Mississippi Finishing Work Of Destruction

(By the Associated Press) NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—The charging Mississippi river tonight rapidly was completing the devastation of northeastern Louisiana started by its tributaries.

Sweeping through its bank at another place today between Vicksburg and Natchez, the river was sending roaring torrents into Tensas parish north of the town of St. Joseph. Work had been abandoned at Villa Clara, below St. Joseph but reports tonight said the levee had not gone out.

Thousands in Danger

While backwaters long since have driven a large percentage of the population of the nine affected parishes to refuge concentration points, many other thousands have pinned their faith on the Mississippi levees and clung to their homes.

Seek Place Of Safety

Thousands streamed out to the levees, the one place of safety, and anxiously awaited the coming of the rescue fleets dispatched from Natchez and Vicksburg. In several of the towns time was given for moving much of the household goods of the families.

Floods Gather

The waters from the Mississippi delta can be observed rushing back into the parent stream through the Tensas river south of Natchez and those from the Glasscock breaks are pouring down the Tensas valley to seek a remitting with the mother stream through the Old river.

BOYS ARE HONOREES AT KIWANIS LUNCHEON

Boys will occupy the seat of honor at the regular weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club at the Lubbock hotel today in the club's annual observance of International Boys' Week. A special program has been prepared by K. N. Clapp, chairman of the day, in which the boys will have the major part. Bob O'Hair, one of the leading scouts of the city, will give a short talk on "How I've Missed My Dad," and A. H. White, scout executive of the South Plains will speak on "Why Boys' Week."

FLOOD STORIES TRUE SAYS MISS RUTH HORN

The stories one reads about the flooded region along the Mississippi river are not exaggerated in the least, according to Miss Ruth Horn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul W. Horn, who returned yesterday from Jackson, Mississippi, where she has been visiting for the past several weeks. The water is everywhere along the river, Miss Horn says, and thousands are homeless. Everywhere along the delta, the flood is breaking and there are miles of land completely covered with water. Miss Horn crossed the river at Metchos, Mississippi, the water being above the steps of the train. Southern Louisiana is receiving a large amount of water, she says.

AIRMAN SETS A BALLON MARK FOR ALTITUDES

INSTRUMENTS SHOW HE REACHED HEIGHT OF 41,000 FEET

USED A PARACHUTE

NO INJURY SUFFERED DURING EXPERIENCE HE REPORTS

(By Associated Press) SCOTT FIELD, BELLEVILLE, Ills., May 4.—Captain Hawthorne C. Gray, who ascended today in an effort to break the world's altitude record for free balloons, alighted at Golden Gate, Ills., and said his instruments indicated his balloon reached a height of 41,000 feet. The previous record was 25,433 feet, made by a German aeronaut.

Gray said he had ascended to 3,000 feet and found the balloon falling so rapidly that he took to his parachute to effect a landing. He landed gently and was apparently uninjured. One of two military planes which followed him brought Gray back to Scott Field where he underwent an examination at the field hospital.

The balloon which ascended at 1:33 p. m. landed approximately 100 miles from its starting point at 4 p. m. in Gray said he felt well after exploring a region nearly eight miles above the earth. It was the second attempt, the first made in March, having resulted in his becoming unconscious at a height of 28,000 feet due to faulty oxygen apparatus. An oxygen mixer combined with an electrical heater was used today, and Gray said he had no trouble in obtaining sufficient air even at his greatest height.

NICARAGUAN PEACE PROPOSALS FAIL

LIBERALS BALK AT PLANS ALLOWING DIAZ TO KEEP DIAZ

(By The Associated Press) MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 4.—Henry L. Stimson, peace emissary representing President Coolidge of the liberal army, have been unable to reach an agreement for a settlement of hostilities between the liberals and conservatives. Their conference ended today in a deadlock over the question of the continuance of Adolfo Diaz, conservative, in the presidency.

These appeared to be some hope for a settlement when the conference, which included also delegates from Dr. Scaeva, (the liberal president), the American minister, Charles C. Eberhardt and Rear Admiral Lathmer, adjourned at noon, but in the afternoon, after a brief session, the liberal delegates announced a negative outcome as General Moncada and the Scaeva delegates were unable to accept the proposal that Diaz should continue as president.

Affair Closed

Mr. Stimson did not confirm the particular point, but merely said that the conference was over and there was nothing for publication. He and the American minister immediately returned to Managua.

A member of General Moncada's staff said later to the Associated Press that if the United States issued a signed official mandatory order that the liberals must lay down their arms and "cease fighting."

U. S. SAYS DEBT CONTROVERSY IS PRIVATE ISSUE

ANSWER GIVEN TO A BRITISH MISSIVE IS TERSE

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 4.—The State Department advised the British government today that the United States regards the recent correspondence between Secretary Mellon and President Hibben of Princeton University on war debts as a "purely domestic discussion and does not desire to engage in any formal diplomatic exchanges on the subject."

The views of the Washington government were contained in a note transmitted to the British embassy. It was in reply to a note handed the department earlier in the day by the British charge d'affaires, acting in the absence from Washington of Ambassador Howard, which challenged the accuracy of a statement by Mr. Mellon that the United States could not constitute a drain on British economic resources.

VICTIM DRAGGED BEHIND AUTO IN HORROR MARCH

THOUSANDS WATCH

NATIONAL GUARD NOW QUELLING RIOTS IN CITY

(By the Associated Press) LITTLE ROCK, May 4.—The body of a negro who had been hanged and riddled with bullets for an attack upon a white woman and her daughter early today, tonight was dragged behind an automobile through the main street of the city, and then scattered with gasoline and burned at one of the principal business corners in the negro section while thousands of persons looked on.

As the flames leaped into the air, the firing of guns mingled with the cries of some men and children fleeing from the scene.

Negroes scattered as the mob dragged the body to the corner and made a bonfire of it. Police, outnumbered, directed traffic which congested the streets for blocks around the scene.

Found in Tree

The negro, John Carter, 22, surrounded by a mob numbering several thousand men, who found him in a tree after an all day search, confessed that he had attacked Mrs. E. E. Steward and her 17-year-old daughter, Clorinda, with an iron bar as they rode along the road near the city in a wagon early today.

The mob sent for Miss Steward and waited for her to arrive. She was said to have identified him as the man who attacked her, after which Carter was led to a pole, a rope fastened about his neck.

Told to climb on top of an automobile, the negro tried but was not frightened or weak. He was then pushed atop the car and it was driven from under him. As the negro swung in the air he was handed from the attack of the morning, Miss Steward was said to have been within sight of the lynching.

Troops of the Arkansas National guard were ordered out by Governor Little Rock tonight to prevent further trouble in Little Rock. In a telephone conversation with Major F. E. Fredeman, assistant adjutant general, the governor ordered that all state troops available to prevent a threatened outbreak of race trouble.

Lynching of another negro tonight was threatened when he was found armed in a huge crowd which congregated in the negro section where the body of John Carter, 22, negro, was dragged and burned after he had been hanged in the woods near the city.

When the negro was discovered in the crowd and found to be armed, cries went up to hang him but he was rescued and taken to the city jail for safe keeping.

State troops followed the streets of Little Rock tonight to prevent further outbreaks, following the lynching of another negro, the fatal shooting of another, the beating and threatened lynching of a third and the accidental wounding of a white boy during the miscellaneous firing by hundreds of race rioters who paraded through the city.

LUBBOCK FLORAL CO.

Opposite Hotel Lubbock on Broadway

The state of mind this yellow morning is too black and doleful for such a day. Here's why. Not two days ago as I was cutting the morning editorial I observed three bluebirds, as blue as bluebirds, the bluest I've ever seen disporting themselves among the six daffodils which bloom in the back yard. My soul was flooded with the yearning urge. I must make a seasonal gesture, buy something, do something, wear something, say something, which would give an impression to this something within me. I decided to buy myself a bird house, not being the clever sort of gal who can build her own.

AIMED HIGH
Feverishly I shopped on my noon hour for bird houses. I give the clerk credit. He did his best to sell me a wren house, though he didn't tell me why. But I'd already seen wren houses. Wrens were noisy in their way, neat but not nice, inoffensive, simple, humble little birds. But I would me a bird house buy that would attract rarer, more graceful, more exotic and opulent birds—birds of gay plumage and soprano trills. I am not sure that I expected an orange-and-purple-tailed magpie to nest in our humble backyard, nor keet with a few rose touches to his spring outfit. But I did expect to rent the suite to bluebirds, woodpeckers, chickadees, something jaunty but not especially neat.

WHAT I GOT
Well, my bird house with an aperture too big for any bird when I was in the old walnut tree less than a day, and there are as many sparrows squealing like baby mice about it as flies at the honey pot. No less than three couples are living inside in little bliss, and the commotion is making the neighbors threaten to move. I'm sure there's a moral in the tale somewhere, probably—in not ye for bluebirds, for you'll always get a sparrow!

BABY PAULINA
"That child will make a splash in the world." This is supposed to be the grandmotherly prediction of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt for her granddaughter, Paulina Longworth, daughter of Alice Roosevelt Longworth. Story has it that the family on those are sure that grandma "hit it right" for Paulina receives more mail than the president and has her picture taken more frequently than Gloria Swanson or Peggy Hopkins Joyce. Such silly reasoning! It's the child of her parents that is making the splash, and not Paulina herself. If "that Longworth baby" had been plainer than she is, utterly stupid, and nothing to compare with millions of other babies she would have the same amount of mail and pictures. As they say of the president, "It's not the man; it's the office."

FOR WORKING PEOPLE
The best of workers get out of sorts when the liver fails to act. They feel languid, half-sick, "blue" and discouraged and think they are getting lazy. Neglect of these symptoms might result in a sick spell, therefore the sensible course is to take a dose or two of Herbine. It is just the medicine needed to purify the system and restore the vim and ambition of health. Price 50c. Sold by HALL-BENSON DRUG CO.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

T. Q. CURTIS, millionaire owner of the big Curtis department store, selects by means of an interesting contest three girls from his establishment to be his wards for one year. During that time he promises to give them the opportunity to pursue the work which will lead to the realization of their dreams.

The girls chosen are BILLY WELLS, who longs to become a concert violinist; NYDA LEMAX, who for the sake of gaining her employer's favor during the contest says her ambition is to be a kindergarten teacher; and WINNIE SHELTON, who untruthfully declares she wants to become a private secretary to a "big business man like Mr. Curtis."

CLAY CURTIS, son of the millionaire store owner, tries to get Billy to give up the proposition feeling that this proposition of three poor girls into wealth will be disastrous. She disregards his advice. Clay has banished himself and is living in the "Wells" home in the poor section of the city, working in the Truman automobile factory in the daytime and writing music at night. Clay hints darkly that his father's full scheme has not yet been revealed.

In accordance with Old T. Q.'s terms, Billy leaves her mother's home and goes to the Curtis mansion where she is to live for the year. Billy finds Nyda and Winnie, already established in their rooms. They were too impatient to await her coming, and therefore had chosen their rooms before Billy has a chance to select the one she would like.

HOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXII
The three girls took up their residence in the Curtis mansion on Thursday. Sunday afternoon Billy was driven to the stately little Wells cottage in the Cluny Heights district, the apartment building which she had selected for ten at five. It was a transformed little Billy Wells who flung open the door of the living room. Her sturdy sinewiness was wrapped about in a luxuriant coat of fur, and she looked not only like a young lady, but a lady, expensive taste of furs, and turned the blue of her eyes to its own exotic jade green.

"From rags to riches!" she laughed at Clay's and her mother's amazement. "Mother, I can see you doing mental arithmetic over his coat. Don't get a headache, darling. Old T. Q. treated all of us to our choice of a fur coat—within reason. Nyda took the best Hudson seal she could find and is sore because it isn't a real seal. Winnie took a mink and she looks adorable in it. Male doesn't wear so with me at the Curtis house. You ought to see my room. Of course Nyda and Winnie beat me to the best rooms, but I like mine almost as well as theirs. It's bigger than our living room and dining room put together, and it has a whole row of French windows opening out on the darling little balcony. Of course it's full of heavy, horrid, old-fashioned furniture now, but T. Q.'s going to redecorate our rooms to suit our own tastes.

"And what's my baby going to have?" Mrs. Wells-voice and tear-filled eyes greeted the girl kneeling in her arms. Billy could not see the shadow of trouble that dimmed the brightness of her pleasure in her daughter's good fortune.

"Oh, I'm quite modest," Billy chuckled. "They have some adorable furniture at the store—a low, wide couch-bed, dressing table, chest of drawers, desk and chairs, a painted wood—soft, dull green, sort of a milky jade, with a vine pattern of roses in a faded pink and silk lace panels, and a big, tall-green velvet rug. Oh, yes, I want a chaise longue too, with a sh-shaped back of cane, painted to match the furniture, and upholstered in the green and rose cushions.

"It sounds very sweet," Mrs. Wells admitted with a slightly constricted voice. "I guess your own little room here, with its wide shamed bed and oak dress, will cost pretty awful to you when you—when you come home."

"Don't worry," Billy reassured her with her wide, impatient grin. "When the year's up I'm going to have so much money saved up that we can go straight to New York and get me all dated up for a coast tour. Then I can earn pretty things for myself—and for you." "Have you seen Professor Navrath yet?" her mother asked eagerly. "Don't be think you're a genius!" Billy flushed, did not meet her mother's eyes. "Well, to tell you the truth, mother, I did make an appointment with him for Saturday afternoon, but I had to break it because I had a fitting at the Princesses Shoppe, and I did so want to wear this dress today. I'm going to see him tomorrow morning at ten o'clock. I'll phone you just as soon as I get away from him."

"You didn't have to dress up to see your mother," Mrs. Wells protested. "I was so anxious to hear what he thought of your playing—" "Why, mother?" Billy took her mother's face between her hands and shook it affectionately. "I didn't know you'd mind so much, or I'd have done without the dress. It was only that Nyda and Winnie were going to spend their new clothes today. You know I told you I have to be back for tea. We're going to have—guests. It's really our first party since we went there to live."

"Some of those nice men you met at the dinner?" Mrs. Wells probed eagerly. "Yes, Ralph Truman and Lewis Kruger, and—Mrs. Meadows' nephew." She could not bring herself to pronounce Dalhart. Romaine's name. The very thought of Romaine made her dizzy, flushed her face with the fever which had burned in her blood since the first time she had seen him.

Suddenly she was in a very agony of impatience to be gone. She rose and walked restlessly about the room, parting the cheap lace curtains to peer out into the street, to see the Curtis car drive up. She hardly heard a word her mother said—something about how hard Clay was working now, about how badly he slept, how nervous he was. Oh, why, didn't the car come?

Why had she bought this green dress? It was horrid. She wanted to appear before Dal Romaine in raiment so dazzling and glorious that his drooping black eyes could see nothing else but her in all the world. She had hungered and thirsted for a sight of him; the fever of her longing to hear his low, deep voice had driven her to ceaseless activity during the day, and to wide-eyed, restless tossing at night. And all she had had from him was the orchid she wore on her coat. She had prized it above everything that her new life had brought her until she found that he had sent a white orchid to Nyda and a lavender-and-purple one to Winnie.

"Oh, there's the car!" she gasped in relief when at last there came a low, discreet honk of the horn—the signal she had agreed upon, since she did not want the chauffeur peering into their hideous little hall. "I thought it'd be late for the party," she laughed. But she jumped her expensive new hat upon her head as if it were her old felt, shrugged hastily into her male-skin coat, and kissed her mother twice, hastily, missing her mouth the last time.

"Billy, her mother tried to detain her. "There's something you haven't told mother. Have you—have you fallen in love, honey, with one of those rich boys?" Billy paused at the doorway, but she was quivering with eagerness to be gone. "Fallen in love? Of course not, you funny darling! You know whom I love—but don't you dare tell him so, the pig! To chase off by himself as soon as I come! Goodbye darling. I'll phone you, what Navrath says. I love you. And for heaven's sake, don't worry about me. I'm not going to be spoiled or have my head turned, or anything tragic like that."

She was gone, the green orchid touching one glowing cheek with a fringed, fairy-delicate finger. Her mother stood for a long minute as Billy had left her, the smile fading slowly from her face. Her lips began to quiver childishly, I trem brimmed over the faded blue of eyes that had once been as dark and brilliant as Billy's. Then with a low moan, she flung herself down upon the broken-sprung old divan and began to sob.

REST WITHOUT FRETTING—Rest in the Lord and wait patiently for him, fret not thyself because of him who prospereth in his way, because of the man who bringeth wicked devices to pass.

WITHIN WALLS

Lamesa has an editor, that if his writings are an insight into his life, he lives within the four walls of his home, and does not care to see the sunshine and to hear the knocking of those on the outside who would want to come in and enjoy the hospitalities of the within—

The world do move. The impossible has at last happened in Lamesa. We actually had a convention and a banquet without calling on Lubbock for help to put it over.

Lamesa is a good live town. It does a great many things, and we are confident that all of their meetings can be put over by Lamesa talent, but when outsiders are invited to come in, and go we do not see the wisdom of bemoaning them for attending.

It seems there will never be an end to new laws. Some are necessary to replace those put on the statutes fifty or a hundred years ago, and designed for altogether different conditions, but there is that special interest group that comes along and wants to have a law past that will bring in certain concerns a barrel of money and benefits no one but them.

YOUR OWN HOME

You will hear people argue that owning a home is not as satisfactory as renting. That of course depends altogether on the line of work a person is in.

When an idea get hold of the people so hard that a "day" or a "week" is set aside for it on the busy calendar of our American life, we're apt to assume that it is a good idea.

thing "special!" Still if I were running the calendar I'd keep Mother's Day and Own-Your-Home Week for quite a long while yet. One of the foremost reasons for supporting the latter is because of the way it plays into the spirit of the former—

Would you like proof of this? One of the most striking bits of statistics I have seen in a long while were some figures compiled by a young man in Chicago showing the areas in that city in which criminality was most rampant among the boys of their teens.

It is reported that some one was heard to say that it was none of our business whether they cleaned their premises up or not. We would hate for such a party to be a neighbor of ours.

It is reported that in a group of ladies recently a great argument was engaged in. The topic under discussion was whose husband had the most perfect wife.

MORE FOOL LAWS

It is reported that the chamber of commerce is showing some interest in the matter of getting the numbering of the houses of this city on a better system.

It is reported that some men in Lubbock never sing except when taking a bath. From the way some of them sing, we think they must not get much practice.

It is reported that one preacher opposed church weddings and gave as his reason that after taking a fatal step like that they never wanted to return to the place again.

AVOID DISEASES

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

OUT OUR WAY By Williams

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that work is progressing well on the Denver road, and the trains will be operating into this territory this fall according to schedule.

It is reported that the boys and girls of this city will put on a big parade tomorrow, and every citizen of Lubbock should see the future men and women of the city gathered together in this celebration of loyalty to the nation and to the boys week campaign.

It is reported that some one was heard to say that it was none of our business whether they cleaned their premises up or not. We would hate for such a party to be a neighbor of ours.

SOUTH PLAINS PRESS

LET GEORGE DO IT. A New Orleans cotton firm, writing to the Cotton and Cotton Oil News, says that after careful investigation but few signs of cotton acreage reduction for 1927 are visible.

It is reported that the reason some people like the radio is that there is not a lot of clapping of hands and returning of the artist when he is not wanted.

It is reported that one preacher opposed church weddings and gave as his reason that after taking a fatal step like that they never wanted to return to the place again.

SO THINK WE

Lubbock is showing the boys of the community much deserved consideration this week, but as one of the speakers at the Rotary luncheon suggested yesterday, it should not be for only one week, but for fifty-two weeks in each year.

THE SPIRIT MESSAGE

hair has been thoroughly disinfected by a suitable process. Thus cases of anthrax have occurred from shaving brushes made from hair of infected animals.

Since the disease is spread primarily by hides and hair, persons handling such material, who develop abrasions of the skin, should immediately consult competent medical advice. They should wash the hands frequently with soap and water.

Obviously all manufacturing plants should provide for complete disinfection of hair, wool and bristles of animals before they are used or assorted in any way.

PROGRESS

The commissioners court held a short session here Wednesday for the purpose of receiving bids on the issue of $150,000 in courthouse bonds, which was recently voted by the county.

The bonds were sold to D. E. Dunne & Company, of Wichita, Kansas, and in addition to bringing par, brought a premium of $500 in accrued interest. The bonds draw 5 per cent interest and mature serially over a period of forty years. It is understood that the funds will be available as soon as the bonds are printed and approved by the necessary authorities.

There is a change in the bond election Tuesday, even if it did carry six to one, it should have had the volume of support that is deserved.

Now that the bonds carried we hope to see the new standpipe erected and the new fire station, so that the large number of homes in the southwest part of the city will have the improved protection.

Developing Natural Resources

One of the commonest aims set forth by ambitious chambers of commerce is more industries. The argument is advanced that what the average town or city needs is a substantial industrial payroll to supplement other resources.

There must be a demand for the finished products of our industrial plants. Otherwise we will have, instead of smoke stacks that emit smoke, and busy hundreds in factories spending their earnings in local stores, a dilapidated group of buildings, rusting machinery and collapsed smoke stacks.

The big problem of industry is not in manufacturing, but in merchandising. The average Texas town is merely chasing a will of the wisp in its campaigning for industries if it follows the usual lines of procedure. The best thing that any chamber of commerce can do for its city is to develop resources already known.

Texas has grown remarkably in the matter of mineral production, but the fact remains that the greatest possibilities of wealth lie in the exploitation of agricultural resources. This exploitation, instead of meaning neglect of industrial development, will actually hasten it.

The city that devotes its main effort to development of these natural resources is proceeding along the surest route for a future industrial growth. If we could double the population of Wilbarger county, and that is easily possible without any high pressure colonization schemes, Vernon will have an appeal as a manufacturing town that it cannot possibly have without this development.

Queer Quirks Of Nature

A STAR THAT DWELLS UPON THE WATERS. By Arthur N. Pack. The American Indians told many legends to account for the origin of our white water lily, a favorite plant of the water garden.

with wild flower lovers. Like all its relatives it has been made the subject of numerous pretty legends and is often confused with the American lotus, a water plant closely related to the sacred lotus of the Nile.

It is not the same flower, however, as the water lily belongs to the group known as the water nymphs rather than the true lotus class.

for Modern Streets THINK of the traffic in your town twenty years ago. Not much of a problem then, was it? But today! Times have changed and the streets of yesterday are as obsolete as a 1907 motor car. Now streets must be specially designed for durability, safety and uninterrupted use. Resilience is built into the modern vehicle. Its roadway must be rigid, maintaining an even surface under impact, wear and temperature. The concrete street meets these requirements perfectly - and it is the safest pavement wet or dry. PORTLAND CEMENT ASSOCIATION Athletic Club Building Dallas, Texas CONCRETE for permanence

Daily Market COTTON FIRMER NEW ORLEANS, May 4 (AP)--The cotton market was decidedly steady and firmer today and prices advanced, all late crop months trading above the 18 cent level. Good Liverpool cables, further advances in Egyptian futures and reports of levee breaks in Louisiana helped the advance. The opening gain of 14 to 17 points was further increased until October traded at 16.94, or 20 points above the previous close. All of the early gain was lost later in the morning on profit taking.

After the opening gain July traded up to 15.81 and October to 16.64. On the profit taking decline prices were dropped to 15.67 for July and 15.88 for October, the subsequent rally on the flood reports pushed all months into new highs but on realizing and July traded at 15.83 and October 15.94. Profit taking appeared to be the only incentive behind the reactions. Exports totaled 26,621 bales.

COTTON ADVANCES NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)--Additional overflows in the Mississippi valley, reports of rains or showers in some parts of the central belt, and continued firmness of Liverpool in Alexandria, seemed responsible for further advances in the cotton market today. Prices made new high ground for the movement on all positions, July selling up to 15.89 or 39 points net higher and 375 points above the low level of early last December. July closed at 15.83, the general market closing there barely steady at net advances of 17 to 20 points.

The opening was firm at an advance of 12 to 15 points in response to the sharp advances in Liverpool and overnight reports of another break in the levee near Tallulah, La. There was heavy realizing at the initial figures and selling for a reaction became a little more active after publication of the weekly weather report which was regarded by local traders as indicating fair crop progress outside the flooded areas.

May sold up to 15.74, October to 16.28, and December to 16.47, net advances of 29 to 24 points on active positions. As July approached the 16 cent and December the 16 1/2 cent level, there was a renewal of realizing, last prices showing reactions of 16 to 15 points in the best.

Exports today 26,621 making 3,794,232 for this season. Free receipts 17,587. U. S. spot stocks 1,965,555.

COTTON OIL ACTIVE NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)--The cottonseed oil market was active and steady today with final prices 2 to 14 points net higher. Nine months showed the maximum gains due to absence of May liquidation, despite further tendering. The advance in the late months reflected commission house buying on flood news, and the advance in cotton, together with the firmness of crude oil and tallow. Sales 21,000 bar. Hls. Prime grade 7.15; prime summer-yellow spot 5.20; May closed 5.30; July 5.60; September 5.95; October 5.95; December 5.90.

COTTON GOODS MODERATE NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)--A moderate amount of new business is being worked through an 87-7 cotton goods, but with cotton much higher mills are not willing to accept the low bids of buyers. Yarns were firmer. Burlaps continued quiet, importers declining lower bids. Improvement continued for men's wear for fall, more orders coming in on suitings and overcoatings. Raw silk held about steady. Silk goods for fall are being opened this week by some of the leading manufacturers.

WOOL TRADING BOSTON, May 4 (AP)--A fair amount of trading in territory fine wool in original bags, half blood 58-80's and 3-8 blood strictly combing is being done with a few large worsted mills. One quarter blood 48-50's lower grade have been quiet. Prices on good wools continue steady, but offerings lacking in quality are easy. Trading in wool foreign wool is rather dull.

CORN HIGHER CHICAGO, May 4 (AP)--Corn jumped today to the highest level gained in many weeks. One of the principal speculators on the local side of the corn market switched suddenly to the buying side, and a general stampede to purchase followed. Talk of late planting was a factor. Corn closed unsettled 1 3/8 to 1 1/2 to 2 1/8 cents net higher.

World's available supply figures showed a falling off of 5,823,000 bushels for the week. Oats did not get much inspiration from corn strength, the oats market promptly running into profit taking on upturns.

Provisions prices governed more by the ascent of cotton values than by declines which were witnessed in the price of hogs.

COFFEE HIGHER NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)--Coffee futures were higher today on covering and buying believed to be largely for European accounts. Demand probably was promoted by the firmer showing of Rio, but business was only moderately active. The market opened at an advance of 1.00 to 1.10 points. July sold up to 11.42 and closed at 11.53, the general market closing at a net advance of 8 to 21 points. Estimated sales 25,000 bags.

Closing quotations: May 13.48; July 12.63; September 11.96; December 11.87; January 11.55; March 11.28. Spot coffee quiet, Rio 7's 15.5-8; Santos 4's 17 to 17 1/2.

SUGAR IS QUIET NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)--The raw sugar market was quiet today and while spot prices were unchanged at 4.77 for Cuban, duty paid, shipments sugars were higher. The only sale reported was 15,000 bags of Cuban, second half May shipment, to an export refiner at 4.82.

LIVESTOCK STEADY FORT WORTH, May 4 (AP)--Despite large receipts, cattle prices on the livestock market here were about steady today. Hogs, sheep and lambs likewise were steady. Cattle 5.70; hogs 1.40; sheep 4.50.

37 AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE--Essex coach, good condition, $290 less than it is worth for quick cash sale. Call 782.

In the opening game for these clubs in the Lubbock City League. The Postoffice-Tailors made five runs in the initial frame and "Bak" Sanders, manager of the Undertakers, yanked "Lefty" Smith in favor of "Lefty" Wright before the first session was over. SNYDER TRIAL

Gray drank more whiskey. He gave her his backskin gloves. He put on the rubber gloves. They waited, whispering in the darkness.

"Now's the time," Mrs. Snyder told him. Gray testified, as spasms of emotion shook his body. Mrs. Snyder bowed her head and wept.

Leads to Murder

She took me by the hand, Gray continued. "I had the sashweight and the chloroform. She had the pins and the picture wire. She led me to the door of the room and opened it. She went in first and I followed. I had my glasses off. I struck him once, on the head as far as I could see. I must have struck him a second time, but he rose up and began to struggle with me."

Desperate Struggle

Gray grappled with Snyder, getting on top of him and trying to smother him with bedclothing. He also tried to choke him, now in self-defense more than with murderous intent he felt. He recalled rushing to close a window, so that Snyder's cries would not be heard by neighbors. Mrs. Snyder poured chloroform on the pillow.

Gray was sure the picture wire was first tied about Snyder's wrists. Mrs. Snyder, he said, must have twisted it about Snyder's neck. He didn't see it there, even when he entered the room later and accidentally touched Snyder's hand, feeling the coldness of it. Gray shivered as he uttered the word "cold."

Was Planned for Weeks

The murder, Gray said, had been planned for weeks. It was not clear, even to the last moment, who would do it.
