Aha, we've gotcha!

After four long months of lazy-man's time, the Year Around Daylight Saving Time Club is back on schedule.

So, if you forgot to change your time pieces before you turned in last night, chances are you already are late for church.

Incidentally, DST may become a political issue later in the season, with a "non-binding" vote on the issue in April.

City officials here are puzzled over Lone Star Gas Company's recent request for a special rate hike. Lone Star asked for a "pass through" increase to help bear increased costs of supplies it purchases from LoVaca, following a Railroad Commission order increasing its rate for such purchases from 23½ cents per thousand cubic feet to $1.27 per MCF.

At its next meeting, three days after that request was received, the council instructed the city attorney to prepare two ordinances for consideration at its next meeting, granting Lone Star a rate increase. A few days later, Lone Star sent word that failure to approve the "pass through" increase at the February meeting of the council was considered a rejection and that there was no need to continue work on any proposed ordinances at this time.

Under Snyder's Charter, the only way such rates can be changed is by ordinance, and so far, city councils have been reluctant to approve ordinances that would permit any type of increase without council approval in each case. This policy offers protection to the consumer that we would not want to give up without a fight, which is one of the major reasons that proposals for establishing a state commission to set utility rates is opposed.

That sketch of Grant Teaff which we overprinted in green on our front page Friday was done by Helen Hatter. She was on the decorations committee for the Chamber of Commerce banquet Friday night and if you were at the banquet, you saw a larger version of the sketch hanging to the right of the head table, plus another sketch of Teaff when he was in high school hanging to the left of the head table.

A Dallas newspaper reported late in the week that Billy Sims, the high school football phenomenon who finally signed with Oklahoma, might not even play college football. That was of little consolation to coaches who missed out when he signed, of course.

However, Grant Teaff indicated that it was not necessarily regarded as a catastrophe when Sims picked OU over Baylor.–WACIL McNAIR.

SNYDER'S CITIZEN OF YEAR—Roger B. Mize was honored as Snyder's Outstanding Citizen of 1974 at the Chamber of Commerce banquet Friday night.

Teaff, Mize, Baize Are In Spotlight At Banquet

Grant Teaff, Roger B. Mize and Bentley Baize were in the spotlight Friday night as the annual banquet of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce brought to a close a day of celebration here.

For Teaff, head football coach at Baylor University, it was the climax of a day of festivities in his honor. Mize and Baize were presented awards for distinguished service, with Mize being honored as Snyder's Outstanding Citizen of 1974 and Baize receiving the Second Annual Harrie Winston Memorial Award for Achievement in Agriculture.

Following the presentations and recognitions, Okla. Lt. Gov. George Nigh, guest speaker at the banquet, challenged Snyder residents to not merely talk about what they hoped to accomplish, but to unify their efforts to see that their words are put into actiton.

The fact that you came here [illegible] banquet indicates that [illegible] care about your community," Gov. Nigh said. But, he said, Snyder citizens should always keep in mind that nobody cares about Snyder so much as its own citizens.

C. T. McLaughlin presented the Outstanding Citizen's Award to Mize, who is President of Snyder National Bank. Mize grew up on a farm in Mississippi, served in the Army Air Corps in World War II, after which he settled in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas. It was there that he began his career in banking. He came to Snyder in 1957 from Donna and since that time has been associated with Snyder National Bank and other business interests, including the Roscoe, Snyder and Pacific Railroad. He also has been identified with virtually all major community projects since he became a citizen of Snyder. Also, it was Mize who contributed a site and sparked a drive to provide permanent offices for the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, a project that is scheduled to get underway soon.

Baize, who heads Von Roeder Seeds Farms, is known throughout the country in agricultural circles and especially in the cotton indutry. He also is active in a variety of civic work, being closely identified with the Chamber of Commerce, which he served as president in 1967; the United Way, the Scurry County Fair, Livestock Association and others. He holds membership in a number of agriculture-related organizations and is active in all of them.

James M. (Speedy) Moffett presented a plaque to Teaff and a medallion to his wife, Donnell. The Snyder High School graduate, who was a football star when Moffett was head coach here was honored with a

Rare Saturday Session Fails On Rail Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate was unable in an unsual Saturday session to break an impasse that has prevented action on an emergency rail-aid measure because of a battle over its filibuster rule.

After 90 minutes, it gave up because of a lack of a quorum. Another try was scheduled for Monday.

Only 41 senators, 10 short of the necessary 51, appeared during today's 45-minute effort to produce a quorum.

Even if a quorum had been present, however, opponents of the move to ease the filbuster rule were prepared to block action on the rail measure.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., told reporters as the session began that they were hopeful of an agreement that would permit action today on the rail measure.

But Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., said, "I would rather doubt it."

The measure, already passed by the House, would provide $347 million in federal grants and loans to keep the bankrupt Penn Central and other Northeast railroads running.

The Penn Central and the Erie Lackawanna have said they will be forced to shut down unless emergency aid is provided quickly.

Today's session was scheduled after an attempt to pass the bill Friday was blocked as it got caught up in a battle over the filibuster rule. Liberals want to make it easier to cut off a filibuster.

Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., leading opponent of the rules change, had control of the floor and prevented the railroad bill from being brought to a vote.

He said he was willing to let the bill pass, even though he is against it, but only under conditions that would let him retain control of the floor.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., refused to accede to Allen's conditions and insisted instead on a Saturday session.

Allen is trying to force advocates of a new filibuster rule to drop their move or at least their effort to cut off debate on their proposal by majority vote.

They want to replace the rule requiring a two-thirds majority to halt a filibuster with one permitting debates to be halted by a three-fifths majority.

Tornado In Oklahoma Kills Four

ALTUS, Okla. (AP) — Four persons were killed and at least 100 injured today when a massive storm system that spawned rare February tornadoes across southwestern Oklahoma was followed by heavy rain, sleet and snow.

One woman and her son were killed when a twister blasted Altus, damaging or destroying about 100 mobile homes and knocking out the city's electrical service. Thirty-six persons were treated for injuries at Altus and two were reported in critical condition.

Another person died when a storm lashed the Mountain Park area, about 25 miles east of Altus, and authorities reported at least one death at Duncan, about 85 miles southeast of Altus.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol said the Duncan death was caused by a tornado-related fire.

There was no immediate identification of the dead.

Altus and other towns hit by twisters or violent winds began receiving heavy snow, hampering rescue efforts.

Winter Storm Invades Texas

By The Associated Press

Texas weather grew worse Saturday, starting with damaging winds which could have been tornadoes and then blizzard conditions occurred from the South Plains northward.

In another development, the Weather Service said flash floods were possible for portions of Northeast Texas and the eastern half of North Central Texas. These flood warnings were a part of a tornado watch for some parts of that area.

By mid-morning, the Texas Highway Department reported that blizzard conditions were occurring from Lubbock northward into the Panhandle with blowing snow causing zero visibility. Ice was on the roadways and driving was very hazardous. Snow at that time also was occurring in the Midland-Odessa area and in the El Paso highway district.

The Department of Public Safety at Wichita Falls said a possible tornado ripped through the communities of Charlie and Thornberry on the Texas-Oklahoma border north of Wichita Falls.

Twelve persons were reported injured, the DPS said. Five mobile homes were wrecked, telephone lines were downed and several homes were damaged.

Another windstorm, possibly a tornado said the Department of Public Safety, hit the Quanah area about midnight. It overturned a tractor-trailer carrying the mail, caused heavy damage to a cotton compress, damaged the airport, tore the roof of the power plant and halted electrical service.

The National Weather Service recorded wind gusts up to 75 miles per hour–hurricane strength–in Wichita Falls.

Tornadoes also hit the Oklahoma cities of Altus and Duncan, killing four persons and injuring several others.

Wichita Falls hospitals and nearby Sheppard Air Force Base were alerted to send ambulances and receive the injured from the Oklahoma storms.

One highway patrolman trying to reach Iowa Park from Wichita Falls had to turn back because of high winds and heavy hail.

The highway patrol reported heavy snow reduced visability to 70 yards on Interstate 10 at Fort Hancock, and Sierra Blanca, southeast of El Paso, and at Van Horn, about 120 miles east of El Paso.

Burkburnett, north of Wichita Falls, reported golf ball size hail and high winds.

The cold front was expected to move south and eastward into East Texas and the Upper Coast by late today.

Heart Sunday Drive Is Set Here Today

The American Heart Association will hold its annual Heart Sunday Drive today between the hours of 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Representatives of the American Heart Association will be calling at homes during those hours to solicit public assistance for the Heart Association's Research Projects. Chairman of the Heart Sunday Drive is Mrs. Sylvia Voelkel. Various civic and service clubs will be assisting the Heart Association in the Sunday Drive.

Heart disease is the No. 1 killer in America, with heart and blood vessel diseases contributing to more than 53 percent of all deaths. This is a greater number than cancer, accident, and all other diseases combined.

Heart research, however, has reduced this figure by 17.5 per cent since 1950 for the 45 to 64 age category. Funds are severely needed in order to continue to cut down the 53 per cent death figure.

Heart Month will continue through March 18. Loren Sullivan is heading the Heart Fund Drive among the businesses in Snyder, Mrs. Helen Greenway is in charge of memorials, and Mrs. Forest G. Sears serves as chairman for special gifts.

If you are not home when the Heart volunteer calls, you may still participate by mailing your gift to Box 1185, Snyder, or by contacting one of the chairmen.

Tariff Upheld For Security

By MIKE WATERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has acknowledged President Ford's $3-per-barrel tariff on oil imports will be damaging to the Northeastern states but has upheld it for national security reasons.

U.S. District Judge John Pratt made the ruling Friday after a hearing in which nine states sought a temporary injunction against the tariff.

Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti, who argued the case for eight Northeastern states and Minnesota, said after the hearing that Pratt's ruling would be appealed.

The ruling came as a victory for the White House after setbacks in Congress, which voted to delay the tariff for 90 days. Ford says he will veto the bill.

In his decision, Pratt said, "We must accept the President's determination of national security upon which his action was predicated.

"Certainly, our continued dependence on imports of foreign oil threatens our national security, the economy, the posture of our defense and the condcut of our foreign affaris," Pratt said.

Bellotti had argued that Ford's national security justification for the tariff, which is legally called a license fee, could not be challenged, but the power under which Ford imposed it could.

"National security cannot be used as a public interest blanket under which everything can be hidden ... however he adjusts imports, he must do it within the law ... he has not done that," Bellotti said.

Bellotti also began to outline the economic damage to the Northeastern states because of the tariff when Pratt interrupted to say:

"I think you can assume the New England states will suffer irreparable injury," from the tariff.

Bellotti said Treasury Secretary William E. Simon should have conducted public hearings on the tariff before it was imposed and an environmental impact statement should have been filed before it took effect.

But Irwin Goldbloom, lawyer for the government, said a preliminary impact statement had been filed and that a complete one would be filed in May.

As for a hearing, Goldbloom said the law under which Ford acted requires a hearing only if the Treasury secretary deems one appropriate, which Goldbloom said Simon did not.

One dollar of the tariff is in effect, with additional dollars to take effect March 1 and April 1.

BAYLOR NOW AND THEN—Baylor football coach Grant Teaff discusses athletics with Sam Tibbets, Snyder resident who was a Baylor athlete in 1913, during a reception Friday afternoon at the Baptist Student Union building on the Western Texas College campus.

SURPRISE PRESENTATION—Mickey Nunley, Snyder Chamber of Commerce manager, left, was recipient of a surprise gift contributed by members of the BCD board at Friday night's Chamber of Commerce banquet. Making the presentation is Delbert Downing, master of ceremonies.

special day in his home town in recognition of his achievement in coaching the Baylor University football team to its first Southwest Conference title in 50 years and earning national coach-of-the-year honors.

Teaff credited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Teaff, the people of Snyder and the environment of the community with providing the foundation that led to his success in his profession.

"No matter where I go, I will never be apart from this town where I grew up," he declared.

Earlier Friday, Teaff spoke at a special assembly program at Snyder High School and was honored with an informal reception at the Baptist Student Union building at Western Texas College. At the reception, he visited with a number of his classmates at Snyder High School, including several who played on the football team with him. Also attending the event were a number of Baylor ex-students and friends.

Tommy Turner, assistant to Baylor President Abner McCall, told the banquet audience what Teaff's football program had meant to Baylor.

"We always felt that we were superior academically and in other areas, but you know our football program had been a problem," said Turner, who described himself as "Baylor's token Methodist."

Grant Teaff has solved that problem, Turner declared, and "the Judge's mail was a lot more pleasant the past fall."

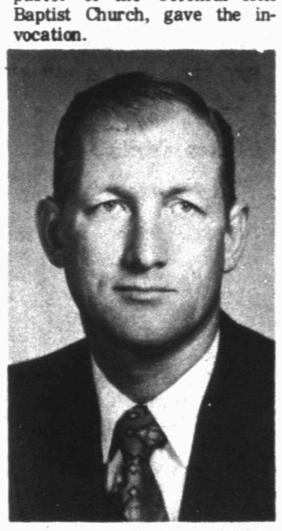

John Thomas, 1973-74 president of the Chamber of Commerce, expressed appreciation to the directors who served with him and to the staff of the Chamber of Commerce.

"As most of you know, we picked Snyder as our home town 10 years ago and we are still happy to be a part of it," said Thomas.

Joe Williamson, 1975 Chamber President, pledged that the organization would continue to dream and moreover that it would work to make the dreams come true as many have in the past.

Delbert Downing, was master of ceremonies at the banquet. He also made the presentation of the Winston Memorial Award to Baize and introduced Nigh. He also presented a special gift to Mickey Nunley, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, from individuals serving on the Board of County Development.

The Rev. Miller F. Robinson, pastor of the Colonial Hill Baptist Church, gave the invocation.

GUEST SPEAKER—Ronald A. Bremer of Salt Lake City, Utah, will be guest speaker for a special meeting of the Western Texas Genalogical Society at 7:30 tomorrow night in the Snyder Savings & Loan Association community room. The meeting is open to the public with no charge, and Bremer will answer questions concerning genalogical research at the conclusion of the program.

Missing Ship Safe

TOKYO (AP) —A coastal ferry with 156 persons aboard that had been missing in the Pacific off northern Honshu was reported safe tonight, navigating far off course to seek shelter from a snow storm, its owners said.

The Maritime Safety Agency said a Philippine freighter identified as the Dona Pastor ran aground and broke in half in the same area.

A spokesman for the Nihon Enkai Ferry Co. said the Shiretoko Maru's captain contacted his office tonight after almost 24 hours silence, saying he was again within radio range. The ship was continuing her voyage from Tokyo to Tomakomai, Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost main island, the company said.

"The seas are still rough," the company said, "and the skipper is proceeding with caution."

The 7,874-ton ship had reported it was battling gales and a heavy snowstorm on Friday evening and the Maritime Safety Agency sent 15 patrol boats and four planes to search for it but they were hampered by the weather.

Registration Is Extended

Persons who are interested in learning more about the new program for adult training are invited to contact Rex Hopkins at Western Texas College.

Students enrolling in the classes are not required to pay fees, and all supplies and equipment are furnished.

Earthquake Rocks Aleutian Islands

PALMER, Alaska (AP) — A strong earthquake has rocked the western Aleutian Islands southwest of the Alaska mainland, the Palmer Observatory reported.

The quake, which occurred late Friday, registered 6.6 on the Richter scale. Its epicenter was located 60 miles east of Amchitka Island in an area of largely uninhabited small islands.

There were no immediate reports of damage.

An observatory spokesman said the quake was felt strongly at the U.S. Naval station on Adak Island, 120 miles to the east.

Lawyer Unable To Testify

By JAN CARROLL
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The physician of a man indicted by a federal grand jury on six counts of mail and wire fraud says "under no circumstances" is the man able to testify in court.

Joe Ben Champion, a lawyer living in Lewisville, Tex., and Pauline Girvin, a secretary in House Speaker Carl Albert's Washington office, were indicted Thursday for a scheme to defraud criminal defendants and convicts' families by claiming influence with Albert.

In a notarized statement issued one day before the indictment was returned, Dr. Kenneth Killen, of Dallas, said Champion has been under Killen's care for the past four months for terminal liver and kidney disease.

"I expect the patient to expire shortly. Under no circumstances is he able to testify in court. This probably would be very detrimental to his already very bad health and I do not think at this point he is competant to testify," Killen's statement read.

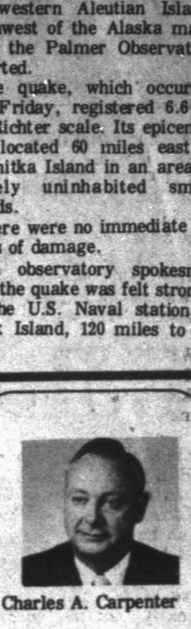

Champion and Mrs. Girvin have been summoned to appear before U.S. District Court Judge Sarh T. Hughes March 7 to answer the five counts of wire fraud and one count of mail fraud.

The indictment, unsealed Friday by U.S. District Court Judge Robert Porter, alleges "Champion held himself out as a lawyer and would tell his clients ... he could get their cases fixed by Carl Albert." He would tell them that because of his influence with the Speaker, he could have charges dismissed or get the clients out of jail and then have the charges dismissed, the government maintains.

The indictment claims that Champion would then collect his fees and introduce the clients to Mrs. Girvin, telling them that she and the speaker were working on their cases.

However, the indictment says, Champion did not do "anything of substance" for the clients and never intended to do anything to get them out of jail or get their charges dismissed.

The indictment said Albert was never contacted by Champion or Mrs. Girvin and never agreed to do anything for their clients.

Rebels Kill 20 Civilians In Camp Raid

By MATT FRANJOLA
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Rebel forces raided and burned a big refugee camp 60 miles northwest of Phnom Penh during the night, killing 20 civilians and kidnaping 40 others, military sources said.

The camp, in Kompong Chhnang province, was built by a firm under contract to the U.S. Agency for International Development and had 900 homes. The extent of damage was not immediately known.

Insurgent gunners also rocketed Phnom Penh airport and a port on the Tonle Sap River today, wounding five civilians, officials reported.

In Battambang City, in northwestern Cambodia, police prevented angry students and residents from renewing their attacks against Chinese-owned businesses, reports from the city said.

On Friday, a mob of about 3,000 attacked Chinese-owned stores, hotels, cafes, shops and homes in Battambang. The demonstrators were protesting skyrocketing prices they blamed on Chinese control of the economy.

More than 100 demonstrators have been arrested so far, police sources said. But students said unless the demonstrators were released and unless the Chinese were banned from doing business, they would renew their attacks in 15 days.

Dinner Theatre Bright Spot On Nation's Stage

"Eat, drink and be merry!" When Epicurus so long ago made that statement, little did he realize he was characterizing what is taking place at WTC's second annual dinner theatre. "The Odd Couple" opened Friday night to entertain Snyder in the most successful format of theatre in America.

It is going to show at least seven times, since it sold out for its two weekends (Feb. 21-22 and Feb. 28-March1) and one holdover performance set for March 8, plus two special performances for which two service clubs have bought out the house for "ladies night" events.

Dinner theatre. What exactly is it and where did it originate? The mode of entertainment and eating all in one building began at the feasts of the Romans while they lounged and watched dancing girls. Since then, the format has graduated to a more formal dinner and playhouse in one.

While Broadway struggles for its existance, there are more than 250 dinner theatres in the U.S. that have achieved success.

When the touring musical "Company" cancelled its Chicago Loop booking for lack of advance sales, suburban Forum Dinner Theatre a few miles away later played the same show to critical raves and capacity houses.

Theatre may survive alone on this valuable form of entertainment. No more is it necessary to go downtown to go out on the town. Most dinner theatres are located on the outskirts of cities with plenty of parking, popular prices ($7-10), and patrons aren't caught in a time squeeze between the restaurant and theatre.

The atmosphere of dinner theatres is as individual as the towns in which they are located Usually the theatre is decorated in some central theme of an ideal romanticism which provides a means of escape for the theatre-goer. Examples range from the Showboat Dinner Theatre in Pinellas Park, Fla., recreating the glamour of a Mississippi riverboat, to the sophistication of the Boston Chateau de Ville in Massachusetts. Many theatres renovated for this aspect of dining and entertainment are from crude forms such as warehouses and bowling alleys. Examples of these creative threatres are The Firehouse in Omaha, Neb., and Swift Creek Mill in Richmond, Va.

Perhaps the most profitable facet of dinner theatre is the rapport between actor and audience. Such proximity inspired an exuberant Martha Raye to perch on the lap of a surprised audience member at an opening of "Goodbye Charlie." Charles Holland, WTC drama director, tells of one of his experiences with dinner theatre in which the audience took the liberties of lighting the actor's cigarettes, handing his ashtrays and even answering the telephone on stage!

Snyder is sure to find itself enchanted with WTC's production of "The Odd Couple." Seating capacity is 116 per performance and last year's show was a sellout each night.

"The Odd Couple" is filled with plenty of laughs and the menu with plenty of food, so come and enjoy an evening of eating, drinking and making merry...for the little bit of Roman in all of you.—Julie Jones

Here's the latest story circulating. Have you heard about JEAN DIXON'S prediction that one of five legendary movie stars will die and it will be revealed that she was really a man! Who are the five? TALLULAH BANKHEAD (already dead and no revelation). That leaves four -- MAE WEST, JOAN CRAWFORD, GRETA GARBO and KATHARINE HEPBURN. Who knows, maybe Jean Dixon is a man.

The last time I had dinner with DEBBIE REYNOLDS I reported to you that she had just learned that her accountant ran off with her funds. Well, her financial problems aren't over yet. Sources very close to Debbie allege that if her estranged spouse HARRY KARL doesn't sign their divorce papers pronto, Debbie will have no alternative but to file for Bankruptcy! Hangup is Harry supposedly wants alimony, including allegedly $100,000 in cash plus Debbie to pay off his three million dollars in debts. Harry's philosophy is when he had the moolah, he gave it to Deb and now that the "shoe" is on the other foot, he feels it's only fair that he get his rightful share. Debbie, on the "soleful" side, swears on a stack of her Burbank Bibies that she doesn't have that kind of dough. And that for the last two years every cent she's earned from her play, "Irene", has gone to paying off Harry's bills, her bills, and supporting her two children.

Can you imagine rugged actor CHARLES BRONSON wearing a dress?? He confessed to me that as a child things were so tough that he had to start school in dresses outgrown by his older sister.

One of Las Vegas' top performers doesn't want it known, but he did get a little nip 'n' tuck recently. So whatever you do, the next time you see him perform DON'T tell him how much younger he looks. And for pity's sake, don't tell him I told you. I'd hate for him to think that all doctors and nurses have big mouths – even those at hospitals out of town. And most of all, don't tell him that his biggest mistake was paying his bill with a check bearing the symbol of the instrument he has made so famous. The nurse forgot to tell me how outrageous his P.J.'s were.

Everybody wants TATUM O'NEAL to do another movie. But father RYAN is discouraging her from doing anything else preferring for her to have a normal childhood. He's turned down some juicy offers. Too much competition for the old man?

One on the hottest stars in a TV series should be very concerned. His habit for 14- and 15-year old girls is now being talked about all over town What I personnally find repulsive about this star's desires is that he has children this same age. No wonder his wife wanted out of the marriage.

VINCENT PRICE was sued in Superior Court by an artist named Bob Rossi. Mr. Rossi asserts that he left six paintings at Mr. Price's home - at Mr. Price's request. And that Mr. Price's maid took them. And that when he, Mr. Rossie, went to retrieve them the following day, he found the paintings, worth some $50,000, thrown in Price's wet brick driveway had made no request to see Rossi's paintings. And therefore, since he, Price, wasn't going to be home and therefore didn't want to be responsible for anything left with him which he did not request, he left them outside. Knowing Vincent Price's love for art, it almost seems incomprehensible to me that he would intentionally destroy someone's artistic endeavors, whether he requested the material or not.

This isn't exactly a Cinderella story. FAYE DUNAWAY and her rockin'-sockin' hubby, rockstar PETER WOLF of the J Geils Band, were recently invited to an oh-so-posh dinner party for MICK JAGGER at a very upper-crusty New York restaurant. But Faye forgot to read the invitation carefully, so she showed up for the formal do in an informal pants suit. The headwaiter refused to admit Faye and Peter - whereupon Peter allegedly threatened to flatten the waiter. Whereupon Faye rushed home to change into a more formal gown. Only problem was that by the time Faye returned to the restaurant, the party was OVER!

Love the true story ROGER MOORE tells about all those steamy, romantic scenes in his films like "Gold" and "The Man With The Golden Gun." "Very often," confesses the screen's latest 007, "while I'm saying 'I love you!' to an actress, it's my little girl's hand I'm holding offscreen. Then she goes home to my wife, Luisa, and says: 'I acted with Daddy today!' "...

Loud Burglars Add To Statistics

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Loud burglars who specialize in fast getaways are adding to the crime statistics in Arlington and other area suburbs with shopping malls.

Police said the burglars, who smash store windows, grab merchandise and flee, have struck three times in Arlington and several times in other Tarrant County suburbs in recent months.

Latest incident was at a local department store when burglars smashed a door and escaped with a number of suits early Wednesday.

Vows Repeated In Hermleigh

Wedding vows were exchanged by Diane Marie Hess and Robert M. Beard at 7:30 p.m. February 15 in the United Methodist Church of Hermleigh. The Rev. Loren Gardener, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hess of Rt. 2, Roscoe and Mr. and Mrs. H.O. Beard of Snyder.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father.

The bride wore a floor length gown of bridal satin. The lace covered bodice featured a scooped neckline and candlestick sleeves of lace. The boufant over skirt of chalet chiffon was edged with lace and was sprinkled with lace medallions. The overskirt formed a train. Her double tiered veil of bridal illusion was trimmed with lace and scattered lace medallions. The waist length veil was attached to a crown of pearls. Something old was her late grandfather's wedding ring; something new were ruby earrings, a gift from the groom; something borrowed was an opal ring belonging to her aunt, Mrs. Clara Myers. Something blue was a garter belonging to her aunt, Mrs. Roy Lewis. She also wore a red garter given to her by Mrs. Lee Rhodes. She wore a six pence in her slipper, which had been worn by her mother and her aunt, Mrs. Eunice Wilscher, at their weddings. The bride carried a cascade of red roses and bridal roses and gypsophilia with japhette orchids. The bouquet was atop a red Bible.

Mrs. Jackie Duplantis of San Antonio served as Matron of Honor. Barbara Butler of Pasadena and Charlotte Griffith of Sweetwaer served as bridesmaids.

They wore identical gowns. The empire bodice was fashioned of red satin, and the chiffon covered bodice featured a scooped neckline and full sleeves of the chiffon ended in a lace edged cuff. The floor length skirts were fashioned from white bonded crepe. They carried nosegays of peppermint, carnations in colonial bouquet holders with red and white satin ribbon streamers.

Best man was the groom's brother, Jerry Beard of Earth. Groomsmen were Don Lewis of Richardson and Gary Rider of Lubbock. Ushers were Billie Beard of Abilene, brother of the groom; Ray Myers and Jimmy Jess of Snyder.

The church altar was centered with arch candelabra, entwined with English boxwood and accented with white satin bows. Red taper candles were used. Flanked on each side was an arrangement of white mums and red carnations. The pews were marked with white satin bows.

Mrs. Charles Bridges furnished nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Vickie Hess and Mrs. Wenona Evans as they sang "The Wedding Song," "Twelfth of Never" and "The Wedding Prayer."

A Bible belonging to the bride's uncle, Doyle Wilsher, was used for the ceremony. After the vows, the bride's mother was presented a red rose by the groom and the bride presented the groom's mother a red rose.

The reception was held in the Christian Student Center at Western Texas College. The bride's table was covered with a floor length satin table cloth with a ruffle net skirt, with small red flowers scattered over the skirt. The three-tired wedding cake was topped with a liturgical symbol and a miniature bride and groom.

Appointments of crystal and silver were used. Pat Mares of San Antonio and Kathy Wilcher of Pasadena served at the bride's table.

The groom's table was covered with a red and white linen table cloth. A banana nut cake and coffee were served. The table featured the memory candle and crystal and silver appointments. Mrs. Gloria Myers of Snyder and Mary Elizabeth Lewis served.

Trish Burnet of San Antonio registered guests.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nevada, the bride wore a floor length dress of red Quina cloth. Her corsage was orchids and red roses.

Management Seminars Discuss Office Sexism

NEW YORK (AP) — Sexist prejudice is a main topic at a continuing series of nationwide seminars sponsored by the American Management Associations and designed to help women executives in business, government and education sharpen their managerial skills.

The consensus is "Things are better, but there's plenty of sexist prejudice left in business," reports James L. Hayes, president of the AMA.

Other frequently discussed subjects are: how aggressive should a woman be and how to handle token promotions.

One problem faced by these women executives, they note, is the employe who doesn't want to work for a woman. In fact, many women at the seminar admit they expressed similar sentiments years ago about their female bosses.

The problem is familiar to Hayes, a former dean of the School of Business Administration at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh. He recalls it was a frequent gripe on college campuses, where professors often dislike working for women professors.

"I call it nonmalicious jealousy," he says. "The best way to handle this is to call the person in and explain that you want him to advance in his career but to do that he'll have to work effectively with you. If that doesn't work, tell the employe that you don't want him in your department."

A prime concern for women at the seminars is how to get ahead.

"Above all, be visible," advises DeAnne Rosenberg, one of the seminar's leaders. "Send memos, give training classes, get your name in the company newspaper, even if it's just a cute quote. Join professional organizations and show up at the meetings. You're sure to be one of the few women there."

One younger woman pointed out that she does get promotions, but they're minor ones, tokens really.

Miss Rosenberg said, "To escape from a dead-end, 'token' promotion, a woman must open up communications with her boss — plug him into her job plan.

"Go to your boss with a brief job description and ask for his suggestions on how you can best improve your performance. Involve him in your plans, keep him informed on your progress and give him credit for your improvement. In this way, he will have a vested interest in your performance results."

Miss Rosenberg says, "Unlike a man, a woman cannot very well invite her boss to dinner or to play tennis or golf because the boss might think she has romance in mind. But you can go to lunch with him and you can drop into his office and discuss houseplants and dogs."

One mistake women are warned about is overcompensating for traits they are afraid they may have.

Hayes said, "Women managers often don't perceive themselves in the same way their employes perceive them. That's what sensitivity training is all about. A woman might try to overcome what she perceives as female faults — she thinks she's indecisive, easy-going, soft.

"Overreacting, she might become arrogant, tough and unyielding, all of the things we condemn in any manager, male or female."

Quotable Women

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"The President's budget cuts back in the areas of human resources, where the greatest demands are being made." Gov. Ella T. Grasso of Connecticut, speaking to newsmen during the National Governor's Conference in Washington.

"I could no longer live away from the stage and away from my husband, Martin Friedman, of the Baltimore ballet. We will be going to the United States soon and I hope to begin dancing again." Soviet Ballerina Kaleriya Fedicheva, expelled from Leningrad's Kirov Ballet company after marrying an American, on arrival in Rome to be reunited with her husband.

"I'm just glad I was wearing my slacks when I tackled him. I don't know if I'd have done the same if I were wearing a miniskirt." Policewoman Arleen Egan, who tackled a gun-carrying man outside a Floral Park, N.Y., bar, disarmed and arrested him.

"I thought if he could ski, I could ski, too." Patti Michaud, 14, a Glens Falls, N.Y., girl who says she was inspired by Teddy Kennedy Jr.'s efforts to continue skiing. Patti lost a leg because of a circulatory ailment.

"I hope you will see that I come not as a politician who only knows about politics, but as a person who really does know from experience the massive problems you have every day in your business." Margaret Thatcher, the grocer's daughter who became leader of Britain's Conservative party, speaking at a rally organized by the national Board of Trade in London.

Samuel A. Maverick, a Texas cattleman, did not bother to brand his cattle, giving rise to the practice of calling unbranded calves mavericks.

Whiz Kids Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — One person who went backstage to greet Arthur Rubinstein after his only concert here this season was ragtime composer Eubie Blake.

"Oh, I'm glad to meet you," Rubinstein said. "I hear you're a marvelous pianist."

Blake told Rubinstein, "After tonight I'm not so sure." He added that he'd be 92 in four more days.

Rubinstein, who was 88 the previous week, momentarily pondered their ages and said, "Why, with inflation, we're both 125!"

The common cold is still with us. The succession of new drugs are advertised to give relief from the symptoms, but not to cure or shorten the cold's duration. Many cold sufferers insist that their doctor give them an antibiotic to hasten recovery. This seems unwise. Tests have confirmed the ineffectiveness of antibiotics and sulfa compounds on the frequency, duration or severity of colds - and the casual use of these potent drugs can cause complications of their own. Doctors generally agree that only if a bacterial infection occurs should an appropriate antibiotic be taken.

Special License

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — A special license plate issued upon request to physically handicapped automobile owners can do more than permit the owner to park in places marked for the disabled, according to the Fresno Architectural Barriers Committee.

The committee said the holder of these special plates may park without limit in limited zones and may park in metered spaces without feeding the meter a thin dime.

Committee chairman Anita Daughtrey is urging the disabled to apply for the plates because so many motorists are using the spaces marked for the disabled.

"The distinctive plates," said Chairman Daughtrey, "can be of help in identifying the rightful users of the spaces."

There are no extra charges for the special plates. They are recognizable by the letters DP or in the case of disabled veterans, VT, in front of the third letter.

'Ghosts' Making Your Money Disappear?

COLLEGE STATION—Is your money disappearing so fast you think ghosts must be haunting your pocketbook?

These ghosts won't knock on your door Halloween night—you'll have to hunt for them, one family resource management specialist contended this week.

She's Lynn Bourland, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"One of the fastest ways for a family to discover what's happening to the money is for everyone to keep a list of the money they spend for one month. Then follow these guides," the specialist suggested.

List the things you bought that the family could have been just as happy without.

Circle items that could have been done or obtained with a resource other than money—traded, substituted, or made.

Underline things bought on impulse—those not planned or discussed with other members of the family.

Check items bought on credit that wouldn't have been bought if cash had been necessary. This does not include planned or emergency credit purchases.

"There may be other ghosts hauntingg your pocketbook, but count how many you've found with these guidelines," she said.

Opportunities In Nursing Expand

NEW YORK (AP) — Women's lib may have turned some girls away from entering such a "traditional woman's career" as nursing, but Dean Loretta Ford of the University of Rochester's School of Nursing says that women's lib has helped the nursing profession also.

"Women's lib has expanded the opportunities in nursing. In the last 10 years we've had a couple of developments that have been noteworthy — the practitioner movement and masters' degree specialists.

"The practitioner nurses work, for instance, in outpatient clinics. They do a very good job assessing the actual or potential health needs of people. They do a head-to-toe examination of the person, identifying with that person his health problems. They help him manage his daily living patterns. If he needs medical resources, they may consult on it.

"A nurse might manage most of the health care problems of a chronically ill person, for instance, following his diagnosis. He needs to maintain as much health as he has.

"If he is diabetic, has high blood pressure or arthritis, a lot of his problems are related to how he lives every day. A nurse can generate ideas for that person and help him adapt. She can provide for a plan of care that will maintain his level of health.

"This becomes an effective health dimension and also an economic one. If he doesn't use his resources well, he ends up in a hospital.

"One of the problems today is that people don't take care of their health. They give the care of it over to somebody else."

Dean Ford continues, "Another exciting area that women's lib has helped us along with is that of nurses developing specialties at the graduate level. They then work with children's hospitals, children in family settings, adult care, etc.

"This takes five forms.

"A nurse gives expert, direct care to people in the area of her specialty — for instance cardio-vascular nursing.

"She teaches patients and their families about their particular disease and about how they may live most healthfully every day.

"She teaches nurses — staff or students.

"She offers consultation to agencies and individuals in her major area of interest.

"She conducts research or studies related to nursing problems."

A person who is thinking about becoming a nurse, Dean Ford says, during a telephone interview, should ask whether he or she has a scientific and a compassionate bent. "I frankly want both in our students. You have to be able in the biological and physical sciences as well as ready to serve people. I want our students to be scholars.

"I look for curiosity. If you're interested in improving nursing care, you need to be curious about why things are done and how they could be done better.

"And I want them to be careerists. We invest a great deal in teaching people in nursing schools and then, after a couple of years, people drop out. I think that's changing, though. I want someone who can arrange his or her personal and professional life so he or she can hang in there and grow and learn."

Before Dean Ford went to Rochester in 1972, she worked and taught in the pediatric practitioner program at the University of Colorado in Denver. She has written a number of articles and presented many papers about various aspects of nursing.

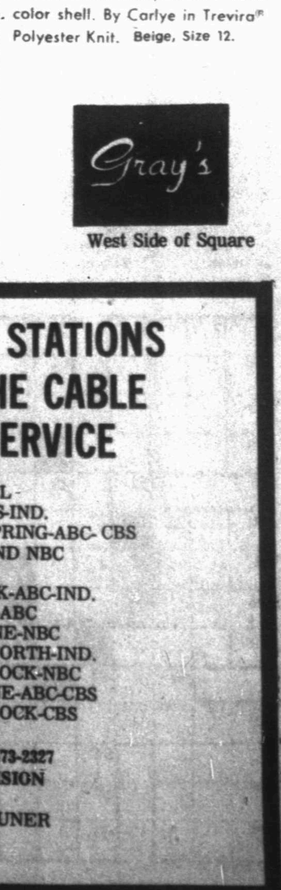

Yarnell Award Is Given

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Charles Long, member of San Francisco Opera's Western Opera Theater, is the first recipient of the Bruce Yarnell Memorial Award.

The $1,000 award was established last July by soprano Joan Patenaude Yarnell in memory of her late husband, to assist young baritones in their operatic careers.

Twenty-five baritones, ages 20 to 32, auditioned. Long is a native of Pittsburgh and previously appeared with New York's Lyric Opera Company and Queens Opera Company.

Yarnell had a successful singing and acting career on Broadway, TV and films before he made his operatic debut with the Opera Company of Boston in 1967. His greatest successes were at the San Francisco Opera. He was killed in a plane crash in 1973.

Leroy and Laurie and the birds and the bees

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible for a 13-year-old boy to father a child? Our neighbor claims that Leroy, our 13-year-old son, got Laurie, their 15-year-old daughter, pregnant.

Leroy has always been big for his age, but he never was a run-around, and he hardly ever looked at a girl. He has never been in any kind of trouble. He's a good student and an altar boy at church.

Leroy said he fooled around with Laurie "some," but he wasn't the only one. Laurie says she is sure Leroy is the one, but she admitted to having given in to three other boys.

Laurie refuses to have an abortion because it's against her religion. She is a very religious girl and always said she wanted to be a nun.

We don't know where to turn, Abby. If it's our son's baby, we want to do the right thing, but if it isn't, we don't see why we should be stuck with the responsibility, expense and so on.

Can you help us? MISSISSIPPI MESS

DEAR MESS: First, you need some expert legal advice. If you can't afford a lawyer, consult your local Legal Aid Society. Then get some counseling from your clergyman, Family Service and/or Planned Parenthood office. It is obvious that both Leroy and Laurie need to know a lot more about the birds and the bees and PEOPLE than they know. What kids don't know CAN hurt them.

DEAR ABBY: I got into a terrible fight with a telephone operator. I couldn't get my party, so I dialed the operator and asked her to help me get the number. She was very rude, and said: "Why don't you learn how to speak English?"

I know how to speak English, Abby. I was born in Pine Bluff, Arkansas, and lived there until eight months ago, when I moved to California.

When this operator insulted me I asked her what her name was because I was so angry I wanted to report her to her supervisor. She said she wasn't allowed to give out her name, and before I could say another word, she disconnected me.

How can a person report a discourteous telephone operator if she refuses to give you her name?

INSULTED IN CALIF.

DEAR INSULTED: Ask the telephone operator for her "number." (Each operator has one.) If she refuses to give it to you and hangs up, call back and ask for the supervisor. You may not be able to identify the operator against whom you have the complaint, but it's worth a try.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 17. Her father (from whom I am divorced) bought her a car of her own, and ever since she's had that car her grades have gone down, and she has gotten so disrespectful and independent I can't handle her.

She drives off to school in the morning and sometimes I don't see her until 10 P.M. When I ask her where she's been, she says, "Oh, just goofing around."

How can I get her back in line? The car is hers so I can't take it away from her. HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The key to the situation fits the car. As long as your daughter is under legal age, you are responsible for her. Ground her until her grades come up. And YOU set the rules about when she's expected home.

DEAR ABBY: When a woman complained because her husband wanted her affectionate attentions at odd times, you said: "Shoot the ducks when they are flying." Wonderful advice!

My wife is 62 and so am I. She is full of pep and still works fulltime, and she shoots the ducks while they are flying. And if they aren't flying, she hunts them out!

Sign me..... THE HAPPIEST MAN IN THE WORLD

P.S. The only time she gets angry with me is when I tickle the bottom of her feet. She is a little overweight, so there are plenty of other places to tickle her. I hope you don't think we are crazy.

DEAR HAPPY: If you're crazy, what this world needs is more crazy people.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Dr. Lamb

Knowledge key to safe sex

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 15-year-old girl in high school. My boyfriend is 17 years old and in high school also. We have been going together for two years. And, of course, the subject of sex has come up many times. The problem is I'm a virgin and I'm afraid of getting pregnant.

Tell me, is it easier for a virgin to do so because she is so inexperienced? If so, is it possible for me to get pregnant if the intercourse lasts a half hour or less? Can a condom keep me from getting pregnant in this length of time?

Please tell me all the information I need to know to keep me from getting pregnant, because I have made my mind up that I'm going through with this.

DEAR READER—Whether a virgin can get pregnant more easily than a non-virgin is immaterial. If you get pregnant the percentages are unimportant — it was a hundred per cent possibility for you. The likelihood of getting pregnant is sufficiently high in both virgins and non-virgins that you must consider this possibility if you "go through with this."

Knowledge is certainly important in preventing pregnancy and its application probably outweighs all other factors concerned. The moral implications are the individual's responsibility not mine. It is important, however, for every person who thinks he or she is mature enough to know his or her own mind, to learn about factors related to pregnancy and its prevention before carelessly beginning such a life style. This including a good knowledge of the reproductive cycle, and measures used in birth control. Knowledge about measures to help protect yourself from veneral disease are equally important.

There are also the emotional aspects to be carefully considered. Sex is beautiful, but it is also a Pandora's box. You can't always be sure where your unleashed desires may take you or what effects an active sexual life will have on your personality and emotional responses. This is a highly individual matter, closely related to parental and individual cultural and moral values. No one simple rule can be applied to all different people.

You might also need to consider how your partner will respond to this change in your relationship. Will it really improve or will it hinder your possible future happiness together? Some men lose interest in a girl they have had relations with outside of marriage — others seem to grow more attached to them.

Will a condom help? In answer to your specific question, it will -- if used properly. And, it can also offer some protection against veneral disease — also if used properly. This latter protection is not possible from using pills, intrauterine devices (IUD), foams, withdrawal technique, rhythm method or most other forms of birth control. No birth control method is absolutely 100 per cent safe in protecting against pregnancy. Its reliability decreases the less one knows about proper use. And, with the exception of abstinence or proper use of the condom, none of the birth control methods are designed to protect either partner from veneral disease.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I notice that any time I drink alcoholic beverages, make an error in speech, cannot come up with the proper answer or even experience the heat of a hot day, my face becomes excessively flushed and red. This condition may last from seconds to minutes or even hours depending on the situation. This will also happen if I'm placed before total strangers or a large group.

To say the least it becomes all the more embarrassing and uncomfortable no matter what the circumstances.

I would very much appreciate it if there is any advice you can give me to make the situation more tolerable.

DEAR READER—Your response may be exaggerated, but it is a normal reaction. Your skin turns red because the small blood vessels in your face open up and more blood flows to the skin.

The increased blood flow is very useful when you are hot. It helps to cool the body and lower body temperature. Alcohol, through its drug effect, does the same thing to the blood vessels. You can see from this that alcohol is not a good thing to protect your body heat for exposure to cold weather, contrary to popular belief.

Any factor that embarrasses or makes a person feel ill at ease will make some people flush, the common old blush. Our bodies communicate our feelings in many ways. Body movements, positions and gestures have been called body language. Other signs that are even less under our control are flushing, dilation of the pupil of the eye, and facial expression.

You may be surprised to know that the blood flow to the colon is also affected by your embarrassment. It flushes or turns pale according to the circumstances.

When your face flushes from embarrassment, it is a way of communicating this to those around you. Other people develop a quaver in the voice or an unsteady hand.

The first thing to do is recognize it as a normal thing. The second step is to get used to situations that embarrass you so you won't feel embarrassed. That is easier said than done. But the best prescription I have for that is to become genuinely interested in what the other fellow is doing.

Most people are so interested in their own feelings they seldom notice what is happening to the other guy. You are most likely your own worst critic and your best observer.

When you are watching the other guy or gal you seldom are as conscious of your own reactions, and you begin to simmer down.

Make an effort to be more outgoing. Become a bit more socially aggressive, and take the first step in meeting people and starting a conservation.

If there are any organizations for training in public speaking join one and learn to speak in public. It will give you a real boost in self-confidence. Many communities have a toastmaster's club of some sort that you could join. The more effort you make the less of a problem you will have.

Now about that flush after taking a drink of alcohol. We both know how you can prevent that, don't we?

Sned your questions to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on ulcers, send 50 cents and a long self-addressed stamped envelope to the same address and ask for the "Ulcers" booklet.

Mark blanks "void." Consult a lawyer before signing anything you do not fully understand.

SAYS REP. KUBIAK

Everyone Will Love The Quarter System

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Pupils, teachers and parents may be confused about the coming switchover to the quarter system, but a legislator-scholar says they'll love it.

Rep. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, surveyed 13 school districts that went on the four quarter system voluntarily in in 1972-73 and reported in his Ph.D. dissertation that most were satisfied.

Kubiak, former teacher and past chairman of the House Education Committee, received his degree in January.

A co-sponsor of the 1972 law that requires all schools to begin using the quarter system this fall, Kubiak admitted that his motive for writing his dissertation on that subject was not strictly academic.

"I was afraid there would be four or five bills to repeal it or postpone it for another two years—and another two years would kill it," Kubiak said. No such bills have been introduced, however.

The school year, traditionally split into two 4-½-month semesters, will be divided into three segments of three months each. An optional fourth quarter is available for pupils who wish to pay tuition.

A school district could stagger vacations and operate yeararound. Some pupils would take their vacations in the fall, winter or spring. Children from the same family would have the right to take their vacations at the same time.

Kubiak said the quarter system holds the promise of reducing dropouts and offering more specialized, college-type courses to make school more interesting.

He sent questionnaires to the superintendents of the 13 districts, following up with interviews with 10 teachers in each district. District sizes ranged from 59 to 73,061 pupils.

Five superintendents said they started the quarter system ahead of time to enrich their course offerings, three wanted to postpone construction through better use of school buildings, two sought to curb dropout rates and three just wanted a head start since the new system would be required anyway.

Dropout rates declined by 32 per cent and 37 per cent in two schools that were studied individually.

"The curriculum was not revised as much as was anticipated. Apparently, dropout rates were curbed more than expected. More opportunities for accelrated students were available than were expected. More diversified course offerings were realized than expected ... A significant improvement of student and faculty morale was reported. Student scholastic achievement was greater than anticipated," Kubiak reported.

Of the 130 teachers interviewed, 69 per cent believed students learned more, 84 per cent said less discipline was required and 76 per cent saw an improvement in grades.

Kubiak said high schools will notice the impact of the quarter system more than elementary schools. Urban schools will see a bigger change than rural ones, which lack the classrooms and diversified faculties to increase course offerings very much.

His study showed that four urban districts tripled their offerings while eight rural districts and one on a military base were able to increase theirs only 15 per cent.

How can course offerings be increased simply by changing the school calendar?

Kubiak explained that some courses can be compressed from a semester to a quarter or from a full year to two quarters without sacrificing content. Also, a quarter—60 days—is sufficient for certain "enrichment" courses. Some sweeping subjects can be divided into several single-topic courses. High school English can be split into a number of courses on individual authors or literary periods, for instance.

Atlanta, Ga., found when it went on the quarter system that 70 per cent of its high school subjects could be divided into one quarter, "non-sequential" courses. Non-sequential means one course need not build on or follow another.

"By ... developing a wider variety of single concept courses, students would be provided a greater flexibility in selecting their courses," Kubiak said of Atlanta's experience.

"Since most of the courses are non-sequential, a student who is not performing well in a course or finds that it is not to his liking can finish the course in 60 days and choose a different course for the next quarter ... A failure is now limited to one three-month quarter. Under the new plan, the percentage of failures was reduced to 40 per cent."

There are some problems.

Kubiak hopes this year's legislature will cut the school year from 180 to 171 teaching days, with 57-day quarters. Sixty-day quarters "don't leave room for the holidays on a year-around basis," he said.

Also, he said, the Texas Education Agency needs to do a better job of assisting local districts. He suggested greater use of TEA regional service center computers to help with the complexities of scheduling.

One complaint voiced in Austin has been that the broad array of 1,000 potential courses will confuse the students.

Available courses—which can't be taught unless 20 students sign up—are listed on a newspaper-sized sheet. They range from Goethe to Greek, bicycle repair to film making, African studies to the "Now Sound of Music."

Said one perplexed student at a "course fair" that took all of last Monday:

"What's wrong with good old English II and Art I?"

GM To Cut Prices On Nine Small Cars

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors will lower the pricetag on nine compact cars next week by making some standard items optional in the first significant effort by an auto company to reduce the sticker price on current models.

For two months the four U.S. auto makers have been offering limited-time rebates on certain models in an attempt to revive sluggish cars sales.

Although 13,000 unemployed auto workers will be back on the job next week, 37 per cent of the industry's workforce will be unemployed and 13 assembly plants will remain closed.

GM said the base price on the nine small cars will be cut by up to $313 by eliminating some standard equipment in an effort to boost sales when rebate programs end on Feb. 28.

"We are responding to an economy-minded public by offering nine of our smaller cars with less standard equipment," GM Chairman Thomas Murphy said in Chicago. Base prices will be lower by $104 to $313.

He said the price cuts will "give our customers the chance to buy as much or as little car as their pocketbooks will allow."

Orders for the cars will be taken now with delivery beginning in March, he said.

Meanwhile, Ford Motor Co. production schedules released Friday called for an additional 6,400 layoffs to bring its total to 67,100 unemployed workers with eight plants closed.

However, industry-wide layoffs are down.

About 255,000 of the industry's 683,000 hourly workers will be off the job next week, down from 263,000 this past week. Thirteen assembly lines will be shut down, compared to 20 this week.

GM, the world leader in producing large, heavy cars, said that in the future it will concentrate on making lighter models that achieve better fuel economy.

Murphy said the new Cadillac Seville, the luxury maker's all-new small model, will debut this spring. He would not discuss reports that it would retail for about $11,000.

He made the announcements Friday at a Chicago Auto Show luncheon.

Under GM's price-cut plan, various items of standard equipment, such as radial tires, and other deluxe features such as clocks and mirrors, will be made optional.

Murphy said the price cuts include:

—$104, Pontiac Astre wagon.
—$125, Astre hatchback.
—$106, two-door Chevrolet Nova.
—$131, Pontiac Ventura.
—$219, Oldsmobile Omega.
—$229, Buick Skylark.
—$271, Oldsmobile Starfire.
—$305, Chevrolet Monza 2 plus 2.
—$313, Buick Skyhawk.

Stage Set For Fight Over Dallas Love Field

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A ruling by a state district court judge has set the stage for a determination of whether Southwest Airlines can continue to use Dallas Love Field over the objections of Dallas and Fort Worth as well as seven other airlines.

Judge Charles Mathews overruled on Friday an attempt by Southwest and the Texas Aeronautics Commission (TAC) to dismiss a suit by Texas International Airlines seeking to prevent Southwest from using Love Field.

A trial on the issue of which airlines can use Love Field could have an impact on $440 million in revenue bonds issued to finance the construction of the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

Texas International filed suit last December to prevent Southwest from using Love Field and to seek a declaratory judgment on the use of the Dallas airport for scheduled commercial airline service.

Southwest and the TAC argued before Mathews that the issue over Southwest's use of Love Field had already been decided by the federal courts.

Mathews said the Texas International lawsuit is the first to present what he considers the real issue—the question of money.

"Somebody has to bite the bullet and there is no better place to do it than here in this courtroom," Matthews said.

Mathews set no trial date. Southwest's general counsel, Herbert Kelleher, said he plans to file more motions and added that he thought any eventual trial might last months.

A federal judge last year issued an injunction prohibiting Dallas from forcing Southwest to stop using Love Field. Dallas unsucessfully fought the order all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Southwest is presently the only airline using Love Field. Texas International had three scheduled flights from the airport prior to a current strike against the airline.

A lawyer for Texas International, George Bramblett, said Southwest's continued use of Love Field is having an adverse economic effect on TI since Texas International is one of seven airlines required to underwrite a 1968 bond issue for the construction of the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

Bramblett said Texas International is required to help pay off the bonds if revenue from the regional airport is not sufficient to meet the bond's obligations.

The cities of Dallas and Fort Worth as well as airlines serving the regional airport say Southwest's flights from Love Field have taken away revenue from the new airport.

Jim Wilson, attorney for Continental Airlines, which was joined as a defendant in the suit, said his client would consider returning some flights to Love Field from DFW if the court ruled the company could do so.

Citation Issued In Deaths

DALLAS (AP) — Three violations, two of them serious,, are listed in a citation against Atlantic Richfield Co. concerning the deaths of nine persons at Denver City after a gas leak.

The citation issued Friday by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration of the U.S. Department of Labor recommended penalties for ARCO totaling $1,025.

The nine victims were killed by fumes leaking from an oil well site on Feb. 2. One of those killed was an ARCO employe and the others were found in a house near the site. They were overcome by fumes as they apparently tried to get away from the area.

The agency indicated one serious violation was that "respiratory protection was not provided the computer observer proper (employe) on duty at the office and computer station subsequent to and during the investigation of a gas leak in the vicinity of Willard unit wells."

The other serious violation cited was that the company failed "to furnish employes a place of employment which was free from recognized hazards that were causing or likely to cause death or serious physical harm to them."

Each of the serious violations carried a $500 penalty.

The agency also said the company made no provisions to provide equipment senstitive enough to detect changes in pressure that might indicate gas leaks in the injection systems.

Briscoe Nixes Tax Proposal

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe, in the name of local control, has decided against a proposal to make low tax-effort school districts raise taxes to the statewide average.

His director of education research and planning, Dr. Richard Hooker, said the latest draft of Briscoe's public school finance bill leaves local taxation to local school boards.

Briscoe's bill is expected to be introduced in the legislature at mid-week.

Hooker had proposed requiring local districts to meet the statewide averags tax effort of 60 cents per $100 market valuation as their share of an improved foundation school program.

Total basic expenditures in a district would be calculated according to amounts spent by the 42 best districts, the weighted pupil approach favored by Briscoe.

But in the latest draft, Hooker said, "We would calculate, using the weights, the total cost of the foundation program in a district. Say we get $1 million....Then we calculate that using taxable values and the average tax effort of 60 cents per $100 market value would raise $500,000. State aid would become the other $500,000. Whether or not the school district raises its $500,000 is up to it."

Failure to raise the full local share would simply mean that a district's schools would not reach the goal of matching the 42 best in expenditures per pupil.

"You've just got two different philosophies in operation—ours and the governor's. The governor is a very strong local autonomy man ... This gives the local folks the option of spending less if they want," Hooker said.

One factor that could force local tax-effort to increase would be a rise in the mandatory teacher salary schedule, he said. The latest draft of Briscoe's bill would raise beginning minimum salaries from $6,600 to $7,430 for a 10-month teaching year.

Whiteside Pardons Chairman

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Clyde Whiteside has been elected chairman of the Board of Pardons over the objection fellow board member Charles Shandera.

The new chairman of the three-member board should not be elected, Shandera said Friday, until a successor has been named for the departing chairman, William Skelton.

Skelton had been renominated to the board, but the nomination was withdrawn after Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, said prison reform groups complained of Skelton. Senate tradition gives a veto to the senator from whose district a nominee comes.

Whiteside praised Skelton and said he would "try to conduct the duties, whatever they are, maybe patterning it after your example."

The prison reform groups have said Skelton is out of touch with modern concepts of parole and rehabilitation.

Rep. Craig Washington, D-Houston, who had asked for a delay in the election, told Whiteside in a hot letter Friday he had never been tre ated with less courtesy. He promised to give Whiteside the same kind of courtesy when Whiteside is called before legislative committees. "I will be waiting," Washington said.

Mrs. Richard Nixon's maiden name was Thelma Catherine Ryan.

Trading With Soviets

One important fact needs to be emphasized in this matter of trade with the Soviet Union:

What collapsed was not the idea of trade itself between the United States and the U.S.S.R. but U.S.-subsidized trade.

Under the terms of the proposed agreement, the United States would have loaned to the Soviet Union at 7 per cent money that it was borrowing at 9 per cent. We would, in effect, have been paying them to buy from us - and the Soviet Union is not exactly your typical struggling underdeveloped nation.

It seems clear now that what killed the deal was not U.S. insistence on liberalized emigration for Russian Jews but the amendment to the trade bill sponsored by Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, (D-Ill.) which would have limited subsidized credits to $300 million over four years.

This is a paltry sum for a nation the size of the Soviet Union and one which it evidently concluded was not worth the price to its sovereignty of acceding to U.S. demands regarding Jewish emigration, even though the deal would have been sweetened by granting the same tariff treatment to tte Soviets that we extend to their trading partners.

"Trade and detente can move forward without this trade bill," insists Democratic Rep. Charles A. Vanik of Ohio, who along with Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) has come in for much criticism because of their co-authorship of the emigration clause.

Most of our mutual trading interests with the Soviets are in nontariff areas, Vanik points out.

"We can buy all the resources they want to sell. We can sell them all the technology and materials we want to. The only thing we don't have to facilitate this trading is taxpayer-subsidized credit."

Any American businessman who wants to sell to the Soviet Union can do so, and can get the credit he needs from a domestic or international bank.

Or, Vanik adds, the Soviets can pay for it.

Is Down Really Up?

What appeared to be some encouraging news came out of Washington the other day. The income of Americans continues to rise, despite the recession.

Encouraging? Only on the surface. The reason for this apparent paradox, the Commerce Department said, was an increase of $1.8 billion in unemployment benefits paid out during January. This, it was noted, "balanced off" an identical decline in total wages and salaries for workers in private industry.

In other words it appears that, overall, Americans are as well off with increasing numbers drawing unemployment compensation as they were when most of those on the current unemployment rolls were working full time. One might even get the idea that it is just as profitable to sit on the sidelines as it is to produce.

But, of course, such speculation does not take into account the source of the $1.8 billion paid out in unemployment benefits. And it doesn't begin to take into account the consequences that may be expected it this trend continues.

Indeed, if it does continue indefinitely, the time will come when there will not be any $1.8 billion to "balance off" the deficit in production. The time will come when there won't be a penny in the till.

Building Fared Well In Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Times were not as tough for the Texas building industry in 1974 as many people think, the Bureau of Business Research said Saturday.

Final totals for the year show that building authorized in Texas cities during 1974 reached a higher dollar value than in any previous year except 1973, says the report by Robert H. Ryan, editor of the Texas Business Review.

"It is true that home building was heavily depressed in 1974 with the value of urban residential permits declining to a five-year low," Ryan said. "On the other hand, nonresidential building was higher in dollar volume than ever before and so were additions, alterations and repairs to existing structures, the latter because many families were renovating old houses rather than building new ones."

Ryan said the construction recession did not actually reach Texas until August although permits for new homes were beginning to lag as early as May.

"Confidence in 1975 as a year of recovery for the construction industry has been shaken by the generally negative movement of the national economy since the beginning of the year," Ryan said. "The insecurity engendered by a rapidly rising rate of unemployment does not provide an encouraging atmosphere for the purchase of new homes... . The immediate future of the residential building industry may depend on how federal agencies cope with the projected deficit—quite possibly more than $80 million—that must be financed between now and the end of the 1975-76 fiscal year."

Ryan said that "relatively little attention has been given inflation as a cause of builders' woes, but there can be little doubt that the high cost and compromised quality of new houses have been comparable in effect with high interest rates as a depressing factor for the home industry."

Fire Station Is Burglarized

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Engine Co. 3 was called out on a resuscitator call recently. The four-man crew rolled out of the station at 1:49 p.m. After giving aid to the victim of a seizure the fire engine and its crew returned to the station at 2 p.m. and found that in the short time they had been absent the station had been burglarized.

One fire fighter, Norman Tooman, lost a $100, 10-speed bike while Oliver Matlock had an expensive portable radio stolen.

Automakers In Spotlight With Price Cut, Losses

By DEIRDRE DONNELLY
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — More bad news than cars rolled out of Detroit this past week, leading the largest of the automakers to cut prices to get sales moving again.

General Motors Corp., betting that lower prices will appeal more to an economy-minded public than luxuries like radial tires, said Friday it will cut prices up to $300 on some smaller cars stripped of some standard equipment when its rebate program ends Feb. 28.

"We think this will put the 1975 GM lineup within the reach of more American motorists," said Thomas A. Murphy, the company's chairman.

The price cut followed a week of deepening problems for the auto industry.

Badly battered 1974 earnings for two automakers drew a clear picture of trouble in the key industry.

Chrysler Corp. reported that a $73.5 million fourth quarter loss sent its 1974 annual earnings $52 million into the red — the worst fourth quarter and full year in its history.

In a scramble to regain profitability, the company omitted its quarterly dividend and told stockholders more cutbacks in production and staff and a first quarter loss are certain before the company can turn itself around.

Ford Motor Co. reported a $51.7 million fourth quarter loss before a huge tax credit boosted earnings to $22.1 million, still 61 per cent below 1973's depressed levels.

Earlier this month, General Motors reported a 2 per cent drop in its fourth quarter profits.

Henry Ford II, Ford's chairman, told Congress this week that the industry's rebate program did not reduce inventories "as much as we would have liked."

The remaining glut of unsold cars choked production even further. General Motors said it will close three plants this week idling more than 7,000 workers. Chrysler will keep two of its plants closed this week and Ford said it will shut down eight assembly lines and four manufacturing facilities this week, effecting 67,000 of its 177,000 workers.

More bank prime rate cuts this week brightened the interest rate picture. Chemical Bank of New York kicked its minimum borrowing fee for big business to 8.5 per cent, a new industry low, and other big banks including Bank of America and First National City Bank followed.

And California's major savings and loan associations cut their mortgage rates to 9 per cent from 9.25 per cent and 9.5 per cent. It was among the first of the long-term interest rates to begin the decline begun several weeks ago in short-term interest rates such as the prime rate.

Short-term interest rates are not directly tied to longer term rates such as consumer loans and mortgages, but a prolonged reduction in short term rates often points the direction other interest rates will follow.

Opinion Requested On Loans

DALLAS (AP) — A Department of Health, Education and Welfare official has confirmed that a legal opinion has been requested from its staff following a conflcit between HEW and the Texas attorney general on student loan collection practices.

Rudy Mappas, acting director of the federally guaranteed student loan office in Dallas, said the opinion was requested after a moritorium on collection of disputed loans was put into effect.

Mappas denied knowledge of a directive from HEW in Washington Thursday telling regional officials not collect the disputed loans from students.

A spokesman for Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill said their position is that many of the delinquent loans sould be collected from school officials and not from students who either failed to attend classes or dropped out early.

Also in dispute are collections from students of the full face value of loans in situations where lending institutions received kickbacks for part of the loan from schools.

The Texas Proprietary School Act of 1972 requires schools to refund loan money obtained by students who then either failed to attend classes or dropped out of school early.

However, HEW has no refund policy.

The director of the regional federal guaranteed student loan office in Dallas, Leo Hatten, testified in court last week that he had been instructed by a superior in Washington to attempt to collect delinquent loans from students even though some of these students already may have repaid the loan or never owed it to the federal government in the first place.

There has been an investigation into the federal loan program.

Martha Denied Quick Trial

NEW YORK (AP) — Martha Mitchell's request for a quick trial of her separation suit against John Mitchell, the former U.S. attorney general, was denied today in Manhattan Supreme Court.

Mrs. Mitchell had asked for a preferential trial date on the ground that resolution of the action would have a beneficial effect on her 14-year-old daughter, Marty, whom she characterized as "psychologically disturbed."

Another reason advanced by Mrs. Mitchell was that the sentencing of her husband would impede her suit.

Mitchell was sentenced to 2½ to 8 years in Washington today for taking part in the Watergate coverup scandal.

After his the sentencing, the former attorney general said: "It could have been a hell of a lot worse. He could have sentenced me to spend the rest of my life with Martha Mitchell."

Vessel Is Made From Fiberglass

SEATTLE (AP) — What is believed to be the largest fish seiner built from fiberglass has been launched by Delta Marine Industries Ltd.

Even stringers and stiffeners, cabin sabin sole and bulkheads are glass. Christened the MS Ingrid, the vessel has a 19½-foot beam, 10½ molded depth, carries 6,200 gallons of diesel fuel, is completely insulated and sleeps nine in deck-level accommodations.

Additionally, the Ingrid packs 54 net tons or 113 gross tons, has two fish holds, one of 1,750 cubic feet and the other of 475 cubic feet. The decks and superstructure are of cored laminate.

The only wood on the vessel is that of the cabinets with guards of iron-bark which are obviously wooden chafing gear.

Advertising... a vote of confidence in business.

(or how to tell the leaders without a scorecard.)

Recently there has been a lot of talk about upturns, downturns, and sideturns in business and industry.

You ask a man these days how the "outlook" appears to him, and you're liable to get a diagonal reply. Not a straight up-and-down nod. Not even a negative, sideways shake of the head.

Mostly the diagonal approach. It doesn't mean yes, business is going up. It doesn't mean no, it isn't.

The answer you frequently get is we'll wait and see. Inflation and some of the other unrests, you know

So the man and his company pull their horns in.

They wait for someone else to "take the lead," they say: No sense sticking our heads out until the situation "improves" itself.

In other words, sure we'll advertise —— or restore our budgets —— just as soon as we get more business.

Beautiful.

Everyone hangs around and waits for everything to happen automatically. Hold up. Cut back. Wait. The Prosperity Wagon is right around the corner. And it's going to come to me, old friend, me. Without me going out to get it.

Want to bet?
One thing about this economy of ours has never changed. A lack of confidence in our business system, manifested across business, only inspires more of the same. With the result that that wagon may be farther down the block than you think.

Business activity stimulates business.

Advertising helps you get sales.

Companies, agencies and media that advertise should be the ones you do business with, because we suspect you'd rather do business with confident people.

They take the time, trouble and money to inform you —— to help you know more —— about their products, their services and their markets. They care enough about you to go out of their way to tell you they want to do business with you.

We suspect that when the chips are down, this is how you can tell the real leaders.

They get our vote.

They also should get yours. If for no other reason than they are helping to build business for both of us.

SEPTIC TANK - CESSPOOL CLOGGING CAN NOW BE PREVENTED!

LIVINGSTON, N. J. — An amazing bacterial discovery that prevents clogging of septic tanks and cesspools with but a single, safe and easy-to-use yearly treatment, has been developed by the FX-Lab Co., Livingston, N. J.

Sluggish systems and drainfields can also be restored to normal by fast acting bacterial cultures.

They are also recommended as a "starter" to seed newly cleaned out or newly installed septic tanks and cesspools.

These proven FX bacterial organisms, known as FX-4 for septic tanks, FX-7 for cesspools, and FX-11 for sluggish septic tanks and cesspools are available locally.

Available also, is a free booklet "The Story of Willie Bacteria, or How To Take Care of Your Septic Tank or Cesspool" from:

Are you looking for a better hybrid sorghum?

Big yields year-in and year-out are the result of planting Northrup King sorghum hybrids. In fact, many NK sorghum hybrids have yielded 1,000 pounds of grain for every pound of seed planted — produced carloads of grain. You can do it too — stop in or call while seed supplies are available.

THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS

VETERAN COACHES—Coach Speedy Moffett (right) and Coach Albert Lewis (left) again will lead the Snyder High School baseball team. Moffett is in his 23rd season at the Tiger helm, and Lewis is in his 11th season as assistant coach. They believe the Tigers have the experience and ability to be strong contenders for district and regional honors.

Snyder Baseball Team Has Talent And Experience

They've got the coaching and the experience, and if they get their share of breaks, the Snyder High School varsity baseball team could go a long way this season.

Back at the helm of the Tigers for the 23rd straight season is veteran mentor Speedy Moffett, who is the winningest active baseball coach in the schoolboy ranks with about 450 victories. Returning as assistant coach is Albert Lewis, entering his 11th year. Under Coach Moffett's experienced hand, the Tigers have won 13 district championships and have been in the state tournament four times.

"This could be the best team I've ever had," Speedy said, assessing the prospects for this season.

His biggest concern, he said, is hitting, but he feels the Tigers have the experience, defensive ability and pitching to become a solid contender for the district crown. Last season, the Tigers competed in the tough 4-AAAA District and finished as runnerup to Monterey–the team that won the state championship.

The Tigers certainly can make it tough on the only other two teams in District 3-AAA this year–Lamesa and Brownfield–because Snyder has six returning starters off last season's squad.

Returning starters are Ernie Simons, senior catcher; Randy Gressett, junior first baseman, who pitched some last year; Sid Perry, senior second sacker; Robert Alderete, senior shortstop; Kelly Ragland, junior left fielder, who also saw some action in the infield last year; and Gary Greenlee, junior right-handed pitcher, who posted an 8-3 record in 1974.

Other lettermen who have plenty of experience are Clay Bishop, senior right-handed pitcher; Bo Wright, Richard Tovar, Barry Blalock and Danny Brumley, all senior outfielders. Blalock also saw action as a first baseman. Other juniors on the squad include Phil Robinson, an outfielder and catcher, and Ricky Beard, a pitcher, who probably will be the only sophomore to make the varsity this year. Ricky also throws from the starrboard side.

"Our strong points are experience, infield and outfield defensive ability, and pitching," Moffett conceded, "But hitting is our big concern."

Gressett, the first baseman, led the team in hitting at a .400 clip. Simons, the catcher, batted .296. Right now, they both appear to be the best batsmen on the club, but some of the other lads could develop into respectable hitters.

Moffett said Ragland or Robinson could develop into third basemen. The one who doesn't make it at third probably will be used in the outfield. Bo Wright has a good chance at the centerfield position while Brumley, Tovar or Blalock will be vying for another outfield spot.

The Tigers also will play a sophomore schedule this year. Candidates for the soph squad are Tony Lewis, a first baseman; Kyle Sykes, a second sacker; Joe Garza, a shortstop; Calvin Reese, a shortstop-pitcher; Dennis Buchanan, a third baseman; Darrell Lester, a pitcher; and outfielders Jamie Ortegon, Amando Rodriguez, Mark Mueller and Sam Kitching. Buchanan is a junior, but this is the first time he's been out for baseball.

The Tigers scrimmage Big Spring there at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday and host the same team in another scrimmage on the Moffett Field diamond at 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

The team began workouts February 1, but the infielders (Gressett, Perry, Alderete and Ragland) didn't report to the team until last Wednesday because they were still competing in basketball.

Houston Leads Field

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Golf power Houston, led by Robert Hoyt and Keith Fergus, heads the 24th annual Border Olympics golf tournament field.

The 72-hole tournament starts Thursday at Casa Blanca course. Thirty-six holes are played the first day and 18 each Friday and Saturday.

The high school division plays 18 holes each Friday and Saturday.

Coach Dave Williams' Cougars have won 15 Border titles, including last year's by 12 strokes over Oklahoma State.

Hoyt, a 6-foot-8, 220-pound junior, was second medalist by a shot to OSU's Tom Jones. Fergus, also a junior, was second two years ago to Texas' Ben Crenshaw.

Houston lost only one player from last year's team that won here.

First baseman John Milner led the New York Mets in home runs last season with 20, one more than hit by Rusty Staub.

Texas Seeks Border Crown

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Texas, riddled by losses from its Southwest Conference title team of last year, goes after its third straight Border Olympics

The university division is made up of all Southwest Conference teams except Arkansas and includes Lamar University of Beaumont.

The meet, the country's first major outdoor track and field event of the season, also includes college, junior college and high school divisions.

University and college division finals are Saturday night, junior college and schoolboy finals Saturday afternoon. Junior college and prep preliminaries are Friday afternoon with university and college prelims Saturday morning.

Texas won easily over Baylor 133-89½ in the Olympics last March.

"Baylor should be considered the favorite along with us," says Texas coach Cleburne Price. "They ran with us neck-and-neck in the indoor meet."

Texas edged the Bears by two points in the conference indoor meet Jan. 31.

But Price says, "There's a big difference running outdoors." He adds, "Rice and Texas A&M should be considered outdoors and TCU is stronger."

Clyde Hart, Baylor track coach and honorary referee, says "Texas is the team to beat."

The college division will have a new champion. Perennial titlist Texas Southern is now a university division school and the Border Olympics limits that division to nine teams. Failure to make a spot for Texas Southern caused some ill feeling.

Howard Payne, second here three years running, is the heir-apparent in Southern's absence to the college title.

"Without Southern, we might win it," says Howard Payne Coach Don Hood. Hood feels Dallas Baptist and Southwest Texas State are top contenders.

Other college teams will be East Texas State, Texas A&I, Cameron, Okla., Abilene Christian, McMurry, Trinity, Sul Ross, Houston Baptist, Wayland Baptist, Tarleton, Pan American and Mexico Poly.

New Mexico Junior College seeks a record-tying sixth straight crown. Howard County won six junior college titles in a row from 1959-64.

Ranger is due to give New Mexico a run for the top spot. "We're in better shape this year than we ever have," says Ranger Coach Orland Aldridge.

Other junior college entries are Blinn, Southwestern Christian, Wharton, San Jacinto, Cisco, Laredo, Brazosport, and Mexico's Poly, Autonoma, Madero Tech, Tamaulipas and Monterrey Tech.

Houston Worthing heads the high school field. Coach Oliver Brown's Colts go after their third straight Olympics title.

Brown sees Baytown Sterling and Pasadena Rayburn as Worthing's chief contenders.

Other high schools entered in the Houston-flavored division are Houston's Milby, Washington, Lee, Jones, Yates, Sharpstown, Madison and Memorial and Sam Houston.

Also, Monahans, San Antonio Alamo Heights, Corpus Christi King and Miller, Gregory-Portland, Donna, Beeville, Vidor, Kingsville, Pasadena Dobie, Eagle Pass, Del Rio, Laredo Nixon, Laredo Martin, Klein, Port Lavaca Calhoun, and Mexico's Poly, Madero Tech, Tamaulipas and Mexico, D.F. Other late prep entries are expected.

Stones Sets World High Jump Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — Dwight Stones, decked out in a salmon-colored tee shirt with the map of Tahiti on his chest, stood leaning toward the high jump pit. His back foot was arched slightly as his hands brushed blond hair away from his face. His eyes were riveted on the slim metal bar set at 7 feet, 5¾ inches.

Everyone else—spectators, competitors, newsmen, meet officials, cleanup crews—was watching Stones, the last performer of the evening. All systems were go.

The 6-foot-5 vaulter kicked into his run, swept through his approach, soared off the track and cleared the bar, nuzzling it just a fraction. He landed as the crowd let out a roar and then bounced up immediately, arms upraised, with another world record.

Stones was by far the brightest spot in a relatively uneventful U.S. Olympic Invitational track and field meet Friday night. He had bettered by one-quarter inch the record he set a week ago. He jumped seven times Friday night and missed only once, on his first effort at 7-5¾.

Why not try for 7-7?

"Why price my world records out of the market?," he said afterwards. "It's much more exciting to break the record by one-quarter inch every week. The fans like it and I like it.

"I've broken the record on both coasts. I've broken it in different tee shirts. What else can I do?"

Stones, named the meet's outstanding performer, encouraged officials to place the high jump pit in the middle of the track, giving him a more direct approach than if it had been put off to the side as originally planned.

Stones, of the Pacific Coast Track Club, has won 10 of 11 outings during the indoor campaign. His closest competition Friday night, Pat Matzdorf of the Chicago Track Club, finished at 7-2.

The other top names in the field—Tanzania's Filbert Bayi, Chicago Track Club star Rick Wohlhuter and UCLA distance queen Francie Larrieu—all won handily.

Howard Wins 1st Region V Round

Howard College defeated South Plains College, 70-53, in a rough and tumble Region V Women's Basketball contest in the WTC gym Friday afternoon.

Howard leaped into an 8-0 lead, and South Plains didn't score their first basket until 4:39 deep in the first half. Howard was ahead all of the way and had an 11-point lead, 37-26, as the first half ended.

The closest South Plains got was about midway of the second half when they pulled within seven points, but Howard rallied in the closing minutes and finished with a 17 point bulge.

There were 58 fouls called in the game with four Howard girls fouling out--Sherry Griffin, Debbie Lambert, T.C. Caffey and Sally Echols. Cecie Bandy fouled out for South Plains.

Howrd was led by Delma Gomez and Sherry Griffin, who netted 17 and 13 points, respectively. T.C. Caffey contributed 10 points. For South Plains, Kathy Robinson and Gail Berry tallied 14 and 13 points, respectively.

The second round got underway Saturday morning at the Scurry County Coliseum with the Western Texas College Dusters meeting Ranger JC, followed by a second round tilt between Weatherford, the favorite, and Howard County.

The finals were held at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Pan Am-Iran Deal Not Final

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iranian investment in Pan American World Airways is not yet assured and a final decision likely will not be made for some time, says a top Treasury Department official.

Although the Ford administration has given its tentative approval for Iran to invest in the financially troubled U.S. airline, the Iranian government wants to be sure it will not be making a bad investment, Asst. Treasury Secretary Gerald Parsky said in an interview Friday.

Parsky returned this week from Iran after talks on that nation's investment opportunities and other relations between the two nations.

"They made clear to me they have not yet decided to finalize that transaction ... They won't go forward unless they see there will be a real return on that investment," he said.

The interest of the Iranian government in possible investment in Pan American may not be dominated entirely by a profit motive, however, Parsky said. He said investment in the airline also could help them with their own airline development and "increase their ties with the United States, which they want to do."

The State Department earlier this week gave tentative approval to proposed Iranian investment in Pan American, which lost $81 million last year.

Ardeshir Zahedi, the Iranian ambassador to the United States, had told newsmen his government might acquire 13 per cent of Pan Am's stock in an agreement involving investment of at least $230 million, and probably more.

He said the agreement would include participation in the Pan Am hotel chain, Intercontinental Hotels.

It would be the largest single investment in the United States so far by one of the newly rich oil producing nations.

But Parsky said that while the Iranian government welcomes the tentative approval of the Ford administration, it is not yet ready to close an agreement.

Banquet Honors Pack 37 Cubs

Scouts from Pack No. 37 were honored Feb. 15 at their annual Blue and Gold Banquet, held in the West Elementary Cafeteria. Their families were guests.

Master of ceremonies was Cubmaster Bob Stewart. Following the welcome, the Pledge of Allegiance was led by Den 2. Scouts participating in the flag ceremony were Larry Hartley, Dale Sands, Lawrence McCowan, and Kenny Robinson.

The invocation was given by Rev. Otto Schaufele, pastor of First Christian Church. Dinner was served buffet style with mothers of the scouts furnishing the food.

The tables were laid with white cloths featuring blue and gold runners. Each boy's name place was his pinewood derby and a name pennant, with racing flags designating the den numbers.

Following the dinner, Stewart introduced special guests who were Mr. and Mrs. Burt Runnels and Mr. and Mrs. Don Butler. Runnels is a Silver Beaver Award recipient, a District Committeeman and Cub Commissioner. Butler is the District Scout Executive.

The group was led in singing "America" by cubs in Den 6. Boys in Den 6 are John Sullivan, Cary Gunset, Tommy Hunter, Sam Raborn and Gregory Grimes.

Awards Chairman Loren Sullivan presented the awards. Three-year service stars went to Terance Dennis, Paul Ellis, Bryan Limmer, David Lofton, Paul Schaufele, Andy Sealy, David Stewart, Doug Webb, and Richard Stallcup.

Other awards were: Bobcat award to Gregory Grimes and Steve Stallcup; Wolf award to Kent Krop, Danny Osborne, Kevin Walker and John Sullivan. The Wolf badge and one Gold Arrow Point went to Mickey Broach and Mark Davis.

Robert Freeman received the Wolf Badge, one Gold Arrow point and five Silver Arrow points. Sam Raborn received the Bear badge. A Bear badge and one Gold Arrow point went to Lawrence McCowan, Kinney Robinson and Trey McWilliams.

Dailey Jones, Webelos leader, presented the Webelos awards. Gery Clinkenbeard received Artist, Engineer, and Showman; Doug Webb, Engineer; and Jamey Robin, Athlete and Engineer.

Following the awards, Mrs. Harol Ellis, Den Leader Coach, gave special recognition to all who had been active in the Pack 37 scouting program.

She presented yellow carnations to the den leaders. They were Linda Taylor and Irene Jones, Den 1; Lillian Sands and Delores Sands, Den 2; Dailey Jones, Jerry Gunset and Mike Taylor, Webelos-Den 3; Paula McWilliams and Charlene Light, Den 4; Janette Stallcup and Ira Lee Krop, Den 5; and Miriam Sullivan, Den 6. The program was a filmstrip on the Buffalo Trail Scout Ranch in the Davis Mountains. Runnels and Butler presented the filmstrip.

Exhibits at the banquet were displays from each den featuring the arts and crafts of the scouts.

The banquet was concluded with the retrieving of the colors by members of Den.

Pan Am-Iran Deal Not Final

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iranian investment in Pan American World Airways is not yet assured and a final decision likely will not be made for some time, says a top Treasury Department official.

Although the Ford administration has given its tentative approval for Iran to invest in the financially troubled U.S. airline, the Iranian government wants to be sure it will not be making a bad investment, Asst. Treasury Secretary Gerald Parsky said in an interview Friday.

Parsky returned this week from Iran after talks on that nation's investment opportunities and other relations between the two nations.

"They made clear to me they have not yet decided to finalize that transaction ... They won't go forward unless they see there will be a real return on that investment," he said.

The interest of the Iranian government in possible investment in Pan American may not be dominated entirely by a profit motive, however, Parsky said. He said investment in the airline also could help them with their own airline development and "increase their ties with the United States, which they want to do."

The State Department earlier this week gave tentative approval to proposed Iranian investment in Pan American, which lost $81 million last year.

Ardeshir Zahedi, the Iranian ambassador to the United States, had told newsmen his government might acquire 13 per cent of Pan Am's stock in an agreement involving investment of at least $230 million, and probably more.

He said the agreement would include participation in the Pan Am hotel chain, Intercontinental Hotels.

It would be the largest single investment in the United States so far by one of the newly rich oil producing nations.

But Parsky said that while the Iranian government welcomes the tentative approval of the Ford administration, it is not yet ready to close an agreement.

THERE'S A SAUCER IN YOUR FUTURE—Paul Moller, 38, inventor of an eight-engine flying saucer sits in a prototype of the "Discojet" which he hopes will revolutionize modern transportation. The $500,000 prototype is equipped with a control stick for ascending and descending and a throttle. It also is gyroscopically stabilized to control pitch and roll. The craft, built of fiberglass and aluminum, will retail for $10,000 says Moller. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Retail Milk Costs Rising

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail milk costs are rising again and probably will be at record levels in another month or two if recent government price actions to help dairy farmers are passed along to consumers.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said Friday that a half-gallon of milk in January sold in retail stores for an average of 79.4 cents nationally. That was one penny below the all-time high of 80.4 cents last May.

Meanwhile, the Agriculture Department says milk production still is in the doldrums because farmers have reduced cow herds in order to save on rising feed costs and shows little sign of a major recovery soon.

"We can expect to see some further rise in retail dairy prices, but certainly it will be more moderate than in early 1974," the department's Outlook and Situation Board said Friday.

Congress approved a hefty raise in government price supports for milk but the measure was vetoed on Jan. 3 by President Ford. Later the same day, however, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz announced a smaller increase as a compromise to help financially strapped milk producers.

The new figures showed the January price of a half-gallon of milk was up two-tenths of a cent from December. But since there is a lag in applying the price support increase the January retail figure did not reflect all of it.

One official said the full impact of the price support increase will be felt at the farm level and passed on at least partly to consumers this month and in March and April.

The department's report said "retail dairy prices likely will rise more slowly than food prices generally" in the early months of 1975. Also, it said, erosion of consumer purchasing power, high unemployment and inflation could stir consumer resistance against rising milk prices.

Retail milk prices rose more last year than the remainder of the consumer food list. A half-gallon of milk averaged 78.4 cents for all of 1974, up nearly 20 per cent from the 1973 retail average of 65.4 cents.

Retail food prices overall in 1974 averaged 14.5 per cent above 1973, the department said. This year the department expects food prices to go up at an annual rate of between 10 and 12 per cent, at least in the first half.

Moisture Adequate To Start '75 Crop Season

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — With generally adequate soil moisture throughout the state, the 1975 crop season should get off to a good start, Dr. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says.

Surplus moisture conditions over parts of Central, North Central, East and Southeast Texas have slowed land preparation work, he said.

Hutchison said livestock grazing is short over much of the state and most stockmen have had to use some supplemental feeding to maintain their herds through the winter.

Numerous cattle have been lost because of malnutrition, especially in eastern counties, Hutchison said.

District agricultural agents gave these reports:

Panhandle: Soil moisture is still short north of the Canadian River. Small grains are beginning to green up. Range cattle are receiving some supplemental feed.

South Plains: Small grains continue to make good progress. Livestock are beginning to move off wheat fields to allow grain crops to be produced. Farmers are applying fertilizer and herbicides.

Rolling Plains: Small grains are making excellent growth. Greenbugs are causing some damage to small grains. Some early vegetables such as Irish potatoes are being planted.

North Central: A few small grain fields are being top-dressed with nitrogen fertilizer. Some early spring vegetables are being planted where soil conditions allow. Livestock feeding remains heavy.

Northeast: Some cotton still remains to be harvested. Small grains are providing grazing for livestock but supplemental feeding continues.

Far West: Livestock are in good shape but there is some feeding of range cattle. Sheep and goat shearing is in progress. Land preparation is active.

West Central: Small grains are providing good grazing for livestock. Some ranges are beginning to green up. Some early wheat is in the jointing stage. Lambing and shearing are active. Sheep losses from bitterweed poisoning continue in Sutton County.

Central: Small grains are beginning to respond to warmer weather but some fields need fertilizer. Home gardening activity is increasing. Pastures and ranges remain below average because of widespread overstocking. The lambing season is under way.

East: Excessive soil moisture is continuing to slow small grain growth. Some disease damage is apparent. Many cattle are in poor shape because of malnutrition and parasites.

Southeast and Upper Gulf Coast: Milder weather has helped oats and flax. Some potatoes have been planted. Peach trees are beginning to bloom and pecan trees are budding.

South Central: Farmers are getting land in shape for the planting season. Small grains are making good progress but most pastures and ranges are below average because of overstocking. Peach trees are beginning to bloom.

Southwest: Small grains are making rapid growth. Some pastures and ranges are in poor shape because of overstocking. Some winter vegetables are still moving to market. Onions are making good growth.

South: Planting of sorghum and corn is increasing. Three to five per cent of the acreage is planted. Planting of watermelons and cucumbers continues. Onions are making good growth. Coyotes have killed numerous calves in Duval County.

Justice Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall has returned home after a 10-day hospitalization. And a court spokesman adds Justice William O. Douglas continues to improve from the effects of a Dec. 31 stroke.

The spokesman said it was uncertain whether the 66-year-old Marshall, hospitalized with pneumonia, would be back on the bench this week.

Douglas, 76, was reported working a few hours each day and continuing to receive physical therapy.

AGENT'S COMMENTS

This is one of the few times I will use a part of this column to express my own personal opinion and viewpoint.

Upon completion of one of the better county livestock shows, in quality, quantity and participation, it impresses on me again of what a wonderful group of people live in Scurry County. If you still believe that our young people are long haired, pot smoking, lazy and no good bunch of kids, then you didn't attend the county livestock show. Here we saw, not a few, but a bunch of youngsters who had pride in what they did, worked hard to make it better and smiled in disappointment when someone else won the ribbon they wanted.

But behind these youngsters are dedicated parents who are also interested in what their children are doing and helping and encouraging them in every step along the way. For no matter how enthusiastic a youngster may be, without help and encouragement from mom and dad, or someone interested, it will soon burn out.

And here in Scurry County we also have a group of business people and other individuals who will support these kids who try to help themselves. You don't need to go very far in any direction to see how good this support is. For these people we are most appreciative.

The adults with which we work, in other areas of Extension education, such as farm and ranch demonstrations, meetings and other activities, are also of these fine qualities.

So it is with tremendous pride that I say to those who do not know, "Yes I'm the Scurry County Extension Agent." Thank you.

TOPDRESSING NITROGEN FOR SMALL GRAINS

With your present moisture, good stands and the anticipated market price for grain, you may want to consider top dressing your small grain with nitrogen. How much to use is an important question due to price and availability.

Topdressing phosphorus or potassium will be of little value this late in the season.

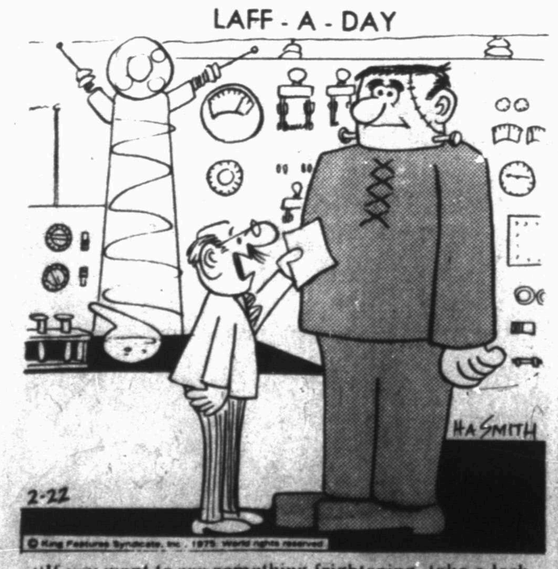

Both rate and time is important in getting satisfactory results from topdressing. The rate will be governed by (1) amount of fertilizer used to now (2) yield potential as affected by stand, moisture grazing and possibly other conditions. Rates of 30-60 pounds should be considered for grain production. If it has had heavy grazing, the higher rates should be considered.

As to time, it should be done before the plant tillers. Fertilization increases tillering, thereby increasing yield potential.

Fertilizers should be applied evenly and eliminate streaking and skips. When using solutions, dribble it on the ground rather than spray it on the leaves if possible.

Fertilizing doesn't insure yields, but yield potential is increased if favorable conditions for grain production continues.
