Roll Call in County Reaches Record High

Four Inch Snow Fall Here Saturday

Following a four inch snow on Saturday afternoon and Saturday night, a cold wave hit this area. The snow, melting nearly as fast as it fell, showed a moisture content of 40 inches, according to the government gauge kept by Judge Jack Allen. On Monday, the temperature hit a new low for this month, going to 13, as recorded by the official gauge maintained at the courthouse. Tuesday, the weather moderated, and as the Herald goes to press Wednesday afternoon, the sun is shining and it is ideal for Thanksgiving vacations and football games.

C. of C. Slate For Directors Nominated

Ballots will be mailed this week and to members of the Perryton Chamber of Commerce for the election of seven directors to serve during 1942. The following nominees will appear on the ballot: Aldon Bell, Louis Bryan, Harold Hawk, D. D. Sinson, John Sammons, Ford Hamker, W. E. Castle, Drew Ellis, J. A. Russell, R. T. Shindler, Walter A. Master, Steiner Mason, Lawrence Elzey and J. H. Brashers. The first four on the above list are now completing their first year on the board. They have been nominated for reelection. The other three members of the present board, now completing two successive one-year terms, are H. C. Sanford, W. B. Reid and J. H. Stephenson Jr. From the above list of nominees the membership will name seven or members have the privilege of writing in candidates as they choose. Directors serve for a one year term and the board elects from their members the officers of the Chamber. Members of the nominating committee were R. B. Orrill, chairman; Sam Herget, T. R. Murray, Howard Holt and W. B. LaMaster.

Decorating Main Street For Christmas

The Perryton business district has already started to take on the large pine trees from the mountains have been placed in the middle of each of the four main business blocks. Strings of multi-colored lights will be placed across Main Street this week. It is also planned to decorate the white way lighting standards with evergreen trees. In charge of street lighting and decorations is a committee consisting of C. E. Whippo, chairman; Laverne Schnelle, Frank Winn, J. C. Crause and Wm Seymour.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Roach left Tuesday for College Station where Mrs. Roach will attend a meeting of the state executive board of the Texas Home Demonstration Clubs. Mrs. Roach is state treasurer. Mr. Roach is state president of the Texas Farm Bureau.

Santa Claus Will Be in Perryton Tues., Dec. 2 With Free Candy

Yes children, Santa Claus is really going to be in Perryton next Tuesday December 2 for the big Christmas parade and that's not all, he's made arrangements with a committee consisting of Louis Bryan, chairman W. M. Boston, H. I. Hudson, A. B. Hamman and George Rice for the preparation of 1,500 bags of candy for him to give out at the Santa Claus parade Tuesday afternoon.

The candy is all ready and old Santa will arrive here in plenty of time for the parade. He wants to see everyone of his little friends in Perryton Tuesday. Most of the schools in the Perryton area are closing Tuesday afternoon so that the students from the lower grades can visit with Santa in Perryton.

We thank Thee, O Father, for all that is bright—
The gleam of the day and the stars of the night,
The flowers of our youth and the fruits of our prime,
And the blessings that march down the pathway of time.

We thank Thee, O Father, for all that is dear—
The sob of the tempest, the flow of the tear;

For never in blindness, and never in vain,
Thy mercy permitted a sorrow or pain.

We thank Thee, O Father of all, for the power
Of aiding each other in life's darkest hour;
The generous heart and the bountiful hand
And all the soul-help that sad souls understand.

We thank Thee, O Father, for days yet to be;
For hopes that our future will call us to Thee.
Let all our eternity form, through Thy love,
One Thanksgiving Day in the mansions above.

Red Cross Work Rooms Open Monday Evenings

Members of the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority have designated each Monday evening as their Red Cross work night. Any person wishing to do Red Cross work on Monday evenings are invited to be on hand. The Red Cross room will open at 7:30 p. m. on each Monday with two Sorority members as hostesses. Next Monday evening, December 1, Mrs. Dan Archer and Miss Caldwell will be hostesses.

Woods Attends Funeral of Brother

Matt D. Woods passed away in Topeka, Kansas, Wednesday, November 19 at the age of 82 years. He had been in failing health for several months and took pneumonia from which he did not rally. Funeral services were held in Nebraska City, Neb., the family home, on Friday afternoon.

Mr. Woods was the brother of C. E. Woods of this city. He has visited here several times and spent the winter here two years ago. C. E. Woods returned Sunday evening from attending the funeral services. While he was away, Mrs. Woods stayed with her sister, Mrs. Jennie Karau, Liberal, Kansas.

Waka Association Has Friday Meet

The Waka Parent Teachers Association held its regular monthly meeting Friday evening, November 21. Mrs. G. A. Burger was leader for the program.

Numbers were arranged as follows: song, congregation; play, "Thanksgiving," by school; music, orchestra; reading, Mrs. Marvin Groves; talk, "Americanism," Hadley Reeve; travelogue, Allan Denison; music, orchestra.

Plans are being made for a chuck wagon dinner to be held in the near future. Definite announcements will be made soon.

USO-Victory to Honor Selectees

The following have been named by the Ochiltree County USO-Victory Committee to cooperate with other civic and patriotic organizations in honoring Ochiltree county youths departing for service in the U. S. Army, Marine Corps and Navy: Van W. Stewart, M. W. Truax, Mrs. Jack Allen, Lawrence Elzey and Irvin R. Buchanan.

The Pierce Johnson Post of The American Legion has named a committee and it is expected that other organizations will do the same with committees rotating in arranging entertainment and programs.

Dear Friends:

I want to hear from all my little friends in and near Perryton, and have made arrangements to have your Santa Claus letters printed in the Ochiltree County Herald. Just write and tell me what you want for Christmas. Address the letter to me in care of the Herald and don't forget to be good little children.

SANTA CLAUS

Perryton Observing Thanksgiving Today

Practically all business houses and offices are closed today in Perryton for the observance of Thanksgiving on the traditional old fashioned last Thursday in November. Despite the many good features of President Roosevelt's designation of the third Thursday as the official Thanksgiving, too many of us are just too 'set in our ways' to be amenable to the change. Others were against the change for the one and only reason that it was Roosevelt's proposal. So today is Thanksgiving in Perryton and in Texas. Perryton schools closed Wednesday afternoon to resume classes Monday. There will be no public observance of Thanksgiving in Perryton with the exception of special services at the Christian Science church. Most Perryton folks will gather around turkey laden family tables with thanks to their Maker for just that privilege.

Ten Bands in Perryton Santa Claus Parade

Glenn Truax, director of music in the Perryton schools and marshal for Perryton's Santa Claus parade on Tuesday, Dec. 2, 1:30 p. m., announced that at least ten and possibly more musical organizations will be in the line of march. Bands that have accepted definitely are school organizations from Higgins, Booker, Laverne, Spearman, Shattuck, Beaver and Follett. In addition to the above visiting bands there will be the Perryton Rangers and the Junior High bands and the girls' Drum and Bugle Corps. A number of other bands invited have not declined or accepted.

The members of the musical organizations will be guests of the Perryton Chamber of Commerce at a feed in the high school cafeteria at the noon hour.

President's Jubilee Birthday Fete

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—President Roosevelt's coming birthday on January 30th, 1942, on which day the President will be sixty years of age, has been declared his Diamond Jubilee Birthday Celebration.

The President, in a letter to Keith Morgan, National Chairman of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, again gave the use of his birthday for the ninth consecutive year to raise funds for the nation-wide fight against Infantile Paralysis.

It's Boston's Not Piggly Wiggly

After doing business for 12 years in Perryton under the name of the Piggly Wiggly grocery and meat market, W. M. and L. C. Boston, owners of the Piggly Wiggly, have decided to discard the nationally known name.

In the future this popular food mart will be known as the Boston Grocery and Market. In announcing the new name, the owners stated that there would be no changes in employees or policy, that high class merchandise at reasonable prices, not just special leaders but consistent low prices throughout the store would continue as in the past.

During the 12 years that Boston brothers have been in the food business in Perryton, they have built up a large list of satisfied customers through their policy of square dealing and fair prices. This firm and its employees and owners are among the Perryton community's most valuable assets.

Santa Claus With Free Candy For the Kiddies, Bands, Floats and Pet Division

Perryton will be the mecca for all the children of this part of the Southwest on Tuesday, December 2, when Santa Claus will be in town to talk with all the little ones and then he's sent word that he will have a sack of candy to give every little boy and every little girl who is in Perryton on that day.

Legion and Auxiliary Meeting, Monday Nite

The Pierce Johnson Post and Unit of The American Legion Auxiliary will hold their regular business session Monday night, December 1. All members of both organizations are urged to attend. M. W. Truax, commander, and A. P. Spicer, adjutant, will be in charge of the Post meeting. The Unit session will be directed by Mrs. E. B. Gyger, president, and Mrs. R. P. Hurn, secretary.

JUST HERE and THERE

Perryton dairymen have reached the limit of patience with small boys who are making a practice of stealing milk from customers' door sets. Some steal the bottles for the milk, others for the resale value of the bottles and other just for down right "oneriness."

But regardless of why the milk is taken, it is a crime and should be stopped. Milkmen tell us that they know some of the boys that are implicated and if the thefts do not stop at once, they'll have to have the boys arrested. Parents of offending youths can do most to stop these law violations.

The fact that farm income for 1941 will reach the highest total in many years, is being widely publicized. However that doesn't mean that all is well with agriculture. The farmer's costs of labor, materials and taxes is also reaching record levels.

The upshot is that the farm problem is not solved. Farm organizations still have a big job to do. The farmer remains in an unfavorable position in comparison with industry and labor. All of which calls for more unified organization and cooperation between farmers if they ever wish to be in power to demand and receive equal rights.

The story is told of the young man in Arkansas who asked a father for the hand of his daughter and the father inquired into his prospects at making a living. The young man enthusiastically declared that FSA would pay him to work only a part of it. WFA would give his wife work in the sewing room and himself some work on the winter roads. The surplus commodities corporation would furnish food, the extension agency would arrange for mattress and bedding, and the federal agencies would supply doctors and hospital needs if necessary. He saw his prospects as the brightest of any young couple.—Walter Herald.

Labor troubles continue to make the headlines. Ont in this country where we have little or no organized labor, we're very frank in our criticism of unionism. The unions blame industrialists. The manufacturers cuss the union.

Congress lets out a snort against unionism that don't mean a thing. The President issues statements that you can't pin a thing on. See No. 6, Back Page

Old Santa will also ride in the big Santa Claus parade that steps off promptly at 1:30 o'clock that afternoon. In the parade with Santa will be bands and more bands, beautiful floats and 250 children with their pets.

C. Wedgeworth and Glenn Truax are the general chairmen for the days program and parade. Mr. Truax will serve as parade marshal.

Biblical floats depicting the story of the birth of Christ are being built for the parade by the following churches: Church of Christ, First Christian, First Baptist and First Methodist.

There will be at least ten musical organizations in the parade, three from Perryton and bands from Higgins, Booker, Laverne, Spearman, Shattuck, Beaver and Follett.

One of the features of the Santa Claus parade is expected to be the pet division in which $25 in cash prizes will be awarded. Every entry will receive a prize.

Rangers Lose to Follett 19-6

The Perryton Rangers closed their 1941 season with a 19-6 loss to the Follett Panthers. The game was played on Ranger Field last Thursday afternoon.

The Rangers have had a very disastrous season, winning one game, one tie game and seven losses.

Nine 1-A Registrants Are Examined

Nine Class 1-A registrants of Ochiltree County were taken to the Army Examination Station in Dallas, Sunday, November 23, for a physical and check up examination and returned to Perryton Monday.

Those sent to Dallas for the examination were: Lee Julian Edge, Billy Reed Parvin, Leonard Alfred Overton, Ezra Keelin, Joe Browning Steele, Clark Mobley Osborne, Stanley Cleon Beard, Julius Gus Seegid and Sam Littau. All passed the examination except Osborne.

The Ochiltree County Selective Service Board has two calls for men in December. One selectee has been called for December 1 and six for December 9. None of these examined in Dallas will be called in December.

Clarendon Gas Suit Ended

AUSTIN, Nov. 24—The end of a court dispute in which the railroad commission aided the city of Clarendon to obtain reduced gas rates came today with entry of an agreed judgement in the Third Court of Civil Appeals.

The order set the rate to be charged by the city gas company at $1 for the first 1,000 cubic feet and 50 cents for each additional thousand.

It also provided the Company award the city $10,000 for its gas users, to be distributed prorata according to amount used.

A trial court had rendered judgment in favor of the city and the railroad commission.

Churches Are Preparing Biblical Floats for Santa Claus Parade

One of the features of the Christmas parade in Perryton at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday, December 2, will be the four floats depicting biblical scenes pertaining to the birth of Christ.

These floats are being prepared by Perryton churches who are to be commended for their community spirit.

The first float, "Mary and Joseph Going to Bethlehem," is sponsored by the Fidelity Class of the First Christian Church Sunday School. Mrs. Harold Ballard is president of this class.

The Kingdom Builders Class, taught by Mrs. Stanley Key in the Sunday School of the First Baptist Church, will enter a float depicting "Christ's Birth in the Manger."

The Church of Christ congregation under the direction of Brother Ed Mullins is building a float showing the "Shepherd's Scene." A chorus of voices will be used in connection with this entry.

The fourth in this series of biblical floats will present the "Three Wise Men." It is being sponsored by Dave Shanks' Livingston Class of the Methodist Sunday School.

Plans and details for the biblical floats were made by a committee headed by Mrs. W. H. Lane.

NORTHEAST TEXAS-PANHANDLE AND WESTERN OKLAHOMA FARM AND RANCH NEWS

Many Attend USDA Meetings

A series of meetings were held in different communities of the county by members of the county USDA Defense board and other persons working with farm people to acquaint farmers with the Food for Defense program.

At the same meeting the machinery repair problem and the need for scrap iron were explained. Meetings were held at Huttoon, Waka, Lone Tree, Nolia and McMillen. The meeting scheduled for Perryton Saturday afternoon was called off on account of the storm.

Those assisting in the program were Audie Conley, Ford Hamker, R. A. Turner, C. H. Williams, Miss Lois Pearson, Miss Elizabeth Huffhines and E. W. Thomas.

Interest was added to the meetings at Huttoon, Waka and McMillen by the showing of a moving picture of local interest by John Sammons, I. R. Buchanan and LeRoy Hartman.

Those in attendance showed themselves keenly interested in the discussions.

Lice-Free Hogs Will Bring Much Higher Prices

STILLWATER, Okla. —(Special) —Hogs kept free from lice and mange are more thrifty, more free from other diseases, and will gain more rapidly, produce their gains on less feed and sell for a higher price when put on the market, according to C. P. Thompson of the Oklahoma A. and M. College animal husbandry department.

Crude oil has been found to be most effective for destroying lice. Crude oil as it comes from the well is even better than refined oil. Kerosene may be used for thinning the oil if it is extra heavy. Used crank case or cylinder oil is just as good as any other kind.

A frequently applied mixture of one pint of kerosene with two gallons of crude oil direct from the well or used crank case oil will kill the mange mite. A more effective treatment may be had by using lime and sulphur, in proportion of one pint of liquid lime and sulphur, to 25 parts of water. A normal condition of the hog's skin and hair will be required if the sulphur treatment is followed in a week with an application of crude oil.

Warm sunny days should be for oiling hogs and afterwards the hogs should be given plenty of dry bedding.

The most simple and successful way to apply oil to hogs is some form of spraying, says Thompson. It makes no difference how the oil is applied so long as the hogs are thoroughly covered.

A rough coat of hair, a general run-down and unthrifty condition, rubbing on fences and buildings, and bleeding are all indications that pigs are infested by a large number of lice. Mangy hogs exhibit about the same appearance but the conditions are more severe.

Not Too Late to Fill Trench Silos

Trench silos can still be filled this fall with feed from the shocks according to County Agent E. W. Thomas. In many cases bundles have been damaged either on the ground or in shocks. Unless the damage by spoilage has been severe the feed can be cut up and will make good silage.

Much of the feed is still wet in the shocks and it will be several weeks before it can be stacked while it could be put in silos at once.

R. H. Holland has filled a silo with sweet sorghum that had been hit by the frost before it was cut and reports that it was necessary to add very little water to make the material pack down satisfactorily.

Check Farm Mach. Needs

According to word received by Audie Conley, Chairman of the Ochiltree County USDA Defense board, the production of new machinery and repair parts for farm machinery will be greatly curtailed during the coming year for the reason that the OPM has asked for a drastic reduction in steel for civilian needs because of the unprecedented quantities needed in the manufacture of guns, planes, tanks and bombers.

All farmers are therefore asked to check their machinery and order all necessary parts by Jan. 1. If this is done, manufacturers will have a sound, practical idea of the quantities of steel needed for repair parts. If it is found that parts cannot be secured, farmers should notify the county defense board.

Twichell Ag Club To Meet December 5

The meeting of the Twichell Ag Club for Friday night, November 28, has been postponed until Friday, December 5, on account of the Thanksgiving holidays.

Mrs. George Clennan returned home Saturday from a week's stay in Wichita, Kansas, where she received X-ray treatments for her ear. While there she visited in the home of her mother, Mrs. F. H. Bender.

Good Poultry Mash Contains Eight or More Ingredients

STILLWATER, Okla. —(Special)

The Standard Egg Laying Tests of the United States should be a guide to follow for the requirements of a good laying mash as these tests contain hens from the majority of the best breeders. These tests must of necessity feed and care for their hens in such a way as to make them lay many more eggs than the average hen.

A check of the ingredients of laying mash used in the tests reveals that most of them use alfalfa leaf meal, salt and dried buttermilk. All use meat and bone scraps, wheat bran, wheat shorts and various other ground grains. Practically every egg laying test mash contains eight or more ingredients.

The protein content of the average egg laying test mash is above 18 percent. This is probably the minimum amount that should be on a guarantee analysis tag of any laying mash purchased when grain is to be fed with the mash. Total crude protein content alone is not an indication of a good laying mash. The variety of the ingredients and quality of feeds used in the mixture are of great importance.

Bulk, mix and grind are important because the physical character of the mash, determines its palatability. A good mash should have the grains ground just fine enough to prevent the birds picking out the individual ingredients. The ingredients should be ground and mixed in such a way that the proportion of mash consumed by any one bird will have the same composition as that prescribed by the formula.

The great majority of feed manufacturers make an honest effort to produce good feed. If they do not produce a good feed all the time will not secure consistent results because the feed will not make their hens lay.

HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB NEWS

Merry Workers Club

The Merry Workers Home Demonstration club of the Gray, Okla., community, met at the home of Mrs. Chas. Stewart for an all day meeting, with sixteen members and eight visitors present. Miss Lair, county demonstrator, met with the group in the afternoon.

The meeting was called to order for the annual election. The following officers were elected: Mildred Leatherman, president; Ethel Seago, secretary-treasurer; Alma Rorabaugh, vice-president; Agnes Cassidy, reporter. Greater cooperation among the members in the various activities was urged.

The next meeting will be with Birdie Tregellas on December 11, at which time the club will have its Christmas pie, which is looked forward to by the members. The pie will be made up of inexpensive presents within a definite price range—Agnes Cassidy, reporter.

Ochiltree Club

"The buffet dinner solves the problem of serving easily without the help of a maid," stated Mrs. Wright at the meeting of the Ochiltree Home Demonstration club Friday, November 21 in the home of Mrs. Kirt Williams.

Some of the comments "Ways to Make the Meals More Pleasant" were to set the table neatly; carry on pleasant conversation; dress up the dishes to look more attractive; postpone the correction of children until after meal time.

Plans were made for the Christmas party which will be held December 19 in the home of Mrs. L. T. Wright. Mrs. Blasingame won the "Guess What" contest.

Those present were Mrs. H. C. Dodson, a visitor, Mrs. Robert Thurman, Mrs. L. T. Wright, Mrs. James Blasingame, Mrs. Edd Terhune, Mrs. Dell Wilson, Mrs. Ben Graham, Mrs. Chas. McCartney, Mrs. Claud Crouch, Mrs. A. L. Carter Jr. and the hostess, Mrs. Williams.

McMillen Club

The McMillen Home Demonstration club met in the home of the living room demonstrator, Mrs. B. L. Barnes, Tuesday, November 18, two o'clock.

Mrs. Barnes gave an interesting talk on the kinds of paint to use in redecorating the interior of the house. She stressed never using a cheap paint especially on a flat surface.

During the business session, a supper was planned for December 4.

Those present for the meeting were Mrs. Oscar Flowers, visitor.

Judiciary Committee, of

ings on the bill have already begun.
The Texas Senior Senator was named chairman of the subcommittee in charge of the legislation.

The bill provides that whenever plants, facilities, or mines are impeded or hindered by strikes or labor difficulties the President shall have authority to take them over.
It further provides that when the Government exercises such power the labor conditions, excepting wages, shall be frozen; a labor board would be set up to see that the workers receive a fair wage for their work in plants operated by the government.

Provisions are already on the law books for the government to take over when employers refuse to operate their plants for our national defense.

In introducing the bill, Senator Connally stated to the Senate, "I do not believe that the great mass of the laboring men in the United State sympathize with the effort to use the strike as a weapon against the government in this critical hour of the nation's history, at a time when men are being called to training camps at $21 per month."

Perryton Business Men Subscribe $600 for Pre-Holiday Activities and Decorations

Perryton business streets will soon be gaily decorated with Christmas trees and evergreen, the streets will be festooned with vari-colored twinkling Christmas lights. On Tuesday, December 2, a gigantic Santa Claus parade will be held downtown with flashily garbed bands marching and playing soul stirring tunes, hundreds of little tots will parade their pets, there will be beautiful floats depicting Christmas scenes and last but not least will be old Santa Claus himself with well filled sacks of candy for every little child.

This is another one of those things that didn't just happen. It is being made possible by the liberal response by Perryton business and professional men to the solicitation committees from the Chamber of Commerce who collected $595.50 to carry on the Christmas program.

Practically every person solicited donated to the fund. There were a few turn-downs and there were a number of others that the committee did not get to see, so if your name does not appear on the following list and you desire to help with Perryton's Christmas program, give your donation to any member of the finance committee composed of H. C. Sanford, W. B.
Reid and Van W. Stewart.

NOTICE, AUTOMOBILE OWNERS

New Law Requires Certificate of Title When Registering Your Automobile

House Bill No. 205, Acts of the Regular Session of the 47th Legislature, and being an amendment to the original House Bill No. 407, and which became effective May 1, 1941, created the necessity of obtaining a certificate of title to a motor vehicle.

The amendment, among other things, provides that the owner of a motor vehicle must hold a Certificate of Title before the 1942 registration can be completed, provided said vehicle was purchased after January 1, 1936, as a new vehicle. In other words, if you now own a car that was purchased new prior to January 1, 1936, a certificate of title is not required in order to register for 1942, provided ownership of the car has not been transferred since October 1, 1939.

The certificate of title should be in your possession at all times while driving your automobile. Therefore, we suggest that you not wait until you are ready to register your car before determining if you have a certificate of title in your possession.

It takes time to obtain a certificate of title, and if you wait until you are ready to register your car before obtaining a certificate of title, you may not be able to complete registration until AFTER the deadline for registration.

Find out now if you have this certificate to your automobile. If so, keep it in your possession while driving. If not, make application for certificate of title now, while there is sufficient time. Remember, registration cannot be completed without a certificate of title if your car was new after January 1, 1936. A fee of FIFTY CENTS is required for each application for title.

Price Control or Inflation?

Price control or inflation? If one or the other is inevitable, price control seems to be the logical choice. But what kind of price control? In the current Rotarian magazine, Leon Henderson, U. S. Price Administrator, and Bernard M. Baruch, Chairman of the War Industries Board during World War I, debate the choice of methods to keep prices down.

Mr. Henderson states the problem for both arguments, when he writes that soon 2 billion dollars a month will be pouring into defense production. "Most of those dollars wind up in somebody's pocketbook . . . are itching to be spent," he says, "but the goods whose production they symbolize never come on the consumers' goods market. Instead they go to our Army or Navy, to Britain, to Russia, or to China . . . Some of those dollars are saved and invested in government bonds, some are drained off through higher taxes . . . The residue of those dollars left over is estimated to be 4 to 7 billions a year. Price control is the only method left to offset the (inflationary) pressure of those remaining billions."

With this, Mr. Baruch is in full agreement, for he writes, "Because of delay in coming to grips with the price problem, prices have advanced and inflation looms before us . . . Prompt enactment of a price-control law is the greatest single necessity of the current crisis."

But here their agreement ends, for Mr. Henderson holds for discretionary power to establish ceilings, while Mr. Baruch argues for all-out price control. Writes Price Administrator Henderson, "If the basic raw materials are held in check, then prices in the subsequent along-the-line manufacturing processes also ought to stay put." But Mr. Baruch, who held a very similar position during the last War, supports the principle of the Gore bill, "that a ceiling be put over all prices, rents, wages, commission fees, interest rates as of some date. Prices would not be frozen, but would fluctuate freely below this ceiling, although not above it."

As to wages, Mr. Henderson admits, "Neither does the (Steagall-Glass) bill attempt to fix wages. There is a good deal of legislation on the books designed to bring about a system of fair wages . . . I believe wages like every other cost must be kept in bounds. It is significant that in England . . . the precious right to bargain on wages has been retained." But Mr. Baruch finds the Gore bill's provisions more acceptable: "Labor's right to strike or to bargain collectively would not be infringed, nor would labor sacrifice any of the gains made in recent years. One provision specifically provides that no ceiling shall apply to wage below the standards of the wage and hour laws in the States. This probably will mean that wages of our lowest-paid workers will rise, which is as it should be."

The farmer's prices, under the Steagall-Glass bill, will be set, to quote Mr. Henderson, so that "no price could be fixed on any farm product below 100 percent of parity or the price on July 29, 1941, whichever is the higher." Mr. Baruch's choice is the Gore bill's proviso that "guarantees agriculture a ceiling at parity prices. To attempt to take advantage of the emergency to obtain more than 'parity' prices now may result in agriculture's losing the 'parity' status for which it has fought so long."

Mr. Baruch's main objection is that the Steagall-Glass bill is only piecemeal. "Psychologically, piecemeal control encourages prices to rise," he claims. "Under the piecemeal bill, the outlook for the future would be a steady rise in prices, slow perhaps, but sure, with no upper limit ever in sight."

One more point finds both men in agreement — and that is the necessity for immediate action. "We as a nation cannot afford to wait much longer, to haggle indefinitely over questions of detail," says Mr. Henderson, while Mr. Baruch warns that "procrastination has made the task of preventing inflation more difficult."

Old Wheat Field to Receive Attention During Anniversary

The oldest wheat field west of the Mississippi River which has been utilized solely for the continuous production of that particular crop is the plot of ground directly west of, and adjacent to Murray Hall on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus. In the fall of 1892, A. C. Magruder, first Professor of Agriculture at A. and M., began the experimentation project on the one acre plot and a continuous wheat experiment has been carried on ever since.

"How long can wheat be grown on land without a change in cropping system or without fertilizer treatment?" This was the idea that Magruder had in mind when he started the project, and as the college recognized its fiftieth anniversary, it also recognizes the valuable data derived from unceasing efforts of A. and M. officials to help the Oklahoma wheat farmer.

In the comparison of wheat production on both fertilized and unfertilized soil from 1899 to 1940, it was found that it was 12.99 bushels per acre to 21.44 bushels per acre, respectively, according to a report made by Horace J. Harper, Professor of agronomy at A. and M. These yields are averages and extend over the aforementioned period.

A recent chemical analysis of soil samples showed that the potential productivity of the land has declined, but average yields of wheat for 5 or 10 year periods do not indicate that any reduction in crops production capacity has occurred.

The war in Europe may not be our affair, as some people assert, but if Hitler ever manages to control Europe we will know the difference.

There's Got to Be a Santa Claus

By Channing Pollock in the (December) Rotarian Magazine

When she was a very little girl, my daughter asked, "What would you do if there weren't any trees?" "Why," I answered, lightheartedly, "we'd have to invent some. We couldn't get on without trees." There are quite a lot of things—food, shelter, clothing—we couldn't get on without, and a number of wise men have made my suggestion—we'd have to invent them. What we must have even more than these are food for the mind, shelter for the spirit, that which clothes the nakedness of mere animal existence, and gives warmth to human contacts.

We celebrate Christmas as a religious festival, but a Christmas was celebrated hundreds of years before Christ. The ancient people of the Angli, in what is now Britain, had in December a Modranect, or "mothers' night." There had to be a day set aside for kindness and generosity, and remembering those we love, and those less fortunate.

Before and since Dickens wrote his immortal A Christmas Carol, there have been a few Scrooges who cried of Christmas, "Bah, humbug!" I have heard modern Scrooges call it a shopkeepers' holiday, and a nuisance, but for the overwhelming majority of us, as for Scrooge's nephew, it is "a good time; a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time; the only time I know of in the long calendar of the year when men and women open their shut-up hearts freely . . . I say God bless it!"

There is a certain magic in a day when even strangers bid us be merry; when the mail and telephone and telegraph and all the means of communication commonly devoted to business bring cheery wishes for "Merry Christmas!" Shopkeepers' holiday? Bah! Humbug! It isn't a necktie or a dollar bill that we slip into the hand of the janitor or the postman; it's goodwill and thank you for a year of service. It isn't a toy train that we put under the tree for junior, or a muffler that we wrap in red tissue for Aunt Julia, but the knowledge that Junior has always wanted a train, and Aunt Julia has wanted a muffler, and the loving desire that, just this one day, they shall have what they want, and need, and that we shall see the pleasure in their eyes, and feel the warmth of their joyful kisses.

Believe it or not, and smile if you like, but, at—well, say 60, my wife and I still hang up our stockings. What a lot of love and laughter and tenderness goes into the trifling gifts we select for those symbols. We trim our little tree with bright stars and tinsel, and for days ahead, in secret, we write messages, and wrap things in gay paper, and hide them from one another until the morning of mornings.

Shopkeepers' holiday! Was it only a shaving kit I could have got for myself that went into that starry package, or was it my daughter's heart that remembered the time, ages ago, when I said, "Damn that old razor! Some day I'm going to have one that fits into my hand properly!"? What about the crate of oranges that comes every Christmas from a colored elevator boy in Florida? I can buy better oranges, but I can't buy what comes with these.

We dine every day, but there is only one Christmas dinner. For years that was a family festival, with all our dear ones about the table. Most of them are gone now, and our Christmas guests are people who, whatever their means, have no home of their own. Why? Well, when I was 19, and away from my home for the first time at Christmas, a very lonely lad, the mother of a chap employed in the office with me asked me to her home. I never saw her again; she has been dead nearly 40 years, but she and that dinner live in my memory.

Last Christmas my wife and I had half a dozen old actors, forgotten now, and we talked of the great days in the theater, and lived them again until long after midnight. Irene Franklin, who had been the idol of vaudeville, sang several of her best songs to us, and a very old Shakespearean actor repeated and howl—the soliloquy from Hamlet. It took Christmas to restore their heyday for an hour or two, and that memory goes on our golden pile of Christmases.

During a radio broadcast not long ago, I met the middle-aged woman who, as a child of 8, wrote to the New York Sun, "Please tell me, the truth, is there a Santa Claus?" Every year the Sun reprints the reply it made editorially in 1897: "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist . . . There is a veil covering the nether world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah . . . in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding."

Of course there's a Santa! And if there weren't, he would be the very first of the things we'd have to invent. Life must have love and a little childlike faith to be endurable, and the year must have at least one day when we are more conscious of faith and love than of business and bombs and all the realities nobody doubts—and nobody wants!

Carl Ellis and sons, Drew, Don and Dan, Otis Burk and Calvin Flowers spent the week-end in Port Worth. They went to see the games between T.C.U. and Rice. Clyde Flowers, son of Calvin, is a member of the T.C.U. squad and Drew Ellis is a former member.

ATTENTION! CAR OWNERS!

All out for National Defense! New car production cut! Patriotic appeal to repair and use old cars and machines! These are just a few of the head lines we see every day. The Perryton Motor, local Chevrolet dealers, offers the services of their modern repair shop for your all-out cooperation with the United States government in this emergency.

Modern day passenger cars and trucks are built to give thousands of miles of satisfaction if they are properly maintained. The Perryton Motor Co. has just completed a thorough installation of much new equipment in their shop and maintenance department to give motorists of the Perryton area the facilities to repair, rebuild, recheck, lubricate and trucks to get the last mile of economical transportation.

NEW EQUIPMENT

Avail yourself of the new equipment at the Perryton Motor. Keep your car in first class transportation and at the same time cooperate with the national defense program.

This of course is not a new service with us but we are able to do your lubrication job more quickly and efficiently as we have recently installed a new Alemite grease gun. All cars and trucks are lubricated according to factory specifications. The life of your car or truck depends on lubrication at the right time. This new equipment enables us to force the grease into the bearing with the proper amount of pressure. If great care is not taken in lubricating more delicate parts it is very easy to damage if not ruin them.

Why go to church? Because the church has the only message of hope and cheer for a time like this. Let us come to think God's thoughts after Him. Man's smartness and self-sufficiency has brought us into a state of chaotic confusion. God's way is the only way out. "Enter His gates with thanksgiving, come unto His courts with praise."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Love Must Win Over Cruelty

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 30
Text: John 13:34, 35; 1 Corinthians 13:1-13

THE new commandment that Jesus gave His disciples was that they should love one another; and in giving the commandment, He set the standard of what constituted its fulfillment, for He admonished the disciples to love one another as He loved them. Could any man have deeper or stronger love for his fellowman than Jesus had for all men?

The most complete and perfect exposition of the nature, meaning, and application of love in daily life is found in the 13th chapter of Paul's first Epistle to the Corinthians. This, in turn, has inspired great expositions in modern times, the best known of which is perhaps the late Henry Drummond's "Love, the Supreme Gift: The Greatest Thing in the World."

Paul begins by contrasting love with the things that men might desire to possess. Men have coveted fluency and power of speech, but Paul says that if he could speak with the tongues of men and of angels but had not love, he would be but a sounding brass or a clanging cymbal. What a forceful figure that is!

Paul came of a race that had great prophets, and his home life was enriched with the great prophecies of Israel. But he says that if he had the gift of prophecy and could understand all mysteries, and even if he had all faith so that he could accomplish wonderful things, yet he would be nothing if he did not have love. So, also, he might give all his goods to charity and give his body to be sacrificed, but if he had not love it would profit nothing. It is in such terms he reveals the greatness and power of love.

The greatest task before men of good will today is the conquest of hate. We must do all in our power to end violence, cruelty and terrorism. But after we defeat the forces and designs of evil, we shall still be far short of a real victory unless we overcome hate with the power of love.

Christian Science

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, November 30. The Golden Text is: "Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel; Let not your prophets and your diviners, that be in the midst of you, deceive you. . . . For they prophesy falsely unto you in my name: I have not sent them, saith the Lord" (Jeremiah 29:8,9).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The righteous shall be glad in the Lord, and shall trust in him; and all the upright in heart shall glory" (Psalms 64:10).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The illuminations of Science give us a sense of the nothingness of error, and they show the spiritual inspiration of Love and Truth to be the only fit preparation for admission to the presence and power of the Most High" (page 596).

Thanks for AMERICA

Thanks for the land of America,
For reasons a little child knows,
Its springtimes, its warm summer sunshine,
The peace of its white winter snows.

Thanks for the wealth of America,
Its forests and prairies and hills,
For the challenge to build and to conquer,
For its farms and its mines and its mills.

Thanks for the spirit of America,
That shines out far over the sea,
A proof to the world and all nations
That a land can grow great and be free.

Thanks for the strength of America,
A giant that has slumbered so long,
And now stirs in its might and its vigor,
A nation awakened and strong.

Thanks for the love of America,
Love of family, of home and of land,
While we cherish and guard and defend these
The American Dream shall yet stand.

Red Cross Membership Will Exceed 700 When All Workers Report to Roll Call Chairman

With three more days left and a few rural workers to report, Ochiltree County Chapter, American Red Cross, will exceed its goal for 1942 memberships by more than 100. The goal was set at 600 members. On Tuesday of this week, Mrs. G. L. Kengle, roll call chairman for the county, reported a total of 684 members.

Mrs. Kengle stated that all of the workers in Perryton had reported, but that about five workers in the rural areas had not completed their drive. A list of members, as reported by workers this week, is given below.

A total of $796.90 has been received. This amount included a $50.00 donation from an unknown donor.

Four persons gave $5.00 membership: H. C. Brillhart, Virb Conley, J. W. Daniel and Miss Nellie Perry. J. H. Neufeld gave a $10.00 membership. Several individuals gave more than a $1.00 membership. Four business firms gave $2.00 donations in addition to individual memberships: North Plains Implement Co., O'Dell Motor & Implement Co., R. E. Bell Implement Co. and Perryton Equipment Co.

Membership lists are given according to the communities. Several persons living in the country paid workers in Perryton, so their names appear in the Perryton lists. Following is a list of members received by the chairman on Tuesday:

Perryton Equity Manufactures Equity Feeds

The Perryton Equity Exchange, one of the nation's largest and most successful grain marketing cooperatives whose new 250,000 bushel elevator is pictured above, prides itself on the success and ever growing popularity of Equity Feeds. Equity Feeds are manufactured in their Perryton plant and distributed over a wide area. They are made from feeds grown in this community to the requirements and specifications of the poultrymen and stockmen of this area.

Many farmers, feeders, and poultrymen have recognized the necessity of supplementing poultry, dairy, and hog feeds with vitamins, minerals, and proteins, other than those present in the grains. Many grains are deficient in these elements due to type of soil, weather conditions under which grown, etc. Therefore it is essential to supply these grains in order to make a balanced feed that will produce maximum results in egg, milk, and meat production.

In the manufacture of Equity Feeds each element is supplied in the proper amounts. Protein, and the part it plays in feeds, is perhaps the most well known element found in feed. The principal origin of protein in poultry feed, dairy feed and hog feed, other than grain, is meat and bone scraps, soy bean oil meal, and cotton seed oil meal. Only the very best types of protein feed are used in the manufacture of Equity Feeds.

The necessity of minerals is often overlooked in manufacturing a balanced feed. This is not true with Equity Feeds. In addition to the principal minerals such as calcium, phosphorus and iron, all the "trace elements" found essential in the body of healthy poultry and livestock is added.

Iron has always been used in feeds to prevent anemia. It has also been found that animals must also get copper or they cannot absorb the use of iron. "Cobalt" has also been found to be a cure for a disease among sheep and cattle. These elements are all found in Equity Feeds in the proper amounts.

Vitamins are very essential to good feeds. Vitamin "D" is nature's own health-giving vitamin from the sun. It helps build strong bones, increases production of both milk and eggs.

Equity Feeds are fortified with an abundance of vitamin "D". Feed should be rich in vitamin "A". Lack of this vitamin results in nutritional rump in chickens and turkeys, certain types of paralysis in swine. It is closely related to the prevention of digestive, respiratory and kidney infections of young animals.

Equity Feeds are also fortified with vitamin "E". This vitamin tends to prevent abortion, and is important to the successful breeding of both livestock and poultry, as well as to the strength and health of their off-spring. Yet results cannot be obtained from wheat germ oil (the richest vitamin "E" source) unless feed also contains sufficient amounts of vitamin "A" and "B". Equity Feeds take these facts into account.

Vitamin "G" is another important element which Equity Feeds richly supply. Lack of vitamin "G" causes poor hatchability, nutritional leg paralysis in chicks. It may also be later found important in hemorrhagic dysentery of feed lot swine.

All these facts are studied carefully in the manufacture of Equity Feeds. In terms of present scientific knowledge, Equity Feeds are vitamin complete and potent.

Ochiltree Young Man Promoted to Captain
Dr. Murble Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Pearson, Norman, Oklahoma, and a former Ochiltree county young man, has been promoted from a First Lieutenant in the United States Medical Corps to the rank of Captain. Capt. Pearson is located at Fort H. G. Wright, New York. He is a graduate of the Oklahoma University medical department and for the past two years has been serving as an interne at St. John, Canada.

Mrs. Ralph Blodgett visited with Mrs. John Sim Thursday afternoon. The Sim family shopped in Spearman, Monday.

Mrs. W. Y. Williams, who has been on the sick list several weeks, had as callers last week Mrs. Dennis Reed and daughter Margaret and Mrs. Ed Beck.

Mrs. Ed Beck and Helen and Maxine Kennedy motored to Shattuck, Friday.

Dave Lambert, Sam Powell and Charlie Marksman were in Perryton Tuesday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Grossett and daughters Gayle and Dora Lee called in the Alice Taylor and Dial homes last week and were on their way to the S. J. Powell home Monday morning when they met Mrs. Powell walking toward their house for help. She had hung the pick-up on a post trying to avoid a gate.

Miss Katherine and Bertha Nitschke visited in the Johnny King home, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Nitschke and sons Luther and Bobby enjoyed a visit in the A. A. Engleman home Sunday afternoon.

It was said women gossip over the back yard fence. I wonder if men don't sometimes "talk over the fence". Last week Noel King was fixing fence and Gilman Flowers was working on his fence. They met, dropped their hammers, just talking when one of the Nitschke men came along. Soon afterwards, Pete Wermake joined the group.

Mrs. Knox Pipkin, Sensa Bell, Edith, Ouida Mae, Betty, J. W. and Edna were late callers in the Dan Nitschke home, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turner, Kenneth, Cleo and Bob visited in the Sam Nitschke home Saturday night.

Alvin Hasen of Arkansas is visiting his cousin, the L. O. Seeding family, in the Lone Tree community. The Dan Nitschke family enjoyed Sunday dinner in the Seeding home.

Other guests in the afternoon were Marlin, Evelyn, Leon and Clarence Lee Engelman, Betty Phisgoda, Carl Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. Carr. Sunday being Alvin Hasen's birthday, a birthday cake was decorated with candles. In the afternoon, the young people motored to Lake Fryer for kodacking and picnicking. The Lake View school is planning a Christmas program. There will be a new stage for the occasion. The students are looking forward to the Thanksgiving vacation this week-end.

Miss Genevieve Olson will spend the Thanksgiving holidays with her parents near Oslo.

On this Thanksgiving day we have much to be thankful for. Our plains are clothed with flocks and herds. Homes from which laughter and songs are heard. The earth is carpeted with wheat so green. That will ripen with the summer heat. —Reporter.

J. W. Payne returned Monday evening from Fullerton, Calif., where he has been working the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Ackley and daughters will have as their guests for Thanksgiving dinner, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ackley and Mr. and Mrs. Marion Robertson of Canadian, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McLarty, W. A. McLarty and Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson.

Housewives Urged To Save on Food

"Food for Freedom" is the new slogan of those interested in seeing that America is well fed during the duration. The people of this county are being asked to be self supporting in that they produce enough food for their families so that food grown in food producing sections can be used in army centers and can be shipped abroad to England.

It is the patriotic duty of every American to produce food for his family, conserve that which he produces by canning, freezing, drying, and storing, and also by good use of the food that he has. No food should be wasted or thrown away.

American housewives are known to be the most wasteful of food and of nutritive values of food. Water in which food is cooked when thrown away takes with it some of our most precious food elements. A few spoonfuls of vegetables thrown away by each housewife every week add up to a staggering total when the entire country is considered.

With this extension program of "Eat the right foods" may it not be said again that in the richest country in the world one third of the people are malnourished because of lack of money, indifference, and ignorance.

Miss Rosamond Jarvis, who teaches in Clayton, N. M. and Ralph Adkins, Albuquerque, N. M. were guests from Wednesday until Sunday in the home of Miss Jarvis' parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Jarvis.

Buck Garrison Lauds Hospitality Of Carolinians

The citizens of Charlotte, N. C., are really doing all possible to give the soldiers stationed there a taste of southern hospitality. The Carolinians and all the people of the Carolinas are opening their homes to the soldiers, inviting them as week-end guests, etc., as related in a news item and letter received from E. W. (Buck) Garrison, who is with the army on maneuvers at Ft. Bragg, N. C.

The following letter, written by Buck on November 18, from Bennettsville, S. C., tells of the activities in that area.

"I really don't have the time to write, but I just ran across the enclosed article in 'The Charlotte Sunday Observer,' and it is the actual truth. I never saw anyone treated more royally than the service men are around here—it's not just one town, it is every one you hit.

"The 'Big Push' of the Carolina Maneuvers is on now, and from all indications its going to be a tough one. The town of Cheraw, S. C., has been captured and recaptured at least three times in the past twenty-four hours, and from what I'm able to gather it is far from being settled yet.

"It's night now and we just came by the U. S. O. here to grab a cup of coffee and a piece of cake. These Carolinians would be mad if they found out you had passed thru and didn't stop for at least a cup of coffee with them.

"Well, Mr. Stewart, I simply can't take any more time right now. We are off on an all night reconnaissance patrol. So, I'll see you later, until then, 'Walk your post Soldier'.

Sincerely,
Pvt. E. W. (Buck) Garrison
Anti-Aircraft Section

Ft. Bragg, North Carolina"

The following news item taken from the Charlotte Sunday Observer gives you an idea of the hospitality and treatment being shown the service men located in the area near that city:

"WANTED SOLDIERS—That was the sign flown from the masthead yesterday of the Homes Registration bureau as scores of Carolinians, some of whom had even gone to the trouble of baking a pre-Thanksgiving turkey, pleaded in vain for soldiers to partake of the regular week end feast prepared for them.

"So urgently in some cases was the demand for soldier guests that Mrs. Gerald A. Cooper, head of the Bureau, sent members of her staff scurrying out upon the streets to round up, if possible, the few service men who had drifted into the city.

"On most week-ends since the maneuvers began, the agency had placed between 1,000 and 3,000 soldiers in private homes. Failure of the soldiers to show up this week-end was due to the two week's maneuvers, which got under way today."

How different the authors' lives and how different their views! Almost all of the bread Anne casts on the water comes back mildewed; Helen's has usually come back cinnamon toast. But running like a scarlet thread through both books in the lesson that we grow strong through periods of crises.

Anne's life in England and France as well as in the Americas has given her a concise and clear cut idea of what the future holds. What was pushing behind Communism? What behind Fascism in Italy? What behind Nazism? Why has this come, and what should we do about it? She discusses our national sins as she sees them. Is war, persecution, aggression or bloody revolution more sinful than blindness, selfishness, lethargy, smugness, or resistance to change? She makes a person think in world terms.

Such phrases as these make the re-reading of Helen's book delightful; "Faith is thought directed toward good and like all thought-power it is indefinite. Faith is not dogma. It is white-fire enthusiasm. It is not confined to any church or institution. Creeds are bodies and die. Faith is immortal. Power not comfort, is my demand upon faith. Egg Production Of Four Billion Dozen Indicated

BY RALPH HERBERT

ALL is successful on the egg front. That is the good news from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The daily egg here is commonplace. In Britain it is a luxury.

To fill British demand as well as domestic needs, Secretary Wickard set as the American goal the production of four billion dozen eggs, and indications are that this goal will be attained.

Egg production on Oct. 1 was nearly 10 per cent larger than on the same date last year. With favorable weather, good production will continue. The number of layers now on farms is more than 5 per cent larger than last year. During 1942 the number of layers is expected to increase by 10 per cent over last year.

During the months of January-September, farm production of eggs has been consistently larger than it was in the years 1930-1939. Production of dried eggs in recent months has been more than 10 times larger than a year earlier. Most of this output was purchased by the Department of Agriculture for export under the lend-lease act.

During the first three weeks of October more than nine million pounds of dried eggs were purchased. Total purchased so far this year is over 27 million pounds.

Net withdrawal of frozen eggs from storage in September was larger than in September last year, but stocks on Oct. 1 were by far the largest on record on that date. In fact, total holdings were about 33 per cent bigger.

There is no danger that farmers engaged in egg production will be victimized by low prices, owing to over-production. The Department of Agriculture, acting under statutes that give it this power, has announced it will support egg prices over the period ending June 30, 1943, at levels that will be remunerative to the farmers.

Defense Savings Stamps Hit New High

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Sales of Defense Savings Stamps for October reached a total of $5,935,934.50, establishing the highest monthly total since the Stamps were placed on sale last May 1. The Treasury Department announced today (Friday, November 14).

This figure, compared with the $4,978,000 worth of Defense Stamps sold in September, shows an increase of 19.2 percent. It marks the fourth straight month that the sale of Stamps has risen.

Figures for Defense Bond sales for October, which were announced by the Treasury last week, also jumped sharply over September figures with an increase of 16.5 percent.

Burial at Beaver for Pioneer Resident

Funeral services were held at the Beaver Methodist Church on Tuesday, November 19, for Mrs. Anna Meese, one of the early pioneers of Beaver County. Burial was in the Beaver cemetery. Mrs. Meese and her husband, Judge H. D. Meese, who preceded her death, settled in Beaver in 1888.

Obituary

Anna Margaret Kile Meese was born in Dicator County, Ind., April 24, 1869. She lived in Davies Co., Mo., until she was four. In 1875 her family returned to Indiana. Then in three years, the Kiles migrated westward into Rice County, Kansas, where she met and married Henry D. Meese of Lyons, July 18, 1886.

In 1888, Mr. and Mrs. Meese moved to Beaver County, where they continuously resided until death. Mrs. Meese was the mother of nine children. Her husband and one daughter preceded her in death.

During the last days of her life, she was made happy and comfortable by the presence of her surviving children: Joe, Jack, and Walter Meese, Bell Calif., Kay Meese, Arillo; Lela Chase, Pomeroy, Mo.; Edda Kuykendall, and Mae Kay Meese, Beaver, Okla.

Other relatives surviving are: brothers, D. M. Kile, Beaver, Okla.; Alfred L. Kile, Brown, Okla.; sister, Mattie Hibbs, Woodward, Okla.; 12 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Miss Jackie Adams left Sunday to spend Thanksgiving in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Thomas, Gary, Indiana.

Dr. Powell, Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, will be at Dr. King's office, Tuesday, Dec. 2.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Holland and Miss Paye Pinckney and as guests for dinner Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Kiley and Camilla.

THE AMERICAN FAMILY . . . By George

"My dad is the key man at our town's defense plant. He unlocks the gate each morning."

How Do You Cook Venison?

Austin, November 26.—How do you cook venison? What is the best recipe for a venison roast?

These and many other questions arise in the kitchen of hundreds of Texas homes these days, as mighty hunters pull in the driveway with two fat bucks strapped to the fenders of their cars.

J. Frank Dobie, famous as an outdoorsman as well as a writer of Texas folklore, has a very simple recipe for venison steaks. "Cut off a steak, salt and pepper it, chuck it in the flour and throw it in the grease," he says. "That's the best way to cook venison."

But that's the preference of a tough outdoorsman. Others might prefer one of the following recipes for roast and steaks, and they might enjoy the jelly sauce for venison.

Roast Saddle of Venison

Wash the surface with lukewarm vinegar and water (it should have hung at least a week in a cool place) and rub with butter to soften it. Cover with greased paper tied on; over this a paste of flour and water, rolled out at least one-half inch thick, may be spread, and the whole covered with another greased paper fastened securely. Fifteen minutes to the pound is the rule followed where it is preferred rare. More time is required, according to the size, to have it well done. Pour a pint of boiling water around the meat and cover with another dripping pan. The oven should be hot. After the first hour, baste thoroughly at short intervals, re-covering the pan after each time. Half an hour before dinner uncover the pan, remove the papers and paste, return to the oven, and baste with melted butter and a little lemon juice; dredge flour over the whole and let it brown. Repeat the basting during the half-hour and take up on a heated dish. The plates should be heated also, as venison cools easily. Serve with currant jelly and sauce.

Venison Rib Roast

Have the bones removed from 2 or 3 ribs of venison, roll in a thin slice of salt pork, tie tightly in shape, season, dredge with flour and roast. Serve with spiced currants or gooseberry catsup.

Venison Steak

Heat the gridiron well, butter the bars and lay on the steaks, which should be cut from the haunch. Broil thoroughly; venison requires more cooking than beef—saving all of the gravy possible. Serve with currant jelly laid on each piece. Heat the plates.

Venison steaks may be fried also, and served with a very little melted butter and jelly. Two tablespoonful currant jelly melted with butter the size of a walnut, is a very nice sauce.

Jelly Sauce for Venison

Strain the gravy into the pan—there should be at least one pint. Thicken with one tablespoon of browned flour; add two tablespoonful of currant jelly; one tablespoonful of lemon juice; ¼ teaspoonful salt ¼ teaspoonful pepper.

FAITH in the Future!

Although we live in a streamlined age devoid of the simplicity of Puritan life, we still possess much the same fear and faith in the future as the Puritan had. While the Puritan overcame his fear by trusting to God and his flintlock, people today need not depend on powder and shot. Instead, they look to their bank to insure them safety, and to guarantee their future security.

U. S. Wings for Pacific Defense

AMERICAN fighting planes today form the Allies' first line of air defense from Australia to the Netherlands East Indies and on to Singapore and Malaya. When war broke out, only Australia in this part of the world had a small aircraft industry of her own. This has since been expanded and now turns out hundreds of bombers and trainer-reconnaissance planes. There is also a new accessory industry in the East Indies, and the region is dotted with new assembly plants and repair shops. But even today, local industries can supply only a small part of the area's defense needs, and although not all of the U. S.-built planes so far delivered are of the latest types, it will depend on them and on the men who fly them—Australians, Dutchmen, British, Indians and Javanese—whether or not an Axis drive into the South Pacific and South Asiatic zones could be successful.

Shown in these pictures are: (top) Curtiss interceptor planes of the Royal Netherlands East Indies Air Force, manufactured in St. Louis, Mo., and similar to a type that has been standard in the U. S. Army; (left) Brewster "Buffalo" pursuit ships being serviced at a landing field near Singapore; and (right) Lockheed "Hudson" medium bombers of the Royal Australian Air Force during a patrol flight over the South Pacific. In recent months, a number of 20-ton Consolidated "Catalina" flying boats—similar to the one that helped locate the Bismarck—also have reached Australia and the Netherlands East Indies from the United States.

Ford Speeds Defense Work With New 400,000-Volt X-Ray Machine

DEARBORN, Mich.—With greater speed and manufacturing perfection essential these days to national defense production, the Ford Motor Company has just taken another big step toward faster action on its defense work. A new 400,000-volt X-ray machine (upper photo) has been installed at the Rouge plant automotive laboratory to locate quickly any possible flaws in heavy steel castings.

Once restricted to the field of medicine, the X-ray was adopted by industry a few years ago when a 100,000-volt machine was built that could penetrate steel. In 1931 Ford, one of the first big industries to make use of it, installed a 250,000-volt X-ray outfit which remained in service until the new 400,000-volt apparatus succeeded it recently. The new machine penetrates several inches of steel.

Where the old apparatus required two to six hours to make an X-ray exposure of a heavy cast steel part, the new machine does the same chore in a few minutes, according to Ford engineers. Translated into terms of production and manufacturing perfection, this X-ray machine is expected to greatly facilitate Ford's work on $700,000,000 in defense contracts.

In the upper photo, a laboratory worker is shown placing a cast steel crankshaft for the Ford experimental aircraft engine into place under the giant 400,000-volt X-ray tube. The X-ray room is entirely sheathed by a thick protective layer of lead covering walls and ceiling.

The lower photo shows a laboratory technician studying an X-ray negative of a crankshaft. Tell-tale shadows reveal any flaws in the internal structure of metal.

Red Cross Room Notes

The hearty response of the men and women from all over the county in the Roll Call drive is wonderful. Mrs. G. L. Kengle, roll call chairman, stated that practically every worker exceeded their quota of previous periods and with that cooperation the county went over the top. Half of each membership is retained for local use.

The Red Cross Room, located in the Stump building just across the street from the post office, is open for volunteer work each afternoon with the exception of Sunday and Monday. However it will not be opened today, Thursday, because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

A telephone was placed in the room this week. The number is 158. It is there for your convenience, make use of it.

The Chapter has received a copy of the song, "Angels of Mercy" composed recently by Irvin Berlin for the Red Cross.

Mrs. J. F. Cox, production chairman, is anxious for the completion of all children's dresses and mens shirts that have been taken to the homes. Practically all of these are ready to be shipped and will be sent as soon as the others are turned in.

Mrs. Henry Richardson, chairman of the knitting, is much encouraged by the number of women who have visited the room this week or called for yarn. She invites groups of women as well as individuals to come to the room and knit during the afternoons. This way they can receive help from her or her assistants, Miss Bette Bryan and Mrs. Kermit Johnson.

Workers listed
Workers who have registered during the week, from November 20 until Tuesday evening, November 25, (many of these were present each day) are: directors, as named above; Mrs. Earl Miller, Mrs. Ella Murray, Mrs. Frank Keith, Mrs. Abby Shaff, Mrs. W. B. Reid, Miss Edith Newman, Mrs. Mark Boehning, Miss Carmen Keith, Mrs. B. B. Lee, Mrs. Curt Roach, Miss Cleo Coud, Mrs. Fred Huston, Mrs. Al Ackley.

Mrs. J. H. Kershaw, Mrs. J. S. Slaughter, Mrs. E. W. Witt, Mrs. A. W. Henry, Mrs. John E. Johnson, Mrs. W. R. Zener, Mrs. Dora Keim, Mrs. Geo. Jackson, Mrs. J. H. Of the special venire of 66 jurors called for this trial on Monday morning, nine were excused for sickness or other reasons. Out of the remaining 55, only five were selected as jurors. They were L. H. Littau, Trulen Ooch, J. O. Sodowsky, H. P. Richardson and Morris Smith. The panel was exhausted at noon Tuesday. Judge Allen ordered Sheriff Talley to summon 100 tailsmen but only 89 were secured.

Of this special panel, the first 43 tailsmen examined were disqualified. Clem Flowers, the 43rd man called, was accepted. Court recessed at 5:30 p. m. Wednesday as the Herald went to press.

Judge Allen called court to reconvene at 8 p. m. Wednesday and announced that court would remain in session until noon Thanksgiving Day.

From the present rate of disqualifications it appears very doubtful that a jury will be obtained to try the case at this term of court. If it is continued it is very likely to go to some other county in the district for trial.

Divorce is Granted
Two non-jury cases were disposed of by Judge Jack Allen last week. Clyde A. Cofer was granted a divorce from Edythe Cofer. In the case of Claude L. Peggman vs. the United Employers Casualty Co., the plaintiff was awarded an agreed judgement of $2,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Kelly, Kenneth and Walter LaMaster were in Lubbock Thursday and Friday of last week and enjoyed the football game between Texas Tech and Hardin Simmons.

C of C Completing Plans for Banquet

The annual Chamber of Commerce banquet will be Friday night, December 12, at the Perryton Hotel. Details are being worked out by the committees named by President J. H. Stephenson Jr.

The name of principal speaker for the evening is not available.

The general arrangements committee for the banquet consists of C. Wedgeworth, chairman, W. B. Reid and H. C. Sanford. Other committees are: program—Oscar Flowers, Dan Archer and Glenn Truax, ticket sales—Dean McCutcheon and Sam Hergert.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce will have their ladies as special guests at the banquet. Tickets will be $1.00 per person.

Mr. Morgan, in releasing the announcement of the coming Celebration of the President's Diamond Jubilee Birthday says that he believes that all Americans, young and old, in all walks of life, and in every hamlet of the country, would be interested to know that the last three years have been the three worst years in the epidemic history of Infantile Paralysis in the United States.

He pointed out that the epidemics of the last three years have produced over 25,000 new cases. Analysis of the average cost of treatment for the first year after the onslaught of this disease shows that it costs over $1,000 for one year's treatment per case.

Results prove that people read Herald want ads.

Meanwhile strikes make headline news and politicians respect union votes.

County Clerk Irvin R. "Buck" Buchanan tells us that the Perryton Lions Club will sponsor a "Coming of Age" party for the youths of the Perryton area who have just reached their majority. The date will be sometime in February.

Ochiltree county over the top again with over 700 Red Cross members on an assigned goal of 600 and we want to salute Mrs. G. L. Kengle, chairman of the roll call this year, for this great job.

It's true that she had a wonderful corps of helpers but this all-time record would not have been attained without the leadership that Mrs. Kengle gave to the drive. Chairman Kengle has been devoting practically full time to the Red Cross for the past few weeks. A swell job, we say!

And by the way, you don't have to be asked to join the Red Cross, in fact dozens of persons shouldn't have to give hours and days of their time each year to enroll the membership. So if you have not been contacted by a worker, why not step right up like the good, patriotic American that you are and pay your Red Cross Membership which will be accepted membership of only one dollar.

Train-Truck Crash Starts Inferno

Flames and smoke shoot skyward after a grade-crossing crash between a freight train and a gasoline truck, at Joplin, Mo. Despite spectacular accident, in which 3300 gallons of gasoline caught fire, destroying the truck, damaging the locomotive, and setting fire to a nearby house, no one was seriously injured.

Igloos Are Not So Cold

Igloos that store a lot of potential heat are these new powder magazines, at New River, Va. The Army likes them because they are practically invisible from the air.

Dispelling the Fog

By CHARLES MICHELSON
Director of Publicity, Democratic National Committee

Delay in supplying arms, planes, tanks and other things vital to the success of the stop-Hitler war is a favorite topic of those whose contribution to the defense program has been limited to criticism.

Strikes and lockouts, shortages in materials, and the cumbersome processes compelled by the emergency of translating a peacetime industrial nation into an arsenal, are all deplorable, but it is notable that the most vehement of the fault-finders are chary of suggesting means of avoiding the various bottlenecks and other obstructions to unlimited production.

Of course, they spout remedies. Stop the strikes they say; that is no easy process in a democracy. Moreover, the objective is to get production, and not merely to curb labor. Suppose the power existed and was exercised to give the mechanics and other operators the option of sticking to their jobs or being taken into the army? It might—or it might not—finally result in the orderly turning out of the maximum of capacity production, but in the time required to get such a system in operation does anybody believe that the balky element would work at top speed? Isn't it a question if men would do their best under compulsion? May it not be more likely that most of the workers would do just enough to prevent the enforcement of the penalty?

Take the other side of it—those who blame the employers. Why, they ask, should the unwillingness of rich corporations or individuals owners to pay their men what the men demand be permitted to interfere with the salvation of our country? Again, assuming there existed the authority and the willingness to commandeer these plants, would the substitution of a military officer for the directorship of the great industry produce goods in the volume we so sorely need? Moreover, who in this country would wish to see Government in possession of the business of the nation? Certainly none who dread Communism or even Socialism. Incidentally, is there any certainty that total Government possession and operation would automatically prevent the labor unions from striving for higher wages or better conditions, or even jurisdictional struggles.

It Might Work, But—

O yes, we could, if the system were sufficient tyrannical, inflict military regulations—and military penalties—but who wants a Nazi regime in this country? That system, if it were to be effective, would have to be extended far beyond any individual factory and might, ultimately, take in all of us, with the crash of every liberty that we are now engaged in defending.

Nations have been forced into such governments, but it is the last desperate expedient—and, thank fate, we are not yet in such an extremity. That by no means implies that nothing can be done to put a stop to the slow-up consequent on labor troubles. It simply calls attention to the fact—usually ignored—that it cannot be done by the mere waving of a wand, or the swinging of a blackjack.

Now on the subject of delays. The progress of the war abroad has made it necessary not that we manufacture the tools of war for the anti-Hitler powers, but that we get them to where they will do the most good.

We found, obstructing that purpose, the out-moded neutrality law, passed in that hopeful period when we thought that by remaining totally aloof to what was going on abroad, we could keep out of the war. When it became evident that world conquest was the objective of the Fuehrer, we likewise awoke to the circumstances that we were part of that world, and took measures accordingly.

Because of the hindering provision of the existing act, we had to restore to a variety of expedients—evasions or subterfuges, if you like. We had our Navy patrol the trade routes, to keep track and give warning of the presence of submarines or other raiders; we resorted to permitting the registering of American-owned ships under the flag of Panama, for example, because the act proscribed our arming our merchantmen, or permitting their entrance to so-called war zones.

One Wasted Month

Finally, the President asked the repeal of the most hampering of the restrictions, as necessary for the insuring of delivery of the war goods. It is obvious that shiploads of planes and tanks at the bottom of the sea are no help to the democracies. Moreover, the sinking of merchant ships, wherever the Nazi pirates find them, regardless of nationality, character of cargo or destination, demonstrates the brutal quality of the raiders. The attacks on our destroyers—one is gone and one is badly damaged, up to date—with the natural accompaniment of death to our sailors, tells that every method of protection is required.

Everybody must concede the advisability of modifying the neutrality act, if there is any consistency in the program enacted by Congress and put in force by the President. Everybody, in a position to gauge it, knows that the majorities in Congress favor these modifications. The votes are there ready to enact into law the people's will.

Yet, though a month has elapsed since the President asked for the legislation, as this letter is written, the bill giving such protection as is possible to merchant ships remains before Congress. Over and over, we are hearing the arguments and diatribes of isolationists, obstructionists, appeasers and political enemies of the administration holding up a vote, the outcome of which they know is set.

This is a delay for which there is no excuse; it may be responsible for future destruction of precious, indispensable cargoes, and the loss of more lives.

Possibly, before the publication of this article, the opposition may be forced to a showdown—possibly not. In either event, it will become these people—and they are the loudest in their complaints of production delay—to talk about slowness in realizing the defense program.

Snip That Snipe!

This may never make you a million dollars but it's interesting to know. The U. S. Bureau of Standards has declared the cigaret to be a greater forest menace than the cigar! Research has established that a discharged cigaret will burn for 8 1/2 to 12 minutes, while a discharged cigar will go out in from 23 to 51.7 minutes.

Poison Fish

In Philippine Islands waters there are several species of fish whose flesh contains poisons. A number of mysterious deaths were finally solved when it was found that they were the direct result of eating poison flesh of fish. These strange fish do not bite you. Neither do they sting—yet their flesh contains poison similar to the deadliest of mushroom poisons.

No Shortage in Steel

THE needs of the defense program decide how many Buicks we can build for you in 1942.

But there is no limit on how well we may build with the materials at our command.

So we invite you to look upon this car not as you would any ordinary new model, but as an unusual vehicle built to square with unusual times.

Check into the strength we have forged and hammered and wrought into the frame, the chassis, the drive.

Look into the everlasting comfort which is provided in soft, all-coil springs.

Dig into the engine, and see how resourceful engineering has stepped up the efficiency of valve-in-head design with Domite pistons and FIREBALL compression — how it also enables you to conserve fuel while actually getting more power through Buick's exclusive Compound Carburetion.

Mr. Donkey—Hunter

There is something new under the sun! It's a burro that trails deer.

John R. Wood, a state game warden, brought in the story of "Old Whitey," a long-eared donkey attached to the Comanche Trail Council Boy Scout camp in San Saba County, 12 miles west of Richland Springs, Texas. The donkey's hunting ability, was discovered accidentally.

Lee R. Tesson, scoutmaster at Mullen, was riding the burro one day when the animal reared its head into the air, sniffed tentatively, and changed his course.

Whitey picked his way cautiously over rocks and through brush, testing his footing with each step lest he snap a twig or click a stone. In 15 minutes he took Tesson to a sleeping doe and fawn.

Tesson put that down to coincidence and decided to test Whitey the next day. He took along a camera. A half mile from camp Whitey tossed his nose into the air Again Whitey was on wind. This time he led Tesson to within 30 feet of a buck sleeping under a cedar tree. By night Whitey had "flushed" 13 deer.

How to Save Car "Anti-Freeze"

Under the present production schedule, supplies of chemicals used in anti-freeze preparations will be adequate to meet normal motoring needs this winter, unless hoarding of the Office of Price Administration by some of the companies making branded anti-freezes, Miss Harriet Elliott, Associate Administrator of the Office of Price Administration, in charge of the Consumer Division, announced today.

"Such 'scare' advertising," Miss Elliott said, "is likely to touch off a speculative buying spree and hoarding on the part of distributors, thus creating a maladjustment of distribution and an artificial shortage. It also tends to hasten inflation. After the public has been thoroughly frightened by 'shortage' advertising it will be comparatively easy for prices to be boosted on unsuspecting motorists. No retail price advance for anti-freeze solutions is justified at this time.

Because the chemicals used in anti-freeze are also important in explosive manufacture and are in demand for use in Army and Navy motors, Miss Elliott appealed to motorists to conserve the available supply as much as possible. When motorists use the "permanent," ethylene glycol type of anti-freeze, they should save it for re-use next year, she emphasized.

The following tips for using anti-freeze with minimum waste are suggested by automobile and chemical experts on the staff of the Consumer Division:

1. Check fan and pump belts. The belts should be tight enough so that you cannot turn the fan with your fingers without moving the belt. Excessively worn belts should be replaced.

2. Clean out rust scales from inside the radiator and motor block which cause the engine to overheat. Flush cooling system before adding anti-freeze. Plain washing soda or other inexpensive flush is suitable. If you haven't flushed your cooling system for several seasons, the radiator and engine should be flushed separately by disconnecting the hose that joins the radiator with the motor. The same is true if you use "hard" water in the radiator, or if the drained water seems to be very rusty. To be sure that flushing mixtures are thoroughly drained, flush clear water through radiator and draincocks on the motor block.

3. After flushing the cooling system, check it for leaks. Lifeless, over-aged hose connections which may easily develop leaks should be replaced, and leaky water pumps should be repaired, or replaced if necessary. Check the water pump particularly carefully, for the grease around it often hides leaks.

4. Check the level of the water in your radiator frequently after adding anti-freeze, and periodically thereafter. The level should always be above upper hose connection to allow circulation from the radiator to the motor. Filling the radiator above the neck means you are using more anti-freeze than necessary.

5. Watch engine heat-indicator for signs of overheating. If your

Gas Poisoning In Baby Turkeys And Chickens

COLLEGE STATION.—Pink lungs reveal carbon monoxide poisoning in baby turkeys and chicks. According to Geo. P. McCarthy, poultry husbandman of the A. and M. College Extension Service, a grower may actually gas his turkey brooder or baby chicks with a sooty brooder stove and bad ventilation. Deaths from this cause might be attributed to other reasons.

Investigators by the Denver branch of the pathological laboratory of the USDA into the high percentage of loss among baby turkeys delivered in good conditions from hatcheries to poultrymen showed no external symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning, even when it was suspected. Chemical tests, however, were conclusive and physical examinations confirmed the positive cases by revealing the abnormally pink lung which result from this type of poisoning.

McCarthy recommends that turkey growers provide good ventilation in their brooder houses without exposing the young birds to the hazard of draft. Before placing baby chicks in brooder houses it is important to clean coal, wood and oil burning brooder stoves in order to remove all soot, which might clog the burners and help form the dangerous gas.

engine overheats, find out why and have it fixed. Always check the strength of the antifreeze after overheating.

6. Use adjustable type of radiator cover, so it can be opened and closed as the weather dictates. Completely closing up your radiator front causes engine overheating.

7. Avoid idling the engine for long periods. Since the cooling system is designed to operate efficiently while the car is in motion, idling the engine for a long period is apt to cause overheating—and also wastes gas.

8. Put the cooling system in order now, before cold weather catches up on you over night. Then anti-freeze can be added at a moment's notice. Don't put in anti-freeze until you need it. And don't use more than you need.

The United States is capable of domestically producing the 150,000, 000 pounds of tung oil annually imported from China, according to a Texas scientist.

Congressman Worley Introduces Bill To Prevent Delay in Defense Program

Eugene Worley, Congressman 18th District Texas, made a speech and offered a bill on the floor of the House of Representatives in Washington on November 18, regarding the labor situation in the national defense program. The speech and the bill are as follows:

Mr. Speaker: It is becoming more apparent day by day that we cannot possibly hope to be successful in our aid to other democracies until we have put our own house in order. Day after day we continue to lag behind in our defense efforts and one man, head of a powerful labor group, has seen fit to help throttle our efforts by calling one strike after another.

Regardless of who might be at fault, whether industry or labor, the concern of the great rank and file of the American people overshadowed both interests.

It is as important that the government prevent the destruction of labor throughout the over-zealous activities of some of its leaders as it is for the government to prevent the destruction of capital by its own hand. Both are necessary, both are essential, and harmony between the two must come whether it be by mutual agreement or by the more stringent and drastic method of law. An immediate truce between the two forces be made.

Whatever might be the intentions of Mr. Lewis, be they good or bad, he is guilty at this moment of an unfortunate bit of timing with the result that he is neither serving the workers who follow him nor the country to whom he owes allegiance.

I am convinced that he does not represent the great rank and file of patriotic American labor, and because I believe immediate action must be taken I have today introduced a companion bill to the one presented by the distinguished senior Senator from Texas, Honorable Tom Connally. This bill should be immediately and fairly heard so that our defense production will not continue to limp along on a crutch but will become a smooth flowing unit vitally necessary materiel, upon which the success of our entire foreign policy depends.

Many blame the Administration for failing to take a more positive attitude in this crisis. Personally, I concede and respect whatever reason the Administration might have in following any of its policies.

The fact remains, however, that it is still the function of the Congress to initiate and enact all necessary laws for the general welfare of the American people and believe the duty to take immediate and positive action rests squarely within the constitutional provinces of the Congress. This I believe to be the solemn duty of the Congress if we are to place our own house in order and if our foreign policy is to succeed.

Briefly the bill which I have introduced amends the Draft Act and adds the following provisions:

"1. To give the President power to take over the operation of any defense industry where a stoppage of production is impeding national defense. This provision merely clarifies existing law as to the power of the President to take over industrial plants so that it plainly includes authority to take over mines.

"2. To 'freeze' the terms and conditions of labor in a plant or mine taken over by the government, wages excepted. This is aimed at ending jurisdictional disputes for the duration of the emergency and to remove other causes of industrial stoppages.

"3. To establish a special wage board to adjust wages disputes and fix compensation when a majority of employees or their authorized representatives so petition the board. "These proposals might not be perfect in all respects, but certainly it is an honest and sincere effort to bring about an immediate cessation of civil warfare in our own back yard."

Radios—Books

To cheer sick, wounded and convalescent British troops in the Middle East, the American Red Cross plans to send 200 radios and 3,000 small paper-bound novels and mystery stories to that sector.

Texas can take little pride in the number of people killed on its highways; the conclusion is inescapable that some of these deaths can be prevented.

Special Services Christian Science

The public is invited to attend the Thanksgiving Day services at the Christian Science Church, located 801 SW Third Street November 27, ten o'clock. The services will conform with those held in the Mother Church and outlined below.

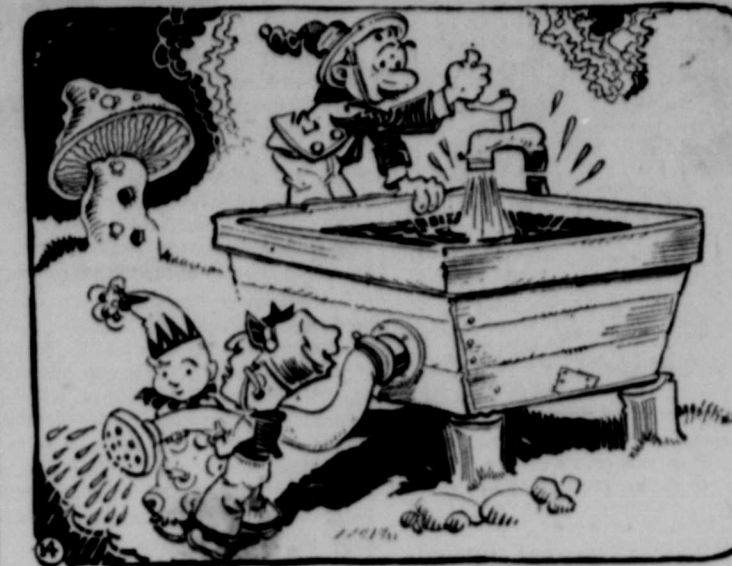

Thanksgiving Day services are held by The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, and its branches throughout the world. The order of service includes the reading of a Lesson-Sermon on the topic of "Thanksgiving." Opportunity is also afforded those present to give testimonies of gratitude to the occasion.

The Golden Text is: "Offer unto God thanksgiving; and pay thy vows unto the most High: and call upon me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me" (Psalms 50:14, 15).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God" (Revelation 21:3).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth's immortal idea is sweeping down the centuries, gathering beneath its wings the sick and sinning. My weary hope tries to realize that happy day when man shall recognize the Science of Christ and love his neighbor as himself. —when he shall realize God's omnipotence and the healing power of the divine Love in what it has done and is doing for mankind" (page 55).

Adventures of THE TOTTIES

This time 'twas Goldy who cried

"Gee, why flash lightning all about? I'll bet that everyone down there is being given quite a scare."

"Oh, some folks like to see it. Miss.

They wouldn't miss a sight like this."

The Thunder Man said. "But I'll stop. Let's make the rain begin to drop."

"My goodness," Scouty said, "Do you control all of the rainfall, too?"

"Of course," replied the gruff old man,

"I bring on showers when'er I can."

He led them to a great big vat And smilingly said, "Look at that. I let the tank fill to the top And never spill a single drop."

"Oh, gee, I see how it is done," Cried Duncy. "It will be real fun To hold the hose that sends the spray To give the earth rainfall today."

And so they held the nozzle tight And shortly saw a pretty sight. Goldy cried, "I'm glad I'm here. On earth I'd get all wet, I fear."

Big Boys Make Big News In Collegiate Football

BY ART BRONSON

DOWN the sports trail: One of the biggest men in collegiate football is Joe Krivonek, husky 225-pound University of South Carolina guard. When he dons his specially built shoulder pads he measures three feet from shoulder tip to shoulder tip. He wears a size 18 collar. . . . With basketball season right around the corner comes news that the West Texas State Teachers College quintet will average more than 6 feet 5 inches in height.

Speaking of height, Ed Ecker, a sophomore tackle at John Carroll University in Cleveland, stands 6 feet 6 inches and weighs 276. He is still growing, too. . . . Texas State Water Polo League will have teams entered from Texas A. and M., Texas University, Houston Y. M. C. A., and the Galveston Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Of Indiana's 11 sophomores in the first five games, Billy Hillenbrand, sensational 19-year-old sophomore, scored four and threw six touchdown passes. He has gained 1037 yards in rushing, passing, pass receiving, and punt and kickoff returns. . . .

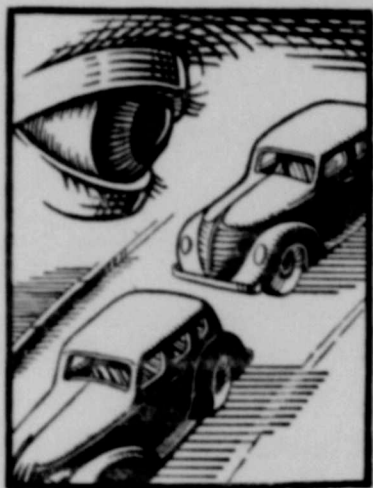

The record for the shiftest back in collegiate football should go to Joseph Pezelaki, a slender 155-pounder at Villanova. His specialty is scoring touchdowns on punt and kickoff returns. So far this season the slim sophomore has scored on returns in every game except the Manhattan upset. Even there Pezelaki returned a punt for a touchdown, but it was nullified when the officials penalized the Villanova squad. . . .

Detroit has the largest traveling bowling league in the world, 110 teams. . . . West Point teams are assured of cheering sections. Approximately half of the corps at the academy goes to football games to root.

OHIO thus far has entered 1308 teams in the annual American Bowling Congress tournament to be held in Columbus from March 3 to May 4, 1942. Illinois has entered 491 and Indiana registered 428. . . . When Duquesne's Dukes leave for the west coast for their game with San Francisco Gaels, they will stop at various points along the way for workouts. . . . Bob Feller turned 23 last week and it looks as though he'll be in the Navy soon. . . . You may not have heard of John Grodzicki, but he's the gent who won 37 victories in assorted baseball camps in 1941. He won 10 with Colon in the Canal Zone before reporting to the St. Louis Cards. He won two exhibitions and was sent to Columbus where he won 19, added four in the league playoffs and then captured two over Montreal in the little world series for a total of 37.

Rayon Materials Will Survive Proper Washing

STILLWATER, Okla., —(Special) —Lady, if you've been having horrible dreams about whether that new rayon dress of your's will stand the gaff of being washed, then put your mind at ease. Miss Brenda Gould, one of the household experts at Oklahoma A. and M. College, says that it will, providing a few simple rules are followed in the laundering process.

Lukewarm water and gentle soap hold full sway in the rayon washing realm, no matter whether the rayon is of the acetate, viscose, or cuprammonium type. Suds should be lightly squeezed through the fabric, with extra attention being given any spots that have more than a suspicion of dirt on them. Garments should be kept moving while in the water.

A further recommendation of Miss Gould is that thorough rinsing follow the suds bath. At least two waters should be used for this rinse. If the water is hard as the proverbial nails, a reliable water softener may be added to prevent soap scum forming on the fabric and dulling its appearance. After rinsing is completed, the article should not be twisted or wrung to remove water, as rayon fibres are not so strong wet as when dry. Squeezing is recommended as the best method of removing excess moisture. The garment may also be wrapped in a turkish towel if there is still too much moisture remaining.

When it comes to ironing the garment after its soap and water treatment, a warm iron is the best bet for best results. Too hot an iron can make for disaster with rayons. Pressing on the wrong side will assure a nicer finish on the right side. Some rayons may be ironed while damp, but others, such as rayon satins, keep their luster better if ironed dry.

Do You Know Texas?

A reader of this newspaper can get the answer to any question of fact about Texas by writing A. Garland Adair, Curator of Patriotic Exhibits, Texas Memorial Museum, Austin, Texas.

BACK TO SCHOOL: "Those early statesmen and patriots who assembled at the call of their adopted and distressed country 105 years ago at Washington-on-the-Brazos charged in the Texas Declaration of Independence as a just cause for revolution that the tyrant Santa Anna government had founded no system of education for the people. So interested were the early Texas planners in the education of the people that they set aside nearly fifty million acres of land for public education, also specifying the building of a university of the first class. As the sound of bells is again soon to be heard in the land, we should be and truly are grateful that their message is music to our youth, to parents, to teachers, to school boards, and to friends of education throughout Texas. School bells are preferable to bombs and bullets. No state or nation can realize its fullest possibilities and greatest joys unless it builds upon the education of the whole people."

Q. How many acres of the public domain of Texas have been set aside to finance free public education?

A. Bascom Giles, Commissioner of the General Land Office, said recently that 49,458,334 acres of the public domain have been set aside for the purpose of education. This figure is broken down as follows: University of Texas and A. & M. College—3,329,168 acres.

Local county schools—4,229,166 acres. Eleemosynary institutions—400,000 acres. Public free school purposes—42,500,000 acres.

ODDITY: Switzerland has three times as many newspapers as Great Britain, yet the British newspaper chains are the world's largest.

Q. How many varieties of soil are there in Texas?

A. Department of Agriculture exhibits and records show there are more than 500 varieties of soil in Texas.

FOR CHURCH AND CHARITY: Approximately $40 per family is paid out annually by Texans for church, charity, and other worthy causes.

Q. What is the average monthly expenditure for food per family in Texas?

A. Authorities on the subject of food consumption estimate the food per family in Texas costs about $34 each month, varying with harvest seasons.

AIRMINDED: Texas had 151 airports and 11 seaplane anchorages on January 1, 1941, according to the Civil Aeronautics Board. The State is second in the United States in the number of airports, planes, and pilots.

Q. Did the Cherokee Indians have their own alphabet?

A. Yes. In Oklahoma, the Cherokees now have their own newspaper printed in their own alphabet. They are said to be the only tribe of Indians printing their own newspaper.

Texas Has Flu Epidemic

Austin, Texas — Fulfilling a prediction made several months ago by the State Department of Health, an epidemic of influenza in Texas is represented by the 1932 cases reported for the week just ending. This total is 6 times greater than shown for the same week, in the preceding 7 years.

"Neglecting proper treatment of influenza, or allowing the patient to be up too soon may have disastrous results," physicians warned, "since persons suffering from influenza are particularly susceptible to other infections."

They emphasized the importance of guarding against "flu," drinking plenty of water, eating simple, nourishing foods, outdoor exercise, plenty of sleep in a well-ventilated room, and sensible dress and best precautions.

"Pneumonia," frequently a complication of influenza, is a very serious disease, officials advised that a person suffering from influenza should be kept under competent medical supervision.

AUSTIN, Nov. 25.—Bascom Giles,
Commissioner of the General Land Office, today announced a statewide sale of approximately 200,000 acres of surveyed school lands for April 7, 1942, by the School Land
Board of which he is chairman.

The land is located in more than half of the counties of the state, and will be purchased for one-fifth down payment and forty years to pay the remaining four-fifths.

"We have requests every day to advertise certain tracts for sale," Commissioner Giles pointed out,
"and the School Land Board believes that demand and prices for land will make the Spring of 1942, an opportune time to hold this statewide sale."

This will be the second sale of surveyed school lands since Commissioner Giles took office. "The first one, on January 3, 1940, resulted in an unprecedented 8,000 bids being received for the sale of approximately 200,000 acres. When all the offers had been tabulated, 285 high bids were accepted for the purchase of 94,000 acres bringing $392,917 into the permanent school fund."

It's Your Life
How high do you fly when driving? What's your "altitude"? Silly questions? Well, not so silly as they sound! The Texas Safety Association asks you to suppose your car were to shoot straight up into the air
at the speed at which you travel.
How high would it go before starting to fall? At 30 miles per hour it would rise 30 feet; at 60 it would go up 120 feet!

And when it hit the ground in coming down it would be going just about the same speed as when it started up—30 miles per hour from 30 feet, 60 miles per hour from 120 feet—but the crash on landing would be no worse than hitting another car head on, a train, a bridge, or rut, or any other "fixed" object at such a speed. A little slip in steering at 60 miles per hour may be pretty much the same thing as the crash from a plane up 120 feet.
The chances of broken bones and torn bodies would be about equal.

When driving you might think of yourself as hovering over the road (at a height which depends upon your speed) with any accident resulting in a crash from that altitude. You might even think of your speedometer as an "altimeter" which would read like this table.
When the indicator needle points to 50 don't think 50 miles per hour but 80 feet up.
Speed in Miles
Per Hour
Altitude
in Feet

This will help you understand the hazards of speed. By it you can better judge when and where to drive fast or slow. Such thinking will make you a safer driver.

Quail Hunters Asked to Report On Banded Birds

Austin—With the opening of the quail season not far away, the Game Department's Executive Secretary
today urged scattergun fans to examine carefully all quail killed to determine if they have leg bands on them.

The quail season opens December 1st and extends through January 16th.

If a quail is banded, hunters are urged to remove the metal band and send it to the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, Austin, Texas, where the information derived from it will be used in scientific studies of quail now being conducted in wide areas of the Lone Star State.

The quail have been banded, and still are being banded, in various localities by Game Managers and Field Biologists of the Commission as a means of accumulating information that may prove valuable in studies of these birds. The average migration of quail, for one thing, is a vital factor that can assist biologists in the program of quail restocking now being undertaken by the Commission.

During the white-wing dove season
an appeal was sent out to sportsmen to return bands found on the legs of these birds in the Rio Grande Valley. The response was highly satisfactory and much was learned that can be put to use in the future conservation of white-wings, the Executive Secretary said.

It is hoped that sportsmen will be equally on the alert during the coming quail season.

And don't let anyone tell you

There's Something New

Sometimes you think there is nothing more new that can be told about the funny things happening afield to sportsmen. But it seems there's always a new one.
This takes our cake. A Virginia game warden came across a hunter with a squirrel in his pocket recently and quite naturally asked the man for a peek at his license.

"Oh I don't need a license," replied the hunter as he stroked the bushy tail of his vanquished game. "The squirrel season isn't open in this county."

North America was originally a
"dry" country. North America Indians knew little about the process of fermentation for beverage purposes. Holding some dough in the mouth for some time was an Indian method of making yeast for bread-making purposes.

Skunks are mostly beneficial to man. They feed on insects and grub to a large extent and are excellent mouse and rat catchers.

that it is unlawful to possess a dead
quail that has a band on its leg.
It's perfectly lawful.

Let's Eat!

Did you ever try this on that fat duck you killed at a right quarter-ing angle with your sixteen full choke, using number six drop shot?
It's good!

Roast uncovered at 350 degrees, without searing. Place strip of bacon across the breast or little bits of butter. Place in center cavity half an apple, small onion, 2 stalks of celery, which may be removed when the duck is cooked. Some people prefer to use a stuffing, but most cooking specialists advise against it since wild duck is not a juicy meat and dressing absorbs what moisture there is.

Kearny Limps Into Port

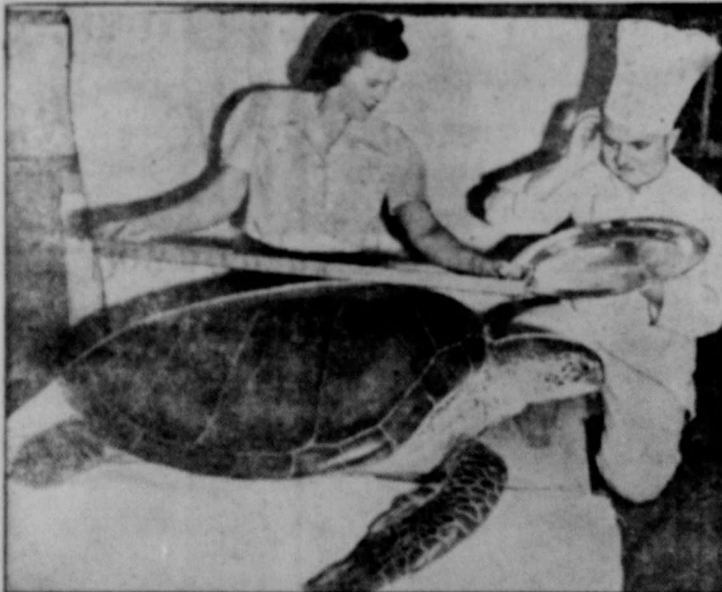

Torpedoed by a submarine, 350 miles southwest of Iceland, the crack destroyer Kearny limps into port, assisted by a sister ship. The Kearny was torpedoed while speeding to the rescue of a convoy which had sent distress signals while under attack from several German submarines. Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox revealed. Eleven lost their lives and 10 were injured in the blast. Bottom photo shows twisted wreckage on starboard side of Kearny.

Oklahoma Farmers Ready to Achieve 'Food for Freedom' Goals

Oklahoma farmers and ranchers, avoiding the mistakes of the first World War, can achieve the Food-for-Freedom goals without impairing their production plant, the soil on their farms and ranches.

That statement was made today by Leo S. Wortman, state coordinator of the Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service and a member of the Oklahoma USDA Defense Board.

"In the last war, we produced the foods and fibers and vegetable oils needed for victory, but we ruined millions of acres throughout the Nation," Wortman said. "We turned under and planted land which should have been left in grass or trees. We ran our rows up and down hill. We planted crops without any consideration of the crop best suited to the land. We planted and plowed and harvested without reckoning with soil erosion."

As a consequence, the Nation's agriculture plant was damaged permanently.

"That won't happen to Oklahoma farm and ranch lands this time," the state coordinator declared. "Here's why: Oklahoma farmers and ranchers, supported by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, other federal agencies, and local and state agencies, already have a going program of conservation and wise land use. Because of this soil and water conservation program, farmers and ranchers can expand production to meet the demands of Food-for-Freedom without the land waste of the first World War."

"This conservation program didn't have its beginning with the present war," Wortman commented. "It began more than a decade ago with the establishment of erosion control experiment stations. The fight against soil erosion began on a nation wide scale in 1933 with the establishment of the Soil Erosion Service, now the Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service. Since that time the war against erosion and attendant problems has been intensified with more local, state and federal agencies and more farmers and ranchers joining up every year."

The soil conservation district movement, in which local landowners and operators shoulder the responsibility for soil and water conservation and wise land use, was described by Wortman as the crowning achievement of the program and the key-stone of a plan to produce foods-for-freedom without wasting or damaging the land.

Oklahoma landowners already have organized, by petition and ballot, 56 soil conservation districts which cover more than 29,000,000 acres," the state coordinator explained. "Approximately 65 percent of Oklahoma is covered by these districts, and most of them already are in operation."

The State Soil Conservation Committee administers the state law under which the districts were organized.

In conservation planning in soil conservation districts, first consideration is given to the needs of the farmer or operator and the needs of the land, Wortman said. The whole program, he added, is voluntary.

"The first step in preparing a conservation plan for a farm or ranch is a conservation survey which gives a complete picture of the condition of the land," the state coordinator explained. "Information obtained in this survey is used by the farmer or rancher and a technician assigned to the district by the Soil Conservation Service in developing a conservation plan which provides the necessary conservation measures or combination of practices for every part of the farm."

Wortman said a farm or ranch conservation plan was the equivalent of a blue print.

"Using this plan, the owner or operator can determine what each piece of land, with the proper conservation treatment, is best suited to produce," he said. "Because of this plan, production of any adapted crop can be expanded without resulting in soil erosion."

Many of the foods — livestock and livestock products — needed for defense of the democracies can be produced by a grassland agriculture, which has been described as "a panacea for erosion." Wortman warned, however, that overgrazing and misuse of pastures can and does result in serious erosion. The Oklahoma USDA Defense Board is suggesting that livestock production be increased largely by producing fatter and better quality animals rather than by increasing numbers of animals.

"This plan is sound," Wortman added. "Experiment station records with beef cattle show that more beef and better quality beef can be produced per acre, for example, when the number of cattle on a range or pasture does not exceed the actual livestock carrying capacity of the range or pasture."

Tentative production goals set for Oklahoma farmers and ranchers are as follows: Milk, 2,705,940 pounds, an increase of 185,940 pounds over 1941; eggs, 99,105,000 dozen, an increase of 16,522,000 dozen; pork, 121-1/3 percent more pigs farrowed in the spring of 1942 than were farrowed in the spring of 1941; peanuts, 159,447 acres, an increase of 71,087 acres over 1940. Increase production of sheep, vegetables and fruits, soybeans, and food for home use also is needed.
