BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Austin.—When the legislature passed the drivers' license law last fall, sponsors of the law agreed to certain very liberal amendments, under which practically everybody in Texas who had been driving a motor car was issued a license. It was recognized that to overcome bitter opposition from some rural legislators the law would have to be extremely liberal in its provisions at the outset. The next regular session—if there is no special session—meanwhile—doubtless will see the beginning of a tightening up process out of which eventually will come a real license law that will bar incompetents from the highways and cut down the terrific toll of death and injuries in motor accidents. An illustration is the case of a drunken University of Texas student, convicted of murder without malice, and given a five-year suspended sentence after killing a pedestrian with his car. Under the present law he does not lose his license, but may return to the highway, and perhaps kill others, while exercising his legal right to drive a motor car in Texas.

SCHOOLS GET FUNDS

Rural schools particularly benefited when Dr. L. A. Woods, superintendent of education, released warrants totaling over $3,000,000 and representing a $2 per capita apportionment. A favorable opinion by Attorney General Bill McCraw, holding that the state board of education may pay more than the statutory $17.50 per capita, enabled the board to authorize an additional $1 out of anticipated surplus funds in the school fund. The $2 paid this week makes the payment so far this year total $15, out of a total authorized $18.50. Another payment is anticipated around July 20.

STATE DEFICIT

The deficit in the general revenue fund of the state is estimated by the state's budget sharks at around $7,000,000 at present, with indications it may reach $10,000,000 by the end of the year. The fund would be on a cash basis, but for certain extraordinary expenditures authorized by the legislature this year, several of them non-recurring items. The $3,000,000 Centennial appropriation is one. About $4,000,000 has been diverted for interest and sinking fund payment on the state's "bread bonds." The state put up $20,000,000 for relief and got about $80,000,000 from the federal government thereby.

POLITICAL BARBECUE

John Snyder of Amarillo, reputed the best barbecue artist in Texas, who once went to Washington to prepare a barbecue for the National Press club, is at Alvord, Wise-co, this week barbecuing 12 West Texas beavers for the huge barbecue and picnic on May 30 that will be the scene of the opening of Col. E. O. Thompson's campaign for re-election to the Texas railroad commission. Six thousand guests from all over Texas are expected. Bands from Wichita Falls, Memphis and Amarillo will entertain the folks.

UNIVERSITY EXPOSITION

While all Texas is celebrating the Centennial year with varied and interesting pageants, exhibitions and other attractions, Texans should not overlook the University of Texas Centennial exposition, which is going to be one of the most interesting and entertaining of all. The huge Gregory gymnasium will be used to house the magnificent array of exhibits. The celebration has no commercial aspect. It will be open to the public from June to December.

Here Texans may see a sheet of limestone 75 feet long, containing the tracks made by a dinosaur, in Hamilton county; a diorama showing life in the sea that covered Texas 50,000,000 years ago; a

Street Paving Project Completed

Loraine has a paved street at last. Work of laying the asphalt and gravel on the rock base was finished last Friday afternoon just before the rains set in. Business men in the town either assisted the WPA workers in spreading the gravel or hired someone in their place in order to finish the job as rapidly as possible. Everyone was anxious to get the job done before it rained. WPA engineers said they had never witnessed better cooperation in finishing a project than they found here.

A committee from the chamber of commerce is planning a program to be held on the street in the near future to celebrate opening of the street. Details of the program will be published as soon as possible.

C OF C TO BANQUET THURSDAY JUNE 4

The next regular meeting of the Loraine Chamber of Commerce will be held in the Chamber of Commerce building on the night of June 4, when a banquet will be served. All of the fifty members of the organization are urged to attend this meeting.

FIFTH SUNDAY SINGING

Singers and lovers of singing are invited to Pleasant Valley church Sunday afternoon for the regular Fifth Sunday singing. Singing will start promptly at 2:30.

MANY MILLIONS SPENT ON TEXAS ROADS IN 28 MONTHS

Dallas, May 25.—In a period of 28 months the Texas Highway Department has spent $52,004,528 to construct, widen and otherwise improve the state's highway system. A major share of this fortune has been expended on traffic arteries leading into Dallas where the $25,000,000 Texas Centennial Exposition will open June 6.

$10,000 collection of native Texas birds, loaned by the game, fish and oyster commission; a series of miniature dioramas, depicting outstanding events in Texas' history, donated by Humble Oil and Refining Co.; a giant sea turtle, nine feet wide and 50,000,000 years old, found near Waco, and hundreds of other interesting items from the famous libraries, museums and archives of the university depicting various phases of science, history, education, cultural life and economic development of Texas. The university's exposition should add many thousands to the stream of tourists who come each year to see the capitol, the mansion and the state buildings.

POLITICAL PINWHEEL

Gov. Allred's decision to postpone formal opening of his campaign until after the June 6 Centennial opening did not delay his carrying out one of the smartest political strokes of his career. He flew to Washington, obtained $1,181,250 federal funds to match state funds and pay 65,000 needy, aged Texans pensions for July and August. The monthly checks will average between $18 and $20 each, as forecast a week ago in this column. There will be no special session before the summer election, and maybe none thereafter. If a special session is called in the fall, the governor will submit enabling acts to qualify Texas for other provisions of the federal security act, such as unemployment insurance and retirement benefits for industrial workers. He will doubtless also submit suggestions for raising revenue to supplement present old age pensions funds.

Coke Stevenson of Junction, speaker of the house in the 43d and 44th legislatures, is actively campaigning for Judge F. W. Fischer of Tyler.

Dawn at the Alamo--March 6, 1836

"I shall die like a soldier who never forgets what is due his own honor and of his country." Shortly after William Barrett Travis penned the most heroic document in American history, the Alamo garrison which he commanded was put to the sword. One hundred and eighty stalwart Texans gave their lives; none survived. Perpetuated in the devotion of all Texans today to the "Cradle of Texas Liberty" is the ideal for which its defenders fought and died. Shown above is the painting which hangs in capitol halls in Austin.

NEW RULINGS RELEASED BY CONSERVATION COM.

College Station—Three supplementary recommendations of the Texas State Committee of the Soil Conservation program have been approved by the Secretary of Agriculture, it was announced today by A. L. Smith, executive secretary of the State Committee, and Jack Shelton, vice director and state agent of the Texas Extension Service.

The first of the recommendations approved is that the term "soil conserving crops" has been ruled to mean any crop on crop land upon which an approved soil-building practice is carried out in 1936, and from which no soil-depleting crop is harvested in 1936.

The second recommendation that was approved for the State of Texas states sorghum or millet when seeded on crop land between January 1, 1936 and July 31, 1936, if all the crop is left on the land or plowed under, will be regarded as a soil-conserving crop.

The third approved recommendation is in regard to a soil-building practice which states that any sorghum, sudan grass or millet will receive a soil-building practice payment at the rate of $1.00 per acre when seeded on crop land between January 1, 1936 and all the crop is left on the land or plowed under, providing that all the requirements for grant are complied with.

51 persons - attended the 42 party at the Chamber of Commerce building Tuesday evening which was given by the Baseball Club to raise funds to assist in supporting the baseball team. 42 bridge and checkers were played by the guests until a late hour. Punch and cake were served.

Approximately 75 tickets were sold for the party but those who did not attend Tuesday night may use their ticket at the next party which is planned for Tuesday night, June 9.

ODESSA COMING HERE SATURDAY; COAHOMA SUN.

Loraine will have two baseball games at home this week end. The strong Odessa team will be here Saturday afternoon for a return match following the game at Odessa Wednesday. Coahoma will be here again Sunday afternoon with a stronger team than ever and Coahoma has always been hard to beat. Both games are to be called at three o'clock.

Loraine has secured Mr. Hopkins, Coach at Wingate, as catcher and those who saw him in action Sunday say he is a wonderful catcher and a great asset to the team.

In a seven-inning affair here last Sunday Loraine defeated Big Spring 4 to 1. The game was called after the seventh because of rain. Hardy, pitching for Loraine, allowed only six hits while Payne, Big Spring pitcher, allowed nine.

Generous Rains Cover Territory

Smiles are everywhere in this territory on the faces of business men and farmers alike since the good rains of the past week have visited this section. A nicer or more beneficial rain could not have fallen for every bit of it has gone into the ground. The estimate is that around three inches of rain have drenched the thirsty soil here since last Friday night, when three quarters of an inch fell. Since that time showers have been coming at regular intervals up to Wednesday morning.

Farmers who have crops up and growing are jubilant and those who have been waiting for rain before planting are making preparations to get their seed in the ground as fast as possible when it is dry enough.

Many farmers throughout the section already had up a large portion of their crops or had them planted. The rain will bring them up to a good stand for it fell so slow the soil was not packed.

As is the custom every spring many of us were becoming somewhat discouraged as the dead line approached for planting and there was no moisture in much of the land to sprout the seed. Now we all feel better.

SISTER OF D. L. COLLIER DIES NEAR ROSCOE

Mrs. Will Taylor, sister of D. L. Collier, died suddenly of a heart attack at her home South of Roscoe last Thursday morning.

Mrs. Taylor was making preparations to wash, it is understood, when stricken.

Funeral services were conducted at Champion Friday afternoon and burial was made in the Loraine cemetery under the direction of Adams Funeral Home of Roscoe.

Mrs. Taylor is survived by her husband and five sons all of this section except one, B. D. Taylor, who lives near Stanton. Surviving brothers and sisters in addition to Mr. Collier are Watt Collier of Colorado, John Collier of near Snyder, and Mrs. W. D. Green of Knox City.

CITY CUTS WATER RATE THROUGH JUNE

As an inducement to users of city water to raise gardens, flowers and lawns the city council has authorized a lower water rate to resident and non-commercial customers. The new rate is being tried through June and if it proves satisfactory will probably be extended through the summer. The minimum has been raised from 3000 to 4000 gallons for $1.50, the next 1000 gallons for 15c and 10 cents per 1000 gallons for all over 5000.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS

People in this territory are still taking advantage of our short term bargain offer, now until October 1 for 25 cents. This is the last week the offer will be available so if you have not taken advantage of it do so now. The rate is still a great bargain, four months for a quarter.

Those who took advantage of the offer last week are: W. Hudgins, Moody Richardson, C. W. Groom, Willis Boyd, J. H. Gross, and Arthur Sheppard.

During the three weeks that we have had the offer on we have added 53 new subscribers to our list which gives us an additional 275 readers. At this time more than 2000 people read The Mitchell County News each week which is a pretty thorough coverage for advertisers in this territory.

We want to publish all the news about the people in and around Loraine. We cannot do so without YOUR help. Won't you please call 65 if you have had visitors from out of town or have visited out of town yourself?

The decisions set forth that "these major experiments in socialization involve unlawful delegation of powers vested in congress and violation by the federal government of the rights of the states," the Washington dispatch avers. The resettlement decision affected only that part of the relief activities under Professor Tugwell's administration, leaving undecided the remainder of the $4,800,000,000 voted to the President last year.

Much of the resettlement money has been spent and much more allocated, cancellation of which will raise problems.

At Angels Camp, Calif., 25,000 persons watched the annual Calaveras county frog-jumping contest and saw "Can't Take It" cover a distance of 12 feet 3 inches in three hops. Another frog, raised on the ranch of the late Will Rogers, was second, with 12 feet 2 inches.

Twenty-five thousand human beings watched some frogs hop; not half as many would have gathered to hear Einstein lecture on relativity.

It is suggested that every American be compelled to go to school until twenty-two years of age to cut down the competition for jobs.

It might be simpler to keep everybody in school until sixty and then give everybody a pension of $200 a month. What could be simpler than that?

The average sensible American starts making a living long before he is twenty-two and would do well to continue on that basis.

Sir Hubert Wilkins, who has flown in the Arctic, Antarctic and other queer regions by plane, crossed the Atlantic by dirigible recently.

Says Sir Hubert: "From almost anywhere in the United States, a business man could spend Wednesday and Thursday going about his business, catch the dirigible by airplane Thursday midnight, spend two business days in Europe and be at his desk the early part of the next week."

Prof. Raymond Moley says it was easier for Mussolini to conquer "muddy thinking" in the League of Nations than it will be to "prevail over the mud of Ethiopia in months to come."

New York police arrested a middle-aged woman begging near a church and "acting strangely." She wore men's shoes, five dresses, one over the other, and carried bank books showing deposits of $25,000.

This should not discourage wise charity. Not every old woman, begging, has four extra dresses and $25,000. But it might well discourage thoughtless, indiscriminate giving, which encourages professional beggary and causes young beggars to graduate as criminals.

Following an old Roman custom, Mussolini is taking a census of the Ethiopians that remain. The total number is between six and fourteen millions. Exact figures are wanted.

The able-bodied will be put to work, plows, spades and shovels supplied by Mussolini, with Italians telling the Ethiopians where and what to dig. That need not horrify us, for it is what we have been doing in this country for a long time. It will be better for the Ethiopians than killing and selling each other into slavery.

Americans ask three questions: "What is the news? Who won the game? Have you heard the story about —?" For that reason, the successful newspaper pays attention first to the news, told accurately and vividly, then it concentrates on sport, then on humor. Such dry things as opinions, editorials, books, in the rear. Fiction ought to be number four, but good fiction is scarce and the other kind not worth printing.

Anti-religious hatred persists in Spain. While Pope Pius in Rome was addressing representatives of Catholic newspapers, deploring Communism and the Hitler attitude toward the Catholic church and the Catholic press, a Spanish mob in Valencia was burning two Catholic churches, beautiful monuments of early days. Former indifference to religion has turned to actual hatred in many countries, and in those that were most deeply religious.

Congressional Quizzers Stir Dr. Townsend to Wrath—
Landon Has Big Bunch of Delegates—Guffey
Coal Act Declared Invalid.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

FOR two days Dr. Francis E. Townsend replied mildly to the questions of the house committee investigating the activities of the organization behind the old age pension movement which the doctor started. Then the Californian lost his patience suddenly, refused to answer any more "non-sensical" queries, spoke of "thick-headed congressmen," denounced the committee for its "unfriendly attitude" and asserted the administration was a "hostile force" behind the inquiry. He declared he would form a third party after the November elections.

Dr. F. E. Townsend

Finally Doctor Townsend told the committee: "I am retiring from this sort of inquisition and I do not propose to come back except under arrest. And I do refuse absolutely to make any further statement regarding this movement to this committee."

Escorted by Gerald K. Smith, former adherent of Huey Long, and another man, the Californian fled from Washington to Baltimore. The committee decided to ask the house to cite him for contempt.

When he was questioned regarding large sums contributed by Townsend club members the physician said the contributors had faith in him and that "we need millions to promote a movement of this kind and we will get them."

His testimony developed that Doctor Townsend, his brother, Walter Townsend, and Gilmour Young own the assets of the Townsend organization, estimated now at about $60,000, and that Townsend club members have no property right in them.

Doctor Townsend testified he has received about $68,000 in salary, dividends from the Townsend weekly and expenses, but now had only about $300 and his wife about $200 to show for their efforts.

GOV. ALF LONDON captured nearly all the New Jersey delegates to the national convention, defeating Senator Borah about 4 to 1 in the popular vote. This victory gave the Kansan a total of more than 200 votes to start with at Cleveland, and his manager, John Hamilton, claimed he would have at least 300 of the 501 votes necessary to nominate and would win on the second or third ballot.

The statement by Herbert Hoover taking himself out of consideration for the nomination is generally judged to have helped Landon. With Mr. Hoover out of the picture it will be difficult to hold California, Texas, and other potentially Hoover votes away from Landon.

James A. Farley, postmaster general and also Democratic national chairman, told the Michigan Democratic convention he believed the Republican Presidential nominee will be "the governor of a typical prairie state" and that his election, if he won, would be a "perilous experiment." Farley criticized the man he did not name as devoid of experience in national affairs, and predicted that if he is the Republican standard bearer "even Kansas" will not be in the Roosevelt doubtful column.

CONSTITUTIONALITY of the railroad retirement system was contested before the District of Columbia Supreme court by attorneys representing the class 1 railroads and 289 lesser railway enterprises. The lawyers argued that the pension law and a tax law enacted at the same time are together "substantially the same" as the "unconstitutional railroad retirement act of 1934."

The two separate acts, one providing pensions and the other taxing the income of railroads and employees, were passed last year after the Supreme court ruled unconstitutional the 1934 law in which a levy and a pension system were combined.

The government contended that the alleged relation between the two acts could not be proved, and that the railroads were suing, in effect, to enjoin collection of a tax. Such a suit, the government contended, was barred by federal law. The government further defended its railroad retirement system as an exercise of its constitutional power "to provide for the common defense."

POSTPONEMENT of action on the Patman-Robinson chain store bill until next session was urged on the house rules committee in a letter from six powerful farm organizations.

Charging the bill would restrict operations of farm co-operatives by preventing them from receiving wholesale discounts, the letter warned also that higher consumer prices would result from enactment. The measure, already passed by the senate, prevents price discriminations by manufacturers to big customers.

The letter was signed by representatives of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange, the National Co-operative Council, the National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation, the Farmers' National Grain association, and the Northwestern Farmers' Union Legislative committee.

SECRETARY OF WAR DERN allocated nearly $138,000,000 for river and harbor improvement projects throughout the country that had been recommended by the engineering corps. Of this sum, $103,458,839 will be used for entirely new waterway and port improvement while $34,068,150 will be employed in maintaining existing river and harbor facilities.

SIX members of the Supreme court of the United States ruled that the Guffey act to control the bituminous coal industry is invalid, and another of the New Deal experiments goes into the discard. This is the act which President Roosevelt urged congress to pass notwithstanding doubts of its constitutionality "however reasonable."

Five justices—Sutherland, Butler, Van Devanter, McReynolds, and Roberts—joined in the majority opinion which invalidated the whole act. Justices Cardozo, Brandeis, and Stone joined in a dissenting opinion in which they upheld the act. Chief Justice Hughes held in a separate opinion that the act was constitutional with respect to the marketing provisions but unconstitutional with respect to the labor regulations.

The court in the majority opinion held that there is no authority in the Constitution for the control of the coal industry attempted in the Guffey act. The act was not valid either under the commerce clause or the welfare clause.

Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania, author of the act, lost little time in introducing a substitute measure, concentrating on price fixing and omitting the labor provisions which were outlawed by the Supreme court. John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, declared that organization would "join in requesting congress to enact the bill at once." He thought the measure would "operate to maintain the equilibrium of the coal industry pending further study of stabilization of the industry."

A plea to all coal operators to support the new bill was made by Charles O'Neill, legislative chairman of the National Conference of Bituminous Coal Producers.

Some congressional leaders, however, thought it unlikely that the new Guffey bill could be passed at this session.

HERBERT H. LEHMAN announced suddenly in Albany that he would not be a candidate for a third term as governor of New York, saying: "I feel the time has come when I may ask release from the cares and responsibilities of the governorship." But leaders of the Democratic party, including President Roosevelt, National Chairman James A. Farley and Senators Wagner and Copeland, undertook to persuade Mr. Lehman to run for reelection.

They all agreed that his retirement would be a loss to the state and the party and that he should be "drafted." The immediate political result of the governor's surprise action was that New York again became a doubtful state for the presidential campaign, in the minds of many politicians. The morale of Republican leaders in the state improved, and Democrats began speculating as to which of a group of five or more candidates could be groomed for the gubernatorial nomination this fall if Lehman persisted in his determination.

GENERAL rejoicing marked the inaugural of Dr. Miguel Mariano Gomez as president of Cuba—the first elected by the people since Gerardo Machado. The new executive, a lawyer and revolutionary leader who has twice been mayor of Havana, took the oath of office in the ball room of the president's mansion in the presence of 400 foreign and Cuban officials. The guns of Cabanas fortress across the harbor fired a twenty-one gun salute and on the signal all public buildings were illuminated and thousands of merry-makers began parading the streets.

President Gomez appeared on a balcony and told the shouting throngs that he would do his best to maintain a constitutional government "by the Cubans and for the benefit and interest of all Cubans." In his first message to congress he assured the nation that personal rights would be respected. Among his policies he listed "ample tolerance for all ideas, ample guarantees for all rights and sufficient energy to maintain order and the necessary strength against offenders against the laws."

Common People for Roosevelt

New League Formed
to Further F. D. R.'s
Social Program;
French Trade Pact

By EARL GODWIN

WASHINGTON.—There is a newly organized outfit with a good name. . . . "The Good Neighbor League" . . . headed by an erstwhile Republican, Dr. Stanley High, a rather famed publicist who believes that Roosevelt's policy of loosening the tight social structure is the only thing that will save this country from a collapse. In this league, which has a sort of Golden Rule complex, there are thoughtful people active in church work, labor organization work, relief work, editorial work, etc. They are not politicians by any means, but they will undoubtedly turn out to have a vast political influence by stressing the fact that Roosevelt's policies are strongly endorsed by the great mass of inarticulate folks far down in the social scale.

You'll find in the Good Neighbor league such men as Col. Patrick H. Calahan, the Louisville industrialist who long ago began sharing the wealth of his business with his workers. You'll find Fannie Hurst the author, A. P. Giannini, financier and chairman of the Bank of America; Clifford Gregory, editor of the Prairie Farmer; Dr. James William Crabtree, who heads a world-wide educational association—I wish there were room to list the leaders of this outpouring of the people of independent thought and liberal tendencies who know that unless someone interprets events and politics the reactionaries will so completely mis-state the case as to fool millions of people. The league represents a definite movement to help Roosevelt do what he wants to do under the promise "to make America a better place in which to live."

It is a slap at the Du Ponts and their Liberty League, and will give that munitions group a lot to think about. It comes along about the same time that a young fellow with a lot of vision named Paul Best forms a nationwide organization headed up by the Roosevelt First Voters—an outfit designed to reach young men and women who vote for the first time next fall. It is not a Democratic outfit—just an outfit in honor of the fact that Roosevelt has touched the hearts and minds of young people who have heard a lot of promises but have seen no performance except from F. D. R. Especially interested are these Roosevelt First Voters in the policy of providing opportunities for young men and young women.

Then comes Labor's Non-Partisan league, which in my opinion is the most striking thing that has occurred in politics recently. This is an organization of labor union leaders and their followers to re-elect Roosevelt, whom they describe as the one man to carry on their fight for a fair wage at fair working conditions. The labor men in this league issue statements declaring themselves violently in opposition to the Liberty league and the National Association of Manufacturers and all so-called southern "grass roots" organizations opposed to Roosevelt. They know that these southern bursts of anti-Rooseveltism are financed here in Washington by the Liberty league or some close affiliation.

Heading Labor's Non-Partisan league is Maj. George L. Berry, a printing press union man; John Lewis, United Mine Workers' chief (and I think the most daring union leader in America) and Sidney Hillman, Garment Workers' head. . . . They have a well-knit army of tens of thousands all ready to go. They have 4,000 experienced platform men and women—speakers and campaigners and organizers.

SUGAR COAT G. O. P. MEET

Plans to sugar coat the Republican national convention at Cleveland so that it will have an up-to-date streamlined, show window appearance, are being made by one of these New York super-publicity men named Bruce Barton, whom the A. I. Landon element in the party brings in to give life to the unutterably dull campaign as run by Chairman Fletcher of the G. O. P. headquarters here. The fact that Barton has been recruited to publicize A. I. Landon is interesting in the light of the fact that he is the author of a book entitled "The Man Nobody Knows."

However, anything that anybody can do to humanize a political convention, now that so many attend them via the radio, is commendable. The Democratic chieftains have been leading the way in publicity, air and printed, for several years. Now that the Republicans have decided to make improvements, the general public can sit back and have a swell time in a few days now, listening to the impassioned orators spell-binding.

One interesting feature Barton is said to be planning is good music, planned to appeal to racial and sectional groups. Barton thinks that if his pipe organ at Cleveland plays "Old Kentucky Home" that will carry the Blue Grass state for Landon or whoever G. O. P. picks. I trust they will not make the mistake that the A. I. Smith boys made when the Georgia delegation nearly mobbed the band for playing "Marching Through Georgia" that tune being the greatest insult that can be offered a Georgia Democrat, as it is an echo of the Union army's destructive march through a stricken state.

TANGLE PREDICTED

Administration leadership managed to choke back the demand for a low-interest means of paying off farm mortgages, when the house voted down the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage bill. But while conservatism won a momentary victory, I look for the episode to start a tremendous tangle in coming events . . . particularly in politics. Wouldn't surprise me in the least if it is the touch-off for a grand assault by Father Coughlin and other radicals who have a tremendous following for their theory that the way to salvation is through a currency so completely diluted that it will wash the banks and bankers all away.

The proposal that the federal government should pay off farm mortgages with three billions of new money, and then reimburse itself by very small annual payments from farmers at a rate of about 1½ per cent a year is attractive enough to any farmer with a mortgage; and had enough support to get 142 votes in the house in the face of strong administration opposition.

But the method is looked on by so many leaders as dangerously inflationary that for all intents and purposes it is too radical a measure to get to the statute books until there is a much more radical following in both houses of congress. The strongest attack on the measure came from organized labor, which feels the financing of the shortage payments by three billions of new money (to be either borrowed or printed), would dilute currency to a state where prices would sky-rocket and wages remain static. That idea killed the bill—and that alone. Scores of men who are sympathetic with the farm problem voted against the Frazier-Lemke measure, on the ground that this diluted money would be ruinous to everybody—explaining that the farm-mortgage problem and other rural economic tangles would be straightened by a price reform and better business, rather than by green-back money.

But agrarian movements in the past have never died out as the result of a first defeat. I look for this Frazier-Lemke movement to sweep the Middle West and Northwest. Father Coughlin and his Union for Social Justice will become more important than ever from the standpoint of the make-up of the next congress. Scores of good fellows were put on the spot by the vote in the house; and many members will have to fight for their lives on account of their position in that vote. I also look for a strong counter-proposal.

A COMING LEADER

Representative Lemke of North Dakota is a coming radical leader. He was the only Republican to get a bill of any consequence through congress in the first half of this administration; that was the Frazier-Lemke moratorium bill which granted time to farmers who had come up to the limit on mortgage payments. The Supreme court held the bill unconstitutional.

Lemke is listed as a Republican, but he is not. Actually he is a Non-partisan Leaguer and when the league captured and ate up the Republican party in North Dakota he became the party's state chairman. But no Republican would claim him as a brother, because Lemke has stood for some of the most radical steps. As attorney general of his state he drafted laws which have been called revolutionary. They include state banks, state insurance for farmers against hail, state-owned flour mills, and other far reaching changes.

This radical farm leader is not without educational background. He studied in two of the most conservative institutions on earth; one was Yale university and the other was Georgetown university here in the national capital. I look to see this gentleman attempt some great things for himself and his radical following before the next administration is through.

TRADE PACT WITH FRANCE

We have been engaged in a ten-year trade war with France; now it's all over. A new trade agreement has been completed which lowers tariffs; and permits us to deal more freely with France while they in turn have a better market for their goods (particularly wines and perfumes). Our tobacco raisers see a great opportunity to do a lot more business with the French, and all told every one should be gratified.

There is no sharp excitement about a new trade agreement, but world-wide peaceful results are bound to flow because the new-style treaties are a part of the new era wherein the seeds of war are being eliminated by a neighborly policy. Of course, there will be criticism directed at certain items. It will be charged, as in the case of the Canadian trade treaty, that foreigners are allowed to rush in and steal our markets; but all told the French and Canadian treaties together are being praised by some of the harshest opponents of the Roosevelt administration. At last we are getting to the point where we can tear down our fences and do business with our world-neighbors on the same human, common sense basis as we do in our own town.

It has been proven that past wars have sprung from the selfish, nationalistic tendencies of nations to build high tariff barriers and bottle themselves up in a ferment of selfishness. The new policy is like going down town and mingling with your fellows and learning that a little give-and-take in trading is the way to make friends—and at the same time do more business. You lose a little on one item but you make up on another. Best of all, both sides remain friends.

THE LAST SUPPER

LESSON TEXT—Luke 22:7-23.
GOLDEN TEXT—This do in remembrance of me.—Luke 22:19.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Supper Jesus Gave His Friends.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Lord's Supper.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What the Lord's Supper Means to Me.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What the Lord's Supper Meant to Jesus.

The last meal that Jesus ate with his disciples was the Passover, the memorial of the national deliverance which pointed to the supreme deliverance to be effected by Christ on the cross of Calvary. In connection with this Passover, the feast of the new covenant was instituted. This feast also has a double import. It looks backward to the great deliverance wrought through Christ's atoning death, and forward to the even greater deliverance which He shall accomplish at his second coming (1 Cor. 11:26).

1. The Last Passover (vv. 7-18).
a. The Passover prepared (vv. 7-13).
a. As the time had arrived for the killing of the Passover, Jesus directed Peter and John to make ready for it (v. 8).

b. The disciples inquired (v. 9) where they should prepare the Passover. Doubtless, they were eager to be of service to their Master and Lord.

c. Jesus gave strange directions (vv. 10-12), that they should go into the city, where they would find a man carrying a pitcher of water. The custom was for women to carry the water. This unusual occurrence would make it the easier for them to recognize the man of whom they would ask, "Where is the guest chamber where I shall eat the Passover with my disciples?" (v. 14).

d. The disciples gave unquestioning obedience (v. 13), not to raise the question of sanity or reasonableness. Jesus, because he was omniscient, knew just how the matter would turn out, and the disciples found it even so.

2. The Passover eaten (vv. 14-18).
a. The historic group around that table (v. 14) was composed of Jesus and the Twelve, the apostles.

b. Jesus' words to the disciples (vv. 15-18).

(1) "I have desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer" (v. 15). He desired to show them the meaning of the passion through which he was to go. He also craved their human sympathy as he passed through this terrible ordeal.

(2) "I will not any more eat thereof until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God" (v. 16). His death was the antitypical fulfillment of the Passover meal. He declared that this would be the last time that they could share together this sacred ordinance before the completion of his mediatorial work.

(3) "Take this cup and divide it among yourselves" (vv. 17, 18). By the token of the cup the disciples were partaking of the shed blood. This cup should be distinguished from the cup of the feast of the new covenant.

II. The Feast of the New Covenant (vv. 19, 20).

This feast took place at the close of the paschal supper.

1. The bread a symbol of Christ's body (v. 19). As bread nourishes and strengthens our bodies, so Christ is food to our spiritual nature. Unless the body receives nourishment, it decays. Unless our souls feed upon Christ, we shall perish. Christ's giving the physical bread to his disciples signified the giving of himself to them.

2. The cup a symbol of Christ's blood (v. 20). He said, "This cup is the new testament in my blood which was shed for you." Indicating that each one must personally accept the atonement made by the shedding of his blood.

III. The Treachery of Judas (vv. 21-23).

1. The time of its manifestation (v. 21). It was while they were eating the last Passover that Jesus made an announcement of the betrayal. Perhaps Jesus was in this manner offering Judas an opportunity at this last moment to repent.

2. The betrayal was by the determinate counsel of God (v. 22, cf. Acts 2:23). Nothing takes place by chance. Even the sinful acts of wicked men come within the permissive providence of God. This does not, however, lessen the guilt of sinners, for Jesus said, "Woe unto the man by whom he is betrayed."

3. The sorrowful question (v. 23). That the disciples were not suspicious of one another is evident from the personal nature of the question they asked, "Lord, is it I?" (Matt. 26:22). Well may each believer ask if he is in any way betraying his Savior and Lord.

True Happiness

Genuine happiness is the delicate perfume of a holy life. The sanctified soul exhalates happiness as the flowers emit sweet odors. Heaven is a tropical garden of conscious spirits and its atmosphere is laden with happiness as the normal product of their purity.—D. C. Knowles.

SYNOPSIS

Jeb Braddon, young and fantastically successful broker of Chicago, is infatuated with Agnes Gleneth, beautiful daughter of a retired manufacturer. Rodney, a doctor, in love with Agnes, visits his brother, Jeb. Rod plans work at Rochester. Jeb suggests that he make a try for Agnes before leaving. In Rod there is a deeper, obstinate decency and much sterner restraints than in Jeb. Agnes believes to be happy, a girl must bind herself entirely to a man and have adorable babies. Rod visits Agnes and tells her of his great desire, but realizes it can never be fulfilled. Agnes' mother is attempting to regain her husband's love. Bob Gleneth arrives from New York. Agnes has disturbing doubts as to what attracts her father there.

There was no mark of deterioration upon him. It was plain that his impulses and his needs for closest, emotional contacts had not fled or even retreated. Plain too, it had been for some time, that they had failed him here. What was he "doing"? What had he done?

"Don't think about it," instincts warned her.

He swung about to her. "When I was in New York, I got out of something I got into awhile ago; and I made half a million. . . . Tell me what you want, little Light One."

"I don't want anything, Father," she answered before she realized how much she was disappointing him; for she was thinking once more of her mother. He would offer to buy her, too, anything she liked; but it was nothing that he need buy which Mother wanted from him. And this half-million additional in his hands would not help her. No; it would not help Mother at all.

"Bob?" they both heard her voice.

"Bob? Are you home?"

She had come to the top of the stairs and was calling down.

Agnes saw him start slightly. "Hello, Tricie," he called back. "Wait up there. Coming!"

They screened their first meetings, these days, from their daughter.

"Anybody for dinner tonight?" he inquired of Agnes, as he turned.

"Jeb, I guess, Father." And she added: "Rod was here this afternoon."

"The Deep Sea?" her father said, and suspected aloud. "Why was he taking off the afternoon?"

"He was going away. He's gone."

"I see," said her father, satisfied with that, and he did not inquire whither. "Good fellow. But his brother—how that young man does know his way about!" And he started, at last, for the stairs.

Headlights played on the windows and swung away as a car skidded to a stop.

Jeb came in, cold and stamping and all alive.

She was his goal, this girl who braved her bare arms and shoulders to the chill from the door to meet him. She, above all others and all else in the world tonight, was the sole object he sought, and nothing could keep him from her. That was how Jeb made you feel when you faced him.

"Hello, Glen!" He held her, making her palms press his. "Hello, Glen!"

"Jeb, why did you drive tonight?" He laughed, and his happiness at the triumph of this arrival thrilled down her arms from her palms held to his.

"Thought the train might not get through, Glen. I had to. Are you glad, a little?"

"Oh, yes, I'm glad, Jeb!"

He ripped open his overcoat and thrust it off and upon a chair for Cravath to pick up.

"Rod came?" he asked, as they passed the blazing hearth before which her father had halted.

"Yes; he came. He's—wonderful, Jeb. Wonderful. We talked in there."

Why did she indicate the room—and avoid it? She had no idea of taking Jeb to it. Something quite separate from Jeb had transpired in there, and she would not have him intrude upon it.

"But you couldn't do it?" said Jeb.

"No, I couldn't do it."

They were in the great drawing-room, where, on this stormy night, a huge wood fire also was blazing. He turned to her in the warm light, tall as his brother, and straighter. There was no ready-made suit, no marks of carelessness, nothing could make Jeb appear pitiful.

Her mind flew to her mother's room, where there was another man whom she could not picture pitiful.

The four were alone at dinner.

Her mother and father had dressed, for they were going out. There was always, in these days, something for them to go out to, if they wished; and tonight, though he was just home, they utilized this escape from their evening together. So Father sat at his end of the table in his dinner-jacket, and Mother, at her end, in décolleté.

She was forty-seven, for she had been twenty-two when she had borne Bob, the Dark One, the daughter like herself. But Bob, after barely three years of marriage and two babies (as Mother had had) was not now as happy as Mamma had been for the twelve years in the "little" home where she had been a bride.

Was happiness shortening? What ended it, once you had it—both of you—as he at his end of the table, and she opposite him, had had?

"We're together! Isn't it good! Good! Good to be together, together so!" That was how the old house had felt. Here it was gone. Most particularly tonight it was gone from Father and Mother. You could feel no current of closeness.

Across the table Jeb sat. He was happy to be here, and to have her here. Of course it was because he was close to her, the table temporarily separating them, that he was happy.

He was in business clothes, as he had come from his office. He and Agnes were not to go out, to seek escape from themselves tonight. Quite to the contrary! Why did conversation drag so?

Her father mentioned Insult to Jeb. "Stronger every minute," Jeb said. "I'm putting all my people into Mid-West Utilities."

There Mother sat, alone, no longer the closest, most necessary person to any one. Her figure, once as slender, was by no means heavy. Women complimented her upon it, but men had ceased to turn when she passed. She had lovely hands, beautifully-shaped fingers with almond-like nails, which Agnes had inherited. Her skin, though not dark, was less fair than her husband's, and it needed color now.

"Tell Me What You Want, Little Light One."

There was not too much tonight, Agnes thought. There was too little.

They had gone out together, Simmons driving them. The leaping blaze in the drawing-room had burnt down to red-glowing charred logs that lay lazily on the andirons.

Jeb gathered Agnes against him. "Don't fight it," he said. "It's no use. It's over for them. That's all."

"Why's it over, Jeb?"

His arm about her also claimed her right hand with his. He fitted her slender fingers in between his, as he liked to do, and clasped palm to palm.

"Because it's over; that's all any one can ever say. . . . There's just so much in the cup, sometimes, I think, Glen. You can sip it all your life, afraid ever really to taste it; or you can dare to drink it down. That's what they did, I figure from what I've heard from you. They had it all; they took it all, tipped it empty together. If he'd died, or she, ten years ago, it'd been a break for the poets; true love for a lifetime. But why bother about such a thing, Glen? Do you want it?"

"What?" Agnes said.

"Love for a lifetime. Tepid, tasteless stuff you can bear to sip and never need to gulp down. Do you want it? By God, you'll never get it from me. I've had girls, Glen, but never one like you. What we'll give each other will be beyond telling. I don't know how long it will last; and neither do you. And I don't care; nor do you. We'll have it—we'll have it all while we're young. We'll tip up the cup—won't we?—and drink the whole damn thing down while we're living."

"Do you dream your mother today would trade what she'd had for anything else she ever heard of? . . ."

He thrust his free arm under her knees and claimed her close. He arose with her in his arms and took a step or two, carrying her; then he lifted her higher, bringing her face so near to his that he could, by bending an inch more, kiss her. But he did not. Instead, with his lips over hers, he whispered.

It tanned and tantalized her.

"What is it, Jeb, what are you saying to me?"

"The line—don't you know it?—that Francis Villon wrote, dear, for himself and his friends the night before he was sure they were all to be hanged. 'Men, brother men, that after us live, let not your hearts too hard on us be.'"

"But why do you say it?"

"Why, Glen? Because we—God help us, Glen—we are going to be married." And then, at last, he kissed her.

Beatrice Ayreforth had had a sun-bath built in her home. The enclosure under the quartz glass roof was like a little Japanese room, with softly padded straw mats fitted together to form the floor, and with a slightly raised section, laid with thicker and softer mats, for lounging upon and sunning.

Here, in the soothing sun, you could play with your boys' round, strong little bodies, and imagine them men—great men, splendid men, inspiring, important and thrilling. When you did this, you omitted imagining them like their father. They must be more than Davis ever would be. Davis, your husband, who was only thirty but for whom you no longer held illusions of greatness or of real importance, though you loved him. Of course you loved him.

He lacked something that, for one, Jeb Braddon had. Jeb, who had been at "the house" last night, as Beatrice had learned when she phoned her father after dinner, to say hello. How much further had Agnes and Jeb "gone" last evening?

Bee wished that Agnes would hurry over.

There she was! They faced each other in the sun, but Agnes immediately bent to the babies, rubbing her hands briskly to be sure of their warmth before she touched the brown little bodies. Bobbie kissed back on her cool cheek after she kissed him; she swept with her lips the soles of Davy's chubby little feet, one after the other.

"How's Jeb?" asked her sister, seating herself before her.

Agnes held to one of Davy's feet. "All right, Bee," she answered.

"Did you go anywhere last night?"

"Not us. Father and Mother went to the Stinsons'; but we stayed home," said Agnes a bit breathlessly.

"What'd you do?" demanded Bee.

"Bee, I guess Jeb and I got sort of engaged."

Beatrice's gaze jerked up. "Don't you know?"

"I know he said we were, Bee."

Agnes leaned over and resorted to clasping both of Davy's feet, and pulling him gently along the mat.

Beatrice quickly touched a bell behind her. "They've been long enough in the sun," she decided suddenly, and bundled her babies into robes. When the nurse knocked, she handed the children out and secured the door again.

"All right now," said Bee, dropping to the mat.

"I liked him a lot last night, Bee. I let him know it."

"How about this morning?" Beatrice demanded.

"I'm going downtown to have lunch with him today."

"But are you engaged? Did you say you'd marry him?"

"I didn't; for I didn't know I would. I don't know now."

"You mean you don't know whether you want to?"

"I guess I want to marry him, Bee."

"Then what in heaven is it you don't know?"

"What it will be like to be married to Jeb," said Agnes. I didn't want to talk to Mother about it, at all. She's too unhappy. You aren't."

"No," said Bee quickly. "How was Father when he got home?"

"No different. He made a lot more money in New York."

"I gathered that. . . . But you and Jeb?"

"He thinks we ought to get married as quick as we can arrange it. Oh, Bee, I never, never had such a day. Rod came in the afternoon."

"Rod?"

"I can't tell you about that. I can never tell anyone about that! . . . Then Father came home; and Mother was making ready for him. . . . Bee, they'll separate when I get married, I know."

"Then I should think you'd hardly rush off and marry."

"But that makes me want to, don't you see? Oh, if you were in the house, you would."

"I wouldn't," said Bee.

Agnes proceeded to Chicago on the noon train. As she neared the city, she wondered, more practically, what plan he had made for her and himself? For she felt that today, of all days, he would have a special surprise for her.

Agnes started when she saw him. How much more hers, since last night, was this man at whom women gazed; and for whom they turned, after they had passed. Now he saw her!

Oh, this was something! She was shaking from excitement as hardly she had last night.

He took her away in a taxi, and still saved the tension of their restraint. He named a restaurant where a few of their set were sure to be. So they sat side by side at a little table, looking out upon the wide, gay room just as if nothing at all had happened since they had been seen together.

So many people gazed at them; and Agnes knew that they whispered to each other: "There's Jeb Braddon."

Agnes' hand on the seat beside her touched his, and his closed on hers briefly only.

"Nothing today," he told her, "or more!"

More than last night? What could he mean? Marriage today? Had he a license in his pocket?

They left the restaurant, and Agnes watched the women looking up at him; he watched the men's eyes on her, and was very satisfied.

He took her into a taxi and gave an address on the North Side.

"I'm going to show you a building, Glen," he told her then, "where I figured you and I would start."

"Oh!"

"I spotted it for us—you with me—long ago."

"How long, Jeb?"

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

Somebody has said that it is not so remarkable that Columbus discovered America as

Channel Marks

It would have been if he hadn't discovered it. But though Columbus never dreamed that he had discovered America, or even that there was an America to discover, the credit for his exploit can never be taken away from him.

Today looking out of a window on the coast of Maine I can see dozens of channel buoys without which steamships would find it as difficult to find their way into the harbor as it was for the Genoese explorer to discover San Salvador.

Some of these marks are light-houses, some of them are red or black spars, some of them are great iron buoys which blow a warning whistle with every lift and fall of the sea.

To maintain this system of warnings, which is found at the entrance of every port on both coasts of America, required not only a great deal of money, but an almost incredible amount of courage on the part of the lighthouse builders, and the men whose business it is to see that the buoys are always in their place, ready to give their warnings.

Neither storm nor cold can turn from their watchful task.

Let a single buoy go astray, or a single lighthouse fall to "throw its beam across the wave," and every ship entering or leaving port may be in danger.

To build up this almost perfect system has required many years and a great deal of risk.

But were the marks not carefully watched and tended, reaching a port either by night or by day would be a perilous business.

There was once a master mariner who when asked how he could know every rock in the entrance to a harbor said:

"I don't. But I know where the deep water is."

In our own little voyages to and fro on our way, we are just as well supplied with channel marks as are the ships that move in and out of the ports along the seaboard.

If we heed these marks we pass in safety. If we are even just a little careless disaster is sure to follow.

Make it your business to "know where the deep water is," and you will have no trouble.

The Boy Scout organization is one of the finest things for boys that we know of. Anywhere you find a Boy Scout troop you find a bunch of boys who are kind, courteous and strong for the Scouts are taught to be kind and courteous and to keep their body physically fit at all times.

Loraine has a Boy Scout troop that was organized only a short time ago. Already some of the boys have passed tests that enable them to become second class Scouts and as time goes along they will take tests that will enable them to become first class Scouts, and possibly some will become Eagle Scouts. The things that the boy must learn before he can pass any of these tests are worth a great deal to him all through his life. Besides learning to be kind and courteous he learns how to take care of himself and to save the lives of others who may be drowning, be snake bit, etc. He also learns how to make a fire without matches, how to cook, how to make things from wood, metal and leather. The knowledge he gains is useful to himself and others.

The Scout troop here does not particularly need any money at this time to carry on its activities but it does need more moral support from the citizens of the town. Give every bit of encouragement you can to the boys.

MUNICIPAL BAND

What do you think a Municipal Band is worth to our town and community? We believe there is no organization that can be used to a better advantage for the entertainment of our citizens than a good band.

We have a good band and a good director, Mr. Harold Martin. The organization, however, cannot keep going without some financial support from the citizenship at large. Members of the band pay in a nominal fee each month to take care of the expenses of the band other than the salary of the director. Mr. Martin does not expect a large salary but he is entitled to some remuneration for the efforts he puts

The sports of the various seasons, as they swing around the calendar, all receive attention from Hugh Bradley, ace sports writer, whose column of entertaining comment is a regular feature of this paper. From the time when the first warm breezes send millions of fans to the baseball parks to that same time the next year, each popular sport in turn is subject for his comments.

And Hugh Bradley knows all these sports... many through active participation in them during his college days and later... all of them through many years of critical observation.

All set to be a lawyer, Bradley was wooed away from his first love by an invitation to cover sports for the Baltimore American. He has been at it ever since and is now head of the sports department of the New York Post. His wide acquaintance among the stars of the present day and his intimate knowledge of sports history, his free and easy narrative style and the unswerving justice of his criticism have made him popular with readers of all ages.

FLY CONTROL PREVENT BREEDING

Austin, May 25.—Thousands of children and adults die every year from diseases carried by the fly. Typhoid fever, tuberculosis, summer complaint, cholera, intestinal diseases, and frequently death follow closely in the trail of the common house fly.

"The control of the fly menace comes at the top of the list of necessary public health measures which should be applied by every city and community in the State," urges Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer.

"The most effective measure for control is to prevent breeding," he said. "Flies breed in filth, and about eight days are required to complete a life cycle. During her life time of several months, one house fly lays from 600 to 1000 eggs. Thus it can easily be seen that in a season which usually begins in the spring of the year, the descendants from one fly number countless thousands.

"To eliminate flies the breeding places must be destroyed. Manure piles, garbage, and other organic filth furnish the requirements of warmth, moisture, and food necessary for the propagation of the fly. Flies should be kept from contact with food or drink or utensils in which such food and drink are prepared and served. Likewise they should be kept from access to privy vaults where they pick up the infections, which they later spread to humans by contact with the food and by unwashed hands and utensils.

"See that your windows, doors, and porches are screened so that the stray fly from some careless neighbor will not molest your family. See that your grocer keeps meat, vegetables, and fruit screened from flies.

"Organize health measures to destroy the breeding places, control the flies, access to your home and food, and establish standards of cleanliness in your community that will eliminate the fly."

OLD AGE PENSION QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This is the second of a series of questions that the people of Texas are asking. Orville S. Carpenter, state pension director, answers them frankly and to the point:

Q. How many people are there in Texas past the age of 65 years?

A. Over 300,000.

Q. Definitely, if Texas gave each one of these $30 a month, would the Federal Government pay half of it?

A. No.

Q. If each of the 300,000 received assistance, where would the money come from to pay the bill?

A. It could come only from the taxpayers of Texas.

Q. Could we pay everyone past 65 years of age $30 per month if we desired and were willing to do so without the millions that the Federal Government will contribute?

A. No, we could not because the Old Age Assistance Amendment to the Texas Constitution provides for payments not to exceed $15 per month per person.

Q. Then $15 per month would be all that we could pay if we gave everyone past 65 years of age assistance without the help of the Federal Government?

A. Yes.

Law breakers will find a warm reception awaiting them if they visit the Texas Centennial Exposition June 12 at Dallas. This sixth day of the Exposition will be Sheriff's Day. A short program is to be given at the Roy Bean Cabin and the visiting Sheriffs will then be shown the $25,000,000 Exposition.

AVOID accidents—take no chances—buy your tires on Proof of Performance. Make sure that you and your family will be safe! Skidding, blowouts and punctures caused more than 37,000 accidents last year. Many of these accidents could have been avoided with safe tires.

The new Firestone High Speed Tire for 1936 is the safest driving equipment you can buy. Here is your proof:

A leading university made 2,350 tire tests and found that the new scientifically designed Firestone High Speed tread stops a car up to 25% quicker than other tires.

PROOF OF GREATEST BLOWOUT PROTECTION

Every year, since Firestone developed the Gum-Dipped Balloon tire, Firestone Tires have been on the winning cars in the gruelling blowout test of the Indianapolis 500-Mile Race.

PROOF OF GREATEST ECONOMY

Firestone engineers designed the new Firestone High Speed Tire for 1936 to give you up to 50% longer non-skid mileage. This is proved by our own test fleet records and the fact that the world's largest transportation companies, such as Greyhound, to whom safety and tire economy means business efficiency, use Firestone Tires. This is further proof that they are the safest, most economical tires ever built.

Never leave fish, unless salted, soaking in water. Too long soaking removes the flavor and makes the fish flabby.

Do not allow bread to rise too high before putting into the oven if you wish to have a fine grained bread.

A teaspoonful of mixed pickle spices tied in a small bag and added to the water in which fish, ham or tongue is boiled, will add a very pleasing flavor.

To prevent cheese becoming stringy when making Welsh rabbit, do not use a high temperature when melting. Have only just enough heat to melt cheese.

An Easy Aid For Sluggishness

When sluggish and listless from improper elimination, you don't want to upset your entire system with a harsh laxative. You want relief that is pleasant and easy... the sort of relief you get with Feen-a-mint, the delightful chewing gum laxative. Feen-a-mint begins its pleasant effect as soon as you start chewing it, for its stomach-settling mint brings a clean, fresh taste to the mouth. As you chew out the laxative ingredient which is absolutely tasteless, the flow of digestive juices is increased. The laxative is mixed with them and carried into the system gently. Feen-a-mint doesn't gripe, nauseate, or upset you and it is non-habit-forming. It passes through the stomach and into the bowels scientifically to thoroughly cleanse out waste. Doctors prescribe Feen-a-mint's laxative ingredient for both children and adults. Sold on money-back guarantee. Generous family size package 15c and 25c.

No Need to Suffer "Morning Sickness"

"Morning sickness"—is caused by an acid condition. To avoid it, acid must be offset by alkalis—such as magnesia.

Uncle Phil Says:

Cultivate Quietness.

Quiet contemplation is something that needs cultivation among sane minds; a demand for constant excitement characterizes a nervous wreck.

It requires a good deal of sporting blood merely to carry on in a world of doubt and fear.

The simp paints the town red; the misanthrope paints it blue; the knocker paints it black; the promoter paints in the color of gold.

If a man is witty he expects the fact to be acknowledged; and if he is handsome he expects the same thing.

Business of life is getting into trouble; the joy of life is getting out of it.

Cardui Helped Three Times

"I used Cardui, when a girl, for cramps, and it helped then," writes Mrs. Ike Wright of Sealy, Texas. Next, after marriage, she reports having taken Cardui when she felt weak, nervous and restless before her children were born. And during middle life, it helped her again.

"I was miserable," she explains. "I did not have an appetite. I was very blue and upset. I remembered Cardui had helped me, so I took it again and soon began to pick up. I ate and had more strength. I kept up the Cardui and did not have any more trouble. Is it any wonder that I recommend Cardui to all my friends?"

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Cochrane Is Certain

Tigers Will Regain

Vigor Come July 4

EVEN though he could not believe his ears, the reporter felt that he had something for which to be thankful.

He rendered thanks for not having to believe such an oversized set of lugs as those which waved in front of him, and returned resolutely to his task.

"Don't," he coaxed the gentleman, "you mean Christmas? You know that's the day when Santa Claus comes along. Maybe he could unload you a few such knick-knacks as a third baseman who could hit or an outfielder who could field. From what I've seen of this outfit of yours, you certainly could use something like that, and the quicker you get it the better."

The gentleman did not twitch an ear at such blasphemy. He had been balancing his weight on his left foot, so as to provide some solace for a bruised right instep. Now, while he repeated the words which had caused all the trouble, he shifted back to the right foot again. The reporter noted this effort to ease the ache of a left-leg charley-horse.

"Maybe we can settle on Labor day, then," he offered to compromise. "Your gams already are approaching that state of decrepitude which comes from extremely old baseball age. So are those of your more estimable and high-priced hired men. Think of what is going to happen when the ground really gets hard. Sure, that September holiday is the one you mean. Then you'll have only another month to go, and—"

"No," said the gentleman. "I mean—"

"Sure, I know," persisted the reporter. "What you're getting at is that you want to prove your patriotism. But just because those loving cups of yours start flopping around like a couple of May Day banners every time you get burned up about what has been happening lately is no excuse for going to extremes. Why, even the Hearst papers wouldn't take you for a Red just because your ears get that way when—"

There was a wistful look in the eye of the gentleman who now was fondling three big black bats. The reporter understood that, too.

"Hnnh," he said. "So you're just a great big boy, are you? All you want is the noise and the excitement. Well, all I've got to say is that the way that big Rowe blew up in the first frame today and the way that Lawson fizzled like a Roman candle and the way some of those other birds have been blasted lately, you should already be having all the fireworks you want. Why—"

"Nevertheless," said the gentleman. "Fourth of July is the day and" (he waved a bat invitingly) "if you would like to debate the subject any longer, there is—"

But there are some ideas the reporter could get even if it was only one of the Dodgers up there swinging. He hereby passes along the word that July 4 is the day on which the Tigers will resume their pennant progress. Also he desists from the writing of Sanskrit to inform the world that this information comes direct from the lips of Mickey Cochrane.

Well, all I've got to say is that the way that big Rowe blew up in the first frame today and the way that Lawson fizzled like a Roman candle and the way some of those other birds have been blasted lately, you should already be having all the fireworks you want. Why—"

"Nevertheless," said the gentleman. "Fourth of July is the day and" (he waved a bat invitingly) "if you would like to debate the subject any longer, there is—"

But there are some ideas the reporter could get even if it was only one of the Dodgers up there swinging. He hereby passes along the word that July 4 is the day on which the Tigers will resume their pennant progress. Also he desists from the writing of Sanskrit to inform the world that this information comes direct from the lips of Mickey Cochrane.

month to go, and—"

"No," said the gentleman. "I mean—"

"Sure, I know," persisted the reporter. "What you're getting at is that you want to prove your patriotism. But just because those loving cups of yours start flopping around like a couple of May Day banners every time you get burned up about what has been happening lately is no excuse for going to extremes. Why, even the Hearst papers wouldn't take you for a Red just because your ears get that way when—"

There was a wistful look in the eye of the gentleman who now was fondling three big black bats. The reporter understood that, too.

"Hnnh," he said. "So you're just a great big boy, are you? All you want is the noise and the excitement. Well, all I've got to say is that the way that big Rowe blew up in the first frame today and the way that Lawson fizzled like a Roman candle and the way some of those other birds have been blasted lately, you should already be having all the fireworks you want. Why—"

PERHAPS it is just as well that one Annie Oakley was unused at the Canzoneri-McLarnin fight. If Max Schmeling had taken advantage of the same free opportunities afforded G-Man Hoover and numerous other Broadway celebrities, he might have departed with ideas which eventually would have wrecked the peace of mind of thousands who already have invested upon Joe Louis' next triumph.

By this, I mean that Tony Canzoneri's upsetting victory over Jimmy McLarnin provides a ring lesson which should be carefully studied by any fighting man who finds himself facing long odds. Admitting that the raw courage of the gamecock who won seven out of ten rounds is a rare item in the human make-up, the fact remains that Tony won because he outsmarted the sturdier opponent even more than he outgassed him. Aside from any lesson Schmeling may have missed by not being there, another idea might be gleaned out of the evening which brought so many bright memories. It is that if the officials will rematch the two they need have no worry about what to do with their air-cooled Garden upon any summer evening they care to name.

Cincinnati hand books got taken for plenty when Bold Venture won the Kentucky rodeo. The tip was red hot in that town. . . . Bill Terry ordinarily is a straightaway hitter, but when he has two strikes on him he chokes his bat and pokes at the ball. That is why he so often confounds the left fielders by dropping short hits into their territory. . . . Jimmy Dykes uses zippers instead of buttons on his baseball uniform. . . . Although he is only twenty-six years old and probably better than ever, Barney Ross' blue-black hair is now flecked with gray. . . . Carl Hubbard, the veteran pro footballer who became an American league umpire this year, has a funny stiff arm motion while indicating balls and strikes. But players say he is one of the most competent arbiters to come along in recent years.

Chicago is pulling all wires to persuade Mike Jacobs to bring a heavyweight boxing show there in August. . . . The sun glasses used by major league outfielders cost 16 buckaroos. A man in Boston makes them out of a special blue lens. . . . One of the most excited persons in the Churchills Downs clubhouse was a blonde whose friend had given her a C note to bet for him on Brevity. She slapped $10 on Bold Venture's nose and held out the other 90 smackers. . . . The Giant call Adolphe Luque "Charley." Joe Alvarez, who tangled with Champion Dick Shikat in the law courts, is the best wrestling teacher connected with the trust.

The boys about the barns have a new explanation of what happened to Granville in the Kentucky Derby. Several days before the race the son of Gallant Fox posed for an advertising picture. The ad then appeared on the back of the program. "How could you expect a horse that was put in such a spot to do any better'n last!" they argue. "It was a jinx." . . . Max Schmeling is an excellent mimic, and even though he cannot carry his art to such an extreme that he looks like a guy who can belt over Joe Louis, his imitation of Mike Jacobs is enough to wow all beholders. . . . Although he is being boomed for mayor, Alderman Eddie Sullivan, one of New York's more celebrated sportsmen, probably would settle for a state senator's berth. . . . Lou Gehrig has become a collector of first editions. He is particularly proud of a swell buy he made of a set of Chaucer while in Philadelphia with the Yankees this spring.

Did the papers carry all the details about why Mickey Haslin held out on the Bees? The truth seems to be that the Phillies promised to give him a big salary boost if he made good by May 1. So they traded him for Pinky Whitney and cash on April 29, and the Bees offered him considerably less than the promised pay raise. . . . Jockeys swear that one of their number who did very well rode the first half-mile of the Derby with his eyes closed. . . . The real name of Freddie Miller, N. B. A. featherweight champion, is Friederich Mueller. . . . Jeff Dickson says that the animal show is the best attraction offered at France's Palais de Sports. Everything is for sale, and customers depart with lion cubs, snakes and such things under their arms. . . . Lou Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, lost 43 pounds recently by going on a 19-day milk diet.

Could it be true that poolroom book-makers are being assessed by collectors for a fund to fight the Dunningan pari-mutuel bill? The gossip is that they are threatened with competition if they don't come across. . . . Mike Vetrano, who played football at Mount Vernon and Dean academy and was a promising amateur heavyweight boxer, now wrestles on the Curley circuit. . . . Nomination for the country's best track manager—Col. Matt Daigler of Pimlico. . . . The Yankees still remember with awe the strong-arm stunts of Wally Schang, who now coaches the Indians. Especially the night on the train when Schang roared "I'm not to be trifled with!" and then tossed Babe Ruth into an upper berth.

Teddy Catalano, one of the most celebrated of soccer groundkeepers, has two brothers playing for the Flatbush Wanderers. Joe is right half and Willie at left half.

Mark It Well, for It's a Disgrace—

Not to be a true man or a true woman.

Not to back up your chance in life with the best that is in you.

To disappoint your relatives and friends, especially your father and mother.

Not to make good, especially in a country where the very climate is a perpetual tonic, where the marvelous resources arouse ambition as nowhere else in the world.

To go through life using only a small part of your possibilities. It is everyone's duty to be a hundred-percent efficient.

To be indolent or idle when there is work in the world that you should be doing.

Move to Name Unchristened 14,000-Foot Peak Constitution

Standing near Mount Whitney, highest peak in the continental United States, is an unnamed peak (only about 500 feet less in height than Whitney itself) which towers 14,496 feet in the air. A formal proposal has been submitted to Washington by the Sierra club of California that the mountain be christened Mount Constitution in 1937, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of that document.—Pathfinder Magazine.
