Lindy's Tour—
A Texas Empire—
Chicago Boquets—
Going West—

IT IS TO BE hoped that efforts of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce and of Mayor R. E. Shepherd to have Col. Charles Lindbergh visit here on his national tour will meet with success.

Every town in the state of course would like to entertain the hero of the Atlantic, but The Record News knows of none with a claim more valid than that of Wichita Falls.

Dallas and Fort Worth are included on Colonel Lindbergh's itinerary as centers of population in their areas. Officials of the Guggenheim foundation, which is promoting the flight, should not overlook Wichita Falls, capital of a new and great empire in Northwest Texas.

W. C. GRANT, veteran newspaperman and former staff member of the Associated Press, returns to Wichita Falls as public relations director of the Texas Utilities company, a position for which he should be admirably suited.

Many in Wichita Falls recall other visits of Mr. Grant as a member of the Associated Press, and especially his last trip here to "cover" the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention.

Mr. Grant is to be congratulated on his new position, and the utilities company is fortunate in securing his services.

A FORMER feeling of enmity on the part of the public toward large corporations, especially those in the utility field, has largely subsided in the last few years, partly because the feeling was not wholly justified, and more because of the increased and better services given by utilities.

The average citizen today is apt to accept with a fervent "amen" Mr. Grant's statement, made in an address to the Advertising club, that in the modern scheme "public utilities are as necessary as civilization as the air we breathe."

THE following extract from a statement issued by L. W. Landman of Chicago, passenger traffic manager of the New York Central Lines, is one of the many originating in the east and north since the tour of the "All Texas Special:"

"We have handled many special trains but none quite like this special party of our neighbors from the great southwest. Governor Moody and his associates simply 'captured' Chicago.

"In a delightful way these gentlemen have reopened the old and kindly trail toward Texas, which is certain to prove of real and lasting benefit to the great Lone Star State."

THE "All Texas Special" aroused a new interest in Texas in the area which it traversed and afforded thousands of persons with a new view of Texas. If the state is to really capitalize on the work of good will accomplished by the special, each section must follow up the tour with its own campaign directing attention to its particular possibilities.

Although its primary purpose is to allow leading farmers and business men to study conditions in other states, the special train to California from Wichita Falls should direct favorable attention to this section of the state.

Coming so soon after the "All Texas" tour which received publicity all over the nation, The Wichita delegation should meet a favorable and gratifying reception in its journey through the west to California.

ROUND TRIP OCEAN FLIGHT STARTS TODAY

Smith and Bronte Ready For "Hop Off" From Oakland

PILOT MONOPLANE

Return Flight Said To Be The Hardest Of The Round Trip

OAKLAND, Calif., July 13. (AP) Ernest L. Smith, civillian aviator, and Emery B. Bronte, his navigator, today announced themselves ready for a round trip airplane flight betkeen Oakland and Honolulu that is expected to begin at 9 a. m. tomorrow. It had been planned to start at 7 o'clock but to be sure of landing in the daylight hours, the time of departure was changed to two hours later.

Smith will pilot a monoplane and his schedule calls for as short a stay on Wheeler field, near Honolulu, as possible. He said he would start on the return trip as soon as his machine could be re-fueled.

This will be Smith's second attempt to make a nop-stop flight to the Hawaiian islands. He started June 28 but was forced to return because of a broken wind deflector. Since then the airplane has been overhauled and many new navigation instruments have been installed. The army placed in the navigator's cabin a radio set that has a reception radius of 1200 miles and a daylight sending radius of 300 to 400 miles.

The aviator plans to keep within the range of the radio beacon the army has established between the Presidio of San Francisco and Honolulu. It is expected the beacon direction signals will be intercepted continuously.

The monoplane, a travelair, has been christened "The City of Oakland," and when loaded it carries 370 gallons of gasoline. The cruising speed of the machine is rated at 120 miles an hour.

The flight on return from Honolulu will be the hardest because of the strong trade winds that blow off the coast of the United States and toward the Hawaiian islands. The return trip is expected to take many more hours than the flight from the filed here.

Army officials here declared that a round trip flight between the mainland and Honolulu, as outlined in Oakland, Calif., by Captain William H. Royle, manager of the Smith-Bronte flight, is impossible because Wheeler field, where the fliers propose to land is only 1200 feet long, too short a distance to permit the take-off of a loaded trans-Pacific airplane.

Smith's only chance of a round trip flight, in the opinion of the army men, is to take on a part load of gasoline at Wheeler field and then fly to the island of Kaui and complete loading on the field from which Richard Grace recently attempted to start for the mainland.

"Take The Air" Advice Given Army Officers

WARDEN AFTER DYNAMITERS

Three Men Shoot At State Officer

AUSTIN, July 13. (AP)—Three Colorado river fish dynamiters who fired on Game Warden T. C. Haynes up the river from Austin yesterday had not been apprehended late today by Sheriff's deputies and agents of the state game, fish and oyster department, Commissioner Tucker said.

A reward of $100 has been offered, and four deputies are on the trail.

Haynes, who had been trailing the men several days attempted to arrest them after a dynamite explosion, and one of the men was wounded when the warden returned their fire. He pursued them through Leander, where it was learned that treatment was given the wounded man.

Haynes, leaving Austin today to renew the search, declared he could identify the man, believed to be the one wounded, who fired on him.

The warden had been after the men after reports that they had been dynamiting the Pardinales and Colorado rivers. The encounter was between Goose Island and Cow Creek.

Haynes, in the last few weeks, has secured about 60 arrests and convictions in connection with game law violations.

Married Youth Released From Training School

FORT WORTH, July 13. (AP)—After a separation of 14 months, G. B. Ard Jr., 17, was with his 18-year-old wife in a court room here today when his petition for a writ of habeas corpus which would release him from the state training school at Gatesville was granted by Judge Mercer.

Ard entered the Gatesville institution after he had pleaded guilty in 1926 to charges of stealing an automobile, which afterwards was involved in a wreck that cost the life of Mrs. Maggie Manis, 21.

Following the statement of the young wife that she would live with her husband and try to make him a good wife, Judge Mercer granted the writ, on the technical grounds that the judgment of the juvenile court in 1926 was faulty in several respects. The boy's parents and grandmother were other witnesses at today's hearings.

One Joke Reduces Will Rogers' Bankroll To Extent of $500

Humorist Starts Flivver Race From Oklahoma To California and Regrets It

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 13. (AP)—One of Will Rogers' syndicated jokes cost him $500 today, widely printed as a bit of his humor, it was taken seriously in his own middle west and today Oklahoma acceptors of the challenge appeared to collect on it.

The printed item was a humorous offer of $500 to the winner of a non-stop flivver tour between Beverly Hills and Oklahoma, good for a finish at either end.

In the wee hours of the morning today, Mr. and Mrs. J. Collins of Tulsa, Okla., woke the Rogers family from their sound slumbers to claim the prize. They arrived at 4 a. m., having left Oklahoma Saturday.

A half hour later Robert Kloehr and Ross Hutchins of Claremore, Okla., the cowboy humorist's own home town, rattled into the aristocratic movie suburb. Changing three tires had cost them first money.

third Oklahoma hopeful arrived at noon.

Mrs. Rogers alone rubbed open her eyes at 4 a. m. to receive but, it was reported, not too enthusiastically, welcome her husband's guests.

Rogers, learning last night that the joke was having an unexpected comeback, ducked out, removing himself to his ranch in the far reachs of the Santa Monica mountains. He had turned over to Chief of Police Blair his unwanted offices of reception committee and awarder of the prize. Today Chief Blair was busy arranging hotel accomodations and entertaining the flivvering Oklahomans.

The deportation brought the total number of undesirables deported to Mexico through this port in the last two weeks to 350.

Both Mexican and American border patrols have been tightened for the cotton picking season as the American immigration law prohibits the entrance of labor contracted for in foreign lands, and the Mexican law prohibits laborers leaving the republic except under definite contract.

MODISH MITZI By JAY V. JAY

"No, I'm not interested," says Mitzi to the Goofer when he implores her to come to the court. He'll teach her the game. He'll serve her easy balls. The poor Goofer would serve her anything. Even, his heart on a silver platter.

But Mitzi is busy watching some sweaters like hers with the cobweb and spider motif embroidered on them. Round necks, too.

Of course, Mitzi never realized when she told the Goofer she wasn't going to play tennis that there is a wide and various style of garments for the game alone. She'd never have said it, if she'd known about this Jane Regny tennis dress with the sunburst applique, or the sleeveless model that is after the style worn by an English champ.

Nor did she know anything about these English tennis pumps that are worn with silk hose and the short white woolen tennis socks that are rolled around the ankles. There is a smart little short sleeved tennis shirt with a tight round neck. With this too, may be worn a white or striped headband.

There was nothing to do but take up the game. First, Mitizi got the clothes, then she ordered all the books on tennis by her favorite champions. The Goofer is surprised at her sudden interest in the game. She never realized, explained Mitzi, what skill is needed for the game or she never would have refused the Goofer's kind offer? Whereupon he repeats it!

Youth's "Right To Live Own Life" Often Denied by Later Experience

The Proud Boast of Youth That It Has the Right to Live as It Pleases Falls Through in the Face of Experience—All We Can Hope for Is to Bring Others As Litte Pain and as Much Pleasure As Possible.

There is nothing upon which the young are so insistent as upon their right to live their own lives in their own way. Seek to control, or even to offer advice or warning to any girl or boy and the retort is hurled have a right to live it as I please," have a right t olive it as I please."

Which is a fine, resounding phrase, a regular Fourth of July emancipation proclamation of freedom from the shackles that bind and confine.

The only trouble with it is that it is a theory that cannot be translated into fact. No one lives to himself alone. Our lives all interlock, and no one may do with his life what he pleases because what he does affects his family, his friends, his neighbors, society in general.

The other day I heard a mother pleading with her frail and delicate daughter to take better care of her health:

"Oh, for heaven's sake, let me alone,' 'cried the girl irritably, "you are always nagging at me about dancing too much and staying up too late and eating too much candy and not sleeping enough, and I am tired to death of it all. It's my body and I've got the right to do what I please with it, and if I make myself sick I am the one who has to suffer. I have to endure the pain."

"True," replied the mother, "and if you suffered alone you might, perhaps, have the right to wreck your health if you chose, but the difficulty is that you can't suffer alone. You involve so many other people in your catastrophe.

"When you are sick I pay for it in anguish and anxiety of soul and in weariness during the long hours in which I watch by your bedside Your father pays for it by having to work harder and hospital bills and nurses' bills and sanitarium bills.

"The other children pay for it in being denied some treat they might have had if the money had not gone for one of your 'spells.' And they pay for it in the depressed atmosphere of the home, for sickness is not a cheerful thing to have in the house.

"Some day you will marry and your husband will have to suffer for getting a nervous, neurotic woman for a wife instead of a strong and healthy one, and your children will have to suffer in their poor, sickly bodies for being brought into the world by a mother who had abused her own body.

"Oh, no, my dear, you won't be the one who will suffer most if you don't take care of your health, and you haven't any right in the world to make yourself a semi-invalid if you can possibly avoid doing so."

As I listened to this mother I thought of another I once heard entreating her daughter not to marry a man who was a dissipated ne'er do-well.

"Perhaps I am throwing my life away, as you say," the girl said, "but it's my own life, my own happiness that I am risking, and I have the right to take the chance if I want to. I'm the one who has to lie on the bed I make."

And so she married her man, and the mother's heart broke as she saw her beautiful and gay young daughter grow old and haggard before her time, as she was dragged down into the gutter by her drunken husband.

And, at last, when the girl could stand no longer the abuse and neglect and unfaithfulness of the rotter she had married, she came crawling back to mother, broken in health and spirit, and with three little children hanging to her shabby skirts.

The mother had a small income, scraped together for her old age by years and years of self-denial and pinching economies. It would have supported her alone in modest comfort.

But with three little children to rear and educate it meant that poor old grandmother had to work her stiff old fingers to the bone cooking and washing and cleaning for these youngsters whose support her daughter has foisted on her. She had to do without all the little comforts that soften the rigors of age, because children have so many necessities.

If only in reality the girls who, in the passion of youth make such ill-advised marriages, could hear alone the results of their own mistakes, they might have the right they claim to disregard their parents' counsel in the matter and marry whom they please.

But it is the parents who have to suffer with them in their unhappiness. It is to poor old father and mother that they come home with their children after the divorce. And it is father and mother who in their old age have to start rearing another family and spending their pittance supporting poor Mary's children.

Then there's the case of the X's. Mr. X. was a fine business man. Always made a lot of money, but he was a spender and a waster. No matter how much he earned he threw it all away. Friends used to remonstrate with him and urge him to save up something for a rainy day.

"Not me, cried Mr. X. "It's my money. I make it, and I've got a right to blow it in if I want to."

And he did. But evil times came. He fell sick and lost his job.

Everything went, and for years and years now Mr. and Mrs. X. have been living on the charity of their friends—charity which is given grudgingly because every one feels that it is dishonest for a man to spend his own money in riotous living and when that is gone to expect to be supported by people who have acquired their competence by self-denial.

So the proud boast of youth that it has the right to live its own life falls through in the fact of experience.

The most that we can hope to do is to live our lives so that they will bring as much pleasure and as little pain to others as is possible.

Sense of Smell Necessary to Cook

TWENTY thousand francs damages have been awarded by a Paris court to a cook who was knocked down by a taxi and had his olfactory nerves injured. A sense of smell, contended counsel for plaintiff, is essential to a cook.

This Day in History

ON the 14th of July, 1790, Paris celebrated the first anniversary of the fall of the Bastile. The prison was attacked by the Parisians at the outbreak of the Revolution and after a vigorous resistance was burned.

THE BUBBLE OF BEAUTY

Drawn by NELL BRINKLEY

THE perfect beauty of extreme youth vanishes like a bubble blown from the lips—the rosy lips of Love. The very outermost skin of beauty does. But if that Beauty is made of the least thing more—lovely character, goodness, kindness, a sunny heart, faith, loyalty—it only turns into another thing when just the material, outer surface has vanished before your eyes; turns into some other and more substantial loveliness. A bubble DOESN'T, I know, so my likeness ends there. Unless even a bubble has a soul, if we had eyes to see it with.

That beauty that has not goodness goes out the soonest. Lasts no longer than an eye-wink in the immensity of time! And friends look and stare and wonder at the change when a lovely face is not only beautiful no longer, but even LESS beautiful than some other faces that have always been plain. Beauty with goodness, as most real beauty is companioned, only changes —never goes.

So if you are beautiful, lucky girl, try to be good along with it—so that you may hold your beauty. So that suddenly it may not leave you with that iridescent haste with which the fragile, multi-colored bubble leaves this world!

—NELL BRINKLEY.

Individuality Brings Beauty

By Lucy Lowell

PERHAPS the most important thing in the world to the woman who would be attractive—and the one most sadly neglected—is individuality.

LUCY LOWELL

Of course it is not entirely her fault. Today's fashions are arbitrary and the mass of American women might have been turned out by a factory so identical are they in every detail of dress and grooming and manner.

Many a woman who might be notable for her charm merely trains along with the pack because she lacks the courage to assert her good taste and originality in dress.

It does take courage these days to wear the thing which is becoming and not the style. It takes a high type of conviction for a woman to be just herself instead of an imitation of that vague but powerful thing, the fashionable woman.

And it is not only feminine dress that conceals individuality; it is the present day standardized manner, carriage, speech, likes and "alikes—all things, in fact, which should be varied and are so woefully monotonous.

Every woman should study herself. To make the best of her appearance and personality she should set aside some time to discovering her good points as well as her poor ones, and in learning just how to set forth the former and play down the latter.

To do this is not vanity; it is no more than a duty every woman owes to herself and to those with whom she comes in contact.

Intelligence and much thought are required for this. And nothing is possible until the woman has decided that she must know herself and that she must be reasonably independent of fashion.

Health Measures for Young Working Girls

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOU may or may not belong to that fortunate class of young women who must do something for a living.

All young women who must do some honorable thing for a living are classified as working girls.

It follows, therefore, that the term "working girl" is not to be taken in the narrow meaning of a girl engaged in manual labor, but includes all girls in the labor market, shop assistants, clerks, etc.

Excellent results, we are informed by Murrell, have followed the efficient inspection and treatment of ailments in school children, and much remains to be done in the way of extending such measures into the office and shop. In factories more attention is already given to them, but there is room for improvement even here.

Adolescents have not only to satisfy the requirements of the labor market, but to do so during a period of great strain. The following are some of the disabilities to which they are particularly liable:

There are certain errors of spinal growth, such as scoliosis (spinal curvature), due to prolonged standing, bad sitting posture and the carrying of heavy weights badly balanced whilst the bones are still soft. Lordosis, or hollow-back or sway-back, is often due to a wrong stance or faulty shoes. Flat foot is closely connected with spinal trouble and generally is due to wearing badly-constructed shoes while carrying heavy burdens or otherwise overworking with the feet. Anemia, which used to be so common, fortunately is disappearing as a result of more fresh air and looser clothing.

Menstrual disturbance is common among working girls. Menstruation is a normal function and should cause no disturbance to the health of adult women. To begin it, however, means a certain loss of equilibrium, which shows itself in pain, depression and excessive loss. The old attitude of ignoring these troubles is wrong and every effort, including medical attention, should be used to remove them. You may ignore them but they will not ignore you.

Many girls, in addition to a full day's work outside, are required to help at home as well. It is most important that no girl should have to do more than one person's work. Considering how much greater is her contribution to the new generation than her brother's, she ought to be allowed at least as much rest and recreation.

Adolescence is the time when self-consciousness first becomes acute and when the new reproductive function obtrudes itself upon the personality. This period demands that adjustment be made to it. Emotional strain of some kind is therefore practically inevitable. The girl suffers worse than the boy because her outlook on life is less definite. His work does not interfere with his prospects of marriage and hers is generally regarded as only a stopgap till she finds a husband. She is often required to do purely routine work which gives no scope to her ambitions. This unsatisfactory situation undoubtedly causes much emotional overstrain in women. Better schools give idealistic education, but society gives no outlet for the ideals, a most cruel neglect. Much can be done to reduce this trouble by providing a cheerful, happy environment, games, swimming, etc., and food for the artistic sense and imagination (colour, music, plays, books), and by avoiding the necessity for undue standing, cramped sitting, etc. at work. Good food and clothing are the foundation of a healthy mind.

In these circumstances it is your duty to cultivate some interest, some fad that will serve as an outlet for your emotions—but keep your eye open for a good husband, a good one, mind you!

Helpful Household Hints

The Life of a Carpet.

The best way in which to preserve the life of a carpet is, after it has been beaten and swept, to wipe it with a mixture of soapsuds and turpentine. The mixture should be in the proportion of a gallon of soapsuds to a dessertspoonful of turpentine. This removes the dust effectively, and make the carpet brighter and more lustrous.

Care of Goldfish.

Goldfish should never be kept in strong light. They have no eyelids, and the sun, striking on to their eyes, kills them. This is one of the chief reasons why goldfish die, because people put them on a window-sill. At night they should be taken from a lighted room or covered with a piece of fairly dark material. Goldfish must have water weed to oxygenate the water, or they will suffocate. The same root of weed will last for several weeks, but when it looks decayed it must be changed. Ants' eggs are the best food for goldfish; they should never have bread or anything starchy.

Perhaps She's Too Young

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man. I am very much interested in a girl who puzzles me most of the time.

At times, she is encouraging and makes me think that she cares for me. But at other times she seems indifferent about my company.

A short while ago I sent her a gift for her birthday, which she returned unopened. But upon seeing her the next time, she was very nice to me. I am almost positive that she doesn't care for anyone else.

Please advise me as to what I should do.

L. F.

YOU do not mention your age, my friend, nor that of the girl whom you admire. But I imagine that she is very young from your description of her.

Evidently, she likes you, even though now and thn you may find her in an indifferent mood. Cultivate her friendship and prove yourself a loyal friend. Later on, when you are in a position to become engaged and marry, you can learn whether she loves you by asking her to be your wife, provided she is old enough to know her own mind and consider love seriously.

As to the gift you sent her, is it not possible that her parents do not permit her to accept gifts from men? It is not in good taste to give a young lady to whom you are not engaged, any gift of financial value, with the exceptions of books, candy, flowers and music.

When Manners Are Correct

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Groom's Choice.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: ....

I am to be maid of honor at my sister's wedding. The man chosen as best man is practically engaged and expects to announce the engagement soon. Is it proper for him to be my best man?

(2) Is the best man supposed to call for the maid of honor at the bride's house, or should they meet in the hall?

A READER.

THE best man is not your best man, dear friend, he is the best man to the groom, the chief attendant of the groom, and neither the bride nor the maid of honor is given the privilege of choosing who he shall be. The maid of honor is the chief attendant of the bride, and the best man is the chief attendant of the groom, and to each it should make no difference who the other is. You see, it is unreasonable that the groom should consult with the maid of honor as to whom she wishes for the groom's best man. The fact that the best man is engaged makes no difference to you. The only thing that makes a difference is the fact that the groom chose this gentleman for his best man. And the bride and her attendants bow to the wishes of the groom in this most important-to-him matter. Naturally all his life the groom has thought of whom he would like for his attendant at his wedding, and it is his prerogative to choose whom he wishes.

Also, in the best planned wedding, the best man and the maid of honor do not walk together either in the processional or in the recessional. Indeed, in the best planned weddings the best man does not take part in either the processional or the recessional.

(2) The best man goes to the home of the groom to see if he can be of service to the groom, and he and the groom go to the church together. They go directly to the vestry room or some room at the front of the church and wait there, with the clergyman, until they receive news that the processional is ready to start. Then they come to the foot of the chancel steps. This is the correct procedure in all weddings, formal or informal.

Our Rhyming OPTIMIST

—By Aline Michaelis—

A WIZARD weaves his swiftly potent spell upon my thought; he smiles and all is well. Oh, it may be that cares have multiplied along my way till hope itself has died, and it may chance that every ship of dream is washed afar upon some cruel stream, some current fierce that sweeps all joy away, and, stealing promise, leaves me but dismay! And yet, by sudden charms this wizard weaves, hope springs anew as fresh as April leaves. What is his magic that can make life change in subtle ways, as beautiful as strange? The wizard's spell is known the whole world round, on hill and field, in vale and woodland found, for Love is his enchantment and his art, most potent of all charms to heal the heart!

FOLLY'S DAUGHTER

A Thrilling New Mystery of New York Night Life

By ANN LISLE

Jill Meets Roy Again.

ROY SCARLETT hurried home with the good news that he had the Shannon account. As his taxi drove uptown he got a notion to walk through the Park, get a breath of air and find time to calm down. He didn't want to burst in on Vivian with the air of a schoolboy who has just been promoted. He wanted to be very lordly and superior and make his truant wife realize that he was not the kind of weakling to take it as a matter of course when his wife had secrets from him and went on little excursions without him.

ANN LISLE

On the way through the Park he met Jill Hathaway, whiling away the hours of a lonely Saturday. Folly was off on another trip with Sam. This time it was disguised as a week-end in Atlantic City with a girl she used to "troup" with in the sticks, a girl who had married well and was anxious to see her old pal. Folly gave Jill twenty-five dollars before she left and bade her amuse herself decently during the lonely days. She kissed Jill tenderly before departing. Jill was grateful for the tenderness, and felt that her newfound faith in and affection for Folly were enough to see her through the days.

An idea was born as Roy looked at Jill, cool and charming in the figured silk Sam Kerby's money had bought and happy because she had no idea how Folly had come by the money with which she was treating Jill so lavishly.

"I played the ponies," Folly had said. "And I put up a lot on a couple of ball games. I had to, darling. But as soon as my regular work begins I'll stop taking chances. Don't be critical of me. Don't stop liking me. It's grand being friends."

So in spite of her moments of remembering and regretting the brevity of first love, Jill was almost happy as she sauntered through a shady path in the park and into Roy Scarlett's amused and satiric line of vision.

"Hello there," he exclaimed with a gleam in his eye.

"Hello your own self," Jill said in a gay young voice that denied the resemblance between her and Vivian of the throaty tones.

"Whither away?" asked Roy.

"To the rim of the world, maybe," answered Jill.

"My wife has been looking everywhere for you," he told the girl mischievously rather than maliciously. "She's been away for several days. But she wouldn't leave me alone over the week-end. Want to saunter over to my place, give Mrs. Scarlett the pleasure of your company, and have an iced drink with both of us while we celebrate our new position in the hostelry of your admirer?"

Jill didn't understand all of that. But she decided to go. She was glad the lovely lady had relented and wanted to see her. She was anxious to see the woman whose connection with her own life she was somehow convinced would make everything pleasant. And if Mr. Scarlett was working for MacNeil Shannon and she got to be friends with the Scarletts, perhaps she'd get to see Mac again—and differently, in a way to make him feel different toward her. . . .

"He sent your money back with an impolite, unkind note," said pride.

"I want to see him again. I'd do anything to see him again," said young first love.

So she went home with Roy Scarlett. She chatted gaily with him all the way, hardly noticing the way he was putting personal, leading questions to her, hardly conscious that she was evading them almost as soon as they were put.

"My but you're a reserved little piece," said Roy. "But I guess when you and Mrs. Scarlett get together you'll both loosen up a bit."

What he meant was that when Vivian saw the girl she would probably be shocked into revelation.

He had no idea that part of his spiteful feeling toward Viv was the result of a stubborn reaction against MacNeil Shannon's mandate that when next he dined at the Shannon Hotel he should bring his wife. He didn't dream that he had a brutal desire to force Vivian's confidence, to belittle her just when he himself felt most important. He didn't know that other men before him had been suddenly seized with a desire to besmirch, attack and repudiate their wives at the moment when achievement in the business world gave them a desire to be free to wear their laurel wreaths at any angle they liked.

Roy put a gay and rakish key in the front door of his apartment. He led Jill into a charming living room. He rang for a maid and bade her call Mrs. Scarlett.

"And give us lots of iced fruit punch, Annette," he added.

"Mrs. Scarlett isn't here," the girl leered, "but I'll bring the drink for you and the young lady."

Roy turned to Jill with flushed and angry face. "We'll have to manage alone," he said, regretting that he had let himself in for the reserved child's society. He sat down on the arm of her chair and slipped a careless arm about her, because he thought it was the thing to do. But Jill had gone through one adventure with a man of Roy's world. She thought his flushed face, his slow, careless manner, meant what MacNeil Shannon's manner had meant.

"I'm going!" she cried breathlessly. "I don't want anything to do with a man who brings me to his house pretending his wife is home when she isn't."

"Don't make a scene!" Roy gasped. If MacNeil Shannon had not liked his bringing Bonnie Clair to the hotel, what would he think of his bringing this kid to his home when Viv was away?

Roy was annoyed at Jill. Jill was disgusted with Roy. And the day came when the antagonism born of such a trivial chance brought bitter fruit to their lips.

Passing of a Proof Leader

MARIAN LUTHER ANDREW, 55, is dead in the city of Houston. He was for 15 years proof reader on the Houston Chronicle and later on the copy desk of the Houston Press. He handled the manuscript copy turned in by M. E. Foster and the wise ones say that the proof reader was the only man connected with the Chronicle who had the authority or the nerve to make changes in the Foster product whenever he deemed it necessary.

Foster passed from the editorship of the Chronicle to the editorship of the Houston Press. He did not make the journey alone. He carried with him his favorite proof reader and confidential friend. There are men who say that Andrew was the only member of the staff of the Chronicle who could decipher the handwriting of the brilliant Foster. Now the noted proof reader has passed on.

What will Foster do without him? A proof reader who is a master artist is just as valuable as a brilliant editor to the makers of a newspaper, and Andrews is said to have been a master among the proof readers of his time. He was a modest chap. He neither sought nor craved publicity or fame.

It Made Milwaukee Famous

AND now the Wisconsin senate has passed the Duncan beer bill by a vote of 17 to 14. This bill legalizes manufacturing and sale of 2.75 per cent beer as far as state prohibition enforcement laws are concerned. It passed the house by a very heavy majority and now goes to Governor Zimmerman. Zimmerman was elected on the anti-LaFollette ticket. He was the only man on his ticket that escaped defeat.

Governor Zimmerman is opposed to the return of the saloon but is said to be committed to a revision of the Volstead act. Are these Wisconsin lawmakers traitors to the flag and the government? William Gibbs McAdoo is of the opinion that a man who favors the repeal of the 18th amendment or modification of the Volstead act is a traitor to the constitution and the flag.

William Jennings Bryan was committed to the same proposition. Wouldn't it be impossible to indict an entire commonwealth for treason? And isn't it true that all power comes from the people?

Oregon Swats Amendments

OREGON voters held a referendum on many important amendments submitted by petition or by the lawmakers of the commonwealth. One of the amendments was a state income tax proposal. This amendment was swatted to death. It received 37,008 votes for and 57,474 against or a majority against the state income tax of 20,336.

There were several amendments on the state ballot having to do with financial matters, including one to increase the pay of lawmakers from $3 to $10 a day. All the financial amendments went down in defeat.

How is it possible for a lawmaker to live on $3 a day in Oregon or elsewhere? A laborer in Oregon receives from $3.50 to $5 a day. He manages to get by.

A lawmaker should be paid a respectable salary or it should be a non-salaried position. This in Texas and all other American states.

Demand For Texas Securities

TEXAS financiers say that with low price United States bonds being issued there is an increased demand for Texas securities which yield a higher rate of interest. They say as a result of a demand for Texas securities the state board of education is finding it difficult to obtain enough to keep the permanent school fund invested and the fund has $600,000 on hand. There is a demand for state securities of all kind. And a year ago Texas pessimists said that Texas bonds could not be sold and the credit of the state had been injured by a court decision.

Millionaires in Texas

ACCORDING to a federal treasury official there are 280 millionaires in Texas. That is, there are 280 persons having an income of $50,000 per year, no part of which is from professional service. There are 6919 persons in Texas earning more than $10,000 per year. Now what are the earnings of the higher-ups in the bootlegging industry?

What Is Nullification?

NEW YORK republicans and New Jersey republicans are side stepping the Volstead Act. They are for a referendum in New York and a referendum in New Jersey. The resolution adopted is identically the same. That is, the man who framed the New York resolution must have framed the New Jersey proposal.

It favors a referendum, according to Dr. Mark Sullivan, on a question framed to say if it wins that Congress should permit each state to make its own definition of what constitutes an intoxicating beverage. And the doctor of letters and journalism makes this comment, "this is the position that Borah, McAdoo and others have called nullification."

McAdoo and Borah are not the leaders of the republicans of New York and New Jersey. Just now their leaders are rampant state rights republicans. Former Senator James W. Wadesworth is the leader of New York wets and Senator Edge is the leader of the wets in New Jersey. They have thrown down the gauntlet and they say they are ready for a last ditch fight for their pet resolution.

Back to the Ox-Cart Period

CRITICS of the State Highway commission say that the three commissioners are motoring over the state in a car that cost $4500. They are. Three or four old cars were exchanged for the new car. Of course, there was a small cash payment in the transaction. Now just what is the demand of the critics. Are they insisting that the three commissioners shall travel up and down the highways and byways on a cart drawn by a yoke of sturdy oxens. Are they longing to return to the ox-cart period of existence. If so, there are spots in Mexico and in the isolated regions of Spain where the natives cling to the ox and the cart. They haven't advanced a peg in 500 years.

San Antonio Federal Reserve Bank

SAN ANTONIO has a branch of the Federal Reserve Bank. It began to function the first of July. It has 45 employes. It will serve banks in 53 counties. In the San Antonio territory there are 218 banks, 101 of which are members of the Federal Reserve system, and the territory served by the San Antonio branch was formerly cared for by the Dallas and El Paso and Houston banks. Texas is not standing still. There isn't a single industry in Texas that is standing still.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, July 13. (EFS)—Just who Mr. Childs of the Childs restaurants is, few New Yorkers know, although his restaurants are an institution and have been reproduced on the stage as a setting for a Belasco drama. But obviously Mr. Childs is a vegetarian and a health food enthusiast.

On one menu in a Childs restaurant the other night I found only one meat listed—ham—among the special dishes. Under sandwiches I found chicken and under hot dishes I found bacon; but no other meats.

Instead there were a number of meat substitutes, made of grain. They were called "meatless turkey," "meatless beefsteak," and "meatless chicken." At the cashier's desk there were a number of these imitation flesh foods, put up in jars, so that the customer might take them home with him as well as order them at table.

The menu also prints small paragraphs extolling the virtues of a meatless diet. "Go vegetable-wise," it admonishes.

The Childs restaurants are also breaking away from the old white tile interiors, which the Childs restaurants originated and, by giving an aspect of scrupulous cleanliness, also managed to convey suggestions of a surgical operating room and a turkish bath. The latest Childs restaurant on Forty-sixth street and Broadway, is decorated in rich brown, with tan walls with an antique surface. There are beams along the rough, plastered ceiling. The outside is no longer white, but a delicately tinted Italian marble, ornamented with brass scroll work.

The thing that has been expected for a long time on Broadway has finally arrived. The Jews are officially objecting to the De Mille photoplay, "The King of Kings." The Benevolent Order of B'nai Brith has taken exception to the scene showing the death of Christ at the hands of the Jews. The execution, the order affirms, was carried out by Roman authorities and therefore the movie is defamatory to the Jewish race.

The B'nai Brith intends to have some of the scenes eliminated or to bring court action to stop further distribution of the picture. So far no legal action has been taken, but officials of the organization are conferring with De Mille's lawyers.

Leo Donnelley, who in private life is the wittiest of actors, in speaking of a certain Broadway producer said, "When he eats in a restaurant, the waiter never has to bring him a check. The cashier adds up his vest."

"Then, I'll come tomorrow, dear Lyra."

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Phillip Wynne Travy IV has had a childish engagement with Natlee Jones. Becoming interested in Lyra Hilliard, an old friend of his mother's, Phil soon finds himself failing in love with her.

Natlee, overhearing him making love to Lyra, breaks her engagement. The whole affair, however, sinks into nothingness because America enters the World war.

Phillip enlists and is soon in France. Just before leaving, Phil meets Natlee again and they plan to be married. The immediate departure of the troops, however, prevents this.

Soon after arriving in France Phil is wounded and is decorated for bravery.

After the armistice, whilee in Paris, he comes unexpectedly face to face with his mother, who is accompanied by Major Aukland, devoted to her.

Mrs. Tracy learns that Phil intends to marry Pat, a French divorcee with a four-year-old child. She refuses her consent to the marriage.

Phil compromises with his mother. If she will refuse Major Aukland's proposal of marriage, he will give up Pat for two years. She agrees and they return to America.

Mrs. Tracy invites Natlee to their home the first morning after their return. Natlee seems cold and frivolous in her manner. Phil goes to town, and while there runs into Jerry Kenyon, who is a rival for Natlee's affections, and who casts a slur upon Mrs. Hilliard. There is a fight and Phil beats him.

He receives a letter from Pat telling that she is to marry a wealthy Frenchman.

Here the story further unfolds:

CHAPTER LV.

Resolved to Live it Over

"It's all over," said Phil to himself. "She calls me 'Phillip'." He had always been a little superstitious about his name. He noticed that when any girl began to care for him she started by calling him "Wynne." He had always marked it as the second stage in each of his love affairs, and when she unconsciously reverted to the name of Phillip, he knew that the episode was over.

Although Phil smiled at Pat's postscript, it was with rather sad eyes and trembling hands that he tore the letter into bits. For a moment or two he held these pieces in his hand, and then dropped them into the wastebasket.

For quite a while he sat there, thinking over the last three years of his life, which seemed to him were very definitely wasted. He decided that most of life, anyway, was the bunk. Physical comfort was all there was to it. The only thing you really could clamp yourself to. He realized also that it was not by length of time that youth was counted, but by experience.

He had crushed all the experiences of his life into the last three years—physical, mental and spiritual—for, strange as it may seem, Phillip Wynne Tracy IV knew that his mental and spiritual experiences had been just as many and just as overpowering as were his physicel ones.

Now he was old and he didn't want to be old. He didn't want to be bored. He didn't want to be blase. He wanted to be young. Then, with a snap, Lyra Hilliard crept into his consciousness, and with her name on his lips, he determined, if possible, to get back some of the thrill of life that had been his before he went overseas.

He would own a new roadster in the morning. He called Nonnie and made her hunt up a calendar for him. He found it would be moonlight tomorrow night. Exultantly he felt again the blood pounding his temples and his heart beating [illegible] "this was something like it. Again he called Nonnie to make sure that his mother was still out.

She told him that she had just received a message from Mrs. Tracy saying she would not be home for dinner.

Taking the receiver off the hook, he called "long distance" for Lyra Hilliard. In a half hour, while he sat there waiting, hardly moving a muscle, the bell rang.

"Here's your party," said central. "Lyra? Is that you?"

She recognized his voice before he gave his name.

"Phillip, my dear boy, you cannot tell how glad I am to hear your voice! If you only knew how I have longed to hear from you all these years, you would have written—if just a little note—to let me know that you were still alive."

The word "Phillip" wiped out all the rest of Lyra's long, hurried speech. Another woman was calling him "Phillip" who had once called him "Wynne." Was he to lose all his sweethearts? He well remembered the night that Natlee had heard her tell him she was going to do so, and had herself told him she would never call him "Wynne' again. He tried to remember if Natlee had called him "Phillip" this morning, and for the life of him he could not do it.

The fact that Lyra was calling his "Phillip" was a certainty, however, and he almost stammered as he said: "I'd like to come over, Lyra dear, and let you see that I'm still very much alive. Someway, honey, you seem to be the only person over here that I know has not changed."

"Don't think that, Phil, dear, you make me afraid. I'm very much changed. I've grown old and ugly—so haggard I know I should not let you come, but my heart—my silly old heart—will not let me refuse you."

"Then I'll come tomorrow, dear Lyra. Do you remember the last moonlight, Lyra. Do you remember the last moonlight night we were together?"

"I'll never forget it, Phillip. It is one of the memories I take out and burnish up when I feel particularly low in my mind. We will talk about it when you come. I'll expect you tomorrow evening at 9."

When he was sure that Lyra had definitely rung off, Phillip called up the automobile showroom. "This is Phillip Wynne Tracy. Can you get my car to me sometime tonight? I will gladly pay double time."

"It's all ready now, Mr. Tracy," said the man at the other end of the wire. "In fact it was all ready when you were here this morning, but we wanted to give it a last 'once over.' We can send it up to you now if you want us to."

"All right. Send it along."

"I hope, Mr. Tracy, you're feeling all right after your little mix-up with Mr. Kenyon."

"Perfectly all right, thank you. I trust we didn't mess up your sales-room?"

"Not at all, but at that I would have been willing to have messed it up a great deal, provided you knocked a few more teeth out. You certainly gave him what was coming to him, and for the next two or three days he probably won't be showing his ruined phiz to Miss Jones or any other girl."

The grin had returned to Phil's face when he hung up the receiver. Life had a promise or two left in its bag of tricks after all. He had one more telephone call to make, however. The smile on his mouth widened as he called up the fur house. To them he gave his name and asked if they could send him his fur coat as soon as possible.

They told him it would be there by 6 o'clock.

Phil was chuckling to himself when he thought of a raccoon coat in the early fall, but he had caught some of the irresponsibility he had been praying for, and he whistled when he heard the "honk" of his roadster in front of the house.

There was a knock at the door and Nonnie said, "Mr. Phillip, there's a man out in front says he's delivering a car to you."

"That's all right, Nonnie. Tell him to leave it, and I want you to tell Mother, if she doesn't get here before I leave, that I'm going out to the country and try it out and I will probably not be home for two or three days."

For once everything worked on oiled wheels, and about 11 o'clock that evening Phillip, who really found his raccoon coat was not uncomfortable in the night air, started away from his home.

"Be sure and tell Mother what I told you to, Nonnie," he said. "Tell her I'm sorry I didn't see her before I left."

He called himself a liar for saying this, for he knew that he was devoutly thankful that his mother was still away from the house and consequently he would have no explanations to make.

As he left the city, the moon was high in the heavens and Phil allowed himself the luxury of living over again the glorious episode with Lyra.

He wondered if, when he saw her, her skin would still have that transiucent quality as though it was "lighted by a fire within."

(To Be Contiuued.)

Phil is full of anticipation at the thought of seeing Lyra once more. Does she measure up to his expectations? Read what happened in the following chapters.

WRONG NEGRO GETS BULLET

But He Escapes Wrath Of Houston Man

HOUSTON, July 13. (AP)—Angered when a negro peeped in his bed room Monday night, F. E. Lesser ran out into the street and fired at the nearest negro. It happened to be the wrong one but the target ducked out of sight without getting hurt.

Mrs. Lesser saw the negro looking in the window and told her husband. He grabbed a gun and dashed out. Lesser ran along the street looking for the peeper. He saw a negro sitting on a porch, two blocks from the Lesser home. Investigation developed that the man fired at was sitting on his own porch and had not been near the Lesser house. The peeper got away.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By Dr Frank McCoy

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. McCOY WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER

ENCLOSE STAMPED ADDRESSED ENVELOPE FOR REPLY

©1926 MC. COY HEALTH SERVICE, LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Those of you who have been reading this column for some time know how much I believe in the benefits to be derived from taking long walks. I have often thought of suggesting to my readers the idea of forming walking clubs in each city. Now comes a letter from an enthusiast who has the same idea. Here is an extract from the letter:

"I greatly enjoy your articles on health and diet and derive much benefit from same. I would like to suggest forming a walking club. You advocate that exercise to such an extent that I am sure more persons would follow it if they did not have to walk alone. Many times I am free to walk from 7 until 8 or 9, but most of my friends are too old or too busy.

Suppose you write an article making the suggestion of forming walking clubs in different districts and see what the public's idea would be. And when I say WALK I don't mean stroll—I mean a good mile or more in less than 20 minutes unless it is all up hill.

No shieks or flappers but an honest-to-goodness crowd who is seeking health with your aid. We would have at least one common interest—your articles to discuss.

Hoping that you will take this matter into consideration and wishing you success in your good work."

I think this is a fine letter, and I believe that it will encourage a good response. Accordingly, I am going to ask everyone who would be interested to write me personally, address your letters to The Record News. I shall keep a special file for these letters from you on this subject. When I get enough letters, I will have some announcement to make and explain just how you can go about organizing this club.

I will help you in every way that I can by my suggestions and will be very glad if the walking club is a means of bringing together my readers in this city, so that they can be of mutual help to each other.

I am eagerly waiting to hear from you and will be ready to start something as soon as you show your willingness to co-operate. Send in your letters at once.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Mrs. G. writes: "My mother is 66 years old, and is hardly able to walk or talk. The doctor told her it was hardened arteries. Would any of the diets in your book be of benefit to her, or what would you recommend?"

ANSWER: If you possess my book "The Fast Way to Health" I would advise you to have your mother follow the treatment as outlined under "High Blood Pressure." Have her take the fasting and diet treatment the same as the patients did in the cases which I describe in the book.

QUESTION: Mrs. B. M. writes: "I think your health advice is wonderful, and I haven't missed one item as yet. Maybe you can help me in my special trouble: I am nearly crazy at times with headache. I have been operated on seven times, five times through the nose and twice through the cheek, as the doctor says some pus is causing my trouble. I have not received any results. Is there any hope except through the knife?"

ANSWER: The best you can do with surgery in such cases is to drain out the pus. You must remove the cause of this pus formation, and this cannot be done by the knife—you must correct the habits which produce it. Send me your full name and address so I can send you a treatise on sinus and antrum trouble.

BANDITS FIRE SHOTS AT CAR

Boy Forced to Serve As Their Chauffeur

DALLAS, July 13. (AP)—Robert Jones, 24, of Dallas last night was compelled to furnish his automobile and act as chauffeur for two highwaymen, he reported to police.

Jones said he was held over, threatened with death if he disobeyed orders and made to drive about Oak Cliff here while his passengers hunted for hi-jacking victims.

During their strange ride, Jones reported, the highwaymen fired three times at an automobile in which two men and two women were riding, when the driver refused to stop.

Last night Mrs. Robert Hurt, living in the vicinity where Jones said the robbers worked, reported to police that two men and two women racing along in a car sought shelter at her house declaring they had been, fired on by bandits.

"We're going to find some couples spooning beside the road and you are going to drive us. If you try any foolishness we'll kill you," Jones told police the yeggs declared.

FRAIL HUMANTY.

"Ace" Elliott Looks Like a 'Duece' Against the Exporters"—headline in Waco newspaper.

They grovel at your feet when you're up, but they kick you when you're down.

WELL?

"It looks like a pennant for the Spudders, because that team has had the foresight and wisdom to strengthen although it was enjoying a comfortable lead," moans Brazos river village "expert" and then launches a flurry of unkind jabs and hooks at the home club which at that time had dropped four in a row. More of the human nature stuff: That noble athletic authority almost ran out of adjectives with which to praise when the Waco team was playing winning ball.

F. (Pug) Griffin, the new addition to our artillery, arrived in the nick. Fitzgerald was hors de unable-to-fight as result of that ligament strain registered Monday. Then the other night Fitz answered a hurry-up call to his home in Eagle Lake, his mother-in-law being very sick.

Griffin appears tickled with the turn of events that brings him to Wichita Falls and comes with the old hustle spirit cropping out all over him.

MORE COIN.

Come to think about it, you couldn't expect a guy who has jumped from a fourth place club in the Western to a league leader and probable Dixie series winner, to feel mad about it.

The league grouches are beginning to realize that, after all, there isn't so much to that story about you've got to be big burg like Dallas, Santone, Houston or Fort Worth to cop a flag in the Texas league. Ever since Wichita Falls joined the circuit there has been a number of sour folk who declared point blank the smaller Texas league city would not be allowed to win the pennant because the league couldn't make much out of it on the Dixie series.

The greatest optimist of all is Flem Hall, Fort Worth sports writer, who sagely avers "Fort Worth is the team Wichita Falls must beat out before it can win a pennant." And Wild Bill Spencer askes with, "In what year does he mean?"

Yesterday's rain-out proves beneficial to the Spudder mound corps. Rigors of recent series, not overlooking that 12-inning affair the other day with Dallas, kind of put the staff out of line.

YUS, YUS.

Griffin, for one day, anyway, is doing better with the stick in the speedier Texas league than he did in the Western. The great Griffin crammed the agate, they say, at a .390 clip with the Demons. He's shown an improvement, is slugging .400 with the Spudders.

* * *

There was some reference or other carried in these columns the other day relative to the lack of facial comeliness in one of our most prominent citizens, a Mr. L. Lamb. We assure there must have been a mistake somewhere. Earnest apologies by this writer are offered. Mr. Lamb is a very handsome man, but if he doesn't intermediate with Mrs. Lamb and make her quit threatening me over that matter, he's liable to lose some of that pulchritude.

YANKS SOCK INDIANS.

CLEVELAND, July 13. (AP)—The Yankees boosted the Indians' losing streak to eight straight today, triumphing in the second contest of the series by 5 to 3. Cleveland was in front until the eighth when Ruth's double and Lazzeri's triple accounted for three runs. Besides the twin bagger, Ruth got three singles for a perfect day at bat. Gehrig went hitless. Spurgeon of Cleveland turned out a homer with none on in the sixth. Earl Combs withdrew because of an injury to his right ankle, sustained by a foul tip from his own bat. MOGULS FOR LIVELY BALL

Club Owners Blame Hitting On Pitching

NEW YORK, July 13.(AP)—Sentiment aparently was opposed to making any change in the so-called lively ball as National league club owners met Wednesday at the offices of President John A. Heydler in their regular mid-summer session.

It was felt generally that pitching rather than the ball's resiliency was responsible for the modern prevalence of extra base hitting.

William L. Veeck, president of the Chicago club, pointed out that with good pitching by both teams the Cubs and Pirates together scored but eight runs in three games in a recent series, indicating the ball is not altogether to blame.

The meeting also was to consider the wisdom of engaging expert schedule makers from outside the league in an effort to eliminate schedule difficulties. Other schedule matters and routine business were on the calendar.

RAIN HALTS SPUDDER PENNANT RUSH; DOUBLE BILL TODAY

Rain prevented the opening game of the Spudder-Buff series here Wednesday afternoon and arrangements were made for a double-header this Thursday afternoon starting promptly at 3 o'clock, according to an announcement by President J. Alvin Gardner.

Carl Williams has both Estell and Fussell ready to throw to the Buff crew in the twin bill, while the Spud sluggers will be facing the slants of Carleton and Penner.

The Buffs right now loom as the team that the Spudders will have to stop to have a paved road to the pennant and the Dixie series. The Spudders play the Houston team three games. It will be another of the "crucial" series that have been bobbing up so often for the Spudders.

Sunday Wichita Falls will be gvien another double bill when the Spudders play off a postponement with the San Antonio Bears.

Officials Hold Up Callahan's Purse

CHICAGO, July 13.(AP)—The purse of Mushy Callahan, Los Angeles junior welterweight champion, for his nine-round knockout defeat under the blows of Sergeant Sammy Baker, New York, last night, was ordered held up Wednesday by the Illinois Athletic commission.

Callahan's manager, Eddie Sears, attacked Referee Dave Barry on the way to the dressing room, objecting to the manner in which Barry stopped the match to save Callahan from further punishment. Sears struck at Barry and then kicked at him as friends intervened.

The commission's investigation today resulted in the order to hold up Callahan's purse until further testimony could be obtained next Tuesday.

BROWNS 14, RED SOX 3.

ST. LOUIS, July 13. (AP)—The Browns landed on three Red Sox pitchers for 18 hits today and took the second game of the series, 14 to 3. George Sisler, who got four hits yesterday, got the same number today, making eight hits in as many times at bat. C. Miller also got four safeties. Gaston got two doubles and a single. The Browns have won all eight games played with the Sox so far this season. The score:

Paulino Knocks Out Harry Wills In Four Rounds; Crowd Razzes 'Em

BY WARREN BROWN
Universal Service Staff

NEW YORK, July 13.—Paulino Uzcudum knocked out Harry Wills in the fourth round of their scheduled 15-round bout at Ebbets Field tonight.

Two terrific right handers on the chin, the first of which dropped Wills for the count of nine, and the second of which stretched him helpless on his back in a corner, wound up the contest.

The knockout punch, perhaps the most savage that has rocked against Harry's chin, since Sam Langford belted him into submission, away back in 1914, wound up, no doubt for all time, the ring career of the man who, a year ago was regarded by many as the most formidable of all the heavyweights.

Mostly Clinches

Wills drew down the wrath of the referee, Louis Magnolia, almost as soon as the first round began. He sent a punch at Paulino while they were coming out of a clinch. It was a playful enough tap, but the referee was quite excited about it. Harry leaned over backwards in his effort to be upright and honest in his work. He did manage to shake the Basque to his heels with a right uppercut, and twice biffed him with hard rights to the head, but most of the round was spent in clinching, or breaking out of them according to the law of the state of New York.

Magnolia was not quite as active in the second round, but Paulino was a whole lot more so. The Basque slugged Harry around the body with a great deal of abandon this round and clipped him an occasional solid right and left to the whiskers. Wills seemed unable to untrack himself, most of the time, and his punches were half-hearted.

Razz From Crowd

About the middle of the third round Wills showed a flash of old time form. He let go a series of right crosses and straight lefts to the Basque's chin. Paulino's plan was to get in close, and pound away at the body.

There was a time when Wills relished this sort of entertainment, but that time, apparently has passed. He was so over-polite in extricating himself from these frequent clinches, the action of the bout slowed down enough to cause the customers to break into the good old razz.

Fight by Rounds.

ROUND ONE—They went to a clinch at the bell and at the break Wills put a right to stomach for which he was warned by the referee. Harry looked cool and confident. He met a rush with a solid right uppercut to the jaw and then put a hard left to stomach. Paulino did not appear to have anything. He was very slow and could not break through the negro's defense. Harry shot a right hook to jaw that made Paulino hold on and then ripped in a series of rights to the body in a clinch. Wills' round.

ROUND TWO—Paulino rushed to a clinch and Wills hammered him about body until pried apart by the referee. Harry shot a long right to head and Paulino hooked a long right to forehead and following it up with a sweeping right. Harry had his left arm hooked around Paulino's body while he banged away with right. Paulino put a left to head. They exchanged savage body blows at close quarters. After considerable scuffling Paulino danced away and suddenly shot a stiff right to the jaw. Round even.

ROUND THREE—Paulino hit on break and tried to apologize but Wills ignored his attempt at handshaking. Paulino missed a left swing and Wills countered with left hook to body. Paulino put a hard right to body. Harry jolted his head back with hard right. Part of the light paraphernalia dropped down from above and the referee stopped the fighting to have it fixed. They mixed it hard in the center of the ring both landing hard to face and body. A lot of scuffling at the close quarters followed and the crowd began to hoot. They did not like so much infighting. Wills' round.

ROUND FOUR—They went to usual clinch, Wills contenting himself with holding Paulino's arms. The referee had a terrible time pulling them apart. The pair locked constantly. Paulino suddenly sunk a right flush on the jaw and put Wills flat on his back in a neutral corner for a knockout. Time 1:27 of the fourth round.

EDINGTON TO CUBS.

BEAUMONT, July 13.—Stump Edington, released outright by the Exporters a few days ago, today signed a contract with Del Pratt's Waco Cubs and left tonight with that club for Shreveport. Edington was the league's leading hitter when Beaumont released him.

TIGERS TAKE TWO.

DETROIT, July 13. (AP)—Detroit took both halves of a double header from Washington here today, 7 to 13 and 13 to 9. Gibson was credited with winning the first game although he issued 12 passes and had to be taken out of the box in the ninth inning.

Stoner, who replaced him, struck out two of the three Washington batters in the last inning. Johnny Neun stole home in each game. The score:

BOSTON, July 13. (AP)—Chicago held on to first place in National league pennant race by dividing a double-header with the Braves here today while Pittsburgh was dropping an 11-inning encounter with Brooklyn. The day's developments gave the Cubs a 12 point margin of safety.

What does ROUGH CUT mean to you?

THIS rich full-flavored old Burley is a particularly cool-smoking tobacco to begin with... Wellman's Method makes it cooler —but the "rough cut" supplies the finishing touch.

For remember, this is PIPE tobacco, hence it is cut in the one way pipe tobacco should be cut—in large, coarse, shaggy flakes that burn slower, smoke cooler, and last nearly twice as long. Smokers tell us it's the coolest cut of all!

The half-pound vacuum tin is forty-five cents
The foil-pouch, sealed in glassine, is ten cents

JUDGES SEEK SONG WRITERS

Wichita Man To Help Pick Winner In Contest

Every effort will be made to advertise the new state song contest to residents of Wichita Falls in the interest of having some Wichita composer and poet win the $1000 prize and "glory for the city," T. A. Bradley, judge in the contest, said Wednesday. Mr. Bradley and Ernest Katz, poet and musician respectively, received particulars of the contest Wednesday after being named two of the judges in this senatorial district.

District Contest.

Following the appointment of a general committee by the legislature, sub-committees were announced for each district to secure entries and eliminate all but one for the general contest. The general committee will make the final award after the closing date, Aug. 15, 1927, Mr. Bradley said.

Mr. Bradley and Mr. Katz will arrange to have the contest announced at luncheon clubs and placed before every organization in the city in which interest could be manifested. It is believed that several songs of merit will be submitted which, even if not winning the prize, will further proclaim the talent of the city in musical lines.

Rules of Contest.

All desiring to enter the contest are advised to communicate with either Mr. Bradley or Mr. Katz in the near future. Rules for the contest as drafted by the legislative group are as follows:

1. The song is not to exceed four stanzas with or without chorus.
2. It is to be printed or typed.
3. Words and music by one person or more than one.
4. Prize of $1000 cash to be divided equally between the writer of the music and the writer of the words.
5. Contestants must have lived in Texas not less than five years immediately preceding the submission of the song.
6. Manner of presentation is left to the judgment of the contestant.
7. Music must be arranged for one voice and for group singing.
8. To be sung by both trained and untrained voices.
9. Date, August 15, 1927, deadline for the submission of song.
10. Senatorial district contest September 1, 1927.
11. State contest during special session of legislature during fall, or if no special session, to be held during Dallas fair, in September.
12. Five judges in the senatorial district contest to be a county school superintendent, a city school superintendent, two musicians (to be music critics or music teachers), and a president of a service club among the men or a federated, service or literary club among the women.
13. These judges to be selected at random over the senatorial districts, equalizing the honors as much as possible.
14. All songs but one will be eliminated in the district contest.
15. In the final contest there will be 31 songs submitted from the 31 senatorial districts, and the six original songs left over from the song contest in the 39th legislature.
16. The final state judges will be selected from all over the state among the artistic, musical and literary scholars of the state.
17. The state committee will select one song out of the list of 37 and will submit it to the legislative song committee, who will in turn submit it to the legislature for adoption.

Man Indicted Here Arrested In Arizona

Culmination of a search extending over a period of several months was marked Wednesday when word was received here by Constable Frank Morgan that R. T. Goen was arrested in Gila Bend, Ariz., by Sheriff Jerry Sullivan of Phoenix on a charge preferred here of swindling, for which alleged offense he was indicted by the Wichita Falls grand jury. The arrest was effected on information furnished from here that the alleged offender was residing in Gila Bend under the name of L. E. Mathis.

While the express charge under which the arrest was made for the passing of a worthless check to the Langford Motor company as a first payment on a Ford touring car, according to Deputy Constable E. S. Richardson, who handled the case, two additional charges were placed before the grand jury Wednesday and a third is yet to be submitted.

Word was received by the constable's office late Wednesday from Phoenix that a waiver of extradition was signed by the arrested man and Deputy Richardson left last night to return the prisoner to Wichita Falls to answer the charge.

Youth Injures Back In Fall At Plant

A. T. Roberts, 19, is in the Hargrave-Walker hospital suffering from a severely sprained back received when he fell at the Wichita Ice company plant Wednesday afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock. Several employes at the plant were engaged in putting up pipes when Mr. Roberts fell backwards, spraining his back.

He was reported resting well at the hospital Wednesday night and it is thought his injuries will not prove serious. Mr. Roberts resides at 1007 Tenth street.

RELEASED ON BOND

John Bemrod was released under $1000 bond by Sheriff W. G. Bralley Wednesday following his arrest on a charge of alleged possession for sale of intoxicating liquor, an indictment for which offense was returned by the grand jury in one of its previous sessions. The arrest was made by Deputy Sheriff R. D. Morris Monday.

State Health Expert Arrives Here For Tuberculosis Survey of County

Compilation of all cases of tuberculosis in Wichita county will be undertaken by the Texas Public Health association in cooperation with a group of local business men headed by Ancil A. Spencer, Miss Jean M. Campbell having already arrived in Wichita Falls to conduct the survey.

The survey of the local tuberculosis situation, one of several made in various Texas cities by the state organization, is the first to be made here and the facts disclosed will be utilized as a basis on which an organization to be known as the Wichita County Anti-Tuberculosis association will be established.

The work to be undertaken here is an outgrowth of the discussion held before the chamber of commerce some time ago relative to the making of a comprehensive survey of the county insofar as this particular disease is concerned. The citizens who have sought and obtained the cooperation of the state health organization in conducting the survey include J. T. Gant, William H. Newell, Dr. F. R. Collard, E. Paul Harding, Edward F. Alley, R. W. Gutzler and Mr. Spencer.

The formation of a local anti-tuberculosis society will be effected when the results of the survey have been made available, according to Mr. Spencer. The organization can be financed principally through a diversion of a portion of funds obtained by the state organization by the sale of Christmas seals. The entire revenues of the state organization are obtained from this source. Up to the present time the solicitation of contributions by purchase of seals has been by mail from state headquarters in Austin.

After the formation of the local organization, it was stated, the solicitation of Christmas seal patronage will be taken over local by the Wichita Falls association.

Miss Campbell, who was sent by the state association from Austin to make the survey, expects to utilize three weeks in the work.

Heavy Rains Over Northwest Texas

five inches fell, swelling Gonzales creek so that flood waters inundated lowlands and washed into several homes. A few houses were washed from their blocks, and some sections of highways and railroads were under water during the day.

The chief result from precipitation in all sections was relief from heat of several days past. Thermometers fill in all sections of northwest Texas and in some parts of east Texas, with a general cloudiness alleviating the heat.

MEMPHIS.—Rain amounting to more than one inch fell in Memphis Wednesday morning. Lakeview reports about two inches and reports from Brice and Leslie state that only light showers fell there. Very little rain has fallen in these two communities and some have not even planted their crops while others have a fair stand of both cotton and feed.

With sufficient moisture falling the next two days farmers can yet plant feed and reap a fair yield, it is said. This is the largest rainfall for Memphis in several months and prospects are good for more before the day is gone. Prospects are much brighter in Hall county and a fair yield is anticipated.

CROWELL—Reports from every section of Foard county indicate that one inch of rain covered this section Wednesday afternoon. The rain will be very beneficial to cotton and feed crops.

WALTERS, OKLA. — One and 65-100ths rain had fallen here by 3 o'clock today. Great crop benefit is reported.

JONES LEADS BRITISH PLAY

Bobby Shoots Record 68 At St. Andrews

By Universal Service.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 13.—Throwing off the cloak of mediocrity which has shrouded his golf performances in the qualifying rounds of the British open golf championship, Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, Ga., defending champion, gave English links fans a peek today at the real Jones when he equalled the course record of old St. Andrews with a 68 in the first round of championship play.

"Wild Bill" Wild.

Another amateur, Leon Nettlefold of Australia, and a left hander, took the runner-up position with a steadily shot 71.

Joe Kirkwood, the Australian golfer who has been doing most of his golfing in the United States in the last few years, upheld the honor of the professionals with a 72.

"Wild Bill" Melhorn, who led the American golfers through the qualifying rounds, justified his name today when he became as wild as a "March hare" on the greens and struggled home with a lame 77.

Larry Nabholtz of Sharon, Pa., also scored a 77 and Long Jim Barnes was one under this mark with a 76.

Makes 32.

Jones shot his best golf on the outgoing course, turning in a 32 for the first nine holes. Old observers here declared that they had never witnessed such golf over the historic St. Andrews course. Playing steadily, but with the phenomenal brilliance of the outgoing round missing, Jones came home in a comfortable 36.

Kelly and Brooks Field Fliers Fly 50,330 Hours During Year

By Universal Service.

SAN ANTONIO, July 13.—Kelly and Brooks field fliers put 50,330 hours in the air during the past year, according to statistics released today by the flying operations officer of the advanced flying school at Kelly field.

The aggregate time fliers of each field put in the air is almost equivalent to a regular round-the-world service with planes leaving every other day.

Kelly field rolled up the most hours, a total of 29,574 hours for the year. Brooks field, the primary flying field, rolled up 20,756 hours.

Figuring the average speed of all types of planes flown during the year at both fields at 80 miles an hour, the distance flown by the military planes was 4,026,400 miles. This distance is equivalent to 161 flights around the world.

An officer with a head for figures pointed out that if one man should start out to do as much flying as the two fields did last year, it would take him almost six years without stopping.

"Or," he said, "figure it this way, the daily average of the two fields practically equalled the time six planes in the air for the full 24-hour period."

INSURANCE MEN UNDER FIRE

Fort Worth Underwriters To Be Investigated

FORT WORTH, July 13. (AP)—Charges that a number of Fort Worth insurance agencies were violating state laws by writing certain types of builders risk policies were contained in a letter received by Drexel G. Foreman, insurance commissioner of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, from the state fire insurance department. The letter indicated that these agents would be investigated and possibly prosecuted.

Members of the Fort Worth Insurance Underwriters' association at a meeting here Wednesday pledged their support to the state insurance department in securing enforcement of insurance laws here.

Principal violation protested against is the granting of rebates and in some cases free policies for builders' risks, under agreement that contractors will use their influence in securing a permanent policy for the completed building. Such violations tend to increase insurance rates, it was pointed out by members of the association.

Opponents To New Laws Address State Sheriffs

LAREDO, July 13.—Speaking before the Texas State Sheriff's association in session here, Judge John W. Gaines and Will Morris, both of San Antonio, today openly opposed practically every one of the proposed amendments to the state constitution, and asked all sheriffs not to vote for their enactment.

The two speakers favored the continuation of local self government, instead of a centralization of power, and the fee system for sheriffs and justices of the peace, instead of placing such officers upon a straight salary basis.

In contrast with their pleas, R. L. Bobbitt, speaker of the house, favored the proposed amendments, except the fee amendment, and asked every sheriff in Texas to vote for them, in an address delivered in Neuvo Laredo where the sheriffs were feted. About 300 peace officers heard Bobbitt's address.

New officers of the association will be elected at the closing session of the convention tomorrow.

Clarity of Fort Worth, who was here recently with officials from Denver on an inspection tour. Work trains will operate out of Plainview by March 1 next.

The inspection party included the following:

KID DUGAN — By Dick Dorgan

New York, N. Y., July 14, 1927.

Dear Al,

Well, we're all set for the scow and the jump across the old pond which it looks as if I won't be sea sick because how could a big stropping man like me who looks stronger than the captains of some of these liners have his stomach upset. Robbie kicked a good deal about me leaving at first because he says how is the Brooklyn team going to stay in the league but I says to him the Pirates have done all right since I left them so he sees my point and says I'll cable you if I need you and I says I'll cable you if I need money and he says no to cable Tex Rickard because I'm in the prize fighting business now. We are taking along Rube Simpkins because King Edward thought John L. Sullivan was funny when he met him and King George will go into hysterics when he sees Rube. I wish you were going along because we nebd a good rubber.

Your friend,

Jack Keefe.

NEW HIGH PEAK IS REACHED IN SEMINOLE FIELD PRODUCTION

OUTPUT SOARS 450,144 BBLS.

581 Wells Now Producing In Field

A new high peak was reached in Seminole production Sunday, when the production soared to 450,144 barrels, a gain of 9224 barrels over the previous day's output which was 440,920 barrels. There are 581 wells now producing in the field.

The Bowlegs pool, including the well in 1-7-6, Little River pool, made a total of 201,339 barrels; Earlsboro made 121,087 barrels; Seminole city did 94,041 barrels, and Searight made 33,677 barrels.

Amerada Petroleum corporation is partially responsible for the increase in production, due to its No. 1 Cowden, SE corner SW of 4-9-5, Earlsboro pool. This well had made 3300 barrels on Friday, and was ready to quit flowing, having at first been reported as going dead at 10 a. m. Saturday, while preparations were being made to give it a shot. This was done Sunday noon, in the amount of 20 quarts, and the first hour after the shot it flowed 445 barrels, and the following consecutive hours it made as follows: 465, 430, 420, 425, 400, 390, 405, the latter being between 8 and 9 o'clock Sunday night. Its first 24 hours production after the shot totalled 7828 barrels.

A new line from the Coleman county gas fields, from where the gas will be piped to San Angelo, will be built and work will start this week, Roberts said.

Oil Operator Backs Flight

San Angelo Man Spends $26,000 On Hop

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, July 13.—A San Angelo oil operator is spending $26,000 on a one-stop San Francisco to Tokyo flight. He is George Henshaw, who sold his holdings in Brown county to the Texas company for $2,000,000, and announced that West Texas oil money would finance the flight after he had returned from a six months' trip to New York and Oklahoma City.

A former University of Oklahoma football player and a veteran of the A. E. F. will pilot the monoplane across the Pacific, Mr. Henshaw said. The aviator is D. W. Griffin, 32 years old, and a man who neither drinks or smokes, according to Mr. Henshaw.

The monoplane is to be equipped with pioneer instruments similar to those used by Lindbergh in his flight across the Atlantic. It has a 9-cylinder Wright whirlwind motor.

Mr. Henshaw will attempt a non-stop flight from Oklahoma City to San Francisco to see Griffin tak eoff across the ocean. Griffin is scheduled to fly over the Golden Gate July 26. The flight, if completed, will include a stop at Honolulu for refueling. Though Griffin may be accompanied, the other passenger has not been named. Mr. Henshaw said he would not make the trip.

Mr. Henshaw is president of the Henshaw Oil corporation and vice-president of the Ackron Oil company, each a $2,500,000 concern.

'ROCK HOUNDS' HOLD MEETING

C. D. Vertrees Elected Sec.-Treas. Of Society

SAN ANGELO, July 13.—C. D. Vertrees, geologist in charge of subsurface work for the Marland Oil company in San Angelo, was elected secretary-treasurer of the West Texas Geological society in its regular meeting this week. He succeeds Mrs. J. Ben Carsey, who, with Mr. Carsey, has moved to McCamey.

The society decided to entertain invitations from Abilene, Brownwood, Coleman, Colorado, Odessa, Midland and other West Texas towns to hold the monthly meetings in those places.

Dr. Raymond C. Moore, state geologist of Kansas and professor of geology in the University of Kansas, was invited to San Angelo to deliver his lecture, with motion pictures, on the Grand Canyon, which he studied several years ago. Dr. Moore will be in San Angelo late this week.

Thirty-three geologists attended the meeting this week. Dr. H. P. Bybee, chief geologist of the Dixie Oil company, and president of the society, presided.

Resting comfortably on the Delaware mountain formation, from which comes oil production in West Texas and southeastern New Mexico, the Capital limestone and the Castile gypsum are equivalent, the society was told by V. E. Cottingham, consulting geologist, whose paper, "The Correlation of the Capital Limestone Formation" was a feature of the meeting.

The relation of the Capital limestone formation to the other formations o. Permian age in southeastern New Mexico and the Trans-Pecos region of Texas is of especial importance to the petroleum geologist. The Capital formation, said Mr. Cottingham, bears the unique distinction of being able to change its character in lateral extent in very short distances from a limestone section of gypsum and red beds.

Stock Market Carries Bouyant Tone As All Issues Climb To Higher Levels; Money Plentiful

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 13.—A buoyant tone was again in evidence in the stock market today on a fair volume of transactions. Heavy buying developed in steel, with unfilled orders taking an upward trend and the railroads entering the market for rails, there is a renewed interest in the steel stocks.

Money was in plentiful supply at four per cent. Foreign exchange remained quiet. Wheat was firm; cotton irregular.

Atchison featured the rails by rising to a new high price at 186. Stock dividend possibilities is the basis of the buying. The company has a large surplus and valuable assets which will be passed along to stockholders. A block of 130,000 shares of stock is said to have been taken out of the market.

Reports were current that announcement would be made shortly concerning the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. It is believed that the New York Central will get the Lehigh and the B. and O., the Reading. The latter controls the Jersey Central. A demand prevailed for B. and O., Gulf Mobile, Illinois Central and Peoria and Eastern. In connection with the Pennsylvania railroad deal, it was reported that the "Pensy" will offer Norfolk and Western shares of Pennsylvania and $15 in cash for a share of Norfolk.

Motors quieted down but the undertone was excellent. General Motors was well taken. It is the belief of prominent market interests that this stock will sell materially higher. Short covering developed in Mack Trucks. Gabriel Snubbers sold at a record high of 50 on large transactions. A reason for the strength, aside from the higher earnings, is the rumor that a motor company has bid $15,000,000 for a block of stock which is selling in the open market for approximately $10,000,000.

Buying of Steel common directed attention to other issues of this group. Colorado Fuel maintained a firm tone and speculative purchases occurred in Ludlum. The company's business in June is reported to have been the largest in a year. A considerable amount of new business is coming from automobile companies who have been changing designs and are now resuming normal steel requirements. There is also a better demand from companies making aeroplane engines for Ludlum's Special Steels and this field is said to hold excellent possibilities.

American Home Products was strong and much higher prices are predicted for the stock. The company is controlled by Sterling Products, stock of which also moved higher. Recent buying of both issues is due to negotiations now under way whereby the Sterling Products company will acquire a large block of stock of the Park-Davis company. The latter is the largest drug manufacturer in the world. It is believed that the Sterling Products later on may seek control of the company.

Tobacco Products "A" sold at a new high for 1927. Leading tobacco interests say that the New Union Tobacco will be introduced to the public in a few days and trading started in the issue shortly thereafter. This company, it is reported, will come under the wing of the big Union-United Tobacco corporation. The New Union will be an offshoot to the big company in the manufacturing line. Present plans of the tobacco interests are said to be the biggest thtat the industry has witnessed in the last 25 years.

Baldwin Locomotive held steady. People interested in this stock predict higher prices on "special developments pending." National distillers was taken throughout the day on the belief that the buying represents plans of new interests to secure a foothold in the company. Allied Chemical changed hands at a new peak for the year.

Texas Gulf Sulphur was higher. Developments pending in this company with the Gulf Oil whereby Texas Gulf will acquire large sulphur properties from the oil company, should make for higher prices in the course of the next few months. Texas Gulf is being handled by strong bankers and a well-organized management. U. E. Industrial Alcohol was strong on buying attributed to western interests who are seeking to wrest control from the crowd in the east. U. S. Alcohol holds valuable patents on which the westerners have their eyes. U. S. Rubber held ground in the face of rumors that a director had resigned because the board voted the regular preferred dividend in the face of the six months' earnings.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, July 13. (AP)—Heavy accumulation of the railroad shares, which advanced to the highest general level in 20 years featured the resumption of the upward movement in today's stock market. Buying of the industrials was more selective, but the average of 20 leading issues closed just below the record high established yesterday. Trading was moderately heavy in volume, the day's sales aggregating about 1¾ million shares.

Sustained ease of money rates and a reported turn for the better in the steel industry provided the background for the advance in prices. The spectacular rise in several specialties also gave rits to a number of unconfirmed merger and dividend rumors. Pools were again active, lifting more than a score issues to new peak prices for the year or longer.

Railroad shares were bought in anticipation of a heavy movement of freight traffic this fall and renewel hope of a successful conclusion of some of the pending consolidation plans. Rock Island, Southern Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Peoria and Eastern, "Soo" preferred and "Katy" preferred all reached new high ground.

U. S. Steel common assumed the leadership of the industrial list by moving up 2½ points to 125⅞, the highest price since the old stock was stricken from the list.

The official rate on call loans was continued at 4 per cent, but concessions ¼ to ½ per cent below that figure were available in the "outside market." Time money was quoted at 4⅛ to 4¼ per cent for the shorter maturities as against yesterday's rate of 4¼ to 4⅜, which was the prevailing quotation for the longer loans. Prime commercial paper was unchanged at 4 to 4¼.

Foreign exchanges were steady, with demand sterling around $4.85¼ and French francs just under 3.91½ cents.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, July 13. (AP)—Cotton price fluctuated nervously today with the weather the dominating influence. The undertone was steady but new highs set in at mid-session and attracted profit taking and prices eased off under the selling until the market closed with a net loss for the day of 1 to 2 points.

First trades showed no change to a loss of 2 points under unfavorable Liverpool cables and the downward movement set the day's lows with October at 17.62 and December at 17.85, 3 to 5 points under yesterday's close.

The weather map showed scattered rains in the belt and the resultant rally moved October to 17.74 and December to 17.98, 12 to 13 points abov ethe lows.

The issuance of the weekly weather report brought in 8 point decline but a subsequent upward move set new highs with October at 17.77 and December at 18.00, 10 points above the previous close. The gain was absorbed in the selling movement which set in in the final minutes of trading.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, July 13. (AP)—The cotton market was less active and more irregular today, but selling on a favorable view of the weekly weather report was readily absorbed on moderate declines. The close was steady. October fluctuated from 17.73 up to 17.89 and closed at 17.80, the general market closing net 2 points lower to 3 points higher, new crop months being generally unchanged to 3 points higher.

The opening was steady at a decline of 3 to 5 points, active months showing net losses of 4 to 6 points in early trading under selling promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and expectations of a favorable weekly report from the weather bureau. As soon as these initial offerings had been absorbed by covering or trade buying, prices worked up several points from the lowest, but the weekly report proved as bearish as expected and brought in renewed realizing or local selling for a reaction.

Prices worked back to nearly the early lows, but there was a continuation of the buying movement, demand seeming to become slightly more active below 17.75 for October, and the mid-day market firmed up on the outlook for further showers in the eastern belt. It was thought more rain than shown by the official details would have been desirable in northwest Texas, but the eastern belt showers were considered unfavorable, owing largely, it seemed, to their probable reactions on the boll weevil.

The situation in this respect, combined with the evident presence of buying orders for execution on comparatively moderate declines, started another covering movement, which sent prices up to 17.82 for July and 18.11 for December, or about 4 to 12 points net higher. The close was off from the best under realizing.

Exports today 1670, making 10,999,130 so far this season. Port receipts 3484; U. S. port stocks 1,107,601.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, July 13. (AP)—Wheat prices rallied at the last today although averaging lower most of the time previous. Relative strength of the Winnipeg market tended to emphasize uneasiness in some quarters concerning black rust possibilities over Canada. Chicago wheat closed irregular at ⅛c net decline to ⅜c advance, corn ⅛c off to ⅛c up, oats showing ⅛ to ⅜c gain, and provisions varying from 7 cents setback to a rise of 20 cents.

Drought reports from parts of Iowa, Missouri, and Kansas tended to rally the corn market from early declines due to better weather elsewhere. Oats reflected fear of damage by excessive heat in some sections west.

Provisions were governed largely by action of the corn market as well as the course of hog values.

West Texas Oil Fields Will Receive Electrical Jolt

SAN ANGELO, July 13.—The West Texas oil fields will receive their first jolt of electricity this week, when the switch of the Pecos Valley Light and Power company is turned on this week.

The plant is near Girvin and is now being completed, after work started April 15 with 400 men working daily. It is to cost, when completed, around $2,500,000. The plant will be completed within 29 days, it is believed, setting a new record in West Texas for construction. It has a 1200-watt capacity.

The wires will carry the electricity more than 100 miles, supplying a half-dozen oil companies who will use the power to drill new wells and pump producing wells.

The fields of the Big Lake company and the Crane-Upton fields are being supplied with electricity from this plant. J. R. Jones is the general manager of the Pecos Valley Light and Power company.

Tex Thornton On Job Again In Hutchinson

AMARILLO, July 13. (AP)—The McMillen Oil corporation's No. 2 Sanford well in section 82, block 46, H. & T. C. survey and in the Sanford-Paramount pool of Southern Hutchinson county where nine men lost their lives May 26, when it caught fire while passing through the big gas, is on fire again.

A bolt of lightning struck the well at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning and the severity of the strike caused the Bradenhead to break and permit the 75,000,000 feet of gas that had been shut in to pour forth and into the fire.

The result is a fire that has caused all operations in the Sanford-Paramount pool to be shut down until the burning well is shot out.

Tex Thornton, noted oil well shooter, is on the job and expects to have the flames put out later in the day.

This is the third fire the McMillen company has had in the Sanford Paramount pool this year. The first was on May 23, when the McMillen's No. 1 Pool-Sanford was set on fire while in the big gas, and the No. 1 Sanford caught fire three days later.

San Angelo Established As Oil Scout Quarters

SAN ANGELO, July 13. — San Angelo has been established as headquarters for oil scouts working over the West Texas oil fields and a meeting is held in San Angelo every Friday, attended by the socuts and geologists, at which time a check on all operations and activities is made. They gather here since most of them make their homes here.

Good representations come to the meetings each week from Midland, Fort Stockton and Odessa. Among those who were here this week from out-of-town were S. S. Stinson of the Humble Oil company, Jimmie Meriwether and Joe Kilburn of the Gulf Production company, Ed Dawson of the T. & P. Coal and Oil company, T. P. Watson of the Prairie Oil & Gas company, F. E. Swenson of the Mid-Continent Oil & Gas company, R. E. Witty of the Texas company, Mr. Poole of the Amerada Petroleum corporation and Pat Hill of the Rector Oil company.

RESUME DRILL ON OIL WELL

Work Renewed On Gasser After Well Fire

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, July 13. — Drilling has been resumed on the Roxana and Fain-McGaha No. 1 Matthews, about two miles from Thalia, according to reports received here. This well caught fire on June 30 and the entire equipment was destroyed. New equipment has been erected and drilling resumed, it has been reported.

The well stood at about 1370 feet and approximately five million feet of gas was blowing daily when it caught fire. The cause of the fire was never exactly determined. The gas was struck at about 900 feet, after a second sand had been encountered. Considerable oil was mixed with the flow of gas. When the sand was encountered, the boilers were moved back from the rig and an effort made to go deeper in order to bring in the well, when it caught on fire.

Operators still believe that by going deeper the well can be made a producer and a good field developed in the Thalia territory. Presence of the two sands and oil with the gas flow encourages this belief.

Pioneer Citizen May Drill Test In Briscoe

SILVERTON, Texas, July 13.—Z. G. Fogerton, pioneer citizen, is leading a movement to bring about the drilling of a deep test well in Briscoe county which may be accomplished if land owners co-operate in creating a block of 10,000 acres necessary to interest oil men. At the instance of Mr. Fogerson an extensive survey was made here during the past 10 days by John E. Ray, head geologist of one of the large Panhandle oil companies. The survey was considered favorable and a well may be drilled if the required acreage is signed up.

RESIDENTIAL VALUES IN WICHITA GAIN $4,000,000 IN YEAR

COUNTY ROLL ALSO HIGHER

Reduction In Oil Values Cuts Gain

Total of assessment values in Wichita county will be approximately $2,000,000 more in 1927 than in 1926, according to a statement made Wednesday by A. C. Howad, county tax assessor.

In the preliminthy estimate, Mr. Howard said that his approximation set the total for 1927 at $71,000,000.

Estimate by Howard.

The final estimate will not be made until the records of the county boad of tax equalization which adjourns Thursday are received and compiled by Mr. Howard.

Residential rendition for 1927 will be approximately $47,294,730 as compared to $43,212,480. This rendition consists of poperty owners other than foreign corporations and others possessing property in the county.

The assessment increase would have been larger in 1927, according to Mr. Howard, if the county tax board had not decreased the value of certain oil properties in the county in view of the decrease in the value of crude oil.

The decrease in oil property valuations was more than offset, said Mr. Howard, by an increase in other properties in the county.

Approximately 900 pages in the assessor's recording book will be necessary to record the renditions of about 25,000 property owners in the county, Mr. Howard said. In 1926, there were 757 pages used.

Preliminary Report.

Mr. Howard's preliminary report follows:

Wichita Falls	$28,586,560
Burkburnett	1,521,240
Iowa Park	2,413,020
Electra	4,264,010
Total resident roll rendered	$47,294,730
Non-resident	12,223,320
Banks, rail ways and pipe lines	4,892,500
Total	37,026,120
Unrendered (Wichita Falls)	2,355,316
Unrendered (Burkburnett)	155,290
Unrendered (Iowa Park)	301,170
Enrendered (Electra)	471,580
Unrendered (Lands)	1,256,610
Total (unrendered)	4,949,966

Many Visiting Scouts Expected At Jamboree

Only heavy rains will prevent having the Boy Scout jamboree at Bellevue park Thursday night as scheduled, according to announcement from the local office Wednesday. Scores of visitors from surrounding towns have accepted the invitation to attend, and all arrangements are perfected for one of the most interesting affairs of the season.

Beginning at 8:30 o'clock, Boy Scouts of Wichita Falls, Vernon, Burkburnett, Electra, Petrolia and Archer City will start the series of contests and scout events which will decide for the local groups which troop holds the plaque award for the coming year, it was announced.

The plaque award was presented to local scouts two years ago and has been held by Troop 2 and Troop 4.

Wichita Rotarians To Attend Electra Feast

Several Wichitans are to attend the annual "chicken roast" meeting of the Electra Rotary club Thursday night to which Rotarians from all adjoining towns have been invited. Ed Barr of Electra is chairman of the program committee, it was learned.

Misses Josephine and Glenore Fisk of Wichita Falls will offer several feature numbers on the program, singing duets with guitar accompaniment. Albert Ellis, John Wise and other local Rotarians will attend.

Weakness And Aching Left Her

Lady Says Her Sides and Back Hurt, and Limbs Were Swollen. —Took Cardui to Overcome Troubles.

MORRISTOWN, Tenn.—Mrs. Sadie Coffey, 502 N. Jackson street, this city, says that by taking Cardui she obtained marked improvement in her health more than 20 years ago. She has since taken it when needed, and recommended it to many of her friends.

"I was suffering with spells which affected my sides and the lower part of my body," says Mrs. Coffey. "I got down in bed. I was not easy either sitting down or standing up.

"My sides and back hurt all the time. I was swollen dreadfully. My hands and feet were twice their normal size. My appetite went away to nothing, and I did not have sufficient strength to do my housework. I could not stay off the bed any length of time.

"One day after we had tried many medicines with no apparent effect my husband read in the newspaper the story of a woman who had been helped by Cardui. Her symptoms were very much like my own. He said, 'Let's try this.'

"After a short use of Cardui, my condition began to improve. I lost the bloated, swollen feeling. The bad aching disappeared and I began to do a few tasks about the house. Gradually I grew stronger. The weakness left and I felt normal again."

Majestic: Reginald Denny in "Fast and Furious," comedy and Pathe News.

Olympic: "Johnny Hines starring in "All Aboard," comedy and Fox News.

Garden: "Ridin' Rowdy," with Buffalo Bill Jr., and Fox comedy.

We can't quite figure how many knots there are in the ocean from the Atlantic coast to Algeria, and it's almost as difficult to figure how many laughs there are in "All Aboard," Johnny Hines' new First National picture, which is now at the Olympic theater.

Johnny has surpassed himself in this motion picture comedy. He has a characterization that is funny in itself. He is a young man who can't remember how not to forget. He is so absent-minded that he loses his job in a shoe store, but luck comes his way through the medium of pretty blonde Edna Murphy. There is no doubt that Johnny is one of our funniest comedians of the celluloid. He is here, there, everywhere in this picture and is followed by a wake of laughter that never seems to die down for a minute.

The comedian has surrounded himself with an admirable cast. Edna Murphy scoring a success as the heroine, and Dot Farley and Babe London sharing in a number of uproarious sequences. Others contributing heavily to the fun cruise are Frank Hagney, Sojin, Henry Barrows, James Leonard, Eddie Dennis, Buster Brodie, Fred Kelsey and George Reed. Much credit is due Charles Hines, the comedian's brother, who handled the direction in his usual able manner, with a keen eye toward the humorous elements.

LIONS ADOPT LADY MEMBER

Pastor Addresses Club On "Measurement Of Men"

Miss Josephine Fisk, the second woman to become a members of woman to become a member of introduced to the members at the weekly luncheon Wednesday and given a general ovation by the club.

Miss Fisk will accompany the club on convention and booster tours, and will be known as "official soilst," accompanying herself on the guitar. Mrs. J. S. Pitman is the other Wichita Falls lioness.

The Rev. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church, addressed the club Wednesday, speaking on "The Measurement of Man."

"The most valuable asset of this city and of our country is its manhood, for we will thrive only as men multiply and adapt themselves to the civic, economic, social, political and religious problems of life," he said, asserting that the principal tests would come not in the social center but in the great active work of a community.

"You can not apply superficial and artificial measures to man, for it is not what he has but what he is —not his possessions and pursuits, but his personality that is the final value. We have tried various standards of the hand, heart and head, but we never realize the real measure of men until we combine the physical, mental and spiritual and then measure him by striking the balance."

Bart Magee, deputy district governor of Electra, was present at the meeting and told the club that the Electra Lions would support Dr. R. H. Graham, recently nominated for district president "to the last man." Mr. Magee called Dr. Graham "Electra's friend," and paid personal tribute to his work done in the club. Dr. Graham was given a rising vote of thanks by the club for the chicken dinner served at his home last week.

Four Lions were introduced at the meeting as members of a newly organized quartet. They are Francis Hansen, Sam Gose, Harris Gray and E. F. Bohmfalk.

Live p'gs, lambs and poultry were displayed in the tableaux in a three-mile parade recently held at Portsmouth, England, in honor of the visit of the French naval squadron.

Practical Optimism Extolled By Cummins in Club Address

Optimism as applied to the pretical things of life and humorous reports of delegates who attended the Denver convention featured the luncheon of the Optimist club Wednesday noon.

The theory of optimism, with illustrations was taken by B. Y. Cummins, principal speaker, as the subject for discussion. Judge Cummins asserted that although the theory of optimism was expounded but a few centuries ago it was actually in existence from the beginning of the world. Illustrations showing that optimism is justified were taken from the Bible. The speaker lauded the "investment" of the club in the boys of the city, commending this work of the organization.

Bert King, who was named a member of the executive committee of International Optimists, was called upon for a report. He asserted that the active part taken by Wichita Falls delegates at the convention was responsible for a member from this city being named on the executive committee of the organization.

Solon Featherston reported that the deleration was most conspicious. Ralph Hyers told the club that the Denver papers gave the local delegation rcnsiderable mention.

The program for the day included a dramatic reading by Mrs. J. C. Pitman, a song and dance number by diminutive Miss Marjorie Fay Hoenscheidt, and the opening songs lead by Alva R. Willgus.

Judge B. D. Sartin, president of the club, presided, and Ralph Hyer was chairman in charge of the program for the day.

Reduction In Oil Values Cuts Gain

Total of assessment values in Wichita county will be approximately $2,000,000 more in 1927 than in 1926, according to a statement made Wednesday by A. C. Howad, county tax assessor.

In the preliminthy estimate, Mr. Howard said that his approximation set the total for 1927 at $71,000,000.

Estimate by Howard.

The final estimate will not be made until the records of the county boad of tax equalization which adjourns Thursday are received and compiled by Mr. Howard.

Residential rendition for 1927 will be approximately $47,294,730 as compared to $43,212,480. This rendition consists of poperty owners other than foreign corporations and others possessing propertx in the county.

The assessment increase would have been larger in 1927, according to Mr. Howard, if the county tax board had not decreased the value of certain oil properties in the county in view of the decrease in the value of crude oil.

The decrease in oil property valuations was more than offset, said Mr. Howard, by an increase in other properties in the county.

Approximately 900 pages in the assessor's recording book will be necessary to record the renditions of about 25,000 property owners in the county, Mr. Howard said. In 1926, there were 757 pages used.

Preliminary Report.

Mr. Howard's preliminary report follows:

Wichita Falls	$28,896,360
Burkburnett	7,521,540
Iowa Park	2,813,070
Electra	4,264,010
Total resident roll rendered	$47,294,730
Non-resident	15,225,320
Banks, railways and pipe lines	4,802,500
Total	$67,026,120
Unrendered (Wichita Falls)	2,385,810
Unrendered (Burkburnett)	155,290
Unrendered (Iowa Park)	361,770
Unrendered (Electra)	471,530
Unrendered (Lands)	1,726,840

Weakness And Aching Left Her

Lady Says Her Sides and Back Hurt, and Limbs Were Swollen. —Took Cardui to Overcome Troubles.

MORRISTOWN, Tenn.—Mrs. Sadie Coffey, 592 N. Jackson street, this city, says that by taking Cardui she obtained marked improvement in her health more than 20 years ago. She has since taken it when needed, and recommended it to many of her friends.

"I was suffering with spells which affected my sides and the lower part of my body," says Mrs. Coffey. "I got down in bed. I was not easy either sitting down or standing up.

"My sides and back hurt all the time. I was swollen dreadfully. My hands and feet were twice their normal size. My appetite went away to nothing, and I did not have sufficient strength to do my housework. I could not stay off the bed any length of time.

"One day after we had tried many medicines with no apparent effect my husband read in the newspaper the story of a woman who had been helped by Cardui. Her symptoms were very much like my own. He said, 'Let's try this.'

"After a short use of Cardui, my condition began to improve. I lost the bloated, swollen feeling. The bad aching disappeared and I began to do a few tasks about the house. Gradually I grew stronger. The weakness left and I felt normal again."

Miss Fisk will accompany the club on convention and booster tours, and will be known as "official sollst," accompanying herself on the guitar. Mrs. J. S. Pitman is the other Wichita Falls lioness.

The Rev. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church, addressed the club Wednesday, speaking on "The Measurement of Man."

"The most valuable asset of this city and of our country is its manhood, for we will thrive only as men multiply and adapt themselves to the civic, economic, social, political and religious problems of life," he said, asserting that the principal tests would come not in the social center but in the great active work of a community.

"You can not apply superficial and artificial measures to man, for it is not what he has but what he is —not his possessions and pursuits, but his personality that is the final value. We have tried various standards of the hand, heart and head, but we never realize the real measure of men until we combine the physical, mental and spiritual and then measure him by striking the balance."

Bart Magee, deputy district governor of Electra, was present at the meeting and told the club that the Electra Lions would support Dr. R. H. Graham, recently nominated for district president "to the last man." Mr. Magee called Dr. Graham "Electra's friend," and paid personal tribute to his work done in the club. Dr. Graham was given a rising vote of thanks by the club for the chicken dinner served at his home last week.

Four Lions were introduced at the meeting as members of a newly organized quartet. They are Francis Hansen, Sam Gose, Harris Gray and E. F. Bohmfalk.

Live p'gs, lambs and poultry were displayed in the tableaux in a three-mile parade recently held at Portsmouth, England, in honor of the visit of the French naval squadron

Practical Optimism Extolled By Cummins in Club Address

Optimism as applied to the practical things of life and humorous reports of delegates who attended the Denver convention featured the luncheon of the Optimist club Wednesday noon.

The theory of optimism, with illustrations was taken by B. Y. Cummins, principal speaker, as the subject for discussion. Judge Cummins asserted that although the theory of optimism was expounded but a few centuries ago it was actually in existence from the beginning of the world. Illustrations showing that optimism is justified were taken from the Bible. The speaker lauded the "investment" of the club in the boys of the city, commending this work of the organization.

Bert King, who was named a member of the executive committee of International Optimists, was called upon for a report. He asserted that the active part taken by Wichita Falls delegates at the convention was responsible for a member from this city being named on the executive committee of the organization.

Solon Featherston reported that the delegation was most conspicious. Ralph Hyers told the club that the Denver papers gave the local delegation considerable mention.

The program for the day included a dramatic reading by Mrs. J. C. Pitman, a song and dance number by diminutive Miss Marjorie Fay Hoenscheidt, and the opening songs lead by Alva R. Willgus.

Judge B. D. Sartin, president of the club, presided, and Ralph Hyer was chairman in charge of the program for the day.
