Local Lions Club To Sponsor Carnival Here June 25-26-27

The local Lions Club will sponsor their second annual Carnival here on next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 25, 26 and 27. The Carnival will be held on the South side of the square as last year. Joe Whitlow is chairman of the event and will be assisted by C. C. Terry and Lanan Bissett.

All booths, shows and rides will be run by members of the Lions Club and the proceeds will go to charity, Mr. Whitlow said.

The carnival this year will be bigger than the one the Lions Club had last year, among the rides will be the Loop-O-Plane, Ferris Wheel, Merry-Mix-Up and the little kiddie cars, there will be a Bingo table, a number of small booths, side-shows, and the well known dip, that most of us remember from last year. The rat race will be held again this year. There will be plenty of entertainment for both old and young and every person in the city and county has a special invitation to attend, and remember the date, Thursday, Friday and Saturday night, June 25, 26 and 27.

Miss Jean James To Attend Camp Of Christian Church

The Lamesa Christian Church is to be represented in North Texas Area youth activities this summer. The annual Young People's Conference, held at Ceta Glen, near Happy, Texas, is set for June 21-27. The Conference will be attended by many North Texas young people, and will be directed by a faculty of selected pastors, Christian lay leaders, and a returned missionary.

The local congregation has released the pastor, Rodney D. Glasscock, for this week that he might represent it on the faculty. He will serve as instructor and director in dramatics.

Miss Jean James, an active Senior in the Lamesa Church, will attend the Conference as a delegate. During past months, Miss James has shown particular ability in connection with youth meetings and as executive on special committees. The Ceta Glen Conference will provide opportunity for development of these abilities and for growth and expression spiritually.

In connection with the morning worship services Sunday, Miss James will be commissioned as delegate. So far as is known, this will be a unique service for the local church.

The delegations plans to leave Lamesa early Sunday afternoon.

J. B. Howell New Field Worker For Public Welfare

Johnny B. Howell arrived last week to take up his duties in Dawson County as Senior Field worker for the State Department of Public Welfare. Mr. Howell, a native of Erath County, Texas, is a graduate of Slaton High School and Texas Technological College, Lubbock. During the past school year he was principal of the Meadow High School.

He was selected for the welfare position through a Merit System examination. Mr. and Mrs. Howell have one child, now nine months old. The family will make their home at N. 4th and Roosevelt St.

Mr. Howell will administer the Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Needy Blind, and Aid to Dependent Children programs in Dawson, Gaines and Borden Counties, succeeding O. W. Gano who has requested sick leave for indefinite period of time.

The assistance programs, being financed through federal and state money, granted aid to the aged, the blind and children under 14 who meet other eligibility requirements of the law. It was explained that the state in order to secure federal matching funds is limited to aiding those persons found to be in necessary circumstances. Mr. Howell's duties will consist of helping applicants in filing applications and assembling the required proofs of eligibility, appraising degree of need in each individual situation, and making a record of all such evidence to be reviewed by the area welfare supervisor.

Mr. Howell's territory will consist of Dawson, Gaines and Borden Counties. He will be in his office at Lamesa 1st and 3rd Thursday of each month; Seminole, 1st Monday of each month and applications from Borden County are taken by appointment.

First Negro Graduation Held June 12

The first formal graduation exercises for the Negro High School in Lamesa were held Friday night, June 12, at the school building. The two pupils who were certified for graduation by Principal Jesse Sterling are Queen Esther Canady and Irene Lee Canady. The principal address for this occasion was delivered by Secretary of the Lamesa School Board, E. W. Renner.

Seven pupils were promoted from the elementary school to first year high school. These were: Kathryn Henry, Jessie Mae Henry, Agnes McKane, Minnie Lee McKane, Richard Roberson, Coletia Simms and Precious Marie Johnson.

Jesse S. Sterling and Mrs. Florence Woods are the teachers for the Negro School. They have accepted contracts for the ensuing year.

Eighty-five pupils were enrolled in that school during the year, 78 of whom were enrolled at the time of the school's closing. The upper elementary and high school grades were suspended for about five weeks during the cotton picking season, and this is the reason for the school closing well along in June. This school at Lamesa serves the

Official Formal Opening To Be Held At Lubbock Flying School Sunday, June 21st

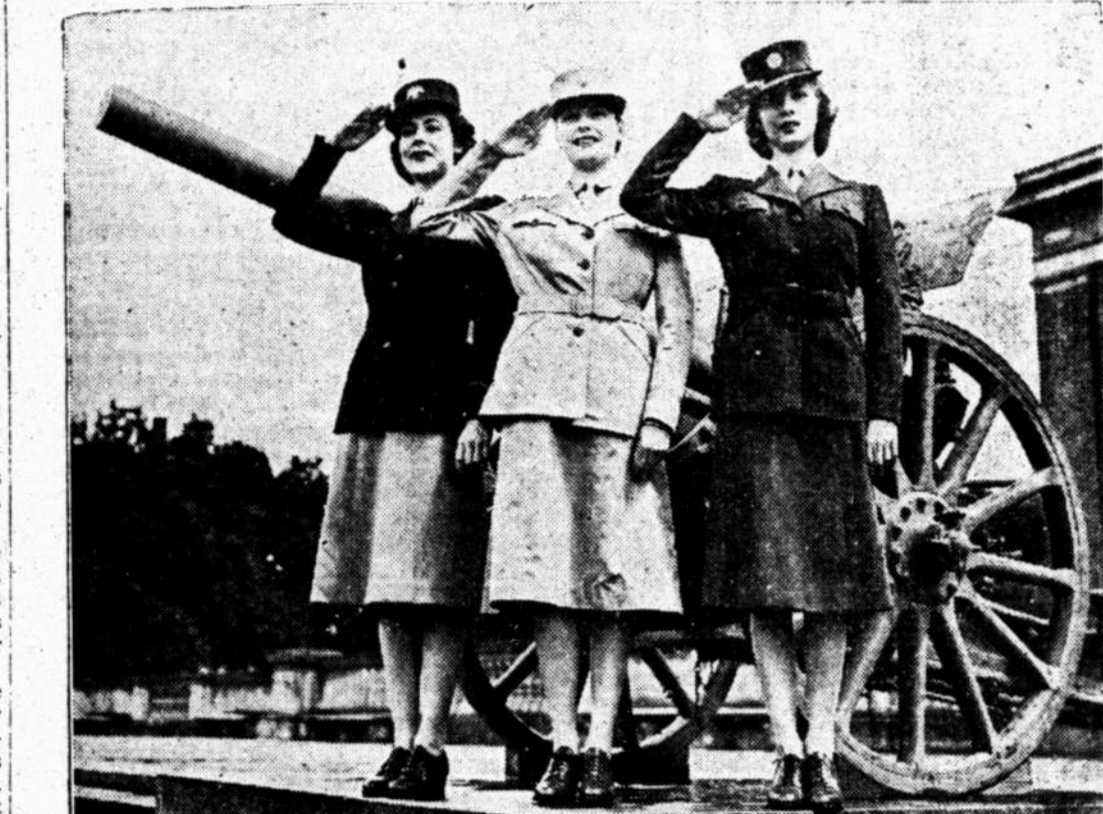

While the dedicatory program is going forward on the ground, the sky above the school will be filled with planes flown by aviation cadets. Take offs, formation flights, landings—all the routine flying activities of the flying cadets—will be presented.

This feature of the dedication will provide very convincing evidence of the powerful potency rapidly being attained by the United States Army Air Corps.

Individuals who have had opportunities to see the equipment and machines at the LAFS in operations such as will be presented to the public June 21 assert that the demonstration will be awe-inspiring and thrilling—in fact, almost unbelievable.

All the people of the South Plains are invited to attend the dedication, according to Colonel Gilbert.

Only Two Weeks Left of USO Drive; Dawson County Short About $700 of Quota

With just two weeks remaining before the deadline in the USO war fund campaign, Dawson County is short approximately $700, according to the county chairman, W. D. Arnett.

The amount contributed up to Thursday morning was approximately $2,375.00. Dawson County's quota is $3,073.40. Many of the counties in Texas have already secured their quotas, and with many going away over their goal.

The USO is not a charitable organization, but the combination of the major national service agencies working to fill the recreational, spiritual, welfare, and social needs of the men in service. These agencies have set up reception rooms, recreational facilities, etc., in hundreds of towns, cities and army camps over the country and overseas to serve armed forces. They also have units to reach soldiers on the move.

Our local boys in the armed forces are praising the work of the USO, and no doubt the organization is doing wonderful things for the boys in the service. All local people are urged to make some kind of contribution to this worthy cause, and do so at once.

Harry C. Weiss, state of Texas chairman, has issued a plea for the support to put the USO drive over the top.

Latest reports received at state headquarters show that just over 80 per cent of Texas' $11,000,000 quota has been contributed to the fund which provides off-duty recreation for the men in the armed services. Seventy counties have reached or exceeded their quotas, the chairman said.

"Texans are noted the world over for doing the job well in the army, navy and marines," Mr. Weiss declared. "Every day we read of Texas boys sinking Japanese and German ships. Yet we here at home have not yet reached that perfection in support of these fliers, sailors and ground soldiers. Eighty per cent wouldn't be enough in the Battle of Midway; why should it be enough in the home-front battle for the USO fund?"

The chairman pointed out that the USO drive, which opened May 11, is scheduled to close July 4 along with those in the other states. He called on Texans to take their contributions to headquarters in every town and county to complete the campaign as soon as possible.

All the large contributions that are expected have been made, Mr. Weiss said, so the remaining $25,000 must come in small amounts.

Money collected in the USO campaign goes for direct support of the USO centers and clubs at the service bases and training camps in the United States as well as at the fighting fronts in Australia, Alaska, Hawaii, Ireland, the Middle East and in Asia.

Candidates Not To Make House To House Canvass

All candidates of Dawson County met in the county court room on Wednesday evening and decided that they would not make a house to house canvass, before the election this year.

The meeting was called by County Democratic Chairman, M. Q. Martin. This decision was made by all candidates, except those seeking the office of County Commissioner. This plan was reached because those in attendance felt that to use rubber for such purpose was not in keeping with the times.

It was agreed to permit house to house canvass in Welch, O'Donnell, Lamesa, Ackery, Patricia, Key and Sparenberg. This was allowed so long as the candidate walked from door to door over the town.

No restrictions were placed on County Commissioners since the territory they cover is much smaller than that of the county-wide officers.

Farmers Urged To Look For Flea Hopper

The cotton flea hopper does more damage to potential cotton crops in Dawson County than any cotton insect that we have. This small insect works on either the terminal buds in the very young cotton or on the young forms that make the squares.

Producers should begin to make "counts" for the flea hopper as soon as the young cotton is large enough to start "squaring." Normally this is about the time that our cotton has from eight to twelve true leaves. It is suggested that the farmer select four to six scattered areas in his field.

Postmaster Gives Report Of Mail Delivery On Rural Routes Out Of Lamesa

Owen C. Taylor, local postmaster gives the following report of the rural route inspection made in this county during the month of May. This same report has been mailed to the Post Office Department.

"We wish to make the following report regarding the delivery of mail on the Rural Routes out of Lamesa, Texas.

Most of the boxes are in good shape, some of them are not fit to use and to be sure they are dangerous to put mail in during wet weather, the mail could get wet and it could be real expensive to some of the patrons, we are recommending that they each repair their box or get a new one.

The posts on some of them are too high and some too low, we are recommending that this be remedied at an early date.

The roads are in fair shape. Some of them are not so good, in a lot of places the farmers are plowing out into the roads and leaving them in an awful condition when it is wet, in some of these cases we think possibly it will be necessary to change the route in order to miss this kind of thing. The people promote.

How Doolittle Got His Start

Wide World Features
SALEM, Ore. — Leadership of the American bombing squadron that dropped the first bombs on Japan came to Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle as easily as a political speech to a congressman.

Heading up that raid was what you would expect from a fellow who was a pilot on important solo missions as a little shaver of four—and made of the stuff heroes are sewn from.

Piloting was old stuff to Jimmy Doolittle long before he dreamed of his first pair of long pants and for him it was only a hop, skip and jump from dog-drawn wagon to Uncle Sam's fighting planes.

MOTHER'S HELPER
Little Jimmy became a dog-wagon pilot around the turn of the century in Alaska and no one, except his widowed mother, knew any better how important were his missions than Mr. and Mrs. Levi Balmer, who now live here. The Balmers told of this chapter in General Doolittle's life.

They were in Nome during the gold rush when Mrs. Doolittle ran the Little Gem laundry and Jimmy braved the Arctic blasts, toting the laundry in his wagon.

It was all the young widow could do to wash and iron, and the rest was up to Jimmy—especially collecting on delivery.

Saloonkeepers and gamblers, usually considered as notorious, if not dangerous, characters of the Alaska gold boom days, gave Jimmy no more passes than the Japanese air defenses do today.

HE COLLECTED, TOO
Gamblers and Saloon proprietors were among Mrs. Doolittle's best customers. The Balmers recalled, and little Jimmy would large right in, let them pick out their packages and hold out his hand until they crossed his palm with gold dust.

Between deliveries Jimmy often accompanied Mrs. Balmer, who was an inveterate amateur photographer. One day they saw a flock of birds in flight, she said, and Jimmy looked up and remarked earnestly:

"I could fly like that—except I wouldn't know what to do with my legs."

That was something Uncle Sam taught him to do in flight—and well.

Live Calf Shows How To Save Milk For Defense

The Jersey heifer calf at Firestone's Feed Store, is now nearly four months old. At four months of age, she will have saved Firestone about 130 gallons of much needed milk.

Ordinarily, calves require about 150 gallons of milk. This particular calf, however has had only 20 gallons of milk. The first month she received milk, Purina Calf Startena, salt and water. Since the first month she has had no milk at all.

The Firestone Feed and Poultry "core raised calf" was taken from its mother when four days old, and taught to drink milk from a bucket. Dry Calf Startena, block salt, hay and water were placed where the calf could get them at all times. At the end of the first month, the calf was brought into the store, and the milk was discontinued entirely.

We were interested in the fact that the dry Calf Startena fed to this calf was cheaper than the milk it replaced. Each bag replaced about 4 cans of milk, or approximately 350 pounds. At ($2.00 cwt., the

Navy Beats The Army

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The Navy is (and has been for some time) stealing a march on the Army.

For the purposes of clarification, I'm going to tell the story of a young lad I know, because it explains how the Navy is doing it. This chap is a statistician with a master's degree from Harvard. His selective service rating is 3-A. He's married. His present job isn't one of the best from a remunerative standpoint. He's patriotic, he decided to enlist, but felt his training would merit a commission, especially since all the armed forces are screaming for men with special ability.

His first choice was the Army. He put in an application through the adjutant general's office. After a couple of weeks, he inquired what had happened. Nothing, they said, and probably nothing would for some months to come. His second choice was the Army air corps. Desk specialists, he was told, had to be over 30 years old. There wasn't a chance for him for years yet.

In sheer desperation, he applied to the Navy. Forty-eight hours after he applied, he was taking the physical. He passed it and a few days after that was notified that he could have his commission any time he wanted it.

Why?

In his specific field, this young man is topnotch officer material. Why did the Army turn him down and the Navy snap him up? The question is being asked by thousands. I personally know of four other young men who are in the same boat.

The answer really isn't so complicated. The Army draws its millions from Selective Service. The Navy (although it now has the as yet unexercised privilege of calling upon Selective Service for required personnel) is still the voluntary enlistment branch of the armed forces.

On a basis of percentages, the Army so far has been able to get most of its office and paper work specialists from the men called up through the regular channels of Selective Service. Furthermore, all enlistments of draft registrants in the Army have to clear through Selective Service. Why? Because the whole theory of Selective Service is that the local draft boards, operating under instructions from national Selective Service, are the best judges of whether a man should go into the armed forces or stay on the civilian battle-front.

The Navy, not (until recently at least) having anything to do with Selective Service, is only interested in supplying its needs.

The result is that (physical fitness and a few other things aside) it's easier to get into the Navy

Vegetables For Hot Weather Should Be Planted

Sharpen the hoe and plant some hot weather vegetables to come along after the spring garden has burned up or gone to seed. J. F. Rosborough, horticulturist of the A. and M. College Extension Service, advises home gardeners.

Summer leaf lettuce of the Grand Rapids variety will produce young, tender leaves in three or four weeks, he says. Other vegetables which should be planted at this time for late crop of the best quality are endive, green mustard and squash. If a larger assortment of summer time eating is desired, plant butter beans,okra, green pepper, eggplant, cream peas and cantaloupes along with them.

If certain spring plantings are not to be repeated, use those spaces for planting hot weather vegetables. For example, English peas may be followed with cream peas, and after white potatoes are dug, use that ground for cream peas, also while the soil is well worked up. If plants of green pepper and eggplant are available, use them and thereby hasten production three or four weeks.

Cantaloupes for breakfast, the horticulturist says, has the same place in the diet as tomatoes or oranges, or other fruit juices. The Perfecto variety, which has a tender, highly flavored, salmon colored flesh, is recommended.

Rosborough reminds that it is good garden practice to give plants which grow into the summer months an extra meal of plant food. For tomato plants apply a half teacup of fertilizer, like 6-12-6, in a circle 12 or 18 inches away from the plant and mix into the soil about six inches with a hoe.

Watering the more tender vegetables such as lettuce, mustard and etc., during hot weather will hasten growth and improve quality.

The Spot To Explode—If He Dared

Wide World Features
DENVER — A Denver golfer tells this story and swears it's NO figment of 19th hole imagination.

Two local club members, whom we'll call Mr. Wood and Mr. Iron, shoot about the same sort of golf but each believed he was better than the other. Friends finally coaxed them into a match.

Coming up to the 18th they were all even. Mr. Wood drilled a beauty 225 yards down the middle. Mr. Iron, apparently shaken, hooked into deep rough.

The rubber situation what it is, everybody pitched in to look for Mr. Iron's ball, including Mr. Wood and his caddy. A few minutes later Mr. Wood returned to his ball and smacked his iron second within four inches of the cup for a sure birdie.

As he stood near the green, Mr. Iron out in the spinach swung hard and out flew the ball. It landed on the green, bounced twice and plopped into the hole.

The question is: What would you do if you were Mr. Wood and you had Mr. Iron's ball in your pocket?

DIDN'T EVEN ASK FOR A DATE?
BEC, W. Va., (AP) — Greater trust hath no man than that he lend his spare tire to a stranger in distress.

Fire women were en route to classes at Concord College when a tire blew out. They had no spare and no tools. Before long a man stopped and asked if he could help? He lent them his jack and his spare tire, told them he was W. S. Bennett of Bluefield, and asked that they leave his tire in Princeton at a certain garage. He didn't even ask their names.

As he drove off, one of the girls sighed, "Whatta man."

Follow These Rules:

Roast meat at low temperature in your Gas oven and reduce shrinkage.

Remember that the flexible Gas flame can be regulated to any degree of heat you need, eliminating scorching and overcooking of food.

Use any remaining vegetable liquids in soups, gravies, sauces, or cold in tomato juice.

Plan one casserole dish a week to use left-overs.

Cook vegetables by the "waterless" method for which your Gas range is especially suited. The flexible Gas flame will give you the exact degree of heat you need.

Bring vegetables to boiling point quickly over full Gas flame, then turn flame low and cook gently.

Salesmanship Topic At Rotary Club Meeting

Swanson Hurt had charge of the program at the meeting of the Rotary Club Friday at noon at the Plaza Hotel.

The club enjoyed songs by Miss Anne Hurt, she was accompanied at the piano by Miss Tennie Marie Dyer.

Miss Betty Hurt made an interesting address, using as her subject "Cordial Customer Relations." The text of which follows:

Cordiality to our customers all hinges on the one word "service." Service to our customers may be divided into seven pillars. Using the letters in service, we find seven different words: Satisfaction, Efficiency, Reliability, Value, Interest, Courtesy, and Enthusiasm. We may take each of the words and enlarge on it to give you a better idea of what we mean.

"Satisfaction" may be termed a key to a successful business. We want at all times to have our customers satisfied. We want them to be satisfied that we know what we are selling them, we want them to be satisfied with the article they are buying, that the quality is right, the price is right, the style and make are right. These things go far in giving satisfaction. If there is doubt in a customer's mind as to any one of these things, we have fallen far short of the goal we wish to attain. Although we consider satisfaction the most important of these seven pillars, it cannot be termed self-sustaining, as the other pillars lean on it for the completion of success.

"Efficiency" is our next greatest pillar, and this may apply most particularly to your force. It may be taken apart and given many different meanings by both the sales person and the customer. One phase of efficiency is in saving the time of both the customer and the sales person as time is a valuable thing and consequently, serving the customer in the shortest possible time is an act of consideration. This may be aided both by the sales clerk and customer. A customer should know what he wants and give his description in the shortest possible time. The clerk then, if efficient, will know if he has the article, where to find it, and how to present it to the customer. If a clerk should be out of a certain article, he will know his best possible substitute, and if this can be used by his customer. At times a customer may not know exactly what he wants, and an efficient clerk may aid him in the suggestion of something even better than he had in mind. All these things call for alertness on the part of the clerk.

Our next pillar and no less important is "Reliability." This may reach from the very head of the business to the very lowest. A firm that is not reliable is not one that we can put our confidence in, nor one we want to deal with. Reliability represents business character, and is the foundation of every successful business. A man you cannot trust robs his business before he starts. Our sales clerks who are not reliable, are a detriment to our business. A customer asks, "Is this a new article?" Is this style right for a certain locality, or does this become me?" And a reliable clerk is one to be trusted and one that a customer will call for time and time again.

Next we take "Value." This may be one of the hardest to define, as it covers so much ground. We will find value in so many phases: Value in the article means more for your money. When a customer discovers where he receives his greatest value, there is the place he will do the most buying. The article must have good wearing qualities, it must be appealing to the eye, that gives value. A high price on an article does not give it value.

Interest is our next step. Interest plays an important part in promoting cordial customer relations. Did you ever walk into a store with the notion of buying something and be met with such an indifferent salesman that you finally decided to forget the whole thing? Did you ever have a sales person change the subject and start talking of something else that took your mind off your purchase? You lose your interest automatically when a clerk loses his courtesy. Above all the customer is always right and to be courteous at all times means never arguing with the customer. It is also defined as genuine and habitual politeness. A customer who is met by a clerk with a frown, is whipped down before he starts to buy. A smile should always be present, a pleasant good morning, and how are you? go a long way. Courtesy may be termed as respect as well as politeness. We have some elderly customers and our very tone of voice may spoil our courteousness to them.

Our last pillar of service to the customer is enthusiasm. This can be had as well as the others by letting our job come first, and keeping ourselves on our toes. We cannot be enthusiastic about our work unless we are interested in it. Enthusiasm is appreciated by all customers, because it is a sure indication that they are welcome in the store and that the serving them is a pleasure. A customer can be more interested in buying when he finds an enthusiastic clerk.

Another phase of good business would be good sportsmanship, as told by Ray Giles in the September 1941 Rotarian. He says that at all times be sportsman like, always let your customer decide the amount he wishes to buy. We may define a sportsman as one who is fair and generous, has recourse to nothing illegitimate, is a good loser and a graceful winner. There is a challenge in these words. It is easy to be a good sport at the bridge table or on the golf course, but not so easy in the office or shop. If you can't please your customer, can you send him on to a rival with a smile? Can you give a small paying customer the same cheerful, careful attention as a big buyer? Giles gives us an illustration in this little story: Once horse-trading was probably the least sporting kind of business transaction. No holds were barred, no lies too big. That was why Lorin Deland, a Boston business consultant, and a great believer in business sportsmanship, took a horse-trade as a test case to prove the value of fair play. Deland bet a liverman that he could sell the worse nag in town at a fair price by admitting all its defects. The bet was taken and the horseman brought out an animal that was all bones, Roman nose, and a wicked eye. When Deland hitched the horse to a carriage, it veered right and left so violently, that he was nearly thrown out, but when he put on a saddle, the animals long legs and a peculiar gate gave a ride as comfortable as a rocking chair. When the first prospective buyer came along, Deland began: Did you ever see such a bag of bones? In fact his name is bones. Then he explained carefully all the defects. When all this was out of the way, Deland gave the only two arguments that he could offer. Bones wasn't really ugly in spite of his wicked eye, and you could ride him all day without tiring. To the liverman's astonishment the prospect bought the horse then and there for cash. This is but a single incident, and admittedly the sale was made by an exceptional person.

John Wanamaker set out to build on what was then an unheard of basis. Several of his retailing rules were considered both radical and dangerous. They were: sales people must not urge customer to buy; all seconds must be marked plainly as such; and all goods must carry a price tag. The seller must never misrepresent. Selling below cost does not promote cordial relations with customers in the long run. This practice sooner or later creates in the minds of the customer the belief that the merchant made a tremendous profit when selling at the usual price.

If a man's membership in Rotary is known, it is obvious that his dealings with customers will affect their opinions of Rotary. The outcome of the present world struggle may determine whether or not democracy and Rotary are to continue to exist. Good will must prevail between business and its patrons if each community is to present a united economic front in this crisis.

How to Make Your Appliances Run Smoothly and Last Longer*

Your electric fan, and other motor-driven electric appliances, will run more smoothly and last longer if oiled according to the recommendations of the manufacturer. Now that the manufacture of fans has been restricted and many other motor-operated appliances are out of production due to the war, every needed attention should be given them to make 'em last.

A complete cleaning and oiling by a qualified electrician should make your fan operate more quietly and prolong its life. This attention is particularly important after a fan has been idle all winter.

Here's What You Will Have To Do To Get Sugar For Your Summer Canning

Homemakers canning fruit this year will save themselves time and trouble if they do some advance preparation before they apply to their local rationing board for certificates.

"Be prepared to answer these three questions when you go," advises Winifred Jones, specialist in food preservation for the A. and M. Extension Service: How many quarts of fruit did you can last year? How many quarts of fruit do you plan to can this year? How much sugar will you need? Another word of advice is: "Keep a record of the fruit you can with your rationed sugar because your rationing board will ask for it when you apply for more sugar."

shower caps, for soap dishes, drain plugs, rubber sponges and old shower sprays. Even the tiny bulbs from the droppers in the medicine closet are worth reclaiming. The oldest hot-water bottle must not be overlooked, nor the syringes and the ice bags.

Out in the hall closet may be hanging a rubber raincoat no one likes the looks of. With the out-grown or worn-out rubbers and galoshes, it will make a fine show in the scrap pile. From the welter of tennis balls and tennis shoes, the youngsters can salvage many a piece of valuable scrap.

Even the nursery can yield its quota of baby pants, crib pads, bibs, nipples, pacifiers, teething rings and toys; while the bedroom should turn out to be a veritable treasure house of rubber hair curlers, girdles, combs, dress shields, garters, suspenders and run-down rubber heels.

Many a rubber salvage crusader may find that last year's rubber bathing suit doesn't fit so well this year, or that the bathing bag got too dried out in last summer's sun. Into the scrap pile with them, along with the water wings Johnny learned to swim on and the big rubber duck he paddled about the pool!

Not a single corner of the house should escape this essential house-cleaning. Up into attics, down into cellars, through desks, trunks and cupboards the search should extend. Every stubby pencil eraser, every chewed dog toy, every last inch of elastic tape deserves rescuing.

Remember—a hot water bag and a pair of galoshes use as much rubber as a pair of rubber hip boots for the Navy!

Thanking you in advance for your co-operation to the end that we might all get better mail service, if we don't please you tell us, we will try to help you.

Flea Hopper—

Flea hopper counts may be made one of two ways, states B. J. Baskin, County Agent. The first method is by examining the terminal buds of the young cotton stalk. To do this you open the growing tip of the cotton stalk slowly and carefully. Use both hands so that you can pull the small leaves apart. Count the flea hoppers you find in 100 of these terminal buds. Then move to another area in the field and repeat the count.

The second method of making the flea hopper count is by using a net. Make a loop of very stiff wire and attach same to a handle about 2 1/2 feet long. To this loop sew a funnel shaped bag that is about 24 to 30 inches deep. This bag should be made of either blue or black percale so that you can see the small light-colored flea hoppers more easily. You can catch the young flea hoppers by walking slowly down the row, swinging the net over the cotton, back and forth across the row, touching the small cotton stalks lightly. Make 100 swings across the row. Then count the number of flea hoppers in the net.

Then the question is asked, "how will I know whether to poison or not?" The answer is this—if there are 15 to 25 flea hoppers for each 100 terminal buds, or each 100

J. Fred Dahnke Makes Statement

To the Citizens of Dawson County:
In announcing my candidacy for Judge of Dawson County, I do so with full realization of the duties and responsibilities of the office. In my estimation it is one of the most important offices of the county, and carries with it the responsibilities of the most important business and social as well as moral activities affecting each and every citizen of the county.

As to my qualifications, I have attended North Texas State Teachers College, of Denton, for four years, thus receiving my Bachelor's Degree, and since then have done work on my Masters Degree at Hardin-Simmons. My minor in this field of study is government, a prerequisite to law. However, in my opinion, in addition to a literary education, the best qualifications any one could possess is "some good common horse sense."

I am 40 years old and have taught school for 14 years. In 1937 my family and I moved to Lamesa, where we have lived since that time, teaching school at Woody.

May it be known at this time that it is not my intention to make this race upon the demerits of my opponents, but upon my own merits and qualifications.

If, when the time comes, you see fit to elect me your County Judge, you have my assurance of receiving my untiring services devoted to the office as well as social and civic duties.

Being a taxpayer, I can fully appreciate the desire of everyone to have an economical administration of public funds, and I shall attempt to carry out such a plan.

Due to the tire rationing it will be impossible, as much as I would like, to meet and talk with each of you in your home. Since this can't be done, please consider this a solicitation for your vote and influence. If I am elected Judge, I sweeps of the net, then the infestation is high enough to justify dusting with sulfur. If there are over 25 flea hoppers per 100 terminal buds or sweeps of the net you certainly should dust.

Dusting at least every 7 days at the rate of 8 to 15 pounds of dusting sulfur per acre will control the flea hopper. Dusting should continue as long as your flea hopper count stays from 15 to 25 per 100 buds or sweeps of the net. Once you start dusting the counting should continue also, states B. J. Baskin, county agent.

Failure of cotton to set a crop of bolls on the lower limbs of the cotton stalk is a certain indicator that the flea hopper was present when the small squares being set. Start now, or when your cotton has an average of eight leaves, to making a count. The "net method" is easier, faster and just as efficient as the "terminal bud" method.

Dust sulfur will remain on cotton for about 7 days of fair weather, but will be removed by showers or rain, further stated Mr. Baskin. Do not worry about the dew we are having. Go right ahead with the dusting.

There are a few suggestions that the Experiment Stations make regarding the use of dusting machines, states B. J. Baskin. These suggestions are the results of work carried on through the State on farm owned and operated by Texas farmers.

1. Do your dusting when the air is calm or nearly so—if possible.
2. Use a dusting machine large enough to cover crop every 5 days.
3. Use "row-type dusters." Be sure that you have one nozzle over each row.
4. Set nozzles about 5 to 7 inches above tops of stalks, and have nozzles pointed straight down.
5. In case of rain in less than 24 hours after dusting, the dusting should be repeated.

In purchasing dusting equipment be sure to secure a machine that will adequately cover your cotton crop, not one time but several times.

The following types and sizes of machines will handle the stated acreages:
3-row tractor powered duster, 85 to 125 acres.
5-row tractor powered duster, 135 to 150 acres.
6-row tractor powered duster, 145 to 175 acres.

Knowing the acreage that you have to practice control-measures on, and knowing the power capacity of your tractor, it is easy by using the above chart to determine the size dusting machine needed.

Lamesa Wins Sixth Straight

Lamesa's Dodgers were a superb game of clutch hitters last night as they whipped little Ed Rossi, 8 to 1, to sweep the three-game series with Price's Pirates.

The victory ran the Dodgers' winning streak to six straight, while they were pinning the twenty-first consecutive defeat on the luckless Pirates.

Earl Wilshire, Dodger southpaw, and Rossi both lasted the distance but were hit hard and often. The Pirates combed Wilshire for an even dozen safeties, hitting in every inning except the first. But Wilshire and his mates bore down when danger threatened and shut out the visitors in all but the fifth frame, when McClain, Pirate right fielder, scored the only run.

The Dodgers collected 11 hits, most of them when they counted, off Rossi, including doubles by Larupin, Larry Drake and J. L. Haney—the latter running his consecutive game hitting streak to 14. Art Bonnell, Lamesa second baseman, and Preston Elkins, Dodger handy man subbing at third tonight, slammed out triples, Elkins also adding a single to his total to account for four Lamesa runs.

Red Schleuter, Dodger center fielder, got three hits and drove in a marker.

The Dodgers counted four times in the third, adding another tally in the fourth and led the game away in the eighth.

Testifying to their unusual effectiveness in the pinch was the Dodgers' total of only three men left on base.

Club officials announced here today that all financial difficulties have been cleared away and the team is ready to proceed as scheduled. Acting as field manager for the Dodgers last night was veteran Catcher Otto Robertson, filling in for Manager Jodie Tate, who was reported on the sick list with Pete Spafator, third sacker.

Thursday night, Lubbock's Hubbers invade Lamesa to open a three-game stand. The game is to get under way at 8:45 o'clock.

The next meeting will be at Mrs. Noel Cooper's Friday, June 26. All members are urged to attend. We would be very glad to have the young homemakers of the community to come and join the club.

Key H. D. Club Report

The importance of fruit in the diet, was the subject for discussion at the Key Home Demonstration Club which met with Mrs. J. H. Sellers last Friday, June 12. Miss Phenix told the members that a citrus fruit and one other serving of fruit each day are "must" for good nutrition.

The fruit may be fresh, canned, dried, or frozen. Since there are at least nine different fruits that can be grown here we should be able to include some of them in each days diet. Miss Phenix made and served to the members and Mr. Sellers, open face peach pie, grape ice and fruit dressing. All were delicious and simple to make.

Open Face Peach Pie
Pastry: Glaze four peaches, 1 cup peach juice, 2 1/2 tablespoons corn starch (or 3 tablespoons flour), 6 tablespoons sugar. If unsweetened peach juice is used, use 8 tablespoons sugar. Combine corn starch and sugar, add to peach juice and cook until thick. Add 1 tablespoon butter and pour over peaches which have been arranged in an unbaked pie crust. Bake 20 to 30 minutes at 350 to 375 F.

Grape Ice
One quart grape juice, 1-4 cup lemon juice, 1-2 cup orange juice, 1 tablespoon gelatin, 5 tablespoons corn syrup. Put gelatin in 1-4 cup measure with 2 tablespoons cold water. When dissolved fill cup with hot water, add to juice and corn syrup and freeze.
