Indonesian Invaders Hit 2nd Time By British Jets

By TONY SCODA

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Britain unleashed its Hunter jet fighters against Indonesian paratroopers south of the capital today and warned that it reserved the right to strike back at Indonesia if attacks on Malaysia continue. It was the second day of British air strikes.

Six jets made repeated sweeps firing rockets into the Libis area, 105 miles southeast of Kuala Lumpur, in an attempt to flush the paratroopers from their positions, a British Air Force spokesman said.

Reliable sources said Malaysian and British Gurkha troops in the area expected a high number of captures or kills following the raid.

Eight Hunter jets hit the same area Friday morning and afternoon with two-inch rockets as efforts to round up the remaining paratroopers were stepped up.

The British Air Defense Command said the Bloodhound air missile system in Singapore had been activated. The command emphasized the move was purely defensive.

It said it would complement the existing fleet missile system and air force interceptors based here. Similar missile bases are believed nearly operational elsewhere in Malaysia.

The air strikes on the Indonesians first was announced by Malaysia's Defense Ministry.

A band of some 50 paratroopers staged a landing 10 days ago, near Libis. Military operations involving British Gurkha troops from Nepal have been launched to flush them out. So far eight of the parachutists have been killed and as many as 19, possibly more, captured.

The operation appeared patterned after tactics adopted during the 12-year war against Chinese-led Communist guerrillas in Malaya, when planes bombed and strafed an area to force the guerrillas into ambushes set up around the strike zone.

Britain, under a defense pact with Malaysia, supplies most of this young country's military air power. The tiny Malaysian air force has no combat planes.

A British High Commission spokesman made the announcement of possible retaliatory attacks on Indonesia.

The spokesman was commenting on London reports that Britain has informed its allies of its intention to take retaliatory action if Indonesia carries out further raids similar to landings staged by air and sea on the Malaysian mainland.

LONDON (AP) — Britain was reported today building its Far Eastern forces for an all-out defense of Malaysia that could include strikes at Indonesian military targets in reply to further attacks on the Malay mainland.

Reliable sources said this was the meaning of this week's urgent transfer of land, sea and air forces to Malaysia at the request of the federation government. Australian and New Zealand forces were reported on a standby basis. A New Zealand unit already is hunting for Indonesians who made a seaborne landing on the Malay Peninsula last month.

These informants emphasized, however, that approval of the British Cabinet would be necessary for any retaliation raids on Indonesian airfields and this has not yet been given.

Some concern over the situation has been expressed by Washington, informants said, because of the possibility that the United States, which has treaty ties in that area with Australia and New Zealand, might be drawn into the conflict.

SATURDAY MORNING MISHAP—The Snyder turn-off on the new Highway 84 by-pass was the scene of this two-car mishap at 11:30 a.m. Saturday. H. C. Berry, Jr., of Houston, a passenger in the car at left received a possibly broken leg, and Lloyd Beeson of Abilene, driver of the car in the rear, received internal injuries and a passenger, Mrs. Lucy Burkett of California, received a shoulder injury. Mrs. Beeson and another passenger, Mrs. Bea Reaser of Clyde, received minor injuries. The Berry car was en route from Las Vegas, Nev., to Houston, and the Beeson car was en route from Abilene to Clovis. All of the injured were taken to Cogdell Hospital by Bell-Seale ambulances.

Flash Flood Hits El Paso

By The Associated Press

Flash floods hit broad areas in El Paso after a rush hour deluge Friday, leaving the city with a cleanup job today.

Water rose swiftly as an inch of rain drenched El Paso in 30 minutes, the heaviest downpour in two years.

Paved streets crumbled in places and the storm felled numerous telephone and power lines. The flooding paralyzed El Paso traffin for a time and high water blocked low sections of cross-country U.S. Highway 80.

Light showers fell during the evening at numerous other points across the state in the wake of a heat-routing cool front.

Soviet Plane Turns Back

MOENCHENGLADB A C H, Germany (AP) — The British Royal Air Force said today a Soviet fighter intruded 13 miles inside West German territory but turned back after two RAF jets flew up to meet it. Soviet military authorities denied there was an intrusion.

The RAF said it protested to the Soviet commander-in-chief on Sept. 2 immediately after a Soviet aircraft had been observed crossing the West German border.

The British statement noted that "the restraint shown by the RAF was in accordance with normal international practice and in marked contrast to the manner in which the Soviet authorities reacted earlier this year to accidental violation of their airspace."

Violence Is Likely In Cyprus Again

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The threat of more violence over Cyprus loomed today after the Greek Cypriot government issued stern warnings against Turkey's plan to convoy food to the island.

President Makarios warned Turkey Friday against proceeding with her plan to furnish an air and naval convoy for shipments of food and supplies to the village of Kokkina on the island's northern coast.

Turkey had announced she intends to end the blockade of Turkish Cypriots in Kokkina with the shipments and warned against interference.

"The consequences will be very grave," Makarios said. "We shall not permit any arbitrary action and we are determined to react with every means at our disposal to any arbitrary action."

Defense Minister Polycarpos Georgadjis also warned that convoyed shipments would be opposed as "a kind of invasion" unless Turkey obtains permission from Cyprus and pays import duties.

Storm Ethel Hurls High Winds, Rains At Bermuda

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Winds of 100 miles an hour and driving rain struck Bermuda today as hurricane Ethel pushed northward in the Atlantic.

Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center in Miami advised residents of the British crown colony to continue precautions against dangerous winds, very heavy surf and heavy rains."

Tracked by reconnaissance aircraft and radar from Bermuda, Ethel was located at 11 a.m. near latitude 31.6 north, longitude 67.2 west or 150 miles west-southwest of Bermuda.

The hurricane is expected to pass to the west of the island this afternoon but just a small deviation from the forecasted track could bring the storm very near Bermuda," the Weather Bureau said.

Highest winds were about 100 miles an hour. Gales extended 200 miles to the northeast and 150 miles to the southwest of the center.

Forecasters expected Ethel to move toward the north at about 9 m.p.h., for 12 hours followed by a slow turn toward the north-northeast.

Bermuda is 1,000 miles east of Charleston, S.C.

Meanwhile, thousands of people in Georgia and Florida began a massive cleanup and repair job in the wake of Hurricane Dora, Ethel's destructive sister.

The residents had President Johnson's promise of federal support. He picked his way through muck, debris and shattered buildings in Jacksonville, Fla., and Brunswick, Ga., during a dramatic personal inspection tour Friday. We are going to bring the resources of the federal government together to meet this crisis," he said.

The cause of the crisis, Dora, second hurricane to strike Florida within two weeks, was drowning herself in Georgia.

Dora's winds were little more than squalls, but the tons of rain she dropped flooded homes and highways and sent hundreds of snakes wriggling from river bottoms into the trees.

For a while, Ethel whipped along the same path that Dora took toward Florida. But Friday night, she veered sharply to the north and charged toward Bermuda.

Although not as large as Dora or as well-organized as Cleo — the other hurricane to strike land this season — Ethel was still a 'respectable storm," said forecaster Arnold Sugg of the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

Florida Civil Defense Director Col. H. W. Tarkington, estimated Florida's damage at $200 million. He said $184 million damage was done to private property.

Johnson said federal aid would be pumped into Florida as soon as disaster surveys were completed.

"The Army Corps of Engineers is already busy on plans to assist in the rebuilding of your public beaches," he said.

Dora swept more than 2.5 million cubic yards of sand from Florida's white beaches, more than would normally be eroded in 20 years, the University of Florida estimated.

More Upheaval In Viet Nam Looms

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Government troops and armored cars were on the streets of Saigon in unusual numbers today amid rumors that a new political upheaval may erupt this weekend.

Widely circulated reports said the U.S.-backed government of Premier Nguyen Khanh may be threatened by a coup.

Such rumors flourish freely in Saigon, often without substance.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, returning from consultations in Washington, may run into a new crisis. He had left Saigon after three weeks of violent antigovernment demonstrations plunged the nation into chaos, nearly toppling Khanh's regime. Buddhist leaders and students led protests demanding democratic reform and an end to military rule.

The nation is still under military authority, a triumvirate of generals headed by Khanh, who has promised a return to civilian rule in two months. But a power struggle between Buddhist and anti-Buddhist elements is shaping up, posing the threat of new violence.

Most of the coup rumors concern what is presumably Catholic opposition to concessions made by Khanh to Buddhist and student critics. Khanh fired another officer Friday who was opposed by Buddhist leaders.

He was Maj. Gen. Do Cao Tri, commander of the army's 2nd Corps and the eighth high-ranking officer dismissed.

The government, meanwhile, formally charged neighboring Cambodia with openly supporting the Communist Viet Cong by fighting South Vietnamese border troops.

Cambodia, which has repeatedly complained to the U.N. Security Council about alleged raids by South Vietnamese forces on Cambodian border communities, rejected a U.N. recommendation that an observer group be dispatched to the border.

Defector Top Prize

By DORIAN FALK

GENEVA (AP) — The defection to the United States of nuclear scientist Heinz Barwich — long a holder of key positions in the Soviet Union and East Germany—caused elation today among Western officials. Soviet sources expressed shock.

The 53-year-old East German is considered a major prize for the West, which lost two top nuclear experts — Klaus Fuchs and Bruno Pontecorvo — to communism.

Barwich's defection was announced Friday by officials in Washington. He made his getaway last Wednesday, while in Geneva for the 71-nation conference on the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

The scientist slipped out of a Geneva hotel when the conference ended. He was accompanied by another East German scientist, Prof. Max Steenbeck, whose whereabouts has not been revealed.

Barwich's chief in East Germany, Prof. Baron Manfred von Ardenne, reacted to the news by charging that Barwich went West for family reasons.

Von Ardenne, reached in East Germany by telephone, said the defection was "extremely deplorable" and "I am sure that family reasons played a very strong role in this decision."

He said he believes Barwich's wife is still in East Germany.

Washington officials declined to reveal details about Barwich's family, or his present whereabouts. But sources said he is in the Washington area.

Barwich was among the numerous German scientists taken to the Soviet Union by the Red army after the defeat of Germany in 1945. By 1955 Barwich had taken over as deputy director of the Soviet Nuclear Research Institute at Dubna, near Moscow.

In 1957, he was permitted to return to East Germany and opened the East German Central Institute of Nuclear Research at Rossendorf.

Western scientists, some of whom have been permitted to study the Dubna operation, say its research is devoted to peaceful uses of atomic energy.

At Rossendorf, one of Barwich's deputies was Fuchs, who slipped into East Germany in 1959 after serving a prison sentence in Britain for passing nuclear secrets to the Russians.

The other major defector to communism, Italian-born Pontecorvo, is working in the Soviet Union. He went to Russia in 1950 while working at top secret installations in Britain.

U.S. officials declined to say whether Barwich will go to work for the United States.

All Hands Rescued From Burning Ship

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty-seven men who abandoned a burning freighter in the Atlantic Ocean were reported safe aboard another ship today.

"All hands accounted for. Vessel burning fiercely but looks like will stay afloat," the rescue ship, the freighter La Pintada from Panama City, radioed the Coast Guard Friday night.

The men left the 13,790-ton freighter, Globe Explorer, in lifeboats and rafts. She was carrying 20,000 tons of coal. Seas were relatively calm. The ship was 360 miles southeast of New York.

SENATE CANDIDATE VISITS SNYDER—George Bush, Republican candidate for U. S. Senate, included Snyder in a number of West Texas cities he visited the past few days. A number of local citizens met the candidate at the courthouse, and then later at a reception at the county barn Friday evening. Paul Sizemore, right, is shown visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Bush. Bush called for increased morality in government and urged a return to a "constitutionally-oriented government."

Racial Uprising In Russia Is Immediately Extinguished

By ANTHONY WHITE

MOSCOW (AP) — The dark flood of faces flowed down the broad avenue, bodies hunched in the fierce cold.

"Murder!" they cried. Banners waved at their head: "Our Friends Yesterday — The Devil Today!"

They crawled under barriers, angrily brushed aside policemen in their path and then, 500 strong, they were in Red Square.

They jogged on the icy cobbles to keep warm, like athletes limbering up for a race. Some were crying. The snow lay on the Kremlin fir trees like icing on a cake, and on the onion domes of the cathedrals. The Kremlin looked beautiful.

History was made this day — Dec. 18, 1963 — the day hundreds of African students in Moscow rose in brief revolt against Soviet authority. It was the first such "rebellion" since the birth of Soviet power. Perhaps it was the last.

Most of the students were from Ghana. They had come to the red walls of the Kremlin itself. Here was something the Russians had often hailed — Africans on the march, Africans demonstrating against white authority. Only the whites this time were the Russians. The Russians did not like it. Swiftly the rebellion was extinguished.

Now, nine months later, the students who rose are quiet. Some have gone home. They learned a lesson: demonstrations may be fine in nations under "colonialist" rule. But not in the Soviet Union.

What fired the little revolt is history. A Ghanaian student had been found dead. Soviet authorities said he got drunk one fiercely cold night, fell in the snow, and there died of exposure.

The Africans' story was different. He had been murdered because he wanted to marry a Russian girl, they said. So they took to the streets.

Russian authorities at first were confused by this new situation — a demonstration they didn't organize. But having once decided, they acted swiftly and efficiently. The rebellion flowered for a couple of hours on Red Square and then police moved in. The square was cleared. The rebellion died.

A deputation of the student leaders was taken to the offices of the Ministry of Higher Education and given a stern lecture. Such outbursts would not be tolerated, they were told. If the students didn't want to obey the Soviet laws they could get out.

Some did. The others settled down to their studies again. Today there still are whispers of racial antagonism between white Russians and Africans. Some Africans still complain they are occasionally snubbed in the streets. But there is no thought of rebellion any more.

The warning given by the Soviet authorities served effectively to silence any further protest and has made African students wary and reluctant to talk about their life here.

Their answers to questions about their relations with Russians frequently will be a noncommital shrug of the shoulders. The conversation is steered away to some other subject.

There are several thousand Asian and African students in the Soviet Union, most of them at the Patrice Lumumba "Friendship University" in Moscow.

They have problems that have nothing to do with color.

One high-ranking African diplomat said: "Life is so totally different for them here. The food is different. In winter the cold makes them miserable and homesick for the warmth and sun. And there's no 'high life.'"

This, he added, was part of the background to the troubles of last winter.

"It was there all the time waiting to rise to the surface. The death of the Ghanaian student was the trigger that fired the revolt. In one way it was a public protest at their homesickness and the cold."

"It is a mistake for the Russians to say that because racial discrimination is illegal it does not exist here," a West African envoy said. "If does."

Africans do marry white Russian girls, but not many. There are obstacles.

For Western-oriented African diplomats there is an additional problem: that the learning the students pick up in the university here may be too heavily larded with Communist ideology.

"There are subjects, like medicine, in which political doctrine plays no part," one said. "But there are others — like history or economics, for instance — where Communist thought and theory play a very big part in lessons."

3 Locked In Shelter

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — The lady of the 26-room house, her titled sister and a cook were found Friday, locked in the lavish bomb shelter.

They were chained together with handcuffs and leg irons and were hysterical.

They said they were locked up Thursday night by three masked gunmen who robbed the sisters of between $5,000 and $10,000 in jewelry.

The women — Mrs. Francis T. Hunter, whose husband was once a tennis star, her sister, Countess Bella Dimian, and Gallena Beoeac, the cook — were freed by a maid reporting for work.

Hunter, now the president of a liquor distributing firm, was in New York City. He built the shelter two years ago, had it decorated in a zebra-stripe motif and furnished it elegantly.

Ten Commandments for Wives:

1. Defile not thy body neither with excessive foods, tobacco nor alcohol, that thy days may be long in the house which thy husband provideth for thee.

2. Putteth thy husband before thy mother, thy father, thy daughter and thy son, for he is thy lifelong companion.

3. Thou shalt not nag.

4. Permit no one to tell thee that thou art having a hard time of it; neither thy mother, thy sister nor thy neighbor, for the Judge will not hold her guiltless who letteth another disparage her husband.

5. Thou shalt not withold affection from thy husband, for every man loveth to be loved.

6. Forget not the virtue of cleanliness and modest attire.

7. Forgive with grace, for who among us does not need forgiveness?

8. Remember that the frank approval of thy husband is worth more to thee than the admiring glances of a hundred strangers.

9. Keep thy home in good order, for out of it cometh the joys of thy old age.

10. Honor thy Lord thy God all the days of thy life, and thy children will rise up and call thee blessed.

DEAR ABBY: We have recently moved to a new community where it seems to be the custom for the married men to have "a night out with the boys." Milton and I have never gone anywhere in the evenings without each other and we don't intend to start now. When Milton was invited to join this "night out" group, he politely declined and now it's all over town that he is "hen-pecked."

Milton says that such remarks do not bother him. But they bother me a lot. I'd like people to know that my husband is NOT hen-pecked, and he could go if he wanted to, but he doesn't care to. How can I get this across without sounding holier than thou? I don't want to make any enemies.

ANNOYED

DEAR ANNOYED: Don't try. The truth seldom requires an affidavit. If a man is NOT hen-pecked he doesn't have to crow about it.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married 12 years and have four lovely children. My husband travels and we have nothing in common anymore. We've only stayed together because of the children.

One night three months ago, due to car trouble, some friends and I went into a night club about 35 miles from home. A band was playing there. I took one look at one of the musicians and my heart did a flip flop. At intermission he came right to our table and started talking to me. He said he saw me come in and he liked my looks. Abby, I've gone back there almost every night. I drive 70 miles just to sit and talk to him for the few minutes he has during breaks. For the first time since my marriage I haven't been able to get another man out of my mind. We've talked about our marriages. His isn't any good either, and he is just sticking around because of his children, too. I've only seen him at this establishment, and all we've done so far is talked. I know this sounds crazy, but I am very much in love with him. The craziest part is that I've checked up on him and I've found out that he is a liar. I hate liars, but it doesn't seem to change my feelings for him. I know he's no good but I love him. I can't help how I feel. It doesn't make sense. Is there something wrong with me?

NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: There is nothing wrong with you that hasn't been temporarily wrong with millions of other people. What you feel is not "love" — it's a strong physical attraction. It doesn't respond to logic, so don't try to figure it out. You may not be able to help how you "feel" — but you CAN help how you behave. Quit seeing this liar and save yourself and several innocent people a pack of heartaches.

Child Gang Is Broken Up

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — Police have broken up a child burglar gang led by a 12-year-old girl. The gang is accused of shoplifting, looting homes and destroying property for the past two months, for petty cash and "kicks".

The 11 boys and girls, all from fairly well-to-do homes, are 12 to 15, Suffolk County police said Friday.

Police said only cash was taken from the looted homes — with the money going for phonograph records, transistor radios, soda and candy. The gang also is accused of smashing mailboxes, windows and fences.

Police quoted the father of one alleged gang member: "They're really not bad. A bunch of them have been running up and down the streets, painting mailboxes and ripping up flags. I don't think it's any big deal."

Hunting Accident Injures Snyder Youth Friday

Peter Wadleigh, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Wadleigh, 3305 Fortieth Street, received an accidental gunshot wound of the foot at about 9 o'clock Friday evening.

Wadleigh, along with Don Lewis, Billy Smith, Billy Knight and Johnny Knight were camping out on the Hilton Lambert farm near Dunn in order to get an early start Saturday morning at bird hunting.

The boys were reportedly preparing for bed, and Wadleigh was already on his cot when the gun, which Johnny Smith was holding on his lap disharged. Wadleigh was taken to Cogdell Hospital where he was admitted. Some toe tendons were said to be severed, and surgery will be required before his foot will return to normal. His condition this morning was reported to be "good."

OUR VIEW

Welcome For General Points Up Vital Factor In Society

Maj. Gen. Paul A Mayo visited Snyder the other day and remarked that he had "never been greeted like this before," when members of the Chamber of Commerce Producers Club and others were on hand to welcome the general at the airport.

Of course Gen. Mayo was unknown as an individual to most local people who turned out for the greeting, but the two stars he wore on his uniform as a Major General in the United States Army are known to many people. They command the respect of patriots or responsible citizens of the United States.

That Gen. Mayo should be greeted here in the fashion that he was on Tuesday stresses an important ingredient of civilized society that apparently is being ignored in far too many regions of our country today. We refer to the respect for authority.

There appears to be a tendency on the part of many citizens to ignore all laws and ridicule all public officials that are not 100 per cent in accord with their own sentiments or ideas. This was never more apparent than on the day of the assassination of the late President John F. Kennedy. It was thrust crudely and shockingly before the public when first reactions to the assassination were being recorded.

From here and there in public schools across the land there were reports of teachers being shocked by expressions of relatively small numbers of students who displayed outright joy rather than remorse, and in general exhibited a smoldering hate. Some observers were stunned because reports indicated many of the children came from homes whose parents were continually professing patriotism and their love for the Constitution. Yet, their children had absorbed no respect for the highest office created by this same Constitution that they espoused. It indicated an attitude that the Constitution was no good unless it always provided public officials of their own choosing.

In other words, "I will obey only those laws which I agree with, or which are convenient for me to obey."

This attitude can lead only to anarchy.

Glittering Royal Wedding Tops Storybook Romance

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A handsome young Mediterranean king and a teen-age princess from a Viking land will be married Friday in a storybook romance clouded by the Cyprus war threat.

Princess Anne-Marie of Denmark and King Constantine of Greece will exchange vows before a glittering assemblage of kings and queens, princes and princesses, nobles, diplomats and churchmen in a Byzantine ceremony. President Johnson has designated his elder daughter, Lynda Bird, as one of his personal representatives at the wedding.

More than a million spectators — Greeks, visiting Danes and other foreign tourists — are expected to fill Athens to cheer the couple along the wedding route as they enter their new lif in a golden horse-drawn carriage.

With less than a week to go, wedding fever is rising fast. Besides linking Greece and Denmark in an historic union, the marriage will blend storybook traditions to royalty and romance with ultra-modern glamor.

It will turn a lovely, soft-spoken 18-year-old girl into the world's youngest queen — For the world's youngest king Constantine is 24.

In today's workaday world of diminished royalty, any blue-blood wedding is enough of a novelty in itself to attract worldwide attention.

Even if she weren't a princess, Anne-Marie has the kind of lithe, Scandinavian good looks that turns heads. Constantine is a rugged black-haired youth who smiles easily, handles a race car like a pro and walked away from the 1960 Rome Olympics with a gold medal in yachting.

Their life as king and queen won't be all glamor. Greece is caught up in the grim, dangerous Cyprus problem that could plunge the country into war with Turkey.

The king's powers are limited but he is the armed forces' commander-in-chief and appo'nts prime ministers in times of political crisis. The king is no mere figurehead and even Constantine's strongest admirers acknowledge that 24 is very young for the job. In the king's absence the queen may be appointed regent to act for him, a tricky job requiring diplomacy and tact.

Constantine's mother, Frederika, was often criticized when she was queen. Not a few of her subjects thought she meddled in politics beyond her rights. In this country, popular objections to royal ways can have more than academic meaning. In the last century the Greeks have thrown out monarchs from time to time.

But the matters of state lie ahead. Now it's the wedding that counts. In the elegant salons and the clipped formal gardens of the Athens palace there will be parties and balls for the titled and the privileged. There also will be two open-air receptions given by the Greek royal family for the public.

Heads of various Eastern Orthodox churches, including the partriarchs of Jerusalem, Serbia and Romania, plan to come. The honor of officiating will go to 85-year old archbishop Chryssostomos, the crusty, white-bearded primate of the Orthodox Church of Greece. Anne-Marie, a Lutheran, will convert to Orthodoxy after the wedding.

Neurotics Have Own Organization

TORONTO (AP) — Neurotic? Lonely? Fearful? Can't communicate or have successful relationships with members of your family?

Then it's Neurotics Anonymous for you.

This is a new group that hopes to do for neuroses what Alcoholics Anonymous has done for alcoholism and Gamblers Anonymous has done for the bettor.

NA held a private dinner one night this week — vichyssoise, trout and coq au vin — for its second formal and first private gathering since formation. Host was M. J. Youle-White, an English author who wouldn't say how many guests he had. They remain nameless.

Youle-White had this to say:

"True neurotics tend to be more intelligent than most people and more articulate, so they are more aware of their problems and are affected more acutely by them than others.

"The problems? Oh, the basic ones, of loneliness, fear, inability to communicate and to have successful relationships with wives, children and other members of their families."

He started with an ad in a newspaper's personal column and in six weeks had about 2,000 phone calls and 500 letters.

He commented: "We are an organization of outsiders and we'll run on similar lines to Alcoholics Anonymous and Gamblers Anonymous. Perhaps we'll even develop our own rituals, as they have."

Aden, South Arabia, has been an important military base for some time.

'65 Automobiles Ready For Debut

DETROIT (AP) — The shiny, new products of Detroit's auto industry are waiting offstage for their debut this month.

Auto executives have poured over $1 billion into getting their 1965 models ready for the market.

All the new cars will be introduced at dealerships from Sept. 23 through 25.

Lincoln, Rambler and all Chrysler lines will appear in dealer showrooms on Sept. 23. The following day belongs to General Motors. Ford and Mercury will place their new cars on display Sept. 25.

These are anxious weeks in many an office in Detroit as auto makers wonder what the public reaction will be to their new products. Woe to him who has made a bad guess as to what buyers' preferences will be.

No auto man is more important to his company at this particular moment than the public relations or advertising department employe.

Theirs is the job of telling the public what a great car their company has turned out.

As an indication of the magnitude of the advertising program, Roland S. Withers, general sales manager of Buick Division of General Motors gave a broad outline of Buick's multimillion-dollar announcement advertising program.

The Buick newspaper schedule, for example, has been set to start September 23 in 967 daily and 2,505 weekly newspapers which together cover all of the territory franchised to 3,300 Buick dealers and every square mile of the United States.

Newspaper first announcement ads run from full pages to 1,000 lines, with five follow up ads.

Radio spots go on the air over 195 stations in 97 large market areas on Sept. 23, with 20 spots per week for four weeks. ABC network over 310 stations and Mutual network over 430 stations will carry 15 spots per week for six weeks.

Outdoor advertising is another key part of Buick's multi-pronged sales campaign. Some 16,000 posters will be pasted up in 2,538 markets for a 30-day period.

The magazines come in for their full share of attention too, with many four-color ads.

"Styling is our major emphasis," said Withers. "Advertising rarely can interpret styling. It is there for the reader to appraise. But advertising can project good styling and stage it in the most appealing way.

"For similar reasons, it seems to us that for Buick's dramatic new styling, print is our best medium of announcement, particularly magazines which offer excellent color and beautiful reproduction."

Withers expressed belief that the magazine, newspaper and outdoor copy support his view that big, bold photographic illustrations, unusual photography employing unusual angles, each illustration a big-impact single image "gives you the strong impression it's coming right off the page to you."

LBJ Almost Has To Hitch Ride

BRUNSWICK, Ga. (AP) — President Johnson almost had to hitch a ride back to Washington Friday night after winding up a tour of coastal sections hit hardest by Hurricane Dora.

At Glynco Naval Air Station near here, the brakes on Johnson's giant jet locked and Air Force One wouldn't budge.

The pilot revved up the four engines to full throttle. Still the big ship didn't move. He revved them up again.

Major Teams Launch 1964 Campaign

NEW YORK (AP) — Rugged Texas and wriggling Roger Staubach, Cotton Bowl rivals in January, launch 1964 campaigns Saturday on football's first major weekend.

The defending national champion Longhorns send the longest major college winning streak — 11 games — and 25 lettermen against down-trodden Tulane. The last time the Green Wave defeated the Steers was 1908, a few weeks after the birth of Lyndon B. Johnson, a Texan of some note.

Staubach, All-American quarterback and 1963 Heisman Trophy winner as player of the year, is again at the wheel as Navy invades Penn State for a regional television spectacular featuring Eastern powers.

Other games on the split video program are Southern Methodist at Florida, Kansas State at Wisconsin and Stanford vs. Washington State at Spokane.

The fireworks begin Friday night in the Los Angeles Coliseum when hopeful Colorado challenges Southern California's top-flight AAWU conferenee contenders.

The nearly unlimited substitution rule and large scale return to three units, if not platoons, won't be the only changes in the game.

For the first time in 18 years, Oklahoma will take the field without Bud Wilkinson as coach. He's now a Senatorial candidate. Longtime aide Gomer Jones is now in command of a team some observers feel can go all the way. First stop is at Maryland.

Georgia Tech plays host to Vanderbilt in its initial effort since Bobby Dodd's celebrated declaration of independence from the Southeastern Conference.

Vince Dooley debuts as Georgia head man against Alabama in the 50th duel of a colorful series. Menacing fellow SEC members as usual, 'Bama has the sinew. Quarterback Joe Namath is back in good graces and fullback Larry Wall is ready on mended knees.

As is often the case, Syracuse is the team to beat in the East, although Navy is defending the Lambert trophy. But there will be something new for the Orange when they open a very promising campaign at Boston College. He's a sophomore halfback named Floyd Little, a sprinter about whom Coach Ben Schwartzwalder hasn't said much but has assigned jersey number '44', previously worn by Jimmy Brown and the late Ernie Davis.

Auburn, an SEC favorite again, hopes to unveil an inside running attack against Houston. That weapon was missing when returning All-America quarterback Jimmy Sidle built a 9-1 record assaulting the flanks and throwing an occasional pass.

Memphis State risks a 17-game unbeaten streak against seventh-ranked Mississippi, the team it stunned in a 0-0 standoff a year ago. Ole Miss, which hasn't lost an opener since 1946 — the year before Coach John Vaught's arrival — has an ambush planned.

North Carolina appears much more blessed with returning veterans than North Carolina State as the defending Atlantic Coast Conference co-champions square off.

Texas has lost only two of its previous 38 starts and last suffered a regular season setback against TCU, 6-0 in '61. Tulane has won only one of its last 21, and couldn't get past the Longhorn 40-yard line a year ago.

Texas is building its title defense around superb linebackers Tom Nobis and Timmy Foerr, veteran backs Phil Harris and Harold Phillip, plus a healthy Ernie Koy, switched from fullback to tailback in the flip-flop Wing-T. Coach Darrell Royal says a good season depends on lots of luck and good health. He issued a similar statement last August and five months later his charges belted Navy 28-6 in the Cotton Bowl for an 11-0 finish.

Oklahoma and Maryland resume hostilities previously confined to the Orange Bowl. There's a familiar ring to the Oklahoma talent, notwithstanding Jones' complaint his current gang lacks the fire of the greater Oklahoma squads. Any club with stars like fullback Jim Grisham, tackle Ralph Neely, guard Newt Burton and center Carl McAdams has a stacked deck.

Kansas, likely Oklahoma's chief Big Eight rival, turns loose the nation's leading experienced running back, Gale Sayers, against Texas Christian while the league defender, Nebraska, plays host to South Dakota.

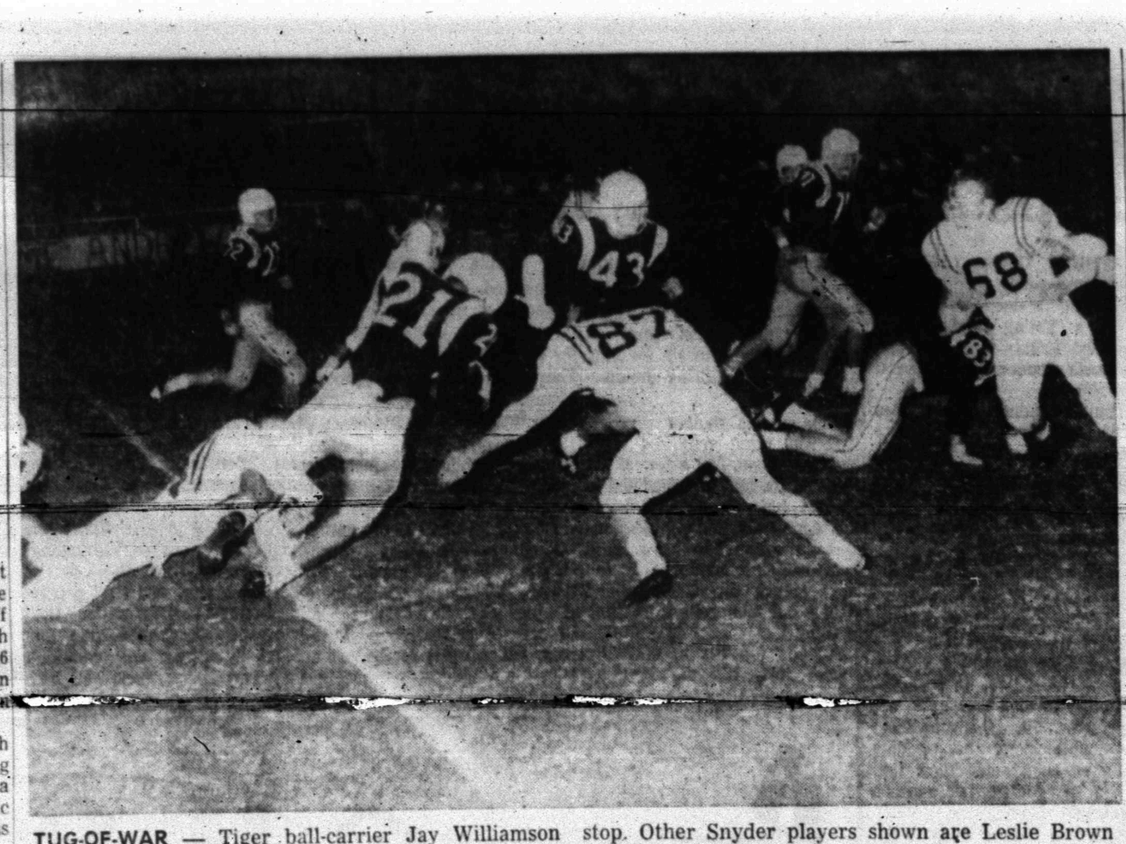

The three-unit plan will be prominent when Coach Paul Dietzel's Army gets a visit from the Citadel and Louisiana State is home under the lights against Texas A&M.

Snyder B Team In Season Opener

The Snyder High School B team was scheduled to open its 1964 season at 7:30 Saturday night against Sweetwater in Tiger Stadium.

The B Team Tigers are coached by Bill Hartsfield and Roy Carter. Both are veteran coaches in the Snyder system.

Local fans will have only four opportunities to see the B team play at home this year. Nine games are on tap, but five are on the road.

TUG-OF-WAR — Tiger ball-carrier Jay Williamson struggles to free himself from an Andrews tackler in the game Friday night. Mustang end Larry Pittman (87) is coming up to put the finishing touches on the stop. Other Snyder players shown are Leslie Brown (22), Tom Kincaid (43), Roy Miller (71), and Roy Kizer (83). Surprises Dot Schoolboy Play

By The Associated Press

Champion Garland knocked over the team that besmirched its record last season as the Owls rolled to their 13th straight victory to highlight Texas schoolboy football Friday night.

The Owls whipped Dallas Bryan Adams 23-0, thus taking revenge for the Dallas team's tie with Garland in 1963 to prevent a perfect season in Class AAAA.

But while Garland was moving majestically along, upsets swept Classes AAA and AA with even this early in the campaign.

Palestine and Brownwood, who had gotten themselves named No. 1 and No. 2, took the plunge. Palestine was upset by Athens, 28-7, while Brownwood edged into class AAAA to its sorrow. Cleburne, a newcomer to the division, whammed the Lions 14-6.

And there were other upsets. Snyder, well-ranked in AAA, was beaten 10-8 by Andrews.

In Class AA Little Cypress failed to live up to its No. 2 rating and absorbed a 35-6 licking from unranked Vidor.

But other favorites were impressive.

Corsicana, defending champion of Class AAA, moved into AAAA without missing a step. The Tigers lashed Bonham 21-14 for their 15th straight triumph.

Spring Branch, the No. 2 team in AAAA, looked good in shutting out Baytown 26-0.

While Palestine and Brownwood were faltering in AAA, Pharr-San Juan-Alamo, the championship favorite in some quarters, beat San Benito 14-0 to indicate it ought to be No. 1 anyway.

Dumas, a Class AAA favorite, beat Class AAAA Amarillo Palo Duro 7-0.

Rockwall blasted over Lancaster 28-12 to also hold a 15-game winning streak. The Yellow Jackets are defending champions of Class AA. The favorite, Phillips, was impressive in a 43-0 spanking of Childress.

The heralded teams came through in Class A without looking back. No. 1 Hull-Daisetta raced over AA Dayton 60-0 and No. 2 Albany edged AA Cisco 23-20. But third ranked George West was held to a 22-22 tie by Class AA Freer.

Petersburg won its eighth straight by taking down Abernathy 20-8.

KC's Blue Moon Shuts Out Orioles

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Kansas City Athletics seem to beat the Baltimore Orioles only once in a blue moon. The moon wasn't blue Friday night, but the A's pitcher was, and so were the Orioles.

Charles O. Finley's $75,000 bonus rookie, John (Blue Moon) Odom, an 18-year-old right-hander from Macon, Ga., was the starter for the Athletics in the nightcap of a twi-night doubleheader against the Orioles. Baltimore had taken the opener 5-2 for Wally Bunker's 16th victory.

After what the Yankees did to Blue Moon in his big league debut (six runs in two innings last Saturday) Baltimore could hardly wait to get started against the youngster. They were so anxious, they nearly didn't get started at all.

Odom had a no-hitter for six innings and by the time the Orioles finally got a safety, the A's had a lead of 8-0, the final score.

Brooks Robinson opened the Oriole seventh with the fourth of six walks off Odom. Sam Bowens sent a bounder at third baseman Tom Reynolds, who had two errors in the first game and bobbled two other grounders. The chopper bounced off Reynolds' legs and the official scorer ruled it a hit.

With Blue Moon's shot at immortality spoiled, players in the Athletic dugout and bullpen waved towels to show their displeasure with the decision. The only other hit off Odom came in the ninth when Robinson beat out a dribbler to the mound.

The split reduced Baltimore's American League lead to one-half game over Chicago which whipped Cleveland 7-3. Third place New York slipped two games off the pace, losing to Washington 5-4 and Boston blanked Los Angele 3-0 in other AL action.

In the National League, Philadelphia blanked San Francisco 1-0, New York downed Los Angeles 4-2, Pittsburgh blanked Houston 3-0, Milwaukee edged Cincinnati 1-0 and St. Louis shut out Chicago 5-0.

Bunker, who got late-inning help from Harvey Haddix, whipped the Athletics for the sixth time. John O'Donoghue, the A's starter, was the victim of leaky fielding support and two of the Oriole runs were scored as unearned.

Brooks Robinson ripped three singles in the opener, running hits hitting string to 11 for 13. Robinson went 1 for 3 against Odom in the nightcap.

Gary Peters won his 17th game and Ron Hansen and Pete Ward clouted home runs to help Chicago whip Cleveland. Hansen had his 18th homer and Ward his 21st in the sixth as the White Sox took a 3-2 lead. But Chico Salmon tied it with a homer in the Indians' sixth.

Palmer Vies For Top Money Prize

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Arnold Palmer, the strong man with the King Midas touch, is a solid favorite to take down the top prize of $50,000 in the World Series of Golf beginning today.

The 36-hole event which brings the winners of golf's four major championships together in head-to-head competition appears made to order for Palmer who plays the vast Firestone course with amazing ease despite its 7,165-yards and a par of 35-35—70.

Hermleigh Ends Loss Streak

HERMLEIGH — The Hermleigh Cardinals broke a 13-game losing streak Friday night by shuting out the Roby Lions 8-0. The victory, the first since during the 1962 season, guarantees the Cards a better season this year than last year.

Hermleigh tallied its touchdown early in the second quarter when quarterback Curtis Brown took it over from two yards out. Fullback Terry Smith went around left end for the two points.

Penalties hurt each team during the contest. Hermleigh had a touchdown nullified by an infraction and Roby had two called back because of penalties.

Hermleigh's next game will be Friday at Wylie.

Andrews Ekes Out 10-8 Victory Over Snyder

Quarterback Floyd Lindsey, a 160-pound "do-it-all" led Andrews to a 10-8 victory over the Snyder Tigers here Friday night. It was the season opener for both teams.

Lindsey scored every point for Andrews as the Mustangs tallied first and then had to come from behind in the second half with a field goal.

It was a contest much similar to that of last year. Snyder outgained their opponents in the first half, but could do little in the second half as the Mustangs dominated play. Andrews was so successful at ball control that in the last quarter, when Snyder had the wind to its back, the Tigers had the ball for only four plays.

Lindsey had able assistance from halfbacks Steve Reed and Ronnie Hawthorne, who could get that short yardage whenever it was needed.

Doing most of the toting for Snyder was Leslie Brown, Tom Kincaid and Jay Williamson. Brown was top gainer for the Tigers with 47 yards in 14 tries, followed closely by Kincaid, who carried 10 times for 31 yards, and Williamson, who had 23 yard on 10 tries.

One of the bright spots for Snyder fans was the passing game, which showed some real promise. This department had been somewhat of a question mark heretofore. Snyder completed 3 of 7 for 67 yards.

The Tigers moved the ball well during the first half and threatened in the initial quarter. They took the opening kickoff and moved it to the 23 before losing it on downs.

The Tigers got the ball back a few minutes later, by way of a punt, but after chalking up one first down they were forced into a punting situation. Then came the first real break in the contest — and it was a bad one for the Tigers. Mustang end Dwayne Matthews burst through to block Brown's punt and halfback Calvin Hubert fell on the ball on Snyder's 29 yardline.

After one incomplete pass, Lindsey faked a handoff and kept, scooted to the right and went 29 yards for the first score of the encounter. He then booted the extra point and the visitors led 7-0 about a minute deep into the second quarter.

The Tigers went ahead in the waning minutes of the half as they drove 65 yards for the tally. The big gainer was a 44-yard pass play from Brown to Albert Williams. Brown took it over moments later from the one for the TD. He then passed to Williamson for the two points, and Snyder led 8-7 as the first half ended.

It was all Andrews in the second half, or at least nearly all. The Tigers did move a little early in the 3rd period as they received the second half kickoff and made two first downs before bogging down at midfield.

Andrews again cashed in on a break to take the lead. Matthews recovered a Tiger fumble on the Snyder 20 late in the 3rd quarter. The Tiger defense arose to the occasion and stopped the Mustangs on the 12. From that point Lindsey booted it through the uprights for 3 points and a 10-8 lead.

The Tigers had the wind with them the final period, but it did them little good as they only had the ball 4 plays the entire quarter. One of these was a booming 70 yard punt by Brown.

Andrews ran that punt back to their 24 and marched from that point. The Mustangs reached the Tiger 8 where they fumbled on the final play of the game. Snyder recovered, but time had run out on the play.

Hobbs Loses To Leuders 30-28

HOBBS — The Hobbs Panthers lost a heart - breaking 30-28 decision to Leuders in a six-man football game here Friday night. It was the season opener for Coach Bernard Weem's team.

The lead changed hands several times in the see-saw affair with Leuders scoring the go-ahead tally in the waning seconds. They won by the margin of the two extra points made after the final score.

Leuders opened the scoring in the initial quarter when, about midway through the period Charles Harvey passed to Luis Hernandez for 55 yards and a TD. Harvey then kicked for the two points. Extra point kicks count two points in six-man football.

Hobbs came right back moments later as Donald Hull passed to Freddie Martinez for 60 yards and a score. The extra point try was missed and Hobbs trailed 6-8.

In the second period Leuders padded its lead as Harvey returned a punt 67 yards for a score. This time the point try was unsuccessful, but Leuders led 14-6.

It was Hobbs turn now and they took advantage of it. Tommy Lay went into pay dirt from 12 yards out and then kicked for the two points to knot the score at 14-14. Then, in the waning seconds of the first half Panther Jerry Hodges recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown and Hobbs led 20-14 at halftime.

Leuders went ahead in the third period as Don Hart scored from the 5 and then kicked for two, giving them a narrow 22-20 lead. In the same period Tommy Lay put Hobbs back in front on a 20-yard scoring run and a successful try for the two points.

With just 50 seconds left Harvey passed to Hernandez for 15 yards and a score. Harvey then kicked for the go-ahead points and Leuders won 30-28.

Coach Weems said that his boys showed real hustle. He added that he had a group of young boys who wanted to play ball and who showed some real potential that should develop.

Hobbs will be at home again next Friday as they catch O'Brien.

Ira Loses Close One To Mertzon

The Ira Bulldogs opened their 1964 season Friday night by falling to the Mertzon Hornets 48-34 in a seesaw battle in six-man football.

The Hornets jumped out in front early in the contest as Tim Selman scooted 20 yards around right end for the first score. Tom Davis kicked for the two extra points for an 8-0 lead.

Ira tied it up moments later on their first play from scrimmage when Larry Holladay passed to Jack Payne for a TD. The play covered 50 yards. Dennis Grizzle kicked for the points and the score was knotted 8-8.

Mertzon jumped back in the lead when Terry Moore carried it over from 7 yards out. After Davis converted Mertzon led 16-8. This lead was padded a few minutes later when Selman took it into pay dirt and the Hornets led 22-8. Just before the quarter ended Payne skirted right to score another for Ira, who now tallied 22-14.

The only score in the second period was made by Mertzon as Selman ran around left end for 22 yards. The Hornets led 28-14 at halftime.

Mertzon tried an on-side kick leading off the second half and covered the ball. This led to an 8-yard touchdown run by Moore. A little later Ira tallied when Larry Wiggins passed to Jack Payne for the score. Mertzon led at this point 34-22.

Before the 3rd period ended Mertzon scored again when Moore passed to Tom Carter for 12 yards. This gave them a 40-28 lead going into the final stanza.

Ira's next score came when Holladay returned a punt 68 yards to pay dirt. Then, just a short time later the Hornets made their final score on a pass from Moore to Selman. After Davis kicked the points Mertzon led 48-28.

Ira's final marker came toward the end of the contest when Payne went around right end for the score.

Coach Robert Ryan said that the Bulldogs looked real good. He said that they were young and inexperienced, and made mistakes, but that they showed hustle and some real potential.

Ira will be at home again Friday night when the Bulldogs play host to Central Catholic.

Pro Football Swings Into Action In Both Leagues

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Big-time professional football swings into action tonight with a new park, a new attack and a set of old faces the key attractions.

In the American League, the New York Jets host the Denver Broncos in the first football game ever played at Shea Stadium in New York. AFL champion San Diego plays Houston in tonight's other AFL opener.

In the National League, the revamped Dallas Cowboys take on the St. Louis Cardinals, Eastern Division darkhorses, in the only game scheduled.

The NFL moves into high gear Sunday with six games. New York is at Philadelphia, Chicago visits Green Bay, Washington hosts Cleveland, Baltimore is at Minnesota, Los Angeles plays at Pittsburgh and Detroit visits San Francisco.

Kansas City is at Buffalo and Boston visits Oakland in Sunday's two AFL games.

The Jets, surprised in the exhibition season with a 4-1 mark, and have been selling tickets almost as fast as their co-tenants at Shea, baseball's New York Mets. The turnstile count could set an AFL record Saturday night.

Coach Weeb Ewbank is depending on quarterback Dick Wood, a Janky veteran who uses Don Maynard and Bake Turner as his chief targets, to trigger the offense. Rookie Matt Snell from Ohio State should add running punch.

Denver unveils quarterback Jacky Lee, picked up from Houston last month. The Broncos also have a tough runner in Billy Joe, the AFL's rookie of the year in 1963.

A pair of familiar faces, San Diego's Tobin Rote and Houston's George Blanda are the key men in tonight's other AFL encounter. The champion Chargers present the same power-laden backfield to go with Rote while Houston, rebuilding after a dismal 6-8 season, offers little to supplement Blanda.

Paul Lowe, Keith Lincoln and flanker Lance Alworth give San Diego a potent offensive potential. But Lowe is reportedly unhappy with the Chargers and may be dealt elsewhere before too long.

The NFL Cowboys came up with two prize pass-catchers in off-season deals, picking up Tommy McDonald from Philadelphia and Buddy Dial from Pittsburgh.

St. Louis counts on Charley Johnson's arm and the pass-catching combination of Bobby Joe Conrad and Sonny Randle.

TV's Performers Go Back To Work

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Vacation time is almost over for network television.

At 10 p.m. (EDT) Sunday night on NBC a series called "The Rogues" will start the back-to-work movement, first of 33 — or is it 35? — new programs to be unveiled by the three major networks.

On Monday, ABC will begin a busy seven days during which all of its new programs will have their premieres and all returning shows will consist of fresh material. By Oct. 5, prime-time evening schedules will be running along at their winter paces, with one exception. NBC is discreetly launching its "Profiles in Courage," based on the book by the late John F. Kennedy on Nov. 8, after the presidential election.

What kind of a season will it be? Nobody — including the creators of programs, the network executives or the sponsors who pay — really knows. The big thrust obviously is toward comedy — 22 of the incoming efforts, perhaps 24, are playing it strictly for laughs.

(NBC is making it hard to find a positive total because a new 90-minute show called "90 Bristol Court" is really three situation comedies held together by having all participants live in the same apartment building. It is a shrewd device, because if any of the comedies fails to please, it can be replaced by the simple expedient of having the family involved move.)

There is also a discernible trend toward larger-than-life characters and toward fantasy. NBC's "Rogues" and "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." are both tongue-in-cheek adventure series involving super-crooks and super-heroes. ABC has "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea," starring a super-submarine.

Then, in the fantasy department, there are CBS' "The Munsters" and ABC's "Addams Family," both comedies about weirdo families and, it is hoped, hilarious spoofs on horror movies, CBS has "My Living Doll," whose heroine is a beautiful robot, and ABC has "Bewitched," whose heroine has supernatural powers although she scorns broomsticks and other Hallowe'en props.

Bing Crosby will turn up playing the father in an ABC situation comedy series called, surprisingly, "The Bing Crosby Show," and George Burns will also return also playing a father, both on ABC.

Fess Parker will reappear on NBC in a coon-skin cap, but as "Daniel Boone" instead of Davy Crockett. "Gunsmoke's" Chester (Dennis Weaver) will lose his limp in moving from CBS to NBC to become a retired horse trainer with an adopted son, a Chinese war orphan.

Sammy Jackson on ABC will play a country boy in the Army and Jim Nabors on CBS will play a country boy in the Marine Corps. Their shows, respectively, are "No Time for Sergeants" and "Gomer Pyle, USMC." Walter Brennan moves from playing an impoverished country character in "The Real McCoys" to a billionaire country character in "Tycoon," still on ABC. The star of a Saturday night NBC comedy, "Flipper," will be a dolphin, joining a very small group of top animal stars: "Lassie" and "Mr. Ed."

ABC will be the season's new show champion with 14 contenders, with CBS second with 12. NBC has only 7. Lovers of old feature movies will find them three nights a week: Sunday on ABC, Wednesday and Saturday on NBC, all between 9 and 11 p.m.

Although about two-thirds of the evening programs will be returning shows, viewers will have to get accustomed to some new time periods and, in some cases, must follow favorites to new channels.

Jack Benny and Alfred Hitchcock move from CBS to NBC, and Joey Bishop from NBC to CBS. "Beverly Hillbillies," "The Dick Van Dyke Show" and "Perry Mason" of CBS will be seen earlier than last season and Red Skelton later. "That Was the Week That Was" moves from Friday to Tuesday nights on NBC and ABC's "Ben Casey," goes back to its old Monday night hour. Only three medical shows have survived — "Casey," NBC's "Dr. Kildare" and CBS' "The Nurses."

Carol Burnett returns as star of a variety show; "The Entertainers," Cara Williams is back in a situation comedy and Craig ("Peter Gunn") Stevens returns in an action adventure series, "Mr. Broadway," all on CBS.

Some shows will be hits, others will fail miserably — and we'll know what is which around Nov. 1 when the rating services report on the way the public voted on the candidates.

Pastor Has His Trouble

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The pastor of the Mar Vista Baptist Church says Mrs. Betty Chapman is still his main attendance problem.

Mrs. Chapman, 42, was enjoined by court order May 18 from attending. She sang, he said, too loudly — and off key.

Now, says pastor Wayne A. Eurich, she's back.

He filed an affidavit Friday stating that Mrs. Chapman violated the court order by attending six Sunday morning services and three evening services, and asking that she be held in contempt of court.

Mrs. Chapman's attorney replied by asking that the proceedings be dismissed, contending the citation against his client was not properly served and that the original injunction is still being appealed. The case was continued to Sept. 21.

Pastor Eurich had won the injunction after witnesses testified Mrs. Clapman deliberately disrupted church services.

Pastor Eurich said the dispute arose when he refused to perform a wedding ceremony Mrs. Chapman had arranged for a young couple.

Bing Finally To Take TV Fling

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bing Crosby, who said he never would do it, is embarked on a weekly television series.

People are asking why Bing, a millionaire, would want to tackle such a grind.

Crosby's answer is candid: "I can't work in movies any more, so why shouldn't I try weekly television?"

"Can't work in movies." How many jobs are there for 60-year-old crooners?" Bing asks.

So come Monday evening, Sept. 14 the newest Crosby production, starring the crooner, comes to the little box in the living room.

In the new series, which precedes the successful Bing Crosby productions' "Ben Casey," Bing will play an electrical engineer with a wife and two daughters.

It's situation comedy but a switch from most because it doesn't make an idiot out of papa. Bing will sing.

Producer Steven Gethers explained how you can do a family situation comedy featuring a singing electrical engineer.

"I felt that a Bing Crosby without songs would be cheating the public," says Gethers. "True, Bing plays an engineer but one who is a frustrated singer, dating back to his college days when he made a choice between show business and electronics.

There's a reason why Bing must keep busy.

"A man in my position has a tiger by the tail," he said. "He just can't let go any old time. So many people become dependent on him for their livelihood. If he quits, scores of jobs go down the drain. Each job represents a family," says Bing.

In the series, Bing has a wife, Beverly Garland, and two daughters — Diane Sherry, 11, and Carol Faylen, 15. Carol is the daughter of a veteran actor, Frank Faylen.

Young Miss Faylen, a sophomore at Los Angeles' Immaculate Heart High School, was turned down for all of her class plays. Her first successful audition was for Bing's show.

After the first five shows, Diane still doesn't quite fathom the idea that she is working with a living legend of show business.

To a newsman, though, she did concede: "I don't know what we would do on this show without Mr. Crosby."

The power of the Crosby name — one of the most durable in movie boxoffice lists — was so potent on Madison Avenue that the weekly show was bought by a sponsor for 26 shows without a script or a pilot.

Television shows usually are bought for only 13 weeks.

Meta Rosenberg, wife of Bing's longtime agent, George Rosenberg, can be credited with Bing's entry into weekly television. A few years ago Bing had been vehemently opposed to weekly television exposure.

"I sensed that Bing had reached that point in life where he would welcome a new challenge. I had already sold the sponsor so I just had to sell Bing. My timing was right. He agreed, provided we came up with a format he liked."

After nearly every comedy writer in Hollywood tried to develop a format, Meta and an associate, Mike Levee, finally hit upon the one audiences will see.

Says Bing: "I liked what they showed me and I thought I'd have a go at it."

Bing has a schedule that, roughly, gives him three weeks off after three weeks work. This is done by shooting all scenes involving Crosby in lump form. Then the other actors pick up the other scenes while Bing is off golfing and fishing.

Even when Bing works, he's relaxed. His longtime stand-in works the rehearsal shots while the lights and camera angles are being set.

When the actual scene is shot, Bing comes in with his natural spontaneity and glibness and makes it look as if he had been rehearsing for hours.

"I prepare hard for a role," says Bing. But I've never been one to go for all that standing around."

In 1960, Bing received a platinum record as "first citizen of the record industry." An industry spokesman says that Bing has sold more records than any star in history — more than 200 million.

His biggest seller — and usually rated the top record of all time—is "White Christmas." It still sells every holiday season and has passed the 12 million mark.

But Bing's most lucrative — based on royalties received — is his "Silent Night," which also sells every Christmas. All royalties on this go to charity.

Third is one he first recorded in the early Thirties, written by his old buddy from Paul Whiteman's Rhythm Boys — Harry Barris: "I Surrender, Dear."

Comments Bing: "Maybe this new television series will help my record sales. Look what television did for Walter Brennan? He makes albums and he hasn't even got a one-octave range."

Author, 6, Is Honored At Party

NEW YORK (AP) — Like most hopeful young authors, Dorothy Straight came to New York City for a party to celebrate the publication of her first book.

There was ice cream and cookies and soft drinks. Everybody wore paper hats. And the conversation was mostly about dolls, kindergarten, and the dollar that Dorothy got for the loss of her four front teeth.

Dorothy is six years old.

She made up the story and did the illustrations for her book, "How the World Began."

The illustrations, she said, took her "half a day, an evening and a morning."

Her mother, Mrs. Michael Straight, of Alexandria, Va., took down the story as Dorothy told it one night in answer to the question, "Who made the world?"

"We were amazed at the different concepts Dorothy put into the book," said her father, editor of the New Republic Magazine. "At the end of the story, she said, 'And then God went to sleep and slept for 40 whole days,' and she illustrated it with a picture of God in bed wearing yellow pajamas."

Dorothy's parents liked the book so much they took it to a publisher, who liked it so much he decided to publish it.

Friday, he threw an author's party for her.

Writing down children's stories is a favorite sport in the Straight household, in which there are two boys, three girls, a pony and a dog.

"We began writing down the older children's stories when they were Dorothy's age to send to their grandmother in England," Mrs. Straight said. "Children at that age have such marvelous imaginations."

The Straights said they had not told Dorothy anything about the origin of the world. Her father thinks some of her ideas came from television, and some from a stage production of a Noah's Ark story.

Will success spoil Dorothy Straight?

Her father thinks not. "At the first sign of a swelled head, her brothers and sisters will see to it she gets back into line," he said.

The wedding trip came to be called honeymoon after a Norse habit. Each day for a month after the nuptials, the newlyweds took a sip of mead, a fermented drink made of honey, to bring them good luck and health.

HOWARD AND PATRICIA BARR, duo-pianists, will present the second program of the Scurry Concert Association's upcoming series on Jan. 11, 1965. From now through September 19, memberships are available in the local concert organization. No tickets are sold to individual performances with season tickets for the coming series priced at $7.50 for adults, $4.00 for students. Checks post-dated no later than October 19, 1964, are permissible. Checks should be mailed to Scurry Concert Association, % P. O. Drawer C C, Snyder, Texas.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — It's like I was telling the Lady from Puebla. This business of living has become so confused that nobody will ever untangle it.

She has the impression that living consists of a series of child - like interests which actually have no value today.

And when I asked for her impression of life and its meaning, you should have heard the silly answers. She thinks it is simply grand to spend a few days on some tropical beach and walk around through coconut groves.

She likes foolish things from which we draw no awareness of our internal states as determined in the externality of time itself.

So I said, "Well, I'm sure you haven't bothered to read anything on the Art of Moving, which is the latest thing.

And she shuddered and said, "Don't tell me. Here we go, again."

"This is vital to living," I said. "It is the doctrine of the soul."

And she reached for the tequila bottle and said, "I can feel it, I can feel it. This is going to take strength."

So I said, "It is extremely simple. There is this Russian lady and she is a dancer - philosopher."

The Lady from Puebla looked suspicious and asked, "Where you got her holed up, my Pool-hall Plato?"

And I said, "The wrong idea like always. This lady has brought some advanced ideas here from places like Vienna, New York and Japan."

The Lady from Puebla said, "Sounds like she gets around enough to write a book on the Art of Moving. Go ahead and get it over with."

And I said, "It is simply a cultivation of physical skills. It involves an awareness of the flow of spiritual, physical and mental energies."

The Lady from Puebla said, "Think of that. What happens with all this awareness — you crawl in a hammock and think about it?"

So I said, "Apparently you don't realize the changes this can bring about in Mexico. The lady has studied mature body behavior in Israel, Yoga in India, martial art in Japan and other subjects I cannot even pronounce."

And the Lady from Puebla asked, "Just how is all this going to change Mexico — not that anybody gives a hoot?"

So I said, "It could well result in the moulding of a new philosophy. Even Hume wrote that the judgment makes its decision after reflecting on the settled order of its ideas. Thus, new and progressive ideas can definitely be a big step toward the development of a new philosophy."

So the Lady from Puebla said, "You are a bum and you will never be anything else. You read junk in newspapers and believe it. Why don't you stick to comic books and leave education be?"

And I said, "You are not progressive. You are positively stagnant."

Then she yelled, "Lissen, a century ago us Mexicans rode jackasses and never got there on time. Today we ride in Cadillacs and we are still late. We like fooling around and an easy life and it is in our blood. Now shut up and go read Donald Duck."

I don't know but I think life is passing her by like a river going around a big rock. She will never be serious and it has me worried.

TRAVEL TALK

By Hulin Fowler

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles on Mr. Fowler's personal experiences in the Holy Lands. For answers to your travel questions, write Mr. Fowler in care of this newspaper.

So this was the "Land of Egypt".

As our big jet circled Cairo it was not difficult to imagine the suffering of the children of Israel in this barren land.

The desert extended as far as the eye could see, ending abruptly with verdant irrigated fields on the edge of Cairo.

From the air, Cairo seemed to be a stark white city of extraordinarily flat - topped buildings and round-domed mosques. On the streets this Arabic metropolis of over 3 million people seemed a madhouse. Our taxi skirted dangerously through narrow streets filled with swarthy people in robes and the traditional Egyptian fez.

There was a babble of many languages, for Egypt has been invaded successively by the Assyrians, Persians, Greeks, Romans, Saracens, Turks, French, and English.

Strangely enough, it was only after being comfortably settled in a modern American - type hotel that the significance of my journey came over me. I was in a land described vividly in the Old Testament; the land of the Pharaohs, where ancient dynasties date back to 4,000 B. C.; and the land of the Pyramids and the Sphinx.

Although I could not see them from my room, I was in the land bordered by the Red Sea, which engulfed the Egyptians as the children of Israel fled their captivity, and cut through the Nile, whose bulrushes hid the baby Moses.

There are 40 pyramids in Egypt, built between 3,000 and 1,800 B.C. as the tombs of Pharaohs and other royalty, and we journeyed out to see the Great Pyramid, the largest and oldest, the following day.

Built in the reign of Cheops near ancient Memphis, now Giza, the Great Pyramid required 20 years and the labor of 100,000 men to build. Ten additional years were required just to build the road to haul the 2.3 million stone blocks needed for the completed structure.

How the Egyptians accomplished this magnificent feat of engineering and precision cutting of stone blocks averaging 2½ tons each remains a mystery today.

The massive structure towers 34 stories high and it is possible, if you have the legs for it to climb to the top. It's base is 756 feet square, or larger than four city blocks, but at the top it is only the size of an ordinary six-foot square bedroom. Inside are the sepulchral chambers, eerie and dimly lighted by a single light bulb dangling from the high ceilings.

About a third of a mile from the Great Pyramid, the Sphinx glowers over the desolate area, a massive half-lion, half-man. When it was constructed about 2,900 B. C., this statue - portrait of King Chephren of the Fourth Dynasty supposedly had a benign, smiling face. Today, ravaged by time, its nose defaced by centuries of practicing Arab riflemen, the Sphinx only has a weird grimace.

A marvel of carved rock of perfect proportions, it is five stories tall. The face alone is more than one story tall, and the ears would measure a six-foot man exactly. The nose is five feet long, from base to bullet - scarred tip.

Returning from Giza, we took a boat trip on the muddy Nile, which crawls sluggishly across 960 miles of Egypt and which has some of the largest dams in the world. The best known is Aswan, which threatens to innundate ancient monuments, and which has drawn the Russian engineers and technicians who are in evidence on the streets of Cairo.

Back in the city we once again braved the teeming multitudes in the streets to visit Cairo's Egyptian Museum, where many of the gold and silver treasures and other artifacts taken from the tombs now lie in exhibit. King Tut's golden burial mask is there, supposedly an exact likeness of the handsome young monarch, and other treasures dating back to thousands of years before Christ.

Before dusk we could hear the Moslem "call to prayer" from the towers of the many mosques which dot the city. In ancient days this call was by voice only; today, the Moslems have bowed to civilization and installed loud speakers in the towers.

These, and modern automobiles in the dusty streets, are among the few concessions to civilization that have been made in almost 5,000 years.

Texas Press Backing LBJ

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Texas daily newspapers have lined up overwhelmingly in support of Lyndon Johnson, a survey shows.

This is in sharp contrast to the last presidential election, when Texas dailies split almost evenly between the Republican and Democratic tickets although the home-state man, Johnson, even then was on the ticket as vice presidential with John Kennedy.

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal is one of those not yet endorsing either Johnson or Barry Goldwater. Editor Chas. A. Guy said, "It is conceivable that many things could happen between now and Nov. 3 to change the complexion of anyone's thinking."

The Avalanche - Journal is nominally independent - Democratic and supported the GOP's Richard Nixon in 1960, backed Johnson for the Senate. Johnson ran for both vice president and the Senate that year.

More than one fourth of the papers expected editorially to name a choice are supporting the Democrats. About 100 daily newspapers publish in Texas and about half endorse a party nominee.

Already some major switches from Republican to Democratic have occurred.

The Houston Post, listed as independent politically, has not supported a Democratic nominee since Franklin D. Roosevelt, but now is for Johnson, saying he "is the best qualified to lead this country." It called his record impressive. The Post supported Nixon in 1960.

The Dallas Times Herald, which supported the GOP ticket four years ago, called for the election of Johnson, saying, "in the crucial hours of history, nothing can replace leadership—built upon courage to make decisions born of wisdom and experience." The paper is independent-Democratic.

Publisher Carl Estes of the Longview News and Journal supported Nixon in 1960 but said in a page one editorial that he believes Johnson to be the best qualified and like to make the president. The News and Journal are independent-Democratic.

The Corsicana Sun announced it will actively support Johnson. It has been a Democratic paper since it was founded in 1895.

Another long-time Democratic paper, The Temple Telegram, supports Johnson.

For the first time since 1924, the San Antonio Express and News have endorsed a Democratic presidential candidate. It has rarely endorsed a Democratic ticket for president in its 99 years. The Express and News have come under new ownership since 1960 and now are a part of the Harte-Hanks group.

The Harte-Hanks group has been favorable to Johnson's candidacy for many years. Among others of that group which have endorsed Johnson for president are The Corpus Christi Caller and Times, The Paris News and the San Angelo Standard-Times.

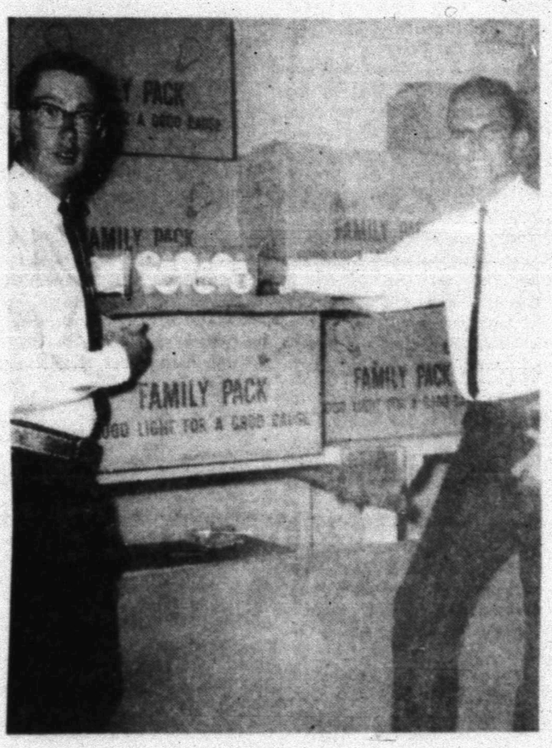

The papers in the Harte-Hanks group are either independent-Democratic or Democratic. The Caller and Times backed Dwight Eisenhower both times he ran, but backed the Democrats four years ago.

Five newspapers in the Fentress Newspapers group also have endorsed the Democratic ticket. They are the Austin American (independent), the Austin Statesman (Democratic), the Waco News-Tribune and Times-Herald (both independent-Democratic), and the Port Arthur News (independent).

The Sherman Democrat, politically independent-Democratic, has endorsed Johnson. It endorsed the Democratic ticket in 1960 also.

MRS. GRACE McCRACKEN, nursery coordinator for the First Baptist Church of Lubbock, will be one of six conference leaders for a leadership "Pow-Wow" at the First Baptist Church here at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday.

LIGHT BULBS FOR SALE—The Snyder FFA chapter will be holding their annual door-to-door sale Monday evening from 6 to 9 o'clock to raise money to finance their banquet and other chapter activities for the year. Club officers Charles Bell, president, and Jimmy Ray, treasurer, are shown packing the assortments that club members will be selling.

Heart Unit In Session

The Scurry County Heart Council resumed its regular schedule of monthly meetings (second Wednesday noon) last Wednesday, Joe Carroll, president, was in charge.

It was noted that the Texas Heart Association had approved the local unit's 1964-65 budget in the amount of $595. Two significant items in the budget are provision for the annual "Heart Research Day," to be held early in 1965, and a nurses' heart seminar. In addition, it was pointed out that of the $3,700 raised in Scurry County last year, 25 per cent or about $925, will go into heart research through the research programs of the American and Texas Heart Associations. The remaining funds go to support the American, Texas, and Scurry County Heart Association programs of education and community service and to provide the local group with the services of an area consultant of the Texas Heart Association.

In other business, the group named Pat Falls to head up a public education committee with responsibility for providing programs for interested clubs and organizations.

Texas Operators To Air Problems

By MAX B. SKELTON

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texas independent oil operators meet the next three days to discuss what they say are depressed economic conditions resulting, to a large degree, from oil imports.

The 18th meeting of the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association comes at a time the 6,500-member trade group has been under attack by some independents from other states.

Some members of the Texas group's nationwide equivalent—the Independent Petroleum Association of America — have charged the Texans with undermining the independents' ability to solve their Washington problem.

This charge brought a sharp denial from E. Bruce Street, who established stabilization of imports as the Texans' No. 1 objective when he became president of the group a year ago.

While many Texans are members of the national body, basic differences with oilmen from other areas frequently develop—over how the mandatory oil imports control program should be strengthened and over what the Texans call favored tax advantages available to American oil firms with major foreign interests.

The Texans long have plugged for some form of tariff or duty as the best ultimate solution to the imports problem.

Street suggested at a May mid-year meeting in New Orleans that the nationwide independents explore the possibility of a tariff on all imported oil. The association renewed its traditional plea for sharp reductions in import quotas and urged that other provisions of the mandatory controls program be strengthened.

Despite differences over how to solve their Washington problems, the two organizations agree independents across the country are being liquidated by crude oil price cuts on their domestic production while imports continue to climb.

They are in agreement on these Texas figures:

1. The average field price of a barrel of crude oil in Texas last year was $2.97, compared to $2.99 in 1962 and $3.10 in 1957.

2. Only 13,468 oil and gas wells were drilled in Texas last year, compared to 14,736 in 1962 and 19,981 in 1956.

3. Well completions last year included only 2,936 wildcat tests in previously unexplored areas, compared to 3,124 in 1962 and 5,124 in 1956.

4. Texas crude production currently is averaging about 2,660,000 barrels a day, compared to a record 3,333,000 early in 1957.

Street also has denied charges the Texas trade group or the liaison committee of cooperating oil and gas associations—representing 26 state and region independent organizations in 23 oil states—is interested in becoming a national organization or displace the 35-year-old nationwide association.

J. A. Mull Jr., the liaison committee chairman from Wichita, Kan., will speak at the Fort Worth meeting and will receive the Texans' annual recognition award for outstanding leadership.

Survey Made On Romance

Girls who receive sweetheart chests (that's the new name for the cedar chest) are very much ahead in the romantic game, according to a survey conducted by a manufacturer of the item. The survey reveals that 80 per cent of the young women who receive them from their beaux are brides within a year. And, what's more, 50 per cent of the girls getting chests, receive them from their beaux.

But, according to this company, which makes the study of love and romance a vital part of their business, nowhere is the man or woman allowed to decide the matter of marriage for himself. There is always a particular marriage form that is well ingrained in the culture and usually there is only one form that meets with social approval.

A spokesman, who has made a serious study of mating habits, said, "In looking for a mate, we seek what we need, and there are psychological needs as well as being attracted to someone physically."

What are several examples of psychological mating? There's the dominant wife and dependent husband relationship and the reverse of this — the dominant husband and dependent wife. Then there's the relationship in which the husband appears dominant but actually is dependent, and the wife, although she seems weak, really is strong.

The extrovert personality mating with the introvert is one of the most common blendings. The person who is inhibited in expression of feeling will seek out a mate who is highly expressive.

These examples illustrate the "theory of complementary needs." In mate selection each individual seeks for the person who gives the greatest promise of providing a maximum need gratification.

Probably the most important rule-of-thumb to keep in mind when selecting a marriage partner is similarity of cultural background. The more diversity in background there is, the more is the marital maladjustment.

ALL ABOUT BABIES

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

CONSIDERING MOTHER—

By TERRY MORRIS

Medical and Sociological Writer

It is increasingly recognized today that the mother's health — her mental and physical ability to cope with the demands of motherhood — has a direct influence on the well-being of the baby in its early years, and even beyond.

Motherhood produces physical and emotional strains in many women. These are often most serious among women who have had children more rapidly than desired and find themselves unable to care properly for them either physically, economically or both.

Psychologists report that many of their patients, sometimes more than half, are concerned because they have too many children, are afraid of having more and don't know what to do about it.

The children in such instances are innocent sufferers. The older ones may feel neglected. For younger children and babies, the tender mother - child relationship may be incomplete, denying the young the security they instinctively seek. The lack of a mother's focused time and attention may start a child on the road to emotional and disciplinary problems.

Doctors know that the mother's health may demand spacing children so that she is physically able to cope with the next one. There is growing agreement now among religious groups, family counselors and social workers that there are important and legitimate social, emotional and economic reasons for intelligent family planning.

The growing interest in the proper spacing of children has brought new developments. One was an extensive test in Puerto Rico, reported recently in the Journal of the American Medical Association. A new concept, an aerosol foam, emko, was tested and found to be highly acceptable and effective because of its ease of use with a minimum of instructions. Today, more than 40,000 families are using it there. Similar tests in clinics and with field programs in this country led to its general availability in the United States and in several foreign countries. Hospitals and family planning groups are employing it widely because of its ease of use, its relatively low cost and its lack of any side effects.

Now, with this new addition to the family planning area, the emotional and physical strains of too much motherhood can be more easily controlled and the prospect of bringing happy, loved children into the world enhanced.

When a recipe directs you to slice fresh mushrooms, cut through both the cap and stem. If the stems are not to be used, a recipe will usually say so.

A Casserole With Continental Flavor

Let's try something new in main dishes — a tempting casserole in the Swiss style, featuring two natural flavor companions, onion and Swiss cheese. This Continental Cheese Casserole is hearty and appetizing, the kind of dish you'll relish on a crisp fall day. Its fragrance speaks of good things like onion soup and Swiss fondue.

Continental Cheese Casserole is a wonderful choice for meatless days, but the family will enjoy having it any time. Nut-sweet Swiss cheese and pungent onions blend harmoniously with creamy celery soup and hard - cooked eggs. Bits of green pepper and pimiento add confetti colors and extra zest. For a finishing touch, slices of crusty French bread bake golden brown atop the casserole.

There's plenty of protein in this one - dish meal, thanks to the generous amount of shredded Swiss cheese and hard - cooked eggs. It's a study in contrast . . . mild and sharp flavors, creamy and crunchy textures. Slip the baking dish under the broiler just long enough to brown the bread slices at the end of the baking time.

This Continental Cheese Casserole is sure to tempt your family's appetite. It's a meal in itself; just serve a tossed salad and tall glasses of milk along with it.

Continental Cheese Casserole

4-6 servings

Shallow casserole, 1½ - quart
Preheated 350 degree oven
2 tablespoons butter
2 cups sliced onions
5 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
2 cups shredded Swiss cheese
1 can (10½ oz.) cream of celery soup
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon butter, softened
8 thin slices French bread

In a skillet melt butter; add onions and saute until tender but not brown. Spread over bottom of casserole; top with layer of egg slices; then with Swiss cheese. Combine soup, milk, green pepper, pimiento and pepper; stir until smooth. Pour over casserole. Butter bread; overlap slices on top of casserole. Bake 30 minutes; place under broiler to brown bread.

Rake Leaves Now

Wherever leaves are falling, keep them raked up — a good steel broom rake is ideal for this — so they will not mat and choke out the lawn or other plants beneath them.

In the vegetable garden clean up and destroy or bury the residues of any crops that are past. Then take your spading fork — or shovel — and turn over any empty areas and seed with winter rye. This will grow all or much of the winter, according to where you live. In the spring turn it under and it will supply the valuable humus needed by all garden soils, especially in much of the South where the humus is used up more quickly.

Well Informed Tourists Make Visit To Frick

BY MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK, (AP) — From one of the quieter, more sophisticated corners of the New York art world comes word that "we now have some very well-informed tourists in this country."

The remark was made by Harry D. M. Grier, who recently became director of The Frick Collection after 13 years with that museum.

Grier's observations are made from an almost unique vantage point. The Frick is different from most art museums, in several ways.

It is relatively small, but is famous for the superb quality of its pictures, virtually all of them Old-Masters. Many of its paintings have been reproduced in countless art books and its art reference library is known throughout the world.

As an educational institution it resembles a post - graduate course. It is a magnet for the pros and semipros who are interested in art history, for the cognoscenti, for European visitors. It also is a paradoxical situation about attendance. Most art museums fling their doors wide and entice as many viewers as possible, with changing exhibitions to stir up interest, and lectures in the popular vein for the uninitiated.

Contrariwise, the Frick is shy of publicity. It has no changing exhibits and its lectures are more advanced than most.

In recent years it has been wrestling with the problem of having more visitors than it can handle. Attendance runs about 800 persons a day, which is double the figure when Grier joined the staff. At any given moment, only a fraction of the 800 can be accommodated.

That is because the Frick is one of the few "house museums" (aside from historic houses) in the nation. It is literally the well-preserved private mansion on a wealthy art collector, Henry Clay Frick (1849-1919) the coal, coke and steel magnate.

It maintains the atmosphere of a wealthy patron's residence, with fresh flowers in the vases, with ticking clocks, pieces of furniture which might be bumped against, valuable scultures and porcelains which might be tipped over by a careless tourist. Big crowds would be a hazard.

"Anyone enjoys coming here," says Grier, "but those who have had the experience of seeing other museum and studying the history of art get the greatest amount of pleasure from it.

"The collection was built on the idea of excellence, and offers its greatest rewards to those people who are somewhat informed.

HARRY D. M. GRIER

"The Metropolitan Museum of Art is like a great encyclopedia. We are more comparable to a small anthology."

Grier, at 50 a scholarly, quiet type, came out of Penn State and Princeton in 1939 to join the Metropolitan's staff, until war service took him into the Counter Intelligence Corps and, at the end of the conflict, a fine arts liaison job in West Germany.

From 1946 to 1951 he was assistant director of the Minneapolis Institute of Art.

Remembering that city, he is conscious of the cultural surge of all America in recent years. Ticking off the many centers of art and music there, he said he knows Minneapolis residents who visit New York for "five straight nights at the Metropolitan Opera" and to make the rounds of the New York museums.

Grier said the increasing culture awareness and knowledge of the Frick's visitors would be difficult to measure objectively, but is a matter of observation over a period of years.

Speaking of the national trend toward greater museum attendance, he said it is significant that "Only a few years ago, not many publications concerned themselves with art. Now many newspapers, magazines and television stations devote a part of their efforts to this subject as a matter of course."

Time For Pot Roast

Autumn days sharpen appetites so stick-to-the-ribs foods like pot-roast frequently take their place in menus.

For the homemaker who is giving a wary eye to her food budget, favorite cuts to use are arm and blade, both cut from beef chuck or shoulder.

Blade cuts contain a long, slender bone while arm cuts have the small round bone.

The secret to good cooking in a pot-raost lies in the braising process: browning after dredging in seasoned flour gives good color as well as flavor. This is followed by slow cooking with a small amount of liquid to develop flavor as well as to give tenderness to the meat.

Herb Pot - Roast

3 to 4-pound beef arm or blade pot-roast
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 beef bouillon cube
½ cup hot water
2 bay leaves
½ teaspoon marjoram
½ teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon parsley flakes
⅛ teaspoon basil
Flour for gravy, if desired

Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge pot-roast in seasoned flour. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Dissolve bouillon cube in hot water. Add bouillon, bay leaves, marjoram, garlic salt, parsley flakes and basil to meat. Cover tightly and cook slowly 3 to 3½ hours or until meat is tender. Discard bay leaves. Thicken cooking liquid with flour for gravy, if desired. 6 to 8 servings.

Elegant Sauce For Sea Food

Butter sauce is always an elegant topping for lobster, shrimp, trout or perch. Here is an exceptionally good sauce, with a French flair.

2 tablespoons chopped parsley
½ cup butter
1 clove garlic, crushed
2 tablespoons chopped chives

Melt butter in sauce pan. Add garlic, chives and parsley. Heat until bubbly. Spoon over cooked shrimp, or broiled lobster, trout or perch. Makes about ½ cup.

Slice hard-cooked eggs crosswise so you have thin cuts; place each on a round of melba toast. And a dot of mayonnaise and a caper-rolled anchovy. Serve this delicious canape with tomato juice or some other before-dinner drink.

Plant Bulbs Now

September is the ideal month to plant Madonna lilies, fall crocus and colchicums and all the spring - blooming bulbs except tulips. Hold these back for at least another month and in the deep South, where you must wait still longer, plant only treated (pre-cooled) tulips if you expect blooms. Except where the soil is rocky, use a turf - plugger - bulb planter. It will save much time.

This also is a good time to feed roses (½ cup per plant) with any good low - nitrogen plant food. You can use the same material to feed your trees. To do this put the fertilizer into crow-bar holes made under the outermost tips of the branches of the trees, not near the trunks. It will build strong roots at this season and the results will show next year.

Spray camellias with an oil or any other spray recommended for the purpose to get rid of scale insects.

Where wild onions are troublesome in lawn, spray one or more times, as necessary, with 2-4, D to which a good sticker has been added. Do not use the same sprayer for anything else.

Next time you make buttered bread crumbs as a topping for a vegetable, try adding a little grated lemon rind.

Danger From Both Reds, U.S.

THE ANTAGONISTS. By William Haggard.

The British secret agent, Col. Charles Russell, is the master mind in Haggard's thriller, which is centered around a top scientist.

Dr. Alexander Gorjan, who knows more about microwaves —and their use in missile and anti-missile devices — than anyone else in the world, is from the Confederated Republic, a Communist country in Eastern Europe, which does not want to become a satellite of Russia.

Because of an internal political crisis in his country, Dr. Gorjan is hustled off the London so he won't become a pawn in a possible coup at home. Immediately, two Red agents try to assassinate him. And all the while his country's ambassador, Nikola Mitrovic, is trying to protect the scientist, the embassy's first secretary, Stevan Starc, is trying to get him killed.

The complication is that a minor Amercan diplomat, Mellion Lee, gets the notion that he can exploit Dr. Gorjan's talent for American uses. Being an amateur at the espionage game, Lee manages to mess up the intrigue.

So the crux is that Col. Russell faces the problem of extracting the scientist from a set of killers and a set of exploiters.

The opening scenes of the book seem a little foggy and not too skillfully contrived. But once the action piles up, there is an incisive cadence to the narrative.

Haggard often closes a chapter or an episode with a sharp plot - snapper, giving the reader a lift. He gets a certain deft sophistication into his word witchery.

Memories Of Bohemia, Broadway

GIRL FROM FITCHBURG. By Bernadine Kielty Scherman.

She grew up in Fitchburg, Mass., but ever since her college days, Mrs. Scherman has been a New Yorker. So here we have her reminiscences of life in the big city, starting just before World War I.

Her first glimpse of the city came in 1908, when as a college freshman she visited her roommate's family in a luxurious home on the banks of the Hudson. She saw New York "through a gilded keyhole," and caught a "shining view, and utterly misleading."

In contrast, when she finished college and got her first job in the city, she saw at first hand the slums into which hordes of poor immigrants were pouring, for she was engaged in a combination of social work and teaching.

Her liveliest chapters are about Bohemia and Broadway.

She lived in Greenwich Village in 1913, when a tiny colony of artists and writers formed a "spiritual haven" whose "span of idyllic life" began to fade into self-conscious artiness about 1915.

Even as a girl she had been an avid theatergoer in Boston, and from 1913 to the present day she never has been able to stay away from Broadway — its plays, its restaurants and its glamor.

And having combined the career of homemaker with writing and editing, Mrs. Scherman has a treasury of anectodtes about personalities in the publishing world.

Her book is a fond tribute to the New York City of an exciting era.

Thrifty Cuts Offer Good Fall Meals

If your budget has the blues, now that vacation time is over, consider some of the economical meat cuts that make good eating.

Corned beef brisket, which is often a sale item, is one of those meats that can be so delicious when it's simmered until tender.

Gild it with a glaze, stud with cloves and bake long enough to set the glaze for meat that's as pretty to look at as it's good to eat.

If pork is your preference, then smoked shoulder butt is ideal. This recipe is a variation of the old-fashioned "boiled" dinner for which corned beef brisket is often used.

Fruit Glazed Corned Beef

4 to 5-pound corned beef brisket
Water
1 jar (5 ounces) strained applesauce and apricots
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons brown sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
Whole cloves

Cover brisket with water. Cover tightly and simmer 3 to 4 hours or until tender. Remove meat and place in a shallow baking dish. To make glaze: combine applesauce and apricots, lemon juice, brown sugar and salt. Stud top of brisket with cloves. spread glaze on meat. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 15 minutes or until glaze is set. 8 to 10 servings.

Hearty Family Dinner

2 to 3-pound smoked shoulder butt
Water
2 bay leaves
1 medium onion, sliced
3 medium carrots, cut in strips
3 medium potatoes, uartered
1 small head cabbage, cut into 6 wedges

Cover meat with water. Add bay leaves and onion. Cover tightly and simmer 1¼ hours. Add carrots and potatoes and continue cooking 30 minutes. Add cabbage and continue cooking 15 minutes or until meat and vegetables are done. Discard bay leaves. 4 to 6 servings.

If you like to keep a bottle of catchup and one of chili sauce on hand, but do not use the condiments every day, store them in the refrigerator and they'll keep their bright red color.

MAKING PLANS — Ora Wells, Flora Hughes, Mary Starnes and Clara Carey are pictured above making final plans for the American Business Women's Association Fall enrollment party to be held Sept. 17. Information about the organization, as well as an entertaining program, is in store for members and their guests. A Hawaiian theme will be carried out in decorations and program.

ABWA Slates Party For Fall Enrollment, Guests

Members of the Scurry Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association are busily preparing for the annual Fall enrollment party to be held on September 17th at the home of Mrs. Flora Hughes, 2908 Thirty - fifth Street. Twice each year, carefully planned Hand of Friendship Teas and Enrollment Parties are programmed and presented to business women to acquaint them with the purposes of ABWA: (1). The improvement of employee - employer relationships; (2) The adancement of business women by serving business more efficiently; and (3) The encouragement to business women through education. The progressive history of the American Business Women's Association is told by its national and local chapter achievements.

The Association's national headquarters is located in Kansas City, Missouri, where it was chartered in 1949. The organization is designed to fill specific needs not met by other organizations. That it fulfills these needs is verified by its rapid growth. . .the national membership now approximates 28,000 women from all vocations.

Education is essential in our society and the Association emphasizes the sponsorship of scholarships for deserving, qualified young women. Last year Snyder's local chapter awarded scholarships totaling $425.00. Thus far in 1964, scholarship benefits totaling $350.00 have been awarded. In conjunction with this, chapters are privileged to make application for scholarships for carefully selected candidates who are already in college from the national educational fund of the Association, the Stephen Bufton Memorial Educational Fund, to which each chapter lends support.

Each of the five districts throughout the United States holds a District Meeting in the Spring. A National Convention is held in October each year.

The 1964 National Convention will be held in Minneapolis, Minnesota, on October 16, 17 and 18, and the Snyder chapter plans to have a delegate in attendance.

Business women of this area who are interested in self - improvement and in the status of women in the business world in general are encouraged and invited to communicate with Mrs. Lois Leech, local chapter president, by calling Hillcrest 3-5491 or Hillcrest 3-7931, to learn more about the association.

Rice Piquant

1 cup converted-type rice
½ cup light raisins
¼ cup pale dry sherry
¼ cup butter
½ cup pine nuts

Cook the rice according to package directions so it is tender and dry; keep hot. Wash raisins in hot water and drain; simmer them with the sherry, in a 6-inch skillet, until sherry is absorbed; add to rice. In the small skillet, heat the pine nuts in the butter; toss with hot rice and raisins. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Ever use bacon fat instead of butter for brushing over corn on the cob? Before you try this, be sure that your family really enjoys bacon flavor when added in such a way. Make sure, too, that the bacon fat you use is white and drained from bacon that has been cooked over very low heat.

Ox Joints Cooked As Stew

There's nothing like a rich, flavorful stew to give deep-down appetite satisfaction to a dinner.

One of the best cuts for this type of meal is ox joints. This meat, when cooked correctly is a gourmet entree, points out a widely known meat authority.

Tomatoes and water are the liuids for cooking. The seasonings will blend perfectly with the flavor of the meat as it cooks.

If ox joints are not available from your meat retailer, crosscut beef shanks may be substituted. They're thrifty, too.

3 pounds ox joints
3 tablespoons flour
¼ cup lard or drippings
1 cup water
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
½ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon celery salt
4 whole cloves
1 bay leaf
1-3 cup lemon juice
Four for gravy, if desired

Have ox joints cut into 2-inch pieces. Dredge in flour and brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add water, tomatoes, onion, garlic, salt, pepper, celery salt, cloves and bay leaf. Cover tightly and cook slowly 2½ hours. Add lemon juice and cook ½ hour longer. Remove cloves and bay leaf. Thicken cooking liuid with flour for gravy, if desired. 4 to 6 servings.

Krush Chided Democracy But Took New Ideas Home

EDITOR'S NOTE — Five years ago Khrushchev joked and scolded his way across the United States on a wild visit not soon forgotten. Between tirades he learned a lot from the "capitalist slaves," and communism has never been the same.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Nikita S. Khrushchev stormed the citadel of capitalism five years ago this week and probably never recovered from the experience.

By all appearances, he came to lecture and not to learn Americans, as he once phrased it, needed a bit of "good old Russian hell."

As it turned out, Americans didn't listen. Khrushchev did. He learned a good deal in 13 wild days of spectacular road show that left the citizenry shocked, stunned, amused and bewildered.

On Sept. 27, Khrushchev took off for home. Often in the five years since then there has been evidence Khrushchev had seen much, learned much and taken to heart much of what he learned.

He did not hesitate to tell his people they could learn from the United States and the capitalists. While his Stalinist critics boiled, Khrushchev unconcernedly revised Marxism-Leninism.

Communism with plenty of goulash on the side, Khrushchev had come to believe, could be much more palatable.

Anybody who had anything to do with Khrushchev's tour of the land of capitalism is not likely to forget it. He bubbled and joked, roared and insulted, scowled and threatened. He produced chaos in a cow pasture in Iowa and turned a San Francisco supermarket into a shambles. He bellowed at capitalists and scolded labor unions.

Khrushchev, although he seemed to have a whale of a time, probably was shaken by his first view of the United States. He had come for a close personal look at the U.S. eagle, to see how long it might be before he could step on its tail. His words later indicated he had learned to respect it.

"I have seen how the slaves of capitalism live," said the tourist from Kalinovka as his trip neared its end. "They live well."

Khrushchev had heard reports of America from other visitors and wanted to see for himself. For months he had dropped broad hints that he wanted to be invited. Finally it was arranged.

He made no secret of his low opinion of "the ruling circles" in America. The ruling circles, by his standard, included anyone in government, business, labor union leadership, the military and probably the whole middle class from lower to upper.

The Soviet press informed its readers the ruling circles were against the visit but were forced to invite the Kremlin leader because it was "the will of the people."

Khrushchev, with his wife, two daughters, a son-in-law and a large retinue, landed Sept. 15, happily bragging about the Soviet announcement that his Lunik I rocket had hit the moon. Some day, he said patronizingly, maybe the Americans might match the feat. A professed athiest, Khrushchev offered to "swear on the Bible" that Lunik I had not been timed to coincide with his arrival.

President Eisenhower met him and gave him a dinner that night. It was a white-tie-and-tails affair, but no capitalist would get Khrushchev into such an outfit. He showed up in business suit, white shirt and gray tie.

That was the beginning of a continuous spectacle which fascinated Americans for two riotous weeks.

Khrushchev soon justified his reputation as what the Russians call a "sponsobny chelovyek" — able fellow. He displayed nimble wit and agility with repartee as he peppered audiences from coast to coast with pungent comment. But though his hide may have looked tough, it proved thin. A fast man with an insult himself, he became insulted easily.

Khrushchev seemed to have the notion that the State Department had cooked up a plot to keep the masses from pouring out to cheer the prospective liberator of the world's workers. He suspected the capitalists of ganging up on him.

His first angry explosion came in Washington when he was asked on a television show why he hadn't done anything to oppose Stalin's excesses. He stormed that the question was "provocative." Asked about the Hungarian revolt, he angrily and inelegantly replied that the question "has stuck in some peoples' throats as a dead rat — they can't spit it out."

An obviously cool public reception in New York annoyed him. Crowds were curious and polite but mostly silent.

When businessmen asked him awkward questions at a New York dinner, he exploded and threatened to walk out. "I'm an old sparrow, so to speak, and you can't muddle me with your cries," he spluttered.

Like many a tourist, Khrushchev went to the top of the Empire State Building, said he had a good view of a fine city, but Moscow was better. At the United Nations, Khrushchev made his blockbuster propaganda proposal for "general and complete disarmament within four years." Then he was whisked to Los Angeles. The fun was just beginning.

Speaking at a civic dinner, Los Angeles Mayor Norris Poulson commented on Khrushchev's much-publicized remark about burying capitalism. Khrushchev blew up.

"It took me only 12 hours to get here and perhaps it would take less time to get back," he growled. Americans simply wouldn't understand that when he said "bury" he meant only that communism would outproduce capitalism. When Americans seemed to miss the point, he was like an irascible schoolmaster with a dull class.

But Khrushchev, a consummate actor, could change moods with dazzling speed. He had his Los Angeles hosts reeling. He amused them, badgered them, convulsed them and bewildered them. He went from solemn to jovial, from gay to enraged, in split seconds.

The tour's tight security annoyed him, as if it reflected on his dignity. Mrs. Khrushchev wanted to see Disneyland, so Khrushchev asked to go to Disneyland. He couldn't — not enough security. Khrushchev roared his protest: "What's the matter, are there gangsters in control there? Is it cholera?"

He put on a diverting show at 20th Century-Fox studios, where he claimed he was unimpressed by the filming of a scene from the musical "Can Can," chorus line and all.

"The face of humanity is more beautiful than its backside," snapped Khrushchev.

In San Francisco, Khrushchev met labor leaders and union members, and obviously was confused by them. They were workers, but they were asking the man who claimed to champion the world's workers embarrassing questions. He banged the table. He was the leader of Russia, he shouted, and he would decide what Russians wanted.

San Francisco felt the Khrushchev storm. The Soviet premier, always interested in the mysteries of the U.S. consumer economy, wanted to see a supermarket. His hosts took him to one.

Suddenly the place was a madhouse. Hordes of reporters and cameramen swept into the place in Khrushchev's wake. Pyramids of cans clattered to the floor. Shelves collapsed. Glass shattered. Counters crumbled. Women screamed, children wailed in terror. When Khrushchev, beaming happily, left the store, it looked as if it had been through another earthquake.

As California drew a sigh of relief, Khrushchev winged eastward to Iowa. In Des Moines, he sampled his first American hot dog and asked for another. "It's excellent," he said magnanimously. "Don't change the formula. We make good sausages but yours are better." Then he spotted his official escort, the patrician Henry Cabot Lodge, nibbling delicately on a hot dog.

"Finish your sausage, capitalist," Khrushchev ordered.

Then it was off to Coon Rapids for a gay old time at the farm of Roswell Garst. There was a nice, pleasant, homey lunch, and there was chaos in the cornfield.

Khrushchev, insatiably curious about corn, was inspecting the field. Swarms of journalists and cameramen followed him. Garst watched his corn being trampled and roared indignation. Happily, Khrushchev bellowed: "Turn the bulls loose on them!

A neighbor on horseback tried to help restore order.

"The Cossacks are coming!" shouted an irreverent reporter.

Off went Khrushchev to Pittsburgh, took a cigar from a factory worker and gave the man his wrist watch in exchange.

Then it was on to Camp David, President Eisenhower's Maryland retreat, for the most solemn moments of the tour.

The two most powerful leaders in the world met atop the mist-shrouded mountain and discussed their differences. The "spirit of Camp David" was born, only to fade away eight months later when Khrushchev, at the abortive Paris summit meeting, denounced Eisenhower as a "false friend" because of the U2 plane incident.

Union Vote All Day Job

DALLAS (AP) — Unionized government employes spent all of Thursday re-electing their two top officers, President John F. Griner and secretary-treasurer Esther F. Johnson.

Roll call voting decided contests for each office. This required a representative of each of the 1,000 lodges, or locals, in the American Federation of Government Employes (AFL-CIO) to stand and report the vote in his unit.

Griner defeated Adrian Roberts for president. Both are from Washington, D. C. Mrs. Johnson, also a Washington resident, defeated Irving Geller of New York City.

It was late Thursday night before the second roll call was completed.

Need For Excitement Leads To Arson

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — An 11-year-old boy, who said he "wanted to see the excitement of the fire trucks and the crowds" has admitted setting a fire in a church.

The youth, whose name was withheld, is reported by Police Lt. Ed Wright to have told Youth Aid Bureau officers that he set the fire which did an estimated $25,000 to $50,000 damage to the Chisholm Methodist Church eight days ago.

There are approximately 26,000 policemen in New York City. The department has 1,500 radio patrol cars, five helicopters, 12 launches and a cavalry of 250 horses and men.

Junior Editors Quiz on CATS

QUESTION: Are cats lovable? If so, why?

• • •

ANSWER: To most persons, they are. A cat is a most unusual animal. Unlike dogs, whose ancestors hunted in packs, each ancestral cat did his hunting in the forest by himself. Naturally, the cat family learned independence and self-reliance. But unlike most wild animals, this independence didn't destroy the cat's appreciation of domestic life with human beings. Perhaps this was because cats have such an appreciation of coziness and comfort. This is one of the reasons we like them — a cat's delight in home life makes home more delightful. Then too, cats are so clean, and, for animals, are exceptionally playful. Play with a cat and you will forget your problems and troubles. But don't get too free with him, she has a certain dignity and wants you to abide by the rules.

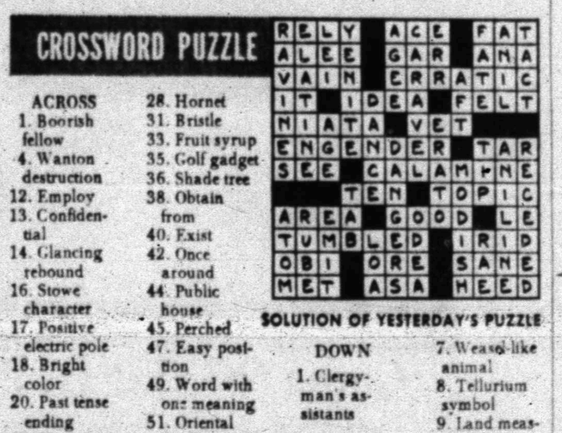

Perhaps the most lovable thing about cats is that they let us human beings clearly understand that they are fond of us — getting this message across in their own special language of purring and rubbing against our legs. Those who study animals say cats have exceptionally keen memories. If you have been kind to a cat, he remembers it, and in return gives you the gift of his own affection and friendship. 9-12

FOR YOU TO DO: Brush your cat carefully and thoroughly and see if he doesn't find a way to thank you for your care.

Library Notes

Many Scurry County citizens are enjoying the stereo and hi-fi record collections at the Scurry County Library. There are those who may not know that the library extends this lending service. Records are checked on library cards just as books are checked for a two-week period. There are a few exceptions as concerns the lending of records. Two of these exceptions are that the privilege of record loans is extended only to adults. Any adult's library credit card may be approved for records. Records may not be rechecked following the two-week loan period.

Among records added recently to the library's already large collection are a number of spoken records, folk music and instrumental both popular and classical.

Lee J. Cobb and Martin Gabel bring words beautifully to life from letters of the painter, Van Gough, to his brother, Theo. All the sad facts of Van Gough's life appear in these letters, which are not only his autobiography but also a catalogue of his paintings.

Edward Everett Hale's patriotic literature, "The Man Without a Country," is brought to life by Edward G. Robinson's recording. This remarkable story was written by Hale in such a wealth of detail, such exact quotations from documents, and with the appearance of being true, that generations of readers have given it a place among literature's finest works.

Actual voices and events of November 22nd to 25th, 1963, are recorded in an album titled, "Four Days that Shocked the World." This record encompasses events from President Kennedy's Fort Worth breakfast speech upto and including taps at Arlington cemetery. The complete story is told in three basic segments: Friday, the day of the assassination and the first remarks at Andrews Air Force Base of President Johnson; the second section is the Lee Harvey Oswald story from his capture through his murder by Jack Ruby; the third major element covers ceremonies and events in Washington, D. C., with the repose of the President's body in the White House and ceremonies in the rotunda of the Capitol building, through Monday with Mass, the procession to Arlington and graveside rites. This record creates a memorable document in sound of the most dramatic four days of this era. Sounds are the actual sounds that were reported on radio and television.

Narration by Chet Huntley and David Brinkley entwines voices and special events of 1963. In "A Time to Keep," great historic moements of the year are recorded. It is a historical account of special events and trends of the year just past.

Among new records now in circulation is "Badura - Skoda Plays Chopin." The pianist, a native of Vienna, made his debut in the U. S. in 1953, and has given several hundred concerts playing with all major symphony orchestras. This recital encompasses virtually the whole creative life of Chopin and includes such favorites as "Fantasie," "Barcarolle," and "Berceuse."

Goldmark's 'Rustic Wedding," is one of the new records. This recording is by the Utah Symphony Orchestra conducted by Maurice Abravanel. This orchestra is one of the distinguished musical organizations in the American West. This classic was first heard in Vienna in 1876. One prominent reviewer comments, "We are getting far away enough from the 19th Century now to be able to appreciate works of this kind. I wonder how long it will take the 21st Century to find the music of our own time quaint and lovable?"

Pianist Clifford Curzon presents Liszt in a late recording. Selections include Liszt's "Sonata in B Minor," "Liebestraum No. 3," "Valse Oubilse No. 1," "Gnomenreigen," and "Berceuse." These pieces were composed after Liszt had retired from the concert platform. Curzon is a noted English pianist.

When an album captures both the sounds and moods of a country as does Roland Shaw's recording, "Mexico!" It is worth having in a library collection. Shaw and his orchestra give brilliant splashes of musical color combined with native sounds and authentic rhythms peculiar to Mexico.

With present day trends emphasizing folk music, the Scurry County Library has added this type recordings. New records of U. S. folk music includes "Negro Prison Songs," from the Mississippi State Penitentiary, and "Country Blues," edited by Samuel Charters. Historical folksongs such as "Talking Dust Bowl," a group of Oklahoma Dust Bowl ballads by Woodie Guthrie, has been added. New selections of folk music around the world are "This is Hungary," by the Hungarian State Folk Ensemble and "Rumania, Rumania!" a Bartok collection.

In this day of hectic living, of strident noises and nervous tension, many new uses are being found for music. It is being used in hospitals as a means of soothing the nerves of thise who are ill, and in some places where nervous animals are being treated, with magic effects. It is also being piped into offices and factories to improve the efficiency of workers. The poet, William Congreve who said "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast," must have been right.

Entertain Easily With Spaghetti

Family dinner or special party dish? Spaghetti is one of the few foods with special virtues that serves either occasion.

There's nothing like a good spaghetti sauce recipe for bringing fame to a hostess. This one which uses both ground beef and bulk sausage meat is one of the most enticing of all.

If you're serving this spaghetti for family dinner, the savory flavor and aroma are all the invitation that's needed to bring them in at dinner time.

Two and one-half pounds of meat is used for 6 to 8 people. There's a nice blending of spices to enhance the flavor of both meat and spaghetti. Plentiful now, ripe olives add a novel interest to this dish.

Sausage Spaghetti

1½ pounds ground beef
1 pound fresh (bulk) pork sausage
1 clove garlic, minced
1 cup chopped onion
1 green pepper, chopped
2 cans (6 ounces each) tomato paste
1 can (1 pound 13 ounces) tomatoes
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon basil
¼ teaspoon chili powder
2 packages (7 ounces each) spaghetti
½ cup sliced ripe olives
Parmesan cheese, if desired

Cook ground beef, sausage, garlic, onion and green pepper until meat is lightly browned. Pour off drippings. Add tomato paste, tomatoes, salt, oregano, basil and chili powder. Cover tightly and simmer 30 minutes. Uncover and simmer 15 minutes. Cook spaghetti according to package directions. Drain, serve sauce over spaghetti. Sprinkle sliced olives over sauce and serve with Parmesan cheese, if desired. 6 to 8 servings.

Fresh, membrane-free orange sections make a delightful partner to honeydew or cantaloupe balls to serve as a dessert or a first course. If there's fruit sherbet in the freezer, you may want to add a small ball of this refreshing ice to the orange and melon serving.

Planting Time Is Here

With the coming of September, the fall rains, the warm soil and the cooling atmosphere combine to make ideal bulb planting conditions over most of the United States. Good root formation is encouraged while the tops are given little or no incentive to start growth. Tulips are the notable exception. Delay planting them until October say the gardening experts at Union Fork and Hoe Company of Columbus, Ohio.

This means that daffodils, hyacinths, crocus, scillas, snowdrops, snowflakes, grape hyacinths, psuchkinias and host of lesser known bulbs among the spring bloomers can be set out now. And, if you haven't already done so, you can still plant colchicums, fall crocuses and sternbergias — if you live in a mild climate like the Northwest, the hardy cyclamen, too. The first two, especially, can be counted upon to blooom this fall preovided you get them in early.

Planting Depths

Generally you can gauge planting depths by the size of the bulbs. Little ones like crocuses, snowdrops, etc., are best planted about 2 inches deep. Big ones like daffodils are best set 5 or 6 inches deep (to the bottom of the bulb). Tulips, again, are the exception. Plant them deep, especially in light, sandy soils — about 8 to 12 inches is best. This discourages multiplication of the bulbs and results in more years of flowering.

The deeper you prepare the soil the better the bulbs do. If you can prepare it three times as deep as you plant the bulb, so much the better. Also, plant all of one kind at the same depth so they will flower at the same time.

Preparation

When planting large bulbs in solid beds in new soil, take a good, sturdy shovel or spade, lift off the top soil one shovel-blade deep over the entire bed and pile it aside. Then take your spade or spading fork and improve the soil under it an equal depth. Mix in a 2 inch layer of compost and some good bulb food (or vegetable garden fertilizer) at the rate of 5 pounds per 10 by 10 foot square.

Rake the surface smooth and set your bulbs evenly. Then prepare the top soil the same way and return it to its original location. Plant small bulbs the same way, if you so desire, but not so deep or set them individually.

Green Butter Is Versatile Sauce

Very French in origin is a sauce called Green Butter. This American version was adapted by home economists. It should be kept cold and served "hard" on top of hot meat, potatoes or bread.

To make Green Butter, mix one-half cup softened butter with 2 tablespoons mixed chopped herbs such as parsley or chives.
