Paul's Just Lucky Doris Born Later

By ALICE BONNER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Paul Revere's ride and others like it might never have happened if someone like Culpeper County, Va., humane agent Doris K. Ireland had been around 200 years ago.

In Culpeper on Saturday, Mrs. Ireland halted the Bicentennial reenactment of a ride similar to Revere's which was under way from Charlotte, N.C., to Philadelphia. She had the county sheriff charge rider Jerry Linker, 22, under an archaic Virginia law with overriding a horse. She had the horse, Sharek, impounded.

The 7-year-old Arabian stallion "had saddle sores, was exhausted and his ribs were showing," Mrs. Ireland said in a telephone interview Sunday.

"I said that horse could not be ridden or have his saddle on until those sores healed," Mrs. Ireland said. "He couldn't even get up on his feet. There was a mare in season in a nearby stall and he couldn't even get up for that," she said.

Mrs. Ireland said she had examined Sharek at a Culpeper farm where Linker bedded him down in one of the nightly stops on the 30-day ride. Linker, after borrowing an Appaloosa horse from a nearby Orange County farm, was once again on his way Sunday night.

Linker, a rodeo rider and horseshoer, left Charlotte on Sharek May 31 to trace the colonial ride of Capt. James Jack, the horseman who carried Mecklenburg County's Declaration of Independence to North Carolina delegates in the Continental Congress in Philadelphia.

Ralph Jarrells, spokesman for the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Bicentennial Commission, sponsors of the ride, said a veterinarian examined Sharek Sunday and found Mrs. Ireland's claims somewhat exaggerated.

The horse had "two small sores, like a scab," that "had not drained or bled," Jarrells said. Nor was Sharek underfed, he added.

Jarrells, who is following Linker's trail in a camper and car with an alternate rider and a 4-H Club horseman, said the sores had been treated with pads and ointments. Also, he said, the group carried its own hay to stabilize Sharek's diet and avoid colic.

Linker voluntarily accepted the warrant charging him with overriding his horse and was freed on his signature under Virginia's uniform traffic summons provision. He lost only one hour from the ride schedule, but has to return for trial in Culpeper July 10, according to Jarrells. The charge is a misdemeanor, carrying a penalty of up to a year in jail or a $1,000 fine.

Mrs. Ireland said she promised "that I would drop the charges if they would have the horse sent home by van." Jarrells said no decision had been reached Sunday night on what to do with Sharek.

The horse was, however, moved from the stable whose owners first alerted Mrs. Ireland to its condition.

Mrs. Ireland, the county official charged with investigating all alleged cruelty cases, said she did not know the rider's name when she examined the horse, so she got the warrant for "John Doe-Capt. Jack."

Suburban San Juan Also Hit

NEW YORK (AP) — A thunderous explosion blasted windows from the Puerto Rican-based Banco de Ponce early today in mid-Manhattan's Rockefeller Center. A short time later, a person claiming to represent the Weather Underground claimed the group had touched off the blast in support of "the Puerto Rican cement workers."

The only injury reported was suffered by an unidentified driver of a bakery truck who was passing through the area at the time. Flying glass cut him on an arm.

The explosive device, which police said was apparently a medium sized bomb, went off at 3:43 a.m. CDT in a revolving door of the bank at 10 Rockefeller Plaza. The bank is on the corner across from the sunken plaza area containing fountains and the gilded statue of Prometheus.

In Puerto Rico, meanwhile, four bomb blasts shook a San Juan suburb today in a terrorist attack against a telephone lines installation company, police said.

The explosions destroyed four panel trucks of the Church and Tower Corp., a firm subcontracted by the struck Puerto Rico telephone authority.

No injuries were reported in today's blasts.

Windows in the area around the New York bank were shattered, littering 49th Street with glass. Windows as high as the sixth floor of the RCA building across from the bank were broken.

"It shook the whole floor" of 30 Rockefeller Plaza, said Ed Kane, a Rockefeller Center worker who was on the second floor of the RCA building, headquarters of the National Broadcasting Co.

A female caller to The Associated Press said the explosion was set in support of Puerto Rican cement workers.

About 450 cement workers are on strike in the city of Ponce on Puerto Rico's southern coast. There have been six incidents of violence, including three bombings, since the strike began Jan. 31 against Ponce Cement, the largest cement producer on the Caribbean island.

3 Israelis Die In Arab Guerrilla Attack

TEL AVIV (AP) — A 23-year-old Israeli housewife died today of wounds received in an Arab guerrilla attack that also took the lives of her husband and brother and wounded her seven-month-old son and her father.

Before she died, the petite brunette told her doctors that her infant son survived only "because I persuaded the terrorists not to shoot him." The baby was wounded by grenade fragments.

Israeli troops killed the four Arab guerrillas who seized the family's farmhouse early Sunday in the village of Kfar Yuval, near the Lebanese border.

The Israeli military command retaliated with air strikes against the village of Kfar Chuba, "a base for terrorist infiltrators" in southern Lebanon, and Israeli and Arab forces dueled across the frontier with rockets and artillery until dawn today.

The Lebanese Defense Ministry said Israeli air strikes and artillery shelling killed one woman and wounded three other persons. WAFA, the Palestinian news agency, said two successive Israeli air raids "covered the entire Arkoub area" of southern Lebanon, an area with a large population of Palestinian guerrillas. It claimed the guerrillas shot down one Israeli Phantom.

The Israeli command said guerrillas in Lebanon fired Katyusha rockets in a rare daylight attack on the Mediterranean resort area near Nahariya, cutting two Israelis with shrapnel. It said the shelling continued today, and the target was the border hamlet of Metulla, three miles from Kfar Yuval. The command reported no casualties and said Israeli artillery returned the fire.

Fight For 'Rights'

A spokesman for the Palestine Liberation Organization said it sponsored the raid on Kfar Yuval "because it is our right to fight for our rights." He added that such raids had the support of "the whole world ... because the U.N. General Assembly has approved the right of the Palestinians to pursue their struggle with all means to regain their usurped rights."

The Israelis said the attack was made by four guerrillas who slipped across the Lebanese frontier. They were spotted by armed civilians in Kfar Yuval as they climbed over a fence to get into the village of immigrants from India. The villagers opened fire, and the terrorists fired rifles and rocket grenades in all directions as they seized the house of Yaacov Mordechai.

Mordechai's wife, her father and a brother barricaded themselves in one room with the woman's seven-month-old son, but another brother died trying to block the terrorists as they blasted through the door.

Mordechai, an intercity bus driver, heard of the attack on the radio and rushed back to the village as Israeli troops were organizing the rescue operation.

A combat veteran and a reservist, the bus driver joined the assault force and was killed in a hail of bullets and exploding hand grenades.

The Israeli armed forces radio said one of the terrorists was a Palestinian, and the others were an Iraqi, a Moroccan and a Turk. It said they belonged to the Arab Liberation Front, which is affiliated with the PLO.

The Israeli Foreign Ministry said the terrorist assault was intended to disrupt "diplomatic efforts ... to revive the political momentum" toward peace. The statement also condemned the governments that voted at the U.N. General Assembly last November to recognize the PLO, saying this encouraged "murder and violence."

The latest diplomatic effort toward peace continued in New York with another meeting Sunday between Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Kissinger said there would have to be "more exchanges between all the parties before we can decide whether a basis for resumption of negotiations exists." He said Rabin's talks with him and President Ford and their recent meeting with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Austria "have at least created a basis from which the problem can be considered again."

Rabin said there were still differences between the Egyptian and Israeli positions. "To what extent they can be breached, I think at the present I can't answer."

Court Strikes Some Minimum Legal Fees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today struck down minimum legal-fee schedules for real estate transactions in an 8 to 0 decision which probably also spells the end of fixed fees for other legal services.

The court ruled that minimum fee schedules established by state or local bar associations violate federal antitrust law whenever the fees affect interstate commerce.

The decision was a victory for a Virginia couple, Lewis H. and Ruth Goldfarb, who challenged the Fairfax County Bar Association's fixed minimum fee for legal work required when they bought a home.

It also was a victory for the Justice Department, which has waged a long-standing battle against fee schedules established by professional associations. The department supported the Goldfarbs in their lawsuit.

In other action, the court:

—Ruled 7 to 2 that states may not constitutionally prohibit the advertising of abortion services. The court said such advertising is protected by the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

—Upheld a robbery and assault conviction againt Jack Roland Murphy, the celebrated Miami, Fla., jewel thief who is the central figure in the motion picture, "Murph the Surf."

—Declined to review a Kentucky family's claim that its property rights were violated when its land was strip mined without the family's consent. The family does not own the mineral rights to the land in question.

Writing for the court in the legal-fees case, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said, "In terms of restraining competition and harming consumers ... the price-fixing activities found here are unusually damaging."

He noted that the Goldfarbs could not buy a home without a title examination and that only a lawyer licensed in Virginia could perform the work, so the Goldfarbs "could not turn to alternative sources for the necessary service."

Virginia lawyers "were practicing under the constraint of the fee schedule," he continued.

Young Rightist Assaults Japanese Prime Minister

TOKYO (AP) — A young rightist assaulted Prime Minister Takeo Miki with his bare fists today, minutes before a national funeral ceremony began for former Prime Minister Eiskaku Sato.

Police said Miki fell after being struck three times in the face by his assailant but got up quickly, told his secretary, "I'm all right, I'm all right," and continued with the funeral, of which he was the chairman.

Police overpowered the attacker and identified him as Hiroyoshi Fudeyasu, 34-year-old member of an ultrarightist party. They said he was carrying a five-inch knife, but quoted him as saying he did not intend to use it against Miki, but to offer it to him to commit suicide.

They said a note to Miki taped to the knife read: "Stop your pro-Communist policy and support for ratification of the treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons, or commit suicide."

Rockefeller Implies Kennedys Knew Of Death Plots

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy and his brother Robert may have known of Central Intelligence Agency plots to kill foreign leaders, Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller suggests.

Rockefeller raised the possibility Sunday as he defended the absence of any details on alleged assassinations in the report prepared by the commission he headed in an investigation of the CIA.

In an appearance on NBC's "Meet the Press," Rockefeller said he had no proof the Kennedy brothers knew of CIA assassination plots. But he said the deaths of the Kennedys and a "real problem of amnesia among those still around" made it impossible for the Rockefeller Commission to reach positive conclusions about any White House involvement in CIA assassination plots.

After saying the evidence was inconclusive, Rockefeller added:

"I think it's fair to say that no major undertakings by CIA were done without either knowledge and-or approval of the White House."

There has been no public evidence linking either John or Robert Kennedy to plots to kill foreign leaders. Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, of the Senate Intelligence Committee said Friday that his panel has developed no evidence to directly link any president with assassination plots or attempts.

In response to Rockefeller's statement, two former aides to Robert Kennedy, Adam Walinsky and Frank Mankiewicz, issued a statement saying:

"The White House and Sen. Church have both stated flatly there is no evidence that either John or Robert Kennedy were involved in any way in assassination attempts. Either Rockefeller has not read his own report or he is deliberately lying."

Evidence developed by the Rockefeller Commission concerning allegations of CIA assassination plots was not contained in its report, but was passed on privately to President Ford. Rockefeller said he expects Ford will share it with the Church investigation of the CIA.

City Gets Tax Rebate

A city sales tax rebate check for $230,896 was in hand at the city finance department today for May collections, Robert Massengale, finance director, announced.

Bob Bullock, state comptroller of public accounts, converted the city sales tax payments to a monthly system in April to get away from the quarterly system which had been in use since the start of the city sales tax. The quarterly system required cities to wait 60 to 90 days for their rebates.

The comptroller's office sent checks worth $28.8 million Friday to more than 800 towns and cities.

The sales tax rebate will cover approximately 15 of the city's monthly expenses on budget figures averaging approximately $1 million per month, Massengale said.

The finance director said the city's yearly budget is more than $12 million and average sales tax rebates will amount to approximately $150,000 per month.

Solon Denied Access To Material

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee reaffirmed today denial of access by Rep. Michael Harrington to secret information on grounds he disclosed classified Central Intelligence Agency operations in Chile.

By a 18-to-13 vote, the committee reaffirmed action it took last Tuesday with most members absent.

Harrington, a Massachusetts Democrat, said the committee was concerned with punishing him instead of dealing with the basic question of whether CIA actions against the late Marxist President Salvador Allende of Chile should have been kept secret.

"The Allende matter should never have been the policy of this government," Harrington said. "Thousands of people were killed."

Meanwhile, the House and Senate are attempting to resolve some personnel problems before turning to legislation this week.

In the Senate, the question is what to do about the disputed Senate election in New Hampshire last Nov. 5 where both Republican Louis C. Wyman and Democrat John A. Durkin claim victory.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said over the weekend that he hoped the Senate would complete its work on the New Hampshire election dispute by June 28 when Congress begins its July 4th recess.

A vote in the Senate is scheduled for late Tuesday afternoon on whether to send the issue back to New Hampshire for another election, a move supported by the Republican minority.

In the House, Reps. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., and Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., say a resolution to abolish the embattled intelligence committee may be introduced when the full House takes up Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi's resignation as committee chairman. Some senior House members want to get rid of the panel because they feel it has been taken over by men who are a threat to U.S. intelligence agencies.

"You've got a problem of what seems to me to be cannibalism," said Bolling. "The cannibals, having eaten the king, become king."

Sen. Robert B. Morgan, D-N.C., a member of the Senate panel probing the CIA, recommended that the House cease its investigation because of the possibility that more secret information would be exposed.

Morgan, referring to what he said was spying by Soviet agents, also asserted that "we know as a fact that they (Soviet agents) are wiretapping the telephones of . . . some senators in Washington now."

Nedzi, pressured by five other Democrats on the House committee, resigned in the wake of criticism that he had known about CIA misdeeds for more than a year but did nothing about them.

Nedzi, a Democrat from Michigan, has contended that the misdeeds were history and that he was concerned with current problems.

House members also hope to wind up action on an energy tax bill which was stripped last week of tough provisions against gas-guzzling automobiles and of proposed gasoline tax hikes.

Mansfield said President Ford's tariff on oil imports, plus a price increase that petroleum exporters are expected to impose in September, could raise domestic gasoline prices to about $1 a gallon, unless "something isn't done by the Congress and the President together.

Commissioners Turn To Study Of Budget

Midland County commissioners, seemingly in good humor over a lack of tax complaints, turned to budget study this morning

Only a handful of taxpayers—three or four—showed up to contest the county's and state's valuation of their real and personal property.

One settlement came in the board's agreement to knock down the value on a westside 70.6-acre tract owned by Clint Hurt from $300 to $200 per acre.

Hurt told the commissioners that he bought the acreage on the western fringes of the city limits for $70 an acre last year. Its handicap is a caliche pit.

"Would you sell it for that (about $5,000)?" queried a commissioner.

"Well," answered Hurt, "I really didn't buy it to sell. I bought it for a yard." Commissioner Durward Wright suggested that the pit be turned into a sanitary landfill. That, in turn, would eventually raise the value of the land.

Tax Assessor-Collector Elmo Linebarger, speaking in terms of $300 per acre, said the land's worth was a tossup.

"If you could use (the land) that would be dirt cheap . . . All you could use them (acres) for would be something that wouldn't be a permanent structure, and, to me, that wouldn't be worth nothing," he said. The land and adjoining land termed as drill sites are valued at around $300 an acre, Linebarger said.

County Judge Barbara Culver suggested the board check the county's assessment of other land that partly has been turned into caliche pits.

Wright, valuating the Hurt tract, said some of the acreage has "almost no value and some of it is half-way decent land." He suggested averaging the value, and arrived at $200 per acre. Last year the county had a $500-per-acre value and that was reduced to $300.

With the re-valuation, Hurt's combined county and state taxes on the tract were cut to $50.61 from $75.94.

Tuesday, the board will listen to any complaints on oil and gas assessments.

Weather Sets Out To Parboil Texans

With summer waiting in the wings to make its formal bow next weekend, hot weather appears to have set in with a vengeance across Texas.

Thermometers climbed above 100 degrees at several points and readings in the 90s were common elsewhere Sunday—and it stayed uncomfortably warm in many areas through the night.

There also were scattered showers and thunderstorms during the night and early morning in parts of North Central Texas and in the Panhandle from around Shamrock and Memphis past Vernon and Wichita Falls. Hail accompanied some of these storms.

Winds gusting up to 35 miles per hour flailed the Panhandle. Light breezes fanned other sections.

Temperatures soared Sunday afternoon to 103 degrees at Del Rio on the Mexican border and 105 at El Paso in far West Texas. Readings early today stayed as high as 87 at El Paso and it was no cooler than 67 at Dalhart in the Panhandle, The Associated Press reported.

The mercury was at 95 and climbing at noon today in the Tall City and weathermen are calling for a near-100-degree high again Tuesday.

The National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal forecast a 20 per cent chance for thunderstorm activity with precipitation tonight and Tuesday.

Weathermen said West Texas is under the influence of a low-pressure system hovering over Colorado and Oklahoma, along with a mass of hot dry air flowing in from Northern Mexico.

The weather station at Air Terminal recorded a high of 93 Sunday with an overnight low of 72. Tonight's low is expected to be in the lower 70s.

Piggly Wiggly Workers Here Not Out On Strike

DALLAS (AP) — A labor union spokesman said today a strike against Piggly Wiggly supermarkets has spread to West Texas, but a company spokesman denied the claim.

Bob Crumby, president of Retail Clerks International Association Local 368, said the strike, which has been in effect at stores here and in McKinney since May 17, now includes 20 stores in West Texas.

John Dickson, vice president of Shop Rite, Piggly Wiggly's parent company, said no employes of West Texas stores are on strike.

Crumby said pickets are present at El Paso and Del Rio stores while workers at Amarillo, Odessa and Midland are involved in a work stoppage.

The Reporter - Telegram checked this morning with Piggly Wiggly stores in Midland and Odessa and discovered the stores are open with no work stoppages reported.

No one was picketing the Del Rio store this morning and picketing elsewhere could not be confirmed.

While no stores have been closed because of the strike, between 500 and 600 employes are affected by the job action, Crumby said.

Union To Open Food Stamp Sales Outlets In Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A Teamsters Union local in Baltimore plans to open and manage four food stamp sales outlets in an effort to help the state reach eligible people not now receiving the stamps.

"This pilot program will be watched very closely and may be copied nationwide by the Teamsters," said Joseph M. Townsley, president of Local 937. "We're trying to blaze the trail.

"People must understand that the food stamp program is not a welfare program," Townsley explained. "The Teamsters wouldn't be so involved if it was."

The Maryland Department of Employment and Social Services has launched a campaign to encourage private businesses to sell food stamps. State figures show 54 per cent of the more than 250,000 Marylanders eligible for the stamps are not receiving them.

Eligibility is based on low income, and the state gives each eligible person an identification card to be shown when stamp purchases are made. Most purchasing centers are now run by the state or in banks, Townsley said.

The first Teamsters center is scheduled to open July 1 and the second Aug. 1. Leases for the others are yet to be negotiated, union officials said.

Townsley said that the union surveyed the food stamp situation here and found that "a lot of people have the wrong idea about recipients. When I looked at those lines, I saw mostly elderly people, who had to travel a long way to the outlet.

"Most of the (state) outlets are open from 8:30 to 2:30 and the few banks that sell them are only open from 10 to noon or 2 o'clock."

Teamsters outlets are to be open until 6 p.m. and will also open on Saturday.

Bill Benton, an assistant state social services secretary, said the move is "incredible — tremendous." He said the hours would prove "particularly important for working people. . . . A lot of the people just coming onto the food stamp rolls are low-income working people, who just can't make ends meet with all the inflation."

Officials said there have been hundreds of initial inquiries from private businesses seeking to become outlets, but only two contracts signed so far. Food stamp officials blame the problem on strict security requirements to open a stamp sales center.

She tried to "reason with him," she told officers. The man told her to get up and go outside with him.

He asked if she had any money and if she was alone in the house, she said, and while talking she grabbed his hand and bit it.

She and the intruder then fell to the bedroom floor, she said, and during the ensuing fight, she told officers, the intruder hit her in the face with his fist.

When she got up, opened the bedroom door and yelled for help, she said, the man ran out of the apartment.

She told officers she then went to a neighboring apartment for help.

The Weather Underground is an offshoot of Students for a Democratic Society, a campus protest group of the 1960s.

Engineer's Body Recovered From Andrews City Lake

ANDREWS — Steven Wayne Porterfield, 21, of Norman, Okla., was found drowned in the city lake here Saturday afternoon after law enforcement units searched for the body for more than 15 hours.

Porterfield, employed for the summer as an engineer for AMOCO Production Co. here, was found about 5:45 p.m. in the small lake surrounded by Lakeside Park. His body was found by members of the Andrews Volunteer Fire Department and by members of the Odessa Police Department scuba diving team. The two units worked alongside members of the Andrews County Sheriff's Department and Andrews police, who began searching for the body around 3 a.m. Saturday.

Porterfield reportedly had gone swimming with his roomate, Jim McReynolds, 21, Carolyn Hibbs, 19, and Judy Schooley, 19. The group started swimming about midnight and attempted to swim to Duck Island about 150 yards from shore.

Officers said Porterfield was with the group when suddenly he turned back toward shore without telling anyone why or complaining of being tired.

Divers were hampered by cold temperatures and murky waters caused by recent rains.

An autopsy was ordered by Jay Williams, Andrews County justice of the peace.

Porterfield, born Dec. 9, 1953, in Longview, had lived in Andrews five weeks. He was a student at the University of Oklahoma.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. W. Evelyn of Norman; his father, Charles E. Porterfield of Kingsville; one sister, Jill Elaine Porterfield and one brother, Barry Philip Porterfield, both of Norman.

Services are pending at Mayes Funeral Home at Norman.

Historic Woodpile No Bonanza Yet

By CHARLES HILLINGER
The Los Angeles Times

MARINA DEL REY, Calif. — What to do with a Bicentennial bonanza — 13 original beams from Philadelphia's Independence Hall — is the dilemma facing two men who own the historic woodpile.

The value of the beams has been estimated as high as $5 million.

Bill Lignante, 49, a Marina del Rey artist, and Frank Corso, 46, a Long Island attorney, bought the beams last July from a Philadelphia history buff who had owned them since 1956.

Lignante isn't divulging what the timbers cost, other than "several thousand dollars." But he's worried.

"We had hoped one or several large corporations would buy the beams from us and use them in a dignified manner during the Bicentennial celebrations," said Lignante.

"But so far there have been no takers."

The two men did sell 2,500 inch-square cedar chips that came with the woodpile. They received $12,500 for the chips, which are to be reduced to slivers and inserted in bicentennial pens.

"That doesn't even come close to what we paid for the whole package," said Lignante. "We're hoping we're not going to get stuck with a whoodpile no one has any interest in."

It took two years to build Independence Hall. The structure was completed in 1735. It was there the Declaration of Independence was announced and the Constitution brought into being.

During the renovation of Independence Hall in 1897-98, 16 of the original beams were replaced. Samuel S. Reeves, superintendent of the structure, retained possession of the old timbers.

In 1912 Reeves sold the beams to John S. McQuade, a builder and member of the Philadelphia City Council, "for the purpose of cutting up and making relics."

But McQuade stored the beams for 12 years and in 1924 sold them to two brothers, Walter and Clarence Deisroth, owners of a paper box company.

The Deisroths reduced one beam to 100,000 slivers and sold them as souvenirs during the Sesquicentennial Exposition of 1926.

In 1956 the Deisroth company went into bankruptcy and that year Henry Gouse, a retired sales engineer and Middle Atlantic tennis champion of the 1940s, bought the woodpile for $2,200 at auction.

Gouse bought the 15 timbers, thousands of chips and 20 gallons of sawdust. The chips and sawdust were byproducts of producing the 100,000 slivers from the 16th beam.

Gouse stored the beams in a barn on his property on the outskirts of Philadelphia. He made gavels out of one of the beams, presenting them to Presidents Eisenhower and Nixon and to Winston Churchill, Charles de Gaulle and other political leaders.

He gave one of the beams to Independence Hall National Historical Park.

Gouse, now 80, and his wife reluctantly sold the woodpile last July to Lignante and Corso. The couple contacted by phone, referred all questions about the sale to their attorney, Thomas Howland.

"Lignante and Corso approached the Gouses and made them an attractive offer," said Howland. "Mr. and Mrs. Gouse accepted with an understanding the beams would not be desecrated.

"The only reason they sold the material is because of the high cost of living and the economic situation. They felt they could no longer afford to keep the timbers."

Spanish Pretender Renews His Claim

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Don Juan de Borbon has renewed his claim to the Spanish throne, and as a result Generalissimo Francisco Franco is expected to come under new pressure to shut him out by retiring in favor of Don Juan's son, Prince Juan Carlos.

Don Juan, the 61-year-old Count of Barcelona, said in a speech Sunday in Portugal that he was not a conspirator "or a competitor of anyone."

But he said Franco's choice of Juan Carlos to succeed the generalissimo as chief of state when he dies or retires would not result in democracy.

"What has officially been arranged for the immediate future, conceived with the aim of guaranteeing continuity of the regime, does not logically serve to achieve the democratic change that is demanded by national interest and for which the Spanish people are unequivocally asking," Don Juan said.

He asked for the support of "those who really have power," meaning the Spanish army.

Franco, who is 82 and in uncertain health, is already under pressure to retire and let Juan Carlos, now 37, become king in accordance with the act of succession the generalissimo laid down nearly six years ago. Opponents of Don Juan were certain to argue now that Franco should permit the changeover while he was still alive and could exert his prestige to make it stick.

Although Don Juan previously raised no public objection to Franco's designation of Juan Carlos as his heir, he never renounced his rights as successor to his father, the late King Alfonso XIII, who abdicated in 1931.

Fewer Leaving

CHICAGO (AP) — Fewer people are leaving the nation's farms and heading for the cities, reports Prairie Farmer, a rural magazine. It says the U.S. farm population has declined only 0.8 per cent from 1970 to 1975. This contrasts sharply with the 4.8 per cent average annual declines in the 1960s.

Civil Air Service Resumes In Saigon

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The Saigon radio today reported the full resumption of civil aviation service at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport.

The broadcast did not say to what cities flights were available. But it said the airport facilities had been repaired, and many aircraft had been put back into operative condition.

From Cambodia, the Phnom Penh radio reported that civilians and Khmer Rouge soldiers "working night and day" had repaired the capital's electric generating plants but the supply of petroleum was still limited.

Most electric plants in Phnom Penh were not damaged during the war, but there was a shortage of spare parts and fuel.

Another broadcast reported the Tonle Sap river north of Phnom Penh had been cleared for shipping. During the last six months of the war the Khmer Rouge forces blocked the river with mines and obstructions to prevent the Phnom Penh government from using the vital waterway.

In Laos, officials of the U.S. Agency for International Development went from Vientiane to several provincial capitals to pay an estimated 1,000 Laotian employes of the agency their final wages. The agency is closing out its operations in Laos by the end of the month.

Thailand's ambassador to Washington, Anand Panyarachun, left Bangkok for Peking today to make arrangements for establishment of diplomatic relations between China and Thailand. Foreign Minister Chatichai Choonhavan is scheduled to go to Peking July 27 to sign the agreement.

Khmer Rouge Planting Crops In Phnom Penh

Agence France-Presse

PEKING — Red Khmer soldiers are engaged in land development in Phnom Penh, planting "corn, bananas and vegetables" on unoccupied land in the city, according to the latest issue of "Cambodian Report."

The publication, printed in Peking, reprints news that has been broadcast in Phnom Penh by the "Voice of Funk (Kampuchea National United Front)" radio.

"Cambodian Report" says nothing about the people of Phnom Penh, who were evacuated in their entirety from the capital in the days following the fall of the old regime on April 17.

However, "Cambodian Report" does state that the revolutionary armed forces in Phnom Penh have since the end of April "begun very actively to do market gardening" in the city, building paddyfield embankments and digging small irrigation canals.

"Cambodian Report" says that the soldiers have also been using suburban land, where "in the old days the traitors fought savagely among themselves to build houses there to rent to foreigners."

Although the Phnom Penh land is not as good as in the country, "Cambodian Report" says, the results are encouraging. The aim of the operation, it adds, is to enable the garrison to feed itself, so that the food it would otherwise have received can be sold to obtain currency.

Oklahoma City Embargoes Herbs Packed In Dallas

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The Oklahoma City-County Health Department has embargoed numerous herbs packed by a Dallas firm after an area youth was hospitalized.

Tommy White, the health department's consumer protection chief, said the probe was begun three weeks ago after a Bethany youth became ill after drinking a cup of tea brewed with jimson weed packaged by White Magic Woman Enterprises of Dallas.

White said the 31 embargoed herbs have been declared toxic and the health department has authorized their removal from shelves of several local stores.

Officials said the herb packages contained no instructions to the preparation or use of the exotic plants.

Herb packages under embargo include hemlock, deadly nightshade, buckeye, elder flowers, henbane, jimson weed, lily of the valley, mistletoe, saffron and wolfsbane.

Other herbs embargoed were areca, arrowroot, asofoetida, bittersweet twigs, betel nuts, blood root, catnip, fleabane, ginger, golden seal, hydrangea, jasmine, lobelia, mandrake, morning glory, nettles, nutmeg, snake root, vervain, wahoo bark and wild cherry bark.

Detente Becomes Living Reality For Burlington, Iowa

By SIMON WINCHESTER
The Manchester Guardian

BURLINGTON, Iowa — For the first time, detente is all set to become a living, visible fact. It does not, however, gain form and substance in Washington, in Moscow, or even in Peking. Instead it assumes its shape here in this forgotten little railroad town that sits on a limestone bluff beside the wide and languid Mississippi River.

To the people of Burlington, detente and the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) have a very special meaning. For it is here in a vast 19,000-acre wooded site, eight miles west of the town center, that one of America's two atom bomb and nuclear warhead factories is located. In 10 days time, thanks at least in part to those negotiators in Geneva, and to those politicians to whom the Cold War is a vile memory, the factory closes down.

"Because of reduced nuclear weapons production requirements," the Atomic Energy Commission said when the closure was publicly forecast two years ago.

All of America's atomic gravity bombs, all of its nuclear missile warheads, and its atomic artillery shells, and its nuclear demolition charges will, from next week on, be made at a single plant only — the so-called Pantex factory in the desert wasteland of the Texas Panhandle, outside the lonely truck-stop town of Amarillo.

For reasons that are a subtle blend of prudence and political patronage, the making of atomic weapons in this country is an enormously complicated process. The final assembly may take place in only two plants — or in one, as from next week — but the preliminaries go on under the traditions of the most stringent secrecy in no fewer than 10 plants.

Briefly, the weapons are designed at three places — the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory in California, the Sandia Corp. in New Mexico and at Los Alamos where Robert Oppenheimer built the first-ever bomb 30 years ago.

After production at other plants, the material comes either here or else goes down to Amarillo, where it is all entrusted to the mercies of the Mason and Hanger Co. — a firm that, in its more peaceful days, drilled the holes under the East River for the New York subway system. Now Mason and Hanger makes bombs, blending plutonium with high explosives and electronics of unbelieveable complexity and cost, paints each of the things bright green and ships them by railroad, armored truck or Piper aircraft to the great atom bomb stores at Manzana Mountain, N.M., to the Illinois nuclear arsenal or to Johnston Island in the Pacific Ocean. From there the weapons go into the missile silos or to the submarines, or to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization stockpiles in Germany, and in other places that are officially unnamed.

Women like 60-year-old Ruth Allely worked on bombs on production Line No. 1 at "the plant" here. (The atom bombs are made on Line 1. The Army maintains 11 parallel lines, making conventional explosive devices like grenades and howitzer shells.)

Mrs. Allely, who worked on the line with her husband Marvin, says she considered herself one of the Mason and Hanger elite. "Those of us who worked on atom bombs had to have special clearance and had to have an excellent work record. They had to trust us. We were doing very sensitive stuff. Even the men who came to clip the lawns outside our line had to have an armed guard each, it was that strict."

Mrs. Allely worked on Line 1 for 22 years and most of all liked working on final assembly. "We worked in pairs, deep underground in thick concrete cells. We were the ones who took the plutonium and put it inside the conventional explosive packets and inside the casings. We tightened up all the screws and then sprayed the whole thing with paint — bright green paint usually, though a few of the warheads I made were white and some were yellow. None of them had messages on them like 'This comes to you with love' or any of that stuff. We did get some electronics sent up from Kansas City with messages for the Russians. But we had to paint them over."

Marvin Allely was impressed with the way the size of atomic weapons has decreased in the 24 years he has been making them. "When I started you couldn't hardly get one of them in here," he said, gesturing around his fair-sized living room. "Now most of them are smaller than this coffee table, and some even as small as this coffee pot. Electronics is the main reason I guess — you get packages smaller than your hand that are worth 60,000 bucks — and boy are you ever careful with those."

The Allelys and most of the other 950 people laid off this year are bitter about what almost all of them regard as a political decision.

Mrs. Allely said: "We are better bomb workers than the Amarillo people — our productivity was higher, we had better equipment and computers. But Texas had John Connally, and he had Nixon, and I guess the two of them got together after SALT and said it was to be Amarillo only. It's crazy — they've got to build millions of dollars worth of new equipment down there for a start. And we were all so busy here. Why they gave us a whole new set of warheads to work on (probably the Mark 12 170-kiloton warheards for the Minuteman Type III) just a few days before we closed.

ROCKEFELLER PANEL OUTLINES EXEMPTIONS—

Domestic Spying Legal In Some Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the Rockefeller Commission's report outlined a number of "plainly unlawful" domestic activities by the CIA, it also described a variety of circumstances in which domestic spying would be legal and proper.

For instance, the 300-page report released last week stated that the CIA's 20-year program of mail surveillance violated laws which forbid the opening of letters.

However, the commission also stated that "mail cover operations (examining and copying of envelopes only) are legal when carried out in compliance with postal regulations on a limited and selective basis involving matters of national security." The eight-member panel headed by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller also suggested domestic mail openings might be permitted in time of war.

The commission's views lack the force of law but instead are findings of fact and recommendations about what the CIA should do in the future.

The commission described other circumstances which, in the commission's view, would allow the CIA to utilize such spy techniques as inifiltration and surveillance in the United States.

Thus, while the report criticized the agency for infiltrating domestic dissident organizations to determine if the groups were planning any activities against CIA installations, it did not issue a blanket condemnation of such activity.

Instead, it said "the agency should not infiltrate a dissident group for security purposes unless there is a clear danger to agency installations, operations or personnel, and investigative coverage of the threat by the FBI and local law enforcement authorities is inadequate."

The report also leaves the agency broad powers to utilize spy techniques against "persons presently or formerly affiliated with the agency, directly or indirectly."

When investigating such persons for possible violation of agency security rules, "the use of physical surveillance is not unlawful unless it reaches the point of harassment," while electronic eavesdropping is permissible if the agency has "the written approval of the attorney general on the basis of a finding that the national security is involved," the report stated.

The commission suggested that the CIA should not undertake surveillance of persons connected with the agency without first obtaining written approval from the CIA director. Electronic eavesdropping would be better left to the FBI, the commission said.

According to the report, the surveillance of newsmen suspected of receiving classified information is improper under any circumstances, as are domestic break-ins, which the commission found 12 instances of.

Another activity which the commission could find no jurisdiction for under any circumstances was the administering of LSD to unsuspecting persons, a program which the agency terminated in 1963.

Engineer To Be Charged In Buffalo Train Wreck

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The engineer of a Canadian passenger train which rammed the rear of Amtrak's Empire State Express in a switching yard here faces arraignment today on assault charges. Thirty-four persons were injured.

A police officer said tests on the engineer showed the presence of alcohol.

The injured, including the engineer, were taken to several area hospitals for treatment Sunday. Only four were admitted and were listed in fair condition.

The injured included eight children, none of whom were admitted, and at least four railway employes, hospital spokesmen said.

Lawrence M. Beebee, 63, of Ancaster, Ont., the engineer of the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo two-car motor express, was charged with second- and third-degree assault, Buffalo police said. He was held in a police lockup overnight.

Police Lt. Frank Angelo said Beebee asked to be given a chemical breath test for alcohol. Angelo said that the test showed the engineer had a .16 per cent alcohol content. A .10 reading is the maximum allowable for the safe operation of an automobile, Angelo said.

The force of the collision threw the front of the TH&B train off the track and derailed four of the six Amtrak cars. The collision occurred shortly after 6 p.m. and the track was cleared and back in service by late Sunday night, a Penn Central spokesman said.

Nation's Weather Relatively Calm After Wild Spree

By The Associated Press

Showers and thunderstorms stretched across the northern parts of the nation today and down the Eastern Coast.

The national weather picture was relatively calm after a weekend of tornado warning, sightings and a few touchdowns.

Tornado sighting totaled eight Sunday, with one each in Florida, Georgia, South Carolina and North Dakota. Four sightings were reported in Ohio, where at Cambridge some mobile homes were damaged and two injuries were reported.

Light showers and thunderstorms were scattered across the northern half of the Rockies. A band of showers and thunderstorms roamed through the Central Plains and into the middle and upper Mississippi River valley and thunderstorm activity persisted along the Atlantic coast, but it was beginning to clear as the storm center moved out to sea.

Rains Sunday soaked areas from South Texas to West Virginia with the heaviest hitting areas from Louisiana to Florida. Winds gusted to 60 miles per hour and rains measuring 1½ inches were common.

Similar conditions struck the central Great Lakes region. Trees and power lines were knocked down near Kalamazoo and Battle Creek, Mich.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 41 at Bozeman, Mont., to 97 at Needles, Calif.

Boy, 4, Drowns In Texas Lake

HURST, Tex. (AP) — Jeremy Dwayne Williams, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Williams, drowned about 1:30 p.m. Sunday when he fell from a boat dock at Cedar Creek Lake near Mabank.

"We had gone to visit his grandmother when Jeremy wandered away after a meal," Mrs. Williams said.

"Jeremy slipped into the water and Joseph, his brother, tried to reach for him and then ran to get an oar, but it was too late. Then he ran back to the trailer."

She said her husband and a neighbor found the boy and worked over him until an ambulance arrived. He was dead on arrival at an Athens hospital.

Couple, Baby Die In Accident

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A young San Antonio couple and their baby died Sunday when their car ran off a curve in East Bexar County and overturned.

The victims were Juan Sanchez, 20; his wife Angelita, 21, and their eight-month-old daughter Stephanie. All three were thrown from the vehicle.

Natural Gas Okay For Automobiles, With One Exception

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Natural gas is a safe, efficient and economical fuel for most vehicles but not for police cars, city officials have concluded after a one-year experiment.

"It just didn't work out," said Police Chief Bobby Punkett. "It cut our power too much."

Otherwise, the natural gas-fueled vehicles are "working fine," says Don Martin, utilities superintendent for this small city 25 miles northwest of Atlanta.

The City of Lawrenceville paid $14,000 for a natural gas compressor to fuel the cars and converted about 20 vehicles at a cost of $250 each. The city's three police cars originally were converted to natural gas, but two recently purchased replacements use gasoline.

Martin said the city pays 80 cents for 1,000 cubic feet of gas, which will do the job of eight to 10 gallons of gasoline. He said natural gas also burns cleaner, reducing maintenance costs and cutting pollution.

Martin estimates the changeover will save the city $20,000 a year in fuel and maintenance expenses. He said he gets three or four inquiries per month about the experiment from government officials as far away as New York.

Head-On Crash Kills 4 Persons, Injures 7 Others

HONDO, Tex. (AP) — A collision one mile east of here in South Texas killed four San Antonio residents and injured seven other persons.

State police reported the head-on crash on U.S. 90 took the lives of Rosita Baladez, 20, one of the drivers, and three of her companions—her father, Frank Baladez, 46; her mother, Margarita Baladez, 42, and her sister Martina Baladez, 15.

Attendants listed two of the injured as in critical condition at a San Antonio hospital. They are Diane Flory, 19, of Hondo, and Irene Baladez.

Three others in the Baladez family and two Hondo women in the second car escaped serious injury.

Officers said the Flory car veered into the wrong lane of the highway for no apparent reason.

Mrs. Ricky Leroy Baker

Cynthia Ann Patton, Baker Wed In Baptist Church

Cynthia Ann Patton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer G. Patton Jr., 3708 W. Louisiana St., and Ricky Leroy Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Baker of Everman, were married at 3 p.m. Sunday in Wilshire Park Baptist Church.

The Rev. John Riggs performed the double ring ceremony. Music was provided by the organist, Debra Tindall, and the soloist, Letha Shelton.

Mrs. Jimmy Hoyt of Everman, cousin of the bride, was the matron of honor. The maid of honor was Teresa Baker of Everman, sister of the bridegroom. Kelli Taylor was the bridesmaid.

Billy Baker of Everman was his brother's best man.

The groomsmen were Blake Patton and Scott Patton, brothers of the bride.

Mr. Patton presented his daughter in marriage. She wore a formal gown in silk sheer enhanced with hand-clipped Chantilly lace. The fitted Empire bodice had a sheer lace yoke edged in crystal pleating with iridescents and pearls.

The ring neckline of the bride's gown was edged with pearls, and the sheer bishop sleeves were trimmed with lace and pearls. The A-line skirt ended in a chapel train. Her mantilla-length veil of illusion was held by a Camelot headpiece trimmed with lace and pearls. She carried a cascade of daisies, yellow roses and gypsophila atop a white Bible.

Alison Reavis was the flower girl for the ceremony. The ring bearer was Sherrod Reavis, and the ushers were Steven Law of Mesquite, cousin of the bride, and Greg Holcomb.

The reception was held in the church's Fellowship Hall. Mrs. Charles McNeese, Sherri Disch, Beck Meyer and Kary Anthony of Midland, Mrs. Joe Bailey of Fort Worth and Paula Dugger of Tulsa, Okla., were in the house party.

Inquirer Wants To Create Feeling Of Garden Room

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. We have recently converted our garage into a dining room that opens off of the kitchen. We are extending the brown quarry tile floor of the kitchen out into the new dining room which also will be a sort of sitting room with a lounge chair, rocking chair and television. There are large windows in the room. I would like to create the feeling of a garden room. How might I do this?

I need a room divider in one area so we don't look at a dirty kitchen while sitting at the dining table.

The kitchen cabinets are light pecan and the walls are now yellow but I would like a change. Appliances are stainless steel. — V.L.

A. I think I'd look for a treillage wallpaper pattern in green, white and beige in which you might do your kitchen and dining room walls. For window treatment in both rooms I would like simple natural bamboo shades that pull up and down (or white matchstick shades). Use lots of white wicker baskets for palms and other plants you might decorate your room with. Use bright green cushions for your dining chairs and bright green placemats and napkins or cloth for special occasions.

For the room divider, I saw recently an idea in a nursery you might borrow.

A 2x4 was attached to the ceiling. From the wood piece were hooks and then lengths of chain (you might paint it white) that hung to the floor. On these chains were hung little plants at different heights, so the effect was one of a curtain of greenery. The plants were tillandsias which are epiphytes (meaning their roots take moisture from the air instead of the soil). Tillandsias are from the bromiliad family, popular in florest shops for the unusual blooms that are produced on often rather spike-like foliage. The tillandsias are good for this kind of thing because they need only moisture, so you could spray them or take them down as necessary to water them. The plants were merely attached to small pieces of fir back with a wire and hung on the chain with a little hook, making them easy to remove.

Q. We have moved into a small apartment and want to add personality to the entry hall. There is only one small, undistinguished ceiling light, so the area is quite dark. The floor is dark brown vinyl simulating wood. Please help me add some personality and light to it without adding items which will deface the walls when we leave and remove them. — W.T.

A. Ask about stripable wallpaper. Many apartment owners have no objection to it because you can strip the paper off when you leave. If it is permissible, I'd choose one with a metalic foil base if you can find one.

This will give you a reflective quality. Then shop for a dramatic light fixture that you can use to replace the existing one during your apartment tenure.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

How Should They Treat Future In-Law?

DEAR ABBY: Our son is divorcing his wife (who is very dear to us) to marry the woman with whom he has been having an open affair for the last six months. This situation has caused irreparable damage to our relationship with him. I'm sure we'll never be on completely good terms again.

What concerns me now is how to treat this new woman. At the moment, I feel extremely bitter toward her, but I know that if I don't eventually give her at least token acceptance, we will alienate our son completely. While I don't want that, I feel that by welcoming this new daughter-in-law into our family, I will in effect be condoning the illicit affair and completely ignoring all the pain and anguish it has caused our present daughter-in-law, her parents and us. To me, this would be hypocritical.

I've talked to our minister, a counselor and family. No one has an answer. Do you?

WITHOUT MY NAME

DEAR WITH: Your choice is clear. If you reject you son's new wife, you lose your son. The obvious alternative is to accept her. What your friends and relatives will think is not as important as maintaining at least a cordial relationship with your son and his new wife, since that is what you want. Understandably, it will be less than loving, but give it time. As the French say, "To understand everything is to forgive everything."

DEAR ABBY: How do you feel about nudist colonies?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: If the good Lord had intended for man to walk around naked, he would have been born that way.

DEAR ABBY: Today in the supermarket I was trying to be friendly to a child, and I said, "My, but you're a nice little girl."

The child became angry and said, "I'm not a GIRL— —I'm a BOY!" Abby, how was I to know? He had long blond hair practically to his shoulders. Now that little girls are wearing trousers, it is terribly confusing.

Only last week I mistook a little girl for a boy, and you should have heard her mother tell me off!

Abby, when mothers dress both boys and girls in boys' clothing, and let the boys' hair grow long like a girl's, how is one to tell the difference?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: It's not easy. But for now, you'd better skip complimenting strange kids until unisex clothing and hairstyles fade from fashion.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

British Couple Tours America

SACREMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Georgia and David Clark of Essex, England, have been touring the United States in a double decker London bus which was converted into a mobile home.

The couple bought the bus in England for $700, shipped it to Chicago and started their tour in June 1974.

They traveled through 21 states before reaching Sacramento. Clark said the bus gets 14 miles to a gallon of diesel fuel.

Mrs. Hyde Named May Jaycee-Ette

Mrs. Roberta Hyde was selected Jaycee-ette of the Month for May during a recent general membership meeting of the group.

Concerning civic duties, it was reported the Jaycee auxiliary is still collecting kitchen wares for the Permian Basin Center for Mental Health and Mental Retardation and can goods for the Teen Challenge Outreach. Also, the civic committee proposed some recommendations to further the Jaycee-ette's involvement in the community. They were a dress fund for needy girls and a baby sitting clinic.

The ways and means committee presented proposals on the starving artist sale planned for September and a downtowner salad luncheon, date of which will be announced later.

Guests attending were Mrs. Carolyn Yakshaw and Mrs. Sandi Ward.

The next meeting of the group will be held at 8 p.m. July 8 in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Co.

Electric Candles Burn 24 Hours

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ever since Charlotte and Robert Hartkoph moved into an 18th-century house in Howard County 14 years ago, they have kept electric candles burning every night in each of the house's 21 windows.

Even after the Hartkophs go to sleep, they leave the candles on the third floor burning.

Hartkoph said it's all a tradition based on a European custom of inns keeping candles in windows to let people know there is a vacancy.

The stone house was built in the mid-18th century and was once an inn. It often boarded state legislators on their way to Annapolis, Hartkoph said.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Try Baking Soda: It's Gym Dandy!

Dear Folks. . . and little girdle wearers:

If you will powder your body before putting on your girdle, it will slip and slide on and over, much easier. . .

Now here is the trick to it all which I learned from bunch of nurses last year. Instead of powder, you can use baking soda. Yep, you read correctly.

Lots of these nurses (and hairdressers who do our hair) dust baking soda under their arms with a powder puff after taking their bath or shower. Did you ever smell an underarm odor from either? Neither have I. . .

Then a year ago I met a physical education teacher. A man yet. He said that his gym smelled because of tennis shoes, etc. in the shower and dressing rooms.

I told him, "Buy a box of plain ol' baking soda and tell all your men to dust it on their sox and put some in their tennies and to rinse their sweaty T-shirts in it when they laundered 'em."

Here is the report:
Dear Heloise:

As a gym teacher for years I cannot thank you enough for recommending plain soda for dusting my boys' shoes (especially the football and basketball players' shoes). I just dumped a teaspoon in each pair of tennis shoes each boy had and WOW! — even the gym doesn't smell like it used to.

Now here's one for you and also for other gym teachers who have the same problem, sweetheart.

I bought 12 boxes and dumped them all in a small plastic wastebasket. I also bought a small feather duster and plumped the feather duster in the wastebasket of soda.

As each boy comes in after showering, I make them pick up this feather duster and "powder" his feet and under his arms.

It works!

I also make them do this before they leave for the field.

So, the top of the morning to you, my dear friend, and may the good Lord bless Heloise for taking the odor out of gyms.

I have passed this along to 23 other gym teachers and all agree that I should write to you with our thanks.

Ralph Donohoe

Thanks for the stars, sir.

And, most of all, thanks for testing it so completely. You are what we need. Bless you. And your friends. . .

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

To utilize my limited kitchen drawer space to a better advantage, when replacing freshly laundered dish towels and dish cloths, I fold them as usual into a flattened square shape.

Then I give them three turns into a rolled shape and place them into the drawer, from front to back of the drawer.

With this method, I can get more into the drawer and they look so much neater when the drawer is opened.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
Dear Heloise:

Many years ago you wrote that "dusted chair rungs" were the sign of a good housekeeper.

Then a few weeks ago you wrote that cleared-off drainboards are the sign of a good housekeeper.

All these years I've been dusting my rungs and feeling so smug, only to learn that people were probably secretly sneering at my cluttered drainboard.

What next, Heloise? Are there any other signs I should know about? Please print them soon.

Reader

Dear Heloise:

With all the pill containers we get today, I found I can use them to put my jewelry in, such as chains, beads, earrings, etc. when we travel.

I find they don't get tangled and are always together so I can easily see them. As the lids fit tightly, the jewelry cannot fall out.

When I am home I keep them in a drawer, still using the bottles.

British Earl's Wife Testifies He Tried To Strangle Her

LONDON (AP)—Lady Veronica Lucan, wife of the missing British earl who is sought in the murder of the family nurse, said for the first time today he had tried to strangle her on the night of the murder.

She told an inquest at London's Westminster Coroner's Curt: "He thrust two gloved fingers down my throat and we started to fight. During the course of it he attempted to strangle me from in front."

The inquest was hearing evidence on the death of the Lucan's family nurse, Sandra Rivett, 29, who was beaten to death in the Belgravia home of the Countess of Lucan last Nov. 7. Lady Lucan, 37, was also badly injured by the nurse's assailant that day.

Lady Lucan told the Daily Express, "I shall simply tell the court what happened, and if asked I shall reveal the name of the man who attacked me — the man who sat on the stairs afterwards, cried on my shoulder and told me he had killed Sandra."

The countess said she waited until the man calmed down and then ran to a nearby pub for help, streaming blood and crying "murder." Miss Rivett's bludgeoned body later was found wrapped in a canvas sack in the basement of the three-story house.

Some detectives have theorized that the murderer wanted to kill the countess and got the governess by mistake.

The 40-year-old earl vanished a few hours after the killing. Scotland Yard, after interviewing the countess, issued a warrant for his arrest for murder and for the attack on his wife. He has never been traced despite reports that he was seen in France, Australia, South Africa and Latin America.

Most Scotland Yard men say they believe Lord Lucan committed suicide in some remote part of Britain. But some senior investigators think he is still alive and being hidden by friends, here or overseas.

Lord Lucan is a descendant of the man who gave the order for the charge of the Light Brigade in the Crimean War. British newspapers say he is the first peer in more than two centuries to be officially wanted for murder.

"Remember, this is more than a conventional inquest," one senior police officer told newsmen. "It is virtually a murder trial without a defendant."

However, like any other person named in the verdict of a coroner's jury, Lord Lucan could not be sentenced until he was arrested, tried and found guilty by a criminal court. In Britain, peers can only be tried by a jury of their peers, meaning the House of Lords.

Nigerian City's Street Lights Out

Agence France-Presse

LAGOS — Nigeria's largest town, Ibadan, is without street lights following the city council's failure to pay its bills.

A spokesman for the National Electric Power Authority said that the authority had cut off supplies for public lighting to force Ibadan city council to pay an outstanding debt of 30,000 naira (about $50,000).

City council officials have refused to comment on the blackout but NEPA has pledged to resume supplies once the bill is cleared.

21 Persons Die In Austria's Worst Bus Accident

VILLACH, Austria (AP) — Authorities blame a brake failure for a tour bus accident Sunday in which 21 persons were killed and 23 injured. It was the worst bus wreck in Austrian history.

Police said smoke was seen coming from the brakes as the bus started down 7,106-foot Mt. Dobratsch. One survivor said bus driver Josef Ramsbacher yelled "Jump off — the brakes are failing!" before the bus hurtled over an embankment and tumbled 120 feet into a rocky ravine.

The passengers were old-age pensioners from Carinthia province. Ramsbacher, father of four, was among the dead.

The roof of the bus was torn off and many of the passengers were killed when they were thrown out of the vehicle. Several survivors pinned beneath the wreckage were freed only after a crane was brought in to pull the debris off them.

Prankster Removes Room Numbers

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Someone removed the room number signs from about 70 rooms in the Ritz International Hotel, leaving other guests guessing at their rooms as they fumbled down halls trying to match key to door.

The management of the downtown hotel said about three-quarters of the rooms were left without number signs early Sunday. The numbers were found in room 612.

Paper signs were stapled on the doors until the proper signs could be re-attached, the management said.

Florida Pastor Elected Head Of Presbyterian Church-U.S.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Dr. Paul M. Edris, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Daytona Beach, Fla., was elected moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. Sunday at the denomination's 115th General Assembly.

Edris, 66, who retires from his pastorate July 1, defeated Dr. Robert F. Jones, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Fort Worth, Tex., 260-108. He succeeds Dr. Lawrence W. Bottoms of Decatur, Georgia.

Edris, a native of Oskaloosa, Iowa, has been pastor at the Daytona Beach church for about 35 years. He served congregations in Kentucky prior to that.

He is a graduate of Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary and has served as moderator of both St. John's Presbytery in Florida and the Florida Presbyterian Synod. Edris also is a member of the Board of Trustees of Eckerd College in St. Petersburg, Fla.

The election of a new moderator was the principal item of business on Sunday's agenda. The weeklong session opened Saturday night. Various committee meetings were being held today.

About 1,000 persons, including 410 commissioners (voting delegates), are attending the assembly, which represents nearly one million Presbyterians in 16 Southern and border states.

Commissioners were told during the opening business session that a controversial merger plan for uniting the nation's two largest Presbyterian groups was being delayed temporarily.

The plan would unite The Presbyterian Church in the U.S., the Southern branch, and The United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., the Northern branch. The two bodies separated 114 years ago during the Civil War.

Leaders of both branches said Saturday night that they expect the two churches to vote on a merger within the next five years.

"We hope to have a draft ready next year for study by both general assemblies," Robert C. Lamar and J. Randolph Taylor, cochairmen of a 36-member Joint Committee, said in a joint statement.

Lamar, who was moderator of the Northern branch last year, said most Northern churches favor the merger. Taylor said he is hopeful for a favorable vote by the Southern churches within two to four years.

Lamar said, "The only hesitation comes from UP (United Presbyterian) members in the South, who are mostly black. They're afraid they will be swallowed up by the larger PCUS membership in the South."

Two Persons Die In Highway Crash

CARTHAGE, Tex. (AP) — A two-vehicle crash late Sunday night killed Benjamin R. Hernandez, 22, of Houston, who was stationed at Barksdale Air Force Base in Louisiana, and Debra Diane Clark, 23, of Bossier City, La.

Officers said a car driven by Hernandez swerved across U.S. 79 and sideswiped a heavy truck 6 miles northeast of here in East Texas. The truck driver, John Englebert of San Antonio, escaped injury.

Special classes for teen-age girls who want to learn the technique of appliqueing blue denim shirts and blouses will be offered at Casa de Amigos' "Casa de Ninos," 906 N. Dallas St., each Wednesday at 2 p.m. In addition, Casa de Ninos will be open between 2 and 4:30 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays for supervised recreational activities for children 6 to 12 years of age.

Assisting Mrs. Ingram and the staff of volunteers at Casa de Amigos in the summer youth program will be three Midland young people working in the National Youth Corps program, a program funded by the federal government which employs teenagers from disadvantaged families. Those who will be filling a variety of jobs in Casa de Amigos' summer outreach are Raymond Reyes, Rosalinda Reyes and Joaquin Rubio. Raymond Reyes has worked with Casa de Amigos the last two years as as a volunteer in the tutorial program for youngsters, and also worked in the service center's youth program last summer. Sheinwold On Bridge

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Indirect Method Often Pays Off

Ask a man how much money he has in his pocket, and he'll probably give you a rude answer. But you might well find out by some indirect way, such as asking to compare serial numbers on his paper money and dates on his coins. This kind of devious approach is necessary on some bridge hands.

Opening lead — ◇ K

In today's hand South wants to know who has the ace of hearts. But if he asks the direct question, nobody will tell him.

West leads the king of diamonds and continues with the ace, and South ruffs. A naive declarer would draw trumps and lead a heart toward dummy.

West would play a low heart, giving South his chance to guess. If West has the ace, declarer should play dummy's king of hearts; but if East has the ace, South's only chance is to play dummy's jack of hearts.

Our naive declarer will not always guess right.

Sidelong Approach

The way to locate the ace of hearts comes from playing the clubs.

West clearly has strong diamonds but needs a side ace to justify his vulnerable opening bid. You don't know which side ace he has.

At the third trick lead a trump to dummy and return a club. East plays low, and you win with the king. Lead another trump to dummy and return another club. This time East must put up the ace of clubs.

Since West doesn't have the ace of clubs he must have the ace of hearts. And this information tells you how to make your contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S- 4 H- Q 10 6 5 3 D- 10 4 2 C- A J 7 4. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts. This jump promises a side singleton or void, about five trumps and not more than 9 points in high cards. A good hand, but more for offense than defense.

Ford Celebrates Father's Day By Swimming

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — For President Ford, Father's Day was a chance to indulge in one of his favorite sports, swimming.

Spending Sunday at this presidential retreat, Ford brought with him briefing papers for a White House conference Monday with West German Chancellor Walter Scheel. He also found time for a before-dinner swim, watching a movie with his wife Betty, and another dip before bedtime.

The First Lady's Father's Day gift to him: a pair of red plaid swim trunks and matching shirt.

Their son Jack, who recently graduated from college, was the only other family member here.

Stock Market Edges Up In Quiet Trading Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market edged ahead in quiet trading today, extending Friday's mild technical upswing.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 2.19 at 826.66, with gainers in front of losers by about a 3-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts noted that the light volume of trading suggested no significant force behind the gains. "Many investors are waiting until they can get a better fix on the economy," observed Newton D. Zinder at E. F. Hutton & Co.

Kerr-McGee gained a point to 90¾. The company reported an offshore Louisiana gas discovery and an oil find in North Dakota.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .01 at 89.42.

International oil issues strengthened with a boost from talk that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries would be willing to bargain on price increases it has said it will post on Oct. 1.

Gulf Oil, the most active issue on the Big Board, picked up ¼ to 22¾; Exxon was up ½ at 91; Royal Dutch was up ⅜ at 37, and Texaco added ⅛ to 26⅛, all in active trading.

Abbott Laboratories, which announced a 2-for-1 stock split and indicated cash payouts would be raised for the new shares, was up ¾ at 73.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks gained .14 to 48.33.

Newpark Resources led the active list on the Amex, up ⅜ at 4¼.

Cotton

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 were higher by as much as $1.65 a bale in midday dealings today. Buying attributed to traders who had previously sold short firmed futures prices after an easier opening, brokers said. There were no significant weather developments or other fresh influences on the market, the sources added.

The average price for strict low middling 1 1-16-inch spot cotton declined 15 points to 41.90 cents a pound Friday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Midday prices were 50 cents to $1.65 a bale higher than the previous close. July 44.70, Oct. 46.10, and Dec. 46.90.

President To Sign Summer Jobs Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Summer jobs for about 840,400 youths from economically disadvantaged families will be provided under a bill awaiting President Ford's signature.

Last month, the Labor Department estimated that 2.7 million youngsters will be looking for summer jobs this year.

Ford was to sign the measure later today.

Midland Man Held In Parking Lot Stabbing Incident

Johnny Lee Cook Jr., 18, of 206-B Circle Drive, was in Midland County jail today in lieu of $5,000 bond after being arrested early Sunday in connection with a stabbing incident at Dellwood Plaza, Midkiff and Illinois streets.

He was charged with aggravated assault before Justice of the Peace Robert Pine, who set bond.

Cook is charged in the stabbing of Robert Doak Scott, 20, of 2320 Fannin St., about 1:45 a.m. Sunday. Scott was treated at Midland Memorial Hospital for a superficial leg wound and was released.

Scott told officers he and several friends had been standing around their car in the north parking lot of the shopping center when they were approached by a man who asked them which one of them had thrown a bottle at him. He said he and his friends told him that no one had thrown a bottle at him.

Scott told officers a fight between he and his friends and the other man then started in which Scott was cut.

Officers said one of the wounded man's friends gave them a pocket knife which the friend said belonged to the assailant.

Man Says He Was Run Over By Truck

Vincente Ramirez Villafranco Jr., 18, of 1705 S. Mineola St., was treated for pains in the lower part of his legs at Midland Memorial Hospital and released Saturday night after he told police he was run over by a pickup.

He told police he was standing in a parking lot in the 400 block of East Scharbauer Street about 10 p.m. when a truck drove into the parking lot and drove toward him and Augustine Ramirez, of 1705 S. Marshall St.

Villafranco said the truck hit him and drove away without stopping.

Ramirez told officers he jumped into the bed of the pickup as it drove away and tried to get to the driver. He said he later jumped out of the vehicle while it was still moving.

Mobutu Death Plot Uncovered

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — A plot by Zaireans and black Americans to assassinate President Mobutu Sese Seko has been uncovered and all conspirators arrested, the semi-official newspaper Elima reported today.

The newspaper did not say when or where the assassination was to take place but it confirmed persistent rumors that several generals were among the plotters and had been arrested.

It said the Americans arrested were armed with high-power rifles equipped with telescopic sights "for the liquidation of President Mobutu and all his collaborators."

The government refused to confirm or deny the report. Mobutu has been in power for nearly 10 years.

Haley Library Groundbreaking Ceremony Held Here Sunday

A ground-breaking ceremony held Sunday afternoon signaled the start of construction on a building to house the Nita Stewart Haley Memorial Library here.

The ceremony was held at the construction site in Haley Park, which was donated to the City of Midland by John A. Haley and Julia Evetts Haley on Feb. 11, 1932.

They were the parents of J. Evetts Haley, a Midland native, now of Canyon, who awarded the valuable library to Midland. He is the husband of the late Nita Stewart Haley.

The library building is being erected adjacent to the Marian Blakemore Memorial Planetarium, which is a part of the Museum of the Southwest complex.

Joe Mabee of Midland, chairman of the library's board of trustees, presided at the ground-breaking ceremony. The invocation was voiced by William L. Kerr, Midland attorney.

Brief remarks were made by W. J. "Bill" Mewhorter, president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce; Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr., and John Thomas, a member of the Midland County Commissioners Court.

Mrs. H. N. Phillips, representing the Midland County Bicentennial Commission, presented a framed certificate to J. Evetts Haley, certifying the Nita Stewart Haley Memorial Library as an official Bicentennial project.

Haley, in responding to the remarks, expressed appreciation to Joe Mabee, Guy Mabee, the Mabee Foundation, Angelo and others for their cooperation and assistance in relocating the library in Midland and for making the new building possible.

He said the library is the finest and most complete anywhere on the West Texas ranch and cow country and the West Texas cowboy.

"Out of this particular area came the finest cowboys of all times," Haley said, "and it is fitting that the Nita Stewart Haley Memorial Library should be located in the headquarters city of Midland.

"The library is an institution of research without peer on cowboys and the cow country of this vast region."

Angelo, in his remarks, praised Haley for his work, interest and tremendous effort in this and other matters. He termed Haley "a great West Texan and a great American—one of the greatest."

The library is a non-profit educational foundation. Its trustees, in addition to Joe Mabee, include Miles Hart of Glen Rose, J. Evetts Haley Jr. of Sallisaw, Okla., Tom Linebery of Midland, and Robert Carr Vincent of Boise City, Okla. Sue Stevens of Denver City and Don L. Bradshaw of Midland are advisory trustees.

Mist From Sulphuric Acid May Be Problem On Coast

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A sulfuric acid mist may endanger health and property along the Texas Gulf Coast when industries change fuels, Texas Air Control Board (TACB) officials warn.

"We are looking at a pretty bad situation all up and down the coast because of sulfur dioxide," said Tom Palmer, area supervisor of the TACB. "I need to emphasize that this is in the future. We don't have a sulfur dioxide problem right now."

Sulfur dioxide gas would result from industries burning oil instead of natural gas for fuel, he said. The gas mixes with water vapor and oxygen in the atmosphere to form sulfuric acid.

TACB is especially concerned about Houston, Beaumont and Corpus Christi because of their heavy concentration of industry, Palmer said.

Predictions of these future conditions come from a computer based on source concentration, weather information and other factors, he said. The projection is being verified in Austin.

Sulfuric acid irritates eyes, throat, lungs, and causes chest constriction at high levels, said Dr. W. R. Metzger, city-county health director.

The TACB expects an increase of sulfur dioxide along the Texas Coast in the next 10 years because of conversions to fuel oil from cleaner natural gas. The cleanest fuel oil has several times more sulfur content than gas, Palmer said.

Conversions will speed up if the Texas Railroad Commission (TRC) adopts a proposal requiring elimination of natural gas as a boiler fuel, said Bill Fowler of the TRC. The commission is holding hearings to inform companies that Texas has 10 years of natural gas left, so they must investigate other fuel possibilities.

The air control board has requested the commission to evaluate availability of low-sulfur fuel oils, and to investigate and promote technology to desulfurize fuel oils before they are burned.

Metzger said his department has never measured more than a trace of sulfuric acid in the area. Amounts of more than six parts per million begin to irritate human tissue.

Industrial growth along the coastal area is now a problem because of concern about sulfur dioxide pollution, Palmer said.

"When you've reached the limit, what do you do about the next guy who wants to convert to fuel oil?" he asked. "Do we refuse him a permit?" TACB grants permits allowing companies to convert to fuel oil.

A TACB study shows if all companies convert to fuel oil along the Texas Coast, sulfur dioxide would increase 1,000 per cent by the year 2000.

Palmer said another problem is, despite use of the best air pollution control devices available, processing of high-sulfur sour crude oil increases sulfur dioxide levels. Three refineries in Corpus Christi process, or will soon process, the oil.

Plants will have to install gas scrubbing devices to remove sulfur in their stacks, Metzger said. Sulfuric acid produced this way could be sold for use in some mining operations.

Permian Basin OIL & GAS LOG

miles southeast of Devonian gas production in the Howe field of Ward County, flowed gas through the separator at the daily rate of 2 million cubic feet, plus 46 barrels of distillate and 27 barrels of load water, in 24 hours, from the Devonian.

Flow was through perforations at 11,267-11,503 feet. Testing continued.

Scheduled as a 16,500-foot prospector, it was drilled to 14,918 feet, and has a 5-inch liner set at an unreported depth.

During drilling operations, it recovered 60 feet of free oil and 510 feet of drilling fluid on a drillstem test from 12,775-12,960 feet, in an unidentified formation. It has been plugged back to 12,170 feet.

Location is 9,200 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of section 42, block 8, H&GN survey, 11 miles northeast of Coyanosa, surrounded by production in the Payton, West area.

Wildcats Staked In Basin Sectors

Wildcat locations have been scheduled in Gaines and Lamb counties.

Cities Service Oil Co. will drill a 12,600-foot prospector in Gaines, 21 miles southeast of Seminole. It is No. 1-A Schumacher.

Drillsite is 660 feet from north and east lines of labor 7, league 298, Reagan CSL survey, ½ mile north of a 12,766-foot failure and 1¾ miles northeast of Devonian production in the Glasco field.

Lamb Test

Texaco Inc. plans to drill No. 1 L. S. Nelms Estate, a 3,965-foot try in Lamb, on the south side of the Littlefield townsite.

Drillsite is 467 feet from north and east lines of labor 3, league 673, State Capitol Lands survey, 1⅛ mile northeast of a 4,134-foot failure.

Well In Runnels To Be Reentered

Chaparral Energy Corp., Corpus Christi, will reenter and clean out to 4,450 feet at No. 2-A J. D. Crockett, former Palo Pinto producer, for recompletion try as a second Goen well and ⅜-mile northeast extension to that pay in the Norton, West field of Runnels County.

It is 1,033 feet from south and 1,300 feet from east lines of lot 7, Thomas M. Fowler survey 440, 10 miles southwest of Winters.

The Goen opener, Alsabrook and Edwards Oil Co. No. 1 Dolph Richards was completed April 7, for 96 barrels of 44-gravity oil daily, through a 10-64-inch choke and perforations at 4,326-4,327 feet.

Wolfson Will Dig Offset In Scurry

Wolfson Oil Co., Midland, will drill No. 1 Shannon Estate as a ⅜-mile north offset to the current lone upper Strawn producer in the Drilexco field of Scurry County, three miles southeast of Fluvanna.

It is slated to 7,800 feet, and spots 1,750 feet from south and 1,787 feet from west lines of section 403, block 97, H&TC survey.

High Court To Review Gas Cutoff Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to review a decision which the Federal Power Commission said would seriously hamper efforts to alleviate the natural gas shortage.

The court will consider a ruling of the U.S. court of appeals in Washington that the commission may not give natural-gas producers built-in authority to shut off the gas supply of interstate pipelines when their contracts expire.

The procedure was challenged by 21 members of Congress who argued it was a back-door approach to the administration's goal of deregulation of natural gas supplies at the wellhead, which Congress has refused to approve.

Federal law requires a natural gas producer to obtain approval from the Federal Power Commission before discontinuing interstate sales.

The court of appeals said this approval cannot be given in advance, as contemplated by the new procedure.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The Albuquerque Opera Theatre has programs to interest youngsters in live opera.

Coastal States Says It Would Be Unable To Pay Judgment

BRYAN, Tex. (AP) — Coastal States Gas Producing Co. says it would be difficult, if not impossible, to borrow enough money to pay a multimillion dollar judgment against it.

The Lower Colorado River Authority is seeking a $24.5 million judgment, claiming breach of contract, in a state court trial here.

Testimony resumed today after a four-day recess.

Judge W. C. Davis granted Coastal States a long recess so it could contact new witnesses to bolster its claim that Coastal States Gas Corp., the parent company of Coastal States Gas Producing Co., could not fund any judgment against its subsidiary.

John A. Redding, vice president of the mineral resources of the Continental Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago, Ill., has testified that if Coastal States Gas Producing Co. has to pay the $24.5 million in damages claimed by LCRA, plus $1.4 billion in future claims, he doubts the company "could be given away."

"An oil well or a pipeline is not worth more than its weight in scrap metal if it cannot produce," Redding said.

Redding said Coastal States Gas Producing Co. maintained an $80 million line of credit with a group of commercial banks, including his own, until 1973 when the credit balance was paid by Coastal States Gas Corp.

He said there are currently restrictions against further borrowing by Coastal States Gas Producing Co.

LCRA maintains it should be paying for natural gas at a price agreed upon in a 1962 contract with Coastal States. Coastal States raised the price of gas to its customers when it said it costs increased.

WASHINGTON OIL—

Do-Nothing Policy Likely To Continue

By CLYDE LA MOTTE

WASHINGTON — It is becoming increasingly apparent that this nation is likely to continue with virtually a do-nothing energy policy.

That became more and more evident last week as the House of Representatives argued at great length over an energy bill proposed by the Ways and Means Committee. The net effect, when the shouting died down, was no effective program at all.

The action — or lack of action — by the House was not surprising because all signs had been pointing in that direction for some time. But last week's debate further underscored congressional unwillingness to take the necessary steps to move the nation toward energy self-sufficiency.

It might seem elementary that the problem can be met either by reducing consumption, increasing production, or a combination of both. The House hassle over the energy bill wound up in a stalemate with no real progress on any of the three possible approaches.

For example, the Ways and Means Committee had countered President Ford's import levy on crude oil with a proposed boost in the federal gasoline tax that eventually could have risen to 23 cents.

When it came down to voting, however, the House quickly backed away from the big tax and finally turned down even an initial increase of 3 cents a gallon.

Similarly, to counter the President's proposed decontrol of the price of "old" domestic crude oil, the committee had proposed a restriction on imports. But the House made sure no one would feel any supply pinch by increasing the amount of the quotas as well as authorizing the President to increase them even more if the occasion required.

That is, the House didn't want to run the risk of annoying the voters by increasing prices and it didn't want to cut down on anyone's supply by opposing tough quotas.

Consequently, the House accomplished nothing to increase the domestic supply of energy and nothing to force any substantial reduction in use.

The House will soon get another crack at the problem when it acts on legislation proposed by the House Commerce Committee. Among other things, that committee has proposed a four-year phaseout of "old" crude oil price controls.

If the mood of the House continues along the line demonstrated last week, decontrol will be voted down, too, because this would add to consumer energy costs.

The situation is no brighter on the Senate side. In fact, there has been less time and effort spent by the Senate on drafting specific proposals than was done by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Furthermore, the Senate has shown no more stomach for a hard-nosed energy approach than the House has done.

However, Congress isn't the only place where varying views lead to little positive action.

At last week's meeting of state governors there was little meeting of minds as to a specific course of action. Rather, a majority tended to shy away from doing much of anything at this time, particularly if price or supply would affected.

The same is true of the bevy of candidates seeking the Democratic presidential nomination.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D.-Wash.) reiterated at a press conference in Washington, D.C., last week that he opposes President Ford's energy plan, claiming it would cost somewhere around $35 billion in higher consumer energy costs. He talked hopefully of the prospect of greater production from the U.S. offshore areas and from Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 4 in Alaska.

Another senator with his eye on 1976, Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen (D.-Tex.) stressed at another meeting with the press the importance of more research and development to increase the supply of supplemental fuels. In response to a question, he did say he favors decontrol of "old" crude oil prices, provided this is accompanied by a windfall profits tax and plowback provision. He also favors decontrol of the price of "new" natural gas.

In defense of members of congress, state governors and others, it should be noted that politicians react to public demand. Therefore, inaction on the energy front actually stems from a lack of such demand from a wide enough segment of the public.

It may be that much of the public in unaware of the size of the problems involved or else they are confused by the conflict of statements regarding the energy situation.

Whatever the cause or causes, there is no real doubt that the nation's energy supply future is decidedly uncertain and that unless something is done, the day will come when the nation will pay for the present lack of action.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

"Thy Word is Truth" (John 17:17)

by

Bryan Bost

If you have never read Revelation 21, you ought to read it. This chapter is such a beautiful and impressive picture of what being with God is like. Though pictured in symbolic language like the rest of the book, the message is clear: a wonderful existence awaits the person who serves the Lord.

Readily noticeable are the peace and security, the freedom from pain and tears, the glory of God that makes other sources of light unnecessary, and the almost indescribable beauty of that situation. Human language is completely taxed to describe the glories that await the child of God.

Who receives these blessings? The one who is faithful to Jesus Christ, who lives by faith and obedience. As verse 7 says, "He who conquers shall have this heritage, and I will be his God and he shall be my son."

Barrow, Alaska: Polar Bears Roam In Summery 10-Degree Weather

By DAVID LAMB
The Los Angeles Times

BARROW, Alaska—The world ends here.

From Barrow, Alaska's ninth largest city (pop. 2,100) and the northernmost point on the North American continent, there are no roads leading anywhere.

The city has no sidewalks or paved streets, no water or sewer system, no high school or movie theater. Barrow is supplied primarily by a cargo ship, the North Star, which calls once a year, and is linked to the outside world only by a daily commercial jet to Fairbanks, 502 miles away.

Down Kiogak Street, where misguided polar bears wander from time to time, the snow is driven in blinding gusts by the fierce Arctic wind and all the squinting eyes of the townspeople are hidden behind the parka hoods of wolf fur. Ribbons of seal meat sway on drying poles outside the shanty town homes and caribou carcasses are stored in nature's deep freeze atop tin roofs.

"I've traveled everywhere, but no matter how lowly a place may be, if it's your home, something always brings you back," said storekeeper Tom Brower, whose father, a seaman from Brooklyn, became Barrow's first white settler in 1886.

Home for Brower and the other residents — most of them Eskimos — is an unsightly cluster of wooden shacks and small cottages on the bone-chilling shores of the Artic Ocean. Even in these spring days of the midnight sun — the sun rose here May 17 at 1:07 a.m. and will not set again until 11:51 p.m. Aug. 2 — the best the mercury could manage the other afternoon was a balmy 10 degrees.

The winds howl across the frozen tundra — which is eternally frozen 18 inches below the surface — and two miles out at sea, the whale-hunting Eskimos bounce like corks in their sleds — sleds that now are pulled by snowmobiles instead of huskies.

Their catches provide one of the gourmet delicacies, in a manner of speaking, at the 40-room, pre-fab Top-of-the-World hotel, which also offers reindeer and caribou steaks on its menu. The $1.6 million hotel, only seven months old, has been the scene of so many brawls that the bar has been padlocked, most of the ground-floor windows and doors have been kicked out at least once and an assessor recently said the structure shows the wear of a five-year-old building.

The town's rough-and-ready character is reflected also in the hotel staff's manners.

"Last call in five minutes," the teen-age cook, Wally, thundered across the dining room the other evening, "and when I give it 'I don't want none of this bull — of people wantin' food at 8 o'clock 'cause they ain't gettin' nothin.' "

In addition to the hotel — whose rooms have running water two hours a day, hauled from a lake four miles away — Barrow has three general stores, a gas station, a bank, a 12-bed hospital and a four-man police department. Barrow employs nearly as many people to run the liquor store (three) as it does to administer the city (four).

About 4,000 tourists visit Barrow, 376 miles north of the Arctic Circle, each summer, a time when the recycled water in the hotel's toilets and the garbage that has accumulated in the melting snow blanket the town with a ripe odor few people have ever had the opportunity of smelling. Most leave with lingering memories of both the fragrances and the cost of living.

The hotel charged $35 a night for a single room last month.

Gaylord Stranger In Strange Land

By The Associated Press

Gaylord Perry was a stranger in a strange land. So was Kerry Dineen. But while young Dineen looked and felt right at home, ol' Gaylord found himself in hostile territory.

Sunday night was Gaylord Night in Texas, Perry's pitching debut with the Rangers. He was facing his former Cleveland teammates in his first start since being dealt away last Friday. And he found himself surrounded by Indians.

Before the 27,171 fans were settled into their seats, the game was all but over. Three straight hits in the first inning, the final one Boog Powell's two-run double, started Cleveland on its way to a 5-1 victory.

Besides Dineen, the Yanks' other outfielders were All-Star catcher Thurman Munson in left field and third-string catcher Rick Dempsey in right. All three regulars—Roy White, Elliott Maddox and Bobby Bonds—are nursing injuries.

So Dineen ranged far afield to haul down drives that others might have usually caught. It fact, he seemed to be swiping them from their rightful fielders.

Red Sox 8, Royals 7

Tim Blackwell hit what was probably one of the shortest two-run singles in history to cap a four-run eighth inning that beat the Royals and kept the Red Sox a game ahead of the Yanks in the AL East.

Blackwell tapped a Steve Mingori pitch barely 10 feet in front of the plate. Rico Petrocelli, who had singled home the first run in the frame, scored from third. And with the plate unguarded, Dwight Evans, who had singled in the second run of the inning, scored from second.

Angels 8-2, Brewers 7-4

Gorman Thomas hit two homers for the Brewers. The first only prolonged Milwaukee's agony, a two-out shot in the ninth inning that sent the opening game into extra innings. The second one was a two-run shot in the fourth inning that wound up as the deciding margin against California.

Lee Stanton drove in five runs, four with a bases-loaded homer, then Dave Chalk's tie-breaking single triggered a two-run 11th inning that won the first game for the Angels.

Reger Captures Tennis Victory

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — Carol Reger of Midland College polished off Debra Mapes of Alma College, 6-2, 6-2, in the opening round of the Women's National Intercollegiate Tennis Championship Sunday in a match that was played indoors due to heavy rains.

Vicki Lancaster of MC drew a first round bye. Miss Lancaster is seeded No. 14 in the tourney. Other MC players — Carol Draper and Mary Sawyer didn't play. Miss Draper drew a first round bye while Miss Sawyer won her first round match by default.

All four women will play today as matches move outdoors.

Shreveport Keeps 11-Game Margin

By The Associated Press

A ninth-inning walk with the bases loaded forced home the winning run as Lafayette trimmed Alexandria 7-6 in their Texas League game Sunday night.

Shreveport's Captains still maintained an 11-game lead in the West Division despite their 8-7 loss in the extra-inning fray at El Paso. At the same time the home-standing Diablos pulled within one percentage point of second-place Midland.

Three hits delivered by Mike Potter helped boost the Arkansas Travelers to their victory at Jackson, where wet grounds delayed the start of an afternoon game for two hours. A two-base Arkansas error put Doug Clarey on in the seventh frame for what turned out to be the Mets' lone run.

Jenkins Owns Philly Lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tom Jenkins held a five-shot lead going into today's 36-hole windup of the $150,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

But Johnny Miller had a warning for him:

"There's a lot of golf to be played yet," Miller said. "Tom has a big lead. He could blow it right open. But 36 holes is a lot of golf. Anything could happen.

"I'm not saying that I'm gonna win. But I could win, and I'll be trying to win. I'll be just as aggressive as I can. If I can start putting, I might be able to put some heat on him.

"If I'd been putting decent, just putting average, I'd be where he is now. And my putting is coming around. It's getting better every day."

Jenkins, a non-winner who seems to play his best in this tournament, one-putted 10 times on his way to a six-under-par 65 in Sunday's second round for a 36-hole total of 134, eight under par for two trips over the 6,687-yard Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course.

"I wish we could play 40 tournaments a year here," said Jenkins, who was third as a tour sophomore here last year. He has finished higher only once in his brief career.

"I don't know what it is, but my putting stroke seems to smooth out when I get here," he said.

His stroke was near perfect Sunday. He needed only 26 strokes on the small greens and one-putted six times in a row coming home.

That performance left him well in front of Jim Dent, the runner-up at 139 after a second round 67.

Miller, defending champion Hubert Green and Jim Simons followed at 140. Green had a 70, Simons a 71 and Miller an erratic 69 that included an eagle, four birdies, a double bogey, two bogeys and a couple of spectators who got hit by his errant shots.

Lou Graham, the first-round leader with a 65, blew to a 77 and 142. South African Gary Player shot 70 for 144.

Tom Weiskopf and nine others withdrew after the first round. Weiskopf had opened with a 76. He pulled out of the second round and hustled to Medinah, Ill., to prepare for the U.S. Open championship that begins Thursday.

Miller, for one, disagreed with that strategy. "I'd rather be playing in a tournament here than just fiddling around practicing there," he said. "I need the competition. Besides, I don't like to practice."

Jenkins had it going Sunday, mostly with the putter. He needed only 26 putts for the round. He made birdies from 12, 15 and 20 feet. He once saved par from 15 feet.

The tournament lost the first two days of play because of rain and a flooding creek, pushing the schedule back one full day and necessitating a double round today. More rain was forecast for today, raising the possibility of still further postponements. Tournament officials, however, said the event would conclude no later than Tuesday.

Cub Skein Ends, 9-1

SAN ANTONIO—The San Antonio Brewers ended a personal six-game losing streak and halted Midland's four-game win skein here Sunday night with a 9-1 Texas League victory over the Cubs.

Midland jumped to a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning when a Bill Bright single plated Bill Droege, but that was the extent of the Cub offense.

San Antonio tied the game in the bottom of the frame when Wil Aaron scored on a grounder by Rob Belloir. The Brewers took the lead in the fifth on run scoring singles by Dave Oliver and Rich Guerra.

The Brewers broke the game wide open in the seventh inning with a six-run outburst. The Brewers chased Midland starter and loser Mike Krukow from the mound with a bases loaded single by Rich Guerra, and reliever Dennis Lamp faced four men without getting an out, and was eventually charged with four runs. Belloir also had a two-run single in the inning with the bases jamed.

Dave Geisel came in with two shutout innings to stop the Brewers, but the damage had been done.

The Cubs return home to Cubs Stadium Tuesday night against the league leading Shreveport Captains. It will be a good chance for second place Midland to cut deeply into the Caps' 11-game lead. The Cubs have won seven of their last 10 outings.

Midland won the first four games of the five-game set against the Brewers before dropping Sunday's finale.

Belloir, the three-year San Antonio veteran, finished his Texas League career with three rbi. Belloir has been traded to the Atlanta Braves and will report to the International League today. The Cubs will be glad to see him go after Sunday's performance.

Since higher fuel costs are pushing the price of electricity up, it's important to use it wisely.

These two simple tools can help.

Proper insulation and weatherstripping will help you use electricity more efficiently for air conditioning. You can check the insulation and weatherstripping in your home with just a ruler and a flashlight.

Inadequate insulation is a major cause of energy loss in most homes — in both summer and winter.

If the insulation in your attic measures less than six inches, we suggest you call a qualified insulation contractor who can check the efficiency of your present insulation. He can also tell you how to bring your insulation up to recommended standards.

To check the weatherstripping around exterior doors, have someone shine a flashlight around the edges of each closed door. If you can see light, it means you may have to add or replace worn weatherstripping.

Saving electric energy takes very little energy on your part, but since electricity is costing more, it's worth the effort.

Phils Top Dodgers; Astros Win On Slam

By The Associated Press

There was some good news and some bad news Sunday for the slumping Los Angeles Dodgers.

The good news was that relief ace Mike Marshall's stuff was "the best it's been since coming back from his injury," according to Manager Walter Alston.

The bad news was that Philadelphia's Greg Luzinski walloped a Marshall fast ball into the right-center field pavilion with one out in the eighth inning, giving the injury-plagued Phillies a 4-3 triumph over the injury-plagued Dodgers.

MIDLAND'S RANKIN TWO BACK—

Mann Wins Medina

MEDINA, Ohio (AP) — Carol Mann, handling heavy winds that plagued her inexperienced rivals, scored her 35th Ladies Professional Golf Association victory Sunday, taking the $50,000 Medina Open by two shots.

The 34-year-old LPGA president failed to let winds gusting to 40 miles per hour bother her. She posted a two-over-par 74 for a 54-hole total of 217, one over on the Weymouth Valley Country Club course.

That gave her a two-stroke margin over Midland's Judy Rankin, another veteran who breezed by the faltering young contenders. She had 219, shooting a closing 74. Sandra Palmer, the leading money winner in 1975, finished with a 72 for third place at 220.

Meanwhile, newcomers Jo Ann Washam, Cathy Postlewait and Laura Baugh couldn't cope with the windy conditions and fell from contention for their first tour victories.

Miss Washam, a third-year pro and the second-round leader Saturday, ballooned to an 80 and was five shots behind Miss Mann at 222. She had led the winner by one stroke after 36 holes. Miss Baugh also finished at 222 to share sixth place.

Miss Postlewait and Miss Baugh, tied for third at even par after two rounds, struggled to a respective 79 and 78. That left them far behind the pace setting veterans.

Miss Mann traced her victory to her experience.

"Only a few people who have the experience of being in the lead can handle the pressure. Washam never had led before. Neither had Postlewait or Baugh," said the 6-foot-3 Miss Mann, who picked up $7,000 to send her earnings this year past $30,000.

Miss Palmer described Miss Mann: "Carol is a good course manager. On a day like today, it takes a good player to handle the wind. She can do that."

Murel Breer and Cathy Whitworth, two more veterans, shared fourth place at 221, five over par for the 6,050-yard course. Mrs. Breer wound up with a 75 and Miss Whitworth, the tour's all-time money earner, closed with a 74.

Miss Washam missed a three-foot putt for a par four on the ninth hole to fall from a share of the lead with Miss Mann. The winner never trailed after that.

Defending champion Sandra Haynie shot a closing 77 and was at 225, eight shots behind.

JoAnne Carner, bidding for her third LPGA victory in the last four weeks, was far off the pace at 229. She had a closing 74.

Pele Debut Success

NEW YORK (AP) — Pele's professional soccer debut was a typical performance for Brazil's Black Pearl, the man who has averaged nearly a goal a game in his 1,254 career games.

But there was far more significance in the reception the sport received—and probably will continue to receive—now that the 34-year-old superstar is a marketable entity in the United States.

Quite simply, a North American Soccer League game wouldn't have drawn national network television coverage in the United States, much less live telecasts to Japan, Costa Rica, Mexico, Brazil, Colombia, Venezuela, Panama, Puerto Rico and Canada.

Quite simply, an NASL game wouldn't have attracted some 300 newsmen from all over the world to the miniature press box at Downing Stadium. It wouldn't have attracted 21,278 fans to the aged concrete structure where there are boards instead of seats and light towers that originally stood atop Ebbets Field.

Pro soccer just isn't that popular here, especially on a Father's Day when the New York Yankees were giving away baseball bats and there was horse racing at Belmont Park.

But they came; in buses, cars, on bicycles and some even on foot to see the Black Pearl show his stuff. And it wasn't even a league game; it was an exhibition.

Naturally, Pele held the spotlight. His goal and assist almost were expected by every fan in attendance—and even his new teammates on the New York Cosmos.

In fact, they spent the first half of Sunday's 2-2 tie against the Dallas Tornado trying to figure out what to do. Pele's mere presence seemed to dictate that he carry the ball throughout, take all the shots and score all the goals. That's what helped Dallas gain a 2-0 lead in the first half.

"The younger players were passing to me too much instead of dribbling more or passing to other players," said Pele after his long-awaited debut. "The team I saw Tuesday (when he watched the Cosmos for the first time after signing his multi-million dollar contract) was much more coordinated."

"It was hard at first knowing what he was going to do with the ball and where he was going to be so that we could get it to him," said 22-year-old New York wing Mark Liveric.

It was nothing that won't be cured by a little time together, and after all, the Cosmos did come back for a tie—thanks to Pele, who hadn't figured on being around for the finish.

"I had only planned to play 45 minutes (the first half)," Pele said through an interpreter. "But I felt so good I decided to play the whole game."

It's doubtful Coach Gordon Bradley disagreed with Pele's decision.

One overseas visitor dissected Pele's opening performance. Aside from his assist and game-tying goal, he touched the ball 75 times, had it taken away five times, made seven bad passes, had nine shots—six of them on goal and one off the goalpost—was fouled five times and fouled a Dallas player once.

But all that mattered was that he was Pele, the man who made New York the world's capital of soccer—even if it was only for one day.

Hanoi Isn't Bashful

One thing about the Red leaders of North Vietnam . . . they are not the least bit bashful or hesitant about seeking most anything which will be to their advantage.

This is substantiated by Hanoi's most recent invitation to the United States to normalize relations with Vietnam. Good grief!

But this isn't half of the story. Just consider if you will the predictable prerequisites.

First, of course, the United States would have to comply with all conditions of the Paris Agreement which favor North Vietnam. The United States, in addition, would have to provide aid in rebuilding both North and South Vietnam. The North Vietnamese prime minister has said the demand for aid is only natural since the destruction was caused by America's "criminal aggression" north and south.

This really is one for the books . . . but again, what have they got to lose!

Sure they want those American aid dollars which have poured into other countries around the world. But the North Vietnamese want them on their conditions, which isn't surprising either.

And neither does Laos relish the idea of losing American dollars. The prime minister of that country has said that the United States shouldn't stop its expensive aid program there just because of anti-American sentiment. The Communists control the country and they recommend a reduction of American influence, but invite continued economic aid.

The Houston Chronicle points out that when the Reds were threatening to overrun Laos and South Vietnam as a possible prelude to extending Communist control across Southeast Asia, there appeared to be little alternative but for America to provide assistance to shore up the economies of these allies and to provide military aid.

"But the situation has changed drastically over the past few weeks," the Houston newspaper said editorially. "There is no incentive and, in the view of many Americans no obligation to provide aid of any kind to Vietnam, and there are good reasons for balking at continuing economic help to a Communist-dominated Laos."

Fortunately, a matter of urgency does not exist in this matter. The United States has ample time to think it over. There certainly is no big hurry for normalizing relations with Vietnam, particularly on Hanoi's terms . . . and Laos, viewed realistically, appears to be a lost cause.

One wonders if they have applied for increased economic aid from Red China or the Soviet Union!

Sounds Interesting

Plans for the development of a $5.5 million shopping center in northwest Houston undoubtedly makes Midlander's mouths water.

Almost half the space in the proposed new center already has been leased, according to a news release from Houston. In addition to retail sales outlets, space has been reserved for a big ice arena as well as for a fine restaurant.

Negotiations are under way for the location of a 32-lane bowling alley, a triple cinema, indoor-outdoor tennis facility, and others.

Really sounds interesting, doesn't it?

This is but another big shopping center in Houston, which already has any number of fine facilities of this nature.

A large, modern regional shopping center remains one of the Tall City's major needs.

Crisis For Demo Leadership On Hill

By ROWLAND EVANS
And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Deepening demoralization within the Democratic majority in Congress reached a climax just before the House voted to approve a $1.3 billion housing bill viewed by middle-road Democrats as the probable victim of another successful presidential veto.

Rep. Thomas (Lud) Ashley of Ohio, a longtime housing stalwart on the House Banking Committee, privately put this question to House majority leader Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill: "How long do we have to take the gas, Tip, before we begin to hurt?"

In one form or another, that question is being asked by every Democrat in the topheavy Democratic Congress as President Ford consolidates his control over the divided federal government, gives his party its first taste of political cheer since Watergate and watches the Democrats' dream of congressional government go down the drain.

The point of Ashley's question was this: the housing bill had become hopelessly loaded down with questionable high-cost subsidy programs after the original House version went to conference with a far broader Senate housing bill. Ashley, a House conferee, refused to sign that conference report. He then carried the battle to the closed-door House Democratic caucus on June 4.

But Rep. Henry Reuss of Wisconsin, House Banking Committee chairman, never really joined battle. Reuss simply read to the caucus a letter signed by Speaker Carl Albert, O'Neill and Rep. Jack McFall of California, the majority whip, in which the leadership appealed to every Democrat to vote for the swollen bill.

In the House vote that passed the bill the next day, 43 Democrats broke away from the leadership and voted against the subsidy-rich housing bill — a defection from party ranks that would virtually assure the House upholding President Ford's expected veto of the bill. Indeed, Democrats voting no nearly doubled the 22 Democratic defectors who made it possible for Mr. Ford to win his spectacular fight against the House attempt to override his veto of the jobs bill last week.

Indeed, the 43 Democrats who rejected the Albert-O'Neill-McFall leadership should have sent shivers down their spines. Rep. Edward Boland, an intimate Massachusetts colleague of O'Neill, voted with Ashley and against the veto-targeted housing bill. So did Washington's Rep. Thomas Foley, chairman of the Agriculture Committee and past chairman of the liberal Democratic Study Group, Rep. Sam Gibbons, a bonded liberal from Florida, and Rep. Robert Giaimo of Connecticut, a liberal with close ties to the leadership.

What this adds up to is crisis for the Democratic leadership on Capitol Hill and what one Republican strategist calls "the decisive competitive edge" for Gerald Ford as he rolls a Democratic Congress unable to find or assert a collective will. That "competitive edge" is now spreading far beyond Capitol Hill, displaying a political maturing in President Ford which is enhancing his prestige nationally.

The contrast with extravagant Democratic plans last January is particularly vivid. Then, the Democrats unfurled a 14-point legislative program to give them the initiative over an unelected President to solve the energy crisis, recession, inflation and kindred ailments. Ironically, two of those 14 points were the heart of the original housing bill in the House: interest subsidies for middle-income homebuyers and foreclosure relief for unemployed mortgage-holders.

A presidential veto of such a lean housing bill would almost certainly be overridden, and the Democrats then could justify their claim of making responsible congressional government work. But now the housing bill has become an easy victim of Mr. Ford's veto pistol.

Such fine points seem beyond the grasp of the House leadership, which has been functioning this year in an admittedly difficult role as administrators, not leaders, of a huge majority bent on obliterating the old, institutional power centers of the House. Against such an opposition, Mr. Ford s doing very nicely.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — For the comfort and convenience of vacationing bigwigs, the National Park Service maintains rustic chalets at two of the nation's most scenic sites.

Both lodges are closed to the ordinary taxpayers who are obliged to seek public accomodations or pitch their tents.

Only the privileged few are admitted to Brinkerhoff House overlooking Jackson Lake, Wyo., at the foot of the majestic Grand Teton mountains, or to Camp Hoover deep in the forests of Shenandoah National Park.

The National Park Service zealously protects the privacy of the distinguished guests who stay at these idyllic hideaways. But we have obtained copies of the star-studded guest registers from both lodges.

A number of notables, ranging from CBS's Walter Cronkite to Utah's Gov. Cal Rampton, have holed up at fabulous Brinkerhoff House, with its great stone fireplace, stately beamed ceilings and picture windows opening on breathtaking views.

One enthralled guest, Rep. Teno Roncalio, D-Wyo., was moved to write prophetically in the guest registry: "Worth Jack Anderson's Abuse!" Another, Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., found both the scenery and the nominal charges "awe-inspiring and relaxing."

Prominent Washington attorney George V. Allen Jr., referring to the trout that inhabit the cold, clear mountain streams, wrote happily that "Fish creek yielded an 18-inch cutthroat today."

Cronkite, who brought three of his family with him, apparently had the lodge opened especially for him in midwinter. They spent a five-day Alpine vacation beneath the craggy, snow-capped peaks during the New Year, 1974, holiday. Cronkite left no comments in the registry, but he told us his access to the lodge had been wholly "innocent."

Among the others who signed in at Brinkerhoff House were Reps. B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., John Jarman, R-Okla., and Federal Communications Commissioner Rex Lee.

Camp Hoover in the picturesque Shennandoah woodland was a favorite retreat for White House aides, who sought to get away from the tribulations of the Watergate scandal in 1973 and 1974.

Among those whose names appear on the register are Curtis Herge, who collected illegal contributions for President Nixon; Clay Whitehead, who cracked down on the tv networks for Nixon; H. R. Haldeman's cup bearer, Larry Higby, and Nixon hatchetman Fred Malek.

Two of the good guys of the Watergate days, former Atty. Gen. Elliott Richardson and his sidekick, William Ruckelshaus, also visited the lodge.

Grumped one official about the pampered few who stay at the exclusive hideaways: "They make enough money to scratch for lodgings like the rest of us."

CIA COVERUP: Former CIA chief John McCone now has acknowledged a story he denied to us more than four years ago.

In January, 1971, we reported that the CIA had recruited two underworld figures, Sam Giancana and John Roselli, to plan the assassination of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

We identified their CIA contacts as William Harvey and James "Big Jim" O'Connell. The CIA was put in touch with the underworld triggermen, we reported, by billionaire Howard Hughes' former Nevada honcho, Robert Maheu.

The plotters now are being hauled behind closed doors of the Select Senate Intelligence Committee to tell what they know.

McCone emerged after three hours of secret testimony to admit cautiously to the press that plots, indeed, had been sanctioned to kill Castro.

This was the opposite of what he told us in 1971. "No plot was authorized or implemented" to assassinate Castro, he told us. We went ahead with the story anyway, and now McCone has acknowledged we were right.

"The plot to knock off Castro," we reported on Jan. 18, 1971, "began as part of the Bay of Pigs operation. The intent was to eliminate the Cuban dictator before the motley invaders landed on the island. Their arrival was expected to touch off a general uprising, which the Communist militia would have had more trouble putting down without the charismatic Castro to lead them."

Yet even after the Bay of Pigs, we reported, assassination teams continued to try to eliminate Castro until the end of February, 1963. "Nine months later," we noted, "President Kennedy was gunned down in Dallas by Lee Harvey Oswald, a fanatic who previously had agitated for Castro in New Orleans and had made a mysterious trip to the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City."

Among those privy to the CIA conspiracy, there is still a nagging suspicion — unsupported by the Warren Commission's findings — that Castro became aware of the U.S. plot upon his life and somehow recruited Oswald to retaliate against President Kennedy.

The Senate committee also is investigating this intriguing possibility that the CIA attempts to kill Castro may have backfired against President Kennedy in Dallas.

No less than the late President's brother, Robert, and successor, Lyndon Johnson, were deeply conscious of this unproved possibility.

NICK THIMMESCH—

CIA Takes Its Raps, But How About Others?

Nick Thimmesch

WASHINGTON—So the CIA takes its raps for an accumulation of misdeeds committed on behalf of the republic in the past 28 years. Mea culpa, mea culpa, mea maxima culpa. Pax Americana!

But to complete the soul purging, President Ford and Sen. Frank Church (D-Ida.)—who heads the Senate investigation of the CIA—must act on unanswered questions concerning Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and former CIA Director Richard Helms.

Kissinger, as director of the National Security Council, and Helms, as CIA director, were responsible for national security in the period when the CIA ran operations severely criticized in the Rockefeller Commission report.

President Lyndon B. Johnson, worried over radicalism and violence at home, in 1967, had Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark co-ordinate an interagency program to collate and evaluate intelligence on domestic disorders. The CIA was to trace any foreign connections to such disorders.

Like all bureaucratic beasts, this one grew and thrived, picked up an acronym ("Operation Chaos") and wound up in domestic spying. According to the commission report, Helms, in a memo sent to Kissinger in early 1969, with a CIA study on "Restless Youth," warned:

"This is an area not within the charter of this agency (CIA), so I need not emphasize how extremely sensitive this makes the paper. Should anyone learn of its existence, it would prove most embarrassing for all concerned."

The conclusion has to be that Helms and Kissinger were aware the CIA was violating its legislative charter in "Operation Chaos." Moreover, according to the Rockefeller report, the CIA was involved in other improper domestic activities when Helms and Kissinger were in responsible positions on security. But Helms testified under oath that he wasn't aware of collection and dissimination of information gained by spying on domestic dissidents.

Kissinger also denies any knowledge of domestic intelligence activities of the CIA.

Both these denials must be couched in semantics or else apparently they are lies. Beyond that, the law states that the CIA is to perform its functions under the direction of the National Security direction (unital) of the National Security Council—which Kissinger has headed since January 1969. For Kissinger to have no idea what the CIA was doing in domestic surveillance is for him to say he doesn't know where the State Department building is.

Besides his unsatisfactory answers on the CIA's domestic spying, Helms is also accountable for ordering the destruction of the tapes and records of his telephone conversations which possibly related to Watergate. He did this as he prepared to leave the CIA for his ambassadorial post. Sens. Howard Baker (R-Tenn.) and Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) sharply criticized Helms for this deed, but now no one seems to care.

There is a strong sacred-cow quality in Kissinger. The secretary of state wire tapping, the "Plumbers" operations and now the CIA because of his genius in negotiating and his strong hand in foreign policy. To a lesser extent, Helms is often excused because he belongs to the "Establishment," is well connected to some of the same folks who skewered Richard Nixon and his gang and is a pal of the Shah of Iran.

To many in the establishment, the situation concerning Kissinger and Helms, their relationship to improper activities, their testimony under oath and their ambiguities amounts to a test of character. The prestigious senators and congressmen, the respected lawyers and professors, the editors and directors of the powerful newspapers, news magazines and networks, which, individually and collectively, battered away at Nixon and company should show independence and exert the same vigor in probing Kissinger and Helms. Chances are only fair that they will. These people are very comfortable with Kissinger and Helms, enjoy their company and would feel great discomfort if these estimable gents were hurt. Sources on Sen. Church's investigation committee state that both Helms and Kissinger will be called on to testify on these matters. Kissinger will also be questioned on his role in the White House wiretapping of newsmen and his own staffers.

The integrity of President Ford is at stake here. Kissinger is his secretary of state and national security adviser, but he also might be a man who broke the law. Atty. Gen. Edward Levi's integrity is at stake, too, because it is up to him to initiate actions which could wind up as prosecutions.

Sen. Church's integrity is also on the line. He tends to pious postering when it comes to the CIA, the White House and multinational corporations. Now, let us see what he will do, as a Westerner, in the range land of sacred cows.

As for Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, what an awkward position he was put in by President Ford to head the commission investigating the CIA. It was a blunder by Mr. Ford, because Rockefeller and several of the commission members have long histories of ties to the CIA, and no matter how honest their investigation who could help but be suspicious?

Rockefeller also has a long professional and personal relationship with Kissinger. The two men vacationed together just after the story broke last winter that the CIA might have been conducting massive domestic spying. Surely, they didn't talk about the weather.

At that, the Rockefeller commission report is better, in terms of thoroughness and candor, than its worst critics expected. Its Establishment members apparently concluded that some honest soul searching was in order, if for no other reason than to protect the Establishment.

Wiesel, 47, now is a professor of Judaic Studies at the City University of New York. He is to assume the new post in the fall of 1976.

The appointment was announced Sunday.

Ex-School Head Asks $2.5 Million In Damage Suit

HOUSTON (AP) — The former head of a Liberty County school for emotionally disturbed young people has filed a $2.5 million suit against state and local officials in connection with his arrest in the death of one of his students.

Joseph D. Farrar, 58, formerly operated Artesia Hall near Cleveland. The institution was closed by the state two years ago after Farrar was charged in the death of Donna Marie Hvoliboll of Houston. A trial date has never been set and Farrar has been free on bond.

There are indications that trial may be scheduled in late June or July.

Farrar filed his suit Friday asking $2,500,000 in damages for alleged false imprisonment and civil rights violations.

The indictment against Farrar alleged that he caused the death of Miss Hvoliboll by failing to provide medical help for nearly 24 hours after she ate insect poison. The girl died in a Houston hospital three days after consuming the poison.

Farrar's lawsuit names as defendants State District Court Judge Clarence D. Cain of Liberty; Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby; Raymond Vowell, state welfare commissioner; Liberty County Atty. Arthur J. Hartell III; and two State Welfare Department employes, Ruth Army and Lonnie Arnold Gruver.

Goldwater Thinks Rocky Should Be Secretary Of State

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller would be "a fine secretary of state."

"I would hate to waste a man's talents on the vice presidency when the vice presidency really, as (Thomas) Jefferson said, is about the worst job in government," the Arizona Republican said Sunday on the ABC interview show "Issues and Answers."

"I would rather . . . see Vice President Rockefeller finish out this term and then become secretary of state," said Goldwater.

Would Rockefeller's point of view on foreign policy mesh with the conservative Goldwater's?

"He'd make me look like a dove, to tell you the truth," Goldwater said.

'Homeless Drifter' Charged In Murder

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — A "homeless drifter" with connections in Texas and Illinois has been arraigned in Saline County magistrate court on charges of first degree murder in the shooting death of a Salina policemen, authorities said.

The policeman, Jerry Ivey, 27, was killed Friday morning in an exchange of gunfire following a supermarket robbery, police said.

The name on the formal murder charge presented Saturday was "James Earl Crawford, also known as Roy Earl Schultz."

When arrested, officers said the man was carrying a Pecos, Tex., drivers license identifying him as James Earl Crawford, 37. Police Chief John Woody told newsman, however, he was convinced the man's real name was Schultz and that he had Illinois connections.

Police said they are seeking a second man in the supermarket holdup.
