Russian Blockade Cannot Be Permitted, Says Rusk

Guns Trained on Army Convoy at Checkpoint

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today that Russia's latest blockade of a U.S. Army convoy on the autobahn leading to Berlin "cannot be permitted." He called it a "very serious matter."

Rusk made his statement to reporters following an hour-long closed-door meeting with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He briefed the senators on both the Berlin situation and conditions in South Viet Nam.

BERLIN (UPI) — The United States has protested to the Soviet Union over the blockade of a Berlin-bound U.S. Army convoy, Western officials said today.

But five Soviet armored cars mounting machineguns continued to block the 12-vehicle, 44-man convoy in a dispute over clearance procedures which began Monday morning. The State Department called the incident "quite serious." Soviet tanks were seen in the area.

(In Moscow, U.S. British and French diplomats conferred today amid speculation a joint Western Allied protest was being readied.)

Western officials said U.S. Army officers formally protested the holdup on the scene Monday at the Marienborn checkpoint, just across the border from West Germany. They denounced the blockade as a violation of the Western right of free access to West Berlin and demanded the convoy's immediate clearance.

There was no Soviet reply. The Western officials said, and more than 28 hours later the convoy remained blocked. Other traffic rolls.

Non-convoy traffic was not being interfered with. Three U.S. Army supply trucks, one traveling alone and the other two from Soviet officials today at the checkpoint where the convoy was being held.

Supply trucks carry only a driver and co-driver, who can be counted by the Soviets without dismounting. Soviet demands that convoy passengers dismount for counting caused the convoy holdup.

Political 'Seers' Watch Off-Year Elections Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The grass-roots political impact of the Negro civil rights "revolution" gets its first major assessment today in off-year state and local elections across the nation.

The racial controversy was particularly in evidence in the spirited contests for governor conducted in Mississippi and Kentucky, and in Philadelphia's mayoralty election.

The response to the Negro demands was not of major concern to most political strategists; it was the reaction of the white majority to those demands that was thought to provide a clue to 1964's general election.

In Mississippi, where both candidates are ardent and outspoken segregationists, the civil rights issue took an odd twist as the Republicans made their first serious bid since Reconstruction to capture the governor's mansion.

Gov. Paul B. Johnson, a Democrat, was still favored to win but Republican Rubel Phillips, a handsome young admirer of Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., made a race of it.

Barnett Backs Johnson
Johnson argued that a true two-party system in Mississippi would split that state's white voters and give Negroes the balance of power. Phillips said that segregation would be strengthened by a two-party system because each party would serve as a racial watchdog over the other.

Johnson was backed by outgoing Gov. Ross R. Barnett, who is barred by law from succeeding himself, and some of the biggest names in Mississippi politics. Phillips claimed he would have stood stronger than Barnett against the admission of Negro James H. Meredith to the University of Mississippi last year.

The Democrats were also favored to win the gubernatorial race in Kentucky where Republican Louie B. Nunn opposed Democrat Edward T. Breathitt Jr. But here again the Democratic margin was expected to be smaller than in recent years.

In Kentucky the civil rights issue centered on the executive order issued earlier this year by retiring Democratic Gov. Bert Combs. It forbids racial discrimination in all business establishments licensed by the state. Nunn hit hard at the order, not on racial grounds, he said, but on constitutional grounds — a position somewhat similar to that of Sen. Goldwater. He also attempted to link Breathitt to the Kennedy administration.

Colorado Mountains Hit by New Blizzard

DENVER (UPI) — Another snowstorm hit sections of the Colorado mountains today, adding moisture to the state's reservoirs and slowing traffic over some of the higher passes.

The Colorado state patrol said it was snowing hard early today in the Gunnison Valley and on Loveland Pass, west of Denver. Light snow was reported on Monarch Pass, Wolf Creek Pass, Molas and Coal Bank.

Meanwhile, eight Denver residents rescued Monday after being trapped by a snowstorm for almost 24 hours in their car on 11,500-foot Corona Pass were reported in excellent condition today.

The eight, including seven members of one family, four of them small children, survived the night-long blizzard by running the engine of the car off and on to get heat and by wrapping the children in rubber foam torn from the seats of the automobile.

The state patrol said there was about five feet of snow in the area at the time the eight were rescued Monday afternoon.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said the mountains would continue to get snow flurries throughout the day but predicted little or no precipitation at lower elevations.

Terrorists Blow Up Oil Pipeline

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (UPI) — Pro-Communist terrorists blew up a vital American-owned oil pipeline for the eighth time in 18 months Monday, setting off a major oil fire.

The Armed Forces of National Liberation, strong supporters of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, were suspected of dynamiting the pipeline in the barren area about 100 miles east of here.

Hundreds of fire fighters of the Creole Petroleum Corp., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey, brought the fire under control Monday night.

Repairs were begun today on the line which carries 300,000 barrels of oil a day from the Ule pumping station near the rich Lake Maracaibo oilfields to the Amay refinery.

An adjacent pipeline with a capacity of 225,000 barrels a day was not hit and refinery operations at Amay continued unimpaired due to the large quantity of oil stored there.

The pipelines are particularly vulnerable to sabotage because they traverse miles of sagebrush country and are paralleled by a well-traveled highway. Close surveillance of the entire 138-mile length of pipe is nearly impossible.

Monday's blast occurred little more than a mile from the site of a similar dynamiting in August.

Mme. Nhu Scheduled to Join Children in Rome

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu may fly to Rome Wednesday to rejoin her three younger children who were in South Viet Nam when the Diem regime was overthrown.

The unpredictable first lady of the deposed South Vietnamese government remained in the seclusion of her $96-a-day Beverly Wilshire Hotel suite today where she has been since the successful coup.

Mme. Nhu had said earlier that she would go to Rome today, but then changed her airline reservation to Wednesday. She indicated that she wanted to talk with the children by long distance telephone from here after they arrived in Italy.

The children, ranging in age from 4 to 15, were reported en route from Saigon to Rome via Bangkok, Thailand. Mme. Nhu's eldest daughter, Le Thuy, 15, is with her.

Travel arrangements for the children were made by the United States "in response to an oral request through a friend." The State Department said Roger Hilsman, assistant secretary for Far Eastern affairs, has talked with Mme. Nhu by telephone and that she "expressed appreciation" for the assistance.

A source at the hotel where the deposed first lady is staying said she had talked by telephone with "a general" in Saigon who expressed regrets over the deaths of her husband, strong man of the overthrown government, and his brother, the ousted president.

The source said Mme. Nhu "took the news rather hard" and spent most of the day lying down, although she did not ask for medical aid.

Mme. Nhu's father, Tran Van Chuong, former ambassador to the United States and a political foe of the deposed Diem government, took time out from his speaking tour of the West Monday morning to meet briefly with his daughter.

The 65-year-old diplomat, who had been feuding publicly with her, brushed aside questions from visiting newsmen after his hour-long talk with Mme. Nhu about their political differences which caused him to resign as ambassador.

"As soon as I learned of the tragic events, my heart was very near my daughter," said Chuong. "We spoke only of ourselves and our family."

Slain President's Brother Is Prisoner of New Regime

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — Slain President Ngo Dinh, Diem's younger brother today took refuge in the U.S. consulate in Hue but was turned over to the provisional government, diplomatic sources said.

The sources said the brother, Ngo Dinh Can, was flown to Saigon in a U.S. government plane.

Can was Diem's overlord in the Hue area, scene of some of the strongest repressions of the Buddhists. He was hated and feared by the Buddhist majority in the central Vietnamese city and officials were concerned that his home there would be mobbed. He had been under house arrest since the coup Friday.

The sources said Can took refuge this morning in the U.S. consulate building, a house that combines consular offices and residences.

How Can managed to elude the guards outside his house and reach the consulate was not known.

It also was not known whether he asked U.S. consul John Helble for political asylum, although it was believed likely he did so.

The decision to hand Can over to Vietnamese authorities was made after discussions with the

Miners' Rescue Efforts Snagged By Obstruction

PEINE, Germany (UPI) — Efforts to drive steel reinforcing pipe into a rescue shaft toward 11 men trapped in a flooded iron mine were snagged again by an obstruction today.

But a drill engineer said, "We'll reach them if we have to eat our way through."

The new delay came about an hour after the biggest mobile drill in Western Europe was thought to have completed reaming out rubble blocking the reinforcing operation for more than 15 hours.

But rescue officials announced steel pipe being lowered into the 135-foot bore hole was blocked again by an obstruction between 45 and 60 feet down.

Engineers were attempting to ease the pipes past the obstruction by hand, working the pipes from side to side.

Rescue officials were visibly disturbed over the new obstruction, about six feet beneath the section of bore hole that snagged the pipes Monday night.

When the bore hole was reinforced by steel and cement the drill was to begin its final 52 foot plunge to the entombed 11 men.

Breakthrough was not expected until sometime Wednesday at the earliest and rescue officials said it might be Thursday before the men were brought to the surface.

Lower Food, Drink

Imprisoned in a watery chamber measuring 9-by-12 feet, the men have been kept alive by food and drink lowered through a narrow communications shaft since their discovery Sunday night.

They shared the watery chamber with the corpses of 10 comrades killed by rockslides. The 11 men were the last known survivors of the 129 working in the mine when a sedimentation basin on the surface collapsed Oct. 24, dumping 19 million gallons of sludge-filled water into the mine. A total of 89 men escaped or were subsequently rescued.

Grain Fills Streets as Boxcar Shortage Grows

HANNIBAL, Mo. (UPI) — A mountain of corn stood on a street in this Mississippi River town today as testimony to the worst shortage of grain-to-market boxcars since the Korean War.

The Hannibal grain terminal, its elevators already filled, began dumping the newly harvested corn in the street last Wednesday. It was covered with huge sheets of plastic to prevent spoilage.

But the sight of grain piled high in the streets of Midwest terminal cities was not uncommon today.

An estimated 19.85 million bushels of grain were stored in the open during the past week in the Midwest. Officials feared the loss from spoilage might run as high as $40 million.

Elevators were full or filling rapidly throughout Missouri. Grain movement in the state was practically at a standstill.

Washington Sees Blockade As 'Political Gain' Effort

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. officials today viewed Russia's latest Berlin highway blockade as part of a Kremlin campaign to seek political gain through repeated incidents of "brinkmanship."

The State Department said that the blocking of an American troop convoy since early Monday had created a situation of "quite serious dimensions."

Diplomats of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany met at the State Department Monday night to plan counter moves and were expected to meet again today.

Other Allied consultations were going on in Bonn. The new incident appeared to have removed any thoughts administration officials still held that recent Soviet actions challenging Western access to Berlin might have resulted from "misunderstanding."

The Washington assessment was that Russia probably still was sincere in its cooperation with the Kennedy administration to reduce the risk of nuclear war; for example, through the recently signed limited nuclear test ban and the "hot line" communications link between Washington and Moscow.

Officials also believe the Kremlin still wants to purchase American wheat, although Russia has not yet replied to recent American proposals for compromise shipping terms for grain sales.

But the Russians have made clear, officials feel, that these forms of cooperation and contact do not change the Soviet Union's long-standing goal to whittle away the Western position in Berlin.

Post World War II agreements provide for Western access to West Berlin, and the United States has declared that this access is one of its "vital interests" to be defended at all costs.

Eldon Martin, general counsel for Burlington Railroad, said that at the end of October, Burlington had only 493 empty boxcars and needed 2,225.

"It's the worst shortage I've ever seen and I've been in the business for 35 years," Martin said.

Other railroad officials said the shortage could become even worse if the wheat sale to the Soviet Union is completed.

The railroads have estimated that 100,000 boxcars would be needed to transport grain sold to Russia from storage areas in the Midwest to shipping ports.

The boxcar shortage has been attributed to many causes other than the bumper grain harvest this year.

The Association of American Railroads said part of the shortage arises from the fact that there are 106,542 fewer boxcars in use this year than in 1958.

Association figures also show that while 20,821 boxcars were placed in service during the first three quarters of this year, 23,882 were scrapped.

In addition, 8 per cent of the nation's boxcar fleet is in need of repair, the largest percentage since World War II.

Poll Tax Is Primary Target In Saturday Special Election

By CARLTON WILSON (First in a Series)
AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The poll tax as a requirement for voting is the primary target of a special election Saturday which has four proposed amendments to the state constitution on the ballot.

Of the 2,268,404 Texans now eligible to vote, 1,654,805 paid poll taxes earlier this year. Although they obviously know what the tax is, many aspects of the Nov. 9 balloting may be confusing.

To begin with, the wording of the proposal is such that a vote "against" the poll tax is actually a vote "for" the constitutional change. The same issue was on primary election ballots of both the Democratic and Republican parties in the form of a referendum in 1962, but with different wording.

In that straw vote on May 5, a majority of about 6 to 5 members of each party said they were in favor of abolishing the poll tax as a prerequisite to voting. The total was 659,111 in favor of doing away with the tax requirement and 576,808 wanting to retain the levy.

Already exempted from the tax are persons over the age of 60 or those turning 21 and voting in their first election; and residents of towns smaller than 10,000.

So a close vote on the issue in Saturday's election is likely, with organized campaigns on both sides of the question.

State Rep. Horace Houston, a Dallas Republican, leads the drive to retain the tax. Backers contend that it is a fair and orderly system.

Gov. John Connally has urged that the tax requirement be abolished. Peter O'Donnell Jr., state GOP chairman, said he plans to vote with Democrat Connally against the tax. A long list of public officials have made statements in favor of abolition.

If Texas fails to do away with the tax requirement, a pending amendment to the U.S. Constitution needs to be ratified by only two more states would abolish all poll tax requirements for federal elections. Thus Texas could wind up with two sets of "eligible" voters—one group able to cast ballots in state elections and a larger group for federal elections.

The state poll tax rate is now $1.50 of which $1 goes to public schools and 50 cents to general revenue. Counties may add another 25 cents (and most do for a total poll tax of $1.75).

Legislators have set up an alternate system of voter registration to go into effect if the proposed amendment abolishing the poll tax requirement is adopted. A 25 cent annual registration fee would have to be paid each year before Jan. 31—the current deadline for the poll tax.

The present poll tax provision is in itself a constitutional amendment, passed in 1902 after the state constitution of 1876 placed a $1 poll tax on adult males for support of public schools but originally did not make the tax receipt a requirement for voting.

An attempt to do away with the tax requirement in 1949 was unsuccessful, as a margin of 172,284 to 133,550 defeated a proposed constitutional amendment in an election where only two out of ten proposed changes passed.

GLOVE GLOSSARY
NEW YORK (UPI) — Historical types in the glove industry testify that the hand coverings have gone to all lengths since their beginnings.

They've been long, short, longer, shorter. But what you probably didn't know: gloves have been fought over, have symbolized authority in the names of royalty, have conveyed messages of love. The little innocent mitt coverings also have been instruments of revenge and murder, says the glove historians.

Council Takes Up Independence Plan for Bishops

By LOUIS CASSELS

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Ecumenical Council today took up a "declaration of independence" for bishops — proposals for a sweeping decentralization of authority in the Catholic Church.

Awaiting the council fathers, as they returned to work after a four-day recess, was a document which is likely to stir sharp controversy in the debates.

It asserts that bishops should be allowed to run their own diocese without undue interference from the Vatican bureaucracy.

The document does not use quite such blunt language, of course. It speaks instead of the need for harmonious relationships between bishops and the Roman Curia. But it clearly reflects the resentments of many Catholic bishops against the necessity of consulting Rome on even minor matters of administration — and sometimes waiting months for an answer.

The key principle which the document would establish is that bishops, while remaining under the over-all jurisdiction of the Pope, "shall have all the faculties which the proper and expeditious exercise of their ordinary and immediate power demands."

Canon lawyers pointed out that this amounts to a "declaration of independence" for bishops, assuring them of far greater autonomy in routine administration of their diocese than they have had in the past. The point is driven home by another section of the doctrine, which emphasizes that the various congregations, offices and tribunals of the Roman Curia, while acting in the name of the Pope, should be "at the service of the bishops."

This polite, seemingly innocuous terminology actually packs a revolutionary punch, because the curia in the past has tended to boss bishops rather than "serve" them.

The edible bud of the palmetto palm of southeastern U.S. is said to have the flavor of young cabbage.

in advance. It was considered clear, however, that the United States could not allow the convoy to be blocked indefinitely.

A U.S. spokesman called the holdup "a flagrant violation of the Western Allies' unrestricted right of access to Berlin."

This language reflected the firm belief of Western officials that the holdup, like the two last month, was not caused by any misunderstanding by low-ranking Soviet officials. Officials noted that the Soviet officer directing the blockade was a lieutenant colonel, Viktor Spiridonov, and that he was waiting for the convoy when it arrived in Communist territory on its way back to Berlin from maneuvers in West Germany.

In Washington, U.S. officials viewed the incident as part of a Soviet "brinkmanship" campaign to seek political gains through repeated incidents. They said the action makes it clear that the Soviets, while seeking cooperation with the West in other fields, do not intend to abandon their aim of whittling away Western rights in Berlin.

The ostensible cause of the holdup was a Soviet demand that U.S. soldiers leave their trucks to be counted so the Russians could be sure that the number listed on travel orders was actually present.

But the United States, conforming to previous practice, insisted that in such a small convoy, there was no need for the soldiers to dismount. Maj. Gen. James Polk, Berlin's U.S. commandant, backed up Lt. Lamb in this when he sent an officer to talk to the Soviet colonel.

The situation was considered so serious here that the U.S. Army postponed for 24 hours a training exercise scheduled to begin today in the suburban Grunewald Woods.

Top U.S. officials stayed up all night in an "emergency operation center" with direct contact to the convoy and Washington.

The 44 men on the convoy spent the night in their sleeping bags in their trucks. U.S. sentries stood guard.

ACCUSED OF TORTURE

OLDENBURG, Germany (UPI)—The state accused a former police official Monday of torturing French prisoners to death while administrator of a concentration camp in occupied France during World War II.

The prosecution said Georg Hempen, 58, was guilty in the deaths of at least six inmates of the Fort Gueuleu Gestapo camp near Metz.

Minister Ends Five-Day Fast Over 'Mental' Cases

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI) — An Albuquerque minister who fasted for approximately five days in protest of procedures by which persons are committed to mental hospitals — gave up yesterday.

Rev. George D. Tobey, Jr., 43, said "I tried...I failed...I'm sorry," as he ended his fast.

Rev. Mr. Tobey said "Last night, due to my condition and severe abdominal pains and weakness, a neighbor took me to the Veterans' Administration Hospital where I was examined by a doctor.

"It was determined I had lost 15 pounds in five days of fasting.

"The doctor suggested I begin taking beef bouillon...orange juice...and weak hot tea. So I took some nourishment about 11 p.m. (MST).

Ex-Pastor Begins Jail Sentence in Delinquency Case

HENDERSON, Tex. (UPI) — Leroy Daniels, a former Baptist minister who left his wife and ran away with a teen-age choir girl, was in jail today for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Daniels was sentenced to 90 days and fined $500. The Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin rejected three appeals of the conviction.

Daniels and the girl were found in Wichita, Kan. where he was working in a liquor warehouse. They were returned to Henderson. They were married April 13.

Daniels, 26, was pastor of the Crystal Farms Baptist Church at Tatum, Tex. He and Flora Jean Cole met after a football game last Nov. and disappeared from Tatum.

Ray Cole, the girl's father, had asked County Judge Charles Lankford to be lenient with Daniels at his court session which lasted five minutes.

"In my estimation, there is hardly any crime greater than contributing to the delinquency of a minor," Lankford said.

Began Last Tuesday

Rev. Mr. Tobey said he began fasting at his home about 4:30 p.m. last Tuesday in protest of the methods whereby persons may be committed to mental hospitals without a hearing "and for motives other than mental illness...namely property acquisition and child custody."

He said "The people who are perpetuating this dastardly conspiracy...the judges, lawyers, and psychiatrists...are too inhuman to care whether I live or died.

"It's becoming quite obvious this conspiracy is so well engineered and so deeply entrenched that neither the governor nor I could dislodge it."

Rev. Mr. Tobey said he had no complaints against New Mexico Gov. Jack M. Campbell personally. He had asked the governor to investigate his charges, but the governor refused, saying a grand jury had already done so.

"I have had a dozen or more phone calls from people who are praying for me, and expressing appreciation for what I was doing."

Says People Content

He said some people are "presumably content with the police state actions of hauling people out of their homes.

"By taking drastic means of fasting I hoped to change all that. But it is obvious nothing can dislodge the conspiracy. I tried...I failed...I'm sorry."

He said he was tapering off the fast slowly, with liquids.

Rev. Mr. Tobey said he is a member of the International Ministerial Federation of Fresno, Calif., and has an AB degree in Theology from Southern California Bible College, Costa Mesa, Calif.

He is not affiliated with a church at the present time, but said he is currently engaged in forming a new denomination in Albuquerque — the Evangelical Episcopal Church of the United States of America.

COLDEST TEMPERATURE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Possibly the coldest temperature ever recorded in the earth's atmosphere—minus 289 degrees Fahrenheit—was reported Monday by the federal space agency and Swedish researchers.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the University of Stockholm took the reading last August with a Nike-Cajun rocket. It attributed the low temperature to a high altitude cloud formation called noctilucent.

YOUTHS FINED

HAIFA, Israel (UPI) — Eight youths, all Jewish religious zealots, were fined and given suspended jail sentences Monday for rioting in a Christian school in September.

They were given the choice of a $175 fine or 60 days in jail and nine month suspended sentences. They were also placed under $80 bond for three years against their good behavior.

Women Needed for Direct Commissions in the WACs

This is for women only! College seniors or graduates are being offered many exceptional benefits as a commissioned officer in the Women's Army Corps. After entering the Army, training and schooling does not cease. In fact, for many, opportunities are provided for masters and doctors' degrees—opportunities not available in civilian life because of costs or jobs commitments. All schooling, while on active duty, is either free or at sharply reduced cost, including resident training at the university of the applicant's choice. There is full pay with allowances while at school.

Army schooling starts with the 18 week Women's Army Corps Officer Basic course at the beautiful WAC Center at Fort McClellan, Alabama. After this training period, a continuing analysis will be made of abilities and potentialities for further training. Trainees may be selected to attend some other Army school, such as advanced administration, or public relations, or even sent to a civilian college for post graduate courses. The WAC Officer Advanced Course or the Command and General Staff College also is available.

One of the most outstanding opportunities as an Army officer is the chance for world-wide assignments. There are women officers serving in all parts of the United States, and in Germany, France, Hawaii, Okinawa, Japan, Korea and other stations around the world. Army officers are constantly meeting people of diversified interests, both on and off the job. The center of much of the social life at an Army installation is the Officer's Club, where dances and informal social gatherings are conducted regularly in off-duty hours.

In addition, there are few organizations that can rival the Army's Special Service program which includes facilities for every major sport, craft and hobby.

P. S. For the man who could not avoid reading this — there is a comparable Army program for the male college senior or graduate. Contact your Army recruiter for additional details.

Additional information and assistance may be obtained from SFC Bill Bowling, Pampa army recruiter, at 112 E. Foster St.

KIDS' COLDS

Declares Civil Rights Failure Could Wreck U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., fears that congressional failure to enact an effective civil rights bill might lead to race riots and "actually wreck the United States."

The House Judiciary Committee approved a civil rights bill last week. It is aimed at ending racial discrimination in voting, education, employment and unions and in private accommodations such as hotels, restaurants and amusement places.

Rep. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said Sunday there was "every indication" the administration had abandoned hope of getting a civil rights bill through the Senate this year.

Bolling said he believed the House bill's supporters eventually could get enough votes to get the measure cleared for floor action by the House Rules Committee, of which he is a member. Committee Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., opposes civil rights legislation.

However, Bolling declined to predict in a local television interview when he thought the bill would be cleared. He also conceded there might be some changes in the measure before it is passed.

"The failure to pass an effective civil rights act might actually wreck the United States," Bolling said. "If there is not an effective civil rights act, then the Negro and the other civil rights people in this country would feel that their government had let them down."

"They would almost inevitably rely on civil disobedience. Almost inevitably, also, as they did this, irresponsible elements, not the responsible elements in the civil rights movement, would move in."

"Then there would be riots and there would be bloodshed, and if this were to happen, I fear that the white majority of the country would harden against the Negro and it might be a very long time before we could get effective legislation."

"The result of this would be to really destroy the American society internally and make it absolutely impossible for the United States to fulfill its role as the leader of the free world."

Plan to Squeeze Nine Months of School Into Six

MCALLEN, Tex. (UPI)—Five lower Rio Grande Valley school districts have opened special schools to handle children of migrant laborers, designed to give the traveling workers nine months of schooling in six months.

Most of the five opened today and all will start this month.

The five districts are McAllen, Edinburg, Weslaco, San Benito, and Pharr San Juan. The migratory students have always been a problem in the Valley since they returned from harvesting in the northern states about eight weeks after school starts.

They leave for the new harvest eight weeks before the end of school and many are retained at lower grades because of the lack of education. They finally discover that they are 16 years old and still in the seventh grade and they drop out.

The Texas Education Agency-sponsored program is designed to give the special students the full term study between November and May 8th.

They attend classes from 8:15 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday and have only a three-day Christmas holiday.

The added classroom time gives students 1,048 hours of study—the same hours provided in the regular program.

Officials pointed out the program is just in the testing stage. Some schools in the "flexible" program are teaching grades 1-3 others 1-6 and some up to the eighth depending on the needs.

GROUNDWORK FOR AN "OASIS": Conservation workers spray waterproofing chemicals on parched soil to catch rain water and convey it by gravity to basin in foreground.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bradbury K. Thurlow of Winslow, Conn. & Stetson says that "we have no way of knowing how long this zany, day-to-day speculative behavior can last before the conservative investor finally senses that what we are now seeing in the stock market has its closest parallels in the experiences of 1929 and 1937."

"The risks of a sudden and severe decline in the near future are greatly increased by the irrational behavior of stock prices during the past few days," he adds.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute says that stocks of companies that are reporting declining earnings—or have failed to participate in the market's rise since June 1962—"should be sold to establish tax losses before the year end."

Hemphill, Noyes & Co. says that properly selected stocks still are attractive as long-term investments "but in view of the fact that popular averages have risen over 40 per cent from last year's lows to new historic highs, it would only seem sensible to temper current optimism and investment decisions with a substantial amount of care."

United Press International
Strike off a medal and strike up the band for James Hobson Morrison, the do-or-die Democratic representative of Louisiana's Sixth Congressional District.

The word brave is not adequate for James Hobson Morrison. The House Post Office and Civil Service Committee says that Morrison's name will be shown as sponsor of the bill just introduced to raise salaries of members of Congress by $10,000 a year to $32,500. The salaries of the vice president and speaker would be hiked from $35,000 to $45,000. Santa Claus is coming to town for 1.8 million government workers, including cabinet members who would get a raise of $10,000 to $35,000. The last time Congress raised congressional salaries was in 1955, a hike of almost 100 per cent that fixed the annual pay at $22,500.

Should Record Vote

The taxpayers who employ the congressmen should not quarrel with the idea that all government workers should be adequately paid. They should demand, however, that congressmen stand up and be counted in a record vote on this pay raise. Rep. Morrison already stands to be counted. All others in Congress should be equally courageous. Chances are however, the pay bill will be rifled through House and Senate without roll calls. If so, the taxpayers should bawl "foul" and demand a replay.

Taxpayers are referred to the memoirs of the late Sen. James E. Watson (R-Ind.). "As I Knew Them," Jim Watson served 42 years in the House and Senate. He recalled: "I engineered the 1904 movement, while a member of the House, to increase the salaries of all members of Congress from $5,000 to $7,500 a year; and, later, with Sen. Furnifold Simmons (D-N.C.), put through the proposition to increase those salaries to $10,000 a year. "The first increase was achieved in this wise: Lucius N. Littauer, of New York, was voluntarily retiring at the end of his term on March 4, 1905, and so he had nothing to lose by proposing a measure unpopular with his constituency. So I asked him to bring in an amendment to increase the salaries of all members to $7,500 a year. He argued that it would not pass at all, but I told him to leave that to me, and so he brought forward the amendment.

Blocks Roll Call

"Now it requires one-fifth of the House membership to obtain a roll call, and that was the thing that had to be prevented if this measure was to find its way through simply because the members were not willing to vote for this raise in salary and then go home and face their constituents."

"Having a very compact (Republican) organization in the House, I easily arranged that there should be no roll call and, so, the measure passed the House without the members having to go up against the guns. I then carried it over to the late Sen. Nelson W. Aldrich (R-R.I.) and the late Sen. Frederick Hale (R-Me.) and they put it through the Senate without objection (and, therefore, without a vote.)"

DEER SHOTS HUNTER

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — The deer shot back. Hunter Bruce Beasley of Idaho Falls bagged his buck Sunday, but the deer got his revenge.

While Beasley and a companion were carrying the deer out of the Fall Creek area east of here, one of its hooves tripped the trigger of a .357 pistol the Idaho Falls man was carrying. Beasley was in good condition today with a bullet wound in his right leg.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When the Dodgers won the Series, my father was so mad he kicked in our television set and now it isn't working. He has a terrible temper and he curses us kids out in a foreign language so loud everybody on the block can hear him. I said to him, "Pa, if you're going to yell at us in front of the whole neighborhood, why don't you learn English?" For this he smacked me right in the mouth. Do you think he had a right to do that?

ANGELO IN BROOKLYN

DEAR ANGELO: He had a "right" — but he was wrong. If I have your pa pegged, I think you're lucky he didn't say what he said in English.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a ten-year-old girl wearing nylon stockings and a garter belt? My fifth grader tells me that I'm "old-fashioned" because I tell her she's too young for them. About eight in her class have them. I refuse to budge. Am I wrong?

OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR OLD - FASHIONED: No! And don't let her wear you down with that old saw—"But, mother — all the other girls do."

DEAR ABBY: I feel I must respond to "NOTHING UP MY SLEEVE," who is 44, handsome, and will marry any woman with money regardless of her age or what she looks like. I am an English woman who was married to this type for 22 years. I finally divorced him and came to your country to start a new life. Doesn't this handsome bloke realize that a woman with money doesn't need to marry for company? She can buy all she wants. I plan to return to England next spring. It's a pity that man is so attractive. I'm seeking a permanent partner who is elderly, bald-headed and seldom gets a second glance — one I won't have to share with the whole universe.

Sincerely,

"D" FROM LIVERPOOL

Weather Changes Punish Skin

Most regions haven't settled into their cooler autumn and winter temperatures, yet. As a result, your thermostat — body shield — your skin — is out of whack.

Few women escape the ravages of fluctuating temperatures and of drying indoor heat compounded by vestiges of a summer in the sun. Your skin lets you know that something needs to be done.

Normally, you expect a certain amount of flaking and itchiness. Continually robbed of necessary oils, your skin needs help to keep it looking and feeling well.

With our mania for cleanliness, only the stubborn child escapes a daily bath. So start here with your skin repairs. Choose a mild soap and if yours is a hard water region, you will want to add a softener. With your daily bath or shower, though, a quick way to revitalize your skin is to use a bath oil.

Select one with a spicy floral fragrance for an added touch of femininity. And relax for two or three minutes in the tub to benefit most from a bath oil.

The new bath oils are versatile. You can add a few drops of a fragrant oil to warm water and use it to massage your cuticles and your elbows which always need attention.

After bathing, use a lotion or moisturizing cream on your face, legs and arms. You also may find during this variable season that your stockings or slacks irritate your legs. If true, dust your legs lightly with talcum powder. This will cut down on friction which causes the discomfort.

All in all, we have to make up for what nature does not provide here, and for the damage created by our over-heated

Brenda Brown Named Member OF AGATES

GROOM (Spl) — Named to the AGATES, a select group of sophomores at Wayland Baptist College is Brenda Kaye Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. (Bud) Brown of Groom.

As one of a group of 21 students chosen by Wayland College President Roy C. McClung, Miss Brown, a 1962 graduate of Groom High School, serves as student counselor, and guide for a group of freshmen students. The "AGATES" meaning "appointed guides to aid and temporarily encourage," were selected on basis of leadership, co-operation and academic standing.

Sixth Session Of Study Course Slated by PTA

The sixth session of the PTA Study Course will be held Thursday in the Woodrow Wilson Elementary School Auditorium at 9:30 a.m. A nursery will be provided for pre-school children during the two-hour session.

The subject, "Grim Grow the Greener Years," will be discussed by Sheriff Rufe Jordan and Judge William J. Craig.

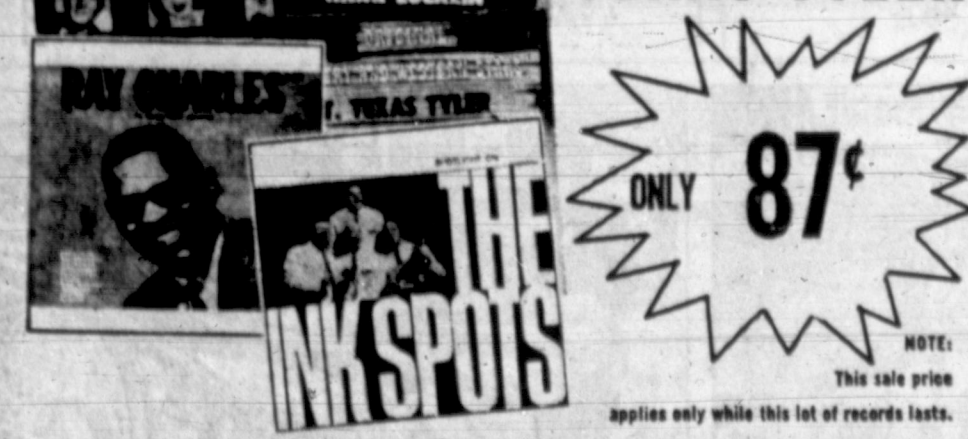

A panel composed of Bill Leonard, Pampa Juvenile Officer; George Smith, Director of the Pampa Youth Center; Jack Parker, Director of Education at the First Baptist Church; and Larry Gregory and Clay Lively, students at Pampa High School will also participate. Mrs. E. W. Lancaster, unit Study Course chairman, states that coffee and rolls will be served during the coffee break.

Bucks Lose Four For Final Game

WHITE DEER (Spl) — "It's been a long season," sighed White Deer football coach Colie Huffman as he faced the end of the road Friday night when the Shamrock Irish come to town.

"I've been real proud of these kids. It's pretty hard to fault them for losing when we've had so many kids unable to play from week to week as we have. Injuries have lost us three of our best men, Dave Clemens, Eddie Kleibrink and Wes Schultz, for the season, and kept a lot of players in and out of the lineup all year.

"Ineligibility has hurt too. Why, just this week, we have our boys, including quarterback Ricky Moore, lost. Moore, Mike and Bill Gann and Larry Davis are all out. Mike Gann was a starting tackle. Bill Gann started some games, and Ricky has been the starting quarterback since Larry Elliott got hurt.

"We'll have to keep our fingers crossed that Elliott's foot won't be bothering him this week, but it looks bad, he didn't play a down against Spearman. Roy Armstrong is home sick today too. If he's out, we're in bad trouble.

"Larry Simmons won Most Spirited Buck against Spearman. A 130-pound junior, he didn't get to play much until Simmons got hurt, but he's come along to rate with our top defensive men. He made 13 unassisted tackles, was in on eight more, and intercepted a pass last week. He's a fine boy. Matter of fact, they're all fine boys. If we had stayed healthy... but, that's football."

The up-and-down Shamrock Irish have played fine ball despite their 4-4 record, as they have waded into tough double-A and triple-A clubs with abandon. Shamrock is led by one of the finest all-around players in the Panhandle, Gray Benson, the one-man gang. The 5-9, 186-pound fullback has gained over 1,000 yards rushing this season and averaged in on 20 tackles a game. In the 27-20 loss to Stinnett, Benson ran for two touchdowns, gained 101 yards, picked up big yardage on punt and kick returns and sparked an offense. In the 30-6 clouting of Spearman in their other district game, Benson was aided by quarterback Dickie Reeves, who ran for a touchdown and passed for two conversions, and halfback Louis Davis with two TDs.

Amarillo Boxers Here Thursday

A former state champion, a four-time regional champion and two regional runners-up are slated to headline the fight card at the Optimist Boys Club Thursday night.

Dees Boxing Club of Amarillo will be back for another crack at the locals, bringing three top open fighters, led by four-time champ Don Clements, and at least six good high school fighters, plus a number of pee-wee boxers to round out the card.

SWC Round-up

By United Press International
The Texas Longhorns got an unprecedented day off Monday and coach Darrell Royal said it was time for high strategy for "the strongest and most important test of the year" Saturday against Baylor.

It was the first Monday practice session the Texans have had off all season.

"They need some rest, and coaches need some time to get their heads together," Royal said. The clash between the top-ranked Longhorns, the best defensive team in the SWC, and the Bears, ranked the No. 1 offensive team, is already a sellout. Ticket sellers reported the last sale at 4 p.m. Friday.

The game will be played at Memorial Stadium in Austin.

Talks About Trull

Royal thought and talked about the Bear combination of Don Trull and Lawrence Elkins, a red hot passer-receiver duo. Royal said Trull "knows every phase of the passing game," and Elkins "probably could go into pro ball right now as a flanker."

Rain Dampens Workout

The Owls tried to workout but a heavy rain cut it short and about all they did was hear a scouting report on Arkansas. End John Sylvester, originally thought to be out for two weeks, will see limited action, coaches said.

The Texas Tech squad also worked out in sweat clothes as they readied for a non-conference game with Kansas State Saturday. Coach J. T. King said there was a "slim chance" injured halfback Roger Gill would see action.

Texas A&M quarterback-punter Jim Keller returned to practice and coach Hank Foldsberg said he hoped halfback Tommy Meeks would be ready in time for Southern Methodist Saturday.

Coach Hayden Fry of SMU ran the squad through a brief drill and honored five players for a good show against Texas last weekend.

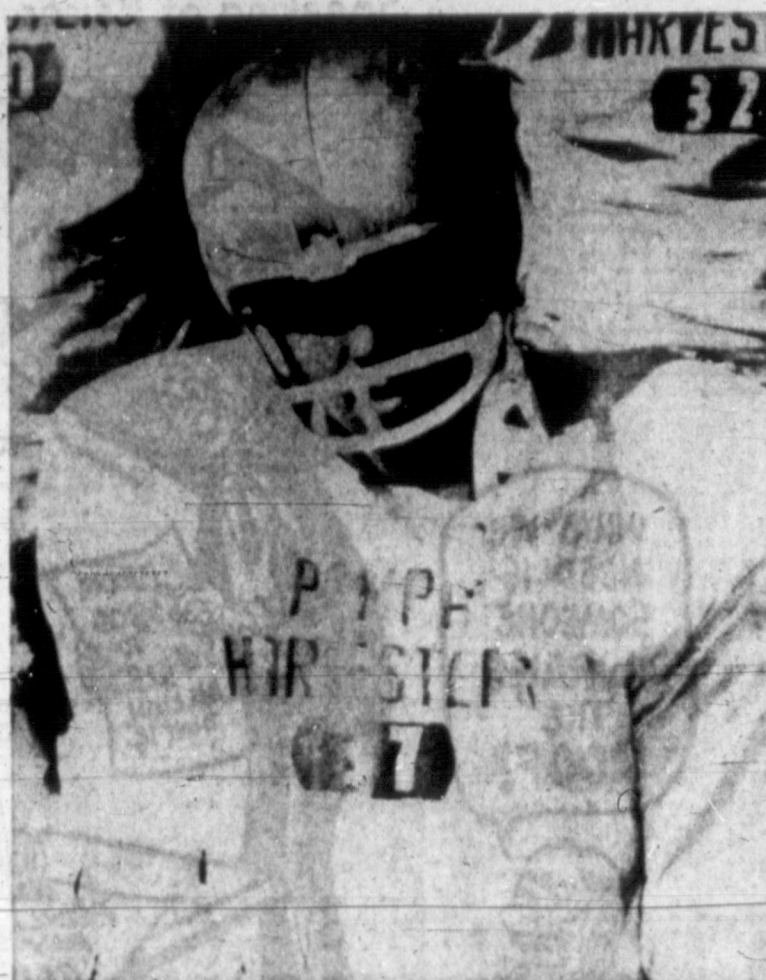

Texas Christian held a light workout in preparation for their non-conference clash with Louisiana State.

Teams Entering YCC Basketball

The men's and women's basketball leagues at the Pampa Youth and Community Center opened for entries on November 2 and six teams entered on that date.

In the men's division so far are Motor Supply, Panhandle Packing, Montgomery Ward and the Jaycees. In the women's division the Pampa Independents and Citizens Bank and Trust Company entered.

Entries will be accepted up until Nov. 13 or until leagues are full. There is a limit of eight men's and six women's teams. Those teams interested should come by the Center to enter or call George Smith for further information.

HARVESTER OF THE WEEK — Ricky Stewart was named as Toughest Harvester at today's Jaycee luncheon, following his great all-around performance this weekend at Lubbock. Stewart was in on 10 tackles, starred on pass defense, caught a pass, ran well and was a standout blocker as well. (Daily News Photo)

AA's Can Cinch Play

By United Press International

Texas schoolboy football's championship playoff bracket may be nearly half filled in Class AA this week with at least 14 games in which teams could sew up playoff spots alongside the Sinton Pirates.

Sinton clinched its berth last week by assuring itself no worse than a tie for the 29-AA crown.

Here's the rundown of the other possibilities, by districts: 2-Tulia can clinch by beating Abertamy; 3-Muleshoe by beating Friona; 4-Denver City by beating Post; 5-Wichita Falls Hirschi by defeating Quanah; 11-Rockwall by beating Whitesboro; 12-Lake Highlands by defeating Wilmer-Hutchins; 14-winner of Dainierfield vs. Linden-Kildare game clinches; 16-Pine Tree by beating Gilmer; 17-West by beating Hillsboro; 18-Brady by defeating San Saba; 22-Woodville by beating Livingston; 25-Boling by beating Sweeny; 30-Bishop by beating Tulosomidway, and 32-winner of Donna vs. Edcouch-Elsa game.

The Friona-Muleshoe, Post-Denver City, Woodville-Livingston, West-Hillsboro and Boling-Sweeny games are actually showdown battles for the district lead, but the other teams would have to wait a week for assurance of a playoff spot.

Several other teams, including Dalhart in 1-AA, Winters in 6-AA, Dublin in 8-AA, defending state champ Jacksboro in 9-AA, Mansfield in 10-AA, Paul Hewitt in 13-AA, Grand Saline in 15-AA, Rockdale in 19-AA, Katy in 21-AA, Liberty in 23-AA, Hondo in 28-AA and Hebbronville in 31-AA, own undisputed leadership but can't start making playoff plans as yet.

Amarillo Linemen Heavy And Quick

The Pampa Harvesters will face a line a little closer to their own size Friday night, but the Amarillo Sandie offense will still be anchored by a trio of 200-pounders.

A mixture of lettermen seniors and juniors up from the Yannis, as well as a couple of outstanding sophomores makes up the Amarillo forward wall. Biggest man on the squad is returning center Bobby Ward at 215. Next largest is another returning starter, left tackle Ray Richardson, 205. Phil Weatherbee, 200, and Larry Graves, 190, split duties at the other tackle.

With good average weight and surprisingly good speed for their size, the Sandie line, which did an outstanding job against some of the top lines in the area, will be going all-out to stop the speedy and hard-hitting Harvesters here Friday night.

Longhorns Hold 1st By Narrow Margin

NEW YORK (UPI) — Illinois, returned to the leading 10 after Mississippi and Navy crept dangerously close to first-ranked Texas today in the United Press International's Board of Coaches ratings.

The Longhorns, a unanimous choice for No. 1 last week, dipped to their lowest level since capturing the top spot a month ago.

Texas lost three first-place ballots to second-ranked Illinois, five to third-rated Mississippi, and one each to Navy, No. 4, and Auburn, No. 5.

Winners of seven straight games this season, the Longhorns were rated first by 25 coaches. They have won their last three games by margins of four, four, and five points, respectively, all provided by bare-footed place kicker Tony Crosby.

Illinois and Mississippi, both with identical records of five wins and a tie, turned what were expected to be close games into routs, to improve their second and third place standings.

Navy Up A Notch

Roger Staubach led the Mid-dies to an impressive win over Notre Dame to boost Navy a notch to fourth; unbeaten-untied Auburn jumped from seventh to fifth after whipping Florida, and Oklahoma also advanced two places to sixth with a one-sided victory over Colorado.

Alabama slipped from fourth to seventh with an unimpressive one-point win over Mississippi State.

Michigan State, once-beaten and tied for the Big 10 lead with Illinois and Ohio State, entered the top 10 for the first time this season in eighth place and Pittsburgh and Nebraska score.

Five coaches from each of the seven geographical sections of the country rate the teams from first to 10th with points awarded on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis.

Baylor Moves Up

Baylor, with the nation's leading passer Don Trull, jumped to 11th. The Bears tackle Texas Saturday for the leadership in the Southwest Conference and perhaps pose the biggest threat yet to the Longhorns' national title hopes. Ohio State, Washington, Army and Missouri achieved the 12-13-14-15 slots in order and Wisconsin, sixth last week, plummeted to 16th.

Memphis State, which only gained major college status in 1960, entered the ratings for the first time in its history in a 17th-place tie with Georgia Tech.

Pampa 7th Tops Lee 7th, 14-6

The Pampa 7th grade came back through the air in the second half to pull out a 14-6 victory over Lee 7th this weekend. Lee held a 6-0 lead at the half as Lynn Mills climaxed a 70-yard drive sparked by himself and Gary Parrish with a four-yard plunge.

Pampa's aerial attack moved to the tying score in the third quarter via a seven-yard John Karr pass to Monty Middleton. Middleton then passed to Karr for the conversion.

Middleton went 50 yards in the fourth quarter for the final and Pittsburgh and Nebraska score.

INTRODUCING THE DEPENDABLES FOR '64

We have designs to get you in our power

Our engineers are a wily group of guys who spend most of their time dreaming up ways to win your approval. Take the Dodge Polara 500. You'd be hard-pressed to find a car that's got more going for you. Deeply-padded, contour-formed bucket seats. All-vinyl upholstery. Silt-to-silt carpeting. Padded dash. Center console. And lots of other trimmings. But that's only the half of it.

Perhaps our approach to power will further illustrate the point.

With the Polara 500 you aren't baked in on a certain engine. You can choose from a standard 318 cu. in. V8 up to a street-version of our wallowing, all-out 426 cu. in. Ramcharger V8. Compromise? Nope. We just feel that a freedom of choice is the surest road to your approval.

That's our way of doing business—giving you lots of car and lots of satisfaction at a price that's hard to quarrel with.

Your Dodge Dealer will be glad to demonstrate the point.

Government Bureaucracy

The operation of government depends entirely upon the existence of a bureaucracy. In our infancy as a nation, most Americans did not know this to be true. It was presumed that the Congress would pass the laws, the President would see to their enforcement and the judicial department could determine their constitutionality. It was all very neat and simple.

But the conundrum was in the executive branch and the bland assurance that the President would simply enforce the laws. Laws do not require much in the way of enforcement. But laws do have to be administered. Writing a law and having it included in a law book somewhere will not accomplish much. Even publicity given to the fact that there is now a law on such and such a matter, will not take care of all the requirements.

For a law to amount to anything, it has to be administered. And that is where a bureaucracy comes into the picture.

When the Constitution was drafted, it was presumed that the Congress would make very few laws and those of such a general nature that whether administrators were appointed, or not, the effect would be nearly the same. General laws, the product of common understanding arrived at painstakingly through the years as a result of a coalescence of human experience, are no problem. Indeed, that was the basis of much of Roman law, and British common law is nothing more nor less than this at base.

So, it can be presumed that the failure of the Constitution to mention the formation of a bureaucracy rests upon the assumption that the general government would be expected to have little to do and the laws enacted would be so obvious a requirement that bureaucratic administration would be merely an unnecessary expense.

Thus, in the Constitution, the office of the chief executive is weighted down with a number of duties, such as making appointments, granting letters of marque, and so on, which are properly the function of some bureau.

This grant of modest power, lacking a formal bureaucracy, has been expanded to include such a giant in bureaucratic form that few if any governments on earth can compete with it.

The real governing power is always in the bureaucracy. This is where men are hired to put the laws into motion. Here is where vast numbers of persons congregate, their purpose to see that some particular measure or series of measures is brought to the attention of all persons to be affected; that all necessary funds are raised for the payment of the salaries of these thousands of mercenaries who write letters, print interpretation, interview taxpayers and carry on a ruthless program designed to make the most important thing in the world the single law or the single set of laws with which that particular bureau is concerned.

To imagine that government can function without this sort of thing, when more than the broadest of general laws are involved, is to imagine a fantasy. Take so simple a procedure as make a census and to keep it up to date requires the help of thousands of people. Add a single provision, such as a question as to whether the persons being counted are gainfully employed or on relief, and new thousands must be hired to tabulate and to expound and to write more letters and to keep everything in tip-top condition.

This is bureaucracy. America is being strangled with it. And when you realize that each bureau is manned, in part or in whole, by civil service personnel who make a life-time career out of being paid by government, the magnitude of our dilemma in this country can be visualized.

The Place to Economize

The danger of steadily boosting federal spending was emphasized repeatedly during House debate on continuing the present $300 billion debt ceiling through November, with another increase to something approaching $320 billion in prospect then.

Representative Herlong (D-Fla.) pointed out that "the place to economize is when the authorization and appropriation bills are before us, not after the fact when the bills come in."

"I have not voted," he explained, "for those things that made this debt limit as high as it is, and I shall continue to vote against those things that I think are, or will result in, unnecessary government expenditures."

The country sorely needs more legislators who think and act this way.

Your Shrinking Money

Inflation has cost you about 33 cents on the buck during the past 10 years.

To be exact, the National Industrial Conference Board reports that between 1952 and 1962 Americans' disposable income—the money in your pocket after taxes are paid — jumped by $146 billion, from $239 billion to $385 billion.

But inflation ate away nearly one-third of the increase — $46 billion.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

Happiness, that thing each one of us seeks, results from positive satisfactions in life, according to a University of Chicago "prof." who interviewed 2000 men and women on the subject. He found 24 per cent "very happy," 59 per cent "reasonably happy," and 17 per cent "unhappy." One result of the survey: single men were twice as likely to be unhappy as single girls.

Memory Lane: Remember how we used to go for the "funnies" first of all in the Sunday papers? "Funnies" were funny in those days and our favorites included "Jiggs," "Happy Hooi-gan," "Mutt and Jeff," and the Katzenjammer Kids. Today most of the comic strips are adventure stories and soap operas.

Bird lovers will thank us for telling them records are now available of different bird calls. See your local Audubon Society, or write your congressman. He can do anything. A naturalist told us recently that pre-historic dinosaurs were stupid. Research shows that they had a skull two feet long and a brain that weighed less than two ounces. We read somewhere that between the years 45 and 55 more men and women are subject to mental onslaughts. So, take it easy.

A Hollywood survey shows that movie stars and people of the industry are among the best customers of the airlines. They spent more than 2 million on air travel last year. The Japanese not only want our dough, but they have gone into the manufacture of coin and currency changers for us — the U. S.

Country Editor Speaking: "The best things in life are free. It's the necessities that cost so much."

At long last Uncle Sam is recognizing the pants pressing industry. He is about to make Andrew Johnson's tailor shop at Greenville, Tenn., a national monument. U. S. passport applications this past summer ran 14 per cent ahead of last year when 1.8 million Americans went overseas for sightseeing, business, or study. A decade ago only 800,000 could afford to make the trip. The recent appearance of Joe Valachi before that Senate committee leads us to believe some characters can get a bigger audience "singing" there than they could at Carnegie Hall. Britain is urbane if nothing else: the gov'mt report on the Profumo scandal said generally all is well, and any blame should be placed on those who tattled. One of our witty friends told us this country now has three political parties: Republicans, Democrats, and the John Birch Society. We always thought New England had the screwiest weather, but a friend from the West tells us temperatures ran in Bismark, North Dakota, from 109 in the summer to 44 below in winter. Nutrition experts say milk offers more food value for the money than many other food materials.

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 5, the 309th day of 1963 with 56 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.
The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:
In 1733, German-born publisher John Peter Zenger began publication of his newspaper, the New York Weekly Journal.
In 1929, the British House of Commons approved the resumption of diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Soviet Russia.

In 1940, President Franklin D. Roosevelt was re-elected to the presidency — the only president to be chosen for a third term.

In 1955, Austria formally opened the reconstructed Vienna State Opera House and celebrated her liberation from 17 years of foreign occupation.

A thought for the day—American poet Robert Frost said: "Most of the change we think we see in life is due to truths being in and out of favor."

THE NEW THREAT — The surprise appearance of more Soviet jet fighters and fighter-bombers in Cuba has touched off a new debate in the administration's intelligence community over whether the additional planes represent an offensive threat.

One group of experts, comprised mostly of intelligence officials from the CIA and the State Department, stresses that the new aerial build-up is "defensive," since most of the planes are single-engine MIG-21s, 195 and 17s.

These intelligence experts emphasize that the planes have an out-and-back range of 300 miles, which greatly limits their use as bombers against the U.S.

Another group, made up of intelligence experts from the three military services, claims that a build-up of this size presents an "offensive" threat.

These Pentagon veterans point out that more than 150 of the Soviet jets could be converted

Doubled Build-up of Russian Jet Fighters, Bombers in Cuba Shown in Latest U-2 Photographs

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Russia is again baffling U.S. intelligence authorities with some strange military moves in Communist-ruled Cuba.

In recent weeks, the Soviets have quietly doubled their jet fighters and fighter-bombers on the island while at the same time withdrawing around 3,000 combat troops.

The latest U-2 photographs, showing increased numbers of Russian planes on or near Cuban airfields, have forced U.S. intelligence experts to raise their estimates from 150 to "more than 300" Soviet planes in Cuba.

In sharp contrast to this sinister build-up, U.S. aerial surveillance of Russian troop camps and departing ships has caused the intelligence experts to reduce their estimates of Soviet military personnel on the island from 11,000 in July to "approximately 8,000" by the end of October.

This new CIA estimate, which is being hotly challenged by Army and Navy intelligence, reports that 14,000 Russian troops have left Cuba since last year's missile crisis.

At the peak of the U.S.-Soviet confrontation, CIA put the Soviet troop strength in Cuba at 22,000. The Defense Intelligence Agency estimated the Russians at between 25,000 and 32,000.

With the Central Intelligence Agency again in undisputed command of all U.S. intelligence on Cuba, the DIA now takes the cautious position that it is impossible to estimate the number of Soviet troops still there. The reason: Lack of hard intelligence from inside Cuba.

To add to these conflicting estimates, reliable Cuban refugees are warning that most of the Russian troops have not left the island but have only taken off their uniforms. The refugees' most recent estimate is 18,000.

THE NEW THREAT — The surprise appearance of more Soviet jet fighters and fighter-bombers in Cuba has touched off a new debate in the administration's intelligence community over whether the additional planes represent an offensive threat.

One group of experts, comprised mostly of intelligence officials from the CIA and the State Department, stresses that the new aerial build-up is "defensive," since most of the planes are single-engine MIG-21s, 195 and 17s.

These intelligence experts emphasize that the planes have an out-and-back range of 300 miles, which greatly limits their use as bombers against the U.S.

Another group, made up of intelligence experts from the three military services, claims that a build-up of this size presents an "offensive" threat.

These Pentagon veterans point out that more than 150 of the Soviet jets could be converted into 900-mile-range nuclear bombers in a matter of hours. This offensive capability could be attained by equipping the MIGs with additional fuel tanks and a new-type A-bomb rack.

THE BIG MYSTERY — Still unsolved is the growing mystery surrounding heavy Soviet construction in the mountainous central region of Cuba.

Cuban refugees say the Russian technicians are building huge underground missile silos, although no big rockets have so far been sighted in the underground hideaways.

This finding is disputed by the CIA. Its agents report that the Russians are preparing large underground storage facilities with huge-cement covers and air vents on top, and not missile silos.

Since neither the refugees nor the CIA have penetrated the silos, it is doubtful that the U.S. will find out what Khrushchev has in store for us until he decides to lift the covers.

As reported in a previous column, CIA pilots are limited to less than a dozen high-level U-2 reconnaissance flights a month, with nine passing directly over Cuba. Instead, the U-2s follow the Cuban coastline, staying over international waters and out of range of more than 600 SA-2 missiles that ring the island.

CUBAN FLASHES — Hurricane Flora, which lashed Cuba for five days in October, flooded a number of the underground silos, according to Cuban refugees. This God-directed storm set back the Soviet's construction program by more than six months.

Arthur Schlesinger Jr., one of President Kennedy's top aides on Latin American affairs, is urging more contact with the Castro government. He favors giving U.S. surplus farm commodities to Cuba. To push his project, Schlesinger recently cleared the way for four U.S. citizens — all Quakers — to fly to Cuba last week to arrange the distribution of an airlift of relief supplies to Cuban victims of the recent hurricane. The supplies, valued at $30,000, were flown from Philadelphia over the weekend. Exile groups are still pressing the White House to help overthrow Haiti's President Francois Duvalier. So far, President Kennedy has been unwilling to use the Central Intelligence Agency to get rid of Duvalier because he is afraid that its participation would leak out. President Kennedy's continued non-recognition of the military junta in Honduras is slowly weakening that new regime. U.S.-financed roads, schools and hospital projects are now grinding to a stop.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The 13-year-old medical battle that has been fought over the so-called "anticancer drug" Krebiozen is coming to a climax within the next few weeks.

The issue is whether Krebiozen, having now been found to have caused cancer regression in two out of 504 cases on which records are available, should be tested further.

On the other hand, U.S. Food and Drug Commissioner George P. Larrick has asked the drug's discoverer, Stevan Durovic, and his scientific adviser in the Krebiozen Foundation, Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, to show cause why they should not be prosecuted in criminal court.

The drug has been administered to more than 4,200 patients on payment of a $9.50 contribution for each injection ampule containing one part Krebiozen to 1,000 parts mineral oil.

Some patients are reported to have paid out thousands of dollars for treatment. The total receipts could conceivably have run into millions of dollars.

Dr. Stevan Durovic, of Yugoslav birth, developed Krebiozen from an extract of infected horse blood in the Argentine before bringing it to America. He has claimed it cost $170,000 a gram to produce.

Food and Drug Administration laboratory tests have identified Krebiozen as creatine, costing 30 cents a gram to produce, or eight cents for the amount in each injection.

The developers counter that Krebiozen is not 100 per cent creatine and that it contains an added factor not yet identified.

Food and Drug Administration field investigators collected medical records on 504 patients identified by the Krebiozen Foundation as having received treatments. FDA is now assembling information to see if there has been violation of the law.

Points covered by the investigation include the possibility of misbranding through incorrect labels, the shipment of impure or adulterated drugs not up to standard, shipment in interstate commerce of a new drug without authorization, the making of false statements as to its efficacy.

After assembling all the evidence, it will be presented to the Krebiozen distributors at an informal hearing.

A decision would then have to be made on whether the case should be referred to Department of Justice for criminal prosecution in what might be the biggest medical case in history.

The fact that a panel of 24 cancer specialists has just branded Krebiozen "ineffective as an antitumor agent" in man is not deterring Durovic and Ivy in the slightest. They are going ahead with demands for new, joint chemical analyses of Krebiozen and further clinical tests.

CONNALLY AMENDMENT ON THE BLOCK AGAIN
In 1946, the U.S. Senate committed the American people to membership in the World Court. The court was given compulsory jurisdiction over all but domestic matters of the United States.

At issue at the time was the question, "Who will decide what is a domestic matter and what isn't?" An amendment offered by the late Senator Tom Connally of Texas added the six words "...as determined by the United States." This means that the court cannot assume jurisdiction in any case the U.S. regards as a domestic matter.

Since the day the Connally Amendment was approved, it has been under constant fire from those who consider it a breach of justice to allow the U.S. to decide for itself what cases the court can hear. While its defenders point out that most other nations have not even given the court as much jurisdiction as we have.

Today, as always, the Connally Amendment is under fire. To better understand it, a new book is available. "Too Grave A Risk" by Dennison Kitchell examines the Amendment from all standpoints—and concludes that it would be far too dangerous to give it up. (The book is published by William Morrow Co., 425 Park Ave. S., New York 16, N.Y.; $3.75).

In fact, the author points out that the Connally Amendment takes nothing from the court that it ever had. It merely confirms the assurance given us—and every other nation—at the time the UN charter was accepted; the assurance that the UN would not intervene in purely domestic concerns.

That the UN has intervened—in South Africa, Angola, the Congo and other places—should be obvious to all by now. Why, Kitchell asks, should we believe that the World Court would not hesitate to assume jurisdiction in our internal affairs, if it took the fancy?

Actually, we are already further committed to the World Court than any other major power. Neither Russia nor its satellites have even joined the court, although it enthusiastically furnishes judges to sit on it.

Reduced to its simple issue, the continuing drive to repeal the Connally Amendment is an attempt to impose more control on a finding that natural regression of cancer without drugs, X-ray or surgery occurs in one out of 50,000 cases. National Cancer Institute's advisory council found two cases out of the 504 reviewed in which the council says regression could be attributed to Krebiozen.

On the basis of these two cases, it is argued that Krebiozen is 200 times more effective than nature and therefore worth further research.

The whole controversy, which has raged for years, is expected to be given a public airing when two rival medical meetings are held in Washington Oct. 25-26.

The Food and Drug Administration and the American Medical Assn. are sponsoring their second National Congress on Medical Quackery at the Sheraton-Park. At the same time the National Health Federation for Maintaining Medical Freedom of Choice is sponsoring a First National Conference on Health Monopoly at the Sheraton-Carlton.

Hiring of Psychiatrists
Labeled 'Judgment' Error

AUSTIN (UPI)—Hiring of a convicted kidnaper and a former mental patient as psychiatrists in state mental hospitals was "a mistake in judgment," the State Board of Hospitals and Special Schools said yesterday.

The board set up a committee to tighten job application procedures and heard a proposal for an inservice training program to help fill critical medical staff shortages.

The two doctors referred to were Dr. Don Elbert Martin, former staff doctor at the Wichita Falls Mental Hospital and a woman psychiatrist at the San Antonio State Hospital.

The Dallas News said Martin was a former mental patient and was once arrested as a suspect in a triple slaying in Mexico in 1959.

A woman who was convicted of kidnapping a child at Santa Fe, N. M., in 1951 worked as a psychiatrist at San Antonio although she had no medical license, the newspaper said.

Martin resigned after the story was published. The woman had been dismissed from the San Antonio staff before the story was published.

More than 41 million men and women in the U.S. use their automobiles to commute to and from work.

PELICAN PERIL—Snapper the Pelican is well-named, for he likes to take playful nips at children as they whizz by on a playground merry-go-round. The bird is the pet of Utah wildlife photographer Bob Davison, who says Snapper is as lovable as a family dog—and has a bite to match.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Notes from the foreign news cables:

SUKARNO:

Britain is getting set to draw a line against any further expansionist aims which may be entertained by Indonesian President Sukarno. British diplomats believe that Sukarno plans to press ahead with his campaign against the new Malaysian federation and some believe he dreams of an Indonesian empire stretching from Singapore to the borders of Australia.

NORTH AFRICA:

French officials are frankly skeptical about the effectiveness of the Algerian-Moroccan cease fire pact. It is obvious, they say, that the two nations are in sharp conflict on the evacuation of military positions held at present. A renewal of the fighting is not ruled out in Paris. The situation is further complicated by the sharp personal differences between Morocco's King Hassan II and Algerian Premier Ahmed Ben Bella, and the military aid being extended the latter by Egypt.

RED DILEMMA:

Sources close to the Japanese foreign office say that Communist China today finds herself caught up in one of those contradictions that are supposed to afflict only the non-Communist world. She feels she must rebel against the "soft" Russians or lose the forward momentum of her own revolution. This policy has cost her the Soviet aid she so badly needs. Hence her revived interest in trade with the West—which in Communist eyes is a desperate interest indeed.

DE GAULLE:

If French President Charles de Gaulle really intends to make all the international excursions reported under consideration for the coming year, he will be a very busy man. He already has been reported planning a visit to Latin American nations, and possibly topping that trip off with a visit to Washington and a conference with President Kennedy. Now preparations are also being made for a De Gaulle visit to New Delhi. Some say the Indian trip even could come before the first of the year.

TIE-UP:

Wednesday's scheduled walk-out by workers in France's state-owned electrical industry is likely to cause the biggest industrial tie-up in France since the nationwide strikes last spring. All electric commuter railroad services, Paris subway services and hundreds of industrial plants will be hit. The walkout will be most effective during eight daylight hours when it will bring industry to a standstill—but not seriously bother French housewives.

How To Grow A Mold Garden

1. Expose a slice of bread to the air for an hour. Mold spores will fall upon it. Sprinkle the bread lightly with water and place in a covered glass jar. Put the jar in a warm, dark cupboard for a week. Bread mold has white stalks with little black balls on the ends. These are the spore cases.

2. Water mold can be made by placing several dead flies in a jar of water. In a few days the insects are covered with a white fuzz.

can be bottled. The mold and bacteria working on the fruit gradually caused it to disintegrate and rot. Penicillium molds are one type growing on fruits.

BOYS & GIRLS!

Win a free trip to Cape Canaveral! Or the West Coast Missile Base! Fly via American Airlines Astrojet! Simply write an essay (100 words or less) on "Why I Want to be a Scientist." Send entries to Suite 1700, 203 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago 1, Ill. before midnight, Oct. 31, 1963. Open to anyone under 18 years of age. Send as many entries as you like. Judges' decision final. Fifty other prizes include complete sets of the 20-volume Young People's Science Encyclopedia published by Children's Press. Watch this newspaper for names of winners to be announced in November.
