STRIKE BREAKERS SHOOT WILD INTO CROWDS ON THE STREET

While a Train Is Passing Out of the Stock Yards Crowded With Negroes and Italians, a Panic Ensues and Forty or Fifty Shots Are Fired Into the Streets, Where Hundreds of People Were Passing, Making No Demonstration Against Those Who Had Been Working for the Packers—One Man Is Killed

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—The murder of Andrew Neibejewski, a union man, in a fusillade of revolver shots fired from a train tonight marked an enormous Saturday night exodus from the stock yards. The outbreak was one of the most exciting of the strike. The crowds stretched over blocks. Police immediately after the shooting were called by the score from distant stations. Negroes did the shooting and wholesale arrests were made, but the murderer was not identified.

The shooting occcurred at Fortieth street and Emerald avenue. The packers were sending out three long trains, each one crammed with negroes and Italians inside and out with men clinging to the very bottom steps of the platform. Six colored women strike breakers were found by the police strolling away from the yards at Fortieth street and Emerald avenue. A squad of police surrounded them and, leading them to the tracks, sought to put them aboard one of the trains bound downtown for their own safety. The first train went whirling past regardless of the policeman's signals, but the second which consisted of seven coaches, stopped.

ALMOST A PANIC

The stopping of the train so close to the yards inspired the hordes of negroes and Italians aboard with fear as it slowed up. The idea of a wholesale attack caused almost a panic. Eye-witnesses said the train had not come to a stop when the windows of every car went flying up and firing began at once. The street outside was well filled. It was 6 o'clock, the hour when workers were streaming homeward. Not a hostile move was made, according to witnesses, by the crowd outside as the negroes began shooting.

MANY SHOTS FIRED

Inspector Hunt, Captain Clancy and other police officers rushed to the scene. The train was searched in the region from which the fatal shot was supposed to have come. Between forty and fifty shots were fired, all of them coming from the strike breakers. The dead man was shot squarely in the forehead and fell dead, while men and women were running to cover on all sides of him.

The cars were so tightly packed with humanity that the police could make only an unsatisfactory search. No arms were found, but three men were arrested as witnesses.

Inspector Hunt telephoned Inspector Lavine to meet the train at the LaSalle street station. There took place a wholesale search. Inspector Lavine was ordered to arrest every man found with firearms or weapons. Following the shooting crowds lined the streets. The third big train, which carried mostly negro women, passed through a solid wall of humanity for blocks. The women were in abject terror, but no interference was made.

THE MAYOR'S ORDERS

The strike at present appears to be hinging on the order of Mayor Harrison to the packers to vacate their premises as lodging and eating houses for their help. By court injunction the packers will seek to prevent the eviction of their army of strike breakers from the stock yards. Their plan is to secure a two weeks' delay in the enforcement of the city ordinance against them. The strikers will fight the granting of a writ and stopping prompt law enforcement.

Chief O'Neil has orders from Mayor Harrison, based on the opinion of corporation counsel, to clear the 30,000 nonunionists out of their garrisons not later than Monday night. The counsel of the packers contend that Major Tollman is mistaken in his interpretation of the building ordinance.

PACKERS RESIST ORDER

The following terse comparison, informally made by Robert McManus, assistant counsel for Swifts, summarizes the packers contention. The placing of beds in the plants does not change the character of the buildings or their use any more than the killing of a chicken in a private home would cause its elevation from a residence into a slaughter house. The packers in asking an injunction against the city to prevent enforcement of the building ordinance as interpreted will contend:

First, That their houses are not within the fire limits, or under the supervision of the city ordinance.

Second, That the buildings were not used as lodging houses within the meaning of the statute.

Third, That the buildings were not erected for one special purpose and therefore may be put to any use the packers may see fit.

The packers have no chance to secure the injunction, is the confident prediction of Corporation Counsel Tollman. They will surely be denied an injunction by the courts. The petition will be filed Monday, b ut the judge to be appealed to has been kept secret. The strikers are jubilant and prophesy a victory, while the packers still maintain a calm outward front. Violence is feared if the great army of strike breakers is turned on to the streets at the expiration of the limit, Monday night.

"We will escort them out and aid in protecting them, but we cannot guarantee them safety in going to their work daily," said President Donnelly.

WIRE TAPPERS

Western Union Is Endeavoring to Locate Two Young Men Who Defrauded Several of the Offices

SCHEME WORKS WELL

Visit Offices in Large Cities and Obtain Cash on Fraudulent Orders Supposed to Have Been Sent Out of the Dallas Office

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 20.—With $1,100 of their cash, a clerk and one of his friends missing, the Western Union Telegraph Company has been keeping its wires hot all over the United States with the hope of effecting the arrest of the fugitive and securing the return of at least a part of the misappropriated funds. The story reads like that within the covers of a dime novel, and shows the reckless disposition of two young men who have placed their liberty at stake for a comparatively insignificant amount.

Some time during the latter part of July a well-dressed young man walked into the office of the Western Union Telegraph Company at Memphis, Tenn., and requested $300, which he stated he had been advised had been remitted him from Dallas. The Dallas office was queried on the subject and a confirmatory message was received, ordering the amount delivered. The money was paid over to the applicant and no more thought of the matter until several days later.

Two or three days later the same young man called at the office of the telegraph company at St. Louis and demanded $400. The request was confirmed from the Dallas office.

A day or so later the Chicago office was entered by the same well-dressed young man, who made application for $400, which had been sent him from Dallas, Texas, and the proper affirmation being received from Dallas the amount was paid over.

Shortly before the application for the payment of the first amount was made at the Memphis office a soda fountain tender at a certain drug store left Dallas and a day or so after the money had been paid out at the Chicago office, a young man employed at the office of a telegraph company, left Dallas on his vacation. He returned about the first of August, remained in the city one day, and suddenly disappeared.

Several days after the three offices mentioned above had paid out the amounts indicated they began to trace on the Dallas office for the amounts in question, and an investigation was immediately instituted. It was soon discovered that something crooked had been going on.

Affidavits have been made before the county attorney and which are now pending against the two young men, charging conspiracy to swindle. These affidavits are on file in Justice Edwards' court. As a matter of fact the swindle was consummated in the states of Tennessee, Missouri and Illinois, and if the fugitives are captured they will doubtless be tried in these states for swindling. They are charged in Texas with conspiracy to swindle, and will be tried on this charge here if arrested.

WASHINGTON INDICATIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Following are the weather indications:

Eastern Texas—Showers Sunday and Monday; light to fresh south winds.

Western Texas—Fair in south, showers in north portion Sunday and Monday.

Oklahoma and Arkansas—Fair Sunday, showers Monday.

A CYCLONE STRIKES ST. PAUL

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—At 10:30 p. m. an unconfirmed rumor is in circulation here that a tornado has swept through St. Paul, Minn., and that among the buildings destroyed was a flat building in which twenty-five people were either killed or seriously injured. All efforts to confirm the rumor have failed, as both the Postal and Western Union telegraph companies report all wires out of working order.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 20.—A report has just been received from St. Paul that an apartment building in Minneapolis has collapsed and that at least twenty people have been killed and a large number hurt. It is supposed that a cyclone struck the town and that the department building was blown down. Telegraph and telephone wires to both Minneapolis and St. Paul are down and just after the bare report of the building collapse was received absolutely all communication with both cities was cut off.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies both report that a terrific wind and rainstorm assuming the proportions of a hurricane passed over the cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis and that all communication with either city was cut off since 9:30 o'clock Saturday night. There is not a single telephone wire working into either of the cities. Shortly after 2:30 o'clock this (Sunday) morning one of the telegraph companies succeeded in getting a wire to the extreme outskirts of St. Paul, but nothing could be learned as to the extent of the storm or the havoc wrought.

THE ST. LOUIS STORM

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 20.—It is estimated this morning that the damage from the tornado last night will total $150,000, half of which is to manufacturies. Over 150 persons were injured. Across the river in Illinois two lives were lost and at Madison, Granite City and Venice damage is heavier than at first reported. The streets here are still littered with debris, notwithstanding the labors of a large gang of men. Broadway cars resumed traffic this morning after a suspension of eighteen hours.

HE SURRENDERS

SEARCY, Ark., Aug. 20.—Dr. R. G. Lightle, supposed to have been burned to death in his barn here and for whose death the insurance companies paid $19,000 in policies, returned here this morning and surrendered. He says he did not attempt fraud, but left the country for fear of prosecution for grave robbery, as he had a corpse for dissection in the barn when it burned. He went first to South Carolina and Georgia and was in Memphis when he learned of the situation. Mrs. Lightle returned $15,500 to the insurance companies.

SENATOR HOAR WEAKER

WORCHESTER, Mass., Aug. 20.—Senator Hoar is weakening gradually, as the end draws near, but it is expected that he will live through the night and possibly until Monday. He is resigned and is courageously awaiting the end.

JAPS SACRIFICE LIFE IN EFFORT TO TAKE THE PORT

All Forces of the Beseiging Army Are Brought Into Action and There Is a Desperate Attack Made on the Russian Gibraltar—Attacking Party Strikes From Every Point of Vantage Recently Acquired in the Various Engagements—Retreat on Mukden Has Commenced — Stoessel Claims to Have Retaken Positions

CHEFOO, Aug. 21.—Continued reports from Japanese sources in regard to the latest attack upon Port Arthur were received here last night and all are to the effect that the assault upon the Russian fortress was in progress for the greater part of the day yesterday (Saturday). From the most accurate reports obtainable, it is certain that the Japanese are conducting the attack with a fierceness and thoroughness that can only be interpreted in the light of a determination this time to accomplish the fall of the Russian stronghold.

The assault on the forts is being made from practically all the vantage points captured by the Japanese forces throughout the recent fighting before the fortress. All three branches of the Japanese siege army are reported to have been in action almost constantly throughout the day. The various reports are agreed that the Japanese disregard of human life is being exemplified in the attack as it has not been since the war with Russia began. It is stated that the casualties resulting from what is confidently believed to be the final attack on Port Arthur will be the heaviest of the war thus far, for the Japanese, but it is apparent that this is hardly being considered by the Japanese commanders. They are determined that the seige of Port Arthur is to come to an end and that now, and therefore the cost of the achievement in human life is not being considered.

Reports as to the havoc being done within the fortress of Port Arthur by the Japanese shell fire and the casualties to the Russians resultant from the assault of the Japanese forces are meager in the extreme. It is stated, however, that the Russian commander, General Stoessel, is aware that the Japanese have determined to accomplish the destruction of the Russian Gibraltar and that the Russians are fighting with the desperation and doggedness of a forlorn hope. The Japanese are withholding their calvary and artillery as much as possible in the attack, reserving them for what is believed to be a final and overwhelming rush of the concentrated Japanese forces upon the Russian works.

When this combined assault will be made is a matter of conjecture, but that it must come not later than today (Sunday) and very likely just before dawn, is the general opinion in Chefoo. Indeed all Chefoo believes that today will see the long-rumored fall of Port Arthur. The excitement among the Japanese here has been intense and they have arranged to cable the end of the Russian key to the Liao Tung peninsula.

Last evening the spirit of the Japanese was somewhat depressed by a rumor, the origin of which could not be traced, to the effect that the Japanese forces had been repulsed by the Russians. The rumor could not be confirmed from any source and is not generally credited.

IT COMMENCES FRIDAY

LONDON, Aug 20.—According to a series of reports to various agencies in London from Chefoo, Shanghai and other points, the attack of the Japanese on Port Arthur generally believed to have been begun with the intention finally to destroy the Russian fortress utterly, was commenced on the evening of Friday last and was continued until the early afternoon of yesterday (Sunday). Further than this none of the reports from the far east is conclusive. The result of the Japanese assault on the port is as yet unknown here. According to a cable dispatch from the correspondent of Lloyd's agency at Chefoo, while the Japanese land attack was at its height the Russian warships within the harbor of Port Arthur made another attempt to win the open sea. The Japanese fleet swooped down upon the Russian vessels and drove them back within the harbor. The damage to the Russian vessels is not stated. The Japanese warships sustained practically no damage.

RETAKE SAME POSITIONS

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 20.—A dispatch received from General Stoessel at Port Arthur says: "We have retaken several positions, including Ounlavaya Hill. The troops are most enthusiastic."

RETREAT TO MUKDEN

TOKIO, Aug. 20.—The war office is in receipt of news from the army in Manchuria to the effect that the Russian forces have begun the retreat toward Mukden. The Japanese advance forces have occupied the town of Anshan Shan on the Manchurian railroad, fifteen miles from Liao Yang.

FLOATING DOCK DESTROYED

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Lloyd's agent in St. Petersburg states that a floating dock en route to St. Petersburg from Libau, to be used in connection with the further fitting out of the Baltic fleet, has been destroyed.

SIGHTED NEAR SWEDEN

LONDON, Aug. 20.—A dispatch to the Central News from Copenhagen says that the Russian transport Terek and two destroyers were sighted this afternoon off Bergholm, Sweden. The vessels were headed for the Kiel canal.

CURZON A KING

He Is Named for Another Five Years as Viceroy of India, Showing That He Is in Personal Favor With Edward

IS DISLIKED BY MANY

His Own Countrymen Made to Know He Is Their Superior and He Lords It Over the Whole Country and Follows This With Gorgeous Display

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Lord Curzon of Kentilstone, who has been appointed viceroy of India by King Edward, succeeding himself, will return to his post of duty next month.

The entry of the British expedition to Tibet into Lahassa has greatly enhanced the viceroy's prestige among English politicians of every class, who, when the first fighting broke out in Tibet were inclined to blame him for having plunged the country into useless war. But while Curzon is popular with his superior the reverse is true of his subordinates.

He is the first viceroy of India who has really lived up to his title. Most of them have been content to act simply as colonial governors as they might in Ottawa or Melbourne. Curzon, however, from the first of his career as viceroy has been vice king in act as well as in title. He puts on enough royal trappings and goes in for enough gorgeous ceremony to make an English court look mean in comparison. London offers nothing in the way of the elephants, palaquin and servants in rainbow clothing to compare with Calcutta, Delphi or Simla. By thus elevating himself above all of the other English officials i n India Curzon naturally arouses hatred and jealousy. Men who used to know Curzon on terms of equality in London clubs objected to getting down on one knee at his receptions and backing out of his presence when he consented to dismiss them. Furthermore, the viceroy irritated the women by insisting on the same royal obeyances being bestowed on Lady Curzon and other members of her family. Even his mother-in-law, the elder Mrs. Leiter of Chicago, had to be treated as a queen and English women were not permitted to sit in her presence at state receptions and when they left had to back out of the room.

Toward the Indian natives Curzon has adopted a still higher and mightier tone. Over the native chieftains he has almost unlimited power and he exercises it to the full. For breaches of the rules and regulations of the Indian empire he has fined them and forbidden them to leave their domains. But in the eyes of the British cabinet these things are trifles, which are outweighed by his success in larger matters of policy. Lord Curzon regards Persia and Tibet as the next countries which must come under British rule. This will prevent further Russian expansion toward the Indian ocean. His trip to the Persian gulf was on a magnificent scale and impressed the Arabs and Persian chieftains that he was their over lord. Toward Tibet he acted with still greater firmness. In some respects Lord Curzon is the greatest man in the empire next to the king and his reappointment for another five years will enable him to go a great length in developing aggressive policies.

PRESIDENT FINDS HIGH WATER ON THE TRACK

On His Way to Oyster Bay He Is Forced to Make a Long Detour to Avoid the Flood in That Section

OYSTER BAY, Aug. 20.—President Roosevelt made a long time record trip between Washington and New York today. It required nine hours for his train to travel the distance and much of the time he was going west instead of east. A river of water pouring through the tunnel at Trenton, N. J., caused all the trouble and sent the president and his party on a tedious detour south of the Delaware river.

At Morrisville, Pa., just west of Trenton it was learned that water from the Assimpink creek was about five feet deep over the tracks in the tunnel and unless the president had a gondola or preferred to swim, it would be a good idea to send his train around. The president got back to Frankfort Junction at 4:45 and had reached Mounmouth track at 4:45, about three-quarters of an hour after the time he should have reached Oyster Bay.

"Never mind it at all," said the president, "I've got lots of time. Don't worry a bit about it."

When he shook hands with the engineer and fireman in the Jersey shed, as is his custom, he assured them in much the same way.

Deputy Police Commissioner Harris Lindsey, in the absence of Commissioner McAdoo, was at Jersey City to meet the president. So was United States Civil Service Commissioner A. W. Cooly, who happened to be in New York on leave.

The president was greeted by a loud cheer from the throng waiting upon the station platform. A dozen red lights were set ablaze at the same moment and thirty or forty little school children waved American flags at the president as he stepped from the car. More hands than he could shake in half an hour were thrust in his direction. He grabbed as many as he could on the little walk, exclaiming: "Well, how are you?" or, "I'm awfully glad to see you," to this or that old neighbor and then jumped into the rig and was away on the road to Sagamore Hill, with a cherry good-bye and good night.

HOLDS RAILROAD TO BLAME FOR THE ENTIRE LOSS

Coroner's Jury Decides That the Denver and Rio Grande Bridge at Dry Creek Was an Unsafe Structure

PUEBLO, Colo., Aug. 20.—The coroner's jury, which has been in session nearly two weeks inquiring into the causes and endeavoring to fix the responsibility for the Eden railroad disaster, which cost more than a hundred lives, rendered its verdict at 7:30 tonight.

According to the jury 138 persons were killed by accident to the Rio Grande train No. 11, August 7, the blame for which is fixed on the railroad company. The jury finds that the bridge which collapsed was not in a safe condition and condemns the company for not taking more precautions in providing watchmen, track walkers and means of communication for notifying trains in emergencies.

The verdict is a general review of the causes and findings and contains several thousand words in part as follows:

"That it was impossible for the engineer or fireman to see anything wrong with the bridge or in any way avert the catastrophe; that the county bridge being washed against the trestle was a factor in weakening it, it being of an inferior grade of material than is used in other railroad bridges throughout the country."

In concluding the jury says:

"Therefore, the jury finds that the appalling loss of life and property on the bridge number 1108 on August 7, 1904, was due to the negligence of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad company."

DEPORTATIONS CAUSE RIOT AT NIGHT IN CRIPPLE CREEK

DENVER, Col., Aug. 20.—It is reported that Cripple Creek is in the hands of 1,000 armed miners, who are in possession of the city hall. The Citizens' Alliance are in the miners' hands and are helpless.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 20.—A mob of 2,000 men broke into the Inter-Mountain Mercantile Company's store at Cripple Creek. They demolished stores and carried off goods. They then broke into the jail and marched the sheriff and deputies out of town. Many lynchings are expected tonight. The streets are a seething mass of excited humanity.

BLOODSHED IS EXPECTED

DENVER, Col., Aug. 20.—Intense excitement prevails in Cripple Creek and much bloodshed is expected before the night is over. A mob is in control of the town and wholesale deportations were begun this evening. Already a dozen prominent men not in entire sympathy with the citizens' movement have been run out of the town. Armed men on horseback are now making a round-up of the district to gather more men to drive from the county.

SEVERAL ARE DEPORTED

Among those deported at present, are the following: Former Attorney General Eugene D. Engley, Frank J. Hangs, attorney for the Western Federation of Miners; J. W. Higgins, former president of the Crippie Creek Carpenters' Union and republican candidate for alderman in the Fourth ward at the last city election; M. N. Heimerdinger, one of the principal owners of the Interstate Mercantile Company of Butte, Mont.; J. W. Hall, a heavy stockholder in the Interstate Mercantile Company of Butte, Mont.; J. C. Cole, former deputy district attorney for Teller county; J. C. O'Neil, deputy county clerk; Albert Pierce, for ten years a prominent resident of this city; Frank Aikman, employed by the Interstate Mercantile Company.

The above men were corralled at various points in Cripple Creek, beginning at 5 o'clock, and at 6:30, when all had been herded together, they were started over the hills west of town and marched toward Florissant under a heavy armed guard.

MARCHED THROUGH STREETS

Just as the men were going on shift at 6 o'clock they were stopped and formed into a crowd, which marched through the streets, gathering union men and known sympathizers together, practically as prisoners. The first to be taken was Eugene Engley, former attorney general of the state and attorney for the union men.

Next the crowd picked up J. C. Cole, former assistant district attorney of Teller county, and Frank J. Hangs, attorney for the Western Federation of Miners.

They then marched to the union store and took John S. Hale, the manager, from the place. The crowd then gathered in front of the court house and waited there for other union men to be apprehended. The expressed design of the crowd was to herd the union men together and march them over the hills and out of the district. The claim was made that a conspiracy had been discovered to commit violence and that the prompt deportation of union men would prevent further bloodshed. There was no disorder. Apparently arrangements for the action of the crowd had been carefully planned and everything was carried out without excitement.

OPPOSE THE STORE

The men were not deported until after dark. The movement seems to be on the part of the Citizens' Alliance. John W. Hall came to Cripple Creek two weeks ago from Butte, Mont., representing the Interstate Mercantile Company, which purchased the union stores here and at Victor from the Western Federation of Miners. The store was closed a week ago and the first action against it was an order issued by the Citizens' Alliance forbidding the newspapers from advertising the store and also forbidding miners to patronize it. The Interstate is a Montana corporation and was organized so as to bring any interference with the stores into the federal courts. Harry Heimerdinger of Butte is the father of the enterprise and he is now believed to be in Denver prepared to ask the federal court for an injunction restraining interference with the store or its manager, Mr. Hall.

JUDGE PARKER IS A DIPLOMAT AS HIS LETTER SHOWS

He Writes to the Man Who Criticizes Him and He Finds No Fault With Him

ROSEMONT, ESOPUS, N. Y., Aug. 20.—With blue and gold gidons emblazoned with "Brooklyn Democratic Club" flying, fifty representatives of that organization marched in the mud and rain from the Esopus depot to meet the democratic candidate for the presidency.

Judge Parker greeted his visitors on the veranda surrounded by Mrs. Parker and Miss Schoonmaker, a sister of the candidate's wife, and Secretary McCauseland. Daniel Monnihan, a New York city banker, made a speech on behalf of the delegation. Judge Parker in responding conveyed his thanks to the delegation for their visit and then shook hands with each of them, after which a luncheon was served on the veranda and the lawn.

Intense interest centered in the meeting of the candidate with Frederick W. Hinrichs, who with William J. Bryan, made a speech bitterly denouncing the judge's candidacy and the men promoting it at the anti-Parker meeting in Cooper Union, June 20. The greeting was very cordial. Mr. Hinrichs said he would like to have a meeting with the judge again and he was assured that he could have one at any time. The two had a long talk, however, right then and there.

Mr. Hinrichs made the following formal statement:

"My impression of Judge Parker has always been the same. He is a charming man of force. I may, perhaps, with propriety, give you an insight into his character, by showing you a note which the judge wrote to me a few weeks after I spoke to the Cooper Union audience in criticism of his silence. This letter came to me unsolicited. The leter in part follows:

"'My Dear Hinrichs—I find no fault whatever with those who thought the party could do better. Some time I shall hope to have a talk with you, and then if you feel that the cause is worthy of your effort, I shall hope that you will take that active part for which your talents and honesty so well fit you. With assurance of personal regards, I am sincerely yours,

"'ALTON B. PARKER.'"

DESPERATE NEGRO SHOOTS OFFICERS WHO FOLLOW

He Is Riddled With Bullets After He Has Killed One and Wounded Another of His Pursuers

FOREST CITY, Ark., Aug. 20.—Two men are dead and one dying as the result of an attempt by officers to arrest John Williams, a negro desperado and ex-convict.

City Marshal W. W. Rainbbolt is dead. The negro Williams was also killed and Deputy Sheriff W. M. Murphy is dying from a wound through the neck.

The negro came into the city today and was beating a negro woman when Deputy Sheriffs Murphy and R. K. Swan started to arrest him. The negro fired on the officers, shooting Murphy through the wind pipe at the first shot and missing Swan, who fired two shots at him, both missing. City Marshal W. W. Rainbolt, accompanied by J. H. Scott followed the negro with drawn pistols. The negro waited for them, hiding behind a fence corner and fired at them as soon as they got in range. Rainbolt was shot in the stomach and lived but half an hour. He and Scott, however, killed the negro, riddling him with bullets from their revolvers. Murphy is still alive but cannot live through the night.

DOZEN SMALL RIOTS

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 20.—A dozen small riots occurred in South Omaha tonight, but no one was seriously injured. Those who were assaulted were nearly all strikers who had returned to work in the packing houses. The labor leaders have doubled their efforts to keep their men in line, as it is generally reported that a big break is likely to take place in the strikers' ranks Monday.

ROOSEVELT CLUB IS PERMANENTLY ORGANIZED

Constitution and By-laws Are Adopted and List of Officers Selected for Government

President W. C. Forbess called the meeting of the Roosevelt Central Republican club to order at the court house last night and announced that the first order of business would be the reading of the minutes of the last meeting held a week ago.

On motion the minutes were approved.

Frank Stanley, chairman of the committee to prepare a constitution and by-laws, stated the same was ready and asked Secretary Moore to read the report, which he did.

The preamble says:

"We, the republicans of Tarrant county, Texas, in order to place before the general public and especially the young men of our community, who are unfortunately surrounded by a class of politicians who suppress, distort and misrepresent those principles and measures advocated by our party, which action having a tendency to prejudice and narrow the conclusions, we must all reach as to our duty to our country, deem it advisable at this time to establish a club where the loyal republicans can gather, where literature can be kept, where arguments may be presented, and the better course pointed out for the guidance of all true patriotic citizens, to promote the general welfare and insure the future happiness and prosperity of our country, do make and publish the following constitution and by-laws."

The constitution provides that the name of the club shall be the Roosevelt Central Republican club of Fort Worth; the emblem shall be a springing panther. The object shall be to support and promulgate the principles of the national republican party and to support the republican party measures of Fort Worth, Tarrant county, and the state of Texas. The membership shall consist of republicans and all wishing to affiliate with the party possessing the necessary qualifications. The revenues of the club shall be derived from dues assessed against each member namely, the sum of $1 per quarter, payable on or before the 1st day of September, December, March and June. From bequests and donations. Federal and Confederate soldiers may be admitted with payment of dues.

When the reading of the constitution and by-laws had been concluded the report was adopted.

A statement was made by Dr. J. L. Cooper that it was customary in such clubs that all Grand Army men and Confederates who have attained the age of 62 years be not assessed membership dues. He said there were about seventy-five G. A. R. members in the county. The amendment by Dr. Cooper prevailed.

On motion of W. H. Robb a committee of five composed of Messrs. Robb, Starns, Stewart, Davidson and Campbell was appointed to suggest names for officers of the club.

While the committee was making up its report Dr. Cooper was asked to address the club on the political situation. He said if there was a state in this country where poltical education among young men is needed it is in Texas. The doctor said it would be worth much good to the state if more republican congressmen could be sent to Washington. He wanted the club organized permanently.

He referred to the record of the republican party the past eight years and said it stood above reproach, and that President Roosevelt was a great statesman and that he has done much for the people.

Mr. Robb reported the recommendations for officers as follows: President, W. C. Forbess; first vice president, Dr. J. L. Cooper; second vice president, T. N. Edgell; third vice president, Clyde Jack; secretary, N. B. Moore; treasurer, August Hummel; executive committee, F. B. Stanley, S. B. Hovey, C. P. Brewer, Sam Davidson, G. W. Barnhart, J. N. Winters and N. A. Dodge.

The above were elected, the secretary casting the ballot for the entire membership.

Frank B. Stanley announced that W. H. Atwell and J. W. Ownby of Paris will be here and address the club on Monday night next in the auditorium of the city hall.

J. N. Winters made a motion that a voluntary contribution be made to start the club off. Mr. Winters headed the list with $5, other contributing the same being Dr. Brewer, Postmaster Burroughs, President Forbess, W. H. Robb, F. B. Stanley, Sam Davidson, A. W. Chaney, T. N. Edgell, N. A. Dodge, F. H. Peters, N. B. Moore, Dr. J. L. Cooper and Dr. C. P. Brewer. Others who donated were J. M. Stewart, $1; W. B. Morgan, $2.50.

The president and secretary were authorzied to procure membership badges to be worn by members during the republican state convention to be held here next week.

Some twenty-five or thirty new members signed the rolls of the club, when adjournment occurred.

MAIL CLERKS WIN A DOUBLE HEADER

The team of the railway mail service of the eleventh division yesterday afternoon defeated the Itasca team at that place in a double header.

The first game was won by the mail clerks by a score of 8 to 3, the second game also resulting in their favor by a score of 6 to 4. The batteries for the mail clerks were Sullivan and Wray and Hudson and Wray; for Itasca the batteries were Lawson and Brown and Bragg and Killough. In the two games only six hits were made off the mail clerk pitchers, three being made off each in his game.

R. P. SANDERSON IS SHOT AND KILLED IN DALLAS

Tragedy Occurs at the City Calaboose, and the Night Station Keeper Is Arrested

DALLAS, Aug. 20.—Rodger P. Sanderson, street superintendent of Dallas, was shot and mortally wounded this afternoon at about 5:30 o'clock near the city calaboose, corner of Carondalet and Market streets. William E. Lacey, night station keeper at the calaboose, is charged with the shooting and he is being held at the county jail awaiting a preliminary hearing.

Sanderson and Lacey were in the alley, just east of the calaboose building, at the time the shooting took place and there were few eye-witnesses present. Three shots were fired, it is claimed, two of which entered the upper part of Mr. Sanderson's body. One shot pierced his right breast near the nipple and came out his back just below the shoulder blade; the other shot penetrated his stomach, just above the navel.

He fell unconscious immediately after the shooting and was carried into the calaboose station, where he died a few minutes later in spite of every effort made by members of the police force and bystanders to give him aid. City Health Officer Smart and his assistant, Dr. Smith, arrived at the station shortly after he had drawn his last breath.

William E. Lacey, who is charged with the shooting, surrendered himself to Day Stationkeeper Keehan, and he was taken to the county jail by Patrolman William Brice. He asked to be excused from talking when approached by a representative of The Telegram and made no statement beyond saying that he acted in self-defense.

Mayor Barry arrived at the scene of the shooting within twenty minutes after it had occurred and he saw that the dying man had every attention possible.

A pitiful incident in connection with the affair occurred when Mrs. Sanderson viewed the body of her husband. The men in the station tried to comfort her, but she seemed to give herself up to her grief. She was removed in a prostrated condition to her home in a carriage.

Mr. Sanderson's remains were removed to the family home after an inquest was held.

Day Captain Keehan was about a block away from the station when the shooting occurred and he hurried back as soon as he heard the shots and assisted in removing the dying man to the station, where he was placed on a cot.

The trouble is believed to have originated over a controversy that concerned the men's official relations. Both men have known each other for a long time and it was always supposed that they had been the best of friends.

Mr. Sanderson had resided in Dallas for the past twenty-six years and he was known by hundreds of Dallasites as "Sandy." He was elected street superintendent last April by a decisive vote against a large field of opponents. His good nature is said to have won for him.

Previous to that time he was a foreman of a street gang under Street Superintendent Wilson. He had been twice married and was the father of two sons by his first wife. He leaves one stepchild. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias, Red Men and Ancient Order of United Workmen. At different times in his career in Dallas he was a policeman and deputy constable.

William E. Lacey, the man who did the shooting, has also been a resident of Dallas for many years. He came to Dallas twenty years ago and has been in the service of the city in different capacities for the past eleven years. He had been in the police department for the past six years, and was appointed night stationkeeper last June. Mr. Lacey was known as a quiet man and he had the same characteristic good nature as Mr. Sanderson.

Mr. Lacey will probably be given a hearing next Monday before a justice of the peace and it may be possible that his friends will ask for habeas corpus proceedings to secure his release pending a trial.

CITY NEWS

W. C. Stonestreet left last night for a trip to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirsey will leave this morning to visit relatives in Goldthwaite, Texas.

Miss Bessie Price of Ruston, La., after spending several months in Texas, returned home yesterday. She made a great many friends while here who regret her departure.

Mrs. J. T. Martin and daughter, Orni, who have been visiting at Lawton, Ok., are now in the Wichita mountains. They expect to return home the latter part of the week.

A large crowd is expected in this city on an excursion over the Frisco road today, which is being run at special rates from all points between here and Brownwood. The rates made are exceptional and as the event has been extensively advertised, it is expected to prove one of the largest ever brought into the city. The special train will reach here this morning and will leave again at 7:30 p. m.

It is reported to The Telegram that a lady with two children, one of whom is ill, is living at 1305 Virginia avenue and is in need of assistance. The place is just opposite the ball park. The neighbors have been giving attention.

Khleber Van Zandt, who has been connected with the company making harbor improvements at Manzanillo, Mexico, has arrived in this city and will spend several weeks visiting the family of his father, General K. M. Van Zandt. The work, Mr. Van Zandt says, is nearing completion.

The school trustees are in a predicament, according to the statement made to The Telegram last evening, in referring to the amount of work yet to be completed before the commencement of the public schools of the city. One trustee stated that the board has yet to order between 600 and 700 seats to be used in the various new rooms being added to different ward school buildings. In all there are some fourteen rooms being built. Professor Hogg is anxiously expected to arrive home from his vacation, but just when none of the members of the board are able to say.

THE REPUBLICANS

H. F. MacGregor of Houston Is Thorn Which Is in the Side of Cecil A. Lyon and There May Be Fight Made Here

LYON HAS STRENGTH

National Committeeman Has Much Patronage to Distribute to His Friends and Supporters and He Will Be Able to Win the Prize

The republican state convention for the purpose of nominating a state ticket will be convened in Fort Worth Tuesday, August 23, and it is expected that the usual Texas republican "harmony" will exist. In years gone by Wright Cuney, E. H. R. Green, and Gooseneck Bill McDonald furnished the fun and now a Houston man promises to ruffle the Lyon forces that now dominate the Texas machine. The alleged disturber is H. F. McGregor and he is president of a street railway company in the Magnolia City. He desires to go to congress from the Eighth district and it is also his ambition to be state chairman.

The Lyon forces would gladly permit Mr. McGregor to become a congressman but the rub comes in on the state chairmanship ambitions. The Lyon politicians want Cecil A. Lyon to hold both the office of national committeeman and the position of state chairmanship. They think that one-man control in Texas republican politics will bring about real harmony and that a party of voters, not an organization of federal pie eaters, will result after Mr. Lyon has complete power for a year or two. There is no denying the fact Mr. Lyon is thoroughly honest and he is sincere in his purpose to build up a "respectable" party in Texas but a large number of the cautious ones believe that it would be a bad precedent to establish to give one man almost complete control of the republican machine. They admit that the affairs of the party were never in better shape than they are now, under the administration of Mr. Lyon, who is as completely the master of the situation as the ruler of an oligarchy. There has been little chafing under the yoke of his despotism and he has not taken undue advantage of his position.

The friends of McGregor believe that one man should occupy the position of state chairman and another the job of national committeeman. They consider it extremely dangerous to give one man complete power no matter how virtuous he is and they propose to vigorously resist all efforts to elect Colonel Lyon state chairman again.

The Houston man has issued many circular letters explaining his position to Texas republicans, and there is no doubt that he will have a strong following, but it is believed at the present time that he will stand no show at Fort Worth this week. Lyon has the proxies, just as Frank Andrews had them at the democratic state convention, and he, Lyon, will probably use them with the same effect. The office of state chairman carries with it more job giving power than the position of United States senator in a southern state. Lyon has ten federal offices to give away where Culberson and Bailey have one. Hence it would seem plain that he could offer some inducements to republicans to line up on his side in the coming fight with McGregor.

As is usually the case in republican conventions in the south, the feature of the meeting is invariably the election of a state chairman. The nomination of a state ticket is a secondary consideration and the most available list of martyrs is selected to be overwhelmingly defeated in November. This year it is claimed that the republican ticket will be "high class," that is, it will be one that the native republicans and the Lily Whites can support with enthusiasm, because the negro does not get nearer it than the opening and closing prayer of the convention. This condition of affairs would seem strange because Lyon and Roosevelt are great friends and every Texan knows how the strenuous one stands on the negro question.

There is some talk of fusion with the populists in several of the congressional districts where the republicans have made nominations and the populists have not, and in districts where the populists have put up candidates and the republicans have not.

A complete list of the republican nominees for congress in Texas follows:

First, J. A. Armistead; second, A. J. Houston; third, C. G. White; fourth, J. M. Martin; fifth, J. J. Cypert; sixth, vacant; seventh, George W. Burkett; eighth, H. T. McGregor; ninth, R. B. Allen (refused to accept and another may be nominated); tenth, vacant; eleventh, Joe E. Williams; twelfth, F. P. Stanley; thirteenth, vacant; fourteenth, Albert Vanderstucken; fifteenth, Samuel J. Morin; sixteenth, vacant.

COMING TO FORT WORTH

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 20.—Several republicans will attend the meeting of the republican state league to be held at Fort Worth Monday, for the purpose of selecting delegates to the national republican league which convenes at Indianapolis, Ind., on October 5 and 6. There will be about sixty-four delegates sent from Texas. The object of the republican league is indentically the same relative to the republican party as the democratic campaign committee is to the democratic party.

Hon. William H. Atwell, United States attorney, is the national committeeman from Texas. The officers of the state league are H. F. McGregor of Houston, president; J. B. Schmitz of Denton, vice president; S. L. Haines of Houston, treasurer; Whit Dryden of Fort Worth, secretary. Samuel Davidson of Fort Worth is vice president for Texas of the national organization.

The present city secretary of Philadelphia, John Hampton Moore, is the president of the national organization.

The membership of the league in Texas is about 10,000.

Market Quotations

NORTH FORT WORTH, Aug. 20.—Receipts of cattle today were fairly good, about twenty cars arriving and, including driven-ins, total receipts were close around 1,000 head.

Supplies of steers were small and mostly of medium quality. Local buyers were not very active, but the supply was finally cleaned up on a steady basis, with the bulk of sales at a range of from $2.45 to $2.60. A few cattle were on the market good enough to land around $3, but the owner was not satisfied with the price and ordered them out.

Butcher stock supplies were moderate, and mostly of medium quality. There was a fairly active demand and offerings sold freely on a steady basis, with the bulk going from $1.70 to $1.95.

Bulls were in in light numbers, and sold about steady at a range of from $1.50 to $1.75.

About five or six full loads of calves arrived, the quality of which was medium to good. There was a limited demand and what few sold went on a steady basis at a range of from $2.50 to $2.85.

No fresh arrivals of hogs came in today, and the few on sale were a few held over for the past two or three days, which found a weak draggy market and again had to sell lower.

COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 7 to 9 points in response to bullish Liverpool cables of both a private and official character. Shorts covered actively at first, being rendered uneasy by the prospect for showers over Sunday as well as by firmness abroad, and prices after the opening were advanced a few more points on the active months. But scattering longs took profits at the higher level, and, with the south still selling moderately, the additional gains were soon lost, after which the market ruled quiet and irregular, with business of the week end character. Houston estimates for Monday range from 2,600 to 2,900 bales, against 17 bales last year. Estimated receipts at the ports today 3,200 bales against 674 bales last week and seven bales last year. For the week 30,000 bales, against 14,032 bales last week and 1,438 bales last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans were fifty-eight bales, against none last year, and at Houston 1,792 bales against eight last year. Spots closed quiet; middling, 10.85c; middling gulf, 11.10c; sales, 126 bales. Cotton futures closed steady.

GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Another day of sensational claims of rust damage and to that an additional suggestion of a killing frost before Monday morning caused a further rise in wheat. At the end prices were higher than any previous closing figures of the advance. May wheat sold as high as $1.16½ and closed at $1.15¾. September closed at $1.10½ and December at $1.12⅝. Corn was strong and higher under the influence of the frost scare. September closed ⅝c higher for the day at 54c; December and May each at 1c advance. Oats closed without material change. Provisions were firm and in the end after some reaction from top prices, a little higher than final figures of the day before.

On the early trades in Chicago wheat today the new September was advanced to $1.11, the December to $1.13¾, the May to $1.16¼. This was a matter of 2 to 2½c gain over the close on the advance of four cents yesterday. But like an inch on the end of a man's nose, a few cents added to wheat now becomes very noticeable. Of course, the top price of the morning made a new high record in Chicago wheat market since the year Joe Leiter put his millions into a bull deal. That was manipulation based on small reserves, with little regard for what was ahead. This is speculation based entirely on the outcome of the present harvests. One of the best posted leaders of the northwest—the head of the greatest milling plants in the world—went on record today as declaring that no man can put a figure on the yields of the northwest. He says figures reflecting the facts one day must be changed the next. The late harvests are yet to be cut. The late fields are in a race with the rust. They may be overtaken by frosts inside of forty-eight hours. There is the greatest appearance of apprehension and with it, according to this authority, a great deal of hope that after the thrashers have done with their work the northwest will have a fair volume of wheat of various kinds. After the first hour there was a moderate modification of the advance here. The new September prices dropped back one cent around $1.10, December reacted 1½c to $1.13⅝ to $1.12⅛, May held around $1.15—one cent over last night and 1¾c under the top.

Wheat—Futures held remarkably firm to the close. If there was realization by longs there was fresh buying by some one else. Last prices were but ¾c to 1c under top for the day. New September closed at $1.10⅝, December $1.12⅝, May $1.15¾. Top on May was $1.16½.

Corn—Futures shared the buying force in wheat at the opening. There was remarkable strength in the new crop months. December opened 52⅞c up to 53¾c, May from 52c to 53c. The buying was general. Commission houses ordered in large volumes. The pit trade became excited buyers. The low temperatures had a bullish effect. The wheat advance influenced corn. From 53¾c the December price rested at 53¼c near the close. May back from 53 to 51½c. Smaller receipts are predicted because of the rains. Corn futures closed with excellent gains. December 50⅝c, May one cent higher for the new crop months. All the action in oats was in narrow limits. Early strength put September 34¾c. December 35⅝, May to 37⅞c. They closed, September 34c, December 35¼c, May 37½@⅝—unchanged from yesterday.

Provisions—Prices of provisions were advanced early, had a backset at one time under Fridays prices, and in the end closed with good support and a little gain. Last prices for the day and week were $11.80, $11.87½ and $13.12½ for September, October and January pork. Lard, same months, closed $6.90, $7.00 and $7.10; ribs $7.45, $7.52½ and $6.87½.

Flax seed prices advanced ½c to 1c in sympathy with other markets. The trade was light and the offerings moderate. No. 1 northwestern was quoted at $1.24½ and regular No. 1 and September at $1.17½. Rye scored an advance also, prices being quoted 1 to 2 cents higher at 75c f. o. b. for cash No. 2, 75c for September and 76¾c for December. Barley ruled firm and unchanged. Malting 42c to 55c, feed 35 to 40c and screenings 30c to 40c. Timothy seed dull. For September delivery $3.00 was bid and $3.05 asked. Cash about $2.90 and country lots $2.50 to $2.80. Clover seed inactive.

LIVERPOOL GRAIN CABLE

(By Private Wire to M. H. Thomas & Co.)

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 20.—The following changes were noted in the corn and wheat market today:

Wheat closed ½d up.
Corn closed ¼d up.

STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The stocks developed rather a general weakness today, coincident with the publication of the technically favorable bank statement with the greatest losses extending to 1 per cent or thereabout compared with yesterday's closing figures in St. Paul, which fell 1¼c, Union Pacific, Amalgamated Copper, Atchison, Southern Pacific, Sugar Refining and other issues. Fairly good support was apparent throughout in United States Steel preferred. In the last hour the market continued irregular, but in some cases fractional recoveries from the lowest prices occurred, reducing the extreme net declines from yesterday's final figures, while in other directions the lowest prices of the day were established. The most important influences contributing to depress prices were the further sharp advances in the grain markets. Logically, the largest selling orders were reported to emanate from the so-called western element, which is credited with running a bull speculation in grain, while bearing stocks. The stock market closed unsettled with continuing pressure. Government bonds were unchanged; other bonds were quiet with an irregular movement.

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Amalgamated Copper worked off rather easily to under 54c today, but showed a fair demand on the reaction, recovering fractionally at the close. New York houses were the principal sellers in the local market. The balance of the copper list was dull almost to the point of stagnation. Amalgamated lost half, Osceola, ½c and Tamarack 1 per cent. THE CHOICE OF A SCHOOL

Now is the time of year when ten thousand fathers and mothers in Texas must decide for better or for worse the most vital question of their lives, the choice of a boarding school for their sons and daughters, for upon this decision at this time will depend the intellectual, moral and social standing of their off-spring. Many a mother will decide after much hesitation and correspondence to keep her dear child at home one more year, only to learn at the expiration of that time that he has grown too big and too unruly to persuade to take an education; and then come the mortification and regret that she did not part company with the little man in time to keep him pure and manly. Better borrow the money and send him along while he is in the notion than to wait a year and run the risk of seeing him fall in with a gang of street Arabs and cigarette smokers at home. Emerson said, "It matters little what your studies are; it all lies in who your teacher is." There are plenty of good schools in Texas that deserve the patronage of Texas fathers and mothers, and a few of them make a specialty of development of character. The newspapers recently have been liveral in the praise of the Peacock school of San Antonio, not so much because of the fact of its recognition recently by the war department in the detail of Lieutenant Todd as one of the professors of military tactics, as because of its crusade against the cigarette habit and the requirement of a character qualification for entrance.

TOMORROW BEGINS ANOTHER WEEK OF THE MANAGERS

DEPARTMENT SALE

The heads of the various departments managed the Department Sale and the store so successfully last week that we have determined to give them full control for the coming one. The good-natured rivalry among them has forced each one to use their best efforts, and offer bigger and better bargains for tomorrow and the week. These items are backed up by articles of real worth. The best that can be produced at the prices quoted.

Our Regular 10c Lawns, all Now Reduced to 5c yd

The manager of the Wash Goods Section is determined that not a yard of these goods shall be carried over into next season. He has moved all of his Lawns and Batistes that have been selling for 10c a yard to the Bargain Basement, where the price has been cut in half. All of them are this season's best colors and patterns—many have not been in the store over a month. This offer is certain to draw a crowd, so be on hand early—the quantity is limited, the best patterns will be picked out first. It's not often you can find Lawns for 5c instead of 10c a yard, even in our BARGAIN BASEMENT.

FEMALE DISEASE THAT BAFFLED DOCTORS

Pe-ru-na Restored This Happy Woman To Perfect Health.

Read of Pe-ru-na's Work in Oregon, Illinois and Other States.

Mrs. Annie Harpole, 401 Hoyt Street, Portland, Ore., State Secretary Daughters of Liberty, writes:

"For over eight years I suffered with intense pains in the abdomen and pelvic organs. Through a neglected cold I contracted a severe catarrh which went through my system and finally settled in the bladder, causing great pain. My husband spent hundreds of dollars on doctors and medicines without obtaining relief for me. I finally decided that I would try Peruna, as a friend recommended it so highly. I am pleased to say that relief came to me shortly after I began taking it and at the end of three months I was in perfect health. I also took Peruna before and after my baby came, and quickly restored my health and strength."

MRS. ANNIE HARPOLE.

There are so many women, especially married women who drag themselves wearily around from year to year without any particular disease, and yet, miserable beyond discription. They ache, and tremble, and throb, growing more nervous, tired and debilitated every day.

Peruna cures catarrh wherever seated. Not having any stimulating effect, but containing nourishment with every drop, peruna cannot help but cure.

Single women all over the United States and women who are made happy mothers add their testimony to the thousands that come in every day.

Study your case, and when you have read these certificates you will find that Peruna will help, and not only help, but cure you.

Peruna does not claim to cure every ill under the sun, but over forty years trial has gained the distinction for it of being the most marvelous cure for catarrhal affections extant. Scientists and physicians have recorded their recognition of it apart from all other medicines—as a success.

Pe-ru-na is a Success.

It seems strange that as well known and well established as these facts are that anyone should neglect to profit by them.

All correspondence held strictly confidential.

Life Was a Burden Until Miss Harris Tried Pe-ru-na.

Miss Annette Harris, 88 Catalpa Place, Chicago, Ill., Member West Side Ladies' Bowling Club, writes:

"Now that I have regained my health and strength I am only too glad to tell what cured me. I was a sufferer for years, and although I tried many doctors and medicines, nothing seemed to hit my case, until I took Peruna, and this was only after life had become a burden to me and I was unable to stand on my feet for any length of time. After taking one bottle I felt much improved. I kept on taking it until I had taken nine bottles and then considered myself cured. I can now do my work with ease, can walk as well as I ever could, and at night feel only a natural tiredness. I sleep the night through, while before I could not sleep longer than an hour at a time. I am thankful to Peruna for my health."-Miss Annette Harris.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus Ohio.

A DEPOT BURNS

Freight House of Cotton Belt on the North Side Is Destroyed by Fire Late in the Evening

THE RECORDS ARE LOST

Building Was of Frame Construction and Fire Burned Rapidly—Only Two Lines of Hose Could Be Laid—Origin of Blaze is a Mystery

Fire at 6:45 last evening partially destroyed the Cotton Belt depot on the north side of the Trinity river, northwest of the court house. No one knows how the fire started. The damage done is estimated by Fire Chief Maddox, who was early on the scene, as between $3,000 and $3,500 to the building and about $1,000 to $1,500 on contents. Local officials of the company agree as to the chief's estimate, but have no figures at hand by which they could be guided in their estimation. The building, which was entirely of wood, was so badly burned that a new building must be erected.

People living in the vicinity of the Cotton Belt depot, just across the Trinity river and beyond the wire bridge back of the court house noticed flames and smoke issuing from the building shortly after 6:30 o'clock last evening. They at once notified the day operator, A. J. Scrivner, who was waiting to be relieved by the night man. He telephoned the central fire station and companies 2, 7 and 1 were dispatched at once to the scene, making splendid runs.

When the departments arrived the building was a mass of flames. Only two lines of hose could be used and these were attached to two six inch plugs. With such a small stream of water and a building already a mass of flames and all wood, dry as tinder, the fire was a mean one to fight. The firemen could save but little as the fire had too much headway.

The sidewalks and flooring of the building only could be saved. The roof and interior of the building were destroyed. In the construction of the building large inch and two inch pine planks were used. These were hard to tear away to get at the flames.

The fire lasted until after 9 o'clock and was one of the hardest fires to fight that the fire boys have gone against in a long time.

The fire is said to have started in the wareroom of the building. Men handling freight had just finished washing up from their day's work, and were leaving the building, when the flames were seen. They turned in to extinguish the flames, but could not do so. How the fire started is a mystery. No one had been in that particular corner of the building during the day. Some small boys of the neighborhood stated during the progress of the fire that they had seen a negro crawl from under the building shortly before the fire started, and he had been striking matches, but little credence is given to this story. It is known that in the warehouse there was nothing of a nature to cause spontaneous combustion.

In the warehouse of the building, luckily there was but little freight, as teams had been carrying it away all day Saturday. Then, too, this is the dull season and not much freight was being handled. A car of freight was on the track next to the building, set already to be unloaded today. This caught fire and was taken by a switch engine and yard crew to the tank west of the depot and the fire put out with little damage.

R. C. Hatfield, the Cotton Belt agent, was early at the fire and did what he could to help save the records in the office. However, but few records or anything in the office was saved. W. H. Phillips, the chief clerk, has left the building a short time before the fire started and at once hurried back to find the flames all over the building. His attempt and the assistance of other employes did but little good. About all saved from the office were two typewriters. The records not burned were so badly soaked with water that they will be of no further use.

Mr. Hatfield, the agent, was asked regarding the fire, but declined to say much concerning it. As to the contents of the building and as to the damage done to both he agreed with the estimate of Chief Maddox.

The burned building has only been used as a freight building the past three years. It formerly was used for a passenger depot and stood about two hundred feet further north, but when the old freight depot was destroyed by fire this building was moved across the track to its present location and the road started using the Texas and Pacific depot at the foot of Main street for their passenger traffic. The depot will probably be rebuilt at once. Whether any insurance was carried on the building is not known as the state headquarters of the road is at Tyler, officials there having the matter in charge. These officials were notified last night by wire and are expected here this afternoon to look over the remains. The probabilities are that the building was covered by a blanket policy. The building when erected cost in the neighborhood of $5,000 and was built entirely of wood. It was constructed ten years ago and has been on fire at three different times since its erection.

The smoke arising from the fire could be seen all over the city and people followed the clanging wagons to the scene. Quick runs were made by the companies. Chief Maddox on the way to the fire came near having a spill, the horse he was driving became frightened and lurching threw the wheel of the buggy against a pole, springing the axle and narrowly averting spilling the chief on the ground.

THE NEW FALL SILKS

For Dresses and Shirt-Waist Suits Are Here

Monday marks the beginning of important events at Hardie's to those who would be first with a fashion, or a color, or a material. Silks have more than a share of influence on styles, and much will be learned from seeing these. No need to go to Paris or wait until September to get a glint of the new things.

This store's Eastern connections insures its clientele of being first apprised of Fashion's whims. The silk showing is a true reflection in colors and weaves of the adopted styles which will reign supreme through the fall and winter of 1904.

True to all indications, browns and blues are the most prominent among the colors, though in multiplied numbers compared with the shades which have been heretofore shown. Of the first named, what is known as the "Onion" shade, is the sensation in New York and Paris. This is a very much lighter shade of brown with a bright sunset tint, not to be mistaken for the sunset shade though, for that belongs to the darker family of browns. And so on, we could tell as much about a number of other colors which are in the race for first place, but seeing will be more interesting, so we cut this short.

In weaves none lend more readily than taffeta for the stiff tailored effect sought in shirt-waist suits, while the softer weaves are prettier for dresses. Plain two-toned and neat figured effects are most in evidence.

At 69c we have seventeen distinct shades in plain taffeta, a quality that always sells for 75c the yard. At 75c there are the two-toned shades—brown with black warp, blue with black warp, green with black warp, green with blue warp, and so on.

The fancies start as low as 59c and go up as the quality gets better, 69c, 75c, 89c, $1.00 and $1.10; these comprise a number of different weaves. At 50c we have fifteen different shades in plain taffeta for those who want a good silk at a low figure.

The stock of blacks is especially replete; all weaves, all widths, all prices.

Good-Bye Prices on All Summer Merchandise

There will be as much stirring among the Summer Goods Monday as among the new Silks, for the prices hint of unheard-of economy to those who have a need for immediate wear. Read the brief story that follows:

ATTRACTIONS

List of Plays Booked for the Southern Circuit During the Coming Season Which Will Be Opened Monday Night

THE TAYLOR COMPANY

Popular Price Is the First and After Comes a Long Season of Some of the Best in the Country—Companies Have Had Long Runs in the East

Manager Phil H. Greenwall of the Fort Worth opera house believes he has arranged for a list of as fine attractions as can be provided, the season of 1904-05 being now ready for the opening.

Before the season regular opens, there will be several popular priced attractions. The first of these is the Albert Taylor Stock Company, which comes for a week, commencing tomorrow evening.

In speaking of Mr. Taylor the Montgomery Advertiser, where the company recently gave performance, had this to say:

If Albert Taylor ever had any reason to doubt the sincerity of his home people that doubt was dispelled last night when he looked out from the stage of the Casino theater at Pickett Springs upon the largest, most cultured, the most enthusiastic audience that ever gathered in the little suburb playhouse.

Montgomery fairly laid tribute at the feet of its one actor of the stage. It was the first appearance here this season, and for several seasons, of the young Montgomerian who has won plaudits away from home. And Montgomery gave her own a reception that was undoubted, a reception sufficiently cordial to move the heart of any man.

The play chosen by Mr. Taylor for his premier in Montgomery was "Peaceful Valley," the play made famous by Sol Smith Russell. There were persons in the audience last night who were so enthusiastic as to believe that Albert Taylor played the part as well as the lamented Russell.

The star shines bright before the supporting company, but not too bright to place them in shadow, for the company as a whole is excellent for a park stage. The cast is unusually strong in a play which is not a regular thing with them, but only one play of their repertoire and in this it is a remarkable company.

Each member of the company, for that matter, did the part assigned to him in finished style, and the entertainment moved with surprising smoothness.

It is safe to say that no company that has played in the park theater ever brought better specialty acts to Montgomery. The acts were shining examples to clean and attractive vaudeville, and the people showed their appreciation of them by continued applause until the actors had to retire through sheer exhaustion.

LIST OF ATTRACTIONS

Following the Taylor company will be Gertrude Ewing, then the Georgia Minstrels and after that Uncle Josh Perkins.

The regular season will open September 27 with "Darkest Russia." This play has been re-written and brought up to date, giving a glimpse of Russia as that country is today.

Mason and Mason will come with a new musical farce. These jolly German comedians are popular with theater goers.

Pretty Peggy comes next. This play has had nearly a year's run at the Herald Square and the Belasco theaters in New York city. The complete New York production will be given, with a fine cast headed by Jane Cochran and Andrew Robson.

Tolstoi's greatest play, "Thou Shalt Not Kill," which is now running in Philadelphia, and which, according to press reports, has met with considerable success, is the next booking. It will be of interest to all theater goers who are of a literary turn, and who have followed the peasant philosopher.

The "Girl From Dixie" appeared here during the latter part of the previous season, but it will come along among the first this year. The play is a popular one with all who have seen it.

Tim Murphy comes in two plays. Mr. Murphy is one of the most popular comedians making the southern circuit. He is a droll actor.

The Charles H. Yale Devil's Auction never grows old. It is promised this season with new scenery and an enlarged cast, with Amelia Bingham and a company which includes Charles Richman. The production is said to be very lavish.

Coming next is an English melodrama "The Sign of the Cross." It has had a greater success than any melodrama from the other side.

The Huntley Stock Company comes direct from the Savoy theater, Atlantic City, N. J. It is an organization playing at medium prices and is spoken of most highly.

"Tried for Her Life" is a modern dramatization of Dicken's "Oliver Twist." And then the ever popular laugh producer "McFadden's Flats."

A most recent New York success, "Candida," Bernard Shaw's prettiest play, which has been entertaining the elite of New York city the past year at the vaudeville theater, comes next. So great has been its success that it has played special engagements at Boston, Philadelphia and is now playing a record breaking engagement at San Francisco, the company jumping there and back to New York to re-open the vaudeville theater next season. Judging from the advance bookings it is destined to have another year of prosperity. The company that comes to Texas will be headed by Lester Lonergan, an actor who is well known here.

Al H. Wilson and his picanniny band in "In Old Kentucky."

"The Burgomaster," Black Patti Troubadours, Charlotte Tittle in a problem play.

Lovers of melo-drama will have a chance to revel in "Human Hearts."

The minstrel king, Al G. Fields, will shake hands with the old friends. He will be followed by Harry Beresford in a new farcial comedy, "Our New Man Love Story." This young man is worthy of a warm reception, he is beyond doubt one of the best eccentric comedians on the stage today.

Then the Village Parson who will give way to "Peggy From Paris" in a musical comedy that has been delighting people the past two years.

'Happy Hooligan" will make his bow and move on to make way for "Boy Wanted" and "Miss Bob White," a musical miss who has had over a years' run at Philadelphia. "The Marriage of Kittie," produced by Marie Tempest and was the talk of New York for the past six months at the Hudson theater.

Charles Hanford in his Shakespearan revivals.

Frank Daniels' diminutive comic opera success, "Our Office Boy."

Ward and Kidder in a costly production of "Salammbo."

"The Sultan of Sulu" will next claim attention. Of all the musical comedies produced in New York the past five or six years, this holds the record.

"Under Southern Skies," a comedy-drama with the true southern ring and a heart story that is sure to appeal. George Ade's Wallack's theater, New York success, "The Country Chairman," a play that has made Maclyn Arbuckle famous.

"Silver Slipper," an opera that is well known, is next in line, then "Fatal Wedding," and next Murray and Mack in the most pretentious production they have ever made.

Booklovers will have an opportunity to pass judgment upon "The Virginian," with the original New York cast headed by Dunstan Farnum.

"Dolly Varden," Kersands' Minstrels, "Why Women Sin," and Paul Gilmore. The extravaganza "Babes in Toyland," followed by W. B. Patton, "Sherlock Holmes" and "Finnegan's Ball."

The New Year will bring "Glittering Glory," "Tenderfoot," "Prince of Pilsen," a musical comedy that has received the highest endorsement throughout the country. Dockstader and his famous minstrels. "Peck's Bad Boy," "A Friend of the Family," "Side Tracked," "Sandy Bottom," "Quincy Adams Sawyer," nearly all new to Texans, but highly recommended.

The musical treat, San Toy, with Jim Powers in his original role and a supporting company of over thirty people. Thomas Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle," John Griffith in "Macbeth," the new musical comedy "The Little Red School House," Haverly's minstrels.

The English Grand Opera Company will remain for two nights and lovers of music are sure to find in them a feast to gladden their hearts.

"Down on the Farm," a rural play; "The Chinese Honeymoon," Creston Clarke in Richard Mansfield's production of Monseur Beaucaire, followed by the silver tone tenor, Chauncey Olcott, who makes his initial tour of Texas. "The Girl From Kays," who has delighted New Yorkers for the past six months; Melba and her concert company, Grace Von Studdeford in "The Red Feather," really the greatest musical comedy ever produced in New York.

James B. Mackie in his world renowned creation "Grimesy Me Boy;" "Florodora," with the most widely advertised woman in the United States, Edna Wallace Hopper.

Lewis Morrison will present the ever popular "Faust."

Richard Mansfield comes in a new play.

Rudolph and Adolph, Quinlan & Wall minstrels, "The Irish Pawnbrokers," Viola Allen in a dramatic treat of most unusual excellence.

Then comes the famous "Drury Lane" production, which has been playing the past two years in about three cities in the United States; "Beauty and the Beast," with all the original acts and sensations which has made the play so famous throughout the country. "King Dodo," Lyric Opera Company, "Hidden Crime," "The Maid and the Mummy," "Tess," "Desperate Chance," "Wizard of Oz," "Runaways," "A Royal Slave," Marie Wainwright and about thirty other attractions which will round out an unusually big theatrical year.

If a man's legs were built in proportion to those of a flea he would be able to jump over a hill twice the height of the Farmers' bank building.

CRYING BABY IN STRANGE HANDS AT THE DEPOT

Mother Goes for Malted Milk and the Little One Becomes Fretful During Her Long Absence

Two hysterical women, a blue-eyed baby, a policeman and the good-natured "Aunt Jennie," matron at the Texas and Pacific passenger station, were all participants in a rather exciting drama at the station Friday evening, that for a time had several people guessing which was which.

Two women and a baby, just a little blue-eyed chap of 3 or 4 months old, with lusty lungs, came in from some point in Colorado on the evening Denver train at 5:10 last night. The two women had gotten acquainted on the train. Both had to remain at the depot for some time to make the connection they wished to from here. The mother of the child asked the other woman after their arrival if she would take care of the little chap for her while she went to town to get some malted milk. The other woman accepted the care of the baby willingly, for the little one seemed to be so good-natured and seemed to like the strange woman. The mother started to town for the malted milk, and for a time the baby was an exemplary example of what little tots should be, but when the monotony of the good behavior had become burdensome the childr started the other extreme.

The woman in charge of the child began to look about for the missing mother, but no mother came. The woman then thought the child had been given her by the other woman and was purposely left on her hands. She at once became hysterical and woke everything and everyone within a block radium of the depot. The baby, too, became active and sent out yells from it puny lungs which were fierce. Good "Aunt Jennie," the depot matron, came to the rescue, but the child didn't want any rescuers about it. He wanted his mother, the missing woman who was long past due; but no mother came and no peace was to be had. The hysterical woman sought a policeman and told him she had been left with a baby on her hands. She was sure the other woman had done it on purpose, and she did not want the child; but what could she do about it? The policeman tried to get her to tell something about the absent mother, or how she looked, but this only seemed to bother the woman more and every question brought on additional hysteria.

"Aunt Jennie" tried in vain to quiet the child; the woman would take it from her arms and sob over it, and then the policeman tried to check its outburst of crying, but all worked and struggled to no purpose, for the kid was master of the situation. Onlookers gazed in wonderment at a big Fort Worth policeman trying to play nurse, and the pandemonium around the depot for a time was bad, in fact "It am sure the fiercest ever I did see," as one of the colored porters remarked.

The policeman started to look over the packages the strange woman had brought with the baby into the depot to see if he could find her name, but all in vain. Nothing could be found to identify the much-desired missing woman, and the policeman was about to telephone in to the central station for assistance to get him out of the difficulty, as it was imperative the mother, who had now been absent for nearly three hours, be found.

Apparent relief came from a much-desired party, just as the stalwart policeman in sheer desperation, bent over the missing mother's packages to make another search. At this point the mother arrived and she promptly went off in a series of hysterics similar to the woman in charge of the baby. She was so excited to have a policeman looking through her parcels. The baby started out afresh and the other woman contributed her additional share. But at last all had quited down and then the woman who had so long been absent explained to those present the cause of her absence.

"I could not find malted milk, and had to go way up town to get it," she said.

The other woman at last calmed down to her former self and left for a point on the Cotton Belt, while the mother cuddled and fondled the now quiet child, and carried it about the depot in her arms. While she was strolling about investigation concerning the supposed bottle of milk revealed the fact that the bottle the mother had brought back was not milk at all, but a big bottle of whisky. She left on the Texas and Pacific going east, and peace and quietness again reigned around the depot, but several persons have made several vows and one is the policeman at the depot, who has take an oath to never again play nurse to strange children left by erring mothers who go to get milk.

TRUE FRIEND
He Knew What Food Alone Would Do

"Three years ago my brother was suddenly attacked with an acute stomach trouble that ultimately reduced him to a mere skeleton. He consulted three physicians and two specialists, but they gave him absolutely no relief.

"Eating ordinary food, even the smallest quantity, meant for him terrible pain which kept up until he had vomited almost all of the food up again.

"He tried so many prepared foods, but not one of them seemed to help, he said they even aggravated his trouble, and when a friend urged him to try Grape-Nuts he bluntly refused. This friend being persistent, went out and bought a package of Grape-Nuts prepared a small amount of it and actually urged him until he ate it with some cream. The results were pleasant for the first time in a long, long time he had found food that would stay on his stomach.

"Not only that but the Grape-Nuts rapidly brought him back to health. He lived on Grape-Nuts and cream the following week and nothing else, and the effects were magical and the following three months he ate almost nothing else, taking absolutely no medicine, and in that short time not only was his health entirely regained, but his weight also and today he is strong and in perfect health once more." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

When trouble comes from improper food no medicine can cure until that improper food and its effects have been corrected by a change of diet to the proper food. Grape-Nuts being absolutely the most nourishing and the most digestible food in the world work wonders in such times, as a ten days 'trial proves. "There's a reason."

FOR EDUCATION

Forecast of the School Openings Which Are in Preparation, Calling Boys and Girls From Pleasures of Vacation

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

Public Schools Will Be Ready When Official Date Arrives. St. Andrew's School Is to Be Improved — Announcements of Other Schools

It is but a few more weeks now and the vacation months for the school children will be over, and the burdens of studies resumed.

Since early June the halls and rooms of the school buildings have been closed, dust has collected on the blackboards, and the empty desks have silently waited for their occupants.

But it will not be long now until the daily routine of school life will be taken up and "readin', writin' and 'rithmetic" again be laid bare to the youthful mind.

Fort Worth's institutions of learning are progressing wonderfully, and the coming school year, both in private and public schools, promises to be a successful one.

THE CITY SCHOOLS

The city public schools will officially open on September 12, beginning with a teachers' institute, which will last until September 15, on which day the pupils will come for enrollment.

On September 16 work will begin in earnest, the pupils having by that time procured the necessary books, etc.

ST. ANDREW'S SCHOOL

The St. Andrew's Episcopal school will open its doors September 2. Rev. William Hall Williams of Boston, Mass., will have the position as head master. Mr. Williams is a graduate of Harvard University and took his bachelor of divinity degree at the theological school at Cambridge.

Miss Sallie Ordway has been engaged as a new teacher in the girls department. Her grandfather, the late Dr. Le Roy Brown, under whom she received her collegiate learning, was for many years president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Miss Ordway graduated with distinction in her class and during the past year taught in Washington Seminary at Atlanta, Ga.

An annual scholarship in Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Va., has been offered by President Denny of that institution, upon nomination by the head master of St. Andrew's.

Another scholarship is offered in the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., by Vice Chancellor Wiggins. In order to gain either of these scholarships the applicant must furnish satisfactory testimonials of character and attainments from the head master and be able to pass the entrance examination to the university.

The rector and head master of St. Andrew's school offer two scholarships in the school—one to the boys and one to the girls.

Through the generosity of Robert Lee Costan of Fort Worth, the St. Andrew's school again offers two gold crosses to the boy or girl of the second, third or fourth forms of the academic department, who attain the highest distinction during the year.

In June, 1904, the Costan crosses were awarded to Henry Nealson Smith Jr. and to Blanche Harding.

Henry George Bury has presented to St. Andrew's school a large and handsome cabinet containing a valuable collection of curios. It has been placed in the study hall of the intermediate department.

Miss Luz Maria Washington is in charge of the museum.

Prospects are bright for the coming school year for the St. Andrew's school and a large attendance is expected. A number of improvements have been made at the school during the summer months, and the coming year promises to be a success in every way.

POLYTECHNIC COLLEGE

The Polytechnic College will formally begin the school year on September 6, on which day opening exercises will be held. A number of prominent persons will speak at these exercises and a program of events has been arranged.

The attendance at the Polytechnic College this year will be about 400. The new dormitory, comprising fifty-six rooms, has been finished, so that by the opening of the school the boys will be able to enter their new quarters. The dormitory also contains a pleasant dining room, which is larger than the one at the Hotel Worth.

Several additions have been made to the staff of teachers at the Polytechnic College. Dr. J. H. Mysong has been engaged as an instructor in the scientific department. Professor Wilbur McDonald will be instructor in piano music and Professor N. A. Hemphill vocal teacher.

FORT WORTH UNIVERSITY

The Fort Worth University will begin the coming school year September 12, enrollment taking place that day and the pupils beginning work on the 13th.

President MacAdam is making a special effort to secure the patronge and educate the brightest young people of this city, and the improvements going on are looking very much toward the equipping of the institution to better serve the patrons of Fort Worth. This will be the policy of the institution until there will be no excuse for any young person to leave the city in order to secure the best twentieth-century education.

The course has been very much changed, and the new catalogue presents curricula in close alignment with the latest safe tendencies along educational lines. The endeavor is made to place more of the cultural studies in the academy and freshman's year, giving the student an opportunity of the professional studies during his literary course.

Mr. MacAdam feels that he has quite successfully obviated this year the two extremes toward which educational ideals are today running, namely, abbreviation of the cultural course on the one hand, and crowding out any part of the professional course on the other hand. Thus combining the two necessities in an education in the happiest manner.

He is a member of the university senate, and while in deliberation with that body in Chicago, came in touch with the latest sane educational ideals, and is seeking to embody them in a course which shall become the finest in the southwest.

The faculty has been greatly strengthened and a number of additions has been made. The chair of social sciences has been added in recognition of the great demand for these studies.

A special course of lectures and studies has been provided for young ministers, an increasing number of which are turning to the Fort Worth University for their equipment.

The musical school has added a kindergarten department, which will very greatly strengthen its work.

The oratorical department has changed its quarters to more commodious rooms and in addition to its regular work will provide this year a series of entertainments, in which some of the finest attractions in the United States have been included.

The medical department has changed its plans and looks forward to a very greatly increased enrollment this year. At the present time its buildings are being repaired and changed to accommodate, as far as possible, the increased studentage expected and to provide suitable quarters for the teachers soon to be coming in.

Miss Conklin, who is at present in Brooklyn, N. Y., will return for her fourteenth year and occupy the chair of English, in which she has been able to do such splendid work for the young people under her charge.

Professor Frary of the Iowa University and the University of Chicago, will have the chair of science, teaching and lecturing in the college of the medical school.

Professor Beardsley of the University of Chicago and the Stetson University of Florida, will have charge of the chair of modern languages, supervising the teaching of French, German, Spanish and Italian.

Dr. Beech of Ann Harbor University will have the chair of ancient languages and New Testament Greek before the young ministers.

Professor Lewis will occupy the chair of history.

Dr. MacAdam will, himself, be in the chair of philosophy.

Professor Heller will begin his fourth year in the chair of mathematics.

Miss Galloway will return to have charge of the physical culture.

Mr. Mills of the Denver University last year will coach for the football team. Professor Beardsley is, himself, a splendid football coach and a good track and apparatus man, and will have charge of the men's hour in the gymnasium.

Professor Pease and Miss Allison will be in their places to take charge of the musical school, and Professor E. C. Gill, a student of Satire, will have charge of the string instrument department and will, himself, teach the violin.

The Fort Worth University campus was never so beautiful as it is now, and is giving a hint of its value to the city when the new buildings contemplated are erected.

President MacAdam has almost all of the money for one of the new buildings, and is working indefatigably toward the securing of another in the near future. While in the north this summer he secured the pledge of assistance from the Educational Society of $1,500 a year, which really represents the usual interest on an endowment of $30,000.

The Fort Worth University has faced its twenty-fourth school year. For nearly a quarter of a century it has struggled to uplift educational ideals in this city, and for that length of time has grown with Fort Worth's development.

Its beginning was the Texas Wesleyan College, but in 1889 it opened school under an amended charter as Fort Worth University. Its first year's enrollment was 141 students and it has steadily grown until last year its enrollment reached its high-water mark with the total studentage in all its departments of 987. This is an increase over the year 1903 of 163, an increase of about 205 in one year. It is expected that this splendid enrollment will be increased and that the studentage next year will number over a thousand pupils. The prospects are, at the present, 100 per cent better than they were at the opening day of last year. The school is becoming known more and more in its true light as a center of higher education. Its scholarship is becoming recognized. Inquiries are coming in from north, south, east and west, and post graduate work more than in any year of the past will be done during the coming session. In fact the prospects are embarrassing to the administration, owing to the poor facilities with which it must face the opening year. The handsome new building which it was hoped would be erected during the summer can not be started before the 1st of October, but when it is completed it will provide one of the best equipped institutions in all the country for providing a thorough education.

THE COUNTY SCHOOLS

In regard to the opening of the county schools, nothing definite can be said. The schools will open at different times during September and October, some beginning as early as the 5th of September and some not opening until as late as October.

The schools in North Fort Worth will open on September 12. Those in Mansfield will start a week earlier, on September 6.

The schools at Arlington and at Arlington Heigts will begin on September 5. The Grapevine school will not begin until September 12.

THE CATHOLIC SCHOOLS

The Catholic schools in the city, the St. Ignatius Academy for girls, and the St. Stanislaus' school for boys, both under the direction of the Sisters of St. Mary, will open on the first Tuesday in September, the 6th. Prospects for the Catholic schools are bright and a large attendance is expected.

THE KINDERGARTENS

The Fort Worth Kindergartens will begin work on September 19.

Two new teachers have been added to the staff of the Kindergarten College. Miss Florence Ward of Chicago and Miss Florence Paget of Philadelphia. Both Miss Ward and Miss Paget have had a varied experience in kindergarten work and are well fitted to fill their positions.

There are three kindergarten schools in the city of Fort Worth proper, besides the one at North Fort Worth.

There are kindergartens in the First and Third wards and the Kindergarten College at 1110 Lamar street.

Work in the kindergarten line has been very successful in this city and has done much good toward the training of the little ones. The coming year bids fair to be a record one in attendance, as mothers throughout the city are beginning to appreciate the value of the early instruction.

HOPELESS CASES.

When the doctor leaves and says the case is hopeless, what remains to be done? Nothing, if the doctor's word is final. Much, if you will listen to the statements of men and women who were once "hopeless cases" given up by doctors, and who were perfectly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Nothing is more sure than that thousands of men and women with diseased lungs, obstinate coughs, hemorrhage, emaciation and night-sweats, have been restored to perfect health by the use of the "Discovery." Will it cure you?

It has cured in ninety-eight cases out of every hundred where it was given a fair and faithful trial. By that record you have only two chances in a hundred of failure and ninety-eight chances of being restored to perfect health. It is worth trying.

Abram Freer, Esq., of Rockbridge, Greene Co., Ill., writes: "My wife had a severe attack of pleurisy and lung trouble; the doctors gave her up to die. She commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and she began to improve from the first dose. By the time she had taken eight or ten bottles she was cured, and it was the cause of a large amount being sold here. I think the 'Golden Medical Discovery' is the best medicine in the world for lung trouble."

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser containing over a thousand large pages is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

They Marry Every Three Years

"Every business man is constantly on the lookout for competent bookkeepers and stenographers. Why? On an average of every three years all female bookkeepers and stenographers go out of business. Offers of marriage come to them and they leave the counting rooms to grace the homes of those who have learned to admire and appreciate them. In a like manner the male stenographers and bookkeepers become partners or go to the head of the different departments, etc., and all of these vacancies must be filled." A thorough course in the NELSON-DRAUGHON BUSINESS COLLEGE, corner Sixth and Main streets, will prepare you for one of these lucrative positions. Life scholarship, $40, payable $5 monthly. Office corner Sixth and Main streets. Phone 1307. J. W. Draughon, president.

PRIZES GIVEN AT THE SKATING RINK

A very unique and exciting event was pulled off at the Olympian Skating Rink last night when barrel and potato races were given on roller skates.

The potato race came off first, a box of potatoes was stationed at one end and an empty box at the other.

The contestants were required to skate entirely around the rink, pick up a potato and drop it in the empty box at the other end. There were eight entries. The one who got the most potatoes in the box at the end of five minutes was the winner.

Al Perry, a very fast and agile skater, was awarded the prize, a week's ticket to the skating rink.

The barrel race came next. The skaters wore barrels with the heads and bottoms knocked out around their bodies, fastened with strings over the shoulders.

The racers were compelled to go five times around the rink, skating inside the barrel.

Frank Weber was the lucky man, making the five laps in 2 minutes and 14 seconds, and was awarded a pair of skating shoes as a prize.

A large crowd of spectators witnessed the event, which was both amusing and exciting.

There are some places in Europe where women regularly plow instead of horses.

Failure

to cure indigestion is largely due to the old theory that when the stomach becomes inactive it needs something to mechanically digest its contents, and cathartics, purgatives, etc., are used, which give only temporary relief, because they digest by irritating the lining of the stomach.

Modern science recognizes the fact that it is the nerves that furnishes motive power to digest the contents of the stomach.

The nerves agitate and mix the food, and stimulate the secretions. When they become weakened they lack energy, and indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach result.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine will relieve obstinate cases of indigestion, dyspepsia and stomach trouble by strengthening these nerves.

"I had severe stomach trouble. Dr. Miles' Nervine, and Nerve and Liver Pills cured me. I can now eat anything without trouble."—

THE CROPS IN TEXAS

The regular weekly crop bulletin of the Frisco railroad was issued from the general freight office of the company yesterday afternoon, and shows the condition of different crops along the line to be first-class and doing well.

The report is compiled from statements furnished by local agents of the company at twenty-three different points. The statements sent in indicate that the weather has been beneficial to the cotton crop and that there has been sufficient rains over the greater part of the territory covered in the report. There is a general improvement in the condition of cotton and corn wherever reported, and that at many points the cotton yield will exceed half a bale to the acre.

The report in full follows:

Bluffdale—Since rain last week cotton looking much better. More rain and favorable weather will make a good crop.

Blanket—No rain lately. Cotton needing rain to make good crop. Will average about one-half bale per acre.

Brownwood—Cotton suffering for rain in some places shedding.

Carrollton—Corn made. Cotton in good condition.

Celina—Corn is matured and is very fine. Cotton fine, but some boll weevils have appeared within the last two weeks.

Cresson—Cotton and corn in good condition. Good cotton crop expected.

Comanche—Crop looks well, but needs rain. Fully 3,000 bales expected.

Dublin—Cotton and corn looking fine, especially cotton.

Denison—Cotton prospects are good. Corn same. Rain would be of benefit to both corn and cotton.

Dorchester—Crop conditions at this point are fine. Could be no better.

Frisco—Crops looking well. Prospects good.

Granbury—Rain during the past week has insured good cotton crop. Things looking much better. Large crop expected. Cotton opening very rapidly.

Gunter—Cotton and corn improved since last report. Was in good fix then.

Grapevine—Cotton very fine. No worms or weevils. Had plenty of rain.

Mercury—General condition is good, but rain is needed. Would improve things a great deal.

Prosper—Cotton doing nicely. No pests and good yield promised.

Proctor—Cotton conditions very favorable. Boll weevil doing some damage, but not to any extent much. Cotton opening fast.

Stephenville — Conditions favorable. Good crop expected.

Tolar—Good rains last week. Fine crops expected now unless insects do some damage later.

Winchell—Cotton in good condition. Good yield expected.

THE FOREST TRAIL

one early morning was traveled by two stalwart woodsmen. As they came to the clearing, one said as he ran his thumb along the edge of his axe: "I believe I'll cut more wood today if I stop to sharpen this blade."

The other shouted back, as his axe sank into a tree: "I haven't time." Everybody knows that the sharpened axe cut more wood that day and that he who swung it came in fresher at night.

Down the Blazed Trail of Life went two young men. Along their way a college stood. One stopped, saying: "I am going to sharpen my axe with an education. I believe I can cut more wood." The other said: "Not I, I am a little late at my work now, and I can make $65 a month while you are going to school."

But statistics show that he robbed himself of ten dollars a day for forty years by going to the woods with a dull axe.

Stop a moment to sharpen the axe of your mind. 'Twill be life's best investment. Along your way stands Fort Worth University, with doors open and the best of instrumentalities for your education.

BELDAM WINS THE RICH CUP RACE

Track Was Heavy Because of the Mud and There Were Many Scratches on the Card

SARATOGA RACE TRACK, New York, Aug. 20.—Beldame won the cup race worth $10,000, with Africander second and the Pickett third. Woodson grabbed the Home stakes, likewise worth $10,000, while Wild Mint and Siglight were second and third. The scratching was heavy in every event, only the real thing in mudders being left. Some surprise was expressed that The Pickett was not drawn, as he has never made any mark as a mudder. Weather clear; track sloppy. Summaries:

First race, seven furlongs, selling, for three-year-olds and up: Castalian, 118 (Martin), 8 to 1, won; Elliott, 105 (J. Daly), 5 to 1, second; Proceeds, 106 (T. Burns), 13 to 5, third. Time, 1:29 1-5. Ammenia, Honolulu and Atwood also ran.

Second race, full course, steeple chase, for four-year-olds and up, the North American: St. Jude, 142 (J. O'Brien), 2 to 1, won; Fox Hunter, 150 (Ray), 13 to 1, second; Caller, 165 (Donohue), 15 to 1, third. Time, 5:14 2-5. Bonfire, Adjidaumo and Dromedary also ran.

Third race, five and a half furlongs, U. S. Home stakes, for four-year-olds, value $10,000: Woodson, 110 (Lyne), 18 to 5, won; Wild Mint, 110 (Odom), 7 to 1, second; Siglight, 127 (Hicks), 12 to 1, third. Time, 1:09. Austin Allen, Sparkling Star, Jack Lory and Merry Lark also ran.

TOKALON LOSES IN THIRD EVENT

Two Weeks' Rest Do Not Appear to Have Helped the Horse Along at Saratoga

HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, Chicago, Aug. 20.—Tokalon, arter a rest of two weeks, made her reappearance in the third race and again met defeat, the race going to Big Ben, which proved easily the best, winning eased up with two and a half lengths to spare.

Tokalon was easily second best, having six length advantage over Sylvia Talbot, while Josette, the other starter, was beaten off thirty lengths.

Tokalon showed the way the first quarter; then Sylvia Talbet(who was all tangled up in the barrier at the start, showed a marvelous turn of speed and raced up to and past her field as though they were tied. Big Ben then set sail for her, while Takalon dropped back to third place. When rounding for home Big Ben took command by a length and never left the result in doubt thereafter. Knapp reserved with Tokalon and after she had swerved to the inside rail she came again, but could not get up. The filly was probably a little short today and the race will do her a lot of good. The track was a perfect quagmire and the fields were badly strung out. The excellent weather drew out the largest crowd of the meeting. The August stakes were counted the feature and Judge Himes was counted favorite on his mud qualities, but the best he could do was third, being easily so. The Judge went well for six furlongs, when he dropped out beaten. The summaries:

RAILROAD NEWS

The Frisco yesterday announced that there had been a reduction in the freight tariff as it applies to wagons and implements, to cover a period until August 27, of 4 cents per hundred pounds. The rate previously was 70 cents per hundred, but until the above date these commodities will be handled for 66 cents. After August 27 the old rate will be restored.

It is understood all southwestern lines will participate in the temporary reduction in this tariff. This is done in order to facilitate the movement of wagons and implements which is going to be very large.

The reduction approximately means a saving to the dealers of at least $12 per car.

WORK ON THE ORIENT

Workmen are laying track on the Kansas City division of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad between Sweetwater and Red river. The distance is 135 miles. There is comparatively little bridge work to be done and track laying will be pushed with rapidity. This division will connect with the Texas and Pacific at Sweetwater and will cross the Fort Worth and Denver City line at Quanah. It will be operated as an independent line as soon as connection is made between these two places.

TEXAS FORGING TO THE FRONT

Illinois is soon to give place to Texas as the state having the greatest railway mileage of main track.

On June 3 of last year the main line mileage in Illinois, according to the state railway commission, was 11,229, not including 277 miles of tracks to industrial establishments. During the present year there were constructed in Illinois 288 miles of track, which would make the present total mileage of tracks in that state 11,517, besides industrial tracks now aggregating about 300 miles.

The railway commission's report in Texas shows 11,080 miles of track on June 30, 1903, and there has been an increase during the present year of 423 miles of tracks, which makes the present total mileage in Texas 11,503, which is only fourteen miles less than the figures show in Illinois.

Commercial Agent G. B. Magruder of the Denver road is back from a trip up the line.

E. B. Price, auditor of the Frisco, has gone on a trip to Kansas City.

The Frisco local passenger office has just received an elegant picture of the general offices of the company at St. Louis. The building is thirteen stories high.

COTTON BELT TO BE READY FOR BUSINESS

Agent Hatfield Announces That the Company Will Receive Freight at the Old Stand Monday

R. C. Hatfield, the freight agent of the Cotton Belt, was seen late last night by a Telegram reporter and asked concerning the handling of freight by his company until the partially destroyed freight house could be repaired or rebuilt.

He stated the company would be prepared to handle freight at the old stand the same as usual on Monday morning. Men would be put to work at once to clear away the debris, to make arrangements with that end in view and Monday morning would see the Cotton Belt taking care of their business as usual at the old stand.

Utah, of course, is under Mormon political control, but it is not generally known that the Mormons also control, or at least hold, the balance of power in Idaho, Nevada and possibly Wyoming and Colorado, with a strong following in Arizona, Washington and other states.

AUGUST 28.
DENVERS
VS.
WICHITA FALLS
AT HAINES PARK, 4 P. M.

CHILD FALLS AND INJURES HER FACE

Little One Had a Stick in Her Mouth and It Entered the Flesh of the Jaw

Gracie, the two and a half year-old child of Captain F. Bishop of fire company No. 2, 802 Monroe street, was quite seriously injured last evening by falling from a buggy in front of the house and pushing into the fleshy portion of the jaw a short stick, which she had in her mouth at the time.

The child's mother was standing at the head of the horse while the little girl was in the buggy. The horse became excited at something and backed the buggy against the curbstone, turning it over and throwing the little girl so she fell with the stick in her mouth with the result mentioned above.

It was necessary for surgeons to remove the stick by cutting away some of the flesh. The child was in a very critical condition at an early hour this morning.

DENVERS VS. WICHITA FALLS

The Denver and the Wichita Falls teams will play ball at Haines park next Sunday, August 28, and a fine exhibition of amateur baseball is promised, as both teams are made up of the best amateurs in both cities. These clubs played a 3 to 2 game in Wichita Falls July 4, and since that time the Denver team has been strengthened considerably and expects to carry away the honors of the day. Those who go will see a hard-fought game from start to finish.

BOARD OF TRADE ASKED FOR INFORMATION

The Board of Trade yesterday received quite a number of letters of inquiry regarding Fort Worth as a desirable point in which to locate several very important mercantile industries.

One of the gentlemen who writes is desirous of establishing a flouring mill. He resides in Tennessee.

Another man wants to come here and start a factory for the manufacture of iron bedsteds, while a third says if conditions are satisfactory he will locate in Fort Worth and engage in the retail hardware business.

These two latter gentlemen are from Illinois and New York City, respectively.

Miss Etta McGinnis, who has charge of the Board of Trade rooms during the absence of Secretary B. B. Paddock, has written to all three gentlemen and furnished them the data they ask for.

Besides these parties letters of inquiry have been coming in from many other points over the country. The work of the Board of Trade has been very efficient during the past year and as aresult a number of important business ventures have been induced to investigate, some of which have decided to locate in Fort Worth.

W. K. BELL HAS A PAIR OF SPURS VALUABLE

They Were Worn by an Uncle Who Was a Lieutenant in the Scotch Greys in the Crimean War

W. K. Bell, one of the leading stockmen and ranchers in Palo Pinto county, who came to Texas considerably longer than a quarter of a century ago and who used to carry the mail for General Dodge when he was constructing the Texas and Pacific railroad west from Fort Worth through the wild country then inhabited by the treacherous redskin, is spending a few days in the city, the guest of the Delaware.

There is nothing unusual in this incident, but Mr. Bell has with him a relic that has an interesting history—a pair of steel spurs that were used by his uncle, James Bell, who was a lieutenant in the Crimean war and also took part in the India mutiny. The senior Bell was an honored member of the Scotch Grays, or the Household Guard, as they were more familiarly called in those days, and are known as such at the present time. The Scotch Grays took part in the war of the British with the Boers, and made a great reputation as fighters.

The spurs are quite odd and made very different from the spurs of the present day, and they bear the date of 1852. They were left to W. K. Bell by his uncle and on his recent visit to Europe were presented to him. On the spurs are specks of blood which fell on them during the Crimean struggle and are plainly visible to this day. It was in the Lock-Nowe conflict in India that the blood was spilled on them. In this battle Lieutenant Bell lost his life.

The spurs have a small but keen spike that enters the back part of the heel. There is a screw or bolt which also goes through the heel from either the left or right side, which firmly fixes the spur to the bootheel, rendering it securely attached to the boot.

Mr. Bell brought the spurs to Fort Worth for the purpose of having them attached to a pair of boots that have been ordered for him by one of the leading mercantile firms of the city.

He takes great pleasure in showing the curios to his friends. As stated above, Mr. Bell returned to Scotland about three years ago to see his relatives, whom he had not visited since he left that country for America, more than thirty-four years ago. When he came to this country Mr. Bell located in Palo Pinto, where he has resided the past thirty-three years. He is now one of the well-to-do stockmen of this part of the state. When he came to Texas he first landed at Marshall, when the Texas and Pacific was building west.

There is possibly no better known cattleman in the state than Mr. Bell and his friends are legion.

WIRELESS SERVICE TO BE OPENED NEXT WEEK

H. A. Bestorf of Dallas was in Fort Worth last night and will remain here today. He is an expert in installing wireless telegraph instruments and is working on the muffler at the station here to deaden the sound at the receiving station, 352 Main street, Dallas, in the Dorsey building, near the Juanita building, on which the masts have been erected.

This morning the equipment here will be thoroughly tested and put in shape. A week from today the first messages are to be sent with appropriate ceremonies.

The instruments at Dallas and here are the most powerful made. They are so sensitive that the slightest current of electricity can be detected by them. On land, the earth, trees, buildings and wires detract to a certain extent from the current, and cause the electricity to be taken from the air. On land it takes a most perfect instrument with powerful connections to send messages by wireless telegraphy even forty or fifty miles.

WORK AT DALLAS

DALLAS, Aug. 20.—The work of installing the American De Forest wireless telegraph station on the roof of the six-story Juanita building under the direction of Harold A. Bostorp of New York city, which has been under way since Tuesday last, is progressing at a rate which the station installer states is very satisfactory to him.

The gin-pole was set in place by the workmen this afternoon, and the fifty-six foot pole from which the electric waves will radiate will be set in place early next week. The station on the roof of the Wheat building in Fort Worth is complete and as soon as the Dallas station is complete, which it is expected will be by next Saturday night, practical demonstrations will be made. These stations are purely demonstration stations, but will in the course of time be converted into what is termed trunk line stations.

The office of the company is to be located in front of Dorsey's stationery establishment at 350 Main street. Part of the apparatus has already been received, but the receiving and sending instruments have not yet been shipped in. A feature of the wireless system which is a surprise to the unsophisticated is that the principle of sending the message is not on the formation of an electric circuit, as is generally supposed, but by the production of an electric disturbance which can be detected by the receiving operator at the other end of the line.

COMPLAINS OF A NEARBY SALOON

Proprietress of Union Flats Asks The Telegram Man to Listen to the Noise

Mrs. Thomas E. Williams, who has charge of the Union Flats at the corner of Tenth and Main streets, makes a complaint of the negro saloon which is located just at the rear of the building in which she is located.

Last night Mrs. Williams telephoned to The Telegram of the nuisance. A reporter went to the place, and from the rear windows of the Huey building in which she conducts a lodging house, the noise of the negroes in the saloon at the rear could be plainly heard. A commodious brick structure has recently been erected there. The down stairs portion is used for a saloon and restaurant for negroes. Up stairs the curtains are drawn and it was only by the flapping of those curtains by the breeze that one could see within. From the view which could be had occasionally it was seen that a poker game was going on in one room. In another room a man was sitting at a table and runners came to him every few moments from another room. Just what they carried back and forth could not be seen. There was a continual noise in another room which sounded as if a rubber stamp was being used rapidly. The rubber stamp is a part of the paraphernalia of a policy game. Mrs. Williams states that she has been told that policy is operated in the building.

There is no doubt from the investigation made last night that several of the rooms in the flats are made undesirable for lodgers by the close proximity of this negro saloon.

POLICE NEWS

Officer Speight will this week sport a new $5 hat as the result of a capture made by him yesterday afternoon.

During the recent absence from the city of County Attorney Lattimore, a negro visited a local store, representing that he worked for Mr. Lattimore, and signed the county attorney's name to an order upon which he secured a pair of shoes. Mr. Lattimore upon discovering the matter offered a $5 hat to the officer getting the man. Officers Speight and Snow visited a negro house Friday night in an effort to make the arrest, but found the bird had flown. Yesterday afternoon, Officer Speight spied him on Main street and promptly took him into custody on a charge of forgery. Later he was transferred to the county officers.

A pitiful sight was witnessed at the police station last night when a woman, who had evidently seen better days, and who spoke five different languages fluently, was brought to the calaboose barefooted on a charge of vagrancy.

Accompanying her were her two little boys who wept pitifully at their mother's predicament. The woman, it is stated by the officers, had been drinking and went to sleep in a house near Twelfth and Rusk streets.

Officers Hendricks and Thompson arrested a man at 1 o'clock this morning on a charge of being drunk. He was brought to the station and while the night clerk was registering his name the fellow made a jump and out of the window he went cutting the air in true deer style.

Sam Garrett, Captain Witcher, Tom George, et al, started in pursuit, but alas, it was all in vain, for the fellow outran the whole bunch. If he kept up the speed with which he started he has reached Amarillo by this time.

FEUD BETWEEN THE SOLDIERS GROWING

ATHENS, O., Aug. 20.—Everything is quiet here this evening. The militia are still on guard and a strick watch is being kept at the camp to prevent any one escaping without a pass. The saloons were closed all day as well as all places of amusement. The murdered man, Corporal Charles Clark, was taken to the home of his mother in Warren today by a detail consisting of Corporal Kinney and eight men who will act as pall bearers at the funeral. Many threats were made today by the national guardsmen that the regular men would be dead after the great sham battle today and they were watched closely so that they had no chance to kill anyone. There has always been trouble between the Ohio National Guards and the regular soldiers and there may still be more serious trouble. No one has yet been arrested for the murder.

DALLAS WANTS CONVENTION

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 20.—The convention committee of the Dallas Commercial Club is making an active fight in behalf of the metropolis of Texas for the national convention of 1905 of the Association of Fire Chief and Engineers.

This convention assembled at Atlantic City, N. J., last year, and this season the meeting will be held at Chattanooga, Tenn., on September 13.

Chief H. F. Magee of the Dallas fire department is lending valuable assistance to the convention committee. He has an extensive acquaintance among the fire fighters of the nation, and many warm friends, who pledge his town their support.

THE HUMANE SOCIETY

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 20.—The Dallas Human Society met yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. building and owing to the illness of the president, Mrs. T. J. Carr, Colonel P. B. Hunt presided.

The following report was read:

Several cases of minor importance were reported to have been adjusted before becoming serious.

TRAVELING MAN IS FOUND DEAD IN BED

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 20.—C. C. Young, a traveling man about 35 years old, was found dead in his bed at the Golden hotel on Main street yesterday at about 5 o'clock. Mr. Young has been in poor health for some time and his sudden demise was not entirely unexpected.

Mr. Young, who was representing the Wheelock China Company of Peoria, Ill., has been making Dallas his headquarters for about fifteen years. The physician in attendance ascribed death to natural causes.

THEY HAVE DINNER LAST NIGHT IN DALLAS

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Cantey of Fort Worth chaperoned a party of young people to Dallas last night on the 6 o'clock interurban car. The party took supper at the Oriental hotel.

The affair was in honor of Miss Sybil Knight of Galveston and the personnel of the party was: Mrs. N. G. Webb, Misses Knight, Anna Newlin, Marguerite Cantey; Messrs. Walter Holloway, Charles Crenshaw and F. B. Elser. They returned on the midnight car.

GOVERNMENT REPORT ON COTTON CROPS

Oswald Wilson, statistical agent for the department of agriculture, yesterday commenced sending out a report of the commercial cotton crops compiled by the department and covering the years 1900-1901, 1901-1902 and 1902-1903.

In addition to giving a detailed report of the crops by states, the publication gives a statement of the shipments from all railroad stations in the cotton belt.

Other portions of the report are devoted to the consumption of cotton and the cost of picking in various sections.

Several thousand of the reports were sent out to all parts of the state.

During the burning of the Cotton Belt freight depot last evening an alarm of fire was sent in to No. 3 to come at once to a house near the Fort Worth Light and Power Company's plant. The blaze was a small one and was extinguished without doing any considerable damage. This makes the customary three fires all in one day.

Charles H. Smith, delegate of Fort Worth Typographical Union No. 198 to the international convention at St. Louis, returned last night. It was his first experience with the international body of which he has so long been a member, and he enjoyed meeting the delegates from all over the country.

Little Mavericks

Judge S. H. Cowan of Texas addressed a conference of sheepmen on the railroad question at Denver on Saturday. The National Wool Growers' Association has appointed a committee to work in conjunction with the Interstate Cattle Growers' Executive Committee in solving the railroad problem, and as the attorney of the interstate commerce commission, Judge Cowan has informed the sheepmen of the evidence that they will be expected to bring forward at the hearing to be held here next month.

A special committee of the Western Passenger Association has decided with the concurrence of the freight men to recommend that hereafter stockmen pay their fare both ways when accompanying live stock to market and on proper proof that they are entitled to free transportation, the amount will be refunded them on their return home. The object is said to prevent abuse of the free pass privilege. This will meet with no objection, provided the railroad will loan the cowman the money with which to pay the fare. If the committee will watch the record of sales these days, it will readily understand why the cowman has no money to spend foolishly.

Joe Cotulla came up from the onion and railroad center yesterday. About the only thing he is hilarious over is his cotton crop. He has 250 acres planted and, unless he made a miscount on the bags, he is sure of ten bales of average weight and grade.

John R. Crayton was up from his Valley Creek ranch this week. He had just sheared his Angora goats and the cold rain Friday chilled them and forty out of about one thousand died in the one day.

A report came from the Panhandle two or three weeks ago that something like the foot-and-mouth disease had broken out among the herds in certain localities. Marion Imes, inspector for the bureau of animal industry, with headquarters at Roswell, was instructed to go to Plainview and Hansford and investigate. He says that while the foot and mouth are affected, the cattle are only suffering with mycotic aphthous fever. It is not contagious, and was the result of eating forage badly infected with poisonous fungi.

H. B. Holmes was down from Luling Tuesday and spent a few hours on 'Change. He was in the same helpless condition as other cattlemen these days, and is not laying any plans for the future that might be frustrated by a failure on the part of the packers and their employes to get together, or until the question is settled definitely some way. He went back Tuesday night.

Colonel W. L. Crawford and Charles Dieudonne of Dilley are here spending a few days. They anticipated the Express man by asking straightway for the latest news. Charley has just returned from a two weeks' trip to the World's Fair, and says it is the most gigantic display the world has even seen and compared with which the Parish exposition would have made only a respectable sideshow. Colonel Crawford has not been up yet and after inquiring what the cattle receipts were in the markets yesterday, said he couldn't say when he would get off. From the way he spoke he would likely be glad to see prices advance some before he undertakes a "tower."

John Dyer has returned from a trip to Zavala county. "Cattle are doing first rate now," said he to the Express, "but they had no rain there last Saturday and Sunday as did some other sections out west. Some rain would be a good thing most any time now to insure plenty of beef cattle later on, but it is hardly probabel that all these clouds from day to day mean nothing for that country. It might have rained there since I left."

W. J. Moore of Marathon is up for a few days. He says Lavaca county is in fairly good shape and that the farmers are busy picking cotton. "We have some weevils," he said, "but it is very generally admitted that farmers will make more cotton this year than they did last."

Green Davidson is back from a trip to the territory. He brings the same encouraging reports of good grass and fat cattle as he did on the previous trip, but he did not give for publication any statement of just what the net profits would be on all the cattle marketed from the territory this year.

J. M. Doble came up Friday from his LaSalle county ranch, where he says everything is looking about as well as he could desire. In other words, his grievance lay along other lines. He inquired anxiously about what was going on in the markets and then said: "In summing up our general protest, I do not see why we could not properly ask the packers and other slaugtering interests to pay us what a young cow is really worth. I was reading an article just the other day in the National Provisioner of New York in which it was stated that heifer beef in England sold for 50c more per hundred than a steer of the same age. I believe, too, that the Express mentioned this fact some ten days ago. If a cow on the hoof in England is worth more for beef than a steer, why is it that she is not worth as much as a steer on this side. I hope some one will be able to satisfactorily explain, or that we may be able to convince the powers that be that they are doing us an injustice."

ROPING IS OFF

The San Angelo Carnival Association eliminate roping contest from their list of sports, and the Standard in its last issue in speaking on the subject, says:

The fact that the roping contests now in vogue in this western country are a relic of barbarism is no longer denied, and while they are virtually intensely interesting and satisfy a morbid desire for excitement innnate in the average human being still such a sport should be relegated to the past. Such things were expected and tolerated in this country at the time when Judge Roy Beans' sign, "Ice Cold Beer and the Law West of the Pecos," swayed in the breezes, but this is no longer the free and easy country of long ago. Civilization has set its stamp on us and better things are expected of us.

Six registered cows were sold by Professon Hittson this week for $650.

While here this week A. E. Harp sold 125 head of stock cattle to Jim Beverly at private terms, delivery to be made at Mr. Harp's pasture in Hale county.

Judge Reasoner sold Kelow Mugg thirty head of good yearlings this week, getting $15 for them.

The Denver road has handled so far this season about 3,000 cars of cattle for the northwest.

The Memphis News-Herald says that John Jackson sold his fat cows to Jim Montgomery at $30 around. The number of cattle sold was not given.

Charley Duke of near Lipscomb sold about sixty fine yearlings to Tom George of Missouri for $16 a head.

Mrs. W. N. Fletcher sold sixty-seven head of yearlings last week. This was good stuff and brought $15 per head.

L. H. Hodges bought 100 head of calves from Ples Skeen this week at $13. We want to say that this is about the best bunch of stuff in the county.

There are fewer cattle in Childress county at this time than for many years. All who could shipped their cattle out of the county to grass early in the spring.

It is rumored that J. K. Zimmerman of the Shoe Bar ranch has stated that if cotton makes a fine crop this fall that he will immediately fence all his land north of the river in this county, each section separate, and will turn it into immense cotton plantations, renting it out to experienced cotton raisers. If it is carried out it bids fair to prove one of the best farming speculations ever attempted in Texas. Mr. Zimmerman's head is pretty level, when it comes to business propositions.

Patterson shipped out a car of cattle to the northern market the first of the week.

J. E. Berry of Pearsall has bought the W. W. Talbert ranch in McMullen county comprising 15,000 acres of land. The price could not be ascertained positively, but is understood to be something less than $2 per acre. He will stock it probably from his ranch in Frio county.

TEXAS STATE FAIR

President C. A. Keating of the Texas State Fair, in discussing the prospects of a big show next fall said: "The crop prospects were never better in Texas than they are now, and if no unforeseen accident happens all classes of our people will have money this fall, and when this has been the case heretofore they have flocked in thousands to Dallas during our fair; in fact, they have become so accustomed to visiting us during our fall entertainment for the past nineteen years they naturally expect this annual recreation, and make preparations far ahead for it."

MEXICAN JULY IMPORTS

Imports of cattle from old Mexico continue to be insignificant, but it is expected that something like 5,000 head will be brought over the line next month. This is the information that Colonel Albert Dean, live stock agent in charge for the bureau of animal industry, has received from inspectors of the bureau, says the Droyers Telegram. Imports for July consisted of thirty head of 3-year-old steers, which were taken to Arizona for slaughter. In addition to the cattle, eighty-one horses, two mules and five asses were imported, all for work purposes.

OLD TIMER'S REMARKS

A western flockmaster says that in his country it has been a common practice to cross half-bred Merinos with half-bred Shropshires with a view of obtaining large sheep carrying plenty of wool. In practice the theory has not worked out to the satisfaction of the sheepmen, and they are now planning other experiments. One of the old-timers sagely remarks that the best experiment in sheep breeding is to get pure-breds and stick to them through thick and thin. He does not believe in cross-breds of any kind for any purpose.

HAS BEEN RECEIVED

A copy of Professor C. S. Plumb's "Little Sketches of Famous Beef Cattle" has been received. In it are described the lives and careers of many of the cattle which have made the history of the shorthorn, Hereford and Angus breeds.

IMPOSSIBLE TO FILL

Feeders took a total of 14,190 sheep from the Chicago market last week, against 5,110 head the preceding week, and 15,008 head one year ago last week. The great bulk of this stock bought on feeding account consisted of wethers and yearlings. Many orders for feeding lambs are in the hands of local traders, but it is impossible to fill such, owing to the very small proportion of thin lambs contained in the big bands of western lambs that are coming for market at this time.

WETHERS AND YEARLINGS

Feeders shipped from Chicago last week 14,130 sheep, against 15,000 a year ago, the shipments consisting largely of wethers and yearlings.

DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire destroyed Hazlett Bros.' poultry packing establishment at Rochester, N. Y., on Monday. The cold storage buildings were filled with $10,000 worth of poultry and eggs for next winter's market. The buildings and equipment were valued at $25,000, all fully covered by insurance.

COMPRESS WILL BE READY FOR SEASON

A Few Bales Have Been Received But Enough Has Not Arrived to Justify Starting Monday

The Fort Worth cotton compress will soon begin operation. Already the building is being overhauled and preparations made for the coming week. The force of men is now all ready for duty and though the work has not yet really begun the men are ready to start just as soon as enough cotton arrives to justify the move.

The Telegram saw Neil P. Anderson in regard to the compress yesterday. Mr. Anderson stated that he could not say just when work would officially begin, but that it depended on, as Mr. Anderson expressed it, "the weather and the farmers."

"Two or three bales have already been brought into Fort Worth," said Mr. Anderson, "but I cannot say just when the compress will begin. The report that it would start on Monday, Aug. 22, is not true."

Mr. Anderson further stated that the price paid for the few bales so far brought in averaged from 9½c to 10c.

Mr. Anderson, however, did not seem inclined to be interviewed and spoke as little as possible.

"You know just as much about the opening of the compress as I do," he said to The Telegram reporter. "I can't say as it all depends upon how the cotton comes in."

It is evident, however, that work in the compress will soon begin, the receipt of a few bales indicates that in a few days things will be going. N. B. Calvin, formerly connected with the city engineer's office, has left that place to begin the season's work at the compress.

DALLAS FOLK ARE ENTERTAINED BY NEIGHBORS

Worth Social Club Gave a Barbecued Dinner With the Usual Irrigation at Lake Erie Yesterday

Friendly and business rivalry sank into the background yesterday evening as the employing printers of Fort Worth and Dallas as represented by the Gridiron and Worth Social clubs vied in making each enjoy the best times of their lives.

Officially, the Gridiron members were the guests of the Worth club as was demonstrated from the moment A .B. Moore caught Clayton West knocking down the babies and had him charged with passing spurious coin until the last moment when the Dallas delegation was accompanied and in some cases helped to the platform to return to their respective hearth stones.

The arrival of the parties with parched throats was followed by a quick advance upon the feast headquarters where all might quench their thirst.

"No barbecue until 6 o'clock," shouted Royster and this was the signal for a rush down to the lake, where led by Mayor Powell in the Buffalo boat the guests were shown more water than at the head of navigation. Blistered hands and strained backs made the supper call a welcome one and all did ample justice to the barbecue and feast.

With appetites satisfied, Mayor Powell, who acted as "roast master," stood upon the bench, recalled the pleasant occasion of a similar sort when the Gridiron club entertained the Fort Worth printers, told of the subsequent organization of the Worth Social club and its present endeavor, not to duplicate that event, but to show the appreciation of the Fort Worth men and their desire to bring a closer union of the employing printers in both cities. Himself he admitted to be not an employing printer, but only an honorary member, but enforced his right to speak upon the threat of imposing other talkers on the assemblage.

He then read the following telegram from Henry Dorsey:

"Regret extremely I cannot be with you today in person, though I am with you in spirit. I hope you will all enjoy yourselves and that the Worth Social club will permanently serve all the purposes of its organization. Fraternally yours,

"HENRY DORSEY."

He proposed the Gridiron club, which was drunk standing.

Following this a response was made by S. A. Fishburn, who pictured glowingly the future when Fort Worth and Dallas would be one grand continuous city, the center of the inland trade of the greatest state. Referring to home industry, he announced himself as favoring that doctrine and carrying it still further to a reciprocity between the cities for articles manufactured in one and not in the other.

Mayor Powell next called upon "that gifted orator," A. B. Moore, who tried to saddle his responsibility upon George Armistead, dubbed the phonetic speller. Armistead ,however, was wooed to etymology and Moore was forced to respond, taking vengeance with a tale on Armistead.

The health of Dallas was proposed by Mayor Powell, who declared that one of the two cities of Fort Worth and Dallas was destined to be the greatest inland city of the country. Fort Worth is in that race, he said, in an open, honorable and manly way. Dallas, he admitted, was great in many ways, in addition to possessing that ocean going steamer, the Harvey, which slipped out upon the morning dew and returned again upon the evening fog.

A. J. Toole responded, declaring the upbuilding of Dallas meant the upbuilding of Fort Worth, and the upbuilding of Fort Worth, the upbuilding of Dallas and complimenting both cities upon the fraternal gathering of her business men.

George B. Dealy was next called upon and declared the Fort Worth-Dallas competition was unlike that of St. Paul and Minneapolis in that the Lord had favored neither in this case as he did in the other by mentioning one alone in Holy Writ. Himself and the Dallas News, he characterized as delighted at the growth of any place in Texas and particularly overjoyed at the strides of their sister city.

Mayor Powell next paid a tribute to the evening paper as one he could read when freed from the day's cares and kicks of taxpayers and citizens and called for a response upon E. J. Kiest of the Times-Herald. Mr. Kiest admitted the supremacy of Fort Worth in some things as Dallas had supremacy in others. "As we are backed by the great agricultural interests of an Empire State," he said, "so you have at your backs the strength and support of the cattle industry." He expressed the regrets of Frank B. Holland at his inability to attend. Turning then to the question of navigation he referred to the dewy-foggy Harvey and declared it as much to the interest of Fort Worth that Dallas secure reduced freight rates as to that city itself. "When we get the rates," he declared, "you can use it as a lever on your railroads for a lower rate and we will help you get them, too." He then continued showing the mutual interests of the cities and pledged himself that none but Fort Worth goods should enter in his home unless similar products were to be had in Dallas.

"Texas" was the next toast called, being responded to by Parris Foute, who begged the subject as being "out of order" and entertained the board with story telling in inimitable style. The muse was next decoyed and at the earnest solicitation of those present, Mr. Fishburn recited in a stirring way a poem with Mr Dealy as the star.

George Meyers next explained the shipping of old presses f. o. b. and paid a pretty compliment to the entertainers of the day.

Mr. J. J. Reimers was next called upon and paid a glowing tribute to the public schools for their amalgamation of the various foreigners and classes and characterized gatherings of the sort in progress as desirable to the same end.

Electioneering incidents then formed the basis of a laughable tale told by Mr. Reimers, following which Mayor Powell resigned and "turned them loose."

Good natured repartee and banter which had been the order of the evening now burst forth in full force and the Washington Gridiron was exceeded in wildest moments of good cheer.

Those present from Dallas were J. T. Walraven, W. H. Walraven, George D. Armistead, Fred Lake, J. B. Jones, Bob Dyer, W. D. Cox, W. M. Timmerman, S. A. Fishburn, Phil Eldridge, Theo Sala, Clayton West, W. G. Scarff, Ed Adleta, W. W. Southworth, J. M. Colville, A. L. Eagan ,Robert Williams, A. J. Toole, Edmund Burke, Sam Hargreaves, Parris Foute, George B. Dealy, Jack Armstrong, Ed J. Kiest, T. N. Collier, A. D. Aldridge and O. F .Travis.

From Fort Worth the following were present: Mayor T. J. Powell, J. K. Millican, F. L. Boulware, W. T. Royster, F. G. Tanko, Marvin Evans, C. H. Speer, R. E. Speer, Walter Reddick, A. B. Moore, J. J. Reimers, James Hays Quarles, Sam Taylor, G. K. Shearer and F. E . Mills.

THE $500 CARRIAGE COAT

It is an easy matter to put $400 or $500 into a driving coat for the horse show. Here is an elaborate carriage coat of softest white satin, lined throughout with a dainty shrimp pink satin. The bands of satin down the sides of the front are of the satin stitched in white. White satin covered buttons are set on down the front, and over those are caught silk cords, as fasteners. The band of stitched satin extends well over the shoulders. The lace collar is of finest point, set over shrimp pink. The undersleeves are of point, exceedingly full, with a suggestion of shrimp satin at the upper edge. The plain stitched bands of the white satin outline the sleeves. At the shoulder under the stitcher band are five rows of fine shirring, which is more popular for hats and wraps than for gowns. The foot of the coat is finished with two soft folds of satin. The coat is worn by the woman in the box or carriage.

The hat is a creation in the two-toned pink roses, ribbons and maline. From the under brim to the broad crown of shrimp pink roses are bands of pink velvet of a deeper shade. The roses themselves are of various shades of pink, reaching, in the center petals, a shade approaching mahogany.

HARD TRIALS; GREAT TRIBULATIONS

BY CORA LAPHAM HAZARD

What do you 'spect the stork's been doing now?
(I wouldn't let him 'stribute any more).
He brinqed another baby to the Smifs—
He had to take it 'zactly by our door.

There's not one brother living at our house,
Nor any sister anywhere that's mine.
Before the stork brought them this baby one
Each Smif kid had already 'leven or nine.

It's just the cootest, teenty, little thing!
I want to rock it happy when it cries;
It's such a softy, roly-poly ball,
With funny, winkly, twinkly, blinky eyes.

I wouldn't b'lieved such judgment of the stork.
He better left it by the Nid-nod Sea.
They simply didn't need it 'tall at Smifs.
And now it n-e-v-e-r can belong to me.

They brag because it's theirs instead of mine—
Poor, weenty thing, it won't get any peace!
I don't b'lieve it was brought by any stork,
I'm sure what bringed it must have been a geese.

BEAUTY OF LAKE ERIE

The visitors to Lake Erie have noted with increasing admiration, the growth of the plants and shrubbery since the season opened. The walks leading to the pavilion are bordered with beds of flowers, that, under the influence of the warm summer days, have brought forth luxuriant growth of bloom and plant. The columns wreathed with cypress vines are specially pleasing. The beauty attained is something so out of the ordinary success following the efforts to beautify public grounds, that notice is emphatic. The beds of verbena, lantanas and canna as well as the hardy shrubs show the care of a flower lover of taste and affectionate attention.

At Lake Erie may also be seen the Texas flag hung, according to the way the Texans established as correct. It is no unusual sight to find careless persons putting up the flag with the red bar up. No such blunder has occurred at Lake Erie, and the manager, C. A. Taylor, is not a native Texan either.

Inquiry has developed that it is this same Mr. Taylor who has planned the landscape gardening for the park, and in so doing he has won the hearty thanks of the flower and beauty lovers among the patrons.

FOR THE BERTH

The cashed negligee is pretty for traveling. It makes a pretty protection for the berth. The material can be of silk, but at the coming of fall wool material is being used almost exclusively. The figure is dashing and the sash knotted at the shoulder is effective. The shoulder front is laid in folds confined by a short yoke underneath

The powers that invent and mold the fashions have, evidently, not quite definitely decided what novelties and changes they will decree for the coming fall and winter seasons. It is true, some slight changes have been made, indicating a marked, though not radical departure from the styles of spring and summer, but these changes are, as yet, only tentative and do not clearly and definitely point in a certain direction.

According to reports from Paris the characteristic bell shape of the present day skirt will be greatly emphasized or exaggerated in the fall and winter styles. The question whether they will be full or tight around the hips is not yet decided, but there is no doubt that the flaring effect of the hem will be accentuated by using some methods of increasing the flare. In some models stiff linings in the hem are used to support the outward flare of the lower part of the skirt, while in other models the desired effect was produced by silk covered cable cords, running along the lower edge. If neither of these methods is employed, the desired result will be obtained by voluminous ruchings and ruffles along the lower part of the underskirts.

The new corset which has been introduced in Paris and i s finding great favor, will soon make its way across the ocean. It promises to cause a marked change in the feminine form. The new corset supports the bust without raising it above its normal position, and is said to give more freedom and a more natural and artistic figure than the high bust corset. Another peculiarity of the new corset is that it sharply defines the waist line, without preventing the straight line effect in front.

Another novelty which may be expected for the coming fall is really not a novelty but a revival in modernized form. It is the redingote of long ago brought up to date by various modernizing touches and improvements. The new redingote will be either single or double breasted or open in front, with a waistcoat to close the gap. The basque part of the garment is voluminous to accommodate the full sikrt and the neck is collarless, with bands, turnovers and lapels. The redingote is either cut without a break in the waistline or it has a separate bodice, joined to the basque at the waist with a seam.

The revival of the redingote will undoubtedly give a powerful impetus to the popularity of the waistcoat, which promises to be much in evidence during the coming fall. It will be worn in a great variety of forms. It may be cut high or low, may form a separate garment or merely simulate one. It may be of the same material and of the same color, or may be used to enhance the general effect by introducing a touch of bright or contrasting color. There is practically no limitation of its decorative possibilites.

The thin silks and other sheer fabrics which are so extensively used this summer are undoubtedly beautiful and seasonable, but they have one great disadvantage. They are so light and delicate that the slightest breeze is sufficient to disturb them and only a woman who has been out walking or riding in such a gossamer dress or those who amusedly watched her frantic efforts of preserving the decency of her appearance in spite of a most aggravating and shameless breeze will fully appreciate what the disadvantage referred to really means.

Some women were so exasperated over the antics of their skirts that they gave up the fight in despair and took to less volatile fabrics. Now, that is really too bad, as these delicate materials are exceedingly beautiful and effective. However, there is no cause to despair. There is a very simple remedy and ingenious dressmakers are making those skirts of sheer materials with wide and flannelined hems and with a number of small lead sinkers fastened to the inside of the lining.

Those in close touch with the most prominent fashion establishments of Paris predict that dolmans will be worn a great deal during the coming fall and winter. A writer in Crerands Journal gives the following description of some models of dolmans exhibited in one of the leading Paris establishments: "One of the models is of that brilliant brown cloth so fashionable just now, and is made entirely in one piece with enormous sleeves taken in the fullness of the big circular garment. There is a big capuchine turning into a stole arrangement of passementerie. Another model, retains the dolman shape, but with seams down the shoulders, has an enormous collar, making a deep point in the back of squares of guipure dyed the same shade as the cloth mounted in brown velvet and edged with sable. The dolman sleeves have extensions of straight, wide cuffs to match this. The garment may be worn with the fronts turned over to show revers faced with brown velvet. Still another is of glossy black cloth. It is of paletot shape with big puffed sleeves over which fall half a dozen little circular cape pieces. The straight fronts are faced with deerskin dyed a rich black, and thrown back display a fitted double breasted waistcoat of the same glossy fur, trimmed with gold braid."

It seems that the popularity of the bolero is by no means on the wane and that it will be very much in evidence all through the coming fall and winter. The bolero has many valuable and attractive points. It is undoubtedly very chic and pretty, adds a saucy touch to the most demure dress and more than anything else enhances the most attractive features of a good figure. But, it has another advantage which will, undoubtedly, add to its popularity. It may save money under certain conditions. It does not cost much to make a bolero which is handsome and attractive and it costs a great deal less to cover up defects in a waist or bodice with a handsome bolero than to discard the waist or replace it with a new one.

Some writer on fashions has recently called attention to the fact that American manufacturers are themselves responsible for the fact that so many American women purchase not only their clothes in Europe, but even the materials of which they are made. It is a well known fact that American cotton goods excel in quality and beauty those of any other country. Yet, whenever some particular fine or handsome material is produced by American mills, it is put in the market as imported from France or England. It is rather peculiar, that English merchants to create a demand for their goods represent them as manufactured in America, while the French, who import most of their cotton goods from America and England, never admit that the goods are imported.

A new style of sleeve, called the Jack Horner Sleeve, has made its appearance in London and will undoubtedly find many admirers on this side of the ocean. It is low upon the shoulder and tight in the upper arm and gradually grows wider until at the wrist it has the circumference of a good-sized pillow case. It will be worn a great deal on fall coats and its effect is quite attractive.

Although a return to the close fitting coats of the Directoire style is predicted for the coming fall, the picturesque long and loose coats which were worn this summer and have met with so much favor here, will undoubtedly be retained, especially for evening wear.

ESTELLE CLAIREMONT.

THE NEGLIGEE

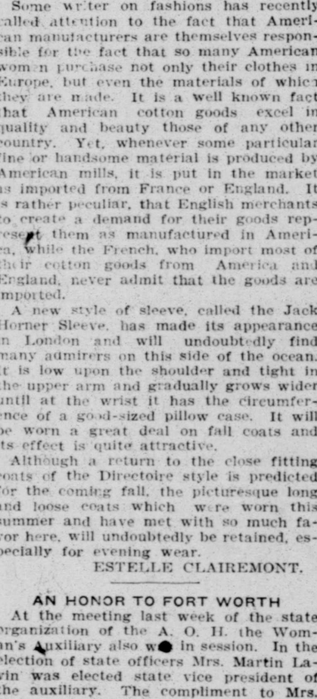
The chapter retains the lemonade and ice water privileges.



A PARIS MODEL

This charming Paris gown of soft white broadcloth is a recent importation for early fall wear. The empress effect in street suits is new. The bodice is of finest embroidered chiffon. Covered buttons, matching the green dots in the chiffon, ornament the jacket and skirt. Narrow green velvet ribbon serves as a guard to the jacket front. A knot of a wider ribbon ornaments each sleeve. Bands of gauze ribbon with white velvet pipings give the long lines.

LITTLE MISS MENEFEE

Seventy little folks gathered around a huge Jack Horner pie Wednesday afternoon and pulling at the gay ribbon that hung from the sides they got possession of a pretty toy to which the gay ribbon was attached. These were the souvenirs given by wee Elizabeth Menefee at her birthday party last Wednesday, the day she was five years old. After the presents were inspected the little guests were seated at a long table on the veranda on which were masses of pink and white vincas. The birthday cake with the five blinking candles was in the center and at every tiny plate was a bunch of fruit. Pink and white cakes and pink and white ice cream were placed on the plates.

At another table was the punch bowl filled with lemonade. On the lawn hundreds of electric lights in blue and red globes hung in Japanese lantern shades.

While the party was for wee Elizabeth, the friends they wanted it to be for her, too, and to make it so brought a number of handsome presents. The little guests were:

Miss Knight will leave for her home in Galveston next Tuesday, and will be accompanied by Miss Cantey.

WEDDINGS IN SOCIETY

CONNELL-PETERSON

The younger set received a joyous shock yesterday on learning of the marriage of Miss Florine Peterson to Clyde Connell, which took place yesterday morning, Rev. Luther Little officiating. The attachment of the young people has been an open secret for some time, but the marriage was not yet looked for. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Connell left for St. Louis to join the Connells, who are already there, telegraphing his father, W. E. Connell, of the event. The young bride is one of the handsomest girls in the younger society set, as well as one of the most popular. The groom is the son of one of our leading families and has many friends, who are delighted to congratulate him on his good fortune.

A GOLDEN WEDDING

The children of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Dixson tendered them a surprise dinner on their fiftieth wedding anniversary, at their home, 1509 East Bluff street, last Saturday, August 13. It was a complete surprise and the aged couple enjoyed the presence of all their children and grand children, as well as the feast and the cutting of the wedding cake in which both discovered a gold piece. Many other presents of value were received.

Both the dining room and table were beautifully decorated and the color scheme, gold, was artistically carried out, and every one received as souvenir a pair of golden hearts united as one, bearing their name and date of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Dixson are old Texans, having settled in this state in '47, and for the past fifteen years have lived in this city. They were married in Corsicana, Texas, in 1854. Mr. Dixson is now 80 and Mrs. Dixson is 68 years of age. They are the parents of ten children, of which five are living. They have nineteen grand children. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Evans and family, W. A. Dixson, Mrs. H. C. Dixson and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Terrell and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. Burnett Dixson and Richard Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Dixson of Enid, Okla., Horace Gibson and son, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Key, parents of Mrs. R. B. Dixson.

CRIMMINS-TOLKDORF

A nuptial high mass was celebrated by Father Byrnes last Tuesday morning for the marriage of Miss Madge Tolksdorf to Thomas A. Crimmins, two young people who number their friends throughout the city and for whom congratulations have not yet ceased to be expressed. The coming of the bride and groom was announced by the march from "Lohengrin," played by Professor M. H. Bauer, who officiated at the organ during the ceremony.

Miss May O'Neil, the bridesmaid, and the groom approached the altar, followed by the groomsman, C. E. Smith. The musical program was as follows: "Gloria," Dochauer; trio, "Ave Marie," Miss Redeker, Messrs. Shorb and Day; "Sactus," Dochauer, choir; "O, Salutaris," Miss Redeker; "Agnus Dei," choir. The choir was composed of Misses Redeker, Gulden, Swayne, Mrs. Cox, Mr. Day and Professor Shorb.

The bride wore an exquisite gown of mousseline de soi, with satin stripes, made with flounce, triple shirred and bodice with yoke and bertha of Honiton lace. Her veil was fastened with white rose buds, and she carried a prayer book, bound in white vellum.

Miss O'Neil wore a white Paris muslin, with white hat. Her bouquet was of white roses.

After the ceremony the bridal party and friends left the church to the march from "Tannhauser." At the entrance their friends were given an opportunity to express their heartiest and best wishes for every happiness and blessing.

Mr. and Mrs. Crimmins left for an extended tour of the eastern cities, and on their return will be at home at 402 Samuels avenue.

A large number of handsome presents were received.

A LINEN SHOWER

After the conclusion of the year book business for which the Penelope Club was called to meet at the residence of Mrs. Blanche McCarthy, the club members and friends of Miss Madeline Tolksdorf surprised her with a linen shower, the day being the eve of her marriage to Thomas A. Crimmins. Mesdames Sterley, Yates and Brown arranged a little program for the entertainment of the guests. A vocal solo by Miss Georga Redeker was rendered in her usual charming manner; Mrs. Roy Wagley also furnished instrumental music, as well as some beautiful vocal numbers. There were some comic recitations by the younger members of the club, at the conclusion of which two little girls turned on the shower and the bride-elect was deluged with lovely and useful presents. She has been a member of the Penelope Club for several years, and is the first bride the club has had. A number of guests were present who were not club members among whom were Mrs. Conlisk, Mrs. Roy Wagley, Mrs. Ettie Kirwan and Miss Mary O'Neil.

The hostess, Mrs. Blanche McCarthy, served delicious refreshments, and the club adjourned after wishing the bride-elect a long and happy life.

NEARING THE END OF THE GREAT REBUILDING SALE!

It has been the greatest and most entirely successful sale we have ever had. Stocks have been reduced and in many departments entirely closed out; hence we don't invite you to come expecting to find complete lines. The Rebuilding Sale has done more than we ever dreamed of. However, there are many good things yet to be had, and please bear in mind that the prices are cut still deeper from tomorrow on, and that the lines we mention today are fairly well assorted. If you can stand the confusion of sawing and knocking, you'll surely be repaid in reaping bargains. Many broken lines and job lots unadvertised are being sold regardless of worth and cost. You must some and see to appreciate the extremely low prices.

While our store is in an awful confusion and our selling space cramped to the center of our store-room, entirely surrounded by busy workmen, trade is keeping up remarkably well, and in justice to our faithful patrons we shall endeavor to keep our store open during the Rebuilding, compensating those who will face the inconveniences, with unheard-of bargains. A few more weeks and we will place before the people of Fort Worth a line of merchandise second to none in the State of Texas. In the meantime we ask your indulgence and thank you for the encouragement we have received during the past. Come this week and see the special values.

MAPLE HURST GROVE

On Wednesday afternoon a number of ladies of Maple Hurst Grove No. 5, W. C., met at their hall on Main street and went in a body to the beautiful new home on Monroe street of the Past Guardian Mrs. R. C. Moore and gave her a genuine house warming.

So quietly had all arrangements been made that she knew nothing of the storm that was sweeping down upon her, but like the brave and fearless guardian she was in the past, she proved herself equal to the onslaught, and with her happy smiles and pleasant manner soon made her self-invited guests feel they were just as welcome as if their coming had been heralded from the house tops, and everything in readiness to receive them.

There was an abundance of ice cream and home made cakes provided by the ladies and a very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by the following:

Mesdames S. E. Hoyt, T. G. Mottar, G. S. Miller, R. M. Davis, Phil G. Becker, G. W. Wilcox, H. Stewart, J. F. Luther, G. W. Gilvin, Connell of Ohio, Willie of Houston, E. T. NEWS BY CABLE FROM FOREIGN CAPITALS

A REBELLION

There Is a Growing Spirit of Unrest in Poland and the Reports from There Are Causing the Kaiser Much Worry

TO THROW OFF THE YOKE

Each New Defeat for the Russians in the War with Japan Encourages Those Who Are Dissatisfied — Leading Germans Warn Government

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)
BERLIN, Aug. 20.—The kaiser is greatly worried at the alarming reports for German government officials in Prussian Poland, who state that the people of those provinces are in a state of great unrest and who are secretly conspiring with their countrymen in Russian Poland in the forlorn hope of throwing off the hated German and Russian yoke.

In many places prominent Polish agitators and patriots are openly preaching rebellion against their oppressors and Russians and Germans have repeatedly been insulted and attacked by Polish mobs.

Strong military forces are being moved from other parts of the empire and stationed in Polish cities, but this has so far only served to excite the Poles still more.

Leading German papers are warning the government to be ready to meet a long prepared rebellion, the probability of which increases with every new defeat of the Russian arms in the far east.

It is also said that Polish societies in the United States are contributing large amounts of money to the treasury of the revolutionists.

Also in the Polish provinces of Austria the revolutionary movement is growing stronger every day, and in a house in Warsaw, which was recently searched by the Russian police, thousands of circulars were found which prove the existence of a strong revolutionary organization which is preparing to strike another blow for the restriction of the kingdom of Poland.

These are evil days for the Court Chamberlain of the Empress Count von Mirbach.

While he has not yet succeeded in clearing his reputation in connection with the Pounnernbank scandal, another accusation is made against him which if found true will probably effect his downfall.

The count was a year ago, made the guardian of the young Prince Friedrich Gottfried Maria of Sayu Wittgenstein Sayu, whose parents were said to have left him a considerable fortune.

It has therefore surprised many that the prince, ever since he became of age, has been in straightened circumstances, and a prominent paper now openly accuses the count of having spent the prince's fortune.

It further says that he took advantage of the prince's love for a young girl, not his equal by birth, to make him accept what little was left of his paternal estate without any accounting in return for the count's conferring the title of princess upon the girl.

Of course Count Mirbach denies the truth of the story, but as he has made no steps to sue the papers for libel his guilt is generally taken for granted, and the kaiser has started an investigation of his administration of the estate.

TO BE KAISER'S GUESTS

It is said that the kaiser intends to send a special invitation to two high army officers in the United States army to be his guests during the coming German military maneuvers which this year are to be of unusual importance anud in which several army corps will take part.

The maneuvers are to take place along the coast of the Baltic and for the first time co-operation of army and navy will be tried on a large scale.

For this reason a large number of army officers from all parts of the empire have been commanded on board the various battleships.

The tactics of the Japanese, which have proved so successful during the present war, are to be tried by the kaiser, who in person will take command of two army corps which will attempt to make a landing on the coast of Mechlenburg.

During the naval maneuvers the kaiser will also personally take command of the navy on board the battleship Kaiser Wilhelm II.

CRUSADE AGAINST IMMORALITY

The club of German women of royal and princely blood which has just concluded its meetings at the Hotel Hohenzollern in this city has decided to inaugurate a crusade against the growing immorality in aristocratic circles.

It is no secret that the moral conditions at several courts in Germany are even worse than those at the court of Versailles during the times of Louis XIV. and XV., and the action of the club, whose honorary president is the present empress, is generally commended.

NO ULTIMATUM

The report circulated by many American papers that the German government has sent an ultimatum to Venezuela is positively denied here.

Under present conditions there is absolutely no reason why Germany should do anything of this kind, as the South American republic has promptly paid all instalments of the indemnity to Germany, and it is generally thought here that the rumors were maliciously started by the New York and Bermuder Asphalt Company, which wants to distract attention from its own affairs in Venezuela by arousing ill feeling against President Castro.

WOMAN GETS A DEGREE

The University of Pena has conferred the degree of doctor upon a young American girl, Miss Morse, a niece of the famous inventor of the electro magnetic telegraph, Samuel Finley Morse. Miss Morse is the first woman to receive the decree from the famous university, and received a special letter of congratulation from the empress, who has followed her career with great interest.

WATCHING THE ANARCHISTS

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)
GENEVA, Aug. 20.—The police of this city are keeping close watch on the several anarchists colonies in this city, which ever since the assassination of M Plehve have been unusually active.

A few days ago several leaders of international reputation left here for Vienna after receiving a number of telegrams from St. Petersburg, and before leaving they told their friends that a great event might be expected within a few weeks.

It is said here that the Russian ambassador has requested the Swiss government to inform him of all movements of anarchist leaders, as it has been rumored that a plot is afoot to murder the newly-born son of the czar of Russia, whose birth was a serious blow to the revolutionists in Russia who had hoped that the imperial family would remain without any male issue.

MRS. ARTHUR PAGET

American wife of the British General who is held in such high esteem that she is a power in society, and when an accident recently disabled her, she received the sympathy of all England.

HIGH ESTEEM

Won All Hearts in England and Accidents Brought Sympathy from All People

CONSUELO — MRS. PAGET

They Are Popular Because of the Loveliness of Their Natures—The Duchess Is a Sentimentalist—She Likes to See Her Husband Ride to Hounds

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)
LONDON, Aug. 20.—Nothing in its way could be prettier or afford higher evidence of the esteem in which the American girl is held by all classes and grades of the aristocracy than the general sympathy aroused by the accidents to the Duchess of Marlborough and Mrs. Arthur Paget. The former long ago won all hearts by her unaffected, girlish charm, ingenuousness and tender, womanly heart. Eight years of the life of the court and cares of a young family have not deprived her of these characteristics, which will ever prevent the realization of her father's dream that she might become the head of a salon that should be the center of the social life of London. In the fall from her horse there is a peculiar element of misfortune, the duchess consistently avoiding the risks attendant on riding to hounds. While she delights in seeing the young husband whom she loves in riding costume, she herself never hunts, but prefers driving her pair of pretty black ponies. It is possible that the secret of her charm to Englishwomen lies in her complete contrast to the typical, breezy, masterful American girl. Her black hair, her soft, dark eyes, her sweet voice proclaim her the sentimentalist.

In the state rooms of Blenheim may be seen a painting of the duchess by Carolus Duran, showing her as she stands, dressed in white with a pink sash, at the top of a flight of marble steps. This picture seems to breathe the childlike freshness in which lies her peculiar charm. A taste for natural history has clung to her from childhood, and the yards at Blenheim contain all kinds of odd creatures—gazelles, pelicans, snakes, squirrels, tortoises, Persian cats and kangaroos, while in the kennels are to be found one hundred spaniels, descendants of the King Charles spaniels which went to Blenheim with the great Duke of Marlborough. In the summer she is mostly to be found in her tent on the lawn, the tent being beautifully fitted in the manner of a boudoir. Her American bower, arched with trellis work and running down to the river, recalls the days of the bower at Idle Hours, when she was Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt.

MRS. ARTHUR PAGET

Mrs. Arthur Paget's name has been famous for more than a generation on both sides of the Atlantic. From the day of her marriage to General Arthur Paget, more than twenty-seven years ago, until the present day, she has, by right of her fine executive ability and her strong, resolute, forceful character made herself a veritable power in society. Given the Charity Bazaar entertainment or garden party, and Mrs. Paget has ever been the first woman to whom a distracted hostess turned for help and guidance. The number of enterprises which she has steered to a successful result cannot be counted. Above all, she has enjoyed the warm, unswerving friendship of the king and queen, and among the best messages of sympathy and sorrow to reach her when the news of her lamentable fall down an elevator shaft became public were two signed respectively "Edward" and "Alexandra."

A PRINCESS TO WED

The engagement of the mature Princess Clementine of Belgium with Prince Victor Napoleon would now seem to be an accomplished fact. On the whole her marriage promises a far greater measure of happiness than that which attended the marriage of her two sisters, who each in turn have played a leading part in stories that blacken the pages of modern history. One of these sisters was Stephanie, who became the child-bride of the Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria. The second was Louise, who made her wretched marriage with Philip of Saxe Coburg. Clementine, now in her thirty-second year, has been able to watch the outcome of these two marriages and altogether is not without experience. Prince Victor is forty-two and it is only necessary to say of him that he knows more of the night side of life in Paris than any other man in Europe. As the present head of the house of Bonaparte he is through his mother, the Princess Clothilde of Savoy, daughter of Victory Emmanuel, connected with two royal houses. The heart of the Italian beats a little faster as he reads of the story of Victor Emmanuel, king of Sardinia and Savoy, offering his province, the cradle of his dynasty, as a sacrifice to the cause of Italian unity. The Emperor Napoleon demanding this as the price of his support of Italy against Austria, had demanded also the hand of Clothilde for his brother Napoleon Jerome, the selfish viveur, who was double her age. It has been left to the historian to tell how father and daughter mingled their tears ere the girl sacrificed herself for the future of her native land. Though Prince Victor inherits much of the cynicism of his father he also possesses the tender heart of his mother, and on the whole is likely to make a tolerably good husband.

THE QUEEN UNSELFISH

The selfish woman of fashion might well find an example in Queen Alexandra. Surrounded from the hour of her marriage by the comforts as well as the splendors of court life, she has ever kept in touch with the hearts of London's poor. The moneyed dame, turning from the sick and poverty-stricken people, and living in the little world of the rich, contrasts but ill with the gentle Alexandra, ever responsive to the sorrows of her poorer sisters, and going among them in her quiet, helpful way. The suggestion for the erection of a statue of the queen has met with enthusiastic approval. The east end of London, so much the better and happier for her work, would seem to be the most suitable place for the erection of such a statue. Even as a public adornment, a statue of the most beautiful of all royal women would possess value.

A GROWING INTEREST

Around the slender, boyish figure of Prince Arthur of Connaught centers a growing and significant interest. The persistent decline in health of his cousin, the young Duke of Saxe Coburg-Gotha, son of the Duchess of Albany, increases with each hour; the prospects is that he will at some time be forced to take up the vacant place the death of the Duke of Edinburgh had placed the throne of Saxe-Coburg at the disposal of his younger brother, the Duke of Connaught. But the duke, an English soldier with English tastes, declined the succession, both for himself and his son, and the title passed to the line of Albany. But if the son of the Duchess of Albany dies without issue Prince Arthur may be compelled, in the interests of his royal house, to accept the succession. He has the example of King Edward VII before him, and Saxe Coburg-Gotha will be provided with an admirable ruler.

RAISES A MORTGAGE

Once more has a famous English ancestral seat been saved by the money brought to an impoverished family by an American heiress. To the use of the fortune brought into the Seymour family by Miss Alice Thaw of Pittsburg is due the happy circumstance that the Marquis and Marchioness of Hertford will receive the guests at the wedding of their daughter in their old home, Ragley hall, the last mortgage on which was recently released. It has needed the buttressing of nearly a century to repair the ruin wrought by the wicked "Marquis of Steyne." Alice Thaw's money has finished the work. Lady Edith Seymour, the bride, is a timid, gentle, fair-haired creature. Her marriage to Major Hugh Carleton, a fine soldier, is matter for general congratulation.

Thirty years ago Mrs. Antonio Yzanga, the middle-aged widow of a not too wealthy Cuban planter, appeared in London society. Within a week of their arrival, Consuelo, the elder, with her beauty and her wondrous voice, had conquered London. Even in those day the king, then Prince of Wales, was one of her most devoted admirers. With the close of the season, mother and daughter returned to New York. Lord Mandeville, heir to the dukedom of Manchester, traveling through America, was taken ill with typhoid fever. In the lovely girl, who had already won his heart, he found a tender, faithful nurse. Their engagement was followed by an early marriage. Mandeville's brutality to his young wife was for years the staple story of society on both sides of the Atlantic.

Many qualities go to the sum of social influences of the Dowager Duchess of Manchester. Still beautiful, she is witty, an admirable reconteur and possesses a world of tact. The death of her millionaire brother brought great wealth to her.

GAIETY GIRL IN PEERAGE

Another former "Gaiety Girl" is to be added to the list of the peerage. For the new Lord Sandys, succeeding to the title and estates on the death of his father, is no other than the ever-youthful and debonair "Mickey" Sandys, one of the most popular members of the London Stock Exchange, and who in the early '80s and the days of the "Forty Thieves" met and loved the lady who at that time was known as Miss Morgie Morgan. Miss Morgan was one of the tribe of show girls who play a thinking part and play it extremely well, and whose chief business it is to "bring money to the stalls."

One morning the scion of a line that stretched away back to the Plantagenets and the daughter of a Brighton publican stepped into a sleepy old church of Piccadilly and were married. Like most of the Gaiety women she fitted her new position as to the manner born, and the barony of Sandys will lack nothing of its dignity in her hands.

The ordinary microscope reveals objects of the size of a thousandth of a millimeter, or a twenty-five thousandth of an inch. But the improvements lately made by Siedentopf and Zzigmondy have lowered this limit very much. These inventors concentrate on the field the direct rays of the sun, and thus render visible particles whose diameter is only one to five millionths of a millimeter.

Polish Patriots Are Expressing Much Indignation That He Is to Be Punished—Has from Earliest Youth Preached Revolution

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)
WARSAW, Aug. 20.—There is the greatest indignation among Polish patriots here at the report that the German government has decided to deliver the former editor-in-chief of the radical Polish paper, Praca, Dr. Casimor von Rakowski, into the hands of the government of the czar, which will undoubtedly mean that he will be deported to Siberia.

Dr. von Rakowski, who was born in Russian Poland, has from his first youth preached revolution and had to flee from here to Posen where he founded a daily paper, Praca, which sharply attacked the kaiser and the Prussian policy of oppression in Poland.

Three years ago Dr. von Rakowski was sentenced to a term of imprisonment for lese majeste which he will have finished in a few days.

Even during his imprisonment he has caused the German government no little amount of trouble, as he continued to edit his paper from his cell, and almost daily wrote biting articles which were so skillfully worded that they could not be touched by the censor, though their scathing criticism of the government surpassed anything ever written in a German paper.

That the kaiser desired to get rid of Rakowski was well known, but it was never thought that he would go as far as to turn him over to the Russian authorities.

MIDNIGHT ORGIES DISTURB NEIGHBORS

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)
DRESDEN, Aug. 20.—The closing by the police of two fashionable boarding houses in the most exclusive part of the city, many of the boarders of which were rich Americans, has created quite a sensation here.

For months it has been known that certain young Americans had held wild ogries in these houses, and other residents of the neighborhood had complained to the authorities that they were disturbed night after night by the sound of mad revelries.

Finally the houses were raided, and when the police broke open the doors many young girls belonging to some of the most aristocratic families, but whose names are being held secret, were caught in the houses and dragged to the police station.

The high social positions of the parents of these girls will probably prevent the affair from being aired in the police courts, but several young Americans will undoubtedly be ordered out of the city.

OFFICERS IN DISGUISE

Germany Sends Them Through a Fortress in the Garb of Priests That They Might Study the Defenses—Each is Watching the Other

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)
PARIS, Aug. 20.—That the triple alliance is on its last legs becomes more and more evident by the repeated discoveries of German spies in Italian fortresses.

Only a few weeks ago it was found that the secret mobilization plants of the north Italian army had been sold to the Austrian government, and now comes the news that the Italian minister of war, Pedotti, has sent a telegram to the commander of the Fortress San Felice, near Ghioggia to make an entire change in the regiments garrisoning the fort and to report in person at the war office.

The reason is that a few days ago two priests, dressed in their religious garb, asked permission to visit the fort, a permission which was most readily given, and the commander personally showed the fathers all the secrets of the stronghold, of which he is very proud.

After their departure from the fort, however, the priests were followed by secret service men, who discovered that they were German army officers in disguise.

A CONVICT'S STORY

An emaciated, hollow-eyed man was found in a dead faint outside the Hotel de Dieu, in this city, the other day and brought to a hospital, where he was found to be nearly dying from starvation, and was only revived with great difficulty.

His first words when he recovered consciousness were: "I am hungry. Please take me to the commissioner of police."

The commissioner was sent for, and to him the man made the following confession: "My name is Pierra Jugla, and I am thirty-eight years of age.

"In 1896 I was sentenced for theft to eight years penal servitude in Cayenne.

"About two years ago I succeeded, with ten other prisoners, in making my escape from Saint Jean de Maroni to a small island, where my comrades died one after the other from snake bites or were killed by cannibals, who attacked us.

"At last I succeeded in reaching the United States, where I tried in vain to get work, and failing in this took passage as stoker on a tramp steamer bound for Antwerp, and from there I walked to Paris, only to find it impossible to get work of any kind."

The commissioner was touched by the convict's story, and is trying to obtain a pardon for him.

A number of artists are at present at work trying to save the famous frescoes by Michael Angelo in the Sistine chapel from total destruction.

The walls of the chapel have, during recent years, settled considerably, causing the priceless paintings to crack in a most alarming manner.

These cracks are now drawn together by double-headed bronze nails and a mixture of pauzzolane and mortar is then injected by means of a syringe.

It has been discovered that several of the paintings centuries ago have been repaired in a similar manner, when after an earthquake parts of one of the walls crumbled and fell down.

Experts say that the reason why some of the paintings crack while others are unaffected is that Michael Angelo in his first frescoes used too wet mortar.

A terrible crime was prevented in the last moment in Sicily where two peasants, man and wife, were preparing to sacrifice their seven children to the devil in order to get rich.

The couple, who are no more ignorant and superstitious than the rest of the people of the little village near Palermo, where they lived, recently sought the advice of a gypsy woman, who told them that if they would go to a certain place in the mountains near their home at midnight and sprinkle the blood of an innocent child on the ground they would find an immense treasure buried there.

They thought the matter over for some time, but could not make up their minds to sacrifice the lives of any of their seven children, and finally decided to try to cheat the devil by sprinkling on the ground not the blood of a child, but that of a pigeon, thinking that the devil would not know the difference.

Accordingly they went one night at 12 o'clock to the designated spot and sprinkled the pigeon blood on the ground.

In the same moment a tall, bony figure arose from behind a rock and cried in a threatening voice

"So you think you can fool me with the blood of a pigeon instead of a child, but you are mistaken and if you want the treasure now you will have to bring me the blood of your seven children instead of only that of one."

The peasant and his wife fled in terror, and for some days gave up all thought of the treasure, but the greed of money became too strong and one evening they decided to kill all their children, but the oldest boy had overheard them, and the very evening when the bloody deed was to be committed he succeeded in escaping from the house and called in the neighbors, who arrived just as the couple was making ready to carry off the children.

The parents were arrested and confessed that they would really have killed all the children.

The gypsy woman has disappeared and is being hunted by the gendarmes, who hope to catch her within a short time, as she can not escape from the island.

Old-timers boast that Bret Harte once taught school at Tuttletown, Cal., and in that way acquired knowledge of the localities in the vicinity that he afterward worked into his writings. Mark Twain clerked in the only store in the town at the same time. The town itself is a small village nestling at the foot of Jackson hill, the latter being a veritable quarry of gold. Nearly all of this hill is owned by James Gillis, the original "Truthful James," and is covered by parties working small pocket mines "on shares."

She Discusses Recent Weird Dream of H. Rider Haggard, Who Says the Soul of His Dog Told Him of an Accident

ANIMALS IN AFTER LIFE

Mrs. Campbell Praed Firmly Believes in That Condition, and Celebrated Authoress That She Is, Her Story Is Attracting Much Attention

BY LADY HENRY SOMERSET

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Mr. Rider Haggard has raised a storm of controversy by the communication of his weird experience and the extraordinary story of a dead dog's message to his master. It appears that one night Mr. Haggard had a sense of awful oppression and a desperate and terrified struggle for life, and then it seemed to him that he saw his black retriever dog lying by the roadside in the water, and it appeared as though the dog was endeavoring to speak to him and tell him that it was dying. And then the dream ended and the next night it was discovered that the dog was missing, and afterward the body was found floating on the river about a mile away, and two men working on the line imformed Mr. Haggard that the dog had been killed by the train. There seems, however, little doubt that the moment of its death was about the time that its master saw it in his dream.

Now, the question that has been raised seems to be, is there a surviving spirit in animals? Mr. Stead has, with characteristic enthusiasm, rushed into the fray, and suggests that Mr. Haggard should be hypnotized in order that his subconsciousness might speak, and that he might perhaps remember the whole story. "Mind," says he, "is in communication with mind the world over, and there is no reason to doubt that the mind in the animal must be able to communicate in the same manner."

Mrs. Campbell Praed, the celebrated authoress, tells us that she thoroughly believes in an after-life for animals, and indeed, that she held this long before she read Plato or knew the opinion of Pythagoras. Mrs. Praed's recent volume, "Nyria," has produced a great stir in the psychic world. "Nyria" is a tale of ancient Rome, told to Mrs. Praed almost word for word, she says, by a young lady whose second self, she affirms, seems actually to have been a Christian slave at Rome in the time of Domitian.

In these days of marvels what reason is there to doubt any assertion? Personally I have long ceased arguing with those who firmly believe in all sorts of seemingly impossible things.

GHOSTS DISTURB HIM

Talking of strange experiences, Mr. Stephen Phillips has been obliged to leave his charming house in Egham, near Windsor, to which he had recently gone in search of peace and quiet on account of the disturbance that he experienced through ghostly visitants. "The uncanniest noises conceivable visited us directly we arrived,' said the poet and dramatist. "There were knockings and rappings and footfalls. Doors banged and were opened. I would be sitting quietly in my study writing when the door would open soundlessly. That was more than a man in the dead of night could endure. All the household heard sounds and experienced the same sensations." Finally his little daughter told him that she had seen a small old man creeping about the house. No such person was to be found, but he afterward discovered that according to another report an old farmer strangled a child fifty years before close to the house. So precipitately did Mr. Phillips and his family leave the house that they did not even stay to take away their things.

NEW USE FOR DOG

The Belgians have found a new use for the dog. We have often admired the strong and quiet companion who helps the man or woman to draw the little market cart into the quaint streets of Ghent or Bruges and stands patiently while the cart is unladen, and then proceeds to draw it back to the lonely farmhouse amid the Belgian fields, but a dog policeman is a new idea. Dogs have certainly been trained to succor the wounded in battle, and the famous Saint Bernards have saved many wanderers who would otherwise have been frozen to death on Alpine heights, but the commissioner of police of Ghent introduces the dog in a new character. The rapid spread of crime throughout Belgium, he says, within the last ten years has brought home forcibly to the guardians of the peace the fact that the police force was inadequate to the demand. Ten healthy shepherd dogs, about six months old, were bought, kennels erected, and a course of study was planned for the animals. After three months they were pronounced competent, and were distributed through the worst quarters of the city. So successful was the plan that five more dogs were sent out into training, and now the canine police force numbers twenty-five regulars and fifteen reserves in training in the kennels.

This course of training is singularly interesting, for the dogs are first

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:

taught to distinguish the well behaved and law abiding citizen returning home late at night and he is never mistaken by them for a thief or pickpocket. Men dressed in all sorts of characters are shown to the dogs, and street fights are got up which the dogs are trained to interrupt, and if the men continue fighting they are shown how to pin them to the ground. The dogs go on duty at 10 p. m. and off at 6 a. m. I find, however, that as usual the United States are never behind, and always adopt the latest idea, and that already in Philadelphia the first canine policeman ever employed in guarding the American people is becoming famous. Mace is one of the most intelligent dogs that has ever befriended man. He appears to have a peculiar talent for the finding of lost children, and scores of grateful parents are ready to testify to his ability. He has also saved life by stopping runaway horses. Mace is attached to the police station at Tenth and Master streets, and is considered one of the most valuable members of the force.

ANOTHER HAS A DREAM

Another gentleman, Mr. Michael Henry Williams of Pencalenich, Truro, had a like experience. While in Germany on business he dreamed one night that the servant girl set out from the house to get water from the well, his pet terrier and a large black retriever accompanying her. On the way she patted the terrier several times and the retriever, apparently jealous of the attention paid to the smaller dog, suddenly pounced on the terrier and worried it to death. The first letter from home that Mr. Williams subsequently received recorded the death of the unlucky terrier just as he had dreamed it.

OSNABRUECK, Aug. 20.—John J. Mitchell, the noted leader of the American coal miners, has made an extensive trip throughout the coal mining regions of Westphalia and has been received with great ovations by the miners, who followed his fight against the coal trust with great interest during the last great coal strike in the United States.

He has visited a great number of mines and declares that in many respects German miners are far better treated than their brethren in America.

It is said that he will publish a book on the life of the German miners above and under ground.

A GIGANTIC SCHEME

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 20.—The Swedish government has under consideration a gigantic railroad scheme which will probably be carried out in the very near future.

It is nothing less than to transform all the present government steam railroads into electric railroads, the power to be supplied by the numerous waterfalls in different parts of the country.

Experiments which have been made during the last year on the lines from Stockholm to Jarfva and from Stockholm to Wartan have been very successful, the saving in the running of the roads amounting to many thousands.

It is considered that the cost of the whole scheme will be about 127,000,000 crowns.

Secretary of U. S. Legation at Constantinople.

THIS PRINCESS HATES MEN, BUT WILL SOON MARRY

BRUSSELS, Aug. 20.—The marriage of Princess Clementine of Belgium and Prince Victor Napoleon is the latest court rumor. If the gossip prove true, they are as badly matched a pair as can be found in the royal list of misfits.

The Princess Clementine is 32 and has rejoiced to be known as the old maid daughter of King Leopold.

The tragic marriages of her sisters, the Princess Stephanie to the ill-fated Rudolph of Austria and the luckless Louisa, who now languishes in a madhouse at the instigation of her husband, Philip of Saxe Coburg, added to her mother's unhappy union, have taught her caution. She is extremely popular at the Belgian court, as the one member of the royal family worthy of admiration.

The Princess Clementine has managed to live in apparent peace with her father, although she was the warm champion of her mother's cause, and has tried in vain to aid her sisters. Only lately she has rebelled at an American favorite whom King Leopold has introduced at court.

A marriage with Prince Victor Napoleon can hardly solve the difficulties of life for the Princess Clementine. He has already contracted a morganatic marriage with which he is openly well pleased, and he has few personal attractions to offer.

Prince Victor Napoleon is 42. He is the son of Prince Jerome Napoleon and the Princess Clothilde of Savoy, a parvenue according to aristocratic prejudice, on the one side and allied to the bluest blood in Europe on the other. He was born at the Palace Royal and baptized with great splendor at Notre Dame. But the present head of the Bonapartists is the despair of the party from his lack of energy and enthusiasm. His aunt, the Princess Mathilde, left the bulk of her fortune to his younger brother, Louis, in disgust at his indolence, and the Empress Eugenie is expected to follow her example.

Estimates 25c Each—5 For $1.00

For every estimate you are given a separate engraved and numbered certificate with coupon attached. These certificates will cost you 25 cents each or 5 for $1.00. An investment of a small amount may mean your independence for life. You have just as much chance as any one else to receive a fortune. Collateral to the amount of the prizes is on deposit. See statement of one of the New York financial institutions herewith. We cannot touch this collateral. It is held by The International Bond and Mortgage Company, for no other purpose than to guarantee the payment of these prizes, as soon as the committee on awards declares the successful contestants. This committee has no interest whatever in the contest, and is made up of prominent business men, who have agreed to award the prizes, and your estimates are turned over to this committee on the 1st of November, before the election takes place, so there is no possibility of collusion or unfairness from any source. In case of tie estimates, the amount offered will be divided equally among those entitled to it.

THIS IS TO CERTIFY that "THE INTERNATIONAL BOND AND MORTGAGE COMPANY" holds as Trustee, collateral to the amount of $105,000.00, which collateral is held by us to guarantee the payment of the awards in the Presidential Guessing Contest, conducted by the National Contest Company.

Treasurer, The International Bond and Mortgage Co.

Only such estimates as are made on coupons purchased between August 1, 1904, and September 1, 1904, are to be considered in the awarding of this extra prize. Even though some contestant who entered the contest before August 1, 1904, or will enter after September 1, 1904, makes a still nearer estimate than yourself, his estimate will not participate in this particular prize. Should you be fortunate enough to be awarded this extra prize, your estimate will also be considered in the awarding of the other grand prizes, making it possible for you to receive $30,000 with one estimate.

We do not ask you to estimate now. We will simply sell you the certificates with duplicate coupons attached—hold them yourself, up to the last days of the Contest, when you will be better able to judge which Candidate has the best chance of election, and the approximate number of votes he will receive. Then fill in your estimates, and send coupons just so they are received in our office not later than November 1, 1904, the date on which the Contest closes. Estimates are only 25 cents each, or 5 for $1.00. A special rate is made to Agents. The small sum of 25 cents or $1.00, or even $5.00, is of little value in itself. Can you find a better place to invest a small amount than here, where it may bring you an independent fortune? If you desire to enter the contest for this extra prize, order your certificates at once.

Don't think that tomorrow will do as well. The habit of putting off until tomorrow grows on one, until the day comes when he or she realizes that the opportunity has gone forever, while the more thoughtful neighbor acts promptly, and receives the fortune which might as well have been yours. An investment of 25 cents or $1.00 may mean that you will be independent for life. Write today. AGENTS WANTED

YELLOW THREAD

It Furnishes Clew to the Postal Inspectors and After Being Followed for a Long Time Clerk Is Caught

SOME ROBBERY STORIES

Postal Clerks Cannot Tell the Denomination of a Bill That Is Enclosed in a Letter—A Dishonest Man Is Usually Caught

"All bosh," was the way a postoffice inspector for this state, who has just come to this city from Dallas, characterized the popular belief that postal clerks detected the presence of money in letters by means of their "touch."

"The sense of touch," he said, "undoubtedly can be developed to a marvelous extent, but I am very much inclined to doubt whether it can be brought to that degree of delicacy requisite to distinguish a bank note on an ordinary paper inclosed in an envelope. You see, money usually is wrapped in several folds of paper and then carefully sealed in an envelope. To suppose that a postal clerk can feel the bill through these various thicknesses of the writing paper is about as absurd as that story that some clerks could tell the denomination of a bill. I once read a remarkable story to the effect that a dishonest postal clerk had so keen a sense of touch that he never rifled a letter unless it contained $10 bills or notes of larger denomination. You might as well say a clerk could tell when there is money in a letter by smelling it.

"There are some dishonest men in the postal service, but mighty few when you appreciate the fact that there are 200,000 persons employed in the department and the millions of tons of mail matter handled.

"When letters are opened the probabilities are that the clerk takes a chance on finding money in them or knows that the person or firm it is addressed to is in the habit of receiving money through the mails, such as dry goods houses, publishers, etc. We had a case recently of a publishing house which complained that its mail was being rifled constantly. All the clerks through whose hands it passed were closely watched, and all sorts of traps were set for them, but although the thefts continued our efforts were without result, and our mystification was complete. The mystery wasn't solved until we discovered that the thefts were taking place in the office of the publishing house itself, the thieves being its own employes.

"As many letters are stolen outright as are rifled and resealed. It is as easy to detect one class of offenders as another. Naturally, it is impossible to prevent thefts altogether, but it is a part of our duty to advise postmasters as to methods whereby losses and depredations can best be traced, and it is growing increasingly difficult for a man in the department to steal and escape detection.

"When thefts of registered mail take place it is owing usually to the fact that a package or letter has been placed in the wrong pouch and thus diverted from its proper course. In such cases it falls into the hands of a man who has not given a receipt for it, and if he is inclined to steal there is his chance.

"The government provides an indemnity of $25 for the loss of a registered letter or package. In cases where the loss of a registered letter or package is due to the carelessness of a clerk or to his violation of any of the regulations he has to settle. But if the piece is destroyed by fire or stolen by burglars the government itself foots the bill."

One of the most puzzling cases the postoffice inspectors ever had to handle took place a few years ago when the Canadian-American mail was steadily robbed during a period of several months. No pouches ever failed to reach their destinations, and this made it impossible to tell whether the depredations took place in the mailing or distributing offices in Canada, on the Canadian mail train, at the transfer office in Detroit, on the American postal cars or in the office of destination. The thefts were causing an immeasurable amount of trouble, inconvenience and business complications on both sides of the border, and the postoffice inspectors spent months of hard work, anxiety and worry. Many plans were formed and experiments made to catch the thief, but all were futile. Finally, when about every theory that had been formed and experiments made to catch the thief had been exhausted, an inspector happened to notive that a pouch used in the Canadian-American mail had in it a yellow thread which was quite unlike the kind that had originally entered into its construction.

The inspector examined the thread closely and found that it extended along a seam, suggesting that the bag had been ripped open and sewed up again for a distance that would just about admit the passage of a package of letters. The work was very deftly done, and in all likelihood would have escaped observation had it not been for the yellow thread. No such thread was used in the government repair shops, and slender as the clue was it undoubtedly was a clue.

It was followed for months. Postal clerks were watched and tested who might have an opportunity to rip open the bag, and a close watch was kept out for a man with yellow thread. Suspicion finally narrowed down to a clerk in the transfer office in Detroit, who had easy access to the mail, which still continued to be rifled. An inspector made a quiet search of his rooms and clothing and found therein many ravelings of yellow thread.

That settled it. The next night the inspector bored a hole under the floor of the mail room in the Detroit station and crawled in. From this place of concealment he saw the clerk rip open a mail bag, extract a package of letters and sew up the rent with yellow thread. A few weeks later the clerk was in the penitentiary.

NEGRO INFLUENCE

The people of the south cannot understand the wonderful influence that Booker T. Washington has been able to exercise over President Roosevelt. That influence has not only been sufficient to give the negro entree into the dining-room of the White House, but seems to have elevated him into the position of political adviser for the state of Alabama. That this negro is the confidential adviser of the president in all public affairs concerning Alabama, is said to be a fact, and his advice is said to carry more weight in the matter of appointments than that of any other man in that state. Why this is true, unless it is intended as a continued flaunt in the face of southern people, cannot be understood by those most directly interested. Booker T. Washington is far more than an ordinary negro. His work in the past at the head of the Tuskegee institute demonstrates that fact beyond cavil. The people of the south are disposed to give him credit for the good he has done and is trying to do for the elevation of his race, but there is a difference between the Booker T. Washington as a negro educator and the Booker T. Washington as the negro politician and dictator of political appointments in one of the proudest states of the old south.

Washington in this new role is well qualified to undo the work that he has done in the past which brought to him the respect of the southern people. There is one thing the people of the south will never again tolerate, and that is the negro politician, or the negro-loving politician. The difference between the two is so slight as to amount to nothing, and in this day and time there is room for neither in the fair southland. Unfortunately, the propensity of the educated negro is to drift into politics or some other avocation where he can resist the necessity of becoming addicted to manual labor. Give him a smattering of even the rudiments of an education and forthwith he becomes a changed creature.

The Telegram contends that Booker T. Washington, through his association with Theodore Roosevelt and his assumption of the position of a Warwick in Alabama politica lmatters, has degenerated from a blessing to his race to the point where he is a positive menace and detriment. The force of his example will not be lost on those of his race who believe in the Rooseveltian idea of social equality. If the humble negro educator can rise from his lowly environments to the place where he is recognized not only as the equal of the president of the United States socially, but is permitted to say who shall fill Alabama offices so far as they are under federal control, can any intelligent observer doubt the ultimate effect? What Washington has done can be accomplished by others, will be the dominant idea, and it will take the exercise of an iron hand in full grasp of the situation to cure the foolish ideas that are every day coming into more prominence among the negro race.

One of the latest evidences of the power of the Booker T. Washington totem in Alabama political affairs is the appointment of Osceola Kyle to the position of one of the judgeships in the Panama Canal zone. When Kyle and his friends decided to try for the position, he went to Montgomery, the state capital, and talked the matter over with some prominent men, some of whom were leading republicans. He was advised to get the endorsement of the supreme court of his state to the effect that he was competent and to then see Booker T. Washington. While the Alabama referees were willing to endorse him, nothing they could do would be worth the paper it was written upon without the signature of Booker T. Washington in approval. He acted upon the suggestion, secured the approval of the negro friend of the president and forthwith walked into a position that pays him the sum of $7,500 per annum.

The spectacle of a negro placed in such a position where he can dictate such appointments is a shame upon the man who placed him in that position. The sight of a free born white man fawning as a sycophant at a negroes feet in order to obtain any kind of appointment is a shame upon southern manhood. But such seems to be the policy of the new head of the republican party in the United States. He would not only seek to make the negro the social equal of the southern white man, but he also compels the members of his own party to bow and cringe before the ebony-hued autocrat he has placed on guard at the pie counter. In this, at least, Mr. Roosevelt is showing some evidence of sincerity, but it will also have a bad effect. There are many members of the republican party who have as little use for the negro politician as the southern democrat, and all these will doubtless contract a bad case of nausea and proceed to quit the g. o. p. cold. They cannot bring themselves to the point where they can stomach the negro. They have too much self-respect to place themselves where they must be on a par with the negro, and the friendship of Roosevelt for Washington is going to lead to a considerable defection among southern republicans.

Nor is this all. Only a few days ago a prominent New York republican said that his state would resent negro influence and Roosevelt's idea of social equality by piling up a big democratic majority as a rebuke to the Rough Rider, who is not content with overriding the federal constitution, but the most sacred of southern principles. He said the idea of social equality was presumed to be popular in the north, but the introduction of the race issue by the republicans this year would be sufficient within itself to lose the election to the party. There has been a wonderful revulsion of the ultra-abolitionists, and sensible people of both the great political parties have come to recognize the fact that the negro is today one of the most dangerous elements in American politics.

It would appear from a consideration of these facts that negro influence is about to cost the republican party dearly in the impending national election, and it is to be hoped it will serve as an effective lesson for the future. There must be a complete divorcement of the negro and negro influence from the political situation of the future.

John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance Company, has declared in favor of Roosevelt for president, and his action will not cause much of a boom in business for his company in the southern states. It is a little bit peculiar that Mr. McCall has heretofore affiliated with the democracy and should desert his party in the hour of its impending triumph, but there is no accounting for some men's tastes politically and otherwise.

English papers are now going into spasms over the fact that the Canadian boundary line, aggregating more than 3,000 miles, is almost wholly unprotected. They have been a long time in awakening to the dangers of the situation, and it is heart-rending to think that Uncle Sam could make off with this infantile prodigy any old morning that such an idea should enter his cranium. That Canada must ultimately become a part and parcel of this great republic is recognized by all thinking men, both at home and abroad, but there is no cause for calling out the entire Canadian reserve. The result will be achieved through the process of benevolent assimilation.

Pictures of Chairman Cortelyou printed in the republican press, give evidence of a hungry disposition, suggestive of an aching void about the vicinity of the campaign barrel that remains unfilled. The fine Italian hand of the late Mark Hanna is sadly missed at this juncture. Hanna was one of the most adroit politicians this country has ever produced, and as a campaign manager the republican party will never again be able to produce his equal. His hold on the labor vote and his ability to fry the fat out of big corporations amounted to positive genius.

The speech of acceptance recently delivered by Tom Watson of Georgia in accepting the populist nomination for the presidency, is one long, bitter, bilious wail. It is a great pity that the country is going so completely to the dogs and the populists should be denied the glorious privilege of saving it. But from some cause or other the great majority of the American voters seem to labor under the impression that it is absolutely necessary to save the country from the evils of the populist party.

Republican papers are charging that J. Pierp. Morgan is an old-fashioned democrat, and if the allegation is true it but serves to bring out the fact that he is not working much at it now. Pierp. is one of the most staunch supporters of Rooseveltism in the east, and is doubtless influenced in his choice by that big fight the republican party has not made on the trust evil.

The administration of Theodore Roosevelt as president of the United States has added $18,000,000 per month, or $600,000 a day, or $2,500 an hour more to the cost of government than was paid during the last four years of the Cleveland administration. The remedy lies in turning the rascals out and returning to a constitutional form of government such as was established and contemplated by the fathers of the republic.

Chairman Taggart of the democratic national committee, is getting his sleeves rolled up and going to work in a manner that is causing consternation in the ranks of our friends the enemy. Fact of the business is that half the republicans in the country are already privately conceding the fact that the star of Roosevelt's destiny has set.

The American Steel and Wire Company has just inaugurated a cut of from $5 to $9 a ton in its various products, in order to stifle some very active competition. When thieves fall out among themselves honest people may occasionally get their just deserts temporarily, but in the end the total cost comes invariably out of the pockets of the consumer.

The great packing house strike still drags its weary way along, and in the meantime the cattlemen of the country are the real sufferers. The indications are that the markets will be as badly demoralized this fall and winter as they were last season, when there was a general effort on the part of all ranchmen to get there first.

It is said that both sides in the packing house strike have now lost the sum of $10,000,000, and it looks like the bare contemplation of such figures as those would be sufficient to call off the dogs of war all along the line. But the trouble with many people is that they never know when they have had enough.

Texas is already at work on the harvest of a cotton crop that is going to prove a stemwinder in spite of the boll weevils and other discouraging incidents. The fact of the business is that Texas is making all sorts of good crops this year, and has nothing to look forward to but an era of genuine prosperity.

Gasman Addicks, who has just been defeated in another of his efforts to break into the United States senate from Delaware, says his fight will never end until he is either dead or elected. It is said that all things come to him who waits, but Mr. Addicks is in position to officially deny that muchly mooted declaration.

There is too much tax dodging in Texas, as is amply attested by the size of that rapidly growing hole in the state treasury at Austin. It is a very hard matter to get the average taxpayer to render an honest inventory of his taxable values, for it nearly always seems honest to defraud the state.

The management of the World's Fair at St. Louis has promptly met its third half-million dollar payment on that big government loan, which many people opposed on the ground that it could be nothing more than a straight out gift.

If the republicans are sincere in their announced determination to challenge Texas democracy to make an exhibition of the books of the state government, they should be promptly accommodated with those in use during the Edmund J. Davis regime.

CONFEDERATE CAMP IS TO OPEN MONDAY FOR A SIX-DAY AFFAIR

All Arrangements Complete and Already Many Are on the Ground Prepared to Stay the Entire Time—Plenty of Good Water for All Who Will Attend—Fresh Meats and Other Provisions to Be Sold on the Grounds—Press Tent for the Newspaper Workers—History of the Organization of the Association, and Something About the Site and Those Who Selected It—Excellent Program Is Arranged for the Week's Affair—Good Speakers Will Be in Attendance

The official program for the second annual encampment of the Confederate Park Association which will be held at the grounds about ten miles from Fort Worth, August 23 to the 27th, inclusive, has been prepared by the executive committee and is ready for general distribution. The list of attractions that will be presented on the above dates is an interesting one, and will, it is claimed by members of the association, far eclipse that of the initial reunion, which itself was a success both financially and socially.

Aside from the amusement features there will be addresses made by some of the most prominent speakers in this county and possibly by others from abroad, Governor S. W. T. Lanham having been invited to be present and address the assemblage. Possibly one of the most beloved of all Confederates in the state is Hon. J. Q. Chenoweth, superintendent of the Confederate home at Austin. He has advised the board of directors of the association that he will be on hand and deliver an address to the old soldiers who fought for southern principles for four long years.

There will be no long speeches made and those who attend the reunion will not be compelled to listen to any lengthy address from anyone.

Vice President Duke Goodman, who has always taken an active part in the affairs of the Park Association, states that the present reunion will be much better than the first and from indications the attendance will exceed that of last year by a large per cent.

FROM OTHER COUNTIES

Already many old Confederates with their families are on the grounds ready for the opening day. They come from Palo Pinto, Parker and Hood counties. Before the opening there will have arrived several hundred others from other counties as was the case last season. The outsiders are equipped with tents and will camp out during the entire week, enjoying regular camp life. Not only are people from adjoining counties securing camp space but a number of families of Fort Worth have made all arrangements to remain in camp during the week, and have their camp equippage ready for the outing. The second-hand firms in this city have been taxed to supply the demand for cooking and camp utensils, and naturally this class of merchants are doing a thriving business.

The grounds have been put in excellent condition for the reunion. Large forces of men have been at work clearing additional grounds and making those already partially prepared in good shape, until now the camp grounds present an inviting appearance.

Cottages have been erected by the Daughters' and the Children's chapters, and the pavilion has been considerably enlarged in order that the large crowds may be properly entertained. Altogether everything will have been arranged.

There will be plenty of cool artesian water and there will be no occasion for complaint from this source. The park company has put down several wells and received a fine flow of water, which is piped to different parts of the grounds.

The management has also provided what is to be known as "press tent," where all newspaper representatives will be welcome and their wants supplied. Press people are to be looked after as they have never before been entertaind at a public gathering. All information wanted will be cheerfully furnished by well posted representatives of the park association. This feature will be appreciated by the pencil pushers.

TRANSPORTATION TO THE PARK

The matter of transportation from Fort Worth to the grounds and return has been efficiently arranged by the association. In addition to hacks an automobile line will be established, the autos leaving the city three times daily, the start to be from the corner of Seventh and Houston streets. The round trip rate will be made as reasonable as is consistent. In addition to this method of reaching the park Cantrell Brothers and Purvis & Colp will run a line of hacks to the grounds, making one round trip each day.

There will also be a line of hacks running from the end of the Rosen Heights railroad in Rosen Heights from which point it is said the distance is not more than six miles. From this point three round trips are to be made daily.

The automobiles from this city will be prepared to carry fifteen passengers at a time.

From this provision it will be noted that the matter of good and convenient transportation has been properly arranged by the association.

TO PROVIDE FEEDSTUFFS

Vice President Duke Goodman left for the park Saturday and will remain there until the close of the encampment. He will look after the park and see that everything is kept in proper condition and that the visitors are shown the proper courtesy during their six days' reunion.

During the last reunion the matter of getting provisions on the grounds was not as perfect as it might have been, and to obviate that inconvenience the association has arranged with W. M. Austin to establish a short-order restaurant, butcher shop and grocery right on the grounds. In connection with this Mr. Austin will be in shape to serve barbecued or raw meats just as the public may want them at the same prices as prevail in Fort Worth, so that all those who camp out may not expect to have to pay exorbitant rates for these things. "Provisions, etc., will be as cheap at the grounds as they are in the city," said Colonel Goodman.

On Friday, August 26, Mr. Austin will butcher a deer that he has secured and venison will be sold on the grounds at reasonable rates.

ORIGIN OF THE CAMP

The idea of forming a Confederate park association in this county had its inception Sunday, August 1, 1901, and was the result of a flattering report made to the camp by Colonel Goodman after he had paid a visit to a similar organization at Mexia a few Sundays previous. When Colonel Goodman had made a report to Lee camp of the manner in which the Mexia association conducts its affairs, he offered a resolution in substance as follows. The resolution was adopted:

Whereas, it has been a time honored custom for all organizations to meet once a year either in convention or reunion, the primary object being to better understand each other and more closely cement the fraternal bonds existing between the membership of such organization. It is a beautiful and most happy custom and to the end that all of the comrades of Tarrant county may unite in one grand body annually; therefore, be it

Resolved 1, That the commander of R. E. Lee camp be requested to appoint from the membership of this camp seven comrades who shall constitute an executive committee.

Resolved 2, The duties of this committee shall be to investigate and agree upon some place at which an annual reunion of all Confederate soldiers in Tarrant county be held.

Resolved 3, This executive committee to have full power to act for and in the name of the R. E. Lee camp upon all matters necessary to carry out the aims of these resolutions successfully.

Resolved 4, As it will require some time to arrive at the plans necessary to carry out the intention of these resolutions, the committee will be allowed all time necessary and will report back to the camp at the earliest date possible, their actions.

After the resolutions were discussed at considerable length by the members it was amended so as to allow an addition to the committee of two members from Lee camp, United Sons of Confederate Veterans, and one member each from the following camps of veterans located in Tarrant county:

Bedford Forest camp of Arlington, Stonewall Jackson camp of Grapevine, Albert G. Pike of Bedford and Dick Gano of Mansfield.

The resolution as amended was unanimously adopted and Commander Taylor appointed the following comrades on the committee: Duke Goodman, K. M. Van Zandt, W. M. McConnell, J. B. Littlejohn, S. P. Greene, J. W. Adams and I. J. Mayfield.

The sons reported as their selection on the committee O. W. Gillespie and W. P. Lane, state commander.

LOCATION OF CAMP

In the discharge of the ruties assigned them the committee traveled over more than 100 miles of territory in this county and personally conferring with the most prominent citizens of the most desirable sections of the county where a possible location might be decided on. For more than three months this committee continued its search and finally decided on the tract of land now owned by the association.

The body of land comprises nearly four hundred acres, is situated near the waters of Silver Creek, about ten miles northwest of Fort Worth. There are two fine roads leading to the park, one known as the White Settlement road and the other the Nine Mile Bridge road, the latter being somewhat nearer. It was by accident, but none the less fortunate, that the committee found this body of land, and so enraptured were they at its varied and picturesque scenery, that spread out like a beautiful panorama before them, that they all exclaimed with one voice, "Eureka." After some inquiry in the neighborhood they succeeded in finding the owner, and before leaving secured an option on the property, and returned to Fort Worth a unit in the conviction that they had finally located the most desirable place in the county. Within the boundaries of this body of land there is located one of the highest pinnacle points in Tarrant county, since named "Point Lookout," and its rugged and undulating surface rivals many scenes in far famed Colorado. There is an abundant and luxuriant growth of almost every variety of natural shrubbery that grows in this country, and there are two never-failing springs that furnish an abundance of water. Thus it can be seen that the park is already abundantly supplied with those two very essential requisites to a pleasant and comfortable camping ground, "shade and water." This committee returned to Fort Worth, and on the following Sunday reported the result of its labors to the R. E. Lee camp and was discharged. Immediately after the discharge of this committee and in order to own and control the park the Confederate Park Association was organized and chartered under the laws of Texas, and the second paragraph of the original articles of incorporation declares its purpose to be "the maintenance of a park and camp ground for recuperation, refuge and relief of Confederate soldiers and widows or descendants of such soldiers."

The directors of this association are: Major General K. M. Van Zandt, Colonel Duke Goodman, Capt. R. E. Beckham, Major E. M. Daggett, Hon. Oscar W. Gillespie and W. P. Lane, and the directory have elected the following officers to serve them for the ensuing year: Major General K. M. Van Zandt, president; Colonel Duke Goodman, vice president; Judge R. E. Beckham, secretary and treasurer.

AN INCORPORATED CONCERN

The capital stock of the association is $4,000, divided into 800 shares of $5 each, and a large per cent of this stock has already been subscribed and paid for. There are, it is said, only a few remaining shares yet to be disposed of which can be secured by those who are eligible to membership in the organization of the association.

The association thus far has proved a great success and it is expected that by another year there will be no stock left.

THE SODA WATER GIRL

There is no greater variance in the width and breadth of this terrestrial sphere than in the realm of the merry-merry where we have had everything from the blase demi-monde to the cute little high school graduate, from the queenly Anna Held damsel, to the huge propensities for hot birds and cold bottles to the demure little Quaker maid of the "Miss Bob White" company, whose strongest beverage is soda water.

For an illustration of Type No. 3, Miss Anna Brandt of the "Miss Bob White" company, is taken as an example. This little lady hails from this city, is a study in blonde perfection, graceful from tip to toe, and as modest as the blushing sun of the early summer morn. She was first with "Mr. Bluebeard" company, and now with "Bob," this being her first year on the stage.

To compare the two types, 'twill not be difficult. The lassie with the long thirst and the insatiable appetite, knows naught but the tenderloin. Her conversation is exclusively theatrical, suggestive of Broadway, from Twenty-fourth to Forty-second streets. Her avoirdupois usually excessive, her spirit languid. She arises, unless otherwise called for rehearsal, as late in the afternoon as her appetite will permit. She knows little about cabs, and exercise and she are strangers. Her wits may be accentuated by the wet goods, only to be dulled and dimmed in broad daylight.

In comparison to this type, we have the wiry, vivacious, blithe, winsome little Quaker maid whose thirst is limited to the bubbling beverage, but only of the soda water strength, and when she feels particularly kittenish, with a little dash of ice cream on the side. The early to bed and early to rise theory is in her most predominant. She is alert to the theatrical business only as a side issue. Her main object in life is her home, and the associations thereof, and the footlights merely a business. When the rehearsals do not require her attention, she is for long walks and athletic sports. She's as used to the gym. as she is to the habits of every day life.

It's indeed a revelation to the observer of things theatrical, to find such improvement and development in the stage, but in justice to Manager Nirdlinger and the "Bob White" company in general, it may be said that "Bob," like other Spenser operas, abounds with the soda water girls. She is predominate and a veritable queen in her realm. During her prosperous run at Ye Park, the neighboring fizz shops have found it advantageous to have a chocolate counter jumper awaiting their beck and call, and it is not exaggerating to say that a large chunk of fizz profits emanates directly from the Park theater. Here's to the soda water girl, long may she reign.

Our next tale will be of the chewing gum species of chorus girl.

DRAMATIC

ALBERT TAYLOR STOCK CO. ..

The Albert Taylor Stock Company comes to Greenwall's opera house for a six night's engagement, commencing Monday night, August 22. Matinees are to be given daily from Tuesday. The opening bill Monday night is "A Fool and His Money." Change of bill at each performance.

Manager Oscar V. Nix of the Albert Taylor Stock Company, says: "In presenting Mr. Taylor and his company to the theatergoers of this city, I feel that I am giving them the largest and best popular-priced attraction in America today. Albert Taylor has long since been recognized as the best of American repertoire actors, and he is surrounded by a company of seventeen people, including nine high-salared vaudeville features. The company will produce only the higher class of comedies and dramas and give complete scenic productions of each."

Popular prices to prevail throughout the engagement.

HIS FRIEND PAID THE CHECK

Two of Henry W. Savage's leading comedians, Charles E. Evans of "The Sho Gun" and Harry Bulger of "Woodland," are spending their spare time in Boston playing jokes on each other. One evening last week after a performance of "Woodlands," Bulger sought Evans who had just finished a rehearsal of the Ade-Luders opera and a game of billiards was proposed. The game started shortly after 11 p. m., and about 2 o'clock in the morning Bulger confided to Evans that he was without funds.

"You'll have to pay the check," Bulger said.

The other comedian had a large sum of money, but he couldn't resist the temptation to play a joke on his friend.

"Well, we're up against it," said Evans with a twinkle in his eye. "I haven't a cent either.'

"What will we do?" asked Bulger, "the proprietor will surely call the police and we will be arrested."

"You remain here while I go to my hotel and get some money," said Evans.

Bulger did as he was told and amused himself for two hours waiting for Evans to return. Finally he was so sleepy that he decided to confess to the proprietor that he had no money.

"I am waiting for my friend to come back with some money," explained Bulger when the proprietor said it was necessary to close the place at daylight.

"Your friend paid the check when he went out two hours ago," said the proprietor.

MISS SIMPSON'S DOG-PASS

Miss Cheridah Simpson declares that never but once was she annoyed by good nature, and that was on the recent trip from Chicago to Boston to begin rehearsals for "Woodlond," the Pixley-Luders forest fantasy. Miss Simpson has a dog, "Mufti," by name, and to the singer it is about the dearest thing on earth. Nothing Miss Simpson can provide is too fine for "Mufti," so it travels in Pullman cars, and puts up at the best hotels. Miss Simpson will never permit "Mufti" to be put in a baggage car where dogs are commonly required to ride. To guard against such a contingency, she invariably makes arrangements in advance to have "Mufti" travel with her.

So it was on the recent trip from Chicago. Miss Simpson was provided with a pass that allowed "Mufti" to go in the Pullman, and she waited for the conductor with grim satisfaction. She recalled former train men who had been disagreeable over the dog, and she was inwardly gloating over the encounter in the present instance and anticipating it joyously. She knew how it would all be. The conductor would say sharply that the dog could not ride in the Pullman, and after a proper argument she would delight in his discomfiture when she showed him the pass.

The conductor came along in due time, and began his routine. "I have a dog here," said Miss Simpson gently eagerly leading to the expected contest. "I don't care," heplied the conductor, and passed on. The pass remained hidden in her purse.

THE STAGE AT THE PRESENT MOMENT

To my mind the most hopeful feature of the theatrical situation in America is the great spirit of independence and discrimination which the public has shown lately with regard to theatrical attractions. For the managers, to be sure, it has been a bitter experience, but it has taught them, I think, a much needed lesson. They realize that the public is no longer to be taken in by "flubdub;" the bitter truth has been borne in on many of us that the dear old public will no longer swallow buncombe whole. For four or five years the country enjoyed a period of exceptional prosperity. The people were more or less theater-mad. Plays good, bad and indifferent attracted large audiences, their managers made money hand over fist. But with last season the tide turned.

The first victim, and the one that most richly deserved its fate, was the badly dramatized novel. The public absolutely refused to swallow any more of these crude and inchoate concoctions dramatized overnight and literally chucked upon the stage after a couple of weeks' rehearsals.

The next in line to suffer was the made-to-order star—the man or woman who, after one or two successes in leading roles, suddenly blossomed out as a would-be arc-light in the theatrical firmament.

If the past disastrous season has done nothing else it has at least reduced these two theatrical impositions to their proper level. And I make this statement in all kindness, too, for no one knows better than I of the ceaseless toil, the unselfish devotion, the indomitable perseverance and the heart-breaking setbacks which many actresses and some few actors are experiencing in their sincere struggles to reach the top of the ladder and to maintain their position there.

The stage in America today is stagnant on account of the commercial spirit which has been introduced into its dealings during the last six or seven years. No one appreciates and deplores this fact more that the actors themselves—and no one— more's the pity—is so afraid to say so. If the actors are under a yoke of commercial tyranny today they have themselves to blame for it. There was a time seven years ago, when the Theatrical Syndicate was first formed that Messrs. Joseph Jefferson, Nat Goodwin, Richard Mansfield, Francis Wilson and W. H. Crane, by merely standing shoulder to shoulder, could have nipped the scheme in its bud. Today, much as any of them privately and unofficially may bemoan this fact, there isn't one of them who doesn't jump when the syndicate pulls the string.

WHOSE HAND WOULD YOU RATHER HOLD? ASKS THE MANICURE GIRL

"I don't see anything funny about it," said the manicure girl.

She was good to look at, with her dark hair and her dark gray eyes. Her hands were smooth and firm and white.

"There's nothing effeminate about being manicured,' she continued. "Most everybody is, nowadays. All sorts of nice people come here—bankers, musicians—oh, nearly everybody. If a man comes once he's sure to come again. Yes, the water's ready now. Your left hand first. That's right."

In the temple of beauty there are many side lines. They have "Face Steaming," "Massage," "Electric Treatment for Wrinkles." They are popular with women who wish to begin life anew, with the skin of 16 and the experience of 60.

Manicures have lists of patrons of their own, mostly among fashionable people, and go to the homes of their patrons to give the treatment.

You sit in a Morris chair and lean back at your ease. At each Morris chair there's a little straight chair for the manicure girl. A little table at her side is for the instruments—little curved scissors and files and polishers, all laid out neatly—unpleasantly suggestive of a dentist's office until you get used to it. Beside the instruments of the trade there are short, wide-necked bottles of lotions. There's a still more tiny stand beside the first. You put your hand on this.

The manicure girl may have eyes of blue or brown or black or gray. That doesn't matter at all—to the proprietor. But they are all alike in the uniform attractiveness of their slim, white fingers. The proprietor insists on that.

"You've unusually good hands," says the manicure girl. If the patron is a woman, the girl tells her convincingly that the hand is unusually beautiful. In either case she adds incidentally that more care should be bestowed upon it and suggests treatment once a week.

Then she shrinks the hand in hot water and pares slices off it and files away corners until it feels several sizes smaller than usual. You are convinced that weekly treatment would be fatal to it. She surmises, while she polishes what is left of your nails as if they were boots, that you are an artist, to judge from the shape of your hands.

"Oh, yes, I can tell a whole lot about character by the shape of the hand and the nails. Pretty often I can tell what business a man is in. It isn't very reliable, though. Sometimes the guess falls a long way off. Yes, I know children say that those little white spots on a boy's nails are a sign he likes the girls. Is it true? Well, I'm sure I don't know.

"Folks here are getting educated to being manicured. Lots of bankers come to us. People notice a banker's hands and it's necessary to keep them looking nice. It doesn't matter how cleanly you are shaven, or how well dressed, you can't look really well groomed unless your fingers are well kept.

"But most men are so funny about it. They seem to think it's sort of effeminate, and they blush when I hold their hands. There was one nice man—he was stout and pink, with short white hair and whiskers, such as you see in the English coaching prints—and he kept laughing all the time I worked. And at first, when I held out my hand for his, he shook hands with me. He was confused, you know, because it was his first experience, and he thought that was what I wanted.

"Nails aren't highly polished any more. It isn't good form to have them that way. Neither are they trimmed to points. We shape them to suit the fingers, and a certain gloss is what is sought.

Lots of our girl patrons are stenographers. Stenographers of all people must have their hands looking nice. Nearly all women of fashion are manicured. They come here after they have been shopping. It gives them a good half hour's rest.

"Would I rather have men or women for patrons? Now, whose hand would you rather hold?

MAIL CLERKS

Something of Life of the Men Who Handle Letters, Papers and Packages Which Uncle Sam Transports for Citizens

BELIEVE IN HOODOOS

At Transfer Office They Meet and Tell Stories of Happenings on the Line—Are Loyal to Those in the Craft and Strive to Protect Them

Fort Worth is the headquarters of the Eleventh division of the United States railway mail service. From this point over seven hundred and fifty men receive their orders and instructions. Not all of the men in this district run in and out of here, but all are instructed from here. They are assigned to the various runs and to this point they report.

In this branch of the government service are found as fine a body of men, both physically and mentally, as there is in any part of the service of the government. The men must possess fore than ordinary intelligence to get into the service. They must have good eyesight and hearing, good memory, and be free from all physical defects. At all times both mind and body is tested while in active service. The men must take an examination every ninety days and are not expected to make less than 98 per cent on it, if they wish to remain in the employ of the government. They must know the location of railroads, steamboat lines, the location of little stations on the various lines and must even know where some of the postoffices are located way out in the "sticks and the pineries." No guess work goes in this department. You must know you business and not only know it, but know it well.

If a clerk sends a letter wrong he is marked for it. If he sends a pouch of mail in the wrong direction it's up to him to explain. They must constantly be on the alert. If they can not do their work and do it to satisfaction, they are soon resigning on a request from headquarters.

THEY ARE AMBITIOUS

Men in this branch of the service are all ambitious. There is considerable rivalry among them in passing examinations for promotion. To be promoted in the service means to a clerk that he is on to his job and has mighty few errors or marks against him. None but the very best men are ever promoted. Many enter the service, some stay in but a short time and resign, and a few in time win promotions. He must be the right man or he will never be promoted, for no pull goes, but merit alone counts. These men are kept constantly at a high nervous tension. They are usually on the lookout for wrecks and accidents while on their runs and when off they must put in the most of their time studying. The salaries paid run from $900 to $1,400 a year. Very few ever work to much higher salaries, but they can, if the vacancies occur, work up to salaries of $2,500 or more. Most, however, are content with less salary. The pace for most of them is a little too swift. For the work they do, for the dangers they run and for the studying and high nervous tension they must constantly use, they are not paid enough. Theirs is, indeed, a strenuous existence.

THEY SWAP STORIES

When a bunch of these men get together at some transfer office, some waiting for trains to take them out, others just coming in, the men exchange greetings and sometimes sit and talk awhile together. The stories they tell of their experiences on the runs and of the wrecks and the "hoodoos" is interesting. Mail clerks are a very superstitious class of men. They are always on the lookout for the things they claim may cause an accident or cause them to be injured. Accidents, to them, are often foreseen. Some clerks really believe they take their lives in their hands, if they go out in certain cars or with certain persons on a train. If one clerk has been on a run and an accident occurs, the other clerks are sometimes loath to go with that clerk on another run. To refuse to do so means a suspension from the service or, maybe, if it is not the first offense, discharge. The man who has been in one wreck and goes out with another man is looked upon for a few days as very undesirable company. A car which has been through a wreck is an undesirable car. A train crew, which has been in a smash-up the day or week before is a holy terror to a clerk. And an engine which has smashed a few things in several wrecks is the very limit.

DO NOT LIKE 13

The clerks ride in coaches next to the engine. They not only get the sway of the engine, but are in a position to get the worst of a head-end mix-up. They can not see the dangers of wrecks and are caged in like wild animals. The enginemen can jump, if they see an accident is unavoidable, but the clerks are none the wiser until the accident is all over. They are asking the government now to protect them with a request to railroads to build cars made of steel. Another hoodoo the clerks are as leary of as can be is the number thirteen. They do not want to go out on a train with the number thirteen on it. An engine with that number just ahead of them will put the majority of these hardworked men into a spasm. At a hotel they are as bad as on the runs about this number and it has become a custom at points where these men rest over for a run to have no rooms where the number can be found. Another hoodoo is the vestibule car. The clerks do not like them and are always afraid to go out in one. Sometimes they leave the door to the engine open in warm weather. Once in a while they find a man sleeping snugly in the vestibule. One clerk one time found two women and when he ordered them to get off the train at the next stop they jumped on him and would have put him out of the fight but for the interference of the fireman who happened to come up on the tender of the engine to push down some coal. He came to the rescue and saved the day for the clerk.

WASHED THE SACKS

A clerk, who has now been long in the service tells several interesting reminiscences of the life of the ordinary clerk. At one time in the earlier days of the service when a good strong pull was all that was necessary to get a run, a fellow whose uncle was a United States senator, got an appointment on a run between El Paso and Albuquerque, N. M. When he had finished the first run and landed in El Paso he met the man who told the story. The new one asked the other what to do with the empty sacks and the old clerk told him that they had to be washed and sent him down to the Rio Grande to do the job. After he had finished a couple of the sacks the old clerk told him of the joke. This made the political protege sore and instead of playing it on the next new man, he had his uncle take the matter up with the postoffice department at Washington and tried to get the "smart guy" fired, but in the meantime the other fellows made the life of the fellow with the pull so miserable he resigned.

BROOMSTICK FOR ROBBERS

Another case of interest as told by one of the men was a clerk who ran out of this city to El Paso. A telegram from a town out several miles reached the train officials to watch out for train robbers at a certain point. The clerk was told and he did not know what to do. The train crew were all armed. Men were taken on to meet the robbers and give them battle, but the poor clerk could not find a single weapon. In the excitement of the moment at the next station the clerk got a broomstick and prepared to fight to the bitter end. No robbers materialized and the joke was on the clerk. For a long time he was jollied all along the line, as a man so brave that he would meet train robbers single handed with a broomstick as his only weapon.

FRUIT FOR CLERKS

Once in a while in the solitude of a car while arranging the mail and distributing it from sack to sack the men find some curious things. One man once found a rattlesnake in a sack and he was so badly frightened that he could not finish his run and had to have a relief sent out. Often cats, fish, puppies, owls, turtles and even fruit is found in the sacks. Some of these things are put in for a joke and some are put in the sacks by friends of the clerks. Fruit is put in by some postmaster off in the "sticks" who wishes to remind the clerk he still thinks of him and the clerk in return will often throw in a paper for the out-of-the-way postmaster. At some stations along the line once in awhile some one will bring nice peaches or apples to the car door just to make the clerk think of them. One day an old fellow who lived back away from the station, but along a curve of the track sauntered down to the depot with a basket of fine peaches. The clerk had been waiving at the old man's daughter and had worked up quite a flirtation with the young lady. She used to stand on the top of an embankment and toss peaches into the car doors as the train went slowly up the grade. One day this all ceased for the night before it had rained and the following morning as she stood on the bank to toss a peach at the mail car door she slipped and fell to the bottom. Now when her father, the old man, went up to the door of the car the clerk with whom the young lady had been flirting thought he was in for it and was prepared for the worst. When the old man asked him, "Do you be the fellow whose been flirtin' with my Katie?" the clerk promptly replied, "No." Then the man said, "Why, Katie sent me down with this basket of peaches, but I reckon I'll have to take them back home." And home he did take them, and the clerk was out.

HONOR AMONG CLERKS

There is the soul of honor among the clerks. They are free with their money and like sports. They take a great interest in the ball nine they have. One thing they will do, they will stick with each other through thick and thin. Once the inspectors had an idea a man on a certain run was extracting certain valuable parcels from the sacks. He was an old man in the service and had a fine record up to the time of this suspicion. A decoy letter was sent in the mails and some of the other clerks got next to it. They decided to protect the old man and save him from disgrace. The letter was sent to a certain station, but instead of going to the right one was carried over by another clerk, who, of course, was marked for doing so, but it in the end saved the veteran. He was arrested at the end of his run when the letter did not arrive and later let free, for it was shown the man had not taken the letter. Soon the fellow resigned from the service and the boys were glad for they were positive they knew he had done some stealing from the mail. The man reformed and is today leading a life of unrightness in a city not a thousand miles from here.

ALWAYS WATCHED

Clerks are constantly watched. If a man is at all suspicioned of doing wrong inspectors try to trap him in every way possible. The test of his honesty is a severe one and if he is not honest sooner later he is caught and must resign. A clerk must never desert his run without having some one to take his place and notifying the headquarters at Fort Worth of the change. If he did he would be dismissed immediately from the service. A clerk on a vacation must fill in for another clerk, if the occasion demands it, until a regular man can be secured, on account of sickness or accident. They are subjet to call at any and all times. His time belongs to the government and he is the hardest worked man, running the most dangers and more often risking his life than any man in the employ of Uncle Sam for the least salary.

HEAVY CLOAKS IN SUMMER, LIGHT GOWNS IN WINTER

THE ABILITY TO WEAR CLOTHES WELL MARKS A GOOD MODEL

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The cloak model, in a moment's respite from work, sat on the edge of a work table kicking her heels against the table leaf and fanning herself with a palm leaf fan.

She measured thus:

Waist measure	25
Bust measure	36
Hip measure	42
Skirt length	43

More than one dazzled cloak buyer from firms in western states has gone home with a vivid memory of a blond pompadour and eyes that "the Duchess" or Bertha M. Clay would describe as "violet," and has tried hard to recollect what sort of cloaks they were he ordered from her display.

Something less than a year ago she answered the advertisement of a big down town cloak factory and was the one of thirty applicants whose measurements were those required. All last winter in the factory she tried on summer gowns, and this summer she tries on heavy winter cloaks, gowns and skirts. In the sample room when buyers come to town she dons heavy winter garments, one after another, that the garments may be displayed to their best advantage.

When the mercury soars she does not find it difficult to look attractive and to make the cloaks look attractive, too. But she does find it hard to keep cool. In the factory rooms she's trying them on from about 8 a. m. until 5:30 with an hour off at noon. In summer it's a tiresome, hot, and well paid job.

The girl on the table stopped kicking her heels against the table leg, but kept right on fanning. "Now, wouldn't a big ice cream soda taste good?" she gasped.

"Ready now," came a call from the other end of the room. The model slipped off the table and hurried away to don a cloak some wealthy woman will wear next January. "Just wouldn't an ice cream soda taste good?" said the girl in the winter cloak again.

Last week a big cloak factory advertised for cloak models, stating the measurements required. About a dozen applicants appeared, a smaller number than usual, but only one of them filled the requirements.

Some of the others—the foreman who passed on the applicants threw up his hands as he recalled some of the others who thought they might do.

"It is rather hard work," says that foreman. "But they're well paid. Good ones get $15 a week. Yes, they're kept busy nearly all day. We don't pay them to sit around and look pretty—though most of them look pretty, all right.

"In the factory the people making the garments fit them over dummy figures. That does very well when everything goes right. But all goods do not make up the same, and where there are 14 or 16 seams about a waist there's a big chance for something to go wrong. Then's when the model is needed to take the dummy's place. Later on when the workers become more accustomed to the styles the model has an easier time, but just now she has to work hard.

"The ability to wear clothes well is what marks a good model. In the sample room, if she just stood still, with a garment on, the garment might as well be on a dummy. The good model keeps walking back and forth, turning to display the clothes at their best. The buyer's eyes can't help following her, and if there should be any little fault in the garment he is more apt to overlook it. She can make an ordinary garment look fine just by the air with which she wears it."

But sometimes it is difficult to wear a January garment with "that air" on a hot day in August. "An ice cream soda would taste good," said the factory model in the winter gown. "hen 5:30 comes I'm going to have two."
