Two local businesses...

DCOS board hears reports on expansion

The Development Corporation of Snyder heard reports from two local businesses with expansion plans during its regular monthly meeting Thursday afternoon.

Fran Farmer, owner of Farmer's Design Group, told the board about her operation south of Snyder and plans for expansion.

The firm, which makes display fixtures for a number of well-known businesses such as Relic and Folio watches, and has their products in stores such as Sears, J.C. Penney, Macy's, Bloomingdale's and Dillards, currently has 32 employees.

Farmer hopes to expand by building a 7,000-square foot building to go with its present 5,000-square foot manufacturing area.

Farmer said the main obstacle is attracting trained workers.

"We've been talking with John (DeLille, DCOS executive director) and WTC about forming a training program," Farmer said.

C.D. Gray Jr. and Don Gray, representing Snyder Specialty Group Inc., also met with the board.

The two have a company that produces dust control and ice-melt products using magnesium chloride.

The company is seeking to have the DCOS pay back taxes on property owned by American Southwest Chemical Company so they may purchase the property, and get it back on the tax rolls. The total amount of back taxes is $7,961. The company also is seeking a resolution supporting the company's clean-up plan at the site to meet Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission guidelines.

Initially, the company expects to employ two or three people.

The DCOS board took no action following the presentations, but referred the company's needs to its prospect committee consisting of Gary Landes and Mark Cypert.

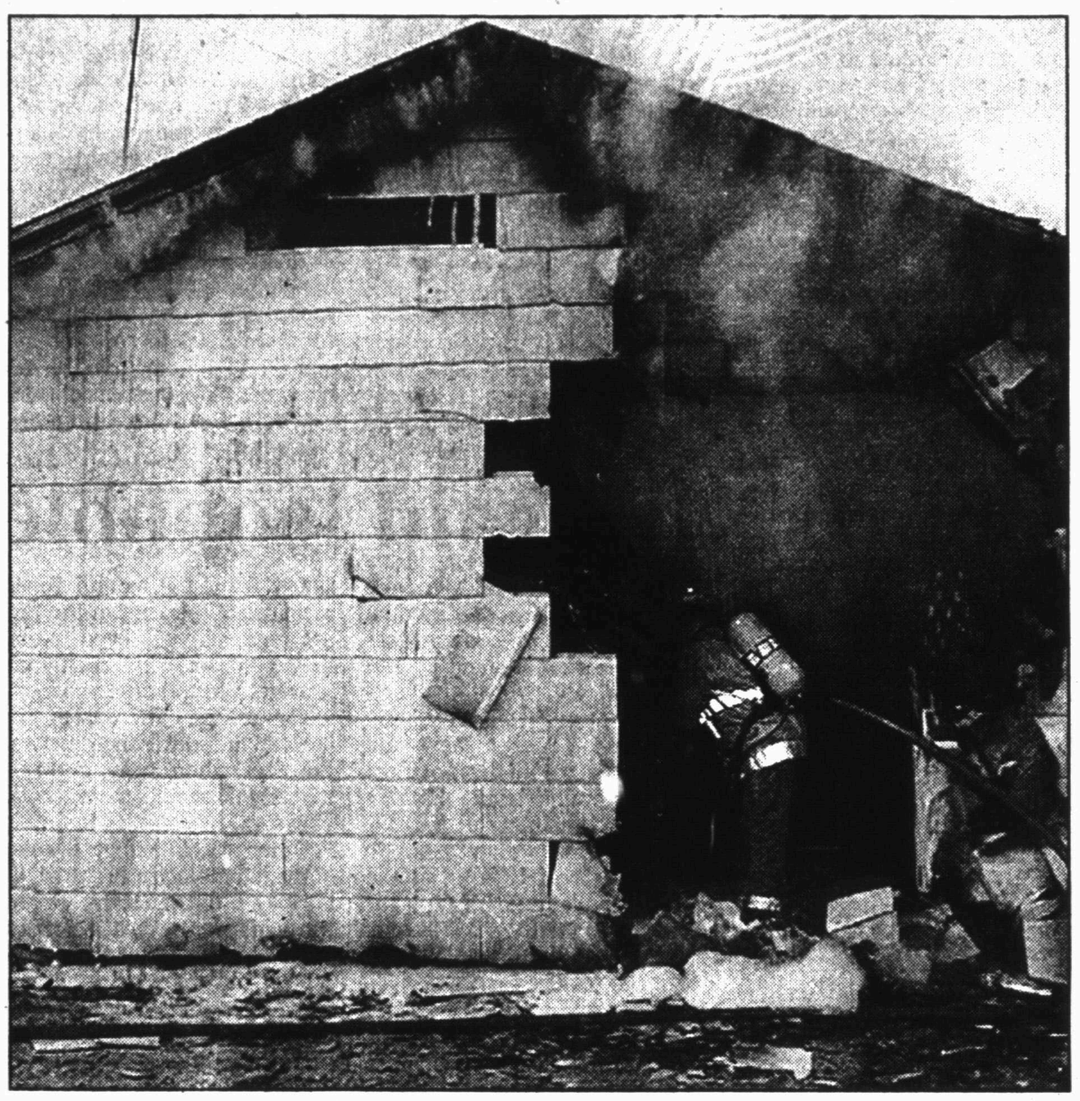

In other business, DeLille told the board about a planned open house at Snyder Brick and Tile on Nov. 17, and a meeting at the plant on Nov. 3 in which Rep. Charlie Stenholm and others will tour the facility.

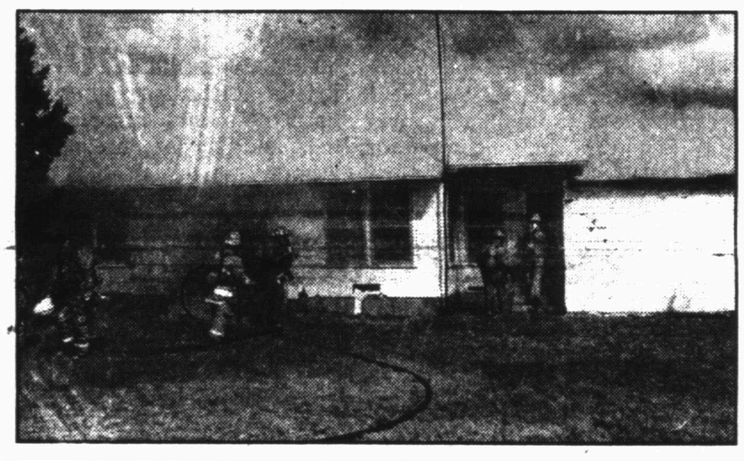

Landes was elected board president, succeeding Jack Gorman Jr.

David Cotton was elected vice president and Larry Anderson will fill the post as secretary-treasurer.

Roy Baze, chairman emeritus of the board, also briefed the board on the history and function of the DCOS.

Landes presided at the meeting and all board members were in attendance to include Cypert, Cotton, Anderson and Mike McWilliams.

Former Army sergeant pleads guilty to bombings

NEW YORK (AP) — Admitting he plotted with Osama bin Laden to kill Americans, a former Army sergeant pleaded guilty today to conspiracy charges related to the 1998 bombings of U.S. embassies in Africa that killed 224 people.

Ali Mohamed, 48, became the first person to plead guilty in connection with the bombings in which 12 Americans were among those killed. He had reached a plea agreement with prosecutors.

U.S. District Judge Leonard B. Sand first said the agreement guaranteed a minimum of 25 years in prison, but after an objection by defense attorneys, the judge did not specify the length of the potential prison term.

Mohamed, who entered the courtroom in leg shackles, stood in his prison blue uniform as he pleaded guilty to five counts. He admitted he conspired with bin Laden and others to murder Americans anywhere they could be found, to attack the U.S. military in Somalia and Saudi Arabia, to kill Americans at unspecified embassies, and to conceal the conspiracy.

He said the object of the conspiracy that he joined in the late 1980s was to force the United States out of the Mideast.

Mohamed, a native of Egypt, was among 17 people named in an indictment that resulted from the Aug. 7, 1998, bombings of the embassies in Kenya and Tanzania.

Mohamed left the U.S. Army in 1989 after three years of service. In the military, he earned a Parachute Badge and an M-16 Expert Badge.

SHS band in contest

Snyder High School's marching band will participate in UIL marching competition Saturday at Jones SBC Stadium on the campus of Texas Tech.

The Pride of the West band is scheduled to march at 8:15 p.m.

Other bands marching in Snyder's classification are Levelland, Plainview and Frenship. Levelland will march at 7:30, followed by Plainview at 7:45 and Frenship at 8 o'clock. The ratings will be announced at 8:30.

Admission will be charged this year and adult tickets are $2, and student tickets are $1.

Firemen contain house blaze

Snyder Fire Department was dispatched to a house fire at 3:10 p.m. Thursday, nine miles north on U.S. 84.

The house is owned by Bil West but is unoccupied. Fire Marshall Cy Posey said the structure is reportedly used as storage.

Posey said upon firefighters' arrival, the south side of the house was engulfed in flames. Fire damage was limited to only one room, however.

The remainder of house sustained heavy smoke damage.

Cause of the blaze is still under investigation, but Posey said it is suspected that an electric fence charger may have ignited it.

Posey explained that the charger was located in the room that burned and wires ran from it to the outside.

"According to all indications, this may have been the cause," he said.

Fourteen firemen and three trucks responded.

Five killed by family member

LINO LAKES, Minn. (AP) — Police searched today for an ex-convict suspected of killing his sister, her husband and their three young children. The man had allegedly vowed to "kill everyone before they kill me."

The bodies were found Thursday in the family's suburban Minneapolis home after one of the father's co-workers called police because he hadn't shown up at his job. Police would not say how they were killed.

Authorities withheld the names pending positive identification of the bodies. But relatives identified the victims as Donna Mimbach; her husband, Todd Mimbach; and their three children, John Mimbach, 12, Amber Duval, 9, and Daniel Mimbach, 1.

The suspect was identified as Donna Mimbach's brother Lawrence Scott Dame, a former state prison inmate who was released the day before the killings from the Anoka County jail, where he was being held for allegedly stealing one of the family's cars.

Police had been called to the house twice recently for disturbances involving Dame, once for theft and once for a "domestic-related" situation, Chief Dave Pecchia said.

The Star Tribune of Minneapolis reported Friday that as a condition of his release, Dame was supposed to report to a hospital for a mental health crisis intervention immediately after he left jail.

Junior high coach placed on paid leave

A teacher in his first year with the Snyder Independent School District has been placed on paid administrative leave pending an investigation that he had inappropriate contact with an 18-year-old female student.

Supt. Gayle Lomax confirmed this morning that an investigation is underway concerning the alleged incident.

"Being placed on administrative paid leave is certainly not an admission of guilt. Until the investigation is complete, it would be inappropriate to go into details about the accusations," said Lomax.

Hazelwood, 39, taught in the Ector County Independent School District last year. Prior to teaching in Odessa, he was the varsity baseball coach in Seminole from 1997-1999.

He is a 1986 graduate of West Texas State University.

Women's vote in swing states sought by Barbara, Laura Bush

BLUE BELL, Pa. (AP) — Former first lady Barbara Bush said Thursday that a recent back operation kept her off the campaign trail but she's now ready to do whatever she can to help her son win the presidency.

"I had back surgery three weeks ago, so I didn't feel like kicking up my heels," said Mrs. Bush, who is 75. "But I'm feisty now."

Proving it, she took a few political shots at Democrat Al Gore and his criticism of George W. Bush's Social Security plans.

She said of Gore, "He is trying to scare old people like me, but it is not going to work this time because we are smarter than that."

Responding, Dawn Le, a spokeswoman for the Pennsylvania Democratic Party, said, "Bush's privatization plan is a threat to women's long-term security, since women are more likely to rely on Social Security as their primary source of retirement benefits."

As for Mrs. Bush's health, she said doctors in Houston operated on three vertebrae to treat sciatica, a sometimes severe and chronic type of back pain. She said she had a similar operation earlier.

"I still get tired a lot, but that might have to do with my age — might," she said.

Her comments on Social Security came during a stop at Montgomery County Community College, part of a tour dubbed "W Stands for Women," which began Wednesday in Michigan. Recent polls show Gore with a lead of 3 to 9 percentage points among women.

With Mrs. Bush in Pennsylvania on the tour Thursday were daughter-in-law Laura Bush; Lynne Cheney, the wife of Republican vice presidential nominee Dick Cheney, and Michelle Ridge and Kathy Schweiker, the wives of Pennsylvania's governor and lieutenant governor.

The five Republican women stopped first at the Fox Chase Cancer Center, where they met briefly with staff, patients and research participants, and learned about the latest in breast cancer treatment.

Laura Bush, whose mother had a mastectomy a little over a year ago, used the hospital backdrop to mention her husband's plan to increase the budget of the National Institutes of Health, from $18 billion to $28 billion. She later said he would double the budget for cancer research.

The former first lady said, "I feel funny talking about women's issues. I think we care about the exact same things men do."

After leaving the White House eight years ago, Barbara Bush disclosed that she believes abortion is a personal matter. George W. Bush says it should be outlawed except in cases of rape or incest or when the woman's life is in danger.

Pushed about her difference of opinion with her son, Barbara Bush said Thursday, "I agree with him on 99 percent of things, and soon I'm going to agree with him about 100 percent of things if people don't stop bringing up this question."

Body of missing Texas sailor killed in Cole blast has been identified

FORT WORTH (AP) — The worst fears of Tim Gauna's family were confirmed Thursday as the Navy announced that one of the final bodies pulled from the USS Cole wreckage in Yemen has been identified as the 21-year-old Rice, Texas-native.

The family learned of Gauna's fate as Navy officials took the Gaunas and others on a tour of a destroyer identical to the Cole. Wednesday they attended a memorial for the 17 sailors who died in the blast, including two other Texans.

The tour provided an insight that made the Gaunas more understanding of the difficulty the Navy has had in the past week, said Paula Gauna, Tim's aunt.

"Seeing the way the ship was built, the different levels and where the ship was hit, that helped so much," Paula Gauna told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in Friday's editions. "We could see how hard it would have been to get to the bodies."

The bomb exploded two levels beneath the mess hall where Tim Gauna and others were eating. The levels collapsed on top of each other in a heap of twisted metal and settled beneath the water's surface, Paula Gauna said.

Now, with positive identification, the family says they can begin the healing process.

"Now we can start healing," she said. "All we wanted was answers."

Nine bodies have been positively identified. The names of the other eight are known, but their bodies could not be positively identified after recovery. Identificaiions will be completed after their return to the United States.

Ronchester Santiago, 22, of Kingsville and Gary Graham Swenchonis Jr., 26, of Rockport — both in the Corpus Christi area — are among 17 sailors missing in action or killed in last week's blast

Back in North Texas, an Arlington sailor who survived the bombing spent a bittersweet homecoming with his family.

Hastert supports Medicaid loophole

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Dennis Hastert wants to use Congress' largest spending bill to delay plans to close a loophole in the Medicaid law that lets states collect billions in extra dollars.

The loophole is expected to cost about $2 billion this year alone, a fourth of which will go to the Republican speaker's home state of Illinois. The $500 million a year Illinois received in excess federal Medicaid payments represents about 10 percent of the state's health care budget.

Hastert's effort has put him at odds with a pair of top Republicans in the Senate — Delaware Sen. William Roth, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Senate GOP Whip Don Nickles of Oklahoma.

Roth, saying the loophole threatens to cost the government $127 billion over the next 10 years, is trying to find a legislative vehicle in the final days of Congress that would accelerate the Clinton administration's plans to gradually close it.

"Senator Roth wants to close this loophole and he's looking for an appropriate means to close it," his spokeswoman, Tara Bradshaw, said Thursday.

The Health Care Financing Administration earlier this month released its proposal to take five years to phase out the excess payments that 20 states now are taking advantage of. It gave states and health care providers 30 days to comment before it issues a final regulation.

Roth, meanwhile, has introduced a measure that would close the loophole entirely in two years.

Earlier this week, Roth and Nickles, joined by two Democrats, Sen. Richard Bryan of Nevada and Rep. John Dingell of Michigan, wrote the speaker and Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott, R-Miss., urging a rejection of any effort to slow the closing of the loophole.

"We are writing to express our opposition to any effort to undermine or weaken the proposed regulation," the letter said, while not mentioning Hastert by name.

"Any attempt to block HCFA in its efforts to begin to stem the abuse will weaken Medicaid in the long run," the lawmakers wrote. "We cannot stand by and let that happen. We will be carefully monitoring all legislation considered between now and adjournment to see that no effort is made to undermine HCFA's proposed regulation."

Hastert's office refused to comment directly on what the speaker planned but his spokesman John Feehery said, "We're looking at a lot of different options to restore fairness for Illinois hospitals."

House officials in both parties, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Hastert wants to attach a measure that would delay closing the loophole to a $350 billion-plus bill funding federal health, welfare, labor and education programs.

Under the Medicaid program for providing the poor with health services, the federal government picks up 50 percent of the costs and states pay for the other 50 percent.

The loophole essentially allows states to bill the federal government for 50 percent of the highest fees allowed even though they contract with health care providers to get the services at lower prices. The states then pocket the difference between the two when they get reimbursement checks from the U.S. Treasury.

Other states taking advantage of the loophole are Alabama, California, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee and Washington.

Some states have used the additional federal reimbursements for health services, but federal officials say others have used the money to reduce state debt and pay for unrelated programs.

Your Birthday

You could be the guy or gal who can build the better mousetrap in the year ahead. It'll be your imagination, ingenuity and resourcefulness that puts you head and shoulder above others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're exceptionally susceptible to flattery today, and a devious manipulator will be aware of that, so take measure to protect yourself against being used. It could happen quite suddenly. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences that'll govern you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions by mailing $2 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your Zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Instead of revealing your self-doubts to a competitor today, a bit of bravado might be called for. If you don't cover up your fears, you'll be behind the 8-ball before you even begin.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't try to sell an idea in which you don't totally trust or believe. Associates will instantly perceive this and won't have any faith in your suggestions or concepts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone you know quite well who always mismanages his or her resources might try to put the tap on you today just when you're preoccupied with something else. Don't get caught off guard.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you discover today that a partnership arrangement in which you're involved is more of a liability than an asset, do something about it to dissolve the situation. It won't work without parity.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It isn't likely that you'll accomplish much today, because you could be inclined to slack off on your duties and responsibilities. You might as well just take the day off.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A person you know socially who has caused you trouble in the past may cross your path again today. Stay away from him or her, because history will repeat itself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Anticipating the outcome of events in a negative manner today will cause you to use tactics or methods that will be both too cautious and ineffective. Don't be your own worst enemy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Anyone with whom you feel it is necessary to make an agreement today should not be taken at his or her word alone. Be sure everything is confirmed and promises are put in writing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be particularly careful when out shopping today that the quality of the product you're purchasing is all that the manufacturer or firm says it is. You could get stuck with a lemon.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Ambivalent or wishy-washy behavior will serve to greatly impede your progress today and cause you unexpected problems. Don't focus on nonessential elements, only on what's necessary.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Petty office politics must be steered clear of at all costs today. If you don't, an associate who specializes in intrigues will get you right smack in the middle of something unpleasant.

AT&T favors change in rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — AT&T, the nation's largest cable operator, has asked President Clinton to support its efforts to change federal rules that limit how many subscribers one company can control.

In a letter to Clinton, AT&T Chairman C. Michael Armstrong pressed for a modification of the cable rules set by the Federal Communications Commission. A change could help the company retain assets it would otherwise have to shed because of its recent merger with cable giant MediaOne.

"This is a case where regulation has not been sufficiently tailored to the possible harm it seeks to prevent, and thus impedes important public interest goals and legitimate business arrangements," Armstrong said in the letter sent this week.

FCC rules limit cable operators from controlling more than 30 percent of the video programming market, which includes cable and direct broadcast satellite. AT&T, through its acquisition of MediaOne, now exceeds the cap.

When the FEC approved the merger this summer, it gave AT&T until May to divest some holdings or enough subscribers to come under the limit.

AT&T has lobbied Congress at the end of its session for a change. Such a provision could end up tacked on to spending measures still being negotiated between the House and Senate. The White House has said generally that it is not inclined to support telecommunications measures added to budget bills.

Agency officials and consumer groups are critical of AT&T's effort, saying it would enable the company to skirt the FCC's merger conditions.

"Before the ink was dry on their merger order, AT&T thought it would undermine it by legislation behind closed doors," FCC Chairman William Kennard said in an interview.

Gene Kimmelman, co-director of the Washington office of Consumers Union, argued that AT&T is simply trying to eliminate "limits that were designed to prevent monopolization of the airwaves and the cable television market."

Armstrong, in his letter to Clinton, denied that AT&T wants to change the 30 percent cap itself. Instead, the company wants to alter the way in which a company's holdings are counted toward this cap.

Currently, if AT&T has a minority stake in another cable company — in which it has no control over programming — those subscribers still count as though they belonged to AT&T, he noted.

The rules handicap AT&T from buying new systems and bringing its package of services to more residential consumers, Armstrong said. AT&T has been upgrading its cable lines.

Work with doctor to decide treatment

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 75 year-old woman who sometimes gets the blues, just like everyone else. However, my doctor insists that I take antidepressant medication. I've tried several but cannot tolerate the side effects. Should I succumb to his opinion or be guided by my own wishes?

DEAR READER: Be guided by your own wishes.

Patients shouldn't have to take medication or undergo treatment with which they disagree. If your doctor is vehement in his recommendation, he owes you the courtesy of explaining why — so you can become a willing partner in the enterprise — and trying different drugs until you both decide on one with minimal or acceptable side effects.

You've lived for 75 years, and your experience and wisdom count for a lot, especially with respect to your own bodily functioning. Your doctor should talk to you about his perceptions of your medical needs. More important, he should listen to what you have to say. You have every right — in fact, an obligation — to refuse medicine you don't like and may not require.

If, after you have explained your position, the doctor remains convinced of the necessity for an antidepressant prescription, ask him to refer you to a colleague for a second opinion. Or, better yet, a psychiatrist ought to be able to resolve the disagreement.

If you are truly depressed, you might explore other treatment options, such as counseling, that don't involve drugs. I've found that elderly people may be justifiably depressed because they're bored, lonely or afraid. In such cases, more social interaction (church groups, bridge clubs and so forth) often works miracles by bringing unhappy people together and helping them refocus their attention on more positive issues. A counselor could help you investigate appropriate resources in your community.

To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Consumer Tips On Medicines." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Your suggestion that my husband buy Bag Balm for his cracked and peeling fingers was excellent. But the situation was not without humor. He went to our local feed store to purchase the product. The clerk was well aware of its capabilities, yet two local matrons waiting to be served snickered derisively. The clerk indicated that she and her customers use Bag Balm all the time, especially during the winter months, and that she now carries Hoof Conditioner, which is great for fingernails and toenails.

At this point, the two matrons snapped to attention, thundered past, knocked my husband aside, while shouting over their shoulders: "Which aisle are these products in?"

I just thought you'd get a kick out of this.

DEAR READER: And I did. Thanks for writing. I'm glad to hear that time-tested farm remedies can often be as beneficial as fancy, higher-priced designer products.

High number of Lou Gehrig's prompts probe of Kelly AFB

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A suspected high occurrence of Lou Gehrig's disease among former and current workers at Kelly Air Force Base has prompted a federal investigation to determine if the base is to blame.

The disease, scientifically known as amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, or ALS, has struck 16 workers in recent years, killing five people, the local ALS Association says.

ALS statistically affects fewer than two out of 100,000 people each year in the United States, leaving some experts baffled by the high numbers at the air base. An ongoing environmental cleanup of Kelly and its associated health-risk studies have only heightened suspicions.

"I don't think this is a witch hunt of any sorts," Mary Klenke, local ALS Association president, told the San Antonio Express-News in Friday's editions. "We just feel that there are an extraordinary number of cases and this should be looked into. We don't think that's too much to ask."

The Air Force is in the preliminary stages of its inquiry, primarily to determine if the cases are a cluster that can be traced to the base, said Lt. Col. Roger Gibson.

"I'm concerned whenever I see cases of disease that are even considered by someone to be a cluster," Gibson said. "But am I alarmed? No, not until I get more information and we work through this."

In tonight's tilt with the Chiefs...

Banged up Tigers hope to get back on track

After an 0-3 start to their district campaign, this isn't a good week for the Snyder Tigers to be shorthanded.

But that's the case, as the Tigers prepare to take on San Angelo Lake View at 7 tonight at Tiger Stadium.

"Some of you guys are going to have to be in there for a lot of plays," Baugh told his team during Thursday's workout. "But you're just going to have to suck it up and get after it."

In other words, it's gut check time for the Tigers.

Snyder is still mathematically in the playoff chase, but another setback tonight would kill any hopes of a postseason berth.

When the Tigers line up, both regular starting offensive guards, and a defensive tackle will be absent.

Senior R.J. Hernandez, a starter on both sides of the ball, will miss the remainder of the season with a knee injury, and junior Stephen Ortegon won't start due to an ankle injury.

Filling the guard spots will be Max Blackwell and Tremaine Johnson, who makes the move from tackle. Diego Hernandez will start in Johnson's spot at tackle, as well as on defense.

"We're just not very deep right now," Baugh said. "A bunch of our guys are going to have to play almost the whole game. But that's the way it goes sometimes."

The Tigers enter the contest with a 2-4 record on the season, after opening the year with back-to-back victories over Monahans and Littlefield.

Lake View comes in with a 1-5 mark and is also in search of its first district win. The Chiefs lone victory came in Week 3 against Lampasas.

"They're a better team than their record indicates," Baugh said of the Chiefs. "They lost some of those ballgames by just a few points. They have a lot of speed, and they try to get into situations where they can use their speed to hurt you."

Similar to years passed, Lake View will operate from a number of different formations. The Chiefs' objective is to spread the defense to give their backs more chances in the open field.

Lake View's primary weapon is tailback Jumar Hall who averages 5.6 yards per carry.

Quarterback David Lankford can be equally effective as both a runner and a passer. Lankford has thrown for 112 yards per game this season, but will take off with the ball at any time.

"Once they get you spread all over the field with all of these different formations, they like to give it to the tailback, or Lankford will keep it himself," Baugh stated. "We are going to have to get lined up correctly first, and then we have to make good tackles on these guys. They're hard to get a hold of, but we can't keep letting them break a bunch of tackles."

The Tigers' defense ranks first in the district against the rush, giving up only 136 yards per game.

When Snyder has the ball, Baugh hopes to mix the pass with the run to keep the Chiefs guessing.

"I think we can do a few things to mess up their pass coverage, and get some guys open," Baugh remarked. "They like to crowd the line of scrimmage, so an effective passing game will help loosen things up.

"They're awfully big up front, but we're going to use our trap plays and misdirection stuff to get leverage on them. I'm sure it will be a battle for all four quarters."

In other district action, Estacado knocked off Levelland, 38-28, Thursday night.

Tonight, Andrews visits Frenship, and Plainview hosts Big Spring.

WTC off to strong start at Tech rodeo

LUBBOCK — Western Texas came flying out of the chute Thursday night in the opening performance of the Texas Tech rodeo.

Five Western Texas men put themselves in position for the long round, while three Lady Westerners ranked near the top in the early going at Lubbock.

Wes Dinwiddie tallied a score of 73 to grab the preliminary lead in the bull riding, while Tyson Thompson was second in the bareback riding with a 75. Trevor LaValley was eighth with a 63.

J.W. Todd's 71 put him in fourth place in the saddlebronc event. Calf roper Joseph Gernantz was also fourth with a time of 10.8 seconds.

On the women's side, Jennifer Freeland crossed the line in 15.57 seconds to place her third in the barrel racing. Cassie Mallory was fifth with a time of 15.58.

Shayne Pickard posted a 4.3 to grab sixth in the breakaway roping.

The second performance is scheduled for tonight, with the final round slated for Saturday.

Seventh graders run over Big Spring, 20-8

The seventh grade gold team registered Snyder's only victory in Thursday night's junior high football action.

Snyder Gold ran over Big Spring, 20-8, while SJHS Black fell to the Steers, 20-0.

In eighth grade competition, the gold squad dropped a 26-14 decision, while Snyder Black was toppled, 18-0.

In the seventh grade victory, Snyder's Chris Smith scored two touchdowns and a two point conversion. Smith finished the night with 136 yards on 13 carries.

Through the air, Garrett Pinson hauled in two receptions from Matt Reigh, one of them good for a 35-yard touchdown.

Reigh also recovered a fumble, and Jonathan Vasquez picked off a Big Spring pass.

Smith, Chase Ashworth, Samuel Ramirez, Salvador Perez and Blake Scott anchored the Tigers' defensive effort.

In Snyder Black's 20-0 setback, Robby Anderson ran for 50 yards, and Chris Lopez added another 30 yards on the ground.

Bryan Clifton completed a pair of passes, one to Jason Cave for 35 yards, and another to Kenny Garcia for 25.

Rudy Ibarra and Paydon Ramirez had fumble recoveries, and Chris Lopez picked off two passes.

In the eighth grade match-ups, Snyder Gold's efforts were hampered by seven turnovers on its own end of the field.

Alex Neal led the Tigers with an 86-yard kickoff return for a touchdown, an interception and two fumble recoveries.

Israel Torrez registered Snyder's other score on a short run.

Chad Brown also recovered a fumble for Snyder. Urbano Hernandez had an interception, and Ricky McNatt blocked a punt.

In the other eighth grade contest, Wyl Wiggins ran for 102 yards for the Tigers, and Cade Owen threw for another 45.

Jerry Ashley led Snyder's defensive effort.

U.S. captures early lead in Presidents' Cup

GAINESVILLE, Va. (AP) — American players had more problems with equipment and apparel than the International team in the first round of the Presidents Cup.

David Duval broke a 7-iron and couldn't wear the same shirt as his teammates. Kirk Triplett had on the wrong hat.

On the course, though, everyone matched and everything worked. So well, in fact, that the U.S. team produced a 5-0 sweep.

With Phil Mickelson and Tom Lehman setting the early tone by winning six straight holes on the front side in their match against Greg Norman and Steve Elkington, the other American players seemed to gain confidence as the day went on.

Three of the matches were decided before the 18th hole.

Tigers scalp Braves in freshman tilt

Snyder took advantage of four turnovers to knock off the San Angelo Lincoln Braves, 30-8, Thursday in freshman football action at Tiger Stadium.

In other high school action, Snyder junior varsity fell to San Angelo Lake View, 42-0.

In the freshman contest, Isaac Ramon opened the scoring for Snyder with a five-yard run in the first quarter.

After James Nussey recovered a fumble to open the second quarter, Marcus Villarreal tossed a 26-yard scoring strike to Jacob Rodriguez. Andrew Bane hauled in a Villarreal pass for the two-point conversion and a 14-0 Tiger lead.

Two minutes later, Ramon scooped up another Lincoln fumble and raced 30 yards to paydirt. Villarreal hooked up with Tucker Early for the additional two points to extend the advantage to 22-0.

The Braves threatened late in the first half, before Blake Grimmett killed the drive with a fumble recovery.

Grimmett helped halt Lincoln's first drive of the second half, as well. After Bane jarred the ball loose on a sack, Grimmett recovered for the Tigers.

The Braves finally got on the board late in the third quarter, before Snyder answered in the final period.

Ramon capped the scoring with a 10-yard jaunt, and Villarreal carried in the two-point conversion for the 30-8 final tally.

Snyder will be in action again at 6 p.m. Thursday when it visits Levelland.

Lions topple Bucs

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — James Stewart ran for 116 yards and three touchdowns and Jason Hanson kicked two field goals Thursday night as the Detroit Lions came from behind to beat the struggling Tampa Bay Buccaneers 28-14.

The victory gave Detroit (5-2) a split of the season series against their NFC Central rivals, who have lost four straight since dominating the Lions 31-10 at the Silverdome on Sept. 17.

The Bucs (3-4) began the season with three consecutive victories, but inconsistency on offense and uncharacteristic mistakes on defense and special teams have contributed to the team's first four-game losing streak since it started 0-5 in 1996 — Tony Dungy's first season as coach.

Cards re-sign Kile

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Darryl Kile, coming off his first 20-win season, agreed to a $23 million, three-year contract with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The deal with the NL Central division champions includes a team option for 2004 and performance bonuses and escalators that could make it worth up to $32.55 million for four seasons.

Kile (20-9) had a 3.91 ERA last season. He has a career record of 112-104 with a 4.27 ERA. Kile was voted to his third All-Star team and was the first St. Louis pitcher in 15 years to win 20 games.

Browns' QB breaks thumb

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Browns quarterback Tim Couch broke his right thumb on the final play of practice and will be out at least six weeks and maybe for the remainder of the season.

Citizens discuss Snyder during Thursday meet

A group of area citizens searching for not only a name, but the "betterment" of Snyder met Thursday evening in the Texas Savings Bank meeting room.

The discussion focused primarily on supporting the community, and finding ways to promote business and having citizens become more involved in local activities, including government.

The group's focal points are to promote citizen awareness, encourage involvement and project a positive image of Snyder.

"Why not brag on the good things," asked Helen Feinsod, a founding member of the group.

"Let's tell people what we do have in Snyder instead of what isn't here," she added.

Among the goals of the group is to make citizens more aware of the city's landfill and water billing procedures, as well as to draw attention to the positive things in the community.

Besides Feinsod, other members are city councilman Terry Martin, Martha Martin, Melody Martin, Carol Gulseth, Bill Overhulser, Celia Feinsod and Suzan Hughes.

The group plans to meet every other Thursday evening from 7-9 p.m.

DAVID AND SAUL

BECAUSE OF SAUL'S JEALOUS FEAR THAT HE MIGHT LOSE THE KINGDOM TO HIM, DAVID HAS HAD TO DWELL IN THE ROUGH WILDERNESS WITH HIS MEN OR BE KILLED, NOW....

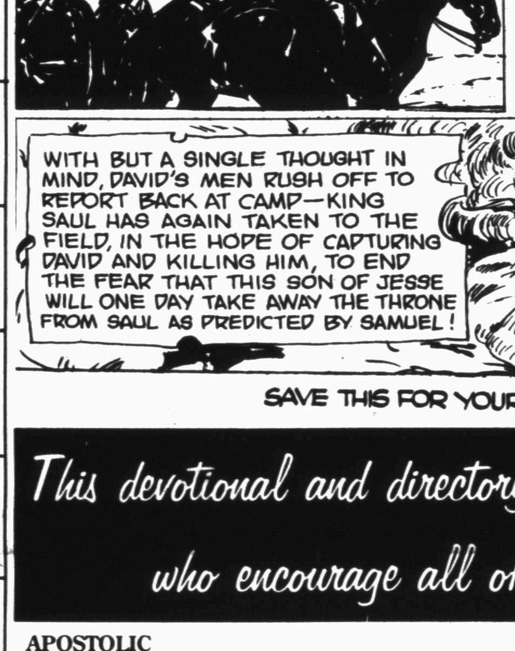

....WITH AN ARMY OF SIX HUNDRED FOLLOWERS, DAVID ALWAYS HAS TO SEND OUT SCOUTING PARTIES IN SEARCH OF FOOD FOR HIS MEN...

WHAT IS THAT HUGE CLOUD OF DUST IN THE DISTANCE?

....DAVID'S SCOUTS DISCOVER ARMY COLUMNS ON THE MOVE, NUMBERING AT LEAST THREE THOUSAND MEN...

....AND WHO CAN MISTAKE THE GIANT FIGURE OF KING SAUL AT ANY DISTANCE?!

WITH BUT A SINGLE THOUGHT IN MIND, DAVID'S MEN RUSH OFF TO REPORT BACK AT CAMP—KING SAUL HAS AGAIN TAKEN TO THE FIELD, IN THE HOPE OF CAPTURING DAVID AND KILLING HIM, TO END THE FEAR THAT THIS SON OF JESSE WILL ONE DAY TAKE AWAY THE THRONE FROM SAUL AS PREDICTED BY SAMUEL!

Radar computer failure strands passengers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tens of thousands of airline passengers waited hours for delayed or grounded flights headed into or out of the Southwest because of failures of the radar system that guides aircraft through the region.

A backup system took over immediately, and about 100 aircraft in flight at the time of Thursday's emergency were not endangered, said Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Jerry Snyder.

But by the time the FAA restored the system more than four hours later, airports nationwide were gridlocked with aircraft lined up on the ground, canceled flights and passengers stranded or delayed.

About 75,000 of those passengers were at Los Angeles International Airport, where weight-loss guru Richard Simmons entertained weary travelers with banter and dancing after his flight arrived about an hour late from Philadelphia.

"I could have been in Paris eating cold oysters by now," Simmons said.

Los Angeles International averages 100 arrivals and departures hourly, spokeswoman Nancy Castles said. For five hours ending at about noon, all flights were canceled or delayed, she said.

"It was very disruptive and it had a domino effect," she said, adding most of the backlog had been absorbed by 7 p.m.

The failures at the FAA's Los Angeles Center followed a software upgrade Wednesday night. The radar facility, 60 miles north of downtown in the Mojave Desert, covers a 100,000-square-mile section of the Southwest, including most of California, parts of Nevada and Utah, and 250 miles out to sea.

"This was a standard upgrade. Something is corrupting the system," Snyder said. "It's worked for 17 other systems but isn't working here."

Air traffic controllers had many tense moments. At one point, there was no more room at Los Angeles International and flights from Australia were sent to Las Vegas.

"Every flight in and out of our sector was affected," said Garth Koleszar, local vice president of the National Air Traffic Controllers Association.

Asked if there were safety concerns, he said: "Any time you use a system that isn't the best that we have, I feel there is a degradation."

The backup system doesn't have the automatic feature that passes planes from one regional controller to another. It requires a controller to manually type flight information and relay the information by telephone.

The first computer outage lasted from 6:50 a.m. to 8:30 a.m., preventing Southern California-bound aircraft west of the Mississippi from taking off.

The computer went down again at 9 a.m., grounding planes nationwide. The system was restored at 11:15 a.m. using the old software.

Southwest Airlines canceled 70 flights, airline spokesman Melanie Jones said. A San Francisco International Airport spokesman, Ron Wilson, said about 20 flights were grounded during the first outage alone, and United Airlines canceled 32 flights into and out of San Francisco during the day. Forty flights were grounded at McCarren International Airport in Las Vegas during the first outage.

In spite of SEC settlement, teen made about $500,000

CEDAR GROVE, N.J. (AP) — The teen-age trader who paid $285,000 to settle stock manipulation charges didn't come away empty handed: He kept about a half-million dollars in profits.

The Securities and Exchange Commission last month brought civil fraud charges against Jonathan G. Lebed, claiming he made his money through a "pump and dump" scheme. Lebed, now 16, bought large blocks of nine low-priced stocks, hyped them on Internet financial message boards and then — within 24 hours — sold his shares after the price rose. He used this method twice with two stocks.

The trades were made between Aug. 23, 1999 and Feb. 4, 2000.

Lebed agreed to pay back $285,000 without admitting or denying the allegations to settle SEC charges related to 11 trades.

But, according to "60 Minutes," he actually made about $800,000 from 16 trades the SEC did not charge.

Lebed spent some of the profits on a $42,000 Mercedes-Benz sport utility vehicle for his family, his mother said.

SEC regulators told The Wall Street Journal that they alleged wrongdoing in the cases they felt they had abundant evidence.

"We charged violations with clear instances of fraud," SEC enforcement chief Richard Walker said.

Ledbed's attorney, Kevin Marino, said the SEC had wanted to recover his client's total earnings but they settled on what he called the "somewhat arbitrary" figure.

In an interview with "60 Minutes," Lebed said he sees nothing wrong with what he did.

"I wasn't posting any kind of false information. I didn't make up any facts or do anything like that," Lebed said on the show to air Sunday.

SEC Chairman Arthur Levitt said Lebed made more than 200 postings on individual securities. "And that represents, in my view, a wholesale effort at deceiving many investors," Levitt said.

Marino said most of the Internet postings included a disclaimer, "Be sure to take the time to do your research."

The SEC found that Lebed sent e-mail messages under fictitious names. One claimed a company trading at $2 per share would be trading at more than $20 per share "very soon." Other postings claimed a stock would be the "next stock to gain 1,000 percent."

"Well, I'm not aware of one investor that exists that I cheated," said Ledbed, a junior at Cedar Grove High School. "And I don't think the SEC is aware of one investor that exists that I cheated."

Marino, who has declined to make the boy available for an interview with The Associated Press, did not return a message left Thursday, when "60 Minutes" released a transcript of the segment.

Lebed has said he was fascinated by finance since he was 11.

Clinton administration won't cooperate with investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Clinton administration is refusing to cooperate with a Senate investigation into a 1995 arms deal with Russia negotiated by Vice President Al Gore, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee said Thursday. A Gore spokesman accused the Republican senator of "despicable" political behavior.

Sen. Gordon Smith, R-Ore., said the committee will hold a hearing Wednesday to determine whether the understanding between Vice President Al Gore and then-Prime Minister Viktor Chernomyrdin of Russia is legal.

White House press secretary Jake Siewert denied the administration was involved in a "secret agreement" with the Russians and said the Senate hearings are meant to embarrass Gore, the Democrats' presidential candidate.

The New York Times reported last week that Gore promised the United States would not interfere with Moscow's fulfillment of existing sales contracts for conventional arms to Iran on condition such sales would end by the end of 1999. The report said Washington agreed not to penalize Moscow under a 1992 law banning arms sales to countries the United States views as exporters of terrorism.

The Washington Times reported Tuesday that Chernomyrdin urged Gore in a classified "Dear Al" letter on Dec. 9, 1995, to keep Russian nuclear cooperation with Iran confidential and said it was "not to be conveyed to third parties, including the U.S. Congress."

At a news conference, Smith said the White House has refused Republican senators' requests for documents related to the deal, which Smith said may have to be subpoenaed for the hearing.

"We are bringing young men and women home in body bags right now," Smith said, referring to 17 sailors killed in the terrorist bombing of the USS Cole in Yemen. "We should not be aiding and abetting those who would do us harm. That may have happened here."

Gore spokesman Jim Kennedy replied, "That's a despicable exploitation of a national tragedy for political purposes, and he ought to be ashamed of himself."

"Using the tragedy of the Middle East crisis as an excuse to hold a partisan hearing so close to the election is an outrageous use of power and a dangerous mix of politics and national security," Kennedy added.

Gore and Chernomyrdin mentioned an arms agreement in general terms at a news conference the day it was signed, but details have not been disclosed. Russia continues to sell arms to Iran over protests of the Clinton administration.

Sen. Sam Brownback, R-Kan., who joined Smith at a news conference, said Gore lacked authority to ignore the 1992 law without Congress' permission. "I think it's completely illegal what they did in several of these instances here," Brownback said.

Brownback also referred to a Jan. 13 letter from Secretary of State Madeleine Albright to Russian Foreign Minister Igor Ivanov — also first reported by The Washington Times. Brownback said the letter makes it clear that Russian sales to Iran should have been subject to sanctions under U.S. law but were not because of Gore's agreement with Chernomyrdin.

The White House's Siewert denied wrongdoing involving agreements between Gore and Chernomyrdin.

"We distributed a fact sheet to reporters on the ground at the time in 1995," he said. "We also briefed the House International Relations Committee at the time. So if members of Congress have some problem with their briefings, they ought to look to themselves."

Siewert said, "There's no doubt that some of these hearings right now are [illegible] about the election season than about the real substance here."

Smith said the timing of Wednesday's hearing is not politically motivated. "Frankly, I don't think The New York Times is working for the Bush campaign," the Oregon senator said. "They're the ones that broke the story."

A collection of unusual problems

By Phillip Alder

Last year, a "different" book was published: "Improve Your Game" by Paul Lamford (Chameleon Books). First, there are 10 straightforward problems. Then come problems 11-40, which are noticeably harder. Finally, there are 10 novelties, nine of which were composed by Lamford.

For every problem, there is a hint printed upside down at the bottom of the page. The solutions are overleaf, though six of the analyses are so lengthy that they are continued at the end of the book. Also, each of the first 40 problems concludes with a useful tip. Last, the book is a good value. It's an excellent gift for a player — your partner, not you! — who thinks he is better than he is.

This is the last "easy" problem. You open and close the auction with one weak no-trump, showing 12-14 points. (Now regular readers will not be surprised to hear that the book comes from England.) West leads a fourth-highest spade four, you play low from the dummy, and — surprise, surprise — East puts up the king. How do you benefit from this good fortune?

You should plan to collect two spade and five club tricks. However, unless the missing clubs are splitting 2-2, the suit will block. The solution is to duck at trick one. It doesn't matter if East switches to a red suit, but suppose he continues with a second spade. You win with dummy's queen, play a club to hand, and cash the spade ace, discarding a club from dummy. Finally you run the clubs.

The book is $13.70 from www.opengroup.com.

Dear Abby

Designer's high success can't match family's expectations

DEAR ABBY: I was always interested in computers and pretty adept at working with them, so I combined this interest with my love for graphic design and began producing small Web pages for friends. One of the pages I designed was seen by a large New York advertising company, and it started throwing me clients so I could make some extra cash. Their in-house designer was a whiz with pen and paper, but keyboard and mouse were foreign concepts to him.

Within two months, I was able to quit my full-time job and design full time, and was earning more than before. I loved the work and didn't mind the deadlines. My family seemed pleased that I was doing well in a job I enjoyed.

Three months later, I got a call from the executive V.P. of the firm. He asked if I wanted to be the new V.P. of the newly created computer graphics development department. It meant a move to New York, but a generous salary with perks and benefits. I took the job and left for the Big Apple.

Although I came home as often as time would allow, I was now regarded as "the successful one with no time for his family." At my younger brother's wedding, I gave them a beautiful Tiffany lamp and a nice check — however, they looked at me like I was shorting them because I didn't give them the keys to a new car or an all-expenses-paid trip to Europe.

I sent my parents on a three-week Caribbean cruise for their anniversary; they had never been on one and had had few vacations in the past. Now, every relative I have expects the same extravagant gifts. What should I tell them? — TOO SUCCESSFUL IN N.Y.C.

DEAR TOO SUCCESSFUL: I can think of no load more difficult to carry than the burden of other people's expectations. Your relatives are greedy and presumptuous. If they have the gall to raise the subject of what gifts you "ought" to give them, tell them no one has all the money that others assume they have, including YOU. It's the truth.

DEAR ABBY: If you have been asked this question before, please forgive me. I was wondering what the proper etiquette is about going out (not dating — just appearing in public) after your husband dies. Is there a waiting period?

My husband passed away two weeks ago. I attended our church festival with two girlfriends, and I felt like I was being stared at. We didn't stay long.

I am only 51 and my husband was 52. I know he would not have wanted me to stay at home — but I want to do the right thing. — NEWLY WIDOWED, BADEN, PA.

DEAR NEWLY WIDOWED: I have always felt that the time to show "respect" for a spouse is while the person is living. The right time to resume a social life varies from person to person. If you felt you needed some company and diversion, no one should criticize you for it. However, some people are by nature critical and judgmental. If you live your life to please them, you'll be making a mistake. Enjoy every minute with which you are blessed.
