Federal Officials Nip Arms Export Plot

SECRET SHIPMENT OF GUNS AND AMMUNITION FOR MEXICO FOUND WHEN DETECTIVES RAID VESSEL

THREE MEN ARE PLACED IN JAIL AFTER ARREST BY GOVERNMENT OPERATIVES IN NEW YORK; LARGER HAUL MISSED THROUGH ERROR

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 1.—Charged with violation of the president's prohibition for hiding the exportation of arms and ammunition from the United States to Mexico, three members of the crew of the Ward Line freighter Cauto were held under arrest today. Their arrest followed discovery of 20,000 cartridges secreted on the ship.

Seizure of the ammunition and arrest of the three men took place last night but was not revealed by members of the special service squad of the customs house who made the raid until today.

The men under arrest are Horton Norman, first assistant engineer; Antonio Esteban, fireman, and Frank Fernandez.

Raid Comes From "Tip"
The raid was made on a tip that 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition were to be shipped today to Mexico for use in connection with a revolt against the present government. Shipping schedules showed that the only ship leaving today for Mexican ports was the Cauto and her crew had been shadowed from noon yesterday.

Officials observed a number of packages being carried aboard in a suspicious manner. The special service squad boarded the ship just before midnight. In the sleeping quarters of the engine crew, they found Esteban, whom they had seen on deck just before boarding the liner, apparently asleep in his bunk. They pulled off his blankets and he jumped up fully dressed with a revolver in his hand. He was disarmed and handcuffed and a search was begun which resulted in location of the ammunition which was of 32, 38 and 44 caliber.

The Cauto was permitted to sail this afternoon for Vera Cruz. Officials of the Ward Line disclaimed any knowledge of the attempted violation of the proclamation.

Error Cited To Officers
But for an error, the special service squad believed that it would have made a much larger haul. Under the mistaken impression that the boat sailed at daylight, the raid was made this morning, as they might have done if they had known the correct sailing time. Members of the squad expressed the belief that more ammunition would have been on board.

Churchill Is Rapped For Stand On Debts

WASHINGTON, April 1. (P)—Win- ston Churchill, Chancellor of the British Exchequer, does not speak for British "self respect, better thought or the great mass of the English people," when he proposes cancellation of war debts, Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, told the Senate today in urging adoption of the Italian war debt agreement.

"When they talk cancellation they forget that cancellation would not reduce the burden of the United States government," the Indorsers of their notes," he said.

THRILLING SEA HEROISM SHOWN

Captain Who Rescued Titanic Survivors Directs Another Epic of Mid-Ocean

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 1.—Adding a brilliant chapter to the long tale of thrilling rescue at sea during storms of the past winter the British tanker Shirvan, was enroute from Falmouth, England, today, with 28 seamen rescued from the British freighter Lala- ham, the Shirvan, racing to the side of the stricken freighter in a gale 400 miles off Halifax last night, beat the liner Mauretania, which also had swayed from her course at the first cry for help. The Mauretania resumed her course for New York after a brief dispatch of the rescue of the Shirvan.

Captain Roston, who was in com- mand of the Corpathic when he rescued the survivors of the Titanic in 1912, reported that the Lala- ham was nearly on abeam's end and all her life boats carried away. His message gave no details of the rescue, except that the Lala- ham was sinking rapidly.

American Ship Safe
Reports that the American freighter Blair was in trouble, were cleared up today when the Export Steamship Corporation, operators of the ship, re- ceived a wireless from its captain, saying the freighter has experienced no trouble and had not sent out any distress call. Naval communications early yesterday received an SOS sig- nal Blair, but nothing further was heard.

The Blair's position was given by the captain today as 1,302 miles South- east of Delaware Capes bound for Philadelphia and New York from Greek and Spanish ports.

One Seaman Dead
The Lala- ham left Newport News March 25. The storm caused the death of one seaman, swept overboard from a coast guard cruiser.

Small boats along the coast and in Long Island Sound were harbor-bound and two thrilling rescues were record- ed.

At Lewis, Del., the dredge Clare- mont, in tow of a tug, capsized, throw- ing her crew of 15 into the water. All were saved by the crew of the tug. Three negroes were rescued from the ferryboat Brennan, which was driven on a rock ledge in Long Island Sound off Port Chester, N. Y.

Over most of Ontario, the gale left towns, cities and villages deprived of communication with the outside world. Estimates of damage suffered by the Bell Telephone system alone ranged from $500,000 up.

One Killed and Two Hurt In Rail Smash

LANCASTER, Pa., April 1. (P)—A Pennsylvania railroad fireman was killed and two passengers slightly in- jured in a train wreck at Gap near here today. The man killed was T. N. Van Horn of Trenton, N. J.

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, April 1.—Frances Herring, 15-year-old high school girl, is playing the role of a second "Cinderella" to Edward W. Browning, wealthy 57-year-old real estate operator, who refuses to deny or confirm reports he will marry her after her birthday in June.

Near Fist Fight Seen SOLONS KEEP 'EM APART In Halls of Congress

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, April 1.—A "near fist fight on the house floor resulted today from an argument between Representative Mills, republican, New York and Representative Rankin, dem- ocrat, Mississippi, over the procedure in the impeachment case against Federal Judge English of Illinois.

After Mr. Rankin had demanded that a quorum be present when de- bate was resumed, Mr. Mills walked to the democratic side of the House apparently to urge the Mississippi to withdraw his motion, but Rankin met him half-way on the double quick.

Other members, convinced that a physical encounter was threatened, kept them apart.

"Get on your own side of the House," shouted Rankin, shaking his fist. "You can't insult me. You are a dirty, contemptible scoundrel."

The Sergeant-at-Arms helped quiet the Mississippi. Mills apparently unexcited then moved away and the debate proceeded without a quorum call.

NEW YORK—Leonard Wood, Jr., is co-author of a play, "Sin Tax," an emotional drama of the tropics, which will be produced next season perhaps.

ATHENS—Greek girls may now wear skirts as short as the mode in the U. S. A. or even shorter. Many protests after imprisonment of a Judge's daughter for 24 hours have caused General Pangalos, the dictator, to rescind his decree that dresses must be no further from the ground than 14 inches.

BANDIT LOSES PART OF LOOT IN AUTO CRASH NEAR DALLAS AFTER ESCAPING OFFICERS IN GARLAND

COMMANDEERS TRUCK AND ELUDES PURSUERS WHEN ACCIDENT OCCURS IN DALLAS SUBURBS; YOUNG THIEF SHOWS PRESENCE OF MIND

(By The Associated Press)
DALLAS, April 1.—The blue-clad bandit who robbed the Garland First National Bank of more than $5,000 early this afternoon, picked himself out of an automobile crash in the outskirts of Dallas about an hour later, turned up some of his spilled money and escaped again on a truck whose driver he commandeered as a chauffeur.

Pursuit Is Begun
GARLAND, Tex., Apr. 1. (P)—A lone bandit held up and robbed the First National Bank of between $5,000 and $6,000 shortly after noon here today. Brandishing a pistol he forced Cashier W. C. Jamison, a woman book- keeper and a negro customer into the vault, and locked it. He scooped up the money and fled in an automobile.

Pursuit parties were started twenty minutes later when news of the robbery got about with the release of the imprisoned trio by Oscar Morrison husband of the bookkeeper, who had called to see her. Dallas authorities were notified that the bandit was head- ed that way.

Thief Is Young Man
Cashier Jamison said the robber was young, unmasked and clad in blue overalls, and went about his hold-up very calmly. He spotted his car on the North of the bank and entered the side door. Jamison's first intimation of the bandit's presence was a gun pointed in his ribs and a command of "Hands up."

Mr. Herring had been chairman of the state prison commission for three years. For five or six years previous to that he had served as United States marshal for this district. He came here from Madisonville, Texas, and had been a resident of Houston for ten years.

He is survived by his wife, two sons and two daughters, all of whom live in this city.

One of his sons, Robert Herring, is a mounted officer on the Houston police force.

AUSTIN, April 1. (P)—The flag on the state house was lowered today to half staff when Governor Ferguson was informed of the death of Captain J. A. Herring, chairman of the state prison commission.

THINK 2 ROBBERS OF BANK ARE ARRESTED

SAN ANTONIO, April 1. (P)—City and county officers are confident they have arrested at least two of the four men participating in Tuesday's day- light robbery of the San Antonio National Bank, from which $19,138 was taken.

Four men were held today by the sheriff and two men and a woman by the police.

The two men believed to be robbers have been identified by three persons, the latest identification coming from Fred Ayala, a blacksmith, who declared one of them brought two shotguns to his shop to be sawed off.

Sawed-off shotguns and revolvers were used by the robbers in coercing the bank officials, employees and patrons.

Appeal To Prolong Life of G. Chapman

WASHINGTON, April 1. (P)—An appeal for stay of execution of Gerald Chapman, the mail bondit, under sen- tence to be executed April 6 for the murder of a New Britain, Conn., policeman, will be made today to a Justice of Supreme Court.

Ray M. Wiley, of Springfield, Mass., counsel for Chapman, reached Wash- ington today to make the appeal. The Supreme Court is in recess and the case must be handled with justice individually.

EXAMINING TRIAL
FOR COLLINS NOT
YET SET

Ben H. Collins, known here and in Terry county also as J. C. Collins, who is wanted in Terry County on two felony charges in connection with the death of Frank Howard and a near fatal attack on Bill Fisher, brother-in-law of Howard, is being held in the Lubbock county jail here pending completion of arrangements for his examining trial, according to Robt. F. Higgins, of the law firm of Woodward and Higgins, counsel for Collins.

Little Theatre Play
'Maker of Dreams' Is
Of Different Theme

Because the characters in "The Maker of Dreams" are historical ones, this play, which is to be offered by the Lubbock Little Theatre next Monday evening, is distinctive from other plays, according to those in charge. The characters are Pierrot, the hero, Pierrette, the heroine and the Manufacturer.

Pierrot has an interesting stage history which probably had its origin in the comic mask of Italy, a comedy with only the scenarios written, which was fully developed at the time of the renaissance. The dialogue was improvised by the individual actors. Each player wore a costume and a mask which were changed and this fixed his identity. Many of these characters have become types and reappear under their old titles in various forms of modern drama. Among these the most familiar are Punch and Judy, Columbine, Pantaloon, Harlequin and Pierrot.

The ancestry of Pierrot is not distinctly Italian, however. "Cock-Snare," a madcap, who was painted but and a white mask, have both been cited as types which contributed to the figure of Pierrot, whose name made its first appearance in Moliere's play, "Don Juan Peste de Pierre."

It was the French actor, Deburau, who gave Pierrot the prominence he enjoys today and who dressed in the guise he assumes on the modern stage. Pierrette, the charming heroine of the play, is probably of French origin. The author, Hippolyte Darny, has given her a personality so unique that she is generally conceded to be a creature of his own invention.

The "Manufacturer's" antecedents might be traced as far back as Roman and Greek mythology, and yet, he too, has become an entirely new stage figure under the inspiration of Darny.

STAGE IS SET FOR ANNUAL APRIL
FOOL PARTY

The stage is all set for the first annual April Fool frolic and all-fools "crabore" for the Tech College here and the doors of the College cafeteria will swing open promptly at 7:27 P. M. this evening for reception of the strangely garbed and otherwise attired attendants. Nothing will be barred except stunts of "rough house" Willie, plans for the entertainment provide.

A freakish program to fit the occasion and in keeping with the season has been arranged, and a menu card has been arranged for the banquet to be given that is entirely in keeping with the other arrangements for the frolic. Approximately a dozen games for various forms of refreshments were rehearsed by one of the program committee, but the alphabet and the make-up of the English language have not yet been arranged so that they might be spelled. The best way to find out what they are is to be present, this individual said.

The frolic is open to anyone who wishes to take chances, and tickets may be secured from the chamber of commerce or at the cafeteria tonight.

The program has been arranged for the purpose of bringing the faculty of the college into closer touch with the townspeople in the way of acquaintance, and it is the urge of the chamber of commerce officials that every Lubbock citizen interested in the college attend.

Souvenirs will be offered to all present, and eats will be plentiful.

School Trustees
To Be Elected In County Saturday

Patrons of more than a dozen independent school districts in Lubbock county will go to the polls Saturday, and cast their ballots for trustees who will be in charge of the various schools for the coming year.

Official ballots have been printed and turned over to authorities at the different places, and it is noted on these that at many places there is only one ticket presented, leading to the belief that trustees throughout the county not only have managed well the institutions, but their actions have met with the approval of the patrons in general.

In the Lubbock independent school district which includes the city schools, the names of four men will be presented to fill the four places of expiration. Three of these men, who have been on the board for several years, have agreed to succeed themselves, and the fourth, Dr. C. M. Ballenger, was forced to resign due to ill health. The other three are J. T. Hutchinson, president of the board; C. E. Maedgen, secretary, and W. B. Atkins. Neil H. Wright, prominent local insurance man, has agreed to have his name placed on the ballot as successor to Dr. Ballenger.

The polls will be maintained at the city hall during regular voting hours Saturday.

EXAMINING TRIAL
FOR COLLINS NOT
YET SET

Ben H. Collins, known here and in Terry county also as J. C. Collins, who is wanted in Terry County on two felony charges in connection with the death of Frank Howard and a near fatal attack on Bill Fisher, brother-in-law of Howard, is being held in the Lubbock county jail here pending completion of arrangements for his examining trial, according to Robt. F. Higgins, of the law firm of Woodward and Higgins, counsel for Collins.

The preliminary hearing probably will be held some time this week at Brownfield, Attorney Higgins said on Thursday but pending action on the part of District Attorney Gibson, of the 16th Judicial district, the date of the hearing has not been set. It was explained that Attorney Gibson is now busily engaged in the trial of a criminal case at Post, which necessitated some delay in the proceedings.

The plea of Collins in the case is to be self defense, according to his counsel, who claim that all evidence in the case leads to the belief that ball cannot be denied the accused man. The next term of court in Brownfield, county seat of Terry county, agent of the fatal argument, will be in August.

Collins was returned here last Monday from Kaufman county, where he surrendered after he made his way on foot and occasional pick-up ride following the fringes. He claims to have made no effort whatever to hide his identity enroute, saying that one night he registered at a hotel in Snyder under his own name, and that at another place he endorsed a check in the same manner. He was enroute to Kaufman county, where he and his wife both have relatives, about five days, he said.

Counsel for Collins intimated Thursday that if action on his case is not taken at once by officials in the 16th district, they will seek release of the prisoner under bond by a writ of habeas corpus. This, however, they said, they considered unnecessary due to the nature of the case, and they believe that Attorney Gibson will act as soon as the case on trial at Post is cleared up.

ENGLAND WILL BE IN FAVOR OF
DISARMING

LONDON, Apr. 1. (AP)—The British Government will participate wholeheartedly in steps leading to general measures of disarmament and Lord Cecil will go to Geneva prepared to urge some definite scheme.

This was made clear in the House of Commons today by Godfrey Lock-Lampson, Parliamentary under-secretary for the commons, answering a question raised by Arthur Ponsonby, who was a member of Ramsey MacDonald's labor ministry.

"What we have to do if we can, is to exercise the domain of suspension," said Mr. Lock-Lampson. "Lord Cecil will certainly go to Geneva prepared to urge some definite scheme of disarmament. We took the initiative with the United States regarding naval disarmament because it is appropriate to do so, but in all probability it will be more appropriate for some great military power at Geneva to take the initiative regarding military disarmament."

"After all the first definite step has been taken, because at Washington a very important treaty was signed between five powers imposing very definite limits on their navies. I think it is unfortunate that some obstructions were applied to submarine warfare, but consideration must be given as to how much further these principles can be carried. The government hopes they will be carried further and will do their best in this direction."

Mr. Ponsonby's speech to which Mr. Lock-Lampson replied, was in effect a plan for reduction of armaments. He said that when Germany enters the League of Nations next September, the league must secure for her a position of equality with the other nations, abolishing any distinction between the former allies and their former enemies.

This would mean that Germany must be allowed to arm herself to the same standard as the other powers, which he termed impossible, or that the members of the league should forthwith disarm to the same standard as Germany.

After expressing regret that Great Britain's expenditure for armament showed an increase in money value as compared with 1914, Mr. Ponsonby said he hoped that the words ascribed to American Ambassador Houghton that the disarmament conference was doomed might prove inaccurate.

FINAL PLANS LAID AND COMMITTEES
NAMED TO LEAD IN CLEAN-UP DRIVE
AT MASS MEETING WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Plans for waging one of the most intensive clean-up campaigns ever conducted in the city of Lubbock were laid last night at a mass meeting of interested citizens in the City Hall, when committees to handle various phases of the campaign were named, and the work in general was discussed.

The drive is to open next Sunday when pastors of the various churches of the city will emphasize from their pulpits the necessity of such a campaign for the continued health of the citizenship here, and on Monday morning the campaign will open in earnest as the various committees, being their work of seeing after conditions.

Merchants of the city will be asked to join in the campaign by displaying waste appropriate to the occasion in their show windows, and posters, calling attention to the campaign, will be prominently exhibited in connection with the displays. Mrs. C. E. Maedgen was named chairman of the committee to look after the placing of these posters, and she said following the meeting Wednesday night that these posters will be distributed Friday afternoon or Saturday morning.

The campaign will be carried on according to the outline of such drives mapped out by the state health department, and each day of the week has been set aside for one special line of endeavor toward the ultimate goal of bringing the entire city, including business and residence sections into the most sanitary conditions possible.

Monday has been designated as health examination day when every individual will be urged to have physicians make examination of his or her physical condition. Health examinations are now regarded as one of the most important weapons that can be employed against such fatal disorders as high blood pressure, heart disease, cancer and nephritis.

Tuesday General Clean-up Day. Tuesday will be general clean-up day when trash and rubbish of all kinds will be expected to be gathered up around the premises of all homes.

and other utensils used in dispensing drinks must be sterilized after each usage, or that paper cups must be used.

Saturday will be rural sanitation day, and County Superintendent of school T. F. Brown has joined in the campaign, and through school children to various schools, will seek to have people at the rural sections take advantage of the day to improve sanitary conditions about the home.

Members of Highway Commission to Be Here

John C. Cagle, former banker of Stephenville, who is now a member of the State Highway Commission, will be in Lubbock on or about April 12, according to various schools, will seek to have people at the rural sections take advantage of the day to improve sanitary conditions about the home.

The visit of Mr. Cagle, while official in nature, probably will have little bearing on the Lubbock county hard surface road program, Mr. Field said. He will visit the entire section of the state, coming by way of San Angelo, and Big Spring, inspecting highway work in the district over which he has control. He will go from here to the north plains, according to his tentative route.

Around The Lot In Major Leagues Training Camps In South And West

(By The Associated Press)
Training camp weather conditions have not been favorable. All of the major league baseball clubs but the opening of the season cannot be postponed. The next few days will see most of the teams on the road, homeward bound, some in satisfactory conditions and others lacking the desired form.

Boston's Red Sox, who trained at New Orleans, have suffered most from bad weather and their jinx has followed them. At Birmingham yesterday, the Red Sox wore overcoats and killed time, their game being called off. The team is said to be at least 50 percent under condition.

Snow Stops Pirates
Snow prevented the Pirates from playing at Wichita, Kansas, yesterday, but it was hoped they could get into action there today.

Connie Mack, whose Athletics are conceded a big pennant winning chance asserts that if his players are not now fit for the race they never will be. Part of his squad will meet the Rochester Internationals at Waycross, Ga. today. Although the Phillies have won only one game this spring, Boss Fletcher insists they will exhibit a good brand of ball but "may not win the pennant."

The Washington Senators today started a nine game tour which will land them at home. The New York Yankees and Giants, and the Brooklyn Dodgers are in Tennessee. Snow blocked the Yankee-Dodger contest at Nashville yesterday.

Giants Divided
McGraw divided his Giant squad today, half of the team going to Memphis and the others invading Jackson to play Toledo. The team's 13 year old mascot sets a ticket back to Saratoga, homelessness beating him out of a permanent berth.

Slater's Browns took the road today, with prospects of getting to the home lot in St. Louis with much brighter prospects than last year. The hurling staff shows great improvement, with Gaston going much better, the catching department well fortified and the outfield stronger because of reserves.

Reds At Hollywood
The Cincinnati Reds lay for the Lauderdale today, then spend a night at Hollywood, Fla. before starting the northward trip. An interclub game at West Palm Beach yesterday kept the athletes in trim.

By the end of the week or the middle of next week, the Detroit Tigers, St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago White Sox and the Chicago Cubs, will be homeward bound, Cobb's orders at Augusta, Ga., indicate a big possibility that the Tigers will train elsewhere next year. Eight games will be played by the Cardinals before they arrive home from Dallas, and the Chicago White Sox will play three more at Shreveport this week before breaking camp.

Cards Stay Indoors
The Cards spent yesterday indoors but the Sox brushed up on slugging against south-paws.

Home runs featured the four exhibition games played yesterday. At Los Angeles, Hank Wilson and Gabby Hornett of the Cubs, clouted two circuit drives each, all coming with two men on, to beat the Angels. Goose Goslin rapped a four-bagger in the fifth inning of the Senators victorious battle against Baltimore at Tampa and Cronin of the Boston Braves got a homer against the Providence club at St. Petersburg.

Manager Bancroft of the Braves suffered a slight injury when spiked by High, of Providence. Walter Johnson worked the first three innings against Baltimore and hurled airtight ball.

The Cleveland Indians play Atlanta at Atlanta today after adding a victory to their list at Waycross, Ga., yesterday. Dutch Levens pitched sensationally during his six-innings in the box, but shared stellar honors with his infielders.

No Resin For Grover

AVALON, Catalina Islands, April 1.—"None of that resin stuff for me," says pitcher Grover Alexander of the Chicago Cubs.

When I am unable to get by using my natural stuff I am going to quit. "Resin may help some of the pitchers who like to experiment, but I am satisfied to stick to the curve, fast ball and a change of pace."

The opinion of Alexander is rather interesting, since the National League is responsible for the return of resin as a pitching asset.

Walter Johnson of the American League is just as opposed to the use of resin. Johnson is of the opinion that in warm weather resin will handicap rather than help the pitcher, since it has a tendency to make the ball sticky. He believes it will make for wildness rather than control.

Walter Johnson and Grover Alexander are the two outstanding right-handed pitchers in the major leagues.

Alexander alone vies with Johnson for supremacy. He has been a star since 1911, when he joined the Philadelphia Nationals and is still one.

prospective ball players who desire to come to Lubbock this year. These include one from Dave Lavenport, who played a leading role with Elitch Garden club in the Denver tournament last year, who wants an amount considered excessive and prohibitive for this city. Another is from Jack Burke, who at present is in South Bend, Ind. Burke is an old timer at the game, having broken into baseball with the Louisville club while Skipper Allen was there. His prospects also are a little slim.

The park probably will not be in condition to permit a workout Sunday. Skipper said Thursday, but the work is being rushed all possible, so that regular training may be started shortly.

CIVIL WAR RAGES IN PEKING

TIENTSIN, China, April 1. (AP)—Travelers arriving by motor from Peking say the road is filled with Mukden troops advancing in Peking. Fifteen trains are leaving Peking daily for Hankow and Kalgan (headquarters of the Kuomintang, or national army) carrying Kuomintang troops and equipment.

Mukden forces are believed to be moving across country toward Nankow in an attempt to cut out the Kuomintang troops remaining in the capital.

Peking dispatches to the London Daily Mail last night said a severe battle was raging for the possession of Peking with the booming of the guns plainly audible in the capital.

The Kuomintang troops are commanded by Marshal Feng Yu-Panang. They retreated to Peking recently after being defeated in the vicinity of Tientsin.

TRAILING THE LEAGUERS

McGRAW'S AGGREGATION WILL PUT UP A STIFF FIGHT FOR THE PENNANT

By BILLY EVANS

"You must figure McGraw's club," was a remark every National league manager made to me when I asked for opinion of the coming race.

"McGraw can always be depended upon to have a good ball club. And, what is more, it is always a good club that plays smart baseball," was the way rival managers summed up the possibilities of the New York Giants.

As I watched the team go through its training sprouts and oblique observed it in several exhibition games, it was apparent to me that the New York Giants of this year must be figured strongly in the running as pennant contenders.

In my tour of the training camps last year I named the Giants as the best ball club that I had seen; predicted that it would win its fifth consecutive National league pennant.

To my way of thinking, the Giants must have suffered a case of bad luck that has scarcely if ever been equaled in the annals of baseball.

The Giants suffered from every malady except the hoof-and-mouth disease, every ailment except loss of life.

Just As Good.

I regard the Giants of this year as good, if not a better ball club than the 1925 vintage, and certainly no club can suffer as much hard luck and live to tell of it.

A ball club cannot achieve greatness without a star player at shortstop. For a time the filling of that position on the New York club was doubtful. It was feared the injury to Travis Jackson's knee might keep him out of the lineup.

Knee injuries are treacherous, but as I watched Jackson cavort around the shortfield for the Giants he looked as good as ever. On the ability of Jackson to continue to play, in a sense depends the chances of the Giants to win.

The rest of the infield will be taken care of by Lindstrom at third, the brilliant Frisch at second and the versatile Kelly at first.

Should Jackson's knee fail him the burden of playing that most important position will be up to Farrell, the former University of Pennsylvania star.

Farrell can take care of the fielder, but so far his hitting has not been all that could be desired.

Strong In Outfield.

However, it is possible that the drive of McGraw's club will be such that a light-hitting short stop will not seriously handicap the team from going somewhere.

In the outfield Irish Meusel and Ross Young are practically certain of starting. Young, who had an off-year of it in 1925, is still a great ball player and should prove it this year. Tyson, secured from Louisville, looks good and is slated to open in center.

The battery men will be much the same as last year. However, the pitching should be improved, as several of the twirlers on whom McGraw is depending should profit as the result of the experience gained last season.

Just reckon the Giants of 1926 a strong pennant contender. It is a tough club to beat, but plus the managerial direction of John McGraw, a much tougher one.

TECH MATADOR TRACK AND FIELD TEAM MEETS HOWARD PAYNE IN DUAL MEET ON TECH FIELD HERE SATURDAY

The Tech College Matador track and field crew will go into competition here Saturday with Howard Payne in a dual meet that will be the first public appearance on the local field of the Tech squad. It was announced here Thursday by Ewing V. Freeland, athletic director of the college, following completion of plans for the meet Wednesday night.

Tech has appeared in two track meets thus far this season, but both have been on foreign soil, and South Plains fans will be given their first view of what Tech is to have for track and field competition in Saturday's clash. Appearing in public twice, once at Fort Worth during the Southwest Exposition and Fat Stock Show and at the University of Texas Relay carnival recently, the Matador crew held its own against the best competition that is found in the Southwest, and although they failed to win any first places at either meet, they showed good form with the promise that later in the season and in future years, some real class is to be exhibited.

Howard Payne, with her athletes a little more seasoned and possibly more experienced, will offer some real competition, and officials are looking forward to the meet with eager eyes.

Fifteen events are on the program for the afternoon, including almost the complete category of track and field performances, and the program has been so arranged that not a dull moment is to be experienced during the entire afternoon. Field events will be run off simultaneously with track, and spectators will be kept "on their toes" to keep up with the various performances. In the words of Coach Freeland, spectators will be as busy as an onlooker at a three-ring circus.

Events to be run on the track are: 100 yard dash, 220 dash, 440 run, 880 run, mile, two mile, 120 high hurdles, and the relay. Field events are: Discus throw, shot put, javelin throw, broad jump, high jump, and pole vault.

McAllister, one of Howard Payne's star performers, is a Lubbock boy, and he will naturally be eager "to show the folks back home" a few things about track performance. He is a dash man, running the 100 and 220, and performs with equal ease in the hurdle races.

Bleacher seats have been arranged alongside the track convenient to the finish point for all events, and ample seating room will be available. The program will begin about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and action from beginning to end is promised.

CURTIS JOINS TECH MATADOR SQUAD ON DIAMOND

Like Curtis, of Amarillo, "buddy" of Woody Niehaus and Guy Haylen, former members of the Amarillo Giant sandstorm diamond squad that offered such stiff competition to Soilers across state diamond borders, has joined the Tech College student body, and is now trying out for a regular berth on the Matador squad.

Curtis is recognized as one of the best young catchers in West Texas, and will bolster the roster of the Matadors, filling a niche that to the present has been one of the greatest worries of Coach Freeland. Curtis will be available for the opening game of the Matadors next Monday against the

Improvement Work On Merrill Park Is Started

Work of reconditioning the Merrill park in preparation for what is expected to be one of the best seasons in the history of either amateur or professional baseball in Lubbock, is now under way, and when completed the park will be one of the best in this part of the state.

The infield is being filled in with dirt that has blown toward the fences in either direction, and when this filling in process is completed, the entire plot is to be plowed up, graded, and dragged to present as much of a turtle back diamond as can be made without too great expense.

The grounds probably will be finished before work is started on repair of the grandstand, a portion of which burned away last year, but this will be rebuilt some time during this month, according to Skipper Sled Allen. Signs have been sold for the fence, and these will be painted by the Jones-Mead Sign company as soon as weather will permit.

In the meantime the Skipper is being "snowed under" by letters from

ANOTHER CONVERT

The Ford Motor company, according to Snyder Atwell, advertising manager of the Dallas branch of the company, is through with billboard advertising for the balance of this year in West Texas. "Newspaper advertising," says Mr. Atwell, "better carries our message and we will increase the size of newspaper ads and may also increase the number of ads run."

Thus another convert, and a pre-tremely important one, too, joins the ever-increasing army of one hundred percent newspaper advertisers in West Texas.

And West Texas is not the only place where this curtailment of billboard advertising is taking place. It's being done all over the country and by many big industries, just like the Ford Motor company.

Ford ads, like those of practically all of the big motor companies, appear regularly in our Daily Journal and the fact that the company officials are pleased with their advertising representation in the Journal is another testimonial of the fact that Journal advertising pays.

ONE OF OUR OWN

From time to time American newspapers and magazines have pointed out the fact that Edward, Prince of Wales, is in every sense of the word
a "regular fellow" in spite of his handicap and it is a handicap — of royalty. And because he is a "regular fellow" the Prince is applauded in every corner of the globe and were an international popularity contest held he would doubtless be winner by a big majority.

Yet while we're passing the bouquets to the next King of England
let's turn our gaze to John Coolidge, whose father happens to direct the destinies of the greatest country in the world.

Of course young Coolidge is not nearly so much of an international—or perhaps even a national, figure as is Edward, Prince of Wales. Yet, while he's not of "royal blood" and while he probably never will succeed his father as the nation's chief executive,
he occupies very much the same position among his chums and college mates as his British cousin does among his own associates.

According to all reports issued from Amherst college, where John is following in his father's footsteps, the Coolidge off-spring is just as much of a "regular fellow" as is the Prince as any other red-blooded young man.
When he enrolled in the college,
in giving his father's business and address he merely wrote "lawyer, Northampton, Mass."

Recently he took part in a college boxing tournament and took a laching from a Jewish boy from Brooklyn.
Reports, however, showed he took his lacing like any of the rest of us and had both arms swinging at the final gong. Occupying the position of a freshman in his college fraternity he does the same tasks that the other
"fish" do and according to The Phi Gamma Delta, the national magazine of the fraternity, is very much "one of the boys."

So while we flaunt the mixing ability, the general good-nature and democracy of Edward, Prince of Wales, let's remember that we have a "regular fellow" of our own to boast.

Our idea of a Communist is a man

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

ONLY FEW MEMBERS FIGURE IN CONGRESSIONAL WORD SLINGING

By CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON — How few men
figure much in congressional debate is rather surprising.

Fully three-quarters of the members of both houses simply sit and look on. Some don't even do that.
Probably they're wandering around the capitol somewhere, but they're seldom seen in their places in the Senate or lower house, whichever it may happen to be.

It doesn't necessarily follow that a talkative senator or representative has anything on a silent one. Part of the talkers have something to say. Part haven't.

The popular idea is that more talking is done in the Senate than in the House of Representatives. This is a mistake. The senators talk longer, per senator, but there are nearly five times as many representatives as senators to talk.

Some senators and representatives are silent because they have nothing to say, and unlike the talkative ones in a similar fix, at least have the good sense to refrain from saying it.

Others keep still because their talent is not for speech making, but for arranging things in advance.

Having done so, they loiter serenely back in their seats and let the talkers talk to their heart's content, calm in the knowledge that the things they have arranged will happen that way, regardless of what's said.

THESE WOMEN

by NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
After supping at a night club
with a beautiful girl called NONA,
who is jealous of his friendship
with other women, HARRY MOR-TON, middle-aged, rich, attractive, returns to his city apartment,
to find his adopted daughter,
AUDREY, awaiting him at two in the morning. She says she wishes he were not wealthy, as she could enjoy more of his company.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER III
He maintained an expensive apartment in Peoria and an apartment in Chicago. A man called SMITH, claiming to be Audrey's stepfather, appears after 18 years' absence, and Morton sends him to South America with the promise of a job there. Morton and Audrey go to Chicago, where Morton receives a telephone call from NONA, beautiful young woman who is in love with him.

"Morton tilted back in his chair. 'Do you ever read history?'"
"No," she said. "Why?"
"It's a historical fact," he said,
"that through the ages, whenever men are hard to get, women begin to take off clothes. There have been a lot of times when men courted women surprisedly—and then women bundled themselves up; wore balloon-sleeves, and hoop-skirts, and wide ruffs. But it has always been a sure sign, when women began to strip themselves, that the men were losing interest. Are men hard to catch?" His smile was questioning.

The girl considered the question
gravely. "You are," she said.

"How about the other men?" he inquired.

"I don't know," she began. Then she corrected herself. "Why, I suppose I do, too. All the girls are talking about 'catching' this man or that man. Do you know that there isn't such a thing as a stage-door Johnny, any more?"
That is, except for a few young kids up from college, and a fat old man or two."

"And do you girls really scare so much of yourselves, in order to lure the men?"

She ran her forefinger around the service-plate that lay before her, and looked at him with the dawn of an idea in her eye.

"Do you know, I believe that pretty nearly every thought a woman has is in connection with a man," she exclaimed. "I never thought of it before, but I believe it's so."

spended to Lois' bandings.
"Nona called me on the telephone,
and said she had something to tell me," said Morton, as they ended the meal. "Do you mind telling what it was in front of Lois?"

Nona shook her head. "I don't want to talk in front of Lois, about anything, anytime."

Lois raised her eyebrows. "It will be perfectly all right with me, then,
if you go home," she suggested.

Morton looked amusedly at Nona, awaiting her reply. Her face was white beneath its rouge. "Do you want me to go home?" she asked Morton, her voice very low.

Morton grinned teasingly. "No, indeed. If a fight fan, you know. You girls go ahead and amuse yourselves."

Nona started to her feet, shaking with anger. "I'm going!" she snapped.

Morton lazily arose also, and walked around the table. Putting his hand on her bare shoulder, he slowly forced her to her seat. "Right fair," he advised, with a smile. "You mustn't hit the referee."

Nona remained in her chair, staring at her plate. Her hands twitched, and her cheeks and throat were flushed. Lois looked at her critically. "I'll bite and scratch as well as any other woman," she said. "But I'd hate to do it in front of a man."

Lois looked at the waiter placed before her, and nodded assent to Morton's invitation to have another.

"You know," Morton said, genially,
"every time I go out with Nona lately,
there is a battle. Sometimes it's with

Putting his hand on her bare shoulder, he slowly forced her to her seat.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER IV
"I'll be out to dinner, dear," Morton said, when Audrey descended the stairs.

"Is it with that woman who telephoned you?" Audrey asked, quickly.

Morton eyed her with interest. "How did you know it was a woman?"

"The girl hung her head, and thought
'I guess it was just instinct. It was a woman, wasn't it?' Morton assented.
'I wish women didn't call you up,
she went on. 'I wish you didn't know
any women, except me.'"

She sank into a chair, twisting her hands together. "You're too fine a man to be going around with women like that."

"What makes you think they are women like that?"

"I don't know it. I just feel it," she said. "Anyhow, they aren't women that you take up to meet."

He crossed to where she was sitting, and stroked her hair. "Dear little kid! Of course, I don't let them meet you. They can't hurt me. But I don't want them to hurt you."

She took his hand and pressed it against her cheek. "It hurts me to have you with them at all," she said softly. "Why do you let them?"

Morton shook his head. "Do you know, child, that the question 'Why?'
is the hardest question there is in the world to answer?"

"Nobody ever can tell, really, why he does anything. There are so many reasons behind every movement in life. No man can answer truthfully when you ask him 'Why?' Things that happened to us when we were little;
careless words dropped by our parents;
when we first started to know the world; the shape of our brain, transmitted to us by our ancestors for ten thousand years; our health; the things we read; the people we meet; all of these things act together in causing the things we do. 'Why?' It's a question that no man can answer."

She patted his hand, and looked up at him shyly. "Maybe I can answer it, myself," she said. "I think you see those women because they run after you, I believe it is always the women who run after the men, and not the men after the women."

Morton laughed, and vigorously tousled her hair. "Don't gossip about the ladies, sugarplum," he admonished. "They'll let you go to jail for it."
He continued, his voice graver.
"I've got to be back early in the evening. Is that all right?"

The girl sighed, but agreed.

"I'll wait for you," she said.

Morton was thoughtful as he left the apartment, and he was still in a reflective mood when he met Nona that evening in the waiting-room of their appointed dining-place.

This was an old mansion, made over into a restaurant by an enterprising Frenchman. Tables, lighted by discrete rose-colored lamps, filled the apartment that once were the two drawing-rooms, the dining-room, the library, and a long, glassed sun porch that ran along one side of the building. The glass on the porch had been pointed, to screen the guests from outside observation. At one end of this room, Nona and Morton were seated.

"I didn't have time to dress for dinner," Morton said. "But I see you've dressed for both of us."

Nona wore a close fitting gown of green and silver; it gave evidence that aside from one narrow band, there were no garments beneath.

"As a matter of fact," Morton said,
"you haven't got on enough clothes."

She glanced at her dress, and said defiantly: "This is the way everybody else dresses. Anyhow, I'm not

fore, but I believe it's so."

She was starting a new and anticipated sentence, when her voice dropped abruptly, and her eyes hardened.

She stared toward the entrance of the room. Morton turned. In the doorway stood a young woman, alone. She was strikingly attractive, though somewhat older than Nona, and shorter, and a little heavier. Her eyes, like Nona's, were large and dark, and they swept aggressively over the room, as they fell upon Morton, they lighted in recognition. She waved her hand, and looked toward the man and girl.

"Hello Harry! and Nona, dear!
How lovely!" Her voice was low and threaty. Morton rose to his feet, took the soft, evening cape the girl had carried, and draped it over the back of her chair. After she was seated, he sat down and leaned forward, smiling.

"Are you girls going to quarrel this evening, or am I going to be disappointed?" he asked, innocently.

Nona frowned. The other girl laughed. "I never quarrel," said she
in the presence of gentlemen.

Nona favored her with a side-long glance. "You're always sweet, Lois—to gentlemen," she said.

Lois settled herself comfortably
"of course," she continued. "Aren't we all?" She considered a moment, and then added: "But not to anybody else."

"I always love to see the ladies hostile," Morton said. "If they were any other way, I'd know there was something wrong."

The waiter was standing at his elbow, and conversation ceased, while Morton ordered dinner for the three of them. Considerately, he avoided starches and sweets in his orders for the girls, as being productive of fat.
For himself, he selected only half of a broiled chicken, and a grapefruit.

"And bring three bottles of water,"
he added.

The girls accepted as a matter of course his offer of liquor from the silver flask he carried. He took none for himself.

"Don't you ever drink, any more?"
Lois asked.

"Seldom," said he. "It's still too easy to get to arouse my interest."

The girls addressed their remarks to him, each carefully ignoring the other. His eyes twinkling, Morton led them into an indirect debate on dress, Lois freely admitting that she wore more clothes than fashion directed,
and deprecating the world to criticize her.

Nona did not smile since Lois coming. Looking steadily at Morton she said: "Yes, it's a good rule, if you haven't anything worth showing,
to cover it up."

"Time!" Morton said. "You girls stop fighting, and we'll eat."

Lois chattered freely through the meal, but Nona's remarks were few and very brief. From time to time
she looked darkly at the other girl,
and watched Morton's face as he re-

me, and sometimes it's with some woman, but she has surely declared war,
for keeps."

He paid the waiter, as the three of them arose.

"Sure sign she's in love," Lois said.
Nona gave her a venomous glance,
but was silent as they passed through the house, and down to the reception-room.

Morton's car was waiting, and the three of them entered it.

When Morton helped her from the car, she stood on tiptoe and kissed him on the chin. He was rubbing the spot reluctantly when he re-entered the car.

"I believe there is more kissing being done here and there," he observed,
"than there ever was in the world before."

Nona remained wordless. She crowded into her own corner of the thickly cushioned seat, her hands clapped together on her lap. Morton ventured a light remark or two, but she turned from him.

Accepting the situation philosophically, he lighted a cigarette, and gazed out the window at the brightly lighted theater district through which they passed.

At her apartment house, he walked with her to the door. With her face set, her lips compressed, she applied his hand, and entered the door without saying good night. As she walked down the elevator Morton could see that her hands were clenched, and her arms rigid.

HELPFUL

Consider the home paper. It's not an item—it's an institution. The contents of its pages can be likened to a mirror, reflecting to outsiders the condition of the town itself. Few realize the weighty influence a real, live newspaper wields, especially in the mind of one contemplating con-ting to the particular town to make his home or to conduct a business. We are sure The Record is a messenger of the real prosperity of Colorado. It is liberally patronized by the live, progressive merchants of the town and that fact is a force that is not overlooked by prospectors looking this way. But few country weeklies and none in the West, carry 20 to 24 pages
a week, as The Record, and every page a boost. — Colorado Record.

IMPORTANT HEARING CONCERNING SOUTH TEXAS RAIL EXTENSION IS OPENED IN BEAUMONT ON MONDAY

(By the Associated Press)

BEAUMONT, Texas, April 1.—Announcement of Interstate Commerce Commission Examiner C. E. Bales that the application of the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Gulf Railroad, or "Duff Line," for extension from Waco to Port Arthur would be heard simultaneously was the first development which started the hearing in the Federal Court room here this morning.

Commission Examiner Bales of the Interstate Commerce Commission, L. C. Smith and C. V. Terrell, members of the Railroad Commission of Texas, and Colonel R. C. Duff, president of the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Gulf Railroad Company arrived here for the hearing at 10 o'clock this morning. Examiner Bales stated both cases briefly from his data and asked if both sides were ready. Colonel Duff responded for the applicant, and Attorney for the Texas Railroad and Port Smith Railway Company (Kansas City Southern) in the person of F. H. Moore, A. F. Smith, Orgain & Carroll, and W. E. Davis, protested against the application all afternoon.

An counsel for the applicant, Colonel Duff announced himself, J. M. Dunner, vice president and general manager of the road, and F. H. Hisey, traffic manager. In the capacity of attorney of the road, Colonel Duff announced George D. Anderson of Beaumont, who stated that he would conduct the examination himself. Other witnesses for the applicant were Hon. T. Wilson and Dr. J. T. Barnett of Thornton; C. B. Thrane for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Snyder; C. F. Dumas, president W. N. Winner, Matagorda, and J. A. Cunningham, traffic manager of the Waco Chamber of Commerce, H. E. Eargle and Ralph Bowen for the Chamber of Commerce, Beaumont; A. L. Burge and H. Y. Taylor for the Chamber of Commerce, Port Arthur; A. A. Nelson for the Chamber of Commerce, Lake Charles; P. T. Hubbell, Houston; R. W. Cowan and T. M. Wilson, Mar; R. L. Penick, Stamford; heads of delegations from Midway, Livingston, Normangee, Groesbeck and Trinity.

W. L. Cook and J. A. Brown of the Missouri Pacific lines of Houston entered appearance at the request of the Interstate Commerce Commission, presumably to give expert testimony later on in the hearings.

It having been announced that both applications would be merged into one hearing, H. Y. Taylor, traffic manager of the Port Arthur Chamber of Commerce, at this juncture filed an intervention on behalf of Port Arthur, J. M. Dunner, vice president and general manager of the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Gulf Railroad Company, was the first witness to take the stand on behalf of the applicant.

Wyoming's Woman Governor Urges Girls To Marry When In Quest Of Life's Finest And Best Position

(By The Associated Press)

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., April 1.—Although she has faith in the future of America's young womanhood and believes that freedom of the younger generation of women will prove beneficial, Gov. Nellie Taylor Ross holds that the highest position of woman in life is matrimony and motherhood and not in the business world or in public life.

In such fashion Wyoming's woman governor expressed her views in an address before the Rock Springs organizations of Girl Scouts of which she is an honorary member. She characterized the new liberties and freedom accorded modern girls as leading to greater intellectual and spiritual development and physical charm of womanhood.

The modern miss is more attractive than the clinging-vine type of a generation ago, she declared, and the modern dress is not only more sensible but promotes health and grace.

FARMER ADVISED TO REPLANT CORN

Chance Is Taken With Frosted Corn and Stand Be Poor Bureau Head Says

DALLAS, Apr. 1. (AP)—Farmers were advised to replant corn that was frozen last night in a statement issued today by A. K. Short, formerly of A. and M. College and now chief of a Dallas agricultural foundation. There is always considerable discussion, he said, as to whether badly frosted corn will grow back and produce a normal crop. Some of it may do this but the chances, he believes, are that the stand will be poor and the corn so weakened in vitality that it will not produce a good yield.

"Many times I have plowed up part of a field that was badly frosted and replanted it and in every instance where there was plenty of moisture as at the present time, the replanted corn out yielded the damaged corn," he said. "If there is any feeling in the central and southern part of the state that it is too late to plant any of the dent types of corn, some of the June types will make good yields if planted now. Chief among the latter varieties might be mentioned the Sure Cropper and Reass Drought-Resistant. A little later in the season, grain sorghums such as milo, kaffir and feterita will make good yields as feed crops."

Caraway Bill Is Favored In Senate

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—The Caraway bill to prohibit transactions in grain or cotton futures except by those who make oath that they actually have or will have the grain or cotton for delivery when required, was favorably reported today by the Senate agricultural committee.

The bill would penalize not only those who deal in futures in grain or cotton in violation of its provisions but also the telegraph companies and others involved in transmitting the orders.

The report detailed what were considered by the committee as some outstanding injustices resulting from future trading in grain and cotton and declared that "some one should be imprisoned for the present condition of agriculture."

One Man Held In Death of Rancher

SANDERSON, Tex., April 1. (AP)—Max Luckie, Terrell county rancher, was shot and instantly killed near Snyder yesterday and a man charged with the shooting is in the county jail here.

Circumstances surrounding the shooting were not revealed here today but there probably will be a preliminary hearing this afternoon.

Luckie's family resides in Sutton county.

MRS. ROSS' TWIN SONS WORK FOR EDUCATION

(By The Associated Press)

LARAMIE, Wyo., Mar. 31. (AP)—The principle of American democracy rules in Wyoming—every in the family of Governor Nellie Ross. Her two sons, students in the University of Wyoming here, for the sake of an independent income, work each summer vacation to earn part of their expenses at college.

The sons of Governor Ross are twins, twenty-one years old, George T. and Ambrose. George Ross graduated this spring and recently was awarded the Rhodes scholarship for Wyoming to attend Oxford University in England. Ambrose is a junior, having missed a year of college.

George Ross has been a ranger for the last three summer vacations in the Yellowstone park, earning a tidy sum in guiding tourists through the park. Ambrose for two summers was a ranger, but he also has taken a hand at being cowpuncher and bronco buster and for a time worked as a brakeman. He has won several prizes in broncho busting at Wyoming rodeos.

The boys are prominent in activities at the university, George being a debater and secretary of the student body, while Ambrose is a member of the university football and wrestling teams.

Governor Ross declares she "is very proud of her sons" and, like Cornelia, she regards them as her most precious jewels. A younger son, Bradford, aged thirteen, challenges his mother many night on the checkerboard at her home in Cheyenne.

Whitehouse Dog Is Great Pal Of Chief Executive

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—One of President Coolidge's closest companions is a dog—Rob Roy, the snow-white collie which has supplanted the Howling Laddie dog as canine boss at the White House.

During the two years his master has run the Executive Mansion Rob Roy has worked himself into the affections of the President. Frequently when his master returns to his office after luncheon, he trots along to the dog and sits up in a leather chair at the President's elbow to look out of the window.

Rob Roy gets excited when he spots one of the guards which stand around the White House lawn. He frequently makes a dash for one, but gives up the chase after a sharp reprimand from the President.

For a while after returning from Massachusetts last fall, Rob Roy was homesick. His playmate, Paul Pry, the monkey already, had been turned over to the Marines for discipline. But another collie—also white but smaller—soon came from the Wisconsin kennels where Rob Roy was born.

Despite the newness, given the name of Prudence Prim by Mrs. Coolidge, Rob Roy seems to have first claim to the President's affections. Mrs. Coolidge appears fonder of Prudence.

New Style Passport To Be Smaller Size

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—The State Department has decided to stop issuing the old style engraved passports and within the next month or so will publish a neatly printed substitute of more compact dimensions.

Underlying the change of style are changes in the passport laws and the new passport will give the government absolute protection from counterfeit products, a source of constant worry. Then too, they say, the movement will save money, as the expense that went with the production of the engraved parchment, and by using less expensive paper.

As a further step in the direction of economy, the new passport will be embossed and sealed in colors by machine rather than by hand.

To insure safety from counterfeit passports, the Department plans to change the form from time to time, to publish them on a specially prepared paper and to use a distinctive type, the first being printed with Tiffany type closely resembling engraving.

READ THE WANT ADS

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—The United States has been formally invited to appoint a delegation to meet with representatives of the World Court signatories here on September 1, to frame an agreement which may be necessitated by the American reservations in adhering to the court.

The invitation is contained in a letter sent to Secretary of State Kellogg by Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary-General of the League of Nations.

Civil Cases Are To Dominate Court Here

Practically all of the six week term of District court, which will open here on next Monday, will be given over to the trial of civil cases. Judge Clark M. Mullican announced today. The Grand Jury, the Judge said, will be empaneled at 10 o'clock in the morning of the same date, April 5th.

Attorneys having cases pending are requested to appear in the courtroom promptly at one o'clock when a settling of cases will be made. The jury docket and the Judge's Civil docket, (non-jury) will be called at the same time, while the appearance docket will be called at 10 o'clock on Tuesday, April 6.

Obregon To Run For President of Mexico

(By The Associated Press)

NOGALES, Ariz., April 1. (AP)—General Alvaro Obregon, former president, last night announced his candidacy for the presidency of Mexico in the 1924 elections, says a special dispatch to the Herald from Mexico City.

General Obregon was greeted and cheered by one of the largest crowds ever seen in the streets of the capital city. The general was met on his arrival by President Calles.

CHURCHES JOIN IN UNION SERVICE HERE FRIDAY

The four local churches now engaged in holding evangelistic meetings at this time will unite in a great union service Friday morning at 10 o'clock as the pre-Easter evangelistic campaign nears its climax.

The people of the First Methodist, First Christian, First Presbyterian and Cumberland Presbyterian congregations will enjoy this hour of the fellowship and all Christian people of the city are urged to meet with these congregations at the auditorium of the First Methodist church.

Rev. Milo Atkinson, one of the outstanding ministers of the Christian denomination, who has been assisting Rev. Walter P. Jennings in the meeting at the Christian church will bring the message at this hour. This service will do much toward furthering the fine spirit of friendship and fellowship existing among all of the churches of Lubbock.

Fine services were reported from all the churches on Wednesday and Thursday morning. The improvement in the weather here fruit in the very noticeable increase in the congregations, and interest in all other lines has grown. Pastors of the various churches report. Fine services have been had in all of the churches up to this time but this increase in interest practically assures for the rest of the services of the meeting more far-reaching results than even the most sanguine had hoped.

Those people who are not attending these meetings are missing much, and are urged to avail themselves of the opportunity before it is too late. Come and bring others and let us make history for God in Lubbock at this time, is the message going out from each pulpit daily.

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—An omnibus flood control bill was approved today by house flood control. It would authorize preliminary flood control surveys of the Missouri, Arkansas and Red rivers and their tributaries, the Kootenai river in Idaho, Amite river, Louisiana; Wabash river, Oklahoma, and the Red river and its tributaries of Oklahoma and Texas.

TUSCON, Ariz., Mar. 31. (AP)—Hart by falling on a pile of rock while her horse, while hunting mountain lions, Mrs. Max McMurray of Cleveland, a ranch owner, lies in an improvised camp in the wilds, difficult trails and pain making it impossible to move her.

LEGION ROSTER IS BOOSTED BY 125 IN CAMPAIGN

The local American Legion Post, in keeping with its policy of complete co-operation with state and national headquarters in the nation-wide membership drive launched simultaneously throughout the United States, is adding its bit to the drive by a campaign that, at its close next Monday night, threatens to set a new high mark for similar campaigns.

The membership roster of the post here has been increased by approximately 125 during the two weeks intensive campaign. It was announced Thursday by Martin Hart, Adjutant of the Post, but pending a "complete check-up," the exact number has not been ascertained.

The post membership was divided into two opposing camps at the last regular semi-monthly meeting, when leaders of the two factions were elected by those members present, and the leaders in turn chose from the group those members whom they wished to assist them. Chas. Whitacre and W. T. (Tangle) Strange are leaders of the groups.

The first day's drive, which was Tuesday, March 15, brought about 65 new members into the Legion fold, and each succeeding day brought in his pro rata part, though the number was smaller. The drive is a part of a state-wide movement in which Texas is contesting Oklahoma to decide whether or not the "Old Gray State" shall remain in her native haunts or be carried to the Sooner state.

At the end of the local campaign next Monday night, the losers in the drive will be host to the winners at a banquet in the basement of the Legion building, to which all ex-service men of the county will be invited, whether

PANHANDLE MUSIC FESTIVAL OPENS APRIL 5

The Panhandle Music Festival, an institution which is staged annually, in Amarillo by Emil F. Myers, will be held next week, April 5th to 9th. Four of the world's greatest artists will be presented and the wonder Tropic Orchestra of Mexico, composed of forty men will play two great programs on Thursday. Allen McQuinn who opens the festival on Monday night is an Irish lyric tenor who has been termed a "Rival of John McCormack." On Tuesday night Francis MacMillen, one of America's greatest violinists, will be heard. The Wednesday night program will be given by the "Russian Nightingale" Maria Rurono, a European sensation and new in America. Madame Kurenko has been declared equal to Patti by many critics. On Thursday the great Mexican Orchestra and Marimba Band will be heard in two programs. They were so popular in Amarillo before that it is predicted by many that the auditorium will be too small for their audience this time. There is not other musical organization in the world like them. The last program will be given by Reinhold Werrenrath the greatest and most famous baritone in America.

Music contests will be held each afternoon of the festival and the winners of these contests will make up the afternoon program on Friday. The Teachers college at Canyon will give the afternoon program on Wednesday.

Many Lubbock people attend the festival each year and are making preparations to be there again this year. From the programs announced it is safe to predict that they will be enthralled as usual.

Cotton Markets

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—Prospects for unsettled weather in the South over the Easter holidays with relatively firm Liverpool cables, led to advances in the cotton market early today.

Some of yesterday's sellers for a reaction evidently were covering and after opening steady at an advance of 3 to 6 points, active months soon showed net gains of 4 to 13 points. May selling up to 18.75¢ and October 17.75¢. Trading was fairly active but the advance met some selling on reports that spots were offered more freely in the Carolinas late yesterday and a feeling of rain looked for in the South at the end of this week might be followed by prospects for clearing weather before the market re-opened for business on Monday.

The volume of business tapered off after the early advance and there were moderate reactions under realizing. The unsettled weather outlook checked off selling otherwise, however, and the market held fairly steady all day with May selling around 18.50¢ and October 17.70¢, or about 3 to 6 points net higher.

No fresh trading feature developed in the early afternoon and business was quiet, suggesting that small accounts had been evoked up for over the holidays. May contracts were selling around 18.50¢ and October 17.60¢ at 2 o'clock, or about 4 to 6 points net higher.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady. May 18.50¢; July 18.20¢; October 17.60¢; December 17.30¢; January 17.30¢.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Apr. 1. (AP)—The cotton opened steady in sympathy with better Liverpool cables than due and first trades showed gains of 2 to 6 points. Prices improved further after the call owing to the forecast for unsettled weather and showers in the belt. May traded up to 18.15¢, July to 17.80¢ and October to 17.10¢, or 11 to 14 points above yesterday's close. Trading was moderate owing to unwillingness to enter new commitments before the Easter holidays. At the end of the first hour the market was steady and near the high.

The market was firmer for a time near the end of the first hour and active months made new highs with May at 18.15¢, July at 17.80¢ and October at 17.10¢ or 11 to 14 points above yesterday's close. The stimulating move was the prospects of more rain in the belt. The bulls attracted more or less realizing and this caused prices to ease off and establish new lows on July 17.60¢ and October at 17.00¢, or 12 to 14 points down from the highs. The market towards noon was steadier and a little above the lows.

The market ruled quiet during the afternoon with prices fluctuating aimlessly within the previous range. There was little disposition to trade in advance of the triple Easter holiday, even the important news of the victory of the French ministry in its effort to equalize the budget asserted no influence. During the last half hour of trading prices were about half way between highs and lows.

NEW ORLEANS FUTURES

NEW ORLEANS, April 1. (AP)—Cotton opened steady. May 18.00¢, July 17.10¢, October 17.00¢, December 17.40¢.

LIVERPOOL SPOTS

LIVERPOOL, April 1. (AP)—Cotton spot quiet. American strictly good middling 11.15¢; good middling 10.85¢; middling 10.15¢; strictly low middling 9.51¢; low middling 8.51¢; strictly good ordinary 7.55¢; good ordinary 6.96¢. Sales—6,000 bales; 2,400 American. Receipts 21,600; American 6,400.

Stocks And Money

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—Foreign exchange irregular. Britain demand 4.85%; cables 4.85 1/2-16; sixty-day bills on banks 4.81%; France demand 2.44%; cables 2.45; Belgium 2.54; Germany 23.80; Tokio 46; Montreal 99 13-16.

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—Encouraged by the first important rally in more than a month constructive market forces continued to hold their advantage today, pushing prices sharply higher in early dealings. Remington Typewriter bounded up 3 1/2 points, American Smelting two points and initial gains of a point or so were recorded by United States Steel, Mack Trucks, North American, E. S. Kravitz. Hurried covering sent most of the motor up under the leadership of Chrysler.

Resistance to the early rise developed in the subsequent dealings with trading proceeding at a more normal pace. Further gains of 2 to 3 1/2 points were made by Delaware and Hudson, DuPont, Chrysler, Open Cola and Texas Gulf Sulphur together with advances of one to two points by such rail shares as Nickel Plate, Chicago and Northwestern, Louisville and Nashville, Wheeling and Lake Erie and Atlantic Coast Line before the market eased off again on renewed selling of the motors and high-priced specialties. Hudson Motors, after climbing to 73, fell back 10 1/2%, and General Electric, Woolworth and American Locomotive sold one to two points lower. Baldwin Locomotive opened four points higher but soon lost half of its gain. Foreign exchanges were irregular at the opening with demand sterling unchanged at 4.85% and Belgian francs plunging to a new low level at 2.53 cents.

Grain Markets

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Apr. 1. (AP)—With private crop estimates today proving less bearish than had been looked for and with Liverpool quotations showing relative strength, the wheat market here averaged a little higher today during the early dealings. The fact that tomorrow is holiday tended to restrict new buying, however, and to hold advances in check. Chicago opening prices 1/4¢ off to 1/2¢ up. May (new) 1.58 to 1.59, and July 1.34 to 1.34, were followed by a moderate general sag and then by a rally in which July and September scored gains.

Corn and oats were firm. After opening unchanged to 1/4¢ higher, May 7 1/2 to 7 1/2 5-8, corn held near the initial range.

Oats started unchanged to 3-8¢ off May 41 to 41 1/2¢. Later, all months showed a little advance.

An upturn in no values helped to steady the provision market.

Eggs higher; firsts 24 1/2@29; ordinary firsts 27 1/2; storage pack extras 20 1/2; firsts 23 1/2.

Clean-Up Meeting To Be Held At Slaton

A general mass meeting of the citizens of Slaton is to be held tonight when plans will be perfected for carrying on a clean-up campaign there next week simultaneously with the drive to be waged here. Miss Anna Bruckner, county health nurse said Thursday.

Several local people, including health officials and others who are vitally interested in the work of such a campaign plan to attend the Slaton meeting, and offer any assistance possible. Miss Bruckner said.

Prohibition is six years old and still some folks refuse to take any notice of it.—Des Moines Register.

MEXICO SADDENED OVER DEATH OF GEN. FLORES

NOGALES, Ariz., April 1. (AP)—Gen. Angel Flores, Mexican statesman, military leader and one time aspirant for the presidency of the Southern country, is dead, dispatches received here last night from Culiacan, Sinaloa, Mexico, said.

Stricken with pneumonia several weeks ago, he suffered a relapse and succumbed after physicians had pronounced him out of danger.

Flores had played prominent part in Mexican national affairs since he opposed President Calles for election in 1924 as the nominee of the Reformed Revolutionary party. Although rumor had it from time to time that he would head a revolution to depose Calles, he offered no open opposition and Calles was inaugurated on December 1, 1924, as the second chief executive in the history of the republic to assume office with a peace title status.

VALUATION PLACED

WASHINGTON, Apr. 1. (AP)—Tentative valuation of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern Railway of Oklahoma, as of June 30, 1919, was fixed today by the Interstate Commerce Commission at $5,464,924. A final valuation of $29,720 was placed on the property of the Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri Railroad, as of June 30, 1919.

SNOWS SWEEPING OVER MUCH OF MIDWEST

KANSAS CITY, April 1. (AP)—April came in with a snow storm in Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, and Northwest Missouri today. From Oklahoma to the Gulf, however, it was clear, with indications, according to the weather bureau, that there might be rain or snow before night.

It was the second phase of the big her-home.

storm that swept out of the Rockies last Sunday. The weather bureau explained, and it looked as though the Southwest was in for it for another two days.

"Earlier Sunday night, be clear," said P. Connel, government forecaster, but more than that he would not risk. He explained that this section was surrounded by storm disturbances that might extend over the week-end.

Interesting Facts about Gasoline

Oil Fields in the United States Today

The map shows that no one section of the country has a corner on oil production, although the three states, Oklahoma, California and Texas, yield three-fourths of the nation's oil.

The first commercial oil wells were drilled in Pennsylvania and for a period of twenty-five years all our oil came from that State. Now there are seven major fields in the United States, as shown by the map. Less than 5 per cent of the oil produced in America comes from Pennsylvania today.

Crude from the North Texas portion of the Mid-Continent Field is especially adapted to the manufacture of high-grade Gasoline.

The Simms Company owns over 400 producing wells in the Mid-Continent Field. Its refinery at Dallas is equipped with North Texas Crude.

MUSSOLINI GAINS FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

IN STEPS TAKEN BY COUNCIL

Two Decisions Taken After All-Night Session Are Important

ROME, April 1. (AP)—After an all-night session the grand council of the Fascist party this morning took an important step toward realization of Premier Mussolini's dream of the perfect Fascist state, with capital and labor working in co-operation for the common welfare.

Two decisions were taken shortly after dawn. First, a provision for direct labor union representation in the senate and second, appointment to the general secretaryship of the Fascist party of Augusto Turati of Brescia, well known as an organizer of Fascist labor unions. Turati succeeds Roberto Farinacci as general secretary. Turati is to be assisted by the Roman Fascist leader Michele, and Donatello Achille Starace of Apulia. Renato Ricci of Tuscany and Leandro Arpinto of Bologna, a fact which is doubly significant in that all four are also labor union organizers and that the work of the party secretariat is to be thus divided.

Turati's appointment is taken as a sure indication of a decision by Mussolini that Fascism militant and destructive role as personified by Farinacci has ended and that its constructive role of organizing the masses of Italy for smoother and intensified productivity has begun. Turati is a newspaperman. He was born in Parma in 1888. After serving brilliantly in the World War, winning decorations several times, he began in 1919 the work of organizing Fascist Fascism but devoted himself particularly to labor and social problems.

Two other important decisions were taken, one granting a seat in the Fascist grand council to a representative of the general Fascist banking federation and the other restricting the power of issue currency to the bank of Italy, permitting the Bank of Naples and the Bank of Sicily to become strong individuals institutions, particularly aiming at the development of the Southern portion of Italy.

The council approved orders of the day favoring the extension of assistance for propaganda purposes to Italian Fascist organizations abroad and condemning in favor of Parliamentary elections. The acceptance of Farinacci's resignation as Secretary-General was prefaced by a three-hour speech by Mussolini describing the international system of Fascism. The nature of his remarks was not divulged.

Kisses Are Defective

POWDER PUFF ALSO FOUL

Experiment Discloses

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., April 1. (AP)—Kisses, powder puffs and the tips of lead pencils are taboo with students of biology at the University of Arkansas.

Two slices of an ordinary Irish potato and a dish of gelatin are responsible.

As a laboratory experiment one of the students—a boy—was asked to kiss a slice of potato. This potato was then interned under an airtight glass dish. Several days later the students examined it. Four different kinds of molds were found. They were described as the kinds of mold found on jelly and old shoes, and there were several colonies of red, yellow, white and purple bacteria.

The instructor explained that the "penicillium" spore in the kiss had played havoc with the potato.

Then a powder puff was borrowed from one of the coeds. It was dusted on another slice of potato. Six kinds of mold as well as numerous bacteria appeared on the potato a few days later.

A pencil point was touched to a piece of gelatin. Two kinds of mold developed.

The students remarked at the floral appearance of the results of the experiment as seen through a microscope.

Seek To Break Down Tariff Law, Charge

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—The tariff law has been "misadministered" by the majority of the present tariff commission for the deliberate purpose of breaking it down, Commissioner Dennis, a Democrat, charged today before the Senate investigation committee.

The break down was attributed by Mr. Dennis to the bias of Chairman Marvin backed up by Commissioners Glass, Brown and Baldwin. He accused the chairman of being "unfair" and having an obsession on the tariff question.

"The tariff law and the tariff commission have broken down," he continued. "I believed in the law until six months ago but since then I have no faith in the administration of the law by the present commission."

Teacher Fears for Ideals of America

FORT WORTH, April 1. (AP)—An American, notorious for lack of integrity in private and in public life is feared for 25 years from now by Miss Harriet Smith of Huntsville, member of the executive committee of the Texas State Teachers' association. The public schools of Texas and of the nation must teach citizenship in a very definite way, she declared, if the nation is to maintain the ideals of its founders.

"Public issues 25 years hence will be what the boys and girls now in school are deciding to make them," Miss Smith pointed out. "If we want the nation to be what it should be, the public school teachers of today must know these issues and guide their pupils right."

Tarleton Colleg Announces Contest

STEPHENVILLE, April 1. (AP)—John Tarleton Agricultural College, which is located here, announced a national egg laying contest to farmers and poultrymen in the United States.

Business men here raised $1,000 to supplement the college funds and made the contest possible. It will run from November 1 next to October 26, 1927. Its object is to further develop the poultry industry and is designed as an answer to the request of poultrymen who long have been seeking some plan which might prove of value.

W. C. Homeyer, professor of poultry husbandry, will be in charge of the contest. College employees will be used in caring for the contest pens.

LEGAL LOOPHOLES SOUGHT TO GET BAIL FOR MAN CHARGED WITH TWO MURDERS; PAT NEFF IS ATTORNEY

(By The Associated Press)
AUSTIN, April 1.—Pat Neff, charged with murder in connection with the killing of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sanborn, should be allowed bail because the state failed to prove self-defense by placing on the stand James Whitten, railway station agent. Neff's attorneys argued here today before the court of criminal appeals.

Whitten testified that he had occasion to go to the Sanborn home, where he found Mrs. Sanborn and Mr. Sanborn mortally wounded. Whitten said Sanborn told him Fall, without warning, had begun firing and then Mrs. Sanborn and his wife were stretched on the floor. Fall had placed a knife in the Sanborn's side and a poker by the side of Mrs. Sanborn.

Money Is Mentioned
The station agent testified Sanborn told him that Fall had said something about collecting $50,000, that Mrs. Sanborn replied she would see about the matter, and that immediately thereafter the firing started.

The defense sought to extract from Whitten just what was the occasion that brought him to the Sanborn home but the District Court upheld objection of the state that it had not gone into that matter.

"For the purpose of completing the record for appeal, Whitten was allowed to give details," he said he was awakened about 11 o'clock by Fall, and walked with him about 400 yards to the Sanborn home. As they walked, Fall told him that Sanborn and Mrs. Sanborn had attacked him, one with a knife, and the other with a poker, and that he had been forced to shoot his way out. Fall said he believed he had killed Sanborn, and expressed fear he had injured Mrs. Sanborn.

Neff Is Attorney
Pat M. Neff, of Waco, and George S. King, of Houston, Fall's attorneys declared the issue of self defense had been clearly raised by what they termed Fall's "verbal" statement to Whitten.

"The state rests its case on dying statements of Sanborn; but those statements must not be allowed to destroy the defendant's right to bail in an unexplained killing, in which the issue of self defense is evident," King said.

LOREE LEAVES ON RAIL TRIP IN 4 STATES

ST. LOUIS, Apr. 1.—L. P. Loree, chairman of the board of the Kansas City Southern Railroad and director of the Missouri, Kansas, Texas and St. Louis-Southwestern (Cotton Belt) railroads, left here today for a tour of the three roads for a tour of the M. K. & T. system.

Loree was not ready to discuss details for his plan for centralized control of the three lines but said that in the near future he would submit a plan to the Interstate Commerce Commission which called for operation of the lines "as a family group with the element of competition maintained."

Great railroad consolidations would be necessarily limited, Loree said, by the capacity of men to direct them and the length of the working day. He said the vast reaches of this country offered ample opportunity for combines but man power had its limitations and could not effectively handle programs that were ambitious.

Loree is expected to fill with one of his own men the chairmanship of the M. K. T. board vacated recently by the resignation of Henry Ruplander.

Loree was accompanied by C. N. Whitehead, operating vice president of the Katy, who will shortly succeed to the presidency on the retirement of C. E. Schaaf; J. E. Aasen, president of Kansas City Southern and Daniel Upthegrove, president of the Cotton Belt.

Reign of Terror Is Reported At Velasco
HAVANA, April 1.—Two men murdered, two seriously wounded and the discovery of a man's body hanging from a tree are the latest developments reported from Western Camaguey province, which has had a plague of bandits for the past month.

More than a dozen persons have been killed or wounded in the past two weeks.

He's World "Rabbit King"

P. P. Dose of Norwich, Kas., might be called the world rabbit king; at least, he expects to sell about 20,000 rabbits this year. He sells jack rabbits to race course promoters and cottontails to game preserves, and has $2000 invested in traps and nets to catch them.

FRENCH BUDGET FINALLY FIXED

Battle of Two Years Is Over As Briand's Ministry Is Sustained By Vote

(By The Associated Press)
PARIS, April 1.—The French budget is finally balanced after two years of efforts in which four cabinets and six finance ministers have fallen.

The Chamber of Deputies concluded an all-night session at 3 o'clock this morning by voting new resources sufficient to wipe out the budget deficit and establish a surplus of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 francs. This surplus is looked upon as assuring the continuance of the Briand ministry for several months at least.

The vote on the combined measure was 236 to 175, with 100 deputies abstaining. The Senate is expected to pass the bill promptly without essential amendments, thus ending the first phase of France's effort to restore her finances.

The second phase will open when Parliament reconvenes after the Easter vacation. Finance Minister Peret will then introduce legislation to finance a sinking fund to take care of the interest and amortization of the debt.

Bills already passed by the Chamber authorize a national lottery and provide for the receipt of voluntary contributions for this purpose. Mr. Peret, however, does not regard those measures as sufficient and probably will introduce a bill for some sort of obligatory contributions acceptable to the powerful groups of the Left.

The receipts from the new measure are estimated at 2,500,000,000 francs ($417,500,000), while the budget deficit was 2,450,000,000 francs ($408,333,333). Allowing for variations in the yield from the new measure, the surplus will be somewhere between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 francs.

Three-quarters of the new taxes are indirect. The largest sum, 1,200,000,000 francs ($200,000,000), is provided by the increase in the tax on business turnover of wholesalers and jobbers. Alcohol is asked to furnish 250,000,000 francs ($41,666,667) while the individual poll tax is expected to bring $10,000,000 francs ($1,666,667).

EXPECT ARREST IN BOOZE CASE

Officers Fired On By Hidden Moonshiners; One Man Is Recognized By Cops

(By The Associated Press)
GLEN ROSE, Tex., April 1.—An arrest was expected today as a sequel to the ambushing and wounding of Deputy Sheriff J. R. Palmer, of Somervell county, at a moonshine camp near here late yesterday. Sheriff John Dalton and Deputy Palmer and J. L. Nickell saw only one man whom they recognized during the gun fight which followed the ambush; they said.

The three officers had seized two copper stills of eighty gallons capacity each, within 200 yards of an apparently unoccupied shack. A well beaten path led from the moonshiners' scene of operations, but there was no sign of life about the cedars which studied the path as Dalton and Palmer, having left Nickell guarding the sheriff's car, and the stills, returned for a quantity of whiskey.

As they approached a quick between them and the whiskey cache they were fired upon by men hidden in the cedar brake. The officers returned shot for shot wherever they could see smoke, until their attention was attracted by shots from another direction on the hill 100 feet above their heads; the moonshiners' lookout, not blazing away at them with a rifle, it was this man the officers say they recognized. A .38 revolver bullet entered Palmer's hip but he kept on fighting. Physicians examined the bullet where it had lodged in his hip.

FARMERS' RELIEF INTERRUPTED AGAIN

SOLONS CALL TIME OUT TO ASK WHY SOMEONE DOESN'T WORK

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 1.—The farmers' tale of distress which has been weeks in telling, has been interrupted for a time in the house agriculture committee today, while committee members asked each other why something was not being done to provide relief.

Only echo answered, and then the taking of testimony was resumed with many witnesses still waiting.

The question of bringing the committee's deliberations to the point of action was raised by Representative Farnell, Republican, Indiana.

"The committee is being held responsible by the country for this delay," he said, "I am tired of hearing conditions described, because we have heard that a hundred times."

Representative Rubey, Democrat, Missouri, said he was glad to hear "that sort of talk" from a Republican, but Mr. Farnell replied that the Republicans had offered more remedies than the Democrats.

"If we presented 100," returned Rubey, "they wouldn't be acted on because all legislation is coming from the majority."

The committee then proceeded to hear Representative Littlefield, Democrat, Kansas, author of bills to fix prices, store surplus crops and prevent speculation.

Before the Senate agriculture committee, Professor Charles L. Stewart, of the University of Illinois, supported the McKinley farm export debenture bill.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Chairman Marvin of the tariff commission was blamed today by one of his Democratic colleagues, Commissioner Dennis, for the commission's failure to consider any reduction in wool for the textile rates.

Mr. Dennis, informed the Senate tariff investigators that the commission had been told these rates were so high as to constitute an embargo, but that action was blocked by Mr. Marvin, "who appeared before the House ways and means committee before he was appointed to the commission in an effort to get higher duties on wools."

Dennis Questions Facts
"He makes his opposition on the grounds that the subject is too complex," said Dennis. "If that is so, why is the chairman conducting an investigation headed toward increased duty in the pottery industry, which is just as complicated? We are up to our necks in the pottery investigation."

He declared the commission had pigeon-holed the vegetable oil case. Commissioner Dennis suffered a nervous attack while testifying. After several minutes in an anteroom, he returned to the stand but was unable to read his notes, and the committee adjourned until Monday.

A confidential report of the tariff commission delivered to the Senate committee by subpoena and made public today shows that the commission recommended a reduction in the duty of linseed oil on March 2, 1925, but that the president has not acted.

The report held that the existing duty of $2.50 per pound does not equalize differences in the cost of production in the United States and abroad.

DIG TRAIN OUT OF OKLAHOMA SNOW
PAWBUKA, Okla., April 1.—(AP)—Efforts went forward slowly today to dig an imprisoned Midland Valley passenger train from a snow bank near Foraker where it has been wedged since Tuesday. Battering at the snow-filled cuts with heavy locomotives, rescue crews had gotten early today to within a half mile of the vicinity of the stalled passenger, but before they can release the train a wrecker must replace two derailed cars on a freight train which is stuck in front of the passenger train.

Officials of the railroad said it probably would be evening before the passenger train could be moved. A roadway was opened late yesterday into Foraker, however, and those who wished to go into town were taken by wagon. Only a few went.

Traffic on branch lines of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific near Enid was normal today, two stalled passenger trains there having been released late yesterday and last night.

LEAGUE ASKS U. S. FOR COOPERATION
GENEVA, April 1.—(AP)—The nations which have signed the protocol of the permanent court of international justice have been advised by the League of Nations to indicate to the United States government the difficulty of treating American reservations to adhesion to the court by direct exchange of notes and to point out the need for a general agreement.

The league has made this recommendation in a circular letter addressed to all the signatories inviting them to the conference to be held September 1, at Geneva, to consider the American reservations.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(AP)—Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee and leader in the fight to keep this country out of the World Court, said the League of Nations circular opposing acceptance of the American court reservations by direct negotiation was a logical development.

"They are trying to draw us into negotiations with the league," the Senator added.

El Paso Mason Will Make Address This Evening At Feast

W. M. Stockwell, 34 degree Mason, of El Paso, will make the principal address at the Maundy Thursday feast and ceremonies in the basement of the Lander building at 8:30 o'clock this evening. This is an annual feast of the Scottish Rite Masons.

Edgar I. Hall, 22 degree, is toastmaster for the evening and toasts will be made by Robert Higgins, Charles F. O'Neill, James H. Goodman, Neil H. Wright, Pink L. Parrish and E. L. Robertson. A number of Masons from the South Plains district are expected to attend. Mr. Hall said this afternoon.

Gets By
Nelle, four-month-old fox terrier owned by Dr. P. W. Horner of Elkhart Ind., was born without any front legs, but she gets by anyway. She has learned to walk about on her hind legs, using her stubby tail as an added support, and seems to enjoy life thoroughly.
