SMITH REPLIES TO MADOO IN LACONIC MOOD

SAYS DOESN'T KNOW HIS CONSTITUTION; CITES INSTANCE

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 2.—"The gentleman doesn't know his constitution," was Governor Smith's laconic comment today on the address delivered by William G. McAdoo at Richmond, Va., last night, in which Mr. McAdoo attacked the governor's attitude on the prohibition question.

"Further than that," the Governor added, "deponent sayeth nothing." In support of his assertion, the Governor simply reached across his desk, took a copy of the constitution of the United States, turned to article six, section two, and read:

Three Classes Of First Baptist Church Enjoy Socials And Programs Wednesday Afternoon; All Valentine Parties

Three matrons classes of the First Baptist church enjoyed social and program meetings yesterday afternoon, excellent attendance and happy socialities being noted in each group.

T. E. L. and Cleaners classes of the church were divided during January and a new class, the Alsatians, was formed. The three met Wednesday.

The home of Mrs. M. H. Spaulding, 2403 18th street, was the scene of the Alsatian party and games of hearts were played in keeping with the Valentine season. Red hearts featured appointments and refreshments.

Elect Officers

During a business session, Mrs. C. O. Akard was elected secretary and Mrs. W. A. Childers was elected reporter. Others who attended were Mesdames G. M. Cosby, E. W. Providence, C. R. Truitt, George Duval, M. H. Spaulding, F. K. Mitchell, B. T. Jordan, W. G. McMillan, A. H. Travis, T. W. Jackson, A. L. Hawkins, G. W. Sewel, W. B. Yeager, R. L. Goad, Jack Weatherford, W. H. Statement Is Issued Concerning Club Actions

A statement, concerning the recent action of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in asking the resignation of Mrs. J. J. Fields, chairman, was received this morning by the Avalanche-Journal from Mrs. Meade F. Griffin, of Plainview, chairman of the State department of press and publicity.

The statement, a lengthy one, was made by Mrs. E. F. Lindsey, of Mount Pleasant, past parliamentarian of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, according to Mrs. Griffin and is concluded with the admonition that "informed club women should concede that the General Federation of Women's Clubs must transact its own business for its own reasons and in its own way."

The statement is a record, telling of the receipt of telegrams in Texas asking for Mrs. Fields' resignation, the protestations of Texas club women with subsequent declaration of a vacancy in the office, made by the General Federation, and followed by the appointment of Mrs. Henry Drought, of San Antonio, as general biennial chairman for the State of Texas. Students To Visit Home Management House Tonight

Students of the college are to be guests at Tech's new home management house this evening between the hours of 7:30 and 9:00 o'clock, this being the third day of the formal opening of the college newest building.

Citizens of Lubbock called yesterday, approximately 500, going through the house during the evening. Faculty members and seniors in the home economics school were hostesses. Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the college, Miss Bonnie McCree, instructor-hostess, and Miss Margaret Weeks, dean of the home economics school, received callers at the door. Other faculty members and students conducted the visitors through the house answering questions that were propounded and explaining that students in the school had made many of the furnishings.

Other faculty members are Miss Marie DeLaney, Miss Edna Walker, Miss Mabel Erwin, Miss Dorothy McFarlane and Miss Katharine Harper.

The first evening of this opening was Tuesday when Faculty club members were entertained.

The home management house, a $20,000 structure that has recently been completed, is to serve as a laboratory and social center for the home economics school of the college and six students are to reside in it for periods of twelve weeks each school term.

16 TOWNS TO PARTICIPATE IN CAGE TOURNEY AT FLOYDADA

PLAY TO START FRIDAY IN BIG TWO-DAY MEET

OPENING GAME TO SEE LAMESA IN BATTLE WITH SILVERTON

FLOYDADA, Feb. 2.—Sixteen South Plains towns will be represented in the annual South Plains basketball tournament to be held here Friday and Saturday. With the exception of the Interscholastic League district meet this tournament will be the largest in West Texas and will attract the best attendance for the reason that so many of the teams are evenly matched.

Lamesa and Silvertown Beginning at 2:30 Friday afternoon the first game of the series will be played between Lamesa and Silvertown. Other teams that have been matched by a drawing held at the high school this week are as follows: Olton and Slaton; Lubbock, Plainview and Lockney; Tulla and Crosbyton; Memphis and Petersburg; Quitaque and Dickens and Hale Center and Floydada. This will be the preliminary games and the eight winning teams will draw again Saturday morning. The championship game will be played Saturday night and the awards made at that time.

By drawing the Hale Center five Floydada will face in their first encounter the team that has twice defeated them by very close scores. Coach Ike Jay is very optimistic, however, and vows that the Hale county team will not repeat their former performance. Another interesting game in the preliminaries will be Lubbock and Idalou. These two teams are always well matched and always have a bitter fight. Crosbyton is regarded as a dangerous team having defeated the fast Floydada quintet in a previous engagement. Although Plainview is not considered so dangerous a good fight is expected from Lockney. Lockney has suffered several defeats but is due to make a good showing in the tournament.

Memphis, the team that will probably come from the greatest distance is regarded as the "dark horse" and will be feared by every visiting five. The Staton Tigers successful in winning the recent tournament in that city although only a very few teams were represented. Olton, Tulla, Quitaque, Petersburg and Dickens are not so well known in this section as the other teams but no doubt will send strong delegations.

"Froggie" Lovern, of Rails and former T. C. U. star, will be one of the officials of the contests. Rails is unable to enter the tournament as several members of the team are on the sick list.

The tournament will have nothing to do with the Interscholastic League standing of the teams.

ARTISTS PAIRED WITH AMATEURS FOR GOLF MEET

(By Associated Press) SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 2.—A driving rain which swept the Willow Springs golf course here today forced officials to call off the professional-amateur best ball team event, a preliminary event in the Texas open tournament.

About half of the teams had gotten away from the first tee when it was decided to call off the professional contest to save the course for the main event which is scheduled to start tomorrow.

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 2.—More than 100 of the country's best professional golfers were paired with amateurs at the Willow Springs course here today in the pro-amateur best ball team championship event, a preliminary of the annual Texas open golf tournament which continues until Sunday night. One hundred and six teams entered the competition today and a number of amateurs, who had hoped to play, could find no professional partners. Some of those who play today will not enter the medal play competition for the open championship, which will start tomorrow, but a field of at least 200 is expected in that event.

MacDonald Smith of New York and Jack Spillers of San Antonio, teamed in today's event, were favorites. Smith has been playing almost perfect golf and Spillers is capable of shooting par in case Smith should waver on a few holes. Last year Bill Mehlfors, now of Pittsburgh won the pro amateur event unassisted, turning in a card of 69 for a course record.

Jimmy Reese Saves All Of His Dimes

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Young Jimmy Reese, alias Solomon, who was recently bought by the New York Yankees, is not entirely dependent on baseball for a living. Reese, just turned 20, is reputed to be worth close to $60,000 from investments made in Hollywood real estate.

When he was selling papers on the San Pedro waterfront, Reese was saving his nickels and dimes. And when he got older, he began investing here and there in Hollywood.

As a result, Jimmy has a young fortune estimated to be close to $60,000 now.

Satisfies Cubs' Boss

When Rogers' Hornsby was offered to the Chicago Cubs, Joe McCarthy, manager of the club, said: "Don't want him. We've got a good second baseman." He referred to Freddy Maguire, one-time Giant and for several years an earnest worker with the Toledo American Association club. Maguire, pictured above with Freddy, Jr., is a dead ringer for Eddie Collins in looks and mannerisms on the field and the Cub bosses hope that he will be able to deliver in the Collins manner.

KELSEY LEADS DRAFT RULE IS LUBBOCK HI TO BIG PUZZLE TO PLAINVIEW WIN MAJOR BOSSES

WESTERNERS PILE UP 38 TO 11 COUNT IN TOUGH BATTLE

Kelsey, blonde youth of Coach Del Morgan's Westerner five proved an outstanding figure last night in the high school gymnasium by helping his mates down Plainview high school's basketball team 38 to 11, scoring 15 of the points himself. The lad not only dimmed Plainview's hope for victory by his offensive work but also gave them much trouble of the defense.

Bullseye Defies Good
The score indicates as the visitors had the Lubbock team working hard throughout the contest. Plainview's defense was unusually good and had their eye for the basket been more developed, the score would have been closer as they missed numerous comparatively easy throws.

Following their defeat last week at the hands of the Idalou team, the Westerners have been working steadily and appeared a much better organized crew on the floor last night. Their passing was better and more attention was paid to the defensive play.

Return Game Tuesday
The game last night was the first of the season between the two schools, traditional rivals, and a return engagement will be played in Plainview next Tuesday. Both teams will participate in the Floydada tourney this week-end.

Following the first game last night, Morgan's second string team from the Canyon school by a 21 to 20 count. Rich, husky Lubbock reserve, tossing the winning basket.

MATADORS WIN INDIANS CLASH AT McMURRAY

LATE RALLY WINS IN THIRD STRAIGHT ON ABILENE TOUR

(Special To The Journal) ABILENE, Feb. 2.—Texas Tech seems to be master in basketball in Abilene this week, taking her third straight game of a series last night from the McMurry Indians 27 to 24 in a game which was featured by a last minute scoring rally on the part of the visitors.

Coach Vic Payne of the Matadors used his reserve strength tonight who had a lead of 15 to 8 at the close of the first half over the Indians, but fell behind during the last half. Payne's first choice men then went into the game, tied the count and then forged ahead with free tosses by Jennings and Pace and a field goal by Hemphill.

Taylor Leads Indians
Taylor for the locals went on a scoring spree to place his team in the lead in the last half. He scored four shots from the floor and two free tosses.

Winding up with a game in the McMurry gym tonight, the Matadors move over to A. C. C. where some tight basketball is expected. The Wildcats won two closely contested games from the Matadors in Lubbock recently.

Miss Collett Now Tourney Favorite

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 2.—Miss Genna Collett of Providence, R. I., who annexed medalist honors with a sparkling 90, and Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago were prime favorites today in the first minor leagues adopted several recommendations, including such as the raising of the draft price for all classes of minor leaguers and exempting certain players from selection.

They were to be placed formally before the minor league meeting Dallas last December but were not brought up. Approval of the American league owners was expected yesterday, but the entire matter was again referred to the advisory board. The American league owners, however, intimated they favor most of the recommendations.

Hereafter the most valuable player in the American circuit will receive $1,000 cash with his engraved diploma. This was voted by the league owners yesterday in an effort to provide a stimulus among players for the prize. It was stressed that the prize will be open to the most valuable players on any team, whether it win the championship or end in the cellar.

DEMPESEY INJURY MAY HALT PLANS TO RE-ENTER RING

(By Associated Press) LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—Jack Dempsey may and may not be through with the fight game—it all depends upon an eye muscle.

The former heavyweight champion, admitting that he had notified Tex Rickard that he thought it inadvisable to engage in any more contests, declares that the main reason for his retirement is the trouble he has been having in his left eye.

Dempsey says that the injury to the eye muscle is not serious but it may keep him out of the ring forever. On the other hand, he says, "if my eye ever becomes entirely well, I probably will re-enter the ring."

TWO GAMES ARE SLATED TONIGHT IN CITY LEAGUE

Tonight's schedule for the Lubbock city league calls for the Printer quintet of the Avalanche-Journal meeting the 131st Field Artillery in the first game and the Teachers clashing with the Producers in the second contest. The games will be played in the high school gymnasium beginning at 7:30 sharp.

These games are the last contests for the week's schedule. The Hemphill-Price combination defeated the Bankers 23 to 9, and the Super-Main five still remains undefeated by running up a score of 32 to 12.

STARS ON FIELD AND TRACH SHOW WARES TONIGHT

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Headed by Dr. Otto Peltzer and Lloyd Hahn, prospective rivals in the Olympics, some of the nation's greatest track and field stars display their wares at the Millrose A. A. games in Madison Square Garden tonight.

Dr. Peltzer is scheduled to make his first appearance in this country in a half mile event. Hahn, competing in the Rodman Wanamaker mile, finds Ray Conger, national champion at the distance, W. O. Spencer, of the last Olympic team, mid-south women's open tournament.

Miss Van Wie needed an 80 in the qualifying round yesterday. The only others among the entries who broke 100 were Mrs. Emmett Franch of Southern Pines, 94, and Miss Dorothy Richards, Cleveland, 97.

Bill Cox, Penn State star, and Joe Sivak of Chicago, in the field against him.

The special sprint series has drawn a notable list of dash men including Al Miller, Boston A. A., Fred Alderman, Illinois A. C., Bob Greenwade, Silver City, N. M., and Karl Wildermuth of Georgetown.

DEFENSE PLAN OF U. S. TOLD IN WOMEN'S MEET

NO ACCEPTABLE PLAN ON WAR OUTLAW YET GIVEN, IS CLAIM

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—Welcoming the interest shown by the women of the country in the government's program for national defense, high officials of the war department and members of congress detailed that program today before the Women's Patriotic Conference on national defense.

Warns Against Isms
Warning against the "pursuit of chimerical isms," Charles B. Robbins, in his first public address as assistant secretary of war, declared the United States became a nation as a result of war and cannot endure "only so long as its people are willing to offer their lives, if necessary, to its defense."

"No pacifist doctrine ever created a nation—no pacifist doctrine ever maintained a nation—they are destructive rather than constructive—and it is organizations such as yours," he said, "that furnish the best response to their failure of complete disarmament, the response of nationalism to internationalism."

"You hear continuously the demand to outlaw war," Robbins continued, "but no nation has yet devised a means of outlawing war and in spite of the large number of persons who passionately advocate such a measure we do not find a plan to secure this country or any other country from the perils of armed conflict."

Secretary of War Davis explained the principle of drafting the nation's resource in time of war.

"This military policy," he said, "is enunciated by the national defense act of 1926 in which congress has placed on the war department the definite responsibility of making plans which will guarantee the preservation of our rights and liberties, our institutions and our ideals."

each cotton producing state would subscribe for enough capital stock to take care of its pro rata share of the surplus cotton. This organization properly financed could prevent cotton from selling below the cost of production.

This is merely a basis for the starting of a finance corporation strong enough to finance the surplus cotton, and all details would be worked out by the stock holders and directors of the organization. There probably will be a move made in Texas and other states to organize this cotton finance corporation.

early in the fall when the short crop was shown by the government estimate and nothing happened since that time to reduce the price, except speculation on the cotton exchanges, and the statement of the secretary of agriculture that he expected lower prices for cotton, when not a single physical fact indicated lower prices, but all indicated higher prices.

Cotton Exchanges
If we knew what was said privately to the operators of cotton exchanges, and just how they are manipulated, we would have a better insight into the real cause of lower prices.

The South has lost about $200,000,000 on the last two cotton crops by speculation in cotton, and it cannot stand this drain on its resources indefinitely without complete bankruptcy. The price of cotton has declined recently because of the talk of increased acreage and it seems certain that the price will not advance until the acreage this year is determined.

Surely the farmers should not plant a larger acreage in cotton and give the speculators a club to hammer the price still lower.

badly lacerated jaw and internal injuries from which she could not possibly recover. Mr. and Mrs. Tomlinson are residents of Littlefield.

Investigation by school authorities brought out that the school truck, number 17 of a fleet which Lamb county operates in connection with its consolidated school system, had been parked in its proper position, well to the right of the center of the road, as Oleene Nance alighted and made toward her home. The accident is described here as being unavoidable.

Report Affirmed Here
Authorities of the Lubbock hospital, where Oleene Nance died last night, corroborate the report of the Journal's Littlefield correspondent. The injuries sustained by the child were of such a nature that death was inevitable, doctors reported today.

Injunction Given Against Gulf Line

AUSTIN, Feb. 2 (AP)—Formal writ of injunction was issued on Thursday from District court, stopping work on the Humble Pipe Line company's $2,000,000 oil line under Corpus Christi Bay, which the state charges would lead to strangulation of Texas ports. Granting the writ Wednesday on the state's allegation of trespass, District Judge George Calhoun held that the law placing streams

QUARTER MILLION BUILDING TOTAL IN HALE CAPITAL

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 2—Building permits at Plainview for January total one fourth million dollars. Heading the list is the Harvest Queen Mills addition which will cost in the neighborhood of $175,000. This addition will double the storage capacity of the elevator.

Construction work on a $20,000 Catholic church was started in January. Several smaller business building projects were covered and permits issued during the month including brick building to be constructed by D. D. Bowman and a brick building by Knoohuisen, Boyd and Davenport. The construction of new residences continues to go forward at a very rapid rate to take care of the housing situation at Plainview, and vacant houses still are scarce.

the commission and business men. "Lubbock has already been left out of two building allotments and if a site is not offered it will be left out of the next, which comes up before congress in July," he added. He then explained the details of the bill which called for the buildings and told how Lubbock could easily be left out by not offering a suitable site.

Work to Start On Plans
Other speakers expressed themselves as of the opinion that initiative steps should be taken for the securing of sites for the buildings so that the budget committee would have something to work with when considering a building for Lubbock this year.

Discussion of the legal right of the city to deed the site was taken up by the men in white, it was learned various "old timers" of the city that it was the understanding, when the entire block was acquired that eventually a certain part of it would be used for a federal building.

It was announced in the discussion that the plans and specifications for the new building were in the hands of Postal Inspector Johnson of Amarillo and that the information that a site had been offered would aid greatly in action taken on the building.

Cent Looms as Probability
The addition of a federal court room in the new building also loomed as a likelihood in the meeting as various speakers told of efforts to secure a court in Lubbock for the plains district.

Members of the committee and business men present were: C. E. Maedgen, chairman, Walter Myrick, Jr., Jack Parsons, Temple Ellis, Sam Arnett, O. L. Slaton, D. D. Roderick, J. A. Rix, George Benson, Neil Wright, W. A. Myrick, Sr., J. H. Bryan, John Dalrymple, Dr. I. E. Barry, H. D. Woods, T. E. Duggan, Milt Jones, W. A. Bacon, M. G. Abernathy, Joe Nislar, Ed Norwood, Homer D. Grant, Roscoe Wilson, Asa May and Postmaster John L. Vaughan. Commissioners present were: Mayor Pink L. Parrish, J. O. W. S. Fossey, A. V. Weaver, J. H. Hankins, G. W. McCleary, city manager, W. H. Rodgers, city secretary, and E. L. Kleit, city attorney.

The meeting was opened at 10 o'clock.

State Funds Aided By Loans Of Banks

AUSTIN, Feb. 2 (AP)—State treasurer W. C. Hatcher borrowed $150,000 Wednesday from the Austin banks to fill out more than $500,000 necessary to "clear" with them in payment of general revenue warrants presented before noon.

This represents only a "temporary embarrassment," as tax collections from now on are expected to take care of all demands on the general fund. He urged tax collectors however, to remit January collections as soon as possible instead of waiting until the legal limit expires February 25.

HICKMAN CASE

Defense Uses Part Of State Evidence

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2 (AP)—In a theft of prosecution thunder, the details of the kidnaping and slaying of little Marian Parker have rumbled into the records of the sanity trial of William Edward Hickman as a part of the youth's defense.

Hickman's attorneys started their raid on what had been accepted as prosecution territory yesterday when the first witness to take the stand after the long line of offense depositions had been read was Detective Lieutenant Richard Lucas, one of the Los Angeles police officers who brought the "fox" back to Los Angeles from Oregon, the scene of his capture.

Confession Is Read
They followed up that witness with the reading of a copy of a confession and an outline of motives in the crime as they had been penciled by the kidnaper and slayer. Defense counsel said they intended to call other members of the police force to corroborate Lucas' testimony and to give additional details of Hickman's sojourn in the Pendleton, Ore., jail and the subsequent trip to Los Angeles.

District Attorney Asa Keyes, at the close of yesterday's court session said that the defense move in issuing subpoenas for prosecution witnesses pointed to an admission of all of the facts and was an indication that the defense would attempt to picture these facts as the actions of an insane man.

Little New Information
Details of the confession offered little new information as they had been made known both at the time the prisoner wrote his first confession, and again when he wrote at least one other. The "motive statement" frequently has been mentioned hitherto and at one time was the object of contention between defense and prosecution.

It gave his motive in the slaying and made trouble if not sent home on that day and would spread an alarm. Hickman also blamed a sudden impulse to kill the school girl after he had tied her in a chair in his apartment.

"The prosecution has declared that this 'motive statement' would be a part of its evidence that Hickman was able to tell the difference between right and wrong and also knew the consequences of his act."

"Fits" Are Discussed
From the witness stand Lucas, to whose wrist Hickman was handcuffed during the trip down the coast told of discussing with the prisoner "fits" thrown by Hickman in the Pendleton jail.

"He threw a fit in the jail at Pendleton," testified the high police detective. "The next day, Christmas—he threw another. He asked me on the train what I thought of it. I said I thought it was a pretty poor one."

"He laughed and said: 'Well, what judge do you suppose I'll get?'"

"I told him he'd probably go before Judge Hardy (Judge Hardy acquitted himself at the beginning of the sanity trial.)"

"That's fine," he said, "he won't hang me. He doesn't believe in capital punishment. But I guess I'll throw a fit for his court anyway."

Motive Is Assigned
On the motive for killing the girl, Lucas quoted Hickman as saying: "Everybody was looking for me, and I was scared. Then I made up my mind to kill her."

Lucas said Hickman told him that the little girl was unconscious but not dead when he began to dismember her body.

CHAUTER XLVII

Those gray slits of eyes were Tom Benton's; there was no mistaking them. Tony Harrison had seen them nine years before, glaring at the lifeless form of a man in a little saloon in Caldwell, and he had not forgotten them.

And now he could hear Benton's voice come faintly through the glass high above the door. Benton was seated in the chair: "All right; I'll give you one more chance to open it. I'll count ten. Then—" and he deliberately broke off and waved the revolver in his hand in a significant gesture.

Outside Tony Harrison slowly raised his own gun and leveled it. Benton presented a bad target. There was, to begin with, the barred window between them. And Benton was fairly well shielded from an outside foe, partly by his own companion, partly by Morrison. The young man thought quickly. There was small likelihood, true, of a bullet's being deflected by the window pane—still, there remained the possibility. And if he should hit Benton, Morrison might be killed as a result, either by the other man or by Benton's own convulsive finger pressure.

If Morrison held out in his dogged determination not to open the safe, he would have to fire. If not, he could wait outside for the pair to gather their wits and surprise them as they left.

He heard Benton counting and held his breath, his finger tightening on the trigger of the slender weapon in his hand: "Four... five... six..." Benton's eyes narrowed to mere cracks. They glared viciously. Suddenly Morrison nodded and gave up.

A smile contorted the scar-torn face of the man in front of him. "Come to your senses, did you? Now be quick about it. We've done fooling with you."

From his post at the window, Harrison could see the bank cashier, his face bloodless, kneel beside the safe and twirl the knob. The heavy door swung open and Benton shoved him roughly out of the way and motioned for the man with the bag to get busy.

Ignoring the silver, the man swept neat little stacks of currency into the bag while Benton kept his six-gun trained on Morrison. The first few pattering drops of rain, heralds of the coming downpour, fell against the face of the watcher outside and a minute later the man beside the safe straightened up with a nod. The job was done.

"I ought to plug you anyway," Benton said savagely to Morrison. "For being so damn stubborn. God— but his companion, who had heard the exclamation, suddenly turned and stared nervously toward the door.

"Let him be, Tom; we better hurry," Benton reluctantly backed away. He growled something at the cashier that Harrison could not hear and Morrison suddenly around.

The man outside breathed a sigh of relief and glided back into the shadows beside the horses. The man he had struck over the head still lay like a felled tree, but he bent swiftly down and raised his head at his face. Then, pulling his hat down over his eyes, he took a position close to the horses and waited.

The door of the bank swung open and two figures ran toward him in the darkness. "Right," came Benton's voice. "Let's get away."

Harrison's eyes narrowed, straining in the dark. His jaw tightened. A moment now—and before him loomed two bulky shapes. "I've still got a good mind to kill that damn cashier," Benton growled. "Everything all right, Pete?"

"Everything stops right here, Benton," Tony said calmly. "You and your friend, reach up—high."

A voice gasped: "Something's wrong, Tom!" and the two dim figures passed in their advance toward the door. "What the hell!" Benton rapped out. "Ain't that you, Pete? What?"

"No, this isn't Pete," Harrison said coolly. "This is a reception committee here to give you a welcome, Benton, you've wanted for murder—been wanted for murder for one side—and a few other things. I'm giving you a chance to surrender, although I'd like nothing better—"

He was interrupted by an oath from Benton. A black shadow ducked suddenly and a pistol barked. A horse screamed in agony and the others bolted in panic.

"You asked for it, Benton," Tony said deliberately and fired. He threw himself to the ground, prone, and fired again and heard Benton groan.

"Now, then," said Harrison, addressing himself to Benton's companion, "if you want the same dose—"

Light sprang suddenly from the side window of the bank, and in the faint illumination he saw Benton's companion standing with arms uplifted in a downpour of rain.

"Now, I'd call that real sensible," Tony drawled. He raised his voice and called, "Morrison!"

There was an answering cry from the bank and Morrison came running. "Just relieve that gent of his hardware," Tony ordered. "There's something here I want to look at."

He approached the fallen Benton warily, feeling first for the man's hands. Then he felt a sudden nausea and spoke once more to the surprised bank cashier. "You'd better look at him, Morrison; I've changed my mind."

Two hours later he sat in the marshal's office, surrounded by an excited group of Guthrie citizens. In a corner of the room two men in manacles gazed about them with sullen eyes, and in the next room something lay on the floor covered with a blanket.

"I'll see that you get it." "Thanks," said Tony. "And you gentlemen ought to know," he said, sweeping the room with his gaze, "just what kind of a watch dog you've got sitting on your money in the bank. By golly, I thought for a while he never would open that safe."

"Harrison won't be needin' any loans for some time," observed the marshal. "There's reward of $2,500 for Benton's capture, dead or alive. Personally, I prefer him the way he is—dead."

"I'm not taking any reward," Benton's slayer announced. "I'm turning it over to the city of Guthrie for the police fund. As a business man," he added, smiling, "I'm looking for all the protection the law can give us... Benton killed my father and I don't want anything for squaring the account."

The marshal took a chew of tobacco and grinned. "I'm not going to stand in your way, Harrison. He let go thumb towards the men in manacles. "What I want to know is how you got suspicious of this gent Forbes. Was I blind or something?"

"I don't know how he got his scar," Tony replied, "but that and his slick hair and his goatee and cute little mustache threw me off the track for a while. I had the notion all along that I knew him. It was his eyes, Marshal. He couldn't disguise them. It came to me all of a sudden while I was playing poker."

"Sudden is right," Fred Perkins put in. "He got up and left four kings."

Harrison's eyes clouded for a brief moment. He got up and stretched, saying, "well, Marshal, take good care of these boys," and jerked a thumb towards the men in manacles. "I'm going to get some sleep. I'm going to get some sleep," he announced.

"And you're entitled to it," Fred Perkins told him. "I'll walk along with you."

They walked together for some time without speech. "Benton," Tony Harrison said presently, "was in Chicago for a while. That much of his story was true. One of his friends told me that he didn't come back to the territory till the opening. I forgot to ask him how Benton got the scar, but it doesn't make any difference; it's all over now. Did I tell you that I got six contracts today for timber? We're going to be busier than all getout this fall, but meantime I'm planning a little vacation."

He went to bed that night with the conviction that some time had come for him to ride up to Bar K and see Joe Craig.

The next morning there was a letter for him at the postoffice and he smiled at the coincidence, for Pawnee Bill had written: "If you haven't been up to the Bar K, you ought to be ashamed of yourself. I've felt real mean about keeping your whereabouts a secret from Joe Craig and I'm not going to keep it up. I'm intending to look him up myself to see if he regards me as a friend or enemy. My wife and mother were so glad to see me after hearing I'd been killed in the rush that they've kept me tied to their apron strings on the farm. I've already made arrangements for my own show again next year and this time I'll make money. The time will come when Buffalo Bill, as big a name as he's got in the show business, will be glad to have me as an equal partner. I can see a tour of Europe and a lot of money, and then maybe you'll be sorry you stuck to the hardware business in Guthrie."

Tony Harrison smiled. "Maybe," he said and directed his steps toward the lively stable, "Cherokee," he said to the big black stallion that lifted his head in greeting, "we're going to ramble."

And Cherokee stamped his foot and nodded in approval. (To be concluded.) Tony rides back to the Bar K and finds the love he thought he had lost. In the final chapter.

The Colosseum in Rome will seat 87,000.

Thought For Today

Is it not lawful for me to do what I will with mine own?—Matt. 23:13.

Our material possessions, like our joys, are enhanced in value by being shared. Hoarded and unimproved property can only afford satisfaction to a miser.—G. D. Prentice.

From Spokane

Orofino is a small town in Idaho with 1,000 people. The other day floodwaters cut off the town from the rest of the world. There was no way for horse, automobile or train to reach it. And Orofino was without bread.

But sufficient for the day are the inventions thereof, and it was no time at all until a plane roared out of the west with enough yeast to keep Orofino baking for a week. It was carefully dropped from low altitude, the people got it and ate their bread again, as usual.

The man who brought the yeast to Orofino? Brief dispatches from the west named the aviator only as a "Spokane flyer." It was a brave deed, an act of mercy, and the man who flew to Orofino with that yeast made life just a little better with 1,000 people confronted by a serious emergency.

Most of us never will know his name. We only will know that Orofino needed yeast and that a flyer from Spokane made the trip. And to most of us, this is enough. It is no great feat, but it is a deed when there is a man to meet the emergency. We have become so accustomed to seeing dangerous disconcerting situations met by brave co-operation, that the name of the hero has become secondary with us to the work he has done.

There is a man in Spokane who carried the yeast to Orofino. The people of Orofino got their yeast and the excitement ended as soon as they got it.

We are becoming matter of fact about brave deeds in the air, too, and the awe with which we behold aviators a few years ago is gradually blending to the same respect we have for the family doctor, the telephone lineman, the man who fixes a leaky pipe, repairs a broken street car trolley, succors a stalled automobile, puts out a fire.

Hero and the other deeds who took the serum to Nome a couple of years ago were made into heroes in the public mind for another reason—perhaps man's sentimental love for deeds, perhaps the color of that long, bloody pull over frozen wastes.

But the flyer from Spokane has become today just the man who fixes a broken telephone wire or heads a broken pipe line. The hero of the air has joined the great unnumbered army of "trouble shooters," who go quietly about their heroic work day in and day out as part of their job.

Miami Rebuilt

The city of Miami, Fla., recently staged a big celebration to mark the completion of $300,000,000 worth of public developments and improvement.

That is a tremendous sum. Want to know how it was divided? Well, $150,000,000 has been spent on new hotels and apartments. Nearly $100,000,000 went into new railroad facilities in and about Miami. Fifteen millions were spent on new public utilities, and $12,000,000 more on new office buildings. Paving and bridges in the city cost another $5,000,000.

That's only a partial itemization. But it's interesting for this reason: It shows that Miami and the rest of Florida, must have recovered from the effects of the hurricane and the post-boom slump of a short time ago.

Prosperity, apparently, has returned with a bang. A drunken man operating a machine gun was arrested in Chicago the other day. Even the police get disgusted sometimes with the way machine gun operators conduct themselves.

There were 21,214 business failures in the United States in 1925.

THE PLAINSMAN

That Girl on Broadway wants to know if you can call a gutter manufacturer a 'hold up' man.

Mrs. Mary Woodward Doak, dean of women at Texas Tech, holds a difficult position. To hold it is to take the responsibility for educating six or seven hundred girls, most of whom are away from home, in the intricate social and academic problems of college life and to wonder what after a number of years at this work most any woman would begin to believe that the girls of the present-day—especially those away from home guidance and influence—are inclined to be more wayward than their mothers were at the same age.

But not so with Mrs. Doak. She believes after acting as advisor to many hundred co-eds at the University of Texas and at Texas Tech ever since the latter college was opened, that the girls of today are very much all right. If you don't believe it, Mrs. Doak. She's glad to say that the much maligned modern girl has more good points than she has had and that the present generation is not at all inferior in morals or social ethics, if you please, than the generations which have gone before.

Mrs. Doak's testimonial will be a bitter blow to some of the chronic knockers of the young girls of our day but should be of an immeasurable value to those who really wish to know the truth. It is natural for each generation to worry about the conduct of the young members of the generation which follows it and the people who worry because they're interested in young people's welfare will be glad to get this expert testimony to ease their minds.

The Plainsman happened to have a conversation with Mrs. Doak the other day and he purposely asked her opinions of the young people. He wanted to get an expert opinion—an intelligent opinion—and sought it from a woman whose very life is intertwined with the young girls in this community. The Plainsman feels that Mrs. Doak's opinions are as expert in this line as a doctor's opinions in his own realm. For that reason he is glad to be able to pass the report along.

Most of us who really know the young boys and girls of the modern age are not one whit surprised at the report of Tech's Dean of Women. It's the people who see only one side of the youngsters—those who have but a smattering acquaintance with them and who wonder about everything they hear about them—who will be surprised and who will receive this information reluctantly. Most of us who really know, through association with young people, have never had many doubts about their basic virtues.

That Man on Avenue Q says people usually see just about what they're looking for and usually hear just about what they want to hear.

Forty-five letters—all "first class" mail—were delivered to The Plainsman desk this morning. Thirty-four of the forty-five were tossed into the waste basket without being opened. Five others followed in their wake after an investigation of the contents of the envelopes. You see, they are some people who write letters that draw attention and then consideration by the receiver.

Most people will wonder how any man can look at the outside of an envelope and correctly judge its worth or its contents. Not many people will be able to understand how The Plainsman could tell sure that 34 of his 45 letters contained as far as he was concerned, worthless material. The reason, however, is simple.

The editorial offices of every newspaper are literally deluged with material which is being named "free advertising." Experienced editors sometimes feel that every organization and many of the individuals in the world have banded together to make of every paper a "propaganda sheet." The Plainsman was able to throw these 45 letters away without opening them because from the addresses on the upper left corners were familiar to him. He had seen those addresses not once, but many times before.

Millions of dollars are wasted in so-called "publicity" which is never made public every year. The Plainsman, and all other conscientious editors, will refuse to bore their readers with half-disguised publicity stunts and will continue to keep the news columns for their rightful use—the presentation of the news of the day.

A clear cut parallel may be drawn from the "publicity" stories received in every newspaper office and the direct-by-mail advertising which every citizen who can read is pestered with. Material of both types are equally ineffective from the

Rodney Dutcher Tells True Stories Of The Capital To Impress Readers With The Actual Happenings Of The Day

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Here are a few little true stories of the life in Washington.

"The man" said an elevator operator in the House office building as one of our 435 congressmen left the car, "had perfume" on him.

"Yeah?" reiterated the elevator operator. "I just said that so you wouldn't think it was me."

"The congressman," said one of the girls in one of the offices, "is sick. He has been sick since the beginning of the session and could not show up. We decided that we would have to have him sworn in at his home so that he could be paired, which would make him feel a bit better."

"He thought he was paired at the beginning of the session and it made him feel good, because he takes his job very seriously, when he felt that his absentee vote helped organize the House. But it didn't count because he hadn't been sworn in. But we didn't ever tell him his vote didn't count."

"My boss," said another of the girls, "doesn't pay any attention to his business any more. He pays too much attention to me. He ought to pay more attention to his wife and have her in Washington more instead of paying so much attention to me. She can't get any work done because he stays off the floor and keeps looking at me and talking to me. He is too old, anyway. You don't know of a good job anywhere, do you?"

"I once had a boss," reminisced another, "who was a congressman from New York. His district was half Jewish and half gentile. He was a Presbyterian and a Jew opposed him for re-election. When the votes were counted he found that he had carried all the Jewish precincts and the Jew candidate had carried all the other precincts. The only way he could explain it was that each race knew its own man best."

"I said another, this one secretary to a senator, "am unqualified to go to the wall. And then a bright Barnumesque idea struck him. His knowledge of human psychology told him that people like to go places where they think they can't get in. Thereafter, for several weeks whether he had 10 people in the house or 30 he told all applicants for admission that the place was overcrowded and he could not take care of them. The obvious thing happened; they came back another night, generally to be met with the same greeting. The general impression went round that the place was among the most popular in New York. Suddenly a great rush began. Everfew wanted to go because it was noised about that they couldn't get in. Within a short time the place was actually turning them away."

And Lew Leslie for such was the bright young man's name, became the manager who took the late Florence Mills abroad and knocked Europe for a row of plantation songs. The other night he took over the "million dollar" resort that Otto Kahn's little boy, Roger, played with last year and turned it into a "plantation" resort, introducing a certain Adelaide Hall as Florence's successor.

POSTOFFICE AT PLAINVIEW NOW IN NEW QUARTERS

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 2.—The Plainview postoffice has been moved to its new location in the Guy B. Speed building recently completed. The Plainview postoffice and its quarters which have housed it for a number of years and the new location was especially designed for the use of the office, and new fixtures throughout have been installed. The number of postoffice boxes at Plainview have been increased by the move into the new quarters from 526 to 1,070. There are fifteen employees in the postoffice, including the postmaster, assistant postmaster, eight clerks and five city carriers, in addition to the rural carriers. More than one hundred city blocks are covered in the free delivery.

In 1925 the Plainview postoffice became an office of the first class with total postal receipts of $45,280.24, 1926 receipts were $51,539.31, and the last year receipts were $54,926.91.

Presbyterians Plan Big Meeting Here

Rev. R. C. Long, of Atlanta, secretary of the Stewardship of the Presbyterian General Assembly and Rev. B. K. Tenney, of Dallas, secretary of Synod Causes, will be speakers in a meeting of the Men-of-the-Church of the First Presbyterian church at 7 o'clock tonight. A number of out-of-town church men are expected to be here for the meeting which will be preceded by a dinner.

GETTING UP NIGHTS

For Bladder Relief, Is Nature's Danger Signal. Columbus Minister's Wife Relates Experiences. Rev. W. H. Mitchell, 824 No. Park St., Columbus, Ohio, says in his own home paper, the Columbus Dispatch: "My wife was troubled seriously with bladder irritation until we used Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). She had to get up 6 to 8 times each night. We gladly answer any letter. Lithiated Buchu acts on the bladder as salts do on the bladder. Three tablets three times a day, increase excretory activity, thereby relieving irritation. The tablets cost 25 cents each at all drug stores. Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. MRS. PARKINSON WILL BE BURIED IN LAMESA TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary M. Parkinson, 60, who died here yesterday at the home of her son Sam Parkinson, 802 Avenue Q, will be held in Lamesa this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial will follow in the Lamesa cemetery with Rtx directors in charge.

Mrs. Parkinson's death is believed to have resulted indirectly from an automobile accident in which she sustained injuries near Tokio last December. Paralysis developed from the injuries.

She is survived by nine children: Mrs. S. C. Pritchett, Lamesa; Mrs. J. L. Hart, Colorado; Mrs. James Cowley, Lamesa; Miss Edith Parkinson, Lubbock; Lynn Parkinson, Lamesa; Murray Parkinson, Bronco; Sid Parkinson, Crystal City; and Sam and Fritz Parkinson, of this city. She was a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church for 28 years and a resident of Lubbock for the past 6 years.

The normal temperature of the human body is 98.4 to 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit.

Children's Coughs Best Treated Externally

That's why modern mothers prefer Vicks—it cannot upset delicate stomachs. Rubbed on throat and chest, it acts two ways at once:

- (1) Its healing vapors, released by the body heat, are inhaled direct to the air passages; (2) It "draws out" the soreness like an old-fashioned poultice.

CAPONE BEMOANS SAD DILEMMA IN BOND AND EDICT

(By Associated Press)
 NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 2.—I can't leave town because I'm under bond to be tried Saturday and I can't stay here without being put in jail," complained Ralph Capone, brother of "Scarface" Al Capone, exiled Chicago gang leader, who with another brother, Albert, faces at least two more arrests if the threat of Thomas Healy, superintendent of police, is carried out.

Insisting that he is a "perfectly respectable horseman," Ralph said that after his trial set for Saturday on a charge of being a dangerous and suspicious character, he intended to return to Chicago.

Arrested three times in three days and ejected from the Roosevelt hotel for registering under assumed names, the Capones were placed under bond of $100 each to appear in court Saturday.

Ralph and Mike Raymond, accompanying them were arrested on similar charges as the men emerged from the DeSoto hotel after the time limit set by police for the Capones to leave New Orleans had elapsed.

The Capones were taken into custody Monday night and instructed to leave town within twenty-four hours.

About 60 different races are represented in the population of Chicago, which is approximately one-fourth of the world's total.

"My Old Kentucky Home" was composed by Stephen C. Foster.

Arrested three times in three days and ejected from the Roosevelt hotel for registering under assumed names, the Capones were placed under bond of $100 each to appear in court Saturday.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Just 'Me And My Shadow'

Mr. Groundhog, Who Comes Out Today, Is Heard In Defense Of His Own Customs

Arctomys Monax, alias woodchuck, alias groundhog, in the yard of his pretty home—a photo from the family album.

BY ARCTOMYS MONAX
 I never have been able to learn the identity of the person who fastened on me the reputation of being a weather forecaster. But whoever it was, the thing has gone far enough.

I want to make one final and unqualified denial that me and my shadow have anything to do with the end of winter and the coming of spring. The idea is too ridiculous for words.

For one thing they say I never wake up from my winter slumber until the second day of February. That's pure canard. I'm no such sleepy head. See the picture that accompanies this article—the one of me and my 'suburban home'?

Well, it's an old one out of the family album, and it was taken, I remember, on the twentieth of January.

Time after time this talk that I'm a weather regulator has been disproved. But still people hang on to the old hokum. How can they be so silly?

I might say that I'm writing this

JARETT FASHION SHOP WILL MOVE MEYERS REPORTS

Changing the location to a more central part of the business section, remodeling the new location and adding to its list of offerings in ladies' ready-to-wear by the acquisition of the Cinderella line of shoes, Jarrett's Fashion shop, now located at 213 Broadway, will be found at 1105 Broadway after March 1, Harry Meyers, manager, announced today.

According to Mr. Meyers' statement, his new location, which was formerly occupied by the Lubbock Variety store, will undergo complete changes and will present to passers-by one of the best window displays in West Texas. Mr. Meyers stated that $4,200 was being expended upon hezagon windows alone.

In acquiring the Cinderella shoe franchise the shop is branching out, Mr. Meyers pointed out, in that it has never carried a line of shoes before. The Cinderella line is one of the best known of ladies shoes.

In making the change in location Mr. Meyers said it was a part of the plans of the organization to grow and expand as the city grows and expands.

Elks Ruler Given Austin Reception

Waco Man Granted Sand Bar Contract

AUSTIN, Feb. 2 (AP)—T. J. Palm, Waco, was granted five year commercial rights to sand bars on the Colorado river here at his bid of $9,800. Wednesday, the state board of control announced.

The previous contract netted the state less than half this amount but before 1926 it drew $3,900 a year from the city of Austin for the concession. The 30th legislature passed a bill relieving the city of the contract.

A judge in Kansas City ruled that a woman has a right to bend her husband's toes back to make him get up to go to work. The trouble is too many of the ladies turn up the mate's toes permanently.

The Difference In Shingles

"The roof and the foundation are the two most important essentials in home construction."

The "Clear" or "Star" Red Cedar Shingles

The ordinary "Clear" or "Star" Red Cedar Shingles are sawn with a large percentage of flat-grain. Consequently, they will warp, cup and curl; loosen the nails; create a possible fire-hazard; sometimes leak; become unsightly; and require replacement after an average life of ten to fifteen years. They were never intended for use on roofs.

This is your Identification Mark for a Red Cedar Shingle that Will Not Warp

EDGWOOD SHINGLES

EDGWOOD Shingles are sawn edge-grain—and positively will not warp, cup or curl. They lay tight and flat to the sheathing always; preserve their good appearance; delete the fire-hazard; eliminate any possible trouble from leaks; and will NOT require replacements within forty years. They cost less and last longer than any other roofing material, not excepting tile or slate in those sections subject to hail-storms.

INSTRUCTIONS
 EDGWOOD Shingles are sawn edge-grain and will not warp, consequently EDGWOOD 16" Shingles should be exposed 3 1/2" to the weather; EDGWOOD 16" Shingles, 5" to the weather; any less exposure merely adds to the cost of your roof and it does not add to the protection or durability.

CAPONE BEMOANS SAD DILEMMA IN BOND AND EDICT

(By Associated Press)
 NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 2.—I can't leave town because I'm under bond to be tried Saturday and I can't stay here without being put in jail," complained Ralph Capone, brother of "Scarface" Al Capone, exiled Chicago gang leader who with another brother, Albert faces at least two more arrests if the threat of Thomas Healy, superintendent of police, is carried out.

Insisting that he is a "perfectly respectable" houseman, Ralph said that after his trial set for Saturday on a charge of being a dangerous and suspicious character, he intended to return to Chicago.

Arrested three times in three days and ejected from the Regency hotel for reentering under assumed names, the Capones were placed under bond of $100 each to appear in court Saturday.

Ralph and Mike Raymond, accompanying them, were arrested on similar charges as the men removed from the DeSoto hotel at the time limit set by police for the Capones to leave New Orleans had elapsed.

The Capones were taken into custody Monday night and instructed to leave town within twenty-four hours.

About 60 different races are represented in the population of Chicago, which is approximately one-fourth of the world's total.

"My Old Kentucky Home" was composed by Stephen C. Foster.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

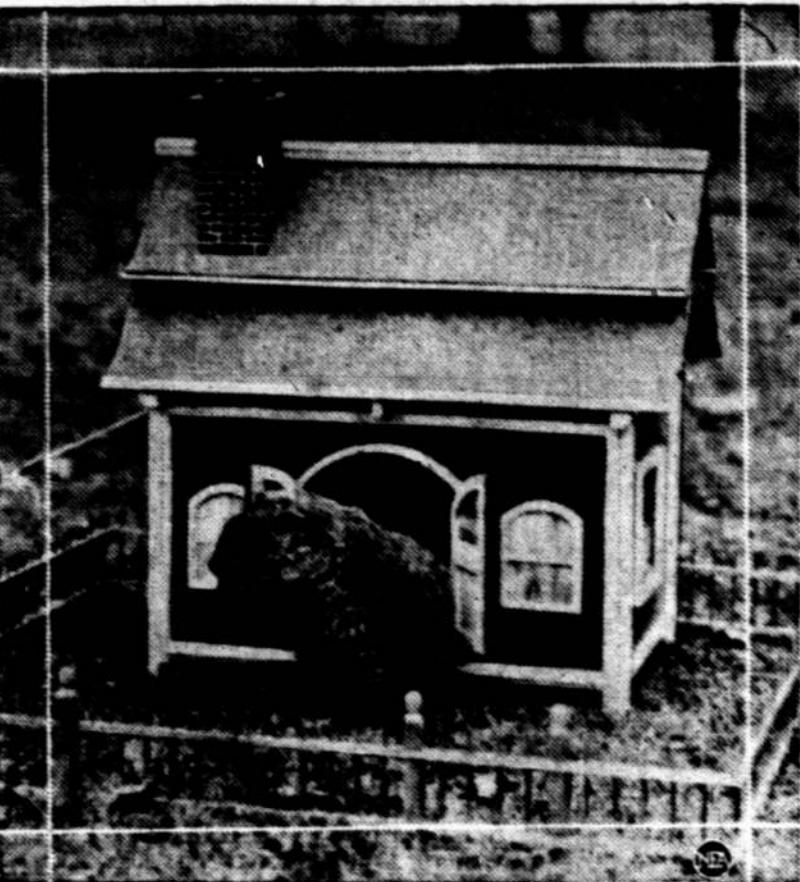

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Just 'Me And My Shadow'

Arctomys Monax, alias woodchuck, alias groundhog, in the yard of his pretty home—a photo from the family album.

BY ARCTOMYS MONAX
 I never have been able to learn the identity of the person who fastened on me the reputation of being a weather forecaster. But whoever it was, the thing has gone far enough.

I want to make one final and unqualified denial that me and my shadow have anything to do with the end of winter and the coming of spring. The idea is too ridiculous for words.

For one thing they say I never wake up from my winter slumber until the second day of February. That's pure canard. I'm no such sleepy head. See the picture that accompanies this article—the one of me and my suburban home? Well, it's an old one out of the family album, and it was taken, I remember, on the twentieth of January.

Time after time this talk that I'm a weather regulator has been disproved. But still people hang on to the old hokum. How can they be so silly? I might say that I'm writing this

JARETT FASHION SHOP WILL MOVE MEYERS REPORTS

Changing the location to a more central part of the business section, remodeling the new location and adding to its list of offerings in ladies' ready-to-wear by the acquisition of the Cinderella line of shoes, Jarrett's Fashion shop, now located at 913 Broadway, will be found at 1105 Broadway after March 1, Harry Meyers, manager, announced today.

According to Mr. Meyers' statement, his new location, which was formerly occupied by the Lubbock Variety store, will undergo complete changes and will present to passers-by one of the best window displays in West Texas. Mr. Meyers stated that $4,200 was being expended upon hexagon windows alone.

In acquiring the Cinderella shoe franchise the shop is branching out, Mr. Meyers pointed out, in that it has never carried a line of shoes before. The Cinderella line is one of the best known of ladies shoes.

In making the change in location Mr. Meyers said it was a part of the plans of the organization to grow and expand as the city grows and expands.
