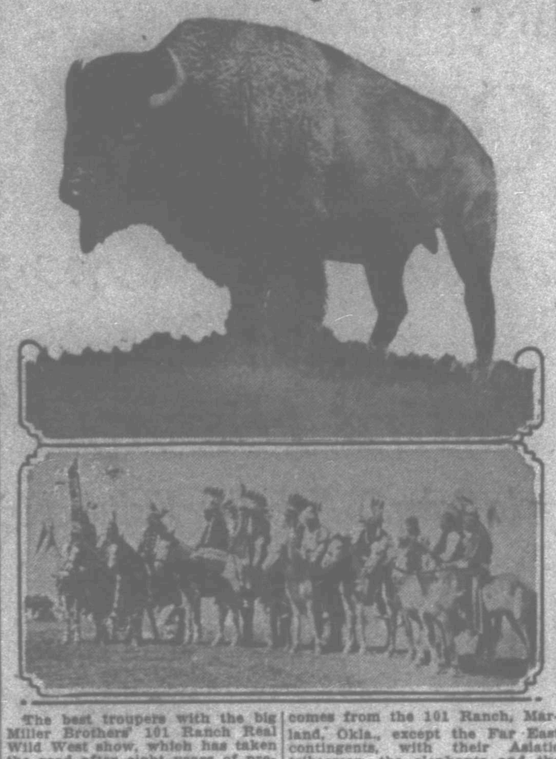

School Work In Childress Progresses

CHILDRESS, Oct. 1. — School work is progressing rapidly and smoothly, said Superintendent R. A. Burgess. Everything is moving along here like school had been under way for three or four months according to the words of Principal W. C. Davis. There are 1400 enrolled in the city schools and 380 in the high school. The school building have been like islands in the sea for the past week, the sea being constituted of mud. The city has built a new high school building costing considerable more than $100,000 and it stands in such location that, minus the sidewalks leading to it, the children must wade through the mud to get back and forth to it. The east side building is in much the same shape as to the condition of the school grounds.

BANDIT SLAIN

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1. (AP)—Three men held up and robbed the paymaster of the Henry Sonneborn company, clothing manufacturers, of $47,000 cash and fled in an automobile bearing Ohio license No. 996,210, Easter police found the car at Fremont and George streets with a dead man inside. There was no trace of the gunmen.

Buffalo Happy On 101 Ranch; Real Wild West and Far East Meet In Big Show Next Week

The best troupers with the big Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch Real Wild West show, which has taken the road after eight years of preparation, are the buffalo. One of herds numbering 2,700 bison Col. J. C. Miller selected the most magnificent specimens, and these animals grow fatter and happier each day. They love to move, and they love to ride the show trains.

The Indians with the big show, and fully three hundred of them will be seen in the world's largest street parade, when 101 comes to Wichita Falls, Friday, October 8.

"Buffalo like big town. Him like show."

Everything with the big troupe comes from the 101 Ranch, Marland, Okla., except the Far East contingents, with their Asiatic tribesmen, the elephants and the camels, and the big Russian Cossack circus from the London Olympia, the largest and most dazzling feature ever imported by an American amusement enterprise, and it is headed by the imperial Cossack band of 50 pieces. There are 3,000 Indians on the ranch, and the most picturesque of them are with the show. However, Miller Brothers assembled the chiefs and noted warriors of every tribe in North America to join the ranch aborigines in making real the wild west offerings and pageantry.

Beef Loaf.

Ten pounds of chopped beef, salt and pepper to taste; one cup cracker crumbs, two eggs and milk to moisten, place in center of roaster and slice one onion, about four tomatoes and one pepper around it. Pour over it one cup of water.

Baked Corn.

Cut corn from one dozen ears, mix with it two tablespoons flour, two eggs, salt and pepper and one quart milk. Turn in a well buttered dish and bake about two hours. For the rolls make break dough in the usual way. When ready to mold into loaves cut and shape in small rolls and dip each one in melted butter. Let raise very light and bake.

This menu was planned for a company of 20 or more people, hence the variety and quantities.

SUGGESTIONS

Before putting aprons, dresses and boy's trousers into the wash turn out the pockets and brush them with a whiskbroom. Often particles in the pocket will cause discolorations of the fabrics.

When making fruit or berry pies it is just as easy to cut the bottom crust half an inch larger than actually required. Then after the top crust is on this can be folded over upon crust like a hem and the juice cannot escape.

A housekeeper writes that until lately she found she sewed more buttons on B. V. D.'s and pajamas than on anything else. One day she noticed a piece of tape lying in the button drawer and the following idea came to her. She says: "The tape was quarter-inch wide (like a shoestring). I cut one end of this, slanting up to a point so that it could be easily drawn through the holes in button. I then cut it in one and one-half inch pieces—as many as needed—drew this strough the button holes and placed them where needed. I then took a piece of half-inch tape long enough to go down the entire length of the pajamas and stitched this down on each side, catching the tape that held the buttons each time. I never sew buttons on these things any more. The buttons outwear the pajamas. This is also a valuable hint for a person with baby clothes. It can be done on nightles, kimonos and slips, using narrower tape. The best ones can be done with silk tape (such as is drawn through the tops of silk vests and stitched with ribbon.

Have you ever been bothered with your curtains slipping over the rods instead of hanging apart as you wished? One woman suggests the following which worked for her. She held them in place by winding rubber bands on the rods equal distances from the ends of the rods. The hems in the curtains were slightly over the rubber bands, so the bands did not show, and the curtains can no longer slip out of place on the rods.

BROWNING MERINQUES

Ravages Wrought By Constipation Are Appalling!

Constipation is probably the origin of more sickness and disease than all other causes combined. Professor Foges, of Vienna, says—"It is the most prolific source of disease." And other authorities declare that nine out of every ten persons are slowly poisoning themselves by letting CONSTIPATION continue.

Constipation can easily be stopped.

But you can't do it with ordinary methods. Salts, oils, cascaras and such things only reach part of the intestines and partially clean them. KLOK-LAX, on the other hand, clears and cleans out every inch of the twenty-eight foot drainage canal, including the stomach, upper and lower intestines.

That's the only way to really STOP CONSTIPATION. And KLOX-LAX is so easy and pleasant to take—just a tablet with a swallow of water at 9 tonight. No nausea—no griping—no time lost. Then, tomorrow, with your system thoroughly cleaned out of all poisons and wastes, you feel bubbling over with energy and vigor.

KLOK-LAX is the new improved method of overcoming constipation. Contains ingredients now recognized the world over for completely cleaning out the entire intestinal tract.

Everybody is using KLOK-LAX. And with poisonous wastes cleaned out, they find headaches gone, skin cleared up, appetite with a hearty taste and breath sweet and clean—and, instead of that dull, dragey, sluggish feeling they are active and alive.

SHOUTS DEFY ON SCAFFOLD

Condemned Murderer Battles Officers In March To Death

BUTTE, Mont., Oct. 1. (AP)—Tony Vettere, convicted murderer, was hanged at the county jail here early today after he had been overcome with tear gas following an attack on officers who attempted to lead him to the scaffold.

Entering Vettere's cell shortly before the time set for the execution Deputy Sheriff D. O. Robinson instructed the condemned man to prepare for the death march. Vettere seized a piece of iron pipe which he had concealed in his bed and drove the officer from the cell, following him down the corridor brandishing the pipe and a knife made from a large spoon which he produced from his clothing.

Door Locked.

Robinson leaped through a door at one end of the corridor and another officer locked it. Confined to the corridor, Vettere shouted insults at the officers and berating the judge who had sentenced him to death, dared anyone to attempt to take him to the scaffold.

Deputies brought two drums of tear gas and started spraying it into the corridor, driving Vettere to his cell. It was 15 minutes before the prisoner was overcome. His arms and legs were secured as he lay in the cell and he was carried to the gallows. There he revived sufficiently to renew his shouting as the trap was sprung. He was pronounced dead in six minutes.

Vettere has steadfastly maintained his innocence of the shooting of Antone Favero here last November, of which he was convicted.

CLAFIN'S TO LIQUIDATE

Big Dry Goods Jobbing House Fails to Compete With Specialists

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—Liquidation of Clafin's Inc., one of the largest dry goods jobbing houses in the world, was recommended today by the board of directors, who called a special meeting of stockholders for October 15 to take action on the proposal. Inability of the concern to compete with specialists in the trade is given as the reason for the action.

Will's Skeptical, But It Was Good

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. (AP)—Will Rogers, who aims his laughbarbs at the world's greatest, is the house guest of President Coolidge today, but he was not certain until he arrived last night that he himself was not the butt of a joke.

Rogers, just returned from Europe, wired Secretary Sanders that he would be in the capital today and would like to pay his respects to the president. At the request of Mr. Coolidge his secretary telegraphed an invitation to Rogers to stay at the White House overnight, adding that a White House car would meet him at the station.

Rogers accepted the invitation by wire, but added a request to Secretary Sanders to "head me off at Philadelphia if it's a joke." It was not a joke, however, and Rogers spent the night at the White House.

TYPHOON CLAIMS MANY

HONG KONG, Oct. 1. (AP)—Accounts of the latest tragedy of the seas along the south coast of China swept by a typhoon last Monday continue to dribble in as survivors arrive.

As a typical example of the experiences met in the great storm one Chinese seaman said his junk on which were 21 men, two girls and four women was struck by the typhoon in the vicinity of Taipo, British territory near Hong Kong. It turned turtle, the narrator and a companion saving themselves by clinging to the upturned craft. After drifting helplessly some time they were rescued in comparatively safe waters, but in the meantime had witnessed the drowning one by one of the others of their crew and had seen five drifting away on wreckage. The junk finally submerged in 20 fathoms of water.

It may cost more by the pound but it always costs less by the biscuit

Depending on what you have been using, Mrs. Tucker's may cost you more or less, by the pound. But even tho it costs more, by the pound, it always costs less by the biscuit.

Because it is all shortening, made from pure cotton-seed oil, you must use from 1/6 to 1/4 less of Mrs. Tucker's than of other shortenings.

You use less shortening and get as good or better foods than you have ever made before. For besides being very economical it is very efficient. Cold shortening makes the best dough and Mrs. Tucker's creams "beautifully" when chilled.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 1.(AP)—The cotton market was extremely active today and prices developed a broad downward trend which eventually carried values down fully three dollars a bale compared with the preceding day. The depressing influences were the more favorable weather in the belt than looked for, a very bearish crop estimate by a private authority of 16,078,000 bales, a general tendency to increase crop views and rather liberal selling of hedges against cotton purchased in the interior. The weekly statistics were also bearish particularly the movement into sight which totaled 787,482 bales for the week against 662,000 for the corresponding week last year. After opening 20 to 26 points lower the market continued to ease off during practically the entire session with only trifling rallies until near the end prices showed losses compared with yesterday's close of 60 points on all active months. The close was near the lows showing net losses for the day of 67 to 69 points.

In addition to the private report and estimate mentioned above two other private reports appeared during the day one making the crop 15,575,000 bales and the other estimating the yield at 15,295,000 bales. The market opened at 14.02 for October and 14.15 for both December and January and these opening figures proved to be the highs of the day although 20 to 26 points under the previous close. The market continued to ease off steadily all day and near the end October traded down to 13.80, December to 13.75 and January to 13.81 or 60 points under the previous close. The close was near the bottom.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.(AP)—The cotton market showed weakness today, prices making new low ground for the movement under continued southern selling and liquidation promoted by a tendency to increase estimates of the crop.

December contracts broke to 13.738, a net decline of 62 points and a decline of nearly 4½ cents per pound from the high level of Sept. 2. December closed at the lowest price of the day, the general market closing easy at net declines of 62 points.

The opening was easy at a decline of 17 to 36 points under overnight selling orders from the south, combined with re-selling by recent buyers and local or Wall Street interests inspired by lower late cables from Liverpool and a private crop report making the condition 59 and the indicated yield 14,678,000 bales.

These crop figures did not seem to be fully accepted as a guide to the probable showing of next week's government report, but that had a tendency to increase confidence in a well maintained, or somewhat increased prospect compared with mid-September figures, and no doubt contributed to the decline.

Heavy selling by the south was another factor on the break, while there was naturally bearish comment on the improved weather conditions in the southwest and week-end figures showing a very heavy into sight movement. Stop orders were uncovered as prices worked lower, the decline extending to 13.90 on October and 13.85 for Jan-uary in late trading, or 48 to 62 points net lower.

October was relatively quiet and steady during the day, as the interest in that position has been much reduced, and the current month showed a premium of 13 points over December at the close, while December was selling at a discount of about 50 points compared with May deliveries. Trade buying was again reported on a scale down, particularly for continental account, and there was some trade buying of December against sales of May at the prevailing differences.

Exports today 52,407 bales making 1,165,232 so far this season. Port receipts 52,246. N. Y. stocks 3,276. 192. Another private crop report makes the condition 59.3 and the indicated yield 15,575,000 bales.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—Speculators for the advance endeavored to rally today's stock market by bidding up U. S. Steel common and General Motors which showed net gains of 3¼ and eight points, respectively, but they were only partially successful. Large blocks of these industrials favorites were taken at rising prices and both closed at their top figures, steel at 153¼, and motors at 169¼, but weak spots cropped out in various sections of the list with the result that final quotations disclosed some irregularity. Trading showed a marked expansion in volume, with indications of a reawakening of public interest in many issues.

Maintenance of the four per cent rediscount rate by the New York Federal Reserve bank temporarily setting at rest fears of an immediate credit stringency was believed to be the main factor behind the buying movement. Call money which closed at the year's high level of six per cent, yesterday renewed at 5½ per cent and held steady at that figure all day despite the increase in rediscounts and the drop in the federal reserve ratio shown in the weekly bank statement.

Establishment of the new record high figure in freight car loadings for the week ended Sept. 18, also had a bullish effect on sentiment. The weekly mercantile reviews reported some irregularity in business, due to unfavorable weather, but indicated there was as yet no evidence of a reversal of the upward trend. Bank clearings in the leading cities fell off this week, as compared with the same week last year, due to the fact that heavy bank settlements incidental to the first of the month were included in last year's return, whereas this year they will not show until in next week's compilation.

From the manner in which large blocks of General Motors, which touched a new high for the present stock, contrasted with the weakness of Mack Trucks, which broke nearly five points to 106¼ and then rallied feebly, DuPont soared 15½ points to a new record top above its recent low.

Revival of activity and strength in the copper shares, based on rumors that the regular dividend on Kennecott and American Smelting would be increased this month was on of the day's features. Amusement shares displayed a temporary outburst of strength at the opening, but failed to follow up the advance. Warner Pictures losing over three points and Famous Players one.

Speculative interest in the rail group was confined to a few issues, notably Norfolk and Western, "Nickel Plate," Chesapeake and Ohio and Delaware and Hudson, all up two to four and a half points. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Demand sterling held firm around $4.84⅝, but the other foreign exchange rates showed a tendency to sag. French francs were down around 2.80 cents and Italian lire were quoted in the neighborhood of 3.75 cents.

CHICAGO CASH GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.(AP)—Wheat: No. 2 hard, $1.42¾@1.44¾; No. 3 red, $1.38. Corn: No. 2 yellow 80@80½c; No. 2 white, 80@81c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 1. (AP)—Sharp rallies from an early decline took place in the wheat market today. Speculators bought on a liberal scale influenced a good deal by reports that stors of late in Canada had caused a loss of as much as 50,-000 bushes of wheat, closing quotations on wheat were firm, ⅝ to 1c net higher, with corn unchanged to ⅛c off; oats ¼@¼ to ½c up and provisions varying from 15c down to a shade advance.

Corn displayed a heavy under tone, with Illinois and Iowa rains virtually ignored. Unofficial monthly crop reports showed an average of 2,712,000,000 bushels estimated total yield of corn, 14,000,000 bushels more than the government September returns. Oats prices were firmer, mainly in view of the action of wheat.

In provisions the downward swing was due to big deliveries on October contracts, especially 10,350,000 pounds of lard.

The Johns-Manville company was formed in 1901 by a consolidation of the H. W. Johns Manufacturing company of New York and the Manville Covering company of Milwaukee. The concern manufactures asbestos and magnesia products, packing, roofings, electrical and automobile specialties, felt insulation and various building materials. Plants are located at Lockport, N. Y., Nashau, N. H., Waukeegan, Ill., San Francisco, Manville, N. J., and Asbestos, Quebec. The company owns asbestos mines in Arizona and Quebec and has branches throughout the United States, Canada and Cuba.

The company has no funded debt. Its capital stock consists of 250,000 shares of no par value. A preferred issue was retired at $120 in 1923. The stock is traded in on the New York Curb. Dividends on the old $100 par shares were paid from 1911 to 1922 except in the years 1915 and 1916. Dividends on the present no par stock were initiated in 1923 at 75 cents a share quarterly the rate now current.

In 1925 net income was $2,426,-661, or the equivalent of $9.75 earned per share. As of Jan. 1, 1926, current assets were $12,-821,276 and current liabilities $1,-859,882, with net working capital of $10,961,794. On that date net tangible assets applicable to the 250,000 shares of stock amounted to $119.25 a share.

Business Strong, Dun Report Says

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—Dun's tomorrow will say:

With the beginning of the final quarter of the year, general business maintains a strong position. Such irregularities as exist do not detract materially from the favorable outlook and there is no present sign of a reversal of the upward trend. Most of the major lines have become increasingly active with the progress of the fall season and in certain divisions of textiles the improvement in condition is especially noticeable. A scarcity of some supplies in that field largely reflects buyers' delay in making forward commitments and the disinclination of manufacturers to accumulate stocks in advance of orders and pressure for deliveries has brought about higher prices in some instances.

The light fixtures, all in keeping with the architecture and plan of the rooms proved attractive and called for much favorable comment, as did the wood work of bronz and the many minor features too numerous to mention.

"The most beautiful home I ever saw," was the common remark heard among the large browd as they visited the various rooms and inspected the entire home.

Out in the patio, flooded with subdued lights in varied colors, music was supplied by Yancy Cummings orchestra. Another touch of color was added to the home by the guides, dressed in full Spanish costume. Yaqui Joe, a Sonora Indian garbed as a Spanish Grandee, played his part with dignified serenity as he saluted the guests at the door. Two petite sub-debs, Misses Dolores Hoover and Rae Brown, also in saucy costumes greeted the guests in the hall which led to the living room.

Out in the patio, flooded with subdued colored lights, Yancy Cummings orchestra supplied music for the occasion with the aid of a Star piano supplied by the Ripley Music company. A new Willys-Knight car from the Overland Motors company stood in the driveway during the evening as an accompaniment to the house.

El Jardin de los Suenos as it stands is a monument to the genius of two local architects—Joe Pate and J. C. Thompson, who designed it completely.

REPUBLICANS GIVEN A SHOCK

THERE is a general election coming in November. Many senators will be elected and a full membership of the lower house of congress. Republicans are said to be restless and uncertain. This applies to the national managers of the republican party, the men who are directing the campaign for United States senators and the men who are directing the campaign for congressional representatives.

President Coolidge started with a republican majority of eight in the senate. He started with a republican majority of thirty-six in the house. An independent newspaper is the New York Sun, independent with republican leanings. The Sun has an unusually well informed correspondent at the head of its political bureau in the city of Washington.

This correspondent says all hope of a solid republican majority in the seventieth senate was given up some time ago. Now the reports received by the republican managers are to the effect that the democrats may make such gains in both the senate and the house as to force them to take control of the seventieth congress.

This correspondent says the most alarming reports are coming to the republican managers from Massachusetts, New York, Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri, Oklahoma, Colorado, Arizona, Nevada, Idaho and Oregon, where United States senators are to be elected in November.

He volunteers the information that the reports from Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Utah, California and Washington are much more encouraging to the republicans "though republican candidates in nearly all those states will win, if they do win, by greatly reduced majorities.

Along with the loss of senatorial seats inevitably will go a number of house seats, and this may wipe out the republicans over all majority of thirty-five in the present house. It appears in the corn and wheat states of the west and northwest, the republicans are in better shape than in the so-called border states, the Rocky mountain states and Oregon.

Republican machinery is said to be out of whack in so many states that there is no telling what will happen, and the republican managers are said to realize that nothing except the hardest kind of organization work can save the day for them. In almost every case, according to the Sun correspondent, local issues have overshadowed national issues and the voters of the republican faith do not seem interested in the political complexion of the seventieth congress.

"Each state in which the republican candidate is hard pressed has its own issue," the Sun writer says, "while the personal popularity of some of the democratic candidates will bring heavy republican losses." Furthermore, he says, "what must be prevented at all cost, the republican party managers agree, is the disasterous loss in popular vote which might be interpreted as the loss of the Coolidge prestige."

He adds that some republican leaders believe that something will have to happen in the next seven weeks to swing the tide their way, "but with each state so busy with its own problems they do not know where to look for that something."

If this were a national campaign, he says, things would be different, but it is not and many senators and representatives are going to be elected not because they do or do not belong to President Coolidge's party, but because of something of purely local state interest.

Democrats always do their best work in off years. In presidential campaign years they usually wreck the party of Jefferson before they nominate a ticket or adopt a platform. This is an off year.

There are local issues paramount in many of the eastern and northern states. Perhaps the Donkey will come under the wire a winner in November and the democrats will control both houses of the new congress, but democrats are not advised to place money on the proposition that they are going to sweep the country and stage a national setting with the principle characters a republican president and democrats in control of the senate and the house.

But the Sun is an independent newspaper with republican leanings and the Sun's Washington correspondent is responsible for the story that the republicans may not only lose control of the new congress, but suffer a loss of the popular vote in the 48 states.

PROHIBITION AT ITS WORST

PROFESSOR ERVING FISHER of Yale, noted economist and popular writer, is for the cancelation of war loans; an all around cancellation. He has written a book, which is on sale everywhere, "Prohibition at Its Worst," is the title. In this book he says the flow of alcohol down the throats of residents of the United States at present is certainly less than 16 per cent, probably less than ten per cent and possibly less than five per cent of the pre-prohibition consumption.

On the economic side Professor Fisher repeats his assertion and estimate of six billion dollars annual gain from prohibition in the United States "without counting any savings in the most of jails, alms houses and asylums or any economic savings from reducing the death rate."

He insists that if prohibition enforcement cost the American taxpayer even one billion dollars a year, it would be well worth while purely as an economic investment. Professor Fisher is a dry He had been a dry dry for years before the coming of the Eighteenth amendment of the Volstead act. He has no use for popular referendums. He insists the New York referendum aims to secure intoxicating liquors by means of a legal pretense that they are non-intoxicating.

Regardless of the fate of the New York amendment, Professor Fisher may be in error. The referendum may carry a million majority, but this will not effect the conditions as they are or make it possible to legalize the sale of intoxicating beverages in the empire state of the east. There is no mistake about the wording of the Eighteenth amendment. It prohibits the manufacture, the sale and the importation of intoxicants or rather of alcoholic beverages.

There are many wet states; there are a greater number of dry states. Prohibition is an issue in spots. It is not a great national issue nor can it be made a great national issue unless a repeal movement is started in each of the 48 states of the union and this at the same time. Repeal of the Volstead act would not effect the Dean law. Repeal of the Eighteenth amendment would not effect dry conditions in Texas.

Texans placed prohibition in the constitution of the commonwealth. Only a repeal movement would make a dent on the constitution. This educator and economist of Yale is of the opinion that the United States will be a dry nation for years and years to come. He regards it as the greatest economic investment yet made by the American people, and he has millions of fellow citizens in the United States who agree with his conclusion.

Cancellation of all war loans and world wide prohibition of alcoholic beverages would make the Yale economist the happiest man in the state of clocks and wooden nutmegs. He never has a thirst, and it is easy for him to be a dry dry. How would it do for the government to cancel the payment of all the Liberty bonds outstanding? Would this proposal appeal to the professor?

A BATTLE OF GIANTS

NEW YORK republicans have renominated Senator James W. Wadsworth, a dripping wet, and for governor they named Congressman Ogden Mills, a dry dry. They straddled the liquor question. They advised all republicans to stand for the enforcement of all laws and to vote at the coming referendum election.

Of course the democrats renominated Al Smith for governor and Supreme Court Justice Robert Wagner for United States senator. Their platform is "Let the People Rule." Wadsworth makes his home on a thirty thousand acre farm up state, which was carved out of the wilderness by his ancestors.

Wagner is a product of the city of New York. Mills is of an old family and very rich and a very able man. Now there is to be a battle of the political giants for the control of the empire state of the east.

Smith has won four times for governor. Will he win a fifth election? His running mate, Wagner, is very popular in the city of New York and up state. Republican pros threaten to knife Wadsworth, perhaps because he is honest in his attitude that prohibition has been a failure.

They have named a republican dry to carry the dry standard. If Wadsworth is returned to the senate he will be the republican leader and boss of his state.

If he is defeated, he will be thrown into the discard and the republican drys will control the party organization of the empire state of the east for a few years to come at least.

BLUE STEEL

BY OCTAVUS ROY COHEN

Headquarters summoned Police Lieutenant Daniel Boone Rariden. Headquarters was unhappy. Headquarters frowned up from the evening papers. "Hell's busted loose, Rariden."

"Yes, Chief; it has."

"Who did it?"

"I'm not certain."

"Who d'yuh think?"

Eyes met squarely. "The Greyhounds, I think."

"Hmm- Thought so. Raiding from the Fourth, Flash Morgan's gang."

"Yes sir."

"Got 'em?"

Yes, sir."

"Quick?"

"Yes, sir."

Some men are born honest; some are born crooked. And some are born policemen. Police Chief Daniel Boone Rariden went in search of his friend Flash Morgan. He went regretfully enough—but he went. There was no question in his mind—, no hesitation. He was a policeman not only by profession, but by instinct.

The visit was not unexpected. Flash was in his room reading an evening paper. The men gazed at each other with eyes of stubborn friendship.

"Lo, Dan."

"Howdy, Flash."

"Pleasant evening, ain't it?"

"No." The cold gray eyes of Rariden did not waver. "You broke word to me, Flash."

A shadow of pain crossed Morgan's face. He had expected this, but it hurt, nevertheless. The killing of Blood Moreno had complicated matters—messily. Mere robbery was one thing; murder was quite something else. And the ignorant Fifth could not be expected to know that the dead man was only Blood Moreno.

"You promised me, Flash," said Rariden, "that you wouldn't pull no rough stuff in my precinct."

"Yes, Dan, I did."

"You lied, Flash."

"How do you know?"

"This." Rariden displayed his evidence. "It was found in the bank. There ain't any getting around that."

Flash Morgan felt a sudden and very genuine sorrow over the demise of Mr. Moreno. He yearned to repeat the homicide. So that was Blood's game, eh? To plant evidence against him, evidence which only Dan Rariden could recognize, then to seek safety behind the friendship of Rariden and himself.

"That all you found?"

"Yes."

"It spots me, eh? Not anybody else?"

"Exactly."

"Hmm! That might have been planted."

"It wasn't." Rariden spoke positively.

"How do you know?"

"Because, Flash—I saw you kill Blood Moreno."

"Hm!" Flash realized that his position was embarrassing. But that, at the moment, was not what interested him most. The thought which drummed in his brain was that something had come between himself and his buddy; it hurt him that Rariden should believe he had gone back on his word. But he knew that Rariden was too literal-minded to believe a mere denial, and so he thought——

"You've got me, Dan."

"Yeh—I've got you."

"And it ain't doing you a bit of good."

"Not a bit."

"What you want is the money, aint it?"

"Uh-huh."

"Leave me go free for a few hours. I'll see what I can do."

"All right, Flash. No funny stuff, though."

"Aw, Dan——"

"Well, you pulled this job after you promised——"

"I ain't admitted that, have I?"

"No-o. And I wouldn't expect you to. Always since I've been on the force, Flash, I've been hoping I'd never have to do this. When'll you drift in?"

"By nine in the morning?"

"O. K. Remember—"

"Listen here, Dan: one more crack out of you like that, and I'll make you take me now. I'm a crook, but I ain't a liar—with you."

Dan gazed intently at his friend. Somehow a bit of his faith returned. "There's something awful funny about this," he commented.

"You're doggone tootin' there is, Dan Rariden. I'm just sorry that you—Aw, hell, what's the use of slopping' over?"

Dan returned to the precinct station, steely-eyed and grim-jawed. To the newspaper men gathered there he was as communicative as a freshly dug clam.

"Nothin' to say yet."

"Any idea who pulled the job?"

"Nothin' to say."

"The Greyhounds, wasn't it?"

"Nothin' to say, boys."

"You were born in the Fourth, weren't you, Rariden?"

"Uh-huh!"

"Pretty good friend of Flash Morgan's, aren't you?"

"Pretty good."

"You haven't any ideas——"

"I haven't anything to say—and that's all. When there's any news I'll give it to you. You boys mean well, but sometimes you hamper the department in your eternal smooching around for stories. Lay off awhile, will you? When the real story breaks, it'll be a pip."

Meanwhile Flash Morgan established himself in the rear of Wink Sullivan's saloon. He issued orders, and within the next hour the erring Greyhounds drifted shamefacedly into his presence. They were nervous and ill at ease. Also, they were frightened. Hardened as they were, a public killing was more than they had counted on, and they cringed beneath the level, accusing stare of their chief.

"Blood said—"

"I don't give a damn what Blood said. 'I'm running this gang. Blood Moreno knew I was running it—he knew it awful pointed just before he passed out."

They looked at one another. Was it possible? They hadn't seen Flash the night of the robbery.

"Where's the stuff?" snapped Morgan.

"What stuff?"

"The Neighborhood Trust haul. I'll give you guys one hour to produce."

"If it's a split you want—"

"I want it all. It's going back. I'm handing it over to Dan Rariden."

"Say, ain't that—"

"I'M THE GINK"

I'M THE GINK

I'm the gink who takes advantage of the traffic laws at every opportunity. I beat the bell if I can and late at night I run past the lights if I am sure there isn't a cop around. Of course, I know I run the risk of injuring others and myself. I never consider that. I like to do my little violations especially when there is a girl with me. I think it makes me look like a thrilling person. They arrest me now and then and I always feel as if I'd been treated unfairly.

Questions from the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

The Miserable Wife Whose Kind, Generous Husband Don't Make Love to Her—The Love-Starved Wife Who Steals Affection From Her Husband's Friend. Is the Girl who Doesn't Thrill Really in Love?

Dear Miss Dix—I am married to one of the best men in the world. He is kind and generous, and I am sure that he is devoted to me and appreciates all that I do for him, for I am a good wife and a good housekeeker. But, Miss Dix, my heart breaks because he never pets me or makes a fuss over me or calls me any baby names, yet before we were married nobody could have been more affectionate and demonstrative that he was to me. I spend days and nights on my knees praying God to bring about a change in him so that he will show me again that he loves me, but my prayers are never answered. He just goes along the same old way. Good to me, but never saying to me the things that I would give my life to hear. And I think it will kill me.

MRS. C. J. B.

Answer:

My dear Mrs. C. J. B., when I get letters like yours—and hundreds of other women write me virtually the same thing—I wonder which are the most stupid and blundering in their relation to each other, husbands or wives. I wonder that men, as a class, never seem to realize that women put more stress on words than they do on deeds. The average wife will believe her husband loves her if he tells her so and pays her a few compliments, even if he beats and starves her, and she will doubt his afefction if he is dumb about it, although he works his fingers to the bone to prove his devotion.

Most of all I wonder that men do not realize that a few kind words to their wives will make them eat out of their hands, and that the easiest way to work a woman is just by soft-soaping her.

And then I wonder about women. I marvel at their genius for making themselves miserable about nothing. I am filled with amasement at the trouble they take to find the crumpled rose leaf under their forty mattresses of ease.

Certainly the woman who has a husband who is good and kind and generous to hr and whose affection for her is daily proved in a thousand different ways, has mighty little to complain of. She is going a long distance out of her way to hunt for trouble when she can make herself wretched over the fact that he isn't a glib lovemaker, and isn't always telling her that her eyes are like stars and her mouth a rose bud.

And I marvel at the lack of common sense that prevents a woman from ever undertanding her husband and seeing the plain, practical business man no more considers is necessary to tell his wife every day ho wmuch he loves her than he does to go about announcing to all he meets that he is an honest man or that he always pays his debts.

He thinks that his devotion, his care, his work, speak for themselves and that words are superfluous beside them. He says it with beefsteaks and new hats and limousines. And she goes around, poor foolish soul, beating on her breast and wailing out her misery to high Heaven because he has quit quoting poetry to her.

So, two people who love each other miserable over a few words one wants said and the other won't say. Can you beat it? DOROTHY DIX.

Lyrics of Life

THE VALLEY

Our valley seems just like a bowl,
A dark, green bowl with bright, blue edges,
With here and there a line or scroll,
And that's the highway, and the hedges.
And I would like to go sometime
And climb and climb and climb and climb
Some summer's day to the highest brim
And sit up there on the very rim!

For I could look 'way, 'way, 'way down
Inside my bowl with bright, blue edges,
And I'd be taller than the town,
My fingers longer than the hedges.
And there I'd sit and watch the sun,
And I'd be rich as anyone—
The sun would fill my bowl with gold,
Yes, just as full as it could hold!

And then I'd slide right down again
Inside my bowl with bright, blue edges,
For they'd be looking for me then,
Along the highways and the hedges.
And Daddy's hug me hard, like this,
And Mother give me such a kiss,
When I came sliding from the rim
Right home again to her and him!

A FISH STORY.

So well did Louis Agassiz, Swiss naturalist by birth, American by adoption, understand the fossil fishes that once inhabited the seas, that he developed a sort of intuition about them. In England he was lecturing on fossil fishes, when somebody asked him if he could describe what sort of a fish he would have expected to occur in a certain geological age. Agassiz had never seen a fish fossil from this age, and did not know one existed. His hearers did know of such a fish, however, having just discovered one, without telling Agassiz. Agassiz, undaunted, and with daring imagination, drew on the blackboard a theoretical "reconstruction" of the sort of fish he would expect to find in fossils of that period. A curtain was then drawn aside, displaying precisely the fish fossil Agassiz had imagined.

Now what do you know about that?

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE

LIBRA.

Today's planetary aspects are favorable, and it is an auspicious occasion for marriage or travel. There cannot be much material success predicted for any work attempted under the prevailing influences. On the other hand, there are no indications that failure will ensue. It would be advisable to defer any ambitious effort a till some other time. There will be satisfaction experienced, however in the discharge of customary duties, or participation in congenial recreation. The best emotions of which you are capable promise to be deeply stirred, and free rein should be given them. This can only conduce, not alone to your own contentment, but to that of those with whom you are associated.

Children born today will, during infancy, enjoy normal health, although proper care should be devoted to their nutrition and environment. They promise much in a physical sense, and are destined, according to the signs, to attain an unusually vigorous adulthood, unmarred by any organic condition to militate against perfect health. In disposition, they will be rather selfish, and disposed to be evasive, lacking in sincereity and not very strong in loyalty. Many of these inherent defects can of course, be cured by good, careful home-training. They will, however, never be completely eradicated. The existence of these traits will not necessarily prevent them attaining material success.

If today is your birthday, your disposition is a very gentle one, and you are kind and loving. Like everyone else, you have a temper, but although you sometimes feel like "boiling over" you never allow any steam to escape. Your character cannot be called a strong one, as is evidenced by the fact that all who know you are your friends, and of enemies you have none. Your tastes are cultured, you are musical, and fond of good literature, as wel las of the higher types of amusement. You are not very anxious to achieve any great material success, but are content to "rest on your oars," once you are assured of a reasonable competence. Your principal interest is your home and you have a great love for children, which is of course, fully reciprocated on their part. Your love is strong and constant, and as you are also demonstrative, it is only fair to assume that you will receive the undivided devotion of your mate.

A BULLETIN FROM DR. TAPROCK

Editor, FUN SHOP,

EUREKA! Meaning, "Attaboy!" I have done it. The trans-Atlantic cup offered by the Shorewood "Bee" for a one-stop flight from Shorewood to Oslo is mine!

I made the flight in a curious way. You will recall that you forwarded to me at the North Pole a postal from Sarah, Mrs. Taprock. You doubtless read it, as who did not?—and understood that she demanded my return in time to get the hay in. Well, having gotten the Taprock Hotel and Cottages, Inc., going in good shape, as well as the Northerns Lights Amusement Park concession, I though I might well run back to Shorewood and give my dear old missie the once-over.

My flying-blimp, the Floating Kidney, functioned perfectly. Thirty-six hours later I hovered above my estate, "Hangover-on-the-Hudson." Imagine my surprise when I saw Obed Daggett, our local ice-man, standing in the kitchen door, kissing my wife before he went on his rounds!

I pulled the fore and aft levers, the signal to reverse. To be frank, I was hurt. I have always lived on the theory that if there was to be any deception in our family, I was to do it.

Latham Fairlamb, my engineer, catching the premptory note in my signal, jammed over the reverse so forcibly that it stuck. Try as I could I could not release it.

An hour after we backed majestically off the edge of North America.

I was tired, disgusted, disillusioned! Pressing the button that blew a siren in the mess-room, I shouted to the Stewart, "A bottle of chartreuse, equal parts, green and yellow, and do not spare the horses!"

"Horses . . . horses . . .'" he replied.

The cordial was brought. Leaning the wheel to the port binacle, I placed a brimming tooth-mug to my lips. . . .

My Favorite Stories

By IRVIN S. COBB

ONE OF THOSE NATURE-FAKING YARNS

A gentleman of social habits came home one evening to be confronted by a wife bristling with indignation. No sooner had he opened the front door of the apartment than she fired a blast at him.

"Why, my dear," he said, "what's the matter?"

"Matter enough," she answered. "I thought you told me that you were going down to Belmont track yesterday afternoon with a party of men!"

"That's right," he said, "what of it?"

"Then perhaps you can explain this," she said. "This morning I sent the suit you wore yesterday out to be pressed. But first I went through the pockets and in one of the pockets I found a card and on the card was written in your handwriting: 'Evelyn, 2161 Fitzroy.' Now then, what does this mean?"

Without a moment's hesitation the husband answered:

"My dear child," he said soothingly, "the thing is simplicity itself. 'Evelyn' is the name of a racehorse—a friend gave me a tip on her. And '2161' were the odds on her for first and second place. 'Fitzroy' is the name of the jockey. Surely you've heard of Fitzroy, the famous jockey? Now then, aren't you ashamed that you suspected me?"

The lady admitted that she might have been a bit hasty in jumping at conclusions. She dried her tears and peace descended upon the household.

On the following evening the husband entered the flat at peace with the world, and whistling a merry catch. An ominous silence greeted him.

"Hello, dearie!" he hailed. "How do you feel?"

"I'm quite all right, considering," answered his wife frigidly.

"Any mail here for me?"

"You might look and see."

"Anybody drop in today?"

"No."

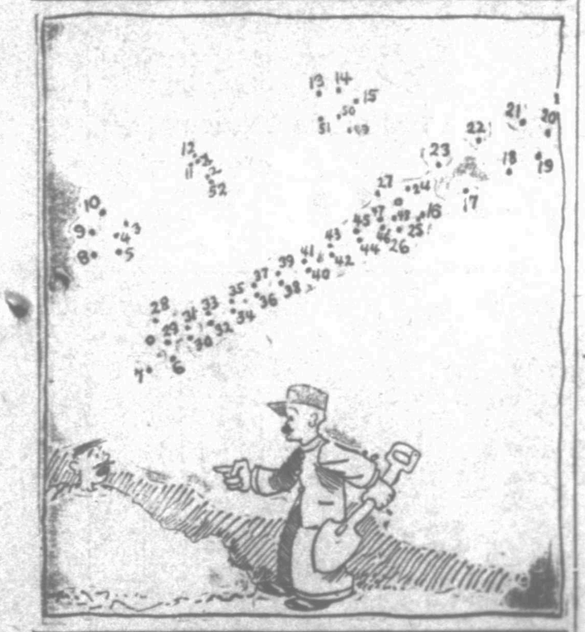

"Has anything happened at all?"

"Well," she said, 'about three o'clock this afternoon your racehorse called up and asked for you."

ARCHER CITY CLUB DRUBS COYOTE PUPS

Black, Hodges, Larkin Run Rampant in 71 to 0 Victory

ARCHER CITY, Oct. 1.—Coach Wilson's Archer City Wildcats were wild all right here this afternoon in their first conference game of the year.

The Wildcats ran rampant, clawing Golden's Wichita Falls junior high school 11 by a 71 to 0 score.

The Coyote Pups, lighter by many pounds than their Archer county opponents, were absolutely unable at any point to withstand the ferocious onslaughts of the Wildcat wall followed by the ripping, tearing backfield. Robertson at left end, Stann at left tackle, and Love at right guard were the outstanding performers in the Archer City line.

Black, quarterback, B. Larkin, and Hodges at halfbacks ran wild, scoring almost at will.

Archer City made 18 first downs Wichita Falls one.

Hornsby Cost Cards $750.00

Scouts At First Refused To Consider Rajah As Prospect

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 1. (AP)—Although $500 is generally believed to have been the amount the St. Louis Cardinals paid for Rogers Hornsby when they purchased him from Denison, Texas, of the Western association in 1915, the correct price was $750, according to E. A. Danies, formerly president of the Western association and owner of the McAlester franchise in the Western association at that time.

Daniels is the person who induced the St. Louis management to purchase the Denison youth. Roy Findley was secretary of the club at that time and discovered the Cardinal pilot.

"Hornsby was not a .300 hitter in those days," said Daniels in discussing the matter, "but I liked the way he handled himself and I had no hesitancy in urging that he be purchased."

"Of course," Daniels admitted, "I did not have any idea that I was touting the boy who was destined to become one of the world's greatest sluggers and the boy who some day would bring a National league pennant to St. Louis."

Dace Stovall, Oklahoma legislator, of Hugo, today recalled that he could not even get a bid on the now famous Rogers while he was playing with Hugo in 1914. Stovall was backing the Hugo Western association club and it had had financial troubles that year. Numerous ivory hunters from the big leagues had watched the youngster perform and all said no when offered Hornsby.

Tramel Captures Decision In Hand Scrap With Rich

Duke Tramel, Fort Worth welter, won the referee's decision in a hard ten-round mill over Kid Rich of Drumright Friday night at the Eleventh and Ohio arena.

Battling Cossey, Wichita Falls bantam, won on a technical knockout in two rounds from Bob Henson. The bout was a scheduled six rounder.

Kid Snyder, Burk lightweight, and Dick Bowers of Breckenridge, fought a three-round draw. Bowers deserved the decision.

American League Teams Have Shade

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—The American League's entries has been triumphant in twelve of the twenty-one world's series conflicts since 1905 but there is plenty of balmy for the National League followers in the championship record over this period.

In games won and lost, the American Leaguers have only a scant margin of three while the National League's outfits actually have tallied more runs.

Brightest of the feathers in the National League cap, however, are the achievements in three times downing the junior circuit entry without the loss of a game. The Chicago Cubs smothered the Detroit Tigers in 1907, the Boston Braves ran rough-shod over the Athletics in 1914 and the New York Giants overwhelmed the Yankees in 1922. Tie games in each of the 1907 and 1922 conflicts were the best the American Leaguers could do in these series.

Another outstanding fact in world's series history is that no Boston team ever has met defeat, the Red Sox hanging up four triumphs and the Braves one.

Stetson And Smith Enter Golf Final

HAVERFORD, Pa., Oct. 1.(AP) Two mothers won their way to the final round of the national women's golf championship at Merion today for the second time in the 32 years history of the event.

The victors were Mrs. G. Henry Stetson of Philadelphia, who went 19 holes in a sensational finish to defeat 20-year-old Virginia Wilson of Chicago, conqueror of Glenna Collett yesterday, and Mrs. Wright D. Goss, Jr., of Short Hills, N. J., who triumphed over the champion of her home state, Mrs. Courtland Smith, three and two.

In the only other final round struggle between matrons, 11 years ago at the Iwentsia club of Lake Forest, Ill., Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck of Philadelphia defeated Mrs. W. A. Gavin of England, three and two. Four previous championships have been won by married women, the title holders having been Mrs. C. S. Brown of New York, in 1895, Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson of New York in 1914, Mrs. Vanderbeck and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia in 1914.

The interest of the gallery today was in the youthful conqueror of Miss Collett and under its penetrating focus the laughing Virginia of yesterday became the serious candidate for a vacant throne.

RAILROAD

"Don't you think it a moral obligation on the part of your great system to assume responsibility for the destruction of our plans and hopes?" Duff asked. "Do you think it is fair to surround such a road as ours in a vice, when we are fighting to keep our head above water?"

Whitehead said that the situation had changed, but that his line even now would have no objection to the Duff line building into Port Arthur.

"I would advise you now that if you build into Port Arthur it would make your property good and you would have more than one customer ready to buy it," said Whitehead.

"But as president of the Katy you couldn't do anything inconsistent with the Kansas City Southern policy?" Duff asked.

In Bed With K. C. S.

"No, we are now in bed with the K. C. S." was the reply.

The two railroad presidents faced each other with only about two feet separating them, and Col. Duff, who is virtually th e sole owner of the W. B. T. and S., recalled certain personal favors which Mr. Whitehead had done when the roads were friendly. He mentioned a letter which Whitehead wrote to a large trust company last year reporting favorably on Duff's proposal to build into Fort Arthur.

"But you wouldn't care to write a letter to the same effect now would you?" Duff asked. Whitehead replied that though the situation had changed, he would still say that if the Duff line could build into Fort Arthur it would be a valuable line.

Col. Duff recalled the great growth along the line of the Katy and that road's solid financial development, and asked Whitehead if he didn't think he had better let well-enough alone and not try to improve the situation by trading with other roads. The Katy president answered in the negative.

Mr. Whitehead said the executives of the three lines in the proposed consolidation had jointly agreed that they would apply single line rates to the system, if the consolidation is allowed.

Completion to Date.

Attorney R. C. Fullbright for the Houston chamber of commerce attempted to show that competition among the three would not be as keen as at present.

"For instance," he asked, "if the Katy has a fourth-morning delivery of freight at Waco from St. Louis, would the Cotton Belt, after the merger, be permitted to reduce its time to a third-morning delivery?"

When Whitehead replied that they would, Fullbright said: "But somebody might lose their jobs afterward."

Whitehead said there would probably be a consolidation of terminals at Waco by the Cotton Belt using Katy terminal facilities. He said switching charges, in his opinion, would be unchanged.

She'll Be Battle!

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.(AP)—Rival managers of the world series contenders, Miller Huggins of the Yankees, and Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals, joined tonight in predicting a hard-fought battle for the championship.

Hornsby said:

"I am very optimistic, we have a well balanced club, more so, in my opinion, than the Yankees. Without taking anything away from the strength of our opposition I feel we have an edge when all departments of play are taken into consideration. We're going in there to fight every step of the way. We'll need to because the Yankees are powerful and I expect a close battle."

Huggins' statement:

"My team is in good shape. I'm not picking the winner, but if the Yankees play as they did in piling up their big lead last spring, I wont have any complaints. If it doesn't why that's another story. I look for a hard-fought series."

The drafted group is conspicuous in numbering men of previous league experience including "Hub" Pruett, former pitching nemesis of Babe Ruth; Bernie Neis, former Brooklyn and Boston outfielder; Mike Cvengros, ex-White Sox southpaw; Ike Boone, former Red Sox outfielder, and Charley Robertson, right handed twirler who leaped to "no-hit" fame while with the White Sox.

Childress Loses To Hollis Eleven

Bobcats Go Down Before Superior Weight By 25 to 0 Score

CHILDRESS, Oct. 1.—The hopes of the Childress Bobcats for a district championship were somewhat dimmed today by defeat in a non-conference game with Hillis, the final score being 25 to 0. Hollis had Childress out weighed almost 15 or 20 pounds to the man and has one of the best teams in the section of the state. It is almost as heavy as the average college eleven it is destined to go far in the Oklahoma conference. The stars of the game were Curb and Nance for Hollis and Bybee, quarter, and Greer, tackle for Childress. Greer or Bybee were in almost every tackle that was made.

Bybee was hurt in the final quarter when he got a bad injure ankin. T. Nichols who also played a fine defensive game has a tendon in his neck hurt which affected the spinal cord and dimmed his vision temporarily.

The field was in poor condition for a game the entire north half being so muddy that it was difficult for the players to retain their feet.

BETHANY WINS

EMPORIA, Kan., Oct. 1. (AP)—Bethany college, undefeated in last year's football season and with its team intact, lost to the Emporia Teachers college in the opening game of the year today, 10 to 0. All scoring was done in the fourth quarter.

TOUGH ON AMATEURS?

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—The United States Lawn Tennis Association, amateur governing body will not sanction the participation of amateur players in an "open championship" such as that planned by C. C. Pyle as a climax for the trans-continental tour of his group of professional stars headed by Suzanne Lenglen.

LAWTON LOSES OPENER

LAWTON, Oct. 1.—Chickasha defeated Lawton high school gridders here this afternoon, 13 to 7. It was the initial conference game for the locals.

White Sox Even Chicago Series

Hose Cop Home Run Orgy And Slam Three Hurlers, 10 to 5

CHICAGO, Oct. 1. (AP)—The White Sox evened the city series with the Cubs today by pounding three Bruin pitchers had for a 10 to 5 victory.

Four home runs punctuated the attack, each club getting two.

The Cubs had a man on base each time while the White Sox connected for one without a man on base and again with two on. Bib Falk led the attack for the Sox with three hits, including a home run and a triple. His triple sent Kaufmann, Cub pitcher, from the hill. Blake, who filed to Kauffman was wild and before Osborn could steady himself in the eighth inning Barrett poled a four-bagger with two mates aboard.

Lyons pitched a steady game and although hit freely was given gallant support by his team mates. The scene of activities will switch to Comisky park, home of the American leaguers tomorrow.

The total attendance today was 11,-158, gross receipts were $10,612.52. Players pools $54.47. Each club's share $1,-206, commissioner's share $1,561.52.

The players share in the receipts of the first four games, the winner receiving sixty per cent and losers 40 per cent.

CARDS, YANKS

world's series but the main detonation of excitement is anticipated in St. Louis, where the thrill of participation in the modern classic for the first time will accompany the continuation of hostilities there on Tuesday.

The Yankees, starting the series on familiar grounds and before a home town crowd have been installed a slight favorite with odds 6 to 5 figuring in most of the wagers reported tonight, but among critical observers the outcome is regarded as a toss up. Close to $1,000,000, it was estimated, already has been wagered on the series with neither contender lacking for support.

Southpaws to Meet

The two southpaw stars of the rival contenders, Herb Pennock of the Yankees and Willie Sherdel of the Cardinals, are slated for the opening game test of pitching skill. Miller Huggins, diminutive bench pilot of the Yankees made known his choice definitely after a final workout at the stadium today. Rogers Hornsby, brilliant young playing manager of the National leaguers, did not commit himself finally but virtually conceded that Sherdel would draw the initial assignment.

Both teams have come to the decisive barrier after campaigns that sound them alternately mediocre and brilliant but always possessing the winning punch at critical moments. Both boast fine twirling corps and attacks that have frequently reached terrific proportions, stimulated on the one hand by Babe Ruth's mighty mauling and on the other by a clouting cast headed by Hornsby and Jim Bottomley. Defensively the Cardinals have displayed more consistency but to offset this the Yankees have the benefit of greater experience in the fire of the world's series conflict.

Behind the bat, the National leaguers have an advantage, however, that may prove a vital factor. Their burden is placed upon the shoulders of one man, Bob O'Farrell, but his work throughout the pennant campaign stamped him a star of such magnitude that his manager singled him out as the team's most valuable performer.

The Yankees are handicapped by the loss of their leading backstop, Benny Bengough, who suffered a broken arm in one of the season's closing games. His absence has put the chief burden upon Hank Severeid, veteran of many years, who will take up the opening game assignment and share the rest of the catching responsibility with Pat Collins.

Vernon Defeats Memphis, 13-7

MEMPHIS, Oct. 1.—Baggett's powerful Vernon Lions took a hard-fought game from Memphis this afternoon, 13 to 7.

The battle was so nip and tuck that the outcome was in doubt until the last whistle.

Cameron Noses Out On Coyotes By 6-0 Score

Forward Pass to Lynch and 45-Yard Run Beats Domestics, Holstein Real Power In Line Defense

Too much Lynch proved the downfall of the Coyotes Friday in their hard battle with the Junior college eleven from Cameron Agricultural college, when, with a bitterly fought tie game in sight near the last of the contest, a pass, Wilkerson to Lynch, from midfield followed by a beautiful tearing run around Wichita's left end covered the rest of the 45-yards for a touchdown and the only score of the game.

The Aggies boasted a well-balanced backfield in Lynch, Wilkerson, Powell and Ward which if it had been matched by a line of equal strength would have made things interesting indeed for the high school lads. This combination, with Lynch leading, unleashed a powerful attack in the second half that promised several times to become dangerous.

The Coyotes displayed their greatest play in the line this time, with Squirt Holstein showing the way. Time after time Cameron's fleet backs found themselves stopped for no gain or for losses and nearly every time when the masses untangled themselves the bulky form of Squirt was found to be on top of the ball or the ball-toter. Aside from Holstein the left side of the line still showed much need for schooling, although the line as a whole had learned much since the last game. The Pack's crippled backfield showed two first-class performers in Ray and Allred, while Mitchell showed that he was returning into some of his old-time form as he ripped off gain after gain during his stay in the fray.

Few Gains Made.

With neither side able to penetrate the other sufficiently to earn first downs the first half found most of the play near the middle of the field. Although ground gained was about equal for the two teams, the Coyotes made the only first down registered in the first half. Near the end of the first quarter came the only real thrill of the first half when Rowell took one of Hunky Ray's punts on the Aggie 15-yard mark and reeled off a 55-yard run through the entire Wichita Falls team, eluding and shaking tacklers right and left, Hunky finally hauling him down from behind on the Coyote 30-yard line with nothing else between him and the goal. Allred reeled off many good short gains for the Coyotes, but had little help. Perky Ray frequently was good for short jabs at the line and backed up the line on defensive like a veteran. Wilkerson, Aggie captain, proved to be the only Aggie able to hit the Coyote line for gains with any regularity. The Red and Black defense often stopped the visitors for no gains or losses.

Stonewall Stand.

Soon after the opening of the second half the Aggies took advantage of a fumbled punt and a grand scramble to recover on Wichita's 30-yard line. Plunges by Lynch and Wilkerson then earned the premier first down for the Oklahomans and brought them to the Coyote 20-yard mark. Here the Wichitans tightened into a desperate defense throwing the Aggie backs for losses repeatedly until the referee's announcement read, fourth down and 18 to go. To climax the blow-up the Coyotes gathered in a bad pass from the Aggie center and squelched the threat completely. Mitchell was good for a number of telling gains and Perk Ray kept up his steady pounding to turn the threat back on the Aggies. Tank Horton, who had been kept out of play this year by a knee injury, made his first presence felt by booting them high and accurately and forcing the fight into Aggie territory, one of his boots sailing for a clean 55 yards. Ending the third quarter, Hunky Ray's attempted field place kick from the 36-yard line went wide and the Coyote threat had ended.

Lynch opened the fourth quarter by easily breezing straight through the Coyotes for 8 and then 2 for the Aggie second first down. Rowell came through furiously fighting for another good gain.

The Aggies seemed suddenly to have determined that the scoreless tie should not stand. But the advance halted when Lynch fumbled and half the Wichita line covered the ball. A pass to Horton netted 22 yards to the Aggie 12-yard line. Lefty Watson then led the Coyotes into a furious drive at the Aggie goal that brought the ball to the 5-yard mark, with a score seeming certain. A pass over the goal line, Ray to Horton, fell wide when Horton's injured knee held him back and the Coyote's best bet was gone. A 15-yard penalty against the Coyotes brought the ball to the Coyote 45-yard line from where Wilkerson and Lynch executed their perfect pass and run for the score. The game soon ended with the Coyotes fighting hard around their own 40-yard line. The line-up:

Wichita Falls	Pos.	Aggies
Neal	Left End	Farley
Holstein	Left Tackle	Smith
Downing	Left Guard	Buckwald
Hobbs	Center	Tucker
H. Ray	Right Guard	Wolf
Dobson (C)	Right Tackle	Powers
Sisk	Right End	Havens
Raysor	Quarterback	Rowell
Allred	Left Half	Ward
Fly	Right Half	Lynch
P. Ray	Fullback	Wilkerson

Substitutions — Wichita Falls: Mitchell for Fly; Powell for H. Ray; Horton for Neal; Watson for Allred; Francis for Raysor; Brown for Downing; Turner for Hobbs; Bullard for Horton; Dickey for Francis.

Aggies: Howard for Smith; Cox for Howard; Smith for Cox; Cox for Farley; Walker for Cox; Howard for Wolf.

CAL NOT COMING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. (AP) President Coolidge does not expect to attend the Army-Navy football game in Chicago as he believes it would be inadvisable to leave Washington at that time.

Army - Navy Boxes Bring Big Price

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.(AP)—The first box auctioned today by the South Park commissioners for the Army-Navy football game here November 27 brought $2,500. It is situated immediately behind the box reserved for President Coolidge on the army side of the municipal stadium.

The second box was sold to a meat packer for $1,250. The first box was purchased by a real estate man.

On the navy side the first box sold brought $1,200. It is directly behind the box reserved for an admiral and opposite one held for Vice President Dawes. It was bought by a real estate man.

Close Game Due At College Station

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 1. (AP)—The following line-up is expected to start the Texas Aggie-Southwestern university game here Saturday, which will be the opening contest of the season at Aggieland:

Southwestern	Pos.	A. & M.
Ballew	Left End	Sykes
Duncan	Left Tackle	Dietrich (C)
Hodges	Left Guard	Wylie
Lehmberg	Center	Watts
Reynolds	Right Guard	Rektorick
Hawkins	Right Tackle	Sprott
Newman	Right End	Deffenbach
Young	Left Half	Colgin
Brannon	Right Half	Woodman
Weeks	Fullback	Simmons
Blackburn	Quarterback	Hunt

Indications are that one of the largest opening day crowds in the history of the college will witness the game. This is the first time the first game of the season has not been played on Friday. In view of the splendid showing of the Pirates against Baylor last week, a close game is expected. The Georgetown team showed much strength on the defense, but little offensive power and this week Coach Edens has been trying to develop his driving strength.

The Aggie coaches have utilized their time in developing reserve strength and smoothing out the rough edges in individual play. Neither team has been weakened by injuries.

Frogs Under Dogs In Centenary Tilt

FORT WORTH, Oct. 1. (AP)—The fight that has characterized the T. C. U. football teams of the past is the big hope—almost the only hope of the Frogs Saturday afternoon when they meet the heavier Centenary Gentlemen from Shreveport at the T. C. U. stadium.

Four regulars of the Purple and White, Captain John Washmon, Herman Clark, quarter; Bear Wolfe and Rags Matthews, linesmen, will be on the sidelines when the game starts Saturday at 3:30 o'clock. This is not the usual optimistic talk before the game. None of the four will get in.

Blackie Williams, plunging fullback, will be shifted to quarter and will be given a chance to show his ability at running the team. Harry Taylor and Hobo Carson will be in the backfield, as usual.

Mantell's Conqueror Goes Into Intensive Training For Chance At World's Welter Championship

Gorman, On Road to Comeback, Fights Draw With Matsuda and Puts It On Romonoff

Jack Gorman, victor by two falls out of three over Dutch Mantell Thursday and who meets Matty Matsuda for the world's welterweight championship at the Eleventh and Ohio arena next Friday, departed Wichita Falls last night for San Angelo where he intends to wind up his training in preparation for the Jap. While in San Angelo Gorman will take on Sailor Burke in a conditioning match.

Victory a Surprise.

Gorman's victory over Mantell came more or less as a surprise to many of the ringsiders and a few fans went away at the close of the battle declaring Jack's victory was not a conclusive one. Mantell captured the first fall in 24 minutes with a double toe hold. Gorman came back to balance accounts in 13 minutes, catching Mantell from the rear when the inexorable Dutchman got into an argument with Referee Joe Kopecky. The deciding fall came much in the same manner. Kopecky pulled Mantell on a break-away from under the ropes whereupon the Dutchman endeavored to put the third man to the canvas. Gorman bounced up in the meantime, tied into Dutch and had him pinned before the crowd hardly knew what it was all about.

However, those who were not satisfied with the outcome need only to turn back to the match staged here several weeks ago when Mantell won a verdict over Gorman in much the same manner, shoving the referee on top of Jack and diving in to pin him before Gorman could extricate himself from the excited arbiter's flailing arms and legs. So, after all, Dutch and Jack are at a standoff, so to speak.

On Road Back.

Gorman seems on the road to a comeback. Not many weeks ago he lost a match here by disqualification to Billy Romonoff. Just last week he beat Romonoff unmercifully. About a year ago he lost to Matsuda here, but six weeks ago fought the Jap to a two-hour draw. Thursday he avenged himself on Mantell. If the stars read correctly and Gorman keeps up the meteoric pace he has set of recent weeks, next Friday he will turn the tables on Matsuda. Gorman has another point in his favor, if any, and that is the fact that 1926 is proving a mighty poor year for champions. Today there are few champs remaining of the host in various departments of athletics that started the year. Matty may be next in line for defeat.

At any rate, one never can tell just what Gorman is liable to get away with. Often he looks like a sure loser, merely to win in a walk.

On other occasions, however, it has been a little the opposite.

Sixth Dixie Crown For Texas Loop

DALLAS, Oct. 1.(AP)—Victory of the Dallas Steers over the New Orleans Pelicans in the final game of the Dixie series yesterday gave the Texas league its sixth championship series out of seven that have been played with the Southern association.

The series was inaugurated as an annual feature in 1920, Fort Worth defeating Little Rock four games to two. In 1921 Fort Worth took four games out of six from Memphis. The following year the Southern circuit, represented by Mobile won its only Dixie championship, Fort Worth losing four games out of six to the Bears. Fort Worth came back the year following and downed New Orleans four games to two and repeated against Memphis in 1924, four games to three. In 1925 Atlanta entered the series for the first time and was beaten by Fort Worth in four out of six games.

PRESS CLEAN; MOORE SAYS

Charges That It Is Owned By Sinister Factions Discredited

AUSTIN, Oct. 1. (AP)—Charges that the press of the state is owned and controlled by sinister interests seeking to control legislation were discredited by a reversal of the attitude of the senate majority toward the campaign investigation resolution, defeated Thursday, Senator Joe Moore of Greenville, declared Friday.

"The Texas press has been abused and maligned and charged with sinister purposes because of support of certain candidates for state offices, by some who court the disfavor of newspapers and take occasion to drag the press of the state through slime and filth in hope of creating prejudice against newspapers," Senator Moore said. Indictments against the press in the resolution, which was defeated on reconsideration, were unwarranted, and ought to be resented by every editor in Texas, Moore continued.

Says Press Clean.

Senator Moore said the press of Texas is clean and that it is the one-free and untrammeled champion of the people's rights. He said Texas daily and weekly editors came from the ranks as a rule and are close to the people and more nearly represent the wishes of the people than any other agency in existence.

"Reconsideration and defeat of the resolution to investigate the campaign expenditures of candidates for state offices completely exonerates the daily and weekly press of the implied charge that editorial policies were swayed by money influences, and justifies my opposition to the resolution, and the people of Texas should rejoice in the fact that they are to be saved the proposed waste of $125,000 provided in the resolution.

"Dan Moody, governor-nominee, had no more to do with the reversal of the senate's position than did the defeated candidates. After sane and deliberate consideration of the purposes of the resolution, some who previously voted for the measure found themselves launched the attack and brought about its defeat. These senators and the people of Texas are to be congratulated for the verdict exonerating the press of the state."

India's fifth successive favorable monsoon this year is causing predictions of great prosperity there this winter.

Record Your Bill Of Sale Now, Is Parker's Request

Motor car owners are requested to record their bill of sales before the first of December, Charley Parker, in charge of the motor license bureau at the court house, stated yesterday, and urged that everybody comply with this request in order to relieve the congested conditions which always prevail at the last moment when motorists come in for their new licenses.

By recording the bill of sale at this time, there will be no delay in issuing the license and the work can be done twice as quickly, Mr. Parker explained.

B. C. Davis Of Electra Married

JOE PATE

J. C. THOMPSON

To Joe Pate and J. C. Thompson architects who designed the Garden of Dreams, goes for the architectural achievement obtained in the gorgeous new home. Every detail of the entire structure was studied and worked over for weeks before the home became a set of plans and the plans became a home.

Pate and Thompson searched the old world and the new for their ideas and effects. From Barcelona and Madrid, from Haxana, Florida and California came the various features and appealing little oddities that have been combined in El Jardin.

El Jardin de los Suenos—The Record News Garden of Dreams—was visited by thousands Friday night when it was formally opened to the public for the first time.

Set down in a mass of brilliant lights and ablaze within with myriad electrics, it brought gasps of amazement from those who had little dreamed of such gorgeousness could be achieved in residential building.

The home will be opened again today and tonight, Sunday and every night next week. The public is cordially invited and earnestly urged to go through it.

Immediately following the accident, the injured man was taken to Gainsville and had his foot dressed, later coming by train to Electra, where Dr. Ralph E. Weller will take care of the case.

Two Way Traffic To Fair Grounds

Two-way traffic at the east and west gates of the Texas-Oklahoma fair ground will be allowed this year, it was announced yesterday by W. B. Hamilton, president of the fair association.

Automobiles will be admitted free at the gates and the parking spaces within the fair grounds. The railroad and traction companies have agreed to keep crossings open at all times to permit the passage of vehicles to the grounds.

"We can accommodate four cars at a time at the east entrance, and traffic going both ways can be cared for easily. There will be less delays this year than at previous expositions, and we have enlarged the entrances sufficiently to take care of a multitude of people within a short time," Mr. Hamilton said.

The west gate will also be able to accommodate a large number of vehicles. In fact, the fair association officials are prepared to handle the crowds as fast as they arrive at the fair grounds entrances, it was stated.

Business Houses To Close At Six

The "Pageant of Progress" and the coronation of the fourth queen of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair and Exposition is scheduled to take place tonight at 8 o'clock at the fair grounds, and in order that employes of the stores and business houses may have the privilege of seeing the pageant, a majority of business houses of the city will close at 6 o'clock Saturday evening. The announcement is made by John Thomas, secretary of the Retail Merchants' association.

TAX ROLLS OPEN.

The 1926 tax rolls for the city of Wichita Falls have been completed and the books are now open for registering payments of these taxes, it was announced at the city tax collector's office yesterday.

Everybody who wants to pay their 1926 taxes may do so at any time now, and those coming early will avoid the rush of the last few days and the penalty imposed if the tax remains unpaid after the date set for closing the books.

The British treasury recently took possession of 1,549 of Scottish savings for which no owner could be found.

"If Any One Is Guilty, I Hope They Catch It"

"I don't care who it happens to be; if they find any one guilty of misconduct in office, they ought to be and I hope they will be punished."

Such was the opinion voiced Friday by Representative Roy J. Daniel who returned to Wichita Falls from Austin where he is attending the special session of the legislature and who delivered himself of the above sentiment when questioned about the legislative investigation into administrative departments of the state. Daniels voted for a full investigation of all state administrative officers.

He expressed belief that the legislators faced a rather lengthy session yet. Numerous bills have been introduced that will require considerable attention, he said, and their proponents will be loath to let them die.

Daniels came to Wichita Falls for a week-end visit with his family and will return to Austin next Monday.

TORNADO HITS LAKE

Okoboji Region Swept By Severe Winds

SPENCER, Iowa, Oct. 1. (AP)—A tornado swept a section of the Lake Okoboji resort region north of here last night. Indirect reports said many cottages were demolished and that a Methodist Episcopal tabernacle recently built at a cost of $20,000 was destroyed.

No reports of casualties were received here, but communication was seriously hampered today.

State Officials To Enforce Laws

Traffic laws must be observed. This is the statement made yesterday by G. A. Cunningham and Hume Graves of Austin, state highway officers, who have been in Wichita county for ten days working in the interest of highway laws and regulations. They have effected a number of arrests of automobile drivers.

A majority of the arrests have been for violations of regulations in regard to the display of license numbers. They said that in the future those persons operating machines without plates both front and rear will be arrested. Cunningham and Graves are on an official visit and they explained that they do not receive any fees by making the arrests.

Another violation of the law which has been found to be frequent is that license numbers are switched from one car to another. This is another violation of the law and is subject to a heavy fine, the officers said.

Cars from other states who have been here for a period of 30 days are required by law to obtain and display Texas license plates, they said.

3 PAY TAXES.

Three persons took advantage of paying their city taxes on the first day they could be paid, Friday, October 1, according to Ralph Hyer, tax collector, yesterday. He urged that citizens pay their taxes as soon as possible and prevent inconvenience to tax payers and overwork members of the tax collector's force.

Unblemished SKIN

Gives You confidence

HOW conscious we are of our skin! Even one little pimple or blackhead will so embarrass us that we want to hide right away. And eczema, boils, blotches and rashes! Why, these awful things simply destroy all our ambition!

But what confidence we have in ourselves if our skin is clear and unblemished—free from any eruptions or breaking out! A clear skin is one of the greatest possessions in the world—and it is so easy to have it. All that is necessary is to keep our systems full of rich, red, pure blood. S. S. S. helps Nature build this blood. And the impurities that cause these so-called skin disorders are driven right out of the system.

If you want the kind of skin that captivates men and compels the admiration of other women, just remember that you can't have it if your blood is impoverished. But, just build red-blood-cells in your blood with S. S. S. and your dream of a soft, rosy, velvet skin, clear of blemishes, will be realized. Then notice the difference in the way you feel.

S. S. S. has proven for generations that it helps Nature build the rich, red blood that makes beautiful skin and healthy bodies. Let S. S. S. prove it for you.

Get S. S. S. from any drug store. And get the larger bottle, it's more economical.

Miss Sybil Kell Crowned Queen of T-O Fair

A flare of lights, a glint of color, a burst of music and a flash of beauty unfolded Saturday night—and when it was all over, Her Royal Highness, Lady Sybil of the House of Kell had been crowned Queen of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair with all the pomp and splendor befitting a royal court.

It was the fourth annual ceremony, and even as it added another illustrious name to the list of regal queens who have gone before, it added another chapter of sparkling brilliance in the history of a great exposition. It was a parade of fashion, a scintillant drama of youth and beauty symbolizing the vigor, the freshness and the dash of two sister states whose power and wealth is storied in the Texas-Oklahoma Fair of today.

But while the coronation of the queen struck a ringing note of pomp, another note was struck before the big assemblage that filled the grandstand last night. It was the pagent of progress, told in bold and lavish scale by a cast the vastness of which was rivalled only by the vastness of the topic with which it dealt. It was a picturesque dramatization of Wichita Falls and its progress from a tiny spot in the limitless domain of the redskin on to the present where it holds commanding power as a leader in the municipalities of the southwest.

A trumpet blast announced shortly after 8 o'clock that the queen and her entourage was in the offing. Light leaped out from blinding spots and an improvised stage on the track in front of the stand was silhoutted in a flood of electricity.

From one of the darkened lanes leading to the stage a herald appeared, followed by trim ranks of red and purple, that, as they emerged from the dusk beyond the reach of the electrics, took definite shape as the marching lines of Maskat's famed patrol. Two escorts, and then the Prime Minister of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair in full evening dress. It was W. B. Hamilton, president of the fair association.

Paced by his escorts he mounted the stage and awaited that which was to come.

It came speedily and in such gorgeous array as to make the great crowd gasp.

"Lady Mary of the House of Brown," the loud speakers high overhead roared down, and a shining auto rolled to a stop in a circle of white. Negro pages leapt to the door and Lady Mary descended. Her shimmering gown and elegant train reflected back in myriad tints the ceaseless beam of powerful arcs as she tripped slowly past the movie machines and then up a winding path of light to the floor below the throne.

"Lady Helen of the House of Snider," the speakers roared, and another glittering automobile slid smoothly to a halt. Lady Helen stepped from the car, her long train a flame of flashing color as she, too, passed the movie men and mounted to her place beside the queen.

"Lady Gene of the House of Nelson," and Lady Jo Betsy of the House of Miller," followed in quick succession. Their regal robes, as they fell to the floor beside those of the first two maids in waiting, laid a pattern of weaving tints upon the carpet. And soon they were joined by Lady Bernice of the House of Martin and Lady Helen of the House of Grisham, both of whom, like their predecessors, added to the rainbow of riotous shades over which the unquenchable lights chased flickering shadows.

Came then the visiting duchesses: Lady Effie Dee of the House of Scanford, duchess of Amarillo; Lady Katherine of the House of Douglas, duchess of Grandfield; Lady Bonnie of the House of Jennings duchess of Electra; Lady Edith of the House of Von Burkelo, duchess of Altus; Lady Anne of the House of Hardin, duchess of Eastland; Lady Jewel of the House of Thompson, duchess of Iowa Park; Lady Gerda of the House of Eklund, dutchess of Chickasha; Lady Marie of the House of Brunson; duchess of Vernon; Lady Virginia of the House of Calhoun, dutchess of Walters.

Duchess all them, folded in gowns befitting any queen of ancient or modern times and making, in the completed picture on the stage, a vision and setting to which any queen might with confidence be led.

Then came the special maids to the queen, Nancy Jane Harlin and Vera Hale, followed by a bevy of tiny flower girls who land a path of blossoms over which the queen might tread. Thus the stage was set and into the foreground the queen herself appeared to receive the homage of her subjects.

Her flowing train flashed brilliantly while her slim wand danced like a pencil of fire, as on the arm of the Prime Minister, she walked with stately bearing to the throne.

In such surroundings Lady Sybil of the House of Kell became Queen of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair and there, for the balance of the evening she reigned serenly while pagentry and drama was unfolded around her court.

The pageant, staged under the direction of Hal C. Worth, was an episode of six parts that mustered in its showing hundreds of men, women and children, the cattle of the range, the implements of the field, the business man from the office and even the outlaw from wilds.

Starting with the Indian tribe huddled about the campfire they traced through successive scenes the spirit of adventure blazing an inquisitive path into the great southwest where, impressed with the advantages it found, it resolved to stay. Then came Coronado with his brilliant calvacade of Spanish adventurers in search of the red man's gold; and then the Priest Padillo who, his christianizing mission a failure, met death at the hands of savage ambuscaders.

Development came to Texas. The Spirit of Adventure lured the pioneer, the school teacher and the pastor to the section and then came the cowboys, the tillers of the soil and the hot winds, drouths and plagues that were eventually driven backward by the spirit of irrigation in order that man might claim his due from the fertile soil.

The great bank robbery was just that. It traced a now historic incident in which two desperadoes looted a bank, killed the cashier, wounded another employee and finally were captured and strung up by their necks until dead. The cashier burst from the door and dropped in his tracks; the bookkeeper fled—precipitously, and the creaking of the gallows rope ended a grewsome spectacle.

The great wolf hunt with Col. Theodore Roosevelt an honored guest, the coming of the oil driller and his lofty pile of lumber that marked the hiding place of liquid wealth; and, in ending, the patriotism of the war in which Mr. and Mrs. Wichita Falls sent their stalwart sons away to battle, followed rapidly. Then, to close a miniature city, its ramparts stretching high toward the clouds, burst from behind a veil of shrubbery while "The City That Faith Built" was emblazoned in electric lights far above it as scarlet flares lit up its base and gave a spectacular concluding touch.

The cast was well chosen. It included Miss Wilmar Brown and Miss Ora Watkins Arnold as dancers before the queen's court; Mrs. J. S. Pittman as the spirit of adventure; J. B. Marlow as the pioneer farmer; Miss Dorothy Nolen as the spirit of irrigation; William McKee and Earl Craig as the chuck wagon bosses; Frank Clancy and Joe Persky as the bank robbers; Tom L. Burnett, D. P. Taylor, Wlilie Burnett, Dave Whyte, J. R. Newlin, W. J. Tucker and Joe Long as the wolf hunters; Fog Horn Clancey as Col. Roosevelt; J. S. Pittman as Mr. Wichita Falls; Miss Daisy Slopansky as Mrs. Wichita Falls and also as the school teacher; Dr. J. F. Fletcher as Coronado; Edmond Coffey as the Priest Padillo; H. O. Cravens as the Spirit of Religion; Joe Huckins as Uncle Sam; Mrs. Eugene Graham as the Red Cross Nurse; Tomie Gates as Miss Liberty; J. T. Woodhouse as the Confederate Veteran; Ella Merle Mathis as the Spirit of Wichita Falls; Juanita Harrison as Youth,

WENTZ' WELL IN FOR 2,000 BBLS.

Opens New Field In Upton County; Pay At 2,331 Feet

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Oct. 2 (AP).—Another oil field in Upton county has been opened with the bringing in of the Wentz oil corporation's number one Sherk, in wildcat territory, three and one-half miles east of the main producing field of Upton county. The well is located in the center of section 15, block 1, M. K. & T. railway survey.

The new producer tapped the pay at 2,331 feet and drilled in six inches, after which it flowed at an estimated rate of 2,000 barrels a day. A control head was used to shut the well in until storage could be erected, but the resulting back pressure forced the oil around the six-inch casing seat, after which it flowed at the rate of 500 barrels daily from between the six and eight inch casing.

Acreage price have jumped with the strike and offerings in adjoining sections have been withdrawn from the market until the new producer has been completed. A big drilling campaign such as followed completion of Dixie Oil company's number 2, Hughes, in the western part of Upton field for 2,000 barrels daily is looked for.

GENE CELEBRATES WITH A LITTLE ICE CREAM

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24. (AP)—Some of Gene Tunney's friends crowded into his rooms when he arrived there after being proclaimed world's champion heavyweight fighter and tried to "throw a party" for him.

"What'll you have, Gene?" asked one of the merry-makers.

"If you don't mind," he said, "I'd like to have a little ice cream."

After the severest strain he has ever undergone, Tunney called for ice cream. His condition is his main concern, and he knows the food properties of ice cream. It builds health, for it furnishes the body with nutritive, energy-producing food.
