

GRISLY PARADE OF CARNAGE

39 Die In State Traffic Mishaps

By The Associated Press

Violent deaths in Texas over the long Independence Day week ended sharply with, as expected, traffic fatalities leading the grisly parade of carnage.

The Associated Press began tabulating deaths from violent causes at 6 p.m. Friday and will continue counting until midnight Monday, official end of the three day holiday weekend.

By midnight Sunday the death count stood at 66 with 39 persons killed in traffic mishaps. The Department of Public Safety has predicted 48 persons will die on the state's streets and highways during the holiday period.

Drownings claimed at least 13 lives.

Here is a sampling of how they died:

Rick Charles Johnson, 12, of Garrison and Noble Ray Johnson, 13, of Fort Worth were killed Sunday when their motorbike was in collision with a car on Texas 95 about 17 miles south-east of Henderson.

CAR FLIPS

Sheriff's officers at Gonzales said Robert M. Robbins, 18, of Luling drowned Sunday in the Guadalupe River near Oak Forest.

Melvin Schramm, 23, of Round Top died late Saturday night when his car ran off Farm Road 1457 about a mile south of Shelby in Austin County. The DPS said Schramm's car overturned as it hurtled off the road.

Paul de la Garza, 20, of Jourdanton was shot to death early Sunday. Deputy Sheriff Tom Lott reported, at a bar in the Southwest Texas town.

Herbert Joe Hewett, 9, and his brother, Tony Hewett, 3, drowned Sunday when a boat used for a family outing overturned in Caney Creek near Cedar Lake. The J. T. Hewett family of six was in the 12-foot aluminum boat when it overturned en route to a picnic area.

Martin Lopez, 17, of Encinal drowned Sunday while swimming in a lake near Encinal.

EL PASO MISHAPS

Jose Z. Zavala, 64, of El Paso was killed Saturday night when he was struck by a car as he attempted to cross a street in the Far West Texas city.

Guadalupe G. Espenosa, 44, of San Angelo was killed Sunday when two cars collided on a city street. Officers said Espenosa was knocked from one car by the impact and then run over by the second vehicle.

James Claude McNelly Jr., 33, of Abilene was killed Sunday when the car he drove veered off U.S. 277 and crashed southwest of Stamford.

Ricky Lynn Steen, 18, of Greenville was killed early Sunday when his car ran off Farm Road 1595 and overturned. Officers said the accident happened just north of Greenville.

Gary Lynn Manis, 21, a service station attendant was kidnapped and shot to death Saturday night by gunmen who robbed the station where he worked in Burleson. Manis was a Fort Worth resident.

SHOT IN HEAD

Arnulfo Diaz Garcia was shot to death Saturday night in a migrant workers' barracks near Ralls. Officers, who were investigating the shooting Sunday, said Diaz Garcia was shot once in the head.

Warren George Banks, 24, of Houston was shot to death Saturday night in an alley near the city's downtown section. Detectives said they had made no arrests late Saturday night.

Scuba divers searched Saturday night for the body of John Lockhart, 27, of Belton who apparently drowned earlier in the Leon River. Witnesses said Lockhart jumped into the water to retrieve a fishing pole.

BUTTON KING — Richard Massey probably will always have enough pearl buttons for his shirts. But instead he plans to pave his driveway with them. Massey, who bought out the entire stock of two pearl button companies in Muscatine, Iowa, believes he probably owns more pearl buttons (about 144 million) than anyone else in the United States, and probably the world. He further believes — or at least hopes — that one day pearl buttons will be valuable again and when that happens people who want them will have to go to him.

SON OF 'HERO' Says Would Not Go To Viet, Now

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Lewis B. Puller Jr., son of retired Lt. Gen. Lewis B. "Chesty" Puller, the nation's most decorated Marine — says he has sharply changed his thinking on the Vietnam war in which he lost both legs and parts of six fingers.

"If I were drafted and given orders for Vietnam, I would not go," says Puller, 31, who has been confined to a wheelchair for nearly three years. "I never want to see my son have to go."

OUTSPOKEN WAR HAWK

He said in an interview that he had never received a satisfactory answer to the question, "What did those 50,000 men die for?"

Young Puller was a Marine lieutenant leading troops in combat when he was wounded by a Viet Cong booby trap and won a Silver Star medal. He now is taking courses toward a law degree at the College of William and Mary.

The elder Puller, who received 53 decorations during more than 30 years in Marine service, has been an outspoken war hawk. He tried unsuccessfully in 1965 at age 67 to be returned to active duty and be given a command in Vietnam.

The military is not to blame for the war, young Puller says, because a soldier is just an extension of government policy. He says much of his attitude has not been shaped by what happened to him but by the issues confronting American fighting men.

HE'S BEEN HAD?

Not only are Americans waging a war they had nothing to do with starting, he says, but they must deal with the lack of support for the conflict on the part of some of the nation's leaders.

In addition, says Puller, servicemen returning from Southeast Asia often have difficulty finding jobs.

Better Give Up Fast Like

ARVADA, Colo. (AP) — A possibly deadly meningitis culture, reported stolen in a burglary, remained unaccounted for Sunday.

Arvada police said they had no new clues in the burglary of a research physician's home here in which the culture, containing hairlike meningitis bacilli, was taken.

Inspector Gary Kailey pleaded for the thief to turn himself in for treatment.

The culture, in a small white plastic dish, was in a microscope case taken when Dr. Kirt Peffer's home was ransacked Friday night, Kailey said.

The bacillus is the cause of spinal meningitis, a dreaded disease which causes high fever and eventual brain damage and death unless treated. It is highly contagious.

Agnew Fears Print, Tube 'Coup' In Viet

SINGAPORE (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said today that the North Vietnamese are likely to launch a "public relations coup" because of the way U.S. news media will report it.

He said such an attack which would come when U.S. forces are sufficiently reduced, would "be played heavily as failure of the Vietnamization program in the 'United States'."

The attack wouldn't succeed militarily, Agnew told reporters, but "success in the military sense is a lot different from a public relations coup, which is easily achieved because so many of our people in the national media are too ready to assist the North Vietnamese by their overemphasis on what's taking place."

"I don't think they mean to assist them," Agnew continued, "but we've gone through this terrible introspective, almost masochistic twinges of conscience in our country regarding the Vietnam war where we look with favor on anything good that happens to the enemy."

Asked if the South Vietnamese would soon be strong enough to stop such an attack without U.S. combat troops, Agnew replied:

"They'll never be strong enough to stop a pinpointed attack where the enemy is willing to take the casualties, because this kind of attack is a potential at any time, in any country, under any circumstances."

"The point is, will the attack be related to the American people in perspective, or will it be distorted as a complete defeat for the Vietnamization program?"

Cars Smack, Ten Perish

By The Associated Press

Ten persons died during the Fourth of July weekend when two cars collided head on along a straight stretch of four-lane highway in southern Indiana.

The crash Sunday on Interstate 65 killed five members of an Indiana family and three of a Kentucky family and pushed the nation's holiday weekend traffic toll past 440.

State police said the accident occurred in bright, sunny weather, and it was not known immediately why the one car veered to the wrong side of the highway.

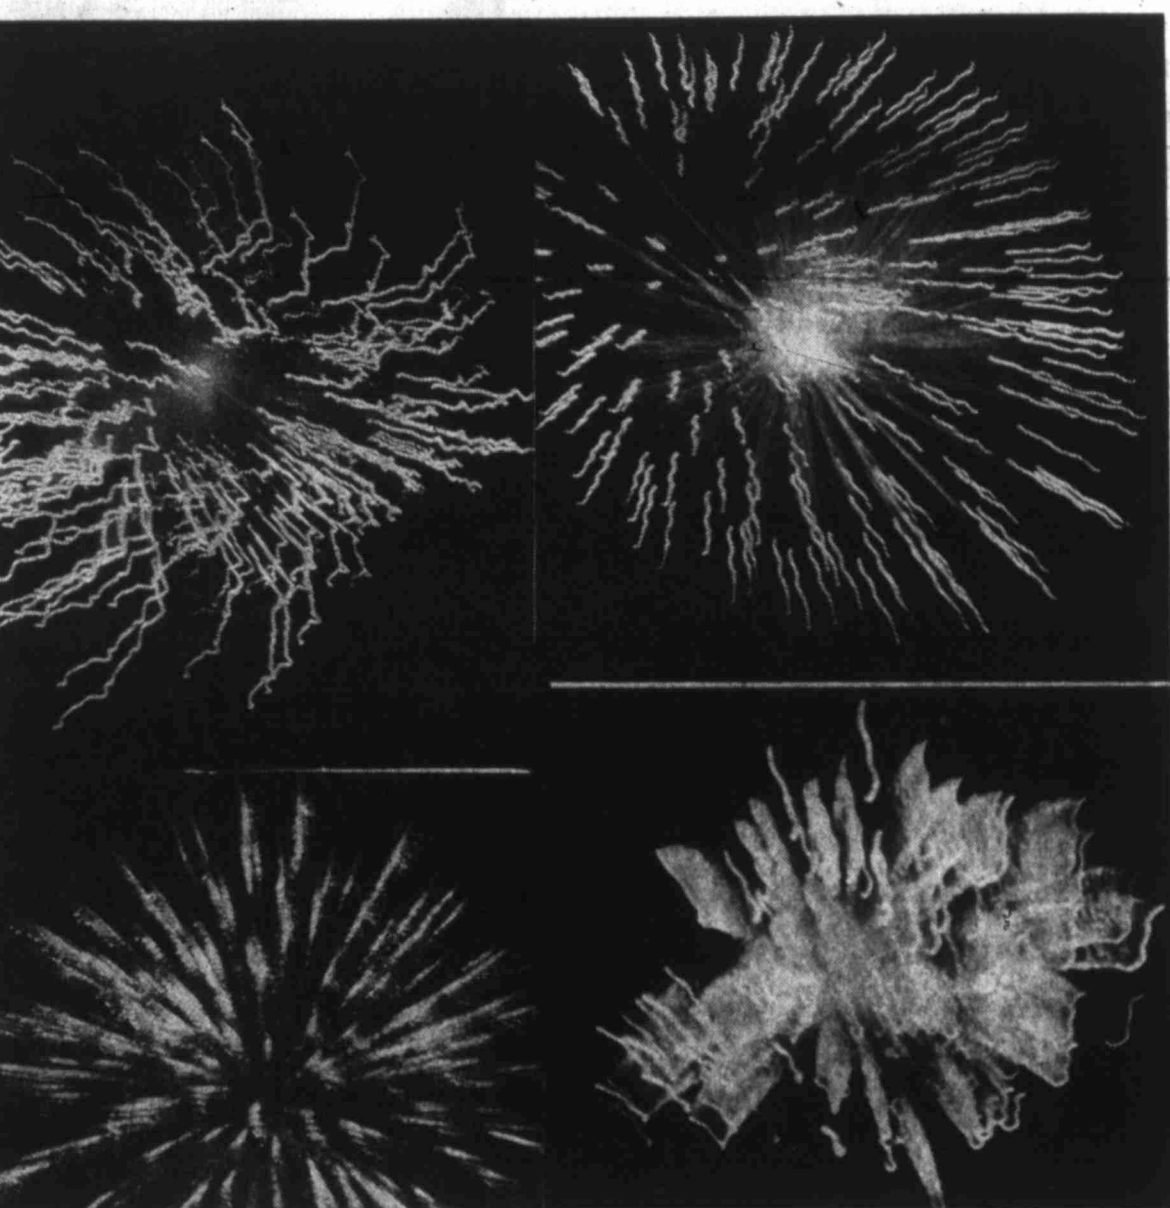

Authorities said a car driven by Margaret B. Popplewell, 27, of Louisville, Ky., hurtled across the median strip, striking an auto driven by Prentis E. Willen, 41, of Shirley, Ind.

Both drivers were killed as were Willen's wife, Dorothy, 44, and their 18-year-old daughter, Sharon. Two other passengers in the Willen car, Stanley E. Willen, 17, of Shirley, and Pauline Willen of Columbus, Ind., also died.

HOT AS FIRECRACKER, BUT NO LOCAL RECORD

Sunday may have been, appropriately enough, "hot as a firecracker," but it wasn't the hottest Fourth of July Big Springers have seen.

The Big Spring Experiment Station recorded 102 degrees Sunday afternoon.

Mystery Shrouds Shooting Death

Police are investigating the shooting death of one Big Springer and the wounding of another in separate incidents over the weekend.

Jose (Joe) Lopez Jr., 23, Apt. 17, Northcrest Apartments, was found Sunday morning shot to death in a vacant lot in the 600 block of Northwest Third.

Gloria Hernandez and Ophelia Alcantar, both of 612 NW 3rd, reported finding the body about 9 a.m.

"Lopez was shot twice, once in the chest and once in the back right shoulder blade with a .22 caliber weapon," said

JOE LOPEZ

Detective Jim McCain. Officers first believed Lopez was shot twice in the back.

Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter pronounced Lopez dead on the scene "due to gunshot wounds."

"We don't know if the man ran into the field after being shot or whether he was dumped from a car, but he was not shot in the field," said McCain.

McCain said that doctors had determined that Lopez had been dead for seven to eight hours at the time he was found. No charges have been filed in connection with the shooting, and police have not determined a motive.

On June 12 Lopez was hospitalized in Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital after being stabbed in the lower right side resulting from a fight. Manuel Morales, a friend of Lopez, was killed in the fight when his throat was cut. Morales' assailant was arrested and charged with murder.

Lopez, a known police character, was released from a federal prison in January after serving time on a burglary conviction.

"Investigation of the murder is still underway, however we still do not have any definite leads," said McCain.

'NEVER FEARED THE CREW WOULD DO ANYTHING WRONG' Skyjacker Reported 'Troubles With His Ex-Wife, Children'

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A Braniff International jetliner pilot, forced to fly at gunpoint from San Antonio, Tex., to Lima, Peru, said the hijacker "told us he didn't want any heroes, and we weren't going to be."

Capt. Dale Bessant, 49, of Grapevine, Tex., told a news conference at Dallas' Love Field Sunday that he "never feared the crew would do anything wrong."

Bessant returned to Dallas on a flight from Lima via Miami, along with four other members of the crew. They were First Officer William R. Wallace of Dallas, Flight Engineer Phillip L. Wray of Dallas, and hostesses Ernestina Garcia and Margaret Susan Harris, both of Corpus Christi and based in Dallas.

MARRIED STEWS

The five were part of a crew of eight aboard the Boeing 707 that had taken off Friday from Mexico City on a flight bound for San Antonio.

It was the first time a Braniff aircraft had been hijacked.

Three married stewardesses and 101 passengers were permitted to deplane in Monterrey, Mexico, Friday after Braniff paid a $100,000 ransom to the hijacker, identified as Robert Lee Jackson, 36, of Tennessee. He and his armed companion, identified as Ligia Sanchez Arquilla, 23, of Guatemala, demanded to be flown to Algeria.

SOUNDS STRANGE

Instead, they made a hop-skip and jump flight from Monterrey to Lima, where Bessant and the other four crew members exchanged places with a volunteer crew. That crew then flew the hijackers to Rio de Janeiro and Buena Aires, where the pair finally surrendered to authorities Sunday.

"I was confident my crew wouldn't make any wrong moves. You can't afford any," Bessant said.

"But you can't be sure with the passengers. I was worried about them. Once they were on the ground, I knew it would be all right," he said.

"I don't think at any time — even with his gun-pointed — that we were truly afraid of the man," the captain said. "I know it sounds strange, but it's the truth."

BAD LIFE

"You just don't make a wrong move," he said. "We're professionals. It never entered my mind that we weren't going to get home."

Bessant said he and the hijacker maintained a "strict, businesslike relationship" which he said contributed to the safe, successful termination of the flight.

"I didn't ask the hijacker any questions about himself or his motive," he said, "and I didn't want to know."

"He told me he had a bad life," said Miss Garcia.

"He said he hated the United States and didn't like police," she continued. "He said it would be good to find a country where you don't see a dozen policemen around every street corner."

OKEYED ORDERS

She quoted Jackson as saying: "I have a good reason for hijacking this plane," though she said he never elaborated on just what that reason was.

Miss Garcia said Jackson told her he had "troubles with his ex-wife and children. He told me he was divorced."

POLICE SWARM

The first stop was Monterrey, Mexico, where the plane's 102 passengers were allowed to disembark and the airline put aboard $100,000 in ransom money that Jackson demanded for one of the passengers, a Mexican woman.

Subsequent stops were made at Lima, Peru, to change crews, and at Rio de Janeiro, to refuel. But because of a swarm of police at Rio, the hijackers forced the plane to take off without refueling, this time for Buenos Aires. It landed in the Argentine capital Saturday afternoon.

High Court Can't Do Job Unless Workload Is Eased

NEW YORK (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said today the Supreme Court cannot do a top job unless its mounting workload is eased.

"We cannot keep up with the volume of work and maintain a quality historically expected from the Supreme Court," he said in an address prepared for the 94th annual meeting of the American Bar Association.

The nine justices handle about 4,000 appeals a year now, compared to 1,100 in 1940 and 1,300 in 1950, he said.

REALITIES

"Either the quantity or quality of the work of the court must soon yield to the realities," Burger added. He said a growing number of legal scholars, judges and lawyers share this view.

The chief justice did not suggest a way of changing the situation. "On another occasion I will discuss this problem more fully," he said.

Burger's "State of the Federal Judiciary" address was his second annual report on the courts to the ABA.

Surveying lower courts, he promised various ways of cutting down the time and costs of deciding cases.

When a judge appoints a lawyer to represent a criminal defendant he should require the lawyer to stay with the case through the appeal, if there is one, Burger said.

Also, the chief justice recommended that appeals judges write shorter and fewer opinions. "Some important cases require extensive treatment, but this should be the exception, not the rule as it is today," he said.

WORTH HIS SALT

When a new lawyer takes over for an appeal he needs a transcript of the trial. But if the same lawyer handles both the trial and the appeal and "is worth his salt," Burger said, he will not have to wait for an expensive transcript.

"No lawyer should be appointed by the court in any criminal case unless he is competent and willing to conduct the case to its final disposition," Burger said.

The new policy should be adopted by the judges or directed by Congress, Burger said.

The chief justice said it is imperative that new methods and new procedures for appeals be developed. "Prompt decisions on appeals may well discourage a substantial number of the frivolous appeals taken only for delay," he said.

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas can save several million dollars a year in state funds if Congress passes the welfare reform plan advocated by U.S. Rep. Wilbur Mills, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes said here Sunday.

Barnes was in Houston to make a Fourth of July speech to the Southern Federation of Syrian Lebanese American Clubs, which is holding its 40th annual convention here.

Barnes spoke briefly with reporters before making the speech, which was on a patriotic theme.

The lieutenant governor, who recently announced that he will seek the governor's post in 1972, said next year "will be a good Democratic year" because "President Nixon's economic policies are not working now."

Barnes said that Texas' Republican Sen. John Tower has been nothing "but a negative voice" in the Senate.

MANITOU SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — "I hope to make it 1,000 before I'm through," Prof. Edwin H. Paget of Raleigh, N.C., said after completing his 500th run up 14,110-foot Pikes Peak.

Page, who admits to being "around 70" years of age, addressed a group of tourists atop the peak "on the importance of running for exercise as one gets older," after his latest ascent.

Spanish Armor Found In Kansas

LYONS, Kan. (AP) — Chain mail armor believed to have been used by Spanish conquistadors in an expedition into central Kansas in 1541 has been found near Lyons, according to Smithsonian Institute officials.

Dr. Waldo Wedel, the Smithsonian official supervising the digging into the ancient Quivira Indian village site 10 miles northeast of Lyons, said the chain mail armor was found five feet underground.

Wedel said the armor probably was brought into Kansas during the Coronado Expedition in 1541.

Some of the accounts of the race described her merely as "Palo Alto housewife," much to the amusement of neurosurgeons at Stanford University Hospital. Fran is a DR. too — a brain surgeon in her fourth year of residency at the hospital.

Exchange Program Set For West, East Texans

STANTON — Two exchange programs are scheduled for the summer in Stanton. One of the programs will be a county exchange project and one will be a foreign exchange.

On July 13 a total of 25 4-H students from Orange County, Tex., will come to Stanton to spend a week.

"The purpose of the county exchange program is to show these teens how West Texans live, because we feel like the difference in our area from theirs is just as great as the difference in their area and an out-of-state county," said Mrs. James Eiland, Martin County home demonstration agent.

The students will be staying with various families in Stanton, and a welcome party will be given in their honor the night of their arrival.

On July 19 the Martin County Dress Review will be held, and following the review a farewell party will be given to the Orange County group. They will leave Stanton July 20. Each county is responsible for the funding of the exchange program, said Mrs. Eiland.

Then on July 25 through Aug. 10, Ossie J. Hickman, the International Foreign Youth Exchange Program exchanges from New Zealand, will be visiting Stanton. Hickman will be staying in the home of the Eilands.

Financial sponsorship is provided by friends of 4-H through the Cooperative Extension Service and the National 4-H Club Foundation.

A bi-county camp for Martin and Glasscock County girls has been scheduled for July 14 and 15 and will be held in St. Lawrence Hall in Stanton.

Cherokee Forest Supervisor Nod

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The deputy supervisor of national forests in Texas has been named new supervisor for the Cherokee National Forest in Tennessee.

The appointment of Robert R. Lusk was announced by T.A. Schlapfer, regional forester. Lusk will succeed the retiring Russell Chipman at Cherokee.

Schlapfer said Lusk will assume his duties in Cleveland, Tenn., on July 27.

18-Year First At Kerrville

KERRVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Kerrville's 18-year-old voters will be the first in Texas to cast their votes when this city decides two bond issues Wednesday.

Randall B. Wood, director of elections in the secretary of state's office, told local officials last week that registered voters of 18 to 21 would be eligible to vote in the election.

Ohio, the 38th state to ratify the voting amendment, approved it last Friday to make it national law.

To be decided here Wednesday is a $1.025 million sewage system revenue bond issue and a $575,000 general obligation bond issue for drainage improvements. No tax or water rate increases are involved.

Kerr County has 318 registered voters between the ages of 18 and 21, local authorities said, but there is no breakdown on how many live in Kerrville. They estimated, however, that about 80 per cent of that age bracket lives within the city limits.

NOT LIKE OLD DAYS Elephant, 24 Camels Take Prince To Wed Princess

By JACK DAVIS
BIKANER, India (AP) — A painted elephant and 24 camels, a private railroad train equipped with family gods, and an escort of glittering maharajas and sword-carrying nobles brought the bridegroom from his desert home to his veiled princess.

But by the standards set by centuries of Indian royalty, the opulent wedding of the crown prince of Bikaner was not much of a show.

Older maharajas compared the spectacle of the single elephant — and its massive silver jewelry, velvet blanket, and red-and-yellow painted designs — with the dozens of pachyderms that marched in Bikaner processions in the 1930's and '40's.

Instead of being brought from the royal stables, now empty, this year's elephant had to be rented and hauled 200 miles by truck.

In the old days, recalled one maharaja, the commander of the state's private army could have a regiment of fierce camel-mounted warriors ready for a ceremonial procession at a moment's notice.

But that was before Bikaner, the size of Belgium and Holland combined, was merged into independent India in 1947, along with the vast domains of other maharajas.

Nevertheless, the two weeks of costly celebrations recently were of a kind not seen in India for years, and not likely to be repeated in the future.

Stately processions moved hundreds of celebrants from Bikaner rituals, to a rented mansion in New Delhi for the actual wedding ritual, and then back to Bikaner again.

At glamorous parties under illuminated trees, servants served sweets covered with silver foil, while bagpipers and dancing girls entertained maharajas resplendent in brocade coats, flaring mustaches, long gold-rimmed swords and rakish turbans of yellow and orange and red.

But the enthusiasm, the commitment to grandeur, seemed to have disappeared.

"Even if the appearances are impressive, the spirit is diminished — because of having to adjust to changing times, to modern India," observed the Maharana of Udaipur, an uncle of the prince.

Throughout the proceedings the 25-year-old prince responded without emotion to the noise and color and frenzy around him. And aide explained by citing a tradition that a smile from a prince at his wedding could bring famine to his state.

However, the prince might simply have been uneasy about the 18-year-old bride whom he had seen only twice before. His father, the maharaja, had arranged the wedding with her father, the raja of the former mountain state of Chamba, and his staff described the match as an alliance between two kingdoms.

"Bikaner, majestic and vast, and Chamba, a mountain jewel, will shortly stand united, their union finding expression in the combinatorial amalgam of the handsome prince of Bikaner, Maharajkumar Narendra Singhji, and the evenly-matched Princess Padma Kumari of Chamba."

The princess sat veiled and weeping through the two hours of Hindu offerings and chants that finalized the marriage.

By tradition the couple could not spend their wedding night together, and were alone only when the private train took them back from New Delhi the next night to the 110-degree heat of Bikaner.

Says Disorder Stark Fact In Society

NEW YORK (AP) — A Houston lawyer who will be taking over as president of the American Bar Association this month says that the prevalence of disorder is a stark fact in current society.

Leon Jaworski, 65, who will become president July 21, said disorder in the United States is physical, material, moral, philosophical, international and universal, and is "spreading like a cancerous growth."

He said the nation, therefore, was passing through a time when the most urgent task for the law is to make government effective in securing the safety of people and property.

"If the chaos of our time is permitted to extend itself unchecked," he said, "we shall surely fall victim to the authoritarian rule which the radicals of the left pretend to fear."

Viet Cong Rockets Kill Three Yankees

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong rockets crashed into a U.S. Air Force barracks area on the Da Nang Air Base at midnight Sunday, killing three Americans and wounding 37 while they slept. Two other airmen were missing.

It was the worst of 13 rocket attacks made on the air base thus far this year. Military sources said most of the casualties were caused by a 100-pound missile that smashed one barracks. Several other barracks were damaged.

Meanwhile, White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger completed a 2½-day visit to Saigon for a major policy review that included discussion of a reply to the new Viet Cong peace proposal and of ways to speed up American troop withdrawals.

Neither Kissinger nor President Nguyen Van Thieu would disclose details of a 2½-hour meeting they held Sunday, but aides of Kissinger termed it fruitful.

Kissinger flew on to Bangkok, where informants in Washington said he would assure Thai officials that the U.S. program of military withdrawal from Vietnam will not leave Thailand exposed to Communist attack.

The U.S. Command said that less than 10 rockets were fired in the attack on the Da Nang base.

Rock Fans Say Goodbye To Music Institution

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Singing and gyrating to squealing guitars, some 2,500 rock lovers packed the Fillmore West to say goodbye to a music institution.

Since 1966, rock impresario Bill Graham had showcased the world's finest rock performers, and the pulsing light shows and wild dancing were present Sunday night when he shut down the West Coast's top rock palace.

Fillmore West and its New York twin, Fillmore East, which Graham closed June 28 had become centers of the American rock scene.

GOOD TIME
"If I remember anything about these years," Graham said, "it will be this last week of concerts when the oldtimers came out of the woodwork. The people who came had a good time and no one brought acid ..."

In announcing plans to close his two Fillmores, Graham said he was disillusioned with a rock scene which had bred mass commercialization, greedy performers and drug abuse. The Fillmore East had been opened since 1968.

Last week, Fillmore bills were packed with groups who had thrilled crowds in years past — Jefferson Airplane, Quicksilver Messenger Service, the Grateful Dead.

WILD DANCING
The final bill featured Creedence Clearwater Revival, Santana and Tower of Power — three heavy-rhythm groups which lifted the crowd from casual seats on the floor to frenzied dancing.

Hours before the sold-out show, the crowd overflowed onto Market Street as security guards struggled to keep crashers away from the doors.

As the concert drummed on from 9 p.m. to the early hours of today, Graham accepted thanks and congratulations from performers and patrons alike.

Amid the rocking were twinges of sadness. A giant wreath was hung from a stage speaker. A young woman gave Graham a cake.

NO PLACE TO PLAY
"It's sad it's closing," cried Laurie Hagueneau, 23, of San Francisco. "I've been coming to Fillmore five years. Now what am I going to do?"

"There'll be other shows but it won't be the Fillmore."

John Fogerty, guitarist with Creedence Clearwater, said the Fillmore "was an oasis, because the people here cared. Now the young groups will have no place to play."

Owner Graham said, "What rock has become with the high-priced superstars, is why I no longer want to be part of it. You don't work 52 weeks a year if you don't enjoy it any more."

"Rock is very much alive. Let others put it on a regular basis. The monster I created had become my master."

Graham said he hopes to break into film production, while maintaining his ties in recording and music publishing.

BUREAU CALLS FIGURES AS IT SEES THEM?

Politicians Scrap Over Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — While Republicans and Democrats scrap over the nation's economy, the Bureau of Labor Statistics claims it still calls the figures as it sees them, with no tarnish on its traditional non-political role.

That role was brought into focus last week when the bureau announced the unemployment rate fell from 6.2 per cent of the labor force in May to 5.6 per cent in June, steepest drop in almost a decade.

Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said the decline "offered renewed proof that the economic policies of President Nixon are working."

Lawrence F. O'Brien, Democratic national chairman, countered: "It was a disappointing month and the Nixon administration knew it was a disappointing month."

The bureau and its staff of professional statisticians and economists saw some truth in both assessments. It admitted some improvement in the jobless rate, but said the 5.6 figure was misleading due to a statistical quirk.

STILL IN SCHOOL
The quirk crept in because the unemployment survey was taken June 6-12, a week when many students who otherwise might have been seeking jobs were still in school.

By pointing out that quirk, one official said, the bureau was able to maintain its credibility and reputation for candor in gathering and distributing the most-sensitive economic figures: those dealing with unemployment and consumer prices.

The unemployment statistics are compiled by the Census Bureau which monthly knocks on the doors of 50,000 representative households and asks about 30 questions.

A key factor in the bureau's task of interpreting the figures is seasonal adjustment, a concept to give economic statistics more meaning and to eliminate month-to-month variations caused by holidays, vacations and other factors.

The bureau's method of seasonal adjustment basically involves gathering the experience on unemployment and the labor force for the last eight years for the month in question.

NONPOLITICAL ROLL
It then comes up with an average seasonal adjustment factor and applies it to the raw Census Bureau figures so that the usual month variations will be stricken out.

The bureau's nonpolitical role has not removed it from controversy, however. It customarily briefed newsmen each time it released unemployment and consumer price figures until the Nixon administration halted the practice earlier this year.

Spock appeared Friday at a news conference after a national third-party conference was convened in semi-secrecy.

Spock said the two major parties "haven't had the courage and forthrightness to get out of an abominable war in Vietnam," and have "failed abysmally to represent the American people."

Jailed Hoffa's Influence Strong At Union Meeting

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — The Teamsters Union opens its first convention in nearly 15 years without the dominating presence of James R. Hoffa today, but with the jailed Hoffa's influence still strong.

Tickets were sold to a "James R. Hoffa Testimonial Dinner," union reports told of scholarships in his name and a Hoffa protégé — Frank E. Fitzsimmons — appeared a clinch for election to the giant union's presidency for the next five years.

could even be accepted as a nominee for union president.

The other challenger, Secretary-Treasurer Theodore Daley of the 8,500-member Yonkers, N.Y. Local 445, appeared still determined to oppose Fitzsimmons in the presidential election scheduled Thursday.

the Teamster's convention hotels.

But Fitzsimmons had the advance unanimous endorsement of Hoffa, Teamsters Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Flynn and the union's 12 powerful vice presidents.

Delegates from the union's host Southern Conference also endorsed Fitzsimmons at a convention-eve caucus.

JURY TAMPERING

Hoffa, 58, now serving his fifth year of a total 13 years for jury tampering and mail fraud, is in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa. He resigned shortly before the convention opened to give his old Detroit friend Fitzsimmons the edge in the new presidential election.

Hoffa had left Fitzsimmons in charge as acting president when he went to prison in 1967, apparently in hopes he would be freed in time to run for reelection himself this week. But Hoffa stepped down after losing his latest bid for parole.

Two challengers to the 63-year-old Fitzsimmons' leadership of the two-million-member union faced an uphill fight at the tightly controlled convention of 2,000 delegates.

Don Vestal, president of Teamsters Local 327 in Nashville, Tenn., lost bids in federal court to halt the convention and impose a trusteeship over the union.

Vestal, a 54-year-old former truck driver, also lost his seat as a delegate to the convention when the U.S. Court of Appeals last week upheld a trusteeship imposed by Fitzsimmons over the Nashville local on grounds of financial mismanagement.

NOT A CHANCE

The trusteeship action suspended the local's officials both as officers and convention delegates, and brought into question whether Vestal's name

Baum Says He Still Heads Demos

AUSTIN (AP) — Dr. Elmer Baum says he is still chairman of the Texas Democratic Party and has not submitted a resignation.

Baum denied emphatically published reports Saturday that increasing political pressure in recent months had forced him to submit a resignation to Gov. Preston Smith.

Baum, who has already been forced to resign as a member of the State Banking Board, had no comment on future plans as state party head.

"No sir, I have not submitted my resignation to anybody," Baum said Saturday in reply to the published reports.

When asked if he intended to serve out his present term, which would run through the 1972 elections and conventions, Baum said: "I do not want to comment now on that part. But I have not resigned."

Baum, an Austin osteopath and a close personal friend of the governor for many years, has been under fire since it was disclosed the two made a $125,000 quick profit on National Bankers Life Insurance stock with money borrowed briefly from the now defunct Sharpestown State Bank. The insurance company stock was used to secure the loan.

Baum was elected chairman of the state party in 1968, the handpicked candidate of Smith.

FRIENDLY WITH THE ANIMALS — Seven-year-old Aura Koivisto of Helsinki, Finland, rubs noses with a 1½-year-old tapir at the Helsinki zoo. Aura is the daughter of the zoo's superintendent, and spends quite a bit of time with the animals.

It'll Be A Lot Different At Democratic Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — The shift from Chicago to Miami Beach won't be the only change in the 1972 Democratic National Convention. With a lot of tradition yielding to chance, things will be a lot different inside the hall as well.

New rules being drafted by a special commission call for doing away with the noisy, time-consuming demonstrations that traditionally follow nomination of each presidential hopeful.

OBLIVION BOUND — Also headed for oblivion are the endless rounds of speeches for make-believe candidates—the so-called favorite sons for whose brief hour of glory delegates and television viewers have paid heavily in boredom.

There also will be the startling prospect of the roll call by states starting with something other than the "Alabama" that has launched it since the first convention. The states will now draw lots to determine the order of the roll call.

The same drawing will determine where each state's delegation sits on the convention floor, ending the bickering and maneuvering over choice spots and the hurt feelings of those placed behind the television cameras.

Another drawing will determine housing assignments of the delegations, leaving to chance another touchy subject that has plagued convention managers in the past.

The proposed rules are the work of a commission headed

THEFTS

A burglary at the Northside Boy's Club swimming pool was reported early Sunday. Police advised that $5 worth of candy was taken from a candy machine.

Delbert Kimbler, 2300 Nolan, reported Sunday morning that some subjects were stealing gasoline from his car. Upon the arrival of the police the subjects were gone. Some gas had been taken from the car, and air was let out of the tires.

DEATHS

J. C. Myrick, Tuesday Rites

Jerome Cleve Myrick, 80, died Sunday morning in a Lubbock hospital.

Services will be at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Nailey-Pickel Rosewood Chapel with the Rev. J. W. Farmer officiating assisted by the Rev. Collins Moore. Burial will be in Mt. Olive Cemetery.

Mr. Myrick was born April 11, 1891, in Hico. He moved to Big Spring in 1916 from Hico and worked on ranches in this area. He later was employed by Runyan Plumbing Co. here and retired in 1951. He was a Baptist.

Survivors are five sons, Travis Myrick, Alton Myrick and R. L. Myrick; all of Big Spring, Doss Myrick, San Antonio, Wayne Myrick, Long Beach, Calif.; one daughter, Mrs. Walden Murphy, South Fork, Va.; three sisters, Mrs. Bert Peterson and Mrs. Jessie Goodman, both of Long Beach, and Mrs. Stella Surber, Rosebud; 25 grandchildren and 36 great-grandchildren and one by Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., which has been drawing them for more than a year and hopes to finish up this month.

Although they will have to be formally adopted by the delegates, the new rules will effectively control procedures and activities that have to be dealt with before the convention meets.

FAVORITE SON — The commission also had drawn up rules covering the platform and credential committees. They will do much of their work long before the convention meets, which is expected to speed the convention deliberations considerably.

The death blow to the demonstration, with their blaring horns and soaring balloons, is dealt by a rule strictly limiting each candidate to 15 minutes for the entire nominating procedure, including all speeches and applause.

Favorite sons are eased out of the picture by a rule requiring each nominee to have a petition signed by at least 50 delegates, with no more than 20 from one state, which means the nominee must have support in at least three delegations.

When the rules are adopted it will be the first time the Democratic National Committee has had its own. Up until now the convention has operated under the rules of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Pioneer House Handles GI Addicts In Vietnam

By CARL D. ROBINSON

Associated Press Writer

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) — The tall GI worked in the Army morgue and watched the "ODs," the overdose victims, come through. He himself had been hooked on heroin for a year and a half. His entire paycheck was going for his habit, nothing for his wife.

"I was curious, started using it, thought I could handle it," he says. "Instead, it handled me. After a while, all it does is bring you up to par."

Finally he went AWOL, hid while MPs searched for him, then turned himself in. Slated for the Long Binh jail he was helped by his commanders into Pioneer House, a drug rehabilitation center in a distant corner of this huge base.

COLD TURKEY — Five days later, after a cold-turkey withdrawal and long "raps" with counselors and other ex-addicts, he said: "I know I can stay off the stuff."

great-grandchild. Pallbearers will be Jack O'Brien, George Franklin, Joe Stocks, Joe Henderson, Monroe Copeland, and L. O. Jones.

Jose Lopez, Gunshot Victim

Services are pending at River Welch Funeral Home for Jose Lopez Jr., 23, who was found dead in a vacant lot on the north side Sunday morning. Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter ruled death due to gunshot wounds.

He was born May 5, 1948, in Big Spring. He had lived here all his life. He was an employee of the Sands Motel. He was a member of St. Thomas Catholic Church. He married Yolanda Lopez in March, 1966, in Big Spring.

Survivors include his wife, one son, Jose; two daughters, Bonnie Lisa Lopez and Joanna Lopez; his mother, Mrs. Nancy Garcia; one brother, Manuel Lopez; two sisters, Mrs. Yolanda Solis and Linda Lopez; his grandfather, Bernardo Garcia, all of Big Spring.

He went back to his unit. This GI is one of more than 700 who have been through Pioneer House in the past nine months, an average of 20 a week.

Officers who run the facility expect the military's new compulsory treatment program for homebound GIs to bring more addicts into this and 18 similar drug amnesty programs now functioning in Vietnam. That way, they can get off heroin before going through the urinalysis test that will tag them as users.

RELATIVE EASE — Col. Frank L. Chamberlin, a San Antonio, Tex., doctor who oversees drug rehabilitation in this area of Vietnam, says heroin users can be detoxified with relative ease.

"But I feel we need more time," he said. "The GI has to want to get off. We aren't ready for a mass program."

Chamberlin calls the Pioneer House program "cold turkey with assistance." The key is that the help comes from a dozen young GI counselors, some of them former addicts.

The theory is that enlisted men help enlisted men.

'ABUSERS' — Chamberlin prefers to call GI heroin addicts "abusers" or "accidental addicts" because they are relatively short-term addicts. Bored with their job or fed up with Vietnam, they turn to heroin because it is easy to hide and to smoke. It is swiftly addictive, but withdrawal also is relatively easy compared to that of needle-using "mainliners" in the United States.

"Withdrawal is easy and can be done in 30 hours," said Lt. Robert Caverly. "The real problem is the mental state—we give ourselves five days to start on the psychological."

The U.S. Command has tried with least success to lure black soldiers into the drug amnesty program. There appears now the beginning of a self-help effort.

Railroad Board — A representative of the Railroad Retirement Board will be in Big Spring from 10 a.m. to noon July 8 in Conference Room 242 of the Federal Building, Fifth and Main.

MISHAPS — Birdwell Lane and FM 700; Chesley G. Sanders, Box 189, and Donna R. Reid, 1609 Vines, 5:07 p.m.—Saturday.

LETTER Says Charter Is Violated

TO THE EDITOR

Recently a news article in The Herald quoted the City Commission as attempting to quiet unrest among supervisory employees of the City by praising them for their good work at the same time they appointed Mr. Anderson as acting city manager. I am sure these employees were pleased to hear this but it would not have been necessary if the Commission had only adhered to their obligations when sworn in.

No city employee other than the city manager is subject to hiring or firing by the City Commission. The city charter says that the hiring and firing of all city department heads is reserved solely to the city manager and the commission's authority is only to approve or disapprove the manager's actions.

The people of Big Spring adopted the city manager type of government as have most cities today with one primary purpose in mind and that is to remove politics from city employment and put it on a business basis with one person, the manager only, responsible to the City Commission. Three members of the City Commission, Mr. Choate, Mr. Acree, and Mr. Watkins, have decided to disregard their oath of office and run the city to suit themselves in complete disregard for the city charter. If this action is to be permitted, the line of authority created by the city charter under the city manager type of government is destroyed and no one will know who is their boss or from whom to take orders from day to day.

The recall petition is not just because Jay Banks was the victim of these three men and their disregard for the city charter but a matter of respect for the basic law of our City. Gossip has gotten the recall petitions all out of reality. In fact, none of these commissioners has complied with the law in any respect in their allegations or actions.

A recall is the only way to restore confidence in our city manager type of government and keep politics out of city employment as was set forth in the charter.

Americans At Home, Abroad Mark Birth Of United States

By The Associated Press

In ceremonies and celebrations as diverse as the land and its people, Americans have marked the 155th anniversary of the birth of the United States.

There were colorful Indian pow-wows in Oklahoma Sunday, speeches in Boston's historic Faneuil Hall, a circus parade complete with steam calliope in Milwaukee and turtle races and a tug of war in Neosho Rapids, Kan.

Traditional fireworks sparked nighttime salutes in hundreds of towns from Maine to California.

HEAD START — In some cities the July 4 weekend festivities got a head start Saturday, in others the main celebration comes today, a holiday for much of the working force.

President Nixon planned to return to Washington from his Camp David retreat about midday to take part in afternoon ceremonies marking the lowering of the voting age to 18.

Saturday night the President joined other government officials in looking beyond the current anniversary and started the five-year countdown to Independence Day 1976, the bicentennial of the United States.

Opening the "bicentennial era," the President said the nations goal over the next five years is "the building of an open world."

RAPPING PIGS — In Vietnam, U.S. commander Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said in a Fourth of July message to his men that America's independence "remained unchanged but not unchallenged."

From 50 to 125 American soldiers celebrated the day at Chu Lai beach, rapping, smoking and enjoying what they called their "Independence day from the pigs (career Army men)."

Back home, some 200 persons gathered Sunday to hear a program of speakers in Boston's historic Faneuil Hall, where John Hancock and Samuel Adams once exhorted their compatriots in Revolutionary War times.

Members of various patriotic groups took part in a flag raising ceremony at Boston's City Hall plaza, then marched to the old granary burial ground where they decorated the graves of Hancock, Adams and others.

CAST OF '1776' — In New York, the cast of "1776," a musical based on the drafting of the Declaration of Independence, gathered in Times Square in costume to read the document aloud.

A small crowd gathered at the Statue of Liberty to witness the wedding of Jana Gillespie and Bruce Foster, who had received permission from the National Park Service to conduct the ceremony there.

In Philadelphia, where the Declaration was signed, the main events take place today. They include a parade of flags from the original 13 states and a sound and light history show at Independence Hall.

Milwaukee celebrated Sunday with its ninth annual Old Milwaukee Days circus parade. Thousands of youngsters perched on parents' shoulders to get a better view of the two-hour parade complete with a steam ca-

Power(ful) Big Errors

ST. ALBANS, England (AP) — Sidney West got an electric bill for 19 pounds—$45.60—and told the company it was too high.

The company agreed but sent a new bill for 37 pounds—$88.80. Sidney pointed out that the change was in the wrong direction. The company said it was sorry, but the third bill was for 56 pounds—$134.40.

West figured out his own bill and sent the company 4.50 pounds—$10.80.

"It was a string of human errors," said the company. "We do make mistakes sometimes."

MYSTERY

Emmitt Miller, 1110 North Scurry, was shot in the shoulder Sunday morning and was taken by private car to Medical Center Memorial Hospital.

Miller was released from the hospital later Sunday and was scheduled to re-enter sometime today for surgery on his shoulder to remove the bullet.

"No charges have been filed in the shooting, although Miller told police he knew who had shot him. At this time we have few details on the shooting," said McCain.

He said that investigation was continuing pending a statement from Miller due later today.

Teen Injured In Accident

A two-car collision Sunday at 3 p.m. at IS 20 and SH 350 in front of the Texaco Service station resulted in one person being taken to Medical Center Memorial Hospital for examination and treatment.

Brenda Hester, 15, a passenger in a car driven by her mother, Mrs. Joy W. Hester, Box 600, Snyder Hwy., was treated and released at Malone and Hogan Clinic. No other injuries were reported.

Mrs. Margaret Lloyd, 2308 Roberts, was the driver of the other vehicle.

Police patrolmen Leroy Spires led the accident.

IT WAS LIKE THIS, OFFICER — Sean O'Reilly, 23-year-old San Franciscan, is viewed by curious New Yorkers Sunday after he parachuted into the city's Central Park and was given a summons for doing so by police. O'Reilly said he was taking pictures of the park when an abrupt tilt of the plane thrust him out an open door. He landed in a tree and scraped his arm. "I wouldn't have jumped on purpose," O'Reilly explained, referring to Federal Aviation Administration regulations that could prevent him from jumping again. He described himself as a stunt parachutist.

Two Arrested For Rapes

Two youths were arrested Saturday by Howard County Sheriff's deputies in connection with two alleged rapes that were reported at 5 a.m. and 6:50 a.m. Saturday.

One man, 17, was released on $5,000 bond set by Peace Justice Jess Slaughter. The second youth, 16, is in custody in county jail pending disposition by the county juvenile office.

Lenorah Hot Oil Company Growing

LENORAH — A new business based in Lenorah is rapidly expanding in service to oil drillers and oil companies working sites in that thriving oil area.

Leonorah Hot Oil Service Incorporated was started Jan. 1, of this year and was founded by interested farmers and ranchers in and around Lenorah. "We all decided to go on a business adventure, and already the company has assets of approximately $70,000," said Myrl D. Mitchell, one of the co-owners.

Glen Cox, Marshall Yates, J. C. Epley, and Sammy Yates are the other part owners in the growing business.

"I like to feel we are helping the economy of the community. We saw a need for a good business here. It has turned out to be profitable for the community and has been a good business adventure for us, the owners," said Mitchell.

The company has two $25,000 hot oil trucks that are the working units of the company. The operation of the business is the purification process of oil, getting the water content out of the crude oil and also the paraffin content out of the oil lines by a process of boiling the oil.

Joe Weatherby, Leo Cullison and Olen Ingram are the three full-time employees of the firm.

A Son Kicked The Habit But Death Caught Up With Young Jackie Robinson

By BOB JOHNSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Like a lot of boys, Jack thought life was a bad deal. He dropped out. He turned on. He became a drug addict. But finally, as the kids say, he got his head together.

He was like a lot of boys — except that his father was Jackie Robinson, college football star, first black player in major league baseball, successful business executive.

Like a lot of fathers, Jackie Robinson found that his success was useless in dealing with his son — it even hurt.

Those are among the things Robinson reflects on now that his son is dead.

LOST AGAIN

"You know, you just don't lose a boy after finding him, lose him again and not really feel it," Robinson says.

But there are other memories of Jack Robinson Jr. that hurt less. There is the letter from the 40-year-old addict who wrote that Jack Jr. helped him find a new perspective of life. There was the visit from the 33-year-old addict who said that in trying to help him, Jack Jr. often seemed to be the 33-year-old and he, the addict, only 24.

"You know," Robinson said, "it kind of took some of the pain away to see the contributions he had made."

Young Jack died on June 17 when his car hit a parkway railing. He was working with the drug organization that had saved him. He counseled addicts and his big current project was organizing a benefit jazz concert at his parents' home.

LONG AGO

The Robinsons thought it over and going ahead with the concert seemed to be the right thing to do.

At the concert just five days after the funeral, Robinson looked past the crowd and reflected how he lost a son, found him and lost him again.

"I think it started a long, long time ago," Robinson said, "when he resented people talking to him about his father. He was very young, you know, and it built up something in him, I think, and all of a sudden he rebelled against it, and it came about after he developed some potential as a Little Leaguer."

Branch Rickey, boss of the old Brooklyn Dodgers, had hand-picked Jackie to integrate baseball, and Jackie used to tell his son "that I thought he had the kind of ability that Mr. Rickey talked about."

But the kids on the ball teams razed him, and the adults kept comparing him to his dad.

PRESSURE

"There was always that comparison," Jackie said, "and even though at that time there was a great deal of warmth and a great deal of love between us, the pressure started to get real hard on him and all of a sudden he, you know, just kind of started to pull away."

"He was always out, not happy at home, very sullen, very quiet. And the next thing you know he wanted to go into the service."

One day he came home from New York and boasted that he and a friend had smoked marijuana.

"We questioned him about it," Robinson said, "and like many young kids today he kept saying: 'I don't care what you say, I like the taste of it, I know it's not going to affect me, I'm strong, I'm not going to go on heroin.'"

IN VIETNAM

Jackie dropped out of high school at 17, enlisted in the Army and was wounded in Vietnam while serving in the 1st Infantry Division.

"I don't think he took heroin over there, but he knew how accessible it was and how easily the kids got it," Robinson said.

But there was no question that Jack Jr. smoked pot in Vietnam and was still on it when he came home at 19. And he was still obsessed by the desire to excel. This time he chose crime. With a gang of Stamford boys he tried everything from stealing hub caps to burglary.

"You name it," his father said, "They were doing it." The Robinsons knew things weren't right, but they didn't know what was wrong. "We really didn't recognize the kind of problems that he had," Robinson said.

DIDN'T TELL

Among things Jackie did not tell his parents was that now he had started using heroin.

His father thinks it happened when pot lost its kick for him. "You go to a party and you're on marijuana and everybody's having so much fun and the marijuana does nothing to you and you want to join in — and you're on the heroin kick."

Jackie ran away to Colorado, where he had been stationed for a while in the Army. He worked the dice table in a gambling joint. The Robinsons found him and made several trips to talk to him. He began to drift back and forth between Stamford and Colorado.

At least he was arrested and charged with possession of narcotics and a pistol. The judge ordered him to undergo treatment for drug addiction.

He went to Daytop Inc., a rehabilitation center at Seymour, Conn. Daytop is headed by a reformed addict, Kenneth Williams, and his assistants are other addicts who have kicked the habit.

TOUGH

Because they have been through the agony of going off dope, the Daytop people are tough. They make certain the addicts want to be cured. They strip them to essentials and then try to rebuild them. They discovered the only thing Jackie still liked about himself was his beard and mustache. They made him shave.

But six months after entering Daytop, Jackie was arrested in a Stamford hotel room and charged with using a female for immoral purposes. This time the court sentenced him to two to four years — but suspended the sentence and ordered him back to Daytop.

"It was always our contention that Jackie wanted to be arrested," Robinson said, "or why else would he keep on going back to the same place where he was broken the first time... the same hotel, the same thing, where the police knew him, and everybody else."

HE MADE IT

But Jackie made it through the Daytop program. Williams became a second father to him. Jackie became assistant regional director of Daytop and his goal was to establish his own center in Stamford.

"From 21 or so until 24 he began to find himself, and we had him back for just a year where, you know, we were a family," his father said. And that's the way it was at 2:20 a.m. on June 17 when Jackie's car hit a guard rail of the Merritt Parkway at a speed that threw the engine 200 feet from the frame.

"I have to think that he went to sleep," his father said, "because he had been putting so many long hours into the jazz program. And you talk to Kenny — in fact, I asked him about it, and Kenny says you rest assured he was not on dope."

At Jackie's funeral, one of the eulogies had referred to him as a "beautiful, black brave warrior," and Williams had picked up the phrase in opening the jazz concert.

Robinson thought it was fitting. "He was trying so desperately to get people to understand themselves. Black people, mainly. It was his spirit."

Jack D. Powell, director of the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, announced that the hospital has been authorized 21 additional full time positions. He said this is another effort on the part of the Veterans Administration to maintain high quality medical care for the veterans.

The positions have all been filled and has increased the staff to 277. These are in addition to the 13 part time employees and hundreds of volunteer workers. This will add $176,722 per year to the local economy. The additional positions include one each social worker, pharmacy assistant, X-ray technician, and physician, four clerical employees, two housekeeping aides, four nurses, six nursing assistants and two pulmonary function technicians.

Note To British: The 'Super Mex' Is Coming

By The Associated Press

MONTREAL (AP) — "I'm going over and give 'em hell," Lee Trevino said after adding the Canadian Open title to his growing list of professional golf crowns this year.

"You can tell 'em Super Mex is on the way."

The talkative and colorful character, now winner of four tournaments and closing in on $200,000 in prize money for the season, was looking ahead to the British Open, which begins Wednesday at Southport, England.

It will be his third national championship in four weeks. He won the other two, taking his second U.S. Open crown in Ardmore, Pa., three weeks ago then adding the Canadian title with a sudden-death playoff victory Sunday over veteran Art Wall.

Trevino fired a final-round 67, five-under-par on the 6,920-yard Richelieu Valley Golf Club course and caught Wall at 47 the oldest man in the final field—at 27, 13 under par, after the regulation 72 holes.

Wall, a non-winner since 1966, missed the green on the first playoff hole, then saw his chip slide just over the edge of the cup.

Trevino was on it two, some 18 feet away, and rolled it in for a birdie. He threw his cap in the air, gave his blonde wife a big kiss and suddenly was the first man to win both the American and Canadian national titles in a single year since Tommy Armour did it in 1927.

It was a two-man race through the final round. No one else was even close.

Phil Rodgers was alone in third at 281, six strokes back. R.H. Sikes was at 283, Bob Rosenberg 284 and George Archer, Cary Wilcox and Lou Graham one goal.

The victory was worth $30,000 to Trevino, six years ago a $35-a-week assistant pro on a desert driving range in El Paso, Tex. It pushed his leading money winning total for the year to $195,869 and put him within striking range of at least one goal.

"I'd like to break Billy Casper's record of $205,000 in a single season," he said.

It was a heartbreaker for the quiet, gentle Wall, who held a two-stroke lead going into the final round, played in bright, warm sunshine. He had a 69 for his final round, and had to fight off Trevino all day.

WINNER BY A NOSE — Lee Trevino appears to have contracted what could at best be described as a temporary rearrangement of features in Montreal Sunday as he blasts out of a bunker during final-round action in the Canadian Open, which he won. What seems to be a monstrous nose is the ball coming out of the trap.

Astros Clip Reds Again

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — When Houston Astros second baseman Joe Morgan climbs up out of a hitting slump, he climbs all the way out.

And this time it all started in the Astros bullpen.

Morgan went into Sunday's game against Cincinnati in the depths of an 0-for-16 slump. But he slugged a single, triple and home run as the Astros belted the Reds 6-1 and extended their successful homestand to 7-2.

The Astros also provided some of their own Fourth of July fireworks with a shouting and showing match between outfielder Cesar Cedeno and third baseman Doug Rader in the third inning.

Whitaker And Pace Win Muny Partnership Crown

Jim Whitaker and Benny Pace, a pair of collegians from Sweetwater, made their first day lead stand up by clipping off a stroke to capture the Big Spring Municipal Open Partnership Golf tournament here Sunday.

The Texas Tech duo fired a 64 on the second day, nine under par, to finish with a 129, five strokes ahead of Max Pitts and Ray Blum of Big Spring, Richard Pachall and Jerry Barron, another Big Spring pair, who were only two strokes off after the first day's play, slipped a notch when they could only equal their first day score, thus finished third.

John Disoway and Jay Chatfield, Big Spring, took first flight honors with an aggregate of 139 for the two days.

Second Flight honors went to Tim Hamilton, Loraine, and Willy Breland, Seymour, with a 143 on the strength of a salty 68 round Sunday.

Bill Membrane and D. O. Gray, Big Spring, were winners of the third flight with 151. Seventy-four teams entered the tournament that paid $200, $150 and $100 per team in each of the four flights.

Tennis Tourney Opens Friday

A large field is expected July 9-10 for the Big Spring Closed Tennis tournament which will see competition in 10 events.

Trophies will be awarded to winners and runners up in all divisions, said Novice Kniffen, who will direct the meet.

All entries must be in the hands of Coach Kniffen, Rt. 1, Box 438A, no later than Wednesday (July 7). The fee is $2.50 per person for each event, but young netters wanting to compete in more than one event in the 12, 14 and 16-year brackets may do so for $1 each.

Entry fees should accompany the entries mailed to Coach Kniffen, and the player should list his first and last name, the amount of the fees paid, the events to be entered, and the name of a partner if complete.

Cardinals Nip Lubbock Team

The Big Spring Cardinals rode the masterful pitching arm of Tony Fierro to victory Sunday in the nightcap of the double-bill at Steer Stadium, beating the Lubbock Rhinos 4-0.

Fierro allowed only one hit, that a single to Mike Adams, the Rhinos' hurler, who himself threw a great game with only five hits. A single by Pat Martinez and a bobble on Benny Marquez' roller set the stage for a home run blast by Billy Pineda in the top of the first.

After that Adams was sharp except for a walk, fielder's choice and a hit by Pat Martinez in the fourth.

The Cardinals now are 12-6 and will entertain the Snyder Pirates here Sunday. Today five members of the Cardinals — Felix Martinez, Junior Mendoza, Pat Martinez Jr., Tony Martinez, and Joe Martinez — will play on the all-star team at Lamesa at 2 p.m. in Lobo Park. Benny Marquez of the Cards will serve as co-manager of the stars from Big Spring, Brownfield, San Angelo and Midland to face an all-star group from Del Rio.

Donohue Hops From Pocono Win To One In Donnybrooke

By The Associated Press

Mark Donohue, admitting to a lack of sleep, apparently is putting his auto race driver opponents into a coma.

The 34-year-old veteran from Media, Pa., won the inaugural Schaefer 500-mile race at the new Pocono International Raceway in Mount Pocono, Pa., Saturday, then flew to Brainerd, Minn., arriving at 2 a.m., and after winning the pole position in a morning qualifying run, he finished first in the GBX Trans-American 210-mile sedan race at Donnybrooke Sunday.

"I didn't sleep well," confessed Donohue after his second victory in 27 hours. "Yes, I was a little weary. When I drove those three qualifying laps this morning, I thought that was going to be all I could do. Then I had to go another 70 laps (the length of the race)."

As tired as Donohue might have been, he didn't show it. He beat runner-up Peter Revson of New York by $3.1 seconds on Donnybrooke's three-mile road course. Donohue's time was 2:08:59.6—an average of 97.5 miles an hour.

Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N.C., the 1970 Grand National champion, with a lot of victories on small tracks but none at a superspeedway, ended Bobby Allison's four-race winning streak at the big tracks, capturing the Firecracker 400-mile race Sunday at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Isaac, driving a 1971 Dodge, average 161.943 miles an hour for the 160 laps around the Daytona International Speedway course. Three other members of the Dodge-Plymouth team finished behind him.

Talons Capture Playoff Berth

The Talons eased past the T-Birds, 7-6, to break the tie for third place in the International Little League city playoffs Sunday night.

The T-Birds trailed 7-3 going into the bottom of the sixth inning. They were stopped short at three runs in a comeback effort.

Fred Pickett, Junior Foster and Steve Thornton combined pitching talents to throw the tiebreaker to the Talon corner.

Pickett, Mike Yarbrough, Tim Craver, Thornton and Glenn Reyes got hits for extra bases for the Talons.

Dunbar and Barney Mashburn of the T-Birds had hits for extra bases, also.

For Mine Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bureau of Mines' top health and safety official agrees with critics that the bureau has not fully enforced the 1969 coal mine health and safety act, but says that won't be true much longer.

Deputy director Henry P. Wheeler said many coal mine operators won't obey health and safety requirements until the bureau forces them, and it hasn't had enough manpower to do that.

By the end of this year — maybe as soon as September or October — it will have the men it needs for full enforcement, Wheeler added.

Wheeler was interviewed Friday following two days of public hearings in which witnesses leveled a barrage of charges for which Wheeler and other bureau officials had few answers.

"Sure, the intent of Congress was that we do every damn thing the law requires," said Wheeler, "but we just couldn't do it. Before long, we're going to be able to say we are doing everything the law requires."

During the hearings, Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W.Va., expressed shock at a statement by lawyers for coal operators, implying the bureau offered to reduce their fines for violations if they would stop fighting enforcement efforts.

Wheeler told Hechler, "I don't believe it," later in the interview, he said "I doubt very much that our people have ever gone to them with a reduction in a penalty assessment... but I know many of the penalties have been reduced."

Two other witnesses charged that coal mine operators were tipped off in advance of federal inspections, giving them time to make normally lax mines look good for the inspectors.

"There is evidence... that mine officials are being forewarned 6 to 24 hours of a federal mine health inspection," said Dr. Lorin E. Kerr, occupational health director for the United Mine Workers Union.

And Harry Niklow, a mine worker at U. S. Steel Company's Maple Creek mine in southwest Pennsylvania, said that "on inspections, we are told to inspect the machinery before the federal inspectors come in. In other words, the company and the federal are tipping each other off."

David Mayo, a senior at George Washington University here, told the hearing that mine operators were still not making required samplings of the airborne dust that causes deadly "Black Lung" disease, although sampling devices became commercially available at least four months ago.

Mayo had also charged that, when the bureau did crack down on dusty mines, it avoided using the tougher of two possible procedures — the one which would force a company to pay its idled workers up to one week's pay during a dust-enforced closure.

Cuba And Mexico Agree
On Airline Schedules

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Cuba and Mexico have agreed to a new bilateral air treaty which will allow Cubana Airlines to continue its twice weekly flights between Havana and Mexico City, Cuban Ambassador Joaquin Hernandez Armas said Saturday.

Mexico renounced the old treaty a year ago. That pact would have expired Aug. 11 and the flights would have stopped if the new treaty had not been agreed upon.

Hernandez Armas said the final draft of the treaty is not yet ready and gave no indication when the new document might be signed.

Mexico's renunciation of the old treaty came after Cuba refused to allow the extradition to Mexico of hijackers of Mexican Airline planes.

But Hernandez Armas said Cuba had agreed to a Mexican demand that a clause be included in the new treaty which WATERTOWN, Conn. (AP) — Five policemen—one-fifth of the entire force in Watertown—were sent scurrying to the Colonial Bank and Trust Co. on Main Street when someone called police and told them a man was going into the bank carrying a submachine gun.

The policemen started catching their breath when they arrived at the bank Thursday and saw a cleaning truck in front of it.

It turned out that a janitor had walked in with a vacuum cleaner tucked under his arm.

Construction
In State Up

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas Contractor, a trade publication, will say in its Tuesday edition that construction contracts for the first half of this year set a record at $841 million.

This was $100 million higher than a year ago, stimulated by two Texas Highway Department contract lettings and a number of multi-million-dollar contracts. A record also was set for any June at $172 million, almost $28 million above the old June record set in 1967.

Leading the June awards was the $12 million to Browning Construction Co. of San Antonio for an aircraft engine inspection and repair shop at Kelly Air Force Base at San Antonio.

Cullum Construction Co. of Dallas won a $5.5 million contract for Phase II of the Cedar Creek pipeline connecting the reservoir with Fort Worth.

A $5.4 million contract went to O'Meara-Chandler-Benson Corp. of Houston for facilities at the University of Houston.

Trial Is Ordered
In Photog Suit
Against Jackie

NEW YORK (AP) — A trial has been ordered in the $1.3 million damage suit brought against Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis by professional photographer Ronald E. Galella.

Judge Edward G. McLean, of U.S. District Court, also ordered Friday a trial in Mrs. Onassis' $1.5 million countersuit against Galella. McLean denied Mrs. Onassis' petition to dismiss the photographer's suit.

Galella charges that Mrs. Onassis and three Secret Service agents interfered with his livelihood during attempts to take pictures of Mrs. Onassis and her children in Central Park in 1969.

TVA Is Facing Problems Of Environmental Control

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The urge for progress often is condemned as an unstoppable force that can wreck the environment.

For the Tennessee Valley Authority, progress could be forced to take a back seat to environmental preservation if the two can't be made compatible.

"It will require dogged determination to preserve genuine quality in the environment without allowing unfounded hysteria to drive us to sacrifice our economic achievement," TVA Chairman Aubrey J. Wagner said in an interview.

Once controversial merely by its existence, TVA has striven over its 38 years to become an accepted part of the establishment.

CONTROVERSY

As so often happens, the controversy is spawning again — now as a spinoff of the nation's growing impulse to save the environment.

The thrust of the controversy, as espoused by conservationists, is tailored to depict TVA as a massive self-perpetuating governmental agency, insidiously unresponsive and unresponsive to the goal of improving the ecology.

The interest of the debate has far-reaching implications, because the TVA operation at times has impact on conditions from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico and from New England to Oklahoma and Texas.

The TVA declares it can conclusively prove it has an environmental conscience.

When President Roosevelt asked Congress in 1933 to create TVA, his aims were twofold: to supply jobs to ease the Depression and to utilize the land in a progressive way.

HIGHER COSTS

This was accomplished by establishing a comprehensive flood control program, providing a navigation system on the Tennessee River northward to the Ohio River and generating low-cost electricity to the public.

All the goals were met, though electricity bills have zoomed upward in recent years because of increased costs.

But with time came the collision of progress and environment.

"Overcoming the rising menace of environmental deterioration is a goal fully as important as our trailblazing efforts to promote all-electric living," Wagner said. "We must continue to use electric power as an inseparable part of a total conservation program."

One battleground between TVA and environmentalists is how to cope with the far-reaching results power production has on the ecological balance of the seven-state valley region.

LESS ELECTRICITY

"The magnitude of these environmental problems has brought some individuals to the conclusion that they can best be met in the long run only by cutting back on the use of electricity," Wagner said. "We can foresee a rising debate in the nation over this question."

One such problem emanates from the strip mining of coal, used for fuel by TVA in generating electricity.

Some 33 million tons are used annually by TVA to supply power, one-half of it gouged from land in Illinois, Indiana, Oklahoma, Alabama, Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Conservationists say the mining has ruined the landscape, polluted nearly every nearby stream and river with silt and acid from mines, and left thousands homeless.

TVA counters that its purchases of strip-mined coal are necessary to avert a disastrous power shortage. "If utilities generally were prohibited from using strip-mined coal, the nation would face complete chaos," Wagner said.

DAMS

Another subject for debate is dams.

TVA sees dam construction a way of providing "foundation building blocks for spiraling industrial growth." On the other side, nationally known conservationist Michael Fromme sees dam building as a "psychotic fixation."

In August, 1969, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas vehemently attacked TVA's Tellico Dam project on the Little Tennessee River near Knoxville, declaring the $54 million dam was the brainchild of "political hacks with a compulsion for make-work projects for the purpose of self-perpetuation."

Douglas said the Little Tennessee was a "clear, lovely wild river and Tennessee's finest trout stream."

Not so, said TVA. Far from being a wild, free-flowing stream, they asserted the Little Tennessee was controlled by 18 upstream dams. And as for trout, TVA said they are in the river "because the Tennessee Game and Fish Commission puts them there."

LOST BATTLE

The battle continued, but the 60 organizations actively opposed to Tellico Dam lost their battle, as the project nears completion with the blessing of some $20 million in federal funds.

There is little question that the TVA's 32-dam network has enhanced the economic progress of the Tennessee Valley region, and that it has prevented $500 million in flood damage.

But again, collision: TVA's "The choice is clear. Either the area can continue on its present course, economically declining from year to year, but with the cornfields and pastures preserved or it can begin now to rebuild, using the developed resources of the region to bring about healthy growth and prosperity."

An environmentalist: "One has to wonder when all this dam-building mania by TVA is going to come to an end. They have accomplished flood control, therefore no further dams would be needed for this purpose. Secondly, steam plants have taken over the major production of electricity and the future holds the possibility that all power may be generated by atomic energy — thereby virtually rendering useless hydroelectric generation."

Hydroelectric power, used by TVA in its infant years to provide electricity, proved inadequate in meeting the seven-state region's snowballing power demands. The TVA had to rely on coal-fired steam plants.

Result: collision.

TVA's power plants emit massive amounts of heated water into streams — a potential danger to aquatic life. This thermal discharge will be even greater as the TVA moves into nuclear power production. It now has two atomic facilities under construction and plans two more.

The TVA is spending millions to control the effects of heated water. At two of its nuclear plants, large underwater pipes some 2,000 feet long — are being laid to carry hot water from the plants to cool, large streamflow areas.

"We do not and will not forget environmental requirements," said Wagner. "But the construction of cooling towers could add millions of dollars to consumers' bills for electricity."

"People are very strong for all kinds of environmental improvements until they get the bill for them," he added.

Rogers Orders Bureau Revamping

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton has instructed bureaus and offices of his department to conform to a new regional pattern for field offices in the country.

The instructions, signed June 17 and made public Saturday, mean a substantial revamping of Interior's regional alignment.

Morton asked that the alignment conform as closely as practicable with the 10 region federal organization goal President Nixon outlined in 1969.

Morton asked that plans for conforming be submitted by Sept. 1 and the changes be completed by July, 1972.

SCLC Official Tours World

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Southern Christian Leadership Conference official Hosea Williams says he is leaving on a worldwide fact finding and goodwill tour for the SCLC.

Williams said the trip will take him to 16 nations including Vietnam and Cuba. He said he would present leaders of each country a film documentary on the life of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who founded SCLC.

Interviewer Gets The Word From Johnson's Associates

By ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Only one man knows how some important decisions were reached, although the Pentagon Papers are revealing a few secrets.

Only one man other than Johnson knows how some important decisions were reached, although the Pentagon Papers are revealing a few secrets.

This knowledge makes Dr. Joe Frantz, University of Texas history professor, the foremost authority on former President Lyndon Johnson.

Frantz is director of the Oral History Project at the Johnson Presidential Library.

He has taped interviews with "about 1,000" persons, including Johnson's political enemies, and accumulated 10 million words on the Johnson presidency and earlier public years.

"If I listened eight hours a day—did nothing but listen, by which time I'd be a nut—it would take us nearly eight months just to listen to it all, without taking a note," Frantz said in an interview.

And he is only two-thirds of the way through the project.

"The great majority of the interviewees were candid, and although some of Lyndon Johnson's opponents may have been a little guarded in their statements, others laid it on the line to the fullest," he said.

One senator described a previous president in language so hot a secretary refused to type it.

"We have had some who talked in their natural language. We've had one in particular who used all the ultimate obscenities but would always say, 'excuse me,' immediately afterward," Frantz said.

Each interviewee is allowed to choose when his remarks may be seen by scholars or researchers. This means considerable material will be locked up until the year 2000 and beyond. Only Frantz or his successor will have access to all of it before then.

"About half give minimum or no restrictions," Frantz said. "Of the remaining half, probably two-thirds of them would put on mild to fairly good restrictions (2-10 years), and the remaining one-third put on some real stiff ones (anything over 10 years)."

"Some are for the lifetime of anyone mentioned herein," he said. "In one case there were a whole set of interviewees; and a lot of people involved are in their 20s."

"To a great extent we're trying to figure out how things got done, how you take a great big amorphous federal government and someone has an idea and somewhere down the line it actually gets translated into an administration policy and into perhaps legislation or a directive, and at the same time learn what the alternatives were or what the roadblocks were," he said.

Frantz' unique position gives him an advantage among scholars if he decides to write about the Johnson administration.

"I'm purposely vague on that, but given good luck and so forth something is bound to surface down the line. I feel right now I would prejudice the whole thing if I were seeking information for a book I wanted to do," he said.

"My only advantage on this is the same sort of advantage you get off the record," he said. "If other scholars make an educated guess on how a certain member of the Cabinet or other high official stood on an issue, Frantz will know if the scholar is correct because "we have his (the official's) own words."

"Each interview educates me for some other interview. That's one reason I haven't tried to see the President (Johnson), because I get smarter all the time. I'm taking a calculated risk (that Johnson will die before he interviews him) like you do with anyone by waiting," he said.

Only a few people have refused to be interviewed. One of these is J. Edgar Hoover, but Frantz said he still has hopes of getting the FBI director on tape.

Another is Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

and longtime leading dove on the Vietnam War. Fulbright has not indicated whether he is willing to be taped, "just that he can't do it now," Frantz said.

"There's a little bit of reluctance on the part of people who think they might run for future national office, which you can understand. They'd just rather not lay it on the line just yet—'What I don't say won't ever leak,'" he said.

"I know one Cabinet officer who said absolutely not. I wrote him a letter and told him, 'I've seen X, Y and Z and your name figures in it. Now do you want your version or do you want to be left out of it?' So he agreed to do it," he said.

Does he find the job exciting after all these months?

"Yes, sometimes I find it terribly exhilarating," he said.

Asks Payment For Busing Children

DALLAS (AP) — A father of three pupils has asked a judge for at least $40,000 for "unnecessary expense and economic injury" if transfer of his children to distant schools becomes necessary.

James T. Maxwell filed a motion to intervene in a desegregation suit pending against the Dallas school system.

It asks U.S. Dist. Judge William M. Taylor Jr. to deny the plea from minority group parents which has led to a proposal for widespread busing of public school pupils. This would wipe out what administrators call their neighborhood school concept.

Maxwell asked in event the judge decides to change school zones that pupils be allowed to transfer from schools where the percentage of their race is greater than the system's city-wide average to schools where their race is below that average.

"Any student who chooses to transfer to another school in accordance with these provisions shall be provided with adequate transportation to attend such school," Maxwell's motion said, "and to participate in all extra-curricular activities normally permitted or conducted."

SHE'S STILL IN SHOCK

MANCHESTER, N. H. (AP) — When Cynthia Frink, 18, picked up the telephone at the store where she works a voice on the other end of the line said, "This is the President."

Miss Frink said President Nixon called her to congratulate her on the valedictory speech she gave at Manchester's Central High School.

She had told her fellow graduates during the speech:

"I believe in military strength, patriotism, saluting the flag and the Star Spangled Banner."

Miss Frink said President Nixon told her he was glad to hear something that was positive and good.

"I'm still in shock," she said.

Casually Yours

By JO BRIGHT

Hi! How was the holiday? I know it was nice for the Frog Rogers. Their houseguests were his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Koger of Fort Worth, but the star of the show is little Jennifer Passow, Frog and Ink's granddaughter, who is remaining here while her parents, John and Karen Passow are on a month's vacation to Denver, Chicago and Kansas City. John is one of Continental Airlines' handsome pilots.

A few houses down the street from the Kogers, Mrs. Dorothy Garrett and daughter, Sue, along with Dorothy's sister, Mrs. Howard Kemper are preparing to leave on their trip to Europe. They've probably exchanged a few notes with another nearby neighbor, Mrs. Raymond Tollett, who will leave July 20 with her daughter, Iris Ann, for an around-the-world trip which will take them to British Columbia, Samoa, Hawaii, Ceylon, Sydney, Singapore, South Africa and lots of those places in between.

Among those stopping by the Tollett home briefly Sunday afternoon were Mrs. Bobbie Lassiter and her guests, her brother, Clyde Womack of Richmond, Calif., and her sister, Mrs. Grace Modzeleski, presently living in Wink. Mrs. Modzeleski is the mother of Mrs. Frank (Cathryn) Barton, whose husband is superintendent of schools at Wink.

Understand two other couples are planning a trip soon — Mr. and Mrs. Cui Grigsby (Anthonys) and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Jennings (Mead Auto Supply) are talking about Martinique, which is always an exciting place.

Mrs. Ray Boren is probably doing a little fancy cooking today. She and Ray are expecting houseguests tomorrow. Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Neely are coming up from Austin, and the two couples have a lot of catching up to do.

"Catching up" may take a little longer over at Mrs. Shire Phillips' house, because daughter, Champe, is home from Saigon where she has been supervising a children's hospital. Champe is always full of news and surprises, so I hope to see her soon. I don't believe she'll be going back to Vietnam, which will make Mama happy.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Petree (Debbie Duncan) are still vacationing. They brushed up on history around Washington, D.C., then headed for the East Coast. Joining them for part of the trip is his mother, Mrs. Betty Petree, and her father, Mr. Cone.

Gadabout Franchelle Moore (the lady of the convent at Stanton) sends a Spanish post card from Madrid, I think. Can't make it out for sure. She scribbled something about a fabulous island, but will have to wait for her return to get the details.

Will Inkman, DE program consultant for the Texas Education Agency, is back from a week in El Paso. George Rice, who is associated with the high school DE program, has been out of town, too. Didn't have much fun, tho. He underwent surgery in Lubbock. Home now, he's getting good care from Mrs. Rice while mending.

One of my favorite photographers, Frank Brandon, and Mrs. Brandon are on a busman's holiday at the Inn of the Hills in Kerrville where they are vacationing and attending a seminar sponsored by the Texas Photographer's Association.

Co-worker Barb Lord and her husband, Capt. Kenneth Lord, are taking it easy somewhere today, but before leaving Friday, they hurried back out to Webb AFB to say hello to her brother, Capt. Jay Keeler of Williams AFB who stopped briefly for refueling.

Deadline. Call me?

(AP WIREPHOTO)

READY FOR FORT WORTH — A motorbike would be one way for Miss Athens to get to Fort Worth for the upcoming Miss Texas Pageant. But Judy Bonds will travel by car and confine her frequent motorbike trips to the Cedar Creek Lake and Kemp area. The pretty Miss Bonds will be a sophomore at Henderson County Junior College in the fall.

JUAREZ RECOVERING FROM LOST REVENUE

New Divorce Laws Changing 'Wild' Ways Of Border City

By ELOY O. AGUILAR
CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — The courtrooms where Hollywood stars waited in line are deserted. Occupancy rates in hotels are below normal. International bridge advertising "divorces" are not even lighted.

This is Ciudad Juarez since Nov. 7 when the law that put an end to the quickie divorces, one of the city's best known industries, went into effect.

"I guess you could say that our era of glamour is gone," said Aureliano Gonzalez Vargas, one of Juarez' most distinguished lawyers and a former mayor. His office handles corporate and industrial legal affairs but he personally handled, among others, the divorces of Marilyn Monroe, Greek magnate Stavros Niarchos, Paulette Goddard, Franklin Delano Roosevelt Jr. and John Levent. "But we will survive this," he added. "Juarez never lived off the quickie divorces although they did give the city an international fame that may be interpreted as good or bad." "Now we will just have to work on something else," he went on. "At first we will all feel the economic impact of the loss of income, represented by the handling of 20,000 divorce cases a year."

The impact in this city across from El Paso has been felt. Juarez and El Paso constitute a twin-city international area with a combined population of nearly one million, evenly divided between the two cities. Juarez is no longer the wild town of the past two decades when prostitution, drugs and abortion were common.

Tourist shops and elegant restaurants have replaced most of the tourist traps and night clubs on Juarez Avenue. The city's red light district, only a few blocks from main street near the Rio Grande, is decaying rapidly. It caters mostly to soldiers from El Paso bases.

City streets have been paved. Juarez has built new hotels. The city offers fancy shopping center where supermarkets—here called Mexica tessens—attract many El Paso shoppers with lower prices.

Nearly 18,000 Juarez residents commute daily to work in El Paso.

El Paso's military bases and its heavy industries provide a steady economic growth while Juarez is surging with the arrival of in-bound U.S. factories whose production is all exported to the United States. Japanese firms are also planning to settle on the Mexican side to take advantage of the cheap labor and of tax incentives offered by the Mexican government.

More than 20 U.S. factories are operating in Juarez—established in the past five years—injecting in the local economy a monthly payroll of $300,000.

Juarez also has Mexican industries, a new city university, a technological college and a school of agriculture.

Birthday Reunion At Lake

Mrs. G. C. Graves, 1601 Gregg, was honored last weekend with an annual birthday party and reunion at Kirtland Fishing Dock, Lake Brownwood, hosted by her children and their husbands and wives.

The children are Mrs. Wayne Campbell, Midland; Mrs. Emma Jo Poe, El Paso; G. C. Graves Jr., Hereford; Mrs. Johnnie Brinner, Snyder; and Jack Graves, San Antonio. All are school teachers except Jack who is a U.S. Marshal at San Antonio. Eighteen grandchildren were present, and other guests were Mrs. Richard Miller, Cathy and Sammy of Llano.

The group enjoyed fishing and water skiing. The 1972 reunion will be held at the same place.

She 'Shoots' Wild Animals

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer
TEANECK, N.J. (AP) — Joan Baron is a suburban housewife with a yen for excitement. So she spends her vacations with her family, hunting and photographing lions, leopards, cheetah and elephants in Africa.

Her safaris, booked through a safari company in Nairobi, have taken her to Kenya in 1967 and Tanzania last August. A third trip is being planned for the summer of 1972.

"We love the outdoors and wanted to get to Africa before the wildlife is gone," she said.

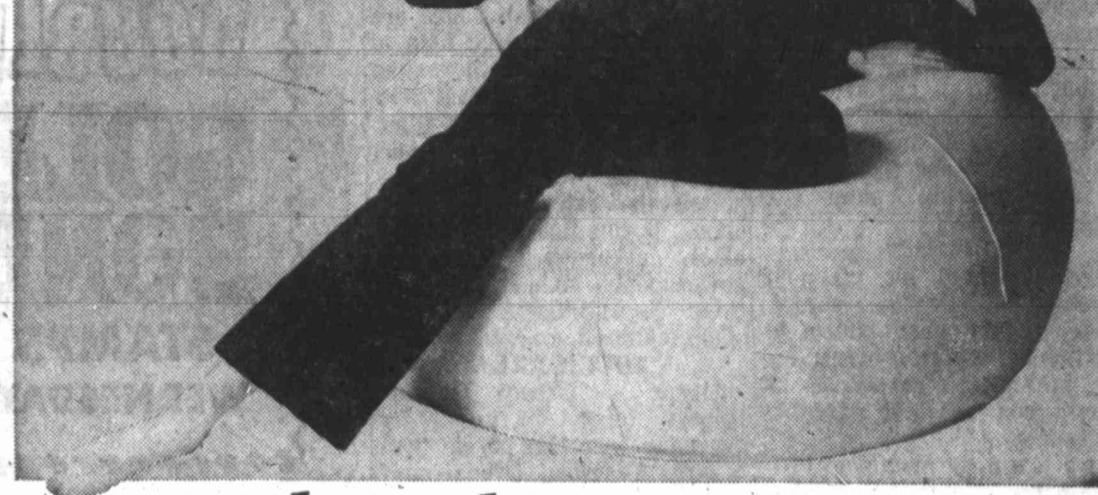

"We would wait on the hill-tops in the darkness of the morning and watch as the sun broke over the vast escarpment of northern Kenya to . . . reveal the haunting spectacle of nature," Mrs. Baron wrote in a catalogue accompanying a display of her color photographs at the Trans World Airlines Flight Center at Kennedy International Airport in New York.

The photography began on the first trip, when Mrs. Baron was accompanied by her husband, Dr. Harold Baron, a New York surgeon, and Bunny Ray, a professional hunter.

AT LONG LAST — Thomas B. Thompson, 79, is embraced by his bride, Emma, 76, after their recent wedding. The couple were sweethearts for three years in Judsonia, Ark., before Thompson left town to find work in 1912. A honeymoon trip to Hawaii is being planned.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:
The day of my husband's birthday, everything was in turmoil and in the midst of the hurry-scurry, his beautiful birthday cake would not come out of the pan. If nothing else went right, I hoped at least the cake would.

I could have gone out to buy one, but it just isn't the same as one made at home with lots of love in it . . . so here is what I did.

I layered cake pieces in the bottom of a casserole, spread softened ice cream over the top, then more cake and then more ice cream.

Next, I topped the whole thing with whipped cream, spelled "Happy Birthday" on top with small candies and popped it into the freezer until a few minutes before serving time.

Result, an ice cream cake that the kiddies, as well as "Birthday Dad" himself, really enjoyed. . . . Barbara Tuzio

Well, bless you, Barbara. And, gals, why wait until a cake fails? It's great! . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I'm a Boy Scout leader and therefore have occasion to open a can of beans every now and then.

Did you ever get mad at a can of beans because the lid got soaked in juice when you opened it and the beans had to be dug out with a spoon?

You can do away with both of these problems by opening the BOTTOM and not the top of the can.

I've found this to be a much better way of getting the beans from the can to the pot and much of the mess is eliminated. . . . A Scoutmaster

Dear Heloise:
I am a regular at a certain ironlaundromat and cannot believe some of the downright stupid things that I see there.

Being an avid fan of yours, I have a certain set routine so that money is saved, time is well spent, and most important, laundry comes out looking just like in the commercials.

As you have suggested: Bring from home just the right amount (plus a little extra) of detergent, bleach and fabric softener that is needed. Why lug big boxes and bottles when you don't have to! Have your clothes sorted before you go and don't go first thing in the morning — wait until someone else has spent their money to heat up the dryers.

Don't forget the most important items . . . hangers and a cardboard box or two. Why not make the machines work for you? Hang your permanent press clothing immediately, and after you have folded other clothing, don't stuff into your laundry bag, place them in the boxes.

I have quite an audience watching in amazement as mine is the whitest, brightest and wrinkle-free wash in town . . . and by the way, I'm just another . . . Bachelor.

LETTER OF THOUGHT
Dear Heloise:
I have a 25-room house, four children (the oldest of whom is eight), a job where my children meet me after school, and a teenager who helps out only a couple hours a week now and then.

To me, the greatest time saver I could offer anyone is DON'T IRON. If it's something that needs ironing, either don't buy it, or if you already have it, give it to someone who DOES iron.

Heroin Flow Is Curbed

PARIS (AP) — The U.S. Narcotics Bureau is claiming major successes in cutting down the flow of heroin from Europe and the Middle East to the United States.

But the bureau's director for Europe, John T. Cusack, acknowledges that the French processing labs that turn morphine base into heroin are still untouched. And he says Turkish opium growers continue high production, although officials there are trying to dry up the black market and have agreed to stop growing opium next year.

SEIZURES
Cusack based his claim of success on narcotics seizures made by European police departments with the assistance of intelligence, expertise of money from the U.S. Narcotics Bureau.

In the first six months of 1971, 1,353 kilos of heroin and morphine base were seized from Spain to Turkey with American assistance. This compared with 305 kilos in all of 1970, he said. In France alone 548 kilos of heroin base were seized during the first half of year compared to last year's 12-month total of 449. A kilo is 2.2 pounds.

The figures become meaningful in terms of the 5,000 kilos of heroin — refined from morphine base on a one to one ratio — that are smuggled into the United States from Europe and the Middle East every year.

The increased seizures are attributed to growing concern within Europe about narcotics and an expansion of U.S. operations on the Continent since last fall.

NOT THE LABS

But all the seizures have been outside the laboratories in the Marseilles area where processing is concentrated.

An American close to the drug situation said: "No one knows better than we do that we're not getting the labs. It's the French police. They're making a whole lot of progress."

Girl Refuses Hefty Reward

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A 12-year-old girl who gets up at 5 a.m. every day to water neighborhood lawns refused a $1,000 reward for returning a lost dog she found soaking wet in her sprinklers.

Lorri Estes said she wouldn't accept the reward because, "It's just that if I lost my dog, I wouldn't be very happy about it and I know how they would feel about losing their dog. I'm just glad they're happy."

but quite frankly the capability of their new people is not just up to it yet. They're hitting the traffickers which is fine and important, but we're still not into the final stage."

Reports from Associated Press bureaus indicate a general toughening in attitudes: Ankara — Turkish police are using a $3 million U.S. loan to train a 420-man narcotics squad and have confiscated this year twice the amount of illicit opium seized in any previous year. The government has raised the price it pays for opium, hoping farmers will shun black marketers. The Turkish government announced this week its readiness to stop opium cultivation next June.

TOUGH AREA
Athens — Greece is considered tough territory for morphine base and heroin traffickers. American officials say these people prefer to go west from Turkey through Bulgaria and Yugoslavia rather than run into Greek police. A new law threatens two years to life for trafficking.

Rome — Drug use is described as being on the rise in Italy, but figures are not available. U.S. narcotics officers gauge the increase as substantial, but still not a matter of national concern, one view is that Italian authorities seem good at catching young hippies trading in hashish but seem unable so far to make arrests of any major drugs dealer.

SQUAD INCREASED
Paris — For years the French scoffed at the narcotics traffic in their own territory, to the point that it became a diplomatic sorepoint between Paris and Washington. The French increased their narcotics squad last year. An American credits them with spotting the shipment of 50 kilos of heroin, hidden in a car on board a Soviet ship, that was picked up in Montreal last month. French police now check any unusual freight shipments to the United States.

Madrid — Police sources say no additional efforts are made here to stop shipments to United States since the source, mainly for hashish, is considered to be Morocco. The U.S. Narcotics Bureau has installed two agents.

Mexico also figures actively in the fight on drugs. U.S. Customs officials in Southern California say traffickers operating between California and Mexico are being arrested in greater numbers and their contraband is being confiscated in large quantities.

TOMORROW

—CAROL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES The day requires quick action or getting the approval of older or more experienced people, but the evening becomes unusually good for entertainment and for using your best qualities to impress those who mean much to you.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Although recreation is on your mind, there are practical affairs that need to be handled first. A fascinating contact is most helpful where finances are concerned. Evening is excellent for social activities.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You had better not rely on help from him until after sundown, at which time they are solicitous and cooperative. Do some entertaining at home in p.m. Rid yourself of whatever disturbs harmony.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get out and visit with good friends so you relieve tensions that have you feeling depleted. You get excellent ideas on how to be far more successful in the future. Think positively.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't bring up subjects that could cause arguments between kin and outsiders during day. Wait until p.m. when they are in a most reasonable mood. Postpone some personal aims until a better day comes. Get to bed early tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be as diplomatic as possible in business so you do not jeopardize your reputation you now enjoy. Avoid civic activities right now. Evening will then be a happy, harmonious time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) That excellent idea you have is best put in operation after 5 p.m. when you get quick success. Listen to what a new associate has to say early in the day. This can be most helpful to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Friends are anxious to be with you during day, which is fine, since financial affairs cannot be solved well until p.m. Do some of that shopping you have put off. Some person you meet today can be most helpful in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You find just the right solution to some problem existing between you and associate and a higher-up and can also profit by your efforts in his or her behalf. Others are quite determined to treat lightly, but hold your ground.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have too much work during day so plan to make those new contacts in the early evening for best results. Much care in every phase of your work is necessary. Avoid crowding it with co-workers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Although fun is on your mind during day, you had better attend to pressing obligations instead of playing. Don't make a fetish of them, though. Evening is best time for being with congenial people.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A family tie and an outsider are having an argument. Mind your own business and all will soon blow over. You may find it difficult to solve some problem during the day, but tonight it is easy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) You can make this an enjoyable day, but first get your surroundings in order and see that they are clean and comfortable. Begin week properly by giving your support to a plan which an associate has discussed with you.

Has Connally Gone 'Big City'?

DALLAS (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury John Connally appeared to be fueling speculation that he might be the Republican's 1972 nominee for vice president in a joking remark made Friday.

The former Texas governor was addressing the state bar convention.

Mentioning that he spoke without a written text, as was his practice while governor, Connally said, "I didn't want you to think I'd gone big-city on you — too soon."

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠K10765 ♥8 ♠Q864 ♣32

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♥ Dbie. Pass 1 ♠

3 ♥ 4 ♠ 5 ♥ ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five spades. Thus far partner has undertaken to fulfill a 10 trick contract on his own, inasmuch as your original forced response promised nothing. Actually your hand contains very attractive distributional features so that the lack of high cards should not be a deterrent to a five spade call.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A63 ♥KJ108 ♠J955 ♣43

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

2 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. This hand is worth 10 points and the partner would require a maximum raise to approach the total required for a game, yet an invitation should be extended on the basis of the diamond fit plus the excellent texture of your heart suit.

Q. 3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AJ952 ♥A32 ♠A9 ♣83

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

3 ♥ Pass 4 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—This hand is not quite strong enough to warrant a four spade bid. If partner happens to have a robust raise, game should be there. If his raise is rather on the feeble side, you should be content with a part score. Test it out by bidding three spades, and permit partner to be the judge.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AKJ82 ♥A1075 ♠98 ♣K5

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

3 ♥ Pass 4 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—A vigorous bid to be in order. Your previous raise was decidedly on the conservative side. Now that partner has shown the club control, you should be convinced that there is a slam if he does not have two losers in diamonds. This message can be conveyed by a bid of five hearts which requests North to bid a slam if he has second round control of diamonds, either the king or a singleton. An alternative bid is five clubs, a cue bid showing the king.

Q. 5—Neither vulnerable. Partner opens the bidding with one heart and you hold:

♠43 ♥K975 ♠QJ974 ♣AQ

What is your response?

A.—Three hearts. Where a direct bid gives an accurate description of the hand, it is usually preferable to an indirect bid. This hand is valued at 15 points in support of hearts and comes well within the limits of 13 to 16, which covers such responses.

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, partner opens with four spades and you hold:

♠A532 ♥A104 ♠K74 ♣Q5

What do you bid?

A.—A prompt pass is indicated. You have just enough to permit partner to make 10 tricks, since his call represents an overbid of two to three tricks.

Q. 7—East-West vulnerable and as South you hold:

♠10742 ♥K3 ♠AJ952 ♣93

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ Dbie. Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—While it is our policy to prefer a four card major to a five card minor in responding to takeout double, we lean toward a one diamond response because it is a good five card suit against a very weak four card suit. Furthermore, the diamonds can be shown at the level of one, and with almost surety be further bidding and when you mention spades next time it will be clear to partner that you have five diamonds and a weak four card suit.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, partner opens with one spade and you hold:

♠10 ♥KQ96 ♠AJ85 ♣AKQ5

What is your response?

A.—Two diamonds. Despite the possession of enough high card strength to justify a jump shift, you should be content to bid at the two level. You should allow bidding room to show all your suits, if necessary. It might be possible that slam is attainable but only if a fit can be found in one of three suits. A two heart response is not favored because that call when made over a one spade opening designates a five card suit.

Another Setback For Space Program

The death of three cosmonauts aboard Soyuz 11 is a harsh setback for the Soviet Union's space program. The United States' own program could be affected, as studies produce facts as to any weakness in space vehicles or operations.

It is indicated that a tiny hole in the spacecraft created a change in pressure which was fatal to the Russian crew. It follows that Russian efforts must be made to see what caused this circumstance and how such failure can be corrected.

A question has been whether the crew's prolonged stay in weightless orbit was in any way connected with the deaths. In light of the tragedy, this may not be answered, but of course it will be an important factor in future efforts, whether on the part of the U.S. or Russia.

Last year, the Soyuz 9 crew spent 18 days in space and complained of "very serious" physical disabilities and disorientation after returning to earth. Two years ago, a 14-pound monkey named Bonnie was sent into orbit by the U.S. for a 30-day weightless test. After only nine days he was brought back and died the next day of heart failure attributed to a combination of weightlessness, immobility and cold.

Both the United States and Russia have been working on space lab plans, with the Soviet Union well ahead. The Soyuz 11 crew had spent most of its time aboard the Salute orbiting lab. The U.S. is planning a lab which would keep astronauts in space for up to three months.

Both nations' space efforts have been slowed by previous tragedies. The Soviet Union should — and probably will — tell the results of its investigation of the latest deaths. Man's future in space may depend on it.

How Much Student Busing?

More and more cities in Texas — at this time principally the larger ones — are being confronted with agonizing decisions on the matter of busing school children to achieve what some segments of the government call desegregation.

Dallas is in a turmoil. Fort Worth must face up to some sort of decision. Austin's situation has been in the court, and U.S. District Judge Jack Roberts told the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Austin Independent School District to show him something better than a plan for mass busing.

The HEW plan to enforce a racially balanced racial and ethnic mix in the system would call for wholesale hauling of students all over the city. The judge was properly unimpressed.

HEW is opening a maze of impossibilities when it treats traditional racial separation with ethnic enclaves in most American cities. Judge Roberts said he found no evidence in the case that the Mexican-American ethnic group has been separated in Austin. If the ethnic scramble ever begins, there won't be enough buses to handle the students who will have to be moved from here to there.

HEW is supposed to operate with a legal expert, an education expert and a compliance expert. It is prohibited by law from imposing racial balance by formula — though it does it, anyway.

The education expert on the team — if there is one — ought to have first priority on planning. What is good for the student ought to rate at the top. If a district runs poor schools in any neighborhood, it can be identified and appropriate action taken.

Judge Roberts ordered a plan with minimum busing. In the absence of any sane reason to have another plan, he ought to get it. The same goes for all other cities involved.

Strange Birds

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

One thing and another:
The great mystery of the dodo bird, perhaps, is not the fact that he is extinct. Why would his habitat be limited to two or three islands in the Indian Ocean?

Although they have long been regarded as a friend to man and make a contribution to his well being, birds remain a mystery to science. All flying birds have hollow bones and air spaces in various parts of their body. These are connected so that when the bird breathes, air not only passes into the lungs but into the bones and other cavities. If a hole were made in the upper wing bone of a goose, the bird could breathe through the opening even if the windpipe was held shut.

One of the strangest of birds is the baya weaver of India. This creature is intelligent enough to light its nest by fastening fireflies to the inside of its nest. When the bird intends to use the fireflies as lights is not certain but the nest, a complicated tunnel, would be dark without them.

Fashions begin in strange ways. As an example, I cite men's trouser cuffs. They originated only about 70 years ago.

According to researchers, a fastidious Englishman in New York was responsible. On his way to a wedding, he was caught in a down-pour which flooded the streets.

To preserve the hang of his trousers, he rolled up the bottoms and proceeded to the church, where he forgot to unroll the bottoms.

The onlookers, typical sheep, concluded this was the latest style of well dressed Britons. The human peacocks went to their own tailors and asked for similar changes in their trousers.

Magazines which try to be all things to all people are singing the blues because of declining advertising revenues.

On the other hand, special interest publications have prospered. Their clients have become aware that they deliver a more concentrated audience to advertisers.

Flag pole painters are always being asked if they paint from the bottom up or the top down.

In truth, when you paint a flagpole, you use a vertical stroke — painting in a circle makes the pole seem shorter.

'Peace' Proposal

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Apparently convinced that they have the Nixon Administration influenced now by antiwar sentiment inside and outside of Congress, the Communists at the Paris peace conference have proposed that the United States set a date for the complete withdrawal of all its troops and that North and South Vietnam be permitted to establish their own system of reunification.

FAR FROM BEING a friendly proposal, it would also make the United States liable to pay an indemnity "for the losses and the destructions it has caused the Vietnamese people" in the North and South. Military alliances would not be permitted in South or North Vietnam or bases for foreign military forces sanctioned.

The whole seven-point peace plan by the Communists indicates that there is really nothing new being offered and that they believe the time will be ripe for them to carry out the objective of taking possession of South Vietnam the moment American forces are withdrawn.

SOME OFFICIALS think that, while parts of the plan proposed are unacceptable, it will be the continuing of a long and difficult negotiation. Unquestionably, the Communists are holding American prisoners of war as hostages. The Hanoi government will not divulge all their names, and there is no way of knowing how many really are in its hands. The House Republican Whip, Leslie Arends, of Illinois, declares that "if they're sincere about wanting peace, they'll start releasing prisoners now instead of holding them as pawns." He opposes a unilateral withdrawal because he feels the Communists cannot be trusted to release all the prisoners.

THE COMMUNIST proposal provides that the release of American prisoners will start when the United States has set a date for complete withdrawal of all its troops, but doesn't fix any schedule for their return. If the withdrawal date arrives, and the North Vietnamese should decide to mount a major offensive against the South Vietnamese or to hold the prisoners a longer time, there would not be much that the United States could do about it. The entire proposal puts most of the burden on the American government.

A CEASE-FIRE between American and Communist forces is contemplated under the new plan as soon as an agreement is reached on the withdrawal of foreign troops from South Vietnam. But a cease-fire between the Communists and the South Vietnamese would not take effect until after a coalition government in Saigon is agreed upon. In other words, the South Vietnamese probably would have to accept Communist domination and virtually give up their arms.

AS FOR THE continued presence of the North Vietnamese in South Vietnam, this presumably is to be negotiated between the South and the North. There is no certainty just when any such "unification" would ever be attained.

The withdrawal of forces is not going to be one-sided. The United States position is that there must be a mutual arrangement made.

'MAYBE THEY ALWAYS WEAR THEIR COAT BACKWARDS'

New Cotton Uses

John Cuniff

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — A newly established nutrition research group at Texas Woman's University will give expanded emphasis to studies of cottonseed as a source of food.

The studies are to be added to the numerous projects conducted by the University's Research Institute involving uses of cotton for clothing and household applications.

Both fiber and food studies are supported by the Natural Fibers and Food Protein Committee, formerly the Cotton Research Committee of Texas.

Texas Woman's University President John A. Guinn is the chairman of this agency which also includes the presidents of the University of Texas at Austin, Texas A&M University and Texas Tech University.

The institute director, Dr. Pauline Berry Mack, who has studied protein requirements of more than 20,000 persons, directs the new studies. She will be assisted by a nine-member team of physicians and nutrition researchers.

Dr. Karl F. Mattil, professor of soil and crop sciences and director of the Food Products Research Department of the Texas Engineering Experiment Station, Texas A&M, will be consultant for the Denton group.

In the past, a pigment (gossypol) in cottonseed restricted its use as a food source. The pigment glands, which appear as dark specks in ordinary cotton seeds, impart a dark reddish color to crude cottonseed oil and a yellowish brown color to cottonseed meal.

The pigment not only introduces an undesirable color in oil and seed products but can also cause adverse metabolic effects if fed to human beings.

Now a glandless cotton, one free of this pigment, has been produced, a development in which geneticists at Texas A&M played a major part.

Oil produced from glandless cottonseed has a light yellow color. It requires a minimum of processing and has extensive uses as unsaturated fat.

Cottonseed protein from glandless seed is almost white. This protein can be fed with complete safety not only to farm animals but also to human beings.

The rising cost of animal protein—meat, milk and eggs—has intensified consumer interest in vegetable protein.

During the past two decades, nutrition research in U.S. laboratories, including those at Texas Woman's University has included projects aimed at increasing the availability of food protein from vegetable sources. Cotton has received special attention recently.

"The introductory work of the TWU Research Institute in this field," Dr. Mack said, "has been to design recipes for the use of glandless cottonseed protein in food products and to perform tests on the acceptability of the recipes."

Price Troubles

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — "For God's sake!" said the man in the White House office, "the Presidential election is 14 long months away. Nobody around here is panicking. The boss is not about to switch to government by hysteria."

THE NIXON AIDE was commenting on the latest Louis Harris poll which shows increasing restlessness among the natives over continued inflation, unemployment and recession. Specifically, the poll reported that 72 per cent of those queried believed prices are rising more rapidly than a year ago; 65 per cent believed unemployment has grown worse; 63 per cent felt the country was in a period of recession, and 40 per cent complained that administration policies are doing more harm than good.

THIS IS AWFUL political news for Richard Nixon. It is undoubtedly one of the reasons why the President last week launched a review of his economic policies with top administration officials.

Despite Nixon's rejection of the proposal to establish a wage-price stabilization board, administration sources say the proposal is still on the list of alternatives. Treasury Secretary John B. Connally and Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, favor the idea, which would pinpoint excessive wage and price boosts and penalize offenders by manipulating credit controls and cutting off government contracts.

IT IS BIBLE that when productivity falls below 80 per cent of capacity, unit costs go up. On the average, industry now is operating at 75 per cent of capacity, which means it is not getting full use of either its machinery or its manpower; thus, higher prices.

In any case, President Nixon is in danger of being overtaken by events. Prices are going up across a broad spectrum of the consumer market — from wholesale food bills to new cars, to clothing, through housing, where mortgage rates are now rising again after a temporary decrease.

Paradoxically, people are saving more, hounded by the fear of unemployment, with no effect on the cost of living.

NIXON AIDES were quick to point out that the section of the Harris poll dealing with administration economic policies was not all that bad. They noted that 32 per cent of those polled said the Nixon policies were doing more good than harm, compared to the 40 per cent who disagreed. But 28 per cent were "not sure."

Powerful Presidential advisers still are sure the administration can sweat out the situation. People like George Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, are confident that in the long run present policies will be proved correct. Unfortunately, the period between now and November, 1972, is becoming a very short run indeed.

Dustin Hoffman's Fifth

Hal Boyle

By BOB THOMAS
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

HOLLYWOOD, (AP) — With faded blue denim bell-bottoms, dark blue polo shirt and basketball-type sneakers, he looked like your friendly neighborhood boys' club leader.

Then what was he doing in a splendid suite of the Beverly Hills Hotel?

This was Dustin Hoffman, superstar, visiting his onetime home city in connection with the release of his fifth starring film, "Who Is Harry Kellerman, and Why Is He Saying Those Terrible Things About Me?"

The film seems unlikely to match the huge success of Hoffman's "The Graduate" and "Midnight Cowboy" or even the more modest success of "Little Big Man." Previews were characterized by an inordinate number of walkouts, mostly of middle-aged persons shaking their heads in wonderment.

Hoffman plays a songwriter unable to cope with the problems of success and bent on self-destruction. It is billed as a comedy, and it got some laughs from younger members of audiences. That is where most of the box-office coin comes from these days.

"A lot of people are puzzled and confused by the picture," Hoffman observed coolly. "Some are even downright hostile. But a lot of others dig it. So, we'll wait and see."

Hoffman himself has that kind of detached coolness that has characterized his movie roles, a young man musing about his own nature while all about him is collapsing in chaos and insanity. He seems willing to go along with almost anything.

Hoffman was born in Los Angeles and lived here through his college years. But he has been a New Yorker since 1958 and now feels little attachment to his onetime home.

There is irony in the fact that local boy Hoffman has become the epitome of the new-style star: oblivious of glamor trappings, free from studio control. His father was once a studio worker, but Hoffman has acted inside a Hollywood studio on only portions of two of his films.

My Answer

Billy Graham

In your opinion, what is the reason for the restlessness of young people?

Perhaps there are many reasons. For one thing, there have never been so many teenagers. By 1980 they will comprise more than half the population, it is predicted. This gives them a purchasing power and social power never before known. Again, teenagers are affluent. They have more money to spend than any previous generation of youngsters. They drive their sleek sport cars, go to plush resorts, and have a freedom no previous generation had. This makes them independent, and often rebellious.

With the threat of nuclear global destruction hanging over their heads, they feel that they must compress into their young lives the experiences of a lifetime. That is why they are called the "NOW" generation. They feel that they must experience very phase of life "NOW."

Their rebellion (and not all of them are rebellious by any means) is because they feel that their elders have given them a pretty shaky world, and some of them are downright angry about it. Having said all this, I find young people more responsive than any other group to the Gospel. They are searching for answers, and their restlessness is caused because all men are restless until they find peace with God.

A Devotion For Today...

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever. (Psalm 23:6)

PRAYER: Let us learn of Thee, Lord, that even in trouble Thy Word may be as a lamp for our feet and a light upon our path. Amen.

Trumpeter's Kiss

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Far be it for me, an ex-semiprofessional trumpet player, to argue with Harry James, Louie Armstrong, or Al Hirt but I must. I strongly suspect that you asked the wrong question and therefore got the wrong answer.

I defy any trumpet player, regardless of credentials, to engage in heavy necking for an hour or so and then "wall" at his best. Let's face it — anyone who wants to play his trumpet after heavy necking must be dizzy, or must have grown up as I did in the era when necking was usually an end in itself.

A little kissing never "hurt" any trumpet man worthy of the name. However, heavy necking, worthy of the name, usually turns your embouchure into undercooked abalone!

Signed: NOT-SO-OLD MAN WITH HORNS

DEAR ABBY: Regarding trumpet playing and kissing: I have been married to a trumpet player for 28 blissful years. Although he is no longer a career musician he plays his trumpet each evening to keep his lips hot. The nights he plays "The Flight of the Bumble Bee" — WOW!!!

DEAR WELL: You're lucky you aren't married to a violinist. They just fiddle around.

DEAR ABBY: I noticed a trumpet player didn't like to kiss as he thought it would ruin his career. My husband is a dentist and he doesn't like to kiss either. He says that after working with mouths all day he doesn't find them very romantic. Do you think he is putting me on?

DEAR ABBY: I happen to be a professional trumpet player, too, only I am a female type. I also heard that kissing ruins the lips and used to avoid such activities before playing in competition or having to solo in a concert.

Then I met a guy who really sent me. He was a professional trumpet player, too. I forgot all about saving my lips for the trumpet, and so did he. And we've been making beautiful music together ever since.

CHOPPED LIPPER IN CONN.

DEAR ABBY: While I'm not in the same league with Harry James, Mannie Klein, Herb Alpert and Al Hirt, I'm a professional trumpet player and I'd like to get a few licks in about kissing and trumpet playing. I think kissing has improved my trumpet playing and trumpet playing has improved my kissing.

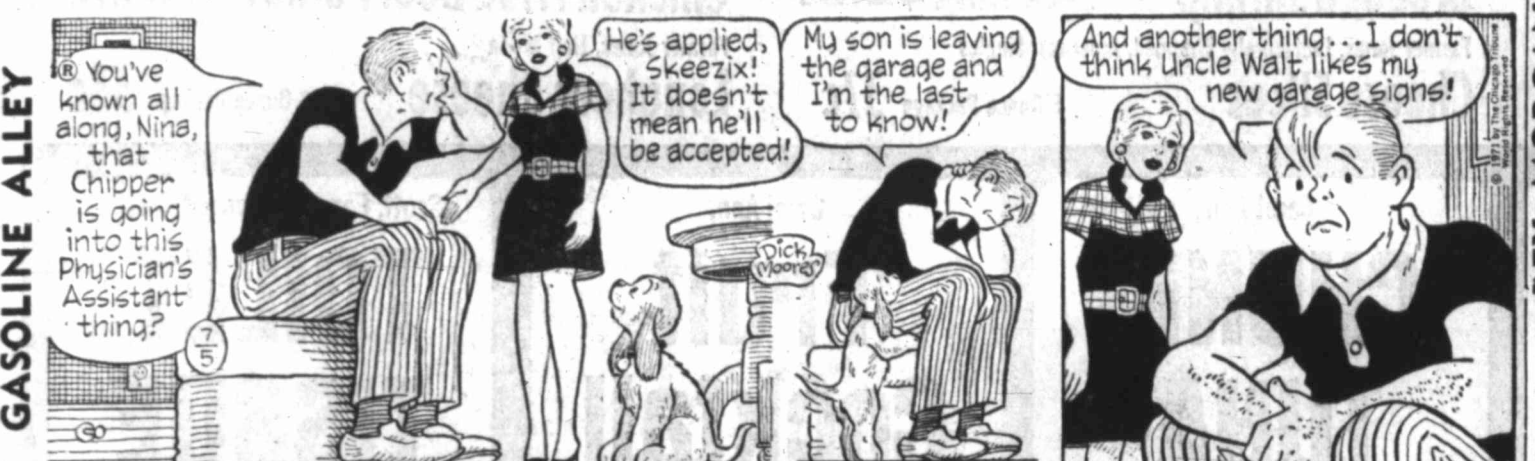

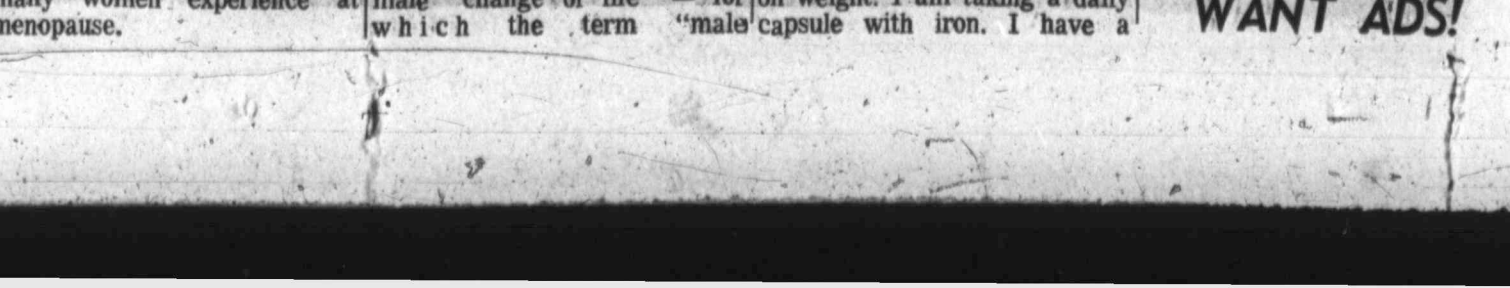

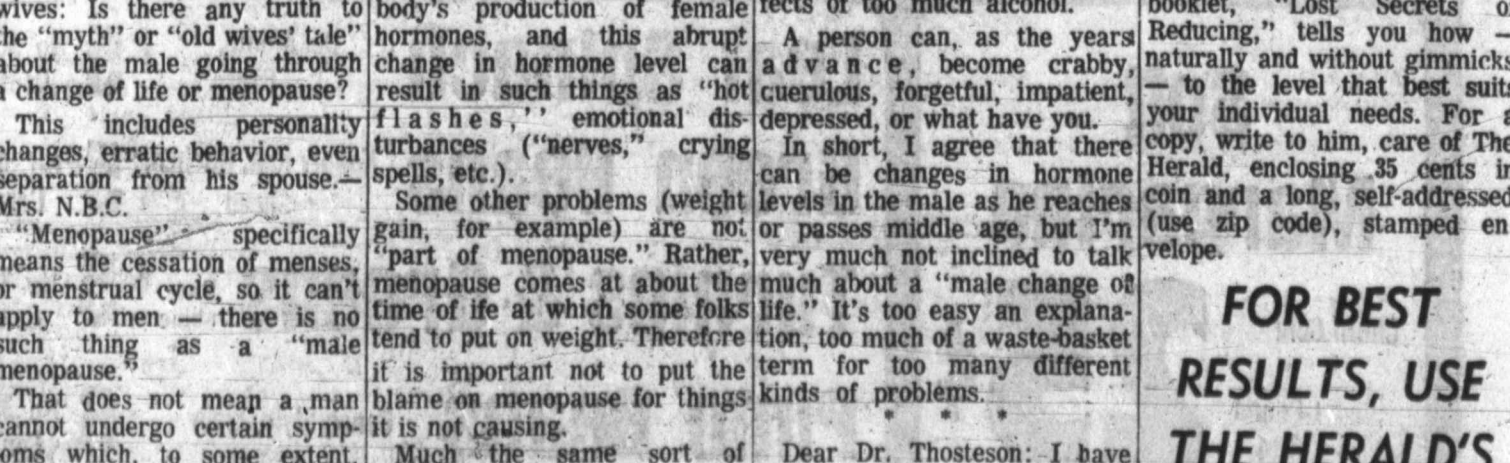

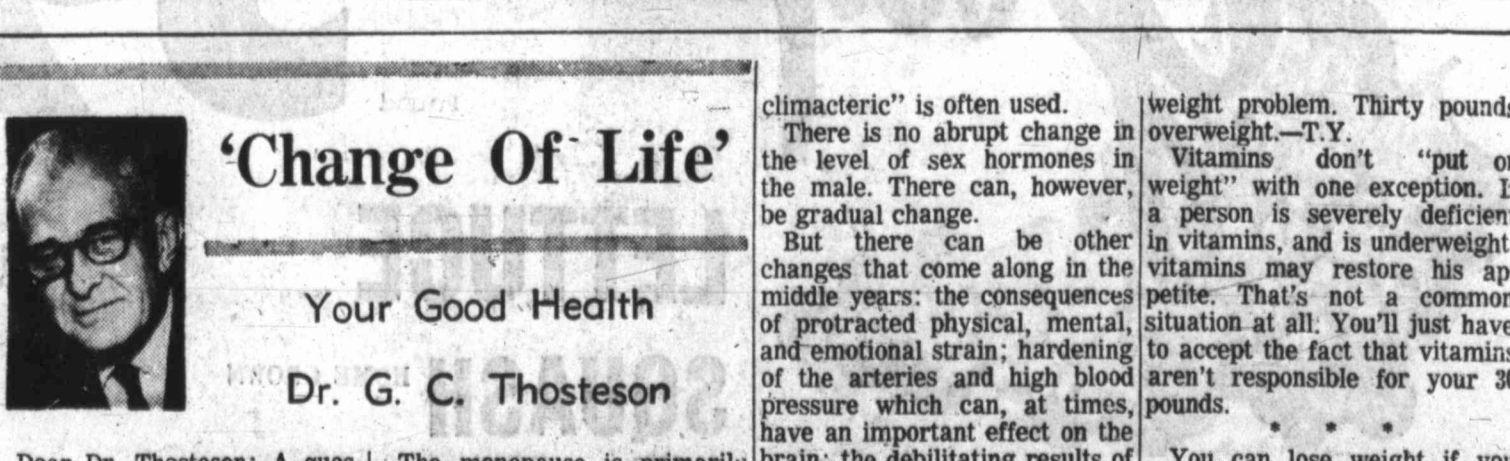

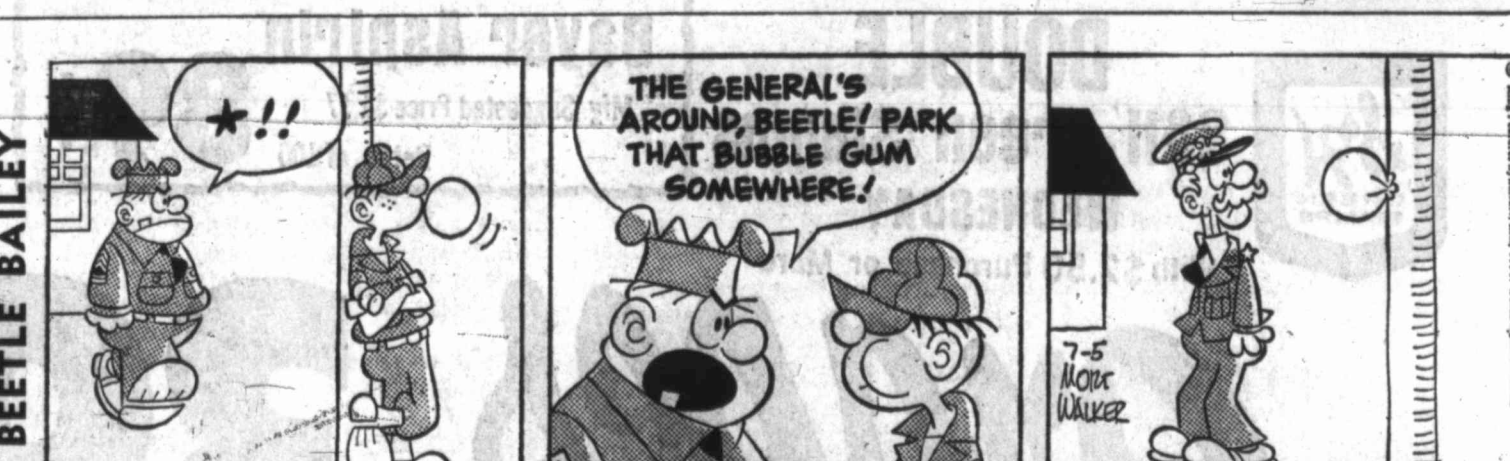

DEAR ABBY: Congratulations on your coverage of the kissing trumpeters' problem. All offered comments, but no solutions. Being an ex name-band leader myself and still active professionally, I have a solution:

Play immediately before and after intimacies, and if his lips aren't in better shape after, it's not his lips—he has a breathing problem. My own love-mate likes to play a few notes herself before the action, so I always bring my trumpet. In fact, she insists upon it.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

'Change Of Life'

Your Good Health

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A question that must affect many wives: Is there any truth to the "myth" or "old wives' tale" about the male going through a change of life or menopause?

This includes personality changes, erratic behavior, even separation from his spouse.

Mrs. N.B.C.

"Menopause" specifically means the cessation of menses, or menstrual cycle, so it can't apply to men — there is no such thing as a "male menopause."

That does not mean a man cannot undergo certain symptoms which, to some extent, may parallel symptoms that many women experience at menopause.

The menopause is primarily actuated by a change in the body's production of female hormones, and this abrupt change in hormone level can result in such things as "hot flashes," emotional disturbances ("nerves," crying spells, etc.).

Some other problems (weight gain, for example) are not "part of menopause." Rather, menopause comes at about the time of life at which some folks tend to put on weight. Therefore it is important not to put the blame on menopause for things it is not causing.

Much the same sort of thinking has to apply to the male "change of life" — for which the term "male climacteric" is often used.

There is no abrupt change in the level of sex hormones in the male. There can, however, be gradual change.

But there can be other changes that come along in the middle years: the consequences of protracted physical, mental, and emotional strain; hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure which can, at times, have an important effect on the brain; the debilitating results of obesity; in some cases the effects of too much alcohol.

A person can, as the years advance, become crabby, querulous, forgetful, impatient, depressed, or what have you.

In short, I agree that there can be changes in hormone levels in the male as he reaches or passes middle age, but I'm very much not inclined to talk much about a "male change of life." It's too easy an explanation, too much of a waste-basket term for too many different kinds of problems.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told that vitamins will put on weight. I am taking a daily capsule with iron. I have a weight problem. Thirty pounds overweight.—T.Y.

Vitamins don't "put on weight" with one exception. If a person is severely deficient in vitamins, and is underweight, vitamins may restore his appetite. That's not a common situation at all. You'll just have to accept the fact that vitamins aren't responsible for your 30 pounds.

You can lose weight if you really want to! Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level that best suits your individual needs. Settlements Difficult On Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal auditors say billions of dollars paid under Medicare have not received "an appropriate final accounting or a timely review."

The problem is caused by delayed agreements between Blue Cross and hospitals on how much the federal government should pay for health care of the aged, the General Accounting Office told Congress Friday.

Initial payments, based on estimates, are adjusted at the end of a hospital reporting period after Blue Cross middlemen settle on actual and reasonable costs.

One step taken by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare could cut Medicare costs by $100 million this fiscal year, the GAO said.

"Some intermediaries delayed making final settlements with hospitals because a method of apportioning hospital costs between Medicare and non-Medicare patients which was authorized by HEW resulted in Medicare payments that included certain private room costs, which were not covered under the program, and certain delivery room costs, which were not applicable to Medicare patients," the report said.

Drug Treatment Center Planned

DALLAS (AP) — Rep. Olin Teague, D-Tex., says a Washington research team will visit Texas within a fortnight to study the establishment of a federal drug treatment center.

White House sources say the administration is committed to setting up such a center in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, he told newsmen Friday.

Teague suggested that existing facilities in Fort Worth could be expanded and a new center built in Fort Worth.

Bilingual Group Moves On Radio, Television Stations

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A coalition of Mexican-Americans says it has asked the Federal Communications Commission to revoke the licenses of two television stations and a radio station in San Antonio.

The Bilingual Bicultural Coalition on Mass Media, a group listing 41 local organizations as members, filed the request with the FCC in Washington Thursday, the spokesman said.

It accuses WOAI-TV, KSAT-TV and KITE-AM of discrimination against Mexican-Americans in hiring and programming policies.

All Texas broadcast licenses expire Aug. 1. Renewal applications are filed every three years.

An official of one of the stations involved said Thursday was the last day that a petition opposing the renewal could be filed with the FCC. He said the FCC gives stations in such cases 30 days to respond to the allegations.

The coalition lists among its members such groups as the GI Forum, LULAC, Texans for the Educational Advancement of Mexican-Americans, Bexar County Migrant Farm Workers Association, Mexican-American Unity Council, Welfare Rights Organization and the Mexican-American Youth Organization.

WOAI-TV vice president and general manager Edward V. Cheviot said the station will file a "point by point" response with the FCC to the group's allegations.

KSAT-TV general manager James Schiavone said the station's record of performance "is well known in the community and it speaks for itself. Of course we do not discriminate in either our hiring practices or in any part of our program service...."

Paul English, general manager of KITE-AM and vice president of Doubleday Broadcasting Co., Inc., said: "I had rather not discuss the specifics of the charges at this time. However, we feel that KITE is defensible before the Federal Communications Commission of all of the charges."
