Mrs. Rogers' Condition Is Satisfactory

Mrs. Nathan J. Rogers, seriously injured in a highway 80 auto collision here Tuesday afternoon, is in "satisfactory condition" Root Memorial Hospital attendants said today.

Mrs. Rogers, who manages Cattleman and Ranch House cafes, both on Highway 80 in Colorado City, was admitted to the hospital about 5 p. m. Tuesday with a broken right arm, seven broken ribs and painful lacerations to a leg. She was hurt when her 1962 Chevrolet was in collision with a dump truck hauling rock. Both vehicles were traveling west about a mile west of Colorado City.

Highway Patrolman Buddy Hertenberger's statement was that John L. Bailey of Abilene, driver of the truck, was making a right turn headed off the highway when the Rogers car, driven by Mrs. Rogers, crashed into the rear of the truck. Bailey was not hurt. About $300 damage was done to the truck by the impact. The Rogers auto was a total loss.

D. L. Breeden Survives Hit By Lightning

D. L. Breeden, 844 Pine St., was to have been dismissed from Root Memorial Hospital today (Thursday) after treatment for shock. He was under hospital treatment after being struck by lightning.

Breeden, 60, is Mitchell County's second victim of direct hits scored by lightning in less than a week. He was sitting in his yard at home when lightning struck.

Partial paralysis of his arm, Root attendants said, is improved. The condition was believed by doctors to be the temporary result of shock.

Breeden was admitted to the hospital shortly after 8 p. m. Tuesday night. Thunder storms with flashes of lightning were playing a return engagement after fatally injuring a child in Westbrook area Saturday afternoon.

IN BI-DISTRICT SERIES

Wolves to Face Mineral Wells

Colorado City High Wolves, champions of District 3AAA, will enter the state high school baseball playoffs next week against Mineral Wells.

The series was arranged Thursday by telephone between the two schools.

The Mountaineers are champions of District 4AAA and chose the first game away... followed by the second and third, if necessary, in Colorado City.

The Wolves, on a combination of all-around power hitting and stingy pitching by Steve Hillhouse, romped through District 3AAA with six straight wins before losing a final Saturday to Lamea with Hillhouse on the sidelines after pitching six consecutive wins.

Second game will be played in Colorado City Friday, May 18, at 4 p. m. If a third game is required, it also will be played in Colorado City—at 2 p. m. Saturday, May 19.

POAGE, LAIRD, FLYING HERE

Two Congressmen, Generals Coming

Colorado City will be host to several distinguished Congressmen from Washington, D. C. plus several Air Force Generals, here tomorrow, Friday May 11.

Honor Mahon Day will bring home George H. Mahon, 19th District Congressman, coming by unanimous invitation for a Mahon tribute luncheon. With Mahon, flying to Webb Base from Washington, will be two other Democrats and two Republican Congressmen who are national figures.

Congressman Bob Poage of Waco will arrive with the Mahon party. Poage has been Representative for his district since his election in 1936 two years after Congressman Mahon's first-time election.

Congressman Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls, a new member of Congress elected this year, is accompanying the Mahon group.

Congressman Mel Laird, Republican from Wisconsin and a member of the Defense subcommittee of Appropriations (headed by Mahon) and Congressman Harold Osterlag of New York complete the list of Congressmen coming to Colorado City's party.

Also to be here for this town's biggest event since perhaps the coming of the T&P back in '81 are three Air Force Generals. One is Major General Glenn W. Martin, military assistant to Secretary of Defense Eugene M. Zuckert of the Air Force. Secretary Zuckert is one of the speakers for the Mahon luncheon, 12 noon, in Civic House here.

Another is Major General Jack Merrell of the budget office of Secretary of the Air Force, Zuckert. Third General expected is Lt. General James Briggs, three-star general who heads Air Training Command, San Antonio.

Greeting committee, with J. W. Randle as chairman, are to meet the plane from Washington bringing the visiting dignitaries. Plane is expected to land at 9:30 a. m., latest information says.

REPORTS COUNTY AGENT

Elm Leaf Beetles Attacking Trees

Elm leaf beetles are reported attacking elm trees in the Colorado City area, announced Buddy C. Logsdon, county agricultural agent. The insect may be found on elm trees wherever they grow in the United States. It feeds on the leaves and skeletonizes them so that they dry up and drop prematurely. Heavy defoliation weakens the trees and makes them subject to attack by other bark beetles and borers as well as by diseases. Elms growing in urban locations, especially those near buildings, are most heavily infested.

Logsdon described the beetle as being about 1/4 inch long at the adult stage, yellowish to olive green, with a black stripe sometimes indistinct, along the margin of each wing cover. The eyes are black and the antennae and legs yellowish.

The eggs are orange yellow and shaped like a spindle, and are attached in groups of 5 to 25 endwise to the undersides of the leaves.

The newly-hatched larva, or grub, appears nearly black because the yellow color of the skin is obscured by dark tubercles and hairs. The full-grown larva is about 1/2 inch long and dull yellow with 2 black stripes down the back. The head, legs and tubercles are black. The newly-hatched larva is the stage that is now attacking the trees, a small worm about 1/8 inch long.

The pupa is about 1/4 inch long, bright yellow orange, with a few black bristles.

The elm leaf beetle is seldom a pest of importance in the forest, but frequently control measures are necessary to protect the foliage of elm shade trees. One thorough and properly timed application of a suitable insecticide will give protection throughout the season. Where elms have been properly sprayed in late dormancy with DDT for control of elm bark beetle feeding, no additional treatments are necessary for control of the elm leaf beetle. Sprays for the beetle should be applied to the undersides of the leaves, preferably when the foliage is 3/4 expanded.

One of the following insecticides in 100 gallons of water may be applied in a conventional hydraulic sprayer:

- 1 1/2 pints of 57 percent emulsifiable Malathion
- 1 quart of 25 percent emulsifiable DDT
- 4 pounds of lead arsenate powder and 16 fluid ounces of fish oil or linseed oil

The best time to spray is soon after daybreak. The air is usually calm at that time so there is less chance of drifting the spray to buildings. Care should be used in preventing the lead arsenate spray from reaching the surfaces of buildings, for it may cause staining. Spray mixtures containing oil can be readily washed off by drenching the building with water from the garden hose before and after the spraying. Malathion, DDT and lead arsenate are poisonous to humans, fish, birds and wildlife and should be handled with extraordinary care. Do not let the spray get into bird-baths or fish pools. Do not let it form puddles beneath the trees or along street curbs where birds may come to drink.

For further information, asked for leaflet No. 184 at the county agricultural agent's office.

HOME TOWN

Talk

By PEGGY BELVIN

COLORADO CITY is a stopping-off point for natives from all states in the union when relatives return to the old home-town to visit.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in 6 years, MR. AND MRS. ROLAND BURCHARD of SACRAMENTO, CALIF. are here to visit her sister, MISS MILDRED COLEMAN, Mrs. Burchard is the former ELEANOR COLEMAN, and the sisters are the daughters of the late DR. AND MRS. P. C. COLEMAN.

Burchard is retired from the US GEOLOGICAL SURVEY. They are parents of a son, PRESTON BURCHARD, employed with an electronics firm in PALO ALTO and a daughter, MRS. ALICE VICKREY of MARIN COUNTY, CALIF. They have 6 grandchildren. Burchard is a native of Abilene.

DENNIS MCCARRELL, 15-month old son of MR. AND MRS. LARRY MCCARRELL, is getting his first good look at WEST TEXAS. The family are here from ALEXANDRIA, VA., to visit their parents, MR. AND MRS. ROMANE HAMMOND of Buford and MR. AND MRS. GENE MCCARRELL of Abilene.

Mrs. McCarrell is the former Barbara Hammond, a 1959 graduate of Colorado City High School.

The family was flown from Virginia by AMERICAN AIRLINES.

McCarrell is employed in the fleet service for the airlines at the WASHINGTON, D. C. LOVE FIELD. The family has lived in Virginia for approximately 1 year and are flown home for a vacation by the airlines each year.

THE RECORD STAFF isn't very excited this week... what with TUMBLEWEED FESTIVAL doings and all. Our Girl Friday, RUTH COFFEY, was making a routine check this week with ROOT MEMORIAL HOSPITAL, whose number is RA 8-3431. Since the record's number is RA 8-3413, the numbers are easy to switch. Ruthis couldn't imagine how the hospital could be busy, what with the switchboard and all... It took her a while to figure out she was calling herself...

AND THE BIG BOSS, JOE BELL had big business at bank. He drove the staff car to the bank and proceeded to transact his business. When it was all transacted... he returned to the office... and couldn't find the car for half a day...

AS SUMMER INVADES TEXAS with its sweet-smelling rains, wonder-working sunshine and bright, sunny days... it is hard to be content with the same old auto that has faithfully transported us where we wanted to go for such a long time. Have noticed that several of our citizens have put on the big-hat while driving long, low and sleek new cars. Rather than let the world know that this writer can't afford the newer models, I ask that they believe that my own little CHEVY holds much sentimental value.

Some of the most beautiful seen around town were the 1962 PONTIAC, of the clearest blue imaginable, being driven by WENDELL REHM, of the HIGHWAY PATROL; the 1962 MERCURY MONTEREY, of an off-white color, coming from Westbrook and back with MR. AND MRS. D. J. BARBER; the stark-white CHEVROLET IMPALA with the slash of brilliant red, being maneuvered under the direction of HORACE PACE, and the look-alike FORD THUNDERBIRDS; the glossy black one driven by Colorado City High School's famed ex-footballer, RAYMOND WEAVER and the baby blue one being driven by CCHS's equally famed ex-basketballer, MARION FLIPPIN, who acquired it in CALIFORNIA, while finishing out his time with UNCLE SAM'S NAVY.

Understand that the baby blue Thunderbird isn't all that Flippin acquired in sunny California. Have yet to meet his pretty wife, CAROL, a product of that sunny state.

Iowa Park Woman Hurt In Collision

A three car pile-up just west of Colorado City cemetery on Highway 80, Monday, sent two Iowa Park women to Root Memorial Hospital.

Injured in the collision were Mrs. Barbara Jo Gullatt, 21, of 103 Hope Lane, Iowa Park, who received a lacerated tendon in her left foot. She was treated and kept hospitalized for a one day period for observation.

Driver of the car in which Mrs. Gullatt and her three year old daughter were passengers was Mrs. Edith R. Stephenson, also of Iowa Park. Mrs. Stephenson was said by hospital attendants to be "just shaken up" and was released.

The Stephenson car, a 1960 Ford, was third in the three car impact. The car was damaged to the extent of $500. A pickup driven by Charles Wilham Holden was struck from behind by the Stephenson auto and the Holman pickup then hit the '55 Ford driven by Mrs. Roxie Hagler Johnson. Holman and Johnson cars received $100 damages in the crash.

Mrs. Johnson was attempting a left-hand turn from the highway near Morgan's Station. All three cars were traveling east. Patrolman Selma Dickson investigated the accident.

the formal luncheon program. One sidelight of the affair is to be the presence of several members of the 1918 graduating class of Lorraine High School. The '18 Class had as its three most distinguished members both Mahon and his wife, the former Helen Stevenson, and Colorado City's Charles C. Thompson.

Luncheon over, the "top brass" here for Mahon Day, the Congressman, Air Force Secretary, and other dignitaries will take part in the Tumbleweed Festival parade.

Set for 2:30 p. m. Friday the parade is shaping up to be the gayest in Tumbleweed Festival history. This year's parade, third annual one, will have floats carrying all 25 young beauties vying in the Miss Tumbleweed contest for the coveted Miss Tumbleweed title, queen of the festival.

There will be colorful floats using tumbleweeds — a Republican elephant, a Democratic donkey, and gila monster, plus 20 others with suitable, amusing themes. A space astronaut float will be one attraction.

Another attraction will be band music. An Air Force band, Post.

High School, Lorraine High School Band, and the Colorado City High School Band will add color and rousing tunes to the parade.

Parade time is 2:30, Friday, May 11. Place is Second Street beginning at Austin St., turning down Oak St., and ending at Court House Square.

Antique cars, including a Cadillac 1905 model, a Model T Ford Model-A '29 Ford, and a Star touring car will take part in the parade.

Night program for Tumbleweed Festival weekend will feature, Friday night and Saturday night, a beauty contest for selection of "Miss Tumbleweed" from a field of 25 candidates representing various organizations throughout the county.

Announcements and name of the girl winning this year's highest festival honor, with her two runners-up, will be made Saturday night. Night shows begin in CCHS gym at 7:30 p. m.

Friday night the Grand Prize — $200 cash — will be awarded the holder of the lucky ticket stubs. Tickets have been given away by 50 merchants and businesses this week with stubs drawn each day at Chamber of Commerce for winners of tickets to night shows, and for the $200 big prize.

Admission to night performances is $1. Shows, each evening, will feature music by the String Alongs, top recording stars. String Alongs will feature a soloist and string combo numbers.

RICH IN WEST TEXAS TRADITION

Mahon: Nation's Expert For Military Billions

BY RUTH COFFEY
Record Staff Writer

"What is he really like?" What's the Honorable George H. Mahon, Congressman of 19th District in Texas, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee in whose hands appropriations for this country's military might and national defense are entrusted, really like?

He is really like a tall Texan with a touch of Louisiana still touching his soft way of talking. He moved away when he was eight from the village of Mahon, near Haynesville in Claiborne Parish, where he was born Sept. 22, 1900. He is one of seven children born to John Kirkpatrick Mahon and his wife Lola Brown Mahon.

Fifty-odd years of calling West Texas home when he's not working in Washington D. C. — have never quite erased the Old South from George Mahon's speech, public or private.

He is really like a Mitchell County farm owner when he is here. He owns three farms near Lorraine and grows cotton. Matter of fact, he sometimes picks a little cotton when he's here and papers in Washington and in New York have a way of saying he does it so he "can remember what hard work farming is."

Mahon's memory must hold — with or without picking 100 lbs. of cotton — a boyhood on a Mitchell County farm. It must hold schooling at Lorraine High School where he was graduated with 17 seniors in '18. Graduating with him was a girl named Helen Stevenson to whom he was married in a Lorraine ceremony in '23. The Mahon memory must hold bicycling to a rural school where he taught to make money for (Harlin) Simmons University in Abilene which he finished in '24. It holds, too, the spirit of the University of Texas where he was awarded his LL.B. in '25.

Mahon's memory must be full of Mitchell County — Lorraine and Colorado City, where he won his first public office with election as County Attorney in '26, appointment as District Attorney in '27 election to that post in '28, '30 and '32, and in '34 election to National Congress as the then newly created 19th District's Representative. He has served in Congress without noticeable opposition at the polls ever since. He is now what Washington D. C. protocol calls "Number two man" on the 50 man Appropriations Committee. He is — in this county and in 19th District — number one man in esteem. Earned esteem.

Congressman Mahon is author of the largest military appropriations bill in the history of his nation — this year's stupendous $51,640,000,000 which includes expenditure of $150,000,000 for foreign military aid. He was floor manager for that bill which passed the House without a dissenting vote — 388 to 0.

The record breaking peace-time military appropriations bill passed the House April 18, this year. The bill was sent to the senate exactly as written by Mahon and his committee.

What is he like — the author of that bill? Mahon, himself, said the big bill "Should kill all loose talk about a soft-win policy in this country." He is a man aware of world crises.

In Washington D. C. his friends and golf companions sometimes call him "Deacon" because he sometimes still teaches a Methodist Sunday School Class. Here at home, his friends and practically all slight acquaintances just call him "George."

In Washington he has long been credited with using a careful whittling process on appropriations for defense. One paper quoted him as saying "Defense is too important to risk a meat ax approach." "In Washington he is known as a careful (some papers call it "frugal") man in his private life.

Here, he is known as sometimes frugal with words, but never frugal when it comes to displaying a rare sense of humor when he talks. Here he is known, in the simplest final analysis, as a good man. Here it is known how well the "Honorable" in his title fits the man who bears it.

Once, when some visiting photographers wanted to pose him mowing his lawn surrounding his house here on Chestnut St., he refused with kindness and firmness. It happened to be a hot summer day. "Since I nevaah mow the grass and nevaah have if I could possibly avoid it," he said, "to show me doing so would be deceptive."

Then he added with a slow smile, "And it would certainly come as a surprise to at least one constituent. The one named Mrs. Mahon!"

What is George H. Mahon really like? He is the kind of man three towns in Texas like to claim, so all three still claim him. Lorraine claims him. He grew up, first on a tenant farm and later on the farm his father bought in Lorraine. Finished high school there. Was married there. Owns cotton farms there.

Colorado City claims him. He started law practice here, won his first political office here, bought a home here, partly reared his only child, daughter Daphne, here.

Lubbock claims him. As a better center for his district, Lubbock boasts another Mahon home and his Texas offices.

Washington D. C. claims him. George H. Mahon, Congressman, actually belongs to the United States of America. He probably knows more about National Defense than any one man in America. He is just the kind of man who never sees fit to flaunt that knowledge. He uses it to work with — usually in a powerful but quiet, behind-the-scenes way rather than with flags flying and trumpets blowing.

Flags here will fly Friday. The Honorable George H. Mahon is flying home for Mahon Day. Mrs. Mahon and Air Force Secretary Eugene M. Zuckert will be flying to land at Webb Air Base with him. He will be honored by his friends with a reception in the Terrace Room here.

Luncheon in Civic House, with a number of visiting V. L. P. guests, will be at noon. An Air Force band will be here for Mahon Day. That band may blow some horns. Mahon's fellow-citizens from all over this district may blow a bit with pride in this man, Mahon.

One thing is certain as Friday draws near. George Mahon will not be here "tooting his own horn." He wears the mantle of greatness as most great men like to wear kindness and firmness. With responsibility. With trust. With day. "Since I nevaah mow the grass and nevaah have if I

POSTMASTER ASKS IMPROVEMENT

Mailbox Week Stresses Names

The week of May 21-26 has been designated Mailbox Improvement Week by the Post mail receptacles which are Office Department, according convenient and safe to use, to Colorado City Postmaster neat appearing and protect the mail," Morris said.

Rural and Star Route patrons are expected to provide mail boxes of the standard approved type. The name of the owner should be shown on the side of the box so that it will be visible to the carrier as he approaches.

If the box is in a group of other boxes, the name should be on the door of the box. It is desirable that the patron's rural box number be placed on the same side as the name, Morris said.

"Each rural and star route patron is assigned a box number," Morris said, "and if you do not know what it is, your carrier can give it to you."

City delivery patrons should make sure that the box they are using is adequate to hold all of their mail and to protect it from children and the weather.

Wildcats Run Over Hamlin, 12-1

The Wallace Wildcats journeyed to Hamlin Thursday afternoon and blasted Hamlin 12-1 thanks to timely hitting by Jesse Burton.

The first inning went scoreless, and the game was halted momentarily by rain.

When play resumed, Wallace made four runs in the second inning thanks to errors by Hamlin and one of Jesse's two doubles. Hamlin scored their lone run in the second inning.

Wallace sent nine men to the plate in a hectic fifth when sloppy fielding by Hamlin caused six runs to score.

Eddy Campbell limited Hamlin to seven hits in posting his first victory of the year. Wallace is 3-0 for the season. Wallace plays Hamlin here Wednesday afternoon and Sweetwater at a date earlier not yet determined.

Soil Erosion Costs Money, Land Owner And Taxpayer

By Tommie J. Holder

Soil Scientist
Soil Conservation Service

Soil erosion costs you money. You are either a landowner whose valuable topsoil is being lost, or you are a taxpayer whose tax dollars are being spent to combat erosion or repair damage caused by of these people in one. In erosion, or you may be both. In either case, soil erosion costs you money, most of which is unnecessary.

Soil erosion can be controlled. Loss of topsoil can be practically eliminated, crop damage caused by washing or blowing can be greatly reduced, silting in of water supplies and damage done by blowing sand can be reduced by proper land treatment. The key word in the solution of the soil erosion problem, however, is YOU. It is your soil, or your tax dollar, or both that is being lost when soil erosion occurs.

You have seen and felt the effects of soil erosion. Perhaps the most irritating of these effects in the Mitchell County Soil Conservation District is the annual "blow season." The dreaded sandstorm makes us very uncomfortable. Our discomfort is of small importance though when compared to the actual damage done to small growing crops, loss of clay and silt particles which hold the soil's fertility, destruction of fences and the inconvenience and cost of removing drifted sand from roads after every bad "blow." Cost of these damages when added to the cost of emergency tillage to prevent or reduce soil blowing amounts to several thousands of dollars annually.

Erosion caused by water may be even more costly than that caused by wind. Topsoil lost to water erosion is usually from our most fertile land. Costly mechanical structures such as terraces and waterways are frequently destroyed or lose their effectiveness because of water-transported topsoil. Farm ponds lose their capacity due to sedimentation caused by upstream erosion, and perhaps more serious, is the loss of capacity of municipal water reservoirs. Measuring the eventual cost of such damage is frightening. Again, most of this cost is unnecessary.

The responsibility for controlling erosion is yours, the landowners and taxpayers. You have control of the land and must make the decisions concerning how it is used and how well it is cared for. Soil erosion is a damaging, costly by-product of improper land use that becomes more serious the longer it goes uncontrolled.

Erosion control can be accomplished, but there is no "one shot — job finished" solution to the problem. Terracing does not completely stop water erosion; nor is emergency tillage the only way to control wind erosion. Erosion control starts with a complete plan of proper land use and may involve several alternative mechanical and vegetative control measures.

If you have a soil erosion problem, help is available. The Soil Conservation Service, through a memorandum of understanding with the Mitchell County Soil Conservation District, furnishes technical assistance to cooperators with the District, to solve erosion and other conservation problems. Service technicians can explain the alternative solutions involving combinations of mechanical and vegetative practices. They can also provide the designs for necessary terraces, diversion terraces and waterways, and provide assistance for on-the-ground layout and checking out construction of such structures.

The Rough Years, Reviewed

By JOHN BRAND

America does not lack novels about high school life. Most of them, we have to admit, are written primarily to be sold (i. e., cater to the wishes of the reading public). They are, as a result, similar to, and stand in the "tradition" of, PEYTON PLACE & CO. What those novels claim to do (and sometimes do) is to present high school life, not as parents and youths, teachers and pupils wish it were, but as it is. They claim to be "realistic." We wonder if anything different from their matter-of-fact approach to the complicated life of the teenager is so different as to hold a particle of promise and fulfillment—can be anything other than undiluted sentimentality? THE ROUGH YEARS is both realistic and hopeful. High school life, and thus the lives of high-schoolers, is seen for the most part as it is realistically. Nonetheless, Chad Walsh's realism is a hopeful realism. He takes things as they are without giving in to a bleakness that finds no way out of any given predicament. Here, for him, and for some of those about whom he writes, is not only possibility but is also something occurring in the realm of the actual. This because he places high school life within the "realm of redemption," the Church. This nature and need of the adolescent. The book more than generalizes concern; it places the adolescent not only within the trying confines of high school but also within the liberating confines of the Church. High schoolers, here seen as they are, are also seen living in contact with what is a greater reality than what we so carelessly term, "the real," and that is the Church. There is the pathetic and unlikable Sid Pruitt, leader of the Stalwarts, who, even though in touch with the "Church" is apparently more in touch with those whose ways can only injure others and themselves. For this reason, Sid, responsible for permanent injury to one of Blanton's leading citizens, is confined to reform school. He persists in thinking "big things" upon his release. There is the tragic love of Helen Greenwood, who must leave Blanton to give birth to a child whose father remains nameless—until said father unveils the undisclosed secret. And there is Frank Buell, by far the most appealing character of the book, whose desires run from association with Rosa Arrond (who dwells in the quite unrespectable North Side) to membership with Sid Pruitt and Co. in the Stalwarts. Born of respectable parentage, Frank appears determined and destined to embarrass his parents through the workable avenue of rebellion. And there is the puzzling relationship between Steve and Betty, who cannot get along without each other, but who can not get along with each other. And, finally, there is Tom Bowman, brother of Betty, who is gifted but uninterested. Facing a physics exam, he cheats; in facing himself, he faces what Walsh considers not only the teenage problem, but also the adult problem: conformity. Tom's pilgrimage, like that of the others, is definitely spiritual. He, unlike so many of the rest, finds some release from this dilemma. He quotes St. Paul: "And he not conformed to this world; but he ye transformed by the renewing of your mind." He asks, "Could this be the key, the way to escape the two horns of the dilemma? Was it possible that man was meant to conform only to the mind of God?" Many people should read this book, teenagers and (or perhaps even with) their parents, teachers, youth advisers, ministers, and so on. The reader may not like the writer's approach to the given problems, or the solutions, but he will be hardpressed to deny the intrinsic worth of the book: it unfolds the perennial problem of growth, and with that the accustomed pain; it likewise attaches to the emblem of hope, and to that the emblem of fulfillment.

AT FORT POLK EXERCISE

C. City Battery In Iron Dragoon

Camp Polk, La.—Civilians turned soldiers with the 49th Armored Division took on the look of brawny combat troops this week as Exercise Iron Dragoon, a massive 15-day Strategic Army Corps maneuver, unfolded. Some 20,000 soldiers, most of them National Guardsmen—including Colorado City's Battery—and Reservists called to active duty last fall, swapped bunks and barracks for sleeping bags and pup tents Tuesday for the simulated war that will continue until May 15. A gigantic movement to field positions that would have stretched 300 miles if placed on one highway was accomplished Tuesday, opening day of the exercise. The 49th Armored Division, a part of the III Corps from Fort Hood, Tex., immediately assumed the role of a United States unit called in to assist the freedom-loving country of "Freelandia" resist the aggressions of another small nation, Durado. The first big attack by the division was launched Thursday as the Lone Starmen, along with their key support units, began a determined drive up the 65-mile long maneuver area to engage Durado People's Army. This phase continues through May 5, at which time the problem will be halted for two days of critique and maintenance. A second big phase is slated May 7 when the division conducts mobile defense and makes retrograde movements under pressure of enemy attacks. Tactical nuclear and CBR weapons employment figure heavily into this phase. Evacuation of mass casualties, counter attacks to eject penetration, unit replacement and aerial resupply operations will be conducted concurrently by support units from Fort Polk and other military installations. Iron Dragoon—largest maneuver of its kind in the U. S. this fiscal year—marks the first time an armored National Guard division has participated in a Strategic Army Corps maneuver. For these citizens soldiers, the exercise culminates more than seven months of intensive training at this Southwestern Louisiana post. Designed to promote the combat readiness of the participating unit, the maneuver is being played as realistically as possible. Toxic chemicals, nuclear weapons and live ammunition are simulated.

CONVERSATION

By RUTH COFFEY

DON'T KNOW just where the old and very quaint expression, "Tight as Dick's hat band," came from.

With the arrival of hot weather, feel inclined to wonder if Dick's hat band feels the same upstairs as the exacting way last summer's linen sheath fits this summer, downstairs.

FIGURED OUT, though, why the thinning process is referred to as "die-t." You feel like you're gonna die—when you try it.

READ IN SOME magazine section, this gem from a Dr. Edmund Volkart, Stanford University sociologist: "American men . . . have a strange taste in women. In a land of abundance, we like our women thin. But other men, in lands of scarcity, like their women fat and go to great trouble to fatten them up . . . This is particularly true in Arabic countries and in Africa."

Some prefer us thin. Some like us fat.
Depends on geography. Where a man lives at.

CAUTION COMES to any wife wondering about wandering away to Africa where she might "fit in" better. In certain areas, a bone in the nose and shoulder-length rings in the ears are considered a must for any chick counting on chic, too!

SENSIBLE SOLUTION is to use your feminine imagination. At home. Use your natural cunning. Chuck Valorie counting. Stop starving slowly to death. Re-educate your American. It's fairly easy if you:

1. Eat, drink, and be merry—being careful to announce, regularly, "For tomorrow we may diet."
2. Skip at least one, and preferably two, big meals every day—and substitute candy bars, frosted cokes, ice-box pie, leftovers, and chocolate eclairs between meals. (You haven't really EATEN, have you?)
3. Buy a bigger dress size. Designers are deliberately making 'em smaller all over, right now.
4. Keep saying it must be your GLANDS!
5. Swear it has to be his bi-focals. They magnify. Don't they exaggerate everything?
6. Give him rose colored glasses. Pass him another piece of pie. It may be a man's world. But under the home-stead law of Texas it's still a woman's kitchen.

MAN'S WORLD or not, it's a fascinating world! Did those of you who watched a recent Monday night, that NBC special telecast "Breakthrough" recognize our Dr. Stanley Berman? He was one of the doctors assisting on the surgery team from Methodist Hospital, Houston, for the televised life-saving technique in heart and artery operations—a new field.

Dr. Stanley—the young, nice looking one, behind that mask—is one of the twin-medics sons of Alice and Mayor Hy Berman.

A FAMILIAR FACE greeting and being greeted here this week is that of trim little Julia May Root Cook (Mrs. Jimmie) here from California for a short visit with her mother Mrs. C. L. Root and brother Charles Root. The Cooks and their two sons used to live here on East 14th St., and moved to Fillmore, Calif. 17 years ago. Julia Mae plans to fly away home again, come Saturday.

BRIEF ENCOUNTERS: Saw, on election day, a number of the long-familiar, but seldom seen, faces—Jess Craddock smiling greetings . . . Ditto Mrs. J. C. Costin . . . Jack Hale . . . Don Benson . . . G. D. Foster . . . Charlie Jimmie Harrison (she used to be Billie Margaret Gregory) choosing several bright and lovely new pictures for their house . . . Ray Noble . . . Mrs. Oscar Majors each hunting "something mahogany—or dark walnut" at Pennington's.

Pauline Davis (Mrs. J. R.) was spied reading the Corner's greeting cards . . . Dale Geer (Mrs. Buck) was laughing merrily at herself for having bought more material for sewing—against her better judgement and early-day vow not to . . . Mrs. Harold Maniss . . . And Tex Keel, were both doing their banking.

And Rae Ann Carlock (nee Hamm) was saying what fun a group of City National friends had meeting and greeting gregarious George Womack at Abilene's air port Sunday. Our boy looks amazingly well, happy, and fairly steady after his European fling.

GALLIVANTIN' GEORGE, (Womack), being a true-blue West Texas product, arranged to get home in time for TUMBLEWEED FESTIVAL, a thing they do not have in the Swiss Alps.

The tumbleweed, common as the heel-burr here, is looked upon with amazed admiration in other, somewhat distant places. Mrs. A. K. McCarley Sr., Longfellow Community, was saying the other day how some people in Portland, Maine, were enchanted with the tumbleweed wreath she sent there, Christmas.

Mrs. McCarley shipped the bright wreath to her sister Florence (Mrs. D. S.) Smith, who is also a sister of O. W. Watlington. When the wreath arrived it was the center of attraction of Florence's whole neighborhood in Portland.

One friendly yankeeland neighbor so wanted to see "What a tumbleweed looks like" before becoming holiday decoration, Mrs. McCarley shipped a huge one "in the raw" for Portland people to see. It now sits in an urn on a TV set in Maine. Proving simply this: it is, always has been, and always will be scarcity that raises the value of anything on earth—up to and including orchids and tumbleweeds. And maybe even food!

TUMBLEWEED HATS to be worn by Martha Jane Nickson and her daughter Ellen were made by Martha Jane's mama, Mrs. Sam L. Majors Sr., Colorado City pioneer and poet who has had two volumes of verses she made published.

Ned Nickson, Martha's husband, was here last weekend. The Nicksons had a celebration that had nothing to do with Festival week. They're all happy because Ned's plans have been changed by his company—Ramada Inn Motor Hotel chain—and he will be general manager of Ramada Inn in Roswell, N. M.! They had been set for Ramada Inn, Houston.

"Feel like a gypsy," Martha was saying, "With part of our things here, part in Denver, part at Houston, and here we are going back home." Home is Roswell, of course, and our "Gypsy" Nickson is very gay at the thought of returning, May 23.

HEALTH & SAFETY TIPS

Health Therapy In Sane, Safe Garden

Prepared for Colorado City Record by the American Medical Association.)

The home gardening season is in full swing across the nation again this week. After long months of winter, followed by spring rains, millions of American householders are back at the annual battle with crab grass and insects in the perennial effort to add a touch of natural color and beauty to the American scene.

Gardening is splendid therapy and good exercise, highly recommended by the medical profession for almost every one. It also entails some hazard to health, most of which can be avoided.

If you have done nothing more strenuous than sit by the fire for most of the winter, by all means take it easy for the first few weekends of gardening. Give your muscles and wind a chance to regain strength gradually, rather than trying to do too much on the first day in the yard.

Gardening often brings cuts and scratches from twigs, thorns, sharp tools. First aid is simple: Wash the wound with soap and water to wash away impurities. Of course, deeper cuts will require medical attention.

Tetanus germs are harbored in the soil, particularly if there are farm animals around or if barnyard fertilizer is used in the garden. The home gardener who fails to get a shot of tetanus toxoid at the beginning of the season is courting serious trouble with lockjaw.

Power tools, particularly lawn mowers, are standard equipment for the modern home gardener. They save many an aching back, but they are potentially dangerous. Your power lawn mower should come with instructions on its safe use. Study them carefully. They mean what they say. If you're in doubt, check with a mechanic as to potential hazards of power tools.

Insect sprays and powders, plus poisons that kill weeds, are useful adjuncts to gardening. These, also, have inherent hazards if used

Colorado City

We salute the people of Colorado City and the progressive industries that have matched ideas and know-how with the resources of the area to build a sound economy and growing city.

Ideas, community cooperation, planning and work are making possible the development of Colorado City as a center of progress-minded people and industrial productivity.

A major industry in the Colorado City area is the Morgan Creek Steam-Electric Generating Station of Texas Electric Service Company. This plant and big new transmission facilities recently completed are part of the strong power system which assures plenty of electric power for continued growth of Colorado City and the area.

Corporation Taxes Help Ease Big Deficit in State Funds

BY VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association
Annual payments of corporation franchise taxes helped knock down the enormous deficit in the state's General Revenue Fund in just 12 days.

On April 24, State Treasurer Jesse James reported a deficit of $80,341,045. Twelve days later, the overdraft was down to $38,053,885. James noted that the deficit was markedly lower than the $98,000,000 peak reached a little more than a month ago. But he did not state when the next big payment will be made out of the revenue fund, which might make the deficiency soar again.

However, State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert said the state will send more than $34,000,000 to public schools early in the summer.

STATE WINS ESCHHEAT — Texas' General Revenue Fund will reap $3,665 as a result of the state winning its first judgment under the new escheat law.

Although the judgment by the 53rd District Court at Travis County was for $103,665, the State General Revenue Fund benefits by only $3,665. Reason is that the first $50,000 escheated must be kept in the treasury in case owners are located. Another $50,000 annually must be allocated to pay for the cost of administering the program.

Funds were placed in the treasury under an old law which had no provision for disposition. But the escheat law passed in 1961 paved the way for use of the money.

Attorney General Will Wilson immediately started seeking more escheat money. He asked the U. S. Supreme Court to determine whether Texas, Pennsylvania or New Jersey has the right to escheat $37,853 that Sun Oil Company owes to more than 1,800 people whose whereabouts are unknown.

Texas claims the money because the transactions were made here. New Jersey filed suit because Sun Oil was in wants to attach it because the company headquarters in that state.

IMPORTED STEEL BAN — District Judge Herman Jones of Austin has given notice to both sides of the case of the Texas Association of Steel Importers, Inc., versus the State Highway Department that he will uphold the Highway Commission's authority to order a ban against imported steel in constructing state highways.

Steel Importers challenged this authority when they brought suit in January. A five-day trial in March ended in a hung jury.

Highway Commissioner Herb Petry Jr. testified that some imported steel was found to be "inferior," and stated that it wasn't "worth the risk."

Judge Jones concluded that the importers had failed to show the invalidity of the highway department's order. He is expected to enter judgment for the state next week.

ADOPTS TEACHER SERVICE — Texas Employment Commission has undertaken a new statewide program to answer the problem of placing teachers for the state's 2,500,000 school children.

TEC Administrator R. L. Coffman announced that the commission will run a placement service as a clearing house for applications from teachers. Also they will list vacancies.

SHINNERY PHILOSOPHER

Ideas for Letters Aren't from Work

Editor's note: The Shinnery Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Bone Hollow Creek tries to tell where he gets his ideas for letters. We're still not sure.

Dear editor:

A man came up to me the other day and said, "Say, where do you get your ideas for writing all these letters to The Colorado City Record?"

Well, for one thing, you've got to think. Say you come out of your house on a bright sunny morning and see a hoe leaning against a shed and weeds in your crops.

This makes a man think and since anybody knows it's impossible to swing a hoe and write a letter at the same time, I put first things first and leave the hoe alone. Anybody ought to know a lack of thinking has done the world more harm than a lack of weed-chopping, and I don't want anybody accusing me of falling down on my job.

The trouble with too many people is that they don't see things large enough. This is an intercontinental guided missile age we're living in, and a man can't afford to get too limited in his concern, he's got to widen his horizons.

For instance, with the United States' national debt approaching 300 billion dollars, a man has to be mighty limited in his outlook to be spending any time worrying about the $100 note he owes at the bank. It seems wasteful to me to be worrying over a hundred dollars when for the same amount of effort you can be worrying over three hundred billion.

When the roof of the world may be about to cave in, it seems to me I'd be derelict in my duties if I was up on top of my house patching mine.

With the wall in Berlin causing so much trouble, it seems sort of unstatesman-like for me to be out fixing my fence. Why risk offending world opinion?

Know everybody is supposed to get ahead in life, but if somebody didn't get behind, how could anybody get ahead? Weeds ought to be chopped all right, but a man should reserve some time for thinking, after he has provided his family with the four basic necessities for life: food, clothing, shelter and television.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

A message from Mercury prompts this story. Not the planet Mercury — for this isn't a space-age story.

We mean the Mercury outboard people. They remind us that down Texas way, the time is nigh when the "bow-hunting" fisherman can have a bail.

There is a group of sportsmen (and women) in this world who think nothing is more fun than to combine hunting and fishing, using the weapons of ancient times to harvest one of the most ancient of fishes.

In states where it is legal (and it is in most counties in Texas), they take a bow and arrow and go fishing (or hunting) for carp, impaling the fish with an arrow when the fish come into the shallows of rivers or lakes to spawn. It's one of the most exciting sports of all, since it is an apt combination of fishing and hunting.

If you've ever tried it, you know it takes a real hunter to sneak up on carp. It's certainly no casual process.

Those big-scale vacuum cleaners are a spooky, jittery lot. They are quick to spot a potential danger and react immediately... submerging in a split second.

About the only time you can slip up on them is when they are spawning.

This occurs when the water warms to their liking in the spring. Then they proceed into shallow water and roll in the spawning process.

Sometimes you can see half of the fish's back sticking out of the water.

Carp hunters usually use a lightweight outboard motor to get them to the shallow water six to eight inches deep, ever alert for the sealy back of a lunker carp.

This type of fishing-hunting works best when one person does the poling and another the shooting. In fact, it may not work at all unless the hunter is all set to shoot. He must have an arrow at the nock, with the line running from arrow to bow reel free and ready for a quick shot.

Carp do not wait for the shot. They come up like a surfacing whale, stay on the surface for an instant or two and down they go again. It is during this brief time they are on the surface that the arrow must be released.

Sounds interesting, doesn't it? It is, too, and very much so. Get a team of carp-archers into a "hot" sport and an afternoon of thrills is in store for them!

It's a thrill even when you miss — for carp are the watersplashing critters you ever saw when spooked.

Carp a Native of Asia

In 1877 the carp, a native of Asia that had been transplanted to Europe, was further transplanted to the United States. This started one of the greatest arguments of all time.

Proponents of carp fishing, by the hook and line method, say that they provide great sport, good eating and require a fair amount of skill to catch. But they say this in the face of the almost overwhelming feeling of others that a carp is a "junk" or "trash" fish, good for nothing but fertilizer and cat food.

Perhaps the truth lies somewhere in between, with the hooks and dough balls for bait. Or string a few grains of whole kernel canned corn on a hook and drop it into carp infested waters.

Do not use heavy weights! Carp swallow the bait slowly. If they feel the pull of a sinker they will drop the hook.

Anxious to try your luck at carp fishing — or bow and arrow hunting for carp?

It's a good way to test your skill — and have some fun.

Other states provide the same service for metropolitan areas where people are starved for recreation.

What many fishermen fail to realize is that it takes real strategy to catch a carp. These soft-mouthed critters are as nervous as a henpecked husband at a stag party. They are quick to drop a bait if it does not suit them in every way.

To be a success at carp fishing, use light lines small

8 TO 7 OVER PLAINVIEW

Wallace Stretches Win String to 5

Wallace Wildcats made two runs in the top of the seventh and went on to beat Plainview in Plainview 8-7 Monday to make the Wildcat's record 5-0. Three of the victories were against conference teams.

Trailing 7-6 going into the seventh Frank Biggers tripped, Eddy Campbell singled him home. Henry Burton then hit into a double play. Charles Belvin walked, stole second and Sidney Rose singled him home for the clincher.

The game was an exciting one. Wallace made one run in the first and one run in the fourth while Plainview made one in the fourth. Wallace then scored one in the fifth to lead 3-1.

Plainview delighted the partisan crowd by making five runs in their half of the fifth because of sloppy Wallace fielding. Wallace tied the scores in the sixth, but Plainview broke the tie in their half of the sixth inning.

AT BIG SPRING STATION

Area Research Studies Skip Row Cotton Profit

Researchers at the Big Spring Field Station have made an economic analysis of profits from dryland cotton skip row systems. They have found that where all cropland is planted to cotton and grain sorghum, the plant two, skip two system for cotton is most economically profitable. Until the recent change in the cotton allotment program, farmers had to skip four or more consecutive rows between cotton rows in order that the unplanted acreage would not be charged against their cotton allotment.

The cotton allotment program for 1962, however, does not require that four rows be skipped in order for the unplanted area not to be charged against the allotment. Cotton yields from two skip row combinations and a system where no row was skipped were compared at the Big Spring Field Station during 1958 to 1961. In all cases, cotton was grown on an Amarillo fine sandy loam soil and 40-inch rows were used. These findings indicate that the requirement of each skip row or non-skip row system is important in determining the total farm profit because it dictates the total area of cropland that can be occupied by cotton.

Let us assume a farm situation with 300 acres of cropland and 105 acres of cotton allotment. How many acres of cropland can be occupied by cotton under each of the three row systems?

First, the 40-inch row system would obviously occupy 105 acres of cropland as the cotton is planted in solid rows, 40 inches wide. Thus, the remaining 195 acres would be available for grain sorghum production. Second, the 2 x 1 row system would occupy 157 acres of cropland as only two-thirds acre of cotton allotment is required per acre occupied. Hence, 143 acres would be available for grain sorghum production.

Third, the 2 x 2 row system would occupy 210 acres of cropland as they only require one-half acre of cotton allotment for each acre occupied by cotton. With this system, only 90 acres would be available for grain sorghum production. Two were used to compute a four year average yield per acre of cropland for each of the row systems.

The row systems tested were: (a) the standard 40-inch row, (b) plant two rows and skip one row (2 x 1), and (c) plant two rows and skip two rows (2 x 2). A 40-inch row system, planted in solid rows, requires a full acre of cotton allotment. The two skip row systems require less than an acre of cotton allotment per acre of cropland since some rows are left unplanted. The 2 x 1 skip row system requires two-thirds of an acre of cotton allotment for each acre of cropland and the 2 x 2 skip row system requires one-half acre of cotton allotment for each acre of cropland.

The cotton allotment reduction. In this study, returns over cash expenses was used instead of net farm income. If year had been considered, fixed costs associated with each system would have been included. The cash returns from cotton were approximately the same ($65 per acre) for the 40-inch rows and the 2 x 1 row system. The returns per acre for the 2 x 2 row system was $57.82.

Grain sorghum planted in 40-inch rows returned $17.95 per ton for cottonseed, and $1.60 per hundredweight for grain sorghum. It was assumed in this study that all land not occupied by cotton would be planted to grain sorghum. This, of course, does not include the rows skipped between cotton rows since this land is left fallow.

The results of this analysis shows that the 2x2 skip row planting is the most profitable under the farm system shown above. This system has 210 acres of cotton and 90 acres of grain sorghum, and the return over cash expenses is $13,758. The 2 x 1 system is the second highest returning method of producing cotton, prices of cotton, grain sorghum, would not be applicable. Low. This system has 157 acres, and the four year average er cotton prices or higher grain sorghum prices would tend to cause a row system which occupied less cropland acres (40-inch and 2 x 1 systems) to be more profitable. The results of this study are applicable to dryland cotton farms on mixed land and sandy soils in the South Plains and Rolling Plains.

City Council and the Civic Improvement committee, headed by Austin McCloud, of the Chamber of Commerce have set the whole month of May as the period for an annual clean-up. Drew Ballard and Joe Earnest, co-chairmen of the campaign, are publicizing the project.

For those who own vacant lots and find they are not able to secure labor to chop weeds, the city, as it does annually, will, for payment of costs of labor, have the weeds mowed by city mower. A telephone call to City Hall plus payment relieves those who find they can not cope with vacant lots.

Not only are children helping in yards, they are furnishing persuasive slogans and rhymes, encouraging cleaning-up, painting-up, fixing-up. Mrs. Ross Dixon of the Palace and Lone Wolf theatres is offering two passes each week throughout the month of May for five best slogans or rhymes sent to Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up, Box 242, Colorado City. It appears that two boys from Hutchinson school will win passes this week for the following:

If you clean up your yard
You can work off your yard
I just know that's so
'Cause I was Mr. Fatso,
Dan Morgan, Snyder Hiway.

(Rge 11), Fifth Grade
When you Clean, Paint,
FixUp it is true
Neighbors will be proud of you.
And you'll be proud of yourself, too.

C. City Loses, S' Water Wins

Aaron Wilson of Sweetwater twirled a neat two hitter in besting Curtis Scott and the Colorado City 6-2 in Colorado City Tuesday night.

Curtis Scott stole home in the bottom of the seventh to make the game go into extra innings. It was in the eighth when Sweetwater made four runs for the deciding margin.

In the frantic eighth Goodman, Sweetwater first baseman, worked Curtis Scott for a walk. Hunt then doubled off of Sylvester Williams' glove and Sweetwater had men on second and third. When C. Lennon singled, Coach Billy Smith pulled Scott in favor of Frank Biggers.

Poor judgment on Charles Belvin, trying to throw her man out in home from deep short caused another run to score with nobody out. After two were out Attaway doubled but died on base. In the bottom of the eighth, Henry Burton received life when Crawford missed a pop-fly at second. Colorado did not score however.

Curtis Scott, seeking his third win, was the losing pitcher. Aaron Wilson was the winner.

Sweetwater leads the district with three wins and one tie (to be completed). C-City is 3-1 in district play.

First Methodists Break Ground for New Chapel

Ground breaking services were conducted Sunday morning at First Methodist Church for the new Mozella Dry Connor Chapel Building. Rev. Daris L. Egger, pastor, presided at the ceremony.

The church's Sunday School superintendent, Martin Weaver, gave the invocation.

Dr. W. S. Rhode, a member of the building committee, and chairman, read the scripture lesson.

The pastor called six members of the church to come forth to break ground for the new building. Turning the first spadeful of dirt was Harry Ratliff, who represented the Mozella Dry Connor Estate. Miss Jeanie Gundrum, president of the Methodist Youth Fellowship, representing the youth. Miss Gladys Miller, teacher of the Philathea Sunday Class, represented that group. Mrs. Connor was a member and teacher of the Philathea class while she lived in Colorado City.

Mrs. Charles C. Thompson, president of the Woman's Society, presided at the ceremony.
