WICHITA WOMAN WOUNDED BY 'MYSTERY SHOTS'

'PROTECTION' OF FAMILY MOTIVE FOR SLAYING

Professor of Veterinary Surgery Tells of Intimate Affair

HAMMER 'QUIETS' HER

Theora Hix Threatened To Kill Wife and Baby, Snook Declares

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 20. (UP) His nerves shattered by constant questioning, Dr. James H. Snook, professor veterinary medicine at Ohio State university, broke down today and confessed the hammer-murder of Theora Hix, co-ed in the college of medicine.

The 49-year-old professor, who withstood the incessant questioning of investigators for five days, collapsed under the strain of almost 24 hours of grilling and sobbed as he related the grim slaying of the "quiet co-ed who had little interest in men."

"Protection" Is Motive

"She remonstrated with me against leaving the city with my family as I had previously planned to do," the doctor said in describing their automobile ride to the secluded New York Central Rifle range last Thursday night.

"She threatened that if I did go that she would take the life of my wife and baby," he said.

Pocket Knife Used

The killing was done with a ball-pein hammer and pocket knife, Snook said. He told questioners that during their quarrel Miss Hix made a grab for her purse in which she carried a 41-calibre Derringer, a gift of Snook's.

"In the struggle I hit her on the head with the hammer with the intent to stun her," he explained. "She continued desperately and an increased number of blows of increasing force was necessary to stop her."

"Realizing then, no doubt, that her skull was fractured, and to relieve her suffering, I severed her jugular vein with my pocket knife," he declared.

Weapons Found

Both the hammer and knife were found in packing boxes in the basement of the Snook home this afternoon. Previous search of the prem-

Andy Bourland and Committee To Manage C-C Until Next Convention

West Texas Chamber's Executive Board Defers Appointment Of Permanent Successor to Wade

ABILENE, Texas, June 20. (AP)—A. M. Bourland, Vernon, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, today was named acting manager until the next annual convention at El Paso. Bourland will receive a salary of $10,000 a year.

The action was taken by 70 members of the chamber's executive committee, the advisory board and vice-presidents who met here today to name a successor to H. D. Wade, resigned.

An advisory committee including J. A. Wheat, Seymour; C. B. Jones, Spur; R. W. Haynie, Abilene, and Ray Nichols, Vernon, was named to act with Bourland.

The meeting today voted opposition to a state income tax and to any increase in the gross production tax.

HOME SEARCH LAW NULLIFIED

House Pulls Teeth Out of Statute

AUSTIN, June 20. (UP)—The search and seizure law, providing penalties for officers making illegal searches of private property, was nullified in effect today when the house of representatives voted changes in the evidence clause of the statute.

As amended the only part of the law still in effect is that prohibiting use of evidence obtained in violation of state law.

Without taking a vote, the house spent the morning hours discussing the four-cent gasoline tax bills. Two bills were submitted, one being the present law with a four-cent tax substituted for the present two-cent tax. The other provides for a new bill which it is claimed will make it possible to reach gasoline that now escapes tax.

The senate also passed the prison concentration bill and the blue sky law. The prison bill, if passed by the house, will mean a third special session of the legislature in the fall.

River Barge Freighting Registers Big Increase

NEW ORLEANS, June 20. (UP) —A rapid increase in freight tonnage carried by river barges was disclosed in a report by the inland waterways corporation here today. Tonnage for the first five months of the year exceeded by 37,000 tons that for the same period of 1928. The June load was expected to reach 135,000 tons.

Japan Ready for Arms Cut, Premier Announces

WASHINGTON, June 20. (AP)—Premier Tanaka of Japan informed the American government today through the American embassy in Tokyo that Japan is prepared to support measures looking toward further reduction of armaments. The premier also told American Charge d'Affaires Edwin L. Neville that Japan desires peace and lessened expenditures for war purposes.

Sick Defendant Gains Continuance to June 26

WACO, Texas, June 20. (UP)—Charlie Knox, charged with robbery with firearms, was allowed continuance of his case until Wednesday in district court here today because of illness.

Knox was brought here from Terrell, where he was operated on Monday. He was considered too weak to stand trial.

The case was brought here on a change of venue from Groesbeck. His trial there, in which he was convicted and sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary, was reversed by the court of appeals.

Air Stowaway Starts Ocean Voyage Back

PARIS, June 20. (UP)—Arthur Schreiber, American youth who stowed away on the French transatlantic monoplane Yellow Bird, left for New York today with nothing but praise for the good-fellowship of the three fliers whose lives he endangered by his stunt.

"They are gentlemen," said the boy as he left to board the Leviathan. "I hope the American public has not mistaken my motives. I stowed away not for glory or dollars, but because I craved exciting experience."

Early Morning Shots Wound Famous Athlete

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 20. (AP) —Society circles were excited here today over the revelation of Chief of Police Fred H. McDuff that H. E. "Hek" Wakefield, banker and 1925 all American football selection, was shot twice at 2 a. m. Monday in front of the residence of Junius Walthall, brother of Henry B. Walthall, the actor, in Mountain Brook estates, exclusive residential section here. It was said Wakefield was shot in the thigh and hand with a small pistol. He was "resting comfortably" today.

GUNFIGHT WITH ESCAPED MEN IS PROMISED

BLOODHOUNDS USED

Group of Fugitives Reported Surrounded By Possemen

HOUSTON, June 20. (AP)—Two of the Clemens state farm escaped convicts were shot near Sweeney tonight by members of a posse. They are Tom Nichols, Limestone county, serving 12 years for murder, and J. L. Haley, McClennan county, serving two to five years for forgery.

HOUSTON, June 20. (AP)—Fifteen of the 43 convicts who kidnaped their guards and escaped the Clemens state prison farm, Brazoria county, early today had been recaptured tonight and a gun battle appeared possible as officers surrounded a dozen others in the woods near Sweeney.

None of five convicts known to be armed had been taken.

Headed by W. M. Hickman, prison farm manager, and Sheriff John McKinney, of Brazoria county, a posse of guards, officers and citizens searched all territory in the vicinity of Brazoria, Angleton and Freeport.

Bloodhounds on Trail

In a telephone conversation with the Houston Post Dispatch tonight, Mrs. Hickman, wife of the manager, said 15 of the men had been recaptured and possibly others not reported.

Two of the first three recaptured were slightly wounded at Henkle's Ferry when fired on by J. V. Henkle Jr., aroused from sleep by shots fired at a negro from whom the convicts had commandeered a car.

Henkle fired into the group injuring two and capturing three.

The break, according to Emmett Moore, night guard, came about when Joe Williams, serving a term for burglary in Tarrant county, and Robert Massey, serving for a similar charge in Galveston county, asked permission to go to the hospital ward for medicine.

They returned shortly saying that they were unable to awaken the hospital steward.

Words Fail

"They then covered me with a gun," Moore said, "ordering me to stick them up. I tried to talk them out of breaking, but they said their mind was made up."

After taking his keys, Moore said, Williams and Massey went into the main section of the barracks where Virgil Cook and Red Cash, two other gaurds were on duty. As if by a prearranged signal, convicts inside the main barracks pulled knives and rushed at Cash and Cook.

"Williams and Massey," Moore said "took the keys and ran for the doors of the building, unlocking them and inviting all of the prisoners to make a break for freedom.

American Woman Freed From Tia Juana Jail

TIA JUANA, Mex., June 20. (US) —After being held four days in jail here on a traffic charge, Mrs. Nana Madex, a wealthy tourist from Wheatland, Wyo., was freed today when San Diego, Calif., police were informed of her plight.

That an American woman was being held in the Mexican jail did not become known until Police Chief Hill of San Diego received a letter this morning from Mrs. Fern A. Athertoo of Pasadena asking him to aid Mrs. Madex. Mrs. Madex injured a Japenese in an automobile accident. She was unable to effect her release, however, until she paid $250 the Japanese claimed for medical attention.

WICHITANS RE-TAKEN

Among the convicts who escaped from the Clemens farm early Thursday and known to have been recaptured were C. W. Dodgen, two years, forgery, and Jim Stouard, two years, theft, both of Wichita county.

HELPS RACE

Millionaire's Gold Left To Spread Birth Control Facts

CLEVELAND, June 20. (UP) —Millions of dollars for the spread of birth control information, was provided in the will of Charles F. Brush, inventor, filed for probate today.

The exact amount of Brush's estate is not known, but he was a multimillionaire.

After leaving $100,000 to a church, his old mansion to his daughter and choice art works to the Cleveland Art museum, Brush willed most of the remainder of his estate to the Brush foundation. This foundation, established 18 months ago, is for the spread and stabilization of birth control. A storm of protest followed its inauguration.

MRS. HOOVER'S TEA DEFENDED

Creager and Lucey Protest Texas' Censure

DALLAS, June 20. (AP)—Two Texas Hoover leaders today asked Governor Moody not to sign or approve a resolution passed by the legislature criticising Mrs. Herbert Hoover for the De Priest incident.

R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman, in a telegram to the governor said that Mrs. Hoover merely had followed precedent in entertaining the wife of the negro congressman from Illinois.

"Invitations to these affairs are extended to the wives of all members and are based upon lists furnished by the officers of house and senate," the telegram said. "On this occasion Mrs. De Priest as the wife of congressman De Priest was invited to one of a series of teas for the wives of members of house and senate. The names of none on the official list were omitted. The affair was wholly official and not personal or social. The president had no slightest idea or intention of creating, destroying, or in any manner affecting existing social or racial lines or barriers."

Creager's telegram, as did another sent to the governor by J. F. Lucey, Hoover leader in the last election, emphasized that "during the last Democratic administration, from 1913 to 1921, persons of negro blood were on various occasions invited to the White House and, on several occasions, at at the White House table. The then minister from Haiti, Colonmenos, and his wife, both negroes, were invited to and attended diplomatic dinners at the White House on the following dates: Jan. 2, 1914; Jan. 21, 1916; Jan. 25, 1916; Jan. 9, 1917, and Jan. 10, 1917."

The message concluded: "Texas and the South will not and cannot profit by the preaching of a doctrine of hate."

Department of Justice Counts 'Dry' Killings

WASHINGTON, June 20. (US)— The department of justice has launched the most sweeping survey ever attempted of prohibition enforcement killings, it was announced today. It is gathering data throughout the country on the number of citizens and dry law violators who have been shot down by state, as well as federal officers, in the nine years of federal prohibition. The number of federal and state officers killed will be studied at the same time.

Winner of Medal Plans New Flight From England

COPENHAGEN, June 20. (UP)— Bert Hinkler, British aviator, announced today that he plans to start another spectacular flight, probably from England, within the next few months.

Hinkler, who was awarded the International Aeronautic Congress' gold medal this morning for his flight from England to Australia and back, declined to reveal any further information about his plan. He said he would stay in England for the next two months before attempting the proposed flight.

KELL TO BACK ABILENE RAIL LINE PROJECT

$1,100,000 TOTAL COST

Abilene Citizens to Raise $400,000 While Kell Floats Bonds

Special to The Record News.

ABILENE, Texas, June 20.—Plans for the building of a new railroad from Abilene to Cross Plains, approximately 45 miles southeast of this city, to connect with the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway, were announced today by George A. Anderson, chairman of the special railroad committee of the Abilene Chamber of Commerce.

According to the announcement, Frank Kell, of Wichita Falls, president of the Wichita Falls and Southern railway, and the outstanding independent railroad builder in the United States, has been interested in the proposition and a definite understanding concerning financing, building and operating the proposed rail line, has been effected between him and the local committee.

$1,100,000 Is Cost

Total cost of the project has been estimated at around $1,100,000. Citizens of Abilene will be asked to buy $200,000 worth of common stock in the enterprise and to subscribe an additional $200,000 to be used by the railroad as a bonus and to buy right-of-way and grounds for the road.

Kell has agreed, Anderson says, to take one-half of the capital stock issue of $700,000 and in addition to personally float a six per cent bond issue of $400,000 to $500,000.

The campaign to secure the $400,000 quota assigned to Abilene will be started in the near future, Anderson says, and he declares that there is no danger of the sum not being raised.

The road, if allowed by the Inter-

Heflin Rushes To Help Tom Jr., Out Of Narcotic Case

WASHINGTON, June 20. (US)— Instead of censuring him, Senator Heflin of Alabama, will "go the limit" to aid his son, Tom Jr., who pleaded not guilty today to charges of driving an automobile while under the influence of drugs.

Young Heflin was free under $1,000 bond after he demanded a jury trial. He explained that he told the policeman, who questioned him after he had bumped into a truck, that he had taken a veronal tablet.

Heflin admitted later he had taken three or four drinks of straight alcohol.

Meanwhile, Senator Heflin was hurrying here from Ohio. Interviewed at Toledo, he said:

"My son is all right. His arrest in Washington is all a frame-up, and an attempt to embarrass me."

Delayed Vatican Answer Worries Mexican Heads

MEXICO CITY, June 20. (AP)— Those interested in the negotiations looking toward settlement of the religious question in Mexico were frankly worried today at the lack of an answer from the vatican on the terms under consideration. It was the belief that unless the Holy See acted quickly there was a possibility of collapse of the negotiations.

Shields Again Heads University Trustees

DES MOINES, June 20. (AP)—Dr. T. T. Shields, storm center in the recent Des Moines university controversy, was named acting president of the university "for purposes of reorganization," by the board of trustees today. He was also re-elected president of the board.

Wichita Falls To Welcome Spudders On Return Today

Spudderville will welcome its conquering heroes today in a fitting manner. A luncheon and parade feature ceremonies today as the Spudders return home from a remarkable road trek, to open an 11-day stand here.

The luncheon will be at the Kemp. Fred Weeks will talk. The parade forms at Ninth and Scott at 2:30 o'clock. Boy Scouts in uniform and members of the Knothole gang will hold important places in the line of march. They are asked to assemble at Ninth and Scott at 2:15 o'clock.

Two bands will lead the parade. Fans are urged to include their cars in the triumphant procession.

Sympathetic Ranchers Donated for Treatment

AUSTIN, June 20. (AP)—Cattlemen from all sections of Texas sympathized with J. T. Robison, land commissioner, because of his reverses caused by illness and death in his family and were eager to contribute financially to his relief, J. D. Jackson, Alpine, for 24 years a member of the executive committee of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association, told the house today.

Hearings of the charges against the commissioner was resumed late today, after it had been deferred to permit the house to consider legislation.

Cattlemen Testify

In addition to Mr. Jackson, a number of other West Texas cattlemen and land owners testified to the need of reappraisement of public lands in 1925 as a result of financial reverses to the owners, and Dr. Joe S. Wooten of Austin, gave a picture of Robison's physical limitations.

Attorneys for Mr. Robison insisted on having Dr. Wooten reply to questions about the land commissioner's ever having been addicted to the "dope habit."

At Attorney Lloyd Price broached the subject, Attorney R. B. Allen for the house objected.

Dope Habit Denied

"Testimony that Mr. Robison is addicted to the dope habit has been put in this record and we want to refute it," Price contended.

"It is not only in the record but has been circulated all over this state and among the members of this house," Dayton Moses, another attorney for Mr. Robison interposed.

"The only testimony bearing on that phase was that read from the transcript of Mr. Robison himself before the investigation committee," Allen stated. "He said then as a youth he resorted to narcotics to relieve pain he suffered from illness and he stated further empha-

Womble Sentenced For Murder of Rum Runner

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 20. (UP)—Roy Womble, 34, today was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor for the murder of George Lampos, a Greek rum runner, by a district court.

The jury returned its verdict on the first ballot. The state based its case on circumstantial evidence. Womble smiled as sentence was pronounced. He put his arm around his wife, smiled and kissed his child.

Womble still faces murder charges in connection with the death of Peter Amos, Lampos' companion.

Eleemosynary Budget Reduced by $2,673,000

AUSTIN, June 20. (UP)—A compromise ellemosynary appropriation bill to be recommended by a conference of the house and senate committees was agreed on tonight. It calls for $10,638,000 for two years. This is $2,673,000 less than the bill passed by the senate and $524,000 more than the bill passed by the house.

PISTOL VOLLEY STRIKES DOWN WOMAN HERE

Mrs. J. W. Williamson Hurt As Shots Crash From Neighboring House

POLICE SEIZE ARMS

Beer and Guns Taken In Raid, but Residence Is Found Deserted

Mrs. J. W. Williamson, 29, 2213 Buchanan street was wounded in the leg just below the knee about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon during a volley of pistol shots apparently fired from a house next door to the home of G. A. Caldwell, 1602 Taylor street, where Mrs. Williamson was visiting.

The injured woman was taken to the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital in a Merkle ambulance. The bullet, which had lodged in the flesh about two and one-half inches below the knee, was removed. She will remain in the hospital for several days, according to attendants.

Mrs. Williamson and her 4-year-old son, Joe Jr., were seated at a table in the breakfast room of the Caldwell home, Mrs. Caldwell standing only a few steps away when a fusillade of shots was heard from the house next door, 1600 Taylor street. Four of the shots struck the outside wall of the Caldwell house, the fourth bullet piercing the wall and striking Mrs. Williamson.

Officers Chase Suspect

Immediately following the shooting, two men and two women ran from the house from which the shots had come, according to persons in nearby yards. The four drove off in an automobile. When police arrived, the house was empty. A man seen running down an alley behind the houses was pursued about a block and a half but eluded the officers.

After swearing out a search warrant, police investigated the house, finding four pistols, three Colts and one Smith and Wesson .22 calibre, the latter having been recently fired. In this weapon, four shells had been exploded and a fifth had failed to explode when the trigger was pulled. Two of the other guns were loaded. Officers also found a shotgun and a large amount of pistol ammunition.

Several bottles of cold beer and about 14 gallons of mash were found in the kitchen of the house. Two half-gallon jars with a little whisky in the bottom of each were found in the sink. A box of empty bottles was in a closet.

Two men, stating that they had "just been at a house on Taylor street where some shots had been fired" were at a local lumber company shortly after the incident. They told employes there that they had been in the house drinking beer and that they heard four shots fired in the front part of the dwelling. A man ran back and told them that they had "better clear out," they said. Upon leaving the front of the house, they saw a woman lying stretched out on the floor, her hands above her head, as though she had been shot, they declared.

The story of the two men was reported to authorities but no trace of them could be found, the two having left the lumber company soon after telling their story. No indication of what had become of the two women, if they had left the house with these men, was discovered.

The house belongs to J. S. Nichols

Quanah Man Dies Of Crash Injuries

Harry R. Hamilton, 23, of Quanah, who was injured in a collision between the motorcycle which he was riding and an automobile near the entrance to Lakeside park last Sunday afternoon, died in a local hospital at 12:30 a. m. Thursday.

The body was forwarded to Mineral Wells by the Merkle undertaking company at 12:30 p. m. Thursday.

Mrs. Hamilton, who was riding in a side car of the motorcycle at the time of the crash, escaped with minor cuts and bruises. Mr. Hamilton had been working as foreman of a pipeline in Wichita county for several weeks.

Survivors are his wife, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hamilton; one brother, H. S. Hamilton, and one sister, Miss Louise Hamilton, all of Mineral Wells.

Deluge of Votes Puts Red Radiance Rose in Lead

A deluge of votes for the red radiance rose gave the flower a slight lead over the larkspur at the end of Thursday's balloting in the contest sponsored by The Record News and the Wichita Falls Garden club to select the official flower of the city by popular vote.

The larkspur also received a heavy vote Thursday, but the majority of the votes went to the red radiance rose. The Rotary club and two summer school classes of Wichita Falls were among the organizations that registered ballots in the contest Thursday. The lead of the red radiance over the larkspur was small, however, due to the heavy majority piled up by the latter during the first three days of contest. A rally by the friends of the larkspur may send it back into the lead today.

The last ballot in the contest will be printed by The Record News next Wednesday morning, and Garden club leaders again urged

Three Horsemen Rob Bank In Old West's Approved Style; One Caught

CANEY, Okla., June 20. (UP)— Riding into town as farmers, three men reined in their horses behind the bank of Caney today, looted the bank of $2,194.65 in traditional wild west fashion and galloped away on their horses.

But the frontier tactics of the band were inefficient and a bag containing $280 in gold slipped from one of the riders' pockets and was recovered by citizens riding horses in pursuit.

Tonight posses from Atoka, Bryan and Johnston counties were converging on boggy bottoms in this rugged hill country of Southwestern Oklahoma, where the bandits were believed to be hiding and their capture was expected. One suspect believed to know about the robbery was in the Atoka jail tonight.

Charles Brown, bank owner, Virginia, his daughter, and an aged customer, were ordered to lie on the floor while the bandits emptied the money into sacks and returned to their saddles, disappearing in a cloud of dust.

Officers later identified the suspect held in the Atoka jail as Cecil Calico, 22, of Caney. Investigation revealed, they said that he had purchased a revolver and cartridges in Caney before the robbery. They found him in an automobile, they said, in which was $500.

EL PASO'S GAS BLAST SOLVED

Hydrogen Sulphide Gas Is Blamed for Deaths

EL PASO, Texas, June 20. (AP)—An impromptu court of inquiry, set up by city and county officials today was told by physicians that hydrogen sulphide gas caused the death of two children and illness of 16 persons last night.

A joint meeting of the city council and county commissioners court was held to question doctors, chemists and refinery and natural gas officials to determine the cause of the tragedy and to attempt to prevent a recurrence.

Dr. T. J. McCamant, county health officer, reported to the meeting that an autopsy performed on the dead children and tests of blood taken from other victims showed that the tragedy was caused by some form of sulphur gas.

W. G. Hamilton, general manager of the Pasotex Petroleum company's refinery said that everything was "perfectly regular" in the Pasotex refinery. "I will not try to deny the fact that West Texas crude oil has some hydrogen in it," Mr. Hamilton said. "It is taken from the oil during the course of refining and burned at our plant."

Contracts for New Air Fleet Okehed

WASHINGTON, June 20. (INS)—Contracts for 162 airplanes for the army, costing approximately $5,000,000, were approved today by the war department.

Ninety pursuit planes will be built by the Boling Airplane Co., Seattle, Wash., to be powered by a Wasp aircooled engined. Forty-one observation and 28 attack planes will be built by the Curtiss Airplane company, of Buffalo, N. Y.

The Fokker company, of Hasbrook, N. J., will build two bimotored three-seater monoplanes of the observation type for experimental purposes and a third experimental of the two-seater pursuit type will be built by the Berliner-Joyce aircraft corporation of Baltimore.

American Globe Trotter Visitor at Austin

AUSTIN, June 20. (INS)—Armando Arefelian, Armenian globe trotter, was a recent visitor in Austin. Arefelian says that he speaks eight languages and has visited in 61 countries. He has been riding horseback and walking through these countries, he stated.

From Austin he will proceed to New York city, his destination when he set out on the present trip from Caracas, Venezuela. Arefelia has a sister there, whom he will visit.

He stated that he would write a book on his travels and experiences after he has spent two or three years on this continent.

Man Found Wounded In Dying Condition

BRADY, Texas, June 20. (INS)—With but a fighting chance for his life, Harry Clements, about 28, originally of Prescott, Ariz., but recently employed on a ranch near Fredericksburg, is at the Brady sanitarium today with six bullet fragments in his brain. The wounded man was taken to the sanitarium late last night by Sheriff Love Kimbrough, after passersby had observed him in a dazed condition near outskirts of the city.

Clements made no statement regarding the condition in which he was found.

Separate Corporation To Handle News by Air

WASHINGTON, June 20. (INS)—The Federal Radio commission today decided that one radio public service corporation must be established to take care of the interests of the American press.

The commission set aside 20 transoceanic frequencies, and reserved 20 intra-continental channels for the transmission of news. A trusteeship for the press radio facilities was created under the direction of Joseph Pierson of Chicago.

Murder Charge Laid Against Court Bailiff

BUCHANAN, Ga., June 20. (UP)—Luther Ballenger, a county bailiff, must face trial on a first degree murder charge for the shooting of Grady Phillips, occupant of a car Ballenger suspected contained liquor. Ballenger was refused bail at a preliminary hearing today and held for trial during the jury term of Haralson county court.

Electra Officers Make Two Raids

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, June 20.—In two raids made by the Electra police and constable departments Wednesday night four arrests were made.

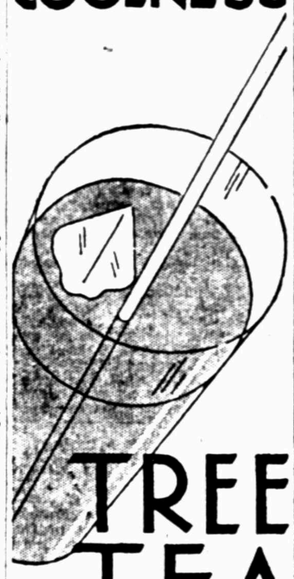

The first raid was made on a place in the east part of Electra, where a quantity of beer was seized, and a man and woman arrested were to be taken to Wichita Falls Thursday where complaints will be filed against them for possession of beer for the purpose of sale. Later in the night another place was raided by Deputy Constable Spruiell and Electra police. While the officers were gaining admittance about 16 gallons of whisky was poured out on the floor, but enough evidence was obtained that the two men were arrested and complaint will be filed at Wichita Falls for the possession of whisky for the purpose of sale and one for carrying a gun.

DRUGGISTS FOR LIQUOR SALE

Motion to Quit Prescription Trade Tabled

FORT WORTH, June 20. (AP)—Texas druggists tabled permanently a motion asking the adoption for a resolution which sought to abolish the sale of liquor by prescription in the closing session of the annual convention of the Texas Pharmaceutical association today.

A resolution registering protest against drug manufacturers selling to chain stores cheaper than to independent druggists was adopted. Several speakers emphasized the importance of the movement launched by the druggists to protect the independent druggist and urged every member of the convention to cooperate in the concerted effort to put the one-store man and the corporation on even terms in competing for patronage.

Henry F. Hein, San Antonio, was elected president. Walter D. Adams, Forney, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Month's Trial Helped Her

"I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was 14 years old to build me up. I had been frail and nervous. After taking three bottles I was in normal condition. Collie Chases Robbers Wins Heavy Rations

TROUP, Texas, June 20. (INS)—M. M. Pannel's collie dog was the recipient recently of as choice a beef dinner as any canine ever pawed over, the reward for his frustration of a bank robbery.

Pannel said that he was awakened by the loud barking of his dog. He went to the window, from which he could see the rear entrance to the bank, and there saw three masked men in the night shadows, hurrying to a car which was parked nearby. They got in it and drove rapidly away, he said, evidently scared off through fear of detection as a result of the furore set up by the collie.

Officials of the Troup State bank investigating the next morning and found nothing amiss. They decided that the collie was due some reward, and the beef dinner followed.

CASTRO COUNTY ENJOYS GAINS

Coming of Railroad Signal For Advancement

Special to The Record News.

DIMMITT, Texas, June 20.—Development at Dimmitt, capital of Castro county, since the advent of the Fort Worth and Denver railroad a year ago, has been phenomenal. There is no sign of a boom in this place as most of the business buildings are of fire-proof construction and very few cheap residences have been built.

Fifteen brick business buildings have been erected during the past eight months; two elevators have been constructed to take care of the big wheat crop, five wholesale oil companies have been established here since the railroad came, bonds have been voted for a $100,000 high school building, the Baptist and the Methodist churches are each building an $18,000 church and the Christian church has just completed a $10,000 stucco building.

A real wheat crop is already assured and prospects are good for a row crop. Many homeseekers are moving to Castro county from other sections. Pasture land is being plowed up by the hundreds of acres and predictions are that more acreage will be in wheat and row crops next year than ever before.

The Castro County Grain company and the Farmers Elevator company have erected large elevators to take care of the grain crop.

One year ago Dimmit boasted a population of some 250 people. Today the town has between 800 and 900 people. The reason for the development is the railroad, and the conversion of pasture land into wheat farms.

Jury Awards Damages In Auto Crash Suit

At the end of a trial in which the drivers of both cars involved in an automobile collision were asking for damages, a jury in the county court-at-law Thursday afternoon awarded W. P. Smith, original plaintiff, a judgment of $300 against F. M. Taber and L. C. Stewart of Iowa Park. The defendants, in denying liability in the accident, brought a cross-action seeking $175 for damages to their own machine. The case was tried before Judge Irwin J. Vogal.

The accident happened in Iowa Park Feb. 7. According to evidence introduced by the plaintiff and uncontested by the defendants, a truck belonging to the firm of Taber & Stewart was being driven without lights at night at the time of the accident. On the other hand, the company in its cross action accused Mr. Smith of operating his machine at an excessive rate of speed.

SAYRE FISCAL REPORT GOOD

City in Sound Financial Condition

Special to The Record News.

SAYRE, Okla., June 20.—The financial report of W. Ben Turner, city treasurer, reflects an unusually sound fiscal condition for a town of the size of Sayre. Total bonded indebtedness is $288,000. Cash and securities owned by the city, $220,000.

Among the securities owned are Elk City water works and sewer bonds, $15,000; Cordell school bonds, $38,000; Clinton light bonds, Stigler school funding bonds, McCurtain, Okfuskee, Harper, LeFlore and Pushmataha county district bonds.

Interest collected annually by the city on its investments and daily bank balance amounts to approximately $8,800.

As a result of the good financial condition of the city, it has a relatively low tax rate. According to the tax records its rate is 41.166, as compared to 53.026 for Elk City, its chief rival town in Beckham county.

The major portion of the securities held by the city were purchased with the proceeds of a municipally owned light and power plant which were sold four years ago.

Czecho-Slovakia now has 15,000,000 acres of arable land.

1,200 Texas Youths in Summer Military School

SAN ANTONIO, June 20. (INS)—"You're in the army now," is the cry that can be heard on every hand, as approximately 1,500 Texas youths go through the prescribed drills and observe strict military regulations at the 1929 citizens military training camp at Fort Sam Houston.

Military officials in charge of the summer camp expressed themselves as well pleased with the physical condition of the boys, stating that only about three out of every 100 had to be rejected on account of physical disabilities.

The quota for the camp is 1,200. Out of the more than 1,500 who arrived a great many will have to return to their homes after all vacancies have been filled and if they have been unsuccessful in securing such a vacancy. Those on the waiting list are being maintained at government expense. The quota is expected to be closed very shortly. The camp will last through four weeks, one of which will be spent at the target range at Camp Stanley.

Iowa Park Men Are Witnesses in Trial

IOWA PARK, Texas, June 20.—J. J. Cobb, Tom Corridon, Ray Harriman and Roy Hanna, brother-in-law of John R. Wilson, who was killed in Brownwood a few months ago, left for Brownwood this morning, as character witnesses in the previous trial of this case.

Wilson was engaged in oil field work in this section for several years previous to his death, and was well known here. He maintained a home here at the time of his death. He is survived by his widow and daughter, Hallie Fern, who are now located at Coleman, Texas. Mrs. Wilson was formerly Miss Beulah Cury of Iowa Park.

Immediate Relief From Indigestion

Not Necessary to Diet

Many people who are hungry are afraid to eat for fear of distressing after-effects. They keep themselves on a limited diet and go about half starved.

This is unnecessary. Take a spoonful of GORDON'S after meals and you can eat what you like and as much as you want without any after-feeling of distress. Try it and see.

GORDON'S, an internal antiseptic, goes right to the seat of the trouble by stopping fermentation (souring of food). It soothes, heals and strengthens weak or disordered stomachs.

Municipal Judge in Chicago Is Missing

CHICAGO, June 20. (UP)—Judge Edgar A. Jonas of the felony division of the municipal court, was missing today from his bench under mysterious circumstances. Police immediately started a search when Mrs. Jonas reported he had left home at 9 o'clock in good health. Hospitals were all being checked and police squads were notified to seek the judge.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, fervishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Maghesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.—Adv.

Lovely Luncheon and Program Given 60 Guests by Mrs. J. B. Ferguson

A luncheon declared one of the summer's loveliest affairs was served Thursday in the Wichita club lounge room, when Mrs. J. B. Ferguson entertained 60 of her friends. The tables placed in the form of a square, faced what seemed a sunken garden; Shasta daisies grew on its moss covered slopes and in the center, a fountain played over a lighted globe. The garden held a sundial, and in the pool water lilies floated.

On the table crystal vases held Shasta daisies at formal intervals. Crystal bonbon bowls held pastel colored bonbons. Miniature books, copies of masterpieces, were wrapped in pastel tissue and tied with pastel ribbons before each plate. In the center of each long table was a massed box of brilliant beauty in golden marigold, gorgeous zinnias, lovely gladioli and feathery vitex.

Miss Dorothy Nolen was the impressario who put on a novel program during and after the luncheon. She introduced herself as camera man with "You've heard of Fox's Movietone and Warner Brother's Vitaphone, but today we're presenting to you, Ferguson's actaphone—something new." The program was called "Within a camera's eye, using Ferguson's Actaphone." During its rendition, Misses Mattilyn Wilson and Emmy Taylor furnished a musical background in chords from each country.

First on the program was Ben Ahmud, clairvoyant, appearing in his oriental tent and making hits with some of the news about those present. Ben Ahmud was Mrs. Cecil Putty, with Marry Myers assistant.

From Scotland to Spain was not a long trip with Miss Nolen at the camera, and in Scotland, Monterey Lewis, accompanied by her mother, gave Spanish numbers on the violin.

Then back to America where Katherine and Elizabeth Weldon, accompanied by Edward Smith, gave real American music.

The guest list at Mrs. Ferguson's lovely luncheon included Mesdames J. C. A. Guest, W. J. Grisham, Miss Helen Grisham, Mesdames J. T. Howell, Ray Hanks, Lester Jones, Milton Johnson, Miss Martha Johnson, Mesdames Harry Hines, E. T. Duff, Carlisle Norwood, S. S. McKenney, J. W. Nolen, W. H. Roper, L. N. Gilliland, L. E. Cowling, M. We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

The Great Shiny Nose Controversy!

Two great British shipping firms have fired all the girls and women in their employ and replaced them with men. The reason is said to be that the women interrupted their work too often to powder their noses and discuss styles. In Washington the women members in congress, together with representatives of women's organization, have been getting very indignant about it all.

It would be an outrage if all women were denied employment simply because they occasionally powder their noses.

But no fairminded employer, who realizes that a woman cannot be efficient unless she looks her best, would object to that.

Shiny noses are a distinct industrial and economical liability to any up and forward going firm, instead of an asset.

Indeed, if women employees should suddenly decide to stop powdering their noses I'm pretty sure that nearly every board of directors in the country would hold a special meeting and vote to purchase vanity cases, completely equipped, out of the company's sinking-fund and distribute them gratis to the dear girls with the injunction, "Powder your noses—or look for another job!"

There doubtless are girls in many offices who powder their noses too often. A girl's nose is often her best friend but can become her worst enemy when it is neglected or pampered. But no girl I ever knew or saw ever neglected it, except by accident or by an almost unprecented attack of downright absent-mindedness.

And the only time she'd be so absent-minded would be when she was so absorbed in her work as to forget all about her nose. In such a case, of course, there would be grave doubts about her efficiency. A girl who neglects her nose is also likely to neglect some important phases of her work.

I feel sorry for those girls but if they are capable, they'll get other jobs. There is hardly a place in this world where an efficient girl who doesn't neglect her nose can't get a good job.

The girls in those shipping offices either were (1) unsuited to the work, or (2) paid too much attention to their noses or (3) their bosses just hated to have girls around.

And that, surely, really is their business and for them alone to decide. Besides, what girl in her senses would want to work in such an office? . . . May I borrow your powder-puff?

Betty Brainerd will be glad to help her readers with their problems. Send a self addressed stamped envelope to her in care of this paper.

Younger Set Has Pretty Luncheon

Honoring Miss Esther Engler of Fort Worth, Miss Bertha May Kruger entertained Thursday at the Country club with a dainty luncheon.

The table was set on the porch overlooking the pool and was beautifully decorated with roses and larkspur. Crystal service was used and the abundance of cosmos in baskets made it seem more of an outdoor function.

Covers were laid for the honoree, Miss Esther Engler, Aaron Kruger, and Misses Emmaline Lewis, Mildred Mosby, Margaret Pease, Nathalie Lebenson, Iva Lee Eubanks, Elizabeth Clifton, Sadie Shain and the young hostess.

WRITER RAPS WEAK MOTHERS

Children Should Be Given Early Training

"You Can't Start to Enforce Discipline on an 18-Year-Old Girl—But You Can Bring Her Up in the Way She Should Go, and When She is 18, or 28, She Will Not Depart From It."

How far are mothers responsible for the conduct of their daughters? How much are their mothers to blame for the jazz life of the girls who pet and neck and drink and go on wild parties and sit out in parked automobiles with boys until nearly morning? This is a problem that an unofficial jury of women in Chicago has been appointed to solve after an automobile accident in which a boy was killed when a car filled with roistering youngsters making whoopee skidded and turned over and at which, at the coroner's inquest, a girl, who had been in the merry crowd, testified that they had been only doing what all the other young people did. Just having a good time and drinking bootleg hooch. And, of course, she drank. A girl had to if she wanted to have dates. No boy would come the second time to see a girl who didn't drink. And she wouldn't bother with a boy who didn't carry a flask on his hip. She would consider him a flat tire.

It was these cynical revelations from the lips of an 18-year-old girl that made the investigators sit up and take notice and ask where are the mothers and what are they doing while their wandering girls are out at night hitting it up with boys whose names they do not even know, and how far should the mothers be held accountable for what these girls do?

Of course, one's first impulse is to hold the mothers entirely responsible for their daughters' conduct. The girl baby comes into its mother's hands a tiny bundle of plastic clay that she can hold as she will. She has those first few years of a child's life in which, as behaviorists tell us, and as we all know from our personal experience, the life pattern of conduct is set, when we form the habits, when we have the ideals and the impressions stamped into our consciousness, that determine the sort of men and women we are going to be and that guide us in everything we do.

The mother, then, in those early, formative years can teach her little girl to be modest, to hold her honor above her life, to be careful of her good name. She can teach her self-control. She can teach her to respect her womanhood, and if she does teach her these things there is not one chance in a thousand, no, not one chance in ten thousand, that such a girl will ever depart from the principles of decency she has learned at her mother's knee. She will be better chaperoned by her own sense of right than she would be by all the duennas in the world.

Unfortunately, most mothers take it for granted that their own daughters are made of some sort of superior clay so that they will not be tempted to do the things that the girls do who get themselves talked about and, therefore, they spend more time curling Mamie and Sadie's hair and dolling them up than they do in trying to cultivate a high ethical sense in them. It is safe to say that the average mother devotes far more thought to beautifying her daughters' bodies than she does to beautifying their souls.

Also, mothers are so crazy for their daughters to be admired and sought after by men and to have good times that only too often they shut their eyes to how they get them. It is only the exceptional mother who ever tries to find out anything about the boys that her girls go with. They get such a kick out of bragging that Mamie and Sadie have half a dozen dates for every night that they ignore the fact that Mamie and Sadie may be running around with rotters and roues.

And if boys won't come to see girls who will not pay for their society and for their every attention by permitting personal liberties, mother simply turns her back on amorous scenes that would have made her blush her head off when she was young. And if boys won't take girls out who have to punch the home time clock at any decent hour, mother may lie awake in an agony of anxiety and apprehension waiting for Mamie and Sadie's return, but she leaves the front door on the latch so that they can get in without waking up father.

Why, not long ago the mother of two pretty and clever young girls who are modest, who neither smoke nor drink and who will not stand for being pawed over, told me that when she saw her daughters passed over for girls not half so attractive, but who had no reserve and who actually bragged about getting soused, she felt like telling her daughters to go the limit and do as the other girls did.

Certainly as long as mothers feel that a few dates with college sheiks and drugstore cowboys is worth the price of a girl's soul and that it is better for her to stay out at night until she is a scandal in the neighborhood than for her to sit at home, they are no moral restraints upon their daughters. On the contrary, they are accelerators rather than brakes on their girls who are starting out on the wild pace, for their teaching, that is implied if not expressed is: "Get the attentions of men properly and conventionally if you can. But get them."

Of course, the mothers say in their own defense that they can't control their daughters, that Mamie and Sadie simply flount them and defy them and tell them that it is none of their business where they are going nor when they are coming home when they start out in an automobile with a youth whom mother has never seen before. But whose fault is that but the mother's who has not reared her daughter to respect and obey her?

You can't start to enforce discipline on an 18-year-old girl. It is just exactly 17 years, 11 months and 27 days too late, but you can bring up any girl in the way she should go, and when she is 18 or 28 she will not depart from it.

So, I think we may justly blame the weak mothers, the indifferent mothers, the lazy mothers, the mothers who are so anxious for their daughters to have good times and dates that they are willing to buy them at any price for the wild, modern girl.

"SLIM LINES FOR MATURED FIGURE"
Pattern 1721

The model sketched today was styled with a view to slenderizing the figure. The long surplice bodice closing and the stitched skirt pleats create a long pleasing line most welcome to the figure that is no longer slim.

The graceful cascading collar, hemstitched or fagoted, covers bust fullness and creates an attractive, feminine trimming. Printed silk crepe, voile or georgette may be used with delightful success, remembering to select small designs. Polka dotted foulard would look charming.

May be obtained only in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44.

Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 40 inch material.

This model is easy to make. No dressmaking experience is necessary. Each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions including yardage for every size. A per fect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of fifteen cents (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

Our latest fashion book will be sent upon receipt of ten cents in coin. Address all mail and orders to R-N Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

Woman's Golf Association Has Luncheon, Plans Summer Program

Mrs. John Waggoner won the weekly prize for low score at the regular meeting of the Woman's Golf association at the Country club Thursday morning.

Regardless of the weather, there will be a regular luncheon each Thursday hereafter and if it should rain, bridge or some diversion will be furnished club members.

Thursday, June 27, will be a one-day tournament with prize.

Open house is announced for July 4. In the early morning, there will be a Scotch foursome and the usual play the remainder of the day. In the evening, an open house dinner and putting contest will be held.

The tables for luncheon Thursday were arranged on the screened porches and cosmos in beautiful colors were the floral decorations.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, June 20. (US)—Pretty Talullah Bankhead is having her nose lengthened over in London!

Trouble with most women is their noses are too long, both figuratively and literally.

She'll be much less conspicuous when she returns to New York if she has a big nose.

The ladies of 80 years and more, in the infirmary at Toledo, Ohio, are having their white hair bobbed.

It's always grand to hear that the spirit stays young in spite of the body.

While the first old lady, the daring one, had hers bobbed, the other old ladies drew up their chairs and sniggered and made remarks. Then they climbed into the barber chair and did likewise.

Isn't that always the way?

A New York woman taken to a hospital ill from wearing too many clothes. She had on four suits of heavy underwear, three dresses, 15 pairs of heavy socks. Result: Congestion of arteries.

If any girl has on more than two skirts she probably will take off one when she reads this.

From a New York paper: "All this is revealed by Miss Edelbaum's attorney, who alleges that Lustig deliberately jilted Miss Edelbaum after a seven-year whirlwind courtship."

You'd think jilting would be a relief after seven years of whirlwind. At any rate he was deliberate.

A woman who has run a matrimonial bureau for eight years, says women over 40 have more sex appeal than flappers.

They are much more difficult to get away from. That's certain. Their job is to get married (if they aren't) and they work at it. To a flapper every new beau is just another change, and the supply is inexhaustible.

Meredith wrote: "When women feel youth and their beauty slip away from them, they feel it a kind of a duty to let nothing else slip away unsecured."

She says: "Man can keep a woman's love alive by a little flattery. It will do more than money—"

That's all hunky dory if she doesn't know any good spenders—she'd rather have flattery than nothing—but she had rather have nice presents that either.

Her advice is: "Never accept a man in the moonlight. They are never quite themselves in the moonlight."

If women accepted men only when they are quite themselves," the marriage license clerks would starve to death.

The widest ranging animals on the North American continent are the muskrat and raccoon, each being found in 47 states. The former is not found in Florida and the latter shuns Montana.

More than half a million birds were imported into America last year, the majority of which were canaries. More than 1,000 of these were shipped in every day.

CANAL SURVEY PERMIT GIVEN

Costa Rica Allows Troops To Enter Country

WASHINGTON, June 20. (US)—The Costa Rican government today gave the state department permission for a battalion of American army engineers to enter Costa Rican territory in connection with the survey for the Nicaraguan canal.

This permission has been already accorded by the Nicaraguan government. The additional approval of the Costa Rican executive was necessary since one end of the proposed canal route through Lake Nicaragua on the Gulf of Mexico borders on Costa Rican territory. This is the outlet at Salinas bay.

Secretary of State Stimson announced that acting under the official permission, parties of the American engineers could now enter the Costa Rican territory to make the necessary survey in connection with the proposed canal route, and such related problems as rainfall, stream flow and altitude.

The army will begin work on the survey "as soon as possible," Secretary of War Good announced.

Prison Laundry Foreman Slain

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., June 20. (UP)—Carl Panzran, prison inmate, ran amuck today while working in the laundry of Leavenworth federal penitentiary and slew R. G. Warnke, 40, laundry foreman, by striking him over the head with an iron pipe.

Warnke died in the prison hospital shortly after. Panzran fled into the prison yard where he was captured by Phil Holtgrave, guard. The prisoner, serving a sentence for burglary, was placed in solitary confinement while authorities began an investigation.

Penitentiary officials denied reports of "a near riot" among other prisoners. "No other prisoners were affected," an attache to the warden's office said. He could not assign any motive for Panzran's act.

New York's Own Jimmy Walker Gives His Prescription for Staying Young

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Mayor Walker of New York, who has just become 48 years old, is noted for his appearance and spirit of youthfulness, his ability to keep looking young as the years roll on. In the following article, he tells how he does it.)

By JAMES J. WALKER
Mayor of New York City

(Copyright, 1929, by the New York American, Inc., and Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, June 20.—Well, it's a good day for it.

June, the month of roses—and, by the way, have you seen any roses lately? A friend of mine, who lives in the country, was telling me the other day how all the neighbors were taking home little cans of lavender paint to turn their flowers into orchids. Maybe that's the Jack Dempsey influence. My friend, Jack, you know, doesn't feel at home any more unless his hotel suite is all cluttered up with orchids.

Never Felt Better

Or then again, it may be prohibition. . . . Ummm. . . . Now prohibition. . . . But we'll let that pass. No good could come of dragging that issue in, especially on a birthday. And mine, too!

I don't mind telling you, I've never felt better in my life. The sheer joy of living is surging through my veins. And I don't remember ever having felt happier or in a more contended state of mind.

As to a reasonable excuse, if any, for this article, somebody over in the office of Universal Service dropped in on me a day or two ago and was pleased to josh me into believing my youthful appearance astoundingly belied the gray hairs.

"Jimmy," he began, "speak for the ladies and gentlemen. Tell your public just how you do it. In short—'how to keep young, in one easy lesson'."

I suppose, to adhere strictly to the rules of reporting, this column of hopeful hints to helpless homogenerians should start with my age. Well, I'll get around to that just as soon as I think of it.

My idea is just this:

Learn to relax.

Forget Vengeance

Don't waste time in vengeful thoughts. It never gets you anything but trouble and futility.

Don't let yourself cultivate the notion you're a great little fellow. For, as the paraphrasers of the beatitudes have it:

"Blessed is he who expecteth nothing, for he shall not be disappointed."

I well recall how many years ago, my dear old dad took me aside one day and told me:

"Don't ever waste time, son, trying to get even with someone you fancy may have wronged you. Because, just as soon as you finish getting even with him, there's bound to be someone else."

And how true that advice has proven to be. The chap who goes out in life with a chip on his shoulder and the prideful boast that "nobody is going to get away with anything on him" may live to be 80 years old and still have only time enough to "get square" with about one-quarter of the birds on his list.

Suppressed, stored up ire is the worst foe of youth I know. It turns comparatively young men into octogenarians before their time. It brings about a disregard for those little niceties of existence that help to lighten one's burdens along the pathway; and it possesses the mind to the exclusion of sound, constructive thought leading to achievements that buoy one up and make life interesting.

To one interested in life and its improvement, old age can not creep up and claim him as its prey. His is that happy state of mind that just laughs encroaching years right out the window.

And, oh yes—about that birthday . . . . let's see, now. How old am I? I really have forgotten. . . . But I was born in '81!

Accident at Swimming Pool Brings $7,150 Suit

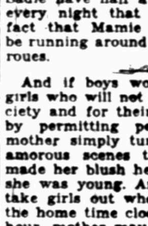

Injuries alleged to have been suffered when Miss Ivy Belle Taylor, 18, was thrown off into shallow water as she attempted to play on an amusement wheel in the Sand Beach Swimming pool resulted Thursday in the filing of a $7,150 damage suit against W. H. Kiel, manager of the pool. The suit was brought by Mrs. Nannie Taylor, mother of the girl.

The accident happened on June 10 of this year, according to the petition filed in the 89th district court Thursday. The young woman swimmer suffered internal injuries when the wheel spun her into water too shallow to break her fall, the mother declares. The suit asks for $5,000 damages for the girl and $2,150 for the mother to cover hospital expenses and the loss of the daughter's services.

DIAMOND SQUAD UNCOVERS PLOT

"Story Book" Smuggling Conspiracy Checked

NEW YORK, June 20. (UP)—The customs service's highly efficient diamond squad scored another victory today by hammering at the weak link in an international diamond-smuggling chain.

There was an unusual element of romance in this particular case—the secret signs of fictions stories, including a peculiarly shaped tobacco pipe, used to identify what proved to be the chain's weak link, and the torn halves of a piece of paper.

Louis Lemaire, a simple Belgian sailor, strolled from the liner Pennland's dock and was halted by diamond squad men. After questioning Lemaire, the diamond men took his tobacco pouch. In it was approximately $45,000 in diamonds and a torn piece of paper.

"Diamonds!" exclaimed Lemaire in obvious surprise.

"Yes, what a sap you are," he was told. "I suppose you get $5 for taking them ashore, don't you?"

"Yes," said Lemaire.

He was so annoyed that customs men had little trouble in persuading him to work with them.

Followed by diamond squad men, Lemaire went to Brooklyn. Standing on a selected corner, he pulled out a long pipe, with a peculiarly curved stem, and began to smoke.

In a few minutes, he was approached by a man who had been lounging nearby. This man pulled a piece of paper from his tobacco pouch. It fitted, and he handed over the pouch.

The diamond squad men promptly arrested the recipient of the pouch. He said he was Louis Silbert. He was taken to the address he gave, and there was found his father, Mandel Silberg, jeweler.

The two Silbergs were held in bail today, charged with smuggling. Lemaire was paroled in care of a diamond squad man, to be a witness.

Pupil Whipped, Wields Knife; Teacher Freed

CORSICANA, Texas, June 20. (AP)—Robert McCulloch, 20, school teacher, was acquitted here Wednesday on charges of aggravated assault in connection with whipping Evie Pullin, 13-year-old pupil, at the Pecan school March 5.

Testimony was that the boy fought back at the teacher with two pocket knives when McCulloch started to "spank him" and that Evie then received several blows with a larger board.

Kip Rhinelander Plans to Begin His Independence Battle on July Fourth

LOS ANGELES, June 20. (US)—Leonard Kip Rhinelander, wealthy scion of blueblood stock will renew his battle for independence around Independence day.

The July anniversary will mark part of his celebration, according to his lawyer, Harley A. Norman of Las Vegas, Nev., who arrived here today.

"Kip is not in the limelight for notoriety," Harmon announced yesterday, "but rather for freedom. The errors of youth he earnestly hopes to forget and from now on his activities will be centered in the West rather than in New York."

All divorce papers have been prepared and they will be filed about Independence day, the attorney said.

Whether his colored wife, the former Alice Jones, puts in a defense or not does not worry Kip's attorney.

"She is quite welcome to do so," Harmon announced. "She will have the freedom of the Nevada courts to do what she pleases. Personally I would welcome her appearance."

Harmon stated that while Kip is only 26 years of age he looks 46, like an old man.

MOTHER WAITS NOOSE DEATH

Woman Convicted of Murder Must Hang

MONTREAL, June 20. (UP)—A mother of eight children sat in a cell at Fullum street jail tonight, under a death watch of Sisters of Providence, facing the prospect of being the second Quebec province woman to be hanged for murder.

She is Mrs. Mary Viau, 42, condemned with Philibert Lefebvre, 32, farm hand, as the murderer of her husband. The prosecution successfully contended that, to get him out the way, the wife and the farm hand poisoned Viau by putting poison in his food.

Cordelia Vieau, the only woman to be hanged in Quebec's criminal history, was also condemned for poisoning her husband's food. The series of coincidences that began with the similarity in names and the nature of the crime continued through the fact that both women were aided by lovers with whom they were living, unknown to their husbands.

Storms Take Heavy Toll Of Life in Near East

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, June 20. (AP)—Eleven persons were killed and many more injured in violent thunderstorms throughout Croatia and Macedonia, it was reported today. Many children were hurt when the school at Kamensko, Croatia, was struck by lightning.

In the neighborhood of Uskub lightning struck 20 peasants rushing for shelter. Two were killed and six shocked.

CHEAP POWER

Bolt of Lightning Very Powerful but Lasts Short Time

WASHINGTON, June 20. (US)—A flash of lightning is worth just four-hundredths of a cent.

Research by the bureau of standards has developed the fact that a single bolt may develop as much as 1,000,000 kilowatts of electrical energy, but that the discharge lasts only .0003 of a second, and therefore, represents only .008 of a kilowatt hour.

At the usual rate of five cents per kilowatt hour, charged by power utilities in most cities, the value of the charge would be $.0004—not a very extravagant sum.

The extremely short duration of the discharge is given as the probable reason for the comparatively small damage done by electrical storms.

PEONAGE LAID TO LANDLORD

Plantation Owner Accused By Father of Four

ATHENS, Ga., June 20. (UP)—W. D. Arnold, owner of a peanut plantation, was held under $10,000 bond on peonage charges, here today, after Claude King, 28, father of four children, had told officers an amazing story of being held several years on Arnold's plantation, virtually as a slave.

King declared that on one occasion, he ran away from the plantation and tried to arrange for the escape of his family. He was caught by two negroes in Arnold's employ, according to his story, brought back to the plantation and beaten with a strap for punishment.

King and three of the plantation negroes are held as material witnesses.

BLOCK SIGNALS FOR AIRLINE

Pennsylvania Road Puts In New Service

NEW YORK, June 20. (US)—A "block signal system of the air" is to be inaugurated by the Pennsylvania railroad and the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., to cover the 48-hour service from New York to Los Angeles, it was announced today.

Weather observation service to give pilots a complete report on conditions both on and off his route will be established. Weather bureaus will be set up at each of the 10 landing fields between Columbus, Ohio, and Los Angeles and will be supplemented by 72 additional observers.

It is expected this service will make it possible for planes to maintain punctuality and reliability equal to railroad operation.

SNOOK TELLS ABOUT KILLING

Former Professor Confesses Fully

ises had failed to disclose them. Drops of blood were still on the hammer, although it had been washed.

As Snook came around to the actual details of last Thursday night, his sobbing increased and tears streamed down his face.

"I met Miss Hix at the corner of Twelfth and High streets where we both got into my Ford coupe," he told the prosecutor. "We proceeded to drive to Lane avenue and then west to the Fisher road and to the Columbus rifle range of the New York Central Railroad company."

Snook then explained how his companion protested against his proposed week-end trip to his parents' farm near Lebanon, and how he put an end to the quarrel.

After the girl's death Snook said he drove rapidly away.

"I proceeded to pick up the things that had been scattered during the struggle," he said, "and hurriedly left the scene of the struggle, leaving her body at that point.

"The instrument which I used to quiet her was a hammer which was laying on the bank of the seat of the coupe."

His manner of disposing of the girl's purse explained a mystery which had been a stumbling block to investigators.

"After leaving the rifle range I proceeded to go home, tossing the purse into the Scioto river on my way," he said.

"After the struggle was over, I discovered the gun was not in the purse."

Purse Clears Mystery

The contents of the purse cleared up a blank space in the police record of the case. Detectives had thought some object vital to establishing the identity of the slayer would be found in the purse. They also knew Miss Hix owned the pistol, but had failed to connect the two facts.

"I met Theora Hix about three years ago," Snook's confession began. "The friendship continued in a very intimate way ever since, inasmuch as she was a very good companion."

Scraps of evidence gathered by investigators concerning minor domestic difficulties and alleged incompatibility in the Snook household, were substantiated by the doctor's confession, police said.

Respects His Wife

"I have been living with my wife all during this three year period and regard my wife very highly and respect her very much as a wife," he said, "but she lacked some of the companionship afforded by Miss Hix.

"During the three years that I knew Miss Hix I assisted her in many ways toward an education," he continued, "but I found out it wasn't appreciated as much as I thought it should be.

"Our association was not a love affair in any sense of the word," the doctor protested. "But in time Miss Hix developed a more determined attitude in regard to dictating my movements."

After completing the confession, Snook explained he was making the confession voluntarily, without threats or promises from the prosecution, and that every statement was accurate.

Under Special Guard

The bespectacled professor, former world champion rapid-fire pistol shot, was placed under special guard in the county jail tonight. He said "I want to get it over quickly." The grand jury, which will convene tomorrow, will take up his case immediately. Snook said he would plead guilty. He will be tried at the new term of court opening Sept. 16.

Snook, who was arrested at his home here last Saturday morning, was calm and collected the first five days he was held. He repeatedly insisted he had no connection with the crime, but his alibi was gradually torn down.

The confession, made to Chester at noon today, was not given to the newspapers until tonight. Chester gave no reason for his action. After the questioning this morning, however, Chester said Snook had made "damaging admissions."

Red River Hunting Bill Finally Passed by Oklahoma Legislature

A measure providing special Red river bed hunting licenses for non-residents at $2.50 annually which was passed by the Oklahoma senate last week passed the lower house of that state's legislature Thursday afternoon, according to a telephone message received by The Record News from Senator Charles Storms of Waurika.

The Waurika senator, who has been one of the bill's leading supporters, expressed confidence that it will receive the governor's signature Friday.

Ben G. Oneal, president of the local chapter of the Izaak Walton league, and one of the state's leading sportsmen, was instrumental in getting the bill introduced into the Oklahoma legislature. He spent several days in Oklahoma City about three weeks ago in having the measure written, and appeared before different legislative committees in behalf of its passage.

Hunters in North Texas particularly are interested in the bill, in view of the fact that under the old law they were forbidden to hunt ducks, geese, etc., in the river bed without having procured a $15 non-resident hunting license in Oklahoma.

Mystery Shots Wound Woman

and had been rented for the summer while Mr. Nichols was on a vacation, it was reported. Officers have been unable to ascertain the names of the persons who are renting the house.

House Vacant

Clothing and shoes and other personal articles were found in two of the bedrooms, a third bedroom being piled with clothes and trunks evidently belonging to the owner of the house. The shots were fired from the front bedroom, all four bullets having gone through the screen facing the Caldwell home. The holes in the screen and those in the opposite house indicate that the gun was held about at the level of the bed which is just below the window. No evidence in support of the belief of the two men, that a woman had been shot in the house at 1600 Taylor could be found in the house. According to persons outside, the two women were walking when they left the house following the shooting.

Police officers were following a half dozen clues Thursday night in an effort to reach an explanation of the shooting, and if possible to explain the large collection of firearms seized in the raids. In the absence of any information from Mr. Nichols as to the identity of the persons leasing the property, or any word from these persons as to whether or not they were involved in the affair, officers Thursday night concentrated their efforts on a general search of the city's "little underworld" for suspicious persons.

Possibilities of using such a house as headquarters for the operations of a gang of Texas-Oklahoma law breakers was pointed out by officers investigating the case. The large number of homes for lease during the summer would make such a plan easily possible, it was said, and would provide a "blind" for any gang activities undertaken in the area. Officers also pointed out that the persons leasing the property from Mr. Nichols may not have been involved in the shooting affray Thursday.

An Amarillo license number, attached to a tire rack which had been removed from an automobile, was found in the driveway of the house at 1600 Taylor street. A tire cover found there bore the name of an Amarillo garage.

J. S. Nichols, owner of the house, has been away from the city on a vacation for the last three weeks. He had lived in the house at 1600 Taylor only a short time before leaving and renting it out, Mr. Caldwell said. It was not known where he had gone. Mr. Nichols is in the real estate business.

Two families were thought to have lived in the house since it had been rented. Two boys, about 10 and 11 years old, had been seen about the place, evidently belonging to one of the families, according to Mrs. Caldwell.

Mrs. Caldwell said she did not know any of the persons who had occupied the house since Mr. Nichols' departure, nor did she know if the persons in the house Thursday were the ones who had leased the property.

Summer Months Hard on Stomach Sufferers

Quick, Natural Relief from Simple Herbal Compound

How much suffering a weak stomach can cause! Painful gas, bloating, sleeplessness, loss of weight—vigor. Bad enough at any time but when exhausting summer heat is added, strength is drained from the sturdiest body.

But here is one of many thousands who found a way to relief:

Mrs. A. M. Owens, of 1716 Taylor St. Rt. 5, Box 34, Little Rock, Ark., says "I was so weak I couldn't walk across the floor. I had spent a fortune trying to get well and would be in my grave if it weren't for Tanlac. Now I eat and sleep fine and have gained 22 lbs."

It's never too late to try Tanlac. So go to your druggist now and get a bottle. No mineral drugs—only Nature's own medicinal herbs, but its efficacy is so apparent that often only one bottle is needed to bring desired relief. Money back if it doesn't help.

state Commerce Commission, will be built under the direction of Mr. Kell and he will operate the property after it is completed.

Determination of the exact route of the projected line is yet to be made. Three surveys have been made during recent months and Kell and members of the local railroad committee have inspected each of them.

The Abilene Chamber of Commerce Railroad committee, instigator of the new rail line project, is composed of 29 men. Included in the group are the leading capitalists of Abilene and some of them are outstanding in financial and commercial circles of the Southwest. They are, in alphabetical order: George S. Anderson, chairman; Dr. J. M. Alexander, C. W. Bacon, W. J. Behrens, Max Bentley, H. J. Bradshaw, C. M. Caldwell, T. C. Campbell, O. D. Dillingham, V. R. Ely, George W. Fry, W. J. Fulwiler, John Guitar Sr., M. B. Hanks, C. T. Hutchison, Henry James, W. S. James, J. Campbell Jones, Percy Jones, W. A. Minter, George L. Paxton Sr., A. S. Payton, A. E. Pool, J. M. Radford, W. G. Swenson, J. M. Wagstaff and H. O. Wooten and C. W. Barnes and T. N. Carswell, president and secretary, respectively of the chamber of commerce.

All of the members of the committee are united on the proposition, Mr. Anderson said, and all of them feel that the citizens of Abilene will meet the undertaking 100 per cent.

RAIL PROJECT ANNOUNCED HERE

Submission of Frank Kell's proposition to assume leadership in the construction of a railroad from Abilene to Cross Plains to the railroad committee of the Abilene Chamber of Commerce, was announced at the office of the capitalist here Thursday.

The announcement said the line will give connection with the Texas and Pacific to points east and west with the Wichita Valley to Wichita Falls and intermediate points and the Abilene Southern (Texas and Pacific subsidiary) to Ballinger and points south.

Jury Debates Issues In Second Trial of Suit

A new trial of a $10,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. C. J. Hunter against the Wichita Falls Traction company, granted upon charges of the misconduct of the original jury three weeks ago, was completed before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court late Thursday afternoon. At 5 o'clock the jury reported itself in disagreement, but Judge Martin instructed its members to continue their deliberations Friday morning.

Mrs. Hunter is asking damages in connection with injuries she claims to have suffered when a bus on which she was riding last March drove against a curb at the side of the street. She was awarded $1,500 in the previous trial of the suit.

Good Attendance At Ray-Massie Revival

Steadily increasing attendance has featured the revival meeting being conducted in the Ray-Massie addition, on the Iowa Park road, by Rev. Nat F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, according to reports given by leaders of the congregation.

Meetings are being held in a tabernacle one block from the Ray-Massie Lumber yard. Mrs. J. C. Payne, musical director of the First Presbyterian church, is assisting in the musical program for the revival.

tically that he had not used it in a great many years."

Allen later withdrew his objection and Dr. Wooten went into an elaborate description of how use of narcotics affected a person and described the physical and personal mannerisms of one who was an addict.

Replying to the direct question, Dr. Wooten, who had testified he had been Mr. Robison's family physician for many years said Mr. Robison "is absolutely not addicted to dope."

Mr. Robison had suffered with chronic stomach trouble for many years, Dr. Wooten said. He told of having been called to San Antonio to attend Mr. Robison in 1925 when he was stricken ill while in the field revaluing public lands. He said Robison was in a very critical condition and that he was obliged to undergo a major operation.

He said he had treated Robison and had placed him on a diet for his illness, and he found that the trips he was making interferred with his treatment.

"In traveling he had to eat anything he could get," he said. "The hardships and exposures he suffered together with the necessity of eating improper food brought on that severe illness. He is a man with too much energy for his physical strength. He lets his duties as a public official interfere with his health."

Mr. Jackson said he had had a part in delivering contributions totaling $610 to Mr. Robison. He sent him $245 between Dec. 1, 1926 and Jan. 1, 1927, having made it up between several friends, he said. Later he gave him $300 he had made up and his own refund check for $65.

"I knew he needed it, knew he was in bad shape financially, had been sick, had lost a daughter, and I thought it was due him for the people to help him out, knowing the legislature under the constitution could not act on the matter of raising his salary," Mr. Jackson testified.

DIVORCE MILL MAY MIGRATE

Holland Laws Attracting Unhappily Married

PARIS, June 20. (US)—Staid Holland is to replace Paris as the meccas of those discontented Americans desiring a change in their marital status, if society follows the lead of Mrs. Henry H. Rogers, wife of Col. H. H. Rogers, oil multimillionaire, whose case is now pending in the Utrecht court.

Divorce mills—as well as wind mills—loom as a prospective industry in the Netherlands.

A well-known Hollander, Hendrik W. van Loon, is credited with this important social discovery, which is regarded as likely to attract to his country the attention which, until the Parisian divorce investigation last year, was concentrated on the French Capital.

It was Van Loon, according to Paris gossip, who informed Mrs. Rogers of the fact she could obtain a divorce in Holland by the principles of the famous code of Napoleon, which, until recently operated in Paris so liberally to the benefit of wealthy Americans dissatisfied with their married life.

The Rogers suit, according to the most authoritative information, was originally contemplated for Amsterdam, but difficulties encountered there resulted in changing the petition to the court in Utrecht.

The granting of the decree is expected within the coming week or 10 days. Colonel Rogers is maintaining a home in Zeist, Holland, while Mrs. Rogers spends most of her time in Paris or the other fashionable French centers. The present Mrs. Millicent Ramos, former wife of Count Salm von Hoogstraten, is their daughter.

Until recently, Colonel Rogers was the guest of the Count and Countess Andrew Zichy, friends of Mrs. Basis Miles, whom, it is reported, will be the object of the oil magnate's affections once he is divorced. Mrs. Miles is now visiting the count and countess, who are stopping at Utrecht. The general impression is that the colonel will marry Mrs. Miles, the widow of a prominent Washingtonian, as soon as the divorce becomes an entity.

The millionaire is believed at present to be in Berlin awaiting a ruling of the Dutch court, while his wife is in Paris.

Wichitan Dies Of Heart Attack

O. S. Stahala Stricken as He Talks to Friends

Seized with a sudden heart attack while conversing with friends at the Wichita Athletic club, 722 Ohio, about 11 o'clock Thursday night, O. S. Stahala, 35, 2604 Avenue H, died en route to the Wichita General hospital in the Hines ambulance.

Mr. Stahala was office manager and bookkeeper for the Grover C. Johnson Oil Supply company, and had made his home in this city about 10 years, it was said. Members of his family and friends stated that he had suffered with heart trouble for several months.

He is survived by his wife; two children, Dorothy, 6, Bobbie, 4; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Stahala, Yoakum, Texas; four sisters, Hilda and Bess Stahala, Mrs. R. V. Cokayne, all of Yoakum, and Mrs. T. J. Stevenson, Drumwright, Okla.; and six brothers, Charles and Dick, of Wichita Falls, J. D., Eddie, Milton, of San Antonio; and Adolph, of Chicago.

Funeral arrangements had not been made Thursday night.

Brown and Wife Make Gains Taking Orgatone

Wichita Farmer's Wife Relieved of Indigestion and Her Husband's Strength Returned—Both Feel Like Different People.

"My husband has gained in strength and weight and my stomach trouble is a thing of the past since we started on Orgatone a few weeks ago, and of course we think there's no medicine in the world like it," said Mrs. L. J. Brown, wife of a well-known farmer residing on rural route 6, Wichita Falls, Texas, in her statement to the Orgatone representative.

"I suffered with an awful stomach trouble and was nervous and restless for eight years," continued Mrs. Brown. "The least bit of anything to eat would make me sick and give me such terrible griping pains that I could hardly stand it. I had absolutely no appetite and couldn't find anything that would agree with me. I could hardly sleep at night and felt tired and sluggish all the time. I had no energy and very little strength. All my ambition was about gone and I didn't feel able to do my house work. I tried everything I could hear of but nothing seemed to help my case.

"My husband suffered with stomach trouble also and had gotten into a general run down condition, he had no appetite, and was so nervous and restless he could hardly sleep at all. He also had tried treatment and medicines of different kinds, and both of us kept getting worse instead of better.

"After taking Orgatone a few days, we felt like new people. I can eat anything I want now and enjoy it. I don't have any sick stomach or pains of any kind, and I sleep like a log every night. My food is doing me good now or I wouldn't have picked up so much in strength. It's the first time in eight years I've felt as well as I do now. I feel simply fine and can stay on my feet from early morning till late at night without getting tired.

"My husband hasn't been troubled with constipation or a pain of any kind since he started on Orgatone. He is entirely relieved of his nervousness and that tired feeling. We have taken three bottles in all and both think Orgatone is great and are telling our friends about it."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific preparation and is sold in Wichita Falls, exclusively by the Allison's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.—Adv.

New Woman Mayor Promises Rough Treatment to 'Leggers Serving Minors

EUREKA, Calif., June 20. (US)—"I don't expect to have any more success than the federal government in enforcing the prohibition law.

"I do not believe the bootleggers should invade the residential districts and we will try our best to prevent it.

"But I will serve notice here and now that any one serving liquor to minors will find Eureka a tough spot!"

This was the way Eureka's new woman mayor, Mrs. Emily L. Jones today answered rumors that her election would mean a "blue law" administration.

The new mayor is a progressive woman. Not only is she the first of her sex to head the city government here but she was the first woman in Eureka to own an automobile and the first woman in this city to own her own airplane.

For years Mrs. Jones has been a leader in civic and social activities here. When no male candidate opposed Mayor Arthur W. Way in yesterday's election her friends urged her to do so. Mayor Way has served two terms.

Synthetic Personal Magnetism Draws Attention and Cop to Nude Painter

LOS ANGELES, June 20. (UP)—Wine tonic and the overpowering urge to radiate personal magnetism proved the undoing of Daniel Kovich, 26, today when, unclothed, he tripped merrily down Washington boulevard.

Kovich was reading "instantaneous personal magnetism" and sipping the heavily laden tonic when the urge for self-expression became so great. He slid from his room, through the hotel lobby and out onto the busy street.

Aside from a gold tooth he was arrayed as he was when he first saw the light of day. This did not oocur to Kovich but it did to motorists and pedestrians. Women shrieked and crowds stared.

"Ah, I am full of personal magnetism," Kovich who is a painter, breathed. "No longer am I submerged in the crowd."

He even attracted the law and after he had progressed about 10 blocks, a burly policeman commandeered an automobile and took his unblushing charge to a police hospital for observation.

"I overdid it," the student sighed. "I should have stopped at the third chapter."

TOO STRONG

Pipe Smoker Mixes Bullets With Tobacco; Hat Ruined

ALLIANCE, Neb., June 20. (UP)—The mixture which Art Shipley, 55, retired ranchman, used in his pipe today was a little too strong. A cartridge was loose in Shipley's pocket with his tobacco. He loaded his pipe, bullet and all. There was an explosion between puffs which wrecked the pipe and sent the bullet through his hat.

Red Radiance Leads Larkspur

Thursday that Wichitans and Wichita Falls organizations express their opinions in the contest. The flower selected will become the official blossom of the city.

The Rotary club vote was arranged by Mrs. B. J. Bean, member of the Garden club. Although the preponderance of Thursday's votes went to the red radiance rose, the Rotarians showed a decided preference for the larkspur. Of the 52 votes cast by members of the club, 23 were for the larkspur. Eleven voted for the rose, with the red radiance preferred, while eight votes were cast for the zinnia. Other selections made by Rotarians included the gladiolus, Shasta daisy, genary vine, sweet pea and fleur-de-lis.

Polls of two school classes were also taken Thursday, according to letters received by The Record News from Katherine Stewart and Daniel Spurgeon Packard, secretaries of the classes. Each class favored the red radiance rose, although scattering votes were cast for other flowers. The votes were entered individually, according to the preference expressed by each class member.

Flower Contest Editor,
Record News,
Wichita Falls, Texas.

The first period geometry class in summer school decided to send in their vote as a whole for the official flower of Wichita Falls. Although a small number voted for the larkspur, the class as a whole feels that this flower has only come into prominence within the last few years and that it owes its profusion of existence to the large amount of rainfall. We consider that the radiance rose would be much more appropriate, and our class as a whole has voted that way.

We are deeply interested, and we are anxious to know the results of the contest.

Yours Sincerely,
KATHERINE STEWART,
Secretary of the class.

Ballots for the official flower of Wichita Falls should be addressed to the Flower Contest Editor, care The Record News, and may be either mailed or brought to The Record News office. This newspaper will be glad to aid any organization in taking a vote for the contest, and will supply blank ballots for use in such balloting. Only one vote for each person may be registered but each member of a family may express his or her preference in the contest.

Rider Improving Of Injuries in Crash

Dudley Rider, who received a broken ankle when the plane which he was piloting crashed to earth in a field three miles east of Wichita Falls late Wednesday afternoon, was reported resting well Thursday, according to attendants at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital.

Joe Staley, student pilot, who was in the plane with Mr. Rider, escaped with minor bruises and did not remain at the hospital. The fliers were preparing to land at the time of the crash, a jammed elevator control causing the pilot to lose control of the plane. They fell 3,000 feet.

Father of Wichita Falls Attorney Seriously Ill

T. W. Anderson, father of George W. Anderson assistant district attorney, is seriously ill at the Scott and White sanatarium at Temple, according to word brought back from Temple by Mr. Anderson Thursday.

The elder Mr. Anderson, a resident of Clifton, Texas, was taken to the Temple sanatarium to undergo two serious operations, his son reported. His condition was reported encouraging late Thursday.

BAILEY IMPROVING

The condition of Carl B. Bailey, who was injured when he fell from the second floor of the Bob Waggoner building about two weeks ago, was reported greatly improved by attendants at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital Thursday.

Mr. Bailey received a broken hip, fractures of the arm, ribs and skull and severe bruises in the accident. He is president of the Bailey-Moline Hardware company and is associated with the firm of Riner & Bailey, oil producers.

J. F. M'DONALD DIES

BEAUMONT, Texas, June 20. (INS)—Funeral services will be held here today for J. F. He is survived by his wife, a stepson, two sisters and two brothers.

BRANIFF HOLDS BIRTHDAY FETE

Aviation Magnate Host To Mammoth Party

By JOHN GOULD
Staff Correspondent

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 20.—Mayors, judges, air transport officials and newspaper men from four Southwestern states gathered here today for one of the biggest parties that even Oklahoma ever saw. They are guests of Paul Braniff, who is celebrating the first birthday of his air transport project.

Braniff began business just a year ago with one or two airplanes, a letterhead, a heart full of hope, and not much else. Today his company is one of the big factors in aerial transportation. Linked with companies of nation-wide scope, and operating some of the finest planes that take the air anywhere.

This correspondent rode one of them from Kell field to Oklahoma City this afternoon in one hour, flat. Left at 3:45 and landed at 4:45. After stopping at Duncan on the way up.

The sturdiness of the machine and skill of Pilot Jim Haven, made the trip about as thrilling as a ride to town on a Southland street car, though not quite as bumpy. Any taxicab driver in Wichita Falls could scare a passenger much worse than that airplane trip.

Several hundred of Mr. Braniff's guests gathered at the Oklahoma club tonight for the banquet which capped the day's festivities. Mr. Braniff announced tentative plans for still further extension of his lines in the Southwest, and talks were made by representatives of communities in Oklahoma, Texas Missouri and Kansas. High officials of Oklahoma including Governor Holloway, were among the speakers.

Merchants Issue Courtesy Cards For Visitors Here

A supply of "courtesy cards," which will give to motorists visiting Wichita Falls the privilege of parking their cars for any length of time, has been furnished the police department by the Retail Merchants association. They may be obtained at the police station.

The cards, blue in color, bear on one side the following words: "Welcome Visitors. Wichita Falls Guest Card for Visiting Motorists. As a visitor, park your car anywhere as long as you like except as noted below: For reasons of public safety visitors must not park in safety or reserved zones, near fire hydrants or in alleys. All traffic signals must be obeyed and regulations must be observed. This unlimited parking privilege applies to visiting motorists only."

On the opposite side of the card the following inscription appears: "Through the courtesy of the police department, the chamber of commerce and the Retail Merchants association of Wichita Falls are enabled to furnish this parking privilege card to visiting motorists. Road maps and information are available at the chamber of commerce, third floor, Perkins-Snider building, corner Ninth and Indiana. If not convenient to call in person, phone 4131 for information."

The cards are to be tied to the steering wheels of out-of-town cars to prevent their receiving tags for traffic violations. They are valid for one week following the date written upon them when they are issued. The name and address of each motorist are also written on the cards.

The Ferris wheel received its name from its builder, George W. Ferris, an engineer. The first Ferris wheel was displayed at the Chicago world's fair.

Rule Prevents Man And Wife Sitting Together In Theater

WASHINGTON, June 20. (US)—Speaking of padlocks—

The only moving picture theater in Rucphen, Holland, is now closed down for a period of five years because a patron was so indecorous as to sit next to his wife, which is forbidden as a menace to public morality.

The theater was closed according to a dispatch today to the commerce department here, when police entered and found the husband and wife in adjoining seats. They stopped the performance in the middle of the act.

SERVICE FOR TRUCK VICTIM

Last Rites Said Here For Two-Year-Old Boy

Funeral services for Gregory Hanks, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hanks, 1403 Bluff street, who was fatally injured when struck early Wednesday morning, were held from the chapel of the Merkle Undertaking company at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Rev. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiated. The body was forwarded to Gatesville, Texas, Thursday night.

The child was fatally injured when a delivery truck of the Chapman dairy, driven by J. T. Powell, under which the boy was playing, drove away from a grocery store next door to the boy's home. He died three hours later as a result of a fracture of the skull. Powell, who was unaware of the child's presence near the truck, was exonerated in connection with the accident, following questioning at the office of L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney.

C.-C. Jobbers Discuss New Motor Truck Law

Discussion of the new motor truck regulation law which went into effect on June 12 featured a meeting of the executive committee of the manufacturers and jobbers' division of the chamber of commerce held Thursday morning.

All motor truck transportation lines in Texas are placed under the supervision of the state railroad commission under the new law. Application blanks for use in asking for permits to operate truck lines are now available at the chamber of commerce, according to J. W. Chatham Jr., manager of the traffic and industrial department.

Mr. Chatham will attend a meeting of the Southwestern Industrial Traffic league in Galveston July 5, when representatives of chambers of commerce, shippers and truck operators will discuss rates, regulations, schedules, etc.

Helen Wills Wins New Laurels As Maker of Sketches

LONDON, June 20. (UP)—Helen Wills' versatility always has aroused interest in London, but her growing success as an artist is creating almost as much attention as her growing list of victories on the tennis court.

Eight of 35 sketches, most of them water colors, which Miss Wills has on display here have been sold, it was learned today, bringing an average price of about $60 each.

As in the days before her presentation at Buckingham palace court, the American tennis star has lost some of her characteristic calm in connection with the display of her art work at the fashionable Coolint galleries on New Bond street.

The exhibition will be open for another three weeks, coinciding with Miss Wills' appearance at Wimbledon starting Monday. Hundreds of prominent persons and art critics have visited the exhibition and congratulated the tennis star.

T. A. T. ACCEPTS LINDY'S PLANS

Operation Coast to Coast Service Starts July 8

NEW YORK, June 20. (UP)—Detailed reports submitted by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh from final surveys of the Transcontinental Air Transport, coast-to-coast air-rail system which goes into operation July 8, were made public tonight by C. M. Keyes, president of the organization.

Two weeks of test operation will have been completed before the first passenger is carried July 8, the report said. The Pennsylvania and Santa Fe railroads are cooperating with the T. A. T. and the time from coast to coast will be cut in half.

Leave New York at 6:05 p. m. on the Airway Limited, arriving at Port Columbus, Ohio, at 8 a. m., the next day. Passengers will transfer there to planes which will make the first stop at Indianapolis at 9 a. m. The next stop in the westward flight will be at St. Louis at noon, where transfer will be made to another plane which will fly to Kansas City, leaving there at 3:11 p. m. for Wichita. The plane will leave Wichita at 5 p. m. for Waynoka, Okla., where the passengers will board a Santa Fe train for Clovis, N. M., at 6:39. The last leg of the journey will be a flight starting from Clovis at 8:25 a. m. of the third day for Los Angeles, where it will arrive at 7:57 p. m. Intermediary stops will be made at Albuquerque, Winslow and Kingman.

Colonel Lindbergh reported that the personnal of the new service is of the highest class available. There are 16 "first pilots," each of them having an average of 3,000 hours in the air. Each will be assigned, as nearly as possible, to that part of the country with which he is most familiar.

There will also be the same number of "seconds pilots," all graduates of Kelley field, who will serve as radio operators or take a turn at the stick as the first pilot may order.

Ten tri-motor all-metal monoplanes will be used. Five will be assigned to the Eastern and five to the Western division. Two will be placed at each end of the two divisions, with one in reserve at each of two central points, St. Louis and Winslow.

Terminals will be established at Columbus and Los Angeles for the overhauling of the planes. Lindbergh's report also told of arrangements for servicing the planes at landing fields.

All buses operating in Salvador are American-made.

IN 1915, A SINCE illustrious film director offered to purchase the rights to Ralph Connor's "Sky Pilot," explaining that his company had just added an aviator to its personnel.

And if George Doran has meanwhile recovered the equanimity he lost on that occasion, he will corroborate the writer's accuracy.

In 1919, Secretary Lane invited the grand seneschals of Hollywood to cooperate with the government in a projected citizenship campaign.

The choicest incident of the conference was the suggestion that Richard Harding Davis' "Soldiers of Fortune" should immediately be placed in production as the ideal Americanization picture.

These tattle-tale notes from a mental diary are not broadcast with intent to spotlight any literary deficiencies of our first cinema families, but rather to signify the general nexperience which handicapped a great industry's "rise from rags to riches."

Less than 20 years intervene between the Nickelodeon and the Paramount building. And in that eye-wink, a scattering of poor men, totally unversed in the fundamentals of management—without the slightest previous contact with big business—have promoted and kept continuous control of a multibillion dollar enterprise.

THEY EVOLVED asymmetrically—without design or preparatory training. They followed necessity's cow-trails, not surveyed paths. They built skyscraping ramshackles, tacking on rooms and floors as pressure required them.

They had no commissary of ideas, but haphazardly made hand-to-mouth provision as they fumbled along.

They emerged from cubby-hole shops, cheap amusement parlors—dropped make-up sticks and cloth sponges, to become captains of opportunity.

Greenhorns, called to high command—half of 'em still thinking with immigrant accents—but men of destiny—therefore, self-sufficient.

They found a waif tramping the roads with carnivals and finaling vaudeville programs, and clothed Edison's neglected brain child in silks and satins, bestowed a kingdom upon the derelict, and summoned art, literature, architecture and Wall street to its service.

If they have needlessly wasted energy on unpracticalities and experiment—if the sparrows have waxed fat on the spills of their tills—dividend records testify that their judgment rang the bull's-eye nine time oftener than it missed the mark.

And neither the railroad nor automobile can equal that score.

They may not all speak the king's English to the queen's taste, but schools of success and achievement have conferred more degrees upon them than the late William Cullen Kemp wore.

Slogans in Old Pompeii

WORKERS digging into the ruins of ancient Pompeii came, the other day, on a set of rather interesting discoveries. Clearing away the rubbish from what was once a busy street, they found, on the walls of the houses, slogans which the Roman politicians had painted there 2,000 years ago in the course of some long-forgotten political campaign.

"Mansa Sabinus never gets drunk."

Another advised the voters, "If you care for good bread and better games vote for Cleonius Prisus." This, of course, referred to the Roman custom of furnishing free bread and gladiatorial games to the poorer citizens.

A third, somewhat rhapsodic, impored:

"Vote for Julius Politius, a man as handsome as the god Apollo."

In such manner did the politicians of the age of Augustus seek to snare the votes of the citizenry.

There is a childish quality in these electioneering slogans that brings a smile. One candidate announces his personal rectitude in the matter of strong drink; another frankly appeals to the selfish interests of the proletariat, and the third simply sets himself up as a paragon of beauty and leaves it up to the voters. Pondering over these slogans, it isn't hard to understand why the Roman experiment in municipal government came such a woeful cropper.

Still, it won't do for us to get too cocky.

Some of our own election slogans may look equally goofy to an antiquarian a few generations hence.

What, for instance, will the learned men of 2500 A. D. think when they find that the great city of Chicago conducted a mayoralty campaign on the simple slogan of "America first!"—with the winning candidate basing all of his campaign speeches on two white rats which he carried around in cages with him?

What will they think of a mayoralty campaign conducted not so long ago in the city of Cleveland, where the winning candidate, whose front name happened to be Harry, rode to victory on the terse line, "Harry is a good boy?"

Will it amuse them to learn that the entire nation once elected a president whose appeal was based solely on reference to a "full dinner pail?" And that another presidential campaign once hinged about the cry, "Keep cool with Coolidge?"

Those are a few of our slogans. They don't particularly shine by comparison with the slogans of 2,000 years ago.

The Romans had a fair measure of self-government. They stumbled and fell because the mass of their citizens were unable to handle real issues in a campaign, but had to have simple, obvious slogans they could understand.

Are we headed in the same direction—or have we more sense than our politicians give us credit for?

A New Ice Age?

IN CASE you haven't anything else to worry about, you can give a thought to some recent remarks by Donald MacMillan, arctic explorer, who suggests that the northern hemisphere may be right on the edge of a new ice age.

The ice ages of the past have sent solid sheets of ice down from the polar regions to blanket the land nearly as far south as the Ohio river. A repetition of this, obviously, would upset our national life considerably.

MacMillan says that Eskimos in the northland have told him that huge glaciers now cover valleys where, a few years ago, there were trees and flowers. Measurements, he says, have shown that some glaciers are moving south at a speed of 50 feet a year—express train speed for a glacier.

We are entitled to hope that this is all a false alarm. But—well, if you haven't anything else to worry about, you ought to be able to get something out of this.

A Surplus and a Famine

THIS WORLD is organized in a queer manner, when you stop to think about it.

In the agricultural regions of the United States a great many farmers are facing financial loss because their crops are too big. They have grown more wheat than they can sell; the price has tumbled 'way down, and only some artificial stimulus will bring it up again.

In China, meanwhile, a good many millions of people are facing actual starvation because their crops are too small. There simply isn't anything for them to eat. Unless outside help comes, enough people to populate a state the size of Ohio will die of hunger.

Too much in one place—not enough in another. Nobody, thus far, seems to have thought of tying the two regions together so that the ills of both can be alleviated. The world is organized on a queer basis somehow.

The GREEN SHADOW - By Herman Landon

(Copyright by Public Ledger)

"The cigar band was from a Verona. I just wonder how it got there."

While Captain Summers is meditating on the escapades of "The Picaroon," whom he is convinced is really his friend, Martin Dale, Mr. Alexander Ferryman calls and requests that strange happenings at 262 Bank street, the house next to the one in which he lives, be investigated. Axelson, a watchman employed by Ferryman to guard the house in which he lived before he moved next door after his wife had deserted him, has heard footsteps and seen an eerie green light.

Just as Ferryman is showing the captain a picture of his wife, the telephone rings and a voice tells of finding a woman's body at 262 Bank street. Summers and Ferryman hurry there. The dead woman is Ferryman's wife. Summers finds only one clue, a piece of a green lens.

"The Picaroon," who preys upon the rich and then offers the return of his loot on the payment of 10 per cent of the value to charity, has written a note to Adele Castle, requesting a meeting in Central park. Adele has had a terrifying experience. She was taken to a strange house where, through a queer green light, she could glimpse only the outline of a man calling himself Dr. Moffett, who tells her he holds evidence which would convict her father of being connected with a crooked financial deal and send him to prison. Mr. Castle tells Adele Dr. Moffett demands blackmail of $100,000.

From his pocket he took something folded in paper and unwrapped it. It was a piece of glass, small and thin. "I found it on the floor, about a foot and a half from the body," he explained.

Summers looked at it, turned it over in his palm and felt the rough edges. "Looks like a piece from a lens," he commented.

"Yes, sir; just what I thought. And the queer part of it is that it's stained green."

"Green?" Summers jerked out; and from force of habit, he inspected the fragment beneath his magnifying glass.

"Some people wear stained glasses," McCabe pointed out. "They are mostly people who drive cars, though."

Summers nodded as he returned the piece of glass to the wrapping and stuck it in his pocket. "It may turn out to be a clue," he remarked, without enthusiasm. "Maybe there was a struggle and the murderer's glasses were knocked off and broken. He picked up all the pieces but one. But that's a long guess. That sliver of glass may have been lying here a long time. Did you ask Axelson about it?"

"He can't account for it, sir. He says the room has been swept once a week."

"H'm! Then it looks as if—"

Summers did not finish the thought, but merely whispered something in McCabe's ear and left the room to make a survey of the other parts of the house.

"Green," he muttered. That's queer."

Summers Finds a Clue

But the queerest part of the whole affair, in Summers' estimation, was the fact that the news of the murder had reached him shortly after Ferryman had told him the story of his missing wife. This was one of those coincidences which Summers always viewed with suspicion.

It was somewhat modified, of course, by the fact that the woman had been dead for 10 or 12 hours when the body was found, yet it gave the captain a great deal to think of as he went from room to room on his tour of inspection.

Every room was furnished in good taste and arranged in perfect order. Here and there were odd little touches which showed how Ferryman had endeavored to maintain everything in its original state. A sense of emptiness and grief was lurking in the dim nooks and corners, waiting for the enlivening touch of sun and air and laughter.

Summers went from room to room, finding nothing of significance and having no clear idea of what he expected to find. He was merely fixing the arrangement of the house in his mind while he waited. At length he entered a great oak-paneled room that appeared to be the library.

There were books and pictures and curios that bespoke a culture and diversified taste, and cozy nooks and easy-chairs that testified to a desire for ease and comforts. The feeling of vacancy and abandonment was less noticeable here than in the other parts of the house. In a vague fashion Summers felt that the big morris chair at the table looked just as if some one might have sat in it only yesterday.

He sat down in it himself, spread out his disproportionately short legs, and let his eyes rove over the great room with its high ceiling, its handsome oak paneling its soft-hued rugs of oriental pattern. It was here, so Mr. Ferryman had told him, that some of the strange things reported by the caretaker had happened.

Axelson had heard sounds of trespassing coming from this room, and, upon entering to investigate, a green light had been flashed in his eyes. It had disappeared in an instant, leaving no explanation of its trail. Summers had thought it rather strange, but not particularly startling. Since then the discovery of a woman's body in the house had given an element of importance to the most trifling details.

He got up and crossed over to an electric swtich on the wall. He touched it, and a soft electric light sprang up in various places and flooded the room. It was just an ordinary white light, without the faintest trace of green.

Summers fingered his jaw and reflected. Axelson might be the excitable sort that is easily mistaken. Possibly the green light had flashed only in his imagination. But, if so, why should he have imagined a green light in particular? Why not a blue or an orange one? Perhaps—

A Cigar Band

But Summers decided he would let his speculations rest for the present. Later he would test Axelson's capacity for accurate observation, with emphasis on his ability to distinguish different colors. It would be time enough for that in the afternoon. Summers' luncheon hour was already past, and he was hungry.

McCabe and his colleague could be trusted to conduct the preliminary inquiries and make satisfactory notes.

He switched off the light and moved to the door. It happened to be the wrong door, as he discovered in a moment. It opened only into a short hall, which in turn communicated with what appeared to be a music room. He looked in, then started to retrace his steps and find the right way out, but something made him look down. Nestling in the fabric of a rug lay a small bright object which upon investigation proved to be a cigar band.

"Verona," read the embossed inscription on the label. It was the kind of label that adorns only expensive cigars. Summers happened to know something about this particular brand, and he was aware that it was a very rare one. Only one person of his acquaintance smoked it—a certain fastidious gentleman who ate, drank and smoked only the best.

Summers' eyes narrowed. A hard, knowing grin touched his lips. With the cigar band resting in his palm, he looked down at the spot where he had found it. To be sure, it was far-fetched to suppose that it had been dropped there by the particular person he had in mind, yet his thoughts circled around the idea. It seemed to tickle his fancy in a sardonic way.

The fastidious gentleman in question was also a very cautious and adroit individual, one who would scarcely be likely to drop a clew in such a careless manner. He would be even less likely—granting that Summers' hazy surmise was correct—to smoke a cigar in a strange house, especially if bent upon an errand of the sort with which Summers always associated his name.

"But you can never tell," was his thought as he carefully tucked the band away in his notebook. "He mightn't have smoked the cigar here. Maybe the band came loose in his pocket and fell out when he reached for his pencil or watch or something. Any how—"

Summers left the hall and returned to the library. He had already seen a smoking stand beside the library table, and among other articles there was a box of cigars. Probably it had stood there until the painful associations of the house and moved next door. The captain opened the box and examined one of the cigars. It was dry and brittle.

"Eclipsias," he observed. His mind was a crowded storehouse of miscellaneous information, and among other things he happened to know a great deal about the various brands of cigars and the type of men who smoked them. "A man who smokes Verona would never smoke Eclipsias—that's one sure thing."

Satisfied with his discovery, inconclusive though it was, he went out to luncheon. His favorite restaurant was some distance away, on the other side of the Washington Square section, but the food was good enough to compensate one for going out of his way. At this late hour the place was almost deserted. His eyes lighted upon a lone individual at a table in the rear.

Martin Dale

He smiled grimly and walked down the aisle between the tables.

"Hello, Dale. Mind if I join you?" And without waiting for an answer he sat down.

Martin Dale's face brightened. He looked as fresh and keen as if he had just emerged from his morning shower. Every little detail of his appearance seemed to blend into a life devoted to intriguing and congenial pursuits. His cravat was just the right shade, the cuff links in the soft shirt of faint lavender were just the right pattern. His eyes were frank and open, yet they did not tell everything, but seemed to hold something in reserve for another hour and another occasion.

"This is luck, Summers!" he declared. "You know how I detest eating alone. I was just longing for the sight of a familiar face, and there is no face in the world I would rather see than yours."

Summers grumbled something and consulted the menu.

"I can recommend the broiled squab," said Dale.

When the fat Latin proprietor appeared, to declare himself honored and to take personally his valued guest's order, Summers requested broiled squab. Dale's suggestions were invariably sound.

"You look a bit glum," Dale observed, studying him out of his lively gray eyes.

"Do I?"

"You do. All the way from brains to bunions you are the picture of dejection."

"I haven't any bunions."

"Then it must be some other affliction. But maybe that's a rash deduction. Come to think of it, old top, you are the only man I know whose face is no index of his state of mind. You never look what you feel and you never feel what you look. In your most hilarious moments you look like an honorary pallbearer. Judging your present sour mein by what I know of your eccentricities, I should say you had something up your sleeve."

"You're talking rot."

"Maybe so. There is a very fine distinction between rot and profundity, old dear. Seriously, though, if there is nothing up your sleeve, suppose you prove it by shaking it. If nothing falls out, then I'll believe you."

"Oh, go chase yourself. There's nothing up my sleeve except a pink rabbit and two-headed baby elephant."

"I'll wager there is one thing more." A sly gleam of merriment came into his gray eyes. "Own up, old socks. There is a nice little clew up that sleeve of yours which has to do with a certain enterprising scamp known as The Picaroon. Am I right?"

Summers' reddish face closed up. His lips tightened. He fixed his companion across the table with a narrow gaze as inscrutable as a poker player's. The squab arrived just then, and he gave it his appreciative attention for several minutes before he spoke.

"Dale," he said casually, "do you ever wear glasses?"

"Glasses?" Dale's eyes contracted in the manner of one who suspects a snare in the most innocent remark. "Why should I? My eyes are good. I have illuminating moments when I can see through even the thick skull of a captain of police.

"But what about glasses?" Summers persisted. "Ever wear them?"

"Only automobile goggles." Dale regarded him guardedly. Behind the faintly mocking smile in his eyes was a gleam of caution. "They keep dust out of my eyes and cobwebs out of my brain. You ought to try them. They will be good for your brain."

"Green?"

"Thanks for the tip. Automobile goggles, eh? Colored?"

"Yes."

"Green?"

The faintest flicker passed across Dale's eyes. His brows went up ever so slightly.

"No, amber."

Summers fixed him with a shrewd, oblique scrutiny. There was a little tension in the air. Dale's amused laugh broke it.

"You and I, Summers, are seeing things through a glass darkly, as the Good Book says. You can't read my mind, and for once I can't read yours. I infer you are trying to convict The Picaroon of the heinous crime of wearing green colored glasses."

"Why The Picaroon in particular?"

"Because he seems to be always weighing heavily on your mind."

The captain looked down at his squab again. "One of these bright days," he declared purposefully, "I'll put The Picaroon where he belongs."

"Really? It will be a great day in your life, Summers."

"You bet. The greatest ever."

"I hope to be present and congratulate you on your achievement."

"You will be present," said Summers darkly, "but you can omit the congratulations. You'll be in no mood for them."

"Why, Summers!" Dale's eyes were ful of gentle mockery. "That sounds almost sinister. From your tone and your expression I am almost convinced that you suspect me"—and he laughed as if at something very droll and preposterous—"that you suspect me of being The Picaroon."

"It strikes you as being funny, does it?"

"Uproariously funny." Dale laughed again.

"Laugh," said Summers. "It will do you good, and I like to hear you. I'll have a laugh myself one of these days, and I am saving up my strength for it."

"That's bad philosophy. When that day comes you may have forgotten how to laugh."

"No danger." Summers devoted himself with grim earnestness to his squab. "It isn't very far distant."

"Besides," Dale pursued, "something tells me that you will be just a wee bit sorry when the great day comes. The Picaroon has provided you with excitement for so long that you have actually grown to like him. Your life would have grown stale without his merry quips and pranks. You have a lot to thank him for."

"And I'll show by gratitude with a pair of perfectly good handcuffs."

"Morevore," Dale went on, ignoring the captain's last remark, "the fellow isn't doing any actual harm. Rumor, has it that the authorities once did him a great wrong. He is simply taking his revenge, and he takes it with a smile."

"So I see." Summers observed dourly, looking up at Dale's smiling face. "It's all right, Dale. I like you. You're a good entertainer, you know how to order a good meal, and I enjoy your company, even if you talk like an idiot at times. But I know what I know. Friendship won't cut any ice with me when my chance comes."

Dale gave a serio-comic sigh. "Then let us implore heaven that the evil day may be deferred as long as possible. By the way," and he lowered his eyes in a casual way, "has The Picaroon misbehaved again?"

"Why ask me?"

"Who could be better informed in relation to the doings of The Picaroon?"

"The Picaroon himself, of course." Summers looked up from his squab and fixed his meaningful eyes on Dale. "Since you ask me, though, my answer is that I don't know."

Dale gave him a glance of mock reproof. "Bad, Summers—very bad. A great cop never admits that there is anything he doesn't know.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, June 20.—Parades, remarks a connoisseur of such things, aren't what they used to be. My informant in such matters is Richard S. Ryan, famous attorney and the man who helped General Dodge to place railroad lines through the West. He ought to know something about parades because he was lieutenant to General Dodge when the latter marched, as marshal, at the head of a great parade in honor of the memory of General Grant, when his body was interred in the marble tomb in Riverside Drive and 125th street.

"No," says Mr. Ryan, "the parades of New York are pretty tame nowadays. You watch a Memorial or a Fourth of July or a Labor day parade and it's very weak. The crowds aren't there, for one thing. The Lindbergh parade was pretty good but not so spectacular except for the boy himself.

"We've lost the gift of parade, that's all. If you don't think so look at the weak and ineffectual political rallies and then compare them with other days."

This and That

They've experimented on a new machine called the psychogalvanic reflex machine at Columbus university. Supposed to reveal hidden emotions. The instrument, it is said, measures the electrical resistance of the body to any one of many stimuli.

New York's Broadway in the morning looks like a deserted, flabby small town Main street. Only at night does it look like Brpadway.

Alas! And So Beautiful, Too

Almost every week there seems to be in this column a story of another old "landmark" theater about to fall. This week I have two more.

The Century theater has been doomed because of plans for a 65-story skyscraper to be erected on its site.

Daly's theater, two or three showrooms and an apartment house in the block bounded by Broadway, Central Park West, 62nd and 63rd streets, also will be demolished because of the reaction of this giant building.

Too bad the Century is going down, too. It was a beautiful one, although no particular success ever attended the venture the theater's great size precluding its use for anything but large spectacles. Lately it was used for attractions played at popular prices. Joseph I. C. Clarke, journalist, poet and dramatist, William H. Vanderbilt, Clarence H. Mackay and—of course—Otto H. Kahn were among those who backed the Century venture in 1909.

The Shepherd Dog

Saw a remarkable sight the other day. Members of the New York Association for the Blind demonstrated how a dog, especially trained for such purposes, can lead a blind man across the busiest thoroughfares. Herman Immelin, blind for nine years, stood at Fifth avenue and 42nd street holding the leash of a German Shepherd dog. At the toot of the traffic cop's whistle, the animal started across. A taxicab spun into the avenue from Forty-second and the animal stopped, tugged at the leash and sat down. His blind man halted. The cab passed, the dog rose, paced slowly dodging pedestrians, and landed his charge on the other side.

I like your charming frankness, however. Am I to infer that somebody's necklace and earrings have vanished and you are not sure whether The Picaroon took them?"

"I'm not worrying about necklaces and earrings this time."

"No?" What is it, then? Has somebody robbed a bank, or has your pet stool pigeon choked to death on a fishbone?"

"Then I'm stumped," Dale confessed. "Utterly stumped, unless—"

He paused. A little smile played at the corners of his lips. He regarded his companion with a shrewd, sidelong glance. "Unless," he continued tentatively, "the thing you have in mind should happen to be a—ahem!—a green light."

"What do you know about a green light?" he demanded.

"Mercy!" Dale exclaimed. "I seem to have fired a shot in the dark and hit something!"

"Are you sure you fired it in the dark?" Summers' tone was inquisitorial. "What made you mention a green light just now?"

A Rare Brand

"I've talked enough—too much, perhaps." Dale shrugged his shoulders and grinned tantalizingly. "Not another word until you reciprocate. Our minds seem to be traveling in the same channel, and at the end is a great green light. Where did your channel connect with mine?"

Summers hesitated a moment. He had often confided intimate details of his work to Dale, and the latter had never betrayed his confidence. On the other hand, Dale had often offered helpful suggestions. This situation was different, but the captain gave a terse account of the occurrence in Mr. Ferryman's house.

"You say the victim of the murder was Ferryman's wife," Dale murmured after listening with grave and puzzled interest. "Odd, isn't it? While Ferryman sat in your office telling you of his wife's dereliction she was really lying dead in his house. Can you describe her?"

Summers described the dead woman in detail, and Dale appeared to make mental notes of the description.

"She must have been a beauty," he commented. "Too lively for Ferryman, I should imagine—the hectic, emotional, pleasure-loving kind. You didn't find any clews?"

"A cigar band? There's nothing distinctive about a cigar band, is there?"

"Not generally. "Slowly Summers stirred his coffee. He reached into his vest pocket for a cigar, but Dale anticipated him.

"Try one of these. They're not bad."

"I know," said Summers casually, accepting one of the two cigars Dale held toward him. For a moment his gaze lingered on the decorative band. "I've smoked the same kind before. You haven't changed your brand, I see."

"Why change a good thing?"

"It would be foolish. By the way, have you ever been inside either of the two houses Ferryman owns on Bank street?"

"What on earth would I be doing there?"

"I was just wondering." The captain puffed with relish on his cigar. "Good cigar, Dale."

"Glad you like it. You will not find many of that brand in America. I get them direct from a manufacturer in Key West who makes his selections from the choicest Cuban stocks."

Summers nodded. He was leaning back, eyes half closed, as if giving himself over to the enjoyment of his smoke. In an absent fashion he inspected the band again.

"Verona, eh? Nice name for a nice smoke." He blew a ring of gray vapor ceilingward. "Did you say you were never inside Ferryman's houses?"

"Never," said Dale languidly, but his eyes narrowed slightly. "Why do you ask?"

"Oh, because," said Summers carelessly, "the cigar band I picked up at No. 262 Bank street was from a Verona. I just wonder how it got there. You tell me you have never been inside that house, and you say there are not many of that brand in this country."

Dale's hand paused in the act of returning his cigar to his lips. His eyes narrowed over a vague flicker. A smile of faint mockery came to his lips.

"Summers," he drawled, "are you trying to prove me a liar?"

Dale glanced at his watch. "I've enjoyed our chat. Unfortunately I have an engagement. Sorry." He rose and moved away with his lithe, swinging stride.

"Much obliged for the cigar," said Summers.

MR. HOOVER TOUCHES HIS TOES

PHILLIPS

Director: Now stand erect!

President: I am standing erect.

Director: Are you? Oh, yes. That's your natural height; I thought you were stooping. Now put your hands over your head, so!

President: This way?

Director: Way up . . . just as if you were giving a stop signal to the Mississippi river. Now bend.

President (sternly): I never bend.

Director: You must bend, Mister President.

President: I am decidedly the unbending type of president, sir, and—

Director (impatiently): Please! Hands over head and bend!

President: No; you know how those things are . . . if I bend a little now and then it will come easy and the first thing I know I'll be bending all the time. If there is anything I hate it's a wobbly type of president.

Director (firmly): You'll have to bend if you wish to keep in good physical shape. Now bend a little, just in strict confidence.

President: You won't tell anybody?

Director: Not a soul. (The president bends). There! That wasn't difficult, was it?

President: No, but it seems so undignified.

Director: Now lie on the floor!

President (amazed): On the floor? The president of the United States lie on the floor? What would people say?

Director: Lie on the floor and stop arguing.

Director: If you don't do as I say I'll tell the doctor and he'll put you through some real strenuous exercise. He may even make you ride an electric horse and take long walks with dogs.

President (alarmed): Don't do that, I give in. (He lies on the floor).

President (rebelling): No . . . I draw the line. . . . This is going too far. . . . The people of the United States would lose all respect for me if they saw me on the floor trying to touch my toes. . . . Go get some of the cabinet officers to touch their toes.

Director: All great presidents touched their toes. America never had a president worth his salt who couldn't. If Al Smith were president he'd touch his toes and not waste time giving me an argument.

President (touching his toes): He would, eh? Well look at this! (He touches his toes triumphantly and the lesson goes on without further rebellion).

Health And Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

(Copyright 1929 by The Bell Syndicate Inc.)

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, June 23:

Sunday

Monday

Lunch—Cantaloupe as desired.

Tuesday

Lunch—One kind of fresh acid fruit, as much as desired.

Wednesday

Breakfast—Cottage cheese, sliced pinapple, fresh or canned (if canned discard sweetened juice).

Thursday

Lunch—As much as desired of any kind of fresh acid fruit.

Friday

Lunch—Oranges as desired.

Saturday

Breakfast—Cantaloupe as desired.

Dinner—Sliced cheese, cooked asparagus, cooked cucumbers, salad of grated raw carrots on lettuce; dish of berries with cream, no sugar.

*Baked ground vegetables: Run through the vegetable grinder enough raw summer squash, tender young carrots and turnips to make two cupfuls of the squash and one cupful each of the carrots and turnips. Mix all together, do not add water or salt, and place in an oiled baking dish. Cover, and bake in a hot oven for about 30 minutes. When ready to serve, season with butter or a little cream.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Epsom Salts

Question—Reader asks: "Will you please tell me if you approve of my habit of taking one teaspoonful of Epsom salts in water every morning? Will this aid in reducing? What is your opinion of Epsom salts?"

Answer—The Epsom salts treatment which you are using will induce much bile elimination and frequent bowel movements. This will aid in reducing, but, of course, it is not advisable to carry on such treatment indefinitely.

Colitis

Question—Mrs. O. L. writes: "My son, 21 years old, is suffering from colitis. The doctor says it will take a long time to cure him, and that he must not eat meat. He is not living at home, but in a boarding house, so I cannot regulate his diet. How best can I help him?"

Answer—Tell your son to move from the boarding house, as it is the last place in the world where he can get a special diet such as he requires for the cure of colitis. The doctor was right when he said it would take a long time to bring about a cure, but wrong when he said that meat produces colitis. "Colon-itis" simply means inflammatin of the colon, which comes from dietetic errors of all kinds. I advise your son to eat in a restaurant or cafeteria where he can select the proper foods and thus follow the menus which appear in this paper every Friday.

Zucchini

Question—Mrs. W. L. J. writes: "You mention an article of food in your weekly menus called 'zucchini.' I never heard of it. What is it?"

Answer—Zucchini is a small Italian squash, similar to the ordinary summer squash, and may be used freely as a non-starchy vegetable if cooked by boiling or baking. As this vegetable is difficult to obtain in certain parts of the country, the ordinary summer squash may always be substituted when the zucchini is mentioned.

Condiments

Question—Mrs. C. W. asks: "Is the moderate use of condiments very harmful? I find it hard to do without a little spice or vinegar in preparing meals.

Answer—Spices and condiments stimulate the flow of digestive juice, and if they are used at all they should be used at a meat meal. Those who suffer from hyperacidity already have more acid than they know what to do with, and anything which will excite an additional flow of hydrochloric acid is bad for them.

Mammoth Picnic At Sayre Planned

Special to The Record News.

SAYRE, Okla., June 20.—A mammoth picnic and get-together meeting, celebrating the completion of the paving of national highway 66 from Elk City to Sayre, is being planned by the chamber of commerce of said two cities, to be held soon after the present session of the legislature adjourns.

Governor Holloway and the three state highway commissioners are to be invited.

The celebration is to be held at a point on said highway about midway between Elk City and Sayre. Bands, city officials and officers of the chambers of commerce of both cities will take an active part in the celebration.

The purpose of the occasion is threefold, to celebrate the completion of the first paved road connecting two important towns in western Oklahoma, to cultivate a friendlier feeling between the citizens of said two towns, and to stimulate greater interest in good roads in western Oklahoma.

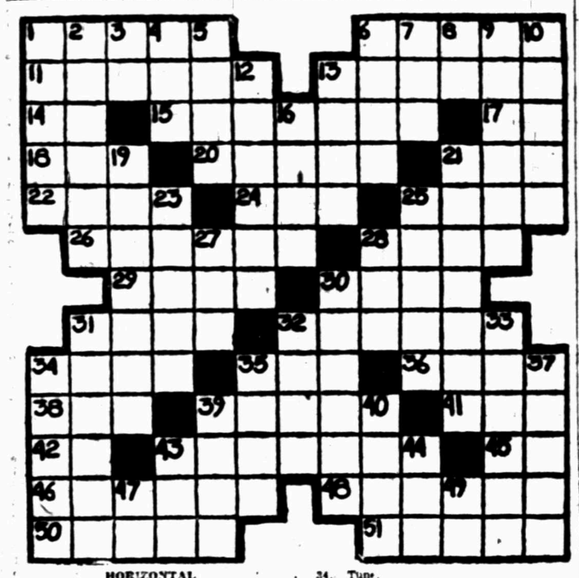

Practically the entire citizenship of both towns and thousands of farmers and citizens of other towns are expected to attend.

Energetic Texas Hen Adopts Brood of Quail

AUSTIN, June 20. (INS)—On the farm of Virgil McPhail near here, a bantam hen is now the proud mother of a brood of quail. She "adopted" them when her own eggs were taken from her nest as fast as she layed them and motherhood was thus denied her. Spying the quail's nest in the back yard, she routed the mother, hovered the eggs for three weeks, when the brood was hatched. She provides for them most energetically, McPhail reported.

PRATT'S CUBS 1ST FOES HERE

Galloways Win 10 Out of 12 Games on Road

By LARRY DAILEY
Record-News Sports Editor

Our conquering Spudders are home today.

Concluding yesterday one of the most remarkable road trips ever made by a Texas league club, or any nine, for that matter, Jim Galloway and his athletes today open an 11-day home stand, which will include 14 games. It will be a gala occasion today this welcome to the Spudders, and it is fitting that all baseball enthusiasts of Wichita Falls and vicinity accord homage to the club that within two weeks arose from seventh place to second and only a game and a half behind the leaders.

Win 11 Sstraight

The trek of the Spudders which ended yesterday saw a continuation of a winning streak that extended to 11 games. That victorious run was started here June 6 with two wins from the Fort Worth Cats. Then the Spudders won the last home game with the Panthers here the next day and took to the road.

A single game at Fort Worth was followed by three victories at Houston and two each at Beaumont and San Antonio. Then the Indians snapped the winning streak by winning the final. The Spudders resumed their winning ways by taking the first two at Waco dropping the final yesterday.

Cubs Open Stand Here

The Cubs open the invasion of southern clubs of the loop today with a three-day stand, on which a double header, a game postponed from the last trip here of Pratt's men, is to be played Sunday. San Antonio follows Waco, also for four games in three days. The fallen Houston champions open a three-day engagement at our bailiwick Thursday, and the Beaumont Exporters conclude the long home stay with three games in two days.

Bill Goff or George Payne probably will hurl for the Spudders today.

WACO HAMMERS 14 TO 3 VICTORY

Special to The Record News

WACO, June 20—The Cubs finally won a game from the Spudders. The first victory of the season by Waco over Wichita Falls was scored today, when Pratt's men pounded Harold Wiltse and Chick Galeria for a 14 to 3 decision.

While the Cubs were pounding out 18 hits off the Spudder southpaws, Earl Caldwell, ace of the Waco staff, was limiting the Spudders to six blows, one a home run by Rabbit Benton. The Rabbit was the only Spudder to get more than one hit.

George Blackerby hammered four knocks, one a triple, in his many times at bat to lead the attack. Mellano, Sanguinet, Johnson and Vigare clouted three hits each. One of Johnson's swats was for the circuit.

The teams boarded a train for Wichita Falls tonight and were to arrive early tomorrow morning to open their three-day series at Spudville, which includes a double header Sunday.

Schmeling Is Sought as Opponent For Dempsey in Fight Next March

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, June 20—Within the past few days, as I am reliably informed, (well, fairly reliably anyway) emissaries of the Lower California gambling mob that is back of the project to present "The Kid's Last Fight" at Aguas Caliente next March, have been conferring with Herr Max Schmeling, and his agents.

The Tia Juana crowd has decided that the Black Uhlan of the Rhine will lick Senor Paulino Uzcudun, the Beezark of the Basque, when they meet at the Yankee Stadium on the night of June 27.

Having reached this decision, the Mexican mob desires the Black Uhlan to play opposite William Harrison Dempsey in "The Kid's Last Fight." As I related a couple of days ago, the plan for the presentation has reached a stage where William Harrison has been guaranteed a million, hot or cold for his efforts, the approximate date has been set, and all that is now lacking is an opponent.

I am told that Herr Max' agents and Herr Max himself, find the general idea most appealing, and that Her Max awaits only the result of his battle with the old Beezark before signing them fatal papers.

A match below the border would relieve the Black Uhlan of many worries. The New York Boxing commission has already approved of a bout between Schmeling and Phalling Phil Scott, of England, to take place under the auspices of the good Signor Humberto Fugazy after the milk fund show.

This bout was arranged by the good Signor Fugazy under a contract made with him for Schmeling's services by Herr Arthur Bulow, the manager so vociferously repudiated by the Black Uhlan. It is a sure thing that if Schmeling beats the Beezark, he will balk and squawk at carrying out any plans made for him by Bulow.

The very mention of Bulow's name to Herr Max seems to give the Black Uhlan acute indigestion. However, I recall that he mentioned said name himself without a qualm in conversation with M. Georges Carpentier, the Lily of France. Herr Max referred to Herr Bulow as "Mister Bulow."

Having approved the Scott matter, it isn't likely that the boxing commission will permit Herr Max to battle anyone else under any other auspices in New York state. But there are other states. There is most especially the state of Baja California.

I am advised that William Harrison Dempsey's opponent, whoever it may be, is to get $250,000, flat. Whether this is to come out of Dempsey's cool million, or whether it is to come out of the promoters, deponent sayeth not.

Any of our beefy boys would be tickled silly to get that king of money for a fight with Dempsey. You would be surprised how much less than $250,000 would be gladly accepted by some of the boys.

The man who eventually licks the old Manassa Mauler decisively is apt to be the man recognized as heavyweight champion of the world, even if he doesn't get his name on that Muldoon-Tunney trophy in Madison Square Garden. By the way, they've got the trophy fenced off now, since one of the boys was found trying to put it in his pocket.

Herr Max Schmeling has been nursing the ambition to fight William Harrison Dempsey for some time. All he has to do now to gratify that ambition is to flatten the Beezark of the Basque up at Yankee Stadium the night of June 27. And all you have to do to be as rich as Mr. Rockefeller, gentle reader, is to save up a billion.

I have been contemplating the possibilities of a large bout in Tia Juana, or environs, with respect to the financial result. I am commencing to convince myself that the boys might get better than the usual Mexican stand-off.

They expect to draw heavily on the state of California, of course. In fact that's where most of the gate must come from. The state of California produced close to $150,000 if memory serves, for a bout of no more consequence than the one between George Godfrey and Senor Paulino.

Now that is a lot of money. It is a sum that argues a very large gate indeed for a bout that may be considered vastly more important. True the Godfrey-Paulino show took place in Los Angeles, which is some distance removed from Tia Juana. But it is possible that it might have drawn even more had it been held at Tia Juana in view of the added attractions of the latter spot in the way of light wines, and beer, and heavy firewater, and hawss racing, and cross word puzzles.

Consider, my amigos, that the Dempsey-Gibbons fight, held in a place that you could scarcely find with a search warrant, drew $270,000, and would have gone to $750,000 beyond any doubt, had the promoters convinced the proletariat that the thing was coming off.

The lower California mob will make no such error. They have the money. Any one of them could personally guarantee the purse involved, and still have enough left to buy breakfast. In March, with the Cofforoth Handicap as a side issue, I am inclined to think that William Harrison Dempsey and Herr Max Schmeling would pull a very large number of Eastern citizens to the west coast.

But the problem that concerns me with reference to Tia Juana is where would they put 'em after they got 'em there?

Blue Jackets to Compete In Chicago Meet

Wichita Falls will be represented in the 12-goal polo championship tournament, to be held at Chicago starting Aug. 12. The Blue Jackets of this city, southwestern champions, have entered the national event and stand an excellent chance to win the title.

The Blue Jackets will be minus the service of Horrace Robbins, star No. 3, but the rest of the lineup which won the southwestern title will be intact, including C. H. Featherston and Captain Boyle and Lieutenant Borden of Fort Sill, Okla. Cecil Childers of Abilene will play No. 3 in place of Robbins.

It'll Be Like Opening Day When Our Spudders Return Home Today

Luncheon and Parade Feature Gala Occasion as Fans Pay Homage to Jim Galloway's Conquering Clan

It will be like opening day when the Wichita Falls Spudders return home today for an 11-day stand which will include 14 ball games.

Jim Galloway and his conquering athletes will be accorded a tremendous welcome by fandom of Wichita Falls and vicinity, with a luncheon and parade featuring festivities, and a huge turnout at Athletic park to see the Spudders battle the Waco Cubs as a climax.

The luncheon is to be held at the Kemp hotel and a few inspirational short talks will be made, with Fred Weeks as the principal speaker. Luncheon clubs of the city have indicated they will attend the affair and heavy reservations indicate a huge attendance. Reservations to the luncheon may be made through Frank Haley or the Kemp.

The parade, to start at 2:30 o'clock instead of 3 as originally planned, will form at Eleventh and Scott. It will include a band, Boy Scouts, the Knot Hole gang and other organizations. Fans are urged to put their cars in the line of march.

PENNOCK AIDS NEW PITCHER

Herbie Takes Nekola From Holy Cross in Hand

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK, June 20. (UP)—Frank (Bots) Nekola, the costly college southpaw, will learn about pitching from Herb Pennock, called by Miller Huggins the greatest left-hander of all time.

"Take this kid over, Herb, and get him ready soon, as we may need him any time," Huggins told Pennock.

"Scared a Little

Nekola, who will receive something like $20,000 from the Yankees, it is said, for this season's work alone, was sought by the Athletics, White Sox and Senators, but came to the Yankees a year sooner than expected.

"I expected to pitch for Holy Cross another year and join the Yankees in 1931," he said, "but Judge Landis' bulletin caused me to be disqualified and here I am. I would have liked to pitch another year of college baseball, but now that I am with the Yankees I'm going to put everything I have into making good. With Pennock and Shawkey helping me, I'll have two of the best instructors in baseball for a young pitcher."

Won 11 Straight

Nekola won 11 straight games pitching for Holy Cross this season, pitching three one-hit games against Yale, Lafayette and Boston college. He allowed but 13 runs and 44 hits in 93 innings.

ROBERTS ASKED TO TAKE REST

Texas League Head Rumored to Be Given Leave

FORT WORTH, June 20. (AP)—The Star Telegram said today that J. Doak Roberts, president of the Texas league, will be asked by the club owners to take a leave of absence until Dec. 1. The paper's story said in part:

"Roberts, ill since early in the year, is not able to take complete command of the league affairs, the club owners point out, and they desire that a committee be named to conduct the business of the circuit until Roberts is completely recovered and able to devote his full time and strength to his position. They will ask that he take the leave with full pay.

"The club owners already have decided to take this action. The request will be made at or before the next meeting of the club owners. They will meet next week.

"In case Roberts accedes to the request, a committee of three magnets will be named to handle the league affairs. The committee probably will be composed of J. Alvin Gardner of Wichita Falls, Fred Ankenman of Houston, H. H. Hammond of San Antonio, comprising the league executive committee.

"Roberts became seriously ill early this year. He was unable to attend the spring meeting of the league and a committee was appointed to conduct the business until he recovered sufficiently. He assumed his duties shortly after the season opened. Roberts now is well on the road to recovery and it is thought that a long and complete rest will see him restored to health.

"It was reliably learned that the club owners telegraphed their request to Roberts today."

STORY IS DENIED BY LEAGUE STATISTICIAN

DALLAS, June 20. (AP)—A report that President J. Doak Roberts of the Texas league had been asked by club owners to take a leave of absence until December to recover his health was denied here today by William B. Ruggles, statistician, who has been conducting league business since Roberts suffered a relapse three weeks ago.

It was reported the club owners had wired President Roberts, suggesting the leave of absence and recommending that he appoint a committee to run the league. Mr. Roberts could not be reached, but his secretary knew nothing of such a movement, nor did Ruggles.

"The rumor probably arose from the fact that Mr. Roberts had voiced his intention of taking several weeks off," Ruggles said. "The club owners, so far as I know, are perfectly satisfied with the way the league is being conducted."

J. ALVIN GARDNER OUT OF THE CITY

J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Spudders, was away from Wichita Falls yesterday and could not be reached for a statement regarding the rumbred temporary retirement of J. Doak Roberts as Texas league president.

More per Gallon but LESS per Trip

That's the economy of CONOCO-ETHYL GASOLINE

DURING the summer, when long motor trips are in order, a most important cost factor is wear and tear.

Every time the motor knocks, it is undergoing unnecessary strain. Its life is being shortened—its resale value reduced.

That's why we say, that in the long run, Conoco Ethyl Gasoline will cost you less per trip. Conoco Ethyl absolutely eliminates knocks. It delivers full power with every stroke of the piston. It gives lightning pick-up in traffic driving. In short, it provides a surge of power—up the hills or on the level—which keeps your motor gliding along with practically no effort. That's economy!

Give Conoco Ethyl a trial. See how cool it keeps your engine, and experience the real satisfaction of having your car run as the manufacturer intended it should. You'll find a convenient Conoco Ethyl pump ready to supply you.

Conoco Ethyl is a proper admixture of Conoco, the extra-miles motor fuel, and Ethyl Fluid, developed by General Motors. All Ethyl Gasoline is not Conoco Ethyl. To be sure you are getting Conoco Ethyl, fill only at those pumps which display the Conoco Ethyl sign.

Forty-Year-Old Claim Is Made Against Texas

AUSTIN, Texas, June 20. (INS)—A forty-year-old claim against the state for $2,900 principal and $6,000 interest, was recently laid before the house claims and accounts committee from Falls county. The claimants allege that the money is due them as a result of a bond forfeited 40 years ago for a man under indictment for cattle theft.

The man disappeared and his surety discharged the bond. Thirty-five years later it was discovered the man had drowned and had not defaulted, it is claimed.

An adding machine was built in 1915 and exhibited at the Panama exposition that had a capacity of 40 columns, or within one unit of 10 duodecillions.

Open Championship Features

No. 1—Farrell and Sarazen

Just a trifle more than ten years ago Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen were young Westchester caddies, operating at Siwanoy and Apawamis, picking up their $1 a day as they carried bags full of wood and iron up and down the Westchester hills and slopes.

They come to a Westchester golf course next week with a championship to defend and ex-championship reign to regain—Farrell as the defending champion and Sarazen with a dream of recovering the crown he won in 1922. They are now two or three years under 30—in the neighborhood of 27—and both are capable of winning any championship, if either happens to be near his best with that intangible touch and timing that comes and goes, minus all cause or reason.

It is the first time either has ever had his chance to play in an open held over Westchester turf, the old familiar turf of their caddie days.

Westchester county has turned out more star golfers than any other county in the United States, for there are many other ex-caddies from this region who have made their names and who have a chance to win. But Farrell and Sarazen are the only two able to break through and reach the main goal.

Farrell had to wait six years longer than Sarazen, but that is the way of golf. Farrell had a good chance to win at Worcester in 1925, but slipped down the stretch. Sarazen made a bold bid at Oakmont in 1927, but a 7 on the par 4 eighteenth hole of the third round stopped him by a stroke. How will Winged Foot suit their play? Both are long enough and both are good iron players, so Winged Foot should suit them as well as it suits any one else, if they are kicking in with their stuff. Nearly every golfer has two games, and it takes the best game the good golfers have to win against the competition and the tension they all must face.

How They Won

Sarazen needed a 4 on the 480-yard or 490-yard par 5 hole at Skokie in 1922, with Bobby Jones and John Black in close pursuit.

He hit a fine drive, and then from a slightly hanging lie he belted a brassie shot over serious trouble almost straight for the pin, and this shot brought him through.

The shot that really gave him the lift came on the fourth green, where he seemed to be out of it. He hit a 50-foot putt into the cup, and then went flying.

Some time after he had finished some one rushed up and said that Jones and Black had three pars to tie at 288.

"Yes," said Sarazen, without showing any worry. "But I've got mine."

Johnny Farrell had a harder time of it. He had to beat par on the final hole at Olympia Fields to tie Jones. In the play-off he ran out a string of four birdies in succession, to take the lead from Jones in the morning round. Jones put on a counter attack, and then Farrell had to finish the last march with two birdies on the last two holes, to win by a stroke. Par on the last two holes at Olympia Fields is 4-5. Farrell and Jones each finished 3-4. That shows the pace they were traveling.

A Philadelphia Ballad

Why are the Mackmen treasure trove?

The Rough Basque

"Schmeling," says a boxing writer, "can outhit and outbox Uscudun. The Spaniard is rough, but he is no great puncher." He may not be a great puncher, but neither does he use a feather duster. Some one might ask Harry Wills. Also Jack Delaney. He nailed Delaney in the stomach with a left hook, and the Bridgeport party doubled up like a jackknife. His mouth flew open and his eyes assumed that pop-eyed look. Just as the Spaniard was about to conclude the performance some one discovered that Pauline had thrown a low punch. It was a marvelous discovery, demanding uncanny eyesight, for no one saw it, including Delaney.

Paulino is more of a mauler than a clean puncher, but he can do his share of damage—if given his chance. He isn't as good a boxer as Schmeling, but he is just as hard to hit. He wraps those broad arms around his chin, after the manner of ivy, and there is little satisfaction in thumping elbows.

The Best Outfielder

Joe Tinker picks Fred Clarke as the best outfielder he ever saw. Clarke and Sheckard were about on a par, but for all-round outfielding it takes an expert picker to name a better man than Tris Speaker. Speaker handled a hard ground ball like an infielder. He had uncanny judgment in picking his spot. He might be close in back of second or far to right or left center. He could go in any of the known directions. And he made the hardest chances look as easy as the pop-up fly. He also had an arm that could ladle the ball to the plate just an inch or so above the base runner's neck as he slid home.

Oklahoma City Boxing Promoter on Trial Today

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 20. (UP)—The future of pugilism in Oklahoma may be decided here Friday when the trial of Lou Cutler, promoter of the Babe Hunt-Big Boy Peterson fight last February, opens in district court here.

The trial was delayed today when Hunt failed to appear. The boxer, who went down to defeat before young Stribling of Georgia last Monday night at Wichita, was to be a witness both for the defense and the prosecution.

Berkeley Bell Eliminated In Delaware Tennis Meet

WILMINGTON, Del., June 20. (AP)—Berkeley Bell, University of Texas tennis star, fell today before Tamio Abe of Japan in the quarter finals of the Delaware state tennis championships here. The score was 8-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Last year Abe also eliminated Bell in the tourney. Bradshaw Harrison, University of Oregon, created an upset by defeating Julius Seligson, Lehigh university, intercollegiate singles champion, in the final quarter-final round, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4. Other semi-finalists are Tamio Abe, Japan; J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., and Fritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa.

Reigh Count Is Second In Ascot Gold Cup Race

ASCOT HEATH, Eng., June 20. (UP)—Reigh Count, Kentucky Derby winner of 1928, made a gallant bid for the Ascot Gold cup today, but found one horse with greater staying powers in the field which went to the post in the historic fixture, and had to take second place to Reid Walker's Inversahin.

Paolino Is Set To Battle Max

Basque on Edge and Must Avoid Staleness

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y., June 20. (UP)—"Paolino is right on edge and wants to be careful to keep from going stale in the next few days," Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, who will meet Sammy Mandell for the lightweight title at Chicago in July or August, said today after watching Uscudun work out.

"As far as I can see, Paulino isn't carrying an ounce to work on," he continued. "He looks to be at the point he should be three days before meeting Schmeling."

Weight, 190; height, 5 feet, 11 inches; age, 28; reach, 74 inches; neck, 17½ inches; chest (normal), 44 inches; chest (expanded), 48½ inches; waist, 34 inches; biceps, 4½ inches; calf, 16 inches; ankle, 9½ inches.

Schmeling Praised By Dempsey's Pal

LAKEWOOD, N. J., June 20. (UP)—Marty Gallagher, Washington heavyweight who began training with Max Schmeling yesterday, says he believes the German heavyweight is as good as Jack Dempsey at the time of the latter's fight with Luis Firpo. Gallagher trained with Dempsey at Saratoga, N. Y., before the Firpo bout.

Gallagher worked two fast rounds with Schmeling yesterday and afterwards said Schmeling possessed all of Dempsey's attributes.

WEST REPORTS 9 PRODUCERS

New Production Amounts To 8,909 Barrels

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 20.—A material increase in new production was registered in the West Texas Permian basin during the second week in June, nine wells being completed in four counties for 8,909 barrels daily, compared with six producers in four counties good for only 1,164 barrels the week before. Figures remained far below the average for the year, however. Only four tests were abandoned dry, compared with nine the preceding week, and one location was abandoned.

Winkler county finished three producers rating 7,480 barrels daily, Howard county three for 1,178 barrels a day, Ward county two for 202 barrels and Upton county one for 49 barrels. Failures were one each in Pecos, Reagan, Runnels and Winkler counties, while the abandoned location was in Presidio county.

Completions follow:

Howard—Humble Oil & Refining Co. No. 1 Settles, section 132, block 29, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey, elevation 2697 feet, top of pay 2235 feet, total depth 2295 feet; initial production 98 barrels in 14 hours.

Plymouth Oil Co. No. 2 Kloh, Rumsey & Abrams, section 5, block 32, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, elevation 2735, top of pay 2260 feet, total depth 2300 feet, initial production 480 barrels in 12 hours.

Superior Oil Producing Co. No. 11-E Dora Roberts, section 136, block 29, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey, elevation 2,799 feet, top of sand 1385 feet, top of pay 1418 feet, total depth 1437 feet, plugged back to 1436 feet, initial production 50 barrels, now pumping 25 barrels.

Pecos—Transcontinental Oil Co. No. 1 University (permit 8802), section 9, block 17, elevation 3059, top of salt 1230 feet, top of lime 2185 feet, four bailers of sulphur water hourly from 2180-90 feet, total depth 2440 feet; abandoned dry.

Reagan — Skelly-Utah Southern No. 3 University-Grayson, section 33, block 8, elevation 2852 feet, top of salt 1270 feet, top of lime 3028 feet, hole full of sulphur water 3071-96 feet, total depth 3096 feet; abandoned dry.

Runnels—Marland Production Co. No. 1 August Herring, section 139, E. T. R. R. Co. survey, hole full of sulphur water from 2680 to 2710 feet, show of oil at 3002 feet, hole full of water 3325 feet, total depth 4200 feet; abandoned dry.

Upton—Humble Oil & Refining Co. No. 11 Ricker, section 5, M. S. Denton survey, top of salt 700 feet, top of brown lime 2219 feet, top of pay 2347 feet, total depth 2434 feet, shot with 40 quarts from 2390 to 2410 feet, initial production 49 barrels.

Ward—J. H. L. Oil Co. No. 1 Hayzlett, section 17, block 5, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, elevation 2522 feet, top of salt 792 feet, top of pay 2457 feet, shot with 110 quarts from 2445-92 feet, total depth 2545 feet, plugged back to 2517 feet, initial production 107 barrels.

J. H. L. Oil Co. No. 2 Hayzlett, section 17, block 5, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, elevation 2505 feet, top of salt 745 feet, top of pay 2430 feet, total depth 2490 feet, initial production 95 barrels.

Winkler—Shell Petroleum corporation No. 1-B Leck, section 3, block 74, public school land, elevation 2895 feet, top of lime 2789 feet, show of oil 3041 feet, total depth 3194 feet, plugged back to 3083 feet, shot with 90 quarts from 3030-50 feet, no results; abandoned dry.

Borger Carbon Plant Expands

Special to The Record News.

BORGER, Texas, June 20.—Construction of a third large sized unit for the Borger plant of the Huber Carbon company of Swartz, Iowa, has been authorized and the work is starting right away, R. D. Weakley, local plant superintendent, said.

Meantime the company is rushing work on the construction of its two unit plant, the first of which is expected to be in operation by July 15.

Thirty days after the first unit is in operation, the fires under the second unit will be started, Mr. Weakley said.

Gas for the units will be secured from the Pacific American company gasoline plant, about a mile north of the Huber plant. This plant is now in operation, but the residue gas has been going to the air.

All of the warehouses and office buildings of the Huber plant, two miles west of Borger and a mile north of the Palmer plant, have been completed. A switch has been extended from the Palmer plant.

Sixteen houses for employes of the plant have been erected at the plant. In addition there are 12 houses leased at the Marland camp south of Borger, for use of employes.

The type of channel houses at the Huber plant are larger than the standard plant size. The houses are both longer and wider and have greater burning surface.

Between 25,000,000 and 30,000,000 cubic feet of residue gas will be consumed in the plant. This will produce about 35,000 to 40,000 pounds of carbon black.

SECOND WELL IN O. C. FIELD

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., June 20.—The second oil well in the new Oklahoma City oil field opened December 4, last, came in early Thursday. It is Sinclair Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Stamper, in 30-11-2w, to the southeast of the I. T. I. O. discovery in 24-11-3w, and at 6435 feet, it started flowing. It made 323 barrels the first 10 hours, and late Thursday was doing 122 an hour while drilling at 6449 feet.

Some 28 wells are drilling to the deep sand, and Wirt Franklin of Ardmore, chairman of the conservation committee there, is attempting to slow up the next list of wells to 28. If his policy is not adopted at least 75 wells may start there soon.

Sinclair's No. 1 Stamper, in the northeast of the southwest of the northwest of 30-11-2w, is drilling at 6423 feet in the lime and still has only 3000 feet of oil in the hole.

Prairie Now Purchaser Of Panhandle Crude

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., June 20.—The Prairie Oil and Gas company has officially become a purchaser of crude oil production in the Panhandle field of northwest Texas. It announced that retroactive of Wednesday, June 10, and until further notices, a range of prices, starting at 90 cents and going to $1.70 a barrel.

The postings of the Prairie, establish four definite and distinct grades of oil in the Panhandle. All of the Prairie's new prices are the same as now in effect by Humble, Magnolia, Texas or Gulf companies.

Greater Seminole Field Shows Another Decline

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., June 20.—The output of the Greater Seminole field showed another decline, having an output Wednesday of 376,464 barrels from 1,948 wells, or a loss of 1,406 barrels of oil. Only one new well was completed in the field and that was credited to the list of the Earlsboro pool. Wells were abandoned in the Little River and the Mission pools.

Central Park Sea Lion Is Faithless Creature

NEW YORK, June 20. (INS)—Pete, the sea-lion at the Central park zoo is a faithless creature. His mate of long standing died recently, but Pete unmindful of this tragic event, immediately embarked upon a new conquest.

Turk Moslem Preachers Reduced in Number

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 20. (INS)—Moslem preachers and theologians in Turkey are to be reduced to 500, or one to every 25,000 of the population. The 500 will be given diplomas by the government.

No vacant posts will be filled until the present plethora of clerics drops to this number, and the government is cutting down its financial assistance to religion above this limit.

Artificial rubies have been produced weighing more than 15 carats.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 20. (AP)—Cotton was quiet and irregular again today with early declines under near month liquidation and a little selling on favorable weather and crop advices, followed by rallies on covering and trade buying. After selling off to 18.63, October advanced to 18.72 or 3 points net higher and closed at 18.69. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 6 points on July but generally unchanged to 1 point higher.

The opening was steady at a decline of 3 to 9 points and prices soon showed net losses of 6 to 8 points, with July selling off to 18.30 and December to 19.79 under liquidation and some local or commission house selling.

Offerings were comparatively light, while a better demand developed around 18.30 for July, or at a discount of about 35 to 36 points under October. In many cases sellers of July were buying the later months, and the absorption of July contracts at the wider differences helped to steady the market.

Failure of favorable features in the weather and crop news to bring in more aggressive selling was another factor which promoted covering, and the market rallied during the afternoon. December sold up to 18.90 or about 4 points net higher. The highest price touched by July was 18.35 or 4 points below yesterday's final quotation. Last prices were a little off from the best under realizing.

Rumors that some unfavorable crop reports were being received from the Southwest may have helped the afternoon rally, but a large part of the day's business was supposed to be connected with the evening-up of July contracts. Next Tuesday will be the first July notice day in the local marekt and the widening of the differences between months would suggest expectations of liberal tenders.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 20. (AP)—An opening decline was followed by a steadier tone in cotton today, and the early loss was recovered in a wave of covering and buying on fears of boll weevil depredations and an improved technical position. October, after dropping to 18.51, rallied to 18.61 and closed at 18.57, or 2 points net lower. The general market closed steady at net declines of 2 to 3 points.

Buying was promoted by uneasiness over the boll weevil situation and reports of too much rain in South Texas.

Stock Values Move Upward In Quiet but Uneven Trade Session

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 20. (US)—Stocks moved higher in another quiet and somewhat uneven session today. Utilities again featured as a group but there was continued support in the better grade Industrials. Brooklyn Union Gas gained 5½, Consolidated Gas another point, Laclede Gas 16, and Public Service of New Jersey 5⅝. Allis Chalmers advanced 11½, Childs company 6¾, Baldwin 5⅝, Johns Manville 7 and Underwood-Elliott Fisher 3½. Steel gained 1¾, while General Motors and other standard industrials benefited to the extent of about a point on the average.

Rails were quiet and somewhat irregular.

Mexican Seaboard featured an otherwise dull oil group with 3½ point advance. Anaconda and other coppers enjoyed a little better demand. Turnover remained under the 3,000,000 share level while the call rate was held at 7 per cent throughout.

The Baldwin Locomotive Works recapitalization, which was first forecast exclusively in this column, it is expected, will be acted on by the executive committee at meeting next Thursday. Current indications are that a four for one split up will be decided upon and there is a possibility that stock dividend distribution will be recommended at the same time. The directors will act on the committee's recommendations almost immediately so that stockholders will be told officially of the plan within a fortnight. In strengthening the company's financial structure and preparing for expansion of activity, it is believed, a plan will be devised for retiring the preferred stock. With the recapitalization concluded Baldwin is likely to take in other properties.

Public Service of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas and all the old favorites in the utility group continue to give a good account of themselves with further talk of mergers and combinations through holding companies in circulation. Increased interest in the group is attracting attention to others among which the Pacific Lighting stood out because of reports of increasing earnings and its merger possibilities. The new Utility Equities benefited as it is one of the largest holders of Pacific Lighting. There has been no offer from Consolidated Gas for Brooklyn Union.

Investment stocks benefited from belief that the money trouble has ended. Allis Chalmers continued to be absorbed for strong boxes and investment trusts. Underwood showed further reflection of the steady improvement of its financial position than is enhancing earning power. The next step is expected to be retirement of second preferred. This follows the calling of the Sundstream preferred, the entire common stock if which is owned by Elliott-Fisher. Mexican Seaboard's strength was influenced by expectation of an important announcement in the near future.

There is a revival of interest in Goodyear Tire due to expectation that highly favorable developments are planned for stockholders.

Increase of $136,000,000 in loans for the week is more than generally expected. Most of it, however, was caused by the big payments due to new stock issues and not to speculative trading so that there is no fear of action by the reserve. With further payments immediately ahead there is reason to expect tighter money soon that should keep the market quiet.

Sterling and other exchanges rallied, with the peseta recovering all its loss of the previous session due to steady covering. Wheat and other grains continued to benefit from farm relief reports while the cotton market remained reactionary because of bearish weather advices.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, June 20. (AP)—Sales of moderate quantities have been made on new lines of graded western wools. Bulk of sales reported were in 48, 50 and 56s strictly combing wools. Quotations are about steady on both of these grades. The prices reported on 48 50 grades were in range of 78 to 80 cents, scoured basis and 56s grade brought 88 to 90 cents, scoured basis.

Prices of 64s and finer grade strictly territory wools are slightly easier. Some were sold at 95 cents scoured basis.

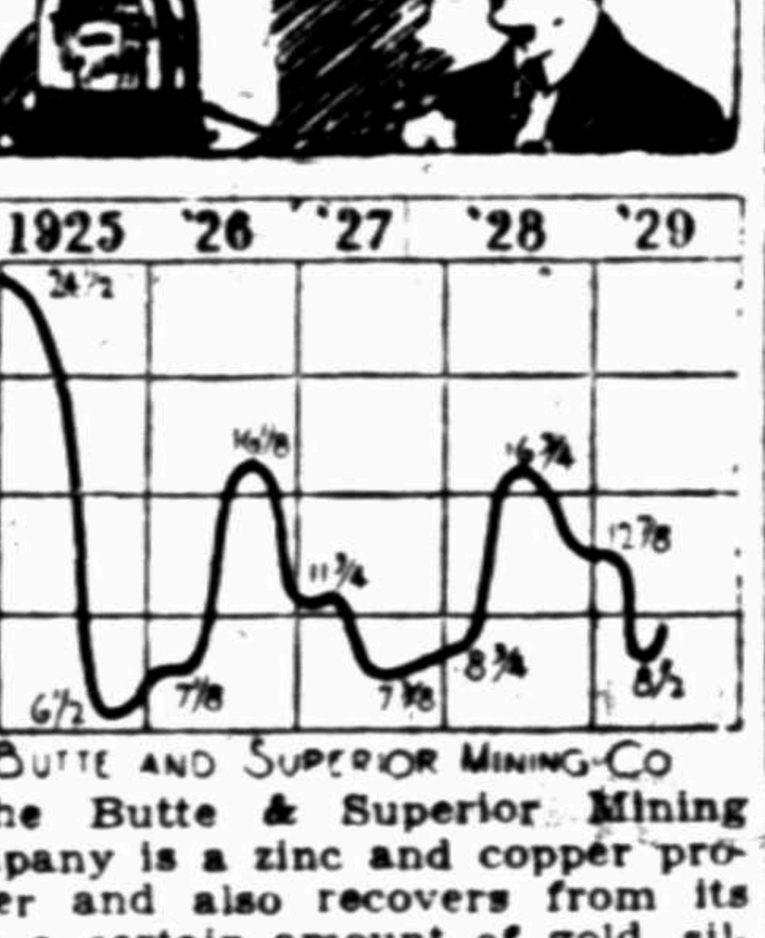

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, June 20. (AP)—Cotton goods opened today firm in price and with better inquiry for sheetings and print cloths after some fair sales made toward the previous day's close. Some business was coming forward at the full market and bidding was less frequent. New rayon fabrics were being worked out and some drapery and dress goods business based on recent yarn reductions was noted. Some discounting was reported in spots. Woolen goods were quiet.

Wife Chews Tobacco; Husband Asks Divorce

WICHITA, Kan., June 20. (INS)—In a divorce petition filed here the husband charges his wife with chewing tobacco habitually. The wife is asking for a divorce on the grounds of cruelty.

The husband said that he was not aware of the fact that she chewed tobacco before they were married.

The Butte & Superior Mining company is a zinc and copper producer and also recovers from its ores a certain amount of gold, silver and lead. It has stock holdings in the American Zinc, Lead & Smelting company and the California Zinc company and owns a majority of the stock of the North Butte Extension Development company. The property of the company itself includes 29 claims covering 170 acres of mineral lands and surface rights on 34 additional acres.

In 1927 it produced nearly 80,000,000 pounds of zinc and 8,000,000 pounds of copper. In the last three years the company has been taking steps to reclaim ore left behind as unprofitable in the early days of operation. These will add materially to ore reserves. However, commercial copper ore reserves were almost entirely exhausted towards the end of 1928 and zinc reserves had been materially decreased while no new ore bodies had been found. The property is regarded as essentially a liquidating proposition and this is reflected in its dividend policy.

Net income in 1927 amounted to $272,911. This compared with $496,004 in 1926. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1928, net profit was $48,000. This compared with $204,000 for the corresponding period in 1927. There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding totals $2,901,977 in shares of $10 par value. The dividend rate is $2 a share per annum payable quarterly.

As of Jan. 1, 1928, total current assets, of which $1,476,845 were in cash, amounted to $1,707,866. Total current liabilities were $162,758 and net working capital $1,545,108. Book value amounted to $17.50 a share.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, June 20. (AP)—Cash wheat followed the contract values sharply higher on the Fort Worth cash grain market today with demand reported good at the advance. Inquiry for barley and sorghums showed more activity. New crop wheat started its big movement to Fort Worth today but had no bad effect on prices.

Export Trade—Exporters bid as follows, basis delivered Texas gulf ports: No. 1 ordinary hard wheat $1.10@1.11; No. 1 soft red mixed $1.11@1.12. No. 2 barley 66@67c.

Domestic Trade—Mills bid as follows, basis delivered Texas common points, No. 1 ordinary hard wheat $1.11@1.13; 13 per cent protein $1.14@1.15; 14 per cent $1.16@1.17; 15 per cent $1.20@1.21; 16 per cent $1.24@1.25.

Dealers bids and offers ranged as follows, basis delivered Texas common points: No. 2 mixed corn $1.01@1.02; No. 2 white or yellow $1.08@1.09; No. 2 red oats 45½@46½c; No. 2 barley 67@68c; No. 2 milo per hundred $1.51@1.52; No. 2 kaffir $1.33@1.34; milo heads per ton $20.50@21.50; kaffir heads $19.00@20.00.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 20. (AP)—Orders to buy swept into the wheat market today and carried values 3⅝c a bushel higher. The reported fading away of brilliant crop prospects southwest largely was responsible with new purchasing much more general in character than followed enactment of the farm relief bill.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 2⅝ to 3c above yesterday's finish. Corn closed at ½ to 1⅛@1¼c gain, oats ⅛ to ⅝c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10c.

Disappointment over threshing yields applied definitely to Oklahoma and parts of Texas, but indications pointed also to similar conditions in southern Kansas.

Corn and oats proved responsive to wheat market advances and to reports of the corn crop being seriously backward. Cash demand for corn was active. On the other hand, favorable weather for corn prevailed, and there was much selling of corn future deliveries against simultaneous buying of wheat.

Strength of cereals tended to restrict selling of provisions.

Radio Fans in Japan Must Pay to Listen In

CHICAGO, June 20. (INS)—Owners of radio sets in Japan pay for the privilege of operating them at the rate of one yen monthly which is levied by the government, and amateur wireless stations are banned by the government, Harry W. Wells, radio research engineer, reported to the headquarters of the All-American Kyric Malaysian Expedition with headquarters here.

Radio is extremely popular in Japan. Many homes have tall bamboo poles projecting from the roofs which serve as antennae poles. Wells has completed a study of short wave stations in Japan and announced he would soon depart for Java to study radio conditions.

Girl Has 13 Diamonds In Perfect Bridge Hand

Miss Wellman was dealt 13 diamonds by one of her opponents. She received the bid at five diamonds without being doubled.

18-Foot Boat Crosses Ocean From Germany

MIAMI, Fla., June 20. (INS)—Paul Muller, a Berlin grocer, has succeeded in crossing the Atlantic ocean alone in an 18-foot sloop.

FRYERS AND EGGS ADVANCE

Prices Here Higher On Eastern Advices

Higher prices for broilers and eggs were offered by local poultry dealers Thursday on the strength of an improved market in the East. Young fryores of 1¾ pounds or more moved from 26 to 28 cents, while both fertile and infertile eggs advanced two cents per dozen.

Cotton prices continued their "on again, off again" tendency, gaining 10 points Thursday after several days of slow decline. Local buyers offered 17.10, middling basis.

Apples appeared to be scarce, with less than the usual variety available. Prices advanced from 50 cents to $1 per box during the last week. Peaches, plums and apricots, at surprisingly low prices, were present in abundance Thursday in local displays.

WEST REPORTS 9 PRODUCERS

New Production Amounts To 8,909 Barrels

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 20.—A material increase in new production was registered in the West Texas Permian basin during the second week in June, nine wells being completed in four counties for 8,909 barrels daily, compared with six producers in four counties good for only 1,164 barrels the week before. Figures remained far below the average for the year, however. Only four tests were abandoned dry, compared with nine the preceding week, and one location was abandoned.

Winkler county finished three producers rating 7,480 barrels daily, Howard county three for 1,178 barrels a day, Ward county two for 202 barrels and Upton county one for 49 barrels. Failures were one each in Pecos, Reagan, Runnels and Winkler counties, while the abandoned location was in Presidio county.

Borger Carbon Plant Expands

Special to The Record News.

BORGER, Texas, June 20.—Construction of a third large sized unit for the Borger plant of the Huber Carbon company of Swartz, Iowa, has been authorized and the work is starting right away, R. D. Weakley, local plant superintendent, said.

Meantime the company is rushing work on the construction of its two unit plant, the first of which is expected to be in operation by July 15.

Thirty days after the first unit is in operation, the fires under the second unit will be started, Mr. Weakley said.

Gas for the units will be secured from the Pacific American company gasoline plant, about a mile north of the Huber plant. This plant is now in operation, but the residue gas has been going to the air.

All of the warehouses and office buildings of the Huber plant, two miles west of Borger and a mile north of the Palmer plant, have been completed. A switch has been extended from the Palmer plant.

Sixteen houses for employes of the plant have been erected at the plant. In addition there are 12 houses leased at the Marland camp south of Borger, for use of employes.

The type of channel houses at the Huber plant are larger than the standard plant size. The houses are both longer and wider and have greater burning surface.

Between 25,000,000 and 30,000,000 cubic feet of residue gas will be consumed in the plant. This will produce about 35,000 to 40,000 pounds of carbon black.

SECOND WELL IN O. C. FIELD

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., June 20.—The second oil well in the new Oklahoma City oil field opened December 4, last, came in early Thursday. It is Sinclair Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Stamper, in 30-11-2w, to the southeast of the I. T. I. O. discovery in 24-11-3w, and at 6435 feet, it started flowing. It made 323 barrels the first 10 hours, and late Thursday was doing 122 an hour while drilling at 6449 feet.

Some 28 wells are drilling to the deep sand, and Wirt Franklin of Ardmore, chairman of the conservation committee there, is attempting to slow up the next list of wells to 28. If his policy is not adopted at least 75 wells may start there soon.

Sinclair's No. 1 Stamper, in the northeast of the southwest of the northwest of 30-11-2w, is drilling at 6423 feet in the lime and still has only 3000 feet of oil in the hole.

Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company No. 1 Fortson, in the center of the southwest of the northeast of 24-11-3w, is drilling at 6314 feet in lime.

Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company and Foster Petroleum company No. 1 Oklahoma City, in the center of the southeast of the southeast of 24-11-3w, the discovery well, flowed 2,318 barrels of oil and 770 barrels of water.

Prairie Oil and Gas company, Tom Slick and Phillips Petroleum company No. 1 Sudik, in the center of the northeast of the northeast of 8-19-2w, in Cleveland county, is drilling at 6592 feet in shale.

Prairie and Slick No. 1 Huddleston, in the southwest of the southeast of 19-11-2w, is shut down until the pumps are repaired. The 2,400 pound rock pressure cannot be lowered.

Prairie Now Purchaser Of Panhandle Crude

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., June 20.—The Prairie Oil and Gas company has officially become a purchaser of crude oil production in the Panhandle field of northwest Texas. It announced that retroactive of Wednesday, June 10, and until further notices, a range of prices, starting at 90 cents and going to $1.70 a barrel.

The postings of the Prairie, establish four definite and distinct grades of oil in the Panhandle. All of the Prairie's new prices are the same as now in effect by Humble, Magnolia, Texas or Gulf companies.

Greater Seminole Field Shows Another Decline

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., June 20.—The output of the Greater Seminole field showed another decline, having an output Wednesday of 376,464 barrels from 1,948 wells, or a loss of 1,406 barrels of oil. Only one new well was completed in the field and that was credited to the list of the Earlsboro pool. Wells were abandoned in the Little River and the Mission pools.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 20. (AP)—Cotton was quiet and irregular again today with early declines under near month liquidation and a little selling on favorable weather and crop advices, followed by rallies on covering and trade buying. After selling off to 18.63, October advanced to 18.72 or 3 points net higher and closed at 18.69. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 6 points on July but generally unchanged to 1 point higher.

The opening was steady at a decline of 3 to 9 points and prices soon showed net losses of 6 to 8 points, with July selling off to 18.30 and December to 19.79 under liquidation and some local or commission house selling.

Offerings were comparatively light, while a better demand developed around 18.30 for July, or at a discount of about 35 to 36 points under October. In many cases sellers of July were buying the later months, and the absorption of July contracts at the wider differences helped to steady the market.

Failure of favorable features in the weather and crop news to bring in more aggressive selling was another factor which promoted covering, and the market rallied during the afternoon. December sold up to 18.90 or about 4 points net higher. The highest price touched by July was 18.35 or 4 points below yesterday's final quotation. Last prices were a little off from the best under realizing.

Rumors that some unfavorable crop reports were being received from the Southwest may have helped the afternoon rally, but a large part of the day's business was supposed to be connected with the evening-up of July contracts. Next Tuesday will be the first July notice day in the local marekt and the widening of the differences between months would suggest expectations of liberal tenders.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 20. (AP)—An opening decline was followed by a steadier tone in cotton today, and the early loss was recovered in a wave of covering and buying on fears of boll weevil depredations and an improved technical position. October, after dropping to 18.51, rallied to 18.61 and closed at 18.57, or 2 points net lower. The general market closed steady at net declines of 2 to 3 points.

Buying was promoted by uneasiness over the boll weevil situation and reports of too much rain in South Texas.

Stock Values Move Upward In Quiet but Uneven Trade Session

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 20. (US)—Stocks moved higher in another quiet and somewhat uneven session today. Utilities again featured as a group but there was continued support in the better grade Industrials. Brooklyn Union Gas gained 5½, Consolidated Gas another point, Laclede Gas 16, and Public Service of New Jersey 5⅝. Allis Chalmers advanced 11¼, Childs company 6¾, Baldwin 5⅜, Johns Manville 7 and Underwood-Elliott Fisher 3½. Steel gained 1⅜, while General Motors and other standard industrials benefited to the extent of about a point on the average.

Rails were quiet and somewhat irregular.

Mexican Seaboard featured an otherwise dull oil group with 3½ point advance. Anaconda and other coppers enjoyed a little better demand. Turnover remained under the 3,000,000 share level while the call rate was held at 7 per cent throughout.

The Baldwin Locomotive Works recapitalization, which was first forecast exclusively in this column, it is expected, will be acted on by the executive committee at meeting next Thursday. Current indications are that a four for one split up will be decided upon and there is a possibility that stock dividend distribution will be recommended at the same time. The directors will act on the committee's recommendations almost immediately so that stockholders will be told officially of the plan within a fortnight. In strengthening the company's financial structure and preparing for expansion of activity, it is believed, a plan will be devised for retiring the preferred stock. With the recapitalization concluded Baldwin is likely to take in other properties.

Public Service of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas and all the old favorites in the utility group continue to give a good account of themselves with further talk of mergers and combinations through holding companies in circulation. Increased interest in the group is attracting attention to others among which the Pacific Lighting stood out because of reports of increasing earnings and its merger possibilities. The new Utility Equities benefited as it is one of the largest holders of Pacific Lighting. There has been no offer from Consolidated Gas for Brooklyn Union.

Investment stocks benefited from belief that the money trouble has ended. Allis Chalmers continued to be absorbed for strong boxes and investment trusts. Underwood showed further reflection of the steady improvement of its financial position than is enhancing earning power. The next step is expected to be retirement of second preferred. This follows the calling of the Sundstream preferred, the entire common stock if which is owned by Elliott-Fisher. Mexican Seaboard's strength was influenced by expectation of an important announcement in the near future.

There is a revival of interest in Goodyear Tire due to expectation that highly favorable developments are planned for stockholders.

Increase of $136,000,000 in loans for the week is more than generally expected. Most of it, however, was caused by the big payments due to new stock issues and not to speculative trading so that there is no fear of action by the reserve. With further payments immediately ahead there is reason to expect tighter money soon that should keep the market quiet.

Sterling and other exchanges rallied, with the peseta recovering all its loss of the previous session due to steady covering. Wheat and other grains continued to benefit from farm relief reports while the cotton market remained reactionary because of bearish weather advices.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, June 20. (AP)—Sales of moderate quantities have been made on new lines of graded western wools. Bulk of sales reported were in 48, 50 and 56s strictly combing wools. Quotations are about steady on both of these grades. The prices reported on 48 50 grades were in range of 78 to 80 cents, scoured basis and 56s grade brought 88 to 90 cents, scoured basis.

Prices of 64s and finer grade strictly territory wools are slightly easier. Some were sold at 95 cents scoured basis.

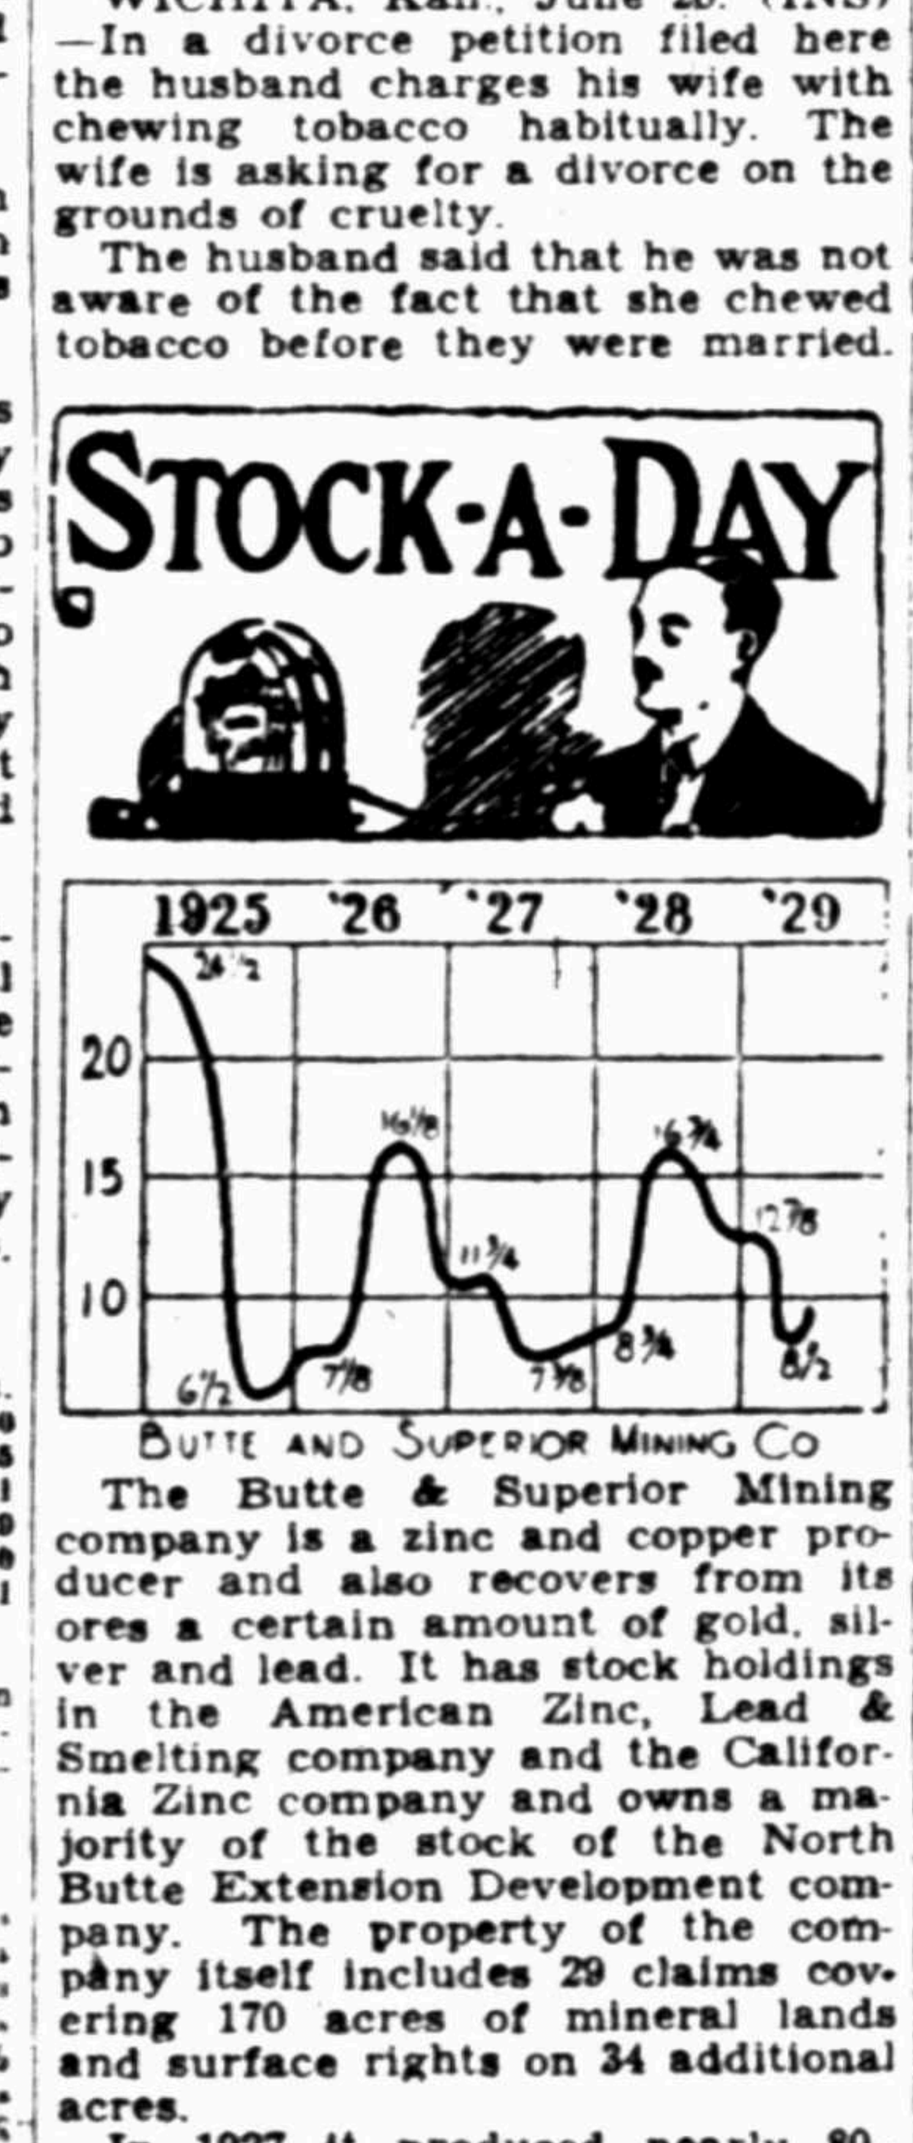

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, June 20. (AP)—Cotton goods opened today firm in price and with better inquiry for sheetings and print cloths after some fair sales made toward the previous day's close. Some business was coming forward at the full market and bidding was less frequent. New rayon fabrics were being worked out and some drapery and dress goods business based on recent yarn reductions was noted. Some discounting was reported in spots. Woolen goods were quiet.

Wife Chews Tobacco; Husband Asks Divorce

WICHITA, Kan., June 20. (INS)—In a divorce petition filed here the husband charges his wife with chewing tobacco habitually. The wife is asking for a divorce on the grounds of cruelty.

The husband said that he was not aware of the fact that she chewed tobacco before they were married.

The Butte & Superior Mining company is a zinc and copper producer and also recovers from its ores a certain amount of gold, silver and lead. It has stock holdings in the American Zinc, Lead & Smelting company and the California Zinc company and owns a majority of the stock of the North Butte Extension Development company. The property of the company itself includes 29 claims covering 170 acres of mineral lands and surface rights on 34 additional acres.

In 1927 it produced nearly 80,000,000 pounds of zinc and 8,000,000 pounds of copper. In the last three years the company has been taking steps to reclaim ore left behind as unprofitable in the early days of operation. These will add materially to ore reserves. However, commercial copper ore reserves were almost entirely exhausted towards the end of 1928 and zinc reserves had been materially decreased while no new ore bodies had been found. The property is regarded as essentially a liquidating proposition and this is reflected in its dividend policy.

Net income in 1927 amounted to $272,911. This compared with $496,004 in 1926. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1928, net profit was $48,000. This compared with $204,000 for the corresponding period in 1927. There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding totals $2,901,977 in shares of $10 par value. The dividend rate is $2 a share per annum payable quarterly.

As of Jan. 1, 1928, total current assets, of which $1,476,845 were in cash, amounted to $1,707,866. Total current liabilities were $162,758 and net working capital $1,545,108. Book value amounted to $17.50 a share.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, June 20. (AP)—Cash wheat followed the contract values sharply higher on the Fort Worth cash grain market today with demand reported good at the advance. Inquiry for barley and sorghums showed more activity. New crop wheat started its big movement to Fort Worth today but had no bad effect on prices.

Export Trade—Exporters bid as follows, basis delivered Texas gulf ports: No. 1 ordinary hard wheat $1.10@1.11; No. 1 soft red mixed $1.11@1.12. No. 2 barley 66@67c.

Domestic Trade—Mills bid as follows, basis delivered Texas common points, No. 1 ordinary hard wheat $1.11@1.13; 13 per cent protein $1.14@1.15; 14 per cent $1.16@1.17; 15 per cent $1.20@1.21; 16 per cent $1.24@1.25.

Dealers bids and offers ranged as follows, basis delivered Texas common points: No. 2 mixed corn $1.01@1.02; No. 2 white or yellow $1.08@1.09; No. 2 red oats 45½@46½c; No. 2 barley 67@68c; No. 2 milo per hundred $1.51 @1.52; No. 2 kaffir $1.33@1.34; milo heads per ton $20.50@21.50; kaffir heads $19.00@20.00.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 20. (AP)—Orders to buy swept into the wheat market today and carried values 3⅝c a bushel higher. The reported fading away of brilliant crop prospects southwest largely was responsible with new purchasing much more general in character than followed enactment of the farm relief bill.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 2⅝ to 3c above yesterday's finish. Corn closed at ½ to 1⅜@1½c gain, oats ⅛ to ⅜c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10c.

Disappointment over threshing yields applied definitely to Oklahoma and parts of Texas, but indications pointed also to similar conditions in southern Kansas.

Corn and oats proved responsive to wheat market advances and to reports of the corn crop being seriously backward. Cash demand for corn was active. On the other hand, favorable weather for corn prevailed, and there was much selling of corn future deliveries against simultaneous buying of wheat.

Strength of cereals tended to restrict selling of provisions.

Radio Fans in Japan Must Pay to Listen In

CHICAGO, June 20. (INS)—Owners of radio sets in Japan pay for the privilege of operating them at the rate of one yen monthly which is levied by the government, and amateur wireless stations are banned by the government, Harry W. Wells, radio research engineer, reported to the headquarters of the All-American Kyric Malaysian Expedition with headquarters here.

Radio is extremely popular in Japan. Many homes have tall bamboo poles projecting from the roofs which serve as antennae poles. Wells has completed a study of short wave stations in Japan and announced he would soon depart for Java to study radio conditions.

Girl Has 13 Diamonds In Perfect Bridge Hand

Miss Wellman was dealt 13 diamonds by one of her opponents. She received the bid at five diamonds without being doubled.

18-Foot Boat Crosses Ocean From Germany

MIAMI, Fla., June 20. (INS)—Paul Muller, a Berlin grocer, has succeeded in crossing the Atlantic ocean alone in an 18-foot sloop.

Muller set sail from Hamburg, Germany last July and arrived here after a 10 months' struggle against wave and wind.

FRYERS AND EGGS ADVANCE

Prices Here Higher On Eastern Advices

Higher prices for broilers and eggs were offered by local poultry dealers Thursday on the strength of an improved market in the East. Young fryores of 1¾ pounds or more moved from 26 to 28 cents, while both fertile and infertile eggs advanced two cents per dozen.

Cotton prices continued their "on again, off again" tendency, gaining 10 points Thursday after several days of slow decline. Local buyers offered 17.10, middling basis.

Apples appeared to be scarce, with less than the usual variety available. Prices advanced from 50 cents to $1 per box during the last week. Peaches, plums and apricots, at surprisingly low prices, were present in abundance Thursday in local displays.

POULTRY AND EGGS

Phone Your Classified Ads to 4391

Our courteous ad taker will receive your Classified Ad and help you to word it, then our collector will call the next day. These accounts are "accommodation accounts" for the convenience of our patrons in transacting business over the telephone.

Classified Ad patrons desiring to have ads charged must have a telephone listed in their own name. No book record is made by the publishers on account of the great number of transactions, hence the necessity of collecting promptly.

Correction of errors in Classified Ads must be made before the second insertion. No allowance will be made for more than one incorrect insertion.

Cancellations and adjustments regarding errors should be telephoned to the Classified Ad department between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Morning paper up to 6 p. m. for the following morning.

Sunday paper up to 7 p. m. Saturday night.

THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT IS OPEN ON SUNDAYS from 4 to 6 p. m. And telephone orders for classified ads to be inserted or to be discontinued will be accepted.

Exceptions: Want ads will be accepted over the telephone for all excepting the following classifications: Situations Wanted and Wants to Rent. Ads for these classifications are cash with the order and will not be accepted over the telephone.

The Times reserves the right to classify all Classified Ads under the appropriate headlines and to revise or to withhold from publication any ads deemed objectionable.

2. CARD OF THANKS

Women Enjoy Sleep More Than Men Do

LONDON, June 20. (INS)—Women have an unfair advantage over the male—they sleep longer and more peacefully than men.

The authority for this assertion is Dr. Bernard Hollander, well-known London alienist. Women, according to Dr. Hollander, not only sleep longer and more peacefully, but they are less troubled by disturbing dreams, probably because the average woman has less work and worry than man.

Chicago Growing Tired Of "Windy City" Nickname

CHICAGO, June 20. (INS)—Chicago Association of Commerce has embarked on a campaign to drop Chicago's nickname of "Windy City." It is pointed out that the average wind velocity here last year, according to figures, was only 9.9 miles an hour while Buffalo averaged 14.5 miles and New York averaged 9.3 miles.

MAJESTIC: "The Desert Song," Vitaphone production of musical operetta. Carlotta King, lyric soprano; John Boles, tenor. Louise Fazenda and Johnny Arthur, comedy roles. One hundred voice chorus. Paramount news.

Popularity definitely registered by prolonged heavy box-office patronage and frequent singing of its solo numbers in every city, town and hamlet in the country recommends "The Desert Song," musical play, which opens at the Majestic Friday as a Warner brothers Vitaphone production.

A very florid plot has been drawn in a setting which has intrigued the popular fancy particularly in the last decade, with many romantic tales of the foreign legion, the sensation of a young American's experiences a few years ago in that colorful band, and the recent suffocating war waged by the nomadic Riffs against their European "protectors."

At least two voices which have firmly established their standing on the concert and light operatic stage have been included in the cast of "The Desert Song." Carlotta King, young California lyric soprano, carries the leading feminine role as Margot, daughter of the French commandant. Her clear, ringing voice is reproduced with amazing truthfulness in melodious solos which reflect the genius of Sigmund Romberg, composer of the musical score. John Boles, tenor, singing the leading role as "The Red Shadow," will have more than his proven vocal and dramatic excellence with which to interest Texas audiences. He is a native of Greenville, where he is still remembered as the most phenomenal southpaw pitcher ever developed in that region, having been baited in vain by big league offers at the close of his high school course. While in Texas university, his musical development relegated athletics to a secondary position, and upon graduation he set out upon a period of intensive vocal training which resulted in a successful career in musical comedy. He served with the intelligence department of the army in France for 18 months.

The "Desert Song" is replete with comedy, introduced chiefly by Johnny Arthur and Louise Fazenda. Troops of Arabian horses, realistic reproduction of the sandy wastes of Morocco and a minutely trained chorus of 100 voices, are included in the musical spectacle.

Chink's Friends Concur In Court's Decision

CHICAGO, June 20. (US)—Jim Yen, society drug peddler, today was sentenced to 18 months in prison by Federal Judge Charles Woodward when he pleaded guilty to charges against him.

Yesterday Yen, according to reports from Chinatown, was tried on like charges by a jury of Chinese business men and in their own fashion. He was found guilty and ordered to "take the plea" in federal court today.

Yen will be deported, when he is released from Leavenworth, federal authorities said.

3 CONVICTED IN GRAHAM TRIALS

Juries Assess Prison Terms In Liquor Cases

With the conviction of W. B. Cribbs, given two years in the state penitentiary for the sale of whisky, the criminal work for the June term of the 30th district court at Graham was brought to a close Thursday afternoon.

The sentence imposed upon Cribbs was the third prison term assessed in the court within the past 24 hours. Late Wednesday night a jury found Fred Tetmyer guilty of the possession and manufacture of beer and sent him to the penitentiary for one year. Earlier in the day a similar sentence has been assessed against Louis Young.

German School Boards Fight Over Co-Education

BERLIN, June 20. (INS)—Co-education in the public schools has precipitated a conflict between the school boards of Berlin and of the province of Brandenburg, in which Berlin is situated.

"It does nothing of the kind," reply the city school heads, who have protested against the ruling.

NICHOLS CASE SET MONDAY

State Ready for Third Trial Of Robbery Charge

The state is ready to go immediately into the trial of R. B. Nichols, charged with the holdup of the Spoonts Drug Store No. 1 last Christmas night, when it is called for the third time in the 89th district court Monday morning, George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney, announced Thursday afternoon.

The case was re-set for Monday, June 24, several weeks ago when the defendant asked for postponement because of illness. Two former trials have resulted in hung juries. Fred Hostler, indicted on the same charge, was found guilty on his third trial here and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. His case is now on appeal. Joe Ireland, the third defendant, named after the investigation, is one of the state's chief witnesses.

The settings for the week include the trial of J. T. Reynolds and Lloyd Hooker, indicted for the transportation and possession of whisky after police had seized 280 pints of bottled in bond liquor in an automobile here last February.

Noah Caldwell and C. D. Williams, arrested after a gasoline explosion in an oil field power house last April, will also go to trial. Caldwell was burned when a member of the party struck a match. The two are charged with burglary.

F. W. Bentley, alias Curtis York, charged with theft; Ed Riley, indicted for failure to stop and render aid after an automobile accident; Mitchell Dooley, held for driving while intoxicated, and Henry Marshall, accused of disposing of mortgaged property, will all be brought before the court during the week, Mr. Anderson said.

Historian Asserts Body of Booth In Original Grave

CHICAGO, June 20. (US)—The body of John Wilkes Booth, slayer of Abraham Lincoln, is in a Baltimore cemetery and has been since 1869, according to Lloyd Lewis, historian, who scouts the rumor that Booth's "mummified" body is now in Omaha.

"The 'mummy' held by W. B. Evans, in Omaha," Mr. Lewis said, "is evidently that of David E. George, of Enid, Okla. This poor body was dragged about the South and Southwest for a quarter of a century. It has been examined by experts and pronounced a fraud.

"George was a drunken house painter, of Texas, who, when crazy with drugs, used to confess that he was the assassin of Lincoln. Finis L. Bates, a Memphis lawyer, was convinced that George's story was true and after George's suicide in 1903 took the body and tried to prove it was Booth's.

"Booth was killed, as the government declares, on a Virginia farm in April 1865 and that since 1869 has been buried in the Booth family lot in Baltimore."

Mr. Lewis has just completed six years of research into the tales of Booth's escape from justice and his refutation of the legend has just been published under the title "Myths After Lincoln."

Rotary's Contribution to World Peace Reviewed by Speakers Here

Friendly understanding between prominent business and professional men of various nations is the outstanding contribution of Rotary International to the cause of peace, according to several speakers who discussed the recent International convention at Dallas before the weekly meeting of the local club at the Kemp hotel Thursday noon.

Everett McCullough, Rabbi S. J. Schwab, A. E. Kelly, Matt Gardner and Eddie Brown gave short talks during the hour. Rabbi Schwab told of the unsuccessful effort made to strike the word "profit" from the Rotary motto, which reads "He profits most who serves best." Foreign delegates sponsored this move for a changed wording, because of the implication of financial gain contained in translating of the word in question.

Members of the club pledged their support to the Spudder ball team and promised to aid in the welcome to be staged Friday for the revived ball team.

Wichita Falls Rotarians were invited to attend a charter presentation meeting at Breckenridge Thursday night. Following an announcement by Dr. O. T. Kimbrough, president, members of the club cast individual ballots toward the designation of a city flower by a vote being taken by the Garden club.

Retail Merchants Association Sued For Alleged Inaccuracy in Rating

Charging that his reputation and business interests have been injured by an inaccurate standing given him in the 1929 rating book published by the Retail Merchants association, Marshall B. Walker, restaurant owner, Thursday afternoon filed suit for $10,000 against the organization.

The plaintiff asks for $5,000 actual damages and $5,000 exemplary damages, alleging that the inaccuracy was entered "maliciously and with the intention of injuring" him. The petition declares that a capital letter "T" has been placed after the name of the plaintiff in the rating book, and asserts that such a figure means that the man so rated has been sued for the collection of debt. Mr. Walker denies the accuracy of the rating and declares that it has interfered with his credit here and injured a life-long reputation for honesty.

Optimists Work And Play in Tulsa Meet

TULSA, Okla., June 20. (UP)—Tulsa today supplied the 1,500 delegates to the convention of the Optimists International with ideal weather for their bathing beauty revue, but, with the heat in the nineties, dancing, which was on the program, was participated in half-heartedly by even the most optimistic.

Today's session was opened with an address by Harlington Wood of Springfield, Ill., president. Committee meetings followed and a barbecue dinner was given the delegates tonight. Nineteen United States districts and several Canadian divisions are represented.

Mother of 12 Goes To Jail on Whisky Charge

ST. LOUIS, June 20. (UP)—Mrs. Katherine Post, 56, of Altus, Ark., mother of 12 children who was given an 18 months' federal sentence for selling liquor, passed through here today en route to the Alderson, W. Va., industrial house of correction. She was accompanied by U. S. Marshal Cooper Hudspeth of Ft. Smith and his mother as matron.

Mrs. Post said that her husband's truck garden had suffered crop failure and she had sold some of her own "private stock" to help the family budget.

Senate Kills Move For Court Reorganization

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 20. (UP)—The senate today killed the senate resolution submitting to a vote of the people a constitutional amendment consolidating the supreme court and the criminal court of appeals and reorganizing the state judicial system. The vote was 22 to 17 in favor of submitting the amendment one short of the required constitutional majority.

2,000 Cars Are Needed By Wichita Elevators

WICHITA, Kan., June 20. (INS)—More than 2,000 grain cars are expected to be put on Wichita sidings for storage of the 1929 wheat crop, it was estimated by railroad officials here.

The railroad officials are of the opinion that about 40,000 grain cars will be needed for the crop in Kansas and Oklahoma.

Don't let Rheumatism make an invalid of you.

THOSE muscular pains, commonly called rheumatism, are generally due to a run-down condition, with the number of red-blood-cells below the normal count.

S.S.S. aids the system in building up these red-blood-cells and in getting rid of the condition of which the rheumatism is but a symptom. The body becomes strong and disease-resistant, and the rheumatic pains go.

Pains in your muscles and joints make you miserable, less efficient, interfere with your working hours, ruin your sleep. If allowed to continue, as the years pass the danger increases.

But what a change with rich, red-blood-cells in your body—Nature's building material—making the flesh firm—giving strength to the vital organs.

You can't rub rheumatism out. It is deeper than that. It must be knocked out. And the sure way is by helping the fighting blood—the red-blood-cells!

Increase your army of "workers" (red-blood-cells), and those muscle and joint pains, commonly called rheumatism, vanish. S.S.S. has brought this change about for thousands. Why not for you?

"After suffering several years, six bottles of S.S.S. completely relieved me of rheumatism. It also cleared up a skin eruption and gave me a good appetite. I think S.S.S. is a wonderful medicine." R. L. Busic, Southern Railway, Knoxville, Tenn.

"I was very nervous; had hardly any appetite, and suffered with rheumatism. I tried many medicines, but S.S.S. is the one that did me the most good. I am now well, and feel like a new man." William Osborne, 2406 Sloan Street, Flint, Mich.

FALL ON ICE BASIS OF SUIT

$26,000 Sought by Woman In Suit Here

Claiming that she suffered permanent injuries when she fell on the snow and ice in front of the Holt hotel last February, Mrs. Sallie M. Stewart Thursday afternoon filed suit for $26,080.90 damages against the Ford Holt company, incorporated.

Mrs. Stewart alleges in her petition for damages that she was a guest at the hotel at the time of the accident and that she slipped on ice and snow heaped up at the side of a slippery sidewalk during a cold season here last February.

Gov. Ritchie Is Given Loyola College Honor

THE GREATEST RESPONSIBILITY
The Greatest Responsibility in purchasing a motor car is in the new car you purchase, rather than in what you receive for your used car.
An extra two or three years of dependable service will greatly offset a difference of even a two hundred dollar or more appraisal on a used car.
Many Dodge Brothers Cars were registered January first for their sixth and seventh year of service—Consult the records.
