"TEMPEST IN TEAPOT" SAYS KAY OF TENN. MONKEY CASE

Wichita Judge Pays His Respects in Decided Manner to Fight

ALL FOR ADVERTISING

Bible Class Told That Case Is Primarily For Publicity

Asserting that "there hasn't but one man struck my fancy over there, and that's the lawyer that quit the case because they are trying to make too much publicity out of it," Judge John C. Kay in his Sunday Bible class lecture yesterday morning paid his respects in no uncertain terms to the Scopes evolution trial in Dayton, Tenn. He characterized the whole thing as "a tempest in a teapot," which was being exploited for advertising purposes.

His address in full, heard by 296 persons, was as follows:

"I will talk to you a little bit about a topical subject this morning, that is, this little trial they are having in Tennessee. There hasn't but one man struck my fancy over there, and that's that lawyer that quit the case because they are trying to make too much publicity out of it. That is my kind of a man. I am going to write him a letter. The newspapers—after them the magazines, will try to make a great thing out of the trial, which is a mere "tempest in a teapot." It won't settle anything and won't help anything; but it may start a lot of trouble in this country. The men who are in charge of it, as it seems to me, are running it for advertising purposes. I don't mean the court, but the others in charge.

Need Two Kinds.

"Now this lesson this morning is an example of conservatism—sticking to the old things. People in the world are divided into two classes: On the one hand is the strong, daring, adventurous man who is willing to try something new. He is the kind of fellow that has settled in the west. He is willing to take chances. He is willing to listen to a new project, and willing to adopt a new scheme. He is willing to put everything to the test and dare to win or lose it all. On the other hand there is a class of men throughout the world who are afraid of the future, afraid of the new, that preach to you about the constitution of the fathers, and the rules and regulations of the fathers, and seek out the old paths and walk in them, and hesitate

West Texas Chamber of Commerce Warning to Farmers that Bankruptcy Inevitable if 16,000,000 Bales Grow

R. Q. Lee says Texans are gambling on crop failure in other states and points out old south states have had no drouth nor insect pests this season.

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Record New Stuff.

HALL COUNTY is in the lower Panhandle. It is said to be almost one solid cotton field. Hall county farmers have gone back to the one crop idea. They planted all their broad acres to the fleecy staple this year. Col. R. Q. Lee is the president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. He is one of the successful men of West Texas. He does not believe in depending on cotton alone. This is what many of the farmers of the west are doing this year.

Cotton made them wealthy last year. This was because a failure of the crop in the old south states made a high price possible for Texas cotton. This year the increased acreage in West Texas is something tremedous. In the old south states the cotton crop is not to be a failure this year. East of the Mississippi river there has been no drouth and insect pests are not in evidence.

Gambling on Failure.

Col. Lee is of the opinion that Texans are gambling on a crop failure in other states when they depend upon cotton exclusively and fail to plant feedstuffs and foodstuffs. Already the government has predicted a crop of more than fourteen million bales this year, this despite the severe drouth in many Texas counties where the cotton crop is almost a complete failure.

Colonel Lee says if a sixteen million bale crop is produced bankruptcy will descend upon Texas and a calamity such as struck the state a few years ago will be experienced. He presents facts and figures showing that Texas sends half her wealth out of the state for food and feed, that should be produced on Texas farms and he advocates irrigation and intensive farming as the only safeguard for future prosperity.

He advocates irrigated gardens or irrigated truck patches on every Texas farm, holding that it is almost criminal for a county with every advantage as a feed producer to ship in feed. In 1924 Hall county shipped 500 cars of feed. This year the land was planted to cotton and those who are in a position to know say that feed will have to be shipped in to feed the farm animals of this great county of the lower Panhandle.

Poultry Is Urged.

Colonel Lee is a citizen of Eastland county and in that county the farmers and their wives have gone into the poultry industry on a large scale and are unable to supply the damand for eggs and broilers. Indeed, he says everywhere in his section the poultry industry has enjoyed wonderful expansion and is just in its infancy. He has a poultry plant of his own and ten thousand chickens on his place and handsome dividends are being realized.

His advice to the farmers of West Texas should be taken by the farmers of all Texas. He urges West Texas farmers to turn to poultry, to practice irrigation and intensive farming and above all to raise food and feed enough for all needs. Intensive and diversified farming, in his opinion, is the only sound basis for Texas prosperity and the only sane course for Texans to pursue.

Everywhere throughout West Texas sane men, thoughtful men, are turning to irrigation. It is bound to come everywhere in Texas where the rivers flow and where the flood waters should be caught and impounded for irrigation purposes in drouth years. Think of the flood waters that pour into the gulf through the Brazos, the Colorado, the Trinity and the Rio Grande, which could be caught and conserved for the use of man.

Lean Years, Fat Years.

Object lessons should be lessons which would teach man that without moisture it is impossible to produce crops and when it is impossible to produce crops financial disaster falls upon the tillers of the soil and all the inhabitants of drouth afflicted districts. There are lean years and fat years. According to Biblical history there were lean years and fat years away back in the dead centuries.

Irrigation is as old as civilization. Even the Mayas in ancient Mexico caught and conserved flood waters for the irrigation of the soil. Intensified farming is coming to Texas. Irrigated farming is coming in Texas. Think of the Magic Valley with a record of shipments of 13,000 cars of citrus fruits and vegetables this year.

This is one of the dividends of the pockets of the Magic Valley producers and all because the flood waters of the Rio Grande are caught and applied to the needs of civilized man.

3 to 4 Million Bales.

Commissioner George B. Terrell says that under favorable conditions for the next 60 days Texas should make between three and four million bales of cotton. Present conditions, he says, indicate a crop of at least a million bales short of 1924. As to the growing crop the best condition is shown in the northwest and eastern districts and the poorest in the central and southwestern districts.

This, according to the commissioner, has been the dryest year in Texas for many years. A large area extending from Waxahachie to Corpus Christi has had so litle rainfall that nearly all crops have failed and it is not possible to make more than half a cotton crop in this great blackland belt where he says more than half the cotton has usually been grown.

As a result the commissioned says the farmers in this section are selling their cotton and work mules for anything they can get because there is no grass and they are unable to buy feed. His report shows an increase of six per cent in cotton acreage and it would have been greater but some land prepared for cotton was never planted and other lands were planted but the cotton died for lack of moisture.

It is the contention that the farmers in the drouth district do not need advice as badly as they need the money to buy the seed. However, he says that with general rain soon there is a chance to make peanuts, meadow hay, sweet potatoes and syrup where cane is grown for that purpose.

In conclusion the commissioner says it is impossible to make a large cotton crop with the best of conditions in the future. Any estimate of production is a mere guess at this time and government officials should not indulge in wild guesses as these guesses "are sometimes taken seriously by well meaning people and they are generally used by speculators to the disadvantage of the producers. In fact no estimate of production should be made before September 1 and it should be made simultaneously with ginning reports."

Regardless of all this, if Texas should make between three and four million bales of cotton and there should be a fair price for the product several hundreds of millions of new money will be placed in the pockets of Texas growers this year.

There are lean years and there are fat years. In certain sections of Texas the farmer is facing his lean year unless Jupiter Pluvius comes to his rescue.

LYRICS OF LIFE
By Douglas Malloch.

Run, Sheep, Run.

There are games of long ago
You remember well, I know,
Games you played when school was out,
Games that took you all about.
Up the alley, down the street—
Still I hear the running feet,
Still I hear old playmates shout,
"Run, sheep, run!"

One old cat, and all the rest,
Run, sheep, run I liked the best;
Here and there and everywhere,
Hiding under someone's stair.
So we scattered up and down,
Till our leader would declare,
"Run, sheep, run."

Scattered now and scattered then,
Now they never come again.
How I wonder where they are!
Some of these have wandered far;
Of the boys who used to be,
Some have sailed beyond the sea,
Some have sailed beyond the star.
Run, sheep, run.

But perhaps some other day
We who toil again will play,
We who fight and hate and doubt,
Forgetting what it's all about,
We, the rich, the wise, the great,
All may gather at the gate,
Hearing some old comrade shout,
"Run, sheep, run!"

3 Dead, 6 Missing In Katy Freight Wreck Near Taylor

AUSTIN, July 12.—Three men are known to have been killed and six others are missing, as the result of the wrecking and burning of an M. K. T. freight train at Brown's gin, five miles south of Taylor, Texas, Sunday afternoon. The fire, which caused the explosion of an oil tank car spread to other units of the long train and reports from the scene of the wreck at seven o'clock Sunday evening were that eighteen or twenty loaded cars had been destroyed. Because of the intense heat of the blazing wreckage it had not been possible at that hour to extricate the bodies of the victims which were plainly visible in the wreckage. They are believed to have been members of a party of nine tramps who were known to have boarded the train somewhere north of Taylor.

Six of these men have not been seen since the wreck and whether they perished or escaped when the train was drailed has not been ascertained.

"WE'LL WRECK CHURCH," SAYS DAYTON FLOCK

They Make Threat If Evolution Sermon Is Delivered

KICK ON NEW YORKER

Dr. Chas. Francis Potter Starts New Tempest At Dayton

DAYTON, Tenn., July 12.—(AP)—The Rev. Howard Gale Byrd withdrew from his pastorate of the Methodist Episcopal church (Northern) here today when a large part of his congregation protested against the proposed preaching of a sermon on evolution in the church's pulpit by the Rev Charles Francis Potter, modernist minister of New York.

Mr. Byrd, who invited Mr Potter to occupy his pulpit, is pointed to as the original inspiration for the filing of charges against John T. Scopes, whose trial on an indictment alleging violation of the state law against teaching evolution in public schools began in this town Friday.

31 Years Old.

Byrd is 31 years old and has been pastor of the local church for three years. Members of the congregation declared today that the church had grown more in the three years of Byrd's ministration and had done more religious service than in all its history of many decades.

The Rev. Foster W. Taylor, fundamentalist champion, and pastor of the Cocoanut Grove Presbyterian church, Miami, Florida, of which William Jennings Bryan is a member, had been invited by Mr. Byrd to preach in the church tonight. He was informed by the pastor early today that the services had been cancelled. Mr. Byrd told Dr. Taylor that he would explain later the cancellation of invitation.

Mr. Taylor declined to comment upon the incident. He did not wish to say what the subject of the sermon he had prepared was.

Potter, pastor of the West Side Unitarian church, New York, until his resignation, takes effect in October, had announced "evolution" as the subject of his sermon which he expected to deliver in the Methodist church this morning. He was to speak at the invitation of Pastor Byrd.

Would Stand By Him.

Byrd explained that he "quit" because he had invited Potter and intended "to stand by him."

Learning of the protests, Dr. Potter told Mr. Byrd that he would "under the circumstances," withdraw his acceptance of the invitation.

The New York minister then posted the notice on the window of Robinson's drug store where the local controversy over the Tennessee anti-evolution statute started.

"Dr. Potter has cancelled his evolution sermon this morning at the Methodist Episcopal church owing to the threat of the congregation."

Questioned as to the significance of the expression, "threat of the congregation," Dr. Potter declared:

"More than half of Mr. Byrd's congregation called on him last night in a body, and told him that if I was permitted to speak in the church today, they would wreck the church."

George W. Rappleyea, original prosecutor of the evolution charges against John T. Scopes, agreed to Potter's explanation. Rappleyea is a Sunday school teacher in Byrd's church and an ardent admirer of the local minister. "Yes they threatened they would break up the church," he said.

T-P-G GIVEN PERMISSION TO ENTER PROTEST

Will Intervene In Rail Hearing on July 20 At Plainview

FORT WORTH, July 12.—Another victory for the promoters of the Texas, Panhandle and Gulf railroad was gained Saturday when the interstate commerce commission granted permission to th finance corporation that will supervise its construction and the expenditure of funds for its building to intervene at the hearing to be held at Plainview on July 20. A telegram from Washington to this effect was received Saturday.

Want Direct Outlet.

It is the purpose of the finance corporation to protect the rights of the men who want to give Fort Worth a direct transportation line through the plains and Panhandle to the Dawson coal fields, and give the plains and Panhandle a direct outlet through Fort Worth to the gulf ports of Texas for the grain produced in those regions.

The hearing at Plainview is on the application of the Pecos and North Texas railroad, a Santa Fe branch, for authority to construct a line in Dimmitt, Hale, Swisher and Castro counties that will be pierced by the Texas Panhandle and Gulf. The Burlington system also seeks to obtain permission to build a branch line in that same territory beginning at a point near Childress.

TO INSTALL TAILOR SHOP.

Quanah Man Buys Sit for New Establishment.

QUANAH, July 12.—Hayden Hunter has let the contract to extend the building now occupied by his gents' furnishing establishment and will install a modern cleaning, pressing and dyeing estabishment in this extension.

Preacher Quits When His Flock Bans Sermon On Evolution

BRYAN TEACHES CLASS

And All Indications Point To a Hot Time Monday

DAYTON, Tenn., July 12.—(AP)—Sunday in Dayton on the eve of the resumption of the Scopes trial here tomorrow was marked by almost everything but quiet. The storm in court was expected to break tomorrow, but tdoay failed to bring the calm before the storm. The chronological order of events developed: cancelling of a sermon on "evolution" at the Methodist Episcopal church by the Rev. Charles Francis Potter, New York, when a section of the congregation objected to its delivery and subsequent announcement by the church's pastor, the Rev. H. G. Byrd, that he had "quit" as a result of the action of his congregation.

Delivery of an address by William Jennings Bryan at a combined Sunday school and church service at the Methodist Episcopal church, south, with John Randolph Neal, chief defense counsel, occupying a seat in the pulpit and Judge John T. Raulston, presiding at the trial, seated in a front pew.

Talks Some More

Announcement by Mr. Bryan that the prosecution is attempting to confine the case to the issue by an effort to exclude scientific testimony and not evade the issue as charged by the defense.

Addresses by Mr. Bryan and Mr. Potter from the same platform on the courthouse grounds, although at different times.

Definite assurance that a clash of attorneys on opposing sides will develop, probably tomorrow, over the question of procedure.

The real fight over the competency of scientific testimony in the trial of Scopes, at the moment the most interesting of the features of the case peculiar to the courtroom procedure, must be preceded from present indications by a skirmish. Argument will come, probably at length, on the competency and propriety of scientists as witnesses in the case, but first the court will have to decide if the regular order shall be followed, or this point determined before the taking of testimony begins.

Want a Settlement

After a tentative agreement Friday to decide the mooted question Monday, the attorney general yesterday served notice on the defense that the state took the position that it would be better to have the discussion when the time came for the defense to offer witnesses. Defense attorneys said today, however, that they would defer and insist tomorrw on settling the first controversial angle of the case at once.

If the regular order is followed,

CORPSE WITH 3 SHOTS IN HEAD LOCATED NEAR SPUDDER PARK

No Identification Marks Left on The Body

DEAD FOR TWO DAYS

Police Believe She Was Killed and Remains Moved

With three bullet wounds in the head, the body of an unidentified white woman about 40 years of age was found at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon lying under a mesquite tree a quarter of a mile east of the Wichita Falls Baseball association grounds. It was stretched out straight, the arms folded across the breast and with no evidence of a struggle having preceded its being placed there.

The woman had been dead perhaps 48 hours, police officials and undertakers estimated. The body was rapidly decomposing when discovered and last night it was feared it could not be preserved long enough to permit identification if any great amount of time is required for this.

The gruesome find was made by two negro men who called the police station. Motorcycle Officer McClelland answered the call and found the body, surrounded by a small crowd of curious negroes and Mexicans. He summoned an ambulance and it was taken to the Merkle undertaking parlors.

Shot Three Times.

An examination there revealed one bullet wound in the left side of the face just at the corner of the mouth; another through the right ear and a third over the right eye. Any one of them would have produced instant death, it was said. The three shots, also, seem to eliminate the theory of suicide and give virtual proof of murder.

It is the belief of police that the woman was shot somewhere else—possibly as far back as Friday night and the body carried to the thickets and stretched out where it was found.

Not a mark could be found which would in anywise aid identification. The woman was clothed only in a cheap gingham apron of blue and white polka dots; black stockings and slippers. There were no rings or other ornaments on her fingers.

Weighed 130

She weighed about 130 or 135 pounds and was of rather more than average height. Her hair was dark and long and the eyes brown. She was of a dark complection, as near as could be judged from the condition of the skin when the body was found.

That she was a Wichita Falls woman seemed evident last night for a number of persons who called at the Merkle parlors stated the features were familiar. Several men were positive they had seen her on the streets, but no one had any idea as to her residence or name.

A canvass of the neighborhood close to which the remains lay was made Sunday night by officers and brought statements from several families that they thought they had heard some pistol shots late Saturday night. No particular credence was attached to these, however, as it was apparent the woman had been dead since Saturday morning at least and probably longer.

WICHITA TAX OFFICE GOES OVER ROLLS

City Office Deep In Working Out of All Valuations.

The city tax office is deep in a re-checking of its rolls, preparatory to figuring up total valuations of property in Wichita Falls so that the tax rate for the current fiscal year may be set. It will be some time yet before this can be done. But W. R. Hyer, tax assessor and collector, stated Saturday that his deputies were making all possible speed with the check.

City officials still believe a tax rate of about $1.35 will be made this year to replace that of $1.50 now in force. Economies in operating expenses; natural growth of the city's valuations through its constant increase in size; and a more equitable distributed to the tax burden, made possible through installation of the unit system of appraisment will all combine to this end.

The board of equalization, composed of J. N. Prothro, J. M. Bland and J. M. Baber has completed its work and adjourned after hearing complaints on raises in valuation made by the board. Mr. Hyer in speaking yesterday of the work of the board, expressed deep appreciation o fthe faithful, fair and painstaking work of the three men. He said they had given excellent service and had represented the interests of the city and tax payers alike in an equitable manner.

REALTY VALUES IN COUNTY IN A BIG SLUMP

Wichita County Shows Decrease of Over Five Million

AUSTIN, July 12.—Harris county's property values has shown the most remarkable increase of any in Texas, according to preliminary estimates filed with Comptroller S. H. Terrell during the past week.

While oil counties, and many others showed some decreases, Harris county's value jumped 10 per cent, according to the estimates, or from $205,038,348 final values in 1924 to $226,000,000 estimated for this year.

The state as a whole is likely to gain from probably 15 million dollars, and to go back past the three and one-half billion dollar mark for the first time since deflation started.

Dallas county, final values of last year, $224,759,500, is estimated to reach $230,000,000 this year.

Travis county showed a half million dollars gain from $42,738,007 to $43,200,000 estimate.

Nueces county was one of the biggest gainers, jumping from $20,217,329 $23,275,000.

Ten counties, of which Lubbock is the center, are showing steady gains because of increased population. Lubbock's gain was from $15,508,565 to $17,337,045.

Oil counties dropped sharply except Archer, where the values rose from $14,077,440 to $18,536,463.

Limestone dropped from $42,671,160 to $32,000,000 estimate, and Navarro from $63,067,516 to on estimated $60,000,000 values.

Wichita county dropped from $67,820,600 to $62,420,300 estimated.

Jefferson county showed a healthy gain from $103,373,934 to $109,037,036. Brazoria dropped from $33,139,895 to estimated $30,000,000.

Other counties in the Lubbock region which are gaining are: Hockley, $3,284,833, which almost doubled by going to $6,260,630 and Cochran county, which jumped from $2,700,000 to $4,300,000. Ninety-one counties are yet to report preliminary estimates.

TEMPEST

to accept that which is new and cling tenaciously to that which is old. Both elements are necessary in a world. Sometimes the one, sometimes the other goes too much to the extreme. There must be between on and the other somewhere a happy meeting.

Now these Jews, in this lesson, when Paul was preaching about Saul, and David, and all the old Jews, they sat there as complacently as one of you fellows would at a protracted meeting, when the preacher was talking about some other kind of a sinner, except your kind. But, when the speaker got down to the resurrection of Jesus Christ, these Jews got up and walked out.

I don't know whether anybody ever walked out on me when I was talking, but a man ought to say something once in a while that somebody would walk out on. You want to pray to be delivered from a courting, oringing ministry, and that kind of a politician. I don't know whether I will ever live to see the people of Texas reach the place where they can sit and listen to the truth politically and hear themselves described politically, as I could describe them, and some of you. I don't know whether they will ever reach that day or not, but it will be a fine, high day of intelligence in Texas if they ever do.

We have had the smallest political issues in Texas of any state in this union, and it is no compliment to the people of Texas to say so. We ought to get out of that. We have listened to more foolishness and nonsense than any people that I know about, and I have shouted as loudly and voted as ignorantly as any of you on accasions, and I am ashamed of it, and you ought to be.

So, these Jews marched out. For some of them, I can see a reason for it. Some of them were making a living out of religion. Some of them were conscientious about it. But, the majority of them were not ready and not competen or capable to accept a new truth, and Paul was preaching that the truth shall set you free, and he preached the resurrection. Now, the Bible is a terrible book. He was making this great sermon in a great city: Antioch, next after Rome, the greatest city of that time, and everybody in town was excited about it, and they all tried to hear him, and immediately began to throw rocks at him. There must be, somewhere, a place for a man to march, and to work, and to think, and to talk, without giving too much offense.

Must Have Manners

A preacher, a political thinker, or any man who has to do with the public, as a teacher, has got to have good manners. He has got to be orderly, and decent, and considerate, and courteous, and kind, else he will have no audience. He has got to shape himself so that at least the people will come to hear him, and, even then, many do not come.

"Now, this Book says that they walked out of that town and said: 'Religion is not for us,' and shook the dust off their feet. Her me, men, when I say to you that God is not a beggar. Hear me, when I say to you that His ministry and His gospel is offered to you freely, fully, unconditionally, save and except that you come with a contrite heart and a penitent spirit and that no man is forced to accept it, and that His great universe can roll on, and on and His great plans can come to friutition without you and without me. So that the church, and the ministry, and the gospel of God is not a beggar at the door of humanity, but stands and knocks and says that "Whosoever will may enter.' And that those who do not, do not have to. Anythng else would be unthinkable. Any other kind of gospel would be unpreachable. Any other kind of system would be unnatural. So that heaven says to you and to me, 'Here's this gospel, this salvation, this plan, this redemption which you can take or which you can walk away from and leave.' And it says in this lesson that it is for all men. The Jews had the idea that religion was for them only. Paul preaches further, and breaks down and crushes to pieces such a narrow conception of God, and says that 'Whosoever will may come,' and that this gospel that we preach is to the Gentiles.

"What was he talking to them about? Talking to them about the most difficult thing for you or me to get that there is in the world, and that is openmindedness.

Good Fellow.

"How many of you good fellows ever went to a political meeting, or sat down before a school teacher or a preacher and he preached something that suited you and was in accordance with the ideas that you had all along, an dyou said, 'That's fine. He's a pretty good fellow. He's all right.'

"Now you are not getting anywhere with a thing like that. The only politician, the only statesman, the only preacher, the only teacher, is that man that brings to you a flaming torch that you never saw burning before. And the only student and the only wise man is that man that says, 'My mind is open, polished and burnished clean, in order that I am willing to accept that which is proven and to adopt that which is demonstrated.' Such a man is a wise man. But, if you go down to the church expecting the preacher only to teach you something you knew already and that your grandfather knew, or if you go out to hear a statesman and are shocked if he announces the solution of a problem that you never heard before, then the trouble is that you are not openminded. You know that has kept me back in the world. I am afraid that it might have kept some of you back; going to look into something, going to listen to something, going to hear somebody with my notions already fixed, and hoping only that I will get a little confirmation of that which I already bleived. That kind of a man can never come to a great realization of a mighty truth.

"So let us not be too conservative, not too radical, but let us go out with minds that are capable of clinging to that which is old and which is good, and minds that are capable and competent to accept and to try out that which is new, and which appears to be good."

Many Improvements Started at Paducah

PADUCAH, July 12—Work on the public improvement here is progressing rapidly. About four miles of additional water mains have been laid in the city limits, besides 2½ miles of 10-inch main to the reservoir site west of town. The foundation has been laid and material is on the ground for completion of this reserroir which will have a capacity of $250,000 gallons. Water will be delivered by gravity from the reservoir to the city standpipe. The substitution of "soft" water for the "gyp" heretofore used will be hailed with delight both by domestic consumers and the industrial plants.

The installation of storm sewers is nearing completion, at which time work on paving the streets will be begun.

Contractors on the sanitary sewerage and disposal plant have not yet begun their work, but probably will in the next week or two.

REPAIRING QUANAH GINS

The Farmers 'Co-operative Gin is also remodeling and adding to their properties and the Farmers' Gin has recently completed the installation of new machinery, and additions have been made to their plant.

Balloons are being used in French waters to hunt for sardines.—News item.

I have dangled all day for a big surly trout
With a worm on the end of a hook,
And sometimes succeeded in getting him out
Of his cosy and sheltering brook.
I cannot maintain I've been always immune
From being both cruel and mean,
But I've never gone out in a great big balloon
To catch a poor little sardine.

I have hidden myself in the lush growing grass,
What time I have wickedly planned
To out-fox a crafty and greedy black bass,
That I hoped I might presently land.
It wasn't a sporting proceeding, I ween,
To lure the poor brute with a spoon,
But I never went after a little sardine
In a giant and speedy balloon.

I am not one who looks upon angling askance,
No pose such as that I display,
But I always believe I should give half a chance
To the fish I have marked for my prey.
Balloons are so large and sardines are so small,
That it strikes me as highly unfair
And really not kindly nor clubby at all—
To hunt them thus down to their lair.

I haven't a doubt that before very long
I'll be out with a reel and a rod,
Where the billows run high and the breezes run strong—
In quest of the muscular cod,
And pull 'em out blithely the whole afternoon,
As over the gunwale I lean,
But I'll never go out in a great big balloon
To chase a poor little sardine.

COMING EVENTS CAST THEIR SHADOWS BEFORE THEM.

T. W. Davidson, fourth high candidate for governor last year, dealt himself out of the running in the next governor's race by a statement at Austin recently.

Several things more than his withdrawal were seen in his statement by the veteran political wiseacres who have talked to newspapermen since Davidson's reasons for not running were made public.

First of all that a candidate of respectable strength in the race should get out on the strength of belief that the Fergusons will either run or have an administration candidate, is strong evidence of the Ferguson aim to have a hand in the next deal.

Second, that Lynch Davidson has built up an organization by which it will be his aim to corner all the votes except the Ferguson votes, and the anti-Ferguson votes.

Next, apparently that T. W. Davidson will not be behind the Fergusons when they offer again, but apparently behind the "third group" man, for whose position he now admits Lynch Davidson in commanding approach.

Next, that his familiarity with conditions based on his race, bitterly anti-klan, and reports of his friends who are trying to get him to run again, that the klan will be a strong factor again in the next race. Probably strong enough, he thinks, to again make the race a prospective triangle, with the Fergusons and the klan at the two strong corners—"unless all the other voters align themselves behind some one candidate. T. W. Davidson has been regarded as somewhat of a "trader." He drew the support of the Farm-Labor nominating convention and sapped nearly 100,000 votes out of the Ferguson total for the first race, getting enough others to undoubtedly have prevented Lynch Davidson from getting into the run-off against the Fergusons. Then, when the state convention time came around, after he supported the Fergusons for the second primary, he took an active part with the cohorts of the old-time democracy, and got himself mentioned in the state platform in more laudatory terms than the court reference to Neff—"his administration was one of high purpose and good intentions."

His statement this week said the large body of more or less independent voters, who supported the Davidsons and trailing candidates before, would be glad to see a "new deal."

His words indicated that he will not be backing the present administration, though his long-established opposition to the klan will prevent his joining the anti-administration forces which he mentioned in connection with the klan.

His statement predicted other runners in the governor's race; but it made no reference to Dan Moody.

On the same day of his withdrawal, the prediction was made by R. B. Walthall of the board of control, Representative Eugene Blount, appropriations chairman, would get into the race and on the same day the gossip or rumor was heard by the same newspaperman at the capitol that if the Fergusons did not run, they would back Luther Stark of Orange, and again that the Fergusons would run Mrs. Ferguson once more; and again that Joe Burkett would be the administration candidate next time.

Davidson's statement is regarded as gratifying to the Lynch Davidson forces. His language was much like Lynch's in a recent statement that the forces which want to elect a governor sho'll get behind one man instead of there being a lot of aspirants.

T. W. promised he was not through with politics, but would wait two years before considering the race for governor.

WHAT LOCAL CAPITAL CAN DO.

Texas Opportunities, in a most readable article, says the future for Texas in cotton goods manufacture is in the coarse grades, and that all it needs is development by the home people. Local capital can build an empire in Texas, the writer asserts, through development of the cotton manufacturing industry second to none in the world.

Continuing, the article reads, it is already a great agricultural empire which has gained for it a great wealth, "but cotton mills in very county in Texas, or at least in the counties which produce cotton, would make Texas a great diversified center of wealth."

Then what would happen? Well, Texas Opportunities makes this forecast: Cotton would be shipped out of Texas in the form of the finished product, Texas people who invested in local cotton mills would reap from their investment good returns, the people of Texas would see the allied cotton manufacturing industries come and knock at their door for entry, and that would be an industrial trend established in the Lone Star State other industrial institutions would follow, and, all in all, Texas would enjoy a diversification of agriculture linked up with manufacturing.

An industrial and agricultural Texas isn't on the way. It is here. Texas jumped in the billion dollar a year manufacturing class in 1925.

PLATO WAS DRY.

Prohibition was not an American invention. There were prohibitionists long before the coming of the Nazarine and his gospel. A British woman, a temperance worker, has made the discovery that Plato, the great philosopher of Athens, was among the first temperance workers of the world.

Three hundred years before Christ, Plato forbade alcoholic drinks to the newly married. Why the newly married? Why should he have advised the old folks to toy with the wine cup? However, Plato was among the first temperance workers of the world, and the British blue ribbonites and their white ribbon sisters now say they are going to make the British Isles dry and do their best to make the world dry.

It is a cinch that the United States is to be a dry country for years and years to come. Prohibition isn't on the way; it is here. It was written in the American constitution. It required 75 years for its friends to do the writing. How many years will it take for its enemies to win in a reneal movement?

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

Sparing the Rod.

A magistrate in a great American city recently discharged a women for cruelly beating a stepchild.

"I believe," he said solemnly, "as he allowed the woman to leave the room, leading the terrified little girl, "that if you spare the rod you spoil the child.

"I have often whipped my own children until they could not stand.

"It is the only way to make men of them."

Fortunately the publicity the case received brought it to the attention of a judge of a higher court, who examined into the facts.

It developed that the woman was of a thoroughly bad character and has been using the stepchild cruelly for a number of years.

The child was taken from her and placed in the care of a children's society, where she has a chance to grow up and be happy.

The beating of children is the surest way to brutalize them.

The "spare the rod" idea has done more to fill the world with cruel bullies than all the petting and spoiling that foolish parents have done.

Had not the migistrate been swiftly overruled in this particu'ar case, his decision might have done infinite harm, for it would have encouraged many stupid and ignorant people to deal cruelly with their children and stepchildren, sowing in their hearts the seeds of hatred which some day would grow up to bear bitter fruit.

Children are naturally restive, and resentful of authority.

If they were not, we should be a submissive race, ruled over by a handful of unscrupulous tyrants, who would live at ease on our labor and hold the power of life and death over us.

The spirit of independence that is born in a child is the spirit that has saved the world from subjection.

It is necessary to control children before their judgment is formed, and to subject them to discipline so that they may learn in time to control themselves.

But to do it brutally, by physical chastisement only makes them cruel too, and is likely to cause them to grow up into dangerous members of the community.

It is not always possible to bring up children on Herbert Spencer's plan of reasoning with them about the cause and effect of misconduct.

But it is never necessary to hurt them, to make them afraid of the father and mother that they ought to love.

George Bernard Shaw says somewhere that the only possible excuse for beating a child is that the parent was in a violent fit of anger at the time, and that this is a sorry excuse.

To punish a child in cold blood, announcing pharisaically, "this hurts me more than it does you," is a crime which ought to be punished heavily by the law.

Children supply a great part of the joy and beauty of life. Those who are worthy to live in this world would never beat them or use them cruelly.

The other kind ought to be kept in fear of the law. If they knew that the same kind of punishment would be meted out to them as they mete out to the little ones in their power, there would be no more beatings.

ANOTHER GREAT DAM.

President Coolidge is to be honored. A Washington dispatch says the first step toward development of an important new irrigation project in the arid southwest was taken when a board of consulting engineers was named to supervise plans and specifications for the $5,500,000 Coolidge dam to be erected on the San Carlos Indian reservation in Arizona.

The dam is to cross the Gila river near San Carlos and will store water for irrigation of from 75,000 to 100,000 acres of Indian, private and public lands, in the lower Gila valley, furnishing a permanent supply of water to the Pima Indians living on the San Carlos reservation. Congress recently authorized the construction of this dam and an initial appropriation of $450,000 was authorized.

All the semi-arid or arid lands in the southwest will be reclaimed some day. This will apply to Texas as well as to Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico. Irrigation in Texas is in its infancy. When Pat Morris Neff was governor he recommended to the members of the 38th legislature a large appropriation to defray the expense of a survey of Texas inland waterways in order that conservation and storage of flood waters would rescue to the needs of man the vast tracts of semi-arid and arid lands of the state.

It should be said to the credit of the lawmakers of the 38th legislature that they crystalized the recommendation into law and voted an appropriation of $600,000 for the prosecution of the mighty project. Thousands of years ago the ancients knew the value of irrigation channels and vast storage reservoirs.

Now the moderns are alive to the fact that in droughty countries flood waters should be caught and stored for irrigation purposes when a drouth is threatened. It is coming in Texas. It is coming in the entire southwest. A little water at the proper time converts a desert into a vale of fertility and productiveness.

JOHN BULL IS ANGRY.

John Bull speaking through the London Daily Express says that the British government wasted 250,000 pounds over its arrangements for American credit in order to return to the gold standard.

This British newspaper insists that the House of Morgan exacted the velvet and that the British public must pay it. John Pierpont Morgan and associates are not in business for their health. Mr. Bull made up his mind to return to the gold standard. He needed a credit of a hundred million dollars on this side of the Atlantic. Morgan made the arrangements at the rate of one and a quarter per cent commission.

It is admitted that this is a potential credit, that it may never be used, but Morgan is to get the full rate and the editor of the London Express figures that it may reach 500,000 pounds before the transaction has been carried out to the letter.

Well, Mr. Bull is in position to get his revenge. He controls the rubber supply of the world. Americans are great consumers of rubber. Mr. Bull fixes the price of rubber. He is fixing it with a vengeance. Business is business.

PARIS ON THE MAP.

Paris is on the map. Not Paris, France, but Paris away down here in Texas. Paris was destroyed by fire not many years ago and on the ruins the wideawake people of that city built a model community. They have a crate factory at Paris which ships hundreds of thousands of crates to California every year. California grows the oranges and lemons and grapefruits of the Golden Coast country, but they pack their produce in Texas crates. They have the raw material near at hand. They have the gas and lignite. They have the labor. Having all these, men of vision started the factory and they reaped a large reward.

Cancer.

The planetary aspects are not at all favorable during the early part of the day and although they show improvement during the afternoon and evening, it is not of such a marked degree as to warrant any step or action out o fthe ordinary. There will be experienced during the whole day a lethargical feeling, a disinclination to concentrate, and a tendency to morbidness and self-dissatisfaction. It will, consequently, not be a propitious opportunity for trying out the untried, or for wandering into realms with which you are unfamiliar. Patience, above all virtue, will be required today. Patience with others, and patience with yourself.

Children born today will, regardless of sex, enjoy similar physical conditions. Although having the appearance of being both healthy nad robust, they will all require carefully regulated nutrition, with an abundance of outdoor air, to enable them to attain their maturity in first class condition. The boy's temperament will be wilful and obstinate. His will-power should not be broken, but guided. He will be very perserverying in those studies that appeal to him, but disinclined to learn those things of which he cannot appreciate the practical value. A girl, on the other hand, will be submissive and obedient, and very easily influenced be environment. She will not have a very strong will and her judgment will always be influenced by her emotions.

If today is your birthday, your impetuosit yand impulsiveness are serious factors in determining or shaping your future, for while gifted with more than ordinary ability and intuitive foresight, you are disposed to go off at half cock, and thereby ruin plans or projects which, but for your hasty action, would have successfully materialized. You are quick tempered, and, at times, rather violent. On the other hand, you are an omnivorous reader, a thoughtful student, somewhat of a philosopher, and always ambitious of intellectual betterment. You are also very fond of travel. Your ultimate success only depends on one factor. Your ability to control your hasty impulse and restrain your impetuosity.

In your home life, your love is strong, passionate and demonstrative. It does not weaken with time, but continually grows in intensity and endurance.

Successful people born on this date are:

Nathan B. Forrest, confederate general.

HOW IT STARTED

"SOMETHING ROTTEN IN THE STATE OF DENMARK."

This is an expression that is frequently encountered in the most matter of fact speech where it is desired to indicate suspicion which a certain situation arouses against the people involved.

The words are of over 300 years' standing, their author being that master of figure and rhetoric, the bard of Avon. It is in "Hamlet", written in 1602, that we find the original use of the phrase. "There's something rotten in the state of Denmark." It occurs in the fifth scene of the first act when the ghost appears, beckoning to Hamlet, who against the entreaties of his companions, Horatio and Marcellus, goes off with it. In commenting on the strange proceedings of the night, Marcellus says to Horatio: "To what issue will this come?" "Something is rotten in the state of Denmark!"

GALVESTON WOMAN DIES SUDDENLY IN DALLAS

DALLAS, Texas, July 12. — Miss Lucille Werehausen, 25, of Galveston, Texas, visiting here, died suddenly Saturday at the home of her sister, Mrs. E. N. Holland. The body was sent to Galveston for burial.

Mrs. Gottloeb now is living in Chicago.

FARMS SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Jardine Says Conditions Looking Better.

CHICAGO, July 12.—(AP)—William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, told a group of state officials of middlewest farmer organizations, meeting here Saturday that agricultural conditions of the country "in general show improvement."

"The relative purchasing power of farm products in terms of non-agricultural products," Mr. Jardine said, "stood in March at 91 per cent of the pre-war average — the highest point reached since June 1, 1920."

He voiced a "sincere belief" in cooperative marketing to place agriculture on a more profitable basis, but also pointed out that the individual farmer needs to become a more efficient manager.

Mr. Jardine, who had just completed an eight weeks' tour of agricultural sections between here and the Pacific coast, left for Washington after the conference.

Through A Woman's Eyes

COURSES IN LOVE-MAKING

A Baltimore minister says that young people should be taught the art of love-making! He complains that a world which pre-supposes ignorance on the part of the young and undertakes to instruct them in all other things, disregards entirely the fine and necessary art of making love. The suggestion has taken wings, and from coast to coast, from North to South, it is commanding consideration and stirring up discussion.

We are told that the average modern courtship is a prosaic affair, efficient and satisfactory, perhaps, but without material for even a paltry fiv or six feet of film. Therefore, young people should be instructed in the true art of properly manifesting their affections and maintaining the spirit of romance.

Far be it from the writer to assume authority in matters osculatory and romantic, or to claim for herself more experience in them than the average person enjoys. But there are limits to what even a modest sense of humor will stand. And the serious contention that young people should be taught to make love exceeds those limits. It is clear, at least, that its protagonist has confined himself to matters of the pulpit and the study and has not ventured into more enlightening contacts. His suggestion is a tribute to a life well spent in serious and high pursuits.

To be perfectly fair to both sides of the issue we must agree that there are circumstances under which the Reverend Doctor from Baltimore might be right in his assertion that young people need to be taught to make love. That is, when water must be directed to run down hill, and an apple dropped like Newton's remains poised in midair until given a very special push, when the birds must be taught to use their wings, and fish must learn to take to water; then young people will certainly need to be taught to make love. When these things happen, when the young green shoots of early spring sprout downward and flowers bloom toward the ground, when all of Nature reverses its course and turns topsy-turvy, then young people will be entitled to courses in the art of making love.

In the meantime, for a perfect demonstration of the natural-born talent for making love, observe such early example of the species as a miss of seven or eight with the particular young man of eight or nine. In the roll of baby yes and the pouting of baby lips, the smoothing of her dress and flinging back of her curls, the momentary admiration and show of feminine weakness before masculine strength, the manifestation of indifference to just the effective point, all the wiles of feminine coquetry, artless and guileless, of course, in the miss of seven or eight—there you have the earliest edition of the art, born full-fledged—with every woman. And the young man of eight or nine, when he ... really interested: His flattering deference, the initial bait, salted later wtih a dash of masculine domination, sugar-coated always with tenderness, 's offering of the luncheon apple or his only lolypop, or—in this day at the age of eight or nine—perhaps the Saturday afternoon movie!

Since the disease, or, as the Reverend Doctor from Baltimore calls it, the art, is progressive, it grows more and more interesting as ... reaches the flapper stage. Do they need to be taught it? Should lo... king be made part of the modern school curriculum? Yes — when the infant has to be taught to cry for what it wants, when we must learn to breathe and eat and sleep, when we need special training to come in out of the rain—then, perhaps, a class in the fine and necessary art of making love would be in order.

Until then, and while rivers flow to the sea and the su nrises in the East, there is one pursuit in which young people are natural born adepts—that is the pursuit of each other. Ignorant they may be of life, and tyros in every known endeavor, but they are finished artists and past masters in what is their own province and special domain—the art of making love!

Irrigation

In the pioneer days of American development the farmer ventured into the wilderness with little else than a team, wagon, plow, ax and some small hand tools. Many a farm was made with no other resources.

Capital in the form of money was not felt to be a necessary requirement in the building of a farm. A strong back, the will to work and undergo hardships took the place of money capital.

With the beginning of modern irrigation development conditions were changed. As a necessary pre-requisite to putting water on land large quantities of money were expended by the irrigation companies. A water supply costs money and the companies must have money for it if they continue to exist. The land might be free or almost free but water was not. It had to be paid for.

This matter of ready cash was the greatest difference between pioneering on irrigated and unirrigated land. Capital was required for the development of the irrigated farm, while it might be omitted on the unirrigated.

In the early days of irrigation development not so much money was thought necessary as later on. If a man had enough to make his first payment he was acceptable as a settler. The irrigation companies felt that the crops would take care of his future payments.

This proved true in many cases where the land was very fertile and the price for water was low. Many a man was able to succed with no other capital than his first payment. On the other hand, many of them failed. It was always recognized that a little surplus was a great aid in putting a farm on a paying basis. The man with money could develop faster than the man without.

SUB ROSA

By MIMI.

Anxious Alice.

Here's another member of that unhappy family containing Suspicious Susie and Coustious Carrie.

Anxious Alice is one of our most troublesome little playmates, although poor child she has a much worse time than we do, for her anxiousness has done little to increase her popularity, and she has a rather dull time of it usually.

She has probably been in a constant state of anxiety ever since she was born, quite without realizing it I am sure.

Are you an Anxious Alice? I hope not. If you want to be sure, just compare yourself with the picture I am about to draw, and see whether you recognize any of the symptoms in yourself.

Alice is going to a dance with George, who is of course, late.

She greets him with a worried frown. I do hope we're not going to be late. It would be just dreadful if we missed the first dance," is probably her opening shot.

All the way there she keeps asking nervously what the time is, and how much longer will it take them to get there, and does Georgia know just exactly what time the dance begins, etc., etc.

Upon arriving, and having assured herself that all her fears were in vain—for the dance, like most affairs of that kind, had started much later than scheduled—her anxiety is turned to something else.

She asks George apprehensively whether he thinks there is a sufficiently big stag line to make it possible for everyone to get a good rush.

"I'm so afraid I won't be cut in on," she confides to him. "And then of course you'll have a dreadful time, too, because you'll have to dance with me all evening."

He assures her politely that nothing would give him greater pleasure, but he becomes slightly pale at the thought.

If Alice hand't mentioned the matter, he'd probablly have thought nothing of having to dance the first two dances with her, but with her nervous comments constantly on his mind, he becomes more and more alarmed as the music plays on and on, and no one shows the slightest intention of relieving him of his little playmate.

By the time a stag actually touches his arm, both he and Alice are in such a state of anxiety that they don't want to dance together all the rest of the evening.

All because Alice had to flutter nervously about whether she was going to be popular or not.

Then after an evening, during which Alice asks most of her partners in a tone of the gravest apprehension, whether she's dancing well or not, and exclaims in alarm whenever she misses a step, it's time to go home and little A. A. is beset by new misgivings.

She mustn't be home too late or mother will never let her go out with George again.

The fact that she's got a good margin of time in which to obey mother's dictates has no effect.

She worries and frets all the long ride home and George probably froths and foams at the mouth and resolves that all is over.

Poor Alice. She lives such an unhappy life. If you feel yourself following her example, stop it before it's too late.

Fort Worth Cats Take Good Old Fashioned Beating, 12-5

MORGAN HELPS HIS OWN CAUSE WITH 2 HOMERS

Spudders Hammer Trio Off Atz' Hurlers For 15 Hits

DICKS GETS A PAIR

Champs Unable to Do Anything With Ball When Hits Needed

Jakie Atz and his ailing Cats found the going rough and rocky Sunday when they stumbled into the most profound hitting spree of which the Spudders have been guilty in many-a-day. The champs, accordingly, succumbed with good grace to a good old-fashioned beating, 12 to 5. It was about the most top heavy belting Fort Worth has taken in a long time and in addition to tickling a big Sunday crowd it gave the homelings two out of three in the series.

Yesterday's fracas was testimonial to current reports that any ball team capable of hitting in the pinches is pretty apt to win a game now and then. The Spuds did just that, rapping a trio of Atz' flingers for 15 solid smacks. Included in the assortment were three home runs, two by none other than Dick Morgan who wanted to make sure a well-pitched game of his own manufacture did not go to waste. Dick hoisted one over the left field fence in the fifth and again in the seventh, with Query aboard, gave another one a ride to the same territory.

Five Two Baggers.

Five two baggers from Spudder bats completed the extra-base total for the day.

Mister Atz crossed up the grand stand managers by nominating Paul Wachtel for mound duty, but he ran into trouble right off the reel. Callaghan, the first man to meet him, pasted a torrid liner straight at the box and after the pill ricocheted off Wachtel's shoulder it rolled to right field for two bases. He scored later when Bodie doubled down the right field foul line.

Again in the second Mr. Wachtel was treated with disdain. Golvin singled through the box for a starter, went to second on Dorman's sacrifice, took third when Query got an infield hit to the same corner and scored when Morgan dropped a Texas leaguer in right.

Fort Worth's master minds concluded it wasn't Wachtel's day when, in the third, Spudder bats unlimbered again. At that though, he did more than Head who followed him.

Gets a Pass.

Williams opened this frame with a base on balls and ambled to third as Ping Bodie singled to center. Eddie Palmer came t othe rescue here by thoughtfully dropping the ball with a cinch double play in his hands, and accordingly Williams not only scored but Pete Turgeon got a life at first. Pete rapped to Windle who tossed to Palmer on second. He let the pill roll away but recovered in time to get a force out on Bodie. Turgeon showed his gratitude by stealing second and then went to third while Windle and Konethcy were disposing of Golvin. Dorman followed with a single, scoring Turgeon and Query poked a double against the center field fence. That scored Dorman and got the can for Wachtel.

Dick Head took up the burden and managed to eliminate Morgan, but the Spuds tended to him in the fourth.

One was gone when Distel drew a life on Windle's boot of his roller. Williams stopped one in the slats and then, after putting one over the left field fence that fell foul by inches, Ping Bodie walked, filling the sacks. Pete Turgeon hit hard but his best was a long fly to center which allowed Distel to score after the catch. Golvin fared better, though, and knocked Head out of the box and the ball out of the lot via the left field. Williams and Bodie walked in ahead of the first sacker and Peters, a recent addition to the Panther mound corps, took up the thankless job of salvaging something from the wreckage.

Duck Polls Two.

He got along pretty well except for the times Dick Morgan faced him. In the fifth Dick's four-ply wallop accounted for the tenth Spudder run and in the seventh his second homer with Query on second gave the locals the last two.

In the meantime the Cats found Dick a tough nut to crack. It was three up and three down in the first two innings, but in the third Windle poled a homer to left. No more outbreaks came until the seventh when Ziggy Sears duplicated Windle's drive. In between times they were lifting harmless little pop-ups.

The eighth brought Dick his only trouble, and it all started through a base on balls to Peters and an Alfonso-Gaston act beween Distell and Turgeon who let a short fly fall between them just back of second. Windel opened the reund by fouling out to Dorman. Smith doubled and Peters worked Morgan for a pass. Davis fouled to Golvin and then Mullen lifted a high fly to short center. Distel and Turgeon either one could have caught it and it was really Distell's ball, but it fell safe and the sacks were loaded. Sears hit to center for a base, scoring Smith and Peters, and Konetchy followed with a safe rap toward third, scoring Mullen. Eddie Palmer drove a hard grounder down the third base line and Dorman made a pretty one handed stop that prevented any scoring. The bases were full again, but Edington ended things by fanning.

Neither side threatened after that.

In the first game Al Diviney, after relieving the faltering Bobby Burns, not only pitched effectively but it was his pinch blow in the sixth which sent home the tying and winning runs. Carlyle Littlejohn had a little the best of Roy Crumpler in the twilight tilt. Hard hits by Peel and Hollohan determined the issue.

By MACK TURNER

Ronie Glidewell hooked up Sunday afternoon in a splendid hurling duel, which the former won by a 3 to 2 margin in nine innings. This gave the Security National bank almost a cinch to the last half of the Twilight league and a clear shoot to play off with the Texhoma's.

After playing a splendid ball and holding the lead until the late innings the American Refiners lost on a bobbie by Raymond Windham. This casts no shadow over the mite shortstop's playing for he celebrated his return to the game with two nice plays that saved Ronie twice in the pinches.

Coyal Francis played the game with his right thumb in a cast, from an injury in the Travelers game last Tuesday afternoon. The big second sacker played a nice game, despite his two errors, one on a ground ball, the other on a bad throw that pulled Medford off the bag. He also came through with a three bagger in the eighth that tied the count for the last time.

Horton Injured

The American's lost the services of Tank Horton, plucky little maskman, in the seventh when a foul tip off Montgomery's bat caught Tank on the hand and injured the member. He was rushed into a car and hurried to a doctor for medical aid. No report has been returned on the extent of his injury.

Sid Stanfield, half pint catcher of the Securities, led the attack with a sacrifice, two singles and a triple. Sid also scored the winning run in the eighth.

Ronie was airtight in the pinches, and the Securities failed on many an occasion in the game to score, when it looked like scoring was a cinch. In the second Francis juggled Graves' easy grounder to second. Stanfield sacrificed him to second with a bunt to Glidewell. Ronie tightened and made Lee Courtney pop one to Bill Andress, who tossed out Patterson himself.

In the second the Securities again threatened to score, but the great pinch pitching of Glidewell proved supreme. Francis' throw pulled Medford off first. Gabe Harris poked a single to right sending Brown to third. Harris stole second. Montgomery took the third strike. Mathis' bounder took a bad hop to Windham's left and forced the mite shortstopper to stab it with one hand. Windham recovered and whipped a bullet-like peg to Horton in time to cut Brown off at the plate. Harris took third and Mathis held first. Flatt popped weakly to Medford.

In the third the Security Bankers again threatened. Graves singled to left and took second on Stanfield's single to center. Courtney hit into a snappy double play, Windham to Francis to Medford. Graves took third. Patterson whiffed.

Americans Get One

The Americans broke the ice in the fourth inning. With one away Ronie Glidewell poled a long home run to left field for the first score of the game.

The Americans threatened to stretch their lead in the fifth. After Cannon had whiffed, Windham and Horton singled. Both runners advanced on the infield out by Andree. Christian walked, filling the bases. Brown threw out Medford.

The Bankers tied the count in the sixth inning. Mathis and Flatt grounded out. Graves grounder took a bad hop off Medford's neck and went for a flue double. Sid Stanfield came through with a timely three-base blow to center. Courtney lifted an easy pop foul to Horton.

The Bankers took a 2 tol lead in the seventh inning. Patter went out, Glidewell to Medford. Brown beat out an infield hit to third. Harris sent a scorching single to right, sending Brown to third. Montgomery fouled one off that injured Horton, and Red Rounsaville took up the catching burden. Montgomery forced Harris at second, Glidewell to Francis, Brown scoring on the play, Mathis rolled out, Francis to Medford.

The Americans came back in the eighth to again tie the count 2 to 2. Medford singled sharply to right. Glidewell fanned. Francis smashed a screaming three-bagger to right, scoring Medford. Francis was out in an attempt to steal home. Gordon grounded out Montgomery to Mathis.

The Bankers took a to 1 lead in last half of the eighth. Windham threw out Flatt. Glidewell tossed out Graves. Stanfield smashed a single to right. Courtney and Patterson were walked. Brown hit to Windham, who fumbled the ball. Stanfield scored and the bases remained full. Harris popped out to Windham.

The Americans went three up and three down in the ninth before the slants of "Oklahoma Lee". Pinch hitter Dudley Skeen fouled a high one to the pitcher. Courtney made the catch near the seats on the third base line. Montgomery tossed out Windham, and Rounsaville fanned.

WICHITA ELECTRICS WIN

ELECTRA, Texas, July 12.—Eddie Kollman, Wichita Falls Electric company slab artist, invaded the local sandlots and shut out the Texas Hardware company team here by the score of 7 to 0. Kollman allowed but two safe hits C. Shires and Underwood being the only ones to connect with the Wichitan's slants.

Frank Ramsey of the visitors was the fielding star of the game with nice catch of Underwood's drive in the third, robbing this player of a second hit.

Ramsey, Taylor and Riley each were smacking the pill with great delight and came through with several timely bingles. The Wichita Falls infield was in great form and accepted chance after chance without an error. The infield was composed of Fritz Taylor on first, Frank Shaw on second, Paul Whatley on short, and Jack Thurman on third.

Gleason, Goodwin, Wheeler And Bird Tie Up Texas Hitters

DALLAS, July 12.—(AP).—Veteran heavers, their salary wings lubricated by the hot sun rays, dominated Texas league play this past week. Inspired by the fact that such ancient hurlers as Walter Johnson, Stan Coveleskie, "Dutch" Reuther, Sam Jones and "Dutch" 'Leonard are showing up young pitchers in the American league, Marvin Goodwin, "Red" Bird, Joe Gleason, Bob Couchman, Joe Pate, "Rip" Wheeler, Roy Crumpler and Oscar Tuero, all of whom are geeting up in years, proved to the chargin of Texas league hitters they yet have plenty of stuff.

Gleason Outstanding.

Joe Gleason, traded by Waco because he was thought to have lost his effectiveness, was the outstanding twirler. Several years ago Gleason pitched for Shreveport, and spurred by the rooting of his old friends, Joe, Tuesday, held the champion Cats to a single hit, Shreveport winning, 6-1. A home run over the score board by "Stormy" Davis, brilliant young center fielder, was the only hit made off the veteran right hander. Just to show his win of Tuesday was not a fluke, Gleason Thursday, after one day's rest, humbled the Cats again, besting "Lefty" Johns 4-3 in a 12-round battle.

"Red" Bird, veteran portsider of the Waco Cubs, Sunday beat the heavy clubbing San Antonio Bears 2-1 and Thursday he had easy pickings at his mates drove out a 15-0 win over Beaumont.

Marvin Goodwin, pitcher-manager of the Houston Buffalos, is another veteran twirler who won two games. Goodwin was the most effective moundsman in the circuit, allowing but one run in 18 innings. Sunday, Goodwin, whose work has been a notable feature out dueled Lewis and the Buffs defeated Beaumont 2-0. The Exporters got five hits. Saturday, Goodwin hooked up in another mound duel, proving superior to Lyle of Waco, Houston winning 2-1. Waco gathered seven hits. Goodwin's win of Saturday was his fourteenth of the season.

Mention Pate, Too.

Mention must be made of the feat of Joe Pate of Fort Worth in outlasting McCall of Shreveport Wednesday in a 14-inning encounter. Fort Worth fans call aPte the "Old Master," and he lived up to this title as he hurled the Cats to a 2-1 victory. "Deacon" Palmer's home run in the fourteenth won for Pate.

San Antonio played the best ball and Beaumont the poorest. Manager Coleman's Bruins won five, lost one an dtied one, while Beaumont lost six and tied one.

San Antonio, hitting opportunely and getting good pitching, caused their most hopeful supporters to have visions of a second half championship. The Bears stopped the fighting Bisons Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Collard turned in two victories during the week, while Couchman, Lindsey and winters each won a game.

Manager "Dutch" Bernson's Exporters, desperate after losing eight consecutve games, in which they failed to bunch their hits, staged a ninth-inning rally Saturday t oscore four runs and tie the score at eight-all with San Antonio.

The contest ended in a 11-inning draw.

SHREVEPORT 6; DALLAS 4.

SHREVEPORT, July 12.—The Sports had one big inning against Slim Love Sunday and it was enough to beat the Steers 6 to 4. It marked the sixth time in six days that the locals faced left-handed pitching. The big inning was the second when five runs were made. The Sports made six of their ten hits in that session. In the ninth McCall let down and Kearns doubled and Brovold followed with a home run. Score:

THREE FIGHT TITLES TO BE UP THIS WEEK

New York Fans to See Plenty of Titular Battles

NEW YORK, July 12.—Pugilistic title seekers will aim at three championships in metropolitan rings next week.

Two at Newark.

Crowns in two divisions will be contested for Monday night at Newark, N. J., and Long Island City. Paul Berlenbach will risk the light-heavyweight honors, which he recently took from Mike McTigue, against Young Marullo of New Orleans in a 12-round no decision fight at the New Jersey arena of the National Sportsmen's club, while the final round of the lightweight championship tournament, sponsored by the New York state athletic commission, will be fought at the Queensboro athletic club.

Jimmy Goodrich of Buffalo and Stanislaus Loayza of Chile, finalists in the lightweight event battle their way to the last round by eliminating six other aspirants. Goodrich defeated Eddie (Kid) Wagner of Philadelphia, Clyde J. Aekel of Cleveland, Sammy Mandell of Rockford, Ill., and Benny Valger of New York. Loayza knocked out Cirilin Olano of Cuba and Tommy White of Mexico.

Fifteen Rounds.

Their fight Monday night, which will be at 15 rounds to a decision, will be preceded by a 10-round semi-final between Eddie (Cannon Ball) Martin, former bantam weight champion, and Irish Johnny Curtain of Jersey City, as well as several preliminaries.

The Berlenbach-Marullo match will mark the champion's first in his newly acquired crown. In their first engagement here before Berlenbach lifted the title Marullo lost the judge's decision.

The week's third title fight brings Eddie Shea of Chicago here in quest of the bantamweight mantle now draped over the shoulders of Charley (Phil) Rosenberg.

Shea, who has been engaged in more than 65 fights without losing a decision, will have 15 rounds to dethrone the champion by a knockout or judges' decision on Wednesday night.

NO CALM

the jury will be sworn, the indictment read and the defendant enter a plea of "not guilty." Although not a fixed practice in the Tennesse courts, Judge John T. Raulston has indicated from the bench tha he will request an opening statement from the prosecution and the defense as to what they expect to show.

Attorneys in both camps said today that this suggestion of the court will be followed. ntroduction of witnesses for the state would be the next move. Attorney General A. T. Stewart thinks the state's case can be presented in a short time, possibly not more than one hour being required. Students from science classes in the Rhea county high school, taught by Scopes, will be among the witnesses, and Walter White, superintendent of schools and official complainant in the case, will occupy the witness stand.

U. S. to Trade Gold With Australia To Pay Sailors in Fleet

HONOLULU, July 12.—The cargo of $2,000,000 in gold which the United States fleet is taking to Australia, to pay the men and defray some of the expenses of re-fueling and reprovisioning, will be transferred bodily to the Australian government in return for Australian gold coinage at an ounce-for-ounce rate.

The American money then will be melted down and transformed into Australian coinage. The American government will pay a mintage fee of three pence an ounce, but will save $30,000 in exchange on the deal, naval officers estimate. If American dollars were exchanged for Australian currency, the rate would be approximately $4.91 to the pound, while the present ounce-for-ounce arrangement plus the small mintage charge results in a saving both to Australia and the United States, it was pointed out.

It carries facilities necessary for examination and treatment of eye, ear and throat diseases common among school children.

Murchison and Paddock Come Out First and Second.

COLOMBES, France, July 12.—(AP)—The American sprinters, Loren Murchison of Newark, N. J., and Charlie Paddock of Los Angeles, finished first and second, respectively, in the 200-yard dash, the chief event of today's big holiday meet, organized by the club "Stade Francais." Murchison's time was 20 seconds flat, one second behind Paddock's world mark, and one-fifth of a second behind the French mark held by Andre Mourlon.

Big Leagues All Calm With Little Change in Teams

Washington Increases Lead In American Over Macks

NEW YORK, July 12.—(AP)—Comparative calm prevailed tonight along the baseball fronts after three weeks' of desperate tugging at the latch strings of first division posts with the sixteen clubs at the half way mark.

The mid-season brush of Pittsburgh and New York in the National was one of two mild flurries last week. By winning two tilts out of three from the Corsairs and five out of seven in the week's play the champions were able to keep close to the Pirate craft only a single game short of first place.

A last second ripple was tossed up when both St. Louis teams set sail for third place in both circuits. The steady pull of the Cardinals in the National under the crippled home run leader, Rogers Hornsby, carried the club right to the very tail of the Robins, who tripped five times in six starts.

The Browns made even more marked progress in the American, clipping New York and Washington for six triumphs to climb within a game and a half of fourth place, Detroit, and to within two games of third place, Chicago. Continuation of their pace by the Tigers at the expense of Boston and Philadelphia kept the Sisler entry out of the first division.

Macks Go Down.

The lagging Athletics suffered at the hands of steady pitching of the Indians and retired from the shadow of the Cleveland wigwams only to face a battery of Detroit hurling arms which had furnished sensational performance in abundance against the Red Sox. First place Washington consequently found it necessary merely to break even during the week to become firmly fortified at the pinnacle.

Baffling of Philadelphia batters brought its reward for Cleveland in a return to sixth place as the drifting Yankees slipped back.

Chicago teams put in a losing week, in spite of the fact that the White Sox gave the Senators sufficient trouble to check the Washington romp and retain for themselves third place against threatening Detroit and St. Louis.

No National Changes.

The race in the National brought no changes in the positions of the eight clubs. The Boston team for the first time in six weeks got around on the winning side of the week's play with a half dozen wins in ten starts. Cincinnati and Philadelphia, with four victories apiece, continued to jockey for fifth place with only a single game separating them, while Brooklyn, gripped by another slump, appeared ready to step aside for driving St. Louis.

The week's major league record of games won and lost, runs, hits, errors, opponents runs and home runs, including games of Saturday, follow:

Record News Beats Daily Times, 10-7

The Wichita Falls Record News baseball team definitely decided a moot question yesterday morning when members of the mechanical force of the morning paper won a stirring seven-inning battle from the Times ball team by a 10 to 7 score. The game was the outgrowth of a long dispute between the rival teams and the closely fought score showed the zeal with which the players sought to come out on top.

"Lefty" Spencer, slab ace of The Record News was called into the game after Nesbit and Starns had failed to hold down the afternoon pressmen. Spence, a former pro, turned in a nice game and credit for the win goes to him. Gib McClary tossed the full route for the losers and pitched a good brand of ball.

Leon Moore, pressman and catcher for The Record News led the attack with a single, a double and a home run. Wayne Putman also hit for the route for the winners. Lewis Berry, outfielder for the News, turned in a great fielding game, one of his catches being a shoestring clutch that retired the side when a rally seemed pending.

Tommis Thompson, coach of the winner, and foreman of the composing room, took his station on the third base coaching line early in the battle and lent his bit to win the game.

Prisoner Escapes A Home by Amount New Suit; Returns

BERLIN, July 12.—(AP)—Pride in his personal attire so dominated Bernard Pulkowsky, a criminal serving a term, that when a new charge was discovered against him before the expiration of his sentence, he escaped from prison to replenish his wardrobe and then later voluntarily returned to court clad with sartorial excellence and carrying himself with jaunty pride.

Before the date fixed for his appearance on the new charge Pulkowsky asked the warden for leave of absence to purchase the proper clothes saying "It is quite out of the question for me to appear before the high court in this squalid prison dress." When his request was refused he simply made his get-away leaving behind a courteous note to the warden in which he wrote, "My sense of decency simply won't allow me to appear before the court in prison clothes. But dont' fear. I shall not fail to be there at the proper time." And he was.

The judge showed he had a sense of humor by his treatment of the fastidious prisoner but as the latter was convicted of having concealed stolen goods he was sentenced to 10 months at hard labor.

Hardiest of All Men Live On Norway Coast

Some of Feats Performed By Norsemen Almost Unbelievable

By ROBERT EDGREN.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The Iron Men of athletics today are Ty Cobb in baseball, Harry Greb in the ring, Big Bill Tilden in tennis, Walter Hagen in golf, Jackson Scholz and Bud Houser in track and field sports. If you go back into history you can find a lot more.

Fast mail, the telegraph, radio, automobile, speed boats, airplane and modern fighting weapons have nearly cut the iron man out of a job in modern civilization. In ancient times the Norsemen sailed and rowed their small galleys half around the world and developed a race of fighting giants. There is nothing in the world today like the old Scandinavian Berserk warriors. A score of these, worked into a fighting frenzy, would attack an army and cut down hundreds in hand to hand fighting, before they were all killed.

Husky Type of Humans.

On the far northern coast of Norway today lives a race of the biggest and strongest men in the modern world. Captain Peterson of Norway tells me that if Tex Rickard or some of our promoters ar visited that coast they could pick up men able to beat any fighter in the world, and easily able to break all rowing records made by Navy, Washington or any of our college crews. According to Captain Peterson these men are descendants of the old Vikings, who have lived by deep sea fishing, generation after generation for the past thousand years. Men seven feet tall are common, and their strength and endurance is beyond the strength and endurance of any other men on earth. They have no gasoline engines and they think nothing of rowing their heavy boats thirty miles to sea to haul their nets, and then rowing back again with a boat load of fish. They live almost entirely on dried fish and black bread, like the Finns who have produced Nurmi and many other Olympic champions. They have tremendous shoulders and arms and hands, very small waists, and a fat man is unknown among them.

How's This One?

Captain Peterson tells a story of one fisherman, six feet eight inches tall and over 70 years of age, who rowed to the fishing grounds with his four grandsons. A fierce storm arose and they were driven far out to sea. Heading against the storm they rowed until the young men collapsed one by one. At last only the old giant was able to row. There were six heavy oars in the boat and the old man broke four of them, but with the last pair he brought the boat in after battling the storm for two days and two nights. This man, Captain Peterson avers, could pick Zbyszko up and break him to pieces with his fingers.

We may not have any such giants in this country, although some of our Gloucester fishermen might equal their feats.

COTTON SHORTAGE IN RUSSIA

Peasants and Laborers Beslege Mills For Cloth, None to Be Had.

MOSCOW, July 12.—(AP) — The shortage of cotton goods in Russia never has been felt so acutely as this year. With the coming of the summer Moscow textile shops are literally besieged by all classes of the town population and numerous peasants, who come great distance to buy a few yards of gingham or cotton dress goods. Foreigners are much surprised by the sight of long queues of women shoppers who stand patiently all day long outside every state textile shop, obstructing traffic and necessitating the regulation of the crowd by militiamen.

BONDS.

NEW YORK, July 12.—(AP)—Surplus funds, piling up after their release from mid-year requirements, overflowed into the bond market last week and lifted the price level moderately higher. In the face of severe competition from new offerings for re-investment favor, Wall Street agreed that the progress of the market signified underlying conditions of unquestioned soundness.

Overshadowing in interest, all other developments in the bond circles, was the announcement that Australia was about to borrow in the American market for the first time probably would negotiate a $100,000,000 loan. Great Britain guarding funds to insure the success of her gold resumption policy, is understood to have approved the proposal of London bankers to share the business with a Morgan syndicate. An early offering of bonds, probably bearing interest of five or five and one-half per cent, is expected.

Arrangements have been concluded by Speyer and company with the Hungarian government for a $10,000,000 Hungarian consolidated municipal loan. The bonds will be placed on the market this week.

Statement of U. S. Banks Show Greater Prosperity, Report

NEW YORK, July 12.—(AP) — Confidence in business prospects was strengthened last week by indications of record breaking prosperity as revealed in the national bank statements showing their condition at the close of the first half of the year. Resources, deposits and undivided profits of the large New York institutions exceeded the previous high records established in the boom years of 1919 and 1920, while Chicago banks reported corresponding gains.

This satisfactory commentary on the state of trade, coming at a time when signs of expansion were visible in various lines of industry, engendered a more cheerful sentiment in financial circles.

Among the most illuminative aspects of the business situation last week were advancing prices for several steel products, coppers, crude oil, and rubber, the last named commodity selling above $1 a pound, the highest price in almost ten years. With crude oil output declining, steadily, a commission of expert geologists predicted that the peak of production in this country had been passed for all time and that it was not too early to begin a search for satisfactory petroleum substitutes.

TO OMIT RHODES DINNER

Custom in England Is Passed Over Due to Death of Lord Milner.

OXFORD, Eng., July 12.—(AP)—The annual dinner given by the Rhodes scholars will be omitted this year because of the death recently of Lord Milner. It is thought the custom of the annual dinner will not be revived until the new building, which is to be the Oxford headquarters of the Rhodes trust, is completed.

Past dinners have been notable for the eminence of the speakers, English statesmen, including the prime ministers, making them occasions for pronouncements of their views on Anglo-American and empire questions.

New Kind of Cherry Is Yellow With Red Stripes Around It

YAKIMA, Wash., July 12.—(AP)—A new variety of cherry, as unusual in its origin as in its appearance, has been developed by Edward Remy, an orchardist residing near here. The cherry is a golden yellow in color and is distinguished by a deep crimson stripe that extends from the base of the fruit to the tip. When the fruit is mature, the same dark coloring runs from the skin to the pit.

Remy, a native of Belgium, has named his new variety "King Albert." "It is like King Albert at Liege," he explained, 'for it was found where it was not expected."

Remy first noticed the peculiarly marked fruit on a single branch of a tree of Lambert cherries. Undecided whether the light colored cherries bearing the crimson stripe were a true variety, he budded from this branch to an oxheart cherry tree. The branch developed from that bud now is loaded with the "King Albert" cherries.

THE KATY'S YOUR RAILROAD

Rates on Agricultural Products Are Relatively Low

The Katy receives an average of less than seven mills for hauling a ton of wheat one mile. On agricultural and animal products, in 1924, the freight charges averaged 6.41 per cent of their value; on mineral products, 44.4 per cent; on forest products, 23.5 per cent.

Rate Reductions Save Shippers $1,500,000 a Day

Railroad rates reached their peak in 1920. They have since declined steadily. Rate reductions in the three-year period since 1921 are saving shippers $1,547,264 a day. Average railroad revenue for hauling a ton of freight one mile in 1924 was 12½ per cent less than in 1921, and ⅔ per cent less than in 1922. As a result of rate reductions and increased wages, the railroads did not earn, in 1924, a "fair return" on their tentative valuation to which they were entitled under the law. Western railroads earned only 4.54 per cent on their valuation. Rate re-adjustment and wage increases in 1924 reduced the net income of Western railroads $102,200,000.

M-K-T revenues were reduced $1,543,473 in 1924 through low rate levels. Despite decreased rates and higher wages, management, through increased operating efficiency, has steadily raised the standard of Katy service. Over the last four-month period, 98.2 per cent of all Katy passenger trains have made scheduled time. In freight service, for the same period, 96.9 per cent of all scheduled merchandise package cars arrived at destination on time.

The Katy—the pioneer line in its distinctive territory, and the only line serving all the more important centers in Oklahoma and Texas from both Kansas City and St. Louis—solicits your support and earnest co-operation in its ever-vigilant efforts to afford the Great Southwest a measure of service commensurate with its industrial, civic and commercial growth.

OIL LAND AND LEASES.

CLAY COUNTY OIL—I am drilling a well about a mile N. W. of Petrolia and the old Texas company lease which has been producing about ten or twelve years. I have a chance of making a real oil well. Will sell an offset forty or a twenty across a forty or to responsible party, an interest in the well. James T. Cumley, 417 First National Bank Bldg. Wichita Falls, Texas.

LISTEN TO THIS!
Seventy-five dollars will buy an undivided one-sixtieth interest in 500 acres of oil and gas leases around a deep test now being drilled by Marland Oil company and where the big geologists claim the mother oil field of America is going to be found. Listen, these leases are distributed in small tracts with the rentals paid on until 1929, and if Marland gets a well a one-sixtieth interest in this 500 acres would make you rich. If interested I will be glad to show you geological report and contour map covering these leases. For interview call or address Mr. Rice, Room 406, Kemp Hotel, Wichita Falls, Texas.

RECORD CROP IN COTTON IS SEEN ON KATY

Rains Bring Hopes High for Southwestern Oklahoma Points

The Katy territory, northwest of Wichita Falls in Oklahoma, bids fair to make another record cotton crop, so reports are made after the big rain that covered that section Saturday night. The heaviest rain was from Altus to Granfield, amounting from an inch to one and one-half inches. The rain extended south of the Red river to the Harrold and Oklaunion communities in Wilbarger county and over a large portion of Electra's trade area.

Cotton in Jackson and Tillman counties, in Oklahoma, is the best in many years. The plant is earlier and up to a splendid stand. There has been little insect damage and none from dry weather.

A cotton farmer at Tipton, a small town northwest of Frederick, who has 500 acres in cotton believes his crop far better than last year. This farmer raised more than 500 bales last season. He reported that cotton is fruiting nicely and with Saturday night's moisture prospects for a record yield could not be better.

Tillman county is one of the greatest alfalfa counties in Oklahoma. The farmers expect another cutting within a few days and there is sufficient moisture to produce another cutting. With favorable rains during August and September at least two more cuttings can be made. Tillman also produces thousands of hogs which reach the Oklahoma City and Fort Worth markets. Plenty of feed is being produced this year and the growing of swine will not be curtailed.

A. P. Reporter In Grip of Death As He Seeks Amundsen

NEW YORK, July 12.—(AP).—How a staff correspondent of the Associated Press, who was sent to the Less than a year ago when the world Amundsen-Ellsworth north pole expedition, unflinchingly braved the perils of the ice can now be told.

Less than a year when the world was praying for the safe return of the Norwegian explorer's party—believed by many a forlorn hope—J. A. Bouman of the London bureau of the Associated Press was encountering hazards as great as those of the explorers. His risks were in the line of duty. He had not thought of fame. His work, like that of all employes of his organization, was to be anonymous. His reward was to be only the knowledge that he had done his best, had met courageously the hazards that beset his journey. The public is entitled to the story.

When the Amundsen party hopped off from Spitzbergen on May 21, in two airplanes in an effort to fly to the north pole, their aim was to be back within two or three days. When days and week passed without any word from the adventurers, the world speculated as to their fate. There was insistent demand that a relief expedition be sent to Spitzbergen and as much nearer the pole as ships and airplanes could go.

The Norwegian government finally responded.

Meanwhile Bouman had been sent from London to Oslo, the capital of Norway. He reported daily the activities of the government and of the Norwegian Aero club, which had bought the exclusive rights to the personal narratives of Amundsen and members of his party.

It was arranged to send airplanes and flyers to Spitzbergen on the coal carrier Ingertre. Bouman, a man of 52 years and not particularly robust, cheerfully accepted the assignment to proceed with the relief ship, nothwithstanding that he suffered severely from a cold caught on the 51-hour journey from London to Oslo, as his office learned later.

Arctic Radio Experts To Study 'Lost Land' In the Radio World

CHICAGO, July 12.—Continuous radio communication is expected with the MacMillan-Navy arctic expedition, which was spasmodic and frequently interrupted on MacMillan's last voyage when radio equipment was first taken into that region. An extensive and elaborat radio plant is with this expedition, designed and planned with arctic use in view. The equipment last year was comparatively poor and meager, permitting of limited experiments.

The first test will come when the expedition enters the boundary of 55 north latitude, where last year all reception faded away. The "lost sector" continued until past 76 north latitude. There was no known reason at that time for the inability to hear United States broadcasting between those two latitudes, although the aurora borealis exists in that land. It is believed to have been an influence, for immediately after passing it reception again was had. The low wave transmitter was designed to penetrate this region.

Norway Sailor Who Left Home 35 Yearr Ago Gets Letter Sent At Same Time

TACOMA, Wash., July 12.—(AP)—Haakon Bader, who left his native town in Norway in 1888, recently received a letter mailed from the same place shortly afterward. During its 37 years' wandering, the missive had been handled by the postal services in five different nations, for in that time Norway gained her independence from Denmark, under whose flag Bader was born.

The letter written by Bader's father, long since dead, expressed his love and good wishes for his sailor son and contained photographs of Bader's parents.

When Bader, a lad of 18, went to sea from his native village of Kragero, Norway, the letter followed him to Cardiff, Wales, but arrived shortly after he had set sail for Buenos Aires. He had also left Buenos Aires when it reached that city, and it was turned over to the Danish consul there.

There it lay in the consular files, while Bader pursued his seafaring life over most of the world, including a visit to his home village. Later he joined the gold rush to Alaska and then came to Tacoma, where he opened a cigar store.

Some two months ago someone discovered the ancient letter in the consular files at Buenos Aires, and it was returned to its place of origin. There friends gave postal authorities Bader's last known address in Tacoma and it was sent here and forwarded again to his present place of residence.

The letter, written in his father's hand and still plainly legible, was like a message from another world.

3 Bandits Lose In Gun Fight With Officers

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 12. — Three bandits, their ammunition exhausted after a running gun fight with peace officers, were captured in the suburbs of Port Arthur early today after having been surprised while in the act of "sticking-up" a road house near here. Deputy Sheriff Artie Pollock suffered a flesh wound in his left ear, Fred Riley's left thumb was shot away and T. E. Abshire had a bullet wound in his left foot as a result of the fight which started when Deputy Pollock confronted Abshire as he entered the roadhouse.

Using Lacy Giles, proprietor, as a shield from behind whom the bandit emptied his gun at the deputy, Abshire fled to his two companions in a car. Sheriff Tom Garner, Deputy Allen Wheat and Police Captain J. C. Dunman of Beaumont started in pursuit of the fleeing trio. After a chase of three miles the bandits were overtaken and captured. They gave their names as Fred Riley, T. E. Abshire and F. E. Nichols. They were lodged in jail and charged with highway robbery with firearms.

Radio Fan Chooses From Jail to Buy Of Static in Air

SPOKANE, Wash., July 12.—Frank Stoop, best known as a trapshooting enthusiast, recently purchased a residence here which he has pronounced as "the ideal radio home." That judgment is based upon investigations of various neighborhoods of this city with a view to their atmospheric conditions.

Mr. Stoop spent several weeks in his search for a good radio location. After inspecting a house by daylight, if he found it otherwise acceptable, he would return at night with his radio set and "tune in." If the reception was poor his search was continued next day.

"I found one house that sure did take my eye," he said. "I wanted to buy that house, but the static was so thick that I couldn't think of carrying the deal through. I tested out more than a dozen neighborhoods by radio before I found the right place. But, oh boy, I get it pretty now."

Mr. Stoop formerly was president of the American Trapshooters' association.

Petrified Forest Of Giant Oaks Is Discovered in U. S.

SPOKANE, Wash., July 12.—(AP) Discovery of a petrified forest of giant oak trees, believed to be the only one of its kind on the North American continent, has been made near the confluence of the Spokane and Columbia rives in this state, E. M. Tardy, United States school inspector for the Indian department, now located on the Colville Indian reservation, announced the find, which was made by Dr. W. A. Johnston.

Owing to its difficulty of access, the forest has not yet been fully explored, but is known to extend for half a mile along the south bank of the Columbia. The trees are two to five feet in diameter and some 60 feet tall.

Plans Made to Go Down Into Dead Sea For Mineral Ores

A government announcement says that in view of the existence in the waters of the Dead Sea of certain minerals, the winning and marketing of which for commercial purposes is believed to be practicable, the crown agents for the colonies, acting on behalf of the goverment of Palestine, are prepared to receive applications for the grant of rights to undertake operations.

GERMANS HELP FRENCH FIGHT RIFFS, REPORT

Berlin Claims that Half Of Forces Are From Germany

BERLIN, July 12.—(AP) — One-half of the foreign legionaires fighting on the side of France against Abd el Krim in Morocco are Germans, in the opinion of Berlin military experts. Not only is it untrue that Germans have come to the aid of the Moroccan chieftain, they say, but on the contrary France is being supported by about 12,000 to 15,000 German subjects enrolled in the foreign legion.

This rather startling fact is explained in the following manner: In article 179 of the treaty of Versailles, Germany undertakes not to permit any of its subjects to enter the service of another power, except that it is specifically provided that this article shall not be applicable to the French foreign legion.

During 1922 and 1923, many German young men found themselves out of jobs. Others found the daily grist of Germany's reconstruction task too dull and unadventurous. They readily listened, it is said, to the arguments of French recruiting officers, who told them of comfortable wages, exciting service, and a carefree life in the French foreign legion.

In this way at least 15,000 young men enlisted in service for France, little thinking that they would soon be called upon to shed their blood on the battlefields of Morocco for a nation against which they fought only a decade and less previously.

MADRID BEGGARS INCREASE

Public Too Generous for Police to Stop Practice

MADRID, July 12.—(AP)—Street begging here is on the increase and the efforts of the authorities to suppress it have been frustrated by a too generous public who give liberal alms to the beggars.

The authorities have now, however, issued a photograph in the press which they hope may have the effect of putting an end to what has been described as a nuisance. In this picture a number of beggars are shown before and after their admittance to the asylum reserved for beggars. In one the men are shown in a very pitiable condition, blind, paralytic and one apparently with one leg.

In the other the photograph shows the same men erect and apparently quite normal, the missing leg having been untucked from its hiding place. The pictures, it was pointed out, are merely proof of the case with which the alms-giving persons in Madrid is tricked.
