Students Vote Down Mob Violence

Members of the student legislature of the University of Alabama vote in favor of a resolution denouncing mob violence in Tuscaloosa after several days of violence in protest to the enrollment of a Negro student, Dennis Holt (right wearing glasses) introduced the bill.

ALABAMA U.

'Deadline' Expires For Coed Re-Entry

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—The 48 hours which a Negro coed gave the University of Alabama to readmit her as a student expired without immediate comment from school officials today.

Aurthurine Lucy, excluded "until further notice" for safety reasons after Monday's disturbances, threatened legal action if she were not readmitted.

She has expressed determination to return to the campus even though a school official said a mob was "trying to kill her" Monday. Neither the 26-year-old Birmingham woman nor her attorney had received any communication from the university late last night.

Miss Lucy attended her first classes last Friday after she was enrolled in obedience to a federal court order. Disorders beginning that night flared throughout Monday.

The Board of Trustees said in a statement that Miss Lucy was excluded for her own safety, and that of other students and of the faculty.

It appeared possible that if Miss Lucy brings court action, university officials will contend they acted under broad police powers.

Jeff Bennett, assistant to University President O. C. Carmichael, reported to the governor's office yesterday that members of a mob were screaming, "Let's kill her," and were trying to open the car doors.

The car in which Miss Lucy was being driven across the campus by Bennett and Sarah Healy, dean of women, was spotted by members of the mob. Windows of the car were smashed by rocks, and Bennett narrowly escaped serious injury.

"In my opinion those who were there to kill her weren't students," although students were in the crowd, said Bennett. He wouldn't try to identify the outsiders.

Coed Invited To Enroll At Arizona

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP)—Aurthurine Lucy, Negro student who has been excluded from the University of Alabama, has been invited to enroll at Arizona State College here.

Dr. Lacey Eastburn, president of Arizona State, wrote Miss Lucy's attorney yesterday saying Miss Lucy would be "treated like anyone else" here.

The Flagstaff college has about 100 students, of whom about a dozen are Negroes.

Stevenson Signed For Kefauver Tilt

CONCORD, N. H. (AP)—A politically powerful slate of Adlai Stevenson supporters signed up today to battle Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) in the nation's first presidential primary of 1956.

They filed formal petitions placing a 12-member slate of delegate candidates on New Hampshire's March 13 primary ballot.

In a joint statement they said: "We intend to work hard, to reach out to every man and woman in this state who desires a capable and brilliant leader as the 1956 Democratic candidate for president."

Their action assured an initial test of strength between Kefauver, trying to repeat his 1952 New Hampshire primary victory, and Stevenson, who has rejected the Tennessee challenge for a showdown fight in the preference poll phase of this state's two-pronged March 13 primary.

In one phase of the primary, the voters express preference for a candidate himself. In the other, they choose delegates, either pledged or favorable to a candidate.

The slate backing Stevenson, 1952 Democratic presidential candidate, is running as favorable to him. In that category they do not need his consent, as they would if they were running as pledged candidates.

Kefauver's slate is pledged to him—with his consent. In advance of the formal filing ceremony, William L. Dunfee, Durham, chairman of the New Hampshire Stevenson organization and president of the state's Young Democratic club, said in a statement:

"We have in no way underestimated the strength of Sen. Kefauver in New Hampshire. This is his strongest primary contest. We have felt it important to give the many supporters of Adlai Stevenson a chance to register their support."

Coahoma Boys Win At El Paso

EL PASO (SC)—Wayne Davis, a Coahoma FFA member, showed the grand champion finewool lamb in judging at the Southwest Livestock Show here Wednesday.

The Coahoma lad also picked up first place ribbons in the finewool lightweight and crossbred heavy-weight classes. Davis placed second in the southdown crossbred division.

In addition to Davis' firsts, other Coahoma FFA members won two firsts and a fourth.

Mac Robinson showed the first place crossbred lamb, Darrell Robinson had the first place southdown crossbred, and Jack Burkholder picked up a fourth in the southdown crossbred class.

Joe Tom Draper Appointed Today As Deputy Sheriff

Sheriff Jess Slaughter, who yesterday said he couldn't find a new deputy for the pay offered, today announced appointment of a fifth officer.

Wrecks Send 5 To Hospitals Here Wednesday

Five persons were admitted to local hospitals Wednesday as a result of six automobile mishaps in the city. However, none of the persons was critically injured.

Melvin L. Bryant, 2111 Johnson, received a broken arm Wednesday evening when his car struck a telephone pole at Scurry and Twentieth. He was taken to Malone and Hogan Hospital.

A mishap at Birdwell Lane and Fourth hospitalized four persons. Willis Grover Page, 1513 E. 17th, and Howard Warner Nall, 2000 Rannels, were drivers of the cars involved.

Mr. and Mrs. Page were taken to Malone and Hogan Hospital and Mr. and Mrs. Riley Knightstep, 1609 Owens, passengers in the Page car, were taken to Big Spring Hospital. All four have been released from the hospitals.

A fence and a gas meter were knocked down at the A. V. Peventer residence, 708 NW 5th. The car, which did the damage did not stop. Damage is estimated at about $100.

C. C. Reese, 814 W. 3rd, and William Francis Johnston, 1204 Barnes, were in collision at Johnson and Fifth. George F. Hibner, 117 Mesquite, and John William Cline, 908 Ayford, were in a wreck at State and Fourth.

Edith Barnett Gossett, 411 Edwards, and Forest Weakly Hazlewood, Big Spring, ran together in the 400 block of Main.

Powerful Quake Shakes California

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP)—A powerful earthquake centered south of the border in Mexico rocked Southern California as far north as Los Angeles today, causing widespread but minor damage in two counties.

Water mains burst, windows and plaster cracked, small fires were started and buildings swayed in the border counties—San Diego and Imperial.

No deaths or injuries were reported from this morning's tremor, heaviest along the border in 15 years.

Apartment Fire Claims Three More

BALTIMORE (AP)—Three more victims of a fire which swept a rowhouse apartment died yesterday. They were Mrs. George A. Bausman, 27, and her sons Edward, 3, and Joseph, 2. Another son, John, 4, and Mrs. Bausman's father John D. Green, 55, died a short time after the fire Tuesday.

Surviving are the husband and three other sons, one a 4-month-old infant rescued by a neighbor.

ROADS OPENED

New Storm Looms In Chilly Panhandle

PLAINVIEW (AP)—Snow quit falling before dawn today in the blizzard-troubled Texas Panhandle and Plains but a new storm shaped up for tonight or tomorrow.

Area highways were re-opened today after 40 miles an hour winds whipped old snow into huge drifts yesterday that stalled trains and buses and closed U.S. 66, transcontinental East-West highway.

Only light snow was predicted for the area today but forecasts called for "locally moderate to heavy" snowfall tonight and tomorrow to add to the misery still left from last week's record-breaking snow.

Amarillo schools closed today after an attempt to reopen yesterday produced terrific traffic jams because of streets being only partly open.

The Fort Worth and Denver said it hoped sometime today to free two trains stuck in snow banks at the height of yesterday's storms. The crews stayed with the trains overnight.

Little if any thawing was expected today in the Panhandle. Occasional rain and continued cold was forecast for the rest of the state.

Blowing snow reduced visibility yesterday in the Panhandle-Plains area.

Alternate thawing of last week's 30-inch snow in daytime and refreezing at night made highways dangerously slick. The Highway Patrol advised motorists to stay off the few highways that were still open in the western part of the Panhandle.

Snow fell at Dalhart, Vega, four feet high.

Cotton Farmers Bill Hits Administration Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill drawn to help cotton farmers and textile manufacturers has run into solid administration opposition and the threat of a sectional fight over acreage allocation.

The bill, written by Reps. Dings (D-Ark.) and Abernethy (D-Miss.), has three main proposals: Direct the secretary of agriculture to sell surplus U.S. cotton on the world market at competitive prices, impose quotas on foreign textiles, and establish a national acreage reserve from which to give all domestic growers a minimum acreage of about four acres.

Testifying at a House Agriculture subcommittee hearing—recessed today until Feb. 16—Agriculture Department officials have opposed all three ideas.

Their stand was emphasized yesterday when President Eisenhower resisted his objection to import quotas. Eisenhower said he has always opposed such quotas and doesn't believe in them now. He said it would be a bad way to handle foreign trade.

The possibility of the sectional feud over acreage—an annual battle in recent years between the traditional cotton states of the South and the new growing areas of the West and Southwest—was raised in testimony by Rep. Sisk (D-Calif.).

AF Research Chief Quits In Missile Hassle

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said today a congressional subcommittee he heads "will want to hear the views of Trevor Gardner" on what should be done to spur the Defense Department's missile program.

Gardner announced yesterday he had sent to President Eisenhower his resignation as assistant Air Force secretary for research and development.

Urging "a very highly accelerated program on both" intermediate-range and intercontinental missiles, Gardner said "an honest difference of opinion" had developed between him and his Pentagon superiors.

Of the long-range missile project, aimed at developing ballistic weapons capable of spanning oceans while carrying atomic warheads, Gardner said: "A crash program is badly needed."

As the Pentagon uses the words, a crash program "is one which is achieving its goal in the shortest time, with cost a secondary consideration."

Gardner said he was quitting because of differences about the scope and importance of the project. He said he told Congress last year the Air Force was "short about 200 million dollars" in the money it should have for research.

Gardner declined a direct reply when asked if he thinks Russia is ahead of this country in development of either the 5,000-mile, intercontinental missile or the 1,500-mile missile. But he did say, "I think we need a very highly accelerated program on both these missiles."

Jackson is chairman of a Senate House Atomic Energy subcommittee on weapons which has been conducting a series of closed hearings on this nation's standing in the arms race with Russia.

Jackson remarked he considered it significant that Eisenhower said when asked about the missile program in his news conference yesterday that "in certain fields I am sure we are well ahead of the other side" and "in certain fields I think they are probably ahead of us."

"I believe we may be ahead of the Soviets in defensive missiles," Jackson commented, "but there is grave reason to fear Russia is ahead of us in offensive missiles."

The secretary said the expansion program at Goodfellow was "signaling a major step in our Air Force activities—the conversion of Goodfellow... to a permanent installation. We have planned for two years making Goodfellow into a jet base."

Gov. Shivers and Rep. O. C. Fisher of San Angelo also spoke. The program includes lengthening of runways and building more permanent installations.

Charges Filed In Attack On Girl, 11

DALLAS (AP)—Charges of rape were filed yesterday against Joseph DeAngelo, 20, magazine salesman from Brooklyn, in an admitted attack on a girl, 11, in her Dallas home.

DeAngelo told police he had raped 14 women in 9 states.

Resigns

Trevor Gardner, Air Force research chief, leaves a plane in Washington on his arrival from Miami where he met with Defense Secretary Charles Wilson. Shortly after his arrival at the capital, Gardner announced his resignation because of a difference in opinion about the importance of guided missile research program.

Quarles Calls Resignation 'Heavy Loss'

SAN ANGELO (AP)—The resignation of Trevor Gardner, chief of Air Force research, is a heavy loss to development of the guided missile program, Air Force Secretary Donald Quarles said last night.

Quarles spoke at a dedication of an eight million dollar expansion program at Goodfellow Air Force Base.

He said Gardner is "a tremendously fine fellow and a high value has been placed on his work with the Air Force." He called the research chief "a strong advocate of research and development programs," particularly in guided missiles.

The secretary said the expansion program at Goodfellow was "signaling a major step in our Air Force activities—the conversion of Goodfellow... to a permanent installation. We have planned for two years making Goodfellow into a jet base."

Gov. Shivers and Rep. O. C. Fisher of San Angelo also spoke. The program includes lengthening of runways and building more permanent installations.

Lawyer, Client Burst Into Tears At Divorce Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Both Samuel Glassman, 46, and his attorney broke into tears during the public accountants' divorce trial.

Superior Judge Walter Odemar called a recess until Glassman and Atty. Bernard B. (Bunny) Cohen composed themselves. The attorney later apologized, explaining he was "very close to the case."

When Mrs. Patsy Glassman, 35, attempted to break up her daughter's crush on a junior high school teacher she ended up by falling in love with the teacher herself.

Glassman contends, Glassman says his wife told him the teacher, LeRoy Byers, 32, was "the light of my life."

Blast Shatters School Annex

Firemen examine a shattered corner of a San Antonio grade school building annex which was ripped apart by an early morning blast. Five persons, including two students were injured, none seriously. The explosion occurred 45 minutes before school was to start for the day.

U.S. Will Launch 15 Space Satellites

CINCINNATI (AP) — Informed sources indicated today that the United States has decided to launch up to 15 space satellites during the International Geophysical Year—the 18 months between July 1, 1957, and Dec. 31, 1958.

The sources said orders for 15 first-stage rockets for the three-stage satellites of Project Vanguard have been placed with the General Electric Co. Not all of the rockets can be expected to be successful.

Officials of General Electric, hosts to 150 military leaders and aviation writers at a jet engine plant "open house," declined to comment on the reports.

However, Fred Brown, the company's manager of rocket engine marketing, told an informal news conference that GE's share of the Vanguard program is on schedule and that his company is geared to meet the initial launching date.

Brown exhibited a scale model of a "typical General Electric rocket engine." The model, 31 inches long and 10 inches in diameter, was described as half the size of the real engine. This might indicate that the first stage of the first Vanguard satellite would be a rocket engine some five feet long and 20 inches in diameter.

The Navy, in charge of the inter service project, has awarded the primary Vanguard project to the Glenn L. Martin Co., Baltimore. Martin subcontracted the first stage to General Electric, and the "The Navy, in charge of the inter-Calif. The third-stage contract has not yet been awarded.

The first GE stage consists of a rocket of 27,000 pounds of thrust, with a burning time of 130 to 140 seconds, designed to boost the satellite to an altitude of 30 or 40 miles.

The second stage would carry the basketball-shaped, 22-pound satellite to a height of 130 miles, and the third stage would shoot it beyond 200 miles and send it orbiting around the earth, like a tiny moon, to help global scientific studies.

Shell Pipe Line Crews Are Honored For Safety Record

A cumulative total of more than 44 years of work-days without a disabling injury on the job brought recognition Wednesday night to units of the Big Spring Safety Chapter of the Shell Pipe Line Company.

Also honored were 14 drivers who have accumulated among them 2,704,397 miles during a cumulative total of 174 years, without an accident.

The occasion was the annual dinner and awards meeting of the chapter, held at the Wagon Wheel and attended by about 35 men.

Certificates of merit were presented by A. L. Geer, Colorado City, area superintendent for Shell Pipe Line, to the Forsan maintenance crew, for 1,719 days of accident-free time; Roberts Gathering System crew, 4,532 days; and the Roberts Station crew, 9,895 days. These times add up to 44.4 years.

Certificates went to the following drivers, for years and mileage of accident-free operations:

A. L. Geer, 27 years and 809,419 miles; V. L. Bennett, 20 and 323,280; H. E. Peacock, 20 and 209,251; R. C. Frayser, 17 and 277,881; G. A. Horton, 14 and 257,000; J. L. Jones, 13 and 271,380; E. E. Everett, 13 and 228,392; M.

T. Brown, 12 and 28,100; H. T. Jones, 11 and 139,872; E. L. Martin, 8 and 45,147; G. E. Oglesby, 6 and 27,259; A. J. Smith, 5 and 54,510; L. O. Eagan, 4 and 21,823; L. M. Duffer, 4 and 11,183.

Bennett, Peacock, Martin and Smith were presented with bill-folds in recognition of length of service.

P. E. Witt, chairman of the chapter, presided at the meeting, which featured the showing of a film on safety in sports and outdoor activities.

New officers were elected, including E. L. Martin as chairman to succeed Witt; E. E. Everett as governor, to succeed Jack Jones, and V. L. Bennett as secretary and treasurer to succeed R. J. Knoke.

Mitchell Steer Wins In El Paso

COLORADO CITY — Three Colorado City Future Farmers placed in judging at the El Paso Fat Stock Show Wednesday, and all three animals will be sold at auction in El Paso Friday, according to Bob Post, Colorado City VA instructor.

John Mayse, showing a Hereford bred by Francis Winn of Colorado City, took first place in the heavy-weight milked division. The calf had also showed to first in the Mitchell County 4H and FFA show in January at Colorado City.

Lyndall Carpenter took 5th with a Black Angus calf and Weyman Thurman won 7th place in the El Paso show with a Black Angus.

Why "Good-Time Charlie" Suffers Uneasy Bladder

Such a common thing as urine eating or drinking may be a source of mild, but annoying bladder irritations—making you feel restless, tense, and uncomfortable. Doan's Pills have three outstanding advantages—act in three ways for your speedy return to comfort. 1—They have an easing soothing effect on bladder irritations. 2—A fast pain-relieving action on nagging backache, headache, muscular aches and pains. 3—A wonderfully mild diuretic action thru the kidneys, tending to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes. So, get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. Get Doan's Pills today.

Good Will Trips To Be Revived By C-City Group

COLORADO CITY — Colorado City merchants may revive the custom of good will trips in '56, according to Max Berman, chairman of the Merchant's Trade Committee of the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce.

"We plan for more activity in our trade territory this year," Berman said, "and our plans call for special dinners and participation in community functions."

Berman, owner of one of the town's larger department stores, said that his own business was up 10 per cent last year as compared with 1954 due to oil activity and better crops.

The group will also work on dollar day promotions and Christmas projects and in cooperation with local merchants will determine store closing hours and holiday closing.

Members of the committee are Raymond Fuller, Herbert Gunn, Henry Billberry, Leonard Henderson, Ira Utz, Paul Hunter, Mrs. C. E. VanMeter, Moody Dickerson, Frank Derogibus, and Warren Costin.

Cunningham Rites Held In Fort Worth

Funeral services were held in Fort Worth today for J. E. Cunningham. Mr. Cunningham was killed after he and a companion bailed out of a damaged plane near Fort Worth Monday.

The services were conducted in the Polytechnic Methodist Church this morning at 11. Burial was in Laurel Land.

Mr. Cunningham's body was found about four miles east of Roanoke Wednesday morning after he and Fred Verrips had bailed out of a damaged B36 bomber Monday afternoon. The bomber and eight others in the plane made the trip back to Conover safely.

Formerly of Big Spring, Mr. Cunningham had been a Conair employee for over 14 years.

Salt Lake City Motorists Stuck With Statue

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Every body, it seems—save maybe a few Salt Lake motorists—wants a statue of Brigham Young. But from the looks of things, the motorists are stuck with him.

The statue of the pioneer leader of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Church stands plunk in the middle of a downtown intersection. It's mounted high on a concrete pedestal that measures two traffic lanes across at the base.

A recent City Commission move to trim the base brought protests from lovers of the statue and the base is still unscathed. But the protests were nothing compared with the reaction yesterday to a suggestion raised in nearby Provo.

There, publicist Edwin Butterworth of Brigham Young University said BYU would be happy to have the statue.

"Salt Lake City has a nice pioneer monument now—out of the way of traffic," he said, referring to "This is the Place" monument in the city's eastern foothills.

He said the statue "would be a fitting centerpiece for the BYU quadrangle and a much more suitable representation of the founder of BYU than the small plaster cast now in the Maceo Building—the only place of art students here have to remind them of the high ideals and virtues of the school's founder."

A Provo attorney who heads the local Sons of Utah Pioneer chapter promptly backed Butterworth. "It would kill two birds with one stone," said J. Rulon Morgan. "Remove a traffic hazard for Salt Lake City and give students here a daily reminder of the great church leader."

But reaction to Butterworth's suggestion was somewhat less favorable in Salt Lake City.

"The statue has been moved all the times I think it should be moved," said Gordon C. Young, president of the Brigham Young Family Assn.

Murder Suspect's Brother Charged

PLAINVIEW (AP)—The brother of C. M. Phares, in jail charged with murdering his wife, was charged with perjury yesterday.

Jack Phares, 24, had a lawyer coming to Plainview from Lubbock today seeking a release in a habeas corpus hearing.

Mrs. C. M. Phares, 21, has been missing since May 4, 1955, when she left her farm home near Hale Center. Police say Jack Phares was at the home the night she disappeared although he testified he went to a movie that night.

Officers made an unsuccessful search for Phares' body in the sand hills area near Hale Center two weeks ago.

Some of the ranges may have to be reseeded in order to get a good turf back, says Loy Acuff, Big Spring herdsman.

Acuff's place lies just north of Highway 80 and a few miles west of Big Spring. He has been in a dry area for several years now.

Last summer he got enough rain to bring grass up from seed twice, but both times the weather turned hot and dry and the tiny seedlings died.

He is feeding his pasture cattle cake and grain sorghum bunnies. The crop on the cultivated fields was short, but he did make quite a lot of feed for the cattle.

Acuff says this is not the only dry area. He made a recent trip to Fort Worth and said the country was dry all the way between here and there. Stockmen and farmers from all over the western part of the state are in need of moisture.

Ted Fields, farming in the Elbow community, is all set to start irrigating. He finally got his big arthen reservoir to hold water.

He had intended to pump water from three small wells into the tank, then pick it up with another pump and send it through a sprinkler system.

At first the tank held water like a rusted-out tub. Driller's mud was daubed on top of the sandy bottom but didn't help much. Finally he began hauling native red clay and stopped the seepage altogether.

J. T. Langley has bought the 320-acre farm belonging to R. C. Reed which is located a few miles southwest of Elbow. Langley will remain on the farm he now occupies a short distance from the Reed place, but intends to work both farms the coming year.

In buying the Reed place he got a 60-acre patch of blue panic grass that is already putting out green stems. He intends to put cattle on it by the middle of March when grazing becomes better. He also intends to sow about 40 acres more of the grass when conditions are right.

Mr. Reed was one of the first men in West Texas to plant blue panic grass. He got a few seed from South Texas and started his field from that. The acreage was increased over a period of several years until he had several fields covered with it. One year he harvested over 100 pounds of seed to the acre and sold most of it for a dollar a pound.

N. M. Smith, ranching in northeastern Howard County, has little grass but plenty of homegrown feed. He is feeding cottonseed cake, hegarli bunnies and silage to about 50 head of cattle. He puts a little cake with the silage and feeds it every other day.

He says there is practically no moisture at all in that area except where the snow drifted. This may revive good crop of fillies that came up in the pasture after the October rains.

Crops were generally good in that area. He made a third of a bale of cotton to the acre and a big feed crop. About 100 tons of it went into trench silos and he put

The caged hens of Howard County will likely increase to 50,000 within the next two years. Jay Cunningham, local feed and egg dealer, says several people plan to build houses and put in the cages.

He thinks the houses can be financed through the FHA and that part of the cost of chicks and cages will be loaned by the banks.

"I think our big mistakes are behind us," Cunningham said. "With 50,000 hens we could establish a steady, year-around market right in this area. Our producers have been making money with eggs the last several months. One man cleared over $3 per hen this last year."

Cunningham says they have never had an egg surplus except the first few months after the poultrymen started. For the last year they couldn't get enough eggs to satisfy the demand.

Many of us are concerned about small farmers being driven from their land by farm mechanization and low prices. But there is another group, unaided by publicity or subsidies, who have gone broke three times faster than farmers.

These are the owners of small businesses. From 1950 to 1955 the annual loss of farmers was 50 out of every 1,000, yet 157 out of every 1,000 businesses changed hands or were closed, mostly because of losing money.

I know several country storekeepers who have their backs to the wall. One old gentleman had a profitable place for many years, then the re-routing of a road and a change in the buying habits of farmers sent his profits down to zero.

At one time farmers gathered here to swap talk, and their wives looked forward to a trip to the store as the break in a lonely day. They bought their groceries and gasoline from him, saving a long trip to town. When they had no money, he gave them credit until cotton picking time.

Once he was an important man in the community, back in the days when his place was good. Now his place is half empty and kind of shabby, and farmers whiz by on the way to town without stopping. They don't remember the long months when they could get credit nowhere else, or the many times he opened up his store at night or on Sunday to accommodate them with a four-bit purchase.

No one seems to worry much about what will happen to the old man. There is no one to help him, and now with his health breaking, the dreams of an easy and comfortable retirement have gone like the mists of morning. Businessmen of his caliber don't get subsidies, and he will be lucky if the state does him out a meagre old age pension.

Farmers do have it tough, but they are not the only ones. A lot of small business men and wage earners in town also face a future that is uncertain.

Sen. George Heads Money Offer Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) said today a special inquiry committee he heads will try to find out the source of a $2,500 campaign contribution offered to Sen. Francis Case (R-SD).

The committee opens hearings tomorrow, under instructions from the Senate to investigate "the circumstances involving an alleged improper attempt through political contributions to influence the case" of Case on the natural gas bill passed Monday.

The inquiry centers around the $2,500 in $100 bills given to a friend of Case's by John M. Neff, an attorney from Lexington Neb. Case has said he thinks the donation was intended to influence him to vote for the gas bill. He directs that the money be returned, and voted against the bill.

Neff has acknowledged an interest in passage of the gas bill, but insisted there were "no strings attached" to the campaign donation. He has declined to name the source of the $2,500, saying a confidential relationship with a client is involved.

"Where the money came from will be a matter of pertinent interest," George said in an interview.

George said Neff's attorney Ivan D. Evans of Broken Bow, Neb., will be permitted to cross-examine other witnesses if he chooses.

Same Factors May Cause Ike To Run Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—On a June day in 1952, Dwight D. Eisenhower sat in his compartment on a train crossing the Kansas wheat fields, chatting with reporters.

The day before, in his home town of Abilene, he had started his drive for the Republican presidential nomination. Now, as he talked, he underlined the reasons that had impelled him to enter the race, after having said so often he never would get into politics.

1. He was worried about the situation. "This is a terrifically serious time."

2. GOP leaders had convinced him that he might be able to unify diverse elements in the nation and the party.

Today, top Republicans tell you these same two considerations will figure heavily in the President's deliberations on a second term.

When the Citizens for Eisenhower organization was reactivated recently, the letter of announcement cited "present world conditions" as being likely to induce the President to run again.

One of the three signers of this letter was Gen. Lucius D. Clay, Eisenhower's friend and former Army colleague. Clay said, in listing what he considers other major factors: "The objectives of his program have not yet been fully achieved. He knows it may take another four years."

Republicans describe Eisenhower's leadership in the party as the "cement" that holds together its differing elements. They say he knows this too.

These are points that might incline Eisenhower toward running for a second term. But his frank expression of apprehension about the effect on his office of some "unwanted" event may be pulling him in the opposite direction.

"It is a very critical thing to change governments in this country at a time that is unexpected," Eisenhower said recently. "He thought it was 'a rather startling thing' that there was 'even some disturbances in the stock market at the time I got sick.'"

On the Monday after his heart attack, the New York Stock Exchange experienced the greatest single day's decline since Oct. 28, 1929. Exchanges in London, Paris, Amsterdam and Toronto also fell sharply.

By Dec. 5, the market had regained the levels held before his illness.

Still another potential factor may pivot around the question: "How does the President like his job now?"

People close to him say he likes it a lot, and that he was just beginning to enjoy it to the full when his illness struck him down. One of them traced the course this way:

"It's a fact that there were times during the first year or so when he was pretty discouraged and even unhappy. He felt he wasn't getting a grip on things as rapidly as he expected."

"I suppose you would say the low point came during that time when (former Secretary of the Army) Stevens and (Sen.) Joe McCarthy (R-Wis.)

But then he began to settle into harness and I had the impression at Denver in September that he was getting a great kick out of his work."

Not long ago, the President said, "I have to guess as to the next five years, and the problem is what will be the effect on the presidency, not on me."

The remark was particularly interesting to the military circles in Washington. A professional soldier said:

"You have to remember that ever since he was in West Point, he has been accustomed to the thought that he might get killed in the line of duty. He's been trained not to take that into account. And I don't think he will now."

Out of Army parlance came that expression "the calculated risk." Is the President calculating the biggest risk of all?

Dancers Marge and Gower Champion, popular motion picture and night club team, pass on their thoughts about grooming in an exclusive interview with Lydia Lane.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Marge Makes A Point Of Being Neat, Clean

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — One of the best dancing teams in this country today is the talented young couple, Marge and Gower Champion. They divide their time between making musicals in Hollywood and touring the country with their night club act.
In Marge's dressing room, following their very successful opening recently at the Coconut Grove, the young dancing artist told me, "You've got to love your work or it would be sheer torture. Gower and I are perfectionists so we go over and over a bit until sometimes I ache. But," she confided, "I have learned a wonderful lesson in relaxation from my father, Ernest Belcher, who has taught dancing in Hollywood for years. He is over seventy years of age but looks amazingly young. He has kept his body so supple that he can, even now, lift his leg right up to his head in demonstrating a point to one of his pupils."
"I've seen him teach from nine in the morning until nine in the evening, but every day after lunch he has a siesta for one hour. He will not be disturbed for anything and during this nap he rests mentally as well as physically."
"You simply can't lie down and worry about something and expect to get up feeling rested," Marge told me. "It's the inner relaxation that is equally as important as a still body."
I was impressed by Marge's fresh appearance after her strenuous performance a few minutes earlier and asked her how she did it.
"I have a fetish about being well-groomed," she replied. "I can't stand not to be fresh, neat and clean. When I don't feel that

Music Study Club Plans Guest Tea

At a meeting of the Music Study Club Wednesday afternoon, members made plans for a Texas Day Tea. The place and the date are to be announced later.
Mrs. T. A. Mitchell of Fort Worth, chairman of the Texas Composers' Guild, will be presented in a program of Texas music and composers.
The club met Wednesday in the home of Roberta Gay for a study of the music of France. Mrs. Robert Mason was the leader.
Edith Gay sang a folksong of France, "Bon Voyage." "Air For Two Viols" by Couperin was played by Mrs. J. E. Hardesty and Mrs. Bobby Robbins.
Mrs. Harrold Jones and Mrs. Bill Bonner played a duet, "Forest Dance," by Delibes. Other selections were "The Swan," by Saint Saens, played by Mrs. Hardesty; Chaminade's "Pierette," played by Mrs. Fred Beckham; "Après De Reve" by Faure, which Mrs. Harold Talbot gave, and "Prelude in A Minor," by Debussy, played by Elsie Willis.
Joyce Howard sang "Depuis Le Jour" by Charpentier.

Two Officers Are Elected By BPODoes

Mrs. R. L. Heith was elected junior controller, and Mrs. Glenn Gale became a three-year trustee Wednesday evening at a meeting of the BPODoes. The group met at the Elks Lodge.
Mrs. C. W. Piper was initiated into membership. A Founders' Day coffee was planned for Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. All Elks and their wives and all Does are invited to attend the affair, which will be held in the lodge rooms.
An invitation was read to the open house to be given by the Midland Elks Lodge in their new home, Feb. 18. There will be a dance that evening.
Announcement was made of the North Texas State Area meeting planned for March 13-14 in Midland. The local group will exemplify "Memorial Service" and "Elks' Week" in the drills. All members who can participate are asked to call Mrs. Joe Clark at 4-4882, or Mrs. Bill Ragdale at 4-2075. The fee is 50 cents for the convention.
Eighteen were present for the meeting Wednesday.

Miss Pace Gives Program For Club

A program on "Backgrounds for Kitchens" was given by Elizabeth Pace, County Home Demonstration agent, for the 10 members Tuesday afternoon of the Fairview Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. J. F. Skalky presided at the meeting in the home of Mrs. Jim Smith.
"Choose the color for your floor, wall or even curtains in the kitchen, and then work a color combination from there," the agent said.
The devotion was given by the hostess, Mrs. Smith. The text was taken from Luke 13. Roll call was answered with "Women in the News."

Elizabeth Yank To Speak Friday For Classroom Teachers

All local and area teachers will have an opportunity to hear Elizabeth Yank, president of the Department of Classroom Teacher of the National Education Association, Friday at 7 p.m. at the Settles Hotel.
Fee for the meeting is $2, and tickets may be bought from the representative of classroom teachers in each school.
Miss Yank has been an elementary teacher in Marysville, Calif., and has done graduate work at San Francisco State College and the University of California. She has served as president of the Teachers' Association in California; she is a member of the League of Women Voters, of Delta Kappa Gamma and a life member of the NEA.
The speaker has selected as her theme for the year "Public Education—Our Democratic Heritage."

Fourth Grade Gives Park Hill Program

"A Colonial Fantasy" was presented by pupils of the fourth grade at Park Hill Tuesday evening for the P.T.A. The program, in honor of George Washington's birthday, was under the direction of Mrs. Loyal V. Norman. This grade won the room count.
During the business meeting, the group voted to buy furniture for the teachers' lounge or have the old furniture redone. A committee was appointed to investigate the possibilities and make the arrangements.
The association will buy athletic jackets for the boys' teams. A nominating committee was appointed, composed of Mrs. J. R. Hatch, Mrs. Bill French and Mrs. Roscoe Cowper.
Announcement was made of the Founders' Day Tea to be held at the high school cafeteria at 4 p.m. Feb. 17.

Pythian Initiation

Mrs. Ronald Jones was initiated by the Pythian Sisters Monday evening at Castle Hall. Hostesses were Mrs. Hugo Campbell and Mrs. J. H. Webb. The next meeting was announced for Feb. 20. Twenty-seven were present Monday evening.

Medical Auxiliary Honors State President, Officers At Luncheon

"A woman's first outside interest should be in the line of her husband's work," members of the Permian Basin Medical Auxiliary were told Wednesday by Mrs. Joseph McCracken of Dallas, state auxiliary president.
The group met for a luncheon in the Colonial Room of the Howard House, with two other honored guests, Mrs. James Rainer of Odessa, council woman of the second district, and Mrs. Harold Lindley of Pecos, state vice president.
Using the auxiliary theme of the year, "Public Information and Service," Mrs. McCracken discussed ways in which the organization is able to serve their friends and the public.
She advised that the group take an interest in the legislative side of affairs and encouraged them to contact their legislators concerning various bills. She warned of socialism's creeping influence.
Stressing the importance of mental health, the speaker complimented the local society on their past work in that field. Recommendations were given as to ways in which they might be of further assistance in that line.
The women were requested to see that a first aid kit and a flashlight are kept in their car, as well as having a well-equipped kit in the home. A plan for getting identification tags for school children was discussed by Mrs. McCracken, who recommended those two measures in the interest of civil defense.
Recruiting of nurses is another way in which auxiliaries may be of assistance, the group was told. Mrs. McCracken said that junior

Child Study Club Hears Dr. Louise Ann Bennett

Dr. Louise Ann Bennett spoke to members of the Child Study Club Wednesday afternoon at their meeting in the home of Mrs. W. D. Yates. Mrs. George Bair was co-hostess.
Dr. Bennett took as her subject, "The Physical Development of the Child Dependent on Modern or Traditional Education."
Members were told that the child should be encouraged to go forward rather than being pushed in his education. His interest should be stimulated through activity and not smothered in too much drill. The speaker told the group that modern education fills the need for this stimulation by furnishing work for children's hands and a necessity for using his mind.
Two new members, Mrs. Bruce Wright and Mrs. Jimmy Ray Smith, were elected. Mrs. Raymond Moore was appointed chairman of the Service Men's Center committee to arrange for cookies to be served at the Center.
Mrs. Charles Sweeney was appointed to the telephone committee to replace Mrs. Bob Mead, who is moving to another town.

S. E. Wrights Honored On Golden Anniversary

Former residents of Big Spring, Mr. and Mrs. Sam E. Wright, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Wednesday night in the home of their daughter, Mrs. A. Z. Gay, 1104 Wood.
The occasion had a three-fold purpose. The party was not only a golden wedding celebration, but a birthday party for their granddaughter, Joyce Wood, who was nine, and an announcement party for another granddaughter, Roberta Sue Gay.
Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Gay are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage May 6 of their daughter, Roberta Sue, to Thad Roscoe Magee, son of Mrs. Dorothy Magee, Savannah, Ga.
A dinner was served for the family and friends. The large loaf cake was decorated with white icing with gold roses and centered with a gold metal wreath with the number 50, in the middle. The cake, flanked by yellow candles, was centered on a table covered with a gold linen cloth. On a table adjacent to this, the white birthday cake with nine yellow candles was placed.
Mr. and Mrs. Wright grew up, met and were married in Goree. They married on Feb. 8, 1906, when both of them were 20 years of age. A home wedding on the ranch of Mrs. Wright's parents was held. Following their marriage, the couple lived there for a while and then moved to Wichita Falls and then just across the Oklahoma border.
"For 23 years I farmed, ran grocery stores, and was in the oil business there," Mr. Wright said.
In 1907, Mr. Wright had his vote in bringing Oklahoma into statehood. They moved to Enid, Okla., for one year.
The next move was to the Rio Grande Valley where the man of the house assisted in the selling of irrigated valley land from 1927-29. In 1934, the Wrights moved to Big Spring, where he was engaged in the oil business.
The year 1943 found the Wrights in Nevada where Mr. Wright worked for the Interior Department of the U.S. government. Located at Boulder City, he worked for the Bureau of Mines. During the midst of the war, he was employed by Reams Manufacturing Company in the construction of rocket shells in Nevada.
Following the war, he helped sell out the site for the Davis Dam on the Colorado River. After this adventure, Mr. Wright retired and settled down in Nevada. Their home is now in Las Vegas.
For the past month, they have been visiting their children. The children include Mrs. Gay, Big Spring; Mrs. J. C. Batt, Odessa; Mrs. Earl Higgins, Harlingen; Mrs. Raynard Hogland, Rochester, N. Y.; Sgt. J. C. Wright, stationed in West Palm Beach, Fla.; Thomas H. Wright, Puente, Calif.; Mrs. S. C. Polson, Chickasha, Okla.

A Bible Thought For Today

There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life: as I was with Moses, so I will be with thee: I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee. (Joshua 1:5)

Editorial The Real Principle At Stake

Control and pricing of natural gas produced wholly within a given state has been removed from the jurisdiction of the Federal Power Commission by a bill passed by the Senate.

The veto was decisive, 53-38. Thirty-one Republicans and 22 Democrats voted for it; 24 Democrats and 14 Republicans voted against final passage. Both Texas senators, Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson and Price Daniel, were on the winning side. Last year, after the House had adopted a similar bill 206 to 203 largely thanks to shrewd maneuvering by Speaker Sam Rayburn, the Senate laid the subject aside when Senator Johnson suffered a heart attack. Proponents felt they would need full strength and an all-out effort in the Senate, so the measure went over to the short session. This strategy has now been justified, for Senator Johnson's personal and official influence undoubtedly contributed to the hefty margin by which the legislation was finally approved. Efforts to amend the bill, thereby sending it back for further House consideration, were beaten down and just to make sure the Senate bill was shelved on the final go-round and the House bill substituted.

When approved by the President, as expected, the smothering hand of federal bureaucracy will be removed from gas production and price controls in the various states and natural gas will enjoy its traditional freedom to compete with other fuels, which had never lost their competitive position.

Dramatized by Sen. Case (R-ND), who contended that he had been offered a $2,500 campaign contribution as a bribe, there have been a lot of wild claims about pressures of the "oil and gas lobby." A lot of columnists and commentators would have you believe that this was a one-way street. They ignore the tremendous heat generated by the Eastern gas utilities and big interstate pipeline companies, the sizeable expenditures by some organized labor groups such as UAW, and other combines trying to defeat the anti-control measure. In all this they seem to ignore the central issue that there was no more sound reason to control the price of gas than of coal, cotton, cattle, etc.

Weird Short-Cut To Suicide

Senator Malone (R-Nev) has a perfectly peachy scheme to avoid any further "foreign entanglements" and thereby establish the impregnable security of the United States in perpetuity. He told about the Malone system of national security in a radio interview Monday night.

First, he would withdraw all U. S. armed forces from overseas and create a mighty defense system based entirely in North America.

This done, he would set up a "Monroe Doctrine" type of declaration under which the U. S. would "destroy the warring capacity" of any nation at home that dared disturb the serenity of a peaceful United States by attacking us.

It would not be necessary to name any "Monroe Doctrine" type as visualized by Malone. If we decided to throw our protection around any foreign nation, we could just go ahead and do it — presumably without that nation's consent.

To cap his imaginative plan, Malone points out that the European nations will be neutral in the next war because "if they got into it they will be destroyed."

Well, if there was any doubt about that, Senator Malone's "Monroe Type" declaration would automatically insure it. A defense system based wholly on the home grounds would insure something else: a 100 per cent concentration of enemy fire on continental U. S.

It would insure an end of U. S. commerce with other nations, without which our economic machinery — and quite a lot of stuff we need to build and maintain our defenses — would rust from disuse.

How long could the U. S. last if it had no friends and allies?

How long could we stand up under the pounding we'd get from an enemy based in our southern hemisphere? How long could any nation, even the most powerful in history, exist as a hermit?

The moment our enemies shut us up on our home grounds, that moment we are sunk. What Senator Malone proposes is to save the enemy the trouble; we would quietly commit suicide of our own volition.

Ike Tackling His Job With A New Zest

WASHINGTON—During the past three and a half weeks President Eisenhower has carried as heavy a work load as at any time since his inauguration. This is the word of those who associate most closely with him in the day-to-day routine of the most-exacting office in the world.

At least one of his close advisers believes he has worked harder since the middle of January than at any time during his three years in the White House. They are careful to draw no conclusions from this, since, as Sherman Adams, assistant to the President, has told several high-ranking visitors, "All I can say is that those of us here do not know what his decision will be."

But the impression being given is that of a man on top of his job and tackling it with zest and even enthusiasm. If his recovery has progressed thus far, then the outsider is left to conclude, there should be no reason why he cannot go on to a second term.

The first weeks of a new year normally put a heavy burden on the President, with the administration program to be rounded out and sent to Capitol Hill. The President's close advisers deeply resent the suggestion that since his heart attack President Eisenhower is merely a part-time chairman of the board, putting his okay on final papers as they pass across his desk. They insist that this is untrue, as the President participates in every stage of the preparation of policy.

The President spent the past weekend at his Gettysburg farm in the kind of quiet relaxation that he enjoys. But on the previous weekend he devoted a full Saturday morning to work in his office. Even before his illness the President's Saturdays were supposed to be kept free for recreation.

As presently planned, the President and Mrs. Eisenhower will leave on February 19 for Thomasville, Georgia, where they will stay with Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. George Humphrey at the Secretary's plantation near there.

This respite will come presumably after the thorough physical examination that is due some time before February 15. It will give the Chief Executive a chance to weigh all the elements that must enter into his decision free from the pressures of the White House. Those around him believe he will not announce any final conclusion until after his stay at Milestone, the Humphreys' plantation.

The question of a full-time President or a part-time President is bound to rise should Eisenhower decide to seek a second term. It is already being raised by former President Truman and others. Truman has said the President must have the strength of six men to do the job. As a candidate for a second term, President Eisenhower would feel compelled to prove that he was capable of doing a full day's work.

Even among Republicans, particularly those who are the extreme right, there are privately expressed doubts about where the center of power actually is in the White House today—whether with the President or with a kind of regency made up of the half-dozen men closest to him. Resentful muttering can be heard among those who feel that another term for Eisenhower would give Sherman Adams a power almost greater than that of the President himself, since he would, in effect, be acting as Chief Executive without having to assume the public responsibility.

But among Republicans, at any rate, these feelings will be suppressed if the President decides on a second term, in the overriding interest of a party victory. Among the businessmen who are President Eisenhower's closest friends are those who believe that a second term is essential if such "socialistic" developments as the Tennessee Valley Authority are to be checked. Eisenhower is in general sympathetic with their viewpoint and he is known to feel that if his "team" were broken up the middle-of-the-road approach, as he has termed it, would be discarded.

That is one of the many powerful compulsions on the President to run again. As the picture is projected by those around him of an executive taking hold of his job with real enthusiasm, it is hard to foresee his retirement to the life of a gentleman farmer. But some time in the coming weeks the President, and also the President alone, must make the decision on which so much turns for America and the world.

Alarming Papers

WICHITA, Kan. (U)—After two recent bank alarms, Wichita's edgy detective force poured out in heavy force when another alarm was set off, this time at the Internal Revenue Service, only two blocks from police headquarters.

Plainclothesmen and uniformed cops galloped in squads to the federal office, found a clerk had inadvertently put a stack of papers on the burglar alarm button.

Question Of Etiquette

James Marlow Senate Not Hot For Gas Bill Probe

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (U)—The Senate has displayed no unusual enthusiasm—in fact, almost none—for the move by Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) to find out if senators got political contributions in the natural gas dispute.

But the performance of the 52-year-old Hennings was unusual. It isn't clear why, with his eyes wide open, he walked into a buzz-saw.

In trying to get his investigation started he chose to lock horns with two of the best political pros in Congress, both Democrats: Senators Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the floor leader, and George of Georgia, the Senate's dean.

In this encounter Hennings came off second best.

For days senators on both sides of the natural gas bill—designed to take direct federal controls off gas producers' prices—complained big corporations were using tremendous pressure to influence their vote.

On one side, they said, were big oil companies which produce gas; on the other, big utility companies whose costs would rise if gas prices went up. Both sides were accused of spending a fortune to get the vote they wanted.

But no one said he had been offered money until Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) reported a stranger interested in his vote had thrown $2,500 into his re-election campaign fund. He said he refused the money.

The stranger later identified himself as John M. Neff, a Nebraska attorney who last year was registered with the State Legislature as an oil company lobbyist. Neff said he had given the money with no strings attached.

As long as the charges about the lobbies had been vague the Senate showed no interest. It couldn't ignore Case's specific statements. This is what happened then:

On Monday, before the Senate passed the bill, Johnson proposed the Senate appoint a special four-man committee to investigate the Case matter, and only that.

Hennings, chairman of a Senate subcommittee on elections, said he'd go along with the idea of an investigation by a special committee but he wanted it to go into the circumstances under which Case wasn't any rush of senators to Hennings' support.

Johnson objected to linking the Case investigation with the kind of broad search Hennings urged. Johnson said "I have no desire to cover up anything" and added he thought the special committee ought to get to work on the Case matter in a hurry.

Johnson was backed up by the Republican leader, Sen. Knowland of California.

On Tuesday the Senate unanimously voted for the special committee. George was named chairman. It had hardly been appointed before Hennings said he wanted Case to appear before his committee at 2 p.m.

This could be interpreted as defiance of the Senate and its leadership. George promptly ordered Case to appear before his committee at 2 p.m. Case chose to go before George's group.

Then George boxed Hennings in by telling Case not to talk to anyone until he appeared again before the special committee tomorrow. Hennings backed down—but not all the way.

Yesterday he said his committee would wait to start a broad investigation until after George's committee had finished up the Case problem. Then, to add to the confusion, Hennings said he would step off his committee before it began its investigation.

Hennings is up for re-election this year and it is customary for a member of the elections subcommittee to step aside if he has a campaign of his own coming up.

Best Atom Survival Kit

NEW YORK (U)—Curbside comments of a pavement Plato: Have you made a do-it-yourself personal survival kit to protect you against the hydrogen bomb?

Probably not. People who live on the edge of a night in time cease to fear the falling dark. So it is with us. We have dwelt so many years now under the pall of potential atomic death that we have become accustomed to its shadow.

It had to be that way. No human being can remain frightened forever; He cannot endure a permanent panic.

So it is we have come to look for the silver lining in the mortal mushroom that first towered in terror over Hiroshima. Today we have fewer nightmares over what atomic power will do to mankind. We prefer to dream what it can do for mankind.

Therefore it comes as a rude shock when an atomic expert suggests it would be a good idea for every American to stock his automobile with a week's supply of groceries and water against the possibility of atomic attack. The expert, Dr. Stafford L. Warren, director of atomic energy projects at the University of California at Los Angeles, revealed he has done so the last two years.

"In addition to canned goods," he said during an interview in Detroit, "I have bottles of water, a can opener, a hatchet, blankets, a pillow, a towel, a 6-by-8-foot sheet of canvas in the trunk."

Only a few days ago another expert told a congressional subcommittee that a single H-bomb could destroy a metropolitan area and contaminate 100,000 square miles with radioactive fallout.

In the face of such utter devastation of what real value are automobiles stocked with groceries? Of what avail are mountain hideaways or concrete caverns in the back yard?

The best survival kit in the troubled atomic age can be carried about easily by anyone in his pocket. It doesn't require a can opener, and it will sustain you longer than a basement full of groceries.

As a matter of fact, it fits readily into the heart, and has for 2,000 years. It is the "Sermon on the Mount."

Around The Rim

Adversity Is Opportunity

Science apparently is turning another stumbling block into one of those "stepping stones."

That's in the use of by-products from atomic reactors.

A few years ago, the "experts" were saying that use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes probably would never become very widespread. The trouble, they pointed out, lay in the radioactive "ash" given off by atomic reactors.

The whole world would become contaminated by radioactivity if a very great number of atomic energy plants were put in operation. The ash, which would have to be removed from the reactors like the ashes from a fireplace, posed what looked like an insurmountable problem. What to do with it was the problem.

Some suggested that it be stored away in underground tanks until the radioactivity died away. Or seal the stuff in big concrete containers and sink them in the stagnant depths of the sea.

It was even proposed that the fission material be fired out into space in rocket ships.

But physicists and other researchers kept plugging away at the problem, and today they apparently have it licked. They propose profitable use of the stuff, rather than futile efforts to throw it away.

For one thing, the radioactive ash can be used in the sterilization of drugs by radiation. This is especially applicable in the manufacture of antibiotics.

At present, many drugs must be produced through processes that are extremely elaborate and expensive, to keep them free of contamination. That's because heat sterilization would destroy their effectiveness. If they can be produced under casual conditions, and then be sterilized radioactively, a lot of time, trouble and money can be saved.

The radioactive waste also can be used to sterilize living tissues, such as pieces of arteries, bone, etc., that are often transplanted from one person to another. Such sterilization might make possible the storage of the tissues over a period of months.

The "hot" ashes can be used in pest control around packing houses, mills and granaries. Use of radiation on some plastics is said to make them more durable, suggesting another use for the reactor by-product.

And industrial chemists have found that the use of radiation on some chemical processes permits them to take place at much lower temperatures than are required in conventional operations. If the reactions can be conducted at the lower temperatures, another big saving in time and money can be achieved.

Of course, other uses can be found for the substance that nobody wanted a few years ago. How fortunate it is that people still have obstacles to overcome.

'Treason'—And Softness With Commies

WASHINGTON—Nobody ever called Harry Truman a "traitor" or "disloyal" and the former President ought to know it. What his faulty memory is striving to recall, rather vaguely, is that his administration was attacked in the 1952 and 1954 campaigns for being "soft on Communism."

That's an issue which, if Mr. Truman wants it so, can readily be revived for public debate, and the facts spread upon the record once more.

For Mr. Truman has never explained why he signed two letters — one on April 30, 1946, and one on April 7, 1947 — praising the late Harry Dexter White whose connection with a Soviet spy ring had been called to his attention on February 4, 1946, by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI.

When Attorney General Brownell disclosed the facts about the Harry Dexter White case in November 1953, he never called Mr. Truman "disloyal," as the Trumanites were quick to charge in an effort to evoke sympathy for their side.

What Mr. Brownell did was to question the judgment and administrative efficiency of the Truman administration in letting Communist stooges slip through their fingers. The most carefully worded statement of the case came not from Vice President Nixon or any other Republican spokesman but from General Eisenhower himself in an address delivered at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, on October 3, 1952.

The prepared text, which uses the word "treason" three times, reads in part as follows:

"I have come to Milwaukee tonight to talk with you about Communism and freedom. These two ideas are as opposed as danger is to safety, as sickness is to health, as weakness to strength, as darkness to light. Great truths can, at times, be startlingly simple. This one is of that kind. It is so simple a truth that it seems almost too obvious, almost stale.

"But let not our memories be too short. Only a few years have passed since many moved among us who argued cunningly against this plain truth. Their speech was persuasive, and their vocabulary clever. Remember? It went like this: 'After all, while we stand for political democracy, they stand for economic democracy. Fundamentally these are but two slightly different roads to the same goal. We both believe in freedom.'

"We must all remember that sophisticated lies. We will never forget it. For it partly poisoned two whole decades of our national life. It insulated itself into our schools, our public forums, some of our news channels, some of our labor unions, and — most terrifyingly — into our government itself.

"What did this penetration into government mean? It meant contamination in some degree of virtually every department, every agency, every bureau, every section of our government. It meant a government by men whose very brains were confused by the opiate of this deception policy that — on one side of the world — weakly bowed before the triumph in China of Communists hailed as 'agrarian reformers.' On the other side of the world this policy condoned the surrender of whole nations to an implacable enemy whose appetite for conquest sharpened with every victory. This penetration meant a domestic policy whose tone was set by men who sneered and scoffed at warnings of the enemy infiltrating our most secret counsels.

"It meant — in its most ugly triumph — treason itself.

"These years have, indeed, been a harrowing time in our history. It has been a time of both honest illusion and dishonest betrayal — both terribly costly. It has been a time that should have taught us, with cold finality, the truth about freedom and communism.

"Most of us, young or old, wise or naive, have learned. An important few have not. They have learned very little — and they admit nothing. They are men about whom there is nothing great except their vanity and their complacency. They are proud prisoners of their own mistakes.

"Who are these men?

"They are those who cheered the blithe dismissal of the Alger Hiss case as a 'red herring.' They are those who applauded two weeks ago when an administration servant grandly declared that Communists in our national life were 'not very important,' and that we should not waste time chasing 'phantoms.' They are those who slapped their sides with laughter when the same man dismissed the quest for Communists in our government as a kind of silly game being played in the Bureau of Wildlife and Fisheries.

"Do you think these fish stories, ghost stories, and animal stories are really very amusing? Such comedy touches do little to relieve the tragic knowledge that we have been for years the guinea pigs of Communist espionage experts. These experts in treason have plundered us of secrets involving our highest diplomatic decisions, our atomic research. Tragically, we do not know how much more our security may have been jeopardized. . .

"You can never cure malignant growth just by a hearty bedside manner! I must be blunt, for this is a serious matter. I speak not as a partisan or as a candidate but simply as an American citizen — moved to honest anger by this persistent, gnawing threat of Communist treason in our national life. I know that millions of both parties today are moved to anger and to action.

"Neither these millions nor I have patience any longer with those whose complacency excuses our government's failures as wholly unavoidable."

Mr. Eisenhower then recalled his own observation of "fifth columns" in Europe. He added that "it is the prerogative of government to set the strictest test upon loyalty" and that it is a "privilege, not a right" to work for the United States government. He declared that the Bill of Rights "contains no grant of privilege for a group of people to join together to destroy the Bill of Rights." He said:

"A group—like the Communist conspiracy—dedicated to the ultimate destruction of all civil liberties cannot be allowed to claim civil liberties as its privileged sanctuary from which to carry on subversion of the government."

It is a great speech and certainly its doctrines should appeal equally today to the rank and file of Democrats as well as Republicans.

Entertainers Bring In Audience

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (U)—"We don't buy entertainers," we buy audiences."

That remark from an old Vegas hand summed up the attitude of the hard-bitten men who book entertainment into the night clubs of Las Vegas' strip. His point: You not only have to fill the club; you have to bring in people who gamble.

He pointed out that one of the great successes in town was Lauritz Melchior, but his draw did hit employers little good — "because after the show the crowds drifted out of the casinos like a sieve." Among others who draw good crowds but little action at the gambling tables: Spike Jones and songbirds like Jeannette MacDonald, Jane Powell, Kathryn Grayson.

Who are the stars who draw the gambling crowd?

Experts more or less agree on these names: Joe E. Lewis, Frankie Laine, Martin and Lewis, Sophie Tucker, Tony Martin, Ray Bolger, Donald O'Connor, Frank Sinatra, Kay Starr, Lena Horne, Jimmy Durante, Betty Hutton and Danny Thomas.

"If there is any common denominator," says Gene Murphy of the Desert Inn, "it is that most of these names come from a barbet background. The well-off people — the ones who gamble — have seen them all over the country and want to see them again."

Why is it necessary to attract the gambling audience? Because the night clubs themselves can never show a profit.

"Aside from the entertainment cost," says Beldon Kattelman, head man of El Rancho Vegas, "food and labor costs are enormous. Nevada grows no produce; it must come from California, Arizona and Utah. It's hard enough to get and keep good restaurant help in a normal town. But when they're exposed to temptations 24 hours a day, it's murder."

Hotel operators have different modes of buying talent. Kattelman favors "100 per cent acts" — tried and true performers like Lewis, Tucker, Martha Kell, etc.

On the other hand, Milton Prell of the Sahara has introduced stars like Marlene Dietrich, Ann Blyth, Mae West, etc., to night clubs and paid them big prices.

"Sure, I can never show a profit in the room, but I charge that off to publicity," he says.

Toy Becomes Arm

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (U)—When two Knoxville men went on trial for robbing a store of $271, using a toy pistol, defense attorneys argued they couldn't be guilty of armed robbery.

They contended "armed robbery" applies only to "deadly weapons." The jury disagreed. The pair was convicted.

Would Dam Ebb

RICHMOND, Va. (U)—Cheslerfield county would like to dam the ebb in water bill payments. Its board of supervisors asked its member of the legislature to offer a bill giving the water system a lien on property superior to all other interests.

Total War

PORTALES, N. M. (U)—After a gang fight, police picked up a fence post, a four-foot length of timber, a case knife, a section of lead pipe and two bottles. The three victims, who required emergency treatment after the battle showed that teeth had also been used — at close range.

Congressman Study Ike Immigration Plea

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's proposals for immigration law changes that could double the number of quota immigrants faced today cautious scrutiny by an election-year Congress. There was reluctance to predict the outcome.

Without waiting to return to Washington from a Far Eastern trip, Rep. Walter (D-Pa.), coauthor of the present immigration law, denounced Eisenhower's recommendations.

Walter is chairman of the Judiciary subcommittee on immigration which will have the first official look at the proposals in the House.

Sen. Watkins of Utah, senior Republican on the Senate Immigration subcommittee, introduced bills to carry out the recommendations, but without flatly endorsing them. He asked for "sincere and fair consideration."

Some members of Congress spoke up for Eisenhower's recommendations; others criticized them on the ground they would not make fundamental changes in the existing McCarran-Walter Act. The major disagreement, as always, was over the national origins quota system. The present law contains a formula based on the 1920 census. It sets quotas for immigrants from a number of countries according to the number of Americans whose families originated in those countries.

Critics say this is an undemocratic principle which favors Protestant northern Europeans. In recent years, many quota numbers have gone unused in such countries as Britain, Germany and Ireland while in others the quotas cut off many who would like to come to this country. Italy and Greece, for example, could use many times their quotas and the Netherlands a substantially enlarged one.

Eisenhower did not propose scrapping the national origins system—although he suggested that Congress study alternatives—but he did propose substantial modifications.

One is a shift from 1920 to 1950 as a base for the total immigration quota. He said this would raise it about 65,000 over the present 154,657.

Another gain would come from a proposal to establish each year regional pools of left-over quotas from the year before. In practice, this would apply principally to Europe. For example, British quota spaces unused in 1956 might be used by Italians in 1957. Special skills and family connections in the United States would be the qualifications.

One more proposal would help especially anti-Communist refugees from Russia and the Russian-absorbed Baltic countries. It would terminate the system of "mortgaging" ahead of time the quotas from such countries because of refugees already admitted.

The cumulative effect of these changes, specialists in immigration law said, would be a much greater increase in actual immigration than the indicated increase in quotas.

Although the total immigration quota is nearly 155,000, only about 98,000 quota immigrants actually entered in the 1955 bookkeeping year. But under the rules Eisenhower recommended probably nearly the entire new 220,000 quota would make the grade.

Reporter, Sheriff Out-Talk Gunman

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—A savvy newspaper reporter and a smooth-talking sheriff prevailed upon Leonard Rollins yesterday to meekly surrender his pistol and end a five-hour reign of terror during which he kidnapped four persons and held 40 officers at bay.

Rollins, 24, a part-time laborer, handed the pistol over to Sheriff Odem Dolan, who, posing as a businessman, offered him a job. The surrender was engineered by Cliff Russell, Corpus Christi Call-er - Times reporter, who volunteered to be Rollins' hostage and then proposed using a police car for a getaway into Mexico.

Armed with the pistol, Rollins confronted Mrs. J. H. Smith, her son John 22, and her daughter Pat, 17, when the returned home for lunch. He bound and blindfolded them and threatened to "slit their throats."

The Smith family said later that Rollins was apparently incensed that they had offered to pay medical bills for Mrs. Rollins, their housekeeper, who is pregnant. Rollins was served with divorce papers Tuesday and apparently believed the Smiths had been responsible for the rift between him and his wife.

On the pleas of Pat, the gunman released Mrs. Smith, then took the son and daughter to his wife's home, where Mrs. Rollins was also made a captive. As the four drove away, a highway patrol car, alerted by Mrs. Smith, gave chase.

Rollins drove the car through the open double door of a barn on a farm about 15 miles north of here. For an hour and a half Rollins held the pistol at the neck of Pat and then John while 40 officers gathered and were forced to stand by helplessly.

Russell finally stepped forward and offered to take John's place. Rollins agreed.

The reporter suggested to Rollins, a Latin American, that two of them and Mrs. Rollins commander a police car and make a getaway into Mexico. Rollins was agreeable. He allowed Sheriff Dolan, a stranger to him, to go along.

When they were in the car, the sheriff told Rollins he was a businessman and offered him a job on a ranch. Rollins asked his wife if she would return to him. She said she would.

Rollins then turned the pistol over to Dolan.

The sheriff put Rollins in jail at nearby Sinton.

Reservation Chief Surprised By Plan To Adopt Children

FORT HALL, Idaho (AP)—Officials expressed surprise when told a woman chiropractor in Pennsylvania intended to adopt seven Indian children now living on this reservation.

Dr. Imogene Barker, 27, Lemont, Pa., said yesterday she planned to head for Idaho soon to pick up the children.

But Supt. F. M. Owl said the first he had ever heard of her plans came from an Associated Press story. He added he knows of no family on the reservation considering putting seven children up for adoption.

Later, Dr. Barker said nationwide publicity of her adoption plan had dashed her hopes. But she added she would try harder than ever despite legal barriers.

She said she was told "I now will not be able to take the children right from the reservation because I have disclosed to their parents in whose care the children will be. That, it seems, is illegal."

Owl said he had found Dr. Barker had been in touch with the Rev. Jack Bennett, who is in charge of the Assembly of God church on the reservation, concerning adopting the children. The pastor said, however, he knew nothing about any plans for the adoption of any specific seven children.

Truman, MacArthur At It Again In Fuss Over General's Ouster

WASHINGTON (AP)—What was the reason behind former President Truman's spectacular firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur in 1951? Truman says it was "open defiance" by MacArthur and that it threatened to bring on an atomic World War III.

MacArthur calls it "vengeful reprisal" because the general sought to unmask a spy ring stealing this country's top-secret military plans. And so the continuing Truman-MacArthur controversy, involving the whole range of Far East strategy, goes into a new round with publication in Life magazine of a new installment of Truman's memoirs and a blistering 5,000-word reply by the five-star general.

MacArthur says Truman's account of the dismissal is "a labyrinth of farce and fiction, distortion and misrepresentation."

Says Truman: MacArthur was a great soldier but he wouldn't obey orders, he was willing to risk all-out war, and so: just as President Lincoln fired Gen. George McClellan in Civil War days, "MacArthur left me no choice—I could no longer tolerate his insubordination." MacArthur's version is that he was fired in a "savage and brutal" manner right after he demanded prosecution of a spy ring which, he said, was getting top-secret military plans sent from the Korean command.

And the general says the real story began coming to light only after British Foreign Office officials Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean disappeared behind the Iron Curtain.

"These men with access to secret files were undoubtedly links in the chain to our enemy in Korea through Peiping by way of Moscow," MacArthur asserts. "I believe my demand that this situation be exposed, coming after the

Long Lines Form On Disaster Claims

GALVESTON (AP)—Persons seeking damages from the government for the 1947 Texas City explosion formed long lines last night to meet the midnight deadline for filing claims.

More than 1,200 claims were recorded before yesterday. More than 500 persons were killed in the explosion aboard a French freighter at Texas City April 17, 1947.

Alger Hiss and Harry Dexter White scandals, caused the deepest resentment and that it probably was branded a political move to embarrass the administration."

While disclaiming any intention to reflect on Truman's loyalty, MacArthur says:

"The obstinacy which dictated the failure of President Truman to recognize the damage that could be done by Red infiltrators and his 'red herring' characterization of all efforts to unmask them are among the astounding features of an astounding epoch."

Truman makes no mention of any such spy ring or any effort by MacArthur to unmask one. He says MacArthur publicly dissented from established policy once too often—in a letter to Rep. Martin (R-Mass.) endorsing the use of Chinese Nationalist troops against the Communists in Korea.

"I have always had, and I have to this day, the greatest respect for Gen. MacArthur as a soldier," Truman says. "I had hoped and I had tried to convince him that the policy he was asked to follow was right. . . . If I allowed him to defy the civil authorities in this manner, I myself would be violating my oath to uphold and defend the Constitution. . . . Gen. MacArthur had to go."

No Violence On N. Carolina Campus

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Three Negro undergraduates have been absorbed in the 6,500-member student body at the University of North Carolina—with no more violent campus reaction than raised eyebrows.

One semester after a federal court order broke the racial barrier at the general college level, not even startled expressions followed Leroy and Ralph Frazier and their friend John Lewis Brandon across the campus of this 161-year-old traditionally white Southern university.

The quiet end to segregation was thrown into sharp relief this week by turmoil at the University of Alabama, where rioting students greeted the admission of a Negro coed.

While Autherine Lucy fled egg-throwing classmates at Tuscaloosa, John Brandon exchanged casual greetings with white boys rooming in the same dormitory with him on this peaceful village campus.

Leroy, 18, and his brother Ralph, 14 months younger, live within a couple of blocks of North Carolina College in Durham, a state-supported institution for Negroes. Brandon, 18, also lives within easy distance.

After high school, they trained their sights instead on the University in Chapel Hill, some 12 miles distant but a world away for Negro undergraduates until that time.

L. B. Frazier Sr. explained why he wanted his sons to go to the white university. "I wanted them to have the best education the state had to offer. I feel too they are entitled to it," he said.

Although the state and the university's Board of Trustees bowed to the Federal District Court order and admitted the three Negro youths, the ending of segregation on the undergraduate level has not been accepted as final.

In an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court in this same case, Atty. Gen. William B. Rodman has asked the court to reverse as erroneous its historic decisions that school segregation is unconstitutional. Lawyers for the three boys have asked the court to dismiss the appeal.

While the legal fight remained unsettled, Brandon and the Frazier brothers went through the usual hectic introduction to college for freshmen.

"I found out," Brandon said smiling, "that it's a lot different from high school."

Their first semester grades at the university were about average, a scattering of C's and B's.

U.S. Promises To Be Careful With Balloons

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States advised Russia today it will "seek to avoid" launching weather balloons which might cross Russian territory. Russia had objected that its boundaries were being violated.

A note delivered by the U. S. Embassy at Moscow to the Soviet Foreign Ministry, nevertheless, appealed to the Soviets to cooperate with the weather survey program by returning balloon-carried instruments which may have come down in Russian territory.

The decision to avoid launching balloons which "might transit the U.S.S.R." was described in the note as a provisional step to avoid misunderstandings. It was made plain that the United States would like to get Russian cooperation in carrying on an unlimited weather balloon program in the future.

The Soviet government complained four days ago that its territory was being violated by U. S. balloons carrying cameras to gain intelligence about the Soviet Union. They also claimed that these lighter than air bags were interfering with airplane traffic and were dropping propaganda.

Now It's Their Turn

TOKYO (AP)—The U. S. Army today confirmed reports that a balloon found in northern Japan last weekend is Russian-made and is being studied by Japanese and American intelligence experts. The balloon—found as Russia and Red China were accusing the United States of launching balloons into their territory—bore Russian markings, including a label which was translated: "Instrument to measure air current."

How About College?

What will it be? College? Marriage? A job? For those of you facing mid-term graduation, your future lies not in a crystal ball, but in the decision you make now. Nothing is wrong with any one of the three alternatives in themselves, yet any one could be all wrong for you.

Marriage is a worthy goal, but is it wise to marry soon? You can always attend college and marry later, but how often can a person marry and then go to college? It has been done, but it's putting the cart before the horse and that's awkward in anybody's language.

Maybe you just aren't college material. Some people aren't, but I'd be mighty sure before turning down an academic education. Maybe you've been promised a good job with an excellent beginning salary. What about ten or fifteen years from now? Where do you plan to be then?

If you aspire to great achievement and if you long for prestige and importance, get to that college campus. Don't let a temporary good job now ground you for life.

Some jobs, just about anybody could perform; others require more skill right on up to the very exacting ones. Naturally those that require the most "know how" pay the most money and bestow the most prestige because it is a selected few who can perform them. College opens the door into many interesting fields and gives you more than actual experience; it teaches you how to think and reason so that you may apply the facts you learn to innumerable different situations.

College used to be a luxury for the elite; today it is almost a necessity for anyone who would keep up with the rapid pace of this fast-moving modern world.

A man needs it if he plans to support a girl in the manner "to which she wants to become accustomed." A girl needs it for career or marriage. Today's woman is not her husband's personal maid, but his companion. She should be able to understand his problems and talk intelligently with his friends and never "hold him back."

"Why can't I get the equivalent of a college education by reading a lot and being alert?" you ask. It can be done, but it is a rare person who has such sticktoitiveness. Those who do frequently study selected items. College assignments often leave the student wondering, "What on earth do I need to know this for?"

It's the years after college when you find yourself talking intelligently to someone whose interests are entirely different from yours that you thank your stars you were made to study something that once seemed useless.

Living without a good education is like walking around with sun glasses on. You can get along, but you miss so much of the shiny part of life.

MEN IN SERVICE

Corporal Donald C. Wren is scheduled to be discharged from the Marine Corps Friday.

Cpl. Wren is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wren of 700 E. 14th. He is to be discharged at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Having been at Camp Pendleton for his two years of active duty, Wren was assigned to the personnel division.

Pfc. R. C. Huddleston, son of Mrs. Lillie Graham, 1006 N. Gregg, is a member of the 1st Infantry Division, stationed at Fort Riley, Kans.

Huddleston is a cook in the service company of the division's 18th Regiment. He has been in service since December of 1954 and has been in Europe with the 1st Division, which returned to the United States last October.

Radioman Marcus D. Hayworth, is scheduled to return to Long Beach, Calif., next Monday aboard the heavy cruiser USS Bremerton which is completing a six-month cruise in the Far East.

Hayworth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus L. Hayworth of 1209 W. Sixth in Big Spring.

During the tour, the Bremerton participated in training operations, including gunnery and day and night exercises with Task Force 77, a unit of the 7th Fleet. Ports of call included Pearl Harbor, Kobe, Yokosuka, and Sasebo, Japan; Buckner Bay, Okinawa; Keelung, Formosa; and Hong Kong and Singapore, BCC.

AF, Airlines In Air Space Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—A dispute between the Air Force and the airlines over air space above the Gulf of Mexico has been carried to the Air Coordinating Committee.

The dispute arose over military notice of plans to extend a warning area on the Gulf coast. The Air Force said it plans to inaugurate this month at Eglin AFB, Fla., new programs involving flights by armed pilotless airplanes and missiles with increased danger to transient airplanes.

The proposed extension of an area over the Gulf which is closed to commercial flights would interfere with certain airline services.

Negro Quits After Integration Stand

FORT GAINES, Ga. (AP)—A young Negro school principal who counseled members of his race to "forget integration" for the time being has resigned and hastily left the community with his family.

In submitting his resignation, Principal Harrison E. Lee of the Speight Negro School said that pressure from Negroes in the community forced his decision. His wife, a teacher at the nearby Bluffton School, resigned also.

RAYMOND BARBEE

SP-3 Raymond D. Barbee will leave Feb. 15 to return to Giesse, Germany, where he is stationed with the Army's Quartermaster Supply Depot.

He has been a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barbee of Sand Springs. The serviceman, who was educated in the Coahoma schools, spends his spare time as an entertainer.

Scheduled to return to the U. S. this month from France after serving with the 57th Field Hospital is Sergeant First Class Vergil A. Odell.

Sgt. Odell's wife, Acea, and mother, Mrs. Annie C. Odell, live in Stanton. He has been overseas since October of 1952 and is a personnel sergeant.

Expected here Monday is T-Sgt Harry Dorman, 410 Park, who has been in England the past 18 months.

Sgt. Dorman is to arrive at Webb AFB Monday for a leave before reporting to Carswell AFB which is his next duty station.

While in England, Sgt. Dorman was serving with the 3917th Supply Squadron. Pvt. Ernest Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Robinson, Rt. 1, recently arrived in Korea and is now a member of the 7th Infantry Division.

Pvt. Robinson is a radio operator in Company D of the 7th, which is the only U. S. Army division that has remained in Korea since the cease-fire. Robinson had been in the Army since January, 1955, and took his basic training at Fort Ord, Calif.

Pvt. Reese M. Gross, 25, of Odessa recently arrived in Korea and is now a member of the 24th Infantry Division.

Private Gross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gross, Odessa, is a cannoneer in the 13th Field Artillery Battalion's Battery C. He entered the Army in August, 1955, and received basic training at Camp Chaffee, Ark.

Gross, whose wife, Shirley, lives at 610 Runnels, Big Spring, is a 1948 graduate of Colorado High School in Colorado City.

Extend Holiday Wishes With Pink-Frosted Cake

A Valentine for your family? Then bake this cake. It has two layers of nut-filled chocolate and it is somewhat like brownies in texture and flavor. Fill and cover the cake with pink peppermint frosting and arrange a pretty heart of tiny pink candies over the top.

Use nonfat dry milk in the cake, sifting it in with the dry ingredients.

If you are serving a Valentine meal to your family, you might start off with Tomato Bouillon. Make the soup with tomato juice, chicken bouillon cubes and such seasonings as minced onion and celery, Worcestershire sauce and basil. Cut heart shapes out of toast, spread them with butter and run them under the broiler a minute or so: float the toast hearts on the soup just before serving.

The main course for your Valentine lunch or supper might be slices of cooked chicken or smoked turkey arranged over stalks of cooked broccoli. Cover them both with a rich cream sauce, sprinkle the top with lots of grated Parmesan cheese and place in the oven until bubbly hot. If the top doesn't brown enough for your taste, run the casserole under the broiler.

Salad? How about romaine and pink grapefruit? For dessert, this Sweetheart Fudge Nut Cake.

If the cake is to be served for an evening supper, you might preface it with chicken salad garnished with hearts cut out of canned jellied cranberry sauce. Or if you prefer to serve sandwiches instead of a salad, cut the bread in heart shapes and use a filling of deviled ham or one of ground bologna mixed with finely diced celery, pickle relish, prepared Bahama-type mustard and mayonnaise.

SWEETHEART FUDGE NUT CAKE

Ingredients: One and 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1-3 cups sugar, 1/2 cup instant nonfat dry milk powder, 1/4 teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon baking soda, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup boiling water, 3 squares (3 ounces) unsweetened chocolate

(cut in small pieces), 6 tablespoons softened butter, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla, 2 eggs, 1/4 cup coarsely chopped walnut meats, Pink Peppermint Frosting.

Method:

Grease bottom of two round layer-cake pans (each 8 inches across and 1 inch deep); line bottoms with waxed paper; grease paper. Sift together flour, sugar, instant nonfat dry milk powder, baking powder, baking soda, and salt. Pour boiling water into mixing bowl; add chocolate and butter; stir until melted. Add sifted dry ingredients, vanilla and eggs. Beat three minutes on electric mixer at medium speed or 450 strokes by hand. Fold in walnut meats. Turn into prepared pans. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean and top springs back when lightly touched with finger—About 35 minutes. When cold spread Pink Peppermint Frosting between layers and over entire outside of cake.

PINK PEPPERMINT FROSTING

Ingredients: Two and 1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, 1-3 cup instant nonfat dry milk powder, dash of salt, 6 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons water, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 2 to 3 drops of red peppermint extract, 3 to 4 drops of red food coloring, 35 red or pink candies (about 1/2 inch each).

Method:

Sift together confectioners' sugar, instant nonfat dry milk powder and salt. Cream butter until fluffy. Gradually blend in 1/2 of the sugar mixture. Stir in a little of the water. Beat in remaining sugar mixture, alternately with the water. Add vanilla, peppermint and coloring. Beat until well blended and of good spreading consistency. Fill layers and frost entire outside of Sweetheart Fudge Nut Cake. Cut a heart pattern 4 1/2 inches wide by 4 1/2 inches long out of waxed paper. Place heart lightly on top center of cake. Insert candies on edge around the heart pattern; remove pattern.

Valentine For Entire Family--Cherry Cake

Put your heart into a special cake creation for your Feb. 14th party. If you have no party plans, this colorful Cherry Valentine Cake will be a delightful surprise for the family, especially when they discover it is homemade—cake at its delicious, fresh best!

For the greatest of cake-making ease, the Cherry Valentine Cake recipe follows a 17-minute one-bowl method. Directions are simple and ingredients are quick to assemble. The minimum of preparation time is involved and the results are rewarding. It's a sure complement-catcher. All you need is the inclination. Perhaps we have furnished the inspiration.

Before starting, it is worth while to remember that one-bowl method cakes require double-acting baking powder and the soft, emulsifier-type shortening. Start heating your oven to 350 F. before you begin to mix.

CHERRY VALENTINE CAKE

2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
1-3 cups Imperial granulated sugar
3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup soft shortening
1/4 cup maraschino cherry juice (from 8-oz. bottle)

16 maraschino cherries, cut in eighths
1/2 cup milk
4 unbeaten egg whites
1/4 cup finely chopped nuts

Sift together into large mixing bowl, flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Add shortening, cherry juice, cherries, and milk; stir to dampen flour. Beat with electric mixer at medium speed 2 minutes. Add unbeaten egg whites; beat 2 minutes longer. Fold in nuts. Pour batter into 2 paperlined 8x1 1/2" round pans. Bake at 350F. 30 to 35 minutes.

After cooling, the cake is ready to put on its Valentine "party dress." This frosting does the trick beautifully:

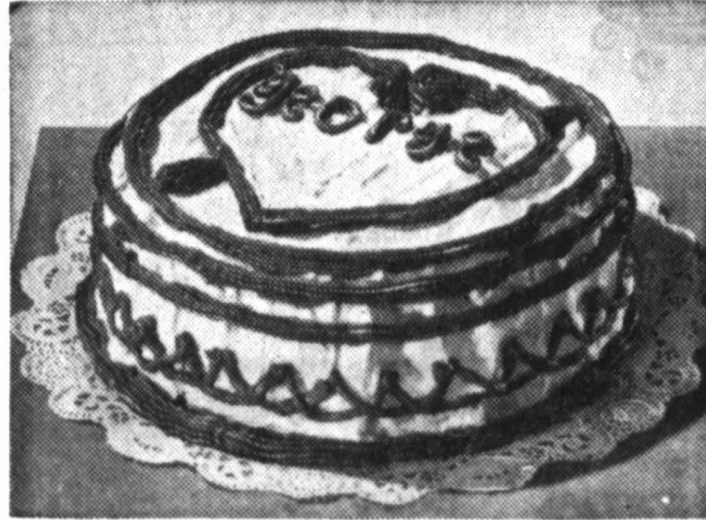

CHERRY FROSTING

1-3 cup butter or margarine
Pinch of salt
3 cups sifted Imperial confectioners powdered sugar
1/4 cup maraschino cherry juice

1/4 cup well-drained, chopped maraschino cherries, if desired
Thoroughly cream butter, salt and 1 cup of the sifted sugar. Add alternately, the remaining sifted sugar and maraschino cherry juice, beating until very smooth and of spreading consistency. Add chopped cherries, if desired.

TO ORNAMENT THE CAKE

Put 1 tablespoon water, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla in small bowl. Gradually blend in 1 cup sifted powdered sugar; mix until smooth. If necessary, add more sugar to thicken. Tint red with food coloring. Use in decorator to outline heart pattern in center of cake; write greeting or name. If you want more elaborate decorations, double the ingredients.

HOMEMADE CHERRY CAKE

Cream Tarts Are Valentine Treat

CREAM TARTS

1 1/4 cups sifted flour
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup cold shortening
2 tablespoons cold water (about)
1 package prepared vanilla pudding

2 cups milk
4 teaspoons tart red jelly
Sift flour once, measure, add salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening until pieces are about the size of small peas. Add water, a small amount at a time, mixing lightly with fork. Handle as little as possible. Wrap in waxed paper; chill thoroughly. Roll 1/4 inch thick on lightly floured board. Cut in circles and fit carefully on outside of four upturned 4 1/4-inch tart pans. Trim edges. Prick with fork. Place in baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes, or until slightly browned. Prepare pudding as directed on package. Cool. Fill tart shells with pudding. Spread pastry hearts with jelly place one in center of each tart. Chill. Makes 4 servings.

Profitable Hobby

Mrs. John Freeman, 2110 Johnson, turns her hobby of sewing into a pleasant business of making clothes for her daughters and also for the public.

Valentines Foods Can Be Served In Heart Shapes, Decorated Red

With Valentine's Day so close at hand, holiday-time hostesses will be thinking of new ways to decorate with food novelties.

The old favorite, heart-shaped cakes, is a good stand-by especially for buffet suppers. Another hostess might prefer to mold her apple salad into a heart shape or serve meringue tarts. The tarts, shaped like hearts, can be filled with puddings, red strawberries or any other dessert.

One appropriate cake for the season is called hearts and flowers. HEARTS AND FLOWERS CAKE

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 cups sugar
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup shortening
1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup maraschino cherry juice
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 teaspoons almond extract
3 egg whites, unbeaten
1-3 cup chopped almonds
Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt into mixing bowl. Add shortening, milk, cherry juice, and flavoring extracts and beat 200 strokes (2 minutes) by hand or in mixer at low speed. Add egg whites, and beat 200 strokes. Add almonds and blend. Bake in 2 deep, 8-inch heart-shaped pans, that have been well greased and coated with flour, in moderate oven (350 degrees) 25 to 35 minutes. Spread with frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. Decorate with flowers.

The cake frosting is called bridal pink. For a deeper red, cake coloring might be added.

BRIDAL PINK FROSTING

2 egg whites, unbeaten
1 1/2 cups sugar
5 tablespoons maraschino cherry juice
1 teaspoon light corn sirup (or 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar)
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
2 marshmallows, cut in eighths
Put egg whites, sugar, water, corn sirup and salt in top of double boiler and mix thoroughly. Place over rapidly boiling water and beat constantly with rotary egg beater until mixture will hold a peak (about 7 minutes). Remove from hot water, add vanilla, almond extract and marshmallows and beat until cool and thick enough to spread. Makes enough frosting to cover top and sides of two 8-inch layers.

Another heart-shaped cake is called "To My Valentine."

VALENTINE CAKE

2-3 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2-3 cup shortening
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 cup milk

1 teaspoon vanilla or grated lemon rind
5 egg whites
1/4 cup sugar

Sift flour once, measure, and add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream shortening; add 1 1/4 cups sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add flavoring.

Beat egg whites until foamy, add 1/4 cup sugar gradually, and continue beating only until mixture will hold up in soft peaks. Beat thoroughly into batter. Turn into deep 9-inch heart-shaped pans which have been lined on bottoms with paper, then greased. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 30 minutes, or until done. Frost with seven minute icing and shredded coconut.

Valentine cake calls for a punch accompaniment. A ruby-tinted drink carries out the red theme associated with the holiday.

RUBY FLASH

1 1/4 oz. red cinnamon candies
1/4 cup apple juice
Ginger ale

Combine candies and apple juice. Heat until candies melt. Chill. Divide among 4 tall glasses. Fill glasses with ginger ale. Stir gently.

Another beverage which is easily prepared is sweetheart punch.

SWEETHEART PUNCH

2-6-oz. cans lemonade concentrate
1 can orange concentrate
2 cups strong cold tea
2-8-oz. bottles ginger ale

Prepare lemonade and frozen orange juice as directed on cans. Pour over ice in punch bowl. Add tea, mix well. Add ice cold ginger ale. Garnish with lemon slice and mint sprigs. Makes 35 punch cup servings.

Heart-Shaped Sandwiches Are Perfect For February

Heart-shaped open faced sandwiches with a chopped pecan topping are a perfect refreshment choice for that Be-My-Valentine party of the younger set in your family. They're bound to please the "guests" and the junior hostess will love them too, since they are so easy to make.

To fashion these good-to-eat Valentines you'll need a heart-shaped cookie cutter or a heart-shaped paper pattern to cut out slices of white or whole wheat bread. Needed, too, are chopped nuts and a fine all-purpose margarine. And, for a gay Valentine touch you'll need a red heart-shaped gumdrop to adorn the center of each nut sandwich.

Of course, if the younger set is taking over the kitchen for their own "get-together" preparations, be sure to give them an unseen helping hand by making sure the ingredients are just right. First, it's important to supply them with a top quality branded margarine with a delicate-natural flavor. One that's perfect for cooking, flavoring, and spreading too. Margarine spreads so easily that it will be just right when taken from refrigerator to table for the assembly line.

A perfect beverage accompaniment for these pretty Valentine snacks is hot chocolate. And to give each cup added appeal, the children might want to bob a fluffy marshmallow in each cup.

Here's the easy recipe for the "party" sandwiches along with directions for making a quick hot bread that's sure to dress up your weekly menus.

VALENTINE SANDWICHES

1 stick (1/4 pound) margarine

24 thin slices of bread

1 cup finely chopped pecans

24 heart-shaped red gumdrop or cinnamon candies

Cut each slice of bread into a heart shape. Spread bread with softened margarine. Place pecans on waxed paper. Dip each sandwich, spread side down onto chopped nuts. Turn nut side up. Place red candy heart in center of each sandwich.

GARLIC BREAD QUICKIE

Cut slices of white bread in half lengthwise. Place side by side, cut edge up. Wrap aluminum foil around sides and bottom to form a "basket." Brush top (cut surface) with melted garlic-flavored margarine. Place in hot oven (400 F.) for 15 minutes. Serve in "basket."

Mrs. Freeman Gives Chiffon Cake Recipe

Mrs. John Freeman has a recipe for a Golden Chiffon Cake that is almost like angel food, but it is more tender. The recipe has been handed down from friends to relatives in the Freeman family.

"The cake does not need any frosting," Mrs. Freeman explained, "for it is complete as it is. But you can add an icing if you wish."

The mother of three teen-agers, Mrs. Freeman is kept quite busy. Clara is a senior in high school, while Edith and Johnny are in junior high.

Mrs. Freeman has turned her hobby into a profitable profession. She likes to sew, and therefore makes clothes for her two daughters. Then she also sews for the public.

At the back of the house, she has a sewing room that Mr. Freeman built. The room is equipped with sewing machine, tables, and other necessary equipment to finish a garment.

Here is the recipe for the chiffon cake that is different from most cakes of this type made with oil.

GOLDEN CHIFFON CAKE

6 egg yolks
2 sticks soft butter or margarine
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 1/2 cups sugar
Cream these ingredients together

and add alternately:

3 cups sifted flour

1 cup milk

Mix thoroughly and add 1 teaspoon lemon or vanilla flavoring.

Then add beaten egg whites.

Bake in a tube cake pan. Place in a cold oven. Then light the oven and set it at 350 degrees. Bake for one hour and 15 minutes.

Mrs. Freeman stressed the importance of placing the cake mixture in a cold oven, other than the usual method of preheating the oven.

Chicken Supreme Prepared Easily

Here is a recipe that is simple to prepare, yet will be enjoyed by the entire family.

CHICKEN SUPREME

3 tablespoons butter or margarine

1 cup thinly sliced celery

1/2 green pepper, sliced

1 cup drained canned pineapple chunks

3 tablespoons flour

1 1/2 cups canned chicken consommé

1/4 cup pineapple juice (drained from chunks)

1 tablespoon lemon juice

2 teaspoons soy sauce

1/2 teaspoon salt

1 can (12 ounces) boned chicken, diced

Melt butter or margarine in medium-sized saucepan; add celery, green pepper and pineapple chunks; simmer 10 minutes. Blend in flour; gradually stir in chicken consommé, pineapple juice and lemon juice; cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and boils 1 minute. Add soy sauce, salt and chicken; heat thoroughly. Serve with hot rice and coconut, if desired.

This Meat Loaf Will Aid Budget

The budget conscious housewife will be interested in these recipe.

PENNY-STRETCHER MEAT LOAF

1 egg, slightly beaten

1/2 cup milk

2 tablespoons chili sauce

1 cup bread crumbs

1 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon pepper

Pinch thyme

1/2 cup mashed or cooked vegetables (anything leftover except beets or tomatoes)

4 pound ground beef

Combine all ingredients except beef. Let stand until milk is absorbed by bread crumbs. Add beef; mix thoroughly. Turn into loaf pan or shape into loaf in shallow baking dish. Bake at 325 degrees F. about 50 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

CORN BEEF MEAT LOAF

1 pound ground beef chuck

1/2 pound ground pork

1 egg, well beaten

1/2 cup corn meal

1 1/2 teaspoons salt

1/2 teaspoon pepper

1/2 medium onion, grated

4 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper

1/4 cup chili sauce

1 cup water

Combine all ingredients thoroughly. Pack firmly into 9x5 inch loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 1 1/2 hours. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Delicious Waffles

Delicious waffles that sing with flavor are made by adding spicy fresh apples and a sprinkling of cinnamon. For a 6-waffle recipe, sift 1/4 tsp. cinnamon with the dry ingredients, then fold 1 1/2 cups pared, diced red Winesap apples into the batter.

Be In The Pink With Frosty Plum Dessert

A rosy pink fluff of a dessert is appropriate for Valentine Day—and delicious all the year round. Make this airy sweet of red fruit-flavored gelatin and canned purple-red plums. Served in individual dishes or in molded shapes, it's pretty as can be.

One must about this dessert: it tastes best accompanied by a custard sauce. The sauce may be made from scratch, following a standard recipe, or it may be turned out in double-quick time from a packaged pudding-and-ple-filling mix.

To serve with this gelatin dessert, you might bake some sugar cookies, cutting them heart-shaped and jumbo-sized. Tint frosting for the cookies pink; put it in a pastry tube and write "Be My Valentine" across each cookie.

Here are the recipes for the fluffy pink dessert and the flit-time sauce:

PLUM SNOW

Ingredients:

One package fruit-flavored gelatin (any red color), 1 cup very hot water, 1 cup canned plum juice, 2 egg whites, 1 cup chopped drained canned purple-red plums.

Method:

Dissolve the gelatin in the very hot water. Stir in plum juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Then place over bowl of ice and cold water; add egg whites; whip with rotary egg beater (electric or hand) until fluffy, thick, and volume has tripled. Fold in chopped plums. Spoon into individual molds or pile lightly in sherbet glasses. Chill until firm. Serve with custard sauce. Makes 10 servings.

Plum Snow Parfait:

To make this variation of Plum Snow, prepare the recipe above omitting one egg white. Spoon half of the dissolved gelatin into parfait glasses. Chill until firm. Chill remaining gelatin until slightly thickened. Add one egg white and whip as directed. Fold in chopped plums and pile lightly on firm.

Surprise Flavor

Add a surprise flavor to the family's favorite baked apples by filling the centers with shredded coconut. Wash and core Rome Beauty or red Winesap apples and peel down about 1 inch. Make a stirup of red cinnamon candies and pour over cored apples. Bake covered for 30 mins. in hot oven. Then fill apple centers with shredded coconut and continue baking, uncovered, 30 mins. longer. Top with whipped cream if desired.

Flavorful Dressing

A crisp, flavorful dressing for fresh fruit salads is made by adding 2 tbsps. grated red Winesap apple and 3 tbsps. chopped walnuts to 1/2 cup mayonnaise. Blend well.

Delight the family with Savory Chicken-Vegetable Soup

Here's how to make it:
1 Stewing Chicken (3½-4 lbs.), cut in serving pieces
3 quarts water
2 tablespoons salt
1 onion, sliced
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
½ bay leaf
pinch of rosemary
4 cans mixed vegetables or 4 different kinds of vegetables such as beans, carrots, corn and onions or 4 packages frozen mixed vegetables or equivalent of fresh diced vegetables as carrots, celery, parsley, potatoes, spinach, beans and green pepper. Place chicken in large kettle with water, salt, onion, poultry seasoning, bay leaf and rosemary. Simmer at back of range for 2 to 3 hours or until chicken is barely tender. (Chicken may be cut from bone in small pieces, as shown in photo.) Add desired vegetables. Simmer 'til vegetables are done, salt again to taste. Serve in large bowls with oyster crackers or French bread.

A pinch of this... a dash of that makes soup taste extra good!

Mink Gifts Given To Legislators

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Mink gifts were passed out to state legislators yesterday but there will be no investigation.

Rep. James Goulette (R) gave more than 100 mink bow ties to House members and committee clerks.

Goulette made the gifts because he introduced the 200th bill. Introduced bills No. 100 and 200 traditionally pass out favors in the House.

Goulette, who owns a mink ranch in the Upper Peninsula, said it took nine animals to supply the ties.

Uncle Ray: Microscope Opens World Of Wonders

By RAMON COFFMAN

New wonders keep appearing under the microscope. We obtain samples of water from various ponds and lakes, or from the ocean, and see hundreds of kinds of "little animals," in addition to the amebas and slipper animalcules of which we have spoken.

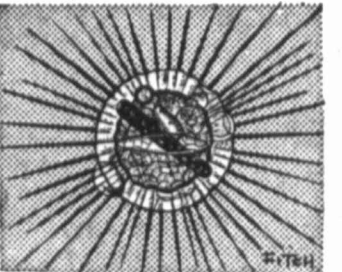

One of these is the Stentor. Without a lens it looks like a blue or green speck. Under a microscope it stands out like a vase with a narrow bottom and a wide top. At the top is an opening which serves as a mouth.

Another sight under the microscope is the sun animalcule. This "speck" becomes a rather amazing figure.

Sun animalcules live in ponds. In the middle of each one is a tiny ball, and inside this ball we may make out even smaller objects which have been taken as food.

Extending from the middle of a sun animalcule are slender arms, or rays, which seek to reach bacteria, amebas or other "game." Since the sun animalcule is without teeth, it must consume its food without chewing.

Ocean water has "little rays" which float about in much the same way as sun animalcules float on pond water. Thirty little rays would cover a small postage stamp fairly well. (They differ, of course, from sting rays.) Perhaps the most interesting fact about little rays is this: they extract silicon from sea water. This mineral supplies them with a skeleton of a sort. If we look at the skeleton, we see six rays extending from the center; it is something like a snowflake under a lens.

If trillions of those tiny skeletons are combined, they make a mass of some size. Through the ages, trillions (or sextillions!) of little rays have left their skeletons behind them, and these have settled down through the water to the bottom. It has been estimated that they line more than two million square miles of the bottoms of the Indian and Pacific oceans.

Swindler Takes 3 Texas Banks

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—Police hunted a clever male swindler today while three local banks counted their losses—the aftermath of a $5,400 bilking this week by a conservatively-dressed check forger.

Swindlers included the Corpus Christi Bank and Trust, Citizens State Bank and Corpus Christi National Bank. The swindler's scheme failed at the Mercantile National Bank and First State Bank.

A. R. Farquhar, assistant cashier at Corpus Christi Bank and Trust, said the man opened an account with $20 in cash. The next day he deposited a $1,785 check with $15 in cash bringing the deposit to $1,820.

He wrote a check closing the whole account Monday, and he was paid in cash, Farquhar said. The identical system worked at both other banks, police said.

Twining Lauds Role Of Texas

WACO (AP)—Gen. Nathan Twining, Air Force chief of staff, said last night Texas was making major contributions to the Air Force.

Twining, speaking to about 1,500 at the Chamber of Commerce banquet, said the B36s that have been making experimental flights over Texas equipped with an atomic reactor, would speed the day when nuclear powered bombers add to the deterrent effect of our Air Force.

Communists, who Twining said have had more combat planes than the United States for years and now catching up with us on quality, were kept from attacking U.S. bases in the Far East because our B36s and B47s here in the states in bases such as those at Fort Worth's Carswell Air Force Base were "ready to go," he said.

4 H-SU Graduates Head Conventions

ABILENE — For the first time in the history of Hardin-Simmons University, four of its graduates head Baptist General Conventions in eight states West of the Mississippi River.

Recently re-elected president of the Texas Baptist Convention is Dr. J. Ralph Grant of Lubbock, 1931 graduate who received the advanced degree in 1942 from the university. In New Mexico, Dr. A. A. DuLaney is now serving his second term as president of that state's Baptist General Convention. He was graduated "cum laude" in 1917 and received the added degree from H-SU in 1949. Dr. DuLaney is pastor of the Los Alamos First Baptist Church in New Mexico.

President of the Arizona Baptist General Convention is the Rev. Paul W. Davis, 1945 graduate of Hardin-Simmons University and pastor of the Chandler, Ariz., First Baptist Church. Directing the activities of a five-state area is Dr. W. C. Bryant, 1943 graduate of Hardin-Simmons and pastor of the Colorado Springs, Colo., First Baptist Church. His Colorado Convention embraces his own state, in addition to all Southern Baptist churches in Wyoming, Nevada, and North and South Dakota.

Oklahoman No-Billed On Burglary Charge

MEMPHIS, Tex. (AP)—Ardmore City Commissioner Joe Taylor, charged with being an "accomplice in burglary" in a Texas-Oklahoma burglary ring, was no-billed by the Hall County grand jury yesterday.
