Just Between Us

Young Billy McCoy, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Kid McCoy of McLean, will have a lot to tell about his summer adventures during the school year just starting in Amarillo.

The 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Brady McCoy of Amarillo received some recognition when he left for Hawaii in June to visit his uncle, Dr. Kid McCoy, and family.

The fact that Billy had saved the money to make the trip was quite an accomplishment in itself.

He flew over in a commercial airliner which is sort of routine in this fast-moving age.

But the lad will remember the rest of his life that return trip.

Billy had indicated in June that he planned to work his way back home on a ship. And he did just that.

It was quite a vessel too—a 14-foot sailing yacht named the Kiocha. The trip back took four weeks and Billy recorded every incident of importance in his personal "log."

The Kiocha is owned by a Los Angeles, Calif. man and his wife. They made up the remainder of the three-man crew.

Dr. McCoy kept radio contact with Billy on the Kiocha for three days after the ship left Hawaii.

After that, however, the boat's radio wasn't strong enough to be picked up until three days before docking on the California coast. All went well, so there really was no cause for concern. But we can imagine the anxious times Billy's parents must have had.

The youth's grandmother told us last week she read part of his log. One entry she remembered in particular was that Billy was issued one cup of water to take a bath in.

"Why didn't they tie a line to you and let you take a bath in the ocean?" Mrs. McCoy asked Billy.

He explained that the almost ever-present sharks made this a bit hazardous.

Billy is a junior this year at Tascosa High School in Amarillo.

Wallace Rainwater and his wife apparently have found that new home they've been looking for the past several weeks.

The couple sold their farm here and virtually all their belongings, and first thought they would establish residence in California.

A trip out to Los Angeles however, quickly changed their minds. So after traveling and looking for 12,000 miles, they finally settled on a place in Uvalde, southwest of San Antonio.

Back for a visit, Wallace told us last week about this "paradise." The home they purchased had 14 peach trees, two fig trees, one orange tree and two peach trees. Wallace says Uvalde "is the prettiest town we found."

Don't they wish they could!

We're told that a song was dedicated last week over the Shamrock radio station to A. L. (Chub) Fuller of McLean.

Title of the song: "Hold that Tiger."

Weg went football teams stage emblems many times before, but never more thrillingly than the Tiger's second half recovery at Panhandle last Friday.

The victory was even more impressive for McLean because of those almost flawless last two quarters. Not even Derral Davis, whose job it is to find mistakes and correct them, could see much to complain about.

While only a few of the boys are published for their actions in (See JBU, Page 8)

STILL TRYING: The Texas Highway Department has added two methods to its continuing anti-litter campaign: A cartoon character printed on its official highway travel map and revised highway signs reminding drivers they can be fined from $10 to $200 for littering. The cartoon character, "The Litter Longhorn," pleads with the public to "help stomp out litter." The sign emphasizes that it is against the state law to litter. In 1962 the Highway Department had to spend $1.4 million to pick up litter, an increase of about $100,000 over 1961.

Second-Half Rampage Sends Tigers Over Panhandle 21-8

McLean's Tigers used the half-time rest to get control of themselves, then roared back to overwhelm the Panhandle Panthers there last Friday night 21-8. This Friday will see the Bengals clashing at Duncan Field with the Groom Tigers at 8 p.m.

For the Groom contest, McLean should be at near full strength. Coach Derral Davis said Wednesday.

However, Bob Patton, the Tigers' outstanding lineman, will see little action because of pulled shoulder ligaments.

Davis said Patton will be used for kicking purposes only in the game, in order to give his shoulder time to mend properly.

At Panhandle, Patton was credited with six unassisted and 12 assisted tackles.

Infractions of the rules kept McLean from rolling up a much bigger point margin over the Panthers. Three Tiger touchdowns were called back because of penalties.

Fullback Dickie Crockett turned in his usual top performance in ground gaining. The 185-pound junior carried 20 times during the game for a net total of 142 yards. In addition he threw two completed passes.

Halfback Jim McCarty carried 11 times for 34 yards; Quarterback Johnny Fuller 10 times for 27, and Halfback Gary Joe Graham 10 times for 13.

The host Panthers held an 8-0 lead at halftime, but the Tigers took complete command after intermission.

Coach Davis said the Tigers permitted Panhandle "to get outside of us in the first half," and McLean's "pursuit also was slow."

From the kickoff opening the third quarter to the end of the game, however, there were few defensive mistakes made by the Bengals.

Got Their Assignments

"Everyone got his assignment on almost every play in the second half," Davis said.

In addition to the defensive work done by Patton, Guards Ronnie Hunt and Mike Johnson looked fine on defense, as did Centers Dwight Hathaway and Mike McCall; the big fullback, Crockett, and End Eddy Windom.

The defensive power of McLean is shown in the statistics. Panhandle managed to net only 37 yards rushing throughout the game, with most of this coming in the first half.

This compares to 206 yards netted by the Tigers.

McLean completed four of nine passes, while the Panthers connected on three of nine. There were no interceptions. McLean picked up 57 yards through the air, compared to Panhandle's 21.

TD Cancelled

McCarty hauled in a well executed pass from Fuller for 20 yards early in the second quarter and stepped into the end zone. But a backfield in motion penalty nullified the play, and the drive ended when Panhandle recovered a fumble on its own 24.

Patton attempted to punt out of trouble from the McLean 13 a (See FOOTBALL, Page 7)

Rattler Killed At Home of Citizens

Mrs. Lee E. Steel, 303 Cypress, has a word of warning to other residents this week: Beware of rattlesnakes!

An 18-inch-long rattler was killed by Mrs. Steel's husband after their daughter narrowly missed stepping on the snake, which was lying on a concrete slab connecting the Steels' house and garage.

The snake, which had two rattlers and a button, made no effort to strike. Mrs. Steel said it neither coiled nor rattled as her husband used a hoe to chop his head off.

This is the time of year snakes search for warm places, and people should be cautious when walking in weeds, Mrs. Steel warned.

Winterize' Vehicles

Sgt. Wilson announced that now is the time to have all motor vehicles "winterized;" that is, to have them safety inspected at one of the approved inspection stations to determine that all parts are in top condition.

The new 1964 vehicle inspection sticker, is now available. All vehicles registered in Texas are required to be inspected once each year.

Motorists are being urged to have their vehicles safety inspected to avoid the rush later on.

Sgt. Wilson said that the vehicle inspection program has proved to be a valuable tool in reducing accidents in Texas.

$96,767 BUDGET IS OK'ED FOR CITY

FISCAL YEAR WILL BEGIN ON OCT. 1

The McLean city commission has approved the 1963-64 general budget calling for expenditures of $96,767.99, down from the $101,619.11 it took to operate the city the past year.

The annual budget submitted to the commission by Mrs. Stella Lee, city secretary, anticipates general fund revenue for the coming year of $104,369.88, compared to the $105,669.88 for 1962-63.

Fiscal year for the city government begins on Oct. 1 and ends on Sept. 30.

In a letter accompanying the budget, Mrs. Lee said that "even though there is very little change in the budget, I am sure the much needed water system repairs and changes can be made."

More Water Storage

Plans are being made by the city to install a new and larger water storage tank to assure an adequate supply through the summer months.

The city commission also plans to test one water well not now in use, and either begin using it or drill another well.

The well was abandoned several years ago because water from it had developed a bad taste.

Receipts from the sale of gas produce more than half the city's total general fund revenue. Anticipated revenue from this source for 1963-64 is $55,000.

$25,000 From Water

Water collections are expected to add an additional $25,000. Revenue from other sources:

Street and alley rental, $2,310.18; license and permits, $25; sewer collection, $3,600; refuse collections, $4,900; miscellaneous income, $12,484.70; state tax collections, $1,000.

Total estimated income from tax sources is $15,485.41.

.64 Inch of Rain Falls Past Week

A soaking .60-inch rain fell on McLean Sunday, giving range and crop lands a valuable late-summer drink as fall weather nears.

Another shower on Tuesday added .04 inch to local rain gauges, bringing to 13.59 inches the amount received here to date this year.

By the same date in 1962 the city had recorded 15.63 inches, with 3.96 of this coming in wet September.

Temperatures were dropping some the past week, the low being 58 degrees recorded on Saturday and the high an 89 last Thursday.

Texas Flags Now Fly Over Schools

Texas State Flags are flying this year from masts in front of the McLean schools.

Flying of the Texas Flag above every school in the state was made mandatory by the last Legislature, according to Robert L. Green, McLean High School principal.

The Texas Flag flies beneath the United States Flag on poles in front of the high school and grade school buildings.

Legislation passed by the state Legislature requires that schools fly the Texas Flag if they are to receive funds from the state.

CUBS DOWNED BY SHAMROCK

Though turning in several sparkling plays, the McLean Junior High Cubs went down to defeat 14-0 in their 1963 debut with Shamrock here last Thursday.

Shamrock struck for its first score late in the third quarter, then added the two-point conversion.

Early in the fourth period, the visitors tallied another TD to end the scoring.

Top runners for Coach Bob Schneider's Cubs were Jimmy Hester, Steve Fuller, Mike Simpson and Butch Davis.

Fine defensive work held the heavier Shamrock gridsters back from the goal line through most of the night.

The Cubs will rest this week before playing host to Clarendon at 7 p.m. next Thursday at Duncan Field.

GRIMSLEY-SMITH VOWS ARE SOLEMNIZED IN LOCAL CHURCH

The Church of Christ in McLean was the scene on Saturday, Aug. 24, at 6:30 p.m. for the wedding of Miss Cheryl Grimsley and Carey Don Smith.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Grimsley. The groom is the son of Mrs. Gladys Smith and the late Ruel Smith.

Jay Channell, minister, performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with tiered candelabra holding lighted cathedral tapers and baskets of white gladioli and pom poms.

Wedding music was by a trio composed of George Saunders, Linda Guill and Janice Saunders and soloist, Ida Barbosa, all of McLean.

Selections used were "Because," "Whither Thou Goest," "Bridal March" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of bridal white peau de soie with a scalloped neckline edged with crocheted satin ribbon, long, tapered sleeves which ended in petal points over her hands, and a bouffant skirt with a deep hemline tuck which swept into a chapel train.

Her shoulder-length veil of French illusion was held by a Queen Anne's coronet of orange blossoms outlined with seed pearls. She carried an arrangement of lilies of the valley and a white orchid atop a white satin-covered Bible.

Miss Linda Grimsley of Chicago, Ill., was her sister's maid-of-honor and Mrs. David Woods of College Station, also a sister of the bride, served as matron-of-honor.

They wore sleeveless street-length dresses fashioned with fitted bodice of deep pink velveteen and skirts of shaded pink. Complementing their outfits were dyed-to-match headpieces with short veils and shoes and short white gloves. They carried bouquets of white pom poms.

Sheri Haynes, niece of the groom, was flower girl and wore a dress of white organza with a full skirt and matching headpiece and veil and carried a decorated basket of flowers.

Best man to the groom was Kenny Willingham. Groomsmen were Don Cash, Jerry Smith, Bob Weaver, Jim McDonald and Gene Bench.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Grimsley wore a two-piece pink silk shantung dress with black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

The groom's mother wore a brown linen dress with beige accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The serving table was laid with a beige lace cloth with a pink underskirt and decorated with bouquets of pink flowers and candelabra.

Wedding cake and punch were served by Linda Guill and LaVon Watson.

Marilyn McIlroy registered the guests.

For a wedding trip to points in Colorado the bride wore a dress of light blue linen with a cut-work embroidered skirt, white accessories and the orchid corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of McLean High School and is employed at Marie Foundations. Her husband is a 1960 graduate of McLean High School, attended WTSU and served in the U. S. Army. He is presently employed at the Triangle Ranch Feed and Cattle Co.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Vester Smith and Linda and Steve, Mrs. Edna Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Riddle and family, Mrs. LaFuma Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Caldwell, Miss Sharon Spain, John Evans, Mr. and Mrs. David Crockett, Miss Sue Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Howe, Mrs. Juanita Brooks, Calvin Fraser and Carolyn Hugg.

Miss Marilyn McIlroy registered the guests and escorted them to the brides table.

The serving table was set with crystal appointments and an arrangement of mixed flowers flanked by white candles.

Miss Barbara Smith served the guests punch and cookies.

The bride-elect received many lovely and useful gifts.

An amazing group of young octogenarians, the Spanish-American War Veterans of Massachusetts, surprised doctors at the Boston Veterans Administration outpatient clinic who checked them out expecting to find them tall and lean, but discovered they were shorter and rounder than average . . . and healthier.

RESEARCH: These men are helping to shape Texas A and M's future role in agricultural research and education. Left, David Baumgardner of Route 1, Wheeler, has carried out wheat variety demonstrations for six consecutive years. Center, Charles D. Jackson, left, Wheeler County agricultural agent; Duane L. Scott, farm demonstration assistant, Wellington, and Dean Tipps of Briscoe check fertility response of native grasses. Right, Lynn L. McKowan, ASCS office manager, and W. B. Hooser, county agricultural agent, both of Hall County, review progress made in control of mesquite and other brush.

A & M RESEARCH-EXTENSION PROGRAM HAS A NEW LOOK

A new trend in agricultural research and education is taking shape in Texas, reports Gray County Agent Foster Whaley. The forecast is for fewer but better equipped experiment stations and more close-to-home demonstrations to test research findings locally, he added.

Setting the pace for things to come is a unique organization of farmers, ranchers, businessmen, civic groups and agricultural agencies called the Northwest Texas

Research-Demonstration Program. Its activities are centered in a three-county area of the Texas Panhandle.

The movement started in 1956 when Collingsworth and Hall County residents asked Texas A and M University to establish a local experiment station. No one questioned their need because the nearest research units were about 100 miles away where different climatic and soil conditions prevailed.

"But A and M maintains 20 sub-stations and nine field laboratories in addition to the main station at College Station, and some officials felt we already were spread too thin," the agent said.

Instead, it was decided to initiate an intensive series of on-the-farm research demonstrations to run for a three-year period. This eliminated the need for costly new facilities and additional technical personnel that a new sub-station required, Whaley explained.

Sponsored jointly by the Extension Service and Experiment Station, the Northwest Texas Research Demonstration Program was formally organized in 1967. Hall County joined the effort, and the program got off the ground in March with the employment of Duane L. Scott, a young Collingsworth County farmer, as farm demonstration assistant.

The program operates within the framework of local program building committees, but everyone is in the act. Farmer-rancher advisory groups keep research scientists at Chillicothe, Lubbock and Bushland informed of problems that need attention and help select suitable demonstration sites to evaluate new developments for local use.

USDA and state experiment station scientists, with the help of extension subject matter specialists, develop and lay out on-the-farm test plots. Soil conservation districts provide many items of scarce equipment and 20 commercial firms joined together to provide needed seed, fertilizer and herbicides. Bankers, service clubs, Chambers of Commerce, Farm Bureau, vocational agriculture teachers, county agents and local USDA personnel lend a helping hand.

Last year, 27 demonstrations were carried out on 23 cooperating farms. In them, farmers learned—and taught their neighbors—to knock out bindweed and Johnson grass, control mesquite, lick the alfalfa aphid, use fertilizer efficiently and select the best hybrids and varieties for efficient crop production.

The program also has shown that A and M officials were on the right track in seeking a more efficient way to serve the people of Texas. Plans are now underway to select key locations representing major crop producing areas, to develop them into well equipped, completely staffed research-extension centers and to expand on-the-farm research demonstrations.

No wholesale abandonment of field stations is planned, the agent said. Some will close while others likely will be retained for out-field experiments and demonstrations. Technical personnel now at these stations will be used to strengthen staffs at the new research-extension centers.

"Our hats are off to the progressive people of Collingsworth, Wheeler and Hall Counties," says R. E. Patterson, A and M's dean of agriculture and experiment station director. "This new approach which they have pioneered so successfully will make it possible for us to utilize available funds, personnel and other resources more effectively in the years to come."

THE MAYFLOWER CONTRACT

From the dawn of Western thought, men like Socrates have wondered what claims the laws have on us—aside from pure force.

Some thought men had contracted to set up and obey the laws to keep the peace: "You don't hurt me and I won't hurt you." But until 1620 at least, nobody had ever seen men enter such a social contract.

True, Socrates in return for the good Athens had done for him, said that he had entered an implied, unwritten contract to obey her laws, even the unjust judgment against him to take the hemlock and die.

Still, not until the Mayflower band 20 centuries later, sailed over to settle in the new world did we get a social contract actually signed and sealed.

It comes down to us in 198 vital words, the granddaddy of all written constitutions, as well as a document in the history of liberty under the law. Its gist:

"We . . . do by these presents solemnly and mutually, in the presence of God, and one another, covenant and combine ourselves together into a civil body politic, for our better ordering and preservation . . . and by virtue hereof to enact, constitute, and frame such just and equal laws, ordinances, acts, constitutions, and offices from time to time as shall be thought most meet and convenient for the general good of the colony, unto which we promise all due submission and obedience. In witness whereof we have subscribed our names at Cape Cod on the 11 of November . . ."

Much took place in the next 168 years. But in 1788 the new states wrote and ratified the world's first and now oldest and most successful constitution. Why do men obey the laws? It says: "We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution of the United States of America."

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

MOBILE SKY REVUE: Featuring daring acrobats in death-defying circus acts high above the Mobil stage will be this sky revue presented at 2 and 7:30 p.m. daily throughout the 1963 State Fair of Texas, Oct. 5-20, in Dallas. Overseeing each performance is Big Tex, who towers 12 feet above the crowds who watch the free shows at the State Fair.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

It is a matter of record that over 80% of the nations' independent business proprietors, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, want a reduction in federal spending to accompany a tax cut.

So immediately, there arises the question, "where can expenses be cut?"

While of course the most drastic leak is the foreign give away programs which have already cost over $100 billion and which are being attacked by men like Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, there are thousands upon thousands of leaks from the U. S. Treasury.

It would probably take a finely printed book several feet thick to list all these leaks, but Rep. Homer Aboe of Ohio recently reported on a few.

For example, the Federal government, which means the taxpayer, is shelling out $17,500 for a study on alcohol preference in rats.

This could be real big. For centuries mankind has really not known if rats prefer bourbon, scotch, brandy, rum, or some other beverage. And perhaps out of this study will come definitive proof as to just how dry a martini rats really prefer. And who knows that this study is being made in the nick of time, before dissatisfied rats of the nation unite in a mass protest.

© National Federation of Independent Business

Then Rep. Aboe points to an item of $16,800 being spent on termite social behavior.

Already this will astound some taxpayers who have never realized that termites have any social manners, especially when eating up buildings.

Then he also found an expense of $29,300 being spent for a study of the mammal fauna of the highlands of Ethiopia. It is presumed this study is confined to animal fauna, but this point is not clear.

Then there is $64,500 being spent on the behavior and ecology of the wandering albatross.

This is a larger figure than the other items quoted, but it is presumed that this is due to the fact that these albatross do wander, thus will require much more travel expense to follow them around as they wander.

Some $15,200 is being spent to study society in ancient Babylonians. $36,800 to study social behavior of ants which is presumably being done to learn why they are so fond of other people's picnics, $16,900 being spent for a revision of earthworm classifications, doubtless programmed under the slogan "Get to Know Your Earthworms Better," and so on down a long list.

All is paid for by taxes.

Inasmuch as all ancient Babylonians are long gone dead and not needing jobs, money really prefer. And who knows that this study is being made in the nick of time, before dissatisfied rats of the nation unite in a mass protest.

WALTER ROGERS REPORTS

AID INCREASES TO STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENTS

The federal subsidy to state and local governments continues to increase, pointing up another area in which the United States is moving in the direction of centralized control.

Pineched by their own revenue and tax problems, states and cities keep the pressure on Washington to turn back a portion of the largess piled up by the federal tax collector. They've found the mood in Washington, both in the departments and in Congress itself, increasingly willing to lend a helping hand.

I was most interested to see a study of federal grants-in-aid—money passed along to states, cities and individuals by the federal government's proliferating programs. Compiled by the authoritative Congressional Quarterly, the study showed that in 1962 grants-in-aid payments for the first time in history topped $10 billion.

Of the $10.2 billion so distributed in that year, $7.8 billion went to state and local governments and $2.4 billion went to individual citizens.

Texas, fifth largest state in population, ranked third among the states in the amount of money flowing back from the federal treasury.

The total grant-in-aid share for Texas was $309,295,000—or $49 for every Texan. With a 4.81 per cent share of the total money allocated throughout the United States, Texans had paid into the treasury 4.28 per cent of all federal taxes.

The Lone Star State's balance between taxes paid and taxes returned in grants-in-aid was thus roughly equal. Not so in many states.

New Yorkers, for example, bore 13.54 per cent of the federal tax burden and were granted 7.10 per cent of total assistance. Californians paid 11.16 per cent of total federal taxes and received 8.91 per cent of total grant-in-aid money.

Because of the relative lack of concentrated and tax remunerative heavy industry, southern, mountain and plains states received more in grants-in-aid than they paid in federal taxes. However, it is true that the big industrial states are the major beneficiaries of enormous federal contracts, such as those for defense.

Today, the federal government is spending more than twice as much in these aid programs as it was 10 years ago. In 1953, the federal grant-in-aid program amounted to six per cent of the total federal tax take compared with the current 11 per cent rate.

Where will it end? States are now so heavily financed by federal grants, their programs are so dependent upon federal support, their program policies are so fully controlled by the dictates laid down in Washington that the state governments are, in many respects, mere shadows of Washington authority.

But to those citizens who would lay the blame for this completely at the door of the national government, I would say this: States, local governments and individual citizens have campaigned vigorously in behalf of these programs.

As an example, the heaviest lobbying for the current Domestic Peace Corps proposal has come from heavily-populated states and cities seeking additional money and manpower to battle public welfare problems.

McLean WSCS Has Birthday Luncheon

The WSCS of the McLean Methodist Church met for a birthday luncheon on Tuesday, Sept. 10, in Fellowship Hall.

Members who have birthdays during this quarter of the year were seated at the head table, which was centered with a birthday cake and the "Little Brown Church," which is a bank for the birthday pennies.

The program, led by Mrs. Pearl Bogan, was opened with the group singing familiar hymns, accompanied by Mrs. O. G. Stokely at the piano.

Subject for the devotion was "The Call of Christ," with all those present participating.

Mrs. J. L. Andrews presided over the business session.

Those attending were Mesdames Charles Cooke, J. E. Kirby, Alice Wilson, Cliff Day, Andrews, George Humphreys, Stokely, Ben Brown, Bob Black, Brown, Bob Massey, Bogan, Lurah Rhodes, Paul Mottel, Irene Ledbetter and J. L. Hess.

The WSCS is meeting jointly with the Guild for the study of Asia, which is being taught by Mrs. Clay from Shamrock.

Because veterans are living longer than was predicted in the actuarial tables on which the rate of their GI insurance premiums was determined by law, the Veterans Administration returns their overpayments to them in the form of dividends.

NEWS OF CONSERVATION

R. J. Bradley completed a diversion on his farm three miles south of Pampa. He reported that the recent rains had filled his pit-type pond. The pond is 16 feet deep.

He is also in the process of completing a waterway and standard terraces. Bradley is doing this work under the Great Plains Conservation Program.

Field borders were checked for Bill Stockstill. This is the best method for watering such crops as wheat, alfalfa and bermuda grass. Borders were also staked out for Arlie Carpenter and Charley West.

Row direction was staked for W. D. Powers. W. D. recently completed an irrigation well on his farm four miles south of the Celanese plant.

Stan Kretzmeier is in the process of completing an irrigation well on his farm northwest of Pampa.

The recent heavy rains east and south of Pampa pointed out the need for conservation work. Where conservation practices such as stubble mulching, diversions and terraces were being carried out and maintained, little or no erosion occurred.

Severe erosion occurred on some farms where no conservation work was being carried out, and where conservation practices were not being maintained.

If conservation practices such as diversions, terraces and ponds are going to be effective they will have to be maintained at their designated height.

Marvin Webster recently rebuilt some of his terraces southwest of Pampa.

An old mountaineer and his son were sitting in front of the fire smoking their pipes, crossing and uncrossing their legs. After a long silence, the father said, "Son, step outside and see if it's a-rainin'."

short time later, and the ball struck a Tiger player to give Panhandle possession on McLean's 11.

It took four plays for Quarterback David Slagle to ring up the Panhandle TD, and 5:29 remained in the first half when Halfback Ronnie Edwards ran across for the two-point conversion.

McLean was moving well downfield with a first down on the Panhandle 18 when time ran out. The determined Tigers took complete charge when they returned to the field for the second half.

Move From McLean 26
 After two series of downs—one each by McLean and Panhandle—the Tigers were in possession on their 26.

McCarty found an opening to the 46, and the locals were on their way.

Graham made a yard to the 47, but Fuller was stopped on the 46. Crockett high-stepped his way to a first down on Panhandle's 47; Fuller went to the 42 and then the 38, and Crockett got another first on the 37.

Graham hauled in a pass on Panhandle's 26 for another first down, and McCartney lost two to the 28. In two carries Crockett moved to the 11 for a first and 10, and McCartney picked up three to the eight.

A pass to Graham in the end zone failed, and Panhandle was offside to put the line of scrimmage on the three. At this point another pass to Graham was good for the touchdown.

Crockett galloped across for the two points to tie the score at 8-8. Just 2:30 remained in the third period.

On the ensuing kickoff, McCartney recovered a Panhandle fumble on the Panthers' 25.

Fuller fired a touchdown pass to Windom on the very next play, just 23 seconds since McLean had recorded its first score. But a penalty for illegal procedure again nullified the six-pointer.

Crockett struck to the Panhandle 24, McCartney failed to gain and Crockett smashed to the six for a first down.

The bruising fullback didn't need the four downs to get across, though, as on the very next play he rammed across the right side for the score, with 17 seconds remaining in the third period.

This time Patton kicked the extra this and other Tiger games, all deserve an awful lot of credit. Friday's victory was truly a team effort.

But we seldom have seen such a tremendous runner as Dickie Crockett or such a defensive standout as Bob Patton.

Patton has that ability to spot the development of a play immediately and get to the point where he can make contact. This is true even though the opposing team is trying to shy away from him because of his known aggressiveness.

We asked Davis to tell us why Crockett is so successful in picking up yardage when needed. He's our "bread and butter" ball carrier, and the opponents know Dickie will be carrying a majority of the time.

Still, they seem unable to bring him down before he has bitten off another chunk of their territory.

The coach explained that Crockett has such near-perfect balance and such power in his hips and legs that many times when an opponent hits it helps our 185-pounder more than it hinders him. Dickie will pause briefly while other defenders dive by him, then continue on his way.

It's no wonder the coach's eyes light up when you mention that Dickie is only a junior this year.
