Clothes, Lunches, Gardens Problems Of County Home Management Adviser

School clothes, school lunches, and fall gardens are things uppermost in the present program of Miss Frances Smith, county home management supervisor, with offices in Memphis. Miss Smith works with all borrowers of the Farm Security Administration in Hall County in a comprehensive rehabilitation program.

Planning and advising with the farm women in this county, whose home-making budgets were necessarily limited by conditions over which they had no control, is one of the major projects of the home management supervisors; and with another school term at hand, she is emphasizing the importance of adequate clothing for school children and well-balanced school lunches.

Miss Smith says growing children have special needs in the way of food. Even when they eat all of their meals at home, it is no easy matter to see that they are properly fed, and when they eat part of their meals at school the difficulty is far greater. This is not because healthfulness and cleanliness are more important in this meal than in any other, but because they are harder to secure. It is not easy to keep food clean and attractive when it must be packed and carried in a lunch basket.

Miss Smith points out that economy, warmth, and durability are the keys for school clothing, although style and finish are by no means neglected. One particular item in this project is the making over of old garments until they look and wear almost like new ones.

She says the value of fall gardens is an important factor in a successful rehabilitation program because in addition to meeting dietary needs, they provide a valuable barrier against food costs.

A bulletin on the school lunch may be received from Miss Smith in the county office. Her schedule: Monday in Cottle County, Tuesday in Motley County, Thursday in Hall County, and Friday and Saturday morning in Childress County.

Boys Work Given Airing at Rotary Meeting Tuesday

The Boy Problem was discussed Tuesday at Rotary luncheon by Melvin Pullis and Sam Cowan, teachers in Memphis schools, and by Fred M. Roberts, Scout Executive of the Adobe Walls Council.

Mr. Cowan said that 75 per cent of the boys in Junior High have no set thing to do, and should have some training in character building, citizenship work, and vocational guidance, and this is one of the additional duties the teachers of the school are attempting to do.

Mr. Roberts spoke in behalf of the Scouting program and insisted that the work can be carried on successfully in connection with school activities.

Officials Comment Favorably On Rapid Growth Of County Shelterbelt Strips

CHILDRESS.—National and state officials of the U. S. Forest Service viewed shelterbelt plantings in Hall, Cottle, and Childress counties last week on a tour of inspection conducted by Edgar H. Kemp, head of the local shelterbelt office.

The officials commented favorably on the rapid growth of the strips in this area and the effective work being done to prevent soil erosion.

In the group were Bishop Smith of Washington, D. C., a veteran member of the Forest Service on his first tour of this section; Paul Roberts of the national shelterbelt office of Lincoln, Neb.; Jack Shelton from the Oklahoma shelterbelt office; and W. W. Webb of Wichita Falls, state director.

The group first visited the strips near Newlin, then went to Hulver where they saw some 750,000 young volunteer cottonwood trees growing on a four-acre plot leased by the Forest Service. The trees were seeded when a hard rain last spring beat the fine seeds from a nearby grove of cottonwoods into the ground.

Kemp and Webb saw the possibilities of the nursery and leased the land. The trees have been cultivated and irrigated and some of them are now more than three feet high. Almost enough cottonwoods to supply the demands in this district during the coming planting season are being grown.

South of Turkey, the party viewed the most concentrated shelterbelt area in the nation. On the Elzie Turner farm, they inspected the best of the strips, which has trees almost ten feet high.

From Turkey, the group drove through the White Flat and Flomott territory where concentrated planting is planned for the coming winter, and then went to the Dunlap area for inspection of advance strips.

Watkins ranch to perfect plans for the annual field trials and bench show to be held seven miles south of Quanah Oct. 10 through 15, the camp being located on the E. W. Stepp ranch. Races will be run over 25 sections of the W. C. Howard, W. O. Neal, and R. H. Speer ranches.

Four hundred wolf dogs are expected for the field trials and bench show. Hunters from eight states are expected to attend the meet. Field judges include Bill Holland of Estelline. Among those attending the meeting last week were O. L. Tucker, L. A. Tucker, Bits Tucker, and W. F. Holland, Estelline.

Fox, Paramount, Metro, Universal, and Pathe have been invited to supply camera men and plan to secure motion pictures of the field trial wolf chases.

LAKEVIEW NEWS ITEMS

New Church Building

The people of Lakeview are happy that the desires of the pastor and members of the local Baptist Church are about to be realized in the erection of a new church building for the congregation.

For the past three or four years many of the members have wanted a new building, but conditions seemed to interfere until the program was launched at the close of the revival meeting about the middle of August, at which time committees were appointed.

From the beginning everyone seemed to respond earnestly, and work of removing the old building and digging the basement was begun last week.

This week real building has been started. The basement and foundation work are being done and will be completed soon. The building will be of concrete and stucco finish and of sufficient size to meet the needs of all departments of the church work.

The revival meeting being conducted by the people of the Methodist Church here under the leadership of Rev. Ollie Apple and the local pastor for the past two weeks closed Sunday morning. It was a very successful and helpful meeting. There were 16 additions to the church membership, and the entire community was benefited.

Rev. C. L. Taylor, who has been serving as pastor of the local Church of Christ congregation for several months, but who has lived at Kirkland, has secured a residence and will move here within the next few days. He will serve the local church and the church of the same faith at Lesley, it is reported. The community will be glad to have Rev. and Mrs. Taylor located here.

Dr. Hart, who came here from Mineral Wells some three weeks ago, contemplating moving here for practice of his profession, has moved his family and is located in the home residence of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Duvall.

Rev. and Mrs. R. G. Brister received word last Saturday of the serious illness of their granddaughter at Pampa. Rev. Brister left at once, returning last Sunday. He reported the child seriously ill but having competent care.

Mrs. W. C. Wyatt, who has been quite ill for the past three weeks, is somewhat improved but still confined to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Mauldin and little son Bennie Ford moved last Monday to the residence vacated by Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Lively. They had lived at the Methodist parsonage since school began because suitable residence could not be had until now. Mr. and Mrs. Lively and boys have moved to Lubbock to make their home.

Civil Service Commission Warns Against Misleading Information

The United States Civil Service Commission has sent a notice to the post office here and to other post offices throughout the nation, warning that misleading information is being given the public by representatives of some of the correspondence schools which sell "civil service" courses, H. J. Rice of the local post office stated.

For a long time, the Commission has been receiving complaints from different parts of the country which indicate that opportunities for obtaining Federal employment have been greatly exaggerated.

It was made clear that no school has any connection whatever with the Civil Service Commission or with any other branch of the Government, and also that the Commission has no agents who solicit applications for civil service positions or who sell "civil service" courses.

No school can "guarantee" Government employment and none is given information regarding examinations, or any other information, which is not available to the general public. The Commission stated that it does not recommend any school, and explained that it is not necessary for anyone to take a course with a so-called civil service school in order to compete in a civil service examination.

A special point was made of the fact that information concerning examinations may be obtained at any time, without cost, from the Secretary of the Civil Service Board at any first- or second-class post office or from the Commission's office in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. J. W. Clark and son Henry Warren left last Friday for their home in Waco after a visit here with Mrs. H. W. Clark and Mrs. J. M. Weathersbee.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

THE TAX SYSTEM

THE MOST VITAL domestic problem before the next Congress will be taxation, and a special session of our own Texas Legislature has been called this month for the one purpose of raising more money through increased taxes.

The last Congress did nothing to reduce the tax burden or lower the national debt. The public has heard too much political bunk promising economy in government. It has listened to too many lies by candidates running on economy and tax reduction programs, who once elected, vote for every spending measure proposed. It is tired of pledges that mean nothing; it wants a definite plan for putting our disordered fiscal house in order.

In recent congressional sessions, bills have been introduced which, among other things, would broaden the tax base—that is, make more persons pay direct taxes to the Federal government. Such plans have the approval of almost every economist and tax expert. Yet, when brought to a vote, they have always been decisively beaten. Politicians fear an equitable tax system which would bring home to the maximum proportion of the population the tax burden it bears. Officeholders hope that our citizens won't learn that 20 to 25 per cent of the cost of everything they buy is represented by taxation. But they are finding it out.

Our own county officials realize the unfairness of the present tax system and declare that something must be done about it some day. Why not let's start now?

The first essential step is to reduce government spending. The second is to adopt a systematic plan for reducing the debt. The third is to reduce taxes, or at least to make them equitable.

"THOU SHALT NOT BEAR FALSE WITNESS"

JOHN McCARTY, Editor of the Amarillo News-Globe, carried a four-column editorial on his front page Monday morning entitled "Thou Shalt Not Bear False Witness."

The editorial is in retaliation for a vicious libel on this section of the country published by Collier's, a national weekly magazine. The slanderous story which the News-Globe attacks was in the September 18 issue of the magazine, written by Walter Davenport and entitled "Land Where Our Children Die."

The story written by Davenport deals with the "dust bowl" area of the nation, and says in substance, according to the News-Globe, that the people of the High Plains area are insane, drug addicts, parents of "unnatural" children, given to homicidal fury, especially during sandstorms, racketeers, political beggars and thieves, hysterical cowards, incompetent farmers.

People of this region look to Amarillo as the "big sister" city, and the city of Amarillo and the Amarillo News-Globe gained prestige and further friendship from towns such as Memphis by speaking out in condemnation of Collier's Weekly for picturing as true conditions that do not exist and have never existed in the five-state "dust bowl" area.

THE QUAIL FAIR

THE GOOD CITIZENS of the Quail community, which is just a few miles northeast of Memphis, are holding a community fair Friday and Saturday of this week; and they have extended us all invitations to attend their celebration.

Thousands of people are expected to attend both days of the community celebration. A program of wide entertainment has been arranged, and we would all do well to lay aside our work and worries for the two days and go over and help them put on a real country fair.

THE VULGAR RABBLE

THE DEMOCRAT has been requested to write an editorial on the vulgarity of a number of people who crowd the city streets on Saturdays. Young men, it seems, make so bold as to speak to and leer at young women in the town.

This condition is common in all towns the size of Memphis that we have visited, and anything that The Democrat may say will not alter the matter. The vulgar rabble are not the type to read newspaper editorials.

Paragraphs From Panhandle Press

Culled From The Democrat Exchanges

Some Fun, Eh?

The Wellington Leader: A Norman, Okla., ordinance stipulates that no young woman shall sit on a man's lap without a pillow under her. . . . The sociologist insisted marriage was an institution, but the voice in the back of the lecture hall put in the same claim for an insane asylum.

Rumblings Aready

Wheeler's newspaper. The Times, quotes The Democrat in telling of the organization of football teams this year at Shamrock, McLean, Wellington, Clarendon, Memphis, and the other towns in this district for the purpose of playing football games this fall. And The Times adds: Well, Wheeler has its team organized—quite well, thank you—and expects to "take" those mentioned, including Memphis, just like it did last year.

Heartless Hospital

One of our exchanges tells of a mother giving birth to quadruplets near the entrance to Herman Hospital in Houston last week. She cried beseechingly at the door, but was rudely turned away by nurses and internes, and denied medical care. However, the mother cat and her brood of four kittens seem in the best of condition. Nurses repented of their inhumanity, and the cat family is thriving on hospital fare.

Riding a Reefer

Determined to start the life of a "jungle stiff" while quite young, a small kitten came to Clarendon on the trucks of a box car yesterday and continued his journey, in the same fashion, when the train pulled out. His destination was unknown, but he would have to change cars in Memphis for points south as his car would be dropped there, the brakeman announced. Both the brakeman and station agent tried to discourage the cat in his trip, but were unsuccessful.—Donley County Leader.

What a man earns in a day goes into his pocket; what he spends at night goes into his character. . . . A wife is a creature who can spot a hair not the color of her own on a husband's coat lapel 20 feet away; but can't see any missing buttons at a distance of five feet. . . . A politician may be correctly defined as a fellow who spends half his time running for office and the other half running for cover. . . . Prof. Cox says dictionaries only settle half the argument; one can still argue about what the dictionary means.—Muleshoe Journal.

The longest hours are those when a young wife waits for an old husband to die. . . . One way to be happy is to wish that you were somebody else. . . . Don't mistake your in-laws for out-laws. . . . To be wrong every time is a poor way to be consistent.—Exchange.

We'd Like to Know, Too

For the benefit of the man who complained that 10 cents was too much for a copy of the Progress edition of The Texan, we wish to say the blank paper in the edition would cost him more than a dime at any paper house in the country. We also wish to say that we are paying 10 cents for every copy we can find in the hope of supplying orders we already have. And in closing we want to say he injured the feelings of our staff so much we doubt if they would want him to have a copy at any price. Why are some people such chronic grippers, we would like to know—always dropping the hint how much better off the world will be after you are dead.—Shamrock Texan.

Mother

Her eyes are cinders stored with tears from the caves of never-finished castles and her smile is a mirrored pool where a dried leaf fallen from the stark tree of hope, glides as a tiny boat driven by the wind. Her voice has the quality of bells chiming in a misty valley, but her life is as the stub of a cigarette trampled beneath a spiked heel because a vagabond son has forgotten the tender arms yearning for his return.—Douglas Meador in the Matador Tribune.

The Seary County Times writes a letter to "Dear Santa-Clausy Uncle Sam" and tells him that "if you are as wise as Democrats believe you to be and Republicans hope you to be, you will continue the trend you have followed in recent months. That is, you will drastically slice the various governmental agencies that were created primarily as emergencies."

the future. "One of the things of the future," says a famous hair dresser, "will be rinses (not dyes) which turn a woman's hair red, green, orange, blue, and other bright colors and make it glow under artificial light. This may sound ridiculous now, but 20 years ago the idea of a permanent wave was scoffed at. New ideas always are considered preposterous, but I think it quite likely that the day will come when a woman will tint her hair a bright luminous hue for an evening party or dance. If she likes she will be able to wash it out the next morning."—Tulsa Herald.

Tennessee Group To Meet Sept. 23 At Amarillo Fair

The Panhandle Tennessee Club has been organized in Amarillo and is open to membership to all native-born Tennesseans throughout the entire Panhandle of Texas.

A charter and by-laws have been duly executed, a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, and board of directors elected to govern the club.

The first territorial meeting of this club will be held in the grandstand on the Tri-State Fair grounds in Amarillo during the week of the Tri-State Fair—Thursday, Sept. 23, at 10 o'clock in the morning, at which time membership cards and badges will be issued to present members. The secretary's books will be open for accepting new members.

This is an opportunity for Tennesseans to visit together and swap yarns and experiences of early days and renew old acquaintances. Members have already found men that they have known for years were reared possibly in adjoining counties, but never realized it until such a meeting.

I'M IN EARNEST—MORE MILEAGE FOR YOU

MY LIVING

I'm in business all for myself. I can't afford to lose customers. The finest way to hold them, is by having an oil that isn't always making you add another quart, and keeps the engine quiet. That's why I specially want to tell you about my Conoco Germ Processed oil and the improvement you get. Now your everyday oil naturally just flows around. It can't stay up through the engine all by itself. But Germ Processed oil absolutely does. It forms the nearest thing to a permanent layer of oil—a real plating of oil, which doesn't keep getting all used up. And it can't ever fail to keep real good lubrication on every last part of your engine, all the while you use Conoco Germ Processed oil. No other oil can Oil-Plate your engine. Which gives my station quite an edge with folks wanting to be economical but safe on their oil.

Many citizens have discussed the parking problem lately, and most of them are of the opinion that business men and their clerks ought to park off the busy streets on Saturdays instead of in front of the places of business, and thus give their customers a chance to park in town. One man counted five cars belonging to the owner and clerks of one store, parked recently at the curb in front of two places of business—not having room to park all of them in front of their own.

There is an ordinance in the City of Memphis against double parking. This ordinance will be enforced hereafter, the Council has decided, especially on the streets used as a state highway. The reason is simple and adequate—unless the highway is unobstructed the officials may change the routing around Memphis.

Collier's, the national "weakly," caused a furore among the people of the Panhandle and other sections of the purported dust bowl area when it published a story by one Mr. Davenport under the title, "The Land Where Our Children Die." It seems Davenport got his story second-hand, if the weather bureau was correct in giving out the information regarding the weather on the days Davenport was in the Panhandle. Be that as it may, people of this section are not much concerned or worked up over the article. They are too busy planning what to do with the big crop of cotton and great tonnage of feed now about ready for harvesting.

Mr. Davenport, if he were to visit Hall County now, would likely write an article headed "Land where the people are happy and growing prosperous."

There are a number of vacant lots, and some not vacant, in Memphis that are covered with rank weeds. Let's all get a little pride injected into our systems, sharpen the hoes and do some amputating. "I like to live in a town like the kind of town I like to live in," and that kind of town is the town where people do not like weeds and trashy looking premises.

The editor of the Lockney Beacon made a trip to Washington recently and had the following to say about the question of governmental regulations: "We were impressed with the wires that are being pulled to center and control everything from Washington regardless of state lines, and you should not be surprised if Congress should eventually draw up and have passed a constitutional amendment extending the power of the government to regulate industry, agriculture and labor. Everything points that way when you are on the ground making observations. This proposition is being worked very smoothly, and whether it is best for the country as a whole, your guess is as good as ours."

The Lynn County News says, "Statistics compiled by the Texas

A. & M. College show that 96,000 persons in Texas moved from the farm to the cities and towns of the state last year, while 49,000 people moved from the cities and towns to the farm, a net migration from the farm to town of 47,000 people. The movement from the farm to town is accounted for chiefly by the removal of tenants who could find no lands to cultivate. Our government farm policy seems to have operated as a two-edged sword; it has cut both ways."

The Texas-Oklahoma Singing Convention will be held in Memphis October 9 and 10, and several thousand visitors will attend, according to A. B. Wills, president of the organization.

Mr. Wills requests the people of Memphis to provide at least two hundred beds for the one night in order to take care of the prominent singers and visitors. No one will be asked to furnish meals—just the beds are wanted. Better be thinking about sleeping on the old cot or pallet for the one night.

There is a great demand for rent houses in Memphis by people who are moving or want to move here. The shortage of dwellings is acute. The demand is indicative of improving conditions. The business man and the farmer alike will benefit from the upward tendency of business.

Wiley Stuart left Saturday for Lone Oak in response to a message that his father was very ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thompson of Newport Beach, Calif., visited among friends in Memphis Monday and Tuesday. They are visiting relatives in Wellington and Pampa.

Memphis Cyclone—

will start at the left guard position, and the right guard berth will be filled by either Paul Robertson or Alton Dewlen. Leroy Robertson will get the nod at center.

The Cyclone backfield will be led by Talmage Pounds, punter, passer, and line-bucker, at full; and by Billy P. Hall, passer de luxe, half. J. R. Sanders or Jack Foster will start at the other half-back post, and Eugene Lindsey or Gordon Hagemeier will start at the other position.

Mobettie's probable starting line-up has not been announced here.

Await Details—

authorized nine-cent-per-pound loan on cotton. Details of the loan program have not been announced, despite the previous statement by government officials that the loans would be started by September 15.

It is not known here whether the federal loans will be handled by the county agent, the ginners, or the banks, it was said.

Sells at 8 Cents
In the meantime, cotton producers are having to sell their cotton at around eight cents for seven-eighths staple and middling grade, or else they are holding it. Most of the farmers, it is said, are holding their cotton for the nine-cent government loans, with the three-cent subsidy. They are paying for the ginning with the seed and are borrowing money to pay for the picking.

County Judge M. O. Goodpasture said Wednesday that the Works Progress Administration road work in the county would be shut down on or about September 23, the end of the pay period, to allow the WPA workmen to help gather the county cotton crop. If sufficient cotton has not opened by that time to care for the laborers, the shutting down of the projects will be postponed until October 1. The home economics project will remain open during the fall season.

Schools To Close
Practically every rural school in the county is expected to close within the next two or three weeks to permit the children to help gather the cotton crops. Some of the children have already been taken out of school to work in the fields. The Deep Lake school closed Friday, and others will follow suit next week.

The past several days of warm weather have benefited Hall County cotton crops considerably, and the cotton is now maturing in a promising manner. Estimates of the 1937 cotton crop for Hall County are given by most cotton men at between 45,000 and 50,000 bales.

Aerial Maps Delayed

Cotton farmers have been dropping in at the county agricultural agent's office this week to see the aerial photographs taken of the county by government men, but the photographs have not been received here as yet. It was announced some time ago that the aerial maps would be here this week, but they have not arrived. They should be here within a few days, and members of the county agent's office will begin the work of checking compliance by the farmers with the government farm program this year.

A large majority of eligible cotton farmers in the county and throughout the state plan to take advantage of the government's cotton price adjustment payment plan, state farm officials have announced.

Plan Authorized

The plan was made possible through the authorization by Congress for the use of $130,000,000 for this purpose. It is intended to make payment on cotton sold by farmers eligible to receive the adjustment on the basis of the difference between the average market price and 12 cents.

It is understood that payments will be made on 65 per cent of the producer's base as established in the past Tripple-A program. If the 1937 production does not call for the entire appropriation, payments will be made on a larger part of the base production.

Keep Receipts

It is especially important that the producer keep receipts which list the gross weight of each bale sold, that the receipts carry the date of sale, and are signed by the purchaser. The receipts will be necessary in establishing the sale, and as a record of the total number of pounds of cotton sold.

The amount of the payments made to individuals will depend upon the level of cotton prices at the time the producer sells his cotton. It has been indicated that the current price adjustment plan is the forerunner of a permanent farm program which is expected to be the primary business of Congress at its next meeting.

Herschel Montgomery, member of The Democrat staff, returned to work Monday of this week following a week's absence on account of illness.

Royce Brooks left Wednesday night for Austin where he will re-enter the State University.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Morris and children left Tuesday on a business trip to Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, and Galveston.

Mrs. John Deaver, Mrs. Malone Hagan, Mrs. Frank Foxhall, and Mrs. Jessie Jones attended the style show in the Powder Puff shop given at the Powder Puff shop by Mrs. A. B. Nave.

The program which followed was the sesqui-centennial of the constitution. Roll call was on facts concerning same. Mrs. W. L. Wheat, historian gave a history of the year's activities. The scrapbook, which took second prize at the convention in San Angelo recently, was the gift of Dr. W. Wilson at the Yule-tide banquet last January. The award was a lovely silver vanity which was presented to Mrs. L. L. Doss by Mrs. A. E. Powell, district chairman of publicity, for her untiring efforts in the publicity arrangement of the book. Mrs. W. Wilson was chairman of the scrapbook committee and Mrs. Doss acted in her absence. Mrs. Wilson gave an interesting talk on her trip to Rochester. Mrs. VanPelt read a poem by Mrs. Carwith, National Auxiliary chairman of the convention to be held in New York City September 19-23. A. A. Kinard, Legion Commander, gave a talk on co-operation and invited members of the Auxiliary to a covered-dish social September 21, to which all ex-service men and their families are invited to attend. He also mentioned other plans which will be announced later.

'Get Acquainted' Meeting Of PTA City
Council Is Held At Auditorium Friday

(By Press Reporter)

The parents and teachers who missed the "Get Acquainted" program of the City Council of Parent-Teacher Associations at the high school building Friday evening, Sept. 10, missed something.

The talk by J. C. Wells on "Our Schools in Relation to the Civic Life of Our Community" let one to visualize a citizen of a land of no schools, stirring the emotion to shrink from such a picture. The hearers were assured of the fact that the relationship of the school to good citizenship is so close as to be indispensable, and were inspired with a renewed interest in and loyalty to the schools.

Riley W. Carlton, vocational instructor, talked on vocational guidance, and showed that to be properly guided into the natural line of talent is essential to happiness and success. He also told of some of the needs of the school, stating that more equipment, especially in the workshop, is needed in order to give more efficient vocational instruction to those who are mechanically inclined.

Hayes O. Luna's talk on the religious life of the schools was interesting, fearless, sincere and convincing. The audience heartily concurred with applause. He told the truth about the religious life, or lack of it in the schools, and all seemed to enjoy it.

Superintendent W. C. Davis acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced Mrs. W. J. Bragg, president of the council. Mrs. Bragg urged the members of the PTA to make an intensive drive for an increased membership.

Principal H. J. Gore introduced the high school teachers; Sam Cowan, principal of Junior high, presented the teachers of his department; and Mrs. H. B. Estes, principal of West Ward, presented the teachers of her department.

The main objective of the City Council for the year was fully explained by Mr. Davis. This objective is two paved tennis courts on the school ground.

Circus Flyers Here Sept. 24

Bob Fisher's Five Fearless Flyers

The question is sometimes asked of Russell Bros. Circus: "Do you have flyers with your show?" But the inquirers are members of the present generation who do not realize that long before the airplane was invented there were "flyers" in circuses. Russell Bros. Circus, coming to Memphis on Friday, Sept. 24, is one of a few leading circuses of the country which still carry "flying acts." (High costs have eliminated them from the smaller shows.) Yet because of their graceful rhythm and split-second precision, there is no phase of circus entertainment more universally popular. Everybody thrills to the spectacle of these bird-like "flyers" swinging out wide on their trapezes, twisting or somersaulting through space to the hands of their "catchers," and then returning to their pedestals by the same daring process. All sorts of tricks and variations, each apparently more daring than its predecessor, keep the spectators keyed to the highest pitch. Bob Fisher's Five Fearless Flyers, who are featured by the Russell Bros. Circus, rank high in the aristocracy of circus aerialists, their present eminence being the heritage of generations. This troupe of lithe, dauntless aerial acrobats is distinguished by Frances Fisher, the only woman occupying the difficult role of catcher, while the double-somersault executed by Bob Fisher in mid-air while blindfolded, represents the very acme of circus thrills. Flying acts are one line in which American performers definitely excel and they are in constant demand in foreign countries. The Five Fearless Flyers are world-toured and internationally famous. France, Belgium, Germany, Sweden, Denmark, Spain, Argentina, Havana, Mexico, Yucatan, Cuba and Hawaii are just a few of the lands in which they have performed.

EFFECTS OF RAINFALL AND INSECT DAMAGE ON COTTON YIELDS SHOWN

By F. L. THOMAS

Texas Agricultural Experiment Station

For the past ten years weekly reports on the cotton insect situation in Texas have been issued during the growing season by the Division of Entomology of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. These reports are for the purpose of acquainting the cotton growers of Texas with the progress of the more important pests of cotton in the various districts of the State. With information available concerning the general abundance and distribution of the various pests, the farmer can better make his plans and frequently takes advantage of the opportunity to stock the insecticides he may need.

The information used in compiling these reports is obtained from correspondence and from a number of technical men scattered throughout the State, some of whom are either Federal or State workers investigating the insects in question.

The value of these reports in diagnosing the insect situation has steadily improved with the years and now they are used also by the manufacturers as an aid in making up supplies of insecticides to meet the demands of the growers.

In connection with this work in which occasional insect forecasts are made, a great many records have accumulated and important information has been derived from the studies. When the average lint cotton for a county is less than 100 pounds yield per acre, either one of two reasons is responsible. Either drought conditions have prevailed during the growing season or the rainfall has been such as to stimulate insect activity so that severe damage has resulted.

Whenever average yields for one or more counties have been higher than 200 pounds of lint per acre the average rainfall in the counties has been approximately 7 1/2 to 12 1/2 inches during May, June, and July.

In other words, in order to have optimum conditions for the growth of cotton it is necessary to have sufficient rainfall to produce a considerable degree of insect damage. Of course, with too much rainfall the insect damage overbalances the good effects of the moisture and low yields result.

A study of the years, 1919 and 1924, and the period of years, 1928-34, inclusive, for which reports of average yields per acre by counties are available, when applied to insect damage and rainfall conditions noted in 1937 in the various districts of the State, suggests a relation of these records to probable yields this season.

It is seldom that any of the counties in Northeast Texas average better than 200 pounds of lint per acre, but this year the rainfall and insect conditions indicate that this district has a good chance to break the record.

In East Texas, insect damage has been less than in Northeast. While the May, June, and July rainfall of 7.07 inches was a bit light, that for June, July, and August was much better for turning out the good yields which this area may be expected to produce.

Southeast Texas has been too dry this year. Only once in nine years have counties in this area averaged as much as 200 pounds with an average rainfall of less than 4 3/4 inches during May, June, and July, the amount received this year. Yet, due to good moisture supplies in most years, this area has had a larger proportion of counties produce more than 200 pounds average than any other area in the State where cotton is not irrigated. Then, too, the insect damage in Southeast Texas has been less this year than in any other district in the State except in Southwest, South Plains, and West Texas. The yields of this district may add more evidence to the theory that unless there is sufficient rainfall to stimulate insect activity and cause some damage there will not be enough for producing the best crop yield.

North, North Central, and South Texas seem to be able to make yields of 200 pounds or better on less rainfall than any other district in the State except the South Plains. All three districts had relatively high insect damage as compared with other districts this year. However, the rainfall was a little light for best results; the maximum for May, June, and July in any of the three districts being 7 3/4 inches.

South Central Texas has had the highest relative insect damage of any district this season. The rainfall has been too light for highest average yields, but due perhaps to fortunate distribution, good to high average yields may be expected. West Central Texas had a little better than normal rainfall during May to July, but hardly enough to raise the yields of many counties into the high average class. The insect damage in this area was reported as comparatively light.

The South Plains area with little insect damage reported to September 1 and a good rainfall in June, July, and August appears to have a good chance for relatively high yields. Undoubtedly yield records over a longer period than the nine years now available, would enable a much more accurate appraisal of the effects of seasonal conditions and insect infestation upon the current yield prospects; and if pursued consistently would supply valuable suggestions year by year in the matter of making provisions for campaigns against insect damage.

Woman's Culture Club Meets With Mrs. J. C. Wells

A most interesting meeting of the Woman's Culture Club was held at the home of Mrs. J. C. Wells at 808 West Noel street, Wednesday afternoon.

Immediately after the business session presided over by the president, Mrs. R. L. Madden, the roll call, "News of England," was given.

An intimate biography of Edward VIII by Hector Bolitho being the study for the afternoon, Mrs. D. A. Grundy, secretary pro tem, read the following quotation from Whittier: "Love has never known a law beyond its own sweet will," to introduce the program. The biography of Edward VIII who abandoned his rule over half the world for the love of an American woman, was given by Mrs. T. B. Rogers, as well as a short sketch of "Edward's Set, As I Knew Them" by Elsa Maxwell. Mrs. J. H. Norman told of the author who is not only one of the most brilliant of the younger generation of historical biographers but recognized as the leading authority of the history of the royal family. From the beginning M. Bolitho sensed in the ex-king a quality of almost reckless sincerity which might have made his reign glorious, but resulted in the shortest reign in the history of Great Britain, by a king who preferred to wear a crown in his heart, not on his head.

At the close of the program the hostess served ice cream and cake to the following members: Mrs. Roy Fultz, Mrs. D. A. Grundy, Mrs. C. L. Hamrick, Mrs. Claud Johnson, Mrs. R. L. Madden, Mrs. J. H. Norman, Mrs. T. B. Rogers, Mrs. George Sexauer, Mrs. C. Z. Stidham, Mrs. W. L. Wheat, and one associate member, Mrs. W. C. Davis.
