Road Deaths On Increase

By The Associated Press

New Year weekend traffic deaths climbed today. The total reached 262.

The number of fatalities on streets and highways rose steadily, but remained well under the rate of the recent Christmas holiday period, when the loss of 720 lives set a record for any holiday of any length.

Rain added to the hazards of travel in some sections, but the bad weather wasn't as widespread as on the Christmas weekend—also a three - day period.

The National Safety Council has estimated that between 360 and 440 Americans may die in traffic accidents during the tabulating period which began at 6 p.m. (local time) Thursday and will end at midnight Sunday.

During the three - day New Year celebration a year ago, the traffic toll was 474, a record for that holiday.

Deaths on the highways during the first 10 months this year averaged about 120 a day. An Associated Press survey of traffic deaths during a 78-hour non-holiday weekend, from 6 p.m. Dec. 9 to midnight Sunday, Dec. 12, showed 420.

Weather Adds To Hazards

By The Associated Press

Texas began 1966 with warm and humid weather today.

The temperatures rose to the high 60s in most areas with a weak cold front moving eastward doing little to lower them.

Several bands of scattered showers accompanied the cooler air mass but no rain of substance was predicted.

The light : mist dampened streets and highways just enough to making driving hazardous for the thousands of vacationers returning from Christmas - New Year's holidays.

Temperatures early today ranged from 68 degrees at Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Brownsville, Victoria and Childress down to 33 degrees at Dalhart.

Only the extreme west section of the state had clear skies.

PLANNING CAMPAIGN—Jim Heath, left, Chamber of Commerce manager, and Derrell Parrish, who will head a chamber membership drive, map plans for a kick off session scheduled for 7:15 a.m. Tuesday at the 66 Cafe.

Chamber Slates Membership Drive

The Snyder Chamber of Commerce will kick off a membership drive Tuesday morning.

The campaign will get underway at a breakfast session scheduled for 7:15 a.m. at the 66 Cafe.

Derrell Parrish heads up the campaign, and he, along with Chamber Manager Jim Heath, will coordinate the effort to increase the membership of the organization by 85.

All members of the Chamber of Commerce, as well as prospective members, are invited to attend the kick off event Tuesday morning.

Basic purpose of the campaign is two-fold—to increase the Chamber of Commerce budget, and to enlist the talents of more local citizens in pursuing one of the most ambitious work programs ever attempted by the chamber.

The objective, 85 new members and an increase of $5,000 for the annual budget, will enable the organization to work toward some major goals that have been outlined previously.

A major item, is the elimination of intermittent special assessment events in which merchants and other chamber members finance various projects, such as Christmas decorations, etc. The Chamber of Commerce hopes to have all such events budgeted in the future so that special assessments will not be required.

At the same time, the chamber is now in the process of revamping its system of committees and interested citizens are needed to serve in various areas of interest.

Thus the goal boils down to a dynamic program of work with adequate financing.

There will be lists of prospective members at the Tuesday morning kick off session, and members wil be asked to make their individual selection of names to solicit in the campaign.

BILL HAIRSTON

Hairston Is Candidate For Re-Election

Bill Hairston, County Commissioner in Precinct No. 4, has announced that he is a candidate for re-election, subject to action in the Democratic Primary on May 7.

Hairston, who is beginning the final year of his first term in the office, said he appreciated the opportunty to serve, that he would continue to perfrom the duties of the office to the best of his ability if re-elected.

"It has been a pleasure to serve as commissioner in Precinct No. 4, and of course I will appreciate the support of the voters for a second term," Hairston said.

Grandfather Killed By 9-Year-Old

DETROIT (AP) — A nine-year-old boy shot and killed his grandfather Friday night with a gun he apparently mistook for a toy, police said.

David Todd, 50, Detroit, was shot once through the head.

Police said Todd's visiting grandson, Mayo Todd, also of Detroit, apparently thought the gun was a toy when he picked it up off a dining room table and pointed it at the elder Todd.

Allied Forces Mount Two New Offensives

By THOMAS A. REEDY

SAIGON Viet Nam (AP) — Allied forces mounted two New Year's Day offensives against the Viet Cong north of Saigon, but the Communists inflicted heavy losses in an attack down in the Mekong Delta region.

Korean and Vietnamese troops teamed up near Tuy Hoa, 240 miles northeast of Saigon, and reported killing 65 Viet Cong and capturing four suspects in a dawn attack.

U.S. and Vietnamese paratroops continued their push through the swamps 35 miles northwest of the capital where 125 Communists were reported killed and 63 captured Friday.

U.S. and government casualties were still reported light and little contact was made with the enemy on the second day of the operation.

In the delta about 85 miles southwest of Saigon, a Vietnamese regional force suffered heavy casualties when it was attacked by a Viet Cong force of unknown size.

Reinforcements were rushed to the area in Vinh Dinh Province where fighting continued.

Air attacks still were withheld from North Viet Nam and an Air Force spokesman said "none are contemplated for the moment." The lull began with the start of a 30-hour cease-fire Dec. 24.

Air Force Secretary Harold Brown arrived today for a week's tour of installations in Southeast Asia and within an hour saw action. He flew 37 miles north of Saigon to watch an attack by B52's from Guam on suspected Viet Cong hideouts in the jungles.

Air attacks against the Viet Cong also were on a diminished scale over the past 24 hours. U.S. and South Vietnamese pilots flew 267 sorties against river shipping, camps, supply and storage areas. Pilots recorded destroying 308 Viet Cong buildings, 11 sampans and some gun emplacements and bunkers.

Navy planes from carriers flew only 39 sorties over South Viet Nam but dense foliage prevented damage assessment.

The Communist bands seemed under some kind of orders to keep out of sight almost over the entire country, for the moment at least.

Some allied strategists calculated that the Viet Cong were resting and regrouping to seize some new kind of initiative.

The din of battle around Quang Ngai, the hottest spot of the past two days, also had died down. The twin-pronged attack by the Viet Cong against outposts at Minh Long and Son Ha was broken off.

Government survivors straggled into other outposts during the day, their units battered and beaten. Reports from the scene said casualties apparently were heavy.

There was no sign, however, that the Viet Cong intended to push closer to Quang Ngai City, 330 miles north of Saigon.

In fact, having thrown a big punch at Hill 66, the Son Ha outpost, the Viet Cong coolly quit it and allowed government troops to have it back. The Minh Long post was gone, however, and the South Vietnamese started to set up another post 1½ miles to the north.

Subways Are Stilled In Big City

NEW YORK (AP — Subway and bus service in the nation's largest city was halted by a strike on this first day of the new year, and a newly sworn mayor spent his first hours in office feverishly working to minimize the effects.

Only a few homebound revelers were on the streets and trains when the strike went into effect at 5 a.m. Less than 90 minutes later, the trains had completed their runs and were headed for the yards where pickets had begun to appear.

Some celebrants straggled into the subway stations and expressed disbelief that a strike often threatened had materialized. Tears were visible in the eyes of some teen-agers who told police they didn't know how they'd reach home.

Commuter railroad and bus service from points outside the city was not immediately affected by the strike.

But the strike closed down all but one of the city's private bus lines. The only line still in operation was in the Borough of Queens.

No Slowdown For Envoys

By RAYMNOD E. PALMER

LONDON (AP) — Arthur J. Goldberg, President Johnson's special envoy, flies in from Paris today to meet with Prime Minister Harold Wilson on Viet Nam.

Another Johnson Emissary, W. Averell Harriman, met with President Tito of Yugoslavia at Brdo Castle in the northern part of the Balkan Communist country.

Their trips have been described by the White House as part of a widespread series of peace-seeking missions.

Harriman arrived in Kranj, an industrial city near Brdo Castle, by special train from Belgrade and continued his trip by car. He was accompanied by C. Burke Elbrick, the U.S. ambassador to Yugoslavia. Yugoslav Foreign Minister Marko Nikezic also attended the meeting.

Harriman has already talked with Polish leaders in Warsaw and is to fly to India after his talks with Tito. He was to see Tito Friday, but fog kept his presidential jet from landing at Ljubljana Airport after it took off from Belgrade.

Goldberg met with President Charles de Gaulle of France Friday and with Pope Paul VI on Wednesday.

Goldberg hoped to return home Friday for New Year's Eve celebrations but surprise orders from Washington sent him on to London. This came as a surprise also to the American Embassy in London and to Wilson.

The prime minister was holidaying in the Scilly Isles off southwest England and hoped to celebrate his 26th wedding anniversary today quietly with his wife and their son, Giles.

Within an hour of Goldberg's announcement, emergency arrangements were made to get Wilson back to London. He is flying by helicopter to the mainland, then by a Royal Air Force plane to London.

He meets Goldberg tonight at No. 10 Downing Street, the prime minister's official London residence.

Goldberg's principal object, apparently, is to tell Wilson about talks he and Harriman have had so far.

"During my services as your District Clerk, I have had a deep consciousness of the trust and confidence placed in me by the people of this county. At all times I have tried to conduct myself and the affairs of the office in such a way as to reflect the greatest possible credit on those I represent."

Judge Taylor Is Seeking Re-Election

Sterling Taylor, Snyder businessman, has announced his plans to file for re-election to the office of Cunty Judge in the May 7 Demeratic primary.

In announcing his candidacy for a second term, Judge Taylor said, "If you see fit to honor me with another term, I shall be very grateful and will continue to serve you to the best of my ability."

A resident of the county since 1907, Taylor attended school at Ira and cllege in Dallas and East Texas. He has operated a real estate and insurance business in Snyder for the past 19 years.

A veteran of World War I, Taylor also has had experience in the banking, feed grain and grocery business. He operated the Snyder Co-operative Gin Co. five years after organizing it in 1935.

AGNES BROWN

Mrs. Brown Candidate For Re-Election

Mrs. Agnes Brown, County treasurer, is announcing her plans to file for re-election to the office in the Democratic primary May 7.

Mrs. Brown has been a resident of the county for the past 45 years, and she has resided in Snyder during the past 15 years. In announcing her plans to seek re-election, Mrs. Brown pledged "continued efficient operation of the office of County Treasurer."

She is a member of the State Treasurers Association, and has served on three committees of that organization: membership, ways and means and constitution and by-laws.

Year Is Greeted By Steel Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new business-government dispute over prices greeted the New Year following Bethlehem Steel Corp.'s decision to charge more for some of its products.

President Johnson called for a meeting between company officials and his own council of economic advisers, but there was no immediate word on whether one would occur.

Bethlehem spokesmen weren't available, and Gardner Ackley, chairman of the council, declined all comment.

Earlier, Ackley said on the basis of information available, the Bethlehem action "must be characterized as inflationary and not in the public interest."

Johnson, spending the holidays at his Texas ranch, asserted: "This is certainly no time for unwarranted price increases which can lead to inflation."

Twice during 1965 the Johnson administration forced major industries — aluminum and copper — to rescind announced price hikes.

In 1962, President John F. Kennedy blocked an across-the-board price increase by most of the steel industry. Those attempted raises were attributed to labor costs. Bethlehem made no such statement in its announcement Friday.

The Bethlehem boosts amount to $5 a ton on structural steel shapes and piling, the basic frameworks for big buildings, bridges, highways and some heavy equipment. These products represent 7 per cent of the total steel market.

Edward D. Bickford, Bethlehem's vice president for sales, said the increases were being made "in the light of growing industry acceptance and demand for more economical and lightweight, higher-strength structural steels and the substantially increased mill time required to produce them on a tonnage basis."

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Would you please tell me the difference between a maid and a housewife? My husband says there is no difference. Thank you.

WACO HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: If you have a maid, you'd better keep your eye on your husband.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I am a working housewife. I get up every morning at 5 and cook my husband a good breakfast. I don't consider it a chore, Abby. I love to do it. But I am not very talkative in the morning. In all my 41 years of life, I have never liked to talk to anyone right after I get up. It takes me a couple of hours before I feel like talking. This has caused a lot of arguments with my husband. He says if I don't feel like being sociable in the morning I should stay in bed. But I like to get up and cook him a nice breakfast as a wife should. I don't care if he talks to me or not in the morning, so why should he be so stubborn on this one point?

A GOOD WIFE

DEAR WIFE: No matter how good the breakfast is, it's apparently not as important to your husband as the "sociability" he's missing. Not all husbands are alike. Some would rather have less gab and more grub. But yours is the one you have to live with, so either make an effort to be more cheerful and communicative in the morning or stay in the sack.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I would like a little advice on how to handle a situation that concerns my daughter and myself. She is 16, and has a rather steady boy friend. Because I am a divorcee and have to work, I cannot be home until 6 in the evening. I have made a rule that she should not have her boy friend come into our apartment until I get home. She says she should be able to invite him in after school, even though I am not there. I might add that her younger sister and brother (ages 8 and 11) are usually home. Also my daughter's word is good, I trust her, the boy is a nice boy, but I don't want her talked about, and we live in an apartment with many nosey gossips.

WORKING MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If you have made an ironclad "rule" with only your nosey, gossipy neighbors in mind, you are being unfair to your daughter. Tell her she may let her beau come in after school for no more than an hour, occasionally, but not every evening. Give her a chance to use her own judgment, expect the best of her and I'll bet she won't let you down.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: My son, a junior in high school, has an English teacher who, in my opinion, has a warped sense of humor. She recently gave her students an assignment of which I think you should be aware. She asked them each to write you an imaginary problem." She said the wilder the problem, the better. I don't know what she expects to prove. I certainly can't see any literary value to an assignment of this kind. I suppose by this time you are an expert at detecting counterfeit letters, but I wanted to warn you that about 50 of them will be coming your way soon. This is modern education?

RAT FINK FATHER FROM BOSTON

DEAR RAT FINK: Perhaps the teacher wants to encourage creative writing. I hate to disappoint her, but no matter how much imagination the students show, the results can hardly match the fantastic, absurd but entirely authentic problems that people send my way every day.

WHAT A WAY TO START — New York City Mayor-elect John V. Lindsay reflects at press conference while discussing transportation union negotiations for new contract. Subway strike began five minutes after Lindsay took office. (AP Wirephoto)

New Mayor Greeted By Discord

NEW YORK (AP)—Republican Mayor John V. Lindsay embarked today on a four-year term as chief executive of the nation's largest city with settlement of a transit strike his first job.

Lindsay was mayor only five minutes when Michael J. Quill, president of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union, broke off transit negotiations.

The tall, handsome and boyish 44-year-old former congressman had campaigned on the theme that the city was in crisis — and the hard facts were tossed at him with stunning impact.

After the subway negotiations collapsed, Lindsay talked to newsmen and headed for City Hall. He appeared shaken.

"It is time for the people to support a new mayor," he said, "and I ask for that support."

"I'll be at City Hall," Lindsay said, "for my job is running the city, which is a struck city."

As he took the oath of office for the $50,000-a-year job Friday night, Lindsay said: "Ours is a proud city. It should be a proud city and that is why I look forward with pride to being its mayor."

The oath was administered by State Supreme Court Justice William F. Hecht Jr., in a City Hall ceremony that took only six minutes. Lindsay's wife, four children and friends and relatives attended.

Lindsay officially assumed office from retiring Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner at the stroke of midnight. On his last day in office after 12 turbulent years, Wagner and his family flew to Mexico for a vacation.

Inaugurations were planned for each of the city's five boroughs during the day, another of Lindsay's symbolic gestures of bringing government closer to the public.

The transit crisis forced Lindsay to cancel inaugural visits to each of the city's five boroughs durng the day. The visits had been planned as another of his symbolic gestures of bringing government closer to the public.

However, the mayor's office said that public inaugural ceremonies at City Hall and the inaugural ball would still be held in the evening. The 3,500 persons attending the ball at the Hotel Americana will pay $10 each.

Lindsay took the oath of office in the City Hall room that once served as the office of the late Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, the legendary "Little Flower." La Guardia was the last GOP mayor and he retired 20 years ago.

Lindsay, a four-term congressman, ended Democratic domination of the city of eight million with a fusion triumph at the Nov. 2 election. He did it with Liberal party support and quickly shot up into national prominence.

Lindsay has brushed aside persistent speculation that he could be the Republican candidate for president or vice president in 1968. He said he wants to do a good job as mayor and plans a nonpartisan administration.

"I wish every New Yorker a very happy, successful, peaceful and exciting 1966," Lindsay said six hours before the old year ended.

'Dry' River Cuts Phoenix In Half

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A dry desert river that went on a bender New Year's Eve subsided slowly today after its floodwaters had crushed a new interstate freeway and cut a city in half.

The raging Salt River, flooded by the emergency release of water from brimful reservoirs, raced through central Arizona at a rate unseen in this century.

Nearly 8,000 persons whose homes had been threatened were herded into churches, school buildings and National Guard armories. By late Friday night, all but about 1,700 were back home.

Major natural gas lines ruptured at two places in the river, and pleas went out to homeowners throughout the Salt River Valley to use gas sparingly.

The estimates of damage began at $1.2 million, mostly to private property.

Power to a wide area of northeast Phoenix was cut off for two hours when water hit six substations of the Salt River Project.

The shock to the 750,000 people in the Phoenix area, unused to seeing water in any river, was followed by wild curiosity as they raced to see it.

Then, as the roily brown waters swept on, a half-mile wide in places, destruction came.

Riverbed homes by the dozens were flooded. A 100-foot section of the new Interstate 10 freeway crumbled and fell into the water, leaving only two undamaged eastbound lanes. The highway suffered an estimated $350,000 damage.

The water washed across dozens of streets and highways, halting travel throughout the day on all but two north-south thoroughfares. Occasionally, it was impossible to use those either.

Busy holiday transcontinental traffic was slowed to a crawl.

The floodwaters crested and slowly receded about 20 hours after spillways were opened from the six reservoirs of the Salt River chain in the mountains northeast of Phoenix. The storage stood at record levels following long rains and above-normal snowmelt.

Spokesmen for the Salt River Project said about 75,000 cubic feet per second were going into the watershed storage system — and about that much was still being released in an effort to avoid a much greater flood.

In extreme eastern Arizona, the swollen Gila River flooded its banks in the Safford-Clifton area for the second time in two weeks.

The Gila, fed by heavy runoff from New Mexico, was nearly a mile wide. But no evacuation was reported.

3 Car Fires Are Reported

City Firemen received three calls to car fires Friday and Saturday, including one in which a local woman received minor burns.

Mrs. C. W. Berryman, 1609 Avenue E sustained minor burns on the leg and singed hair when her 1965 Model Chevrolet caught fire about 4:20 a.m. Saturday some three miles east of town on the Camp Springs road. She treated the burns herself.

Fire also burned the 1961 Model Chevrolet of R. C. Wester while it was on the Cogdell Memorial Hospital parking lot abut 1 a.m. Saturday. Damage to cars in both fires was undetermined.

Slight damage resulted to the car of Paul Rollins when the carburetor of his 1956 Model Chevrolet backfired at Jack's Humble Station at 10:45 p.m. Friday.

Increase Set In Tuition At SMU

DALLAS (AP) — Tuition at Southern Methodist University will increase from $500 to $600 a semester, Dr. Willis M. Tate, university president, said Friday.

The increase will be used to raise faculty salaries, employ new faculty members and to provide help for needy students. Some room charges will be raised by $25 a semester.

The chief industry in Vaduz in Liechtenstein is engraving postage stamps.

Free-For-All Investigated

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — Authorities here today were investigating a New Year's Eve free-for-all in which about 50 Negro and white teenagers battled each other and police for about an hour before they were subdued.

At least a dozen persons were treated at a local hospital for various injuries, including stab wounds. All were released after treatment.

Police said nine persons were arrested. Two teen-age girls were charged with assault while seven other persons, mostly teenagers, were booked on charges of disturbing the peace.

Witnesses at the scene said the incident began when two youths began fighting in a downtown theatre. The altercation spread to the street in front of the theatre with about 50 persons taking part before reinforced police units restored order.

City police declined comment on the racial angle, but admitted their squad cars were stoned in Negro sections after the riot.

Police Chief E. E. Harper reportedly was making an all out effort to avoid a reoccurence of the fighting tonight.

Says Meet Is Vital

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — President Mohammed Ayub Khan said today his meeting with Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri at Tashkent in the Soviet Union on Tuesday could prove a "turning point" in the history of the Indian subcontinent.

In a broadcast recorded before his departure, Ayub said:

"I am going there with an open mind. We sincerely and genuinely want a settlement, but it must be a just settlement—an honorable settlement.

"I will be willing to discuss also the whole range of differences between India and Pakistan. The Tashkent meeting could prove a turning point in the history of the subcontinent..."

As the message was broadcast, Ayub arrived in Kabul Afghanistan, for a two-day visit before flying on to the Soviet Union.

Ayub said if India and Pakistan can agree on dependable peaceful procedures to settle [illegible] disputes, they "should sign a no war pledge."

Dance Ends In Tragedy

NUNEATON, England (AP) — Three young men and a 16-year old girl were crushed to death at a New Year's Eve dance Friday night when crowds surged from a balcony at Nuneaton's Cooperative Hall. Five other persons were taken to hospital with injuries.

Witnesses said the crush started when a young man fainted on the stairway between the balcony and the dance floor and people on the stairs tried to pick him up.

Others, making their way down the stairs did not see what was happening and a crush resulted, the witnesses said.

"There was a terrific stampede. All hell broke loose," said one. "People fell to the floor screaming and were trampled as others tried to push their way forward."

The police spokesman said, "There appears to be no question of any trouble or fighting."

More than 900 persons attended the dance.

Adenauer Near 90 Years, Still Fears Moscow Threat

By CARL HARTMAN

BONN, Germany (AP) — Just short of his 90th birthday, his political power almost gone, Konrad Adenauer is still in fighting form. He hopes to get the United States to keep a more suspicious eye on Moscow than on Peking.

Adenauer ruled West Germany as chancellor for 14 years, stepping down in 1963. For much of that time his "hard line" on Moscow was also U.S. policy. Then ideas of getting along with the Soviets began to win attention in Washington.

Adenauer, who will be 90 Wednesday, still sees himself as a protector of Western civilization and has not changed his ideas that the Soviet Union is the chief enemy.

"I tell you this now, particularly because you're an American," he said the other day, leaning forward in his chair and wagging a finger almost under the reporter's nose. "The danger from the Soviets that hangs over us constantly here is much greater than the danger that threatens America because of Viet Nam."

The Soviets, he fears, could march right down to the Rhine River — to the Parliament building on its bank, where he was sitting in his office.

He has spent virtually his whole life within a few yards of the Rhine — in Cologne where he was born and ruled as mayor for 16 years, in Bonn, where he built the West German Federal Republic, at his hillside home in Rhoendorf, where he now writes his memoirs.

He sees the river as the highway that brought Roman civilization and Roman Catholocism to Germany. This religion and civilization give Europe its paramount importance, in his eyes.

He observes: "My great worry about the war in Viet Nam, aside from all the people it kills, is that it will bring isolationism into flower again in America, and that this isolationism will spread to Europe. Peple in America have got to understand that."

Adenauer does not make any prediction about the war in Viet Nam, but he seems to fear it will discourage Americans so much that they will interest themselves entirely in domestic affairs.

"Look here," he says. "What does Russia want in Europe? It wants Western Europe. And if it gets Western Europe intact it will be much stronger than the United States, economically as well as militarily, and its power of resistance will be incomparably stronger than Red China's."

Adenauer does his best to impress his point on visitors. He likes to support his points by reading long extracts from the newspapers — without glasses. He has a big correspondence, works in his garden, campaigned actively in last fall's election.

Adenauer is still fighting battles on the domestic front — especially against the man who was his minister of economics for 14 years and his successor as chancellor: Ludwig Erhard.

In March Adenauer is giving up his last major political post, the chairmanship of the Christian Democratic party. He made it plain he does not want Erhard to take over the job.

He was almost angry when the reporter asked what he had to say to the German nationalists who reproach him with having tied a rump Germany to the West, rather than devoting his entire efforts to reuniting the country.

Reunification, he pointed out, would have required an agreement with the Soviet Union.

"If I had signed a treaty with the Russians," he asked, "what do you think the peoples of the world would have said — the free peoples? Do you think I wanted to see our country the scene of a conflict, political or military, between the great powers?"

Unification under such conditions, he insisted, would have meant turning all Germany into either a battlefield or a Soviet satellite.

He had also been reproached, he was reminded, for favoring reconciliation between France and Germany in preference to anything else.

On this too he argues passionately that he has done the right thing.

He says: "Ever since the 1920s when we were engaged in passive resistance against the French occupation, I have been convinced that one day there must be friendship between France and Germany. It was then I saw that Germany had no friends in all the world. Everyone was the friend of France.

"So I saw that we had to get together with France."

What did he think of Charles de Gaulle's re-election?

"What would things be like if he weren't there?

"They would be infinitely more difficult. Then the government that would have been formed in France would have been led by the Communist party, and Germany would have found itself right between Moscow and a Paris directed by Moscow. . .

"The choice between France and America is the greatest foolishness there is. We need both, and so we have to be friendly with both. And that is De Gaulle's viewpoint, too."

Earth Tremor Felt In New York State

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A 15-to-20-second earth tremor was felt today at 8:24 EST in parts of western New York, northwestern Pennsylvania and southern Ontario Province in Canada.

No injuries or property damage was reported, authorities said.

Dr. Austin McTigue, director of the physics department and in charge of the seismograph at Canisius College, said he believed that the tremor originated in the Attica-Warsaw area of Wyoming County in New York State, where there is a known active fault or fracture in the crust of the earth.

Social Security Taxes Up Today

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Social Security taxes took a $6.1 billion annual jump today, while excise taxes dropped by one-third that amount as a modest New Year's present.

Both changes were the automatic, second-stage results of two major acts of Congress last summer — the excise tax repeal law signed on June 21, and the Medicare-Social Security bill signed into law on July 30.

New Year's Eve whoopee makers got a 12-hour break on the excise tax removal. The cabaret tax repeal took effect at noon Friday; otherwise, it would have been in force right up until the bells, horns and whistles sounded at midnight.

Canceled with it was the general admissions tax on theaters, movies, race tracks and athletic events, including the day's bowl games. But in terms of benefits to consumers, the bulk of the estimated $1.7 billion annual tax savings comes from these ranges:

The tax on telephone calls ripped from 10 per cent to 3 per cent, in three more annual steps it will be eliminated.

The passenger car manufacturers' tax, reduced last June from 10 per cent to 7 per cent, now is down to 6 per cent.

Various other taxes were repealed, including the excises on club dues, movies, auto parts, jewelry, luggage, toilet articles, private communications services and the stamp tax on sales of stocks and bonds.

Steeply higher Social Security tax deductions will show up in the first paychecks of the new year. The tax is increased from 4.4 per cent to 4.2 per cent each on employes and employers, and is applied to the first $6,600 of income instead of the first $6,600.

The change amounts to a 9 per cent increase for those earning $6,600 a year or more. The maximum tax jumps from $174 a year to $277.20, with employers paying a similar increase. The self-employed will pay $405.90 this year, instead of $265.

This tax boost — and others scheduled every year or so hereafter — pays for the 7 per cent increase in old age pensions, disability, and survivors' benefits which congress made retroactive to last Jan. 1; and for the double-barreled health insurance program which starts next July 1.

The latter, financed through a trust fund like that of the Social Security system, provides hospital insurance for all persons 65 and older; plus an optional plan which substantially covers other medical costs, including doctor bills, for those who choose to pay $3 each month.

Mirror Used To Diagnose Mental Woes

By MARGARET SCHERF

CHICAGO (AP) — A fun-house mirror is allowing psychiatrists at Michael Reese Hospital a glimpse into the minds of some patients.

For many mentally disturbed persons the distorted image in the trick mirror is far from funny — it is the way they picture themselves.

For about a year, Dr. Roy R. Grinker Sr., director of the hospital's Institute of Psychosomatic and Psychiatric Research and Training, and other psychiatrists have been experimenting with a fun-house mirror to help them diagnose patients.

"It's an ordinary stand-up, full-length mirror, but behind it are a series of motors which, when manipulated by levers in the front, exert pressures which distort the mirror," said Dr. Grinker in an interview.

"The patient is placed in front of it and told to correct the image of himself by working the levers. He is told, 'Show what you really know you look like.'

"He does this several times. Measuring devices in the mirror's motors indicate the range in the patient's distorted image of himself. And I get a picture of how he sees himself."

Normal people usually produce fairly accurate reflections of themselves, said Dr. Brinker, but many with serious mental illness, especially schizophrenics, create misshapen pictures.

And the inaccurate picture of his physical self apparently is basic to the mentally disturbed person's distorted view of his position in life and the people around him, Dr. Grinker said.

"The body becomes the nucleus for ego distortions which are indicators or causes of the most malignant psychiatric disturbances," he said.

How does the patient get such a mistaken idea of his appearance?

Usually from childhood experiences, said Dr. Grinker. He may hear his mother say that he is "different." Perhaps he is teased or treated in a derogatory manner because of some attribute such as clumsiness, height, excessive shyness or poor eyes.

"He forms a self-concept of unworthiness and inferiority," said Dr. Grinker.

The mirror can provide the clue to changing a patient's self-image. Once that is corrected, said Dr. Grinker, the patient can begin to discern other realities.

Special Issue A Whopper!

LONGVIEW (AP) — Tremendous growth was enjoyed by East Texas and the state as a whole in 1965, the Longview Morning Journal reported in its 31st progress edition.

The special issue, dated Jan. 1, contains 566 pages.

The report indicated that the statewide picture was bright. The state showed a gain of 326 new industries during the year. Plant expansion was reported by 485 state plants.

Other items featured in the special issue included a $55 million expansion program for Longview and water development programs in Texas. Special attention was paid to the joint Texas-Louisiana Toledo Bend Reservoir and Lake Tawakoni.

Market Climbs For Third Year

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For the third straight year, the stock market in 1965 advanced to new highs and rolled up a record volume of trading.

Turnover exceeded a billion shares for the fifth year in Wall Street history, the other years being 1929, 1961, 1963 and 1964.

The 1965 rise was by no means a straight-line advance. The stock chart for the year looks somewhat like a lop-sided capital "N," with the dip in the middle much lower than the starting point and the crest at the end much higher.

Once more, booming profits and dividend payments as well as record national production accompanied the market movements. Escalation of hostilities in Viet Nam resulted in bigger defense spending. This was bullish for defense stocks and all the industries that feed them. The year's instalment of income tax cuts as well as excise tax reductions in midyear were further stimulants.

As the year ended, prospects were for even greater defense spending in 1966 because of the increasing United States commitment in Viet Nam. Auto industry spokesmen predicted another nine-million-car sales year in 1966. Business expansion and consumer spending continued a uptrend. All of this gave stock market analysts as basis for cautiously optimistic forecasts of a rising market in '66.

The caution stemmed not only from the length of the boom but also from rising interest rates.

On Dec. 5 the Federal Reserve Board boosted the discount rate — the nation's basic interest charge — to 4½ per cent from 4 per cent. The increase was a surprise. The next day 3.94 million shares were traded on the New York Stock Exchange in the first hour and the Dow Jones industrial stock average plummeted 17.60 points. But stocks soon began recovering. By the next day all the loss was erased and the market was higher.

The rise in the key interest rate began spreading to other types of credit, however, and a debate began as to how much or how little this trend would effect the economy and the market in '66.

Stock prices began rising almost from the start of the year but ran into a period of irregularity in February and March amid jitters over Viet Nam and the decline in U.S. gold holdings. Records for production, profits and personal income gave stock prices a firm base, however, and by May 6 the stock averages also had a string of records behind them.

Then began a very steep market decline which did not bottom out until June 28. This wiped out all the gains on average not only for 1965 but as far back as June, 1964—a full 12 months. It was a loss of 36.7 points in The Associated Press average and 92.93 points in the Dow Jones industrial average.

Aside from normal profit taking, other factors played their part. Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, called recent price increases "disturbing" and warned that more increases could bring on restrictive monetary moves by the government.

Federal expenditures for education in 1966 will total $2.7 billion, an increase of more than 10 per cent over this year.

Pope Makes New Appeal For Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI sent New Year's Day messages today to Moscow, Peking, Hanoi and Saigon appealing for peace.

The pontiff's new initiative in his personal campaign to end the war in Southeast Asia came three days after a dramatic meeting in his privte studio with Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, special envoy sent by President Johnson to consult on Viet Nam.

One week before Christmas, Pope Paul made an urgent appeal for peace in Viet Nam. He encouraged a Christmas ceasefire and said: "We applaud whoever adapts himself loyally to end the dangerous conflict."

A brief truce came in Viet Nam on Christmas Day. The Pope's efforts were cited by both sides.

In his annual Christmas message to the world on Dec. 23, the pontiff asked for "just and sincere negotiation." He called his Christmas message a new peace plea and reminded world leaders: "Stop and think. True wisdom is to be found in peace."

Well Completions Lagged In 1965

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas closed out 1965 with 6,906 oil well completions, 1,483 less than last year, the Railroad Commission said Saturday.

Gas well completions also lagged in 1965—2,383 to 2,756 in 1964.

The 1965 totals included 154 oil and 33 gas well completions during the last week.

The commission said 241 wells were plugged during the week, including 136 dry holes.

There were six wildcat oil wells and one gas well drilled.

The population of the United States increases an average of one person every 12 seconds.

Missourians Would Speak For Middle-Road Farmers

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bid for recognition as a national spokesman for middle-of-the-road farmers is being made by one of the largest of the state organizations, the Missouri Farmers Association — MFA.

As of Saturday, it changed its name to the Midcontinent Farmers Association, retaining the MFA initials and emblem by which it has become widely known beyond the borders of Missouri.

In the view of Fred V. Heinkel, of Columbia, Mo., president of the organization, farmers need a moderate voice in Washington, where laws and programs affecting them are made and administered.

Heinkel is no new voice in national farm affairs. He has been a close adviser to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman since Freeman was appointed by President John F. Kennedy in 1961. In fact, the Missourian was among those whom Kennedy had considered for the farm Cabinet post.

The MFA leaders say there is a gap in farm organization leadership that needs to be filled — and they hope to fill it by spreading their functions to other states, particularly in the Midwest.

MFA chieftains analyze the situation as one in which their rivals largely express extreme views on such questions as federal farm aid, including crop controls, price supports, farm subsidies and the like.

The MFA leaders describe the American Farm Bureau Federation, the organization reporting the largest membership of any farm organization, as being too conservative for many producers. The federation has long fought to end federal farm programs.

They see the National Farmers Union, long a battler for more aggressive and more costly farm programs, as a future question mark. Its militant leader, James G. Patton, is stepping aside next month. The union faces internal conflicts over future policies.

The oldest of the natioal farm organizations, the National Grange, has been expressing views relatively close to those of the MFA. But it is short of membership in the great midwestern farm states and is viewed by some critics as primarily a fraternal society.

The newest of the national farm groups is the National Farmers Organization, claiming membership in states extending from Pennsylvania to the Rocky Mountains. It is viewed by most other farm organizations as an advocate of extreme measures to boost farm income.

The MFA has supported most farm programs and policies of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. It is expected to continue to back the programs now in effect. The Farmers Union backed the same policies and programs, but it urged more federal farm aid than the administration offered.

The Missouri Farmers Association was organized more than 50 years ago under the leadership of William Hirth, also a militant fighter for federal farm assistance. He was one of the prime movers in the fight for the McNary-Haugen farm bills Congress passed in the 1920's — Bills which met presidential vetoes. These bills would have established a dual price system for many farm products — a domestic price and a lower price for export markets.

Heinkel said his organization has about 152,000 members. It owns plants, distributes farm supplies and writes insurance in 16 states.

"Long ago we ceased to limit our activities to Missour," he said. "We are now providing the means for these other people to have a voice in the organization.

Heinkel believes that his new organization may in time become the vehicle by which many smaller farm and commodity organizations can join together to attain legislative recognition before Congress and federal agencies.

The MFA boasts one of the most progressive cooperatives in the world. It is the Producers Creamery Co. at Springfield, Mo., the heart of an Ozarks region which has become a major milk-producing area.

The creamery concern has been a national leader in developing, through its own research and marketing staff's many new dairy and other food products. One of the most unusual is the morel mushroom that is grown by a vat fermentation process.

Dallas Has Gigantic Traffic Jam

DALLAS (AP) — Mix New Year's Eve with football fever and you have shouting, horn-blowing traffic jam in downtown Dallas.

More than 30,000 out of town fans are here Saturday for the Arkansas - Louisiana State football game in the Cotton Bowl.

To listen to the "whoooooo, pig, soooooie," yells, the Razorback backers had the upper voice.

"The traffic was as bad as during the Texas-Oklahoma University weekend," a policeman admitted, "but it was a different kind of crowd. There was a lot of confusion with thousands of people running up and down the streets but there wasn't much trouble. They didn't seem to bother anybody much."

Police booked about 60 persons, many for disturbing the peace—and compared to the hundreds arrested during a frenzied Texas-Oklahoma weekend.

A giant pileup of cars around midnight snarled the heart of the city. For 16 blocks cars were bumper - to - bumper and moved only inches for an hour and a half.

Up to 70 accidents were reported. Light mist made the streets slick.

Early in the evening, a three-car smashup killed Miss Judith Joyce Hale, 24. Two persons were injured.

The football crowd began celebrating early, reaching their greatest fervor shortly after midnight. The noise died down finally at about 5 a.m.

African Coup Successful

BANGUI, Central African Republic (AP) — President David Dacko was overthrown Friday night in a swift military coup d'etat.

Col. Bokassa, commander in chief of the country's armed forces, announced that he had taken power.

He said that Dacko had been placed under house arrest.

Paratroops surrounded the Bangui radio station a little before midnight and shots ran out in the darkness. The radio went off the air and communications with the outside world were cut until this morning.

Other shots were heard during the early morning hours, apparently until Dacko's presidential palace was taken.

All the ministers of the government were reported to have been arrested, with the exception of three who apparently fled.

BUSINESS HIGHLIGHTS OF POSPEROUS '65

NEW YORK (AP)— Business highlights in prosperous 1965 were many, and in some cases spectacular.

Top events:

Personal income of Americans rose to an annual rate of $535.9 billion. People spent money at a record rate and saved at a record pace. They spent enthusiastically on automobiles, color television sets, appliances and clothing.

The automobile industry enjoyed its fourth consecutive big year. In the 1965 model year, a record 8.35 million passenger cars were assembled, surpassing the old record of 7,892,000 set in 1964.

The steel industry came up against a United Steelworkers Union strike deadline twice before agreement was reached under prodding of President Johnson. The union got a package of 47.3 cents an hour over 35 months.

The aluminum and copper industries raised prices but were forced to rescind the action under pressure from the Johnson administration.

The prices of such goods as overcoats, men's suits, shoes, tin cans, color television sets and aluminum siding went up.

The government eased depreciation rules to allow faster tax writeoffs. This meant a saving of $700 million a year for business.

Congress enacted a $4.7-billion excise tax cut bill. It wiped out the 10 per cent federal tax on luggage, handbags, furs, jewelry, cosmetics, television sets, household appliances, cameras, musical instruments, phonographs and records, business machines, pens and pencils.

The economy was jolted by two long maritime strikes that idled hundreds of vessels. Sixty thousand dock workers went on strike in January. A 78-day shipping strike in the summer paralyzed ports from Maine to Texas.

The stock market rose steadily in the first part of the year and the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks reached an all-time high in May. Then prices skidded sharply. They staged a comeback and another new high was attained by the Dow Jones average in November.

Business felt the impact of the escalating war in Viet Nam. Aircraft and electronics firms received big orders for war materials and the effect seeped far down into the economy.

The Federal Reserve Board increased the discount rate from 4 per cent to 4½ per cent — the interest rate charged to banks for money. The action raised the cost of credit.

Thurmond Would Use Nuclear Weapons

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., says the United States should use nuclear weapons in Viet Nam if they are needed for victory.

"We should use any power necessary to win this war and save lives," Thurmond told a news conference Friday, "even if it means using nuclear power. We did in World War II and I see no reason why we don't use it now."

1965 Saw Electric Chair Spend Its First Idle Year

(Editor's note) Among other possible distinctions, 1965 was the first year that no one was put to death in the electric chair at Huntsville since the device was installed in 1924. Some observers think capital punishment is on the way out in Texas. Here is a report.)

By TOM JOHNSON

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — No condemned man walked the last mile through the green door to death in the electric chair in Huntsville in 1965.

It was the first year the chair has not been used since it was installed on death row Feb. 28, 1924. Before that, hanging was the mode of execution.

Don Reid, editor of the Huntsville Item, has witnessed 189 executions, probably more than any other man. He estimated that some 400 men have been electrocuted in the chair, including five on the first night it was used.

Over the years, Texas has executed about 17 condemned persons a year. But there has been no "legalized murder," as some opponents call it, since Joseph Johnson Jr., a Houston Negro, was electrocuted July 30, 1964.

Reid says the de facto moratorium has come about for two reasons:

1) Recent rulings by the federal judiciary that generally stengthen the rights of the accused and lead to the overturning of convictions; and

2; A "waiting period" to see just what the effects of the new Texas criminal code really amount to.

Reid is an outspoken foe of capital punishment but he says the state's parole laws will have to be reformed before the public will abolish it.

"Jurors won't skirt the death penalty if they know a murderer or rapist is going to get out of prison on parole in five years or so," he said.

Reid says he knows of at least half a dozen men who were executed at Huntsville, but who were not guilty of the crimes for which they were put to death. That's one of his main arguments against the death penalty.

The others are that capital punishment is not a deterrent of crime, and that by and large, it's the poor members of racial minorities that are sentenced to death.

"It's not very often that you hear of a wealthy white man getting the death penalty, in Texas or anywhere else," he said.

But Bob Stinson, an assistant district attorney in Dallas, argues that capital punishment is indeed a deterrent.

"A lot of fellows get a batch of statistics together to prove that it's not a deterrent," he said. "But they will never be able to show how many murders and rapes were not committed because of the death penalty. That's the rub in statistics."

Stinson said he would become an implacable foe of the death penalty if he ever thought it was imposed for revenge or failed to be an active deterrent.

Charles Tessmer, a Dallas lawyer, said Texas law allows for the death penalty for five crimes: murder, rape, armed robbery, treason and perjury in a capital case.

Tessmer, a foe of the death penalty, said the trend is for jurors not to assess death because of a general enlightenment of society.

"Capital punishment is barbaric," he said. "It's not surprising that as we become more enlightened, more civilized, it is fading away."

Percy Foreman of Houston, another criminal lawyer who is against capital punishment, said its apparent decline shows that "we're beginning to come out of the darkness."

He said there has been a noticeable increase in recent years in the number of prospective jurors who are disqualified because of scruples against the death penalty.

Foreman said 40 per cent of a recent jury panel in Texas stood up as a group and declared they would not assess death.

"That would have been unheard of in Texas even 10 or 15 years ago," he said. "We're simply getting more civilized down here in Texas."

Foreman agreed with Reid that rich men rarely receive the death penalty.

"A man's right to live ought not to depend on how much money he has," Foreman said.

He said capital punishment has been supported by ignorance, which he called "the cardinal crime in America. Ignorance is responsible for all kinds of crime, both the legal and illegal kinds."

District attorneys and peace officers tend as a group to favor the death penalty. Opposing it most vigorously are artists, intellectuals, many criminal lawyers and civil rights groups.

As the debate rages, the green door remains closed on death row. No one can say right now if it will ever again be opened. The chances are that it will, but never with such frequency as in the past.

Politics Uncertain As 1966 Begins

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas politics enters 1966 with a hesitating step, still waiting to see what the federal courts are going to do about redistricting and the poll tax.

The ballot lineups were filled in almost completely by September, unusually early, but Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth still hasn't said whether he will run for the Senate, and Sen. Ralph Yarborough is reported toying with the idea of challenging Gov. Connally's bid for reelection.

If neither congressmen runs for other offices, Connally and Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr apparently will have little or no democratic opposition to their races for renomination as governor and U. S. Senate, respectively.

State Rep. Bill Hollowell of Grand Saline says he to run for governor if he can get enough money. If he doesn't run, attention will turn entirely to the race for Carr's job.

Secretary of State Crawford Martin, formerly a state senator from Hillsboro, announced first for the job, with highest recommendations from Connally. He was joined by two state senators, Franklin Spears of San Antonio and Galloway Calhoun Jr. of Tyler.

The 1965 political year opened with a stunning shuffle of officials which brought to life a political scene which had taken the appearance of a mechanized assembly line.

The shuffle elevated House Speaker Byron Tunnell to the Railroad Commission and made Ben Barnes, at 26, a power to be reckoned with for the next several elections. He was overwhelmingly elected speaker after Tunnell's sudden appointment to the commission.

The legislature then rocked local and regional politics with redistricting bills which were put in a deep freeze by federal courts and kept there late into the year.

Liberals' hopes for an infusion of power from repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartley act and a federal court-ordered ban on the poll tax were dashed by Congress' failure to change right-to-work laws and the federal court's apparent decision to delay until 1967 elections the effectiveness of an order on the poll tax question.

If the federal courts fail to complete action by the 1966 general election on the federal government's suit to abolish the poll tax, Texas voters will have another chance to beat the courts to the job. A proposal to amend the constitution to ban the poll tax will be on the ballot.

The hottest state race on he November ballot likely will be U. S. Sen. John Tower's defense against the winner of the Democratic primary, which Carr plans to enter.

A year ago, most politicians were wondering whether Connally would try for Tower's seat and boost Carr as his successor or run for re-election and help Carr try to unseat Tower. Whatever happened, Lt. Gov. Preston Smith appeared to have first chance at the governor's race when Connally or Carr vacated the office.

Smith's clear field was removed with the emergence of speaker Barnes.

Barnes' hopes were buoyed by voters' decision in the November election against adoption of a constitutional amendment to double two year terms of governors. Adoption of the amendment would have delayed until 1970 the openings in top state offices which will come in 1968.

Auriol Dies In France

PARIS (AP) — Vincent Auriol, 81, president of France from 1947 to 1954, died today.

Auriol suffered a hip fracture in a fall last November at his home on the Riviera. He was transferred to a Paris hospital where he died.

A Socialist, Auriol had opposed capitulation to the Germans in World War II, and after the armistice he escaped from custody and joined Gen. Charles de Gaulle in London.

In January 1947, he was named the first president of the Fourth French Republic. Under the Fourth Republic, the post of president was largely ceremonial.

After his seven-year term, Auriol was succeeded by Rene Coty, who was in turn succeeded by De Gaulle in 1959.

Danbury Man Is Charged With Murder

DANBURY, Tex. (AP)—Raymond Smith, 38, was charged with two counts of murder Friday after the bodies of his wife and a man were found in a trailer home here.

Officers said Mrs. Virginia Smith, 38, and Bobby Wayne Hatthor, 22, were found shot to death early Friday.

Most Economists Still Optimistic

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Economists were optimistic about the prospects for 1966 as the new year arrived. But there were some reservations.

Business zoomed at a record pace in 1965, and if all goes well the boom will enter its sixth year next March.

Biggest question mark is the war in Viet Nam. If it continues at its present pace or escalates, the demand on business for supplies will be immense. If peace materializes, there will be cutbacks in government spending.

Inflation is another cloud on the economic horizon. The consensus of economists seems to be that the danger isn't too great but they point to continually rising costs of living and a possible labor shortage.

Two dozen economists surveyed by the Wall Street Journal almost unanimously agree that the economy will continue to expand in 1966 but at a slightly lesser rate than in 1965.

They predict that consumers, corporations and local, state and federal governments will spend more in 1966.

But they warn that the threat of inflation will worsen and the balance-of-payments deficit will probably grow.

The economists forecast that the Gross National Product (GNP) — total of all goods and services — will climb to about $710 billion, a 6 per cent gain over the 1965 GNP. This would be just below the 6.5 per cent increase in for 1964-65.

They expect consumer prices, on the average, to rise about 2 per cent in 1966, compared with 1.2 per cent in recent years.

The National Planning Association was even more optimistic, predicting that the GNP would go to $716 billion, up $44 billion from 1965.

The organization suggested that the Johnson administration's problem will be to find and pursue an economic policy "equally concerned with supporting continued growth on the one hand and preventing an inflationary price rise on the other."

The Labor Department reported that living costs, rising at the fastest rate in seven years, climbed another two-tenths of one per cent in November.

The consumer price index advanced to 110.6, meaning that it cost $11.06 to purchase items worth $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

The increase was due to higher prices for all major items — including housing, clothing, transportation and medical care — except food, which held steady.

The automobile industry wound up 1965 production on a booming note as the 11-millionth car or truck of the year came off an assembly line. The total last year was 9.3 million.

'66 Apt To Test African Leaders

By LYNN HEINZERLING

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Africa's leaders will be tested in 1966 as never before. One misstep could set the lower third of the continent aflame.

The tinder for a race war of almost incalculable consequences to the world is accumulating along the Zambezi River.

An economic war between black-ruled Zambia and white-ruled Rhodesia, two natural trading partners, already is in progress. There is every indication that it will be intensified as pressures mount on the two neighbor nations.

It started Nov. 11 when Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia declared Britain's old colony in Central Africa a free and independent nation.

Britain, intent on security eventual majority rule in Rhodesia, reacted immediately. It announced the exclusion of Rhodesia from the sterling bloc, trade sanctions, an oil embargo, the blocking of Rhodesian funds in London and a ban on imports of Rhodesia's rich tobacco crop. Other nations followed suit.

Rhodesia, where 225,000 whites now rule four million Africans, met every blow with a counterthrust. Prime Minister Smith cut off oil from Zambia, raised the price of coal to Zambia $14 a ton through increased royalties and threatened to raise the freight rates for hauling Zambia's copper exports to the port.

Smith has not played out his hand. The power station of the immense Kariba hydroelectric power complex on the Zambezi is on Smith's side of the river. Zambia needs the power for her copper mines and Britain needs the copper.

Rhodesia is cradled among South Africa and the Portuguese territories of Angola and Mozambique, all areas where white leaders reject black African nationalism.

African nationalist guerrillas operate in the northern reaches of Angola and Mozambique. The 36 African nations in the Organization of African Unity have committed themselves to use force if necessary to crush the Smith government.

Nine African nations, including two members of the British Commonwealth, have broken relations with Britain for rejecting the use of force. They are Algeria, Congo (Brazzaville), Ghana, Guinea, Mali, Mauri- Egypt.

An armed conflict seems remote at present, due to logistics, but Tanzania, Ghana, Algeria and Egypt have collected large quantities of Communist Chinese weapons.

All African attention seemed to be focused on Rhodesia, as the new year opened. But the Congo (Leopoldville), an old trouble spot, remained uneasy under a military dictatorship established by Gen. Joseph A. Mobutu. Rebellion still smolders.

Nigeria survived months of political turmoil last year and should be able to achieve relative stability, but tribal and regional tensions persist there.

The economic outlook has improved.

Ghana goes into the new year belligerent but nearly insolvent. The Ivory Coast and Gabon are relatively prosperous, but Gabon faces political instability. Liberia is prospering with rich iron ore deposits. Much of the rest of West Africa has dismal economic prospects.

Kenya goes as President Jomo Kenyatta goes and he continues to gain stature as an African leader of moderation and vision, two qualities badly needed in 1966.

Airman Hurt In Mishap

An airman stationed at Amarillo AFB received minor injuries when his 1950 Model Studebaker pickup skidded on a rain-slick highway about 5½ miles east of town and made one complete roll about 5:15 a.m. Saturday.

A passing motorist took A-3c. Michael D. Shugard to the police station and Bolger ambulance took him to Cogdell Memorial Hospital. The airman, who was enroute to Lubbock at the time of the mishap, was treated for a minor laceration on the forehead and released. Highway patrolmen said damage to his car was total.

City Police investigated a two-car mishap at 1:02 a.m. Saturday at Twenty-fifth and Avenue R. Involved were cars of Buddy Dean Shaw, 2711 Thirty-eighth, and Jesse Costillo, 1312 Twenty-eighth. Damage to Shaw's 1965 Model Falcon was set at $125, and damage to Costillo's 1963 Model Chevrolet pickup was set at $25.

Rig's Supervisor Is Some Improved

DERBY, England (AP) — Doctors reported "some improvement" today in the condition of Dean Sutherland, 45, American supervisor felled by a stroke after surviving Monday's sinking of the oil rig Sea Gem in the North Sea.

Sutherland, from Laurel, Neb., has been in a Derby hospital since he collapsed Tuesday in his hotel room. His condition has been listed as "very poor."

Five of the 32 men aboard the British Petroleum Co., drilling platform died in the accident. Eight more are missing and presumed dead.

New Year's Day Damp And Dismal

By The Associated Press

Wet and cloudy weather dampened and made dismal New Year's Day in some sections of the nation today but on the bright side unseasonable mild temperatures prevailed in much of the South and East.

Rain fell across scattered areas along a southeastward cold front, with 17 states from New York to Texas reporting rain during the night. Heaviest amounts were in southern Illinois, southeastern Missouri and western Kentucky. More than two inches splashed the Vandalia, Ill., area.

Light rain and snow fell in areas from the Rockies westward to the Pacific Coast but there were no damaging storms as occurred earlier this week.

Coldest weather was confined to Montana, North Dakota and Minnesota and in high mountain areas in the West. Temperatures in many places were below zero.

Temperatures hit record marks for Dec. 31 Friday in many parts in the eastern half of the nation. Top readings included 70 at Washington, D.C., and Knoxville, Tenn., 65 at Harrisburg, Pa., and Windsor Locks, Conn., 63 at New York City, 62 at Akron, Ohio, and 60 at Detroit.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 18 below zero at International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border, to 82 at Presidio, Tex.

Scientists Plan Exchange Of Visits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Academy of Sciences announcted today a three-year agreement for an exchange of visits by scientists between this country and Yugoslavia.

The arrangement with the Council of Academies of Yugoslavia provides for exchanges in the natural sciences including mathematics, engineering sciences and behavioral sciences.

Such an agreement with the U.S.S.R. has been in effect since 1959.

Visits in each direction totaling approximately 40 man-months a year are provided for. The trips may be short ones for seminars, lectures or exchange of professional views, or longer stays of up to a year for laboratory research or field studies.

Firms are expected to spend $54.87 billion on new plants and equipment next year, a McGraw-Hill survey has disclosed. This is an 8 per cent rise over 1965 planned expenditures.

Faiths Urged To Work Together

CHICAGO (AP) — Catholics and Protestants must "work together as Christians to fight the darkness which threatens the world," Roman Catholic Archbishop John P. Cody told an interfaith prayer meeting New Year's Eve.

An overflow congregation, seated under the vaulted arches of Holy Name Cathedral, sang "O Come All Ye Faithful," as Protestant ministers and Greek Orthodox priests joined Catholic bishops and priests in seats flanking the cathedral's main altar.

Archbishop Cody, head of the nation's largest Catholic archdiocese in Chicago, was host to the gathering coordinated by the Church Federation of Greater Chicago.

The service, a blending of Catholic and Protestant liturgy, included the reading of biblical passages by Episcopalian, Presbyterian and Methodist ministers and a Greek Orthodox priest.

In what he called a "sermonette," Archbishop Cody reviewed the work of the Ecumenical Council and said it opened a "dialogue with those not of our church," and presented a method of "finding the answers to the problem of disunion."

"Now we have a new approach for carrying on this investigation, this examination," the archbishop said. "It is our hope that by meeting together we can continue this dialogue. For it is the concern of each individual Christian to examine this problem of disunion.

"From our meetings at the council," he said, "a new spirit of togetherness has developed. We understand one another better.

"In our own great country this spirit has led to a new feeling of peace of mind and heart. We must work together as Christians to fight the darkness which threatens the world."

Passages from the Bible, all stressing the theme of peace and unity, were read to the congregation by the Very Rev. William F. Maxwell, dean of the Episcopal Cathedral of St. James; the Rev. Louis T. Greanias, rector of St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox church; the Rev. Donald E. Zimmerman, executive of the Presbytery of Chicago; and the Rev. Harry B. Gibson Jr. superintendent of the Chicago-Western District of the Methodist Church.

'Tornado' Hits Tigers, 65-30

Levelland Edges Cubs, Chiefs Fall

A Tornado struck here in the Tiger gym Friday night and when the dust had settled Lamesa had gone home with a 65-30 victory over Snyder High School in the opening round of District 3-AAA basketball competition.

Elsewhere Friday night, Sweetwater scored a 67-61 win over Lake View while Levelland was edging Brownfield 59 - 55.

Lamesa, the favorites to win the league crown, seemingly has no weaknesses. The charges of Coach O. W. Follis took an early lead and never were threatened. It was an almost perfect performance for the visitors from the west as they did every thing well. They handled the ball smoothly, passed it with precision, and shot with the accuracy of a hillbilly at a turkey shoot.

Moreover, the district favorities threw up a tough zone defense which was hard to penetrate. Four of the Tornadoes hit in double figures: Jay Thompson 13, Tap Mason 11, Gene Everheart 10, Pat Fees 10. They hit on 58 per cent of their shots from the field.

Snyder simply had an "off" night, sinking only 4 of 29 in the first half for 14 per cent and 7 of 27 in the second half for 26 per cent. They were colder than a Hottentot in Siberia, although they scrapped well and never gave up. None of the Tigers hit in the double column. Tom Bullard led local scorers with 9 points.

Lamesa held a tremendous height advantage. Only one of their starters—Gene Everheart—stood under 6-1, and he was one of the fastest boys on the court. The visitors substituted freely without any loss in efficiency.

It is a tribute to Coach Ned Underwood's Tigers that they put forth a determined effort throughout the game. Snyder registered its biggest point production in the final frame with four boys finding the nets for 11 points—only three less than their talented foes.

Snyder had its bright moments, but couldn't penetrate the tough Tornado defense. They waited too long before taking outside shots and they missed too often to stay in the game.

Mickey Almond was a bright spot in the Tiger attack. He came in in the 4th quarter and hit two quick jump shots. The Tigers did not have sufficient height to grab their share of the rebounds, but they had good team work.

The next district game for Snyder pits them against Lake View in San Angelo Tuesday. The box:

Browns In Strange Role Of Underdogs

By JACK HAND

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Jim Brown and the well-rested Cleveland Browns find themselves in the surprising role of underdogs to the battle-scarred Green Bay Packers for Sunday's National Football League championship game at Lambeau Field.

The Browns, upset winners over Baltimore a year ago, clinched their second straight Eastern Conference title Nov. 28, while Green Bay wound up in a tie and had to beat Baltimore last Sunday in a grueling sudden death overtime playoff. Cleveland has not played since Dec. 19.

As might be expected, the city of Green Bay has gone slightly mad over its Packers and will jam the field to its capacity of 50,852 fans at $12 and $10 a head. The gate receipts, plus $720,000 of the $1.8 million TV receipts, will load the player pool. Each winning team member will get about $7,000 and each loser about $4,600.

Game time is 2:10 p.m., EST with CBS radio and television coverage starting 10 minutes earlier. The Green Bay area will be blacked out on TV.

If the game is tied at the end of regulation play, as was last Sunday's Green Bay-Baltimore playoff for the Western crown, it will continue on a sudden death overtime basis until one team scores.

The only sudden death NFL title game was played in 1958 between the Baltimore Colts and the New York Giants.

Unless there is an unexpected heavy precipitation Sunday morning the field should be in fine condition. It was re-covered with a layer of hay and a tarp immediately after last Sunday's game. The cover will not be removed until the early hours of Sunday morning.

Cleveland, defending champion, worked out at home during the week and flew into Green Bay Friday night. The Packers, of course, worked on their own practice field all week after a two day vacation.

Blanton Collier's Browns are a fine offensive club with an attack built around the unstoppable Jim Brown, who rolled to 1,544 yards in winning his eighth rushing title in nine years. Oddly enough, this will be the first time Brown ever has played at Green Bay.

Brown's running makes the Cleveland ground game go. Their passing game has suffered all season by the absence of Paul Warfield, the ace split end who was such an important factor in winning the 1964 title.

Warfield suffered a broken collar bone in the College All-Star game in August. He played briefly Dec. 12 at Los Angeles but is due to make his first start Sunday. The complete former Ohio State athlete will provide a tremendous test to the coverage ability of young Doug Hart, the second year man from Arlington State, who plays the left corner position in the Packer defense.

With Warfield available, the Packers will not be able to double team flanker Gary Collins as most teams have done all season. Collins was the big man for the Browns against the Colts last year, catching three touchdown passes from Frank Ryan.

Ryan, a PH. D in math, throws almost as many play passes to Brown and Ernie Green as to his flankers and ends. The brainy quarterback, troubled by a sore heel in midseason, has thrown 18 touchdown passes.

It is Cleveland's defense that gives pause to wonder about the Brown's chances. They have yielded 43 touchdowns, 12 on runs and 31 on passes. The deep defense of Bernie Parrish, Walter Beach, Ross Fichtner, Larry Benz, can be had by a passer of Bart Starr's ability.

Green Bay's success has been based on defense. They intercept passes at the right time. They pick up the fumble. They put a strong rush on the passer. Only 22 TD's have been scored against them in regular season play.

Herb Adderly, Willie Wood, Tom Brown and Hart form an impressive secondary behind the front four of Willie Davis, Ron Kostelnick, Henry Jordan and Lionel Aldridge and the linebacking of Dave Robinson, Ray Nitschke and Leroy Caffey.

Starr was racked up by Baltimore on the first play last Sunday and Zeke Bratkowski, a much traveled old pro, did the job. Although Bart has recovered from the injuries to his side and back it remains to be seen how effective he will be.

The Packers' best receivers are split end Boyd Dowler and flanker Carroll Dale, although Bill Anderson, a tight end who was picked up from Washington after retiring for a year, has been an important factor in late season.

Green Bay's vaunted ground game, built around Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung, has been disappointing all season.

The game may very well come down to kicking as it did a week ago. Don Chandler, who booted the tying and winning field goals against the Colts, has been a revelation since coming to the Packers from New York.

Chandler has kicked 17 of 26 field goals (not counting 2 of 3 in the playoff). Lou Groza, the 41-year-old Cleveland field goal artist who has been playing pro ball since 1946, had made good on 16 of 25 this year.

Texans Win Doubles At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Sugar Bowl Junior Tennis boys title has been won by fifth-seeded Zan Guerry of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., in a 6-0, 6-4 victory over Steve Faulk of New Orleans.

Second seeded Becky Veal of Jackson, Miss., waged a 3½ hour battle before beating first seeded Patsy Rippy of Shawnee, Okla., 4-6, 6-1, 11-9 for the girls title Friday.

Guerry and Mike Estep of Dallas, Tex., won the boys doubles title with a 3-6, 6-2, 6-3 victory over Faulk and Bobby Ecuyer of New Orleans.

Miss Rippy and Mona Schallau of Iowa City, Iowa, won the girls doubles in beating Elesa Nelson of Atlantic Beach, Fla., and Marilyn Aschner of Hollis-wood, N.Y., 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

Lots At Stake In Cotton Bowl

By ED SHEARER

DALLAS (AP) — Sellout crowds are nothing new for Arkansas and Louisiana State, a pair of southern college football powers blessed with amazing team support.

Today was no exception as a rivalry dating back to 1901 was resumed in the 30th Cotton Bowl. The 75,504 seats were sold out more than three weeks ago.

Kickoff was scheduled for 3 p.m. EST and the game was to be televised nationally by CBS.

The Porkers were gunning for their 23rd consecutive victory, second straight Cotton Bowl title and a possible national championship. The Porkers were second to Michigan State, UCLA's Rose Bowl opponent today. The Associated Press will crown its national champion next week.

Arkansas was a 10-point choice to topple the Bengals for the first time since a 32-0 triumph in 1929. Upsets have been common in the Razorback-Tiger series which LSU leads 22-12-2.

The Bengals have won 11 straight regular season games over the Porkers, the last a 21-7 victory at Shreveport, La., in 1956. They battled to a scoreless tie in the 1947 Cotton Bowl.

Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said LSU's 7-3 record did not deceive his Porkers, who swept to their second straight 10-0 campaign.

"Our boys know the type of football LSU plays and they respect them," Broyles said. "And they have great fans, too. I never received more mail before a bowl game than I did from LSU fans.

"Boy, don't think they're not excited. Really, I don't know of two finer football states than Arkansas and Louisiana."

LSU Coach Charles McClendon, a native of Lewisville in South Arkansas, said many of his Arkansas fans had also contacted him.

By midweek the tempo of the game had begun to pick up here. Fans began trickling in and Razorback fans began erupting with their hog call — "WooO-pig! Sooie." LSU fans retaliated with their "Roll Tigers" and the Razorback players could expect the normal Bengal greeting upon taking the field in the Cotton Bowl today—a thundering "Tiger Bait, Tiger Bait."

Donny, The New Golden Boy, Gets Lots Of Gold

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Halfback Donny Anderson of Texas Tech, signed by the Green Bay packers for a reported $600,000, looms as a future replacement for Golden Boy Paul Hornung.

"You can't have too many good running backs," said Joe Peppler, Green Bay's director of player personnel. "The stock runs out mighty fast.

"Donny is a wonderful athlete. He is a strong runner and a great pass catcher. We intend to use him as offensive halfback and expect he will see a lot of action next year."

Peppler represented General Manager-Head Coach Vince Lombardi in signing Anderson to a contract that is said to be the richest ever given a college player.

The terms are not officially announced but there were guesses the figure exceeds the half-million mark with a bonus of about $200,000, a three-year contract and benefits after Anderson is through with competition.

The signing was the third telling blow struck by the National Football League in its dollar war with the younger American League.

Green Bay also signed Jim Grabowski of Illinois for a reported $475,000. The new NFL entry, Atlanta, grabbed off the No. 1 draft choice, linebacker Tommy Nebels of Texas for a reported $250,000.

The AFL, however, recouped somewhat when Kansas City signed Heisman Trophy winner Mike Garrett of Southern California for a reported $300,000 during Friday's East-West All-Star game.

Anderson, two time All-America who has been the leading all-purpose performer in the country for the last two years, was the No. 1 pick of the Packers and the Houston Oilers of the AFL a year ago as a future choice.

Bud Adams, owner of the Oilers said he had offered the Texas Tech star a $887,000 package, which included a $200,000 home in Houston, $16,000 worth of furniture and a $36000 swimming pool.

"Our offer was at least $200,000 better than that of Green Bay," Adams said, "but Anderson apparently made up his mind two days ago."

Anderson, 215-pound, 6-foot-3, athlete with Herculean shoulders and tapering waist and hips agreed that he had made up his mind earlier.

"I want to play the best — and right now I think the best is in the National League," he said at formal signing ceremonies about two hours after the Gator Bowl, won by Georgia Tech 31-21 over Texas Tech.

"Money wasn't the main factor."

Hall Of Fame Dominated By Football

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas Hall of Fame had 49 members today with 10 sports represented but dominated by football.

The late Ban Lee Boynton, Texas' first all-American football player (1917); Raymond (Rags) Matthews, Texas Christian's great football player of the twenties; Willie Shoemaker, the winningest jockey of horse racing history, and Mike (Pinky) Higgins, former major league player and manager, were inducted into the Hall Friday.

Now there are 23 football players and coaches; nine baseball players and coaches, four track men, four golfers, three basketball stars; two tennis players and coaches and a polo player, diver, a boxer and a jockey.

A crowd of 900 saw the 14th annual induction of athletic heroes.

The first man voted by the Texas Sports Writers Associationsinto the Hall of Fame was the late Tris Speaker, the all-time great major league player. That was in 1951.

Golf great Ben Hogan and football All-America Joe Routt were the second and third in 1952. Then the Hall started taking them in three and four at a time, reaching six in 1962.

There are so many sports greats in Texas history that they have to be taken in in bunches in order to keep up with the number that are produced each year.

Dodd Knows His Elements

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Georgia Tech won the toss in the Gator Bowl and decided to take the elements and let Texas Tech have the ball.

"There was a strong wind and the sun was very bright," said Tech Coach Bobby Dodd.

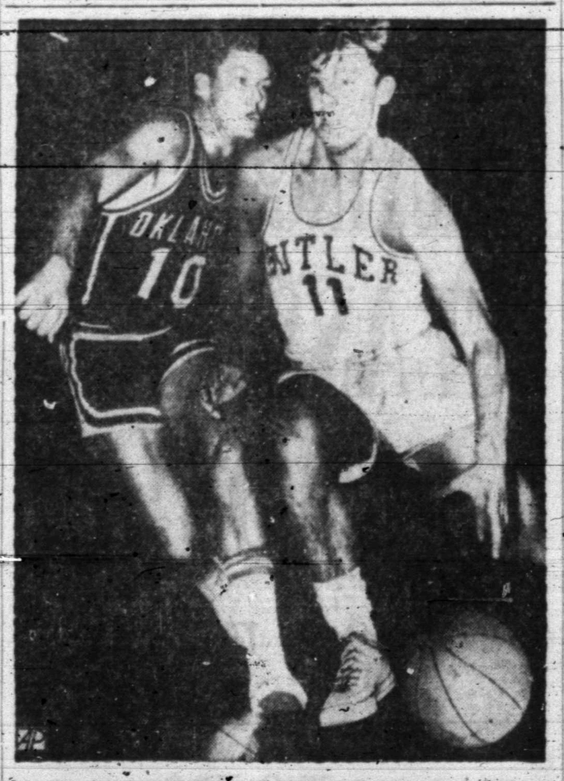

"I didn't know his reason, but we were glad to have the ball first," said Coach J.T. King of Texas Tech. His players' proved it by jumping to a 7-0 lead on a 63-yard drive.

But in the fourth quarter, with the wind at Georgia Tech's back and the sun in Texas Tech's eyes, the Yellow Jackets scored two touchdowns, coming from behind to win 31-21.

Quarterback Tom Wilson missed three long passes in that final period and Texas Tech was gone.

Georgia Tech's ability to keep the football for long drives — piling up 368 yards rushing — curtailed the explosive Texas Tech offense. Two interceptions by Tommy Bleick finished it off.

A pair of flashy sophomores, quarterback Kim King and halfback Lenny Snow, led the offense and overshadowed Texas Tech's halfback Donny Anderson, who signed a pro contract with Green Bay of the National Football League after the game for a reported $600,000.

Packers Have First Million Dollar Backfield

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Green Bay Packers have put together the first million-dollar backfield by signing Donny Anderson, and the Kansas City Chiefs have pulled off a coup by signing Heisman Trophy winner Mike Garrett in the rekindled bidding war between the National and American football leagues.

And the flames, fanned by the annual year-end college football games, figure to leap a bit higher today as pro football scouts with instant bankrolls camp at the sites of the Big Four bowl extravaganzas.

A dozen top draft choices will be on view as Michigan State meets UCLA in the Rose Bowl, Arkansas takes on Louisiana State in the Cotton Bowl, Nebraska tangles with Alabama in the Orange Bowl and Missouri plays Florida in the Sugar Bowl.

The entire program will be nationally televised, with NBC handling the Sugar Bowl at 2 p.m., EST, the Rose Bowl at 5 p.m. and the Orange Bowl at 8 p.m. CBS will show the Cotton Bowl at 2 p.m.

Among the outstandings players expected to command attention today are halfback Johnny Roland and tackles Francis Peay and Butch Allison of Missouri, ends Tony Jeter and Freeman White and defensive lineman Walt Barnes of Nebraska, tackle Glen Ray Hines and halfback Jim Lindsay of Arkansas, guard Larry Gagner and tackle Randy Jackson of Florida, defensive lineman Hal Lucas of Michigan State and tackle George Rice of LSU.

But none are expected to get as much as Anderson, who is believed to have received a record $600,000 contract, or create as much of a stir as Garrett, who changed directions after it seemed he was headed for the NFL's Los Angeles Rams.

Anderson, the pride of Texas Tech and a two-time All-America, finished his college career as a loser on the field as the Raiders bowed to Georgia Tech 31 Friday in the Gator Bowl game at Jacksonville, Fla. Garrett, Southern California's All-America halfback, finished as a winner by playing on the West team that conquered the East 15-14 in the Shrine game at San Francisco.

Texas Western edged Texas Christian 13-12 in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., in the other bowl game scheduled, but all three games seemed to be shoved out of the spotlight by the Anderson and Garrett signings.

In joining the Packers, Anderson becomes a teammate of Jim Grabowski, the Illinois running back who reportedly received over $500,000 to sign with Green Bay. Reports that Grabowski received as much as $625,000 or that Texas linebacker Tommy Nobis received $700,000 for signings with Atlanta of the NFL never have been confirmed.

That could possibly make Anderson the highest paid player of all time, exceeding the $427,000 Joe Namath received from the AFL's New York Jets last year.

Anderson was a No. 1 pick of the Packers, and the AFL's Houston Oilers as a future last year. Owner Bud Adams of the Oilers said he had offered Anderson an $887,000 package, including a $200,000 home, $16,000 worth of furniture and a $36000 swimming pool.

"I know that Green Bay's offer was $200,000 less than ours," Adams said.

Anderson called his own press conference and said he had decided on the Packers because:

"I wanted to play the best football, and the best is in the National League as far as I'm concerned right now, and I want to play the best."

Garrett was a second-round draft choice of the Rams and was picked only on the 20th round of the AFL draft by the Chiefs, who originally thought he would prefer to stay in California.

"We really didn't think we had a chance to get him," said Don Klosterman, the Chiefs' top talent scout. "But after the death of Mack Lee Hill, Garrett thought he had an opportunity to step right in."

Hill, Kansas City running back, died recently while undergoing a knee operation.

Garrett took the unusual route of announcing his signing on television during the halftime show.

Anderson gained 223 yards rushing and pass receiving for Texas Tech, but Georgia Tech proved too strong, moving ahead to stay when reserve quarterback Jerry Priestley plunged one yard for a touchdown and added a two-point conversion on a run for a 24-21 lead as the fourth quarter began.

Lenny Snow, Georgia Tech sophomore, was the game's leading rusher with 136 yards. Anderson picked up 85 on the ground.

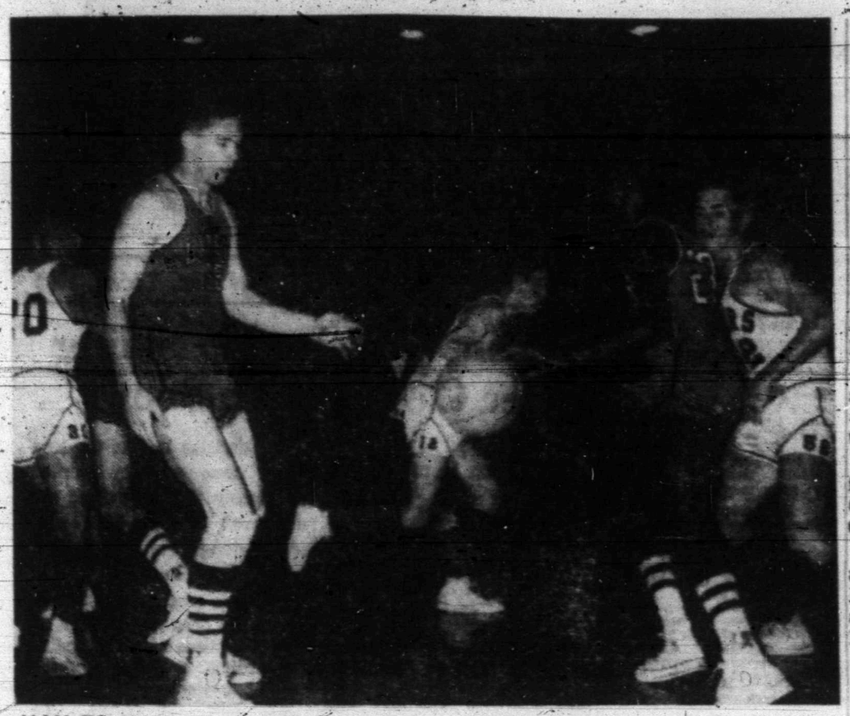

Grabowski gained only 16 yards in 10 carries and Garrett only 72 in 16 for the West but Washington quarterback Tod Hullin took care of the needed offense with three touchdown passes. The first two came in the final two minutes of the first half and overcame a 7-3 East lead.

Our New Year bells are ringing out the message of best wishes to all in the year ahead.

Miners 'Unearth' Horned Froggies

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Texas Western's football team has learned how to score.

"They didn't know how to score," said coach Bobby Dobbs about the team he took over at the start of the 1965 season.

The team he inherited had finished the 1964 season with a 0-8-2 record and a season total of 64 points.

Dobbs molded a pro-T offense around sophomore quarterback Billy Stevens, fast receivers and a stout defense that brought the Miners an 8-3 record including Friday's 13-12 victory against Texas Christian in the Sun Bowl.

Stevens completed 21 of 34 passes for 208 yards, all Sun Bowl records, and passed to flankerback Chuck Hughes for one touchdown.

Stevens and Hughes, who caught six Stevens passes for 115 yards, drew praise from the Texas Christian dressing room.

"Hughes compares with the best we've faced," said the Horned Frogs' defensive back Dan Jones. "I think Freeman White of Nebraska is better, but only because White is 6-5 and weighs 230 pounds."

Hughes is a rangy 167 pounds.

Jones also was impressed by Stevens.

"I can't think of another passer more on target," he said.

Texas Christian coach Abe Martin also was impressed.

"He had a good day, didn't he," Martin said. "He was playing his game and he played it well."

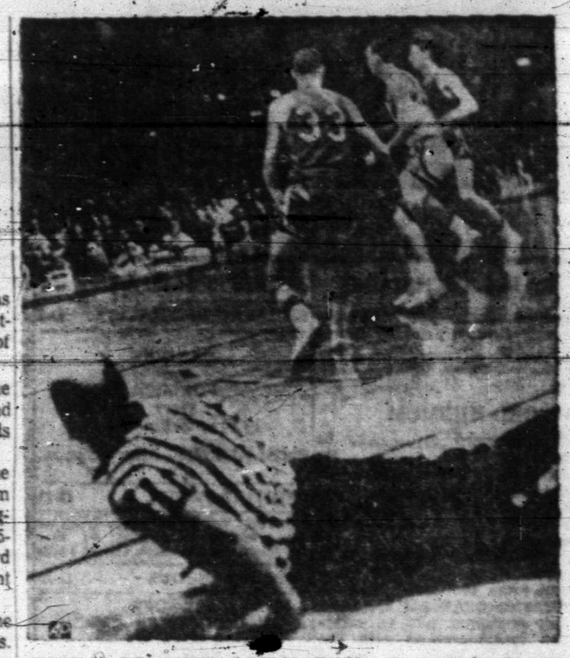

Just how much Texas Western banks on Stevens' passing was indicated in the statistics. Western set a record Sun Bowl low of 12 yards net rushing.

Western's other scoring came off the toe of Joe Cook who had field goals of 18 and 20 yards and one extra point.

Texas Christian scored in the first half on a 12-yard pass from quarterback Kent Nix to wingback David Smith, and a 35-yard field goal by Bruce Alford who also added an extra point conversion.

Western's Stevens gave the visitors their other two points. Teammate Curt Parsons intercepted a Nix pass on the Western one-yard line with 93 seconds remaining. When three line plunges failed, Stevens ran the next snap back into the end zone for a Texas Christian safety and the chance to kick the ball out of easy scoring range.

Texas Christian, which tied for second place in the Southwest Conference, ended its season at 6-5.

Unheralded Huskie Leads West In Upset

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Professional football clubs paid out more than a million dollars to the cream of the 1965 college football crop only to see a fellow they ignored become the star of the 41st East-West all-star game.

Tod Hullin, a 190-pound quarterback from the University of Washington, fired three touchdown passes to equal a game record as the West whipped the favored East 22-7 and held All-America Jim Grabowski to 16 yards net on 10 carries.

Hullin wasn't even drafted by a team in the National or American Football League and isn't unhappy to be skipping pro football since he plans a career in law.

"I'm a roll-out quarterback and they don't use that style too much in the pros," said Hullin after newsmen had voted him the Coffman Trophy as the outstanding offensive player in the East-West battle.

Minnesota's John Hankinson, a signee of the Minnesota Vikings, opened the scoring with a 32-yard pass to Aaron Brown, also a Minnesota collegian who has signed with the Kansas City Chiefs of the rival American Football League. That was the East's tally.

Hullin's Washington teammate Rod Medved booted a 34-yard field goal to break the scoring ice for the West.

Then with 1:46 left in the first-quarter Hulling hit Arizona State's Ben Hawkins with a 42-yard scoring play as Hawkins gathered in the pass at the seven and raced the rest of the way.

New Mexico's Stan Quintana set up the next touchdown, before intermission, when he intercepted a Hankinson pass at the West 38 and ran it back 34 yards to the East 28. Six plays later Hullin hit Gary Garrison of San Diego State with a four-yard touchdown pass. Medved booted the conversion.

In the fourth period, the Washington quarterback threw nine yards to Utah State's Ron Sbranti for the final touchdown.

Mike Garrett, the Heisman Trophy winner from Southern California, didn't score for the West, although he gained 72 yards in 16 carries.

Indiana 'Poops' Bradley's Party

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

If all New Year's Eve celebrations are going to be like the latest one, Joe Stowell would just as soon stay home and go to sleep early.

He went to Chicago Stadium Friday night with the intention of maintaining his perfect record as a college basketball coach. Instead, he had a nightmare and left the party with his first loss.

Indiana was the party-pooper, trouncing Bradley 104-87. The loss for the nation's third-ranked team was the first after 10 victories this season.

Those 10 victories represented Stowell's college career. He is in his first season as a head coach, having succeeded the veteran Chuck Osborn, who retired to become athletic director at the Illinois school.

The Braves had been one of three remaining unbeaten teams in the country. Now the only two are fifth-ranked Kentucky and Texas Western.

Leading the Indiana attack against the Braves were Harry Joyner and Gary Grieger. The pair carried the Hoosiers to their fourth victory against four defeats, starting the upset with 14 and 13 points, respectively, in the first half.

The Hoosiers made 58 per cent of their field goal tries in the first half and 55 per cent over all. Bradley, meanwhile, had a 35 per cent figure.

The Braves cut their deficit to seven points, 72-65, with six minutes to play. But that's as close as they could get as Indiana pulled away once again. Joyner finished with 28 points while Grieger had 24.

In the first game of that doubleheader, Loyola of Chicago dumped ninth-ranked Minnesota 82-69. It was the Ramblers' seventh straight triumph and ninth in 10 games and it came over a team that was playing its fourth game in five nights.

Reserves Frank Perez and Eddie Manzke sparked a spurt that broke open a close contest in the last six minutes. Manzke put the Ramblers ahead to stay 60-59 with a 40-foot jump shot, and Perez followed with two straight field goals.

Duke, the nation's No. 1 team, increased its record to 8-1 by whipping Notre Dame 95-73. Jack Marin led the Blue Devils' attack with 24 points, 15 in the first half when Duke shot away from the Irish.

Ron Sepic, who was married the day before, and Bill Hosket each scored 21 points as Ohio State crushed West Texas State 78-53, and in a doubleheader at Raleigh, N.C., West Virginia defeated North Carolina 102-97 and Utah downed North Carolina State 85-72.

West Virginia held high-scoring Bob Lewis to 12 points, far under his average of 34 a game. At the same time four Mountaineers scored in double figures, led by the 25 each of Carl Head and Ron Williams.

Jerry Chambers got Utah off to a fast start, hitting five field goals in the first 7 minutes. He finished with 30 points.

Beene Wins In Tennis Tournament

DALLAS (AP) — Mike Beene of Odessa made his way safely through the boys 18 singles in the finals of the Cotton Bowl tennis tournament Thursday, then teamed with his losing opponent to take the boys 18 doubles.

Beene, the No. 1 seed, defeated sixth-seeded Van Hill of El Paso, 6-2, 9-7. Beene and Hill beat John Mazola and Tim Smith, both of Houston, 6-3, 6-2.

Jackie Guadagnoli of El Paso the top seed in girls 18 singles, whipped Andrea Sanders of Tulsa, 6-0, 6-3.

Miss Guadagnoli and Debbie Darby, also of El Paso, defeated Stephani Webber of Odessa and Della Clark of Houston, 6-3, 6-1, in the finals of girls 16 doubles.

In girls 18 doubles, Dede Davidson and Andrea Sanders of Tulsa brushed off Beth Baker and Brice Stane of Houston, 6-3, 6-4.

Other final results included Michael Mullan of Philadelphia over Johnny Williams of Fort Worth, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1, in boys 16 singles. Miss Darby beat Barbara Wroten of Abilene, 6-1 6-3, in girls 16.

Mullan and Woody Blocker of Dallas dropped Eddie Munson of Dallas and Ronnie Barnett of Amarillo, 6-3, 6-4, in boys 16 doubles.

Hawks Clip Red Wings

DETRIT O(AP) — The Chicago Black Hawks entered the New Year with a couple of insurance points on first place in the National Hockey League, and Bobby Hull only had to have his skate in the puck's way to score his 28th goal of the season.

The Hawks administered the sixth drubbing in seven Chicago-Detroit meetings when they defeated the Red Wings 4-1 Friday night in Detroit.

Second-place Montreal will try to narrow the gap when it plays host to New York tonight. Boston plays the fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

Hull scored when defenseman Doug Jarrett fired a long shot and the puck bounced off Hull's foot and past surprised goalie Roger Crozier.

Hull returned the compliment when he set up Jarrett's third goal of the season at 7:57 of the second period.

The other Chicago goals were scored by Phil Esposito and Eric Nesterenko early in the final stanza. Alex Delvecchio got the Wings only tally midway in the second.

The Hawks' Dave Dryden, who made only his second start of the season, showed some brilliant goaltending, stopping seven shots from Red Wings' sharpshooter Gordie Howe.

Green Bay Gets Nod

By JACK HAND

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Cleveland's explosive attack and Green Bay's resourceful defense add up to another hard-hitting football game Sunday with the National Football League championship at stake.

The Browns, who arrived on the scene Friday night, boast the powerful running of Jim Brown plus the long ball air attack of Frank Ryan throwing to Paul Warfield and Gary Collins.

The Packers can knock you dead on defense, but their offense has been spotty all season. With Bart Starr coming back from an injury and Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung worn down after a tough 15-game season, Green Bay's best bet seems to be to cash in on defense by taking advantage of Cleveland mistakes.

Many observers expect the big game to be a field goal battle between the Browns' veteran Lou Groza and Don Chandler, the former New York Giant who was traded to Green Bay this season.

Green Bay rates a slight favorite in a game that can be turned around by the weatherman. The latest forecast called for cloudy weather with the temperature in the mid to low 20s.

Tors Edge 'B' Team

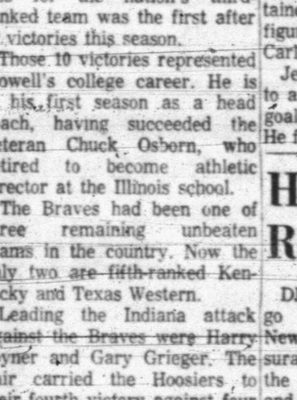

The Lamesa High School junior varsity edged Snyder Friday night 56-54, in a thrilling contest in Tiger gym. The lead changed several times.

Lamesa took a 15-13 margin in the first period and held a 28-20 advantage at halftime. Craig Bell, who led Snyder scorers with 10 points, led a second half Kitten rally, dunking four gratis tosses and sinking two floor shots. The effort propelled Snyder into a 37-35 lead going into the final quarter, but the junior Tors pulled it out in the last few seconds.

Beatty had 19 points for the visitors with five field goals and nine Annie Oakleys while Flemming swished 10 points through the basket.

SNYDER (54)—Tovar 3-0-6; Almond 4-0-8; Bell 2-6-10; Grimmett 3-2-8; Snyder 4-1-9; Cooper 2-0-4; Garrett 3-2-8. Totals: 21 12-54.

Texans To Give Up Skiing After Close Call In Snow

RUIDOSO N. M. (AP) — "We're going to make a New Year's resolution never to ski again," said Mrs. John H. Noyes, mother of 12-year-old Tim Noyes.

Tim and five other Texans spent Thursday night lost in the cold Sierra Blanca ski area of south-central New Mexico's mountains.

They weren't found until Friday afternoon. Tim and Randy Jaster still were on the mountain during the night but were with a rescue team and safe with food, blankets and other provisions.

With Jaster and Tim Noyes earlier was Dr. T. A. Noyes, 42, a professor at Texas A&M who was brought out by rescuers at night fall.

Another group, Terry Noyes, 12, Bryan, Tex.; Dana Juett, 18, Amarillo, Tex., and Phil Dettle, 19, Stratford, Tex., rested in Ruidoso after being found earlier in the afternoon.

Tim and Randy Jaster were exhausted and were being carried on stretchers to save their strength. As it became darker the rescuers decided to take a more familiar but much longer route to where vehicles could reach them and take them into town.

The decision to take the long route came as they worked laboriously through tangled undergrowth and towering pine trees jutting from snow several feet deep in places.

Rescuers tried at one time to get horses back into the hills of the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation to help carry the two, but the going was too rough even for horses. One stumbled, slightly injuring a rescue worker, so they turned back.

More than 100 searchers on skis, snowshoes and horseback joined the earlier search in addition to several Civil Air Patrol airplanes and two helicopters from Holloman Air Force Base.

The first group was removed quickly from the area and taken to Ruidoso. Dettle and Juett were checked and released, but Terry Noyes was held overnight for observation.

Dr. Noyes said he and his two lost colleagues drove ski poles into the snow and built a wall of snow the first night to shelter them from the cold mountain wind at the 1,000-foot level of Sierra Blanca Peak.

Jaster and Tim Noyes, doctors said, suffered from exhaustion and possible frostbite but otherwise were all right. Jaster also received a bruised and cut leg which indirectly led to the ordeal.

Tim Noyes went off in search of the ski patrol to give assistance, became lost, then bumped into Juett and Dettle who also were lost. Thus, two groups of three people each were lost on the high, snowy mountain.

A horse patrol found the first group in the upper canyon of the Rio Ruidoso (river), about two miles outside the supervised ski area.

The ski area is northwest of Ruidoso, and borders the Mescalero Apache Reservation. Search headquarters was set up about three miles inside the reservation entrance, about five miles north of the ski-horse racing resort village of Ruidoso.

Van Dyke's Laura New Pinup Queen

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Dear Miss Moore, I saw your picture in Stars and Stripes, and I enjoyed it. When I was back home, my wife used to say you had skinny legs. I didn't think so, and I'm glad to find out I was right. Would you please send me a photograph?"

The message was typical among the hundreds of letters Mary Tyler Moore has been receiving from GI's in Viet Nam. What started as a publicity stunt is shaping up as a full-scale move to make her a pin-up queen of the Asian war.

Miss Moore spends her professional life as the fully clothed wife on "The Dick Van Dyke Show." But she is also an accomplished dancer and beneath those frocks and aprons is a whistle-worthy form.

Alert press agents, realizing this, proposed that Mary pose for some cheesecake photos that could be sent to interested servicemen in Viet Nam. A dozen photographers were invited to a snapping session, competing to produce the most attractive pose.

A photograph of the photographers at work appeared in the overseas service newspaper, Stars and Stripes. That prompted the letters.

"It happened so suddenly that I haven't been able to get the photos yet," said Mary during a break in TV filming. "But I've been answering all the letters, turning out 25 to 50 a day. In every moment I can spare. I'm getting writer's cramp but enjoying it.

"Some of the letters come with 20 signatures, so the work mounts up. But it's a very small thing that I can do, compared to what they're doing over there."

In the photograph that Mary will be sending, she wears a form-fitting dancer's costume slit down the front. Only the legs are exposed. But then, Betty Grable did all right in another war.

Mary Tyler Moore will soon be shedding her housewifely role with the Van Dyke show and heading for other pursuits. The series will end after this season, not for the usual reason of poor ratings. It continues among the CBS leads.

But Van Dyke has a logjam of film commitments, as does producer-creater Carl Reiner. Mary told her plans:

"I'll go to Universal to start the first of 10 pictures. Or, if it's a bomb, the first of one. They have the options."

THE LOVELY international star, Ingrid Thulin, shares stellar honors with Maximilian Schell in the Mirisch Corporation's J. L. Thompson Panavision production, "Return From the Ashes," which is coming to the Palace Theater here Sunday, Jan. 9.

Networks Work On Trouble Spots

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Well-publicized efforts are in progress to repair, on an emergency basis, some weak spots in the television network program schedules. Efforts also are being made more quietly to fix some of broadcasting's chronic troubles, real audience-annoyers.

First, some action is being taken to answer viewers' complaints about loud commercials. For a long time these were brushed off with explanations which suggested that the commercials weren't really loud and besides it couldn't be helped.

Recently, however, the Federal Communications Commission expressed concern and suggested three specific ways to reduce the noise-content to that of the programs. These included getting the cooperation of the people who make the commercials, prescreening them before broadcast and, if necessary, reducing the sound levels of offenders in the broadcasting control rooms. Now the industry is paying attention, for the FCC is, among other things, a licensing agency with power to punish offenders.

Second area of improvement involves controlling the quantity and quality of color in both TV programs and commercials. Many color set owners spend almost as much time readjusting their sets as they do watching programs.

More often than not, one must twiddle the color knobs when switching from channel to channel. And differences are also marked when the picture originates from two different points — or even different cameras within the same program.

Red Skelton's hair frequently ranges from pale orange to tangerine in one scene. One night earlier this week Chet Huntley in New York appeared — on my set anyway — a ghastly shade of green-yellow during his turns at the microphone while David Brinkley in Washington was blushingly pink and white with brilliant red ears. It was all very colorful but diverted one's thoughts from the news.

But steps are being taken. The Society of Motion Picture Technical Engineers is making an "instruction film" on the use of color which will be sent as a guide to all producers of color film and tape.

William Trevarthen, NBC's vice president in charge of operations and engineering, calls the film "the first big step in standardization."

Suspected Kidnaper Is Jailed

CORSICANA, Tex. 1 (AP)— A Corsicana man wounded his wife and a policeman here after the robbery of an Ennis liquor store and the kidnaping of the store owner's young daughter Friday night.

A 23 - year - old suspect was held in the Navarro County jail. His wife and patrolman G. W. Pritchett were in Corsicana Memorial Hospital in good condition.

An examining trial was set for today. Ellis County officers said they plan to charge the man with kidnaping and armed robbery. Corsicana police said they will file assault with intent to murder charges in the shooting of the policeman.

Sixteen - year - old Wanda Chandler, who was abducted as she stood in front of her parents' store in Ennis, ran to safety in Prichett's patrol car as her kidnaper was surprised during a telephone call to her parents demanding $5,000 ransom.

The escapade began when a man attempted to hold up the Hilltop Drive-in; a package liquor store on Interstate 45. He failed to get any money but as he fled he forced Wanda to accompany him.

A few minutes later, the man telephoned the girl's father and demanded $5,000 cash for her safe return. He said he would call again in 45 minutes for his answer.

Corsicana police dispatcher Lloyd Huffman said when the kidnaper called again, a telephone company operator traced the call to a pay telephone in Corsicana.

Huffman said telephone supervisor Mrs. Bertha Williams let him listen in on the conversation. He then dispatched patrolmen to check pay telephones.

Huffman said he was listening when Pritchett and auxiliary officer Horace McAdams drove up to the booth where Wanda was talking in a frightened voice to her parents on the telephone.

In the ensuing gun battle, Pritchett was shot in the hip and the suspect's wife, waiting with her 4-year-old son in a car nearby, was shot in the leg.

Wanda was not believed harmed but was hospitalized for observation.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — Have a little mail piled up on us today and some readers from Olalla, Washington, Roswell, New Mexico, and Tyler, Texas have asked a whole flock of questions.

So getting down to business, let's take up the question of the pesos which seems to be of interest. HOW MUCH IS THE PESO WORTH?

You get 12.50 pesos for one dollar.

RENT FOR A TWO BEDROOM HOUSE?

You should be able to find one for about $150 U.S. a month, furnished. Rents vary considerably with the type of house, size of garden and section of town you are in. A two bedroom apartment would run a little lower and you should be able to find a respectable furnished place for $100 to $120 a month.

ANY ELEMENTARY OR HIGH SCHOOLS FOR AMERICAN CHILDREN?

You have The American School, run by Americans, which is tied in with scholastic associations in the U.S. They use our system, text books and you should have no problem with the youngsters here.

ADJUSTMENTS AMERICAN FAMILIES MUST MAKE TO LIVE IN MEXICO?

Roughly, the same type of adjustment you'd have to make up home in moving from one city to another. Nobody can tell you HOW to adjust. You simply learn to live in a new environment, around new people. In Mexico you will learn to speak Spanish but otherwise discover that Mexicans are just people like everybody else. This is a big ccity and has the problems and benefits all big cities have. As a suggestion, don't come down here with a fear of a foreign country. Mexico is next door to us and has picked up a lot of U.S. influence but still retains its own personality and charm. Forget the foreign angle and just make yourself at home.

BEST PLACE FOR MAKING HEADQUARTERS TO TOUR AROUND MEXICO?

I think Mexico City is your best choice. Set up your main camp here and make your jaunt to wherever you want to visit. In three or four months you can see a lot of territory—and still leave a lot unseen.

THERMAL BATHS?

Mexico has scads. Within a few hours of the city you have Ixtapan de la Sal, San Jose Purua and Cuautla. There are dozens of others all over the country but these are the best known close to the city.

SHOULD WE EXCHANGE MONEY BEFORE OR AFTER CROSSING BORDER?

Best thing is to bring dollar travelers checks and cash them for pesos as you need money. You can pick up what you think you might need for a couple of days, when crossing the border. Stick to cashing them in banks if possible. You get a better exchange rate than restaurants and hotels give you.

INTERESTING PLACES TO VISIT?

Every place I have seen in Mexico is new and interesting. If you have time driving down, stop and look around all the spots that catch your eye. After reaching Mexico City you might want to make the circuit to San Miguel Allendo, Guanajuato and Queretaro. Or over the mountains to Cuernavaca, Taxco and Acapulco. Puebla is close and colonial. You will naturally prefer some spots to others but I don't think you'll be sorry you visited any given place.

Humphrey Arrives In South Korea

By HARRY KELLY

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey arrived tonight for a meeting with President Chung Hee Park and visits to GI's guarding the Korean truce zone.

As his special jet landed at the chilly airport, Humphrey was greeted by a 19-gun salute. He was met by Premier Chung Il-Kwon and about 300 Korean and American officials.

His visit will wrap up his brief Asian tour. He arrived from Taipei, Formosa, where he met earlier today with President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China for just less than three hours.

Viet Nam reportedly was the main topic of the talks at Chiang's residence in suburban Taipei.

Humphrey said he would report to President Johnson on the spirit of cooperation with the United States he found in Nationalist China.

He described the 78-year-old Chiang as "a man known for his courage and for his firm determination against despotism."

Tears showed on Humphrey's face as the Star-Spangled Banner was played after he arrived on Formosa, 100 miles from Communist China's shores. He then declared the U.S. goal is a world of freedom and peace. Humphrey flew in from Manila.

TV Has Slim Pickings In Balloting For Year's Top

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With the end of the year comes the usual assortment of blank ballots from magazines and trade publications and those who watch lot of television and write about it are urged to fill in their choices of the best of this or that category.

But 1965 has been, on the whole, such a dismal year in terms of television entertainment that picking the best of any type of show is about as easy as choosing the best loaf of bread in a bakery.

One questionaire asks my candidate for "the best show of the year." The winner of the general election will probably be "My Name is Barbra," the Streisand special of last May or the Julie Andrews hour of more recent date. But looking back over 12 months and hundreds of hours of viewing, it is hard to recall offhand many specific programs during which one was transported with delight.

The best entertainment show of the year probably was in one of those weekly two-hour spots the three networks are dedicating to rerunning old movies. They are this year's substitute for television drama and of course some of them were superior shows. But they hardly qualify for television blue ribbons.

An enormous quantity of material has been ground and reground in the television mills in 365 days and nights but most of it was casually viewed and immediately forgotten. Who recalls for any sentiment, for instance, "The Entertainers," 'an ambitious variety hour, or "The Cara Williams Show," or even the well-intentioned "Profiles in Courage," which tried, but never got off the ground?

"That Was the Week That Was," delighted a small audience, infuriated others but never had a big enough audience to survive. Les Crane had two chances to make the late evening scene but neither one resulted in a welcome mat. Does anyone recall "The Journals of Lewis and Clark"?, or the night when the panels of "To Tell the Truth" and "I've Got a Secret" switched shows? Or the night of Jack Paar's last show before he insisted, he retired? There is no particular reason anyone should.

This was the year when the audience finally wearied of medical problems as a substitute for real drama. It was a year when television turned to military stories in order to get a high quota of conflict into its plots. It was a year when the audience began to show the first signs of boredom with the perennially running-away of "The Fugitive" and its imitators.

Dick Van Dyke kept tripping over the family hassock once a week but his scripts began to show signs of age and attrition. "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." got so far out, possibly to confound its imitators, that it lost all touch with reality. So many actors started playing their parts with their tongues in their cheeks it seemed that Hollywood was having a mumps epidemic.

This viewer does recall, without prodding, watching the performances of Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne with appreciation, of enjoying the novelty of participating in "The National Drivers' Test," of savoring the rich color and content of both "The Louvre" and "Michelangelo." But that is lean picking in a solid year of television.

If one is picking "best shows," the votes this year must go to the actuality programs — the recovery of the astronauts, the coverage of the visit of Pope Paul to New York, the funeral of Sir Winston Churchill and an occasional illuminating or revealing bit of news film shot in Viet Nam or in the South or in Los Angeles during the disturbances.

So this is the year when my ballot for entertainment shows remains blank. Maybe next year.

Moscow Sets Curfew For Its Children

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow authorities have banned children under 16 from public places without adult escorts after 9 o'clock on school nights and 10 o'clock other nights.

With snow lying deep in the city, children also were told not to skate, ski or go sledding in streets or squares. Areas away from traffic are set aside for these winter sports.

The bans were part of a general tightening up of long-standing restrictions on Moscow children, who are supposed to be seen only at reasonable times and heard almost never.

The new rules were made by the executive committee of the Moscow City Council and published last Tuesday in the council's newspaper, Evening Moscow.

Entertainment for children, including movies and sports events, should end by 8:30 o'clock on school nights and 9:30 during vacations. Children cannot go without aduits to performances beginning after 6 p.m. during the school year.

Children under 14 were forbidden to ride bicycles in public places and those under 16 cannot use motorbikes.

The new children's code did not touch a problem which has worried Soviet authorities more than skiing on empty streets.

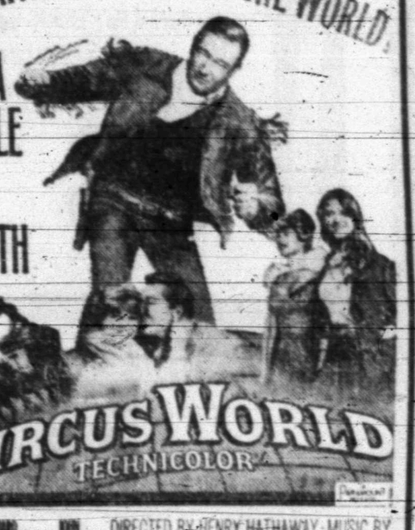

The problem is that young people in the age group from about 16 to 22 have shown little enthusiasm for Communist party discipline.

Building In Texas Near Record High

DALLAS (AP)— The Texas Contractor reports that construction awards in the state during 1965 totaled $1,254,638,051, just short of the record set in 1964.

The amount was 297 million shy of the 1964 mark but good enough to be the second best year, well ahead of the $1,220,331,984 mark in 1956.

December contract awards totaled $112,125,505, the magazine reported.

Four Cinnamon Nut Rolls

½ cup warm water
1 package active dry yeast
1½ cups sugar
½ cup warm mashed potato
2 cups milk; scalded
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or margarine
2 eggs, well beaten
8 cups unsifted regular flour (about)
2½ teaspoons cinnamon
2-3 cup chopped pecans

Dissolve yeast in the warm water; add ½ cup of the sugar and the mashed potato. Cover; let stay in warm place for 30 minutes. Into scalded milk, stir the salt and butter; cool to lukewarm; add to yeast mixture. Stir in eggs and 4 cups flour; beat until smooth. Stir in enough more flour to make soft dough. Turn out; knead for 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl; turn to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place until double—about 1 hour. Punch Down dough; divide into 4 pieces. Roll each piece into a 14 by 9 inch rectangle; brush lightly with extra melted butter. Stir togeth- cinnamon and pecans; sprinkle over dough. Tightly roll up each rectangle from 9 inch side; seal edges. Place rolls, sealed edges down and about 6 inches apart on greased cookie sheets. Firmly seal ends together. Cover; let rise in warm place until doubled—about 1 hour. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven about 35 minutes or until rolls feel hollow when tapped on back. Makes 4 rolls. For New Year Triumphant Souffle

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

There's drama in a souffle. Rising high and handsome in its straight-sided dish, it makes a spectacular offering at a party.

This souffle is the chilled variety made well in advance of serving. It is guaranteed to help a hostess feel calm and serene. And it makes a dozen portions.

When a neighbor of ours returned recently from a visit to England, she told us that at a dinner party in London, the dessert was a delightful cold lemon souffle. Did we have a recipe? It was her request that prodded us into obtaining this one. In London, this dessert had an extra garnish of crushed nuts. You might like to add that extra.

One note about the making of this souffle. In stirring the gelatin mixture while you heat it, you might like to use a rubber scraper. The scraper facilitates scraping the particles of gelatin from the sides of the saucepan or the sides of the double-boiler top.

CHILLED LEMON SOUFFLE

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
2 cups sugar
1 cup water
10 eggs, separated
1 cup lemon juice
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
Whipped cream (for garnish)

In the top of a double boiler or saucepan, stir together the gelatin and 2-3 cup of the sugar. Add the water. Beat the egg yolks with the lemon juice, stir into gelatin mixture. Place over low heat or boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved and mixture is slightly thickened—about 5 to 7 minutes. Stir in lemon rind. Chill until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Add salt and cream of tartar to egg whites; beat until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in remaining 1 1-3 cups sugar; beat until very stiff. Fold in gelatin mixture. Turn into prepared souffle dish (see note below). Chill until firm. At serving time, remove collar from souffle dish. Garnish with whipped cream. Makes 12 servings.

To prepare souffle dish: For this recipe, use a straight-sided casserole that measures 7 cups to the top. Make a collar for the dish—fold foil into four thicknesses 3 inches wide and long enough to go around the souffle dish with a generous overlap. Attach foil band to the dish with sealing tape, leaving 1 inch of the foil around the dish to make a collar that is 2 inches high.

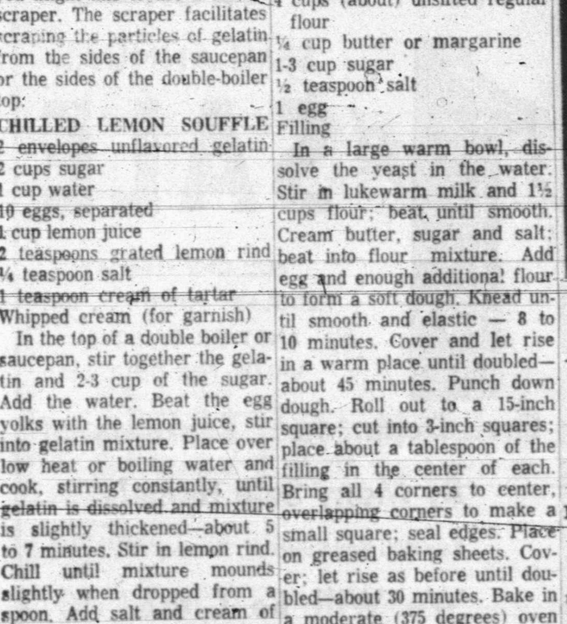

For Family Service: If you would like to make a small version of this Lemon Souffle, just halve the ingredients and turn the mixture into a 6-cup mold or bowl.

Kolachky

½ cup warm water
2 packages active dry yeast
¾ cup milk, scalded and cooled to lukewarm
4 cups (about) unsifted regular flour
¼ cup butter or margarine
1-3 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
Filling

In a large warm bowl, dissolve the yeast in the water. Stir in lukewarm milk and 1½ cups flour; beat until smooth. Cream butter, sugar and salt; beat into flour mixture. Add egg and enough additional flour to form a soft dough. Knead until smooth and elastic — 8 to 10 minutes. Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled—about 45 minutes. Punch down dough. Roll out to a 15-inch square; cut into 3-inch squares; place about a tablespoon of the filling in the center of each. Bring all 4 corners to center, overlapping corners to make a small square; seal edges. Place on greased baking sheets. Cover; let rise as before until doubled—about 30 minutes. Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven about 20 minutes.

Filling: Cream 8 ounces cream cheese with ¼ cup sugar; beat in 3 tablespoons flour and 1 egg yolk until smooth; stir in ¼ cup chopped candied fruit and ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

NEW YEAR CELEBRATION—This high and handsome chilled lemon souffle will satisfy a dozen partygoers.

Girl Scout troops in Snyder have had a busy pre-holiday season; some of the activities by Snyder Scouts include:

Girl Scout troop 327 met in the home of Mrs. Franklin Pruitt for a Christmas party. The girls listened to Christmas songs, and four girls gave readings for the holidays. Refreshments of Christmas punch and cookies were served to 29 girls and Mrs. Kenneth Terral, assistant leader. Each patrol assisted in a particular phase of the party. Gifts were exchanged beside the Christmas tree. The girls returned the dolls they had cleaned and dressed for the Goodfellows; much enthusiasm was shown by the girls during this project. The troop completed approximately 30 dolls and did a remarkable job with them. The project for helping the Goodfellows completed the troops' requirement for the Trefoil badge.

* * *

Brownie Troop 261 enjoyed punch and cookies at their troop's Christmas party. The girls played games, sang carols, and exchanged gifts. Eighteen Brownies were present. The leaders of Troop 261 are Jean Campbell, Jeanette Rylander, and Tommie Parkhill.

* * *

Troop 53 had its Christmas party at the Girl Scout Hut. The girls' mothers were all invited to this meeting, and the Scouts received their pins in a special ceremony.

Troop 53 made candy for the Snyder Nursing Home as their Christmas project. Leaders are Ann Palmer and Helen Pemberton.

Cadette Girl Scouts in Troop 325 had their final lesson in Red Cross First Aid on December 20. Following their final tests in January, these Scouts will become holders of the Standard Red Cross First Aid certificate. Mrs. H. P. Redwine is the leader of this troop.

THE CHALLENGES TO DEMOCRACY, By Murray Clark Havens (University of Texas Press, $3.75)

Murray Clark Havens, an associate professor at the University of Texas, points out in his new book, "The Challenges to Democracy," that unity comes only from concensus.

In other words, Americanism is what people think it is. It is no hard and fast image. There is no "natural law" in government although this sometimes is claimed by propagandists.

Unity of a nation depends on consensus about many things, such as freedom, religious tolerance, education, rule by law and the like. France in the immediate post-war period is an example of the chaos when there is no consensus.

Truly unity of viewpoint can never be reached, even when imposed by dictatorship and national brainwashing. But enough can be found for stability and progress, at least in the United States.

Havens discusses the possible threat from both the left and the right, as well as historical threats to unity such as the War between the States, racial and religious bigotry, the Ku Klux Klan, Huey Long, Father Coughlin and other extremes.

He concludes that our nation possesses considerable power for internal survival because of our deep national commitment to democracy and an even keener nationalism.

PAPAGO INDIAN POTTERY, By Bernard L. Fontana, William J. Robinson, Charles W. Cormack and Ernest E. Leavitt Jr. (University of Washington Press, $5.75)

Papagueria is an indefinite territory in parts of Arizona, Mexico and California. In that area, where proper clay could be found, the Papago Indian women made pottery. It largely was a utility product and still sells for that purpose, although some Indians have found that tourists will buy it.

"Papago Indian Pottery" tells how the Indians make the vessels—without a potter's wheel—in a step by step description with pictures. The book should be of interest to anthropologists, Indian students and persons who make their own pottery as a hobby.

MRS. LINDEN LYNELL TERRY
(Wolfe Studio)

Miss Duckworth, Mr. Terry Wed In Candlelight Rites

Charlotte Marie Duckworth became the bride of Linden Lynell Terry Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock December 19 in a candlelight ceremony at the Greenhill Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Duckworth, Clairemont Route and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford C. Terry, 2806 Thirty - second street.

Mr. Jerry Speers, minister of the Greenhill Baptist Church officiated.

The double ring vows were exchanged before a background of brass candelabra with votive lights entwined with hanging boxwood, flanked on each side with baskets of white gladioli.

Wedding music was presented by Miss Susie Hendrix, organist. Soloists were Mrs. Linda Pillow, who sang "Oh Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly" and Mrs. Richard Mathews, sister of the groom, who sang "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of pure white delustered satin made by the groom's mother and worn before her by the groom's sister, Mrs. Richard Mathews. It featured a bateau neckline and bouffant dome-shaped skirt detailed with handmade fabric roses cascading into a full chapel train. Her scalloped veil of silk illusion was edged in pearls and held by a satin pill box complimented by a single fabric rose. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow butterfly roses and stephonotis with pecot streamers and satin leaves.

Her jewelry was a gold and pearl necklace, a gift from the groom.

Miss Cynthia Hale attended the bride as maid of honor and Miss Wanda Edmonson and Miss Sandra Duckworth, sister of the bride were bridesmaids. They wore street length dresses of delustered satin in antique gold designed with bateau necklines and bell - shaped skirts. Their headdresses were matching satin pillboxes complimented by a single fabric rose. Each carried a single yellow rose.

Coleen Winkles of Lovington, New Mexico was the flower girl and Rodney Winkles was ring bearer.

Wayne Winkles attended the groom as best man. Ushers and groomsmen were Darrell Haney, Fred Finley, Jay Don Rogers, Robert Foree and Buddy Shaw all of Snyder.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Duckworth wore a pink wool sheath dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Terry, mother of the groom, wore a moss green lace sheath dress with matching velveteen coat and accessories. Their corsages were orchids.

The reception followed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Terry, 2806 Thirty - second street. The bride's table was laid with an embroidered linen cloth with gold and crystal appointments. A large gold candelabra with white taper and wedding bouquets decorated the table which held a tiered white cake topped with a bride and groom. The groom's table was set on a small antique round table with a gold coffee service.

Members of the houseparty were Phyliss Smith, Karen Teutchlander, Sharon Aylor, Linda Pillow, Judy and Trudy Gracey.

For traveling, the bride wore a pale green checked suit with bone accessories. Her corsage was yellow roses from her bouquet.

After the wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the couple will be at home at Lubbock Christian College in Lubbock.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Snyder High and are now attending Lubbock Christian College.

Out of town guests were from Lubbock, Brownfield, Ft. Worth, Dallas, Amarillo, Victoria, El Paso, Sweetwater, Seagraves, Texas and Nashville, Tenn.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Terry on Saturday evening.

Easy Care Windows

Windows and window sills can be omitted as cleaning headaches thanks to innovations in designs. Flipable windows with center hinges that permit full rotation and easy cleaning from the inside of the home are now on the market. Sills surfaced with domestic ceramic tile will not stain and discolor and will come clean with a quick wipe with a damp cloth. In addition, the colors and shapes offered by domestic ceramic tile manufacturers make a tiled sill a handsome addition to any room.

Hermleigh News

By MRS. O. W. RICHBURG

Mr. C. V. Clift, who has had years of experience in the field of electricity has very recently perfected a new type of meter which he calls "Meter Controlling System". This New instrument has been patented in the U.S and patent applied for in foreign countries. After four years of presistent effort on the part of an outstanding lawyer of West Texas, Mr. Chas Nunn of Sweetwater, and once a resident and student of Hermleigh, this patent was granted. Then there was the period of time when a suitable manufacturer was sought. At long last the search ended when the T and W Manufacturing Co. of Abilene was willing to produce this instrument and on Dec. 22, 1965 they turned out the first unit. This unit was then delivered by the designer, Mr. Clift, to Mr. A. P. Smith of Snyder who is operating an electric Co. in Snyder and who also is a former student of Hermleigh. This first instrument is only one of many to be designed in the future by Mr. Clift with the assistance of Mr. A. L. Barfoot, also of Hermleigh. Texas' Old Criminal Code Is Discarded With Old Year

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN (AP)—The new year swept away Texas' century-old rules for arrest and trial of criminal defendants.

A new and controversial code of criminal procedure went into effect at midnight Friday, heralding a year of cautious testing for lawyers, judges and police who will use it.

Described by some as revolutionary, the code is a major departure from Texas' old rules for taking confessions, setting bail, determining punishment and conducting trials.

Some provisions drew the ire of police chiefs and some prosecutors, who said the code would make it harder to get convictions.

Defense lawyers, other prosecutors and the State Bar of Texas, which engineered the revision, said the code would bring a new day of justice to Texas.

There is little doubt that the legislature will be asked next year to change the code.

A central role will be played by the three judges of the Court of Criminal Appeals, which is expected to interpret a number of the code's provisions as convictions are brought before it on appeal.

"It won't be long before we have a stream of appeals that will call for interpretation of parts of the new code," said Howard Fender, chief of Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr's enforcement division.

"I am equally sure that the new code will cause an increased number of appeals. That is no fault of the code. That would happen no matter how they had written the code."

As the year opened, Carr already had received nearly 30 requests for opinions on parts of the code.

In numerous special seminars, those who must follow the code have received detailed explanations of how it will work.

Here are some of the major differences between the old and the new codes of criminal procedure.

Bail bond— Courts may now release defendants on their own personal oath that they will appear in court. This allows defendants without sufficient funds to make bail to return to their jobs and families pending trial.

Confessions—A suspect's written statement must show the name of the magistrate who warned him of his rights, as well as the time, date and place. The warning is required before a confession is signed. Some police chiefs have attacked this provision.

Discovery and deposition—After a hearing, a judge may require the prosecution in a criminal case to make its evidence available to the defense. This is one of the more controversial sections of the code.

Right of counsel — The new code requires that court-appointed lawyers be provided for defendants "too poor to employ counsel" in misdemeanor cases punishable by imprisonment. The old code provided counsel for the indigent only in felony cases.

Pre-trial news coverage — — In a provision whose meaning has been subject to dispute, the code requires lawyers and officers in criminal cases to "so conduct themselves as to insure to the defendant a fair trial upon the presumption of innocence and at the same time afford the public the benefit of a free press."

Severance of defendants—the new code lets judges decide whether two or more defendants in the same case should be tried jointly or separately. The old code required separate trials.

Jury rules—Eleven of the 12 jurors in a felony case may return a verdict if one juror dies or is disabled before the judge reads his charge to the jury. Such an occurrence would cause a mistrial under the old code. Jurors now may separate at the end of the day if the judge, prosecutor and defense attorney agree.

Testimony—Husbands and wives may testify against one another in cases involving assault or violence against any child under 16 of either spouse, incest cases and child desertion cases. The old code prohibited such testimony.

Judge or jury?—The new code allows a defendant in a felony case to forego a jury trial and be tried before the judge. Federal courts and many states now use this procedure, which is expected to save the time and expense of a jury trial in many cases. The old code required a jury trial.

Punishment—A defendant, on conviction in a non-capital case, may ask to have either the judge or the jury determine his punishment. A separate hearing will be held, at which the defendant's record may be introduced. The old procedure required the jury to determine punishment, and the defendant's record could not be presented.

Dist. Atty. Tom Blackwell of Austin, who will direct the prosecution next month of James Cross Jr. on charges of murdering two university of Texas coeds, feels the code's greatest impact will be in allowing a jury to know a defendant's record before sentencing.

"This is going to be a revolution in the administration of justice," Blackwell said. "It will allow the jury to know when it is dealing with an ex-convict or a habitual offender. This is a major step forward. It allows the jury to know the truth for the first time in 100 years."

Blackwell has been working with Judge W. A. Morrison of the Court of Criminal Appeals on a book of legal forms to be used with the new code. He said the book, to be published this month, "will do much to alleviate confusion" about the code.

"I have a feeling that right now we are kind of boxing at shadows in fear of the new code. I feel that the overall majority of the code will be a vast improvement. We may have trouble from things we haven't noticed, and some of the things we fear may not cause trouble," he said.

Blackwell predicted the 1967 legislature will be asked to modify the section of the code requiring an accused to receive a full warning of his rights before signing a confession. He said the provision goes further than required by decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court.

"I feel certain we will see a move to adjust this to fit federal procedure, and undoubtedly it probably will be passed," he said.

Horse Finally Returns

MEDAH, Yugoslavia (AP) — Farmer Stevan Dubajic waited nine years but he finally got his stolen horse back with interest. The horse showed up at his old farm with two barrels of wine strapped on his back, Cubajic told police.

Modern Rustlers

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — Sicilian police recovered a flock of 70 rustled sheep by using helicopters. The stolen sheep were sighted in an isolated valley far from the nearest roads. Police said they had been hidden there, awaiting a chance to drive them to market.

Funds Are Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Community Facilities Administration announced Thursday the reservation of $3,200,000 pending review of an application by Texas Women's University, Denton, Tex., for a loan toward construction of a new dormitory.

If you are receiving social security benefits and are 65, you are automatically covered for hospitalization under the new Medicare program. But you must decide by March 31, 1966, if you wish to enroll for the voluntary medical insurance. If you have not returned your enrollment card, do so today.

Junior Editors Quiz on EGYPTIAN DRAWINGS

QUESTION: Why did the Egyptians paint heads in profile, but with eyes looking straight at you?

ANSWER: There have been several explanations given. One is suggested in our picture. The history of Egypt goes very far back—into the Prehistoric Period. These ancient artists were probably trying to draw people to look as much like people as they were able to do. Study upper left. Doesn't an eye look more like an eye if seen from the front? A nose, however, is very difficult to draw front view—the Egyptians didn't know how to use realistic shadows, as was discovered later. Nose, mouth and chin looked most like themselves when drawn from the side, so the Egyptians drew them this way. In the same way, shoulders were drawn from the front, where they look wider. But since legs and feet look more natural drawn from the side, the Egyptians used this view in drawing them. Put these most favorable views of parts of the figure together and you get the Egyptian look in figure drawing. There is, of course, more to the Egyptian style than this. Egyptian art was meant to emphasize the belief in life after death, and these figures with their curious flatness look as if they would last forever. This is just what the patrons of the Egyptian artists wanted them to express.

* * *

FOR YOU TO DO: Draw two profiles, with noses, lips and chins as in our picture. In one, put an Egyptian eye, looking as if seen from the front. Then look at a real person's profile and see how different the real eye, in profile, is from the Egyptian one. Draw this second eye in the second profile as close to its real appearance as you can. 1-1

Doublering Vows Unite Miss White, Jerry Lynn Wyatt Here Dec. 27

Melody May White became the bride of Jerry Lynn Wyatt in doublering vows which were exchanged at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 27 in the First Methodist Church in Snyder.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. White of Snyder. Mr. Wyatt is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Elton Wyatt of Petersburg.

Rev. Wyatt, father of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony.

In the church, two potted palms were on either side of an arch of tapers entwined with greenery.

Mrs. Bob Womack sang "I Love Thee" and "Calm as the night" with Mrs. Leonard Groves, sister of the bridegroom, accompanying at the organ.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a high rise directoire silhouette of ivory silk cloud peau de soie. Re-embroidered alencon lace on a net background, formed the empire bodice with a scalloped bateau neckline and long buttoned sleeves ending in points over the hands. The watteau tubular train was enhanced by lace and topped by a fringed bow.

Her veil of ivory English illusion was held by a Dior bow of lace. She carried a bouquet of white orchids surrounded by stephonotis and English ivy, mounted on a white, pearl-covered Bible.

The bride's attendants wore floor-length dresses having empire bodices of gold brocade, featuring bateau necklines and elbow-length sleeves. The softened sheath skirts were of maize crepe accented by watteau panels in the back, topped by butterfly bows. They wore gold brocade bows with a bustle-type bronze and gold mums.

The flower girl's dress was similar to that of the honor attendants.

Mrs. James Taylor of Lubbock was matron of honor and Miss Linda Draughon of Temple was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Young of Refugio, and Miss Kay Burrill of Jacksonville.

The flower girl was Miss Patti Groves of Morton, niece of the bridegroom.

Conley Bradford of Floydada was best man, while groomsmen were Terry Stephens of Stephenville, Ray Lashaway of Idalou and Joe Melcher of Lubbock. Candle-lighters were Robert White of Snyder, brother of the bride, and Leland Herod of Snyder, cousin of the bride. Jeffrey Groves of Morton, nephew of the bridegroom, was the ring-bearer.

A reception followed the ceremony in Wesley Hall of the church where the wedding cake and golden punch were served. The bouquets of the bridesmaids were used as decorations around the memory candle. In the house party were Linda Reon, Jan McLeod, Diane Hargrove, Jane Foree, Mrs. Carl Herod, Miss Leland Herod, all of Snyder.

For traveling, the bride chose a white three-piece knit suit and off-white accessories. Her corsage was the white orchid from her bouquet.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Lubbock, where both will continue studies at Texas Tech.

The bride is a graduate of Snyder High School and is an elementary education major at Tech. Mr. Wyatt, a graduate of Petersburg High School, is a music education major at Tech.

On Dec. 26, the bridegroom's parents were hosts for a rehearsal dinner at Jenny's Steak house. The bride's mother was hostess for a luncheon given for the bridesmaids on Dec. 27.

Skibine Puts New Ballet Up On Its Toes

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — One year after a European tour with a new American ballet company, artistic director George Skibine is "more scared" about a second tour than he was then.

"The company was accepted very well in Europe," Skibine says, "but you know, they always expect more and more, so this time I am even more nervous."

Skibine was hired to create the Rebekah Harkness Ballet in May 1964 and he did it in a hurry. He and Leon Fokine, nephew of the late Russian choreographer Michel Fokine, auditioned dancers, selected 30 and began teaching them in June. Vera Volkova, director of the school of the Royal Danish Ballet, came during the summer to hold classical classes and Alvin Ailey taught jazz-modern.

Skibine's appointment came just after an announcement that the William Harkness Foundation, which had supported the Robert Joffrey Ballet for two years, was withdrawing its support. Joffrey said that the parting of the ways came because he was asked to change the name of the Joffrey Ballet to the Rebekah Harkness Ballet and offered the job of artistic director without making it clear whether he or Mrs. Harkness would have final authority.

Some dancers went with Joffrey, some with Harkness, and a settlement was reached about properties.

The ballet world was worried that the Joffrey company would have to disband. A few months later, the Ford Foundation gave it $35,000 and, on the basis of matching contributions, $120,000. The Joffrey Company, of 24 danced in Central Park last summer and at present is keeping its head above water.

The new Harkness company rehearsed 12 ballets and left for its first tour, 2in Europe last February.

"In Europe," Skibine says, "there is shorter notice for bookings and theaters, and you stay longer in one place. Here it is usually one-night stands."

Skibine, who came to his new post after seven years as artistic director of the Paris Opera Ballet, says, "Also, I was friendly with the director of a casino in Cannes. He said, "Why don't you come and try your ballets on my stage with my orchestra?". We were there in his small theater for two months giving three performances a week. The French government forces a casino to give artistic performances, which was lucky for us.

"Then we spent three months traveling. It was really amazing; the dancers got together very fast."

Skibine says their greatest success was in Rome. "I was very happy. Rome is not a ballet audience—opera, opera, opera."

The young company also provided him a couple of surprises.

"On opening night in Cannes I realized some of them had never been on stage. I saw two girls wandering, completely lost, with stage fright, like night walkers. So I had to take them apart and tell them a few things.

"You know, in the Paris Opera, a dancer enters school at 12 and lives at the opera. There. I always fought with them. I felt they were too much at home on the stage."

In Rome, Skibine says, he was never have danced in the same company.

Miss Tallchief dances in Harkness and will star in two ballets to be premiered in Cannes in Marck, Skibine's Spanish "Venta Quemada" and Donald Saddler's American Inidan, "Koshare."

This fall, the company went on its first American tour, of 30 cities. New York was not included, Skibine says, because of the difficulties of finding a theater.

His full-length "Daphnis and Chloe" had its American premier in Dallas. He says, "I choreographed it for the Paris Opera Ballet and slightly revised it for the smaller company. Chagall designed the scenery. I asked him, could I use his scenery. He said, wonderful, but I would have to ask the Paris Opera director. He said no."

New sets was designed by Jacques Dupont, who did sets and costumes for the Metropolitan Opera's new production of "Faust."

Skibine took the new job and at the same time retired from dancing, he says, because:

"I was ballet master of the Paris Opera Ballet but I never actually directed it myself. It always had to be a ballet that the Ministry wanted produced. Here I have the company under my complete disposal. I train them and work them. It is a great opportunity, a great risk also.

"I don't miss a single performance. I dance every part with the dancers, pulling my muscles, turning my head. I see a dancer lose a little bit of control and I pull up immediately. I get more exhausted, I think, than they do."

Fertilizing Pays

The American Association of Nurserymen reports that nearly twice as many roses bloomed every month from May through November in an experimental planting in Texas treated three times each with fertilizer, mulch and fungicide, plus a root - starting solution at planting time.

The number of blooms totaled 235 for the season for the treated plots compared with 13 for untreated plots.

Decorating Deadlines

If you are taking on a decorating project, whether for one room or an entire home, avoid setting a deadline for the finished design. Decorating deadlines too often result in hasty decisions and a completed job with which the homeowner is dissatisfied.

To test a yeast loaf (regular or sweet dough) to see whether it is fully baked, turn it over and tap the bottom; if you hear a hollow sound, the loaf is ready to take out of the oven.

Freuchen's Adventures

THE PETER FREUCHEN READER. Selected by Dagmar Freuchen.

This anthology contains some of the most ruggedly heroic adventures of wild personality.

As many readers know, Freuchen was a Dane who many years ago went native among the Eskimos: a professional explorer who combined the talents of sociology and journalism: a man of dash and upsmanship who appreciated the reverse boasting (depreciation) of the natives. He also happened to play a part in his later years as a member of the Danish underground against the Germans.

There are two selections, "The Eskimo Way of Life" and "Love and Marriage," which no doubt will remain classics in the interpretation of Eskimo customs and psychology.

For sheer terror, in the way of grim bravery at the point of death and survival, few essays can equal Freuchen's story of a rescue expedition which he led across Melville Bay to bring out some lost whalers, and his account of a gruelling Hudson Bay expedition, during which he lost his left foot. There are also several fictional stories which carry out the same northland themes.

But this book is not entirely about Eskimos. One selection is a bizarre account of a trip into the Russian north in the late 1930s where utterly irrational havoc prevailed. Another story is about Freuchen's contributions to the Danish underground, full of risks which he took with all the fatalism of an Eskimo.

The whole collection is an amazing record of an individual exotic combat against nature and man.
