Crowe, Coroner At Loggerheads Over Gangster Slaying

Death of "Hanging Prosecutor Runs Into Blind Wall Of Sinister Silence

CHICAGO, April 28.—(AP)—The same wall of silence which has foiled efforts of 6,000 peace officers in Chicago to solve 87 gang and rum slayings during the last three years tonight nullified a day of investigation into the assassination last night of Assistant State's Attorney William H. McSwiggin, the hanging prosecutor," James J. Doherty, a beer boss, and Thomas Duffy, a saloon keeper.

McSwiggin, with a record of seven death penalty verdicts in eleven months, and his strangely assorted companions, were riding in an automobile past a saloon in Cicero, a suburb, when rom an automobile driven alongside, a machine gun belched its fatal fire.

Companions Missing

At least one and probably two other men, accompanied them, but they as well as the slayers could not be found today. Neither could the motive for the attack be isolated from a crowd of suppositions. Two tablecloths, similar to those used in a saloon in front of which the men were shot and five fedora hats abandoned in the slayers' car not far from the scene of the shooting provided the only tangible clews.

Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, infuriated by the slaying of his assistant spent today examining more than 100 men rounded up in raids upon known gathering places of gangsters, all but ten were discharged.

Oscar Wolff, coroner, viewed Mr. Crowe's conduct as an open affront to the coroner's office. They were on opposing sides in the recent primary in which Mr. Wolff lost and Crowe and his coherts were generally successful.

Wolff retained John C. Healy, former state's attorney and close friend of United States Senator Charles S. Deenan as his personal adviser and set an inquest into the triple slaying for tomorrow.

Because of the reputation of McSwiggin's companions, the investigation developed wide ramification.

Among the many theories advanced were:

That McSwiggin was an innocent victim of gangsters.

That Doherty and Duffy were victims of friends of Albert Anselmi and John Scalice, recently sentenced to 14 years imprisonment, enraged at McSwiggin's prosecution of them.

That Henry J. Ferneken, the "midget bandit," recently sentenced to death under McSwiggin's prosecution, had through friends obtained the revenge he threatened.

Double Cross Victim

That McSwiggin was the victim of a "double cross."

In favor of the last, was the fact that McSwiggin's clothing was badly torn and that his tie was knotted tightly about his neck, and that his clothing had been stripped of marks of identification.

On the other hand he had departed in the presence of his family with Duffy to play cards. When Duffy's automobile was fired upon, the driver, apparently unhit, drove several miles before he tossed the bodies of McSwiggin and Doherty into the street, one on top of the other and then drove on to another suburb, where he abandoned the automobile. Duffy was picked up where he fell under the withering machine gun fire but was dead when taken to a hospital.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 28—(AP)—Ten big balloons, each ready for inflation with 85,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas, tonight were ready for the start of the national elimination balloon race from the Little Rock airport tomorrow afternoon.

Weather observers tonight looked for a wind from the southwest which should take the balloons over a northeasterly course across southeastern Missouri, western Kentucky, Illinois and possibly Indiana and Ohio to the Great Lakes region. A brisk ground wind has been blowing for three days, and should it continue, pilots are hopeful of establishing a new American distance record. The present record is 350 miles.

BIG BUSINESS CHARGED WITH BLOCKING LAW

Hanson, In Charge of Mexican Border, to Step Out May 5

SLACKEN ENFORCEMENT

He Says Work Is Badly Hampered so He'll Give It Up

SAN ANTONIO, April 28.—(AP) Captain William M. Hanson today announced his resignation as immigration inspector in charge of the twenty-second immigration district, comprising parts of Oklahoma, Arkansas and almost 1,000 miles of the Mexican border in Texas. His resignation is effective May 5.

Hanson's resignation terminates a career as a peace officer, which started in 1884 as a deputy sheriff of Gonzales county. He was appointed to the office from which he is now resigning on March 2, 1913. Under his administration 10,650 aliens have been deported to set a record for any single immigration district in the United States, he says.

Target for Attacks.

Charging that his office has been the target for concorted attacks by forces headed by the United States chamber of commerce in an effort to abridge immigration laws or slacken enforcement, Hanson said he had contemplated resignation for some time.

An offer tendered him on April 26 by a land company to associate himself with it in development of its acreage in South Texas hastened his decision to resign he said.

During Hanson's encumbency this district has assumed a leading strategic position and now occupies a commanding position in enforcement of the United States immigration laws. It is through this district that the bulk of the Mexican labor enters the United States.

Called to Capital.

Hanson has been called to Washington numerous times and has testified before every congressional committee concerned with formulating immigration laws or regulations. The mounted patrol of his district has been increased from 20 to a present field force of 88 men, his records show.

The factional fight in Texas republican ranks had nothing to do with his resignation, Hanson said.

Rockefeller's Dream of Life's Greatest Temple Beside Egypt's Nile Shattered By Secret Foes

Political Intrigue and Other Factors Blamed for Dissipation of Ideal That Would Have Built $10,000,000 Palace In the East

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—John D. Rockefeller Jr.'s $10,000,000 drea of a great "temple of the unfolding life of man" on the Nile was shattered today, its chance of emerging into reality blocked by the mysterious opposition of secret forces in the Egyptian government. From the moment of its inception until final abandonment the project has been marked by secrecy.

Negotiations were begun early in the year and were only made public by a premature statement by correspondents in Cairo. Until recently details of the plan were kept secret and mystery surrounded the actual negotiations and reasons for Egypt's hesitancy in accepting the gift.

King Fuad was officially notified today by cable that Mr. Rockefeller's offer to erect a great museum and research laboratory for the study of the origin of man was entirely withdrawn. It was said that this action was taken "to relieve the Egyptian government of embarrassment," which the cable indicated might be felt due to the fact that the plan had not been accepted even after it had been revised in a form which the Egyptian prime minister had previously stated in writing would be satisfactory to him.

Since the offer was first made, numerous reports have come out of Egypt concerning opposition to the plan. It has been said that political intrigue had much to do with it, that warring factions of the government sought to turn the offer to their own advantage and that the plan was looked upon with askance in the belief that it was an attempt at a national bribe for a reason unknown except to the donor.

Opposition in Cairo was never open, every courtesy being shown the Rockefeller emissaries and conferences being held with them which seemed to point to speedy solution of all problems.

But solution never came.

MOODY CLUB IS STARTED HERE

Judge Montgomery Named Temporary Chairman Of Organization

Plans to effect the organization of a Moody for Governor club to further the candidacy of Dan Moody in the coming Texas gubernatorial race were perfected at a meeting of a few of Moody's Wichita Falls friends held in a downtown law office Wednesday night. A speciall called meeting to effect the organization will be held sometime during the early part of next week.

DENTISTS HIT ON KEYNOTE OF AID TO PUBLIC

CONVENTION TO CLOSE

Final Session of 46th Annual Convention to Be Held Today

A keynote of service to the public which can be saved much trouble and suffering through intelligent dental treatment was struck Wednesday by dentists in Wichita Falls for the 46th annual convention of the Texas State Dental society. Practically all the addresses of the day, while they dealt with more or less technical subjects, stressed the fact that dentistry is an important factor in the ceaseless vigil science is waging against disease and illness.

Two Men Stress It

This thought was stressed by Dr. K. W. Knapp of Minneapolis in one of the afternoon addresses and was also brought out by Dr. J. M. McMinn of Dallas. Dr. Knapp's address, in which he urged close and constant study as the price of keeping fully informed on the rapid advances being made in the dental art, also touched at length on the menace of pyorrhea and gave some accounts of the great toll it exacted each year from the health of the nation. Constant attention to cleanliness is needed to combat this threat, he declared.

The convention Wednesday waded through a mass of technical reports, addresses and demonstrations of all kinds. Clinical classes were continued throughout the day by Dr. Boyd S. Gardner from the Mayo clinics, Rochester, Minn., and drew large crowds of interested practicioners. In the Wednesday evening session held at the Kemp, H. L. Miller of Dallas addressed the dentists on "Amalgam."

HATCHER AND MOODY DIFFER

State Treasurer Demands To Know Why He Can't Pay Off

AUSTIN, April 28.—(AP)—W. Gregory Hatcher, state treasurer, today by letter asked Attorney General Dan Moody to state why he (Hatcher) should withhold payment of $21,666.68 from the Sherman-Youmans Construction company of Houston. He also asked an opinion as to whether he has the authority to withhold payment.

Last week, Ernest May, assistant attorney general, advised Hal Moseley, chairman of the highway commission that he should withhold $21,000 from the Harris and Galveston counties maintenance accounts of the company because the state is suing for approximately $21,000 damages in topping contract litigation now pending in the fifty-third district court here. The advice came in request to a letter from Mr. Moseley.

Warrants for $29,174.06 were issued by the comptroller in favor of the Sherman-Youmans Construction company, before Mr. Moseley received the answer to his inquiry, however.

KEMP'S PARLEY AT WACO GETS QUICK ACTION

They Agree to Keep It Out of Politics Entirely

ASK HOUSE TO AID

Will Attempt to Draft Bill Legalizing Road Bonds

WACO, April 28.—(AP)—Taking a "gentlemen's agreement" to bar anything that smacked of politics, 18 members of the Texas senate met at the Raleigh hotel Wednesday and unanimously voted in favor of a special session to validate Texas road bonds. A few members of the lower house meeting with the senators, were invited to obtain similar action by their body and to create a committee which would join with a committee from the senate and one from the Texas highway association in presenting to Governor Ferguson a bill which will be ready for aproval next week and on which the committees could unite.

Must Get Ma's O. K.

Such united approval of a bill must be secured before Governor Ferguson will call a session, the meeting was told by several speakers, including J. A. Kemp, chairman of a memorial committee appointed by a recent statewide mass meeting at Fort Worth, the committee having recently conferred with the governor at Austin. Failing a special session and validation of Texas raid district bonds, a prejudice would be created against Texas bonds which will last until another generation of the security-buying public shall have grown up, the conference was warned in a letter read by Mr. Kemp, written at the request of the Fort Worth meeting by Alden S. Little, chairman of the board of directors of the Investment Bankers association of America.

Refusing to Pay.

Mr. Kemp said that certain large corporation are now refusing to pay district road taxes, and may not be compelled by law to do so until the bonds are validated. Hence the district payments on bonds will be defaulted during the coming year unless action is taken at once. Delay until a regular session of the legislature would be fatal to the state's interests and the consequent defaulting of payment would lower the market for Texas bonds in a manner that would cost the state huge sums over a lonog term of years, said Mr. Kemp, who called the situation the most serious that has been created in the United States on such a matter in 40 years.

Galveston Chief Puts Bullet In His Own Head

GALVESTON, April 28.—(AP)—Chief of Police Henry Wisrodt died a few minutes before 5 o'clock this afternoon from a gunshot wound believed to have been self-inflicted.

Motives which might have led him to send the bullet through his own brain had not been advanced by investigators late this afternoon. A bullet from his own heavy police revolver tore a gashing hole through the right forehead and lodged somewhere in the head.

The theory of sudden depression caused from illness and intense mental strain was advanced as the plausible reason for the shooting.

MONUMENT TO NEGROES

Demos Make Futile Attempt to Block House Action

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP) In the face of almost solid opposition from democrats the house today by a vote of 226 to 116 passed a bill which would authorize a $30,000 appropriation for erection in France of a monument as a tribute to negro trops of the 93rd division.

Democratic opponents resorted to filibustering tactics, but the bill which now goes to the senate, was pressed to a vote after a motion by Representative Connally, democrat, Texas, to refer it back to the foreign affairs committee had ben rejected.

Whittemore Faces Baltimore Trial On Murder Count

BUFFALO, N. Y. April 28.—(AP) A jury which tried him for the murder of two bank guards having disagreed, Richard Reese Whittemore, "the candy kid," of the underworld, today seemed likely to be sent to Baltimore to be tried for killing a penitentiary guard.

The jury was discharged last night after deliberating 29 hours. In Baltimore State's Attorney Harry R. O'Coonor said he would ask an immediate waiver of charges by New York and Buffalo to permit Whittemore's removal.

"Maryland has an open and shut case against him," Mr. O'Connor said.

Indications were that O'Connor's request would be granted.

Whittemore, with his wife and members of the gang he led was arrested in New York a month ago as the result of almost accidental police observance of a night club they made their headquarters.

Whittemore admitted leadership of the gang and participation in robberies of loot aggregating $800,000. They had devised, he said, a perfect crime system and had set themselves a goal of a million dollars.

New York released Whittemore to Erie county to be tried on the serious charge of murdering two bank guards in a $93,000 holdup last October. His wife, called the "tiger girl," released in New York, was present when the jury reported and so was her father-in-law, Rawlings Whittemore of Baltimore.

Coolidge Declares Pension Bill Should Provide Revenue

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP) President Coolidge has again informed congressional leaders that pension legislation should carry revenue raising provisions.

Some of these leaders disagree with the president's policy, first enunciated in the case of the bonus bill and they believe that if the chief executive vetoes the first of this session's pension bills—that increasing pensions to Spanish-American war veterans—they can muster the necessary two-thirds majority to enact it over his veto.

With the treasury already expecting an estimated deficit of $21,000,000 next year, Mr. Coolidge takes the position that the Spanish-American war bill and the proposed measure for increasing Civil war pensions to a total of $33,000,000 annually would create a continuing deficit and throw the budget out of balance.

Fifty Bale Contracts Allowed in Exchange

CHICAGO, April 28.—(AP)—An amendment to the rules of the Chicago board of trade authorizing trading in 50-bale cotton contracts instead of the present minimum of 100 bales was posted today. Ten days must elapse before the proposed amendment can be voted upon.

"This proposed change comes at the request and solicitation of southwestern cotton interests," said Samuel P. Arnot, chairman of the cotton committee. The small shippers have been insistent for nearly two years that they be offered a smaller unit of contract with which to hedge their transactions in spot cotton."

Maiden's Modesty Halts Austria Duel

BUDAPEST, April 28.—(AP)—A maiden's modesty has been the cause for cancellation of a duel with swords between the girl and a man.

Because of what she regarded as unjust criticism of girls in a fencing school the girl, 18 years old and a member of a socially prominent Hungarian family, sent her seconds to the young man. He accepted the challenge to mortal combat.

Stripped to the waist in accordance with the Hungarian duelling code the man appeared on the duelling grounds. When the maid arrived his seconds insisted that she also should comply with the rules. The girl refused on the grounds of propriety and the man's seconds then declared the duel could not be fought.

On hearing their decision she burst into tears and left the ground. There was no reconciliation.

ONCE DIVORCED ALWAYS BARRED

Mrs. Belmont Declines To Give to Church Charity, She Says

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, divorced from the late William K. Vanderbilt in 1896, holds that a divorced woman whose name is excluded from one church charity list is still divorced when the next call for funds is made.

She makes this clear in a letter to Bishop William T. Manning, in response to an appeal for a contribution to the building of the Episcopalian cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Mrs. Belmont reminded the bishop that her name had been removed a few years ago from a list of officers of the Trinity Seaside home for sick children which she endowed for Trinity church. She said the bishop had objected to her name on the list because of her divorce and that she had resigned the presidency "to relieve your disapproval of my existence."

Mrs. Belmont presumes Bishop Manning would not want her name published in connection with any donation she might make, but writes "the recognizance of a gift is of no importace. We give because it is a blessing to be able to give. What I fail to understand is why this change on your part, dear bishop? My status remains the same. I am a divorced woman."

The request for money was made through Mrs. J. E. Stevens of the woman's division of the campaign committee of the cathedral. Bishop Manning would not comment on Mrs. Belmont's letter. Mrs. Stevens suggested she might have received a letter intended for another Mrs. Belmont.

Mrs. Belmont, one of the leaders in the campaign for women's suffrage is president of the national woman's party. Mr. Belmont died in 1908.

Colonel J. M. Hartsfield, commander of Robert E. Lee camp, U. C. V. and Major Haywood Davis, commander of Bothwell Kane Post, American Legion, spoke the words of welcome.

John Shearer, of Houston, commander of the Texas G. A. U. S. Birth Rate Declines 30 Per Cent

OAKLAND, Calif., April 28.—(AP)—The birth rate in the United States has declined over 30 per cent in the past years and is still declining "without the assistance of clinics or other birth control ballyhoo," Dr. Edward N. Ewer, Oakland, president of the California medical association, said today in his annual address to the association convention.

Dr. Ewer's stand on birth control differs widely from that of Dr. H. G. Brainerd of Los Angeles, who three years ago while president of the association, championed the cause of birth control. Dr. Brainerd is now associated with the national birth control movement.

WOMAN CONQUERS FEARS

Husband Delighted and Home Happier

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers," Mrs. Jack Lorberter of 704 Dellwood Place wrote to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company. "If young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start in right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results." In describing her condition before taking the Compound, she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me." One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lorberter continued, "and have had fine results. The condition I was in made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask "How is housekeeping?" and he says, "It is just like being in Heaven!"

LARGE CROWD HEARS YATES

Evangelist In Plea For Christianity of All World

Speaking before one of the largest night audiences of the series of revival services now in progress at the First Baptist church, Dr. G. L. Yates, evangelist, used as his sermon theme, "The Life of Compromise," as applied to both Christians and non-Christians. Dr. Yates said in part, "We are living in a compromising age. Men are prone to disregard the strict laws of righteousness and assume the life of easy living and the line of least resistance. Especially is this true in the realm of religion. All sane people agree that religion is both good and essential, yet many are not willing to pay the price of living its principles. Some have the idea that it is a losing game from the material standpoint—as a matter of fact, no man can count himself successful who does not take God into consideration and account."

S. A. Guests There

Following the service, an invitation was given for Christian profession and church membership to which a number responded. The corps of workers of the local Salvation Army were special guests of the service.

This morning, Dr. Yate's sermon subject will be "The Unanswered Prayer," the service being from 10 to 11 o'clock. A special service is being planned for the young people of the city schools and also one for the older people of the city.

"The kaiser trusted the glib words of President Wilson," he declared, amid loud applause from the nationalists.

BUTLER ASKS BOOZE REPEAL

Columbia President In Denunciation of Anti-League

NEW YORK, April 28—(AP)—Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, declared tonight that the Anti-Saloon league was "the most pernicious enemy of the republic that has been produced in my lifetime."

Mr. Butler speaking at the annual dinner of the Phi Upsilon club, said that the league had United States senators and representatives on its payroll the $35,000,000 they boasted about the other day in Washington—and paid their expenses in transporting them about the country to speak in favor of prohibition.

He said that if such a thing was done by the steel corporation or by banking interests "there would be a hue and cry that would reach high heaven."

Mr. Butler who previously has denied the efficacy of the prohibition amendment came out flatly for its repeal. He said it cannot be enforced "without violating the bill of rights, the constitution and statutes as old as the hills."

"The eighteenth amendment," he said, "is invalid and outside of the scope of the amending power of the American congress, the courts simply refuse to say so, leaving it a political question—and one that the people must get out of the constitution or pay the penalty."

He urged the amendment's repeal so that each state might take up the question and settle it locally.

Mrs. A. B. Eickelberger gave a crayon sketch illustrating the solo "End of a Perfect Day," sung by R. E. Shepherd. Miss Roberta Wolford gave a reading "Listening on a Texas Aid Society." Miss Gertrude Goss read a poem, "Texas Star," written by her father, former Senator Goss of Seymour. The church night program closed with a period of Bible study and teacher training.

Claim Colleges Are Barring Jews

NEW YORK, April 28—(AP)—Charges that the large American colleges and universities are discriminating against Jews were made by Adolph Lewisohn and Gustavus A. Rogers, in addresses at a luncheon today to discuss the million dollar program for the proposed higher Jewish learning in New York.

Declaring that several universities particularly in the east have given preparatory school principals to understand that when they fill entrance quotas assigned them they had better omit Jews, Mr. Rogers said from information given him the charges included Harvard, Dartmouth, Princeton, Columbia and many others of the country's greatest institutions of learning.

Mr. Lewishon made the specific charge that his own grandson had been excluded by one of the biggest universities in the east.

Mrs. J. A. Kemp and Her Daughters Entertain At Elaborate Spring Tea

Complimenting Mrs. Horsce Gilbert of Austin, mother and house guest of Mrs. J. A. Kemp, Jr., and Mrs. Alfred B. Booth of Chicago, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. A. Kemp, one of the largest and most elaborate affairs of the spring was given at the Country club Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. Kemp and her daughters, Mrs. W. N. Mear, Mrs. W. S. Langford and Mrs. J. A. Kemp, Jr., were hostesses.

The affair was in the nature of a May tea, and the entire decoration scheme and refreshments carried out the idea. The reception suite was profusely decorated in spring blossoms arranged in baskets and vases, with a large Maypole in the living room, and three smaller ones on the mezzanine floor, around which were arranged the house party, the colorful streamers in many hues, resting on their shoulders. The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. C. R. Hartsook.

The tea table appointments were unusually beautiful. A miniature Maypole topped with a bouquet of spring flowers, with myriads of them arranged around its base forming the centerpiece. At the end of each ribbon danced a miniature doll dressed in crepe paper of varicolors. Rose shaded lights lent a soft glow over the pretty picture. The refreshments further carried out the May day idea, the ice cream moulded like dainty May baskets, served with individual angel food cake.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 68

A Child's Laxative which Mothers Can Rely On

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he constantly advised mothers to give only a harmless laxative which would help to establish natural bowel "regularity."

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin mothers have a regulating laxative which they can depend upon whenever a child is constipated, bilious, feverish or sick from a cold, indigestion, or sour stomach. All children love its pleasant taste.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself how perfectly it cleanses and regulates the bowels of infants and children.

ATTEND THE RODEO AND AUTO SHOW—APRIL 30, MAY 1, 2, AT T-O FAIR GROUNDS

DENTISTS YELL AT MAJESTIC

Visitors Have a Big Time At Weekly Vaudeville Bill

Dentists at leisure and at play apparently enjoy the most nonsensical and frivolous sort of entertainment. At least many of them proved this Wednesday night at the Majestic when they 'stopped the show' with their applause for Yorke and Lord, billed as 'Two Gentlemen Nevertheless,' although they are as giddy and foolish as comic character flappers.

To say this about the dentists requires a bit of explanation. Dentists of Texas are in Wichita Falls for their annual convention. Part of the entertainment feature was a theatre party and the Majestic was the scene last night. And, most of the house was filled with them. So, most of the applause must have come from their hands.

Worth Waiting For.

The bill again proves that time worn maxim 'What's worth having is worth waiting for,' because the prettiest and brightest spot on the bill was Mlle. Marie Andre. Ted Lorraine and Ed Lord in what they are pleased to term 'A musical adaptation of the moth and flame.' And when the curtain rings down on them, no one doubts but that one has seen a livid flame and the helpless moth fluttering away its wings seeking to penetrate the blaze. Although their number essentially is a dancing one, the male members are delightful in their songs. And Mlle. Marie is one of the daintiest bits of femininity that has ever graced the boards of the theatre.

The Xylophone to Start.

Elmer El Cleve opens the bill with several solos on the xylophone and a little patter. He's billed as a wee bit o' Scotch, but his only Scotch was in his makeup.

Stone and Isleen follow in 'Tangled Wires,' a sketch laid anywhere which has as its basis crossed telephone wires, an introduction per se and subsequent patter and songs.

Authors and composers, four men and one young woman follow with songs hits of the past and present which one or the other has written. Some were delightfully entertaining and some were just songs.

Then the dentists got in their hand when the goofs came on, doing their little bit of everything and none of anything.

Aesop's Fables and "His Brother's Keeper," a motion picture filmed for the International Typographical Union showing their wonderful home, Typographical Terrace in Colorado Springs, open the bill.

'Unknown Outfits' Flags Swing In Austin Offices

AUSTIN, April 28.—(AP)—Twelve flags of "unknown outfits" that fought on the battle fields of France swing in the glass and wooden case with 24 other regimental and battalion colors at the office of Adjutant General Dallas J. Matthews. One of them is a chaplain's flag. Faded and somewhat shabby now because of the service seen in the world war, these colors are much sought for exhibition purposes.

But they are the property of the federal government and were placed in the custody of the adjutant general because more men in these 36 outfits came from Texas. Streamers on the regimental staffs and colors of the 141st, 142nd, 143rd and 144th Infantry regiments, show that they saw service in the Meuse-Argonne. Streamers on the staff of the 259 Infantry show this outfit saw more service than any other whose colors hang here. This regiment went through the battle of Villers en Haye, St. Mehell, Puvenelle, and Meuse-Argonne.

Most of the Texas Unit were in 36th and 90th Divisions, and the headquarters colors of both are here Colors of the 35th Infantry, which went through the battles of Villers en Haye, St. Mihiel, Puvenelle and Meuse-Argonne, also hang limp in the case.

Other outfits represented are the 111th Signal Batallion; 132nd and 131st Field Artillery; 50 Field Artillery; 344th and 345th Field Artillery 315th, 513th, 507th, 509th Engineers; 345 Machine Gun Battalion; 315 Signal Battalion; 36th Infantry; 344th Infantry and 218th Field Signal Battalion.

General Matthews took the colors from their cases for the first time since he has been adjutant general today. He plans to have them in fireproof cases and the flags placed on fine screen wire to preserve them to posterity.

Docket Is Changed

A full docket of civil cases in the 89th district court for the week of May 10 has necessitated postponement of criminal trials set originally and previously announced for that week to the week of May 17, it was announced Wednesday by District Attorney Ben F. Allred.

A list of settings previously announced is unchanged as a result of the move, with the exception that cases are in each instance moved up seven days.

The retrial of the Frank Folsom case, wherein the defendant is charged with a statutory offense, is set for May 6 as previously announced. A special venire of 125 men was drawn for the trial by the district clerk Wednesday upon the order of Judge P. A. Martin.

Two Days Left to Render '26 Taxes

Just two days, Thursday and Friday, are left for rendition of property for 1926 tax rolls, it was stated Wednesday by County Tax Assessor A. C. Howard. Property unrendered at that time will be placed on the unrendered rolls and the penalty provided by law assessed.

The tax collector's office will cooperate in every way with property owners who are unable to call at the office and render their property in order to get as many renditions as possible in, Mr. Howard states.

WICHITANS IN PLAINS AREA

Second Pipeline Is Finished Near Amarillo Territory

Wichita Falls operators continue to play an active part in the development of the Panhandle oil field, Amarillans visiting Wichita Falls say.

The Plains Pipeline company has completed its new six-inch line from the field to Panhandle and ran the first oil Tuesday. Walter M. Priddy, president of the company, said last night that the line handled more than 7,000 barrels of oil the first day and that it was expected to average more than 10,000 barrels daily.

The Plains company was the first to pipe oil from the Panhandle field, building a four-inch into Panhandle about two years ago. With the increased production in the field, the company began work on a six-inch line and it is now handling oil through both lines.

The production of the Panhandle field jumped almost 3,000 barrels last week and is now past the 13,000 barrel mark. Operators estimate that if all producing wells are connected with pipelines and if a number of new wells were shot and others cleaned out in order to insure maximum production that the Panhandle field would average more than 25,000 barrels a day.

At this time there are more than 70 producers in the area and more than 250 operations. Activity is increasing steadily and the proven field has been greatly extended in the past two weeks.

"Tiger's" Grandson Is Ordered Out

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP)—The United States government today put Georges Ferdinand Gatineau, grandson of Georges Clemenceau of France, on a train here for France. After the train departed, orders came from Washington to send Gatineau to Shanghai instead of France.

Gatineau entered this country two years ago on a permit good for two weeks. He was in custody from time to time while his status was under discussion. He declared his wish to be deported to the far east instead of being sent to France, but the government, until today's order, had denied this request.

FOR Sour Stomach PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach and relief will come instantly.

BETTER THAN SODA

For 50 years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Scarf Figures In Theft Complaint

Trial of G. P. Lindley, R. V. Armstrong and T. W. Armstrong on charges of burglary growing out of an alleged theft of meats from a farmer's smoke house near Electra late in February was under way in the 30th district court Wednesday before Judge H. R. Wilson and will likely be finished today. The state had rested its case at 5 o'clock Wednesday.

A spirited contest developed between state and defense when an attempt was made to introduce a scarf alleged to have been taken from the Midway Baptist church north of Electra in an offense charged in another indictment against Lindley and the two Armstrongs. This testimony was allowed by Judge Wilson after some debate when it was shown that the scarf had been recovered at the same time as the meats.

ORIGINALITY IN OLYMPIC BILL

Music, Song And Dance Included on This Week's Program

Originality, character acting, music and laughter feature the Olympic vaudeville bill for Thursday, Friday and Saturday with an ample variety and cleverness in the presentations offered by the five numbers on the program.

Raffin's monkeys are a real novelty. Originality, is the keynote of their offering, which is presented by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Raffin. Years of careful training by them have made these monks almost human beings. They do impossible feats that will astonish the most fastidious theatre goers.

Herbert Bert Lennon is a well-known character actor who has played in many of the largest stage successes and his vaudeville act consists of portrayals of some of the different characters he has played. Lennon is versatile and presents specialty numbers that are said to show him at his best.

This and That

Dawson and Jackson in "This and That" as presented by Miss Dawson with the able assistance of Jean Jackson, those who witness the performance of these talented young ladies will be assured of a delightful and entertaining twelve minutes of music, song and dance in addition to the feminine charms, youth, versatility and talent. This is their initial bow in the west.

"The Two Navigators of Nonsense" present an act for laughing purposes only, Tallman and Kerwin have the earmarks of originality, pep, songs, dances and music that is bound to create an everlasting impression on any audience. They are a sure-cure for the blues, and any theatre-goer is bound to receive 15 minutes of an enjoyable evening.

From the Circus

The Chester Trio, two men and one woman, are from the bigger circuses and have an international reputation as tight wire artists. They do seemingly impossible tricks with such skill and grace that one invariably comments on the facility of their acting. Daring feats are cleverly preformed by this unusual trio and the act is wonderfully costumed and presented in a rapid style.

"The Million Dollar Handicap" is presented as the new film with Vera Reynolds starring.

New Feature In Big Turf Film At the Olympic

The Metropolitan picture, "The Million Dollar Handicap," coming to the Olympic theatre today, incorporates many features new to picture tales of the turf.

Chief among the radical departures was Norman McCleod, "gag" man from the Christie comedy studio, and the artist who drawn the gay figures that adorn the sub-titles of Christie comedies. As "gag" man, it was his job to make the laughs flow frequently in "The Million Dollar Handicap."

During the World war McLeod fell in alphabetically abreast of Jack McDermott, the director. A Rhodes Scholar at Oxford, and a former student at the University of Washington and at McGill, McLeod had never heard of a "gag" man. After the war he became McDermott's assistant at the Christie studio and a month later began illustrating sub-titles. Although many "gag" men have earned college degrees, McLeod is the first Rhodes Scholar to enter the field of laugh making.

The most unusual departure of all, says Vera Reynolds, the leading lady, is the sequence where McLeod suggested that she ride Roscoe, a bucking mule. Expecting a pampered leading woman, director Scott Sidney called upon the assistant camera man to ride Roscoe to show that he was tame. Roscoe cast a malignant eye on the assistant camera man and threw him for a fade-out.

To the astonishment of the director, Miss Reynolds hopped on Roscoe and the scene was acted to the bitter end before anyone realized that the camera men had forgotten to turn a crank.

Boy's Week to Be Held May 1 to 8

AUSTIN, Texas, April 28.—"Boys' Week," May 1 to 8, was designated by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson in a proclamation calling on the people of Texas to join in the national observance of the week. Next Saturday as specially set aside as Boys' loyalty day.

"The boy is the world's greatest asset," the proclamation signed by the governor said. "Youth is the structure upon which the future rests. That structure will be strong or weak as we develop the spirit of loyalty and devotion in the youth of the nation. This is a responsibility and an obligation of each generation and it is well for the commonwealth as a whole to think for at least one week in terms of the boy, his needs and his future, for his future is the future of the world."

LOFTIN FROWNS ON ROAD CALL

Henrietta Legislator Says Special Session Would Do no Good

AUSTIN, April 28.—The Texas legislature could not make good a law which United States supreme court has already held void, even if called in special session for that purpose, according to the opinion expressed here Tuesday by Representative Rube Loftin of Henrietta, who was leader of the Ferguson forces in the house amnesty fight last year.

The only benefit of a session would be to express the confidence of the state in its securities, Mr. Loftin said.

He declared that while he believed the legislature could not validate outstanding bonds, that the politics of a session no wwould break in favor of Governor Ferguson."

Mr. Loftin predicted that Governor Ferguson will get the highest vote in his distirct in the first primary.

Loftin, as a result of his leadership of the successful fight for the amnesty bill, is being urged to become a candidate for speaker of the 40th legislature, but said Tuesday he has not decided whether to enter the race. It is understood the speakership race will probably be three-cornered, if he gets in, with B. L. Bobbitt of Laredo as the representative of the anti-amnesties, and Rep. F. A. Dale of Bonham, who voted for the amnesty bill, the other candidate.

Baptist Church To Be Started

VERNON, April 28.—The building committee of the Baptist church has instructed J. R. Crawford, who has the contract to supply material to be used in the new $150,000 building, to begin hauling gravel for the structure at once.

Work toward moving the houses off the site at the corner of Paradise and Pease streets has been started, and it is expected that actual construction of the building will be started within a week or ten days.

The buildings on the site at present have all been sold, and practically all of the material to be used in the new structure has been bought and contracts signed, according to Dr. Moore.

Western Military Life Shown By Mission Picture

The social life of an army post in the west is faithfully depicted in "The Scarlet West," which is now being shown at the Mission theatre.

The period is that following the Civil war, when the various tribes of Indians infesting the western plains rose in revolt against the encroachments of the white men seeking new homes. So aggressive did the redskins become that the government was compelled to send many regiments of soldiers into that territory to preserve order and prevent the extermination of the pioneers.

Forts were erected in many strategic points, and in most cases the officers took their families to these isolated spots. There were no theatres to attend; no operas or other attractions such as the big city boasts, but nonetheless there were many social events that helped to make life more bearable. And there were social distinctions as clearly defined as in a metropolis.

"CARDUI has done so much for my health I feel that I am deeply in debt to it," says Mrs. W. E. Stewart, of Henry River, N. C., whose picture is printed above. "I was in a terribly run-down condition. My back ached and I had frequent smothering spells. I lost weight until I was down to 108 pounds. I would sometimes faint from sheer weakness.

"I just could not get started on the uphill road, somehow. I felt like I was in chains. I tried many things, but somehow nothing helped me. I was very despondent. It just looked like I never was going to be well again.

"It came to me one day that I had used Cardui before I was married, and that it had really helped me then, so why not give it a trial along with the rest? After taking a bottle I found I was quite a little stronger. My back did not hurt so much and I was able to do more.

"I kept up the Cardui for several months and found it to be the very thing for my trouble. The weakness disappeared.

"I feel that I owe a great deal to Cardui and I have told many of my friends about it. I wish all suffering women knew about it."

The program, as arranged by W. E. Donovan, Gonales; Ralph Bradford, Corpus Christi, and J. E. Bell, San Benito, permits a full discussion of every topic presented. The third day, C. C. Wolfe, San Antonio, will discuss "Retail Trade Extension;" and H. N. Haines, Houston, "Question Box."

You'd Be Surprised at All the Twists

Ordinarily a common rope isn't such an animate object as the big lariat Bob Calen is hopping through in the above picture.

Any rope he grabs, though, takes on more curves and twists than a classic dancer, for he knows how to coax more antics from it than most any other man extant.

Calen and his fancy rope stunts will be one of the big features of the Oklahoma fair grounds the latter part of this week. In rodeos of the past he has always been a prime favorite, since there is nothing more spectacular than his dancing, weaving, spinning and winding.

$2,000,000 a Day In New Insurance

AUSTIN, April 28—(AP)—Since January 1, life insurance companies in Texas have written an average of $2,000,000 worth of insurance a day, R. L. Daniels, insurance commissioner said Tuesday.

The ninety-six foreign and 18 domestic insurance companies will have in force $2,500,000,000 at the end of this year at that rate he said, which despite its magnitude, represents only 18 per cent of the insurable life value in Texas.

In 1925 about 9,000,000 was lost in Texas by policy holders who permitted their policies to lapse. There was $1,904,394,002 in life insurance in force in Texas January 1, domestic companies writing $366,884,963 and foreign companies $318,089,744 in 1925. Domestic companies collected $21,772,001 and foreign companies $26,837,644 in premiums in 1925 in Texas.

DALLAS, April 28—(AP)—Three young children heard their father M. V. West, 56-year-old carpenter, sentenced to life imprisonment by a district court jury here today for killing Walter S. Williams, husband of their divorced mother, whom West charged was "degraded" and "stolen" by Williams.

The jury was out only 20 minutes. West, charged with murder, was unmoved by the verdict but the children broke into sobs and had to be carried from the court room.

Testifying regarding the shooting on a downtown street last November, West declared he shot Williams when the latter cursed him and made a hip pocket move.

Rockefeller Offer Egyptian Museum Been Withdrawn

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—The offer recently made by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to King Fuad of the Egyptian government of a $10,000,000 museum and archaeological institute in Cairo was withdrawn by the trustees today.

A cablegram was sent to Ahmed Ziwar Pasha, Egyptian prime minister, announcing the withdrawal of the offer and explaining the reasons for this action.

It was recalled that when the offer was made early this year certain objections were raised by the Egyptian government and to meet these the plan was modified and re-offered a month ago by Dr. James Breasted of the University of Chicago who acted as Mr. Rockefeller's representative in the negotiations.

Professor Breasted left Egypt on April 8 without having received any word from the goernment that the new plan had met with approval. In view of the fact that no reply to the offer had been received up to the present time, the cablegram stated, the trustees concluded to withdraw the offer and "thereby relieve the Egyptian government from any further embarrassment."

If the offer had been accepted it was Mr. Rockefeller's plan to erect in Cairo the greatest museum of its kind in the world.

Irish Klan To Bury Dead of Past Year

ATLANTA, Ga., April 28.—(AP) Irish clansmen from every part of the United States and Canada gathered here today to enact one of America's strangest funeral rites. The occasion was the annual burial of the Irish horse traders, held each April here for more than 25 years.

Because of their wanderings the clans bury their dead only once a year in order that all may be present at the ceremonies. They come—the Rileys, O'Haras, Carrolls, Macks, Sherlocks and other clans bringing their families with them.

Two members of the various clans have died during the year past, Mrs. Winnie Mack on June 29 and Pete Carroll on December 17. The bodies were sent here and have been held in vaults until today.

Ed Hughes' Column

Leonard's Predicted Return to Ring Anxiously Awaited by Fans.

Looks like a fair bet that Benny Leonard will return to the ring to meet Mickey Walker in a welterweight championship bout. Leonard appears to be interested in offers to that effect, although it all may be the phony gesture of press agenting.

No one in his right senses took Benny's filial devotion excuse for retiring from the ring seriously. This writer slammed the explanation as a piece of theatricalism, thus calling forth coals of fire on his head from Grade A Leonard admirers. However, only a couple of weeks ago, Leonard himself corroborated the writer's stand on the matter at the time. Benny blandly admitted that his mother never worried about his fighting, and that the whole thing was concocted because, as he put it, it constituted "a good story." When I think of the columns of pure slop written on the theme, to say nothing of copious photographs supplementing them, I'm inclined to think the business offices of many newspapers will not agree with Benny.

However, journalistic ethics is another theme, and this one has to do with Benny's return to the realm of the padded fist. Leonard was a great fighter, a brilliant lightweight champion. His presence to the Queensberry pit would do much to stir up new interest in the game.

* * *

What form would Leonard now reveal after his long absence from the leather conflict? Would he still be able to exhibit his peerless skill, his punishing hitting power, and regal staying power? Benny undoubtedly thinks so, but inactivity plays mean pranks on athletes who court the ease of idleness. Leonard may look as good and feel as spry as ever in the gym and exhibition bouts. But the ring itself is a vastly different proposition for a variety of reasons.

One of the most treacherous forms of ill-founded confidence is developed in workouts with sparring mates if he is wise to his job, never trys to "show up" his employer. That is why so many who look formidable in the gym fall so miserably when it comes to the real thing.

* * *

However, Leonard, who is a reasonably careful liver, stands to make a good showing should he decide to again don the buffers. Walker has undoubtedly slipped in more ways than one. For one thing he has tasted too much of Broadway's pleasures, the backslapping of friends and parasites. And the unholy beating which he collected from Harry Greb surely sapped some of his fighting power.

Walker, never a great boxer, would, this writer thinks, be out-pointed by Benny, could the latter regain anything like his old time form.

Sencio's Death Sad Blow to Filipino Boxers.

The unfortunate death of Clever Sencio, young Filipino boxer, who died following a bout with Buddy Taylor, arouses sorrow, mingled with comforting reflections. Fierce though the conflict of the ring is, even degenerating to sheer brutality betimes, there are fewer killed in action than in any other sport—or business of sport, if you will. Considering the hundreds of boxers nightly engaged in slugging each other the percentage of fatalities is astonishingly small. Many more have been killed in football during the last ten years. Deaths caused by blows from padded fists might almost be called rare. This is no particular brief for boxing but rather a solemn statement of fact.

Two years ago, Frankie Jerome died from the effects of blows delivered by this same unfortunate boxer, Bud Taylor. About a year before that Andy Thomas succumbed following a beating from Johnny Clinton. More recently the popular Pancho Villa passed on after a losing battle to Jimmy McLarnin on the coast, but Pancho's death was due more to septic poisoning induced by an ulcer than to the blows of McLarnin.

Thirteen years ago the sport world was shocked to learn that Luther McCarty, fast rising to the heavyweight championship, had been killed in a bout with Arthur Pelky in Calgary. The fatal blow was delivered in almost the first mix up. Pelky in no way classed with McCarty was a boxer, and various explanations were offered for the sad ending of the fray.

* * *

McCarty, it was said had injured a vertebrae on his spine, due to falling from his horse several days before the mill. Eye-witnesses to the bout thought that McCarty's over-confidence brought about the untimely ending of the battle. Lote, it was observed, turned to wink to an admirer while Pelky was starting the deadly punch.

Careful regulation of glove contests, the constant vigil of referees for the first sign of utter helplessness, has helped greatly to keep down death's toll in the Queensberry realm. Danger lurks in every sport that is worthy of the name, however, and boxing is certainly no exception.

The Sencio incident represents food for serious thought for the "wolf-pack" that howls when a referee's humane decision to stop a fight robs it of "entertainment." That goes, too, for heartless managers and handlers who refuse to acknowledge certain defeat and possible dire consequences to the victim.

Hatton Sets Doc's Boys Down With Three Taps And Whiffs Even Dozen

Brown Furnishes Candy Punch to Drive In Winning Runs, Douglas Club Fields Snappily

BY BLONDY CROSS.

Cabby's Panhandle Longhorns rocked along in a 1-1 deadlock through five innings of a torrid mound battle staged by Ray Kiser and Henry Hatton on the Twilight diamond yesterday afternoon, then broke out in the sixth with a volley of base bingles which abetted by a pair of four-ball coupons sent them home, 5 to 1 victors over Doc Douglass' scrappy Water department aggregation. The contest was one of the regularly scheduled seven-stanza Twilight league affairs.

The victory punch was produced by Brown who with two away, Riley Rawls on third, and Don Faichney resting at second, rifted a burning single through the pitcher's box to send the winning tally and another for good measure across the platter.

After a poor first inning, both teams fielded smartly. The plate was never in serious danger from there until the Panhandle rally in the sixth.

Both Score in First

Henry Hatton, the sturdy Panhandle right-hand flinger, set the Water boys down with three safeties and struck out an even dozen. The Water department counter came in the opening round after Hatton had whiffed the first two men facing him. Worley punched a bounder to Hargrove, incidently who was playing with his right hand bandaged. The Longhorn third sacker muffed. Hinds swooped in from short, scooped up the ball and attempted to complete the play at first but uncorked a jungle heave far over Faichney's head. Worley drew up at second. Rice dropped a reverse English bobble between the box and third, beating the play, but Hinds miscued again and Worley tabulated. Rice was cut down, trying to stretch it to second, on throw by Hicks to Hoehn.

Hinds and Rawls contributed infield singles in the Panhandle portion of the first inning. Hinds was forced at second by Kerr who a moment later absconded with the keystone himself. Rawls' clout sent him home. An error in center on Riley's drive let him make second but he was cut down at third when he became greedy on sweet throw to Worley by Walker.

Kiser Tight in Pinch

The Longhorns pecked away at Kiser inning by inning the rest of the way, but the Water heaver tightened in the pinches and with sharp fielding by his mates held the plate inviolate until that killing sixth round upheaval.

Kiser apparently weakened a bit in the sixth. He passed Rawls. Hargrove aviated to center, then he walked Hoehn. Faichney forced Hoehn at second, Rawls advancing to third. Don moved up a notch on a quick steal. Brown followed through with his candy blow, Hicks and Hatton followed up with one-sack punches which coupled with a wicket play in center, sent two more runs over.

The fielding of both Campbell and Faichney, rival first sackers, was more or less sensational Outside of the first round miscues, the Panhandle inner defense worked flawlessly. The Water inner works performed perfectly, displaying gobs of fight afield that was missing at the plate before the accentuated slants of Hatton.

Kaufmann Knocked Out As Aldridge Hurls a Steady Game

CHICAGO, April 28.—(AP)—Pittsburgh made it three out of four from Chicago today when Kaufmann's wildness coupled with some heavy hitting enabled them to take the final game of the series, 9 to 4. U. S. Sending Formidable Cup Team Abroad

America will send a formidable array of woman tennis stars to the British Isles early this summer to seek the coveted Wightman trophy, now held by the British feminine stars as a result of their victory in the matches in America last fall. Above are five of the stars who will seek to bring the trophy back.

This Henry Hatton is not only a very effective pitcher. He can hit, too. At least, that's the way the situation was in Wednesday's Panhandle-Water game. Hatton combed off just as many safeties as he allowed the entire opposition to garner. He was up three times, singling on each occasion.

EAGLES TO BURK

The American Refinery Eagles are scheduled to play the Gulf Production nine at Burkburnett Sunday afternoon. Medford will use Snipe Connally on the hill.

Lawrence Medford hopes to give his team a hard run of games to get them on the ball in their last year style. The Monday blow-up afield with the Panhandle team has the Eagle manager worrying a bit.

TANK JOINS WATER NINE

The City water department team has signed Tank Horton, former American Refinery catcher and present Wichita Falls high school catcher Horton was given his release from the Americans on the arrival of Ping Martindale.

With the addition of Horton to their mask staff the water team is almost ready to go. They are still holding out hopes of getting Red Belcher in uniform.

◆ ◆ ◆

There is but one postponed game hanging over in the Twilight league, and no arrangements have been made yet to get that game played off. It's between the Security National bank and the water department team.

◆ ◆ ◆

The American Refinery team will be idle from Monday to Friday and, according to Snipe Connally, fielding practice will receive the daily call.

Never before has the American Refinery team had such a blow-up as they did Monday with the Panhandle when ten errors were made. Before, the Eagles have been one of the best fielding clubs in the league. Skipper Medford sees no reason why they should not continue as such, and will stress work in the field for the next few days.

ELECTRICS GET INFIELDER

The Wichita Falls Electric company team has added another infielder to its roster and he will be eligible to play in the game with the Security National bank May 4.

Lynch is the name of this new infielder and his position is third base. Lynch is from Fort Worth where he has been playing City league ball for some time.

The youngster has been cutting them across the diamond and gobbling up the ground balls with a nice style and may be at the third sack in the next game.

Red Sox Drubbed

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP)—The Senators pounced on the offerings of Harold Wilter, recruit pitcher today and scored enough runs in the first three innings to defeat Boston, 6 to 3. It was the Senators' third victory in the four game series. Ogden held the Red Sox at bay until the eighth when a single, triple and infield out scored two men. The score:

Buffs Trim Cubs

WACO, April 28.—(AP)—Houston took the rubber game of the three game series from the Waco Cubs here today, 9 to 2, in a well pitched game, in which Pipkin had the better of the argument. Both teams scored early, due to home runs. Peel getting a homer in the first inning and Wilson, one in the third, each clout counting for two runs. The Buffs scored again in the sixth. Waco had the bases full in the ninth but a bit of bad base running ended the game. The score:

Ad Santel Declares Confidence Of Beating Stecher Here Next Month In World's Championship Match

Light Heavyweight Mat King, in Training At Hot Springs Pens Optimistic Letter to Sports Writer

BY BLONDY CROSS

The popular Ad Santel, world's undisputed light heavyweight wrestling champion who was carded here in title match April 19 with Joe Stecher, world's heavyweight king, that was postponed, is quite enthusiastic over what he deems his possibility of defeating the topkick of the entire wrestling fraternity.

The April 19 match was held up in interest of the Kiwanis club day nursery benefit fight card staged April 20. Stecher has agreed to meet Santel in finish match here about the middle of May. The exact date of the bout has not been set, but, according to Alec Ross, Wichita Falls wrestling association matchmaker, final details relative staging contest in all probability will be worked out by this coming Saturday.

In Good Condition.

Santel, in training at Hot Springs, in letter to the Record News sports editor expresses confidence he will defeat Stecher, regrets that events led to postponement of the match April 19, but pleasure in that by holding the match up a few weeks he and Stecher were enabled to aid such a worthy cause as the day nursery building fund.

The light heavyweight's missive follows verbatim:

"Friend Blondy:

"Received your note and was very pleased to hear from you. I am sorry that my match with Joe Stecher had to be cancelled, but Ross has written me saying he can get Stecher there in May. In a way, that will be better for me as I am getting in good shape, working out every day here at Hot Springs and taking long hikes. This surely is a fine place in which to train.

"I believe I am in better shape now than I have been in for a long time, and when Ross gets Stecher for me I feel confident I can beat him and win the heavyweight championship of the world.

Hello to Friends.

"I am glad and hope that the day nursery had a big benefit when they put their boxing bouts on. When Ross wired me that my bout with Stecher was off, I was a little disappointed. But I am glad that the kids of Wichita Falls got the benefit of it, and only hope they made plenty of money from it. Then again it may be all the better for me as I feel sure that I will be in better shape in a few weeks.

"Well, Blondy, I wish you would remember me to all my friends in Wichita Falls. I'm afraid to mention any names as I might forget one of my best friends. But just tell them all that I send my best regards and hope to win the championship of the world in Wichita Falls.

"Best regards to yourself and all the bunch on the newspapers.

"Your friend,

AD SANTEL.

FUSSELL FACES ATZMEN TODAY

Either Red Bird or Jimmy Walkup Fling For Panthers

The merry music of base knocks rings out again this afternoon in the Gardner pavilion starting at 4 bells with Brainard's mauling macemen jumping on the Cats in the rubber tilt of the series.

Boss Brainard intimated yesterday afternoon that Fred Fussell, the brilliant southpaw, will receive the hurling call for the home talent.

Fred's been tagging along with a misplaced floating rib, but when cornered for interview by The Record News' inquiring reporter, swelled up his stomach and eloquently uttered the following lowdown situation:

"I'm ready to go any time. Don't know what I can do, but I choose 'em anyway!"

As an aside later on in the dugout the screw ball spinner was heard to remark to Rip Wheeler:

"Heh, heh, I've beat some ball clubs that are a heluva lot better than this one Jake's got out there today!"

Atz said he would use either Jimmy Walkup or Red Bird, probably both.

Friday begins a timely May Clearance of fine dresses, coats and hats at marked reductions at P. B. M. company.

Proud Spudders Trample Lowly Atzmen In Riotous Melee

TOP O' MORN STUFF
By Blondy Cross.

KILL HIM.

Who was it made that crack about the Spudder hurling corps being undependable? Where's the guy who uncorked that foolish yap-yap about how the Brainard outfit looked good on paper—all except its pitching staff?

* * *

Need we name 'em over any more—call off the strong-armed flingers who compose what will prove the most powerful chunking crew in the league before many more days roll by and each has rounded into shape? North Texas fans already know 'em; let the rest of the loop find 'em out at their own expense.

* * *

Jim Roberts isn't doing so well this season. In there yesterday a twinge in the elbow spiking him every time he hooked one or cut loose with that fire-ball of his, the best he could manipulate was hold the Cats to six hits. Too bad about Jim. Looks like he just naturally won't do this year—arm's gone back on him.

* * *

Although stopped by the Cats day before, there was one pleasing feature that loomed as large as the Rocky mountain range. Dick Morgan is ready to step. The big fellow was wild in his first start, wild for a few innings. He had one bad stanza, the second when he walked two and hit one, all three men scoring. The rest of the way he was almost invincible. Just a little more work and Big Dick won't have many of those bad innings.

* * *

Spudders and Cats jump over to Fort Worth following today's game. The Wichita Falls club plays one day at Cowtown, then moves to Dallas for three, returning home next Tuesday for protracted stay as host to the South Texas clubs. Better get out there to the plant this afternoon. Four days minus baseball are in the offing.

* * *

IN AND OUT, NATURALLY

The Spudders aren't leading the league, nor are they playing championship ball at present. One day they look like a capitalist's rosiest dream, the next like a capitalist's most agonizing nightmare. Nope, on second thought, they don't appear quite that bad. But just remember, even the finest race horse can't be taken from six to eight months hibernation and be shot through as a winner without a series of preliminary trial sprints, without fair conditioning exercises.

* * *

IF!

It's history now, that poor spring training start the domestics realized. As remarked in this col not long ago, Wichita Falls athletes need must employ a goodly portion of the first month or so of the race proper in which to round into form and attain that victory stride. The Spudders have everything in their favor, a winning complex, a fighting spirit and proven ability—everything in their favor but physical condition. If they can hang along for the next couple of weeks or so, playing, say .500 ball or there about, sailing the rest of the way should prove comparatively smooth.

* * *

Don't Worry About Lamb.

Fans are asking questions about Lyman Lamb, the erstwhile Western league bludgeoner purchased from the coast loop by the Gardner interest the past winter. Lamb has not been in the lineup lately. Will he come through? Don't worry about him. Lucy will be there with gusto before many more days pass on. The dynamic port gardner is off his stride right now and slow coming around. But just hold your Lizzie in the road. When he DOES start, hapless heavers are going to realize a bit of Hades—have the most excitable times of their lives trying to get him out of there.

* * *

Lucy Has Spirit.

Lamb, for one, isn't worrying about his status. Figures he's just riding a series of tough breaks at present, but is confident that he'll get started and deal 'em all a host of trouble. Were he to worry and mope around his chances to get going would be lessened considerably. But the situation is reversed. He's fighting mad and still cockey, confident that he'll slip in with the damaging punches just when they're needed the most—possibly just as some other slugger falls into a temporary slump.

* * *

HAW! HAW!

Jake Atz, incidentally who is having troubles all his own these days, stopped long enough yesterday during a fanning bee to burst out in lusty guffaws at the Dallas club and Dallas fans in general. "First time in my life I ever say the like," chuckled Jake. Dallas wins four games at the start of the season and straight-way they start making up a pennant fund for 'em."

* * *

Vache and Windle aren't with the Cats at Spudder park. It was indicated yesterday by some of the boys in on the know that neither is expected to come through. Vache, who had one great year with Dallas, so far has proved more or less a fizzle with Fort Worth. The big fellow can't seem to get going, can't catch 'em, and can't hit 'em. Tough break for Jake. He had pinned fond hopes on Ernie to prove a terrific piece of artillery in the Cat attack.

* * *

Dutch Taught Jimmy.

When Dutch Mantell wrestles here next week with Young Mahmouth, the Turk, the old man and the young man will be together again after a number of years' separation. Dutch takes the "old man" status. Jimmy Londos is the "young man." Londos meets Nick Velcoff in the feature bout on the same card. Back in 1914 when Londos was a young amateur wrestler in San Francisco, Mantell picked him up and started him in business, so to speak. Londos owes a great deal of his success as a wrestler to the early tutelage given him by Mantell. The turbulent Dutchman, in those days just about as clever, tough and mean as he is today, took Jimmy under his wing, taught him many tricks of the game and matched him up in all his early bouts. The two traveled together, the welterweight Dutchman and the then youthful light heavyweight Londos. Very often they worked on the same card. They toured the United States. If opponents were too heavy for Dutch, Jimmy took 'em. If they were too light for Jimmy, then they were Dutch's meat.

Domestics Swing Heavy Artillery Into Action On Panthers For 15-4 Win

Wichita Falls Sluggers Rout Veteran Paul Wachtel Then Murder Hoggsett, Roberts in Form

By BLONDY CROSS

The aristocratic ire of our proud Spudders, crowded to the bursting point for two days, smarting as if by acid sting under the biting annoyance of having registered a void in the victory column twice in succession, broke its bonds yesterday at the plant. A hurricane of base blows was unleashed on Spitter Paul Watchtel, the veteran, and Lefty Hoggy Hoggsett, the youngster, as a wrathful Wichita Falls battle tide surged over Jake Atz's hapless Fort Worth Panthers in 15 to 4 victory.

Jim Roberts, the fire-ball flinger, supported superbly afield, held the Cats well in check, whiffed a quintet and allowed a meager six hits.

Spudder slugging averages were increased enormously. For in compiling their 15 runs they slammed just as many drives to virgin territory. Every man in the batting order registered for at least one safety, but Wray Query, and it was Wray's turn to realize an off day. It's become a custom with our noble Spudders that every man must not be right at the same time. Wouldn't be fair to the opposition if all nine of em clouted the pill at their usual lusty gait every day.

Mule Washburn was the big bully with the large stick yesterday. Besides working sensationally at the initial station on the receiving end of a multitude of weird heaves, weird for the ordinary first sacker, but soft stuff apparently, for Mule, the husky one hit four for three.

Start in Third.

The attack began on Wachtel in the third round. With one away, Paul issued a pass to Distel. Fitzgerald, Brainard and Washburn followed with singles, then Bodie topped her off with a two-cushion swat to left field. A quartet of Spudders percolated the paths to home plate. Turge aviated to right and Metzler bounded out to the box.

Wachtel went down under a similar attack in the fourth. There was one gone when Jim himself strode to the pan and busted the first pitch over the port barrier for non-stop passage. Distel walked again and went to third on double to center by Fitz. The boss Spudder expired at the plate, but Wash sent George and Fitz scampering home with a hair raising shot through the box. The old timer checked out at Jake's beck and Hoggy assumed the spinning responsibilities. The youngster met rude reception. Ping toed in and drove a liner to port for a base, chasing Washburn to third. Then the surprise of all surprises was enacted. The behemoths put on a double pilfering foray. Yessir, the two war tanks of the Spudder armament set out to abscond with two bases, and got away with it. One of the bases was home. Ping chased down to second and Royce sneaked off third. Possum tossed to Hoggy on the hill. Hoggy stepped out of the way and let the ball go on through. It was just too bad, because Bodie thumped on to the keystone and Washburn charged across the medallion like a fire horse. That maneuver brought the Spudder run total to eight. Turgeon retired the side with a hoist to the mid garden.

Couldn't Get 'Em Out

Miscues at short put Brainard on in the sixth. The boss copped second and scored when Washburn clicked Hoggy for a single past the mid-cushion. Then Wash stole second and chased on to third when Possum heaved high in an effort to cut him down at the terminal. Eddie Moore romped back to the green screen in center and robbed Bodie of a safety on an exceedingly boisterous wallop. Mule scored after the catch.

The Spudders got well for five more in the seventh. Singles by Metzler and Roberts, an error at second on roller hit by Fitz, a double by Brainard, a boot at short, a walk to Bodie and single by Turgeon brought home the runs.

A walk, a hit batsman and double by Sears and an infield out gave the Cats two of their runs in the third. Two walks, singles by Hatchett and Foss sandwiched on a double play accounted for the other pair of Cat counters in the sixth.

Pass And Two Singles Enable Shreveport To Pull Out

SHREVEPORT, La., April 28.—(AP)—A base on balls to Benton followed by singles by Taylor and Kirke after two were out in the eleventh inning gave Shreveport a 4 to 3 victory over the Dallas Steers here Wednesday. The Sports led by a score of 3 to 2, until the eighth when a bad peg to third base allowed O'Brien to score and tie the game. Barnabee was in fine form and only one run, a homer by Billings was earned off him. Fence lasted through the first inning for Dallas and gave way to Darrough at the start of the second. The score:

Bears Hit Hard

SAN ANTONIO, April 28.—(AP)—Beaumont batters had little regard for Bear pitchers this afternoon and hammered all comers for 15 hits and a total of 31 bases to win the second of the San Antonio-Beaumont series, 9 to 3. Julius Kaiser, who started on the hill, was sent to the showers after five batters had faced him and the Exporters had scored two runs with none down. Lindsey and McCall followed in order and yielded their proportion of hits and runs while Ward pitched the final round. Bear batters were helpless before Dana Fillingim with the exception of two innings when they scored three, their only runs. A freak double play in which eight players participated in Bear fielding. HE'S BENTON FOOLING FATHER TIME

Is Rube, As He Finds Himself An Old Man in the Minors

Back in the minor leagues, with the "has been" tag on him after spending the greatest part of 15 years in the major leagues, John "Rube" Benton laughs derisively at Father Time and opines that he will take at least one more whirl at the majors.

A vain hope is father to the thought. But it's a natural hope, even for a lefthander.

Benton was released during the spring to Minneapolis by the Cincinnati Reds after he had served that club three years in his last comeback.

He started his baseball career with Macon, Ga., in the South Atlantic League in 1910 and that very season was given a chance by the Reds. They kept him through part of the 1911 campaign and then loaned him to Chattanooga. They recalled him the next season and he saw real duty, winning 45 games and losing exactly the same number in the three years.

Pirates Almost Get Him

In the spring of 1915 the Reds sold Rube to Pittsburg, but the New York Giants put in a claim for him and after he had appeared on the mound just once for the Pirate crew he was awarded to New York and proceeded to join that club.

Benton stuck with the Gotham team through six campaigns. His best work was done in 1919 when he won 17 and lost 11 games. Toward the close of the 1921 season he was released to St. Paul. No one bid for him at the waiver price and he was called done.

The following year he won 22 games for the Saints and lost just 11. This .667 average caused the Reds to go after him. He failed to get going, however, in Redville and was used mainly in relief roles. He won 10 games his first year up, seven the next and nine last year. Over the span of 15 years in the National League, however, Benton managed to hold a winning percentage by a few games. He won a total of 146 contests and lost three less.

Benton's departure decreased the number of veteran southpaws in the old circuit, which now has few of the old "wild boys" in service.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, April 28.—(AP)—The cotton market ruled rather dull today and prices fluctuated within a very narrow range. The extreme spread was not more than four to 12 points on the active new crop months. While the fair weather in the belt had a tendency to encourage some selling the market was supported by rather unfavorable general character of weekly weather reports which claimed that little progress had been made during the week in the central and western belts owing to the rains and cold weather.

At the highest points reached during the session prices were only one to four points above the previous close and at the lowest they were four to 12 points below that level. The market declined a little further in the last hour and closed practically at the lows showing net losses of eight to 12 points for the day.

At the start the market was very quiet there being no trading on the opening call in the old crop months of May and July and only a few trades in new crop positions at three points decline. During the first hour the market did little while waiting for the weather report and the weekly weather review although May traded down to 17.85, July to 17.50 and October to 16.60, or two to three points below yesterday's close.

Later in the morning prices rallied slightly on the generally unfavorable haracter o fthe weekly weather report, May trading up to 17.92, JJuly to 17.54 and October to 16.64, or four to seven points up from the lows. The market then became very quiet but generally eased off after midsession until at the beginning of the last hour May traded down to 17.86, July o 17.50 and October to 16.58 or four to six points down from the highs. In the final trading all active months made new lows at 17.84 for May, 17.46 for July, 16.55 for October and 16.53 for December, or eight to 12 points down from the highs. The market closed practically at the lowest. Exports for the day totaled 8,914 bales.

NEW YORK FUTURES.

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—Cotton futures closed barely steady at net decline of 1 to 6 points.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—The cotton market was quiet today prices fluctuated within a range of eight to ten points, JJuly selling off from 18.22 to 18.15 and closing at the lowest. The general market closed barely steady at net decline eof one to six points.

The market opened steady at an advance of two points on May, but generally unchanged to three points lower. There was some covering by near month shorts in early trading owing to reports that no further notices had been issued today, and rather better advices from the British goods trade. May sold up to 18.68 before noon or about five points net higher, and new crop positions worked up to 17.34 for October or about three points above yesterday's closing quotations. Bullish features in the weekly report of the weather bureau probably brought in a little buying although the report as a whole was referred to as no worse than expected and there was a feelir, that the weather was improving. The l.tter, combined with the more favorable showing of the day's detailed weather reports, particularly with reference to temperatures led to selling during the early afternoon and the lowest prices of the day were touched in late trading when May sold at 18.06 and October at 17.25, or about one to six points net lower on the general list.

Local traders s.y it looked as if the improvement in weather conditions was not sufficiently pronounced to bring in much selling, but that the prospects for warmer weather had checked buying.

Private cables said there and been covcrin gin the Liverpool market on reports of an improvement in the British coal situation and more encouraging reports from Manchester, due partly to better advices from India.

Exports for the day 7,940 bales, making 6,985,577 so far this season. Port receipts 14,298. U. S. port stocks 1,008,567 bales.

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—A sharp upturn in prices took place in today's stock market. Bullish sentiment was created by the placing of United States Steel common stock on a regular $7 annual dividend basis, the announcement of higher gasoline prices and the publication of a report that freight car loadings for the week ended April 17 exceeded those of the same week last year by over 40,000 cars. Closing quotations, while not uniformaly upward, disclosed a long list of net gains ranging from one to ten points. Trading was in slightly larger volume than yesterday, the day's sales aggregating 1,327,600 shares.

Banks called about $20,000,000 additional in loans today, presumably in connection with the further shipments of gold of Canada, which have exceeded $15,000,000 on the current movement, but the call money rate held steady at 3½ per cent with funds again reported available below that figure in the "outside market." Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged. The only adverse development of the day was the establishment of a new low record for French francs at 3.28 cents, which was somewhat of a surprise in view of the reported progress being made toward the adoption of a plan for the funding of the French debt to the United States

Steel Advances.

United States Steel common opened with a block of 5,000 shares at 132⅝, sagged to 132½ advanced to 133⅛ and closed just below that figure for a net gain of nearly two points on the day. Crucible, Gulf States, Republic and United States Cast Iron Pipe each closed a point or so higher. The weekly steel trade review reported little change in the situation during the past week but called attention to the fact that there had been no abrupt falling off in business this month.

Talk of mergers and higher prices stimulated activity in the oil shares, Atlantic Refining, which is expected to be merged with Marland, soaring over six points to a record high at 216⅛ and then eased about a point. Pan-American Western B advanced a point and most of the others improved fractionally.

In the motor group on rumors that a sub

Active short covering again took place stantial cash extra would be declared next month on General Motors common stock which soared nearly five points today to a new high record for the year at 132⅝. Mack Trucks and Hudson each advanced about two points, while Jordan Arrow preferred, Fisher Body Warner and Studebaker moved ... or so.

Specialties Buoyant.

Buoyancy also developed in a demand of specialties. Dupont, which owns a large block of General Motors common, jumped over six points to 216⅝ and Atlantic Gulf and West Indies, California Packing Cudahy Packing, General Electric, Pullman and Texas Gulf Sulphur all showed net gains of two to six points. Good buying also was noted in such issues as Allied Chemical, American Can, Davidson Chemical Freeport Texas, General American Tank Car and National Biscuit.

Despite the car loadings statistics and the fact that the first 57 railroads to report their March earnings showed net operating income of nearly $75,000,000 as compared with slightly more than $54,000,000 in the corresponding month last year, little speculative interest was shown in the rail road shares, the general average of which closed slightly lower on the day. "Big Four" jumped ten points to a new high at 215 on a couple of sales, but the active issues recorded only narrow fractional changes.

Sterling exchange held relatively firm, presumably in reflection of a further transfer of funds to London where interest rates are available. Most of the continental exchanges were heavy. Belgian francs dropping about 10 points to around 3.50 cents, a new low. Spanish pesetas advanced another six points to around 14.50 cents. Japanese yen held firm around their recent record high.

AMERICAN HELD FOR ROME ROW

Descendant of Presidents Administer Beating To Guide

ROME, April 28.—(AP)—A descendent of two presidents of the United States is in jail here and it is possible he may have to remain there for 10 days until he is brought up for trial.

He is John Adams Abbott of Boston, Mass. His forebearers were President John Adams and John Quincy Adams. He is accused of beating Salvatore Astrologo, a Roman guide, who came to his hotel and invited him out for a fight after a dispute regarding precedence in entering the vatican garden. Mr. Abbott accepted the invitation to fight with such avidity Astrologo was taken to a hospital suffering from a fractured jaw and a discolored eye.

Abbott is on a tour of Italy with his mother, Mrs. Grafton St. Loe. Abbott readily admits that he polished off the guide with his fists.

He denies, however, that a more serious charge placed against him by the defeated man. That is that he used deroggatory remarks against Premier Mussolini. Conviecon for that under a recent legislative enactment calls for imprisonment. Abbott asserts that the accusation is an attempt to "frame" him.

Thus far the American embassy and consulate have been unable to secure the release of Abbott from the Regina Coeli prison. It is thought there will be some difficulty in doing this because of the physician's report that Astrologo is suffering from a fractured jaw and a badly injured eye.

The trouble between Abbott and Astrolog began when Astrologo, acting as a guide for tourists, pushed in ahead of Abbott at the ticket window to the vatican garden. Hot words were exchanged. Astrologo declared that he was a fascist Italian and equally as good as any American. He requested Abbott's hotel address which was given to him by the American.

Monday night Astrologo, accompanied by several men, went to the hotel and invited Abbott outside. Abbott readily assented. They went to the sidewalk for the fray. It was a savage battle. When it was over an ambulance was called to convey the thoroughly beaten Astrologo to the hospital. Carabineers came up and to them the Italian made the accusation that Abbott had uttered insulting remarks about Mussolini.

Youths On Trial In Crusader Death

PARIS, Tenn., April 28.—(AP)—(AP)—While preliminary hearings today were to be given Clyde Lashlee, 23, and Frank Grainer, 19, on charges of being accessories after the fact in the slaying of Thomas Evans, dry crusader, officers continued their investigation of the killing.

The two youths were taken into custody yesterday in the face of threats of the moonshining clan in northeastern Henry county that if an arrest was made for the slaying of Evans, seven other men would die.

Both the youths live in the neighborhood where Evans was ambushed on April 18, and were taken into custody on warrants sworn to by Evans' widow. Officers described the arrest as a technical move.

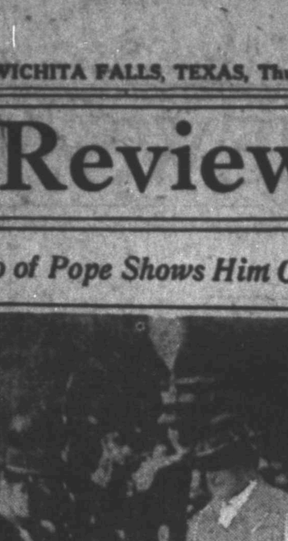

PASCHAL BACKS MARRS.

Fort Worth Educator Says Ferguson Should Meet Demands.

FORT WORTH, April 28.—(AP) R. L. Paschal, principal of central high school here and a member of the state textbook commission, today voiced his belief that Govenor Ferguson should grant the request of S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction for a supplemental appropriation for the public schools in the event of a special session for bond validation.

To require the rura lschools to get along on a $12 per capita allotment would mean that most rural schools would have to resort to economy measures such as shortening their term, reducing teaching personnel or cutting salaries of the latter, in some cases all three, Paschal declared.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, April 28.—(AP)—Wheat advanced in price today notwithstanding that export demand showed a halt. Indications that drouth is becoming more serious both north and south of the Canadian line, together with crop damage complaints from Nebraska and parts of Kansas gave an upward slant to the market. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ¾c to ⅞c net higher, May (new) $1.64¾ to $1.64½ and July $1.44 to $1.44½, corn finished unchanged to ⅛c up, oats at ⅝c to ¾c advance and provisions showing a rise of 12 to 45c.

Corn and oats reflected the course of the wheat market. In addition, weather conditions remained adverse to field work.

Liberal exports of lard did much to hoist the provision market.

French Nurse Gets Sentence of Death For Slaying Twelve

NIMES, France, April 28—(AP)—Convicted of poisoning her lover and 11 other persons whom she had been called upon to nurse during illness, Antoinette Scierri, 35 years old, has been sentenced to die on the guillotine.

It is not probable, however, that the woman will pay the extreme penalty for her crimes as in all cases since the world war the president of the republic has committed tolifeimprisonmentd eath sentences passed upon women.

Injunction Suit In Court Today

Trial of an injunction suit styled T. J. Waggoner, et al, vs. the Floral Heights Baptist church and brought by residents of the Floral Heights district of the city to restrain the church from constructing a building at Avenue F and Buchanan will be held in the 89th district court before Judge P. A. Martin at 1:30 Thursday afternoon.

The injunction was filed by property owners following start on construction of the church last week and a meeting held some time earlier at which restrictions limiting the area to residences were perpetuated. It is claimed by the church trustees that these restrictions have expired.

Dentists Have Big Opportunity To Serve Public By Preserving Its Health, Visitors Are Told

Dr. K. W. Knapp of Minneapolis Urges Members Of His Profession to Give Thoughtful Study To Needs of the Patient

Dentists of today have a wonderful opportunity to serve humanity by prevention of diseases and to assist people through instructive programs.

Such was the thought brought out Wednesday in talks to the State Dental society by Dr. K. W. Knapp, of Minneapolis, Minn., and J. M. McMinn of Dallas, main speakers of the afternoon program. Each showed the value of metallurgy to dentistry and urged study and development on the part of dentists.

"There are no curealls to be put into the canals to save the teeth," Dr. Knapp said in his lecture on "A Revised Cavity Preparation For Gold Inlays Including a New Type of Cavity With Lock Anchorages."

Dr. McMinn discussed the problems in acquiring balanced occlusion in full dentures. Among the problems he took up were antiquated methods still used in some localities in "taking the bite" impressions of the jaws and their movements, which is occlusion.

Keep Teeth Clean.

Dr. Knapp showed how pyorrhea is caused by the collection of masses of germs at the roots of the teeth, and as a method of procedure he urged that dentists teach their patients how to keep their teeth clean. "If we care for the cavities and incipients, we won't have to worry about the roots."

In his talk he pointed out the importance of kinds of gold to use, the pure gold which will wear because it is soft, and of the harder gold that will wear longer and requires a smaller cavity.

"Dentists are not paying enough attention to stability in permanent bridge work," he said in a warning to the members of his profession. "When you have finished a case have the subject call again and look over the work. Give the teeth a thorough looking over."

Dr. Knapp urged dentists to preserve as much of the tooth as possible.

Reads Paper.

In his talk on acquiring a balanced occlusion, Dr. McMinn read an instructive paper, first defining occlusion as the movement of the jaws and modified forms of central occlusion, lateral, protrusive, returnsive, functional and finally balanced occlusion. In relating some of the old methods of taking the impressions of both jaws with a row of wax, and he showed the guess work that must necessarily come from such a course.

As a better method, he recommended either the condial path theory or the spherical theory and explained to the assembly the meaning of each. "Study your subject and use your own judgment to determine its future," he said.

The regular session was followed by the clinics and the night session at the Kemp hotel where Dr. A. P. Horton of Dallas talked on "Orthodontia from the Standpoint of the General Practitioner," and Dr. H. L. Miller talked on "Amalgam."

Women Entertained.

Wives of the visiting dentists were entertained Wednesday at luncheon at a delightful affair at the Wichita club. Mrs. W. P. Bolding, chairman of the entertainment committee, presided. Fifty guests were present.

The visitors will meet at the Kemp hotel at 8:30 o'clock this morning and go from there to the Country club where a 9 o'clock breakfast will be served. Wives of local dentists will act as hostesses.

The dentists will be entertained Thursday evening at the Kemp hotel at 7 o'clock in the banquet given in their honor.

TERRELL HERE FRIDAY

Railroad Commissioner C. V. Terrell will be in Wichita Falls Friday in company with H. E. Bell, chief of the oil and gas division of the railroad commissioner in connection with the hearing on the installation of compressed air recovery methods in North Texas oil fields, a telegram from Austin Wednesday stated. Both Mr. Terrell and Mr. Bell left Austin Wednesday for Wichita Falls.

The meeting will be held at ten o'clock in the office of T. L. Coplin, deputy supervisor of the railroad commission in the Perkins Snider building it is announced.

An elaborate program has been arranged to follow the dinner, which is given in the form of a compliment by geologist to "boss."

Wichita Falls Record News

APRIL 30 TO MAY 2

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 1926.

AUTO Show

Most Comprehensive Automobile Exhibit Opens on May 30 and Lasts for Three Days

AFTER several weeks' intensive effort on the part of Wichita Falls Automotive Dealers' association, the annual Spring Exhibit to be held at the Fair Grounds in connection with Tom L. Burnett Rodeo, April 30, May 1 and 2, will reveal the finest aggregation of motor vehicles in the history of this city.

Every dealer will be represented in the Automobile building. All are showing a range of models that will give the visitor a complete knowledge of the situation today in the automobile world.

Of course it is unnecessary to bespeak friendly interest for the Automobile Show of today. No invention in all history surpasses the Automobile for reliability and romance, practicality and pleasure.

The Automobile is the greatest of all family ties. It is to the family what reinforcement of steel is to concrete. The Automobile keeps the family together in its pleasures. And in doing so it is one of the world's greatest blessings.

With the Automobile the old and the very young are not left at home, as they were, of necessity, in days before the motor came. The road is no longer "too long" or "too rough" for the grandmother or the baby. All can go together, enjoy happiness together. The Automobile is the great modern physician. It cures with happiness, cheerfulness. Speeding through the air and sunshine, it sweeps away fatigue, melancholy, boredom. The Automobile is the great happiness cure—and there is none other to equal it.

Go to the Automobile Show and take all your family. See the new models, the latest wonders of mechanical genius. Only one thing has remained unchanged—the same warm welcome, the same wholehearted courtesy that has always been a feature, will greet you again this year. Come! This is your invitation.

UNDER DIRECTION OF

Wichita Falls Automotive Dealers Association

Auto Dealers To Be Ready With A Show Of Beauty

Sleek and shining rulers of the road—purring masterpieces of the mechanical artisan—jesters at space—

Call them what you will, they stand unchallenged as one of the greatest institutions of American life today. And the best exemplification of this institution that the city has ever seen will be offered in Wichita Falls the next three days when the annual spring automobile show of the Wichita Falls Automotive Dealer Association is held at the fair grounds in connection with the rodeo.

Half-million dollars or more will be represented in the cars to be shown in the automobile building. All the models of all the makes will be on hand to give Wichita Falls an insight into what's what in the automotive world today. Dealers are co-operating fully in an effort to make this the biggest and best display—not even excepting the huge exhibits given during the Texas-Oklahoma fair, that has ever been seen here.

Work has been under way at the fair grounds for some time putting the auto building in readiness. Decorations will be up and the cars driven in and placed by Friday afternoon so that the initial visitors can get their eyes full of automotive beauty in its fullest sense.

The auto dealers of the city, as usual, will be ready for the public that, as usual, will want to see the best.

Looks Hard. But It's Easy

Tad Lucas, world's champion woman trick rider, will be another stellar attraction at the Burnett Rodeo this week. She has demonstrated more than once her skill, her daring and her ability in the saddle. Head stands, hand stands and all the other difficult tricks of the trade are ridiculously easy for her.

Library Holding 125,688 Volumes

JERUSALEM.—The Jewish National Library of the Hebrew University, designed to house the world's greatest collection of Herbew books and manuscripts, now contains 125,688 volumes, 40,890 of which were secured during the last year, says a report of Dr. Hugo Bergmann, chief librarian.

Included in the rare and ancient books added to the library was the first Hebrew book published in America, "The Grammar of the Hebrew Tongue," printed in Boston in 1735 and dedicated to Harvard University. Others were from the fifteenth and sixteenth century, published in the golden days of Jewish literature and scholarship in Spain, Italy, Turkey, Germany and other centers. The library is supported by the Palestine Foundation Fund and the Hebrew University Fund, which draw their chief support from American Jews.

"Square Pianos" Sought Again

LOS ANGELES.—(AP)—A corner in "squares," the ancient piano that was popular before the vogue of the upright or grand, has caused a mild flurry in the musical instrument market here.

The "squares" until recently were to be found in some numbers at the large piano stores. But the craving for antique furniture and the demand from the movie studio for the instruments to be used in pictures having settings of 75 years ago ,has virtually depleted the available supply.

The case of the old "square" was usually made of rosewood or mahogany; of solid pieces rather than veneering. There was art and skill in the work of the old cabinet makers and even modern owners who do not care for the "square tone" admire the old instruments for the superb craftsmanship and artistry that went into their making.

Printing Trade Holding Up Well

INDIANAPOLIS, (AP)—The printing industry in the last year has escaped the slump usually anticipated after a period of exceptional business activity and indications are that the present era of prosperity will continue indefinitely, said James M. Lynch, president of the International Typographical Union. Mr. Lynch has just completed the checking up of reports from all important jurisdictions of the union.

"The old cycle of business boom slump and recovery seems to be a thing of the past," Mr. Lynch said. "Prosperity is making a long visit with America and, barring some unforseen development, we are going to enjoy flourishing business for many more months. If employment in all lines could be more fully stabilized, we would be well insured against business fluctuations."

TO BUILD NEW SHIPS.

PARIS, April 28. — (AP)—The French line is raising 60,000,000 francs (about $2,500,000, at the present rate of exchange) new capital for the construction of the first of the two trans-Atlantic liners it is building for the Havre-New York service.

Life a Roll On Pacific Lightship

SEATTLE—Life on Umatilla lightship, stationed in the Pacific 125 miles off the Washington coast, is a rolling one. Captain E. H. Lindman, master of the vessel, calculates the ship averages 20,000 rolls of ten to forty-five degrees every twenty-four hours, or nearly 1,000 an hour.

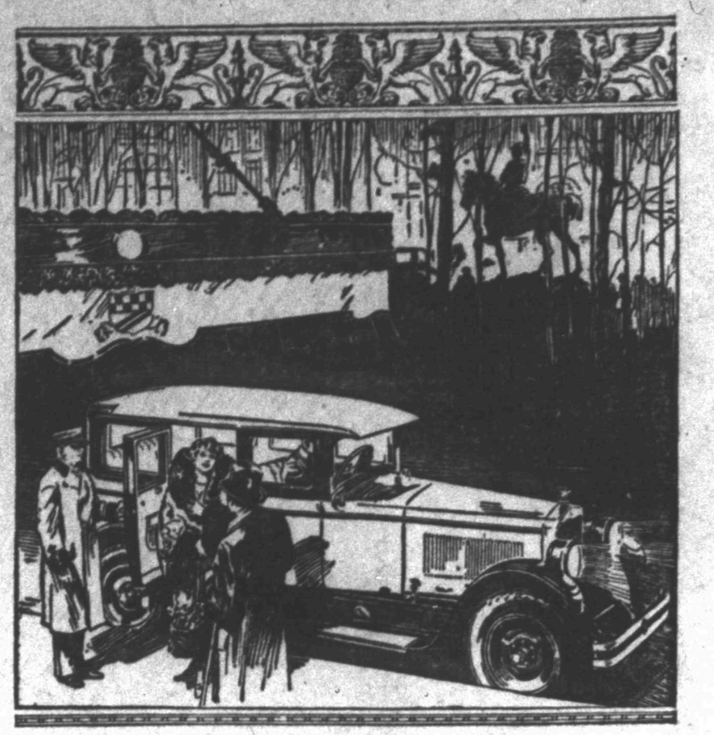

The ship is similar to lighthouses but is even more isolated. It warns ships off one of several dangerous reefs near the Strait of Juan de Fuca the entrance to Puget Sound.

About a score of sea gulls make their homes on the lightship and have been given names by the crew. Sea superstition is that these birds when they die become sea maidens.

The Umatilla is twenty-seven years old and for the last eighteen years in government service, has guarded the reef so well there have been no wrecks.

TO CHANGE SCHOOLS.

SOFIA, April 28.—(AP)—Part of the income from the $400,000 given American evangelical schools for boys and girls in Bulgaria from the estate of Charles Martin Hall of Oberlin, O., will be used in transferring the institutions from Samokov to an improved location in Sofia.

All prices f. o. b. Detroit, subject to current Federal excise tax.

All models equipped with full balloon tires.

Ask about Chrysler's attractive time-payment plan. More than 4300 Chrysler dealers assure superior Chrysler service everywhere.

All Chrysler models are protected against theft by the Fedco patented car numbering system, pioneered by and exclusive with Chrysler, which cannot be counterfeited and cannot be altered or removed without conclusive evidence of tampering.

Chrysler model numbers have a special significance and are an actual index to Chrysler performance and value.

Motor car model numbers up to the present time have meant little or nothing to the public.

They have rarely expressed horse-power and almost never miles per hour.

In the case of Chrysler you know what you are buying in miles per hour and all that miles-per-hour implies as soon as you see the model and know the number.

Chrysler "70" for instance is a 70—in other words it delivers 70 miles an hour.

The model number is not the maximum—Chrysler "70" delivers 70 miles an hour and more.

Comparatively few people, it is true, care to ride as fast as 70 miles an hour; but the power which is indicated by 70 miles plus represents the utmost in acceleration, in smooth performance, as well as in sheer speed.

We are eager to demonstrate its outstanding superiorities to you.

CHRYSLER HOST TO FOREIGNERS

German Industrialists Visit American Automobile Plants

The Chrysler Sales corporation, Detroit, was host last week to a group of prominent German industrial leaders, from the Leipsic Industrial fair, and representatives of practically every line of German industry, from toys to automobiles.

Among the group were Ernest Paul Lehman, councillor of commerce of Germany and head of the great Lehmann Toy Works; Ernest Reichstein, of the Beennabor Works, makers of automobiles; Dr. Kurt Eulenburg, music publisher; Dr. Rudolph Winter, mechanical engineer; August Schimmel, director of the Westphalian Stamping Works, makers of plumbing fixtures; Dr. Rudolph Goermandt, director Society of German Metal Goods Manufacturers; Dr. Hugo Debach, managing director of the Wuertemberg Metallwarenfabrik, one of the country's largest makers of metal specialties; Karl Geyer of the Geyer film industries, and F. W. Kirchberger of the North German Lloyd company.

While in Detroit the party visited both Chrysler plants and were greatly impressed by the precision and quantity production methods which they saw. All of the visitors were more or less familiar with modern machine shop practices but readily admitted that they had never seen anything to compare with the perfection of detail and of inspection exemplified in the manufacture of Chrysler cars.

POLITICIANS WORRIED

How Students Will Vote in Japan Is Puzzle for Seasoned Leaders

TOKYO, April 28.—(AP)—How Japanese students will vote, now that a law is effective giving them suffrage is worrying the politicians. There are many thousand students past 25, the voting age under the new statute.

The majority of the students are said to be democratically, if not radically inclined and, if a student's party should be organized, the "old-line" leaders are unable to predict what the outcome might be.

Frenchmen Are Impressed By The Methods Employed In Dodge And Graham Brothers Truck Factories

Production methods of Dodge Brothers Inc., most favorably impressed members of the special mission of automobile manufacturers and engineers from France, who visited the Detroit plant recently.

The mission, composed of eight men, spent the entire day in going through the various departments of Dodge Brothers and Graham Brothers factories. They also planned to re-arrange their itinerary to include a visit to the Evansville, Ind., plant of Graham Brothers.

The party included Rodolph and Eugene Peugeot, sons of the founder of that well known automobile company, and directors of the corporation; Rene Donnay and Maurice Henry, directors of Schenard and Walcker; Jules Teinturier, M. Maillard, M. Schley and Andre Adalus, engineers of the Peugeot corporation, all of Paris.

The name Peugeot is remembered by American automotive engineers and the public by the success of one of these cars piloted by the late Dario Resta in winning the Indianapolis Speedway and other 500-mile races several years ago and by the wonderful showing made by Ralph de Palma in a car of the same type.

While the party's visit to the United States at this time was primarily to study possibilities of introduction of a very small car for use in congested traffic in United States cities and also to introduce the Peugeot heavy oil engine, the members visited the plants of Dodge Brothers, Inc., with a view to studying quantity production of motor cars and trucks.

At the Detroit plant of Dodge Brothers, Inc., the visitors were especially impressed with the forest of giant machines used in making all steel bodies, axles, crankshafts and other parts of Dodge Brothers Motor cars and Graham Brothers trucks.

"The manufacturing system of Dodge Brothers, Inc., is simply marvelous" declared Rodolphe Peugeot. "The precision of movement of employes at their tasks is the most unusual thing we have seen. Every man works so easily and with so little effort, but yet accomplishes so much. Of course the vast array of giant, as well as smaller machines, makes the easy effort on the part of the man power.

"It is no wonder that Dodge Brothers are able to produce their motor cars, trucks and motor coaches in such volume, yet maintaining the high quality which always has marked these products.

"The same efficient operation is noticed in your clerical departments. The executives are working every minute and the flood of correspondence from without, as well as inter-departmental, is carried on with such dispatch as to be astounding to us."

The visitors were received at Dodge Brothers by President Frederick J. Haynes.

They were entertained at luncheon by Percy Owen, director of Foreign Sales and his staff.

IMPORTS INCREASE

Raw Materials Shipped Into U. S. In Larger Amounts.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP)—Larger imports of crude materials combined with declines in exports of these products and food stuffs were explanations given by the commerce department today for the excess of approximately $70,000,000 of imports over exports for March, when the adverse balance of trade against this country reached $125,000,000 for the calendar year.

FORD STARTER HAULS TARGETS

Power Unit of Automobile Tested by Naval Air Service

In a series of tests recently conducted by the United States naval air service at its Pensacola, Fla., station, a Ford motor starter proved that it was also as efficient at hauling in real targets as it is at the more familiar task of cranking a Ford car. In fact, according to engineers of the naval air service, the Ford unit proved more powerful than any of the truck or automobile motors employed in the government experiments.

The government's report to the Ford Motor company not only furnishes an interesting sidelight on the ingenuity of the naval engineers but also contains an impressive demonstration of the power and stamina of that mechanical detail of Ford cars.

"The test,' the statement reads, "was to determine whether or not a starter motor could develop two horse-power, and if so, how long it could deliver that amount of power. The test showed that all truck or automobile motors tested, the Ford starter motor was the only one to deliver two horse-power. The following shows the result of the test:

Time	R.M.P	Amp.	H. P. Del.
10 Minutes	2,500	135	1
5 Minutes	2,200	169	1 1-4
1 1-2 Minutes	1,750	203	1 1-2
2 1-2 Minutes	1,100	237	1 3-4
3 1-2 Minutes	1,100	271	2

"At the end of twenty-one and one-half minutes, continuous running, the test was discontinued, because the battery (a new 130 ampere hour 6 volt battery) had become so heated it was deemed advisable to do so to prevent destroying the battery.

"An examination of the starter motor showed that it was in perfect mechanical condition. It had not overheated, neither was the insulation impaired at all."

Scientists Using Rare Atmosphere

WASHINGTON. (AP) —Mountain climbers and aviators are familiar enough with the disabling and even deadly effect of rarified air, but it has remained for scientists to utilize thin air in beneficial ways.

E. A. Back and R. T. Cotton, of the department of agriculture, have first reported on the work they and others have done in using rarified air to kill insects in stored articles subject to their depredations. They have found that moths and other insects inside a locked trunk may be killed by exposure for a few days to atmosphere from one-fifth to one-thirtieth of normal.

A trunk was placed in a vault from which almost all the air was exhausted and after two days all the moths were found to have been killed and a few days longer exposure killed other insects.

The method is said to be more effective than fumigation.

New Oregon Fish Famed As Fighters

BEND, Oregon, April 27—(AP—A new breed of fish planted in central Oregon lakes by the state are such fighters that scores have been killed and their bodies floating on the water, anglers returning from East Lake report.

Two fishermen from a position on a rock which enabled them to look clearly into the deep water, said they watched the husky warriors rush at each other mouths open and with savage lunges inflict nasty cuts with their teeth. Such fights were going on all over the lake, they said.

The new fish are said to be a cross between some unknown salmon and a steel head and so far as the observers could determine did not attack other breeds, but confine their war-like activities to their own kind.

"Bumpitis" Hard For Air Pilots

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — Traveling across the continent in a mail airplane is not as comfortable as riding the "soft cushions" of a railroad car, several pilots of the air mail service have learned.

A new malady has visited the pilots who traverse the Rocky Mountains in daily flights—"air bumpitis." Its effects are bruises and sprains of the back and often the limbs.

Recently two pilots, after flying through a heavy wind and "rough weather' 'over the Continental Divide, were obliged to go to bed for a rest. The bumps, produced by air currents from dissimilar terrain, probably are worse over the Rocky Mountains than in any other section of the transcontinental mail route.

The stars will have bungalows of Spanish design while furnished duplex buildings of the same architecture will house other players.

BIG PINEAPPLE CROP

Hawaiian Islands Await for $100,000 Valuation in Year

HONOLULU, April 28.—(AP)—Pineapple growers in the Hawaiian islands are looking to the day when the territory's pineapple crop will be worth $100,000,000.

In less than 25 years the industry has been built up to $35,000,000 a season and with the world demand for this fruit increasing, the $100,000,000 mark seems only a few years distant.

It takes only 18 months to mature pineapple so the increase in size of the crop for a given year can be arranged in advance.

Italian Musical School Subsidized

TIVOLI.—(AP)—The Italian government has granted a partial subsidy to the "Master School of Music for Americans" in recognition of its work towards strengthening the cultural ties between Italy and the United States.

The Master School, which holds its classes during the summer months at the famous Villa d'Este, is devoted entirely to the musical education of Americans by a corps of distinguished Italian professors. Opinions Bring Prompt Expulsion

ROME.—Members of the chamber of deputies who try expressing their individualities against the dictates of the party directorate are either suspended from the party for indeterminate periods or expelled outright, a punishment which usually means the end of their political careers.

No fewer than seven deputies have been expelled and three suspended as a result of Secretary Farinacci's campaign to weed out party members who insist on having opinions of their own. They are expelled Edoardo Torre, Massimo Rocca, Gio Batta Rebora, Battista Boido, Tommaso Beltrasi, Aldo Oviglio and Michele Terzaghi, suspended, Pietro Bolson, Pietro Pisanti and Amadeo Belloni.

Gypsy Band Scraps Over 'King's' Baby

TAMPA, Fla., April 27—(AP)—Division in the ranks of a gypsy band over the name of the "king's" new baby landed seven of the leaders in police court and cost them $15 each yesterday.

Christening ceremonies went well until the champions of the names "Pete" and "Mike" for the regal infant made the matter physical instead of verbal arguments. Then the police intervened.

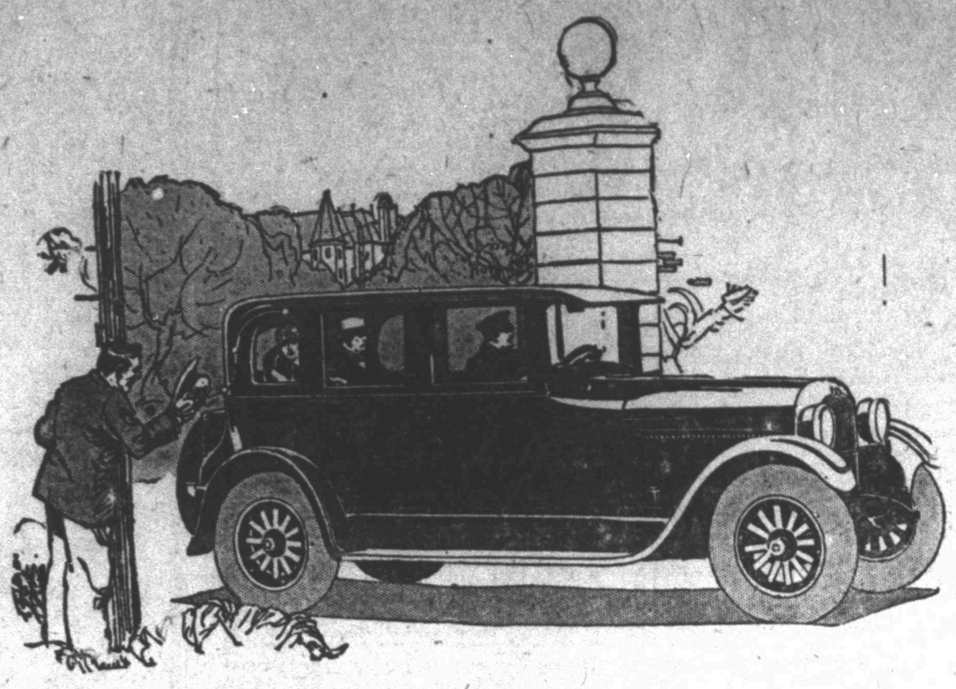

One of the policemen answering the riot call to quell the 200 or more members of the band was relieved of his wallet containing $17.50 during the melee.

WOMEN WANT TO WORK

They Shun All But Professions Men Seek in Kentucky Schools

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 28.—(AP)—Women students of the University of Kentucky here are showing an inclination to shun the professional fields in which women have formerly centered their activity and to venture into professions dominated by men.

Engineering fields and law are proving attractive. Four women members of the senior class are to embark on careers as lawyers and five plan to enter fields of engineering. A surveying disclosed that social fields in which women have recognized place are losing their attraction while general business is drawing many.

SALE OF DODGE CARS INCREASE

Weekly Record of Retail Purchases Eclipsed In April

Retail sales of Dodge Brothers motor cars and trucks by dealers in the United States alone during the week ending April 17, 1926, eclipsed all former weekly records for Dodge Brothers, Inc. This record volume of sales made in the face of unseasonable weather conditions is emphatic evidence of the public's high regard for Dodge Brothers motor cars.

Total sales in the United States for the week ending April 17, this year were 9,435, a gain of 2,996 or 47 per cent over the corresponding week of 1925.

The gain made in the week ending April 17 this year totaled 44 per cent over the best week in 1925, that ending April 11.

Total domestic retail sales for the period from January 2, to April 17, 1925, show a gain of 25,873 or 37 per cent over the corresponding period of 1925.

It is important to note that the sale figures quoted above are actual retail deliveries by dealers and should not be confused with factory shipments. Moreover, the totals are for the United States only and do not include Dodge Brothers large rapidly increasing export business.

New car shipments in the week ending April 17, this year totaled 8,150, which is 2,946 over the corresponding week of 1925, a gain of 57 per cent.

Total new car shipments from Dodge Brothers factory of 97,660 from January 2, to April 17, this year, show a gain of 31,917 or 49 per cent over the corresponding period one year ago.

COWBOY RELAY NEW FEATURE

Four Horses to Be Used In Novel Stunt at Big Rodeo

A one-mile cowboy relay race, something new and novel so far as this city is concerned, will be offered at the Burnett Production company rodeo at the fair grounds April 30, May 1 and 2.

This is an event that has proved decidedly interesting when tried in other sections of the country, and is being offered here by Buck Lucas and Tommy Kirnan in the hopes Wichita Falls will take to it as kindly as have other communities.

As many cowboys as want can enter, the rules providing that each contestant use four horses. Only one saddle and bridle can be used.

Each man starts on a fresh mount, of course, and rides a quarter of a mile where he has previously posted a second fresh horse. Arrived here, he leaps off, unsaddles, puts his saddle on the fresh horse and is off again.

At the half mile mark he unsaddles his second horse, mounts a third and goes to the three-quarter mark where the fourth and last horse is waiting. If he can shoot home ahead of the field on this fourth and last mount he is, of course, the winner.

Town Is Peaceful After Threatened Riot With Negroes

CARTERET, N. J., April 28.—(AP)—Racial ill-feeling engendered by the killing of Johnny Carroll, a popular young boxer, by a negro, which led to the burning of a negro church in retaliation, apparently had, subsided today, though all negroes in Carteret still were under orders to keep off the streets and the entire town police force of 23 men was kept on duty to prevent new outbreaks. A number of negroes were driven out of town and more than 100 others were escorted out by the police.

Carroll was stabbed to death Sunday and Ralph Johnson, his companion at the time, is in a hospital with a stab wound beneath the heart. He will recover. Robert Ducaest, 27, a negro, was held without bail charged with the murder and two other negroes are held as material witnesses.

The ill-feeling intensified by Carroll's murder is said to have had its inception in labor disputes between negro and white workers in the mills here.

Austria Quits Beer To Imbibe In Wine

VIENNA, April 28.—(AP)—The Austrians have given up drinking beer and are drinking wine. This is because the brewers' trust insisted on raising the price of beer to the saloonkeepers who immediately carried out their threat to boycott them.

Twenty three thousand saloonkeepers who last year served 420,000,000 pints of beer yesterday laid aside their bung starters and spigots and served only wine to customers.

The action of the saloonkeepers was taken after mass meetings were held throughout the country in protest against the decision of the brewers to boost the price of their product.

The people promised the saloonkeepers that they would not order beer anywhere if the brewers enforced what they termed the unwarranted increase.

STUDENTS BEST OFFICERS.

College Men Most Adaptible to Army Service, Reports Indicate.

HONOLULU.—College men make the best army officers when it is necessary to take officers from civil life, says Col. H. J. Koehler, for more than forty years drill master at West Point. It is because the collegian is by training more receptive to intensive study, he declares.

Another of Colonel Koehler's views is that "the American soldier does not fight so much for the flag as because he doesn't intend to be licked by anybody once trouble has been started." The colonel was the originator of the mass-command system of giving instructions to troops.

DEMOCRACY IS WYOMING RULE

Son of Governor Ross Works In Summer to Earn Money

LARAMIE, Wyo., (AP)—The principle of American democracy rules in Wyoming—even in the family of Gov. Nellie Ross. Her two sons, students in the University of Wyoming here, for the sake of an independent income, work each summer vacation to earn part of their expenses of college.

The sons of Governor Ross are twins, 21 years old, George T. and Ambrose. George Ross graduates this spring and recently was awarded the Rhodes scholarship for Wyoming to attend Oxford university in England. Ambrose is a junior, having missed a year of college.

George Ross has been a ranger for the last three summer vacations in the Yellowstone park, earning a tidy sum in guiding tourists through the park. Ambrose for two summers was a ranger, but he also has taken a hand at being a cow-puncher and broncho buster and for a time worked as a brakeman. He has won several prizes in broncho busting at Wyoming rodeos.

The boys are prominent in activities at the university. George being a debater and secretary of the student body, while Ambrose is a member of the university football and wrestling teams.

Governor Ross declares she "is very proud of her sons" and, like Cornelia, she regards them "as her most precious jewels." A younger son, Bradford, aged 13, challenges his mother many nights on the checkerboard at her home in Cheyenne.

Arctic Plane Held Up For Repairing

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, April 28.—(AP)—An airplane of the Arctic air expedition of Captain George H. Wilkins was held up today in Fairbanks by one of a series of misfortunes which have followed the undertaking from its initial move.

When one of its three engines failed the Detroiter, a three-motor Fokker airplane, returned to Fairbanks yesterday after it had gone north ten miles en route to Point Barrow to search for Captain Wilkins and Lieutenant Carl B. Eielson, who left here in a small plane April 15. No word has been received from Wilkins or Eielson since the day they left Fairbanks.

Overhauling of the Detroiter's engines began today. Whether Wilkins and Eielson reached Point Barrow is problematical.

Forest Fires Threaten Hunting Lodges And Homes.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 27.—(AP)—Forest fires, north of Poplar Point, Man., in the marshes by Lake Winnipeg, are menacing hunting lodges and farm houses.

Heavy winds swept the blaze eastward. Large fire fighting crews were despatched last night to idely scattered points. A barn of a farmer near Babson was destroyed. Horses tied in a farm yard were reported to have broken away and blazing halter ropes which trailed on the ground started new fires in the marshes.

MOVIE SHOTS NOW AN ART

Men Who Take The Pictures Must Be Experts

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. A(AP)—From obscurity to places of prominence in the movie industry have come the men who grind away on cameras.

There was a time when George Schneiderman, of Fox Films, "shot" furniture painted on walls and participated in the pictures he was photographing. In those days, there were no Kleig lights and open sets, dependent on weather conditions, were used. Ingenuity consisted of making scratches on a length of film to depict rain.

Now a Film Art.

Down through the years, however, the men behind the lenses have been pursuing a rigid technical education until today motion picture photography is considered a fine art by those of the industry.

To the realm of the movies, fantasy and many other phases requiring "trick" and artistic photographing have been admitted. New lighting effects new inventions and new chemical developments also have been added to the camera man's dignity.

Works Long Hours.

When Schneiderman starts on a production now he puts as much study and preparation on it as any other officiating person. When the "shooting" begins, he works ten and twelve hours a day. Completion of the photographing does not end his labor, because his services are needed until the film has been cut, assembled and ready for distribution.

Today the camera man sees his name in good display in introductory titles, receives on excellent salary and has the satisfaction of knowing that an expert in his profession always is in demand.

Widow Is Accused Of Beating Woman

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., April —.—(AP)—Mrs. Frank Magadance, widow of a monument manufacturer, is under arrest here charged with beating with a garden hose another woman whom she asserted was too friendly with her daughter's husband.

Miss Hilma Johnson, a soda fountain worker, who received the beating, obtained the warrant which was served late yesterday. The case is to be heard in municipal court today.

Miss Johnson charges she as accosted and beaten by Mrs. Magadance, whose son-in-law, Frank Hagbann, a grocer, the mother-in-law said, has recently been "too attentaive" to Miss JoJhnson.

TREATY WORRIES.

PARIS, April 27.—(AP)—The text of the Russo-German treaty, particularly the annexes, causes considerable perturbation in diplomatic circles here. At first it was regarded as difficult to see how all the points in the treaty and the views expressed in the letters annexed could be reconciled with the Locarno agreements and above all with Articles 16 and 17 of the covenant.

The allied chancellories are busy studying the text of the treaty and as soon as it is fully digested exchanges of views will be immediately initiated between London, Paris, Rome, Brussels, Prague and the secretariat of the league of nations

LONDON, April 28.—(AP)—Michael Constantine de Courcy, baron Kingsale, is the only man in the United Kingdom who may, if he wishes, keep on his hat in the presence of the king. The peer enjoys the curious privilege by virtue of an hereditary perogative granted by Sir John de Courcy in the reign of King John, for conquering Ulster. History records that this privilege has been exercised five times, the last occasion being 1889 when John de Courcy, Lord Kingsale, stood with his head covered in the presence of Queen Victoria.

Oldsmobile Sales Show An Increase of 51 Per Cent

Recent summary of statistics on the automotive industry as compiled by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce show a new March shipping record established by the entire industry, March 1926, shipments for the industry were increased 19 percent over the March, 1925 shipments. March reports issued by Olds Motor Works, Lansing, Michigan, covering actual Oldsmobile retail sales show an increase of 51.9 percent for March this year over March last year.

The automotive industry in its entirety made a 19 percent increase in Marsh shipments over shipments of February this year, while the increase in Oldsmobile retail sales for the same periods is 53 3-10 percent. Oldsmobile retail deliveries for this same period show an increase of 65 4-10 percent over the first quarter of last year. While the bulk figures for the industry show a marked increase in production the Oldsmobile figures are based on actual retail deliveries and are indicative of a remarkable gain in public preference for Oldsmobile expressed in actual sales to consumers.

Preliminary reports for the first ten days of April and orders on hand at Olds Motor Works according to statements issued at their plant at Lansing, Michigan indicate a new all time record in monthly retail sales during April.

NATURE USED IN WISCONSIN

University Utilizes to Full Advantage of Her Campus

MADISON, Wis.—Taking advantage of the gifts with which Madison has been endowed by Nature, the University of Wisconsin is developing a diversified program of intramural athletics.

The Wisconsin campus extends to the shores of Lake Mendota, which with three other lakes, provides opportunity for both summer and winter activities.

Darkness has been overcome through the use of arc lights to illuminate the football field and hockey rinks. Wisconsin had 450 men playing football last year. Touch football, differing from the orthodox style only in that blocking and tackling are prohibited, proved a great conditioner for all the men.

When the regular football season was in full swing, there were fourteen fraternity teams in action at Wisconsin, in addition to the varsity and freshmen football squads.

The institution has two hockey rinks, under arc lights, and many others for use during the day. Spirited rivalry exists among the fraternities for the school championship.

Skiing is another winter sport which has proven popular, and both skiing and skating has been made a part of the athletic instruction. Baseball, track, tennis, and cross country are most popular in the summer time.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 28.—(P)—Masts and rigging spars on the historic frigate Constitution, which is being re-built at the navy yard at Boston, are to be of Douglas fir grown in the Pacific Northwest.

The United States Navy accepted an offer of The West Coast Lumbermen's Association to give the Constitution's masts and spars from a new forest which was seeded half a century after the frigate fought her last engagement in 1812.

A portion of the fir will come from Bainbridge Island, Puget Sound, named in honor of Commodore William Bainbridge who commanded the Constitution in all her important engagements except that with the British frigate Guerriere.

Alvord of the extension department of Texas A. and M. college announced today. Last year approximately 2,000 persons persons were registered for the meeting and this year an increase in attendance is expecfed.

There is no wondering along against "traffic," in order to stare at the window displays. Those on the outside half must walk down to the corner and turn back if they wish to look in the store windows.

It is, of course, permissible to turn at right angles and cross through the inside line of traffic in order to enter the stores and moving picture theatres.

NEW AIR FOR AIRMEN

Burnett rodeo to be held at the Texas-Where They Are in Thickest Fog.

LONDON, April 28—(AP)—By means of new inventions air pilots are able to steer safely to a given point in the thickest fog, Flight Lieutenant H. Cooch has informed the Royal Aeronautical Society.

By means of delicate instruments in the cockpit a pilot is kept automatically informed when he is within 1,500 feet of the ground, and the loss of every foot of height as he descends is also indicated.

Other instruments show the aviator just what part of the aerodome he is over, after he has arrived in the vicinity of his destination, so that he may land in safety, though he may not be able to see the ground until he has actually alighted.

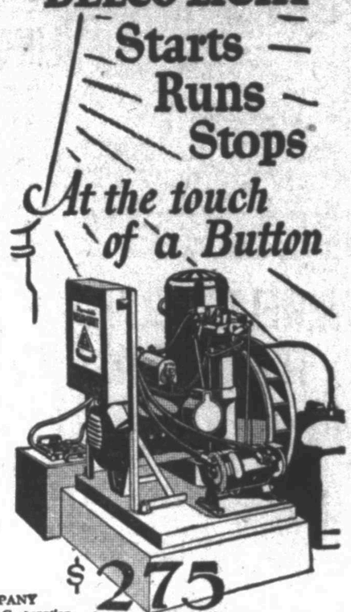

LOTS OF AUTOS

DUBLIN, April 28.—(AP)—Northern Ireland, although better served by railways than the Irish Free States, has an automobile for every 40 inhabitants. In Southern Ireland there is only one motor vehicle for every 80 inhabitants.

DODGE BROTHERS
MOTOR CARS

Dealers for 12 years, but Never Prouder to Show Them

than in this record-making year

In 1914 McFall Brothers became Wichita Falls' dealers for Dodge Brothers Motor Cars.

The present show rooms at 819 Ohio Avenue, which have been the home of the firm for nearly 10 years, have seen many Dodge Cars come and go.

But never have we been prouder to exhibit Dodge Brothers Cars than in this year, in which new and extraordinary sales records are being made.

Dodge Brothers Motor Cars and Graham Trucks established in the first quarter of 1926 a record to make you pause!

0,599 cars and trucks were sold in the United States from January 2 to April 3, 1926.

Demand increased week by week from the first of the year, and sales during this first quarter were 37 per cent greater than in the first period of 1925.

When you see these cars at the Automobile Show, you will realize the cause of this record of buyer's preference.

You will not see a radically changed car, but the constantly improved Dodge Brothers Motor Cars.

WILLYS-KNIGHT GAIN IN SALES

Factory Records 13 Percent Increase of 51 Per Quarter

Sales of the Willys-Knight great six, brought out by Willys-Overland, Inc., in 1925 show a 130 per cent increase for the first quarter over the sales figures for the same period last years.

Based against the total sales in this model for all of last year, the increase in retail deliveries for the first three months of last year is at the rate of 32 per cent over the total volume for 1925, a surprising figure in face of the fact that, in its first year, the Willys-Knight great six was one of the three leaders in the price class which it occupies.

With the Overland six showing an increase at the rate of 50 per cent over last year's sales, with the four-cylindered Overland still maintaining its record breaking sales of 1925 and with the new Willys-Knight six-seventy as an addition to the line and already exceeding the greatest estimates set by the factory officials, the general business of Willys-Overland for the first quarter of the year is showing most amazing strides.

According to factory officials, over-production, so far as Willys-Overland is concerned, will be impossible if anything like the present sales demand continues. At the close of the first quarter, all lines were oversold and the problem of the factory is to get sufficient production to meet current demand even at a time of the year considerably ahead of the peak sales points.

JEWELERS CLAP FOR ATHLETICS

Demand For Trophies Proves a Boon to Texas Trade

DALLAS, April 28.—(AP)—Athletics and taxes are to give Texas and Louisiana jewelers cause for jubilation at their joint convention to be held here May 3 and 4. College and high school athletics will be thanked for a great boon they have brought the business in the way of a demand for loving cups and victory trophies of all kinds. A greater cause for joy, however, is the elimination of the five per cent war tax on the retail price of jewelry, which recently was repealed by congress.

The war tax has been paid by the jewelers without passing it on to the purchaser, according to Myron Everts of Dallas, president of the association. This tax has been so burdensome, Mr. Everts said, that it has been the direct cause of many failures in the retail business and for general depression in the trade. Retail jewelry failures have increased two per cent in Texas since this tax was imposed, and since it was removed the business has shown an immediate revival, he said.

The great growth of athletics of all kinds has brought to the business a new and distinct line of goods represented principally by trophies, medals, and similar evidence of victory, given for the winning team or the winning individual. Silver and old footballs, silver loving cups, handsome articles suggestive of the golf links, such as silver golf bags and minature golf clubs are keeping the silver and goldsmiths.

He Thinks Movies Better Than Stage

NEW YORK.—(AP)— Norman Trevor, who has been before the footlights in England and this country many years, has left the stage "for good" and in the future will devote all his time to the movies.

Here are his reasons:

"I believe the movies are doing infinitely better work than is to be found in the legitimate theatre. You can go to six motion picture houses in New York and the chances are you will see four good film plays. Go to as many legitimate theatres and you will be doing well if you see one or two good plays.

"In a way, this illustrates how far the movies are ahead of the stage now. The stage is drifting backward. Seldom do we find any good drama. On the other hand, I think the big film productions of the past few years hold definite promise htat even better things will be accomplished."

New Gold Hard To Pry From Earth

RED LAKE, Ont.—Ontario's newest gold discovery is in quartz formation and any successful "prospecting" will be done by an intelligent direction of the diamond drill.

Heavy expenditure is necessary before a dollar's worth of gold can be taken from quartz. The prospector and his "grub-staker" in this little field face a trial of faith and endurance. Whereas the gold adventurer in many sections of Alaska required only a pan, pick or shovel to work his claim, the prospector at Red Lake needs equipment and experience to meet a different type of mining.

The sources of provisions after leaving the railways are limited. Motor boat is virtually the only route of access in the summer.

Modern Japanese Girls Rap Marriage

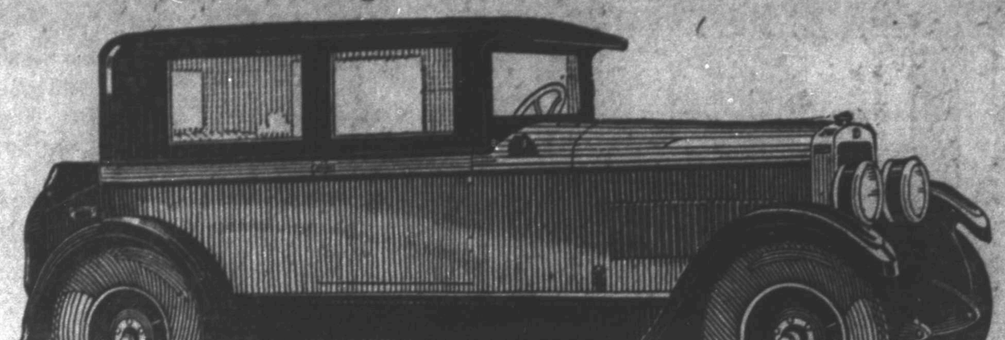

TOKYO.—(AP)—The modern Japanese girl—a canvass at a girl's high school disclosed—does not favor the present day system under which most of the marriages are "arranged."

In opposition to the prevailing mode 53 girls in one school said that to marry men of whom they had no previous knowledge was dangerous. Sixteen were opposed because the present custom ignores the sentiments of the ones to be married. Ten objected to the use of a go-between to make arrangements and all agreed that the marriage question should be more seriously considered.

Ranking preferences for husbands were, government officials first and then, in order, businessmen, educators, farmers, physicians and army officers.

LINCOLN BOWS TO BOY LAWYER

Illinois Hunts for Name Of One Who Beat Him In Court

CARTHAGE, Ill.—Search for the name of an unknown boy attorney who defeated Abraham Lincoln and T. Lyle Dickey when they defended a Schuyler county murderer in May, 1839, and for a legal document filed in the case in Lincoln's handwriting, is being made in Carthage.

Statements that Lincoln would never defend a murderer are inaccurate, as court records will show, said J. A. Thompson, an old resident of Monmouth, who is acquainted with the case.

Like Any Other.

"Lincoln was a lawyer practicing before the bar, just as any other attorney," Mr. Thompson declared.

"Somewhere in Carthage there is a motion in arrest of judgment in Lincoln's own handwriting, but that was taken from the records years ago, and has never been found since. The motion was overruled, and the murderer was hanged on May 19, 1839.

"The mutilated records of the court and tradition give the names of the attorneys for the defense as Abraham Lincoln and T. Lyle Dickey, who later became a justice in the Illinois Supreme court. No record of the man's name who appeared against them can be found, however.

Killed in Brawl.

"The wording of the old records of Hancock county court is that 'William Frame killed a man of unpronounceable name in a saloon brawl in Frederick, Schuyler county,' and so on. Other records have the name of the murderer as Fielding Frame. The murderer and the man he killed were probably transients for neither was known to the settlers. The case went to Hancock county on a change of venue from Schuyler county."

Now The Co-eds At Arkansas U. Scorn Kissing

Science Shows Them Just How Terrific One May Be

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—Kisses, powder puffs and the tips of lead pencils are taboo with students of botany at the University of Arkansas.

Two slices of an ordinary Irish potato and a dish of gelatine are responsible.

As a laboratory experiment one of the students—a boy—was asked to kiss a slice of potato. This potato was then interned under an airtight glass dish. Several days later the students examined it. Four different kinds of molds were found. They were described as the kind of mold found on jellies and old shoes, and there were several colonies of red, yellow, white and purple bacteria.

Here's the Villain.

The instructor explained that the "pencillium" spore in the kiss had played havoc with the potato.

Then a powder puff was borrowed from one of the coeds. It was dusted on another slice of potato. Six kinds of molds as well as numerous bacteria appeared on the potato a few days later.

A pencil point was touched to a piece of gelatin. Two kinds of mold developed.

The students remarked at the floral appearance of the results of the experiment as seen through a microscope.

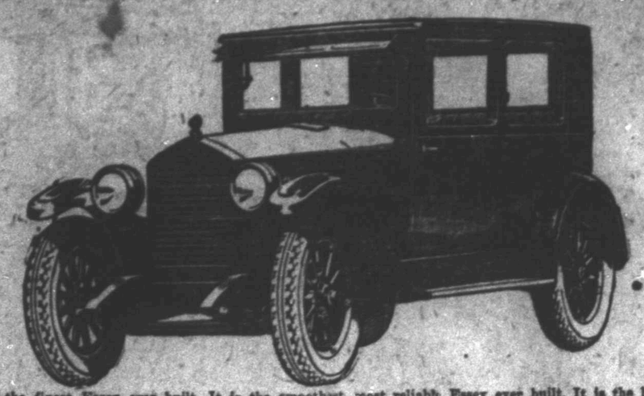

Radio Elements Travel Long Way

BOSTON, April 28.—(AP)—The radio reaches nearly as far for its constitutent elements as the waves flow which it transmutes into melody of speech, William C. Redfield, former secretary of commerce, points out in his new book.

"Ingredients comprising a radio set have among them all traveled 250,000 miles between their places of origin and the factory where they are finally combined," says the book, published today by Houghton Mifflin. "In one standard receiving set are two thousand different parts omitting the tubes. Each of the seven tubes has 32 parts.

"The list of materials entering into these is a lesson in physical geography, for the continents are there, the shores, the plains, the hills and islands appear, as well as the animal, vegetable and mineral kingdoms. Some of these materials are domestic, many are foreign. No nation, no continent, supplies them all."

WANT A STOP LAW

Believe Proper Legislation Would Do Much to Eliminate Accidents

EL PASO, Texas, April 28.—(AP) The ghastly toll of life taken daily at grade crossings throughout the United States would be greatly reduced were a national "stop" law enacted by congress in tthe opinion of R. Kuntz, an official of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and an engineer of the Southern Pacific railroad.

Mr. Kuntz has written Congressman Claude B. Hudspeth of El Paso district asking his support of a measure designed to force automobiles to come to a full stop before passing over a railroad track or street car tracks at grade crossings. Mr. Kuntz, in his letter to the congressman, says that notwithstanding the large sums sent by the railroad on warning signals, gates, etc., the motoring public pays little, if any attention, to theses devices.

OVERLAND SET LIGHT CAR MARK

Second Year of New Model Finds Sales Rapidly Increasing

Sales records for the first quarter of this year show that the Overland six, the sales accomplishments of which in its first year placed it second in volume among all light sixes has alread stepped far ahead of its initial popularity and for the first three months of 1926, retail deliveries have been 7,906 over those of the same period for 1925.

Measured against a sales ottal for 1925 of 65,000 of these cars during the year, the increase for the first three months alone constitutes nearly 12 per cent of the total business for last year or at the rate of approximaltely 50 per cent increase for the total period of 1926 already in view.

With this increase being maintained, and with the consensus of opinion of the major dealers and distributors throughout the country that it will be materially increased as the summer months come on, this Overland six is in a fair way to exceed in volume all other light sixes built.

While no attempt has been made to crowd the market and while production has been kept at a point measured by the actual orders on hand for this car, the production figures at the factory are considered ably ahead of the peak production months for last year even at this early period of the buying season.

Dealer stocks in the Oeveland sixes have been practically depleted all over the country and an acute shortage is looked for within the next thirty to forty-five days despite the efforts at the factory to keep production up to sales demand.

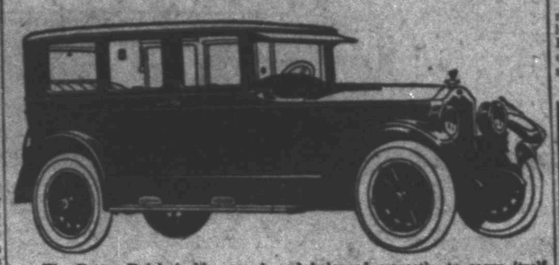

Bust As a Traffic Cop, Expression Used For Dodge Salesman

"As busy as a traffic cop," is an expression emphatically indicative of a busy person, but Louisville has produced some one even busier in Dan Revenaugh, star salesman of the Hannah-Miles company, Dodge Brothers dealers in the Kentucky metropolis. Dan recently sold a Dodge Brothers coupe to Leslie Shewmaker while the latter was directing traffic at one of Louisville's busiest corners.

The achievement happened to take place under the eye of T. A. Bell, Indianapolis distict representative, while he was in Louisville attending the motor show. Walking from his hotel to the office of the local dealer one morning, "T. A." recognized Dan in vigorous conversation with a traffic cop who, with hand on semaphore, alternately started and checked the traffic.

Thinking Dan might be in trouble, "T. A." stopped to watch and was surprised to see the young man seize the seaphore and assume charge of traffic, at the same time handing Officer Shewmaker a paper. Recognizing the paper as a Dodge Brothers order form "T. A." impressed a convenient photographer into service and got a picture of the transaction.

The Better Buick, Six Cylinder Attraction

The Better Buick is big enough and balanced correctly to carry itself well on any road, but not too big to be ungainly or hard to handle. This model is featured by the Dixon Motor company at the annual Spring Automobile show.

The Usual Spring Shortage Of Automobiles Is Here, Asserts Head Of Rickenbacker Motors

"It is already here—the usual spring shortage of automobiles," says B. F. Everitt, president and general manager Rickenbacker Motor company, "but this year the shortage threatens to be unusually long."

"All indications are that the shortage will be more acute during the next three months than at any previous period in the history of the industry.

"This condition is due to the fact that, because of the lateness of the season—most sections reporting it three to four weeks late—we automobile manufacturers opened the safety valve and left it open too long.

"That, by the way, has been one of the most important developments in this industry; the safety valve and our ability to use it," says Mr. Everitt.

"Production methods have been brought to such a state of perfection and of flexibility that those manufacturers who are best equipped, can slacken production 25 or even 50 per cent when for a brief spell, retail sales let up, and yet not incur a prohibitive overhead.

"That was what happened during January, February and March this year.

"Some of the largest makers dropped several hundred—and in one case at least—several thousand cars per day.

"That was what we term opening the safety valve.

"It has been usual to do this during January and February. In fact we seldom get under way on new models until the first of March. From then on the practice has been to run full blast.

"Weather in March of this year was severe; reports from all sections were unfavorable.

"Just then, too, the professional operators in the stock market decided to make a cleaning, the Bears got control, and pounded all stocks, especially motors, hard.

"That made automobile manufacturers over cautious, with the result that March productions was hundreds of thousands of cars below normal.

"The action was misinterpreted in some quarters.

"It seemed, to superficial observers, that the industry was in a precarious position, and wild talk of the old mythical 'saturation point' began to be heard again.

Sale of Chryslers Gains In Minnesota Factory Discloses

Automobile sales actively in the Minneapolis district, according to a report from J. E. Fields, vice president in charge of Chrysler sales, is displaying all the signs of an even more than unusual busy and progressive spring season.

During the last week there were received at the Chrysler plants two long distance telephone calls from the Holt Motor Company, Minneapolis distributor, authorizing immediate shipment on a total of 84 cars amounting to two trainloads of Chrysler cars.

Minneapolis has been responsive to Chrysler appeal. To insure adequate distribution throughout the territory, forty-nine new dealers have been appointed since July last year. All report splendid business thus far and a bright outlook for the spring.

Georgia Bond Held As Stolen 'Joker'

ATLANTA, April 28.—(AP)—A man in California who holds a state of Georgia bond of $1,000 dated 1854 will find he holds a joker, State Treasurer William J. Speer has announced. The 72-year old bond was presented at the capitol this week in the form of a claim for payment.

The treasurer will not make payment and will demand the return of the document as stolen property which he asserted was taken along with much other "loot" by the troops of General Sherman during the latter's famous march through Georgia.

As for the bond, it is not a real bond, inasmuch as it was never issued, the treasurer said.

Moderate Priced Willys Knight Is Center Of Attraction Of The Automobile Buying Public

With the buying interests in the automobile market centered on the new cars of moderate price, unusual comment of automobile show crowds has followed the showing of the new Willys-Knight six "seventy." The unexpectedly low price of $1,495 on this sedan likewise has brought thousands of enquiries to Willys-Overland dealers throughout the country.

While automobile show visitors continually praised the low and racy appearance of the new "seventy," there are some unusual features incorporated in its design which are in a great measure responsible for the car's outstanding performance on the road. Conforming in lines with the latest trend in European car design and establishing a precedent in the manufacture of domestic cars, the new sleeve valve car has secured an unusually large following on the strength of automobile show visitors alone.

Willys-Overland engineers designed the chassis of the new Willys-Knight "70" to provide the greatest possible rigidity and strength in a weight consistent with the greatest possible economy. The heavy pressed steel frame of 3-16 inch material is 2 1-4 inches wide and 4 1-2 inches deep. Five heavy cross members, flattened at the points of greatest strain, further insure easy riding qualities as well as fine road performance.

HAWAII LOSES DUCK SWAMPS

Brackish Pools Give Way To Bathing Points For The Elite

HONOLULU, April 28.—(AP)—Where Chinese ducks once swam, the elite of Hawaii now live, for progress in by-gone years constituted much is sweeping away the swamps which of the territory now embraced by Waikiki, whose sandy strip of beach is famous in song and fable.

The thousands who bathe here now find little to remind them of that time when Chinese quarrelled about one brackish pools of water and over the ducks they raised there.

Here's the Story:

The story is that one winter a severe storm arose with so much rain that the pools overflowed and ran together. The duck ponds became one and the flocks hopelessly mixed.

A riot almost resulted. The Chinese duck keepers, excited lest they lose their valuable birds engaged in shrill debates and blows were near. Then an aged Chinese stepped into the surging disputants and claimed attention.

"Let everyone keep peace until nightfall," he pleaded. "When it is dark, every duck will return to his home flock."

Just As He Says

It was as the Chinese peacemaker had claimed. When the sun went down each duck returned to its proper shed and was locked up, the owners happy.

Since that day property values have flown higher than ducks can wing and the fashionable pleasure seekers are for the most part unaware that Waikiki ever was the breeding and feeding ground of water fowl.

Theatre Green Rooms Where Once Best Wits Of The Stage Leaped Out, Pass On To Thin Oblivion

It Proves to be Relic of Old School Where the Stage Created a Culture and Refinement Unknown To Present Day Audiences

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—The Green Room, where once wits crackled, and mirth and melody rippled along in an endless stream, is lost to Broadway. In a few theatres, however, the old atmosphere still may be found exuding faintly—as if in memory of great artists of a bygone day.

Those who have followed the stage through the years attribute the passing of the quaint institution to changing conditions within the theatre which made continuance virtually impossible.

Under One Flag.

Back in the days when stock companies of Daly, the Frohman brothers, Palmer and others played many successive seasons in New York the players usually remained under one banner several years.

The Green Room were the actors awaited their cues and often assembled upon completion of the play at night, enriched its reputation as an institution of comradeship.

Many were schooled in correct deportment through its strict etiquette and an opportunity was opened to learn by observation and conversation most of the leading players, writers, wits and personages of the time.

But not so now. Stock companies have been relegated to history, so far as New York is concerned, though they are resembled somewhat by several players' guilds.

Different Personnel.

Each play has a different personnel. If a production has a lengthy run on Broadway, it no longer is unusual to witness frequent changes in personnel.

True also is the constant changing of a play from one theatre to another, even in instances of short runs. "Hamlet," as presented in modern clothes, for example, moved into four or five theatres before it finally gave up the ghost.

The Plymouth, directed by Athur Hopkins, has housed the Barrymores in most of their successes during the past six years and has witnessed the production of a long list of important plays. At present, the Florentine melodrama, "The Jest" is holding sway there.

Unification Up At M. E. Conference

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Further discussion of the question of unification will be one of the principal issues before the twentieth session of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church south, which begins here May 5.

The conference is the ruling body of the church and is composed of both clerical and lay leaders, many of whom expect a controversy over the proposed appointment of a new unification commission to deal with a similar body from the Northern church.

There is little possibility of any change in major policies in the church, leaders said, but the "fundamentalist" question again may come up.

Among the other major subjects to come before the conference is the election of two new bishops, reorganization of the general boards and the re-arrangement of church publications.

He Feeds Dread Serums of Disease

BERKELEY, Calif., April 28.—(AP)—Keeping alive diphtheria and tuberculosis germs is one of the tasks of Anthony Salle, graduate student who is seeking a doctor's degree at the University of California.

Bacteria must be had for experimental purposes and under Salle's care are approximately one hundred varieties.

No epicures are more exacting in their diet requirements than these wards of his—the invisible enemies of the human race. The hardier germs will thrive in medium of beef infusion and other ingredients with Japanese agar or gelatine added to make the solution solid. Among these are the staphylococcus, which causes boils, and the typhoid bacteria.

The pneumonia germ and the streptococcus, which causes sore throat, are fed agar and blood. More delicate germs must have an egg or beef serum.

Temperature is a vital consideration in "culture" of germs, for virtually all are killed at 60 degrees or less.

Rodeo Returns To Wichita Falls For 1926 Season

Several years ago when Tom L. Burnett was first starting out on his successful career as a producer of rodeos and high class western roundups, Wichita Falls played host to the army of cowboys, cowgirls and their assistants who flocked into the city for the big event.

As the rodeo became an established institution, however, and as it grew in size and popularity, the limited facilities offered by the baseball grounds where the show was at first staged necessitated a change. Accordingly, Mr. Burnett constructed a huge arena at the Triangle ranch, his home property a few miles west of Iowa Park, and there the rodeo has been given for a few years back.

Back Home Again

In 1926, though, the big event returns to Wichita Falls where the grandstand of the Texas-Oklahoma fair grounds provides ample and ideal seating accomodations for the thousands expected to flock in. Its nearer proximity to Wichita Falls, also, is expected to prove an inducement to the crowds who found the ranch a little too far out for an afternoon's drive.

At any rate, Wichita Falls this spring welcomes the rodeo to its midst again and is preparing for all the thrills and entertainment always on tap. Three days will be devoted to the show, Friday, April 30, Saturday, May 1 and Sunday, May 2.

To review all the attractions to be offered is needless. The fame of the rodeo, which this year is under the management of the Tom L. Burnett Production company, Inc., with Buck Lucas and Tommy Kirnan in charge, has spread too far to require detailed explanation of all it will offer. Suffice it to say, then, that the thrills will be more plentiful; the spills will be more spectacular; the entrants will be more numerous; the bronks will be more vicious; the steers more aggressive; the riding more dangerous and the whole thing more pretentious than it has ever been before.

No Expense Spared

Lucas and Kirnan have spared no trouble and expense to perfect a prize list appealing to cowboys and cowgirls from every section of the country. They'll all be back for the Burnett performance, which is the first big one to be held this year. Prize money offered here has always been a little more generous than that posted any place else. Accordingly Wichita Falls has always been privileged to see the best of the cowboy and cowgirl talent in action.

In addition to the strictly rodeo numbers, a high class carnival has been contracted for and will be on the grounds throughout the duration of the three day meeting. A cowboy and cowgirl dance will also be given in one of the fair ground hangers and there will be additional attractions.

A big street parade with all the stellar performers taking a part will be held Friday morning through the city as a sort of official invitation for Wichita Falls to come out and see what's going to happen a little later.

Where Skill and Daring Count

Bulldogging, one of the three major rodeo sports, is far and away the most dangerous and possibly the most spectacular of any of the numerous stunts the cowboys do. To leap from a flying pony, grab a hefty steer by the horns and twist him to the ground while he's going at full speed is no small task.

Frank Smith one of the greatest bulldoggers of the world, is shown above leaving his horse's back in preparation for a tussell with a steer.

BRITAIN BUYS AMERICAN SHIPS

Control of Mercantile Marine Seen In New Move

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—Negotiations for the sale of the White Star fleet of ocean liners to a British company were regarded in shipping to a great increase in the privately circles today as a possible forerunner owned American merchant marine.

A provisional agreement was reached in London yesterday for the sale of vessels totaling 500,000 tons, wholly or partly owned by the International Mercantile Marine and flying the British flag. The prospective purchasers were a British syndicate headed by Furness, Withy & Company, Ltd.

The British are said to have offered $70 a ton or $33,020,000 for the White Star fleet. The I. M. M. asked $36,460,000 and the matter was left for further negotiation.

In financial circles it was believed that the negotiations, conducted by Morgan, Grenfell & Company, the London branch of J. P. Morgan & Company, were a prelude to negotiations for the purchase by the I. M. M. of the Leviathan and other vessels owned by the UnitedSt ates and operated by the privately owned United States lines.

Among the liners affected by the deal are the Homeric, Majestic, Olympic, Adriatic, Arabic and Baltic. The I. M. M. owns these and 14 other large vessels outright. The Shaw, Savill and Albion company owns an interest in 13 of the smaller vessels.

BATHS FOR PRISONERS.

Chinese Wardens Instructed to Keep Their Jail Inmates Clean Now.

PEKING.—One of the immediate results of the presence in Peking of the international commission charged with inquiry into China's preparedness for abolition of extraterritoriality, was a new instruction by the minister of justice that prisoners in Chinese jails be afforded regular baths. They also must have their hair trimmed and keep their clothing clean. This order followed one that the jails must be renovated.

Under the new regulations the old system of putting heavy chains on the more desperate criminal was altered so that a single shackle was employed. Prisoners are given two meals a day.

Two-Bit Cigars Cal's Only Smoke

WASHINGTON. — (AP)— President Coolidge enjoys a good cigar. But unlike Vice President Dawes, he does not care for a pipe, and, differing from his predecessor in office, President Harding, he rarely, if ever, smokes cigarets.

Although there is a widespread impression that Mr. Coolidge is partial to cheap cigars—stogies, cheroots or the five-centers that former Vice President Marshall extolled, he really confines his smoking almost entirely to a rather expensive brand—a perfecto that retails for at least a quarter and has a wide sale in exclusive men's clubs.

The president smokes several cigars a day. He uses an ivory holder which at quick glance looks like a cigaret and has given rise to reports that at times he tries a cigaret for a change.

As for pipes—Mr. Coolidge has received a number of them as gifts, but he never uses them.

THE CITY WITH A CLEAN SKY-LINE

The Municipal Gas Company, working in "Partnership" with all Wichita Falls is, more or less, responsible for added average length of life in "our" city. We have pushed back the smoke screen to take the smoke and filth out of the air you breathe, a matter the average citizen has not pondered.

A human adult inhales 30 pounds of air per day —four times his intake of food and water combined. Clean air is as imperative as pure food and water.

The Municipal Gas Company renders gas service in industries, public buildings and homes to stop the smoke nuisance. It is doing its bit to end filth, dirt, ashes, pneumonia and smoke for "our" city. Truly, a "partner" worth while.

All-Feminine Film Is Under Production In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—(AP)—Marion Fairfax, in home life Mrs. Tully Marshall, is invading the last purely masculine stamping ground of the motion picture field—that of independent production.

The picture she is making will be an unalloyed feminine product, for she has written her own scenario from the novel and she will supervise every important phase of the work.

Male fiidom is waiting to see whether its last bastion is to fall before the attack.

Miss Fairfax is not a newcomer in the screen field. She has been recognized for a long time as one of the ablest scenarists in the game. She also has produced pictures under the banners of several of the big companies.

"Womn can produce pictures, good pictures, but they are prone to overlook the mass of business detail which men know is the key to commercial success," Miss Fairfax said. Then she added, "I am going to try to avoid that mistake."

Fleecy Collie Has First Call At White House

Rob Roy Is Coolidge's Best Companion In Playful Romps

WASHINGTON.—One of President Coolidge's closest companions is a dog—Rob Roy, the snow-white collie which has supplanted the Harding Laddie Boy as canine boss of the White House.

During the two years he has had the run of the executive mansion Rob Roy has worked himself into the affections of the president. Frequently when his master returns to his office after luncheon he trots along to take a snooze in front of the fireplace, a curl up in a leather chair at the president's elbow or look out of the window, yearning probably for a run around the yard or out into the street with dogs that don't have to observe White House etiquette.

Gets Excited.

Rob Roy gets excited when he spies any of the squirrels which scamper around the White House lawn. He frequently makes a dash for one, but gives up the chase at a sharp reprimand from the president.

For a while after returning from Swampscott last fall, Rob Roy was lonesome. His playmate, Paul Pry, the snappy airdale, had been turned over to the Marines for discipline. But another collie—also white but smaller—soon came from Wisconsin kennels where Roy Roy was born.

Despite the newcomer, given the name of Prudence Prim by Mrs. Coolidge Rob Roy seems to have first claim to the president's affections. Mrs. Coolidge appears fonder of Prudence.

Long Life Is Now Possible For Any One, They Claim

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—The secret of long life that four hundred years ago eluded Ponce de Leon today lies in every man's grasp, say authorities.

Five thousand centenarians now living in America could point out his mistake to Ponce de Leon, who died a broken old man because he would accept no substitutes for the fancied fountain of youth.

Better habits of life, they testify, and modern science, to say nothing of the stimulus of radio, provide an ample substitute for the revivifying waters.

The lengthening of the average life span, to which the four centuries since Ponce de Leon have added 37 years and the increase in the number of those who escape death up to the age of 100 indicate, say longevity experts, that man may again achieve the healthy old age of Moses, who "was 120 when he died; and his eye was not dim, nor was his force abated."

Recipes of 26 centenarians living in or near New York include:

Hard work and lots of it.

Always take things easy.

No smoking and drinking.

Three teaspoonfuls of whiskey each morning and night.

Working, fishing and minding own business.

Taking a lively interest in other people.

Not wearing shoes.

Cultivating a soothing piety.

While some experts stress heredity as the main factor in longevity, more individuals are being developed who will be the parents of centenarians of the future, says Dr. Haven Emerson of Columbia university.

"Thirty years ago I saw one person of a hundred years where I see three today," said Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman of the Prudential Life Insurance company. "Fifty years ago 25 was the prime of life for a man and 50 was old. Today 40 is the prime and there are numbers of virile men of 70 and 80; then women were old at 40. Today they marry at 30 and 40, and children are born at 50 and 60.

"The main reason is that people are leading more rational lives; a healthy leanness has replaced the old ideal of fat and 40. Hard work of an intermittent and congenital kind is appreciated as a secret of longevity."

"There is no reason why the conquest of the causes of death should not go on," said Dr. Eugene Lyman Fiske of the Life Extension Institute. "I don't know of any limit to the life span. There is no underlying, complete, necessary reason for death; death is always caused by poison, injury or the failing of substance necessary to life."

RAILROAD TIE MAY PASS

Railroad officials are putting their heads together to plan the death of the "old-fashioned" wooden railroad tie. Engineers5 drawings are being made to show that concrete is better. It is declared that heavier rails and traffic demand it, while a fixation of routes seems to favor the more permanent foundation.

Curley Seale An Expert of Ability

There's as much difference between horseback riding on a typical Texas ranch and horseback riding on a well-mapped Central park bridle path as there is in any old plug on a country road and in lolling back in the cushions on a limited train and watching the fence posts slip by.

And there's as much difference between Curley Seale and the easy grace with which she mounts and rides a pony and the awkward seat the average rider holds as there is in the pasture plug and the monarch of the rails.

Curley, hailing from Bair where she owns a large ranch of her own, is expected to be one of the outstanding features of the Burnett rodeo this week. She can handle a bucking brone, she can handle a rope, she knows all the tricks and trades of the typical rancher. In fact, she's an accomplished expert in every line of the rodeo game.

2,000 VETERANS RECEIVING AID

That Many Natives Paid For Services In World War

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Two thousand native veterans of Uncle Sam's dependencies or their beneficiaries are receiving from the Veteran's Bureau compensation due them for services in the World War.

There are in these possessions, 2,080 persons receiving either death or disability compensations and 651, either death of disability insurance.

The Philippines leads the list of dependencies with 517 disability and 387 death cases for which the injured or their dependents are now receiving with only four disability cases. Porto Rico has 330 disability and 323 death compensation. The Canal Zone is last cases being cared for; Hawaii seventy-three disability and thirty-five death cases, and Virgin Islands two disability and four death cases.

Porto Rico, with 205, has the highest number receiving insurance money. The Philippines are second with 185. Hawaii has eighty-four and Guam and Panama each have eight.

Ghosts Of Olden Wars Hover Over Texas Log Cabin

Old Fort at Burnett a Relic of Spirited Campaigns

BURNETT, Texas.—Ghosts of the most famous leaders of the Civil and Mexican wars hover around an old log house, all that is left of a one time important outpost of the United States army, Fort Croghan, on the edge of this town. Few Texans are aware that such a fort ever existed, yet some of the outstanding leaders of the Civil war on both sides including Robert E. Lee, E. Kirby, Smith, John B. Hood, James B. McLellan were once stationed here.

The log house still standing was the station hospital. The house was for a number of years the home of an old negro woman.

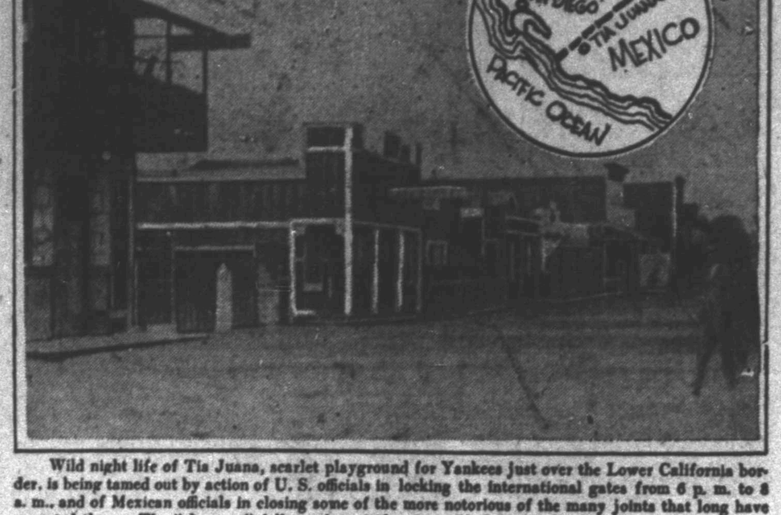

The fort was named in honor of Captain Croghan who distinguished himself in the Mexican war. Captain E. Kirby Smith was the first officer to command the fort, at that time consisting of numerous log houses. Later it was commanded by Captain Van Dorn, one of the heroes of the Confederacy. Shortly after Van Dorn relinquished command, General John B. Hood, commander of Hood's brigade during the war between the states, was commander of the post.

General James B. McLellan, one time supreme commander of the union forces along the Potomac, was stationed here as a young man, as was also General Chalmers, commander of the North Mississippi division of the Confederate army.

Residents of the town still point out to the tourist a tree on a nearby hill whereon is carved the name "Robert E. Lee." It is believed here that the Confederate commander in chief carved his name on the tree while stationed at Fort Croghan.

The "clean up" follows the suicide of two U. S. girls who were assaulted while on a sightseeing trip. New photo shows a block of Tia Juana's gambling houses.

SHIP WITHOUT COUNTRY

Oil Tanker, German Built During War, Flies Seven Seas Unattached

SAN PEDRO, Cal., April 28.—(AP)—A ship without a country plies in the oil service out of this port and proves a puzzle to harbors of the world.

It is the tanker Niobe, which carries gasoline from San Pedro to Hamburg, Germany. The Niobe was built in Germany during the war and afterward allotted to the United States. While the United States did not accept ownership of the vessel, the shipping board controls it and allotted the tanker to the Standard Oil company. An American crew is carried although the ship has no American papers.

For a flag, the Niobe carries that of the Inter-allied Maritime council.

The experiments also disclosed that students used a different setting of muscles in concentrating on each subject of their courses.

Station-to-Station Calls Cost Less

When you ask Long Distance to get a certain telephone number in a distant city and, when connected, you speak to any one at that number, you have made what is described as a Station-to-Station Call. That is, on a Station-to-Station call do not specify a particular person to be reached, but give only the number or the name or address under which that telephone is listed.

A Station-to-Station call costs less than a call for a particular person because less operating labor and less circuit time are required than if a particular person has to be located and brought to the telephone.

Charges can not be reversed on Station-to-Station calls.

MERCHANTS TO TALK FARMING

Store Owners of State Cast An Eye Upon Agriculture

SAN ANTONIO, April 28.—(AP)—"Diversify your farming" has been advice given to the farmer many a time and from various interests. Now it is to be one theme at the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Retail Merchants' association of Texas at Dallas, May 17, 18 and 19.

Just as upon the agriculturist rests the structure of present day civilization, so are the interests of the farmer and the merchant intertwined, and it is the intention of officials of the association, whose offices are here, to have the business men of their organization take more interest in what the farmer is thinking and doing.

So, Clarence Ousley, director of the Texas State Farming association, will address the May convention, telling the merchants how they can aid in getting the farmer to cut his cotton acreage. Adolf Grasso, secretary-treasurer of the merchants' organization, announced that a number of other speakers from outside the association would address the convention.

More than 1,000 retail merchants are expected to attend the sessions which will be at the Adolphus Hotel. Among these will be members of the Retail Secretaries' association of Texas, and an association of the 190 presidents of local merchants' clubs thoughout the state, both of which are closely affiliated with the Retail Merchants' association of Texas.

Women Ask For Offices In Iowa

DES MOINES, April 28.—(AP)—Undaunted by the fact that the Iowa state constitution must first be modified before they can hold office as state representative, two Iowa women have ventured into the primary election campaign. They have confidence that the voters will approve of change in the constitution in the November election which will make possible the seating of other women candidates who may be elected on the same date.

Two Iowa legislatures have adopted a resolution striking out the word "male" in the constitutional provision in regard to qualification of persons for legislative positions. This paved the way for approval by vote.

Women are not barred from any other state office, although candidates have filed only for secretary of state and state superintendent of public instruction—the latter now held by a woman.

Famous Table Brings Small Sum

NEW ORLEANS, April 28.—(AP)—It may have been in the rain dampening the ardor of buyers but at an auction of antiques here a Buhl table declared by the auctioneer to have been the property of Madame de Pompadour, went under the hammer for $90. The auctioneer added that the authenticity of the table had not been questioned since 1764.

The sun was out when the jewelry in the collection was offered and an English ring-watch, a tiny watch set in a man's gold ring, brought $166. An inscription on the faded cover of the box told how Preval, the watchmaker had made it "expressly for King George, the third."

HATS ON STRAIGHT.

Only the Prince of Wales and Lord Beatty Allowed to Tilt 'Em.

LONDON, April 28.—(AP)—The tilt of Lord Beatty's hat is the copyright of two persons only in England—the Prince of Wales and Lord Beatty himself.

Lieutenant-General Sir William Furse is advising the boys of the Church Lad's Brigade, who are to be inspected by the prince in June, to remember to put their hats on straight and keep them straight.

"There are only two officers in the whole of the empire," Sir William said "who are allowed to wear their uniform hats on one side of their heads. One is the great Admiral Lord Beatty and the other the Prince of Wales.

"From the little I know of the Prince of Wales, if he sees anybody mimicking him, he will not give them such a nice report as he might otherwise," the speaker addd.

TAXIS TO COST MORE

PARIS, April 28.—(AP)—Taxi-drivers known to tourists as one of the cheapest pleasures of Paris, will cost more for American visitors this summer.

Day rates, pending the installation of new meters on the cabs, have been increased by one franc and night rates will be double the present meter readings. Chauffeurs agitated for months to get the new scale of tariff arranged, using increased prices they had to pay for tires and gasoline as their principal argument.

As a compensation for the passenger, the police have received orders to prevent chauffeurs from bargaining or charging excessive fares late at night, which has been a scandalous abuse in Montmartre where cabarets and night clubs do not close until four and five o'clock in the morning.

TREASURED LETTER FOUND.

Writing of Alexander the Great to One of His General's Discovered.

LENINGRAD, April 28.—(AP)—Professor Denike and Professor Masalski have discovered in the library of the late Khan of Kiva a manuscript containing a translation from Greek into Arabic of a letter sent by the great Macedonian Prince, Alexander the Great, to one of his generals.

The letter gives a full inventory of the hero's treasury, consisting of a pile of gold bars on which are engraved treatises on medicine and morals. The government will make excavations on the spots mentioned in the letter.

ANCIENT RELICS FOUND.

Glacial Period Treasures Found in Forests in Germany.

FREIBURG, Baden, April 28.—(AP)—Relics of the glacial period, estimated to be from 25,000 to 30,000 years old, have been discovered by Professor Zeitz of Freiburg University, in several caves of the Black Forest.

The historical treasures comprise the ossified parts of skeletons of the fauna of the glacial period, such as the cave lion, glacial fox, horse of the steppes, and reindeer, as well as numerous hand implements made of flint.

An Old Favorite Here

Bea Kirnan is another of those interesting characters who are making the rodeo one of the premier attractions that it is. She has been a familiar figure all over the country wherever the cowboy and the cow- and their spirited mounts are in demand.

Her appearance at the Burnett rodeo this week will bring back a popular and well known favorite to Wichita Falls.

Trust the Small Boy to Know When A Rodeo Star Does His Stuff With The Grace and Ease of a Real One

These Youngsters Can't be Duped on Questions of Such Importance, and They'll be Right on Hand When the Next One Opens

From the east coast to the west coast; from the snow capped mountains of the north to the winter resorts of the south; men, women and children have always admired the cowboy who can mount the hurricane deck of a bucking bronc and fan the critter with his hat or perhaps roll a cigarette while he goes through a long series of leaps, bounds and waves in an effort to unseat the rider. It is a daring sport and one that never fails to thrill the spectator.

To the small boy every cowboy is a hero, and since the announcement of the Burnett rodeo to be staged here April 30, May 1 and 2, the small boy is all aglow with excitement. Various committees in charge of this annual event are working hard in preparing grounds and grandstand, but they are comparatively idle when it comes to preparations being made by the youngster who has already purloined the family clothes line, fashioned it into his own idea of a lariat and is working eagerly and unceasingly in an effort to be able to attract the attention of the cowboy when he comes for the contest.

The cowboy with his broad brimmed Stetson, his high topped fancy boots, his clanking spurs and his bright colored shirt and neck handkerchief is the hero of the kid with the family clothesline; he is the one who must be attracted by the proficiency of the art of handling a lariat, acquired in only a few weeks by this small boy, and if he will only do this, then there will be no regrets.

Trust the small boy to learn all the rules of the contest far in advance of his elders. He will be able to point out to any inquiring spectator, Mike Hastings, world's champion steer wrestler; he will be able to tell him just what stunts performed upon the back of a fast running horse that won for Tad Lucas the title of world's champion cowgirl trick rider; he will describe those stirring rides made upon the worst outlaw bucking horses of the western range by Bob Crosby, who won the Roosevelt trophy at Cheyenne Frontier Days, and the Pendleton, Oregon, Roundup last season; and he will be the first to tell when a rider pulls leather or a roper makes no time.

This small boy wasn't long getting together all these details, but when the first bucking horse is turned out of the specially constructed chutes or the first event on the list of twenty-four separate events and contest begins on the opening day he will be there with the goods and can tell far more than the committee can embody in the official printed program.

"Chair Part" Now Big Players' Aim

HOLLYWOOD, April 28.—(AP)—A "chair-part" is something for which every newcomer in the movies hopes. It means that the actor so distinguished is gaining recognition and with continued progress may become a star.

A "chair-part" is socalled because when the player arrives on the set he or she is given a portable chair. The name of the actor is inscribed upon the chair and no one else is allowed to occupy it.

Hundreds of person have worked before the camera many years without reaching a "chair-part." On the other hand, there are occasional "quick successes."

When Doris Hill arrived on the set to play the leading role opposite Syd Chaplin in "The Better Ole," now in production, she had never before appeared before the camera and had experienced only six months work as a dancer in theatre prologues.

Chaplin and his director arranged a ceremony for presenting her with the chair, which costs two dollars, but means so much in the ranking of players.

Nickelodeon Piano, Tinpanny As It Was, Opened Way For Music Of Real Value In The Movie Theatre

Movie Houses of Today With Their Pretentious Musical Accompaniments Make Heavy Demand On Men of Real Musical Capabilities

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—Little did the pianist, who many yeare ago pounded out tunes and near tunes to accompany "The Great Train Robbery" as it flickered across the crude screen of the nickelodeon, dream that he was opening a new era of love for music in America.

Since then the musical preference of the average movie goer has developed from the "Hearts and Flowers" level to an honest and thorough appreciation of Brahmas and Tschaikovsky.

So believes Nathanial W. Finston, who has figured in the growth of music in motion picture houses from its entrance and now is general music director of a chain of theatres including New York, Chicago, Boston, Kansas City, Atlanta and numerous other cities.

A Vision of Better Things.

Here and there, perhaps, there may have been a vision of better things to come when the drummer and violinist were enlisted to aid the lonely but hard working piano man. Then came the cornetist. The movie show with such an "orchestra" heralded the fact with no little advertisement. When the song-slide artist began warbling his notes great things were being accomplished.

Today, the movies are housed in palaces and elaborate programs of divertisement have as their basis large orchestras, with conductors, many of whom are famous. This rapid development has made the task of the musical director a difficult one.

"We often hear playing moving pictures successfully referred to as an art," Mr. Finston related. "But it might better be termed a science wherein the human element plays the most conspicuous part.

Building Programs.

"It is with this thought—public taste—in mind that we, whose business it is to build from week to week the musical programs for our pictures, work.

"The average moving picture audience today is not composed of Beethoven fans or jazz lovers. It would not be fair to call such an audience high brow or low brow, for the people who go to the movies are high and low, rich and poor, and when you provide music for them you must give the things they like as well as the things that strike a new musical thought or awaken a new musical desire.

Glands of Baboon Put In Brazilian

BUDAPEST, April 28.—(AP)—For the first time in local records the glands of a baboon, instead of chimpanzee have been used in a rejuvenation operation, in accordance with the technique developed by Dr. Serge Voronoff. Two operations, using the glands of baboons, have been performed here, one on a Brazilian patient and another on a 76-year-old inmate of an alms house.

After word of the operations had been spread 41 men over 70 years of age applied for rejuvenation.

Physicians said that one of the most remarkable things about the operations was that the baboons involved required two bottles of ether and 120 grams of chloroform before they could be anesthetized.

TO PERPETUATE THE HORSE

TOKYO.—Although automobiles are used throughout Japan, the Imperial household is determined that the stately and aristocratic horses and carriages must be preserved.

Consequently it will construct seventeen beautifully decorated carriages this year. Estimates have been invited from Japanese firms and the cost, it is expected will be about 30,00 yen.

The imperial carriages have been used since the great earthquake of 1923, when most of them were damaged by fire.

TAUNTON, Eng.—"I'm very happy," was Mrs. Sarah Broomfield's greeting to visitors on her 102nd birthday.

Lovely! not a Pimple

"OH, what a beautiful skin! Not a pimple—not a blemish. Perfectly rounded shoulders and a venus-like back! No wonder she's popular.

"If I could only get rid of these ugly pimples, my skin would be clear and soft and dimpling, like hers—maybe people would call me lovely, too."

You're right! The only thing that mars your beauty are those unsightly skin blemishes. Clear them away and watch eyes full of admiration turn in your direction, wherever you go. "But how can I get rid of them?" you ask. What will drive the wretched things away so they won't come back?

Why, that's just exactly what S. S. S. helps Nature do. It's been clearing away pimples, blackheads and blotches for a century. S. S. S. helps Nature build up the blood to where it's pure and healthy—then these ugly things dry right up. And that's the only way you can keep the skin clear and unblemished. S. S. S. puts the blood back to where it can fight the impurities that get in your system and kills them off before they break out through the skin. You can't stop skin eruptions from the outside. You've got to get down underneath where the trouble is—down in the blood.

Begin taking S. S. S. and watch how quickly you get that skin beauty that belongs to you. S. S. S. will charge your whole system so full of strength building, pure, healthy, red blood that you'll be simply brimful of new life and energy.

All drug stores sell S. S. S. Get the larger bottle, it's more economical.

MOCKING BIRD STATE'S CHOICE?

Natural Club of Houston Wants It Picked for All Of Texas

HOUSTON, April 28.—(AP)—The mocking bird, feathered fighter extraordinary, whose liquid notes have charmed all listeners is to be the state bird of Texas if the outdoor nature club of Houston has its way. To this end the club announces that it is enlisting the efforts of newspapers, luncheon clubs and school teachers in creation of a public sentiment.

It is admitted that the "mocker" is indigenous to all southern states, but it is claimed that he is found in much larger numbers in Texas than elsewhere. The mocking bird, says the club, typifies Texas democracy. His song rings out as entrancing in the "po white folks," honeysuckle vine as in the landscape garden of the millionary it declares and adds that he is much at home in the frosty region of Amarillo as in the palm laden and oleander scented air of Galveston and that the piney woods of East Texas delights in his dulcet notes at the same time his brother apparently is endeavoring to whistle "la golordrina" along the Mexican border.

It is emphasized also that Mr. Mocking bird is peculiarly fitted for a Texas state bird because he resembles the Texas genus homo in his bravery.

New Style to Be Used In Passport Cards of Nation

WASHINGTON, — (AP)— The state department has decided to stop issuing the old style engraved passports and within the next month or so will publish a neatly printed substitute of vest pocket dimensions.

Underlying the change of style are two chief factors, safety and economy.

Department officers expect the new form to give the government absolute protection from counterfeit products, a source of constant worry. Then too, they say, the government will save much of the expense that went with the production of the engraved parchment, and by using less expensive paper.

As a further step in the direction of economy, the new passport will be embossed and sealed in colors by machinery rather than by hand.

To insure safety from counterfeited passports, the department plans to change the form from time to time, to publish them on a specially prepared paper and to use a distinctive type, the first being printed with Tiffany type closely resembling engraving.

THE WORLD'S EGG BASKET
Holland Market Handles Thousands Of Tons of Hen Fruit Each Year

ROERMOND, Holland.—(AP)— A sight only second to the great Dutch cheese market at Alkmaar is the egg market of Roermond, claimed to be the largest in Europe.

Here, hen fruit is sold by the million. Last year 93,266,012 eggs, weighing 5,558 tons, were sold by auction under producers' cooperative rules, realizing a net profit of about $2,750,000. A record for one day's sale was established on April 25, when 3,450,883 eggs changed hands.

In the same year, 1,282,060 ducks' eggs, weighing more than 73 tons, were sold for more than $35,000.

One Of the Veterans to Be Here

Tommy Kirnan, one of the producers of the Burnett rodeo here this year, is recognized as one of the best cowboys in the country. He is an experienced veteran on the ranch, a man who knows every trick and every thrill of the game and one who is also able to stage a production of this kind so that it will be an entertainment of real value for the public.

Lucrezia Bori Finds It a Happy Dance To Use

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—The Charleston has invaded the ranks of Metropolitan opera stars, bringing happiness to its first devotee in the new circle.

Not only that, but it has been there many weeks, despite the fact that Carpenter's ballet, "Skyscrapers," was credited generally with having brought jazz within the sphere of the artists.

"The Charleston?" Lucrezia Bori repeated in surprise but with a smile when asked if she had not been taking lessons. "Oh, yes, I do the Charleston. Why? Because it's fascinating. It makes me happy when I get up in in the mornings.

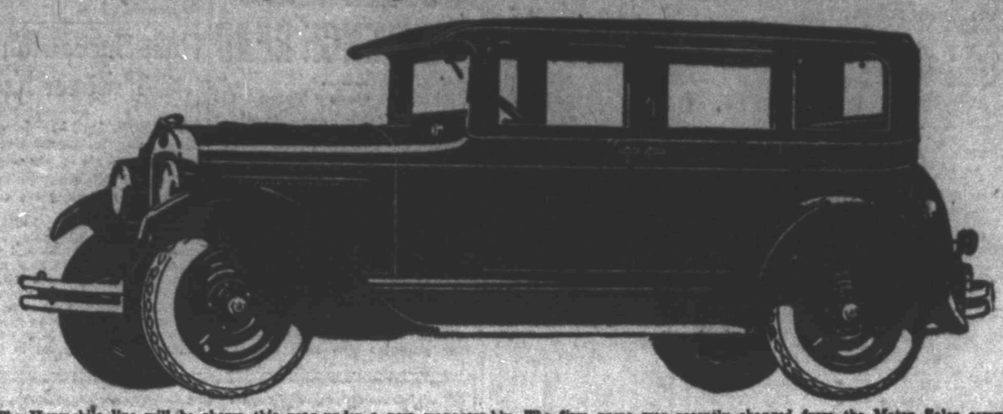

Must Bring Happiness

"The quick little movements can't help but bring happiness—and laughter. Then, too, the dance is wonderful exercise and helps keep me in good physical condition for my work."

Never before has the soprano danced and she ascribed the Charleston's conquest to fate.

"One afternoon I dropped in to see a friend," she explained. "She was going out to take a lesson in the Charleston and I went along. I became interested and though I though I never could dance, I tried a few steps. Before I knew what was happening I was taking a lesson."

Floods Of Oratory To Be Unloosed By Texas Political Candidates In Campaign Speeches Next Week

Belated Start Made by Governor and Attorney General Candidates, But Next 80 Days to See Some Strenuous Stump Speaking

AUSTIN, Texas, April 28.—The Texas political compaigns will get away to a belated start next week, with prospects that the governor's race and the attorney general's race will provide an immense battle of stump speeches for the remaining 80 days until the first primary, July 24.

Dan Moody will make his first campaign speech at Taylor, his home town, either Monday or Saturday of next week, according to members of his staff here. Mr. Moody and his bride are to continue their honeymoon trip through most of the present week.

Moody will not open at Abilene, as was reported several days ago, it was learned by his office here.

Ma Undecided.

Governor Ferguson has not yet decided when or where the first address in behalf of her candidacy will be made. Several towns are under consideration, invitations having been sent the Fergusons from many communities. It is probable the Fergusons will begin presenting the governor's second-term condidacy before the people about the same time Moody starts his stump drive. It is not unlikely they will both open the same day.

Lynch Davidson of Houston, who announced his platform in an address at Palestine a month ago, this week begins his campaign speaking, after making numerous non-political addresses during the past few weeks. He spoke at McKinney Monday Night. He will speak at Lancaster and Italy Friday.

Irwin Is First.

Several of the numerous aspirants for attorney general have already opened the flood-gates of campaign oratory. T. K. Irwin of Dallas was the first. J. V. Allred of Wichita Falls is opening in his home city. John W. Hornsby of Travis county has not yet made known when he will start.

The Tom Blanton—J. R. Smith race for Congress in the Abilene district promises to furnish verbal fireworks which will illuminate much of Texas outside the district. This district starts the Far West Texas and ends in Central Texas, with Burnett county part of the same district as Taylor county. The race of Judge James Hamilton of Austin against Congressman J. P. Buchanan of Brenham, who seeks re-election, is also promising to hold general interest.

The present race for governor, in starting less than three months from the time it will be over the first primary contrasts vividly with that of Pat M. Neff in 1920 who began a daily speaking tour in July, precisely one year from the day of the primary. Governor Neff insists it takes a full year to visit every section of the state.

DUNCAN, Okla., April 27.—Jack Russell, formerly of Wichita Falls, 21 years old, was sentenced to life in the state penitentiary Tuesday by M. W. Later in the day it was discovered that the man supposed to have been released was still in jail, and a search was instituted for White. The man who allowed White to use his name was fined $200 Monday morning on a charge of vagrancy in justice court before Justice of the Peace W. D. Hollars.

AGED SCRIBE SETS THE PACE

Fort Worth Markets Are Covered by 86-Year-Old Reporter

FORT WORTH, April 28.—(AP) The popular fancy of most newspaper reporters who are at three score and ten are still in harness has them dozing behind their desks or holding honorary or advisory positions. It does not apply to T. O. Walker, now in his 86th year, who regularly makes his market "run" for the Star-Telegram and Record Telegram.

"Uncle Timothy" Walker covers the stock yards and he keeps up and often ahead of the younger men. He writes three extensive interpretative articles a day on livestock movements. He scorns use of a cane or any assistance in his walking. He uses a double keyboard typewriter with speed.

For 20 years he published his own paper, the Bloomfield (Iowa) Democrat. Later he worked on daily papers at Des Moines and Burlington, Iowa, and also on newspapers at Marshalltown and Eldora. For 21 years he was reading clerk at Iowa state democratic conventions.

MEAT USAGE INCREASES

Year of 1925 Shows Calls for Such Food Greater Than Ever

CHICAGO.—The average consumption of meat in the United States was greater in 1925 than in any year since federal meat inspection was instituted in 1907, says the report of the National Livestock and Meat Board.

The use of pork declined from past years, probably due to higher prices incident to twenty per cent decrease in hog receipts at central markets, but veal, beef and mutton all increased.

The average person in the United States last year consumed 154.5 pounds of meat, the report shows. This was four pounds greater than the average consumption for the last eighteen years.

"HER MAN"

--By Beatrice Burton--

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA STARR has been engaged to RANDALL PHELPS for a year when he asks her to free him because he's fallen in love with her chum, FAY SHIRLEY. Heartbroken, Sylvia gives him up, to the huge satisfaction of her AUNT AGONY, the shrewd spinster who reared her. Aunt Agony says Ranny is a good-for-nothing, and will never be true to any woman. She encourages Sylvia to marry PETER WILK, a devoted bachelor.

Her low opinion of Ranny seems to drops Fay and marries Sylvia, after all, to Aunt Agony's disgust. Soon after they are settled down in the tiny flat that they call the Nest, Ranny begins to be restless and makes no secret of the fact that he's bored with married life. He gambles and drinks, and has a love affair or two. But he behaves himself for a time when Sylvia tells him she's going to have a baby.

Shortly after the birth of JUNIOR, he returns to his old haunts and his old habits. He gives Sylvia almost no money at all, and she has to give music lessons to keep the Nest going. He is very jealous of any man who looks at Sylvia, and won't even let her use her lovely voice to sing in public, despite the fact that Sylvia points out that public singing pays well. But she earns $3,000, writing a song that becomes popular, and puts it away toward the price of a house with a yard for the baby is frail and the family doctor says he needs to live out of doors.

Ranny's father is taken ill, and Ranny goes in at the head of the business—the real estate company of JAMISON PHELPS & SON, although his sister's husband THOMAS BOYLE, knows more about it than he does. He spends most of his time at the office, talking to ELSIE LEOPOLD, his newest crush.

The baby becomes very ill with flu and dies one afternoon while Ranny is playing billiards with his cronies and cannot be reached. Sylvia leaves the Nest, and refuses to go back to it or to see Ranny. Crushed by the baby's death, she has a nervous collapse at Aunt Agony's house. One night Ranny goes there, determined to see her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLVII

In her plain little room in Aunt Agony's house, Sylvia sat up against the pillows of her bed, having her supper.

"It's the first time she's eaten enough to keep a bird alive," Aunt Agony said to herself, as she watched her, while pretending to be deep in the columns of the evening paper.

Every now and then the flames in the grate would leap up and show Aunt Agony how very thin and white the girl's face was between the dark wings of hair, and how very frail the hand that held the bowl of milk toast.

It was more than a month now since Dr. Buzzard had put Sylvia to bed in that quiet room, away from everyone. And since then, she had lain, only half alive, in the big four-poster, hardly touching food, hardly ever speaking.

Sometimes Aunt Agony would bring her a book or a magazine and would tip-toe back 10 minutes later to find her lying back on her pillows with her eyes closed and slow, difficult tears rolling down her face from under the thick lashes—grieving for the little baby that had been hers for so short a time.

But today she had shown her first gleam of interest in the things that were going on outside the old-fashioned house where she lay. She had drawn a long sigh of relief when Aunt Agony had come in, and announced that at last the Nest was empty and all the furniture in storage.

"Thank goodness!" Sylvia had said. "Then I won't need to ever see the place again!"

She had disliked the Nest from the night when Ranny had come home late for the first dinner, and she had hated it from the time she put Junior's little bed into the tiny breakfast nook because there was no other place to put it. And she had fled from it in horror, after the baby's death.

She had been so unhappy in the tawdry little flat that she looked back at the time she had spent in it, much as a released prisoner might look back at the gray walls and barred windows of a penitentiary.

Aunt Agony rattled the pages of her paper and cleared her throat.

A question had been trembling on the tip of her tongue for a week now and suddenly she asked it:

"Do you expect to make a home for Ranny again? Are you going to live with him any more? Or are you through with him?"

In her heart of hearts, she hoped that Sylvia was through with him, and through with him for good.

She knew better than anyone knew, how unhappy Sylvia had been with Ranny during the three years of their life together. Sylvia hal told her very little, but Aunt Agony was nobody's fool. And she could put two and two together and make five, at least.

Sylvia laid her spoon and bowl on the table beside her bed and stared into the glowing grate for a long time before she answered.

"Well, I'll tell you, Aunt Agony," she said slowly, measuring each word, "the plain truth of the matter is that Ranny is through with me. He's been through with me for a long time, almost from the time I married him."

Her voice trembled, but she managed to control it, and went on:

"I would have given him his freedom long ago if it hadn't been for—if it hadn't been for the baby. At first, when he would have some love affair with some girl or other, he'd come back to me afterward and tell me he loved just me. And I always believed him. But lately, lately he didn't seem to care. Why, when the baby was sick he never even came to see how he was getting along. Think, his own little baby!"

Her mouth worked, and she put her face down into her thin hands and broke into that dreadful noiseless weeping that Aunt Agony had learned to dread.

Almost in a panic she jumped up and took Sylvia's dressing gown from the closet where it hung and wrapped it around the girl's thin, heaving shoulders.

"Now then, stop that this minute! You've cried long enough!" she said with a sharpness she was far from feeling. "Get out of that bed, and I'll make it up!"

She dragged her little rocker close to Sylvia's bed, and helped her into it. She had a sudden wild idea that if she made Sylvia move around—if she could get her out of this room where she had lived with her grief for a whole month—that might make her forget it.

"I'll get her to come downstairs for breakfast tomorrow, if I can," she was saying to herself, when the doorbell rang sharply in the hall below.

He Held Up His Right Hand

She looked at Sylvia. "If that's Fay do you want to see her?" she asked.

Fay had called every day for weeks, and Aunt Agony had an idea that it would do Sylvia lots of good to see Fay, who was always good company, even though Aunt Agony hated her.

But Sylvia shook her head. "No, I don't want to see anybody yet," she said, her voice still thick with her tears.

She sat with her face still buried in her hands, and listened to Aunt Agony go down the front stairs and open the hall door. Then came Ranny's voice, so low that she couldn't hear what he was saying.

She got up and braced herself with one thin hand on the back of her chair. It was weeks since she had walked across the room. But now she went as far as the hall and stood at the top of the stairs there.

Ranny's voice was pleading with Aunt Agony.

"Aw, go on up and ask her. Be a good sport, that's a girl," he was saying, and Sylvia could imagine the look of wrath that Aunt Agony was giving him as he called her a "girl." If there was one person in the world that Ranny could neither "kid" nor flatter, that person was Agony Starr.

"No!" she answered him now, in a voice that snapped. "No! She does not want to see you and I'm not going to let you see her!"

Then Ranny muttered something about "finding out for himself whether his own wife would see him or not, by Jove."

"No, I've said you can't go up, and you can't." Sylvia heard Aunt Agony answer him angrily.

She could imagine her aunt standing at the foot of the stairs, like a wild lioness in his pathway, daring him to try to pass her.

But he must have tried it. For there came a rush of feet on the carpeted steps, and Sylvia turned in panic and tottered back to her bedroom, clinging to the door for support.

No, no, she was not going to see him—she was sure that he really didn't want to see her. He didn't love her or want her. He was only sorry for her because she had lost the baby. That was it—he was sorry for her.

Well, she didn't want his pity or his sympathy. She had needed them both a month ago, during those awful days when she watched her baby slip slowly but surely away from her into the UNKNOWN COUNTRY that lies somewhere beyond death.

And she had needed him, then. But he had not been there, and now she didn't want to ever see him. She wanted to be left alone to forget him, and all the unhappiness of her life with him, if she could, if she could.

She began to close the door, but before she could, Ranny was there beside her. He stood on the threshold, looking at her with the old look of hungry longing that she knew so well. And she looked back at him with her tear-swollen eyes.

And suddenly all the bitterness and resentment that had been in her heart went out of it. This was her Ranny who stood here—Her Ranny! Her Man! And the father of the little baby who had died.

He belonged to her—and she to him, after all. Nothing could keep them apart. No matter what they did, there would always come a time when he would come to her like this, and she would be waiting.

She knew now that she had been waiting for a month for Ranny to come to her, and stand looking at her, as he was looking at her now.

"Sylvy," he said huskily, and, somehow, in that single word was everything that she wanted to hear.

She made a little answering sound that was half a note of joy and half a moan, and took an unsteady step toward him.

And then, all at once, his arms were around her, and her wet face was hidden against the velveteen of his old lounging robe. He hadn't even stopped to change it that night at his mother's house, when this irresistable wave of longing for Sylvia had swept over him and brought him here to her.

She leaned back in his arms, and looked at him as if she couldn't really believe that it was Ranny who held her—her hands touched his face as if she wanted to make sure that he really was here.

Then she drew him close to her, more as a woman holds her child than as a woman embraces her lover. Never had she loved Ranny so much as she loved him now, at this moment in this moment that gave him back to her.

"You know I can't do without you," he was saying now, and his voice trembled, "why wouldn't you let me see you?"

She told him why. "I didn't think you really wanted to see me," she said, without any bitterness at all, "I thought—I've really thought for a long time that you were crazy about Elsie Leopold."

He put one of his hands across her mouth, and held up the other one—his right one. "I solemnly swear that I never give her a thought, any more," he said so seriously that she couldn't do anything but believe him.

"Is that why you wouldn't go back and live with me in the ..est?" he asked, after a pause.

But she shook her head, and in his arms, she began to cry again. He knew then what she was crying for—and why she had refused to go back to the Nest after the baby had died. It was because the baby was no longer there.

"But I have you still—I have you!" Aunt Agony heard her sob, as she stood outside the door, listening breathlessly, with her ear against the crack, "My Ranny. My Ranny!"

"Her Ranny, indeed," Aunt Agony said to herself with a silent sniff. "And a pretty rotten reed to tie to he is—Her Ranny, her booby is more like it."

The next morning she and Sylvia had a long talk.

Ranny had made Sylvia promise to stay with him at Mother Phelps' house while they looked around for a new home of their own. And she and Aunt Agony were packing her clothes into two suitcases that lay open on the bed.

"All right, you go back and live with him if you want to," her aunt said, as she picked up Sylvia's toilet things from the old dresser, "but don't come whinning to me the next time you leave him, because I won't take you in, again—I don't want to come between any man and his wife, but Ranny—"

Sylvia had stopped listening to her. An automobile had stopped in the street, and she ran to the window.

It was Ranny, come for her, and a look of such welcome and happiness flashed across her face, as she waved at him, that Aunt Agony never finished her sentence.

What was the use? When a woman was fool enough to love a man the way her niece loved Ranny Phelps, the best thing everybody could do was to do nothing, and say nothing.

So Aunt Agony, said nothing more. But she gave Ranny a look he never forgot when he came up the stairs for Sylvia's bags.

"Now, remember, no more nonsense young fellow," she snapped at him. "If there is, I'll take things in hand myself, this time, as sure as the Lord made little green apples!"

But Sylvia was sure that everything was going to be smooth sailing from now on.

She was sure that Ranny had learned his lesson. He said so.

He said that he had found out, during those weeks when she had hidden herself away from him, that no other woman in the world meant anything to him—He was through with the Puss Marches, and the Elsie Leopolds. He belonged to his wife, from now on. So he said.

And Sylvia felt that the Taube car that bore them away from the Bleak street house, was carrying them into a new life of happiness and understanding. She bent her head, and kissed the back of Ranny's driving glove with adoring lips.

TO BE CONTINUED

Germany To Follow Its Peaceful Course Premier Announces

BERLIN, April 28—(AP)—The German government is determined to follow the path of peace, thereby aiding Germany's economic recovery, Chancellor Luther today told German industrial and commercial representatives in a speech on economic conditions.

The chancellor said that Germany's political and economic position has been improved vastly, but that the country is still far from recovery from the effects of the World War. He said that whereas Germany possessed one-eighth of the world's trade in 1913, export trade in 1925 was only two-fifths of that in the year before the beginning of the war.

The government's most important task in order to bring about economic recovery, he said, is to create general and political peace. He declared that Germany's desires regarding conditions in the occupied regions are as yet unfilled and that real peace is only possible when the second and third Rhineland zones are evacuated.

J. H. WARE DIES.

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—J. H. Ware, aged 66, former member of the New York stock exchange and partner of Ware and company, grain dealers, died today. He had been ill for three months.

Late Jesse Smith Before Senate In Justice Inquiry

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP) The name of the late Jess Smith, friend of former Attorney General Daugherty, was brought into another senate inquiry today—this one involving the administration of justice in Mobile, Ala.

Harry Smith, a lawyer, told the senate judiciary committee of a conservation that had taken place between District Attorney Boyles and Frank Boykin, now under conviction on a conspiracy charge in which Boykin said the Republican national committee owed Secretary Mellon $2,000,000 and that Jess Smith was charged with collecting the amount from district attorneys who in turn would get it from bootleggers.

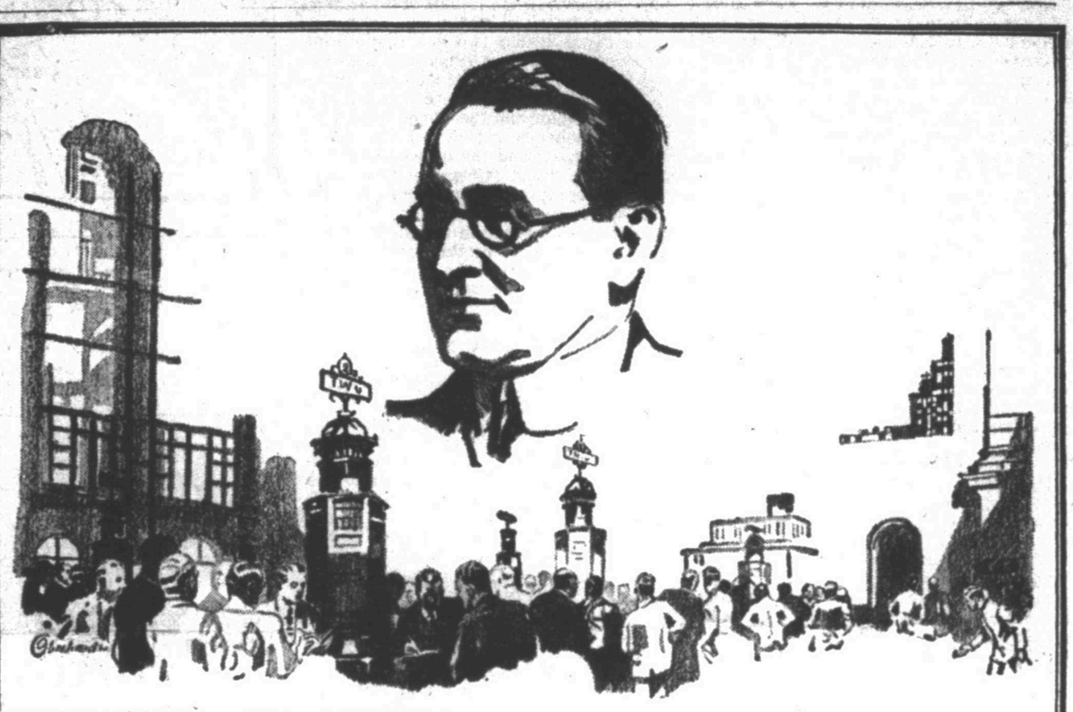

Boyles' nomination for another term is being fought by a group of the Alabama Bar association. He defended his administration today and exhibited letters of commendation from Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement.

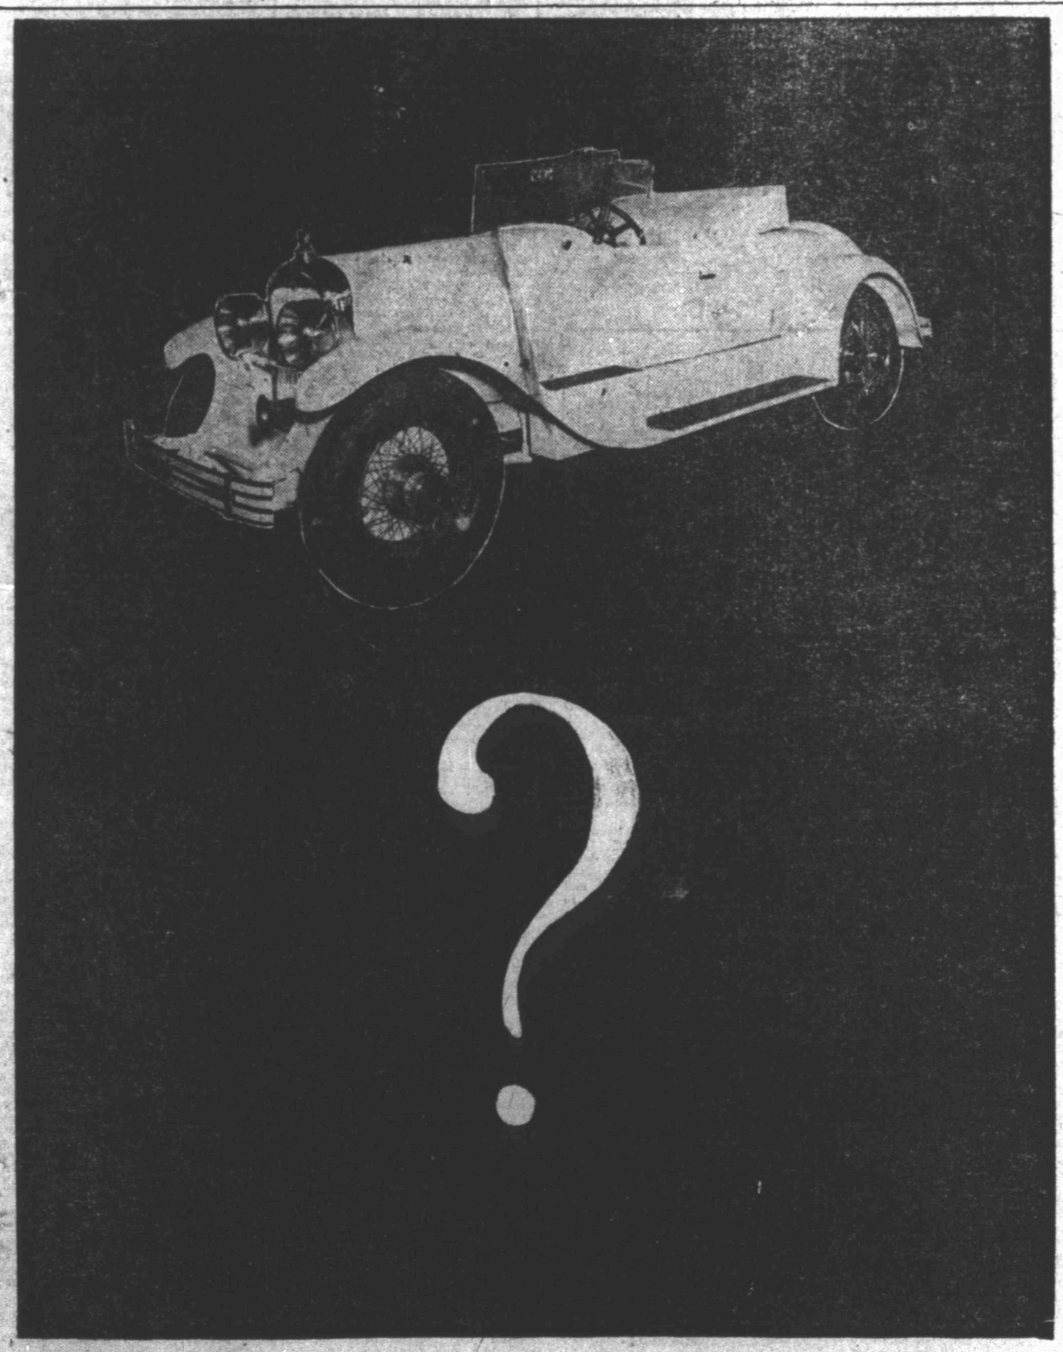

Much of the testimony related to Harry French, who previous witnesses had testified, collected $18,000 in six months from bootleggers who labored under the mistaken assumption that French would protect them. Boyles defended French's activities.

ORTHOPEDISTS ELECT

ATLANTA, Ga., April 28—(AP)—Dr. James Watkins of San Francisco became president of the American Orthopedic association with the close of the convention here today. He was elected president at the 1925 convention.

The next meeting of the association will be held next June on the Pacific cost at a place to be designated later.

An investment in good appearance yields handsome dividends

... says noted financial expert

I KNOW many business leaders who, like John H. Patterson, creator of the National Cash Register Company, would not engage a man for a responsible position unless his personal appearance was pleasing and appealing.

Men are judged, first of all, by their appearance.

To take time and thought and care to insure a good appearance is, obviously, almost as important as to acquire a good bank account.

Indeed, the right looks make for the right kind of a bank account.

I know more about investments in securities than about clothes, but there is no better investment for the ambitious man than an investment in clothes which will enhance his personality.

If you want to "get there", first get your clothing right.

This will pay handsome dividends.

The House of Kuppenheimer have been selling an investment in good appearance for fifty years, and have consistently paid handsome returns. A Kuppenheimer purchase is "gilt-edged."

Kuppenheimer Good Clothes

Berry Wall inspired the Baldwin

They called Berry Wall the world's best dressed man. Royalty and Society so anointed him. But his secret was this: He was always extremely modish without being immoderately extreme.

The Baldwin expresses this style ideal. It is what the French call "recherche" . . . but refined. Ultra, yet repressed. Blithesome, but not brazen.

For men of all girths, it magically imparts a full-chested, trim-waisted, athletic shoulder "on-som." See the Baldwin in the new Kuppenheimer Ambertone Browns.

PLANNING AN EMPIRE

"PREMIER MUSSOLINI mounted on a spirited Arab charger and arrayed in dazzling uniform, arrived in this chief city of colonial Italy Sunday to be received much as were the conquerers from ancient Rome." This the foreword of an Associated Press story announcing the arrival of the Italian dictator in the city of Tripoli. Mussolini wore a full dress uniform, whose gold lace and brilliant decorations made him the colorful center of a triumphant picture. No ancient Caesar ever received a more gorgeous welcome, and the acres of people who welcomed the dictator to colonial Italy, presented him with an illuminated address, a golden scimater and a gold embroidered belt.

All the colonial troops, including the native mercenaries marched past the standard or throne where the dictator was seated. Then the dictator addressed the people while he sat on his horse in the center of the colorful square. According to the story, there was not a sound from the thousands grouped all about him as his words rang out. A touch of the desert was given the spectacle by the presence of native troops who wore flowing white robes as they sat on their mounts and listened to the Italian premier.

In his address to the native people, this war god of Italy, this demigod of the mob, said, "It is an affirmation of the power of the Italian people. Destiny pushed Italy to the shores of Africa. Nothing will ever impede this will of destiny and the indomitable will of Italy." Mussolini today is the most imposing, the most spectacular and the most menacing figure on the stage of European action. He has a nation behind him. His people are ready to fight and die for him.

An assassin may remove him, the hand of fate may cut him down, but if he lives and reigns for a few short years, his sword may carve out an empire under African skies and his warriors may create a new Roman empire where the Caesars of old ruled an imperial city on the seven hills and its emperors and its fighting legions made the world tremble. And this too in the 20th century of a so-called Christian civilization.

WOMEN MAKE KNOWN THEIR WISHES

RIGID enforcement of the dry laws and opposition to their modification were the keynotes sounded at the opening sessions in the city of Washington of the woman's national committee for law enforcement. Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Mass. presided and talked. Incidentally she remarked that it takes a great many hip flasks to make a saloon. It does. One popular saloon in the socalled good old days, could supply a hundred thousand hip flasks without exhausting its stock on hand.

Of course, the women messaged President Coolidge, and his reply was, "this earnest manifestation of interest in enforcement of law is gratifying. Such interest on the part of those citizens not officially connected with the execution of the law, is heartening to those charged with that responsibility."

Cautious Cal knows how to choose the words of a message. He is for law enforcement without ever mentioning moisture or the demand for modification on the part of the moist element of society. This man called Cautious Cal always knows what to say and when to say it. He never slobbers. Slobbering is a great national vice. It has wrecked the fortunes of more men than John Barleycorn ever slew. Incessant gabbing is a wrecker of hopes and ambitions.

DISTINCTION

A bricklayer gets $14 a day. An egg layer also earns a lot of money, but she doesn't get it.

GATHERING THEM IN

AND now the Christian Herald giving its annual church census figures for the year, says, first repairing all losses by death and expulsion and withdrawal and other causes, the church gains show an increase of more than 800,000, the largest for several years. Speaking of the row between the fundamentalists and the modernists, the Christian Herald says, 'the excitement is plainly subsiding and the controversy leaves the churches but little disturbed." And yet, the critic will ask, "what has become of the burning fire and brimstone hell of our fathers?"

RING DOWN THE CURTAIN

NOW the curtain has fallen on the senate investigation of the workings or prohibition in the United States. Testimony has been piled up mountain high by the wet sand drys. What has been accomplished? Time will tell.

Prohibition may be an issue in the national campaign in 1928. It is an issue this year in the states of New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois. In New York the legislature has ordered a popular referendum. Twenty-five republican lawmakers broke away from their party and voted with the democratic lawmakers for a referendum. This may test public sentiment in the richest and the most populus American states.

In Pennsylvania two dry republicans are contending for a senatorial nomination against one wet republican. In Illinois the republicans have nominated a dry for senator and the democrats a wet. The republicans repudiated the world court proposal and the democrats threw it into the ditch. Governor Len Small backed the republican winner in Illinois, and Governor Small with an unsavory record and an order in his pocket from the supreme court of this state, to disgorge interest money he received while serving as state treasurer is preparing for another vindication race.

Some day Small will be dumped and the people of Illinois will be out the million dollars that the supreme court has decreed he passed from the treasury into his pockets by means that were illigitimate and methods that were crooked. In Texas the people have constitutional prohibition. They have the Dean law. Regardless of what should happen to the Volstead act, it would not make any difference in this empire of the southwest, for the Dean law would remain and the constitution of the state would continue to declare prohibition of the manufacture, the importation, or the sale of beverages which are intoxicating.

This for the politicians in moist districts who would keep it before the people as an issue. Texas is a bone dry state as far as constitutional law and statutory enactment can make it so. It would take years of agitation to make a dent in the constitution in violation of the traffic.

CLOSE TO THE MARKET

Mexico will do well with her divorce law if she establishes a branch office at Tia Juana to catch the Hollywood trade.

MUSCLE SHOALS

MUSCLE SHOALS is to be leased to a private corporation. Henry Ford was ambitious to take over Muscle Shoals and a vast majority of American people sympathized with Henry Ford. They knew that he was one of the industrial kings of the world. They knew that he had a billion dollars behind him. They knew that he had one of the largest plants in the world and an army of experts and technicians on his payroll.

Henry Ford lost. Vast interests were arrayed against him. Now it is said a majority of the joint congressional committee favor the leasing of the Shoals to the Associated Southern Power company. The associated companies propose to distribute all power not needed for fertilizer manufacturer while the Cynamid company would need additional power for manufacture of other chemicals and material and would distribute the remainder.

Senator Hoflin of Alabama, is bucking the bid of the Cynamid company, while the Associated Power companies have the backing of Senator Sackett of Kentucky, a republican congressman from Pennsylvania and a democratic congressman from Mississippi. That is, three members of the sub-committee favor the Associated Power companies. Hoflin favors the Cynamid company while Representative James of Michigan would reject all the bids. James is a republican and comes from Henry Ford's state.

Henry Ford is the industrial king of America, but there are other industrial kings. These kings are in the electrical world and behind them are huge financial interests. Henry Ford is a magician in his own field of endeavor, but the politicians in and out of congress saw to it that the Musle Shoals project, which cost the American people $150,000,000, passed into other hands. That is where the Shoals plant is going.

This is the power of age. This is the electrical age. This is an age when it takes billions to move and there are billions behind the great light and power companies of the western world.

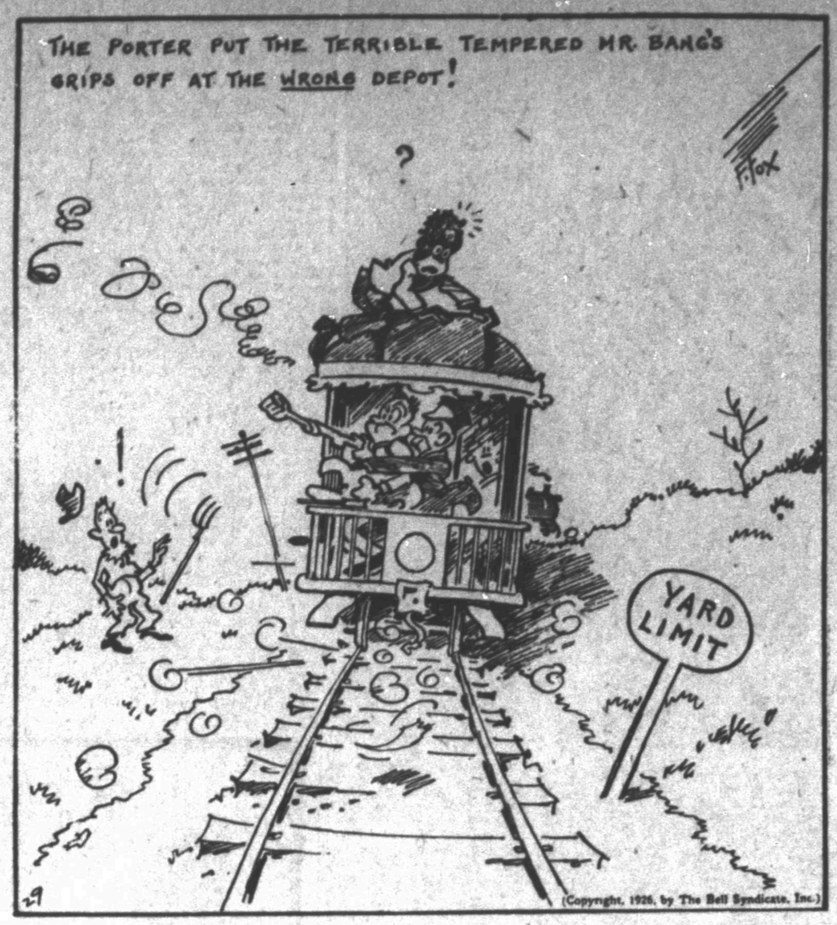

OF COURSE

It is reasonable to suppose that the motor school just established will be attended by roads scholars.

DEBATABLE POINT

Beer may be healthy as a beverage but what Congress wants to know is whether it is yet healthy as an issue.

The Terrible Tempered Mr. Bang

DOROTHY DIX

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

Dear Miss Dix—I am a married man with three children, and the best looking little wife you ever saw, but she has gone crooked. She admits it, and says that she loves this other man. I worship her and have done my best for her, forgiven her, bought her clothes, I could not afford, but she just can't keep straight. This is running me mad. What shall I do Kill her and the man? Get a divorce, or what.

COWARD.

Answer: Get a divorce. The children's welfare demands that they be removed from under the corrupting influence of such a mother.

An immoral father is bad enough, heaven knows, but he is not the curse to his children that an immoral mother is to hers, because the children are not brought so directly under the father's influence as they are under the mother's. A good mother may nullify the influence of a bad father, but no father can atone to his children for having a bad mother.

Also a man's immoralities are not often staged under his children's eyes, while a loose-living woman is an ill bird that fouls her own nest. Likewise, it reflects far more on children for them to have a bad mother than to have a bad father. So for these, and many other reasons, children should be taken from the custody of a mother who will teach them low ideals of conduct and who will almost certainly lead her daughters to follow her example.

It is perhaps because women of this kind, who have an attraction for other men, have a double attraction for their husbands, that they are so often loved far above their worth and much more than better women.

And it is this baffled love and jealousy, as well as the insult to his honor, that make many a betrayed husband slay those who have wrecked his home. But for all desperate remedies for a desperate situation, this is the most senseless. It brings back to the man none of the happiness of which he has been robbed, but it brings utter ruin down on himself and his children.

The hands that have been stained with blood can never be washed clean again. It wrecks a man in mind, in body and purse to go through the awful ordeal of a murder trial, even when sentiment and pity acquit him on what we call "the unwritten law." And that is a high price to pay for revenge.

Believe me, poor, unhappy husband, a worthless woman is not worth the sacrifice of the remainder of your life and your children's future. Let her go. A good riddance of bad rubbish. Have done with her. Put her and her lover out of your mind, out of your soul, and build your life again along other lines. The real reason for divorce, is to save just such men as you from committing murder.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am engaged to a widower whom I love very much, and who loves me. But the other night he had a bad dream about his former wife, and he feels as though it were some sort of warning, and as if she would always come between us. Do you think so?

PUZZLED.

Answer: Fiddlesticks! I should think that your widower is trying to break off the engagement on a very flimsy pretext, and that his dream was far more likely to be inspired by what he ate for dinner than by any interference from the spirit world.

There is nothing more ridiculous than the idea that we carry the little personal jealousies of this life beyond the grave. Certainly it could add nothing to the bliss of an angel in Heaven t okeep the husband that she had left on earth lonely and uncared for, loveless and homeless. And if by chance the lady's present address is not Heaven to keep the husband that she she is far too much occupied in trying to keep cool to bother about whether her late husband is taking to himself another wife or not.

LAME DUCKS

BY JOSEPHINE D'ASKAM BACON

I saw the occulist this morning, and he said to take the glasses off wherever there wasn't any glare. So here I am! What a stunning dress—you look about twenty-five, today!"

"I am twenty-five today!" she answered, blushing a little under his frank admiration. "And Sue sent me this for a birthday present. It is nice, isn't it? Speaking of age, though, you don't look so very aged yourself, you know!"

The little French boy took his ball and with a polite, "Bonjour, madame! Bonjour, monsieur!" wandered discreetly away.

"Oh, I'm not quite ready for an old man's home," he said gravely. "I was thirty-two the day—the day I met you."

"But—but that was only day before yesterday!" she began, amazed, and he smiled.

"Yes. It seems longer, doesn't it?" he said.

"I—I hoped you might come," she began again hurriedly. "Madame gave me two tickets for 'Aida' this afternoon, and I thought you might—it's really going to be very interesting, I think. There'll be 'an Italian Aida—Music. It's quite a gala, and the seats are fine, way down in the orchestra."

"I'd love to," he answered, "and you must lunch with me, won't you—at Prunier's, being its your birthday! We'll have champagne!"

"I'd love to," she repeated, adding doubtfully: "But ought we? I mean—Prunier is so awfully expensive."

"Oh, expense!" he cried scornfully. "I'm rich, woman! I'm a Rockefeller! What do you think—I've sold a poster!"

"No!" she wondered. "Where? How?"

"I woke up at six," he said, "and I just felt like it, somehow, and I went at that Breton thing I drew on the tablecloth, yesterday—you remember? I had it half done by ten, nearly, and suddenly I thought how jolly it would be for a soup ad. You know they have such stupid things, sometimes. I phoned Bartier to come over and see it—he was on that trip of Jim's and his father is French manager of the Gallo-American Soup company, you know. Barty was crazy about it, and took it right off in a taxi to his father, and the old gentleman offered me a thousand francs for it, finished, and paid me on the nail! Barty says I can get a contract for a series, if I want. What do you know about that?"

"Fine!" she said eagerly. "Fine!" I do congratulate you, Mr. Cromer! And what do you think I've done? I've earned some money, too—I've given my first lesson!"

"No! You haven't! Honestly?"

"Honestly," she assured him. "I went over to see madame—I thought it was the only decent thing to do, she's been so kind—and if I ever intend to begin, I must, you see, while they remember me and are interested. She gave me the tickets, and mentioned the coaching if I ever wanted to, and I apologized for the way I'd acted and said I'd be glad to, whenever she had anything. She was rushed to death, and handed me a girl from Milwaukee—very talented. So I worked an hour with her. A hundred francs. I'm to have her twice a week. It's not much, of course—"

But now let's hurry for our luncheon—the opera begins awfully early you know, here."

He went sensibly home, a thrilling afternoon ended, and rested his tired eyes in a long, dark sleep.

"But it was worth it!" he muttered. "How plucky she was to stick it out—you could see the music hurt her. Lord, what she must have gone through, that girl!"

It seemed after this that they moved alone, in Paris. The others were shadows; didn't count, hadn't that terrible, black brink behind them, over which they had so nearly slipped. When they sat, cheerful and friendly, in the little park on sunny afternoons (for both had been ordered a half-day in the open air; he for eyestrain, she for the anemia produced by shock and persistent underfeeding), they actually forgot, for whiles, the cruel strings to which their bright balloons of sympathy and comradeship were attached. But on gray, damp days, when the museums to which he led her meant fatigue to her and a constant, cutting memory to him, the strings tugged cruelly and the poor little balloons wavered, and fell, sometimes, into the old dull pit of misery, and the maimed and hopeless future rose like a clammy mist, over and between them.

After a black week, when she had set herself, with a certain amount of success, to diverting him from the demon that clawed him, he admitted that his one resource—after her—had for the moment gone. The soup-posters, though successful, bored him; other ideas pushed into his mind.

"No!" she cried, wincing. "You don't mean that? Is that—is that really wise, do you think?"

"I don't know if it's wise," he answered obstinately, "but I seem to want to get it out of my system! I'd like to do a girl on skis, with—with the other things just indicated, you know, and a little tiny village in the valley. Everything black and white, but just the girl. If I could get a model, now—"

"Would you like me to pose for you?" she asked quietly. "Where is your studio, exactly?"

"You're wonderful!" he said. "I'll—I'll never forget this, my dear—never. Can you come—I mean, ought I to have anybody there?" he added doubtfully.

"Oh, Lord," she cried irritably, "what rot! What difference do we make to anybody? You're not a Frenchman!"

"No," he agreed. "I'm not. That's true. Will you come tomorrow? In the morning?"

"It will have to be the afternoon, tomorrow—I have my pupil. She wants me to take a friend of hers, privately. The trouble is, she's nothing to do with the Conservatoire, and I haven't any piano. I've got to see how much it will cost to rent one, and if it's going to be worth it—for one, you know."

"I see. Well, it will be worth it, soon, for you're bound to get more," he said soberly. "Come at two, then, will you?"

She came in a taxi, with skis and poles, and when she threw off her long, light coat, he laughed with delight and stared at her. In a flame red jersey, rough white breeches, red stockings, and a red cap pulled over her ears, she looked like an Italian boy. She had rouged her cheeks, and above them her eyes glowed larger and darker. She appeared to be barely over twenty.

"For heaven's sake! You ought to have your chaperon with you!" he cried. "Here, don't put them on—throw them over your shoulder and step out!"

"If I'd known I was going to pose to a first year art student, I'd have brought my chaperon!" she answered, smiling at him.

In his dull blue smock and collarless as Byron, he was amazingly boyish; he might have been the son of the worn-cheeked man in the black glasses she had meet a month ago.

WANDERLUST

You'll go a lot of miles, you'll see a lot of towns,
You'll have your tears, you'll have your smiles, you'll have your ups and downs;
You'll meet a lot of folks, and make a lot of friends,
But now and then there's something chokes, there's something never ends—
And that's the thought of home, some such place as this:
It doesn't matter where you roam, just that is what you'll miss!

You'll go a lot of ways that have a lot of flow'rs,
And yet there always will be days you think of happy hours;
You'll meet a lot of men, fine folks you've never known,
But many a night you'll long again to visit your own:
You'll see at lot of gold, you'll win a bit at least,
And find the greatest wealth you hold is memories of the past.

You'll go a lot of miles, a lot of seas you'll plow,
And have your friends and friendly smiles, but none as dear as now.
You'll pass a palace gate, you'll see a castle door,
Yet through it all your feet will wait for one forevermore.
And so it seems to me, whatever may befall,
Since that's the way it's going to be, why go away at all?

What Do You Know About It?

Daily Science Six.

1. Through what countries does the equator pass?
2. Where is perpetual snow found on the equator?
3. What is the length of the equator?
4. Through what oceans does the equator pass?
5. What is the degree of latitude at the equator?
6. In what part of the earth do we find 0 degree latitude, 6 degrees longitude?

Answers to these questions in tomorrow's Record News.

Three Equators.

We generally think of the equator as an imaginary circle around the earth, the belt around its middle, which is equally distant at all points from the two poles. This is the territorial or earthly equator, but it is, strangely enough, not the only one. There is another, the magnetic equator, which is a line where the magnetic force of the earth is zero. This is roughly coincident with the terrestrial equator. More remarkable still is the celestial equator, which is not always in the same place. It is the great circle in which the plane of the terrestrial equator intersects the celestial sphere. As the earth is constantly tipping on its axis the celestial equator is obviously shifting about during the twelve months. Theoretically as soon as you had located the celestial equator you would immediately have made a mistake, for by that time the celestial sphere would have moved to another point. Practically of course the position of the celestial equator can be roughly determined.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. Attar of roses is a perfume distilled from rose petals.
2. Musk is obtained from the musk deer.
3. Lavendar is obtained from the flowers of a shrub of the mint family.
4. Some common ill-smelling flowers are skunk-cabbage, chestnut, magnoliananion, in Florida, Sterculia foetida.
5. Common trees with sweet-smelling bark are spice-bush, bay, and birch.
6. Cabinet woods having sweet aromas are sandalwood, rosewood, logwood, cedar and adrella.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE
TAURUS

Today's planetary aspects are quite adverse, and counsel rigid abstention from anything and everything that savors of the untried. Not only will there be felt a lack of responsiveness and energy, but influences of a decidedly unfavorable nature will tend to render you unfit for that concentration of purpose which is always necessary for the successful carrying out of any ambitious program. In the evening, conditions show a marked improvement and while the activities may not be benefited, the emotions will be of the best, and it should prove to be an excellent opportunity for those who are in love with each other to acknowledge it, without reserve, to each other.

Children born today are destined, according to the signs, to have, from a physical viewpoint, uneventful infancies. In their 'teens, however, they will be exposed to the dangers of a serious illness. The ease with which they will recover will depend very largely on the character and regularity of the nutrition that they received in their earlier years. Their dispositions will be rather morose and, although they will be hilarious at times, their general tendency will be towards seriousness and introspection. They will be very studious and will always derive more pleasure from reading good books than in those fields of recreation and sport that usually interest children.

If today is your birthday, the indications point to intellectuality, good mental processes, a keen vision and unerring judgment. You could have the world at your feet if, combined with these valuable traits, you possessed resoluteness of character. Notwithstanding your logical deductions, about the accuracy of which you have no doubt, you, in face of opposition, "wobble," and your good intentions vanish in thin air. You turn to others for advice when none is needed. You rely on others for help, when you could accomplish results single-handed. Association with others has been, so far, your nemesis. For, as Homer says in his Iliad:

"Join in the same adventure, one preceives
"Before the other how they ought to act;
"While one alone, however prompt, resolves
"More tardily and with a weaker will."

You have an affectionate disposition, are unselfish and very considerate of others' interests and feelings.

CRADLE SNATCHERS
By Robert Brvian

When I was young and full of pep
My Dad would say! "Son, watch your step!
Or else some gal'l getcha!
If any man is wed before
He reaches at least thirty-four
He was kidnapped, I'll betcha!"

When I showed signs of puppy love
My mother sputtered: "Stars above!
They're after you, my baby!
Now you stick by your mother's knee
And I will your protector be!"
And I said I would—(maybe)

Despite what Dad tried to advise
And Mother's wary, watchful eyes,
Their Baby Boy was harried.
When I was barely twenty-three
I was snatched from my nursery
And carted off and married!

As I look at the girls today,
Their snappy clothes and saucy way,
I murmur, "SOME boy catchers!
Darn my old age with creak and pain!
How I'd love to be snatched again
By such swell Cradle Snatchers!"

The Ultimatum

Little Carrol, aged five, was rocking his baby brother. Thinking he was asleep, Carrol left him. In a little while baby again started to cry.

"Carrol, don't you think you had better rock your little brother some more!" asked his mother. Carrol did.

Pretty soon he was heard to say: "Well, I'll rock you now, but you'll rock the next one!"—Mrs. A. E. Lee.

THAT SPRING FLOWER GARDEN!
(Overheard by Lillian Kilwain)

Mrs. Simpson—You're going to help me plant the flowers, dear. Now, make a bed right here for the sweet-peas.

Simpson—Make a bed for 'em, eh? Do I tuck them between the sheets or shall I tell them a bedtime story? What are you going to plant on this side of the walk—sweet asylum?

Mrs. Simpson—Sweet alyssums, silly! And I guess I'll put in a row of baby's breath over here.

Simpson—I suppose they smell like malted milk. That's a good idea, dear—we'll plant the baby's breath right next to its poppy. And say, dear, where's those wolf-mittens?

Mrs. Simpson—I suppose you think that's funny! Get busy with that rake and you won't have so much time for foolishness. And it's not wolf-mittens—it's foxgloves! Oh, dear I have no idea where to put the delphiniums, amaranthus, nemesia, or the begonias!

Simpson—Oh plant them right next to the eczemas, spittoons, halitosis, and bologna.

Mrs. Simpson—Dear me, you know more about gardening than I thought you did! I never heard of those flowers! Well, hand me that other package.

Simpson—Nothing doing! We can't plant these yet. The package is marked "Four O'clock" and it can't be more than two-thirty."

BOY UNDER KNIFE.

Announcement was made at the Lions club Wednesday noon that the protege of the club, a small boy, who was operated on Wednesday morning at the General hospital for a hairlip, was doing well following the operation, and it was believed the operation was completely successful. Dr. A. L. Fre of Dallas, delegate to the Texas State Dental society convention, did the surgical work.

The little lad was discovered several months ago and the club has been interested in his welfare, and took this method of trying to help the child.

More Truth Than Poetry

PRISONERS

The birds are singing in the trees,
And from the brooks and bogs
There comes a sound of chants and glees
Of myriad little frogs;
The rabbit's child is free to roam
Or doze beneath the sun—
And never has to hurry home
To get his lessons done.
While down the lane beyond the pool
The crows and blackbirds wing,
Because there isn't any school
To shut them from the Spring.

The trilliums star the mossy glen
The violets are out again
In crowds behind the hill—
But little folks must sit for hours
Impatient to be free,
To go and hunt for wakening flowers
Along with Brother Bee;
But woods and fields are far away—
A mile, or just about,
And there's so little time to play
When school at last is out.

And when vacation days have come,
When one has time to spare,
The flowers are sere, the birds are dumb—
And sultry is the air.
The crickets chirrup, creeping low
Across the dusty lawn,
And by their drowsy song we know
That Spring has come and gone.
And busy toiling as we were
On dreary school-book lore
We barely caught a glimpse of her
Outside the schoolhouse door!

GARDNER GIVES CLINICAL WORK

Mayo Clinic Expert In Demonstration With Models

The second morning session of the Texas Dental Convention was featured by a lecture by Dr. Boyd Gardner of Rochester, Minn., in which a review of the work accomplished by the dental section of the clinic with which he is connected, and the need of closer co-operation between the dentists and physician was emphasized. Interesting lantern slides and wax models were used to illustrate new extraction methods and the treatment of impactions. Dr. Gardner discussed the value of the post-operative radiogram in dentistry.

"Radiograms pay better in dollars and cents," he stated. "They enable us to see the two-thirds of our work that otherwise we would mill."

It is becoming the dentist's job to manufacture artificial noses for persons who are disfigured by diseases or accident. "Wax noses are pie for the dentist because he knows how to work his wax to a higher degree of efficiency than a man of any other profession, and spectacles fastened to the nose easily conceal any appearance of artificialness."

Consultation among dentists was recommended for best results in difficult work since at present the dentist works too much as an individual.

The regular meeting of the house delegates preceeded this lecture and the hours following were given over to clinics instructed by six specialists attending the convention.

Woman Routs Trio After Shooting One

EL PASO, April 28—(AP)—Police here are baffled by the unusual occurrence of a mysterious wounded man, now under surveillance in a local hospital and an attempted robbery in which one of the three prwolers was shot in the back by a woman.

Mrs. Percy McGhee, prominent civic worker, found three men robbing her home Sunday night and shot one of them twice in the back in a struggle in which she was knocked to the floor, she reported to police.

Francisco Natividad was taken to a hospital wounded in the back the same night. Mrs. McGhee visited Natividad with officers and said he resembled one of the three burglars. But Natividad, a civilian, said he was shot while walking down the street at 5:30 p. m. A doctor reported to police at 10:20 p. m. that he had treated Natividad. The officers were not called to the McGhee home until 11:20 p. m. and Mrs. McGhee declared the burglars were soldiers in uniform.

Planes Making a Barnstorm Tour

FORT WORTH, April 28.—(AP) Marion Davies Gillespie, 5, was back with her mother, Mrs. Hazel Jenkins, in FortWorth today after a separation which began when the child disappeared from sixty-seventh district court room here three years ago.

The mother, who was then Mrs. Hazel Gillespie, has been seeking her child since December 22, 1922, when its custody was awarded her. The child was located recently at Corpus Christi after the death of her father, Charles W. Gillespie, on April 16.

County Detective H. W. Rhodes, returned here last night with the child and turned her over to her mother after he had obtained the child from her grand parents on a court order. The grandparents, Rhodes said were heartbroken when they had to give up the child.

If You Would Avoid Pyorrhea Give Your Teeth Plenty to Do Is Advice of Dental Expert

Dr. S. B. Riggs of San Antonio Tells Visiting Convention Delegates Exercise Is One of Most Important Things Needed

"Teach the patient how to care for the mouth in the proper way," was the appeal of Dr. S. B. Riggs of San Antonio in his talk on "Co-operation of the Patient with the Dentist" at a clinic held Wednesday morning at the Texas Dental convention which has been in session for the past two days. The education of the patient as to the care of the teeth, the diet and the cause of pyorrhea was discussed in the class, one of five given by Dr. Riggs during the convention.

In speaking of the exercise of the teeth, he told of a man and wife who came into his office, the wife he treated for pyorrhea. They had been on the same diet but due to the fact that the man chewed tobacco his teeth were still strong and comparatively good. "It is not the medicine proprietiesof the tobacco but the exercise derived from the constant chewing," he explained. The muscles are strong, thus making his resistance stronger, which is the important factor in preventing pyorrhea. The last item was stressed in Dr. Rigg's talk and should be emphasized in the growth of children. To build up their resistance the diet should be carefully studied he pointed out. A breakfast of oatmeal without the proper food combinations will lower this decidedly. Experimental work shows that a guinea pig that has been fed nothing but a cereal for a week will be outlived by one that has had nothing but water. The system of the latter was cleared and life sustained in the animal by the mineral properties contained in the water.

Not Enough Brushes.

"It is a peculiar fact that from statistics compiled in San Antonio, a greater number of tooth brushes were used by white people and a greater number of decayed teeth were evident than among Mexicans. The same condition existed between the Mexicans and Indians, but this is explained by the fact that the more tooth brushes we have the less increase there will be in decaying teeth," Dr. Riggs stated.

In explaining the chemical action of sugar in relation to pyorrhea he explained that the sugar took the calcium from the blood and to replace this the blood took it from the teeth. "A dentist's job is to save the teeth; a doctor's job is to save the people and the public is depending upon the dentists to educate them so that they may do their part. There is more or less missionary work in the dentist's office since the patient is at the mercy of the dentist." Dr. Riggs claims that pyorrhea will be more promptly treated when the dentists can recognize in the treatable form.

Gives Food List.

A list of proper foods to prevent dental trouble, mainly pyorrhea, was outlined. Not enough raw food and fruits are being eaten, not enough salads and too much vinegar. A surplus of starch and sugar is evident in the diets of the majority of the people and unless these have the proper food combinations they should be emphatically crossed off the list. It is found that scurvy is related to pyorrhea, not in the disease itself but in their treatment. It was once required that every vessel sailing from England ports carry six quarts of lime juice for every person aboard as a preventative for scurvy. This is highly recommended for pyorrhea diet.

"The co-operation of the patient is entirely necessary," Dr. Riggs said in concluding. "Teach him to care for the teeth daily, explain the importance of the diet and proper mastication and pyorrhea cases will be lessened materially.

Merchants Set Fast Pace For Style Patrons

A striking example of the speed with which Wichita Falls merchants function in providing the latest and most up-to-date creations in womens wearing apparel was brought to light Wednesday when the latest colors and modes were displayed in a number of local stores just four days after first announcement of the predominating colors were made in New York.

At the National Garment Retailers Association in New York April 23 it was announced that Coral Sands, Sunni and June Rose would be the predominating hues in this spring's garments.

Early Wednesday morning several stores had come out with these tints in the latest patterns, breaking, it is believed, an all time record for quick style service for Wichita Falls.

Guinea Pigs Die, Martyrs to Science

A decree of death issued for two guinea pigs treated with one m. l. d. of tetanus toxin at an exhibit at the Texas Dental convention Tuesday was effected Wednesday morning as the little animals drew their last breath. At the same time another pair of pigs was given 10 s. l. d. of the same deadly poison, counteracted by a tooth paste exhibited at the convention by a Cincinnati dental company. This dentifrice, it is claimed, is positive in its killing power against the streptococcus, one of the most dangerous of all mouth germs. These two lucky pigs are still hopping spryly about their living quarters, unaware of what-might have been.

Need of Parks Is Ripley's Theme In Lions Talk

A movement to start cooperative efforts for public recreation was begun in the Wednesday noon meeting of the Lions club at the Kemp hotel when B. G. Ripley suggested that definite results might be obtained with the city, the Lions and the chamber of commerce working together. In his talk, Mr. Ripley quoted statistics that showed there was less juvenile delinquency among children who were allowed to play in parks and among those whose homes were near parks where they could exercise and play.

The question of having a band furnish music for concerts in the parks was also mentioned by Mr. Ripley. He told of the community band directed by Gabe Brollier and their need for a library of music, and left the thought with the Lions that they might do some constructive work for the city by assisting this musical organization.
