

Homer L. Pharr Asks Re-Election As District Judge

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF LUBBOCK, CROSBY, HOCKLEY AND COCHRAN COUNTIES:

In announcing my candidacy for a SECOND ELECTIVE TERM as Judge of the 72nd Judicial District I am mindful of the duties and responsibilities of the office. In 1927 when the 99th District Court was created by the Legislature for Lubbock County I was appointed by the Governor of Texas UNSOLICITED, to fill out an unexpired term. I was elected to the office unopposed in 1928 by the people of this District.

I was born and raised on a farm in Hopkins County, Texas. I moved from Hopkins County to Lubbock nearly ten years ago. Since I was fourteen years of age I have been upon my own resources, having worked my way through the public schools, East Texas Normal College at Commerce, Texas and the University of Texas Law School. I taught school six years starting when I was eighteen years of age. I received my license to practice law in 1913. Have been a Democrat all my life.

The office of District Judge is, in my opinion, one of the most important in Texas and by far the most important judicial offices in this State. A District Court in Texas deals with LIFE, LIBERTY and PROPERTY, all of which are sacred and highly important to each and every citizen.

I have since going upon the Bench to perform the duties of the office honestly, faithfully, fairly and impartially to all citizen alike in obedience to the oath of office. My guide in the performance of my duties has been, as provided in the oath of office, the Constitution and laws of the United States and of Texas. It has been my aim and purpose to dispose of lawsuits; FIRST, correctly in accordance with law; SECOND, to dispose of lawsuits promptly and with dispatch; THIRD, to conduct court with a minimum cost of operation. As to whether I have performed my duties is a matter for the people to say. My record as District Judge is a PUBLIC record. I invite the citizenship to investigate same.

I have at all times tried to conduct the courts in this District by having juries in attendance on court when actually needed. Jury service is a patriotic and honorable service to the County and State. The men who constitute the juries should not be detained from their work and business any longer than necessary. Each day that a District Court functions without a jury there is a saving in dollars and cents of about $100.00 per day to the taxpayers. The Grand Juries and Petit Juries of this District are in a position to know whether I have functioned in the above matters. I have at all times taken into consideration the rights and duties of jurors.

For District Judge

I want to at this time thank each and every juror in this District in all counties for the splendid, honorable and patriotic service you have performed since I have been on the Bench.

In order that the citizenship may know something about what I have done since I have been in office, I give you the following facts taken from the District Clerk's office and certified to by the four District Clerks in the District. When I went in office there were about 468 cases on the dockets, both Civil and Criminal. I have disposed of 1720 cases. Seventy-two cases have been appealed to higher courts. Twenty-two cases have been reversed, not all of them due to any error of mine. I have only had to try three (3) of the cases reversed a second time of all reversed. Forty-two cases have been affirmed. A greater percentage of the cases affirmed than most of the District Judges in Texas. My entire record for the number of cases disposed of and for number of cases affirmed on appeal will equal that of most any District Judge in Texas and will excel most of them.

I am asking at the hands of the people my re-election to a SECOND ELECTIVE TERM upon my record as a public official and as a private citizen. I feel that by reason of my past experience on the Bench that I am in a better position to render better and more efficient service to the people of this District in the future.

I desire to thank the entire citizenship for the honor heretofore bestowed upon me and your confidence. In view of the fact that I will be engaged in court most of the time from now until June 25th, it will be impossible to see all of the people. My first duty is to hold court and perform my official duties which I will do. It will be my aim and purpose to conduct a clean and honorable campaign based upon a high plane.

I promise that if re-elected to render the best service possible in the future as I have tried to do in the past. I solicit your VOTE and INFLUENCE in the Democratic Primary in July. I will thank each and every citizen for any assistance rendered me in the campaign.

LETTER TO A. R. ELLIS

Superintendent A. R. Ellis recently received a letter from a Slaton citizen who is moving away, but took time to express his thanks and gratitude to a profession whose followers seldom receive such expressions. For three-fourths of the year we commit our children to the care, supervision and direction of the school teacher most of the child's waking hours. He is under the teacher's care more than he is his parents'. We note the child's progress. We are elated if it is satisfactory, and sorrowful if it is not. We are happy to see the minds and bodies of our children grow, and it is a joy to our hearts to see the transition from childhood to young manhood and womanhood. And at last we see them, dressed in cap and gown, which bespeaks of scholarly attainments, walk across the school platform and receive their diplomas, which mean that they have successfully and satisfactorily completed the prescribed course of education of the local school system, and are now ready to enter the great game of life, well prepared to fight its battles. How thankful we are! But do we stop to give credit where credit belongs? We see the high school faculty seated behind the Seniors the night of graduation, and note the smile of satisfaction on their faces, happy that their charges have achieved their first goal in life. But do we express our gratitude to those teachers for the part they have played in our son's or daughter's education? A few, perhaps, but not many.

When the writer heard that Superintendent Ellis had received the letter printed below, we asked his permission to print it, for it expresses the appreciation of a worthy citizen for the part the school teacher has played in the development of his children. Then, too, we believe it is a true expression of the people of their community toward the work that our teachers are doing.

The letter is as follows:

Mr. A. R. Ellis,

Superintendent Slaton Schools.

My dear Mr. Ellis:

As I am being transferred from Slaton this coming week, I feel it only right that I write you a note of thanks and congratulations on your splendid handling of the Slaton schools. It has really been a joy to have our children associated with you and your staff.

I know that I should write each one of their teachers and thank them personally for the splendid cooperation they are giving during these trying times and I really feel that the children are not being slighted the least bit in their training, regardless of the hardships under which you are all working. Naturally, I think we have two of the best kids in the state, but I also realize that this is largely, if not almost entirely, due to a wonderful mother, and splendid, understanding teachers.

I would ask that you particularly extend our thanks to the teachers and principals under whom they work directly and to you and all the Slaton school staff, I extend my best wishes for a most successful 1932. When in Amarillo, I sincerely hope it will be convenient for all of you to look us up and at least say, "hello".

Yours very sincerely,

J. D. Frye.

CROSBY COUNTY MAN OUT FOR DISTRICT JUDGE

W. P. Walker, prominent Crosby county attorney and citizen, authorizes the Slatonite to announce his candidacy for judge of the seventy-second judicial district, including Lubbock, Hockley, Cochran and Crosby counties.

Judge Walker is numbered among Crosby County's best citizens and is one of the most prominent lawyers on the South Plains. He states that he will greatly appreciate the help of Slatonite readers in the campaign, and if elected will do his dead level best to give the people a fair, impartial and economic administration. A brief history of his life follows:

He was born on a farm in Tarrant county near the corner common to Parker, Wise and Tarrant counties. As a lad he attended school in a school house half of which was in Parker county and half in Tarrant county. He lived on the farm, except such time as he was away in school, until he was 26 years of age. He received his later Educational training from the University of Texas from which institution he holds a degree. He obtained a license to practice law in 1910, and moved to Fort Worth, where he "hung out his shingle" as a struggling young lawyer. In less than two years he was tendered and accepted the position of Assistant County and District Attorney of Tarrant county, of which Fort Worth is the county seat.

This position he held for some four year and until a vacancy occurred in the office of County Civil Judge of Tarrant county. At that time there were two County Judges of the County: one of them tried the law suits, and the other, along with the Commissioners' Court, had control over county finances, roads, public buildings, etc. Walker was appointed in November 1917, as County Judge to try the law suits and served one year by virtue of such appointment. He was elected two more terms, thus serving a total of five years, at the end of which period he was not again a candidate. He never had an opponent while he held the office; and the cases disposed of while he presided over the court ran into the thousands.

Soon after retiring from the County Judges' Office Walker was retained by a boyhood friend to correct title to a section of land which the farmer had traded for near Lockney in Floyd county. The lawyer and his client spent a week on the South Plains perfecting title to the land. And during this time Walker had time to travel over a part of the South Plains and was interested in and fascinated by the country and its possibilities. When the farmer was satisfied with his title and was ready to return east Walker advised him that he would go alone as he had found the country in which he was to practice law in the future.

Walker formed a partnership with the late Parke N. Dalton in the practice of law in Crosby county. Shortly thereafter Dalton was elected District Attorney of the old Seventy-Second Judicial District, but after serving brilliantly for only about six months as such official died in May, 1925. After the death of Mr. Dalton, Walker continued alone in Crosby and adjoining counties. He has been in the general practice of law for eight year on the South Plains. At one time he maintained an office in Levelland, Hockley county. His candidacy for the office of Judge of the Seventy-Second Judicial District, including Lubbock, Hockley, Cochran and Crosby Counties, is his first venture in politics since he has been on the Plains.

NEW CARS LOOK NEW

This year's crop of automobiles goes far to obsolete 1931's models. The new cars are much different in appearance. They are lower, more graceful, have better lines and embody a large number of improved mechanical features. Last year a new automobile differed little from a 1930 model. But within a month or two when the new models have had a chance to get on the streets and out on the highways, motorists will soon realize that their old cars really look their age.

A. E. Howerton and family, of Los Angeles, California, were in town last week on business.

That is the Bristol's Recording Thermometer, which records the temperature every minute of the day and night, if you have not seen this Thermometer, you should go and see it work. New Picture Shows Love Quadrangle

"Delicious," With Janet Gaynor And Charles Farrell, Novel

"Delicious," coming to the Palace Theatre, Sun. & Mon., is a typical Gaynor-Farrell picture in its delightful whimsicality and spontaneous humor, as it tells a charming tale of a little Scotch immigrant and a champion polo player. Janet, refused entry to the country and ordered deported, escapes to the shore crated with a polo pony that belongs to Farrell. Pursued by a persistent, but not particularly perspicacious detective, she disguises herself as a Russian dancer, and leads him a merry chase in general.

Rather than a triangle, the love story in this film has four angles to it. Miss Gaynor and Farrell, though they do not recognize it at first, are smitten from the start. Left to themselves, they would soon diagnose the delightful melody. But a scheming mother crowds Farrell into announcing his engagement to her daughter, and Janet is taken off her feet by a Russian musician who finds his inspiration in her. Though the story opens in a delightfully whimsical dream sequence, in which Miss Gaynor pictures her welcome to America, it is not long before it develops into a veritable nightmare of amorous cross-purposes.

Miss Gaynor, as the thrifty little lass from Scotland, has a part that she seems to have grown right into. And there is little wonder that Charles Farrell, as the champion polo player, causes her heart to flutter. El Brendel, as a social-climbing servant, is anything but a helpful asset to the blues. Other important members of the cast include Lawrence O'Sullivan, Paul Roulien and Manya Roberti.

One unusual feature of "Delicious" is its use of music as an integral, but subordinate, element in the telling of its story. While not a "musical," in the sense of those of the early days of talkies, it does have some new and delightful songs that serve a real purpose and have a real famous for being. Written by the famous George Gershwin, one of them in particular, the title-piece, will soon be on everyone's lips.

"Delicious" is an original story by Guy Bolton, and was adapted for the screen by Mr. Bolton and Sonya Levien.

Henry Leininger, who has been at Alpine with the Santa Fe, on account of a reduction in force, will be located at Justiceberg. His family is in Lubbock.

SAFETY NOT IGNORED

Safety factors have come in for much consideration this year. Many more motor car manufacturers have adopted non-shatter glass. And in body construction all-steel is gaining over composite wood and steel construction. The all-steel welded body has forged rapidly ahead in recent years and some striking effects have been achieved in steel body design, due to the ability of the body makers to initiate new methods of metal stamping. Steel bodies are obviously safe and sturdy and also have very low centers of gravity.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Sunday School ----- 9:45 A. M.
Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. C. A. Bickley, presiding elder of the Lubbock District will preach for us. We urge our people to come out and enjoy this occasion.

Bro. Bickley will hold the first quarterly conference at 2:30 P. M. The church officials are urged to attend the conference.

Much interest is being manifested in the Church Study Book, "Methodism and World Need." The class meets at the church each Wednesday evening for four weeks. Wednesday, Feb. 10 there will be a debate during the study period. The subject is, "Resolved, that the Hardshells were right in their Opposition to Foreign Missions; scripturally and other wise." We hope that this debate will bring to our minds, very forcibly, our duty in this Missionary crisis. Be with us in our Church Study Classes. After this meeting, there will be a reception given by Mrs. J. E. Ebert at her home for those present.

We have received many favorable comments regarding the service last Sunday evening. "My Mother's Bible" was the subject and we believe that it will be long remembered.

We are planning other special features for our evening services. We ask the help of the members and friends of the Methodist Church in making our preaching services spiritual, evangelistic, and well attended.

You are welcome at the Methodist Church.

BAPTIST NOTES

The Junior Boys B. Y. P. U. were entertained with a banquet at the club house last Friday night, which was served by the Fidelity Matrons Class. The affair was under the supervision of Mrs. G. J. Catching, who acted as toastmaster. After "America" was sung and a prayer was offered, the lads, "fell to" the good things that had been prepared for them. Interspersed by a violin solo by Wayne Catching accompanied by his sister, Miss Ruby Catching at the piano; a solo by J. C. Tucker and talks by Jack Turner and Benny Johnson, Bill Frank White and others. Brother Ferguson gave the boys a most splendid talk, which was both instructive and entertaining.

It was decided to make this an annual affair to which the parents of the boys will be invited.

The attendance at Sunday School last Sunday was 369, an increase of 26 over the previous Sunday. The topic for next Sundays lesson is "Slavery or Freedom" and the Scripture text is found in Matt. 24:45-51; John 8: 31-36.

The W. M. S. had their regular meeting at the church Monday afternoon with a good attendance. Much important business was transacted.

The B. Y. P. U. attendance is slowly increasing in numbers, 123 being present. If you will visit this branch of the Church service once, I am sure that you will be a regular attender.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"LOVE" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, January 31.

The golden text was from II Corinthians 13:11. "Be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace; and the God of love and peace shall be with you."

Passages from the Scriptures included the following from Romans 13:10: "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law."

Included in the service was also the following from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 57):

"Love enriches the nature, enlarging, purifying, and elevating it. The wintry blasts of earth may uproot the flowers of affection, and scatter them to the winds; but this severance of fleshly ties serves to unite thought more closely to God, for Love supports the struggling heart until it ceases to sigh over the world and begins to unfold its wings for heaven."

METHODIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY MET MONDAY

Brendel Sings In New Picture

In "Delicious," the new Fox musical romance with which Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell usher in a new order of dramatized musical talkies, El Brendel has the opportunity of revealing talent of his which in the past has been little known. It is his ability to sing. In this film, coming to the Palace Theatre on Sunday and Monday, Brendel attempts another flight into the vocal field.

Brendel finds several opportunities to sing in "Delicious," which was written especially for the famous sweethearts of the screen by Guy Bolton and set to music by George Gershwin, famous composer of "Rhapsody In Blue."

In addition to instructing Janet in the proper manner of singing "The Star Spangled Banner," the comical Swedish comedian offers to write a love song for Manya Roberti, his Russian sweetheart in the picture. The result, unique in both musical composition and words, is one of the comical highlights of the production.

Edena Mae Schaffer, of Amarillo, is here visiting her sister, Miss Joyce Schaffer, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Edmonson.

Culinary Jingles by Virginia Gibson.

A charming young lady named Bitters, Said "Men are the hungriest critters; "They'll toll half a life To provide for a wife, "If she'll give them good hot cakes and fritters!"

HOT cakes provide heat and energy producing elements in abundance and are particularly delightful during the winter months. Since the coming of the electric waffle iron, however, waffles have come to the fore and one of the most interesting parties at this time of year is the waffle supper.

What more could one ask for a late supper than hot, golden brown waffles? Served with plenty of butter and maple syrup, and accompanied by tasty little sausages, they are justly popular. Truly a feast for a king and, accompanied by a crisp salad, dessert and coffee, capable of satisfying the most ravenous appetite!

Waffle supper parties are intimate affairs in which one's guests are limited to three or four congenial souls who will work together for the common good. If sausages are to be served with the waffles, they may be prepared first and kept warm. The waffle iron will require the undivided attention of one person. This will insure piping hot waffles fresh from the iron, but while one person is making waffles, another will necessarily be kept busy attending the sausages and coffee.

There are several ways of making waffles, hot cakes and fritters, but the following recipes calling for self-rising flour are most popular. Self-rising flour is especially prepared and pre-leavened for home baking purposes. Monocalcium phosphate, salt and bicarbonate of soda are mechanically blended with soft wheat flour and the consequent perfect balance of flour and leavening takes the uncertainty out of home baking. It's economical, too, since it saves the cost of baking powder.

Self-rising flour is time-saving as well, for it does away with selecting, measuring and mixing salt and leavening agents. Batter made with self-rising flour is quickly and easily prepared and all one need do to insure success is to follow directions.

Doughnuts
1 egg
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup milk
3 cups self-rising flour
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat the egg with the sugar; add the milk, flour, nutmeg, and vanilla. The dough should be as soft as can be handled. Roll 1/4 inch thick; cut with a doughnut cutter, and fry to a delicate brown in deep fat. The fat should be hot enough to brown a cube of bread in 1 minute. Drain on unglazed paper, and dust with confectioner's sugar.
Making time 10 minutes.
Baking time 3 to 5 minutes.

Sour Cream Waffles
1 cup sour cream
3 eggs
1 cup self-rising flour
4 tablespoons melted shortening
2 to 4 tablespoons water or milk

Beat the egg yolks, add sour cream, then sifted flour; combine well, add shortening, and lastly, beaten egg whites. If the dough is not thin enough to pour, add cold water or milk as needed to give the desired consistency. This amount makes three large waffles. The amount of fat called for is necessary when the iron is not greased. With a greased iron the amount should be cut in half.
Making time, 10 minutes.
Baking time, 2 to 3 minutes.

Henry Ford says that prosperity is more harmful than adversity, and Henry ought to be an authority---at last on prosperity.

While Congress is taxing its wits to find new uses for cotton suppose we try using it for fertilizer.

The real est whether this depression has brought home its lesson will be seen in the decrease, if any, in the sucker list.

When a gentleman with get-rich-quick ideas feels himself in need of succor he finds it in the form of a sucker.

If you wish to be up to date when you pull a boner don't call it that; say you were guilty of a psychic aberration.

Oh, say, have you yet received a check for your part of that two billions of dollars the government is spending to defeat the depression?

Well, at any rate we won't be bothered with any more bank failures for a time. We knew the cloud had a silver lining.

And while we like to see clouds with silver linings we much prefer to see pocketbooks lined with silver.

If the demand for red ink exceeds the supply why cannot O. D. accounts just be indicated with a black minus sign?

While the Co-op Association is holding the cotton in vain hope that the price will rise, the farmer who furnished that cotton is holding the bag.

China probably knows by this time, as all the world does, that her big mistake was in making up her army entirely of bandits, but how could she know in advance that Japan was going to shoot only bandits?

Japan's conduct in the Orient has made her as popular throughout the world as an ordinary bully is here at home.

Pity the predicament of Prohibition Director Woodcock. If he makes a success of it he will work himself out of a job, and if he doesn't he will ditto.

Urbanity is that thing which requires a fellow to keep his mouth shut when his bridge partner isn't his wife.

Of course it is none of our business except in a small way, nevertheless we wonder what modern laundry does with all the buttons it accumulates.

Louisiana is in the unique and anomalous position of having two governors without having any governor at all.

And Senator Huey Long of Louisiana is making a rep for himself in his new position as senator. Already he has shipped another senator on the back.

If you don't believe that where there's a will there's a way just watch a woman once her mind is made up to get a divorce.

Speaking of the square deal, if we had our way about it we would insist on the victim having an many chances to escape as the law gives to the man who murders him.

By no means should Europe be forced to pay her war debts because that would obligate her to delay starting another world war.

Governor Ritchie was the first to make a bid for the presidency, which reminds us that sometime, somewhere, we read a saying to the effect that the first shall be last, etc.

We know, of course, that excessive prosperity hurts us, but somehow it is a different kind of hurt from that which excessive depression gives.

We don't know, of course, when we start out in life, just where the path we are treading will lead, and we are to perverse to heed the warning of the wretch who has been over the route.

After a fifth of a century of experience in dishing out advice to others, we have discovered that the only way to please the average man is to tell him only what he wants to hear, whether or not it is the truth.

That Oklahoma man who made and lost thirty millions of dollars and once paid income tax at the rate of a thousand dollars a day seems determined at last to even up the score. He is now running for Congress.

After two jurors had been selected in a murder trial over at Dallas, the defendant, who was charged with wife murder, changed his plea from Not Guilty to Guilty. We would like to see a photograph of those two jurors.

The man who insists on doing only that which he wants to do is not generally noted for doing very much of that which he ought to do.

When William Randolph Hearst the other day said that Speaker John Garner was another Champ Clark, he might also have added that Caesar had his Brutus, Charles the First his Cromwell, and Champ Clark his William Jennings Bryan.

Germany's point of view seems to be that if she can escape further payment of reparations she will have money with which to build another magnificent fleet to be captured by her enemy and sunk by her at another Scapa Flow.

You, gentle reader, will perhaps have noted that this column has very little to say about the Governor of Texas, the Honorable Ross S. Sterling. The reason is this: Ross is not the least bit spectacular. While he has done nothing in particular for Texas, he has had the virtue of having done nothing in particular against Texas, and we prefer to let well enough alone.

This being campaign year, and having so often fallen for the hook of the tinhorn politician who promised us an equalization and reduction of taxes and economy in government, we think that this year we shall try voting for that candidate who refuses to insult our intelligence by making any such promises---provided, of course, any such candidate offers himself, which probably won't happen, in which case we shall be tempted to scratch 'em all.

If we wanted to be cynical about it we would probably be tempted to remark that it has just about gotten so in this country that the man who is elected to the governorship, to the Legislature or to Congress has to be the champion liar of the whole field in which he competes.

We read the other day a bit of history which informed us that back in the times of Adams, Jefferson and Madison, when the first political parties were getting into full swing, the chief pastime and weapon of candidates and campaigners was personal vilification of the opposing candidate. That practice has continued with virtually no abatement to the present. The result is that a really able, efficient, competent, honest, upright and self-respecting non-believer to offer himself for the public service because of the inevitable slanders that will be hurled upon him. It takes courage and heroism for such a man to run for an important public office. When he does it one-half of the mean, nasty things said about him were true, instead of sending him to the Whitehouse or to the governor's mansion, he ought to be put in the penitentiary. And such is Democracy?

We have seen people who lived to be upward of a hundred years old but never have we seen anyone who lived so long that he outgrew the practice of nibbling at campaign promises and being deceived by them. We are ready to believe that a fundamental trait of human beings is believing something they know isn't so, because that trait is so universal and so difficult to overcome.

TAX PENALTIES.

Few persons now living can recall a year when paying taxes was so hard to do as at present. Many have not been able to pay at all.

On last Monday, February 1st, there was added a ten percent penalty to all taxes not theretofore paid. Who will benefit by that procedure? How is one's ability to pay enhanced by increasing the amount payable?

The City of Slaton and the Slaton Independent School District have lots of taxes owing that were not paid prior to February 1st, if we are correctly informed. It is likely that if the penalty had not accrued a fair portion of those taxes would be paid during the next thirty to sixty days. But there is a chance that many will reason like this: Now that the penalty is added, I will refuse to pay until I have to, which will be not less than a year hence, and by refusing to pay I can compel the city and school district to lend me that money at only six percent interest whereas if I borrowed the money to pay the taxes---if borrowing it was a possibility---it would cost me ten percent interest.

Inability of the city and school to collect such taxes amounts to nothing more than lending the money to the taxpayer at six percent per annum interest, dating from April 1, 1932, on 1931 taxes because under the law interest commences to run only from that date and not from February 1st, and no interest is chargeable on the penalty---only on the tax itself. The city and school cannot afford thus to go into the money lending business against their will, yet that is precisely what will result. Unless---

Would it not be a good idea to postpone adding the penalty for a period of sixty to ninety days? We think so. It would prove a boon, not only to those who could not possibly pay before February 1st, but also to the city and the schools. Any sagacious business man would take that course if the business were his own. Can our city and schools afford to do other than follow the dictates of sound business in times like these?

Be it remembered, and distinctly understood, that we have no disposition to dictate the course of our splendid and efficient city and school officers shall pursue in the matter. We offer what we believe to be a sound and constructive suggestion, with no thought to be critical, but with the desire to be helpful. The suggested course has been followed in times past, with no regrets afterwards. It can be followed again, and we think it would be wise to so.

INDIA'S HOPE.

India hopes for independence; entreats for it; institutes an unarmed revolution and declares an English boycott in her efforts to get it. Civil disobedience is her weapon. Her people are imbued with the spirit of rebellion but not with the spirit of murder. In other words, India believes that war as carried on by the so-called civilized nations is un-Christian and inhuman. Murder, rapine, poison gas, guns, pitched battles, sieges, and long military campaigns are not her weapons.

India is a vast empire. She, in a political sense, belongs to England. India has within her borders one-sixth of the world's population, and is said to possess one-half of the world's gold supply. In her heroic struggles for independence she is led by the redoubtable Mahatma Gandhi---the scrawny-looking little fellow who feeds on goat's milk and attires himself only in a loin cloth. To occidental eyes he looks ludicrous. Westerners have many times made the mistake of judging the man by his appearance, and in so doing they greatly deceive themselves.

Mahatma Gandhi is the official spokesman for more people than any other man who ever lived. He has qualities and abilities as a statesman equal to those of any statesman who ever lived; a diplomat he takes a place in the front rank; as a philosopher, he ranks with the ancients as an exemplar of Christian ideals, spirit and precepts, he puts to shame such non-Christian nations as England, France, Germany, United States and Spain. Gandhi lives Christianity, whereas other nations embrace it only as a theory.

Instead of appealing to the sword and the murder of fellow humans to gain for his people liberty and independence, he appeals to the justice and humanity of the world. He relies on the innate righteousness of his cause. To date his appeals have failed on deaf ears. His real foe is the innate selfishness and avarice of mankind, and he knows it. Never before in world history has so great a revolution been staged, for one so unique, for with such great principles at stake, Gandhi appeals to Christianity for aid. Is Christianity at this stage of human progress, sufficiently potent to overcome selfishness and avarice and achieve justice for India. That is the biggest question that Gandhi's revolution will answer.

One-half of the world's gold supply is in the scales against Christian principles. Which will win? There are, of course, other issues involved, but in the last analysis they are subordinate to that one great issue which commands the interest and will affect the welfare of the entire world. And in the center of this mighty and comparatively silent conflict stands the inimitable unorthodox, unconventional, unconquerable, long-suffering, patient, persistent, peerless Mahatma Gandhi!

WAR CLOUDS.

Last Sunday news broke over the fact that war is seriously threatened between the United States and Japan. Relations have been strained between the two countries for some time, due to no especial enmity but to the apparently inevitable infringement of Japan upon the rights and properties of other nationals in Manchuria, and particularly in Shanghai.

The scene of action being so far away, the rank and file of people in this country have given the situation little thought, and the issues are not at all clearly understood. Indeed, the situation is so unique and complicated that the issues are not easy to understand. There are two sides to the question.

Japan, an island country, smaller than Texas, has some sixty-seven millions of people. In the last half century Japan has made marvellous strides toward modernity, and now ranks as a first class world power. She is not only badly crowded and desires an outlet for her peoples, but she is ambitious, thrifty and resourceful. Perhaps she has a vaulting ambition. The world seems to think so. The report is abroad that Japan longs to dominate the Pacific. She can never do that, or attempt it, without coming into conflict with the United States, and also probably with England. The latter countries will stand together in any conflict with Japan. Race, antecedents and mutual interests will compel it.

Further, the situation in China is peculiar and complicated. It all starts from that international agreement commonly designated as the Open Door Policy in China. China, big populous, inefficient, lacking in initiative, torn with internal strife, revolution and periodical famines, has long been the football of the nations. Japan is naturally jealous. She feels her own efficiency, and she desires to be the boss in the Orient. That her cause is unjust, in the main, is the opinion of Occidental races. That Japan will triumph as against China is an accepted conclusion---unless in the achievement of her vaulting ambitions she is brought into conflict with Occidental nations. She is at present drifting, or maybe heading purposely, in that direction. She has unbounded confidence in her own powers and her own destiny. Possibly a world war, with the scene of active operations in China, or in oriental waters, appeals to Japan as her opportunity to achieve domination over the Pacific.

But those abstruse issues little interest the average man and woman here in America, where they are beset by an almost unprecedented depression. Recalling the so-called post war prosperity that prevailed back in 1919, and spasmodically at other times since then, there is likely to be a feeling that a war so far away will do us no harm and maybe end the depression. The average American citizen, while in theory deprecating war, nevertheless longs right now for the excitement, variety, and possible economic and financial benefit that he imagines a war would bring. But there are other things to consider. Any protracted war with Japan would almost certainly involve the entire world. In such a catastrophe, no matter what the outcome, the chances for Japan to profit, and to gain a vast advantage in world affairs, are greatly in the majority. The Orient is awakening. Japan sees her opportunity, or what she believes to be her opportunity. Germany believed she could whip the entire world if they were obliged to come to her. People in America have believed the same about the United States. It is probable that the Japanese take the same view as to their own country. They could not do it, of course, but the factors favor them, and it would undoubtedly prove the most costly and bloody war in all history. The future is indeed fraught with peril and anxiety.

Giving You Gas When You Need It

When you turn on the gas and touch a match to it, do you ever think what is behind that convenience and comfort?

West Texas Gas Company secures gas from a pipe line system more than 1,000 miles in length that obtains clean sweet natural gas from one of the largest gas fields known today.

Inside the city are miles of mains that carry the gas to your property line, there to be piped through the meter to your gas appliances.

Cold Weather Service

And then enters the human element. Line walkers each day are walking over snow-covered ground and wind swept plains to inspect the lines so that a break may not cause you discomfort.

As you sit by your warm fire, there are crews of men at work who may be undergoing hardships for the sake of the service---for it is during the coldest weather that they must work the hardest.

24 hours a day, and every day in the year, members of the West Texas Gas Company organization work diligently at their task of insuring you against discomfort.

turning their attention to Community betterment projects and activities which will improve living conditions in hundreds of American Communities. Our next meeting will be Feb. 12. This is to be a splendid program. Further announcement will be in next week's paper.

After a short business meeting, the Luther Powers Post and Unit met in a social Friday evening, January 22. Post Commander, Robertson, introduced the incoming commander, Mr. Roy Cobb. After a few words from Commander Cobb and the new finance officer, Mr. R. L. Gregory, Mrs. R. W. Ragdale took charge for the evening.

When the "get acquainted conversation" was over and every one seemed to have met every one else, refreshments were served by the following hostess; Mesdames R. W. Ragdale, J. A. Elliott, J. S. Bates, A. J. Payne, Briggs Robertson, Lee Green. The meeting then adjourned to meet in regular business meeting February 12.

Music is expected to take an important part in the American Legion Auxiliary's program during this year. Community singing at Auxiliary Meetings is to be encouraged.

In Paris, not far from the official American Embassy is Pershing Hall, the Paris home of the American Legion. Last October the President of France inaugurated the new home, the ceremonies being attended by many notables of France and the United States. Not only those in the hall heard the message, but it was carried to half the world by radio. Pershing Hall is a monument commemorating the World War services of Americans and is a treasure house of souvenirs, as well as a club house.

CREEKMORE DEFIES COTTON SHIPPERS

Challenges Them to Show Books to Congressional Investigation Committee as to Comparative Salaries, Costs and Services.

DALLAS, Texas, January 28.—E. F. Creekmore, general manager of the American Cotton Cooperative Association hurled a challenge today to the 1000 members of the American Cotton Shippers' Association to open their books to a Congressional investigation committee and compare their profits, salaries, costs and services with those of the cooperatives.

Speaking before the 12th annual convention of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation and its affiliated commodity cooperative associations, Mr. Creekmore asked: "Why should they object to opening their books just as they wish the cooperatives to do? Do they object because of fear of the truth, all the truth and nothing but the truth being known?"

"Let us have a general investigation. Put all the cards on the table, let us once and for all get a clear picture of the cotton situation. If we were able to present to the non-members of cooperatives the true picture of the benefits which accrue and continue to accrue to cooperative members through cooperative marketing, conditions would be reversed. Instead of handling 16 per cent of the cotton crop, our volume would jump to 85 per cent."

AUTOMATIC CAR NEAR.

After looking over the 1932 automobiles at the New York Show one cannot help but feel that the motor car is rapidly going automatic. No longer must the driver press the starting pedal. Today the car starts automatically. Just turn the ignition switch and there you are. Too, the clutch is automatic on many of the new cars. No clutch to operate when shifting gears. Lift your foot off the accelerator and the clutch works itself. Time is not far distant when we'll probably see automatic gear shifting and, who can tell, perhaps some day an automaton will drive our cars for us.
